Gladstone Grateful

Circular Letter of Thanks From the G. O. M.

To His Faithful Supporters in the House of Commons.

Fatal Case of Asiatic Cholera in Lancashire, Eng.—Explosion of the "Lightning Machine" in an English Theater—State of the London Stock Market.

The Financial Thermometer.

The New York Evening Post's London financial cable says: Eight thousand sovereigns came in from South America today. Silver was 33⅞d and weak. Rupee paper was 65½d. The issue of India debentures is now all placed. The Indian budget statement has had a good effect although there was nothing new in it. The Government cash balances are large in india but small here.

Asiatic Cholera in England.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The registrar of deaths at Ashton-under-Lyne, Mr. Fallone, has died from Asiatic cholera.

BREST, France, Sept. 22.—There were eight deaths from cholera in this city yesterday.

LONDON, Sept. 22—The recent death of a woman at Gorton, county of Lancashire, from suspicious disease was to-day pronounced by the authorities to have resulted from Asiatic cholera.

Gladstone Thanks His Supporters.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Mr. Gladstone has sent a circular letter to his supporters in the House of Commons, thanking them warmly for their attendance and aid during "nearly eight months of unexampled labor." He adds: "We are aware of the self-sacrifice entailed by such devotion to the public service, and in expressing my gratitude I cannot but add my belief that efforts so unsparing for purposes of such high importance will meet the warm appreciation of the country."

The Lightning-Maker Exploded.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—During the performance last evening of the play "Haddon Hall" at the theater at Eastbourne, in Sussex, the machine used for the production of artificial lightning exploded, setting fire to the scenery. The flames, however, were extinguished before they had spread beyond the footlights. The man who was operating the machine sustained a fracture of one arm and leg. Two other persons were also injured. There was fortunately no panic, and the employes soon extinguished the flames.

FINANCES OF THE FAIR.

World's Fair Bonds to be Retired at a Rapid Rate.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—When Treasurer Seeberger opens his books on Oct. 1, the bonded indebtedness of the fair will have been reduced from $4,444,5000 to $1,333,000, and he will have more than $500,000 left. Fifty per cent. of the bonds have already been paid. The exposition financiers looked over Mr. Seeberger's cash balance. He had more than $1,000,000 in bank. The financiers promptly decided to pay an installment of 20 per cent. on the bonds a week from to-morrow. Heretofore they have been paid in installments of 10 per cent., but the attendance has been becoming to such an extent that one-fifth, or nearly 900,000 of the bonds will be retired in a lump next week.

"The receipts are very satisfactory," said Chairman Peck, of the finance committee. "Mr. Seeberger shows that we could almost as easily pay 30 per cent. of the bonds next week, but we will not go that far. We will have more than $500,000 left after making the big investment."

Just before 8 o'clock last evening a tremendous wind and rain storm struck Jackson Park, drenched nearly every one of the 100,000 or more spectators who had remained for the illumination, and broke in portions of the roofs of the manufacturers' and art galleries buildings.

BIG BLAZE IN GLENCOE.

The Town Hall, Lock-Up, a Blacksmith Shop and Some Barns Destroyed.

GLENCOE, Ont., Sept. 22.—This town is threatened by destruction with fire. The flames are now threatening the business portion, and outside help has been called.

Later—Big blaze in Glencoe at 8:30 this morning. A fire broke out in McRoberts' livery barns, which are burned, as well as the town hall, McCracken's blacksmith shop, Henry's stables and the lock-up; also Parrott's barn. Cause of fire unknown.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

GLENCOE, Sept. 22.—The alarm of fire was heard at 1:30 this morning, W. A. Dobie's house being on fire, but owing to the good work of the firemen it was soon under control. The origin of the fire is not known; loss fully covered by insurance. Again this morning at 8:30 McRoberts' livery barns was discovered to be on fire. They were totally destroyed, besides the town hall, lockup, Masonic hall, Parrott's stable, Henry's stables, and McCracken's blacksmith shop. Insurance on McRoberts' barn and contents, $1,800; town hall, $500; Masonic hall, $600; Parrot's stable, $500; Henry's stable, $1,100.

GLENCOE, Sept. 22.—It was feared at one time that the whole town would be burned, and the London and Bothwell fire engines were asked for, but with the help of the Bothwell engine, which arrived in short time, it was got under control. A high wind was blowing at the time.

OPPOSES THE PREMIER.

Alexander Shaw, Q.C., ex-M.P., Announces That He Will Not Follow Sir John Thompson.

WALKERTON, Sept. 22.—Mr. Alexander Shaw, Q.C., Walkerton, came to prominence as a public man by defeating Hon. Edward Blake in 1878 in South Bruce, which was considered safe for the Reform party.

In the Provincial contest of 1890 he ran as an Equal Righter, and not as a straight Conservative. The other evening a meeting of prominent Conservatives here was called to make arrangements for the reception of Sir John Thompson and his colleagues on their proposed visit to East Bruce on Wednesday next. Mr. Shaw was one of those invited. Mr. Cargill presided, and before the business was taken up Mr. Shaw arose and announced that he could no longer support the present "Conservative" Government. He would not follow a leader who would apply the lash. He was still a Conservative, but not a follower of Sir John Thompson. When he had thus spoken he took leave of the meeting. Should Mr. Shaw go into the political arena again he will make it decidedly interesting in both East and North Bruce. The former is a decidedly close constituency as at present organized, and the latter, though counted upon as absolutely safe for the Conservatives, showed signs of becoming unsafe at the last election, and to prevent this Port Elgin, which gives a Liberal majority, has been placed in the Liberal hive of West Bruce.

BIRD VS. BOY.

A Little Lad Nearly Killed by a Game Cock.

JERSEY CITY, Sept. 22.—Percy, the 3-year old boy of Samuel Wilcott, who lives on Borden street, Red Bank, N. J., had a narrow escape from death yesterday morning, having been attacked by a game rooster belonging to Alex. Kingsbury.

The boy was in the rear of his house, and was trying to drive the fowl out of the yard. The bird jumped upon the child's head, sending his long spurs into his forehead in two places, striking an artery and causing the blood to flow freely.

The mother heard Percy's screams and ran to his assistance and beat the bird off. It was some time before the flow of blood was stopped. The boy was at the mercy of the rooster, and in a few moments more would probably have been killed.

Agent Mulligan said he found her beastly drunk lying in the only bed in the place. Vermin covered everything, and she had not left the pile of rags upon which she lay for any purpose. Beside her were her two little children, naked and neglected, and in almost as bad a condition as the woman. Fifty-seven pawn tickets for various articles were found about the house. She had even pawned her wedding ring.

The resolutions regarding saloon-keepers, biennial sessions and the selection of a permanent place of meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge were indefinitely postponed. The amendment to the constitution permitting the admission of persons 18 years of age instead of 21 years, as at present, was defeated by a vote of 96 to 80.

Awful Catastrophe on the Wabash Railway.

An Express Train Crashes Into a Freight

While Running at a Rate of Fifty-five Miles an Hour.

Eleven Persons Killed Outright and Others Fatally Injured.

More Than a Score of People Wounded—A Freight Brakeman's Fatal Mistake—The Horror Heightened by a Boiler Explosion.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—It is reported that the second section of the west bound vestibuled express on the Detroit division of the Wabash road, due in this city at 7:15 a.m., met with an accident near Kingsbury, Ind., this morning, in which 50 persons were killed. The officials of the company in this city admit that there has been an accident, but profess ignorance of the details. Kingsbury is 62 miles east of this city, in Laporte county, Ind.

TERRIBLE MORTALITY.

Later—Twelve dead bodies have so far been taken from the wrecked train, and it is believed there are still eighteen or twenty more bodies to be removed.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 22.—The accident at Kingsbury was CAUSED BY A BRAKEMAN

of a freight train turning the switch to let the freight train out of a side track after the first section of the passenger train had passed and just before the arrival of the second section. Engineer Green, of the passenger train, was instantly killed. Conductor Caulter died shortly after being taken from the wreck. Relief trains were immediately sent to the scene of the wreck. All neighboring towns were called on for physicians.

C. P. R. CONNECTIONS.

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—Ticket Agent Wolfschlager, of the Wabash, says the second section was a through train, which came in on the Canadian Pacific from the east, and had no Detroit or Michigan people on board. The first section was a local train leaving Detroit, and among its passengers were many from Detroit and the interior of the State.

Detailed Account.

ELEVEN KILLED.

KINGSBURY, Ind., Sept. 22.—Eleven persons lost their lives in the collision between a freight and the Toronto and Montreal express on the Wabash Railroad at this station at 5:30 this morning. A score of others are injured, many of whom will die. The freight was on a siding west of the depot and was bound east. The first section of the express train passed by on the main track at 5:25 a.m. The brakeman did not know the train was running in two sections and threw the switch so that the freight train could pass out. Before the cars had begun to move, however, the second section of the fast express came west at the rate of 55 miles an hour and dashed into the side track, colliding with the freight train. The wreck was complete. Following is the

THE WORST.

It was the worst wreck the Wabash road has ever had. To add to the horrors of the terrible collision, the boiler of the passenger engine blew up, scattering human bodies and car wreckage in all directions.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

The Toronto and Montreal train was due in Chicago at 7:15 this morning, and does not stop at this station. The freight train lay here on a side track to allow the express to pass. Ten minutes later the accident occurred and the most frightful scenes were witnessed.

The passenger engine and the freight locomotive collided at full speed and the two machines lay jammed together, their boilers meeting end to end. The force of the collision drove the freight engine back against the box cars, completely demolishing the first three. The passenger engine was partially stopped by the collision and the baggage car, smoker, day coach and sleeper were telescoped.

The rest of the coaches piled upon top of each other in a tangled mass of wood and iron, and the passengers, who were nearly all asleep, awoke to meet an awful death, serious injuries, or witness the indescribable agony of their less fortunate companions.

AN EXPLOSION.

The boiler of the passenger train exploded and hurled the debris in every direction, a pair of trucks were torn apart and each part sent flying in opposite directions. The steam escaped, scalding the injured, who were unable to crawl to a place of safety.

THE WORK OF RESCUE.

The citizens of Kingsbury carried away the dead and injured who could be reached. The Masonic Hall was turned into a morgue and drays and farmers' wagons were kept busy for two hours hauling the dead and wounded to the village, a mile distant from the depot, where medical help and nurses were summoned.

REVISED LIST OF DEAD AND INJURED.

Dead—J. McKenna, butcher, Hyde Park, Mass.; Harry French, aged 14, of the London Charity School, London, Eng.; Chas. Bisbee, San Francisco; Alice Reed, East Boston, Mass.; Miss Lillie B. Tucker, Boston, Mass.; Warren G. Ryder, Phœnix, Ariz.; H. C. Zell, Germany; J. D. Roundy, La Moille, Iowa; John Green, engineer of the passenger train, Ashley, Iowa; J. G. Coulter, conductor passenger train, Detroit; W. N. Lyon, baggage master passenger train, Detroit.

Burbank, New Orleans (condition critical); Mrs. H. W. Rider, Phœnix, Ariz.; Simon Canfield, Ironwood, Mich.; Mrs. Canfield, wife of Simon Canfield; Mrs. D. Dugan, Audenreid, Pa.; W. J. Askins, residence unknown (seriously); Edward Rush, youth, London, Eng.; Wm. Evans, youth, London, Eng.; Albert Molton, Hattie Hutchins and child, Phœnix, Ariz.; Mrs. H. O. Hill, Somerworth, N.H.; Annie Hill; Henry Volking, fireman; John Barber, fireman.

THE BRAKEMAN'S BLUNDER.

An instant of forgetfulness or absent-mindedness on the part of the brakeman tells the story of the seconds that preceded the catastrophe. As to the facts themselves there is no room for dispute. Freight train No. 4, east bound from Chicago, was due at this point at 4:20 a.m. It was under orders to take the siding and await the arrival of the west-bound passenger express, No. 5, which, according to the schedule, should have passed the Kingsbury depot at 4:40. The express, however, was 1 hour and 20 minutes late, and owing to the heavy travel growing out of the World's Fair it was divided into two sections, the second section running twelve minutes behind the first. Both sections were made up at Buffalo, the passengers including people from that city as well as from the various lines centering in it from Canada and the east.

THE FREIGHT TRAIN.

With the knowledge that under the schedule he had twenty minutes to spare, Engineer Whitman of the freight proceeded up the siding to the main line to take water, the switch being thrown open by Thompson, the track man of the freight. After the engine had taken water the freight was backed to the siding and Thompson closed the switch. Regarding this latter fact there is no room for question.

THE SWITCH OPEN.

What were the movements of Brakeman Thompson in the next few moments remains to be developed. Certain it is that when twelve minutes later the second section of the express came thundering along at a speed of 40 miles an hour the switch was open. Like a flash of lightning the train took the siding, and almost before the engineer and firemen realized that they had missed the main track they had crashed into the waiting freight. A second later and the air was filled with shrieks, groans, moans and piteous appeals for help and assistance.

The passenger train consisted of a baggage car, three ordinary coaches and two sleepers, and the force of the collision was such that only the rear sleeper escaped serious injury.

SCENE OF THE DISASTER.

Kingsbury, Ind., is a village of 227 people, and lies about six miles south of La Porte, and eighteen east of Valparaiso. It is on the new Chicago line of the Wabash, at the intersection of that road and the Grand Trunk.

IN LABOR'S DOMAIN.

Champions of the Short Hour Day Lose.

Staffordshire Miners Indulging in Violence—Broom-Makers Oppose a Cutdown—No Short Day for Printers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—It took a very long and bitter debate among the typothetæ to decide not to reduce the number of working hours each day Thos. Dodd, of Boston, started the discussion by the introduction of a motion to have appointed a committee of five to arrange for a reduction in the labor hours. The Boston men favored the idea almost unanimously, the New Yorkers were equally enthusiastic on the other side. The secretary took a ballot and the count showed 58 in favor of no change, and 36 on the other side. Thus the hours remain as before.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 22.—The striking tailors in British Columbia have started co-operate shops in different cities, and are making suits of clothes at cost. The master tailors are getting men from the east.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Striking broommakers have formed a union and decided to fight against the reduction in their wages.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—At Hednesford, Staffordshire, where the striking miners became riotous last night, a mob of men and women attacked a train laden with slack (which arrived during the evening) with stones and other missiles. The engine driver and fireman of the train seemed to be the especial marks for the volleys of the crowd. The men released the brakes of several cars which were standing on the track near a pit and started the cars in motion. The cars fortunately ran upon a siding and no damage resulted. Later the mob set fire to a car containing sixteen tons of hay, and the contents were consumed. The damage done by the rioters is not so great as was at first supposed.

If the frock coat gets much longer, trousers will be an unnecessary luxury.

A Pleasant Variation.

The Canadian Medical Association Visit the London Asylum,

And Are Heartily Received by Dr. Bucke and Staff.

A Look at the Sewage Farm—A Splendid Banquet—Dr. Bucke's Interesting Remarks—The Effects of Total Abstinence in the Institution—The Toast List.

A pleasant break in the programme of the Canadian Medical Association was the visit Thursday afternoon to the Asylum, in response to the hearty invitation of the superintendent, Dr. Bucke. Upon the conclusion of the morning session at noon, the members were conveyed from Victoria Hall to the C. P. R. station, where a special train had been kindly placed at their disposal. At the Asylum they were met by Dr. Bucke and staff and taken through the beautiful grounds to the sewage farm, west of the building. Here they had ample opportunity to inspect the model system of sewage disposal which is the pride of the institution. To the majority it was decidedly new and novel and many were the expressions of admiration for the seemingly perfect method by which the refuse of a large population is not only removed, but is turned to good use in fertilizing the fields. The visitors were delighted with the magnificent avenues, graded driveways and emerald lawns.

THE BANQUET.

Upon arrival at the buildings the guests were conducted to the splendid entertainment room, where dinner was served on handsomely decorated tables. The excellent orchestra of the Asylum, under Dr. Sippi, were stationed on the stage of the theater, and played a number of selections with such merit that they were given a hearty round of applause after each. Dr. Bucke was the chairman, and between 100 and 150 physicians partook of his hospitality.

After the courses had been served Dr. Bucke rose amid applause, and opened the toast list by proposing the health of

THE QUEEN.

The company sang the National Anthem, standing.

Dr. Bucke, continuing, said he would say a few words about the institution which the association was visiting for the second time in an interval of fourteen years. "When I came here seventeen years ago," said the doctor, "there was spent $3,000 or $4,000 a year in whisky, wine, beer, and other liquors. I thought

THIS WAS UNNECESSARY,

though my predecessors considered it almost indispensable. In fact, I believe the Government did try to stop it once, but my predecessor reported that the death rate increased to such an alarming extent that he had to fall back on the old method. The first year I reduced the bill from several thousand dollars to $600, and then adopting the suggestion of my friend, Benjamin Ward Richardson, I did away with the wine, beer and whisky and prescribed pure alcohol—in comparatively small quantities of course. But for twelve years we have

USED NO ALCOHOL

at all in this institution. (Applause.) Mark the results. We have 1,000 patients. During the ten years previous to the abolition of alcohol, when we used wine, beer and whisky, the average annual death rate was exactly 5 per cent. of all the patients. During the following eleven years of total abstinence the average annual death rate has been only 4.3 per cent. (Applause.) I will not say that abstinence lowered the death rate, but you may draw your own conclusions. Under alcohol the average annual recovery rate was 39.18 of all patients. In the past eleven years the average recovery rate has been 42.28—over 3 per cent. more. (Applause.) I look on this as

A MOST VALUABLE EXPERIMENT.

(Hear, Hear.) Under the former period, restraint of every kind was used. Ten years ago we ceased using restraint and we have not had any patient under restraint for that time. (Applause.) Where a patient had been under restraint for some years we found it very difficult to do without it; but we had less difficulty with new patients. (Applause.)

Continuing the doctor said that 14 or 15 years ago, 40 or 50 per cent. of the patients were employed upon the farms, gardens, etc. To-day from 85 to 90 per cent. are so employed, to the very great benefit of the patients and of the institution. Speaking of amusements, he said life would be very monotonous in the Asylum for the patients were it not for entertainments. Fourteen years ago they used to have one dance a week and a few theatricals. Five years ago they had the good fortune to have appointed a bursar who was in Western Ontario. (Applause.) Besides being an efficient bursar, he gave a large part of his spare time to music and in building up such an orchestra as the one present. (Applause) Last season they had 110 evenings of amusement, of which 44 were dances, 25 "at homes," 18 lectures and the remainder concerts by excellent talent. (Applause.) Fourteen years ago they had no efficient fire protection. Now they had a system so perfect that by giving an alarm water would be turned on any point within two minutes. (Applause.) He remembered that the Government inspector surreptitiously gave an alarm at midnight some time ago and was astonished at the quickness of the response. Concluding, the doctor proposed the health of

THE BRETHREN FROM QUEBEC.

Dr. Hingston, of Montreal, who responded, expressed the warmest thanks on behalf of the Quebec delegates for Dr. Bucke's kindness. He was gratified to hear the doctor's remarks about restraint. The restraint of a poor insane person was an act of desperate cruelty. (Applause.) He was glad Dr. Bucke had taken the initiative in this view. (Applause.)

