REVOLUTION IN THE CIVIL SERVICE IN CANADA A HEAVY BLOW AT THE PATRONAGE SYSTEM

Appointments Will Be Made by Competitive Examinations.

COMMISSION TO CONTROL SERVICE

Entrance To Be Determined by Merit---The Service To Be Re-Classified.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, June 17.—The movement for civil service reform took a practical shape today when in the House of Commons the Hon. Sydney Fisher introduced a bill, the effect of which will be to revolutionize the civil service, and place it more or less on the English basis.

Hon. Mr. Fisher said that in preparation of the bill the Government had carefully studied the various legislation in the Dominion bearing on the civil service; all reports of the commissions which had been held in Canada on the subject; the course of procedure in the matter, and the course of events in the United States in the direction of civil service reform. It would be found that a large measure of civil service reform was proposed.

A Civil Service Commission.

The greatest and probably most important reform was the establishment of an independent civil service commission, which would control the examinations to be held for entrance to the civil service and give such service as might be necessary in regard to promotions, increases of salary and improvement of status of any individual in civil service.

Powers of Commission.

The commission would have power to make regulations and control the examinations, and the arrangements for the carrying out of its work.

It was intended that the commission should be composed of two, and that they should have the status, salary and tenure of office of deputy ministers.

The commission would recommend the necessary officers and staff which would be required for the carrying out of their work.

Mr. Bergeron—Will they be employes of the Government?

Mr. Fisher—They will be two men appointed for this particular purpose, with large powers under the operation of the act.

Another Reform.

The second important reform was that entrance into the civil service would be by open competitive examination, and the nominations to the service would be in the order of merit under the control of the commission.

The procedure in regard to the examinations and nominations was based on the English system.

The Examinations.

The examinations would be held as often as necessary in the judgment of the commission, probably twice a year. The different heads of the departments would notify the commission what vacancies were required to be filled in their various departments.

When about to hold an examination the commission would advertise, stating how many and what character of appointments were to be made. When the examination was finished they would range the candidates in the order of merit. Some slight latitude would be left to the commission. If a clerk in the examination excelled in a particular line the commission would have the power to appoint that clerk.

Period of Probation.

Mr. Foster—What is the period of probation?

Mr. Fisher—Six months; but at any time after two or before six months the head of a department might notify the commission that a candidate was unfit, and the commission might reject him, giving reasons for their action.

Mr. Borden asked if that system would apply to promotions.

Mr. Fisher said competitive examinations were not insisted on in the case of promotions. It was proposed under the bill to bring all of the departmental service at Ottawa into the inside service under the operation of the civil service act. It would also provide for the bringing under the rules of the civil service any outside service by order in council. With regard to classification there was a considerable change made in the bill.

Reclassification.

It was proposed to reclassify the public service into three divisions. Each of these divisions will be divided again into two subdivisons.

Class A, of the first dvision, will be made up of officials having the rank of deputy minister or assistant deputy minister, together with the principal administrative and executive officers.

Class B, of the first division, will be made up of the lesser technical and executive officials.

The second division is made up of certain other clerks, whose duties would be of a kind to qualify them for the higher division. These will in turn

PRINCE MAY COMMAND 7TH HONOR FOR LONDON SOLDIERS

Regiment May Go By Water To Quebec, Taking in the Beauties of the Thousand Islands---Men Are Growing More Enthusiastic Every Day.

Col. Frank Reid, the popular commanding officer of the Seventh Regiment, today received a letter from the Inland Navigation Company of Canada, offering to transport the Seventh Regiment from Hamilton to Quebec in July for the tercentenary celebration.

Some of the officers prefer the water trip, and negotiations have been carried on for some time.

The navigation company offers to supply a steamer 260 feet long and 60 feet beam, capable of providing ample accommodation for 600 men.

The soldiers would be placed in hammocks between decks, where the space is twelve feet high.

They would leave Hamilton at 3 o'clock on Saturday, July 18, and would reach Quebec on the 20th, in the morning.

Ideal Trip.

The return trip would commence on the 24th of July at 6 p.m., and the men would reach home in time for work on Monday morning.

The trip would be an ideal one, as it would take the men through the wondrous beauties of the world-famous Thousand Islands.

The members of the regiment are daily growing more enthusiastic, and many report that their employers are willing to put up with a little inconvenience in order to have the Seventh Regiment go to Quebec with a full complement of men, so that the honor and dignity of the city may be maintained on the historic battlefields of the Plains of Abraham.

There will be ten thousand sailors there from the battleships of the world.

The battleships will form a procession two miles long.

The militia will total over twelve thousand men.

Seventh and the Prince.

It is a well-known fact that his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who will be present at the head of a fleet of powerful British fighting ships, is honorary colonel of the Seventh Regiment of London, England, and it is quite probable that the Seventh Regiment of London, Canada, will be detailed as a special guard for him, and that he will assume the honorary command of the English regiment's Canadian namesake.

Great interest is being manifested in the drills, which commence next Monday night.

Every man must be present, so that when the Londoners go to Quebec they will present a soldierly appearance second to none in the immense gathering.

MAN PINNED UNDER WAGON WM. CAMPBELL'S CLOSE CALL

Was Driving Down a Hill Over Clark's Bridge When the Horses Tripped and the Wagon Toppled Over on Top of Him---Badly Injured.

While taking a load of gravel down the steep hill at the rear of Knowles' lithographing shop, Weston street, over Clark's Bridge, the horses stumbled over a board, overturning the wagon, and pinioning William Campbell, of 81 Wellington street, the driver, under the wagon.

He lay for over an hour there.

When taken out it was found that his hip is broken, and he is injured internally. Hope of his recovery is held out, however.

Campbell, who is a well-known teamster, took his wagon past the premises of the Knowles Company down the hill on Weston street, known as Caffrey's hill.

The team only got nicely started when one of the horses stepped on a board, tripping both horses, and causing them to fall.

The wagon ran up on the horses and turned completely over.

Driver Caught in Wreck.

Campbell was caught across the legs and was unable to move.

He shouted for help, but no person heard him. He was there over an hour.

The unfortunate man was suffering untold agony.

At last some youngsters playing in the neighborhood happened to hear his cries, and going over to the old man saw his plight.

Campbell told the boys to go to Knowles' and tell his son, Robert, that he was hurt.

The boy ran and told the employes of the firm that the old man was pinned under the wagon.

Several of the men, among them Campbell's son Robert, ran to the hill, and soon extracted the old man from beneath the wagon.

Dr. Drake was summoned and ordered Campbell taken to the hospital.

Badly Injured.

Here it was found that his hip was fractured, and he also suffered internal injuries. His recovery will be slow, owing to the fact that he is suffering from hip disease.

"I saw the old man go past the shop shortly after 8:30," said one of the employes of the Knowles Lithographing Company. "I did not see nor hear any more of the old man until between 9:30 and 10 o'clock, when a little boy came in and asked for Robert Campbell, who works here, saying that his father was hurt under the wagon on the hill. We sent out a number of the men who helped Mr. Campbell out. Dr. Drake was called and he was taken to the hospital. He must have been under the wagon over an hour. We would not be able to hear his shouts as the hill is too far away. He might have lain there for hours had not the little boy heard him."

Campbell was well nigh exhausted with the pain of his broken hip and the weight of the wagon, when he was released, and he would have lived but a short time had he not been rescued.

The unfortunate man is well known in the south end. His wife has been dead for some time, and he has worked hard to keep his little family together.

Curtain Drawn On Girl's Troubles Ada Baker Dies a Suicide's Death

Thamesford Woman Succumbs To Effects of Gas and Laudanum.

Miss Ada Baker, known also as Mrs. Hiram Yake, of Thamesford, who made an attempt upon her life yesterday at the C.P.R. Hotel, died shortly before 11 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's Hospital.

The baby boy has fully recovered, but is still at the hospital.

Coroner Ferguson was summoned shortly, but deemed an inquest unnecessary, as it is a clear case of suicide.

The arrangements for the funeral have not been made as yet, but it is expected the body will be taken to Thamesford and interred ther.

The story of the sad tragedy is as old as the world.

Miss Baker, of Thamesford, fell in love with a young man of the neighborhood, named Hiram Yake. But she loved not wisely.

Tired of Life.

When the child was born, she importuned Yake to marry her, but he kept putting her off. While he was close at hand she did not seem to worry so much, although she continued to ask Yake to marry her. He refused steadfastly.

Some few days ago, he told her of his intentions of going west.

She again importuned him to marry her.

Niagara Falls Franchise Again Sold

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Hamilton, June 17.—William Austen, the mining stock broker, who bought the Hamilton franchise in the International League, and turned it over to a local syndicate, at a good profit, has bought the Niagara Falls franchise from Fred Paige, who took over the team from Bill Murray, on Monday. Austen sent R. S. Langrill to the Falls this morning to endeavor to form a company there to take over the franchise. Paige, it is alleged, cleaned up over $3,000 here in a few weeks.

MR. W. H. TAFT,
Who Will Likely Be the Republican Nominee for President of the United States.

WRIT TO RESTRAIN RE POWER SERVED ON THE MAYOR TODAY

Mr. John McEvoy Claims the Council Had No Right To Sign a Contract for Power at Niagara Falls---City Representatives Are Puzzled.

A writ was served on Mayor Stevely this morning by Mr. J. M. McEvoy, on behalf of Mr. Richard Henry Smith, to restrain the city from going on with the contract with the hydro-electric commission for the supply of Niagara power.

The writ was issued by Mr. R. K. Cowan, clerk of the high court. The time for hearing the injunction was not set.

The statement of claim is as follows:

"That the plaintiff is a freeholder, resident and inhabitant and ratepayer of the city of London, and sues here on behalf of himself and all other freeholders and ratepayers of the said city.

"That the plaintiff claims to have a declaration that the defendant municipality is not, and was not, authorized to enter into a certain contract with the hydro-electric commission of the Province of Ontario for the purchase of electric energy at Niagara Falls, which contract is referred to in a certain resolution of the municipal council of the said defendants dated the 9th day of June, A. D., 1908, and for an injunction restraining the defendants from acting on the said resolution and contract and from paying any of the moneys of the defendant corporation thereon, and also for a declaration that the defendants are not authorized under the bylaw of the defendants passed on the 14th day of January, A. D., 1907, or otherwise to enter into any contract with the said commission for the purchase of electric energy, save upon the terms set forth in the said bylaw."

"I do not know what it means," said Mayor Stevely. "I took the notice to City Solicitor Meredith, and he informed me that ten days would elapse before the injunction would take effect, and the city had seven days more in which to act. He told me that it would be September before the injunction would be heard. In the meantime the city will go ahead with the work necessary."

"The ratepayers never authorized the council to buy power at the Falls," said Mr. J. M. McEvoy to The Advertiser. "That is what the contract calls for, and it is much different from the proposition contained in the bylaw submitted to the people in 1907, which authorizes the city to enter into a contract. The council was not authorized to buy power at the Falls at any price, and therefore the contract is illegal and cannot be executed."

The writ came as a bolt from the blue to the mayor and the members of the council.

None of them anticipated any such move, and few of them understand what it means.

"The matter will be referred to the city solicitor," said Mayor Stevely. "He will take whatever steps are necessary to protect the rights of the city in this matter."

To Witness the Imposing Ceremony---Addresses Presented By the Clergy and Laity of the Archdiocese---Monsignor Sbarretti Presided at St. Michael's Cathedral.

Nearly 250 prominent Roman Catholics from London and vicinity went to Toronto this morning on the C. P. R., to witness the installation of His Grace Archbishop McEvay.

Among the clergy who went from London were Fathers Aylward, McKeon, Eord, White, Valentine and O'Neil.

In addition the larger percentage of the clergy of the diocese went to Toronto also to witness the elevation of Bishop McEvay, whom they had learned to respect and love during their association of over eight years.

Among the prominent laity who went to Toronto were Senator Coffey, R. M. Burns, Jas. M. Hickey, B. C. McCann, P. Walsh, R. Forristal, F. Forristal, M. O'Sullivan, W. McPhillips, M. P. O'Donough, Dr. C. Brown, T. F. Gould and others.

At Woodstock a large number of the clergy and laity of that district joined the excursion.

About 50 went to Toronto over the G. T. R.

St. Michael's Cathedral was crowded to the doors this morning when the installation of His Grace took place at half past ten o'clock. Addresses were presented from the clergy and laity.

Address of Clergy.

The address of the clergy was read by Rev. Dean Morris, as follows:

To the Most Reverend Fergus Patrick McEvay, D.D., Archbishop of Toronto:

May it please your Grace,

We, the priests of the Archdiocese of Toronto are assembled today to bid you welcome as our spiritual chief. The Holy Father has been pleased to appoint you Archbishop of Toronto and metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province. With respectful reverence we hail the appointment. Peter has spoken through Pius; the apostolic authority has been exercised and its decision meets with filial obedience from the clergy of the archdiocese.

We recognize in your appointment the continuation of the world-wide commission of Christ to the apostles—"Going therefore teach all nations. . . . I am with you all days." Your mission has its source in God. Your selection was the choice of the Holy Ghost. Your appointment was made by the vicar of Christ in his office of ruler of the universal church. It is in this full Catholic sense of faith and love that we pay our homage to you today.

We are not unmindful of your personal merits of piety, learning and fidelity to duty. Your distinguished career of faithful and fruitful service in the dioceses of Peterboro and Hamilton is well known to us. Your successful administration of the diocese of London marked you as worthy to wear the pallium and bear the archiepiscopal dignity.

The history of the church in Canada is one of which every Catholic has reason to be proud. The chapter on the church in Toronto tells a story

HODGINS CHARGES ABANDONED NO EVIDENCE, SAYS THE MAJOR

MONS. SBARRETTI,
Papal Delegate to Canada, Who Presided at Archbishop McEvay's Installation Today.

Conservatives Say They Have Been "Thrown Down."

CASE HAS FALLEN FLAT

No Imputations Against the Premier or the Commission---Counsel Withdraws.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, June 17.—The two Hodginses dropped out of the Hodgins inquiry this morning. Both Hodgins, C. E. and Hodgins, K. C., are now out of the case and the committee of inquiry is left with a fatherless set of charges, unproven, against the National Transcontinental Commission on its hands.

The committee adjourned until tomorrow morning to decide what it would do with the situation.

At the opening of proceedings this morning Mr. Frank Hodgins, K. C., said:

"I do not think there is anything I desire to re-examine Mr. Hodgins upon and with his permission I retire from the case."

Committee Adjourns.

Mr. E. A. McDonald, M. P., suggested the adjournment until tomorrow in order that all parties interested may have a chance to consider their position.

He would like to look over the records and authorities, he said, before moving one way or the other.

Certain lines of examination might yet be adopted. Major Hodgins having abandoned the charges; time to consider future action must be given.

Mr. Carvell, M. P., objected to the "eternal delay," but the committee finally adjourned as stated.

The Mayor's Admissions.

The Globe's Ottawa special says: Major Hodgins frankly declared before the special committee of the House investigating his charges that he had no evidence to offer as to improper interference by the Transcontinental Railway Commissioners with the engineers, and none as to Hon. S. N. Parent's having attempted to influence Sir Wilfrid Laurier to refuse an investigation.

The Only Issue.

The only issue now, the major declared, was the proper and correct interpretation of the specifications, and he did not see that he was called upon to prove that.

"I cannot prove it," he added. The proper parties to settle that, he believed, were the arbitrators provided for by law, namely, the chief engineers respectively of the National Transcontinental Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific, who have power to call in a third party in case of a dispute. These gentlemen, he believed, would settle the question fairly and in the interests of the country, and he would prefer to give evidence before them.

Another Feature.

The foregoing was brought out before the committee chiefly as a result of questioning by Mr. Murphy, counsel of the commission and Mr. E. M. MacDonald, M. P. Another development of note was the statement of Mr. Frank Hodgins, K. C., of Toronto, counsel for Major Hodgins, that he did not agree with the position taken by his client, though that gentleman had, of course, a perfect right to make it if he chose. If, however, he found on consultation with him that he was of the mind that Mr. Macdonald, M. P., and Mr. Carvell, M. P., claimed he was he would ask to be relieved of his retainer.

Course of the Committee.

There was considerable discussion as to what course the committee should pursue. In effect the Liberal members held that unless some one came forward to make allegations against the commissioners there could be no sense in going on with the inquiry, which had narrowed down, on the declaration of the witness making the original allegations, to a question to be decided by experts as to the interpretation of the specifications and that the settlement of this by a proper tribunal was provided for.

Conservatives Protest.

Messrs. Lennox and Barker, the Conservative members of the committee, protested against the inquiry closing in this way, taking the ground that it must proceed, even though a settlement of the disputes of the nature mentioned was provided for in the National Transcontinental Railway Act. In any event the air has been cleared to the extent that the imputations against the Transcontinental Commissioners and Sir Wilfrid Laurier are shown to have no ground, and there remains only a difference of opinion as to the correct view of the specifications.

CHATHAM MAN KILLED HIMSELF

Alex Grover Was Despondent Because He Had to Appear in Court.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Chatham, June 17.—Worry over the fact that he had been summoned to appear in police court as defendant in a dispute over a cow is supposed to have caused Alexander Grover, of Chatham, to commit suicide this morning at 6:30. Mr. Grover was a man of about 67 years of age. He is survived by a widow and five children, all grown up.

