HOME RULE BILL TO GO THROUGH IMMEDIATELY AFTER SUMMER RECESS

Plural Voting To Be Abolished and a Land Reform Measure Introduced—Belfast Orangemen Discriminating Against Nationalist Workmen.

[Special Cable to The Advertiser by T. P. O'Connor.]

London, July 13.-Though the three-cornered fights on two byelections, and the speeches of the conflicting Liberal and Labor advocates produce some uneasiness in Liberal circles, this week has gone well for the ministry.

The Unionists express different views and talk confidently of throwing out the Government and forcing a general election by the spring of next year, but I see no indications whatever of any such a

The big fright which the Liberals got a fortnight ago from the clever ambuscade, reducing the Liberal majority to 22, was such a clever ambuscade, reducing the Liberal majority to 22, was such a warning that now they are prepared, and have always a big majority. CLEARING THE DECKS. The interval will be occupied in getting through all of the necessary financial business, including the budget, so as to have the decks completely cleared for the home rule bill when parliament re-assemblies in November, and then with the drastic closure, two months of parliamentary time will see the end of the struggle in the House of

FRANCHISE REFORM BILL.

The bill for the reform of the franchise, abolishing the university representation, which gives the Unionists nine certain seats, and the plural vote, which enables property owners to vote in several different constituencies, is passing through the House of Commons with only a semblance of Unionist opposition, and some times this measure, which would have been called revolutionary some years are does not which would have been called revolutionary some years ago, does not get an audience of a dozen members. THE WOMAN'S VOTE.

The future of the bill is haunted by the grim controversy over the female suffrage proposal, which if passed would add at least two millions, and, perhaps, ten million new female voters.

This prospect, which is fought by most of the people, may compel the Government to abandon the greater part of the bill and confine itself to the abolition of the plural voter, but even that reform means a gain of fifty seats to the Liberal party on the next election. ANOTHER REFORM.

The Unionists, already stunned by the loss of their power in the House of Bords by Lloyd George's taxation on their land, and now by the abolition of the plural voter, are receiving a further shock by the clear announcement that the Liberals will put a large scheme of land reform before the constituencies in the next election.

LINE TO DETROIT

Mayor Graham Says Big Road Is Working Quietly, But There Will Soon Be an Announcement.

Brantford, July 12.-With the arrival at Brantford today, of a survey party for the Canadian Northern Railway, the first step in the company's projected line from Hamilton westward to Detroit seems to have been taken. The party, which came here from Dundas, includes engineers, and will begin at once to locate the route through this district.

It will be remembered that Sir William Mackenzie, some time ago, stated quite definitely that it was in his mind to build through to the boundary at Detroit in the future, but the railway president then said that the matter had not proceeded beyond the embryo stage. Things have evidently moved quickly during the last few weeks, as the surveyors who are here today clearly mean business, though they are not communicative as to the scope of the work they have come to carry through. The latest published map of the Ontario lines of the Canadian Northern shows the projected extension from Hamilton to Brantford, but it has not generally been understood that active location would be made for some months to come, at least. Brantford people are naturally delighted at the prospect of a competing railway in the near future.

In reference to the above dispatch, Mayor Graham was seen today by The Advertiser, and expressed the opinion that definite action is to be taken by the Canadian Northern Railway in this district within a very short time.

His worship, however, continues in a reticent mood, and refuses, for the good of the scheme, he says, to divulge any of the details of the plans of the Mackenzie & Mann interests unthe route of the line through this district has been more completely worked out.

Minister of Militia Is Dissatisfied With ROYALISTS ARRESTED the Grounds Which Were Provided by Goderich.

Mayor Graham was reticent after Col Hughes left the city, and would say but little regarding the attitude of the Minister of Militia concerning the combined parade ground and city hall site. His worship said that the party, in addition to going over the Armories block, visited the camp on Carling's Heights, and certain orders were issued in relation to the camp of the cadets which will take place on the 26th of July. "The minister told me," declared his worship, "that he is deeply disappointed because the cadet movement does not find a stronger foothold in this city. The Collegiate Institute cadets here have been allowed to drop out of sight, and the entire military spirit of London was deplored by Col. Hughes. He told me that the people, the pulpit and the press should seek to revive the military movement, and do all that can be done to promote the cadet idea, as upon the youth of the nation depends the future."

The bathroom, with its steam and splashing of water, and its extreme heat, tests a varnish to its utmost.

None but a good pure gum varnish will stand it. We mean varnish without rosin in it, because rosin varnish will turn white in contact with water, will crack and lose the gloss. ## July a Month of Extraordinary Opportunities

Public Appreciation

Everybody knows the peculiar sense of satisfaction sometimes experienced from having performed some act whose influence was unexpectedly salutary. This is the sensation following the first half of Special July Sales at this store. It is not in the amount of merchandise sold, for in the regular seasons a greater volume of business is done. Nor the amount realized, for the prices are so low that the sum total is insignificant compared with the returns when regular prices prevail. But because so many people are pleased, and express themselves as such, repeating almost our very words, that these sales come "in the very nick of time" to fill a special want. There is satisfaction in performing a special service to fill a special need. We esteem this the highest and best form of store building. There are still a few of our many patrons that we may serve just as well—we have the means—the merchandise that may become theirs today or next week at prices that cannot be duplicated for many months, if ever.

It will be remembered that Sir William Mackenzie, some time ago, state-ed-quite definitely that it was in his mind to build through to the boundary at Detroit in the future, but the

Some children owing to constitutional weakness, or as a result of children's diseases, will not thrive on food from which stronger ones benefit. In such cases the addition of Bovril to the diet will produce marked results.