Dr. Sheard, president of the association, and health officer of Toronto, said Dr. Bucke's kindness was quite in line with the boundless hospitality which marked the treatment of the association in London. While they might be divided politically in provinces, they were united in holy unison so far as the grand profession of medicine was concerned. (Applause.) He proposed, with no political significance, the health of

THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Christie, inspector of public asylums for the Ontario Government, replied. He alluded to the excellent sewage system of the London Asylum, which reflected to the credit of the Ontario Government. (Applause.) It was, perhaps, necessary for him to say, in respect to the Institution and the care of the patients, which had been so well referred to by Dr. Bucke, that the same carefulness, the same forethought, the same rules exist in all the six asylums for the insane established by the Government of Ontario. (Applause.) For the last eleven years his life had been given to the development of such measures as would accrue to the well-being of the inmates of public institutions under the Ontario Government. He could say there was no case of restraint in any institution in the Province. Mr. Christie called attention to the increase of lunacy since Confederation. At Confederation there were 879 patients under care in this Province; last year the Government cared for 4,073, and there was apparently quite an increase this year. The number of new admissions in each year now is really greater than the whole number cared for by the State at Confederation. Lunacy was on the increase in most civilized countries according to reports received. It might be well for the profession to study the cause and prevention as well as the cure. The Ontario Government had to ameliorate the evils with which mankind was afflicted. Not only with respect to the insane, but to the idiotic, feeble minded, blind and deaf and dumb. The Provincial Board of Health had done good work. The latest provision and crowning effort in this respect is the provision made for the care of destitute children, which would save many homeless ones from a life of vice and wretchedness and possibly prison cells. (Applause). Notwithstanding the increase of patients the per capita cost of each was being decreased and in Ontario was as low or lower than in any country in the world, while it would not be arrogant to say that these people are, on the whole, better provided for than in any other country either on this side or on the other side of the Atlantic. (Applause.) He was glad to say, in conclusion, that the management of this extended provision for patients does not increase the per capita cost. For the past five years the average cost to the Province for maintenance of patients was $138 61, and for the year ending Sept. 30, 1892, the cost was $137 16 per capita. (Applause).

TAKEN EFFECTIVE STEPS

City Engineer Keating, of Toronto, made a few practical remarks on the sewage question and the conditions necessary to the successful operation of the filtration system, chief among which was a suitable soil.

Dr. Hingston suggested that the increased comforts of the asylum, greater than those of many at home, might account for the growth of the number of patients.

Mr. Christie replied that 62 per cent. of the insane were outside of public institutions.

Dr. Bucke was asked to vacate the chair, which was assumed by Dr. L. McFarlane, of Toronto. The latter proposed the health of

THE WORTHY SUPERINTENDENT,

Dr. Bucke, and alluded to the progress of the Asylum in his regime.

The toast was honored with a chorus and three cheers. Dr. Bucke expressed thanks in a word.

Dr. A. Temple, Toronto, proposed

"THE MEDICAL PROFESSION OF LONDON,"

and referred in the highest terms of praise to the hospitality of London.

Dr. Hodge and Dr. J. E. Campbell responded for the local fraternity. Dr. Hodge said the local profession had been more than repaid for any trouble if their visitors were pleased. Dr. Campbell hoped to see them in London again soon, when the London doctors would have more experience in the line of entertainment.

An adjournment was then made to the special train in waiting and the guests returned to the city and resumed business at Victoria Hall.

At every mile of the distance his times were: One mile, 2:22 1-5; 2 miles, 4:50; 3 miles, 7:27; 4 miles, 10:07 1-5; 5 miles, 12:33 1-5. Rev. R. S. Holmes, the English authority, in Cricket says the Australians are the greatest band of batsmen that have ever visited England. It will be an education to Canadian cricketers to see them play. The more good cricket we see, the more public interest in the game will increase.

Secretary J. E. Hall, of the Canadian Cricket Association, has called a meeting of that body for Oct. 2 at the Walker House for the purpose of selecting a team to meet the Gentlemen of Australia eleven, which will be in Toronto on Oct. 14, 16 and 17. The association will decide whether an eleven or fifteen will be placed in the field against the Australian eleven. The Rosedale grounds have been secured for the match, which is causing the greatest anticipation from cricketers all over the country.

WAS WEALTHY ONCE,

But Drink Dragged Him Down to Disgrace.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—John B. Smyth, a dissipated-looking, grey-haired man, 50 years old, of No. 462 West One Hundred and Forty Sixth street was committed for examination by Justice Feitner at the Harlem Police Court on the complaint of his wife, Susan.

Smyth at one time was a wealthy man, a member of the Real Estate Exchange, and lived on Washington Heights, but his fondness for drink has ruined him. Mrs. Smyth says that he has strange hallucinations at times, believing that men are trying to kill him. She caused his arrest on Monday night, after he had beaten her and broken a lot of dishes.

THE HICKEY HOMICIDE.

John Vrooman Gets Four Years in Penitentiary.

Story of the Tragedy—Other Cases Before the Assizes.

WINDSOR, Sept. 27.—Mr. Justice Falconbridge sentenced Vrooman, who was convicted of manslaughter yesterday to four years at Kingston Penitentiary. A largely-signed petition for clemency was presented to the court.

John Vrooman was charged with murdering James Hickey. Hickey was a driver by trade. His business called him from home the most of the time, and the prisoner being a friend, visited his house quite frequently during his absence. Finally trouble arose between husband and wife, and the latter left the home of her husband, and has not returned. Hickey imagined that Vrooman had something to do with her absence, and threatening revenge, said he would kill him. He met the prisoner, who was riding in a buggy, on June 12 last, and stated his suspicions, but Vrooman denied any knowledge regarding the wife, and Hickey said if he would call at an office on the dock he could prove the contrary, whereupon Hickey got into the rig with Vrooman. They had proceeded but a short distance when hot words were exchanged. Hickey struck Vrooman twice in the face with his fist, upon which the latter took a heavy revolver from his hip pocket and shot Hickey through the heart.

The crown were unable to show any relations of a criminal character between the prisoner and Hickey's wife. It was also shown that Hickey had made threats that he would kill Vrooman. Just before the killing Vrooman called upon Magistrate Bartlett and said his life had been threatened by Hickey and asked what he should do. The magistrate said he had better have him bound over to keep the peace. Within twenty minutes the shooting occurred. The above is, shortly, the story of the whole affair.

In the Woodward forgery case the prisoner was sentenced to one year in the Central Prison.

Gregory, Moynehan, Ritchie and Wadell, convicted of stealing from Gluns' shoe store, will be sentenced Oct. 2. The reason of this is that Gregory is wanted to give evidence for the crown in the Chatham bank robbery.

NOVELTY IN LITERATURE.

Forthcoming Contributions to Magazines—The Latest Books.

Dr. Carl Peters, the eminent African explorer, who has done wonders for the opening up of Eastern Africa, has prepared for the October Forum an article on "Prospects of Africa's Settlement by Whites." Dr. Peters is a great friend of Emin Pasha, but not an enthusiastic admirer of Stanley; and he draws a vivid picture of the lately-explored regions of the Dark Continent, and predicts that in times not far remote Africa will be honeycombed with European settlements.

The Century Company has bought well nigh the complete literary "out-put" of Mark Twain, during his year of residence abroad, and both the Century and St. Nicholas will have serial stories by this popular humorist among the attractions of the new year. For the Century he has written a novel which is said to abound with humorous and dramatic incident, and in some chapters to be a revelation of tragic power. It is called "Pudd'n'head Wilson," and like "Huckleberry Finn" and "Tom Sawyer" is a story of a Mississippi steamboat town. For the boy and girl readers of St. Nicholas he has written "Tom Sawyer, accompanied by Huckleberry Finn and the negro "Jim," in the Eastern Hemisphere—which is not reached in the ordinary way, but accidentally, as it were, and in a flying machine.

Continental Union.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The New York Press, an influential Republican journal, contains the following editorial article:

"Continental union, or the political union of the United States and Canada, is rapidly becoming a live and practical political question. Its consummation is attracting the attention of many of our leading thinkers. In the August number of the North American Review it is ably discussed by Prof. Goldwin Smith, of Toronto. Prof. Smith has given the question much thought and study, and advances many cogent reasons why the political union of these two great communities would be for their mutual commercial, financial and industrial advantage, and have an important and favorable bearing upon the future of government by the people. He also answers the leading objections made by those who oppose its consummation.

"While Mr. Andrew Carnegie looks forward to a union of all the branches of the Anglo-Saxon race, he strongly favors the political union of the United States and Canada as a wise and practical movement, which will insure the early development of the natural resources of the whole continent, enormously increase the wealth power, prestige and influence of North America, remove forever the causes most likely to disturb the kindly relations now existing between this continent and the mother country, and place these two great and intelligent nations in a position to command the peace of the world. It is a grand conception and worthy of the earnest consideration of all who desire to promote the well-being of humanity or the extension of self-government.

"In the last issue of the Yale Review the Hon. Simeon E. Baldwin, of Connecticut, in discussing 'The historic policy of the United States as to annexation' expresses the opinion that 'The North American continent, with every island on the east and the Hawaiian group upon the west all bound to it as satellites to their planet, will, if we continue our historic policy as to annexation, eventually come under the American flag.' Only a few days since Mr. John Jacob Astor in a published interview announced himself as being strongly in favor of continental union at an early day as being in the best interest of the American as well as the Canadian people. Although not in any sense a politician, Mr. Astor gives strong political reasons why the whole continent should be under the control of one government.

"Last week at a meeting of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress held in Montreal the future of Canada was discussed and a resolution adopted requesting the Government to submit political union with the United States to a vote of the Canadian people. Finally, the Hon. Honore Mercier, ex-Premier of Quebec, is actively organizing the Independence party of Canada, independence being the first practical step toward continental union, Mr. Mercier is a shrewd political leader with a stronger personal following than any other politician in his Province, an advanced Liberal and a sincere admirer of republican institutions.

"The question is a very broad and most important one, and should be fully and freely discussed in both countries in the press and upon the platform. The political union of these two great English-speaking communities should only be attempted or consummated upon terms just, generous and honorable to both of the contracting parties. To be desirable and enduring it must be highly satisfactory to both peoples. The great majority in both countries must be convinced that it is wise and best and will promote the highest good of all concerned. This can only be accomplished by a full, free, public discussion upon both sides of the boundary line.

"Among the founders of the Republic Samuel Adams, John Jay, Benjamin Franklin, Gouverneur Morris and John Adams were strong advocates of political union with Canada. In 1775 a delegation was sent to Canada from the Continental Congress, headed by Franklin, to urge political union. Another delegation was sent in 1776 for the same purpose. Franklin was of the opinion that Canada, under the control of a foreign power, would always be a disturbing element to the peace of the continent, while if politically united with us would greatly add to the strength of the republic. John Adams held the same views.

"The late Secretary Seward believed that continental union was inevitable and would best promote the highest good of both communities and deliver the continent from the scourge of war. He purchased Alaska with this end in view, and to prevent England from doing so, thereby extending her coast line upon the Pacific. It is well known that Mr. Blaine earnestly desired political union with Canada as a means of removing the causes most likely to lead to a conflict with Great Britain, and also because it would stimulate the development of the unlimited resources of the whole continent.

"Continental union means the dedication of the continent of North America to the arts of peace, and, in addition, as Prof. Smith remarks, 'it would remove all internal customs lines and impediments to trade. I would make the St. Lawrence, the fisheries, the sealing grounds and all the privileges which are now the subject of dispute, the undisputed heritage of all.'

"Had the political union of the United States and Canada been cosummated in 1776, as Franklin proposed, we should have, no doubt, escaped the war with England in 1861. Had union taken place at that time development would have been as rapid north of the St. Lawrence and lakes as south of them, and the advocates of slavery never would have attempted a dissolution of the republic, with the preponderance of power so largely in favor of the free States.

"Continental union means increased wealth, power, prestige and influence for the inhabitants of North America, and the peaceful solution of many questions of the first importance to the continued extension and preservation of constitutional government, directed and controlled by the will of the people. The opinion is expressed by some advocates of continental union that no action should be taken upon this side of the boundary to promote it, but that the Canadians should be left to make all advances. This seems hardly just or generous. We are the stronger and more wealty community and can well afford to express in kindly terms our willingness to receive our Canadian cousins whenever they desire to join us.

"The proper attitude of the American people toward continental union was most happily expressed by Prof. Smith, who, when requested to suggest a resolution upon the Canadian question to be adopted by the Republican National Convention at Minneapolis, replied as follows: 'Let Canada cast in her lot with her own continent, and she shall have all the continent can give her. We will respect her freedom of action and welcome her into an equal and honorable union when she desires it.' This is a sentiment to which every true American can heartily assent. Nor can it give offense to or wound the feelings of the Canadian people. Whoever consummates continental union by honorable, peaceful and lawful means, will take rank in history with Washington and Lincoln as benefactors of the human race."

MRS. FIELD'S ENTRY INTO TRADE.

(New York Sun.)

Mrs. Field, the wife of a son and namesake of the late Cyrus W. Field, has become a partner in a millinery establishment on Fifth avenue, with the honorable purpose of making money with which to assist her husband in paying obligations resting on him because of the failure of his brother, now under confinement in an asylum for the insane.

At one time such a step on the part of a lady of Mrs. Field's rearing and associations would have provoked surprise as a novelty. Now it is accepted as a matter of course. If a woman needs to make money, and she sees an opportunity to get it by trade, the general sentiment is that she acts very wisely in going into business. If she is competent for it, trade is as fit for her as for a man. If it is suitable and honorable for the one, it is equally so for the other.

That is the prevalent feeling at this time. Mrs. Field does not step down socially by entering the millinery business. She remains where she was before, and gains rather than loses social esteem. Men merchants enjoy and deserve social consideration, and there is no reason why women merchants should not have it also, unless we go back to the old aristocratic contempt for trade itself. Even the aristocracies are giving up that feudalistic discrimination, and to introduce it here would be utterly absurd. American wealth and fashion are based on trade. The founders of the families of longest social distinction in New York were nearly all traders, and most of them traders in a small way. All the rich in this new country are newly rich. The oldest fortunes are only a few generations old. Very little money was brought to this country by the early settlers. Thus all the large wealth of this country is new. It is not old enough to make its possessors weary of its enjoyment. It still has for them the charm of novelty. They have not lost their memory of the time when they were without the luxuries and opportunities it now brings them, or parted with the inheritance of the qualities in the recent ancestors whose thrift produced it.

Mrs. Field has shown good judgment in selecting a business for which the feminine taste is peculiarly adapted; and she is wise in entering into it actively as a student of fashions and a partner who will be specially occupied in securing trade. Perhaps feminine business abilities are best exercised in the management of details. Women seem to be well fitted to the retail trade on that account. We believe that the failures among those engaged in it are much fewer proportionately than among men. Moreover, they have an enviable reputation as honest merchants, prudent and trustworthy. The employment, too, gives them the shelter and the protection so desirable for them. If they succeed, they win the great and inestimable boon of independence. They have put their talent to needed use and not hidden it in a napkin.

All success, then, to Mrs. Field in her busines venture, undertaken with motives so honorable, so unselfish, so womanly and so wifely.

A PARAMOUNT ISSUE.

"Direct legislation is now considered a paramount issue by many leaders of reform."—[Jos. R. Buchanan.

THEY ARE INIMICAL.

Experience proves that greed for money and noble ideals are inimical to each other's growth, and cannot exist simultaneously in the same mind.—[Universal Republic.

THEY ARE IN LUCK.

Tupper, senior, is a baronet with a salary and allowance of $12,000 a year and $15,500 for contingencies and assistants. Tupper, junior, is a knight with $8,000 a year as a Minister of the Crown and member of Parliament. The Tuppers are in luck. They have not only the lion's share of titles but of the long green as well. —[Toronto News.

THE CHURCH AND LABOR.

The whole question of the relation of the churches to the wage-earning classes is one of intense interest to the churches whatever it may be to those classes. To the poor the Gospel is preached, was the evidence which Jesus offered of his being the Christ, and any church which cannot offer this evidence may well ask itself anxious questions. The common people heard him gladly. Do they thus welcome the preaching of to-day? If not, why not? These are questions well worth discussion.—[Montreal Witness.

THE WORLD.

The world is well lost when the world is wrong.
No matter how men deride you,
For if you are patient and firm and strong
You will find it in time (though the time be long)
That the world wheels 'round beside you.

If you dare to sail first o'er a new-thought track,
For awhile it will scourge and scare you;
Then, coming abreast with a skillful tack,
It will clasp your hand and slap your back,
And vow it was there before you.

Aye, many an error the old world makes,
And many a sleepy blunder;
But ever and always at last it wakes,
With pitiless scorn for another's mistakes,
And the fools who have followed go under.

The world means well, though it wander and stray
From the straight, short cut to duty;
So go ahead in that path, I say,
For after a while it will come your way,
Bringing its pleasure and beauty.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

EVER ON THE DEFENSIVE.

It was appropriate that the leader of a Government that has done so much for the whisky manufacturers of the Dominion should make his first address in that capacity at a banquet given to the representative of the distillers in the House of Commons—Mr. Corby, M.P., of Belleville. Once more Sir John Thompson appeared on the defensive. His speech throughout, while promising tariff changes, was an apology for further doing the bidding of the monopoly holders. He reaffirmed his intention of resisting the demands made by the farmers, by the workingmen, by the independent manufacturers, for a tariff for revenue only. The "protective" system, whether popular or unpopular, must remain while the present Government holds office, is his ultimatum. This declaration, read in the light of the statement recently made by Finance Minister Foster, and not yet alleged to have been uttered in "a moment of weakness"—that a 50 per cent. tariff will be maintained if deemed necessary by the manipulators—shows how little faith need be placed by "tariff for revenue only" voters in the men now in power at Ottawa. The country needs a change.

—The cable brings the information that the Governor of New Zealand has signed the Women's Enfranchisement Bill and the measure is now law. New Zealand is thus the pioneer among British colonies in granting woman her natural rights to a share in the making of the laws that she must obey. Women will vote in the New Zealand Parliamentary elections for the first time in December next. Will Canada continue to remain behind in the progressive race?

NO FEAR OF REVENUE.

The Toronto Empire, which is maintained by the chief members of the combines to sustain "protection" at all hazards, says:

"The great question with both parties is: How shall a revenue be raised?"

This is scarcely a fair way to put it. The great question with the men now in power at Ottawa is: How shall a revenue be squandered? The expenditure could be reduced enormously, and the revenue could be added to with ease by taking off taxes. The more a tariff "protects" the less revenue there is. Sir Robert Peel added to the British revenue a very large sum annually by reducing the rate of taxation on imports. Why should we not have a tariff for revenue only collected on this plan?

The following appears in the Toronto News:

"Fred. T. Trebilcock, manager of the Canada Smelting and Refining Works, of London, was in the city yesterday on his way from Ottawa. 'About fifteen months ago,' he said, 'we went into this smelting business. It was our intention to buy large quantities of jewelers' sweeps and photographers' waste in the United States, bring it over to Canada, extract the gold and silver bullion and sell it again in New York. A year ago we bought a lot of this waste in Buffalo and when it came over here it was detained in the customs. There was no duty provided for this waste, and gold and silver bullion is on the free list. In spite of all this they detained our raw material and asked 20 per cent. upon it. I saw N. Clarke Wallace and he promised to see the Ministers and have the matter remedied. It was never done. I saw Hon. Geo. E. Foster and he said he saw no reason why our stuff should not be let come in. He would talk to Mr. Wallace and in ten days we were to have it. That was six months ago. I have been to Ottawa half a dozen times and have seen members of Parliament and Ministers all the way from Windsor to Montreal. And still our factory is at a standstill in this particular line. We either must have that stuff come in free or we must move our factory to the United States. All we want is the privilege of manufacturing in Canada. The raw material comes from the United States and the product is all shipped back there. But we cannot get any satisfaction and our factory has been put back a year. They promise freely enough at Ottawa, but you cannot get them to perform—that is the trouble.'"

Is it not about time that there was a shaking up of the dry bones at Ottawa?