Mr. Grover seemed to be in good spirits upon retiring last night. This morning members of the family were startled by hearing a rifle shot, and investigation showed that Grover had shot himself through the heart with a small rifle. Death must have been instantaneous.

The deceased was an engineer formerly employed by the Blonde Manufacturing Company, and last summer was employed at the Chatham Automobile Works.

Mr. Grover was once an employe of the Defiance Iron Works. In his younger days the deceased was an excellent rifle shot, and he always kept firearms around the house.

IN DARKEST CHICAGO

Dead Set Made on Dives by Law and Order League.

Chicago, June 17.—An effort to stop the selling of intoxicating liquors in disorderly resorts, and ultimately to drive these places out of Chicago, will begin when indictments against 25 or 30 of the keepers are returned by the grand jury. Two indictments are sought against each proprietor—one for the illegal sale of liquor, and one for maintaining a disorderly house.

The previous grand jury refused police regulation of the sale of liquor in these houses, and referred the evidence furnished it by the Law and Order League to the present grand jury. It is understood indictments by each succeeding grand jury will follow until this illegal practice is driven out of the city.

The league has investigated 98 resorts in Chicago, but in only a portion of these was evidence warranting a true bill secured.

First Parade at Goderich Camp About 3,500 Men on Grounds

Everything Running Smoothly —Men Make Good Showing.

Goderich, June 16. — The military camp is in full swing with approximately 3,500 men under canvas on the heights overlooking Lake Huron.

The first parade was held today and the citizen soldiery performed most creditably. Lt.-Col. Peters has the machinery of the camp running smoothly, and it is expected that rapid progress will be made within the next few days.

The camp is laid out in the shape of an "L". The extreme west is held by the Sixth Field Battery, of London. Then follow the regiments of the First Brigade, the Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth. Lt.-Col. J. Munro is in command, with Lt.-Col. McEwan as brigade major.

The other section is held by No. 2 Brigade, composed of the Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-second and Thirty-third Regiments. Lt.-Col. Acheson is in command, with Lt.-Col. Weir as brigade major.

The men found the temperature rather cool last night for sleeping, and caused them some inconvenience. However, the weather is becoming warmer, and the men anticipate no more trouble along that line.

Col. Peters, the officer in command, has named the following staff:

Chief Staff Officer—Col. McDougall.
D. A. A. G.—Major Shannon.
Senior Army Service Corps Officer—Lieut.-Col. White.
Medical Officer—Lt.-Col. Belton.
Paymaster—Capt. Layborn.
Musketry Instructor—Capt. McCrimmon.
Assistant Instructor—Lieut. W. P. Gibson and Sergt. Butler.
Sanitary Officer—Capt. J. T. Clarke
Intelligence Officer—Major Lamb.
Signaling Officer—Lieut. J. Talbot Hennessy.

The new Mantellett targets have been placed in position along the lake front.

A sham battle and a big field day have been arranged for June 25.

Excursions will be run from Guelph and other points on that day, and it is expected that the affair will be a great success.

Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, is expected to visit the camp on this day, and will take part in the maneuvers.

In the evening a banquet will be held, at which the officers will be the guests of the town of Goderich, and of the officers of the Thirty-third Regiment.

No accidents have been reported, and there is no sickness so far as can be learned.

5,500 MEN UNDER CANVAS

Niagara-on-the-Lake, June 16.—The annual camp here will be in full swing tomorrow. Tonight there are 5,500 men on the grounds.

The number of men in camp is 1,000 more than any year heretofore, and this great body has been principally recruited from the ranks of the unemployed.

A POORHOUSE INMATE BECOMES MILLIONAIRE

Essex County Man Has Marvelous Change in Circumstances.

Windsor, June 17.—Joseph Hutchinson, who has just been released from the poorhouse in Leamington, has experienced a great stroke of fortune, which makes him a millionaire.

Mr. Hutchinson is an Englishman about 65 years of age, and for a time made his home in Kent County. He drifted to South Essex some time ago, became a public charge, and at last found refuge in the county house.

By the death of an uncle in the old country he has fallen heir to an estate in the city of Manchester consisting of about five acres of realty valued at a million at a conservative estimate. Hutchinson left as soon as he received the good news.

GREAT DAYS AT SANDWICH

Thirteen Students Graduated—New Chapel Dedicated.

Sandwich, June 16.—Thirteen students were graduated and awarded their diplomas at Assumption College commencement last night. The hall was crowded with friends of the graduates and with former students, the only note of regret being the absence of Bishop McEvay, who has invariably made the distribution of prizes in former years.

Today was another red letter day in the history of the college. The memorial chapel, donated by members of the Alumna Association at a cost of about $50,000, was dedicated by Rev. Mgr. Meunier, Rev. Father Corcoran, of Seaforth, president of the Alumni Association, celebrated solemn high mass, and Rev. J. Hally, of Wyandotte, preached the sermon.

A large gathering of the alumni was present, and as the conclusion of the ceremony they were tendered a banquet.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK AT CORNWALL

Gave the People There a Scare —Rocked Houses and Chimneys.

Cornwall, June 17.—Residents of Cornwall were given a scare yesterday about twenty minutes to four, when a slight earthquake, sufficient to rattle dishes off the tables, rock dwellings and loosen chimney bricks, was felt.

There was a distinct quake, lasting some ten or fifteen seconds, long enough to leave no doubt of the fact that there had been an earthquake.

It is feared some damage was done by the loosening of foundations, although in no case was it serious.

At Ogdensburg, N. Y., a slight earthquake shock was felt at 3:45 p.m. The quake passed from east to west, and was described as a distinct waving motion, lasting several seconds. It was perceptible in various parts of the city.

When picked up it was found that the leg was broken ,and he was removed at once to Victoria Hospital, where until yesterday he appeared to be progressing favorably.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, June 17.—St. Michael's Cathedral was packed this morning when the imposing ceremony of installing Archibshop McEvay, by Mgr. Sbarretti, papal delegate to Canada. Three archbishops, four bishops and two hundred and fifty priests were present.

The procession from the palace to the cathedral was a novel sight and was witnessed by a crowd that lined the streets. The services lasted three hours.

After His Grace the Archbishop came his assistants robed in golden vestments.

Following them came his Grace, carrying his crozier and wearing the mitre.

In his hand he carried the papal decree appointing him to the See of Toronto.

After responses read by Vicar-General McCann, his Grace ascended the alter and after a profound obeisance read a special prayer.

The Archbishop.

In receiving the vow of obedience from the vicar-general and the priests of the diocese his Grace, seated in his archiepiscopal throne, made a gracious inclination as each advanced and kneeled before him.

The addresses followed, the bishop standing and giving the assembled congregation the first idea of his majestic carriage.

He spoke with a full voice that made every word audible in all parts o fthe building. He spoke with regret of the illness which was the cause of the resignation of Archbishop O'Connor.

"Having followed him in London, I can appreciate his services there as priest and bishop," he declared. He hoped his retirement would make happy the evening of his days.

Triumphs and Trials.

"Bishops have their triumphs and trials," he said, and paid a loving tribute to the bishops who had preceded him.

Catholic education, he said, was a question important for the state and for the church. The soul required grace to enable it to reach its home, and grace came through pain. Before one could pray properly a teacher was necessary who was competent to give instruction.

"It is the duty of parents," His Grace declared, "to supply both the body and soul of their children. As the soul is more important than the body. If schools are necessary for the secular education of scholar for the time of this world, surely they are necessary for the education for heaven and for eternity."'

Papal Delegate.

Mgr. Sbarretti spoke for half an hour in reply to addresses of welcome. made a feeling reply to the clergy and laity for their loyalty and kindness. He particularly thanked the people of London for their presence. It crowned many years of kindness to him from people he deeply loved.

Archbishop's Mother.

Mrs. McEvay, 615 Dufferin street, mother of the archbishop, and his brother, James McEvay, of 141 Amelia street, were interested spectators in the impassing ceremony, occupying seats of honor.

The city council was represented by Mayor Oliver and Controllers Ward and Spence; the Dominion Government by Secretary of State Scott; the cit of Ottawa by Mayor Scott, and the Ontario Legislature by Hon. J. J. Foy.

About 200 of the Catholic population of London came down for ceremony in special train.

A Tribute to the Archbishop.

The Globe says: A little below the average height and stoutly built, the new Roman Catholic Archbishop of the province of Toronto, the Most Rev. Fergus Patrick McEvay, D.D., formerly Bishop of London, who arrived in Toronto last night, bears his character in his face. For all he has a genial smile and a cheerful greeting, but the massive forehead shows the power of an organizer, and the strong features the will to carry out his purpose. His appearance and manner, in fact, are such as would be expected by all who are acquainted with the energy and tact with which he has carried out his duties in those spheres he has previously occupied, making him a personality which not only has won the respect and love of those with whom he has come in contcat, but which eminently fits him for the higher office he is now called upon to fill.

London Pastor Weds Hamilton Lady

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Burlington, June 17.—One of the prettiest weddings of the season was solemnized here at 1 o'clock this afternoon in Burlington Methodist Church, when Miss Alice Gertrude Rowsome, B. A., eldest daughter of the late W. H. Rowsome, of Burlington, was married to Rev. John Gibson Inkster, B. A., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, London.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers and evergreens.

The bride looked very pretty attired in a traveling dress of white cloth.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. L. McIrvine, of Burlington Methodist Church, assisted by Rev. H. Beverly Ketchum, of McNab Street Church, Hamilton.

The bride was supported by her sister, Miss Jo Rowsome.

The groosman was Rev. Professor D. J. Fraser, LL.D., of the Presbyterian College, Montreal.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Inkster left on an extended tour of Scotland and England.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful brooch of amethysts; to her mother, a brooch of woven gold; to the bridesmaid, a pearl cluster, and to the groomsman, a handsome set of gold cuff links.

CANADIANS SHUT OUT

Trouble at Convention of Pressmen and Their Assistants.

Mobile, Ala., June 16.—The second day of the convention of the International Pressmen and Assistants' Union brought forth a big fight in the credentials committee. Contests were made on seven Canadian unions, one each in New York and Dallas and three in Boston. All were behind in their dues to the international organization.

The New York, Dallas and Boston delegates were finally seated under guarantee that the arrears will be paid. The Canadian delegates wired home tonight for instructions and their case will be determined tomorrow.

President Berry was renominated today, without opposition. Four candidates were named for each of the three vice-presidencies and three candidates were named for secretary-treasurer. The greatest contest is for secretary-treasurer. Caucuses have been held by the Web pressmen, the flatbed pressmen and the job pressmen, and indications point to a probable break in the convention tomorrow.

ARCHBISHOP M'EVAY D. D.

which fires the heart of the most cynical. It was within the boundaries of the archdiocese that the heroic Jesuit missionaries to the Indian tribes laid down their lives for the faith of the crucified Savior. If the blood of martyrs be the seed of faith, then a rich harvest of souls should be the portion of the church in these parts.

The See of Toronto has been blessed by a line of illustrious churchmen, who, in season and out of season, devoted their talents and their lives to the building of the church in the archdiocese. They laid the foundations deep and broad. With them there was no trimming of Catholic truth, no minimizing of sacred dogma. The luster of their light was seen, and the effect of their power felt beyond the most distant boundaries of the Dominion. To their valiant efforts in days of stress and struggle, the excellent school system which the Catholic children of Ontario enjoy today, is chiefly due. Institutions of learning and homes of charity were planted and fostered by them. Everywhere in the archdiocese may be seen monuments of their zeal and labors. Their teaching and example were productive of a people of strong faith and patriotic spirit.

Such, your grace, is the heritage which comes into your hands today. The memory of the martyred missionaries, the fruits of the labors of five most devoted bishops, the garnerings of several generations of self-sacrificing priests, make a precious trust. This trust, we are sure, will be safe in your keeping. May your own reign add to the store of noble achievement of the prelates of Toronto.

Opportunity will not be wanting. The building up of a priesthood to meet the growing needs of the archdiocese, the developing of Catholic education along safe lines, the devising of ecclesiastical legislation, which will satisfy present requirements and safeguard the interests of the church in the future, call for the exercise of skillful churchmanship.

In all your undertakings for the advancement of religion and the good of country, you may rely with absolute confidence on the unwavering loyalty and patriotic support of the priests of the Archdiocese of Toronto.

May God bless your administration; may it be one of peace and prosperity. May the great archangel, the patron of the archdiocese, guide your footsteps on the way, and when the time shall come to lay down the crozier, may you be able to say with the great apostle, "Bonum certamen certavi, cursum consummavi, fidem servavi. In reliquo reposita est mihi corona justitiae, quam reddet mihi Dominus in illa die justus judex."

Address From the Laity.

To the Most Reverend Fergus Patrick McEvay, D.D., Archbishop of Toronto:

May it please your Grace,—On this memorable day when you assume the high office to which it has recently pleased the Holy Father to appoint you on behalf of the laity of the archdiocese, we approach your episcopal throne to welcome you as our chief pastor, and to assure you of the good will and affection of your new flock.

While we deeply regret the cause which has impelled our late revered archbishop to lay down the burdens and to free himself from the responsibilities of the episcopate the selection of yourself as his successor has filled us with confidence for the future of this diocese.

Your designation by the Holy See as our archbishop would suffice to insure for you our loyalty and our religion as Catholics; the dignity of your exalted position of itself commands respect. For the third time consecutively the Bishop of London becomes the Archbishop of Toronto. Our knowledge of the many excellent qualities of your illustrious predecessors, our appreciation of the splendid work accomplished by them, and our grateful recognition of the benefits which were have derived from their paternal solicitude, and exemplary lives lead us to regard as most auspicious the appointment to Toronto of another Bishop of London. What we have learned of your own zeal and devotion, first as a priest of the diocese of Kingston, and afterwards in the diocese of Peterboro, of your untiring energy and of the success which attended your labors as vicar-general in Hamilton, and of the esteem and affection in which you are held by the clergy and laity of the diocese of London, which you have governed so successfully for the past eight years, justifies our confidence that your grace will receive from your people in this archdiocese, not merely the loyalty and obedience due to their archbishop, but an affectionate regard and esteem which only a noble and loving personality can inspire.

Under the administration of your immediate predecessor the churches and schools of the diocese have largely increased in number. The Catholic parishes in this, your metropolitan city, and it suburbs, now number sixteen; the Catholic population has grown until it approximates 50,000 souls. Your new vineyard is large, and, creditable as have been the achievements of the past, we realize that there is still much to be accomplished.

Our educational advantages of today are undoubtedly great as compared with those of years not long past. Yet we believe that there is still room for progress and improvement in this field; and we are especially delighted to know that in the person of your grace, the cause of Catholic education, advanced as well as primary, has an ardent friend and advocate. We can assure your grace that in whatever measures you may deem it advisable to take for the welfare of your people, in whatever plans you may devise for the advancement of the sacred causes of religion and education, which we fully recognize cannot be separated, you may rely upon the active sympathy and heartfelt cooperation of your people.

In conclusion permit us to ask your grace's blessing for ourselves and our families and for all the Catholic people of this archdiocese and allow us to express the hope that your incumbency of this see may cover many years, and that those years may be faruitful of great and lasting benefits to the church of Toronto, and also replete with happiness and benedictions for yourself.

Signed on behalf of the committee of Catholic laymen,

EUGENE O'KEEFE, Chairman.
JUSTICE ANGLIN.

PAPAL DELEGATE AND THE ARCHBISHOP MEET.

Influential Crowd, Clergy and Laymen at the Toronto Depot.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, June 17.—A quaint and picturesque sight was seen at the union depot last evening, when the two great heads of the Roman Catholic Church, His Excellency Most Rev. Donatus Sbarretti, D.D., papal delegate to Canada, and His Grace Archbishop McEvay met and exchanged the "Osculum Pacis."

It was a most modern setting to old world customs, and was deeply impressive to those fortunate enough to witness it.

Archbishop McEvay arrived from Guelph at 6:30 o'clock. He was accompanied by Father John Coffey, of the Jesuit Institute, Guelph. Vicar-General McCann joined him at West Toronto. Fathers T. Sullivan, Thorold, Whalen and O'Donnell, of St. Mary's, went to Guelph to meet his grace, and returned with him.

A Distinguished Gathering.

As the train rolled in, there was a distinguished gathering of clergy and laity to greet the new archbishop.

The clergy of the Archiepiscopal See were represented by Very Rev. Vicar-General McCann, Dean Morris (St. Catherines), Rev. Fathers Eohleder, Canning, Hand, Whalen, Teefy, Murray, Buck, Coyle, O'Donnell, W. McCann, McGrand, O'Malley, Minehan, Kelly, Doherty, McCabe and McCafferty.

The committee representing the laity was composed of some of the most distinguished sons of the church in Canada, among them being Hon. J. J. Foy, Eugene O'Keefe, Justice Anglin, L. F. Dasseau, Joseph Morin, E. F. Wheaton, William Dineen, M. Burns, T. F. Ford, R. P. Gough, J. G. Seitz, Wm. Burns, E. J. Hern, F. O. Parssall, Hugo Kelly, D. A. Carry, J. R. Mallon, J. W. Morgan, J. T. Ryan, W. P. Murray, D. Miller, R. Elmsley, W. A. Kavanagh, E. J. Halloran, Controller Ward, L. J. Cosgrave, T. P. Phalen, M. O'Connor, J. J. O'Hearn, E. J. Kiely, James O'Hagan, Dr. A. J. McDonagh.