DELAYED LETTERS.

From Aylmer and St. Thomas come complaints of grave irregularities in the postal service. It is asserted that special invitations to the Laurier meeting in St. Thomas addressed to residents of Aylmer, had not been received until the day after the meeting, although they bore evidence of having been posted in due time. At St. Thomas postoffice it is represented that invitations of a similar character mailed at noon on Friday, Sept. 8, should have been sent out by the afternoon mail of that day. They were not so dispatched, it is asserted by the Journal, for some bear the postmark of the 9th, and the railway postmark of the 12th, proving that they did not leave St. Thomas until the 12th. It is remarkable also, that any letters should be postmarked by both the St. Thomas and railway offices. The ones received in Aylmer bore the St. Thomas mark of the 9th, the Aylmer mark of the 12th. Apparently, letters posted in St. Thomas on the 8th, in good time for the out-going mails on the same day, were not postmarked until the day following, and not allowed to leave the city until two or three days afterwards. No satisfactory explanation has been offered as to this remarkable delay. It is to be hoped that, on inquiry, the postoffice inspector will find that these letters were not delivered with ordinary promptitude through some unintentional oversight rather than through manipulations that would lead the public to suspect that so important a branch of the public service as the postoffice could be used to advance personal or political ends.

—A Conservative journal thinks that Premier Mowat could save money by cutting down the salary of the Lieutenant-Governor. This is an economy that must come from Ottawa. The Dominion Government alone has the power to fix the salaries of Lieutenant-Governors.

NO EQUIVOCATION ABOUT IT.

Mr. Laurier is having some very hard lines in Ontario. He equivocates on the tariff, having nothing definite to offer in lieu of our fiscal policy.—[Berlin News.

There are but two excuses for a newspaper editor of to-day making such a statement to his readers. Either he takes them for a set of fools, who have no desire to know the truth, or he has been enjoying a Rip Van Winkle sleep and knows not what he is writing about.

Mr. Laurier needs no defense at our hands. His speeches on the trade question have been listened to and published in every fairly-conducted newspaper in the Province. He does not equivocate on the trade question. He takes his stand against a robber tariff of any description. He maintains that a government has no right to so collect the needed revenue of the country as to enable a few men to profit at the expense of their fellows. He believes that it is the duty of the Dominion Government to get as near British free trade as the exigencies of revenue will permit. If our contemporary desires to treat Mr. Laurier fairly, to show that it does him a great wrong when it charges him with equivocation on the tariff, it will print the Liberal tariff platform, adopted at the Dominion Liberal Convention, which has been conceded, even by defenders of the high tax policy, to be the most representative gathering of Canadians that has ever taken place. Here it is:

We, the Liberal party of Canada, in convention assembled declare:

That the customs tariff of the Dominion should be based, not as it now is, upon the protective principle, but upon the requirements of the public service.

That the existing tariff, founded upon an unsound principle and used as it has been by the Government as a corrupting agency, wherewith to keep themselves in office, has developed monopolies, trusts and combinations;

It has decreased the value of farm and other landed property;

It has oppressed the masses to the enrichment of the few;

It has checked immigration;

It has caused great loss of population;

It has impeded commerce;

It has discriminated against Great Britain.

In these, and in many other ways, it has occasioned great public and private injury, all of which evils must continue to grow in intensity so long as the present tariff system remains in force.

That the highest interests of Canada demand a removal of this obstacle to our country's progress, by the adoption of a second fiscal policy, which, while not doing injustice to any class, will promote domestic and foreign trade and hasten the return of prosperity of our people.

That to that end, the tariff should be reduced to the needs of honest, economical and efficient government.

That it should be so adjusted as to make free, or to bear as lightly as possible upon the necessaries of life and should be so arranged as to promote freer trade with the whole world, more particularly Great Britain and the United States.

We believe that the results of the protective system have grievously disappointed thousands of persons who honestly supported it, and that the country in the light of experience is now prepared to declare for a sound fiscal policy.

The issue between the two political parties on this great question is now clearly defined.

The Government themselves admit the failure of their fiscal policy, and now profess their willingness to make some changes, but they say that such changes must be based only on the principle of protection.

We denounce the principle of protection as radically unsound and unjust to the masses of the people, and we declare our conviction that any tariff changes based on that principle must fail to afford any substantial relief from the burdens under which the country labors.

This issue we unhesitatingly accept, and upon it we await with the fullest confidence the verdict of the electors of Canada.

On that platform Mr. Laurier takes his stand. Will our contemporary print it, and say wherein consists the equivocation?

A HUMAN FIEND

Tries to Take Undue Advantage of Two Little Girls in South London—the Police After Him.

A well dressed young man slightly under the influence of liquor endeavored to take undue advantage of two little girls on Maryboro Place, South London yesterday afternoon. Mr. James S. Herrick had taken his wife and children, with one exception, to the Fair. The little girl who did not go was suffering from a sore foot, and preferred to stay home and play with a little companion, the daughter of a near neighbor, Mr. Robt. J. Southcott. About 4 o'clock the stranger walked into the yard where they were playing and asked if the father was at home. Receiving a negative reply he engaged the little girls—one aged 7 years and the other aged 5—in conversation that they could hardly be expected to understand. He took one on his knee, and his actions were such that both screamed, and the little girl that the villain laid hands on struggled free, and both ran home. The man made off, but the girls would recognize him again, anywhere. He walked on both sides of the sidewalk, they said, in explaining that he was drunk; and wore a black suit, a black fedora hat, spotted tie and a small mustache. The police have been notified.

THE POPE'S ADVICE

To the American Bishops—Peril of Mixed Marriages—The Religious Care of the Schools Urged.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The Rome correspondent of the Catholic News sends a synopsis of the recent encyclical from the Pope to the bishops of the United States. His Holiness urges concord and unity among Catholics and instructs the bishops to promote the holding of congresses. He calls their attention to the importance of combatting for the truth of books and journalism and urges that the clergy should not occupy themselves too much with civil and political matters. The Holy Father dwells on the

PERILS OF MIXED MARRIAGES,

and continuing speaks at length on the school question and the disciplining of teachers. He said relative to elementary schools: "Venerable Brethren,—You must require that parish priests and all those having the care of souls devote all their care to the instruction of their pupils in Christian doctrines; that they confide to no others that grave and noble task, but that they set their hearts on reserving to themselves the entire weight thereof as well; so that not only the salvation of families but likewise that of the nation depends, in a great measure, on the pious and salutary instructions of early youth, and never deem to have attained that degree of industry and of good management, such as to warrant you to rest from further progress in schools."

FRANTIC WITH BOILS

And Itching, Would Scratch Until Blood Ran Down His Limbs. Forced to Take to His Bed. Whole System Affected. Doctor after Doctor Without Cure. Instant Relief, Speedy Cure by Using Cuticura Remedies.

My sufferings might have been stopped if I had only known of your CUTICURA REMEDIES eighteen years ago. I contracted the fever and ague, and it effected my kidneys so badly that I had to have an operation, from which resulted blood poison, and I suffered untold agonies. To make my sufferings more, my left leg below the knee broke out in large blood boils, and commenced a scaly, itching irritation, so that at times I was almost frantic, and would scratch until the blood would trickle down my leg. In the summer these large boils would commence, during which time I would have three or four which were so painful that at times I was forced to take to my bed. Every winter a dry itching scaly mass would gather on my leg, which with the boils, seemed to effect my whole system. During all this time, a period of three to nine months, I had doctor after doctor, but they gave me only temporary relief. This last fall I commenced using your CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, and now the scales have all gone, the itching all gone, I have not felt sick, and have worked all winter. I would not suffer again as I have for the past eighteen years for anything. I had doctors from the west to the east, all to no purpose. I have not felt so well or been so long without a sick spell since taking your remedies. Thanks to them and to you, and the great Maker of mankind for my returning health.

Were the scrofula sores on my poor little boy, sickening and disgusting. They were especially severe on his legs, back of his ears and on his head. His hair was so matted that combing was sometimes impossible. His legs were so bad that sometimes he could not sit down, and when he tried to walk his legs would crack open and the blood start. Physicians did not effect a cure. I decided to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two weeks the sores commenced to heal up; the scales came off and all over his body new and healthy flesh and skin formed. When he had taken two bottles of

MR. LAURIER'S POPULARITY.

The Liberal Leader at Owen Sound.

Brief Reception at Tara and Southampton.

OWEN SOUND, Sept. 22.—Mr. Laurier, accompanied by Mr. Wm. Mulock, M.P.; Mr. James Sutherland, M.P., and several prominent Liberals of the district drove from Port Elgin yesterday to Southampton, where, early in the morning, a disastrous fire had reduced to ruins some of the finest buildings in the place. Notwithstanding this unfortunate circumstance, the people of Southampton turned out to welcome the leader, and they did it cordially.

In the Mechanics' Institute, in the presence of a large number of citizens, the reeve, on behalf of the municipality, presented an address to Mr. Laurier, assuring him of the high esteem in which he is held by the people of Southampton, of their appreciation of his great ability and devotion to the interests of his country.

Mr. Laurier made a pleasing acknowledgment of the kindness of his reception, after which he had the pleasure of meeting many of those present.

After taking leave of his good friends of Port Elgin, who had accompanied him thus far upon his journey, he set out for Tara. As at Southampton, his reception there was most cordial. As his carriage drew up in the village street the Tara band struck up a favorite air. Mr. Laurier was met in the parlor of the British Hotel by a number of the leading citizens of the place.

After luncheon an impromptu meeting was held in Vandusen's Hall, which was completely filled by the large audience which had assembled. There were many ladies present. Mr. McCausland occupied the chair. Dr. Wilson, president of the Tara Reform Association, presented to the leader an admirably-worded address on behalf of that organization. An address of welcome from the municipal authorities to Mr. Laurier was presented by Reeve Smith. Then Nellie Hilbourn and Edith Dunn, two little girls with snow-white dresses and pretty faces, climbed up to the platform, and, with sweet smiles, presented Mr. Laurier with two beautiful bouquets. Of course Mr. Laurier could do nothing else than kiss them for their kindness, and he did so, much to the amusement of the spectators.

Mr. Laurier, without entering into a discussion of the political questions of the day, responded to the addresses in a warm manner. He was followed by Messrs. Mulock and Sutherland. At the conclusion of this most agreeable meeting a large number of those present were introduced to the leader. Dr. Landerkin, M.P., joined Mr. Laurier, Mr. Mulock and Mr. Sutherland at Tara and accompanied them to Owen Sound. Several arches of evergreens had been erected in honor of the distinguished visitors, and the streets were otherwise decorated. In the evening Mr. Laurier spent an hour very pleasantly at the Kirmess of the Young People's Society of St. George's Church in the roller rink.

CLOSE OF MR. LAURIER'S CAMPAIGN.

OWEN SOUND, Sept. 22.—Hon. Wilfrid Laurier this afternoon addressed 1,500 people in the Third street rink here, thus bringing to a close his Ontario campaign. His speech was an enunciation for revenue tariff, looking to free trade. He also charged the Thompson Administration with scandalous extravagance. Touching on Sir John Thompson's speech at Belleville, Mr. Laurier declared that all hopes of tariff reform were at an end.

The Dundas Stabbing Case.

HAMILTON, Sept. 22.—Thomas Cummings and James McIntyre, who seriously assaulted Jas. Morton in Dundas on Wednesday night, have been committed for trial. It is thought Morton will not recover. His anti-mortem statement has been taken. Morton says Cummings did the stabbing.

A Man Made Happy.—GENTLEMEN,—For five years I have been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only seemed a drag to me. When I would go to sleep I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest either day or night. But with the use of only two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that are specially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim for it.

Windup of Western Ontario's Great Fair.

Another Fine Day and a Good Turnout.

Grand Parade of Prize-Winning Horses and Cattle.

Special Exhibits Described—Results of the Races—Good Work Done by the Managers of the Centennial Methodist Church Booth—The Fakirs Fold Their Tents and Steal Away.

The great Western Fair of 1893 is a thing of the past. That it has been a success no person can deny. The attendance may not have been up to that of former years on one or two days, but on the best days the crowds doubtless eclipsed the record. The special attractions were never so good, and the management was, in the main, satisfactory. Clifford Calverley, the high wire performer, was doubtless the best attraction the Western Fair Board ever secured. The Japs, the trained horses and dogs were all novel and entertaining, and, in fact, all to be seen from the grand stands pleased the big crowds immensely. The races were well contested and some fast horses were entered.

Yesterday Brinker Sprague lowered his record from 2:30 to 2:28. The track was rough and heavy but the horses worked well. All the special attractions were on the programme.

There were probably 5,000 or 6,000 people on the grounds yesterday—a good attendance for the last day. All the exhibits were in their places and the prize horses and cattle were paraded in front of the grand stands. A couple of Adam Beck's coach horses were the only entries for the best single turnout. One was awarded a gold and the other a silver medal.

Clifford M. Calverley, the Japanese troupe of acrobats, W. C. Coup's equescurriculum, Prof. Freyer's trained dogs, Broncho Bob and Trixie Slocum and the day fireworks all made their last appearance. The Cavalry and Oneida Indian bands played during the afternoon.

IN THE RING.

The races on the track were all good. Five heats were required to decide the open trotting race.

TWO-YEAR-OLD TROTTERS.

The first event was a half mile heat race for 2-year-old trotters. There were seven entries—Star Wilkes, Ben Scott, Bookie, Minnie C, Wild Crocus, Manchester and Earnscliffe. Bookie, Manchester and Minnie C were scratched.

Wild Crocus took the lead in the first heat from the start and finished an easy first. Earnscliffe was a fair second, Ben Scott third and Star Wilkes fourth. Time, 1:26, which was considered fast for 2-year olds on a heavy track.

The second heat was a procession. Wild Crocus took the lead and easily maintained it, finishing on a walk. Earnscliffe was second, Star Wilkes third, and Ben Scott distanced. Time, 1:28½.

In the third heat distance was waived and Ben Scott was allowed to start, although distanced in the second heat. It was an exhibition half-mile by Wild Crocus. The horses got off well. Crocus trotted well and left the field away behind, finishing in 1:17½. Earnscliffe was second, Ben Scott third and Star Wilkes fourth. Wild Crocus won first money, Earnscliffe second, Ben Scott third and Star Wilkes fourth. Summary:

Two-year-old trotters' stake, half mile heats, purse $200:

Wild Crocus, b. f., Angus Sinclair, Toronto	1	1	1
Earnscliffe, b. g., Schiedauf Bros., West Lorne	2	2	2
Ben Scott, b. g., Jas. Pritzle, Glencoe	3	ds	3
Star Wilkes, br. g., J. A. Tanner, Blythe	3	4

Time 1:26, 1:28¾, 1:17½.

FREE FOR-ALL PACE.

The free-for-all pace brought out some of the fastest horses in Canada. Corncracker, Joe Bowers, Debrino, Axtell, Bay Fly, Rosa B and Bonair Junior were the entries. All but Rosa B, Bonair Junior and Joe Bowers were scratched.

In the first heat the horses got off well. Rosa B broke on the start and fell to third place, but easily passed Joe Bowers. Bonair Junior broke at the home stretch and finished second. Rosa B first, Joe Bowers third and Bay Fly fourth. Time, 2:26½.

The second heat was an easy victory for Rosa B and a good one for second place between Bay Fly and Bonair Junior, the latter winning. Joe Bowers was distanced. Time, 2:25½.

The third heat was a fine exhibition of pacing. Rosa broke on the start and fell to third place, and not until the home stretch did she redeem herself. She passed Bonair Junior and came in neck and neck with Bay Fly, who had had quite a lead. The crowd cheered as they came under the wire. Bay Fly won the heat, Rosa B second and Bonair Junior third. Time, 2:27¾.

The fourth heat was an easy victory for Rosa B, although Bonair Junior made a bold attempt to beat her. Bay Fly was distanced for running. Rosa B won first money and Bonair Junior second. Time, 2:26½. Summary:

Open pace, mile heats, purse $100:

Rosa B, ch. m., T. Heatherington, Cedar Springs	1	2	1
Bonair Junior, b. s., Stobbs Bros., Leamington	2	2	3	2
Bay Fly, b. m., H. Overmeyer, St. Thomas	4	3	1	ds
Joe Bowers, R. Paisley, Elderton	3	ds

Time 2:27¾, 2:27¼, 2:27¾, 2:29½.

FREE-FOR-ALL TROT.

There were four entries for the free-for-all trot—Brinker Sprague, Amber F, Billy B and Wanda. Billy B was scratched.

The first heat was a series of breaks by Brinker Sprague and Wanda, the former finishing first. Amber F was at the rear throughout. Wanda was given the heat, Amber F second and Brinker was set back to third for running. Time, 2:35.

In the second heat Amber F was drawn. Brinker took the lead and maintained it throughout the heat, winning it. Wanda was a good second. Time, 2:35.

Brinker won the third heat in 2:28, beating his best previous record by two seconds. He was ahead from start to finish, but Wanda kept well up.

Brinker finished first in the fourth in 2:29, but was given second place for running. He won the fifth in 2:36 just before dark and was awarded the race. Summary:

Open trot, mile heat, purse $100:

Brinker Sprague, br. s., C. Darling, Ridgetown	3	1	1	2	1
Wanda, br. m., Beattie Bros., Wingham	1	2	2	1	2
Amber F, ch. s., D. McEwen, Alsia Craig	2	drawn

Time, 2:30, 2:30, 2:28, 2:29, 2:36.

NOTES.

The Fair is over.

The exhibits will be removed to-day.

The number of sideshows was larger than usual. Some of them did a good business.

Clifford M. Calverley left last night for Trenton, N. J. He is a wonder and leaves many admirers in London.

In two successive heats yesterday the rubber tires of a wheel collapsed on Brinker Sprague's pneumatic sulky.

The music provided for the Fair was appreciated.

There is a warm spot for London in the hearts of the managers of the various attractions. Mr. Calverley has found no superior in all his travels.

The booth run by the Centennial Methodist Church had a large patronage. On Wednesday and Thursday the receipts were about $350 each day.

All the sideshows started to withdraw yesterday, some of them leaving early in the morning.

The side shows this year have been the cause of much unfavorable comment, and it is hoped by many that next year the directors will see that they are of a better class, and fewer in number.

Broncho Bob's shooting yesterday was much better than on Thursday.

Cattle owners shipped a lot of their stock during the afternoon.

The crowds at the Western this year were very orderly, very few disturbances taking place.

The street car service to and from the grounds was excellent, and no accidents of a serious nature are reported.

NOTABLE EXHIBITS.

Among other notable exhibits will be found the following:

Something Unusual.

Messrs. Frost & Wood are a firm of implement manufacturers, whose headquarters are situated at Smiths Falls, Ont. Their business in this section of Canada is very extensive, and they have a London branch on King street, which is under the management of Mr. H. Horsman. The special attention of this company is given to something new in the line of farm implements. This is the single canvas binder, and it has proved to be a great success. One is in constant operation in the machinery hall. It was made especially for Mr. Henry Edwards, of Lobo township. The principal feature of this little wonder is that of it being an open binder, enabling it to handle with ease any length of grain. To show the capacity of this machine the makers have on exhibition some torn ten feet in height which was cut and bound by the binder. One farmer in Norwich, Ont.—Mr. Adam Stover—cut 40 acres of corn this fall in a highly satisfactory manner. The knotter of this binder is in itself a curiosity, being different from all others, as it uses neither bill-hook nor disk, and it is a very positive tier. This firm also manufacture a full line of mowers of different sizes and styles, also horse rakes and plows. Being the oldest firm in the Dominion and working in connection with the Walter A. Wood Company, of Hoosac Falls, New York, they are in a position to meet the requirements of all intending purchasers, and all such are respectfully asked to call and see the agents in any of the principal towns of the Province. Address for any further information, Frost & Wood, London.

Welford's Brooms.

To Ald. Welford the patrons of the Fair are indebted for an insight into the manufacture of that indispensable little household article, the broom. No home would be complete without it; the housewife could do without her piano, her expensive carpets and rich tapestries, but what would she do without a broom. No. 5 ward's energetic alderman has placed a complete manufacturing plant in the main building, south side, near the western entrance, and here the broom can be seen in all stages of manufacture from raw broom corn to the polished article that the recreant hubby sometimes feels on the back of his pate. There are also small brooms and whisks in endless variety. Mr. Welford has purchased the plant of Hobbs' London West broom factory, and will go into the manufacture of brooms on a large scale. Welford's binder twine and ropes are already well and favorably known all over Canada.

Ahead of All Others.

That is what everybody says of that wonderful Sunlight Soap which is manufactured in England. It is not saying too much for it, as during the past four years it has been used in Windsor Castle and the royal laundries, the firm having been appointed makers to the Queen, which is an excellent tribute to the quality of the soap. It is not an idle boast either when the firm claim that the sales of Sunlight far exceed those of the two next largest soap-makers in the world. Quality is the secret of the success of Sunlight Soap, and at this year's Western Fair it has again carried off the gold medal, swelling the number to thirteen which are now enrolled to its credit. The works of this company are being doubled in size, and in a few months hence will have a capacity of 1,600 tons of soap per week. The factory, wharf and storages cover twenty out of an area of 86 acres, which comprise the site. Port Sunlight is the seat of this growing industry, and in that town there are but a few residents who are not employed in the works.

London Machine Tool Company.

The London Machine Tool Company had a noteworthy exhibit in the machinery hall during the Fair. It consisted chiefly of large lathes for iron work, in the manufacture of which this firm has achieved an enviable reputation and substantial success. One of the exhibits, a 48-inch engine lathe, is supplied with triple gear—an entirely new feature. This piece of machinery is a monster, weighing eight tons. Faxes, turret and monitor lathes were also displayed. One piece of machinery in operation excited admiration. It was the automatic gear cutter for cutting the teeth of cogwheels up to 50 inches in diameter. The machine was the object of much scrutiny during the continuance of the exhibit. Besides machine lathes one of the company's well-known punchers for tin and sheet metal work was shown, also an exhibit of two electric motors, in the manufacture of which the London Machine Tool Company stands second to none. Associated with the firm in the exhibit was A. R. Williams, Soho machine works, Toronto. They displayed a line of their well-known pulleys and Sturtevant blowers, for furnaces and forges. The proprietor, Mr. Wm. Yates, has surrounded himself with skilled mechanics, the best machines and all appliances of the trade, and guarantees to turn out the finest work in their line that Canada can produce. The foundry is situated on York street, near Talbot.

Of Interest to Every Well Owner.

One of the most simple, durable and reliable devices ever yet invented for elevating water is undoubtedly the Parker pump. It has been exhibited all week attached to a windmill. All those who have seen it have been surprised at its capacity. And the volume of water which purs from its spout when the wind favors is truly remarkable. No other device, it is maintained, will do the work that the Parker pump does under ordinary circumstances. It will not only pump the amount of water needed, and in this particular it is 125 per cent. better than any similiar contrivance—but relieves the well of any obstruction—dirt, quicksand, etc. This ingenious contrivance costs from $8 upwards, according to whether the material employed is in brass or iron. It is so simple that there is absolutely nothing to put it out of repair. No one desirous of procuring a pump should neglect to inspect the Parker Patent. Any further information can be secured from P. J. Edmunds, 359 and 361 Richmond street, London, Ont. The Parker pump never freezes in winter, never gums in summer; never chokes up or loses its priming; never fails to work at any depth. It is the only grand success for cleaning artesian wells.

The Provan Car Sling and Fork.

Mr. J. Provan, of Oshawa, had at the Western Fair this year a full line of his goods, consisting of two cars—one for the iron and the other for the wood track—and a fork and sling attachment. These machines are also on exhibition at the World's Fair, where they have been recommended by the judges for highest awards. The improvements, which give the machines undoubted pre-eminence over all others, consist in the positive reliability of all the working parts and the convenience of handling hay and grain in different places in the barn, passing a loaded fork through the stop block, a convenience which is reduced to practice only in these machines. These labor-savers are more expensive than others, but the fact that so many of them are in use by the leading farmers proves that they are a general favorite.

The Locked Wire Fence.

The Locked Wire Fence Company, of Ingersoll, are showing a fence which should commend itself to every farmer in the country. The construction of it is so simple yet so strong that instead of the strain being on only one strand of wire it is evenly distributed over the several strands, and is made taut and strengthened by upright strands. Another advantage is that, although repairs are rarely needed, it can be mended quickly and easily. While the fence is well adapted for farmers' and domestic use, it is growing in popular favor with the railways, the company having this week received an order from one road for fourteen miles of it. This company have no patent on the fence, but they have a patent on the machine used for its construction, and take this opportunity of informing the public that they will hold any person liable for a royalty for using a machine with which to build a similar locked wire fence. The Locked Wire Fence Company of Ingersoll have the sole right of using this machine in the Dominion of Canada.

The Sawyer-Massey Company's Latest.

To the rear of the carriage shed is an exhibit which attracts the attention of every farmer. It is that of the Sawyer & Massey Company, Limited, of Hamilton, Ont., and it has now become general for them to have a good display, but this year they have eclipsed all previous efforts. They have their old reliable and well-known "Peerless" Separator, driven by their improved tubular reduced "L. D. S." engine. Then there is the "Rusher" Separator, driven by their new locomotive style engine, which is considered as one of the best made by the company, having all the latest and best improvements. The new American pattern "Monitor" Clover Huller is also included, which sacks clover seed ready for the market as fast as it can be handled to and from the machine. This is something that every farmer should see.

Bryan's Fine Brushes.

During the past week the works of Mr. Thomas Bryan, the well-known manufacturer of brushes, at 61 to 65 Dundas street, has been crowded with visitors to the city, who always carry the idea with them that whatever is wanted in this line can be had at the above factory. There are turned out in this institution everything conceivable in their line, including artists' and painters' brushes. For a large number of years Mr. Bryan has had his exhibit in the north side of the palace, but this year, for various reasons, the display has not been made, as anyone interested in this business can get a better idea of their wares at the showrooms. All of Bryan's paint brushes are fitted with the Jenkins patent bridle catch, so popular with all leading manufacturers in the United States. The industry is one which reflects credit alike upon the push and enterprise of Mr. Bryan, and of which London has just reason to feel proud. Painters, artists and all others interested are cordially invited to visit the establishment when in London, or send for a catalogue.

L. & J.

MANTLES!

We wish particularly to emphasize our Mantle Department to-day, though perhaps we may mention some other branch of our immense business that will be of special interest to all. When it comes to Mantles, we think we have the floor; at any rate we are justly entitled to it. There is not in this western district such a gigantic, well-assorted and well-made stock of Mantles as ours, for the reason that, so far as we are aware, no buyer from London, excepting ours, goes direct to the German markets, which are world-renowned for Mantles and Cloaks. No one can make them like the Germans.

Those to hand and now arranged for inspection are of all sizes and styles, so much so that those hardest to please or fit will experience no difficulty in making a selection. Then we have commodious and pleasant quarters on the ground floor in which to show and fit these garments; in short, ours is the place for Mantles when style, quality, price and treatment are desired.

Take a good look at our large show window. If it doesn't interest you, come inside. Come inside anyway. We have a large assortment of costumes in dress lengths, changeable effects, with trimmings to match. One or two of these are displayed in the window. We never attempt to show all our stock either in the window or at the door, but pick out what we consider nice for exhibition. Our taste may not agree with yours—you know tastes differ—and what you may think far nicer may be found elsewhere in the store.

THE STATE OF TRADE

As Outlined by the Commercial Agencies of New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Bradstreet's says there are 47 business failures reported from the Dominion this week, against 36 last week and 27 in the same week a year ago.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review says: There is no longer only a microscopic or sentimental improvement that cannot be measured. Some increase is seen both in production and in distribution of products. True, it is small as yet, but after the worst financial blizzard for twenty years, it is not to be expected that all roads can be cleared in a day. All conditions except at Washington favor gradual recovery. Money has become abundant and easy at 3 per cent. here on call, and stagnant speculation favors greater freedom in commercial loans. Stocks and products are dull without serious fall in prices. The industries are rapidly rallying to make good the scarcity of supplies caused by weeks of inaction, the vitality of the demand for goods shows that the wonderful consuming power of the people has not ceased, and the shrinkage on the record of commercial disease and mortality shows progress toward health.

The large mills of the Kelly Nail and Iron Company, Ironton, Ohio, have started for a steady run.

Over-Study Made Her Insane.

PATCHOGUE, L. I., Sept. 22.—Miss Clara Aldrich, a school teacher, was taken yesterday to the Middletown Asylum, having become violently insane while visiting friends in Babylon. Physicians say her dementia is due to over-study.

Local Market Quotations.

Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 22.

Wheat was steady here to-day and unchanged in value. Chicago had quite a flutter yesterday, the market at one time losing 1¢. At the close it had rallied and closed 4c under Tuesday. The chief cause was selling by longs and falling off in the exports. Oats are steady at 91c to 93c; demand continues strong. Nothing done in any other kinds of grain. Hay market sparely supplied; prices held firm at $8 to $8 50. Straw was more plentiful and sold at $2 to $3 per load. Nothing done in provisions. Prices are for yesterday's transactions. Quotations:

Live Stock Markets.

EAST BUFFALO.

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Cattle—There were about seven loads on sale. The market ruled with a fair demand for the few on sale and about all sold. Good to choice fat heifers brought $3 to $3 10 and old cows $2 to $2 25. No very good stock was on sale.

Hogs—The supply was fair, about 35 cars being on sale. The market was fairly active and stronger, to a shade advance. Good to choice heavy hogs are selling readily and bring top prices; some 350 and 360 lb average bring $6 90 to $6 95.

Sheep and lambs—18 cars on sale. Lambs active and 15c to 25c higher. Sheep were also stronger for good fleshy ones and sold more readily. The good kind of 74 lb lambs with a number of bucks in the lot sold at $4 50; choice 70 lb, $4 85; good ones of same weight, $4 60 to $4 65; fair kind of cull lambs weighing around 66 lbs sold at $3 10; common to fair culls $2 to $3; fair 98 lb sheep $3 50; heavy ewe lots, 100 to 120 lb, $3 25 to $3 40; common cull sheep, unchanged prices.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—At the Montreal stock yards, Point St. Charles, there were offered 14 cars of cattle, 400 hogs and 500 sheep and lambs. Prices were the same as last week. No cattle were sold for export. There were about 650 head of butchers' cattle, 100 calves and 3,500 sheep and lambs offered at the East End Abattoir to-day. The usually large supplies, especially of mutton critters, had a demoralizing effect on the market, and though the butchers were out in large numbers sales were slow and prices very uncertain. There were no really good beeves on the market to-day and the best cattle could be got for about 4c per lb, with common stock at from 2¢ to 3¢ per lb, and some of the leaner animals at about 2c per lb, and the probabilities are that a good many head will have to be held over for another market. There was a brisk demand for calves, though prices were rather easier, ranging from $3 to $6 for common veals and from $7 to $13 50 for good ones. Old sheep were hardly saleable to-day, as nobody seemed to want them. Common lambs sold at about 3½c per lb, or 1c per lb lower than they did on last Thursday. Choice lambs sold at from 3¢c to 4c per lb. Fat hogs continue to sell at from 6¢c to 6¢c per lb.

Hager—Templeton.

A very pleasing event took place Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Andrew Templeton, engineer, being the marriage of his daughter, Miss Margaret Templeton, to Mr. John A. Hager, of Marquette, Mich. The bride was assisted by her cousin, Miss Agnes Ellison, of Marquette, and the groom by Mr. John Van Cleve, of the same place. The bride was the recipient of many valuable presents from her friends, among them being a handsome present from the Messrs. Hobbs and a beautiful silver service from her fellow-employes of the Hobbs Hardware Company. Among the guests were Mrs. Geo. W. Hager, mother of the groom, and Mr. Wm. Hastings, of Omaha. The happy couple left on the 7:10 p.m. train for their home in Marquette.

Is the Horse Stolen?

John Geary, London township, allowed three of his hired men to drive into the Fair Thursday. When the time came for returning one of them, a Swede named Antoine Yensen, could not be found, and neither could the horse and rig. Yensen was traced east to Dreaney's Corners, where he had bought beer at night and then drove on. Mr. Geary became frightened and has asked the county police to help him to recover the animal. It is a heavy bay mare with a white stripe on face, sixteen hands high and blind in both eyes. The wagon is a light spring vehicle, painted yellow. The Swede is 22 years old and smooth faced.

Great Attraction at the Grand.

One of the greatest attractions in the city during Fair week has been the performance of "Starlight" at the Grand Opera House. The theater has been nightly packed with delighted audiences, who pronounce the play the funniest, breeziest and most side-splitting of productions. Vernona Jarbeau is one of the cleverest singing soubrettes on the stage, and "Starlight" brings out her remarkable versatility. The piece sparkles with musical gems, of which Jarbeau herself contributes the greatest number. The chorus is a splendid one. The caste includes three superb comedians, who keep their hearers in a constant roar with their dancing, singing and tumbling. The week's engagement concludes to-day with a matinee and evening performance.

Broke His Leg.

Mr. Sim Thompson, market hide inspector, received very serious injuries from a mishap that occurred to him about 5 o'clock Thursday. It appears that Mr. Thompson has been annoyed on several occasions by boys dropping sawdust on him while passing a spice mill on Talbot street, near King. Some was dropped yesterday as he was passing but instead of him receiving it, the stuff fell on a lady who was following close behind. Mr. Thompson went in to remonstrate with the foreman, but the latter happened to be out at the time. While inside he walked into an opening in the floor through which the hoist passes and fell to the cellar floor below. One leg was badly broken at the knee cap as a result. The injured man was removed home on Princess avenue east in the ambulance and afterwards taken to the hospital.

Police Court Jottings.

There was an unusually large docket at the Police Court yesterday the list being materially swelled by ten "drunks." Most of these were discharged.

John Doe has been on remand charged with vagrancy since the beginning of the month. On his appearance he was given two months.

Richard Rawlings was accused of being a huckster by the market clerk. He maintained that the apples, which he was alleged to have bought and sold on the market without a license, were merely procured to meet the wants of a regular customer. Mr. Wilson, however, still asserted that Rawlings had been a huckster for the past fourteen years. The latter said that he had not bought and sold anything on the market during the past year. Magistrate Parke did not think the charge proven, but as the prosecution thought that additional witnesses could be brought to sustain the contention, an adjournment was made for a week.

Sidney Cook had two offenses opposite his name—one of trespass and the other of assault. It was proven that he and several companions had forced a gate at Queen's Park open and gained an unpaid entrance to the Fair. Five dollars, with the option of twenty days in jail, was the penalty assigned. Albert Hamilton did not wish to prosecute the charge of assault and it was withdrawn.

James Allen arrived in the city about 2 o'clock in the morning. He was on foot and had only 10 cents in his pocket. A policeman found him wandering aimlessly about, and kindly offered to afford him a night's lodging. It is not known how pleased he was at the proposition. Allen could not give a very satisfactory account of himself, and was remanded for a week. He said he formerly worked at Gurney's foundry in Toronto.

THE PEOPLE ROSE!

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier's Great Reception at Port Elgin.

Speeches by the Liberal Leader and His Trusty Lieutenants.

PORT ELGIN, Sept. 21.—Hon. Wilfrid Laurier has been received enthusiastically wherever he has gone in the Province of Ontario, but nothing could have exceeded the warmth and cordiality of the welcome accorded him at Port Elgin yesterday by the sterling men of Bruce. When he stood up to speak the people rose to their feet, and the men waived their hats and the women their handkerchiefs. Mr. Laurier began his eloquent address in this way: "I am overwhelmed with the kindness of your reception. When I saw the magnificent procession which you had this morning, when I saw those young Scotch boys sitting on their horses as boldly as veterans in the Peninsular war, and as erect in their saddles as if they had been in the battle themselves; when I heard the shrill tones of the pibroch, heard, as you know, many times on the old hills of Scotland and on the battlefields of the world, my heart, French as it may be, was thrilled beyond expression. I am of French origin, but my heart thrilled because I realized that, although we may be divided by creed and origin, still there is between us a bond of union and we are all citizens of the same country, we are all Canadians. And it is true I am of French origin, but it has been my privilege since my early childhood to be associated with the Scotch people of my own Province. When I was a little boy my father, God bless his memory, as I have always done, sent me to a Scotch school at a place going by the good name of New Glasgow, in the county of Terrebone. At that time I could not speak a word of English, and of all the good Scotch lads and lassies there was not one who could speak a word of French. It was to my sorrow that I could not speak a word of English to my good friends, the Scotch lassies, who were at school; but I suppose my French eyes gave them the contents of my French heart. But with boys there is something they can always do to others. We would not speak to each other; we could always fight, and fight we did. We rehearsed the battle of Waterloo again and again, and you know that when boys fight they are friends for life. Later on in my career, when I was inveigled into the legal profession, I had a great deal to do with the Scotchmen in the country of Megantic, and, later on, when I entered political life, I had a great deal to do with the same Scotchmen of Megantic, and with them I fought in the good cause of Liberalism and freedom. I am still more happy to say that to-day, in my native Province, even amongst those of my own blood and creed, I can count no warmer friends than my Scotch friends of the county of Megantic. (Cheers.) Mr. Laurier then plunged into a discussion of the political issues of the day, and by his powerful eloquence and logical arguments, he aroused his hearers to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

Hon. Mr. Gibson was cordially received. He paid a splendid tribute to Mr. Laurier and with such a leader, he said, the Liberal party of Canada was bound to succeed. For twenty long years the present Premier of Ontario had held the reins of power, and during that time nothing savoring of a scandal had been brought forward. For twenty long years the people of the Province had good, honest and capable government, and were they now ready to make a change?

A voice—Never.

Mr. Gibson said that with such a record as the Ontario Government, the people should continue to support the present Premier of the Province. While the public records at Ottawa showed that there had been irregularities to the extent of millions, the Province of Ontario had just completed a building costing over $1,000,000, upon which there was not a single 5 cents of extras. Mr. Gibson reminded the audience that he was engaged in the manufacture of binder twine, although he did not belong to the combine. He described the difficulties experienced by himself and Warden Massie in purchasing the necessary machinery for the inauguration of the new industry at the Central Prison, for both in New York and England the combines had such a hold on the machinery manufacturers that they refused to supply what was required at the prison. Finally they found a manufacturer in the United States who was not bound by the combine, and they procured the machinery. The Patrons of Industry had followed the example of the Government and established a binder twine factory at Brantford. The twine supplied by the prison was cheaper and better than that produced by the combines, and the farmers received it direct without the intervention of the middlemen. Mr. Gibson, in conclusion, referred to the fact that through the death of Mr. David Porter the constituency of North Bruce was now open, and he bespoke for his Government a continuance of the confidence that the electors of the riding had heretofore reposed in it.

Mr. William Paterson, M.P., the eloquent and able representative in the Commons of South Brant, made a powerful argument against the continuance of the protective system, and in favor of the policy of the Liberal party.

Mr. James Sutherland, M.P., delivered a rousing address in support of the policy which he and his party advocate, and which they believe to be the best suited to the present requirements of the country.

Cheers for the Queen and for the leader concluded the meeting.