On leaving the train his grace was surrounded by the clergy and laity who knelt and kissed his hand. He was then taken to the waiting-room where an informal reception was held.

The Papal Delegate.

When the 7:05 train rolled in from Ottawa with the papal delegate, Most Rev. Donatus Sbarretti on board, his excellency found the newly-appointed archbishop in waiting.

He was welcomed by the clergy and laity, who knelt and kissed the purple gloved hand of his excellency.

He was then conducted to Archbishop McEvay. The two dignitaries of the church met in the waiting-room and embraced, exchanging the "Osculum Pacis."

They were then shown to their carriages. His excellency accompanied Father Hand to St. Michael's Palace, where he will make his headquarters during his stay in the city.

Archbishop McEvay went to his own residence on Sherbourne street.

Accompanying his excellency were the Archbishop of Halifax, Mons. MacDonald, Bishop of Alexandra, Bishop O'Connor, of Peterboro, and Rev. Father Sinott, secretary to Mons. Sbarretti.

THE WATER BYLAW.

The water problem has been before the citizens in an urgent form for some years. Local and outside engineers have submitted varying reports, and there has been also sharp difference of opinion among laymen and experts over the several schemes which have been laid before the public from time to time, with the result that nothing has been accomplished while the situation has been growing worse.

The plan evolved by the present board of water commissioners is a compromise, and is supported by men who have hitherto held divergent views. It combines what are believed to be strong points in three or four schemes which have been previously recommended by engineers.

No one disputes the superiority of spring water for potable purposes, and it is believed the present plan will supplement the supply to such an extent that for many years citizens will have spring water exclusively for household use. The minimum estimate of the combined flow of the Kilworth and Cronyn and White springs is 1,300,000 gallons daily, or one-third the total consumption of the city. If the experience of the Springbank system is repeated, the flow will be much greater when excavations are made.

One praiseworthy feature is a high-pressure service extending for nearly ten miles through the central and manufacturing districts. Under any plan, stronger and larger mains would have had to be laid in the business section, so that the high-pressure system adds little to the cost of the present scheme. It will effect a large reduction in insurance rates and enable the city to make a stronger bid for new industries. It will also minimize the risk of a conflagration in the congested district, which would bring calamity to nearly every home in the city.

An adjunct of the scheme is a filtration plant by means of which filtered river water could be turned into the high-pressure mains if the reserve of spring water became exhausted during a great fire. The filtered river water would be confined by check valves to the high-pressure mains and would not enter the ordinary service pipes. In years to come, when the spring water supply was no longer sufficient for all purposes, it could be supplemented by filtered river water; but that time will be far in the future if the present plan is adopted.

Citizens cannot safely postpone the question again. They may be thankful if they get through this season without serious inconvenience. No time should be lost in beginning work, and if the bylaw carries on Monday, relief will be offered next summer.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY IN ENGLAND.

It is scarcely a year since the English employers' liability law went into force, but the public has been enabled to see how this drastic legislation works. Under this law any employe, even a domestic servant, who sustains an injury from any cause while in the performance of his or her duties, is entitled to compensation while disabled at the rate of one-half the regular wages, the maximum allowance being $5 per week. In the case of a fatal accident, dependents of the victim are entitled to receive the lump sum of three years' wages.

But for the fact that insurance companies came to the relief of the employer and for a nominal consideration assumed the risk, there would doubtless have been a much stronger protest against the law than there was. But the employer found that he could be relieved of the liability on payment of an annual premium of from 62 to 75 cents for each woman domestic servant and about double that amount for men, and considered he was escaping pretty easily.

The insurance companies, however, have found from experience that this business is anything but a paying one, and the prospect is that the coming year will see employers either paying a much higher premium or carrying the risks themselves. Since July last, when the law went into operation, one company has paid fifteen claims for fatal accidents and has received claims for over 6,000 minor accidents to domestic servants alone. In estimating compensation the law adds to a servants' wages the value of board and lodging, fixed usually at $2 50 per week, so that the indemnity in case of disablement amounts to a considerable sum.

The law undoubtedly encourages fraud and malingering. Recently a boy employed in a machine shop deliberately put one of his fingers under a steam hammer because he had not been permitted to attend a football match, and the employer had to pay him damages. In another case, a householder employed a man to clean his windows once a fortnight. On one of his visits the windowcleaner, entirely through his own fault, fell into an area and was killed. A brother who was dependent on deceased claimed compensation and the court ordered the householder to pay $965.

One interesting fact brought out by the operation of the law is that there is no justification for the discrimination against old age which many employers resorted to when the act went into force. An employer of thousands of men, after investigating the liability to accident, finds it is much greater among young than older men. Among men between 18 and 25 years of age the percentage of accidents is 8.5. From that age upward there is a steady decline until at the age of 55 and over the per centage is but 2.40.

Evidently this law does not permanently settle the employers' liability question, for already there is talk of demanding amendment or repeal.

PROTECTING THE GRAIN-GROWERS.

The Dominion Government has for some time had under consideration the report of the royal commission appointed two years ago for the purpose of investigating the working of the Manitoba Grain Act. As a result of the recommendations of that body Sir Richard Cartwright has introduced a bill, which is now before the Senate, to amend the act in question, the object being to leave nothing undone that will enable the farmer of Western Canada to obtain the full market value of his grain, with as little deduction as possible.

Since its appointment the commission has devoted much of its time and attention to investigation of conditions in the West. It has also held sittings in some parts of Eastern Canada and last year visited England and inquired into the mode in which the trade and commerce in grain is conducted in the old country. In this way much valuable information has been gained which has been laid before Parliament.

There can be no doubt, as Sir Richard Cartwright pointed out in introducing the bill, that western grain-growers have experienced considerable hardships, mainly owing to the difficulty of obtaining proper transport—that a very large and undue difference has existed between the prices at which the farmers were able to sell the grain on the street and the prices which it was actually worth after making all reasonable deduction for the cost of transport and necessary delay in handling it. In many cases this difference or "spread," as it is called, is said to have amounted to a very large percentage on the total value of the grain.

At present the operation of the grain act is confined to Western Canada and as far east as Fort William. The present bill makes it apply all over Eastern Canada to the seaboard as well. In consequence of complaints of losses of grain when in transport from Fort William to the seaboard, though the extent of such losses has probably been exaggerated, it is proposed to appoint salaried officers whose duty it will be to look carefully after the weighing of grain when it is delivered at eastern lake ports.

The Government in its desire to meet the pressing needs of the Western farmer, solicits suggestions from members from the new provinces, and before the bill passes the final stage it will likely undergo considerable amendment. Meantime the measure is taken as further evidence of the Government's earnest desire to remove all possible obstacles to the progress of newer Canada.

What shall the harvest be? is the leading question in the west.

The water scheme now before the ratepayers will give them more for their money than any other yet presented.

It was decided that parliament should open every year in November so as to spare members the infliction of spending the dog days in Ottawa, but the House will probably sit all summer, thanks to windbags and obstructionists. It was not foreseen that the Opposition would go to the dogs.

The Minister of Railway's bill to bring telegraphs and telephones under the jurisdiction of the railway commission, has passed its second reading. The minister expressed the opinion that private ownership and Government control of these great public utilities was the most satisfactory policy. It is the policy which the Federal Government offered to apply to Niagara power,and to which the Ontario Government would, no doubt, have gladly assented but for the agitation raised by Mr. Beck.

Our local contemporary mistakes the meaning of an allusion in these columns. It was pointed out that deputy returning officers, who had been relieved from municipal duty because of mistakes, had been appointed to act in the Beck-McEvoy election, and it might be that similar errors had been made which would explain any suspicious circumstances at the provincial polls. This assertion is not slander, as our contemporary professes to think. At the same time, Mr. Beck's managers ought not to have appointed men who had been shown to be incompetent.

THE VACATION STRAIN.

Time to begin resting for the strain of the summer vacation.

PRAYING FOR GRANDMA.

[Church Times.]

The little girl was very fond of pleasant days and at the close of a heavy rainstorm petitioned in her prayer for fine weather; when, the next morning, the sun shone bright and clear, she became jubilant and told her prayer to her grandmother, who said: "Well, dear; why can't you pray tonight that it may be warmer tomorrow,so grandma's rheumatism will be better?"

"All right, I will," was the quick response; and that night, as she knelt she made this request in her prayers, "Oh, God, please make it hot for grandma."

HAS DONE ITS WORK.

[Stratford Beacon.]

Now watch Whitney drop the Niagara power scheme like a hot potato. It accomplished its purpose in the elections, and that is all it was intended for. "My dear Mackenzie" having got control of the Electric Development Company, he will boss the job. Elections debts have to be paid.

HIT IN TWO WAYS.

[Brantford Expositor.]

Mr. Pense, of Kingston, in addressing the electors after his defeat, said he had found the liquor interest solid against him, and he had not received the support from temperance men that he had a right to expect. What happened in Kingston seems to have occurred all over the province.

A PRAYER IN DARKNESS.

[G. K. Chesterton.]

This much, O heaven—if I should brood or rave,
Pity me not; but let the world be fed,
Yes, in my madness if I strike me dead,
Heed you the grass that grows upon my grave.

If I dare snarl between this sun and sod,
Whimper and clamor, give me grace to own,
In sun and rain and fruit in season shown,
The shining silence of the scorn of God.

Thank God the stars are set beyond my power,
If I must travel in a night of wrath,
Thank God my tears will never vex a moth,
Nor any curse of mine cut down a flower.

Men say the sun was darkened; yet I had Thought it beat brightly, even on Calvary;
And He that hung upon the Torturing Tree,
Heard all the crickets singing, and was glad.

IT DID.

[Philadelphia Ledger.]

"Doesn't begging make you ashamed?"

"Sure. If you knew how stingy some men were you would be ashamed of being human."

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

[New York Sun.]

Henrich Conried, the retiring manager of the Metropolitan Opera House said at a recent dinner in New York:

"Yes, in that crisis I made a mistake, as queer a mistake as one that was made last week by a friend of mine, a Lutheran clergyman.

"The clergyman had advertised for a butler, and the next morning after breakfast 'a well-dressed, clean-shaven young man in black was ushered into his study.

"'Name, please?' said the clergyman.

"'Hilary Arbuthnot, sir.'

"'Age?'

"'Twenty-eight.'

"'What work have you been accustomed to?'

"'I am a lawyer, sir.'

"The clergyman started. This was odd. However, as he knew, many were called in the law, few chosen.

"'But,' he said, 'do you understand the conduct of a household '

"'In a general way, yes,' murmured the applicant.

"'Can you carve?'

"'Yes.'

"'Wash glass and silver?'

"'I—er—think so.' The young man seemed embarrassed. He frowned and blushed. Just then the clergyman's wife entered.

"'Are you married?' was her first question.

"'That,' said the young man, 'was what I called to see your husband about, madam. I desire to know if he can make it convenient to officiate at my wedding at noon next Thursday week.'"

A TRIBUTE TO DRUMMOND.

[Toronto Star.]

Following are the closing lines of a series of studies on "The Poet of the 'Habitant,'" William Henry Drummond, by Pierre Lorraine, translated from Le Journal de Francoise:

Drummond was a humorist incidentally, but above all, the portrayer of a people light-hearted and with a quick perception of the comic side of things. The author would not fail, of course, to bring out so important a characteristic. In this it does not appear to us that he has gone too far.

To Canadians he was what Burns was to the Highland peasants of Scotland, James Whitcomb Riley to the farmers of Indiana, George Washington Cable to the Creoles of Louisiana. He has succeeded as they did in bringing the reader into direct contact with the lives, ideals, sufferings and mirth of his models. He possessed the rear quality of accuracy of touch, without ceasing to be a poet, and the rough language he used was far from weakening the impress of truth which distinguishes his work.

Dialect poetry is the least artificial of all, its aim being candor and sincerity. As Browning so aptly put it in "The Book and the Ring," it must be "human at the red stripe (stirp) of the heart."

Such was Drummond. French-Canadians owe a debt of gratitude to this man of another race, who has been able to paint them with so much love and truth.

CALEB POWERS' WEIRD EXPERIENCE

Climax of Strange Drama—He Fought Against Death for Eight Years.

Frankfort. Ky., June 16.—By announcing the pardon of Caleb Powers and James Howard, Governor Willson closed the last chapter in the history of this state, in which the people of all sections of the United States have formally expressed their interest by signing the petitions for pardon. The two men were at once released, Powers from the jail at Georgetown and Howard from the penitentiary here.

The Tragedy.

In the closing days of January eight years ago, while the contest of William Goebel for the gubernatorial seat occupied by William S. Taylor was being heard, Goebel was shot, dying later from his wound. The shot was believed to have come from a half-open window of the secretary of state's office.

The campaign that ended in the defeat of Goebel at the polls, the struggle incident to the legislative contest whereby he snatched the governorship from Taylor, his assassination and the campaign of proscription waged by his partisians after his death were replete with dramatic situations and crowded the stage with actors who played important parts; but of all the participants none, not even Goebel himself, focused public attention more clearly than Caleb Powers, the Republican secretary of state.

$50,000 Reward.

Powers has been fighting with a halter around his neck for eight years. During all that time he has lain largely in the power of his political opponents, the majority of those who were engaged in prosecuting him being partisans of Goebel. These opponents were surrounded by a horde of witnesses and detectives and backed by the $50,000 reward fund which the Goebel Democrats in the Legislature voted to secure the conviction of the murderers.

Four times Powers has been tried for his life, the last trial resulting in a hung jury.

At the hour Goebel was assassinated in Frankfort, Powers was some two hundred miles away on a train bound for western Kentucky, where he intended raising a second "peaceful army" or "petition in boots" to protest against what seemed would be the certain course of the legislature in proceeding to oust Governor Taylor and seat Goebel on contest proceedings. He returned to Frankfort and remained there during the stormy days that culminated in the installment of Goebel as governor upon his deathbed.

Pardoned Before Arrest.

Soon after, seeing the trend of events, Powers and a policeman attempted to leave the capital by stealth. They were caught, and when given preliminary arraignment produced pardons signed by Taylor and dated prior to Goebel's installation as governor. Although such pardons issued in advance of trial have been upheld by the Kentucky court of appeals as legal, those produced by Powers and his companion were held to be of no effect and were cited by Goebel men as additional evidence of the guilt of the accused.

James B. Howard was alleged to be the man who fired the shot that killed Goebel, and he was under a life sentence.

Governor Willson gave out lengthy statements of his reasons for pardoning Powers and Howard, saying in part:

"Application has been made to the governor for the pardon of Caleb Powers, who stands charged by indictment found in the Franklin Circuit Court and afterward transferred on change of venue to the Scott Circuit Court, with the crime of 'being accessory before the fact to the wilful murder of William Goebel.' The application is supported by petitions recommending the pardon of the accused, signed by nearly 500,000 persons some 240,000 Kentuckians, and a large proportion are Democrats.

"The murder of Governor Goebel destroyed a remarkable life, brought the deepest grief to his family and thousands of friends who loved him, overthrew a whole state election, destroyed the peace and good feling of the state for eight years, set neighbors against neighors, made politics almost war, stained the good name of Kentucky and shocked the civilized world.

Like War in State.

"The conditions which existed when the murder was committed baffle description, and already, after only eight years, seem incredible. The bitter struggle in the Democratic party had resulted in the election of the Republican state officers and the issue of the certificates of election to them by two of the three members of the state election board, all three being Democrats. This was followed by a contest upon the two grounds of military intimidation in Louisville and tissue ballots, with no real merit in either charge.

"I have, with patient work and care, read, studied and considered the thousands of pages of the testimony of the great number of witnesses in these trials. After due notice to the representatives of the commonwealth and of the accused and after full argument before me in public by both sides, and after a most patient, laborious and careful examination of all of the evidence, in the trials, I grant Caleb Powers a full and unconditional pardon for the offense with which he stands charged and a restoration to all his rights of citizenship and order that he forthwith be released from the jail in which he is incarcerated, and in discharge of my duty under the above constitutional provision I now state as my reason for granting a pardon that I am firmly convinced that he is, beyond all reasonable doubt, innocent of the crime charged against him in the indictment and that any further prosecution against him for the crime so charged would be a great wrong and against the peace and well-being of the commonwealth."

The evidence against Youtsey was reviewed as proving that he was guilty.

Governor Willson also granted a pardon to Caleb Powers upon the indictment pending against him in the Franklin Circuit Court charging subornation of perjury.

Back to Practice.

Powers, after his release gave out this statement: "I am going home to my poor old mother and will remain there a few weeks in the hope of regaining my health. If my health is sufficiently recovered by Sept. 1, I shall re-enter the practice of law in my home town, Barbourville, Ky., unless something much better presents itself between now and then."

William S. Taylor, former governor of Kentucky and now a fugitive in Indianapolis, where he has lived since the assassination of Governor Goebel, made this comment when he learned of the pardons:

"The pardon of Caleb Powers and James Howard is a most righteous act. Never before in the history of this country have two men suffered more unjustly.