LUCK, OR PLUCK?

"See here, Lou Ann," said the farmer, with more than a hint of impatience in his voice, "you know 'twon't do either of them any good to fall in love if they can't marry each other. An' what would Phil have to support his wife on? Would she come out here an' 'tend to all the housework of the farm, like you do, just for the sake of havin' Phil for a husband? Not unless she's a fool, even if Phil is our boy an' about as good as they make 'em. An' you know well enough that he couldn't afford to live in New York; he's got nothin' to do it on."

"Not now, but he might go in business there, and make enough to live in style. Other young fellows have done it!"

"Yes—in stories," said the old man. "Lou Ann, don't you kind o' think that for a church member of 30 years' standin' you're gettin' mighty worldly minded?"

"No, I don't," Mrs. Hayn answered. "If not to want my boy to drudge away his life like his father's done is bein' worldly, then I'm going to be a backslider and stay one. I don't think 'tweuld be a bit bad to have a married son down to York, so's his old mother could have some place to go once in a while when she's tired to death of work an' worry."

"Oho!" said the old man; "that's the point of it, eh? Well, I don't mind backslidin' enough to say the boy may marry one of Satan's daughters, if it'll make life any easier for you, old lady."

"Much obliged," the mother replied, "but I don't know as I care to be visitin' down there."

The conversation soon subsided, husband and wife dropping into revery from which they dropped into slumber. In one way or other, however, the subject came up again. Said Mrs. Hayn one day, just as her husband was leaving the dinner table for the field in which he was cutting and stacking corn:

"I do believe Phil's best coat is finer stuff than anything Mr. Tramlay wore when he was up here. I don't believe what he wore Sundays could hold a candle to Phil's."

"Like enough," said the farmer; "and yet the old man always looked better dressed. I think his clothes always made him look a little younger than Phil, too."

"Now, husband, you know it isn't fair to make fun of the dear boy's clothes in that way. You know well enough that the stuff for his coat was out from the same bolt of broadcloth as the minister's best."

"Yes," drawled the farmer through half a dozen inflections, any one of which would have driven frantic any woman but his own wife.

"It's real mean in you to say 'Yes' in that way, Reuben!"

"'Tisn't the wearer that makes the man, old lady; it's the tailor."

"I'm sure Sara Tweege cut an' made Phil's coat, an' if there's a better sewin' woman in this part of the county I'd like to know where you find her."

"Oh, Sara Tweege can sew, Lou Ann," the old man admitted. "Goodness! I wish she'd made my new harness, instead of whatever fellow did it. Mebbe, too, if she'd made the sacks for the last oats I bought I wouldn't have lost about half a bushel on the way home. Yesm', Sara Tweege can sew a bedquilt up as square as an honest man's conscience. But sewin' ain't tailorin'."

"Don't she always make the minister's clothes?" demanded Mrs. Hayn.

"I never thought of it, before, but of course she does. I don't believe anybody else could do it in that way. Yet the minister ain't got so bad a figure, when you see him workin' in his garden in his shirt sleeves."

"It's time for you to go back to the cornfield," suggested Mrs. Hayn.

"Yes, I reckon 'tis," said the farmer, guessing what might have been nap had not his old hat been of felt. "Tain't safe for an old farmer to be givin' his time an' thought to pomps an' vanities—like the minister's broadcloth coat."

"Get out!" exclaimed Mrs. Hayn, with a threatening gesture. The old man kissed her, laughed and began to obey her command; but as, like countrymen in general, he made his exit by the longest possible route, wandering through the sitting-room, the hall, the dining-room and the kitchen, his wife had time to waylay him at the door-step and remark:

"I was only goin' to say that if Phil does make that trip to York I don't see that he'll need to buy new clothes. He's never wore that Sunday coat on other days, except to two or three funerals an' parties. I was goin' it over this very mornin', an' it's about as good as new."

"I wonder how this family would have ever got along if I hadn't got such a caretakin' wife?" said the old man. "It's the best coat in the United States if you've been goin' it over."

Phil was already in the corn—he had left the table some minutes before his father—and as the old man approached Phil said:

"Father, don't you think that wind-break for the sheep needs patching this fall?"

"It generally does, my son, before cold weather sets in."

"I guess I'll get at it, then, as soon as we get the corn stacked."

"What's the hurry. The middle of November is early enough for that."

"Oh, when it's done it'll be off our minds."

"See here, old boy," said the father, dropping the old ship's cutlass with which he had been cutting the corn stalks, "you're doin' all your work a month ahead this fall. What are you goin' to do with all your time when there's no more work to be done?"

"I can't say, I'm sure," said Phil, piling an armful of stalks against a stack with more than ordinary care.

"Can't eh? Then I'll have to, I s'pose, seein' I'm your father. I guess I'll have to send you down to New York for a month, to look aroun' an' see somethin' of the world."

Phil turned so quickly that he ruined all his elaborate work of the moment before, almost burying his father under the toppling stack.

"That went to the spot, didn't it?" said the old man. "I mean the proposition—not the fodder," he continued, as he extricated himself from the mass of cornstalks.

"It's exactly what I've been wanting to do," said Phil, "but——"

"But you didn't like to say so, eh? Well, 'twasn't necessary to mention it; as I told you t'other day, I can see through the back of your head any time, old boy."

"Twouldn't cost much money," said Phil. "I could go down on Sol Mantring's sloop for nothing, sometime when he's shorthanded."

"Guess I can afford to pay my oldest son's travelin' expenses when I send him out to see the world. You'll go down to York by railroad, an' in the best car, too, if there's any difference."

"I won't have to buy clothes, anyhow," said the younger man.

"Yes, you will—lots of 'em. York ain't Haynton, old boy; an' as the Yorkers don't know enough to take their style from you, you'll have to take yours from them. I was there once, when I was 'long about your age. I didn't have to buy no more meetin' clothes after that until I got married—nigh on to ten years."

"If it's as expensive as that, I'm not going," said Phil, looking very solemn, and beginning to reconstruct the demolished stack.

"Yes, you are, sir. I'll have you understand you're not much over age yet, an' have got to mind your old father. Now, let that corn alone. If it won't stay down, sit on it—this way—see." And, suiting the action to the word, the old man sprawled at ease on the fallen fodder, dragged his son down after him and said:

"You shall have $100 to start with, and more afterward, if you need it, as I know you will. The thing to do when you reach the city will be to go into the best clothing store you can find, and buy a suit of clothes such as you see well-dressed men wearing to business. Keep your eyes open on men as sharply as if they were hosses and clothes were their only points, and then see that you get as good clothes as any of them. It don't matter so much about the stuff; but have your clothes fit you, an' cut like other people's."

"I don't want to put on city airs," said Phil.

"That's right—that's right; but city clothes and city airs aren't any more alike than country airs an' good manners. You may be the smartest, brightest young fellow that ever went to York—as of course you are, bein' my son—but folks at York'll never find it out if you don't dress properly—that means, dress as they do. I'll trade watches with you, to trade back after the trip; mine is gold you know. You'll have to buy a decent chain, though."

"I won't take your watch, father. I can't; that's all about it."

"Nonsense! of course you can if you try. It isn't good manners to wear silver watches in the city."

"But your watch——" Phil could get no further; for his father's gold watch was venerated by the family as if it were a Mayflower chair or the musket of a soldier of the Revolution. Once while old farmer Hayn was young Capt. Hayn, of the whaling ship Lou Ann, he saved the crew of a sinking British bark. Unlike modern ship captains (who do not own their vessels), he went in the boat with the rescuing party instead of merely sending it out, and he suffered so much through exposure, strain and the fear of the death that seemed impending that he abandoned the sea as soon thereafter as possible. Nevertheless he thought only of the work before him until he had rescued the imperiled crew and stowed them safely in his own ship.

The circumstances of the rescue were so unusual that they formed the subject of long columns in foreign newspapers; and in a few months Capt. Hayn received through the State Department at Washington a gold watch, with sundry complimentary papers from the British Admiralty. The young seaman never talked of either; his neighbors first learned of the presentation by conning their favorite weekly newspapers; nevertheless the papers were framed and hung in the young captain's bedchamber, and, however carelessly he dressed afterward, nobody ever saw him when he had not the watch in his pocket.

After Physicians and Medicines Failed!

A Grateful Parent's Testimony!

She Says: "My Daughter Is Now Perfectly Well and Strong!"

LITTLE MISS STINCHCOMBE.

It is a sad sight to see the young grow up weak, puny and sickly. Thousands of girls and boys around us are unable to enjoy life with their playmates. Parents should bear in mind that there is no reason why their children should suffer when such a medicine as Paine's Celery Compound cures and gives new life and true vitality. Mrs. A. R. Stinchcombe, 19 William street, London, Ont., who is highly vouched for by Rev. W. Godwin, Methodist minister of that city, gratefully speaks of the wonderful work of Paine's Celery Compound in her home. She writes as follows:

"I think it is a duty to write you for the benefit of all who have delicate children, and to make known what Paine's Celery Compound has done for my child. She has been delicate all her life. I have tried many medicines, and have had my child under allopathic and homœopathic treatment, with but little benefit. Almost in despair, and as a last resort, I tried Paine's Celery Compound, and after using three bottles she is now perfectly well and strong. I have also used your medicine myself for complications arising from overwork and loss of rest and am greatly benefitted thereby. I would strongly urge all who are in any way afflicted to do as I have done, 'try Paine's Celery Compound,' and be convinced of its wonderful curing powers."

MARRIED IN MID-AIR.

Nuptials in the Ferris Wheel at the World's Fair.

John H. Miller and Carrie E. Huetson United While the Huge Machine Revolves.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—John H. Miller and Miss Carrie E. Huetson were undoubtedly the happiest individuals at Jackson Park yesterday about 5 o'clock. Measured by feet and inches their happiness reached as high as the Ferris wheel, and but for the roof of the car in which they were seated their bliss might have made a bright hole in the lowering sky. John is 23 years old and a prosperous farmer in Vermilion county, this State. Carrie is the best looking girl in Long Point, Ill., besides being the daughter of the postmaster. They came to the fair yesterday, and with them came Carrie's father and mother and uncle and aunt, not to speak of a large basket filled with cold chicken, pickles and a cake. The cake was in three layers, very white and light, with plenty of frosting on its top. The party also included Rev. J. E. Storm, of Dewitt, Neb., who chanced to be staying at the same hotel where Miss Huetson and her folks registered.

There was but one attraction in Jackson Park for John and Carrie, and that was the Ferris wheel. Superintendent Rice was made acquainted with the fact that a special car was wanted by a large party, and when he received the additional information that it looked like a wedding party he made haste to be accommodating.

Five minutes later the big wheel was turning around with John and Carrie and the rest of the folks, and the reverend gentleman from Nebraska was reading aloud from a little book he fished from the tail pocket of his coat. Now and then he paused, when John and Carrie would smile and give an affirmative reply to his questions.

When the car had reached its highest point and the wheel had stopped, the preacher told the young people to join hands and then he pronounced them man and wife.

The wedding party then sat down in Superintendent Rice's office, the big basket was opened and chickens and pickles and cake disappeared as if by magic. This was the first marriage in Jackson Park.

The much-talked-of Brantford drill shed was opened Thursday with an exhibition and musical promenade under the auspices of the Horticultural Society.

The Brantford City Council proposes to ask the people to give a bonus of $15,000 towards purchasing a site for the proposed new Waterous engine works.

The Brantford Electric and Power Company have been awarded the contract for city public lighting for a series of five years.

The assessors' figures show the population of Brantford to be 15,407, against 15,230 a year ago and 15,451 two years ago. The personality has decreased $100,000 and the realty is about the same.

BRUCE.

The Presbytery of Maitland met at Wingham Sept. 19, Rev. G. McKay, moderator; Rev. J. McNabb, clerk. Elders' commissions were received. Mr. McLennan was appointed to supply Langside congregation, services to be held at 3 p.m. each Sabbath. Rev. A. McKay, of Lucknow, declined the call from Union Center and Lochaber in the Presbytery of Pictou, N. S. The Sabbath school fund was audited and found correctly kept. Applications in behalf of aid-receiving congregations were renewed. The amount required for the home mission fund for this Presbytery is $1,200, for augmentation fund, $500, and for the General Assembly fund, $160 for the year. Sessions were enjoined to arrange for holding missionary meetings in their respective congregations. New regulations regarding the order of business were distributed to members of the Presbytery. The next ordinary meeting will be held at Wingham on Nov. 21.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

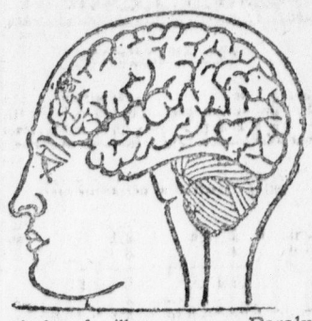

NERVINE TONIC

AND

STOMACH AND LIVER CURE

The Wonderful HEALTH BUILDER & NERVE FOOD

Chronic Diseases are caused by Deranged Nerve Centres at base of the Brain.

LATE discoveries have absolutely proven that the Stomach, Liver, Lungs, and indeed all internal organs, are controlled by the nerve centres at the base of the brain. The manufacturer of SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE has studied this subject closely for more than twenty-five years, and has lately demonstrated that two-thirds of our Chronic Diseases, are due to the imperfect action of nerve centres, either within or at the base of the brain and not from a derangement of the organs themselves; hence that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong.

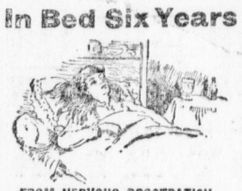

As all know, a serious injury to the spinal cord, will at once cause Paralysis of the body below the injured part, it therefore will be equally well understood, how the derangements of the nerve centres, will cause the derangement of the different organs of the body which they supply with Nerve Fluid or Nerve Force.

The wonderful success of SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE is due alone to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle. The use of a single bottle of this remedy will convince the most incredulous. It is indeed, a veritable Nerve Food and Will Relieve In One Day the varied forms of Nervous Disease and Stomach Troubles.

Nervous Diseases.

This class of diseases, is rapidly increasing each year, on account of the great wear our mode of living and labor imposes upon the nervous system. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent upon nervous exhaustion, impaired digestion, and a deteriorated and impoverished condition of the blood. The SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE is a great nerve food and nerve builder and this accounts for its marvellous power to cure the varied forms of nervous disease, such as Neuralgia, Nervousness, Nervous Prostration, St. Vitus's Dance, Nervous Choking, Nervous Paroxysms, Twitching of the Muscles, Hot Flashes, Mental Despondency, Forgetfulness, Sleeplessness, Restlessness, Nervousness of Females, Palpitation of the Heart, Sexual Weakness, etc., etc.,

In Bed Six Years

FROM NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

HARTFORD CITY, Blackford Co., Indiana, June 8, '93.
South American Medicine Company.

GENTLEMEN: I received a letter from you May 27, stating that you had heard of my wonderful recovery from a spell of sickness of six years duration, through the use of SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE, and asking for my testimonial. I will gladly state how I was afflicted and how I was delivered from my pain and suffering. I was near thirty-five years old, when I took down with nervous prostration. Our family physician treated me, but without benefiting me in the least. My nervous system seemed to be entirely shattered, and I constantly had very severe shaking spells. In addition to this I would have vomiting spells, and there would be from eighteen to twenty days at a time that I could not retain anything on my stomach. Many consultations were held by physicians over my case, but they all agreed that I would never leave my bed. During the years I lay sick, my folks had an eminent physician from Dayton, Ohio, and two from Columbus, Ohio, to come and examine me. They all said I could not live. I got to having spells like spasms, and would lie cold and stiff for a time after each. At last I lost the use of my body—could not rise from my bed or walk a step, and had to be lifted like a child; all the time suffering intense pain, and taking almost every known medicine. Part of the time I could read a little, and one day saw an advertisement of your medicine and concluded to try one bottle. By the time I had taken one and one-half bottles I could rise up and take a step or two by being helped, and after I had taken five bottles in all I felt real well. The shaking went away gradually, and I could eat and sleep good, and my friends could scarcely believe it was I. I am sure this medicine is the best in the world. It was a god-s nd to me, and I believe it saved my life. I give my name and address, so that if anyone doubts my statement they can write me, or our postmaster or any citizen, as all are acquainted with my case. I am now forty-one years of age, and expect to live as long as the Lord has use for me and do all the good I can in helping the suffering.

MISS ELLEN STOLTZ.

Will a remedy which can effect such a marvellous cure as the above, cure you?

A MINISTER OF THE GOSPEL SPEAKS.

PETERBORO, Ontario, June 27, 1893.
To the Proprietor of South American Nervine.

DEAR SIR,—I have much pleasure in recommending the great SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE to all who are afflicted as I have been, with nervous prostration and indigestion. I found very great relief from the very first bottle, which was strongly recommended to me by my druggist. I also induced my wife to use it, who, I must say, was completely run down and was suffering very much from general debility. She found great relief from SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE, and also cheerfully recommends it to her fellow sufferers.

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Indiana.

My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Chorea or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk; I had to handle her like an infant. Doctors and neighbors gave her up. I commenced giving her the SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE TONIC, and the effects were very surprising. In three days she was rid of the nervousness, and rapidly improved. Four bottles cured her completely. I think the SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE the grandest remedy ever discovered, and would recommend it to everyone. MRS. W. T. ENSMINGER.

A WONDERFUL CURE FOR

INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA.

Loss of Appetite, Weight and Tenderness in the Stomach, Sour Stomach, Pain in the Stomach, Wind upon the Stomach, Nausea and Sick Stomach, Sick-Headache, Hiccough, Water-Brash, Heartburn, Vertigo and Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Frightful Dreams, etc.

The Stomach suffers more than any of the other organs from disease, because into it are taken so many indigestible and irritating substances as articles of food. In its great effort to digest these, it soon becomes weakened and diseased. Under such circumstances, it is not wonderful, that so many complain of Indigestion and weak stomachs. When the Stomach fails to digest and assimilate the food, the whole body falls into a state of weakness and decay, for Nature has decreed that the body must constantly receive nutriment through the Stomach, to repair the waste of tissue constantly going on in the system.

The South American Nervine

Is probably the greatest remedy ever discovered for the cure of all Chronic Stomach troubles, because it acts through the nerve centres. It gives marked relief in one day, and very soon effects a permanent cure. The first bottle will convince anyone that a cure is certain.

WHAT EX-MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT, REUBEN E. TRUAX, SAYS.

I have been for about ten years very much troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia, have tried a great many different kinds of patent medicines, and have been treated by a number of physicians and found no benefit from them. I was recommended to try SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE. I obtained a bottle, and I must say I have found very great relief, and have since taken two more bottles, and now feel that I am entirely free from Indigestion, and would strongly recommend all my fellow sufferers from the disease, to give SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE an immediate trial

It will cure you.

That Shooting Scrape.

The shooting scrape mentioned in last night's ADVERTISER, occurred just outside the city limits and not at the Barnes residence on Rectory street, as stated. The ADVERTISER informant was probably misled from the fact that the young fellows "Trusty" Warwick, John Packham and Frank Lyons, were taking Mr. Robt. Barnes to his home beyond the Asylum, when they were set upon by a gang of men when outside the limits and it was in the ensuing fight that the shooting was done. The men came back to town where their injuries were dressed by Dr. Jarvis. The bullet wound of Warwick's, although not dangerous, was painful, as the shot passed clear through the shoulder. No arrests have yet been made in connection with the affair.

The Wabash Horror.

Among the passengers on the Wabash express that was wrecked at Kingsbury, Indiana, on Friday morning, were the members of the company of orphan bell ringers who recently gave two performances in Victoria Hall. Of these, Harry French, 13 years old, was killed, and Wm. Adams and W. J. Hoskins, both 14 years old, seriously injured. All of the boys hailed from, London, England. Rev. J. B. Wokely, of London, England, is among the injured. He preached to a large congregation in the Queen's Avenue Church here on Sept. 10. He also delivered an address to men only, in Victoria Hall, during his stay in this city. Mr. Wokely is a celebrated social reformer and coworker with W. T. Stead and Hugh Price Hughes.

A Pleasant Surprise.

The other evening Mr. W. Richards, the energetic secretary of Pride of the East Circle, No. 55, A. O. F., returned home about 9 o'clock, and on entering found the house had been taken possession of by about 50 members of the circle, who had evidently come to stay, as they were well provided with eatables. The mission of the invaders was soon explained, however, when one of them stepped forward and read a kindly-worded address, expressing their high appreciation of Mr. Richards' services as secretary—a position which he has filled since the circle was instituted some five years ago. The address was accompanied by a handsome sideboard and was signed by Comps. M. J. May and C. E. Brown. So great was the surprise that it was some time before Mr. Richards could make a reply. He thanked the Companions for the kindness shown, and hoped that they would continue to work together harmoniously in future as they had done in the past. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and music, Miss Richards acting as accompanist. Pride of the East Circle is in a flourishing condition, and has 87 members with a bank account of $300.

A Bothwell Event.

The elite of Bothwell were interested in a notable event on Wednesday last, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Nellie Dillon, youngest daughter of ex-Mayor Dillon, of that town, to Mr. W. J. Scully, of Windsor. The bride was handsomely attired in ivory-colored silk, trimmed with the customary orange blossoms and carrying a large bouquet of superb white roses. She also wore a pair of handsome diamond earrings and necklace, a gift from the groom. Miss Sadie Murphy and Miss Minnie Coles, of London, and Miss Regan, of Bothwell, were the bridesmaids and were becomingly dressed in surah silk and carried bouquets of cream roses and maiden-hair fern. The ushers were Mayor W. J. Hickey and Mr. Puddicombe, of Bothwell. The number of presents received testify to the popularity of the bride, some being sent from New York, Chicago, Montreal, Toronto and this city, where she was well known and highly esteemed. After partaking of a wedding breakfast at Mr. Dillon's residence the happy couple left for a honeymoon trip through the principal eastern cities amid showers of rice and old shoes, while the guests kept up the festivities until the early morning hours.

DEAD IN HIS CARRIAGE!

Sudden Demise of Rev. C. W. Ball, B.D., at Port Burwell.

PORT BURWELL, Ont., Sept. 22.—The Rev. Clarence W. Ball, B.D., rector of Trinity Church, of this place, suddenly died last night of apoplexy. He was found about midnight in his carriage in front of his residence unconscious and only lived a few minutes.

Heart failure is supposed to be the cause of death. His remains will be taken to Toronto Saturday for interment.

Dr. Ball was 45 years of age. He graduated at Trinity College, Toronto, taking the degree of M. A. He took his divinity course at Wycliffe College, and was ordained by Bishop Sweatman. He had intended devoting his life to the profession of law, and was a law student when Rev. Dr. Rainsford, of New York, was curate of St. James, Toronto. Owing to the influence of Rev. Mr. Rainsford, the deceased decided to abandon the law and enter the ministry. Some years ago he was rector of the parish of Glanworth, Lambeth and Byron, being transferred to Port Burwell and Vienna about five years ago. He leaves a wife (nee Miss Shore, of Glanworth) and one child.

At one time Mr. Ball was rector of Beaverton and Thorndale. He was ordained a priest in 1880.

Mr. Ball had only returned from the World's Fair a day or two ago.

Mr. James Armstrong, of London, says Duncombe's Dark Pills have cured him of Dyspepsia. Good for them.

"Williams' Royal Crown Remedy Saved John Weir's Life"
May be seen in large letters on the covers of the horses that precede the handsome Royal Crown Remedy wagon. Mr. Weir said: "This is a most marvelous cure. I became pale as a corpse; my blood seemed to be turned to water. I had dizziness and a ringing noise in my head; my hands and feet were cold all the time, and my limbs were completely swollen up to the body. Some doctors called it consumption of the blood. I got so weak that I could not walk, and finally took to my bed." Mrs. Weir says: "All Mr. Weir has told you is true. At times he lay for days unconscious and unable to take nourishment of any kind, and was reduced to a mere skeleton of 84 pounds; and I fully believe if we had been one day later in getting Williams Royal Crown Remedy he would be in his grave to-day. So it may well be said 'Williams' Royal Crown Remedy saved John Weir's life.'" The best druggists keep "Royal Crown Remedy"; but if your druggist does not, remit direct to Isaac Williams Company, London, and they will send it to you by first express. The price at which "Williams' Royal Crown Remedy" is sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with any other medical treatment. Six bottles for $5. Clip this out and keep it.

Echoes and Etchings

DOUBTFUL.

At the Dusseldorf exhibition a few years ago a gentleman showed a postal card upon which the whole of the first three books of the Odyssey were written, the remaining space being filled with the transcript of a long debate which had taken place in the German parliament a short time before. The whole card contained 53,000 words.

THE HORSE'S HAT.

The horse's hat, which last year a humane horse owner in Bordeaux provided for his horses, is now becoming a great article of trade in France. It is made of straw and covers the eyes and forehead of the horse, while openings are left for the ears. A sponge is kept in the inside of the hat and this is moistened from time to time with vinegar, so as to keep the horse's head refreshiugly cool.

THE MOSQUITO IN LONDON.

It will be new to many readers that the mosquito is now firmly established in London. It is to be found in certain large hotels which are the resort of visitors coming from the continent, and the supply seems to be maintained by constant importations from abroad. Visitors who are familiar with the noise and bite of the mosquito assert that it is the true pest in its worst form, and there is no reason for doubting their experiences.

VIRTUE OF STONES.

The sapphire produces somnambulism and impels the wearer to do all good works. Cat's-eyes is considered by the Cingalese as a charm against witchcraft. Moonstone has the virtue of making trees fruitful and of curing epilepsy. The emerald promotes friendship and constancy of mind. Crystal induces visions, promotes sleep and insures good dreams. The Burmese believe that the ruby ripens like fruit. The agate quenches thirst, and, if held in the mouth, allays fever. Coral is considered a talisman against enchantment, thunder, witchcraft and the perils of flood and field.

BOGUS "SPARKLERS."

The material in which imitation diamonds are produced is called strass, from the name of its inventor, a German jeweler who flourished at the beginning of the present century. It is perfectly colorless and transparent glass, or rather crystal, of irreproachable purity, composed of rock crystal, or of white sand, mixed with oxide of lead, arsenical acid and other ingredients. Its preparation demands infinite care and a multitude of precautions, to avoid the possibility of the slightest flaw or bubble being introduced into the mass, from which are then cut the false gems in the proportions desired. Small or medium sized diamonds produce a much better effect than do large ones.

A QUEER CUSTOM.

In some parts of England a queer custom is still in vogue, which is repeated whenever a death occurs. It is called the "bite of sin," and whenever some one in a house dies a piece of bread is laid on the corpse, which some stroller-by is persuaded to eat for a good sum of money. In this way it is believed that the sins of the dead are transferred to the living, who in turn can shove them off together with his own by a similar ceremony when his life comes to an end. On the Sandwich Islands the widows have the names of their departed husbands tattoed on their tongues, but it is not known how often they turn over the sweet morsel of wifely devotion when they marry again.

SILK HATS.

There are always two kinds of silk hats, each of the best quality, on sale in London. One is the strictly fashionable model, "the latest," or whatever one may choose to call it, which is retailed in the West End at from 1 guinea ($5) to 25 shillings ($6). The other is the style which immediately preceded it, and has "gone out," although the quality is unchanged. This is usually called the "city" hat, and costs $4 (16 shillings). The distinction is a very peculiar one. Employes of large London commercial houses are not expected to be up to the hilt in fashion, and if they are it is sure to be resented by their employers. A London city magnate would not be seen wearing the same shape hat as one of his book-keepers, and so the great army of salary-drawers keep just a shade behind the bond-holding community.

GIANT FROGS.

The labyrinthodon, a huge creature resembling a toad or a frog, and which lived in the earlier periods of our planet's history, has recently been found in a surprising state of preservation in the marl beds of Huezelweitz, Hungary. All species of this gigantic frog are now extinct, and are known to the naturalists only through the investigations of the geologists, who have often found parts or entire fossils of the monster in strata of the triassic portion of the mesozic period. The specimen unearthed in the Hungarian marl bed is entire, with the exception of the left forearm and the lower jaw. The skull measures eighteen inches between the eye-sockets, and weighs, exclusive of the missing underjaw, 312 pounds. The bones which have been discovered up to date, and there is still hopes of finding the missing parts, with the adhering matrix, weigh 1,860 pounds—almost a ton.

"Shekel" has been adopted into modern slang and is used to mean money, hire, payment in any sort of currency or coin, but the old Jewish shekel is really a religious token. On one side it bears the pot of manna, on the other Aaron's rod, budding. The inscriptions are "Shekel of Israel" and "Jerusalem the Holy." It was first coined about 150 years before birth of Christ, and was worth in silver about 62½ cents. Before the Jewish shekel the Babylonians had a coin of that name. Shekel was also a weight, and it is recorded that when Absalom had his hair cut, once a year, it weighed 200 shekels, about 5 pounds. Some of these coins are still preserved; those believed to be genuine have the characters in Samaritan. The coins bearing the square Hebrew characters, it has been decided, are forgeries. The shekel of gold was worth $5 69, and in copper only 3 cents.

THOSE WHO HAVE LIVED.

According to a recent writer it is impossible to give any close figures on the number of persons who have lived on this earth. It is generally considered that one person in every thirteen dies each year At this rate the population would be renewed every thirteen years. Assuming that the population of the world is 1,000,000,000, and that it has been 1,000,000,000 at any time during the last 6,000 years, we find that the population has been renewed about 461 times; that is, that 462,000,000,000 have lived on this earth since the creation. This, of course, is vastly in excess to the real number, for the world, so far as we can tell, is more thickly populated now than ever before. Probably if we were to cut those figures in two we should still be above the actual number, with a total of 231,000,000,000 persons. There are no figures on which to base an estimate of the population of the world in Christ's time. The census taken up when he was brought up to Jerusalem has not come down to us; if it had, it would have been of great historical and sociological value.—[Goldthwaite's Geographical Magazine.

WITH THE POETS.

GLAD OR SAD.

The threads our hands in blindness spin
No self-determined plan weaves in;
The shuttle of the unseen powers
Works out a pattern not as ours.

Ah! small the choice of him who sings
What sounds shall leave the smitten strings;
Fate holds and guides the hand of art;
The singer's is the servant's part.

The wind-harp chooses not the tone
That through its trembling threads is blown;
The patient organ cannot guess
What hand its passive keys shall press.

Through wish, resolve, and act, our will
Is moved by undreamed forces still:
And no man measures in advance
His strength with untried circumstance.

As streams take hue from shade and sun,
As runs the life the song must run;
But, glad or sad, to His good end
God grant the varying notes may tend!
—Whittier.

THE REPORTER'S DREAM.

I will have a span of pacers, fastest sort of lightning chasers, reg'lar get-there sorrel racers,
When my ship comes in.

I will have a costly dwelling, servants flying at my yelling, pictures hanging, music swelling,
When my ship comes in.

I will dress my wife so finely that she'll shine in crowds divinely, and the gods will smile benignly,
When my ship comes in.

I will seek the weeping pauper, and apply a golden stopper to his grief tank, as is proper,
When my ship comes in.

I'll harangue the voter stately, and I'll go to Congress gayly: there my voice will thunder daily,
When my ship comes in.

Come, my vessel, o'er the ocean! Sadness is my daily portion, sorrow is my one emotion
Till my ship comes in.

I must sling my creaking Fabers, I must not forego my labors, living largely on my neigbors,
Till my ship comes in.
—Washington News.

A FAREWELL.

Reported by the Moon.

"Good-night, sweetheart!" said Strephon,
As the clock struck half-past nine,
"Good-night, my love!" quoth Phyllis,
With a kiss I wished were mine.

A kiss of lingering sweetness,
Such as rarely comes to men,
A kiss that was not over
When the clock was striking ten.

"Good-night, sweetheart!" quoth Strephon,
As the hands showed quarter past.
"Good-night, dear boy!" said Phyllis.
With a kiss just like the last:

A kiss of obliging softness,
Such as kings might quarrel o'er;
A kiss that was not over
At eleven thirty-four.

Then each the words repeated,
With the usual refrain,
And when at one 'twas finished
They observed good-night again.

And then I had to leave them,
For my time had come to set:
When next I gazed down on them
They were saying good-night yet.

I think I see why poets
Speak of sorrow in love's spell;
Its ecstasy seems mingled
With perpetual farewell.
—[Life.

PREFERENCES.

I'd rather drink cold water from the brook
Than quaff excitement from a golden chalice.
I'd rather sleep on straw in the shepherd's hut
Than lie awake and restless in a palace.

I'd rather earn dry bread in lusty health,
And eat it with a sense of wholesome pleasure,
Than feed without the zest of appetite
Off gorgeous plate mid unavailing treasure.

I'd rather have one true, unfailing friend
Than fifty parasites to crave my bounty;
And one poor lass who loved me for myself
Than one without a heart who owned a county.

Nature is kind if our desires are pure,
And strews rich blessings everywhere around us;
While Fortune, if we pant in her pursuit,
Too often grants her favors to confound us.

Fresh air and sunshine, flowers and health and love—
These are endowments if we learn to prize them:
The wise man's treasures, better worth than gold,
And none but fools and wicked men despise them.
—Chambers' Journal.

MY LITTLE LOVE.

My little love came to me down the stair,
I heard her sweet voice calling,
"Are you there?"
I caught the sun-gleam of her golden hair,
I watched her wee feet falter, pink and bare,
Toward me.

I felt the clinging of her lips' sweet kiss,
The soft caresses that so many miss;
Why should I rapture such as this,
Such tasting of her springtime bliss,
Reward me?

My little love is fair as a lily,
Her eyes are azure depths, and dusk and stilly,
Her smiles as bright as Spring's dear daffodilly;
And rose or asphodel could rival lily
Her heart of gold.

Oh, Time, be gentle with the little feet,
Lead them by paths where violets blossom sweet:
Grant where she goes the angels then may greet
My five-year-old.

WITH THE FAIR SEX.

A COMING QUEEN.

Lady Henry Somerset wrote thus in the Woman's Herald about Princess May: "She listens with interest to the great realities of life, the stories of want and sorrow, and her straightforward grasp of the needs of the people, her appreciation of the necessities for different lines of work and different methods, and her unconventionality are striking. Speaking of Princess May her mother one day said 'If ever I forget an engagement I have made for some good work, May always reminds me. She will give up any amusement if she thinks I ought to go to a place where we may help others."

WHY A WIFE CHANGES HER NAME.

It is said that the practice of the wife assuming the husband's name at marriage originated from a Roman custom and became the common custom after the Roman occupation. Thus Julia and Octavia, married to Pompey and Cicero, were called by the Romans Julia of Pompey and Octavia of Cicero, and in later times married women in most European countries signed their names in the same manner, but omitted the "of." Against this view may be mentioned that during the sixteenth and even the beginning of the seventeenth century the usage seems doubtful, since we find Catherine Parr so signing herself after she had been twice married, and we always hear of Lady Jane Grey (not Dudley) and Arabella Stuart (not Seymour). Some persons think that the custom originated from the scriptural teaching that husband and wife are one. It was decided in the case of Bon vs. Smith, in the reign of Elizabeth, that a woman by marriage loses her former name and legally receives the name of her husband.—[Philadelphia Times.

CAN A WOMAN REFORM A MAN?

A most interesting series of prize letters appeared last week dealing with the great question, "Can a woman reform a man?" or, in other words, the reverse of the still greater social problem enunciated in "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," and touched upon slightly in "The Heavenly Twins." Nearly all the writers seemed to consider the question only from the view of reformation by marriage, whereas a far nobler and heroic case could be put for the woman who, though by her love and tenderness she brought a man back to his manhood, yet still made him feel that the dark past must leave its forbidding shadow at the portal of matrimonial happiness. The general opinion seems to be that a woman can reform a man, although in most cases she ought not to try to do so. One writer, however, very powerfully says: "She is entering upon the most sacred relation of life without any sanctity in the bond; she is violating the divine ideal of marriage, and has no warrant for expecting God's help or blessing." No one answer can be given, but I think the truth is that if a man, i. e., a certain man, is to be reformed, it will be by a woman's tenderness and loving self-sacrifice, and gradually the dust will be blown from his eyes, and he will come nearer the appreciation of God's most perfect gift—a noble woman.—[Ladies' Pictorial.

SOCIAL PROGRESS.

A SILLY EXCUSE.

A young inebriate excused himself to a young white-ribboner by saying: "My heredity is against me," whereupon she made him this well-instructed answer: "If you had lived up to your best heredity instead of down to your worst, you might have been a man of whom all your friends would have been proud."

COMPENSATION.

Canon Wilberforce says regarding compensation to the liquor dealers for their vested interests: "I would as soon admit vested interests in small-pox. I would as soon compensate a cancer." Concerning the position of the Conservative party of England on the temperance question, he declared it reminded him of the Irishman who said of his wife, "When I took her she had not a rag to her back, and now she is covered with them."

NO HELP IN THE BOTTLE.

Professor Ely, of Johns Hopkins University, in his book, "The Labor Movement in America," after giving several instances of the good effected by labor organizations in this regard, adds: "When I consider all these circumstances, the temperance of the masses in America is a marvel to me." In a letter to working men he writes: "There is no atom of help to you nor to any in drink, the poor man's curse so often and so often the rich man's shame. Every effort to promote temperance among you should receive the warmest encouragement."

PRAY, BUT VOTE ALSO.

"It is a good thing," says Miss Willard, "for the voter to make his protest against the liquor traffic in the prayer meeting or by his manner of life. But if he would really tell the Government, as well as the Lord and people, that he wants the saloon closed, there is but one method by which he can be recognized, but just one law under which his opinion can declare itself and his conviction make itself felt, and that law and method are fulfilled when he drops into the box a ballot that calls for prohibition."

THOSE WHO GO HUNGRY.

The Wine and Spirit Gazette says: It is all very well to figure out the loss of grain destroyed to make liquor, but it wants to know "what would have been done with the surplus grain and fruit if it had not been 'wasted' in liquor, as everybody had all the bread they wanted to eat." The very day this statement was published the telegraphic dispatches said: "Eight thousand hungry persons were fed by charitable people in New York on Tuesday. One woman starved to death." It is an untruth that everybody has bread, and those who are without bread are largely those whose bread-winners spend their time and money on drink. But if everybody had plenty of bread in this land the grain would go to feed the people of other lands and bring back real wealth in return. —[The Templar.

A WORD TO BOYS.

If we are to have drunkards in the future, some of them are to come from the boys of whom I am now writing, and I ask you if you want to become one of them? No, of course you don't! Well, I have a plan that is just as sure to save you from such a fate as the sun is to rise to-morrow. It never failed, it never will fail, and it is worth knowing. Never touch liquor in any form. I know you don't drink now, and it seems to you as if you never would. But your temptation will come, and it will probably come in this way: You will find yourself some time with a number of companions and they will have a bottle of wine on the table. They will drink and offer it to you. They will regard it as a manly practice, and very likely they will look upon you as a milksop if you don't indulge with them. Then what will you do? Will you say, "No, no! none of that stuff for me!" or will you take the glass, with your common sense protesting and your conscience making the whole draught bitter, and then go off with a hot head and skulking soul that at once begins to make apologies for itself, and will keep doing so all its life?