SOCIALISTS WIN SEVERAL SEATS

Results of Final Elections for Prussian Diet—Few Other Changes.

Berlin, June 17.—The results of the final elections for the Prussian Diet yesterday make but little change in the forecasts sent out.

A feature of the composition of the new House will be the appearance of the Socialist members, numbering six, and possibly seven, as the result of the vote in one of the districts that has not yet been recorded.

The Poles also will be increased by two members, while the Extreme Conservatives have gained eight seats at the expense of the more Liberal groups.

Otherwise the changes are merely in persons.

The representatives of most of the parties are inclined to welcome the Socialists, as their presence is considered likely to calm the agitation for suffrage. Their election is regarded in some quarters as proof that even the antiquated system now in vogue permits all classes to share in legislation.

THE PAN-ANGLICAN CONGRESS OPENS

Great Reception To Delegates From This Side of the Atlantic.

London, June 16.—At the Pan-Anglican Conference the Archbishop of Toronto presided over the section which discussed the work in the prairies and foothills.

During the discussion of the marriage question, under the presidency of the Bishop of Montreal, the statements that divorce was practically unknown in Canada, and that no Canadian clergyman would celebrate the marriage of a man with his deceased wife's sister were loudly cheered. Canon Tucker emphasized the high standard of morality obtaining in Canada, despite the increase in illegitimacy, due to the growth of industrialism in the cities. A Whitechapel delegate observed that more than seventy-five per cent of the emigrants chosen to be helped to Canada were living in concubinage. The Bishop of Albany hoped that instead of the United States corrupting Canada, Canada would correct the United States. The Bishop of Montreal expressed great satisfaction at the magnificently conservative ring of the debate.

Replying to the toast to "Our Guests," proposed by the Premier at the Pilgrim's dinner last night, the Archbishop of Rupert's Land remarked on the magnificence of the reception accorded to the oversea Pan-Anglicans, and pointed out amid laughter that Saskatchewan had a town called Asquith, which also had its education question.

The conference now in session is certainly a unique one. From every corner of the empire, from every quarter of the civilized world, and from parts of the earth still peopled with heathens, a host of delegates have come, representative of the English Church and its large family of daughter churches.

In England and Wales there are thirty-seven dioceses, but beyond the pale of the old land the English Church has mothered no fewer than two hundred and fourteen daughter dioceses. In the United States and Canada there are one hundred and eighteen such dioceses; in Australia twenty, in the West Indies nine, in India eleven, New Zealand seven, in South Africa ten, tropical Africa six, in China and Japan eleven, and so on, until in faraway Melanesia there is but one.

TORPEDO PIERCES MONITOR'S ARMOR

Test on the Iron-Clad Florida Proves Worth of Bulkhead—A Great Shock.

Norfolk, Va., June 16.— With Commander W. I. Chambers, two officers and thirty men in the superstructure, the United States monitor Florida was struck Saturday by a powerful Whitehead torpedo. Secretary of Navy Metcalf witnessed the test from the deck of the Mayflower and a great crowd lined the shore. The test had been so nicely calculated that there was practically no danger to the men.

For a few minutes before the crash the spectators were held in breathless silence. Slowly the torpedo boat Morris crept up to the monitor. There was a ripple at her bow and along a line aiming straight for the Florida the spectators saw a tiny white cap like the fin of a shark. As it touched the hull of the Florida there came a tremendous concussion. The waters foamed about the monitor and the big ship shook from stem to stern. Particles of steel flew through the air. One piece dropped near the crowd on shore.

In a few seconds the water quieted and the men aboard the Florida were seen running about the deck. To the surprise of all the spectators, the great ship did not sink. This meant that the test had been worth while—that the specially designed bulkhead had demonstrated its usefulness.

Cheers From Spectators.

A lusty cheer rose from the nearby war craft and was taken up on shore by the crowd. Government tugs quickly surrounded the Florida and navy officers jumped aboard to see what damage had been done.

The flying steel from the torpedo showed that the new bulkhead repelled the torpedo, saving the ship from total destruction.

Secretary of the Navy Metcalf and his guests on the Mayflower boarded the Florida and inspected the ship. They also commended Commander Chambers and his men for their gallantry in staying on board. The Florida's crew had weathered the flying debris without a scratch. With Secretary Metcalf was Secretary of War Taft, Postmaster-General Meyer, Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, Lieut.-Col. Charles L. McCawley and Lieutenant Comander C. L. Davis.

Shallow Water.

The Florida was anchored in shallow water of Sewell's Point, at the mouth of the Elizabeth River and within sight of the scene of the Monitor-Merrimac battle.

The Florida was fortified wtih a watertight bulkhead specially constructed and designed to represent actual war conditions. The object sought was to determine whether this form of bulkhead with which, if formidable, all the modern American ships of war probably will be provided, would successfully withstand the force of the explosive contained in the torpedo, or in default of that whether the effect of the charge would be to scatter destruction far and wide and possibly sink the ship.

Like British Tests.

In some respects the tests were similar to that conducted in 1903 by the British Admiralty with the target vessel Belle Isle, but the test with the Florida was the first experiment of the kind in the American navy. In the case of the Belle Isle the bottom of the ship was damaged extensively by the force of the explosion, and it was found impossible to tow the battered hulk back again into the harbor in time to prevent her sinking. She was finally pushed aground by tugs and beached. The outcome of this experiment was therefore awaited with much interest.

Two hundred and twenty pounds of gun-cotton comprised the explosive charge carried by the torpedo. Guncotton is a powerful explosive, but the hope of the officials was that the damage it might do may be absorbed locally, thus insuring the practical stability of the remainder of the vessel's watertight compartments. The torpedo was aimed to strike below the waterline armor belt of the ship.

Effects of Shock.

Considerable time and work was expended on the Florida in preparing her for the test.

The arrangements were carried out in detail without an apparent hitch.

The officers and crew inside the superstructure of the vessel waited for a few moments before venturing out on deck to ascertain the damage. They found that on and above the deck the damage done was confined to bending some of the frameworks which supported the booms holding the torpedo nets, the cracking of several plates, the breaking of iron guy ropes, and breaking three booms from their fastenings, letting a net used for protecting the after part of the hull drop into the sea.

Collision Mat Stops Water.

When it struck the Florida had about four feet of free board and was anchored in about fifteen feet of water. A collision mat put against the hole made by the torpedo kept the water out while the pumps were working.

By direction of Secretary Metcalf the visiting newspaper men were allowed aboard the Florida after the test and were taken down in the boiler and engine-room, just abaft the compartment into which the torpedo was sent. In that portion of the ship there appeared to be no damage. The injury done was largely to the compartment fired into and also just forward of that compartment. It was estimated that the charge penetrated six or eight feet.

LIGHTNING'S WORK.

Welland, June 16.—Word has been received here of the narrow escape of Charles Collins, druggist, of Welland, and E. W. Tench, of Stamford. Mr. Collins spent Sunday with his friend in Stamford, and both were standing near the door watching the approach of the rainstorm. Suddenly, and without any previous peals to warn them, a lightning bolt struck a tall tree, which stood within ten feet of the door. The tree, which measured three feet through, was shattered to kindling wood, one heavy piece passing the prostrate forms of the two men, burying itself in the ground a hundred feet away. The men were stunned, but recovered later.

THE CRIMSON BLIND

BY FRED M. WHITE

"That I will tell you presently. Mr. Rawlins, you have a daughter."

The hard look died out of the listener's eyes.

"Whom I love better than my life," he said. "There are two John Rawlins'—the one you know; and, well, the other one. I should be sorry to show you the other one."

"For the sake of your daughter I don't want to see the other one."

"Then why do you pit yourself against me like this?"

"I don't think you are displaying your usual lucidity," Chris said, coolly. Her heart was beating fast, but she did not show it. "Just reflect for a moment. I have found you out. I know pretty well what you are. I need not have told you anything of this. I need have done no more than gone to the police and told them where to find you. But I don't want to do that; I hate to do it after what I saw last night. You have your child, and she loves you. Could I unmask you before her eyes?"

"You would kill her," Rawlins said, a little unsteadily; "and you would kill me, I verily believe. That child is all the world to me. I committed my first theft so that she could have the change the doctors declared to be absolutely necessary. I intended to repay the money—the old, old story. And I was found out by my employers and discharged. Thank goodness, my wife was dead. Since then I have preyed on society. . . But I need not go into that sordid story. You are not going to betray me?"

"I said before that I should do nothing of the kind."

"Then why do you let me know that you have discovered my identity?"

"Because I want you to help me. I fancy you respect my sex, Mr. Rawlins?"

"Call me Smith, please. I have always respected your sex. All the kindness and sympathy of my life have been for women. And I can lay my hand on my heart and declare that I never wronged one of them in thought or deed. The man who is cruel to women is no man."

"And yet your friend Reginald Henson is that sort."

Rawlins smiled again. He began to understand a little of what was passing in Chris' mind.

"Would you mind going a little more into details?" he suggested. "So Henson is that sort. Well, I didn't know, or he had never had my assistance in his little scheme. Oh, of course, I have known him for years as a scoundrel. So he oppresses women."

"He has done so for a long time: he is blighting my life and the life of my sister and another. And it seems to me that I have that rascal under my thumb at last. You cannot save him—you can do no more than place obstacles in my way; but even those I should overcome. And you admit that I am likely to be dangerous to you."

"You can kill my daughter. I am in your power to that extent."

"As if I should," Chris said. "It is only Reginald Henson whom I want to strike. I want you to answer a few questions; to tell me why you went to Walen's and induced them to procure a certain cigar-case for you, and why you subsequently went to Lockhart's at Brighton and bought a precisely similar one."

Rawlins looked in surprise at the speaker. A tinge of admiration was on his face. There was a keenness and audacity after his own heart.

"Go on," he said, slowly. "Tell me everything openly and freely, and when you have done so I will give you all the information that lies in my power."

CHAPTER L.

Rawlins Is Candid.

"So Reginald Henson bullies women," Rawlins said, after a long pause. There was a queer smile on his face; he appeared perfectly at his ease. He did not look in the least like a desperat criminal whom Chris could have driven out of the country by one word to the police. In his perfectly-fitting gray suit he seemed more like a lord of ancient acres than anything else. "It is not a nice thing to bully women."

"Reginald Henson finds it quite a congenial occupation," Chris said, bitterly.

Rawlins pulled thoughtfully at his cigarette.

"I am to a certain extent in your power," he said. "You have discovered my identity at a time when I could sacrifice thousands for it not to be known that I am in England. How you have discovered me matters as little as how a card-player gets the ace of trumps. And I understand that the price of your silence is the betrayal of Henson?"

"That is about what it comes to," said Cris.

"In the parlance of the lower type of rascal, I am to 'round on my pal?'"

"If you like to put it in that way, Mr. Smith."

"I never did such a thing in my life before. And, at the same time, I don't mind admitting that I was never so sorely tried. At the present moment I am on the verge of a large fortune, and I am making my grand coup honestly. Would you deem it exaggeration on my part if I said that I was exceedingly glad of the fact?"

"Mr. Smith," Chris said, earnestly, "I have seen how fond you are of your daughter."

"That is an exceedingly clever remark of yours, young lady," Rawlins smiled. "You know that you have found the soft spot in my nature, and you are going to hammer on it till you reduce me to submission. I am not a religious man, but my one prayer is that Grace shall never find me out. When my coup comes off I am going to settle in England and become intensely respectable."

"With Reginald Henson for your secretary, I suppose?"

"No, I am going to drop the past. But to return to our subject. Are you asking me to betray Henson to the police?"

"Nothing of the kind," Chris cried, hastily. "I—I would do anything to avoid a family scandal. All I want is a controlling power over the man."

"The man who bullies women?"

"The same. For seven years he has wrecked the lives of five of us—three women. He has parted husband and wife, he has driven the man I love into exile. And the poor wife is gradually going hopelessly mad under his cruelties. And he blackmails us, he extorts large sums of money from us. If you only knew what we have suffered at the hands of the rascal!"

Rawlins nodded in sympathy.

"I did not imagine that," he said. "Of course, I have known for years that Henson was pretty bad. You may smile, but I have never had any sympathy with his methods and hypocritical ways, perhaps because I never did anything of the kind myself. Nobody can say that I ever robbed anybody who was poor or defenseless or foolish. By heavens, I am a more honest man than hundreds of London and New York capitalists. It is the hard rogues amongst us who have always been my mark. But to injure and wound women and children!"

"Which means that you are going to help me?" Chris asked, quietly.

"As far as I can, certainly. Especially as you are going to let Henson down easily. Now please ask me any questions that you like."

"This is very good of you," said Chris. "In the first place, did you ever hear Mr. Henson speak of his relations or friends?"

"Nobody beyond Lord Littimer. You see, Henson and I were extremely useful to one another once or twice, but he never trusted me, and I never trusted him. I never cared for his methods."

"Did you go to Brighton lately on purpose to help him?"

"Certainly not. I had business in Brighton for some considerable time, and my daughter was with me. When she went away to stay with friends for a short time I moved to the Metropole."

"Then why did you go to Walen's in Brighton and ask them to show you some gun-metal cigar-cases like the one in Lockhart's window?"

"Simply because Henson asked me to. He came to me just before I went to the metropole and told me he had a big thing on. He didn't give me the least idea what it was, nor did I ask him. He suggested the idea of the cigar-case, and said that I need not go near Walen's again, and I din't. I assure you I had no curiosity on the matter. In any case a little thing like that couldn't hurt me. Some days later Henson came to me again, and asked me to go to Lockhart's and purchase the cigar-case I had previously seen. He wanted me to get the case so that I could not be traced. Again I agreed. I was leaving the Metropole the next day, so the matter was easy. I called and purchased the cigar-case on approval, I forwarded dollar-notes in payment from the Metropole, and the next day I left."

"And you did all that without a single question?"

"I did. It was only a little consideration for an old confederate."

"And suppose that confederate had played you false?"

Two tiny points of flame danced in Rawlins' eyes.

"Henson would never have dared," he said. "My mind was quite easy on that score."

"I understand," Chris murmured. "And you kept the cigar-case?"

"Yes, I rather liked it. And I could afford a luxury of that kind just then."

"Then why did you dispose of it to Rutter's in Moreton Wells? And why Moreton Wells?"

Rawlins laughed as he lighted a fresh cigarette.

"I came to Moreton Wells knowing that Henson was at Littimer Castle," he explained. "I went there to borrow £200 from Henson. Unfortunately I found him in great need of money. Somebody who had promised him a large sum of money had disappointed him."

Chris smiled. She had heard all about Lady Littimer's adventure with the ring, and her stubborn refusal to give Henson any further supplies.

"Presently I can tell you who disappointed Henson," she said. "But fancy you being short of——"

"Of ready money; I frequently am. One of your great millionaires told me lately that he was frequently hard up for a thousand pounds cash. I have frequently been hard up for five pounds. Hence the fact that I sold the cigar-case at Moreton Wells."

"Well, the ground is clear so far," said Chris. "Do you know Van Sneck?"

"I know Van Sneck very well," Rawlins said, without hesitation. "A wonderfully clever man."

"And a great scoundrel, I presume?"

"Well, on the whole, I should say not. Weak, rather than wicked. Van Sneck has been a tool and creature of Henson's for years. If he could only keep away from the drink he might make a fortune. But what has Van Sneck got to do with it?"

"A great deal," Chris said, drily. "And now, please, follow me carefully what I am going to say. A little time ago we poor, persecuted women put our heads together to get free from Reginald Henson. We agreed to ask Mr. David Steel, the well-known novelist, to show us a way of escape. Unhappily for us, Henson got to know of it."

SAVED BY STOMACH PUMP

Toronto Man Crazed With Pain Took Big Dose of Laudanum.

Toronto, June 16—Richard McLean, of 265 St. Clair avenue, West Toronto, took laudanum to the extent of two ounces last night, and the only reason that he is alive is that the poison was taken in close proximity to Dr. Macnamara's house and that McLean was seen to take it by a boy, who, with rare presence of mind, sprang to McLean's side and knocked the bottle out of his hand. This action would not have saved McLean, but the boy as promptly called assistance, and the man, struggling, was taken to Dr. Macnamara's office, where a stomach pump was promptly used with good effect. He was afterwards removed to his home and is now entirely out of danger.

McLean, shortly after 8 o'clock, walked into T. Padget's store at the corner of Davenport road and Queen street, and asked to see Mr. Padget. The latter was out and McLean left the store and walked along Queen street until he came to the rear of Mr. Padget's premises. Here he produced the vial of laudanum and had swallowed almost all of the contents when the boy interfered.

The police were notified and took possession of the empty vial, which had been secured at Howell's drug store. To the police McLean gave as his reason that he was driven almost out of his mind by rheumatism. It had become unbearable and he thought death was the easiest way out of it.

McLean lives with his wife and an adopted daughter. He is 48 years of age, and has always held the respect of his neighbors.

MR. CLARK GOES TO THE WEST

Mr. A. J. Clark, assistant sales manager, McClary Manufacturing Company, has been appointed manager of the Calgary branch of the company, and will leave at once for the west.

Mr. Clark's regime in the McClary Company extends over a period of thirteen years, in which time he has seen service in factory, office and on the road.