A GOOD OMEN.

"Who Killed Cock-Robin," is the title of a new version of this old fable, written by the Hon. R. D. Gilmer, of Waynesville, N. C., who championed the Scientific Temperance Instruction Bill in the North Carolina Legislature of 1891. He has given a most human-like scene of the trial of the sparrow, before "Judge Daw, versed in the law," and "a grand jury indeed" of twelve crows. This juvenile book is amply and fittingly illustrated, the most amusing illustrations being, perhaps, when the sparrow is led to court, "In chains by Sheriff Quail," and

. . . . "the widow Robin,
In her long veil a-sobbin'."

The allegory represents a wedding ball where the party

"Quite freely drank of currant wine."

The trial is such a mimic of a court-room scene as to amuse the reader, and I should think every Loyal Temperance Legion boy and girl in the United States would rejoice with the birds at the acquittal of the Sparrow since it was King Alcohol who killed Cock-Robin. It is a good omen when our legislators turn to writing temperance books for the children.—[N. Y. Union Signal.

A wonderful new combination is R. Stark's Headache, Neuralgia and Liver Powders; nice to take and perfectly harmless. Mrs. Mary Keats, 88 Main street, Hamilton, says: "For years—in fact all my life—I have been troubled with severe headaches. I have tried all the remedies I could hear of, and have been treated by many doctors, but with very little good results. A friend recommended your Headache, Neuralgia and Liver Powders some time ago, and I have found them to be the greatest blessing to me—in fact, I can truly say they are perfectly wonderful. I would not be without them for more than I can tell." Mr. Flock, station master, Grand Trunk Railway, Hamilton, says: "They cured my most severe headaches, which I had for at least three years." Price, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Lord Lorne has been introducing American turkeys, Canadian geese and cow-bells into the Iveraray estate.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellegg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for dysentery, diarrhœa, cholera and all summer complaints, sea sickness, etc. It promptly gives relief and never fails to effect a positive cure. Mothers should never be without a bottle when their children are teething.

Women are employed at railway switches and crossings in Italy because they keep sober.

Relief in Six Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by J. Callard and all druggists.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON XIII, THIRD QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, SEPT. 24.

A Comprehensive Review of the Lessons of the Third Quarter—Golden Text, Rom. x, 17—Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

LESSON I.—Paul Called to Europe (Acts xvi, 6-15). Golden Text (Math. xxviii, 19), "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." This quarter's studies might be summed up in the phrase, "God glorified in Paul" (Gal. i, 24), for wherever he went and whatever he did his ambition was that Christ should be magnified in his body (Phil. i, 20). This particular lesson illustrates the words, "Led by the spirit of God," "Do as occasion serve thee, for God is with thee," "My word shall not return unto me void" (Rom. viii, 14; I Sam. x, 7; Isa. lv, 11).

LESSON II.—Paul at Philippi (Acts xvi, 19-34). Golden Text (Acts xvi, 31), "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." As we follow Paul from place to place, let us remember his words, "Not I, but Christ." "The life of Jesus manifest in our mortal flesh" (Gal. ii, 20; II Cor. iv, 11). He has grace to praise God, even though his back is scourged, his feet in the stocks and he cast into prison. He takes pleasure in reproaches and persecutions (II Cor. xii, 10) for Christ's sake. He has no influence with the magistrates, but he has power with God, and a household finds Christ.

LESSON III.—Paul at Athens (Acts xvii, 22-31). Golden Text (John iv, 24), "God is a Spirit, and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." Journeying through the centers of earth's wisdom and culture and seeing the blindness of people to the realities of time and eternity, he is constrained to tell them of the true God, who is not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance (II Pet. iii, 9), and of Him who is to be the judge of all, even He who was delivered for our offenses and rose again for our justification (Rom. iv, 23-25).

LESSON IV.—Paul at Corinth (Acts xviii, 1-11). Golden Text (I Cor. i, 18), "The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness, but unto us which are saved it is the power of God." See the hand of the Lord in bringing Aquila and Priscilla to Corinth about this time. Thus Paul is provided with a home and employment so that he may freely preach the gospel, and they become qualified to teach others of Christ (verse 26). Note the Lord's care of his servant and His kind words to him in verses 9, 10. Make much of the promise "I am with thee," and compare Ex. iii, 12; iv, 12; Josh. i, 5, 9; Judg. vi, 16; Jer. i, 8, 19; Hag. i, 13; ii, 4; Math. xxviii, 20.

LESSON V.—Paul at Ephesus (Acts xix, 1-12). Golden Text (John xvi, 13), "When He, the Spirit of Truth, is come, He will guide you into all truth." Now we have two years at Ephesus resulting in all in the province of Asia hearing the gospel (verse 10) and so left without excuse. It seems to me that the Lord would be glorified and His coming greatly hastened if the church would neglect some other things and arise to give every soul on earth a chance to hear the gospel once at least.

LESSON VI.—Paul at Miletus (Acts xxviii; 22-35). Golden Text (Heb. xiii, 7), "Remember them which have the rule over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God." He is now on his way to Jerusalem, returning from his third missionary tour. He knows that more suffering awaits him, but he gives that no thought. He only desires to testify of Christ and finish his ministry (verse 24).

LESSON VII.—Paul at Jerusalem (Acts xxi, 27-39). Golden Text (Phil. i, 29), "For unto you it is given in the behalf of Christ not only to believe on Him, but also to suffer for His sake." Paul has now fallen into the hands of religious zealots who knew not the Lord Jesus, and gladly would they kill him as they did his Master, but Paul is safe till his work is done, though he may be called upon to endure much suffering.

LESSON VIII.—Paul Before Felix (Acts xxiv, 10-25). Golden Text (I Cor. xvi, 13), "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong." Paul is now a prisoner at Cæsarea, in the hands of the Romans, and this lesson is his testimony before the governor, Felix, and in answer to his accusers, the high priest and elders from Jerusalem. He confesses to his firm faith in all the things written in the law and in the prophets, in the resurrection of the dead and in the necessity of having a conscience void of offense toward God and man. Later in the lesson he preaches Christ before Felix and Drusilla, and reasons of righteousness, temperance and judgment to come.

LESSON IX.—Paul Before Agrippa (Acts xxvi, 19-32). Golden Text (I Cor. i, 24), "Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God." After two years Paul is still a prisoner at Cæsarea (chapter xxiv, 27), and having appealed unto Cæsar, Festus, the new governor, desires him to testify before King Agrippa, that he may have some definite accusation to send with him to Cæsar.

LESSON X.—Paul Shipwrecked (Acts xxvii, 30-44). Golden Text (Ps. xlvi, 1), "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." The close of last lesson made us feel sorry that Paul ever appealed to Cæsar, but God's ways are higher than ours, and we learn in verse 24 of this chapter that it was God's purpose to bring Paul before Cæsar. Nothing can frustrate God's purposes (Ps. xxxiii, 11; Isa. xiv, 24), while man's vain imaginings will always come to naught. Satan had many times sought to kill Paul, and this storm is probably another attempt of his, but the Lord delivers, and satan is confounded. What Jesus said concerning His church is true also of every member of it (Math. xvi, 18; John x, 28).

LESSON XI.—Paul at Rome (Acts xxviii, 20-31). Golden Text (Rom. i, 16), "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ." The purpose of God has thus far been accomplished, and Paul is at last in Rome, still a prisoner, it is true, but free to receive all who come to him and to preach to them the kingdom of God and the things concerning the Lord Jesus Christ (verses 30, 31). This is almost the last we hear of Paul, and we find him still expounding Scripture, and from Moses and the prophets preaching Jesus (verse 23). May the last heard of us be on the same line.

LESSON XII.—Personal Responsibility (Rom. xiv, 12-23). (A Temperance lesson.) Golden Text (Rom. xiv, 21), "It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth." I would emphasize in this lesson just the thought of the whole quarter that these bodies of ours are for Christ, not for ourselves; that as "even Christ pleased not Himself" (Rom. xv, 3), so we are to live, not unto ourselves, but unto Him who died for us and rose again (II Cor. v, 15), the kingdom of God and His righteousness being always first with us (verse 17 and Math. vi, 33) and everything tested by "How will it appear" at the judgment seat of Christ (verse 10; II Cor. v, 10)?

A LAKEPORT MIRACLE.

An Experience Few Could Pass Through and Survive.

Broken Down by Congestion of the Lungs and La Grippe—Weary Months of Sleepless Suffering—A Narrow Escape.

From the Colborne Enterprise.

The village of Lakeport in the county of Northumberland is beautifully situated on the shore of Lake Ontario, two and a half miles from the town of Colborne. The location of the village is picturesque and healthy, and as a rule the inhabitants of Lakeport are a vigorous people, with very little troubled sickness. But there are exceptions, and even in this healthy locality occasional cases of suffering and long months of weary sickness are found. Among those thus unfortunate was Mrs. Milo Haight, who for nearly two years was a great sufferer, sickness having made such inroads in her constitution that she was almost a complete wreck physically. Although a young woman her system had run down until life had become almost a burden. She had consulted physicians and tried many remedies, but no relief was found. Her attention was finally directed to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and having read of the many wonderful cures accomplished through the use of this great life-saving remedy, was induced to give them a trial. The result exceeded her fondest expectations, and before long she was restored to her former health and strength. Having heard of this case the Enterprise reporter called on Mrs. Haight, and inquired into the facts, which are given almost verbatim in the following statement: "I was ill for about twelve weeks in the latter part of 1891, while at home with my father in Trenton. I came to Lakeport, but was here only a few weeks when I was taken with inflammation of the bowels. After I sufficiently recovered I returned to Trenton. I had not been at home long when I was attacked with la grippe, which nearly brought me to death's door. A physician was called who said my system was badly run down. This was in February, 1892, and I was under his care for some twelve weeks before I was able to get out of doors. When I was taken down congestion of the lungs and spine set in and then the trouble went to my throat, and lastly to my ear, causing an abscess which gathered and broke three times, leaving me quite deaf. I suffered the most excruciating pains, sleep left me and I could not rest. I suffered continually with cold chills and cold hands and feet and severe headaches. The doctor gave me no hope of recovery. As soon as I was able I returned to Lakeport, but did not improve in health and I felt that death would be a relief. In June, 1892, I began using Dr. William's Pink Pills and had not been taking them long when the chills left me, my appetite improved, and sleep returned, something I had not enjoyed for long weary months. After using the Pink Pills for some weeks I began to feel as though I could stand almost anything. In the month of June, 1892, I weighed 114 pounds, and in April, 1893, I weighed 151 pounds, my greatest weight. I took the Pink Pills for about four months, but I now resort to them for any trouble, even a slight headache. I truly believe that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold, and I owe my health and strength, if not my life to them. My eyes were weak at the time I was sick, but I have had no such experience since I began the use of Pink Pills. I take great pleasure in thus making known my case, hoping that some fellow-creature may be benefited thereby. I allow no opportunity to pass without speaking well of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I know of several persons who began their use on my recommendation and were greatly benefited by them. My father, who is some 70 years of age, is receiving great help from their use. I can truthfully say I cannot speak too highly of Pink Pills, and I would not be without them in the house under any circumstances.

Mrs. Haight's husband is also taking Pink Pills for rheumatism, and being present during the interview gave his testimony to their benefit to him. Mrs. Haight's present appearance indicates the best of health, and no one who did not know of her long suffering would imagine from her present appearance that she had ever been sick. Her case is one that cannot but give the strongest hope to other sufferers that they too may be cured by Dr. Williams' wonderful Pink Pills, whose action upon the human system seems almost magical.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, of Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y. Pink Pills are not a patent medicine, but a prescription. An analysis of their properties shows that these pills are an unfailing specific for all diseases arising from an impoverished condition of the blood, or from an impairment of the nervous system such as loss of appetite, depression of spirits, anæmia, chlorosis or green sickness, general muscular weakness, dizziness, loss of memory, locomotor ataxia, paralysis, sciatica, rheumatism, St. Vitus' dance, the after effects of la grippe, scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, correcting irregularities, suppressions and all forms of female weakness, building anew the blood and restoring the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In the case of men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of any nature. These pills are not a purgative medicine. They contain only life-living properties, and nothing that could injure the most delicate system.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper (printed in red ink). Bear in mind that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are never sold in bulk, or by the dozen or hundred, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defraud you and should be avoided. Ask your dealers for Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and refuse all imitations and substitutes.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, from either address, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2 50. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment comparatively inexpnseive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

FARM AND GARDEN

WALKS AND DRIVEWAYS.

How These May Be Kept In Order With a Small Outlay of Time and Labor.

On the average farm, where work connected with the growing crops, the harvesting, care of stock, etc., is ever pressing, the walks and drives are liable to be neglected. Indeed it is well, under many conditions, to have as few walks and driveways as is consistent with convenience or necessity. Some walks, however, are unavoidable, such as the direct lines between road and house, between house and barn, or between any of the farm buildings. These are traveled over to such an extent that paths would soon be worn into the best lawn, to the disfigurement of the whole place. Formal walks are absolutely needed to connect these points. How to construct them is the question. In this connection the following remarks by T. Greiner in The Country Gentleman may be of assistance. He says:

Sifted coal ashes or coal dust, fine gravel or slate, sand, etc., all can be used to advantage for walk making, but it takes a great quantity of material to make a good walk. First of all lay out the walk in a graceful curve from road to house, with a few shrubs or trees giving an excuse or apparent reason for the curve. The sod, if on a lawn already established, is to be removed and the depression filled out with the material on hand. Fine sand and sifted coal ashes or coal dust make a walk quite comfortable to walk upon, but coarser materials, especially coarse gravel, afford less pleasure. A plank walk will be preferable.

PLANK WALKS.

At Woodbanks we have arranged our walk as shown in illustration. It is a simple, cheap and generally satisfactory way, and when kept in good order adds much to the attractiveness of the place. The soil is a clayey loam. What we need is a clean, dry walk. Sand, gravel and similar materials were not easily accessible. The planks are two-inch, 10 inches wide, and as cheap as they could be had. Knots and other imperfections do little harm, as they can be filled out with soil. They are cut to fit, and imbedded together in the soil as shown by the cross section at the lower left hand corner of illustration. They require no cross piece to rest upon, no nailing, and the walk is not only good to walk on, but also good to look on. The soil on both sides of course must be kept free from weeds. This is easily done by an occasional scraping over with the hoe or spade; possibly the object may be accomplished by a heavy dressing of cheap, coarse salt. It takes but little time and labor to keep this walk in good order.

Neither is much fuss made over the drive on the lawn. In spring we plow it quite shallow, throwing the furrows toward the center. Then we go over it with the common harrow, and finish off with the Meeker harrow. This leaves the drive in excellent shape, well rounded and smooth. Weeds of course soon spring up again, but we promptly destroy them with our homemade weed cutter, consisting of a sharp steel blade fastened to an old fashioned thill cultivator frame. This cuts an inch or two below ground, loosening the surface and killing all weed growth.

Destroying Weeds.

Every season the question is agitated concerning the destruction of noxious weeds. Poison ivy, dock, Canada thistle and dandelions are the subjects of varied inquiries. Intelligent gardeners know that no plant can live long without leaves, and Meehan tells the readers of his Monthly if a plant is cut off to the ground soon after making leaves in spring it is generally destroyed at once. But sometimes another or second growth will appear of a more or less weak character, and if this is again cut the plant will surely die. Nothing is easier than to destroy these weeds when this principle is kept in mind. The writer of this paragraph has known a whole half acre of Canada thistle entirely eradicated by having a boy cut them beneath the ground with a knife early in spring. Very few shot up leaves the second time, but these were again cut as soon as perceived, and the result was to eventually destroy every plant. It did not cost $10 to do it.

Wheat After Hoed Crops.

It is not because wheat is so profitable, but rather because it is desirable to have short rotations, that the practice is growing of sowing wheat the same fall that corn and potatoes are got off the land. The field is thus kept with some sort of a covering continuously, says The American Cultivator, authority for the following: The wheat in the fall uses up fertility that would otherwise be washed away in winter. In this way, too, the land is seeded with clover the spring after a clover sod has been plowed under and when the soil is full of the fertility that the decaying clover has left. If wheat is to be sown after hoed crops, no plowing is necessary. Cut the corn very low and the stubs can be turned under with a cultivator. The tops of potatoes should be drawn off the field and burned. They are not safe to use as manure because such tops in their last stages are usually affected by blight and will perpetuate the disease.

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills as they are extremely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority.

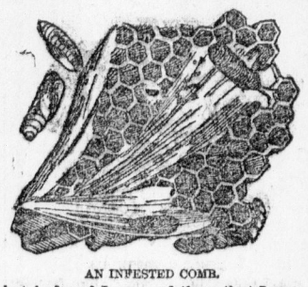

THE BEE MOTH.

How a Woman Apiarian Treats the Infested Combs.

In Mrs. Harrison's bee notes submitted to The Prairie Farmer, she says:

Formerly when I stored unused combs in hives in the apiary during the season, many would become infested with moths, notwithstanding my watchfulness and exposing of them from time to time to the fumes of burning sulphur. If the combs have been exposed to zero weather it will have destroyed the moth in all stages, and if the combs were put in a secure place where the moth could not oviposit in them, none will develop. But, if the combs belonged to colonies, we cannot be sure that the moths were destroyed by the zero weather, for some of them may have been protected by the warmth of the bees.

It was late this season when I cleaned out the hives where bees had died and stored them in the cellar. Moths had hatched, and I removed those that I saw. After an interval of a week I looked the combs over carefully and removed those that had developed with the point of a long, slim darning needle. Every cocoon was removed. At intervals of a week this was done three times, and the third time not a moth in any shape was discovered, as the window to the cellar was covered with wire gauze and there is no outside door, and not a moth was allowed to develop in there. There will be no further trouble with moths this season.

A Cheap Cistern.

A Pennsylvania farmer tells The National Stockman how he built a cheap cistern. He struck a circle seven feet in diameter and dug down three feet, then another circle one foot less in diameter and dug three feet farther and broke down the sides to a slope; then with a five foot circle he went another three feet and cut away again, making the cistern in the form of a jug. The sides and bottom were plastered with cement directly upon the clay, and the top was arched over with brick packed up with sand and cement, and a tile was put in to serve as an overflow pipe about 18 inches from the top. As the average diameter would be a little more than six feet, it would require nearly seven barrels of water for each foot in depth below the overflow pipe, over 50 barrels when the water was 7½ feet deep.

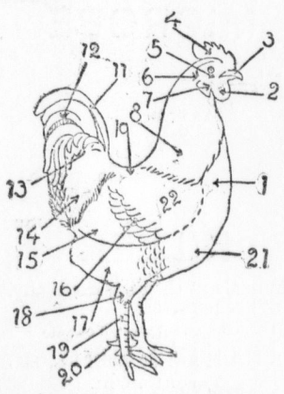

His figures for the cost were: Two days' labor, $2; one-half day of mason, $1; 2 barrels of cement, $2.50; 400 brick, $2.40; total, $7.90. It has been in use 10 years and is as good as ever excepting near the top, where he allowed it to freeze, and the cement cracked and pulled off, which could have been prevented by a covering with straw or other material.

The Foreign Demand For Hay.

There remains no longer any doubt about the marked shortage of hay and forage crops in Europe and especially in France. The present indications are, therefore, that a large foreign demand at remunerative prices will prevail, notably for baled hay. Already several Baltimore and New York shippers have chartered ocean vessels to carry baled hay to Havre and Bremen and other French and German ports.

The Poultryman's Chart.

The following chart showing the sectional parts of a fowl was originally presented by The Southern Fancier:

Things That Are Told.

It is said that thousands of Mohamedans are to immigrate from India to the United States. They are negotiating for large tracts of land in Georgia and Florida, and will form colonies in several southern states.

Professor A. J. Cook of the Michigan Agricultural college says: To shade the beehive nothing is so good as a shadeboard made considerably wider than the hive and nailed to two cleats 5 inches wide. Thus when resting on the hive this shadeboard will be 5 inches above the top of the hive.

A correspondent of The American Cultivator says that the secret of successful barley harvesting is to begin early, while the grain is comparatively green.

Dr. Jabez Fisher now advises only half an ounce of sulphate of copper to 100 gallons for spraying on potato plants and grapes, and one-quarter ounce for fruit trees in general.

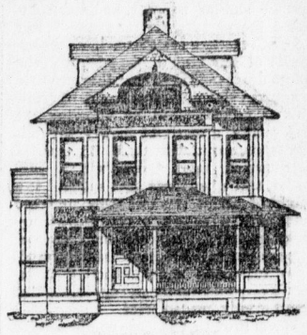

Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done once it will do again.

Plans For a Home of Eight Rooms and Bath—Economy the Feature.

[Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.]

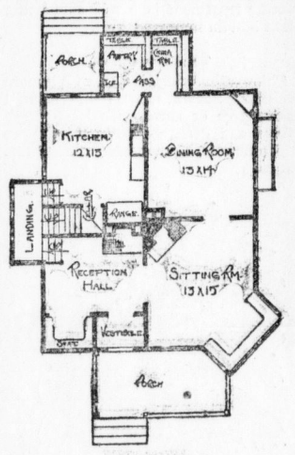

This plan contains four rooms on the first floor and four and a bathroom above. All are brought close together. We enter a vestibule from a road porch. In this vestibule is a space for hats, umbrellas and wraps. Immediately in front on the other side of the room is a grate. The stairway goes to a landing which projects beyond the main body of the house. This is an improvement on having a landing inside the square line of the building. It gives more room for living in the stair hall. In the front part of this room is a window seat. It takes up the space left after cutting off the vestibule. A well constructed window seat and one thoughtfully arranged performs a great service. Primarily it is a fixed seat and for that reason takes up little available room in a building. In case of social entertainment it makes a large addition to the seating capacity of a room and at the same time makes little infringement upon the general capacity of the room itself.

FRONT ELEVATION.

The economical part of this arrangement of house is the fact that the stairway and the flue are in the center of the building. It is a single fluestack and a single stairway space. A single fluestack which does not serve the purpose of a sufficient number is not to be thought of, and a stairway which does not serve a proper purpose in accommodating the various requirements of a stairway should not be built. Here, however, is a fluestack which accommodates all rooms on the first floor, a sufficiency on the second, and a stairway which serves the purpose of a front and back stairway at the same time. Landing as it does in the middle of the house, and having very little hallway, it means, in the first place, a relatively small amount of stairway and hall space to pay for when viewed from a constructional standpoint. It means an absolutely small amount of carpet for the hall. Hence we have the first cost of the building, the cost of furnishing, the saving in labor and expense in caring for the building, and therefore an economy which will extend through the life of the house.

In the kitchen the range is virtually outside of the four walls. It sits in a recess. The recess should be surrounded with brick even in a frame house. Tile would be prettier and more readily cared for. This recess should be ventilated into a flue. The table and drain board arrangements, and the pantry, and the connection between the kitchen and dining room and the back porch are clearly shown. Nothing could be added to their convenience if the house were to cost $20,000.

It is to be noticed that the cellar stairway goes down under the main stairway; also that there is a stairway going to the main landing of the front stairway from the kitchen. There are two doors separating this stairway from the main landing, and hence two doors to keep the kitchen odors from the front part of the house.

Houses loaded down with jigsaw work and all the jimcrackery of flush times soon fall in decay. In the spirit of prudence and economy with which this house is designed it has been the thought to make an exterior which is permanent and substantial, one which will retain itself in good form without the expense which is inseparable from a gaudy structure. LOUIS H. GIBSON.

Russell Sturgis on Architecture.

In tracing the growth and relative values of architecture Mr. Sturgis calls attention to the fact that different materials were specially capable of use in making or building different objects, all perhaps of artistic value, and holds that the best art followed nature closest. Stone was best suited for structures built upon large lines and employing heavy masses of material. The natural use of wood was in such work as employed the straight bar, more or less carved or ornamented, but carrying the principle of a tree trunk. Metal was susceptible of twisting and braiding, and hence was the natural material to employ where such effect was to be desired.

LIVE STOCK

THE FARMER'S BEEF BREED.

Some Good Specimens of the Fine Old Devonshire Cattle.

In districts where dairy products pay better than beef raising the agriculturist should select his cows from the well known milk, butter and cheese families. But if he is a small farmer in a rough country not convenient to market he could not do better than to cultivate the Devon cattle.

The Devons are among the hardiest of cattle, well adapted to a hilly or mountainous region. They can rough it as well as anything with hoofs and horns should be allowed to rough it. Where oxen are necessary, the gentle, intelligent Devons make the best ones of all. A Connecticut dairy farmer who makes vast quantities of Jersey butter keeps a pair of Devonshire oxen to do all the rough work of the farm and is sure it pays him. Besides that, in England, the native home of roast beef, there is a belief that the best meat which comes to the British markets is that of a stall fed Devon steer.

Western ranchmen have heretofore objected to the long horns of the Devon as being in the way of shipping them, but with the new and painless methods of dehorning now in use this objection fades out of sight.

Finally, if there be such a thing as a general purpose cow, which there is not, the Devon comes nearer it than any other breed. The cows of this family will give a fine yield of milk if well cared for, and it is only less rich than that of the Jerseys and Guernseys. The Devons have their enthusiastic advocates among the beef raisers of the west, and the American Devon Cattle club is well sustained. One of the most devoted Devon men in the country is Mr. B. R. Eldredge of Provo City, U. T.

Give Us Kentucky Saddle Horses.

The people in early days largely depended upon horseback riding for long distance travel as well as for short trips; hence they encouraged breeds of horses which could carry their burdens with ease, both to themselves and the rider. The saddlers of that early period were not the stylish and finished steppers of this. The best horses for the purpose were brought from Canada, where the pace or ambling gait had been most encouraged, while Virginia and the south Atlantic states had given more attention to the race horse. The Canadians were said to be a cross of the early French stock with the stallions obtained from New York and New England. They combined the hardiness and perhaps the gaits of the former with the better size of the latter.

When Kentucky was growing into statehood, away back in the thirties, two classes of horses mainly were imported into her territory to grow up and fatten on the succulent blue grass. They were the thoroughbred and half blood from Virginia and now and then a pacer from Canada. Naturally these were crossed, because many people did not care to keep up the breeding of race horses, and the cross produced a more useful animal, particularly for saddle purposes.

The taste for a real saddle horse is vitiated some these days by a class of "professors" from England and Germany, who conduct riding schools in eastern cities. They know nothing of the delight of horseback riding proper. They have perhaps never mounted a saddle horse of the western type and therefore make the most of what they know about the saddle horse. There is another reason for their adoption of the high trotting horse in their schools.

Many of the eastern riders are driven to horseback as a relief from the ills of coasting houses. Hence they expect to find it in the high stepping trot. They are misguided and will find in the end that the ease of body and mind given by a morning ride on a gaited saddle horse will prove more beneficial than the violent jolting they get on the back of the school horse. Still it is not the province of western horsemen to dictate to their patrons. Our saddle horses are capable of taking on the trot if need be, and they will be so educated while the craze lasts, but here's hoping that it won't be long. Mounting the eastern hackneys for a saddle horse is like getting out of a fine buggy and taking an ox cart.—The Horseman.

Millet For Fattening Hogs.

"I had 31 head of hogs," says F. H. Smith of Brown county, S. D., "which I raised and fattened on millet seed, which made an average weight of 524 pounds on foot, and I fattened one hog that weighed 631 pounds. This hog gained for the last 30 days 2 1-5 pounds per day. This millet makes pork that is second to none. It is a sure crop, grows quickly and no danger of frost. It is cheaper than corn and just as good if not better for fattening hogs."

FEEDING WHEAT TO STOCK.

Expert Opinions on Methods of Feeding It to Hogs and Sheep.

Professor Henry writes in The Breeder's Gazette:

Reports in the daily papers state that Ohio farmers are feeding wheat and making 20 pounds of pork from a bushel—that is, three pounds of feed make a pound of gain, live weight. While such gains may be had for a week or two the feeder must not expect more than a pound with lean shoats from about four pounds of wheat, or say 15 pounds of pork from a bushel of wheat when fed to shoats that have been running on pasture and are not too fat nor the fattening period too long continued, for the last few weeks of the fattening period show a very marked increase in the amount of feed for a pound of pork.

Allowing 15 pounds of pork for a bushel of wheat it will be seen that at present prices farmers can well afford to feed even merchantable wheat. This true, there is evidently more profit still in feeding wheat that is rejected because of some slight fault which injures its flouring qualities, but not necessarily its feeding value.

But I should not feed the wheat by itself. It will pay much better to dilute it with soaked corn or cornmeal and a little shorts. Wheat flour in itself makes a pasty mass in the mouth of the animal, which can be remedied by using cornmeal and shorts or even a little bran. Two parts wheat, with two parts corn and one part shorts by weight, will prove the very best feed for young pigs and shoats. For fattening hogs, use half cornmeal and half wheat. The wheat may be ground into a coarse meal and will then not be so sticky. This feed given to thrifty shoats that have grown a good frame on pasture, with a large, healthy, digestive tract, should give splendid hogs, carrying the best of pork.

Doubtless just at this time there are a good many farmers who are waiting for the corn crop to ripen in order to fatten their hogs. Some of these same farmers may have wheat in bins which is not of the best quality, waiting for a rise in the market. Personally I believe wheat will go higher, but will it not pay to feed poor and in some cases even good wheat to hogs in order to hurry them off, save time, feed and get ready money, which is quite an object just now with many? It may seem a little strange to feed wheat to hogs, but there has been more wheat offered the last few years than the markets of the world would buy, and why take second thought on that side so long as there is more money in feeding than in selling?

Where a farmer has a little wheat that he does not care to sell and does not wish to take it to the mill for grinding it can be boiled in a large kettle, and a little of this boiled wheat given to shoats or young pigs will pay double, I believe, what the miller will give for the wheat, in the way of helping the animals on in growth or flesh.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Republic says of feeding wheat to hogs and sheep:

Wheat is very low in price now, and there is no question but that in many cases it can be fed with good results. This is especially the case when feeding hogs or sheep to fatten. Under present conditions a higher price can be realized by feeding the wheat to vigorous, thrifty hogs or sheep and then selling in this way than by selling the grains.

With hogs it can be fed to better advantage if it is soaked long enough to soften the grains thoroughly. The objection to feeding it without soaking is that it is naturally a hard grain, and being small more or less of it will be swallowed without being properly masticated, and the consequence is that more or less of it will not be digested, and of course this is a waste.

Wheat, before it is fed to hogs, should be soaked at least 10 or 12 hours, and 24 would not be too much. Use two barrels, and as fast as one is fed out fill it up and put to soak while the other is being fed.

In putting to soak use plenty of water. The grain swells very much, and plenty of water is needed to soften it thoroughly. It is best to begin feeding with a light ration and gradually increase until they are given all that they will eat up clean at each meal. With all kinds of stock it is comparatively easy to overfeed at the start, and it will require some time entirely to recover from the effect. The better plan is to bring them to full feed gradually, and then, once on full rations, to crowd as much as possible. With sheep there is no special advantage in soaking the wheat. It is better, however, to feed in shallow troughs.

Another good way of feeding wheat to hogs is to grind it coarse and then make it into a slop with milk if it can be had, or with water if milk cannot be secured. Fattening hogs can be given all that they will eat of this, and if thrifty and given comfortable quarters and plenty of pure water will fatten very rapidly.

At the poultry shows white fowls that have been reared in soft coal districts make a show indeed. They are so gray that they would not at first glance be taken for white at all, and they seem to belong to a different breed from other chickens of the same kind from anthracite coal burning localities.

THE DAIRY

MAKING FALL CHEESE.

Instructions For Each Stage of Its Progress From Vat to Hoop.

After getting the milk into the vats heat up slowly to 86 or 88 degrees. Ripen the milk well (a few seconds less than for summer cheese) before setting, and if the weather be cold better results can be obtained by using a little clean flavored sour milk for a starter, but do not under any circumstances use thick milk.

Enough rennet should be used to cause perfect coagulation in 40 minutes.

Begin cutting with the horizontal knife and finish with the perpendicular, cutting continuously until it is finished.

After the cutting is completed the curd should be stirred slowly and gently for 10 or 15 minutes before any heat is applied, then raise the temperature gradually to 96 or 98 degrees, taking about 45 minutes to attain the desired temperature. Dip the curd when it shows 1½ inches acid by the hot iron test, stir well until the whey has all escaped, then keep the curd warm—about 94 degrees—and allow it to mat. When matted, cut or break into convenient strips and turn over occasionally. Do not allow any whey to gather in pools on or around the curd. When it feels mellow or will show 1½ inches to 1¾ inches acid by the hot iron test, it should be put through the curd mill. Stir and air well immediately after grinding.

When the curd is well matured and has a silky, buttery appearance, the salt may be applied. Use at the rate of 2¾ pounds to 3¼ pounds of salt per 1,000 pounds of milk, varying the quantity to the amount of moisture in the curd. The temperature at this stage should be about 86 degrees. The curd may be hooped and put to press in from 15 to 20 minutes after the salting is done. Apply pressure very slowly at first and allow the cheese to remain in the press one hour before turning. Only pure warm water should be used when bandaging.

Turn the cheese in the hoop every morning, never allowing a cheese to be placed in the curing room unless it has a perfect finish.

The temperature of the curing room should be kept constantly between 60 and 65 degrees.

When coloring, pour the coloring into a dipper of warm milk from the vat, then draw the dipper quickly along under the surface of the milk from one end of the vat to the other, then stir well, and there will be no danger of streaks in the curd. Have a dipper with a long handle for the purpose.

Rennet should be diluted to one gallon of pure water for each vat, and the milk should be well stirred for at least five minutes after the rennet has been added. In case the milk is very ripe two minutes will be ample time to stir after adding the rennet.

Everything in and about the factory should be kept scrupulously clean. The cheesemaker who fails to do this need not grumble if his patrons follow his example.

All strainers, sink cloths, etc., should be well washed, then scalded and thoroughly aired each time they have been used.

The vats, pails, curd sinks, etc., should be scalded with boiling hot water after washing, and if the water can run out readily they will dry off in a few minutes without wiping. Do not use a dishcloth, as it usually leaves an unpleasant flavor.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Dairy Refrigerators at the Fair.

To tell the truth, I have been so disgusted with the appearance of these refrigerators that not until the energetic Nebraska commissioner, Mr. Ashburn, pointed out the defects had I noticed the lack of common sense in their construction. Thus the cooling pipes are about 3½ feet from the top, leaving the top shelves to take care of themselves. The $9 per foot, it seems, did not include the shelving, and those commissioners who told the contractors to go ahead and put in three shelves in each case were charged $5 for work worth $1.50 or $2. The builders are completely ignorant of the simplest principles in refrigeration. New York is the only state that dared to leave its cheese in the hot atmosphere.—J. H. Monrad.

Dairy and Creamery.

"There is mighty little reason why a first class butter cow should be eaten for beef any more than a horse," remarks The Rural New Yorker. "It ought to be so difficult to fatten her that it would be cheaper to turn her into fertilizer at once."

Hydrate of chloral is claimed to be a valuable remedy for milk fever after calving. Take three-fourths of an ounce of chloral hydrate, mix it with molasses and give it to the cow for her first dose. In two hours more give her another dose, this time putting half an ounce of the chloral hydrate into the molasses. Give a similar dose again in two hours more and repeat the third at the same interval if the symptoms do not disappear. A dose like that ought to cure anything.

Canada gets at least 30 first class cheese prizes in the World's fair dairy test.

Every successful dairyman keeps account books containing a correct list of all the cans, dippers, pails and implements of every kind that are used about his establishment.

In all the Borden milk condenseries Sunday is observed strictly as a day of rest, and no milk is received at the factories. The farmers keep that day's milk at home and work it up for themselves.

Whenever milk has cooled below 80 degrees it needs to be warmed again before being put into the separator. A temperature of from 86 to 90 degrees is the approved one for separating.

Every live dairyman now has a Babcock test and uses it frequently.

FRUIT AND FLOWERS

CULTIVATION OF THE RASPBERRY.

The Notable Change Introduced Into the General Management of This Plant.

The only pruning formerly given to the raspberry plant was confined to cutting out the old stems which had fruited, thinning out the young stems which were to produce the new crop and shortening them by cutting off their tops. These would then be fastened to a stake or some similar support, and this completed the pruning for the season. But the more modern system obviates the necessity of any kind of support, and the plants are managed so that they are able to support themselves when full of fruit. This is accomplished by allowing the first year's growth of newly set out plants to grow undisturbed. The second year two or more shoots will be produced, and when these have reached to a height of about two feet their tops are pinched off so as to stop their further upright growth. They will then proceed to push out side shoots or laterals on all sides, balancing and supporting themselves very effectually and appearing like small evenly headed trees.

When growth has been completed for the season and the leaves have fallen, these side shoots are pruned back so as to leave them from 12 to 16 inches in length, according to their strength. This pruning can be done quite rapidly with pruning shears. At the same time, if not before, all the old stems or canes which have fruited are also removed, but many cultivators prefer to remove these old stems immediately after the fruit has been gathered, claiming that by so doing the young canes have greater freedom of growth; also that by promptly removing the old canes many kinds of insects which lodge in the old wood and have cocoons and nests upon it are thus destroyed by burning all the prunings as they are collected.

This system is continued annually. No greater number of young shoots than is required are allowed to grow, all others being destroyed as they reach a few inches in height. The summer topping is attended to as previously stated. As excellent authority as Mr. William Saunders of the United States department of agriculture says that the result of this routine treatment is a self supporting plant and an improved fruit.

The Fringe Tree.

Chionanthus virginica, or, as it is more familiarly known, fringe tree, is a small native tree or shrub with large glossy leaves and drooping racemes of pure white flowers, having narrow fringelike petals.

WHITE FRINGE.

Aside from the singular interest connected with its deeply cut and pendulous flowers, it is particularly handsome when in fruit, the berries being borne in long clusters. It is proper to add, says Meehan in his Illustrated Monthly, that the flowers are dicœcius, and those who buy plants have a chance of getting a form with sterile flowers, from which of course no fruit results. Those who get the most satisfactory results from the fruit plant several in one large clump together. It is said that occasionally plants bear these beautiful clusters of purple fruit when entirely by themselves—a long way from any neighbor—and this would indicate that occasionally the plant is hermaphrodite. Although this is reported to be sometimes the case, Mr. Meehan has never seen an instance. Barry calls the fringe "a superb lawn tree."

Two Crops of Bloom.

Is it generally known among amateurs that the common garden larkspur can be made to give a second crop of blossoms by simply cutting down the whole plant as soon as the first seed vessels appear? I found this out by accident myself; also that the hoya roots readily and quickly in water instead of earth or turf, writes a correspondent of American Gardening.

If one does not mind a little tough pulp and a somewhat foxy aroma, he should not be without the Pocklington grape.

The rivinas are dwarf evergreen shrubs, much admired for their small, bright scarlet berries.

The so called black calla is of a deep, velvety purplish maroon, almost black on the upper side and moss green underneath. From the center of the flower springs a long spike of a glossy black hue.