When the business in the Niagara Peninsula assumed such proportions that a branch of the McClary Company was found necessary in Hamilton, Mr. Clark took charge.

Branches having been established at Winnipeg and Vancouver for a score of years, McClarys have become a potent factor in the commercial life of the west, and while Mr. Clark's many friends in Ontario will regret his departure, they know full well his promotion is well deserved, and that he will readily adapt his talents to the new task.

DEATH OF "BLIND TOM"

World-Famous Pianist Was the Son of a Georgia Slave.

New York, June 16.—Thomas Wiggins, known to three generations as "Blind Tom," widely known as a piano player, died on Saturday in the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Bethune Lerche, at No. 60 Twelfth street, Hoboken. He suffered a stroke of paralysis, the second within a comparatively recent period, and died soon afterward.

"Blind Tom" was born near Columbus, Ga., May 25, 1849, his parents being slaves and of pure negro blood. At an early age he developed his wonderful gift, and as a boy pianist he toured this country, and will be remembered by many elderly men and women today as a sensation of two continents.

While he was always known as "Blind Tom" he was never totally blind, and could always distinguish between light and dark. Mentally, he was never much better than an imbecile, and those who saw him on his first concert tours, nearly a half century ago, will remember that he would always stand up from the piano and clap his hands with the audience, which was applauding his remarkable skill. This was a trick which he retained as long as he appeared in public.

Early in life he developed the ability to reproduce on a piano any music that he ever heard. His case attracted the attention of scientists as well as musicians, and he made several fortunes for his managers.

"Blind Tom's" death has been announced many times. It was said that he perished in the Johnstown flood and several other times, but those who saw him when he appeared in the Circle Theater in 1904 recognized in the aged white-haired man the same wonderful pianist they had seen years before as a boy prodigy. He appeared frequently in vaudeville during the last few years.

NO POMPEII FOR CANADA.

Toronto, June 16.—At the Toronto Methodist conference this morning a pastoral address was prepared, which is to be read in all the Methodist churches if possible next Sunday. It deals particularly with morality in public life, and declares that the people must let the politicians know that they want no Pompeii built on Canadian soil.

AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the sores healed. "I took your NEW METHOD TREATMENT for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the NEW METHOD TREATMENT for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish." W. LADIES' COMBINATION CORSET-COVER, DRAWERS AND SHORT PETTICOAT.

Paris Pattern No. 2448

All Seams Allowed.

Nainsook, jaconet, Persian lawn or thin cambric may be all used for this useful little under-garment, which combines three pieces in one; making it delightful for wearing during the warm summer weather. A ribbon-run beading hides the joining of the corset-cover and drawers, which are formed by an extra width of the material being set in under the petticoat at the front. The low round neck is also trimmed with the ribbon-run beading which regulates the fullness, and is finished with an edging of narrow lace. Similar edging is used to trim the armholes. The pattern is in 8 sizes—32 to 46 inches, bust measure. For 36 bust the garment requires 4¼ yards of material 27 inches wide, or 3¼ yards 36 inches wide; 2¾ yards of beading, 5 yards of ribbon, 4 yards of insertion, 6 yards of wide edging and 6½ yards of narrow edging.

HOARSENESS BECOMING COMMON.

Changeable weather causes congestion and ultimately loss of voice. The blood must be drawn from the inflamed part, and this is speedily done by applying Polson's Nerviline which not only equalizes the circulation, but soothes the irritated tissues into normal, healthy condition. Being ever so much stronger, and unlike oily liniments which the surface retains, Nerviline penetrates deeply and quickly—that's why it always cures coughs, colds, aches and pains; try a 25c bottle.

Another Year of Great Prosperity For Canadian Order of Odd Fellows

Grand Master Read His Annual Report at Convention Yesterday.

The annual convention of the C. O. O. F. opened yesterday afternoon with a full attendance of delegates from all over the Dominion or Canada.

The roll calls for about 150 delegates, and practically all of them were seated when the convention opened at 2 o'clock.

After the meeting had come to order, the delegates were welcomed by Grand Master W. T. Jenkins, of Fenelon Falls, who read his annual address. It was as follows:

Grand Master's Address.

"London, June 16, 1908.

"To the members of the Grand Lodge, Canadian Order of Oddfellows:

"Brethren, — Another year has passed in the history of our society, and it gives me pleasure to again give you greeting in this our annual assembly. I anticipate important legislation will be enacted before we part, that will work for good for the order we are all so much interested in and to that end, I would request the delegates to discuss all the important measures, concisely, calmly, charitably and clearly.

"We should not forget at the outset to return our heartiest thanks to the Great Source of all Good for the bounteous manner in which he has showered his many blessings upon us, both as individuals and as an order. May our prayers ever ascend that he may continue to let the light of his countenance shine upon us, and give us peace and prosperity.

Order Is Prosperous.

"During the year just closed our order has enjoyed a marked degree of prosperity and briefly, I would draw your attention to the following facts. We have now the largest membership at any time in the history of the order. Our assets per $1,000 of insurance is higher than ever before. We have instituted more new lodges, and received more applications for membership than any year during the last decade. Our death rate has been the lowest for seven years, while our lapses have been fewer than usual. Particulars of these statements will be found in the report of the executive grand officers, so I need not repeat them. This state of affairs will surely meet with your approval.

Growth in the West.

"Our order has been making rapid strides in the 'growing' part of our Grand Dominion, namely, the new provinces of the west, and we are face to face with the fact that something must be done to bring the E. G. O. into closer touch with this part of our organization, and I trust some scheme may be evolved to meet that desired end ere this grand lodge closes.

An Appointment.

"After many deliberations on the question of appointing a superintendent of organization, your E. G. O. (after receiving his resignation as a member of the board), were unanimously in favor of appointing Bro. R. T. McNichol to the position, and the results obtained in the short time he has filled the office amply justify his appointment, and I firmly believe that when the plans he is laying have more time to mature, we will find our organization department more effective than ever it has been in the days gone by.

"I appointed Bro. P. G. M. Robert Clark to fill the vacancy on the board for the balance of the term, knowing his past experience on the board would be of great benefit to us.

"During the year, I received the resignation of the D. D. G. Ms. of Windsor and Owen Sound districts, and, as D. G. M. Bro. Irwin was engaged in those districts at the time, trying to infuse some enthusiasm into the lodges, I did not deem it advisable to fill the position again until this meeting.

Lodges Visited.

"I visited during the year the following lodges, Bayside, Trent, Moira, Earl Grey, Star in the East, Lily of the Valley, United Brothers, Cambray, Gull River, Mount Albert, Trent Valley, Lindsay district and a union meeting of Brighton and Belleville districts held at Belleville. At almost every place the attendance was large, and the brethren very enthusiastic, and I am of the opinion if more visits were made by the grand lodge officers to different lodges in their near neighborhoods, much good would result. My best thanks are due to the brethren of these lodges for the kindly and courteous treatment accorded me.

"I am pleased to note that many of our members make use of the columns of our official organ, the Canadian Oddfellow, and I would urge on many more to avail themselves of its space and thereby make it interesting to every lodge and member in the order.

"I wish to thank my colleagues on the executive board for their hearty co-operation during the year, and for the harmonious manner in which our deliberations have been carried on, not one important item of business being settled except by a unanimous vote.

Important Matters.

"I need do nothing more than draw your attention to the important matters that will be brought before you before the close of this grand lodge, namely, the revision of the constitution, optional insurance, Hunter rates for all members, the readjustment of the funeral fund, union with the members of the Manchester Unity, settlement of endowment policies, biennial sessions and change of date of annual meeting, and again request that your discussion of them may be concise, calm, charitable and clear, and our meeting this year will be marked with a white stone in the history of our order.

"In conclusion, brethren, let me urge on each member of the order to exemplify in his daily living the great fundamental principles of friendship, love and truth, faith, hope and charity, and by so doing make four grand Canadian Order of Oddfellows a power in and a credit to this grand Dominion, this great Canada of ours.

"I am content with Canada, and ask
No fairer land than has been given me,
No greater joy, no more inspiring task,
Than to upbuild and share her destiny."

The address was ordered to be printed in the minutes of the convention.

On the completion of this order of business, Bro. Mark B. Thomas, of Toronto, delivered the purple lecture, which admitted forty members of the order to the convention for the first time. The ceremonies in connection with the lecture were most impressive. Mr. Thomas was assisted by Bro. James Barnes.

Two Presentations.

Two presentations were on the card. Bro. Jas. Barnes, of Toronto, P. D. D. G. M., of that district, was presented with a D. D. G. M.'s jewel in recognition of his valiant services during many years activity on behalf of the order.

A grand master's jewel was also presented to Bro. Robert Clark, P. G. M., to replace the jewel destroyed by fire last summer.

The presentations were made by Dr. H. [illegible] Bingham, of Toronto, who referred in eulogistic terms to the splendid work done by both in the interests of Oddfellowship.

Committees.

The committees for the convention were then struck as follows:

State of Order—Bros. Thomas N. Cramp, Dr. Bingham, Dr. Opzoomer.

Grievances and Appeals—H. Hahnan, W. McWatters and S. J. Plastow.

Miscellaneous Business—Bros. N. A Ross, Robert Newell and Rev. G. S. Lindsay.

Press Committee—Bros. W. T. Bellamy, C. A. Lapp, and W. H. Shaw.

In the afternoon session, the new constitution was discussed briefly. A general resume of the changes intended to be made were shown, but the matter was not discussed at any great length.

The evening session was also a short one, very little business being taken up. The new constitution was also dealt with, but briefly.

The convention will discuss the constitution at all sessions today, and it is anticipated that a warm debate will take place at the afternoon session.

The delegates are as follows:

Murray's Caboose Riders Bump Londons In Twilight Contest Across the Creek By Score of 4--3 in Ninth-Inning Rally

Errors Almost Proved the Visitors' Undoing in the Sixth Inning, When London Scored Three Runs

Allen gave the umpire the "Eagle Eye" in the third

Even as a rank selling plater ofttimes takes to mud like a 2-year-old to a bottle, so did Jack Murray's Caboose Riders, late of Guelph, take to twilight baseball across the creek last night, and trim the locals by a score of 4—3.

The visitors fairly reveled in the new (for London) pastime, and although their victory wasn't altogether clean cut, it was near enough to it to suit the most fastidious of the fair crowd of fans present.

One Mr. Leibensberger, ex-Allegheny Dutchman, was trotted out to do things for the London end of the argument, and be it set down that the man with the ungainly Christian handle got away with the stunt in great style until the ninth. At that stage of proceedings the Caboose Riders pummeled him to the four points of the compass for a total of two runs and the game.

Sterling, the man with the spitter, held down the mound for the visitors, and he had the Londons uncorking suspender buttons in almost every inning, trying to solve his benders.

For four brief sessions nothing worth chronicling occurred.

In the fifth the Saints coaxed Dauber into starting a frenzied throwing bee, which, with a bingle to Leibensberger that was too warm for that gentleman, a brace of stolen bases and an error by Leib, resulted in two tallies.

Disturbance Started.

Nichols, alias Faatz, started the disturbance by slapping the third ball upon the snout. The pill came straight at Leibensberger, but was too warm for him, and the runner was safe. For five minutes afterward there was a spirited debate in the scoring stand as to whether the poke should go for a hit or an error, and it was finally left to Providence—and the Caboose Riders—to decide it. If the visitors made a hit later in the game, the first poke would also be so chronicled. If not there was no use in marring Leib's record on a doubtful play. It might be here mentioned that the Saints settled the dispute in no uncertain manner later on by landing four clean hits, including a two-bagger.

But back to the fifth: As before stated, Nichols reached first on a drive to Leib; Shea sacrificed to Leibensberger and both runners were safe when the London slabster threw bad to second.

Barrie went down from Klincke to Johnson, who covered first, Nichols going to third on the play; Shea stole second; McGuire sacrificed to Leibensberger, and was safe when Klincke played tag with the ball, Nichols scoring. McGuire stole second, and Shea came in on the throw. Score 2—0.

Three Times Around.

In the sixth the locals went around the circuit three times. Leibensberger got a life on Gracion's error, but was out later going home on a throw from short to the plate.

"Tootie" Jeffries gave the pill a ride to center, went up on Keenan's sacrifice, advanced on Bird's poke to short, which retired Leibensberger, and scored on a fielder's choice, which went wrong, and left "Nig" Jeffries on first. Bird stole second, and came in when Lee singled to right. Klincke poked to Allen at second, and the latter threw wild to first, allowing "Nig" to come in.

Everything resembling a fan in the stands at this point wore a "merry widow" grin. That is, all but a handful of St. Thomas fans in the bleachers, who looked daggers, and began to figure out the distance (by ties) from London to St. Thomas.

It looked real bad for Murray's hopefuls at this juncture, and even "Pop" Jeffries, at the gate, allowed his avowed enmity for Umpire Burke to get away from him in the joy of the moment.

Captain Bird, on the bench, was smiling all over himself, and Dauber was so joyful that he neglected to say: "Let him hit it, old boy!" for thirty seconds.

The Fateful Ninth.

The ninth inning was at hand. The fans were preparing to go home to their trundle beds, and the local management had already finished counting the number of dead heads in the stands. Then the storm blew up, and with it went our old friend, Leibensberger, "yet."

A Two-Bagger, Three Singles and a Stolen Base Turn Defeat To Victory in the Ninth Inning.

After awhile peace again reigned, but it was not a joyous peace.

Nobody knows just how it happened, but the score cards show that a person named Marnin laid Leib's offerings out to deep center for a two-bagger by way of an opener. Gracion went down from Bird to Klincke. J. Murray—not "Jack" or "Slats"—stuck his bat in the way of what should have been a third strike, and another ball was headed for the outer flats, this time landing out in right. Marnin rambled in. Murray stole second, and scored on Shea's single to center.

That's pretty nearly everything, with the exception that just three London batsmen faced Sterling in the ninth, one being fielded out from Sterling to Nichols, the others flying out to center and third.

Notes From Tecumseh Park

Inform the inquisitive that Lee comes pretty close to being one of the supports of the London team, both at bat and in the garden. He is just as clumsy in appearance as Hans Wagner, and is just as effective on a small scale.

* * *

"What?" cried Allen in the sixth, when he was motioned to come in from first, after beating a throw to first. Then he dropped to the fact that McGuire had been copped going to third on the choice, completing the third out.

* * *

To those not posted on the whys and wherefors of the International League, be it here recorded that "Faatz" was only a nickname given to Nichols when he broke into the league. Since taking up his residence in aristocratic St. Thomas, the gentleman wishes to be known by his proper name.

* * *

It might also be well to state that "Waddell" is merely an abbreviation of Leibensberger, the name having been coined to prevent strikes among the linotype operators, and to save space on the score cards.

Nichols, at first, didn't have an assist, but he got away with ten putouts, one hit, and scored a run.

Marnin appears to be a bundle of nerves. He is on tiptoes at all stages, and when they steal a base on him they generally earn it. He has a great toss to first that fools most all of them, and can line it down to second with a crash.

"Toots" got his usual hit, but Brother "Nig" fell down, although he reached first, and scored one of London's runs.

Several times it appeared as if lack of judgment was responsible for the visitors getting a hit. Three outs over the pan in succession isn't good baseball.

Taking Sterling all around he looks about as good as there is in the league, although local fans still have a warm spot for Gianelli, who has been described by certain parties as a "quitter," and who recently twirled seventeen long innings against the Tigers, and shut them out.

* * *

Local fans are not yet educated to twilight baseball, but they will come to it with proper tuition.

* * *

Today the Londons tackle the Saints in a double-header, the first game being called at 2:30, the second one at 4.

Ian Bars and King Bryson Win In Straight Heats at Seaforth

Former Gets Mark of 2:16 1-4—Opening Day Races a Big Success.

Seaforth, June 16.—The opening day of the Seaforth races was a success in every way. The weather was ideal and the crowds large.

The feature of the day was the victory of Ian Bars, "Wes" Prangley's fast Strathroy 4-year-old, who took the 2:50 pace in straight heats, and getting a mark of 2:16¼ in the effort.

King Bryson, Ald. Samuel McBride's (Toronto) fast horse, took the 2:30 trot in equally clever fashion, romping through a winner in three straight heats.

The 2:16 pace was a hotly-contested struggle, the heats being all split up. J. B. Wilkes, a Sarnia horse, eventually won out in five heats, after finishing third in the second one. Summary:

YANKEES BLANK HAMILTON TIGERS

Gleason Rapped for Thirteen Hits, Including Triple and Double.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 16.—Hamilton was blanked again today by the Yankees, the second straight win for the home club. The Students' section of the score-board stood out prominently with a row of kalsomine circles.

Gleason, who heretofore proved to be such a puzzle for the Yanks, was found hard and often after the second inning. Bates, the home club's best slabman, tightened after the fourth, and allowed but a long single during the remainder of the game.

Try as they might, the visitors could not get a man on third. The nearest the Students came to the difficult corner was in the eighth, when Curtis singled to right, stole second, and was caught speeding to third by Wagner, who fielded Long's drive along the base line.

It was evident that the absence of McMillen, Conners and Finnemore has greatly crippled the team. O'Hara and Johnson, local players, performed fairly well in left and at short, respectively.

The sudden departure of the three players is said to be a snap game on the part of Fred Paige to cripple the Students and incidentally give the Yankees a chance.

McCONNELL WAS RIGHT.

Buffalo Hands It to Providence in a Bush Leaguers' Game.

Providence, R. I., June 16.—McConnell pitched a great game against Providence today, and, in fact, made them look like a lot of bush leaguers. The big fellow had a barrel of speed, and mixed up fast ones with a spitter that had the home batters swinging at inches from the ball. Arndt was the only man to get the ball into the outfield in the entire game, other than the hits of Abstein and Hoffman. Phelan's single was a bunt that he beat out, because nobody covered first when Whitnew went out and got the ball.

Sline was not hit so very hard, but what bings the visitors did corral came just when needed. The home team played indifferent ball all the way, the four errors failing to show the slips of omission. Score:

LONDON STANDS an excellent chance of being tied in the W. F. A. district soccer series. At present London has won 5, lost 1 and tied 2. Dundas has won 4, lost 1 and tied 2, while Woodstock has done likewise. The latter two teams are slated to play off a postponed game shortly and unless the result is a tie one or the other will be tied with London for first place. In the event of a tie game being played London will win by one point.

A NUMBER OF STRATFORD bowling rinks were to have visited London yesterday, but for some reason or another failed to make an appearance. Six St. Marys rinks will be here today.

PLANS ARE ALREADY maturing for the filling of the vacancy on the London Intermediate Hockey Team created by the departure of popular Davey Bole for the West. The time is not ripe for names as yet, but local hockey enthusiasts can rest assured that unless plans miscarry, next winter's team will be second to none of them.

Twilight Ball at Tecumseh Park

Thursday, 7 p.m., Friday, 7 p.m., twilight baseball. Ladies' day on Friday, Niagara Falls vs. London.

All ladies are cordially invited by the management to attend this game on Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

It was found that 6:30 was a little too early, as it did not give the fans a chance to get their supper before the game.

Saturday at 3 p.m. sharp the Yanks will line up for the last battle of the series against the home club, and it promises to be a game well worth seeing, as the Falls bunch have been considerably strengthened and are working hard to get to the top of the league.

Jury Says O'Leary Not To Blame For Mishap Which Resulted in Death

Recommendations Made Which Are of Much Importance.

The jury, which, under Coroner Ferguson, investigated the death of Yardmaster Patrick O'Leary, visited the C. P. R yards in the East End yesterday afternoon, and after being out for nearly an hour, brought in the following verdict and recommendations last night:

"That Yardmaster Patrick O'Leary was run over and killed by C. P. R. cars east of the Adelaide street crossing in this city about 2:30 on June 11, 1908.

"We attribute the accident to the following causes:

"(1) Engine 2157 was working reversed, so that the engineer had to take signals from the fireman, instead of the signalman. If this practice is permissible by law it should, in our opinion, be rescinded.

"(2) According to the evidence, the brakes on the tender were out of order.

"(3) Had there been a signalman on top of the east car we are of the opinion that the accident might possibly have been averted.

"(4) The jury are unable from the evidence to attach any negligence on the part of the deceased in the causation of the accident."

Western Farmers Are Prosperous

Mr. J. P. Grigg, formerly of Caradoc, and warden of the Middlesex county council in 1902, who is at present residing in Stettler, Alberta, was a visitor at the county buildings today.

"The much-talked-of financial depression in the west was scarcely felt by the average farmer," said he, "and farm lands today are worth as much as ever they were. It was the speculators in the town subdivisions that were hit the hardest. They had been making a practice of buying up land one day and selling it the next at a profit of $100 or more, and when the slump came somebody was necessarily caught with the goods on hand.

Mr. Grigg stated that the outlook for crops this year was never better in the west.

"It looks as though we would have bumper crops in everything," said he.

Mr. and Mrs. Grigg will spend some time with Mr. Grigg's parents at Caradoc.

Printer's Error May Save This Man

A somewhat unusual case will be heard in the police court tomorrow morning, when Inspector Galpin will charge Wm. Davis, an Indian lister, with breaking the liquor law by being in the bar of the Grand Central Hotel and drinking.

The inspector intends to prove his case by the evidence of the bartender.

A typographical error, it seems, is all that saves William Mahon, proprietor of the hotel, from being up on a charge of selling to an Indian lister.

Inspector Galpin had lists printed and sent to all the hotels.

Each list contained the names of those who are prohibited from drinking.

In the printed list the name of Davis reads "David," otherwise Mr. Mahon would be liable to a heavy fine.

Captain Murphy Made a New Record

pany, of the Seventh Regiment, made a new record at the Cove ranges yesterday afternoon by putting on a score of 47 at the 1,000-yard range. The highest score ever made on this range previously was 46, which had been made both by Pte. Allen and Capt. Murphy.

Out of ten shots yesterday Capt. Murphy got nine bulleyes, and but for one unlucky shot might very likely have got a possible.

Capt. Murphy put on four bulleyes in succession, and then in some manner got away off the center, and got an outer, which only counts two points.

After that, however, he put on five straight bullseyes. This is some of the finest shooting that has ever been done in Western Ontario.

Oddfellows Debate the Constitution

There was little doing this morning at the session of the convention of the C. O. O. F. at the city hall.

There was a long debate on the new constitution, several good speeches being made on the subject.

Several new delegates reported among them being Mr. F. H. McRitchie, Bothwell; Chas. Richardson, Toronto; John Hare, Dresden; H. G. Fleming, London; D. Hodgins, Springbrook; S. J. F. Fisher, Coldsprings; Solomon Manning, Thamesville; T. Mitchell, Colborne; Andrew Schmidt, Stratford; J. W. Stenhouse, Galt; J. C. Woodward, London; Jas. S. Blackwell, Montreal.

According to the credential committee there are 136 delegates in attendance.

At this afternoon's session there will be a discussion of optional insurance.

Paltry Dollar Was Cause of a Suit

Because he refused to pay his housekeeper her week's wages, amounting to $1, George Lee, a London Township farmhand, was today assessed $4 25 in the county magistrate's court by Squire Chittick.

Hannah Dowd, the complainant, stated that she had worked a week for Lee, cleaning his house, and that when he came to pay her off, he tried to dock her for an hour and a half which he alleged she had spent in idleness.

"This looks like pretty small business," remarked the magistrate.

"Can you figure up what one hour and a half at $1 a week would amount to?"

Lee admitted that he could not. He was then directed to pay the wages in dispute and $3 25 costs, besides.

Many Thefts at Springbank Park

Many complaints have been made of late about the number of whips and robes that have been stolen at Springbank.

Scarcely a night passes that some articles are not stolen from rigs at Springbank.

The horse sheds at the park are also very badly lighted. A serious accident was narrowly averted last night. In the darkness a couple of rigs collided as they were being backed out of the sheds, and it was only after a very great deal of effort on the part of the drivers that serious harm did not result.

There should be a number of lights in the shed.

Regent Visits London Daughters

The Daughters of the Empire of the city were favored with a visit this week from Mrs. Nordheimer, of Toronto, the regent of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire in Canada. Mrs. Nordheimer was accompanied by Mrs. (Col.) J. A. I. Davidson and Mrs. VanCoughert, of Toronto.

On Monday the ladies visited the several chapters of the order in the city, and a very pleasant time was had.

On Tuesday morning a special meeting of the chapters was held, at which Mrs. Nordheimer gave a most interesting account of the work of the order throughout Canada and other countries. She spoke particularly of the work in Toronto, where a fund amounting to between $3,000 and $4,000 had been set aside for the maintainance of the graves of the Canadian soldiers who fell in South Africa. This fund was known as the South African Grave Fund. The interest on this money was used in keeping the graves in repair, and making whatever improvements might be necessary to preserve them.

Mrs. Nordheimer also spoke in most complimentary terms of the good work being done by the London chapters, and paid a tribute to the worth of Mrs. F. E. Leonard, the regent, to whose efforts a great deal of the credit for the emost satisfactory condition of the chapters in London is due. Mrs. Leonard had worked most unselfishly and earnestly for the cause, and she was to be congratulated on the success of her efforts.

After the meeting the visitors were entertained at luncheon at the Kenels ,leaving for Toronto on the afternoon train.

G. T. R. and Egerton Street Crossing

Mayor Stevely received a letter from Mr. Chas. M. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk, regarding the Egerton street crossing.

Some time ago his worship wrote to Mr. Hays asking him to make some arrangements for the protection of that crossing.

Mr. Hays informs his worship that he is obtaining all possible information regarding the crossing, and when it is all compiled he will communicate with the mayor regarding this matter.

Mayor Stevely is hopeful of arriving at a satisfactory arrangement with the company in this matter.

A $120,000 BLAZE IN PETOSKEY.

Ptoskey, Mich., June 17.—Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed the Imperial Hotel, valued at $120,000. The Imperial was a summer hotel, and had not yet been opened for the season. The only occupants were the caretakers.

Dominion Power Company's Bill.

"I will keep in touch with Toronto and Hamilton councils," said Mayor Stevely this morning, "and will find out what they are going to do regarding the Dominion Power Company's bill, that comes up next Wednesday. There is a difference of opinion as to the effects of the bill, but if it is necessary I will see that the city is represented to protect our rights in this matter."

Summer Garden.

The Young Men's Christian Association, under the social department, will open a very unique affair in the form of a summer garden. A large room has been fitted up so that it presents the appearance of a woods; as one wanders about the green grass and hundreds of beautiful ferns and small trees it presents the appearance of a very picturesque scene. The association will use the room for social occasions during the summer months, and next Saturday evening it will be opened to the public. An orchestra will be in attendance, and will mingle its music with the voices of the birds in the trees. These social occasions,which will be held once a week will afford a splendid opportunity for those who have never visited the association rooms to do so. There will be something doing in nearly all the departments, and ice cream and cake will be served in the fernery.

AGED COUPLE AIR TROUBLES IN COURT

Were Married Only Last Fall—A Non-Support Charge.

In the police court this morning, Mrs. Elizabeth Templar charged her husband, Fred Templar, with non-support.

Mrs. Templar admitted that he had treated her well, but stated to Mr. McEvoy who represented her husband, that the trouble between them was that she wanted money to do as she pleased with, and he would not give it to her.

Mrs. Templar is 71 years old, and her husband over 70. They were married on September 28 last year.

"There is no fool like an old fool," said the court, "and that applies to both you and Mr. Templar. I dismiss the case.

Gus Lampotis, charged with blocking the street, was let go with a warning, the court warning him that the next time he comes up a fine of $50 will be imposed, as he is tired of hearing of complaints about the streets being blocked by push carts.

William McDonald, an Indian lister, for being drunk, was fined $10 and $2 costs.

REFUSED THE POST.

Rome, June 17.—Count Bottaro-Costa, who recently was appointed ambassador to Japan, has refused the post. The Government has offered the ambassadorship to Marquis Guiofioli, at present minister to Servia.

GREAT CONVENTION GETS TO WORK

Committees Have Hard Struggle To Harmonize Conflicting Elements.

Chicago, June 17.—Down to business at last the fourteenth Republican national convention entered upon its second day with several important factors unsettled, and with trouble enough in sight to make it practically certain that at least two days more must be consumed before nominations can be made and the work of the convention completed.

There was a striking contrast last night between the gaiety of the crowds in the hotel corridors and cafes and the grim struggle in which the most important standing committees were engaged—that on credentials continuing throughout the night.

Harmless Riot.

The hotels were scenes of what might be called harmless riot; singing, cheering crowds in ceaseless endless lines passed back and forth; campaign songs of old times and new were sung, and the far corners of the great buildings rang with cheers for everybody, from favorite sons down to the most infinitesimal leader of a Republican forlorn hope. Everywhere also were the little groups of wiseacres, laying down political law and gospel with that incomparable solemnity which is the unfailing mark of the rear rank delegate at a political convention.

Committees Have Hard Work.

Meanwhile the real questions at issue were being threshed out in the committees on resolutions and credentials. The proposed plank in the platform relating to the limitation of the use of court injunctions in labor controversies was one of the principal bones of contention. The committee referred the question to a sub-committee and the sub-committee late in the evening adjourned until this morning. Late in the night it became known that a compromise was likely.

All night, the committee on credentials ploughed through the long line of contests, and few were much surprised to find that all of the decisions confirmed those of the national committee.

Hopes of Compromise.

The committee on rules and order of business also had troubles of its own and adjourned until this morning with an unsettled controversy of importance on its hands. This was over the proposition to reduce the ratio of representation in future national conventions.

If a compromise be reached today upon the disputed planks of the platform, and if battle over the committee reports do not extend over night, there seems a fair prospect that tomorrow will be clear for the nominating speeches and the close of the day may see the close of the convention.

A Forecast.

Following forecast indicates that the Republican party will stand for:

Restriction of the Federal courts in the matter of injunctions in labor disputes.

Amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law to permit reasonable traffic agreements.

Supervisory control over all railroad securities by the Federal authorities.

Control over corporations by the license system.

Specific indorsement of the Aldrich-Vreeland Currency Act, and the promise of further legislation.

Tariff revision.

A sweeping indorsement of the Roosevelt Administration and the Roosevelt policies.

MOORE—ROBINSON

Wedding of a Popular Couple This Afternoon.

A very pretty wedding ceremony took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Miss Susanna Maud Robinson was united in marriage to Mr. Ernest Moore, of this city, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robinson, 44 Victor stret. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Birks, pastor of the Askin Streeth Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore leave this evening at 6:30 for a bridal tour east, after which they will take up their residence in this city.

TO SAVE HIS SON'S MONEY

New Orleans Merchant Shoots Three Would-Be Robbers.

New Orleans, June 17.—Pietro Gianconi, a wealthy wine merchant, killed three Italians who were attempting to force his son to give them a sum of money and his watch early today.

The shooting occurred at the home of Giaconi. The dead are Giovanni Baracca and two unidentified Italians.

INVITED TO ALDERSHOT

Part of Forty-Eighth Highlanders May Go to England.

London, June 17.—It is understood that Hon. Mr. Haldane has sanctioned the payment to the Gordon Highlanders at Aldershot of an allowance ot entertain a small detachment of their allied regiregiment, the Forty-eighth Highlanders, of Toronto, consisting of three officers, two non-commissioned officers and six privates, on a visit to England. An official invitation has been forwarded.

CAUGHT BY CANNIBALS.

Madrid, June 17.—Further reports have been received here from the west coast of Africa concerning the sinking by a tornado on the upper Congo River of the steamboat Ville de Bruges last May. Of the six Europeans who lost their lives four were caught by cannibalistic natives while attempting to reach the shore by swimming, and later killed and devoured. A total of 70 negroes were drowned.

CURTAIN DRAWN ON GIRL'S TROUBLES

Yake said he would consider.

Then he sent her a note telling her that marriage with her was impossible.

In desperation she tried to kill herself and her baby.

All night long two medical men, Drs. Aikenhead and McWilliams, struggled to save the young girl from the results of her folly.

Death Triumphs.

Assisted by the best nurses in St. Joseph's Hospital, they struggled as best they could to bring life and hope back to the world-weary girl, but in the morning, the physicians had to acknowledge themselves beaten.

The woman lingered along in an unconscious condition, sinking rapidly, until death ended her sufferings at 11 o'clock.

The physicians stated that the girl was in such a weak state from the combined effects of the gas and laudanum that she could not live. She had no inclination to live. She wanted to die ,and did not assist the physicians in any way in their battle to save her.

They had spent much time on the 2-year-old child, and had saved him. But they could not save his mother.

He made a rapid recovery, and was soon prattling and cooing with the nurses, little knowing the desperate situation his innocent life has caused. His birth had resulted in a broken life.

A Pitiable Scene.

The scene on the way to the hospital was one that made even the most hardened turn away.

"It was the hardest sight I had seen in many a day," said a policeman. "I saw them take the poor girl into the ambulance, and the driver took the little one into his arms on the seat with him, and they started for a hospital to battle for the life of the girl.

"The baby is a chubby little fellow, just about the same age and size of one I have home. I heard any number of people speak of the child as they saw the ambulance go to the hospital. He had a narrow escape. It is a particularly sad case."

A VERY PRETTY HOUSE WEDDING

Miss Maida McLaren Becomes the Bride of Mr. H. W. Reid.

A very pretty house wedding took place this afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents, Lindenshade, Victor street, South London, when Miss Maida, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McLaren, became the bride of Mr. Harry W. Reid, a prosperous merchant, of Winnipeg.

The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Wm. Lawe, of East London. The fair young bride looked handsome and winning, being very becomingly attired in cream French voile, over chiffon taffeta, and wore the customary bridal veil and orange blossoms, and carried white roses. She entered the parlor, leaning on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Kathleen Rutherford.

Mr. Calvin Hodgins sang very acceptably "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden," while the guests assembled.

The bridesmaids were Miss Hattie L. Trebilcock, Miss Bessie Callander, niece of the groom, and Miss Lida Coombs, cousin of the bride. They were all becomingly dressed in gowns of fluffy white and wore pink picture hats. They all carried bouquets of pale pink carnations.

The flower girl was little Verona Ash, of Sarnia, niece of the bride, who preceded the wedding party into the parlor. The groom was supported by Gilbert E. McLaren, brother of the bride.

The numerous and handsome presents which were received testified to the popularity of the young couple. The groom presented each of the bridesmaids with a pretty gold locket suitably engraved. His present to the best man was a handsome pearl and diamond pin.

After the ceremony the company sat down to a recherche wedding breakfast. Numerous toasts followed, all expressing the highest regard for the young couple.

Guests were present from Montreal, Ottawa, Sarnia, Winnipeg, Toronto, Clinton, Ingersoll, and other places. The young couple left on the eastern flyer to spend a few days visiting eastern cities for a short time, when they will return, before leaving for their new home in Winnipeg.

MARINE DEPART'T INVESTIGATION

Testimony of Auditor-General—Extravagance, But No Actual Dishonesty.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, June 17.—The inquiry before Judge Cassels into the affairs of the marine department was continued this morning, the chief witness being Auditor-General Fraser who drew attention to several instances of irregularities in the matter of purchasing supplies for the department. While no actual dishonesty might have been shown in these cases, Mr. Fraser was inclined to think that there was some extravagance and lack of care evident on the part of some of the officials. These instances, however, had for the most part already been mentioned in the auditor-general's report to Parliament. Mr. Fraser said that he had frequently called the attention of Deputy Minister Gourdeau to the high prices paid for goods and to the failure to call for tenders in some cases.

In this connection the witness quoted from his annual report of 1905. He had particularly objected to the purchase of glass and silverware for the Government steamer Montcalm. Thesesupplies had been purchased through P. J. Coughlin ¾ Co., of Montreal, and a commission of 5 per cent, or $1,100 had been allowed Mr. Coughlin, over and above the amount called for by contract. This amount had been refunded by Mr. Coughlin after investigation by the auditor-general, although the deputy minister would have allowed it to him.

Mr. Fraser also referred to a certificate presented to his department from Mr. Coughlin purporting to show that silverware bought for the private use of Col. Gourdeau, was purchased for the Government.

After finding that some of the vouchers presented by Col Gourdeau, commander of the Spain, and Mr. J. F. Fraser, commissioner of lights, could not be relied upon, the auditor-general had concluded to place no confidence in them as being uncorroborated evidence that the prices mentioned and charges made were correct.

In the case of Commander Spain, the witness had found that the former accounts for traveling expenses were padded. Charges had been made for traveling expenses when the commander was not out of the city. In one year, after checking up the commander's accounts, as presented, the auditor-general had ordered a refund of $700 or $800. He had reported this padding of accounts to the deputy minister and also to the minister. Half of the refund was made up by Col. Gourdeau, but Mr. Fraser had no reason to suppose this was other than by way of a loan to Commander Spain by the deputy minister. The department had been asked by the auditor-general to keep a record of the times Commander Spain was out of the city on official business, but at the end of the year, when this record was asked for in order to check the account for traveling expenses, Col. Gourdeau said it had been thrown into the waste basket.

In the case of J. F. Fraser, commissioner of lights, the witness said he had lost confidence in the former's vouchers after finding out some of the prices paid to M. Erwin for supplies. These matters, however, had already been ventilated in the public accounts committee.

"We are naturally suspicious in our department," said the auditor-general, "and we always try to investigate to the bottom anything that looks like an overcharge."

With regard to the dealings of Mr. J. F. Fraser on behalf of the department with the Marine Signal Company and other firms, the witness said he could not say that he had any reason to suspect that any personal advantage had accrued to Mr. Fraser.

The accounts of Capt. Gregory, agent of the marine department at Quebec, and now under suspension, had also been found by the auditor-general to show carelessness and signs of extravagance in the purchase of supplies.

"Things are being changed in the department now, with reference to the purchase of supplies and accounting," said Mr. Fraser. "The present minister is doing his best to put everything on a proper business footing and correct defects which have been in existence for forty years."

LOCAL MARKET.

Wednesday, June 17.

Nineteen loads of hay were offered today. The demand was good at $8 to $8 50 per ton.

A load of straw was offered, which sold at $7 per ton.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

The markets held here the past week were up to the average. Prices held fairly steady.

The farmers are beginning to express their opinion regarding the hay crop, and in localities where they have had no rain for a couple of weeks they do not hesitate to say that the crop will not be any larger than last year.

Grain—The demand for oats is brisk at $1 56 to $1 59 per cwt. Wheat is selling at 85c per bu.

Hay and Straw—The supply of hay about equals the demand. Sales were made at $8 to $9 per ton, according to quality. The decline in the price of hay caused a slow demand for straw, which is selling at $6 to $7 per ton.

Butter and Eggs—Butter is in good demand as the dealers are laying in a stock in expectation that prices may advance. Sales are made at 18c per pound for mixed lots and 19c to 20c for choice rolls. Eggs seem to be firmer at 16½c to 17c per dozen in crate lots.

Potatoes—The market is slow at 85c to 90c per bag wholesale.

Apples—Very few saleable apples are offered at present and trade is slow at $1 75 to $2 50 per barrel.

Poultry—Spring chickens are selling at 55c to 75c per pair dressed and 40c to 55c alive, according to size. Old fowl are in fair demand at 8c to 9c per pound, alive, or 9c to 10c dressed. Turkeys sold at 13c to 14c per pound dressed.

Dressed Hogs—There is a small supply and trade is good for this time of the year. Sales are made at $8 and $8 25 per cwt.

Live Hogs—Prices here last Monday were $6 per cwt for selects; small pigs sold at $3 50 to $6 per pair, according to age and size.

Butchers' Meat—Beef is selling at $7 to $9 25 per cwt. Veal, $6 to $7 50 per cwt. Lambs, $5 50 to $7 each.

Wool—Prices are firmer at 7½c to 8½c per pound for unwashed and 13c to 13½c for washed.

Consumption of Liquor Decreasing.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In your issue of Saturday you publish figures showing an increase in the consumption of liquors per capita during the past year in the United States. While I do not dispute your figures, the internal revenue reports would indicate a large decrease.

In Canada, for the months of November, 1907, to April, 1908, inclusive, the aggregate internal revenue receipts from the liquor traffic show a decrease of nearly $450,000; or over 10 per cent. In November, the decrease in round numbers was $104,000; in December, $58,000; in January, $30,000; in February, $53,000; in March, $62,000, and in April, $140,000. The decrease in the receipts for April as compared with 1907, was 20 per cent.

The decrease in the production and consumption of liquor may, of course, be only temporary, but it is significant that it has taken place despite a time of rapid growth in the population, and reflects a similar shrinkage in liquor production in the United States, where during the first 90 days of 1908, there was a shrinkage of nearly $25,000,000 in the quantity of liquor manufactured. Of this decrease, approximately 60 per cent. or about $14,500,000 is whisky production, and 40 per cent. or $9,800,000, represents the falling off in the beer-making business. No internal revenue figures in 40 years have shown such an astonishing decline in the liquor production of the States.

The figures above given in respect to both Canada and the States may be due in some measure to exceptional causes, but it is not improbable that the growth of the temperance movement in both countries has had a large effect in producing such a result.

GREAT AUTO RACE

Paris, June 17.—A dispatch to the Matin from Tchita, Siberia, says that the Italian car in the New York to Paris race has been seriously damaged by fire. The arrival of the American car at Nertchinsk on Tuesday morning indicated that the Americans were decreasing the lead which the German car recently secured. The latter left Nertchinsk shortly before the arrival of the Americans.

There's compensation in the fact that the less you know, the more you think you know.

HODGINS CHARGES ABANDONED

"We have been thrown down," is the phrase the Conservatives are using in reference to the fiasco. They were very keen when the investigation started, scenting scandal, and allied themselves quite openly with Major Hodgins, and on the platforms and through the medium of their party organs have given garbled reports of the proceedings, with the sole intent of misleading the public as to the situation. They are in the position that Major Hodgins has abandoned his charges of impropriety and has left them completely in the air.

A Question of Interpretation.

When the committee met in the afternoon Mr. Murphy, after examining Major Hodgins on a number of matters, spent a long time trying to get Major Hodgins to say wherein the classification approved by the commission differed from that recommended by the chief engineer, as was alleged in his (Major Hodgins') charges. The witness finally stated that the chief engineers' recommendation was open to two interpretations.

Mr. Murphy — So that in your opinion he is wrong, mostly because you disagree with him?

Major Hodgins—Yes, I disagree with him.

In answer to a further question by Mr. Murphy, Major Hodgins said: "It seems to me the only issue now is the correct interpretation of these specifications, and I do not see that I am called upon to prove it. I cannot."

No Evidence to Offer.

Mr. Macdonald—You regard that as practically the only question left now—the question of whether your view of the classification is correct? A.—That is all.

Mr Macdonald—I understand you to say from information that you have gathered since coming into this matter, Major, that you feel you cannot say that you have any imputations to make on the commissioners in regard to any improper interference with the engineers, for instance? A.—With those opinions there I do not see that I have.

Mr. Macdonald—And you are not in a position to offer any evidence to say that they have exercised any improper interference with the engineers? A.—No.

Mr. Macdonald—In regard to the statement made here, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier refused an investigation of your complaint on account of the influence exercised over him by Mr. Parent, I understand you are not in a position to offer any evidence of Mr. Parent's having attempted to influence Sir Wilfrid Laurier in any way? A.—No.

Mr. Macdonald—You have no evidence of that? A.—I have none.

To Right a Wrong.

After some further questioning Mr. Macdonald said: "I think every one of us here recognizes Major Hodgins' position. I think in stating what he has stated here today he has shown himself to be a frank and honorable man, who realizes that a mistake has been made on certain lines and who is asking to admit it. I think he is entitled to the full credit that every man deserves when he sees that he has taken an improper course and wants to remedy what has been done."

Mr. Macdonald further observed: "You do not desire to press before this committee any charge of wrongdoing on the part of the commission, so far as their interference with the engineers is concerned? Is that a fair statement? A.—That is right.

REVOLUTION IN CIVIL SERVICE

be divided into two subdivisions.

The third division will comprise all other clerks whose work is made up of copying and other routine service. This division also is divided into two subdivisions.

Appointments.

The bill provides for appointments into the second and third divisions, after competitive examinations. But it is contemplated in the new civil service bill that the second division shall supply by promotion th officials for the first division. It is not intended that those of the third division, engaged in purely routine work, shall be promoted to the higher ranks for which their work would in nowise fit them. If officials of the third-class desire to do, however, they will be equally free with all outsiders to compete in the examinations before the civil service commissioners for appointment to the second division.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, June 17.—Where the Government considered there was no necessity for making changes, the present civil service act remained in force. The age limit is left as at present.

Stringent Certificates.

Certificates were more stringent and would be under the control of the commission, as to health, character, and habits, the last being an addition to the existing measure. The latter continued to apply to outside service and would continue to, unless any part of that service was brought under the act, by passing of an order-in-council, for which provision was made.

Range of Salaries.

In respect to classification there was considerable change in ranges of salaries. The service under deputy heads would be divided into three divisions, each division into two subdivisions.

In the first division, subdivision A, the minimum and maximum salaries would be $2,800 and $4,000, respectively; subdivision B, $2,300 and $2,800.

Second division, subdivision A, $1,600 and $2,100; subdivision B, $800 and $1,600.

Third division, subdivision A, $900 and $1,200; subdivision B, $500 to $800, respectively.

An increase of $50 a year was provided for until the maximum is reached, where the record of the clerk justified it, and on a certificate from the commission this increase could be made $100.

All promotions and all increases would be on certificate of the commission, following action by the head of the department and an order-in-council.

Regarding Temporary Employes.

It was hoped by the bill, Hon. Mr. Fisher went on to say, to do away entirely with the present situation in regard to temporary employes. As all honorable gentlemen knew, many employes were called temporary clerks, though some of them had been in the departments for 20, 25 and 30 years. The bill provided that a temporary clerk could be employed not more than six months in any one year, and then only on certificates of commission. Therefore, there would be more permanent employes known as such instead of being known as temporary employes. Roughly speaking, he said, in answer to some questions, the increase in salaries over those now paid would be about $200 for higher grades, and $100 in lower grades of service. Superannuation was not dealt with in the measure, it was a matter for a separate bill. He made it clear later in replying to still other queries that present employes would not have to pass another examination, and that those who were brought from outside to inside service would come in on a basis of present salaries. The changes were practically based on work, English civil service commission and reforms.

Mr. Borden, while complaining of delay in introducing the measure, expressed satisfaction with some leading features, such as appointing independent commission, the selection of candidates by public examination, and appointments in order of merit. It was satisfactory to know that the Government proposed to reconsider its attiude in regard to superannuation, but it would have been more gratifying if they made a measure of superannuation part of the bill. The measure, it was worth nothing, did not touch the outside service, which was the greater portion of the service, and he trusted that on the second reading there would be some announcement as to the policy of the Government in that regard.

PANAMA WARNED BY UNCLE SAM

United States Will Intervene Unless the Elections Are on the Square.

Panama, June 17. — The publication of the letter which the American secretary of war, Wm. H. Taft, delivered to President Amador, at the time of his visit to the isthmus, and in which the intention of the United States Government to intervene in case of fraud or violence is plainly set forth, has caused a very considerable sensation here, particularly among the supporters of Senor Arias, the secretary of state, one of the candidates for the presidency, concerning whom Secretary Tafts' letter makes special reference.

The American secretary's communication had been carefully guarded by President Amador since the date of its receipt by him, it being stated that all the members of his cabinet were cognizant of its contents, and the plain statements made in the letter, now published, have made a deep impression. The active participation of the United States in the coming elections is the chief subject of discussion among Panamans, as it is announced that American commissioners, backed by sufficient force, will be present at the polls to supervise the counting of the votes, so that the legal voters may have an opportunity to elect a president without danger from fraudulent methods.

Representatives of the United States also will keep watch in the principal cities during the municipal elections, which take place on Sunday, June 28.

Intense nervous excitement prevails in official circles at the present time.

The collector of customs at Colon, Jos. E. Echeona, who has been taking an active part in the campaign, today issued a pamphlet, which was extensively distributed, urging the nation to forget political differences and appealing to the patriotism of the people to avoid the fatal results of American intervention. He instances the situation in Cuba and suggests a third candidate as a solution of the present state of affairs.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE GROWS

Mrs. Eddy Says a New Church Starts Every Four and a Half Days.

Boston, June 15.—The annual meeting of the members of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, was held today. Nearly 4,000 members were present. The new officers and readers of the mother church were elected as follows:

President—Commander John Blish, U. S. N., retired, Boston.

Clerk—Wm. B. Johnson, Boston.

Treasurer—Stephen A. Chase, Fall River.

First Reader—Judge Clifford P. Smith, Mason City, Iowa.

Second Reader—Mrs. Carl Hoyt Powers, Boston.

A message was read from Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, in which it was stated that new Christian Science churches or societies had been established at the rate of one in every four and a half days during the past year.

John Blish, the new president of the First Church, is a commander on the retired list of the United States navy. He is a native of Indiana. The new first reader, Clifford P. Smith, is judge of the district court of Iowa, and was born in Indiana in 1869.

BARRED BY RABBI

Hebrews Must Not Eat Beef Killed by Maxim Noiseless Gun.

New York, June 16.—A declaration was made yesterday by Dr. Jacob Wldrevitz, the chief rabbi of America, that should slaughter houses use the new Maxim noiseless gun for the killing of cattle, orthodox Jews will not eat the meat.

"Our rite prescribes that a holef, which is a long, very thin knife, be used to kill the animals," said the rabbi. "A schochet, one authorized to do the slaughtering and thus make the meat kosher, wields the knife. By the use of the holef the most humane method is employed, as the ox or the sheep dies instantly."

In the slaughter houses of this city more than a hundred Hebrews authorized to kill cattle are employed.

FOR BATTLEFIELDS FUND.

Ottawa, June 17.—The Dominion central committee of Quebec Battlefields' Association has been notified that the Bank of Montreal, the Canadian Bank of Commerce and the Canadian Pacific Railway have each subscribed $10,000 to the fund, and that Byron E. Walker has given a personal donation of $1,000.

TERRIBLE TALE OF CANNIBALISM

Made Desperate By Starvation, Kills Guide and Companion for Food.

Montreal, June 16.—A terrible tale of cannibalism came down to the settlements from the great northwestern wilderness of Quebec today in which two Frenchmen from old France, desperate with starvation, killed and ate all edible portions of the body of Auguste Lemieux, a guide, and after their horrible crime finding yet no food, one of them fell a victim to his companion's hunger and met the same fate as the guide.

The third man has not been found and has probably perished.

Two Parisians, or two men from France, Joseph Gussett and Bernard, left Quebec in September for a hunting trip in the Missassinin territory, northwest of Lake St. Joseph. They secured the services of Lemieux, who was a well known guide of that region, and were to be back in France in December.

They started up the Chaouchan River and when last seen were in the region of the Chaouchan gold discoveries. They took along seven or eight weeks' provisions and as they were sturdy fellows no trouble was anticipated.

Another party left Quebec in January, bound for the height of land, on a like hunting trip. Joseph Kurtness, heading the party, encountered Comme Ettiene, an Indian, who told of seeing tracks of a white man's camp. The Kurtness party followed the trail of a camp. Near the remains of the fire they found a handsleigh, and on it was a bag containing a note, saying that the Frenchmen had failed to find the cache, were without provisions and for the party who found the note to "come on quickly." The note was dated Dec. 28, signed Bernard, and articles in the bag were found marked "Gussett" and "A. Lemieux."

The Kurtness party searched ten days in the neighborhood, but came back owing to lack of provisions Feb. 25.

On April 2 the McKenzie Trading Company sent fifteen men to take provisions to the Chiobgamoo mining camp and on a fur trading expedition. He met three McKenzie men and told them the story. The search began April 25, but they only found a rifle, Belgian make, until May 9, when Kurtness and one of the McKenzie men made a ghastly discovery. They went to the lake to see the ice move and saw an object, which, when brought to land, proved to be a man's body.

They made a rough coffin to bury the body, but examination told them that the body was not that of a starved man but one in a healthy condition, mutilated in several ways. Emile Robertson, Eushache Robertson and Alfred Perron, the first two Blue Point Indians, identified the body as that of Lemieux, the missing guide. The attorney-general was notified at Quebec.

The body of Lemieux was bruised in the right temple, the cheek bone and the right eye. The right arm was cut through three undershirts and in the muscles about four inches long. The left hand was cut off at the wrist, the mit being still on. The left leg was cut off at the knee, the upper part being gone. The right leg was entirely missing, only the foot left, cut off below the ankle.

There were two knife wounds near the heart. The body was cut open from abdomen to neck. The flesh was cut off the ribs on the right side and the heart and liver and kidneys were missing.

They next found a message from the Frenchmen in a shanty, saying they had had neither food nor drink for a week. Provincial Detective McCaskill sent two men out. They traced the men from the shanty, but found no trace of them. Saturday last the two men received a report that near the place where they had lost track of the Frenchmen a body of a man had been discovered, supposed to be that of a Belgian. It showed signs that the man had been killed and part of his flesh eaten. It is supposed that the remains are those either of Gussett or Bernard, and that the victim met the same fate that he had helped to inflict upon Auguste Lemieux.

It is the conviction of the authorities that the third man has perished in the northern wilds after going crazy through want and desperation.

SPECTACULAR RAID

New York Police Pull a Swell Joint —A Great Sight.

New York, N. Y., June 16.—Three thousand persons gathered along West Forty-third street, near Broadway, tonight and watched the police make a spectacular raid on a gambling joint, said to be patronized by guests of several of the uptown hotels.

The police forced their way into a room, where several persons were found seated around gaming tables. The patrons of the place, all in evening clothes, endeavored to get away by the fire escapes, but were confronted by detectives who had been placed at every possible exit.

The managers of the place and the patrons were taken to the police station in patrol wagons. Twelve arrests were made.

TO FIGHT MONTREAL.

New York, June 16.—The Produce Exchange today appointed a special committee of five members to confer with officials of trunk line railroads carrying grain east of Buffalo over the matter of inland freight rates to New York. The meeting was precipitated by the action of the White Star Line in withdrawing five of its freight steamers formerly plying from New York, because of the unfavorable rates to this port.

News Items From South London

MANY NEW CROSSINGS FOR SOUTH LONDON

Requests of People Have At Last Been Granted.

South Londoners have for some time been asking for crossings at certain intersections which were almost impassable during wet weather.

Their requests have been granted and for the past few days teams have been hauling brick and depositing them where crossings are needed.

Among the intersections which are to be improved are, Wharncliffe road and Askin street, Cynthia and Askin streets, Bruce street and Wortley road, Elmwood avenue and Wortley road and Garfield avenue and Wortley road.

Although these streets will be greatly improved there are still a few in very bad condition.

Sewers were laid on certain streets last year, and this spring, trenches being in solid clay, each shower caused passing citizens to become mired in about ten inches of mud.

Langarth street and the Wortley road is one of those that should have a crossing.

SOUTH LONDON FIREMEN THANKFUL FOR FLOWERS.

With Which the Lawns of the Hall Have Been Beautified.

The men of No. 3 fire hall wish to thank Messrs. Dick and Stevenson for the flowers which they kindly donated to improve the appearance of the hall lawns.

Mr. Dick contributed several dozen flowers, including many cannas, geraniums, salvia and foliage.

Mr. Stevenson, of Elmwood avenue, donated a handsome bed of petunias and asters.

Yesterday the men were busy arranging the beds and planting the flowers.

No. 3 hall is the only one which has any lawn and the men keep it in first-class condition.

BLIGHT & FIELDER ARE RUSHING WORK.

On the Sewer on Ridout Street South.

Blight & Fielder, the sewer contractors, who are laying the trench on Ridout street south and on West avenue, are going along rapidly.

Although the trench is about 25 feet deep, the sewer has been completed between West avenue and Chester street on Ridout street.

The men are now starting on West avenue east of Ridout street.

Despite the stiff clay, and the depth of the trench, the work is rapidly being completed, and there has been no serious accident yet, although there has been trouble with sides caving in.

PLAYGROUNDS MAKE HIT WITH CHILDREN

Many "Kiddies" Visit Gerry's Flats Every Day.

The playgrounds recently opened on Gerry's Flats in South London have certainly made a hit with the children.

Each day the grounds are visited by hundreds of children, who find no end of pleasure on the different pieces of apparatus installed.

South London parents heartily indorse the playgrounds as a method of keeping the "kiddies" off the streets.

NEW SIDEWALK IS BADLY NEEDED.

On West Side of the Wortley Road, Duchess Avenue to Tecumseh.

A new sidewalk is badly needed on the west side of the Wortley road between Duchess avenue and Tecumseh avenue.

Several fine residences have been erected in that neighborhood, and a walk, patched with cinders and clay, does not add any to the apparance of an otherwise pretty section.

SOUTH LONDON HORSE GEARED UP FAST

Ran Away and Only Touched the High Spots.

Several South Londoners, who were of the opinion that they could handle anything in runaways, had that notion removed from their craniums rather speedily last evening.

A horse attached to a democrat wagon did a seismic stunt about 7 o'clock. It was first seem coming in the Base Line.

It turned up Ridout street, and after giving the wagon several bumps on the high spots, where the sewer was laid recently, proceeded on Grand avenue.

On Ridout street several gentlemen attempted to stop the animal. It was not to be stopped, however, for before they had stepped well over the curb it had reached a point some blocks ahead.

It is not known who owned the outfit, but it is thought that the animal is in training for the Olympic sports.

If that is true, those who saw him are willing to wager a week's board that he will bring in the ribbons.

RIDOUT STREET SOUTH IN BAD CONDITION

Putting Down of Sewers Has the Usual Result.

The condition of Ridout street for several blocks north of Chester street is causing considerable complaint among South Londoners.

Sewers have been laid on the street recently, and it was impossible to get all of the clay back into the trench.

It was therefore piled up along the road. Wagons passing along the road have cut deep ruts in it, and there being but one side of the road passable, the residents do not care to have that in dangerous shape.

Wortley road, between Tecumseh avenue and West avenue, is another road that would be improved by grading.

A sewer was constructed there last year, and it is now in about as bad shape as any in the city.

It is several feet above Langarth street, and horses passing from one street to the other are continually tripping.

SOUTH LONDON NOTES.

The members of the Mothers' Club meet this afternoon at the Wortley road school. A very interesting meeting is looked for. As is the custom at mothers' club meetings a programme will be carried out.

MR. H. SHORT, OF RECTORY STREET, INJURED

Popular East Ender Will Be Laid Up Some Time.

Mr. H. Shortt, of Rectory street, will be laid up for some time, as the result of an accident which befel him Monday at the White picnic at Springbank.

Mr. Short was playing ball, and when running from second to third base his running shoe slipped, allowing his right ankle to go over.

He stumbled, and it was thought that his ankle was broken.

It was found to be a very bad sprain, however, which will lay him up for at least a week.

GRAND TRUNK STILL LAYING IN COAL

Big Pile in the East End Is Daily Growing.

The Grand Trunk is still depositing hundreds of tons of coal on the huge pile east of Rectory street.

The company is not taking any chances on running short in this division if a coal strike should be called.

There are now about 55,000 tons of coal in the huge pile.

That amount would be sufficient to supply all locomotives on this division for about sixty days.

RECTORY STREET PEOPLE WANT THE SEWER

Already Many Applications Have Been Made to Council.

Several property owners of Rectory street, including Messrs. Arnott, Smith, Cambridge, Bourne, Swanwick Hunter, Humphrey and Gowers have made application to the council to be allowed to make connections with the new sewer in the usual way. That is to pay for the sewer inside their frontage line.

Before the sewer was constructed several of the residents of the street caused trouble by petitioning against it.

The drain was then built on the debenture plan with money saved on the trunk sewers built last year.

The residents of the street were, therefore, compelled to pay for the side drains complete from the sewer to their houses.

The matter is now in the hands of the city engineer. It is thought that the request of those now asking to be allowed to pay inside the frontage line only, should be granted, as they supported the sewer from the beginning.

BUSINESS MEETING OF SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

Annual Picnic Was Discussed—Will Be Big One.

A special business meeting of the Sunday school teachers of Egerton Street Baptist Church was held at the church last night to discuss the annual picnic.

It was finally decided to hold the picnic at Springbank Park on July 9.

It is claimed by those in charge that it will be the largest picnic of Sunday schools of the South East End.

Between 300 and 400 persons will turn out to the picnic.

The outing was formerly held to Port Stanley, but Springbank was decided on this year as being the most convenient.

HERE'S A FISH STORY AND A BIG ONE

Dick Holmes Caught an 11-Pound Pike.

Mr. Dick Holmes, of Dundas street east, made a record catch at Walker's Pond yesterday, when he landed a pike weighing eleven pounds.

He had some trouble in bringing him in, however. The fish pulled him around the pond for half an hour. It was necessary to kill it before it could be taken out of the water.

The fish is the largest taken from the pond in three years.

At the band concert to be held this evening as advertised, in Victoria Park, the citizens are asked to contribute by their offerings to the furtherance of the excellent work of this branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, now in its third year of usefulness amongst the sick of the Forest City. A good response is anticipated as the holiday season interfered with the unusual good attendances at the city churches on Victoria Day. Mr. Gillean, Mr. B. McCann, Mr. Pearce, Dr. Niven and other prominent citizens have kindly volunteered to take charge of the gates.

A Piano Recital.

A number of the piano pupils of Miss Claris gave a very interesting recital last night. The different numbers were performed in a manner which reflected credit on the work of both teacher and pupils, and were greatly enjoyed by all present. A very pleasing variation in the programme was the recitation by Aileen Raymond. The following pupils took part: Vernon Cooper, Gertrude Morgan, May Blankenship, Aileen Raymond, Ella Brown, May Caldwell, Lilly Payne, Lillian Hourd, Lorne Firth, Bessie Kettlewell, Clair Adams, Violet Caldwell and Marjory Underwood.

Branksome Hall Ladies' College.

Branksome Hall, the residential and day school for girls, conducted so successfully for the past five years at 102 Bloor street east, Toronto, by Miss Scott and Miss Merrick, will reopen Sept. 9. A well equipped gymnasium will afford opportunity for thorough physical training, and the retired and spacious school grounds will permit of outdoor exercise at all seasons of the year, on tennis courts and skating rink. The teaching staff will be maintained at its present high state of efficiency, a sufficient guarantee for the thorough mental and moral training of the pupils.

The "singing quality" in the tone of every Gourlay piano is a distinguishing characteristic. It is not due to any one cause alone, but is rather the result of unwearying study, perfect craftsmanship, rarest of materials and a determination to excel, no matter what the cost may be.

The bride was given away by her father, and was beautifully gowned in an imported creation of Princess lace, mounted over chiffon and satin, tulle veil and orange blossom wreath, and carried a shower of bridal roses and lilies.

Miss Jessie Irving, elocutionist, of Hamilton, has a fine stage appearance, a beautiful voice, and read into her numbers in a manner that completely captivated her audience, and she was compelled to respond to numerous encores.

Those taking part in the programme were Mr. Leslie H. Roberts, Miss Annie Martin, Miss Edna McNab, Miss Jessie Irving, Miss Ollie Suhr, Miss G. Ware, Mr. James Gay, Miss L. Gilmore, Mr. J. Parnell-Morris, Mr. W. Saunders, Mrs. Wilfrid Wardle, Mr. C. L. Hodgins, Mr. W. Greenway.

Methodists Arrange for Big Movement Which Will Take Place in 1909

Council Held a Meeting Last Night—A Resolution Re Band Concerts.

At the regular meeting of the London Methodist Council, held last night in Wesley Hall, steps were taken to inaugurate an evangelistic movement that will commence in this city in February, 1909, and continue throughout the month.

With that end in view a special committee, composed of Messrs. C. E. German (chairman), A. J. Webster (secretary), Rev. W. L. Rutledge, Rev. A. K. Birks, Rev. George Dewey, Messrs. H. Pocock, N. Morrow, T. R. Wright and E. Payne, was appointed to make arrangements for securing many of the leading evangelists.

The committee will try and secure the services of Gypsy Smith, the well-known English evangelist, for a series of addresses in September, 1909.

Three Committees.

At a meeting of the executive committee it was decided to divide into three committees—one to undertake the spiritual work, another to look after the social work, and a third to take charge of financial matters.

Each committee will be composed of three pastors and six laymen, and by this arrangement the work will be much more evenly distributed than formerly.

The social committee is composed of G. T. Mann (chairman), I. Kilpatrick, (secretary), Revs. F. E. Malott, H. A. Graham and A. G. Harris, and Messrs. W. Gibson, C. J. Beal, W. Park and W. Watson. Financial committee—J. H. Chapman (chairman), I. Taylor (secretary), Revs. E. B. Lanceley, George D. Hazen and J. W. Baird, and Messrs. W. Wyatt, R. Green, J. Watson and H. Lewis.

A Banquet.

The social committee recommended that a banquet of the laymen of the Methodist churches of London be held on Sept. 29, and that an effort be made to secure some leading American evangelist to speak.

The names of Campbell White, Robert E. Speer and John R. Mott were mentioned in connection with the affair.

In case it is impossible to have either of these gentlemen, an effort will be made to have a leading American bishop present.

The suggestion of the committee that at least once a year two laymen from each Methodist church should take charge of a prayer service in some other local Methodist church was adopted.

Change Band Concerts.

It was decided to ask all the churches in the city to present a petition to the council asking that in future the Wednesday night band concerts be discontinued, as the night has been devoted to prayer meetings for many years.

The committees will also work together in connection with the laymen's missionary movement, and a programme of work in connection with it will be prepared.

Mr. C. J. Beal announced that he would be unable to complete his term as president of the council, and handed in his resignation, which was accepted with regret.

Mr. John H. Chapman was elected president in place of Mr. Beal and Mr. W. Gibson takes Mr. Chapman's place as second vice-president.

The Officers.

The officers now are:
Honorary President—Rev. A. K. Birks.
President—Mr. J. H. Chapman.
First Vice-President—Rev. E. B. Lanceley.
Second Vice-President—Mr. W. Gibson.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. Israel Taylor.

It was decided to adjourn the regular monthly meetings until September.

800 Take in the Grocers' Excursion

About 800 of the local grocers and their friends left via the Grand Trunk this morning for Detroit, where they are spending the day, and having a good time.

On their arrival the party was taken in autos to Belle Isle Park, where they spent the morning, returning to the Cadillac Hotel for dinner.

In the afternoon as many as cared to go took in the ball games, while others arranged for picnicking parties.

Each lady who accompanied the grocers was presented with a box of candy, donated by the Perrin and McCormick biscuit firms.

The special train bearing the party will leave Detroit at 11 o'clock tonight for London.

ONE-CENT RATE FOR DROP LETTERS

The Postmaster-General's Bill Passed Its Third Reading—Boon To Cities.

Ottawa, June 16.—Hon. Mr. Lemieux's bill establishing a one-cent drop letter rate in cities where there is free delivery came up in the House of Commons tonight, and was read a third time.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth's bill to restrict the sale of tobacco to minors was put through committee. The age limit in the bill was changed from 16 to 18 years on motion of Mr. Miller (South Grey).

Mr. Richard Blain (Peel) wanted complete prohibition of importation, manufacture and sale of cigarettes, and gave notice that in the third reading he would move to so amend it.

Before the House adjourned at midnight two items were passed, one of $200,000 for exhibitions, the other of $8,000 for the Canadian exhibit at Imperial Institute, London.

In the Senate.

In the Senate Senator Beique's bill respecting juvenile delinquents was given a third reading, an amendment being added, giving juvenile court judges power to impose shorter sentences than other judges have authority to impose.

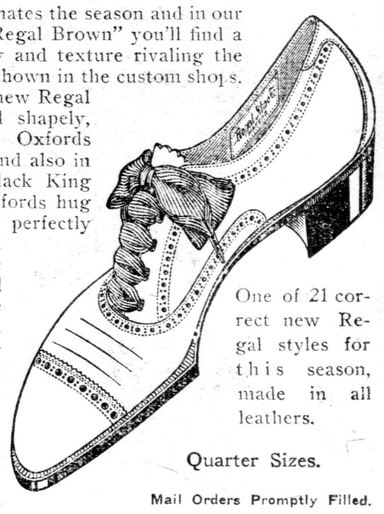

Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, deputy to the Governor-General, attended at 4 o'clock and gave assent to 45 bills which had passed both houses, including the supply bill.