Boyril is concentrated beef in its best and most palatable form. Stringent scientific tests have shown that it is a great body-builder. It is in itself a highly condensed food but it possesses the remarkable power of enabling the system to draw the full store of nutriment from ordinary food. Give your child between meals once a day, a cup of warm milk, in which you have stirred a spoonful of Bovril, and try a dash of Bovril in your gravies, sauces and soups. It will be not only the delicate ones who will appreciate the added zest, all will benefit from the railway president then said that the matter had not proceeded beyond the embryo stage. Things have evidently moved quickly during the last few weeks, as the surveyors who are here today clearly mean business, though they are not communicative as to the scope of the work they have come to carry through. The latest published map of the Ontario lines of the Canadian Northern shows the projected extension from Hamilton to Brantford, but it has not generally been understood that active location would be made some months to come, at least. Brantford people are naturally delighted at the prospect of a competing railway in the near future.

HEAVY DOWNPOURS CHEER OF THE WEST

Disposes of Anxiety as to the Drouth and Hot Weather.

Winnipeg, July 12.— In Manitoba reports from all Canadian Pacific Company agents for the past week show that in almost every district heavy rains have fallen, which have entirely relieved any anxiety that had been felt on account of drought and hot weather. The rains of Wednesday and Thursday nights covered the whole province, not in one continuous rain, but falling in showers, and every district was touched. In some parts of Southern Manitoba, the dry weather of June affected probably 25 per cent of the crop, and in the Rosenfield district fifteen farmers were hailed out, and some hail is reported in other parts of the prov-ince, but the losses will affect the total very slightly, the individual alone being the sufferer. Since the rain the grain has made very rapid progress, and all points report very rapid growth. On the lighter land some "tipburn" is in evidence, and will slightly reduce the yield. In Saskatchewan the crop is re-ported all over the province to be in very good condition. In a number of districts wheat is headed out, and while the straw is short the plant is in very healthy condition. This is especially true on the Battle River. Kerrobert, and Outlook sections. There has been an abundance of rain and some sections report not enough sunshine. Early flax is out in bloom. It is expected that the harvest will begin early in August, and will be general by the 15th.

Alberta conditions are also very fav-orable; the winter wheat particular-Brantford, July 12. — With the arrival at Brantford today of a survey party for the Canadian Northern Rail way, the first step in the company's mated that fall wheat harvesting will

WM. KAVANAGH DEAD. Hamilton, July 12.—William Kavan-agh, one of the most prominent Catholic laymen in Hamilton, died today, aged 81 years. Deceased was for nine years an alderman, several years a member of the parks board, separate school board and Holy Sepulchre Cemetery board of trustees. He is survived by a widow, two sons and four daughters. COOK MISSING. Brockville, July 12.—It is now be-lieved that a cook named Peters was burned in the fire which destroyed the Hotel Columbian, Thousand as he was seen to enter the building for his effects, and has not been heard of since. HER LAST SMOKE.

Montreal, July 12.—Mrs. Elizabeth Boudreau an old Habitant woman, who last night set fire to her clothing while smoking, died this morn-THIS IS THE LIMIT.

Niagara Falls, July 12.—Here is the champion hot weather story. Michael Michael House brought back with him from Muskoka two loon eggs. He put them on the sideboard. A few days later he heard a supicious noise in the eggs and found them chipped. Shortly after two little loonettes appeared. They are still alive and thriving. Neighbors wouch for 8-7-12 the truth of this story.

Yabouth Ale is the choice of critical tastes. The secret of its popularity is its delicate quality and flavor, the result of the special brewing process by which Labouts is made. Labouts flavor cannot be described in words; you will appreciate it only when you have tasted it. Then you will understand why everybody likes Yabatta Order from the brewery or through your dealers.

TARIFF REDUCTION NEXT? Mr. Rogers and his arts having failed in Saskatchewan, the Borden Government must try something else, if only in self-defence. The West has a valid grievance, the West is angry, and the West must be appeased.

The late Government proposed to enlarge the markets of the western farmers, while retaining the western market for the eastern manufacturer. Under the regiprocity agreement, the heaviest cut on any important class of manufactures was only five per cent. This fell on agricultural implements. The West had demanded more sweeping tariff reductions, but agreed that

The election probably means the passing of Mr. Haultain as a force in western politics. It is not only that he barely holds his own seat and loses ground to Premier Scott. For all this, and thrice defeated, he shrivels up. It is a pity. A scholarly, cultured man, he was a few years ago hailed as a superior type, a moral force in politics, marked out by his character and ability for a high destiny. If he had only been loyal to his word he had a good chance to be premier of Saskatchewan, and a power in the federal councils of his party, if his ambition later led him that way. But he has tried to trim his way to office in a province that knows its mind. To be beaten at such a game is the worst kind of defeat. Mr. Haultain is only Mr. Rogers' broken tool. Their help proved unavailing, and he lost the confidence and goodwill of thousands who had followed him for years, almost to victory.

CANADA AND THE PANAMA CANAL.

The British Government, prompted by the Canadian Government, has informed Washington that it would like to discuss the Panama Canal bill before Congress acts on that measure.

The bill, in its present shape, contains two discriminating clauses. First, it provides that no railroadowned ship engaged in the coasting trade of the United States shall pass through the canal. Second, no vessels engaged in the coastwise tradetrade between United States ports only-shall be charged canal tolls. The first clause is intended to hit the transcontinental railroads, by favoring their water-route competitors. It might be stretched to prohtbit Canadian railway-owned vessels going through the canal, which would be a blow at the Canadian Pacific, the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Northern, all of which do an ocean-carrying business.

On the surface, the second clause applies, like the first, only to United States vessels, since no foreign vessels are permitted to engage in coastwise trade. But indirectly it would discriminate against Canadian interlests. For instance, an American veswould be able to carry a cargo from Portland, Oregon, to Portland Maine, without paying canal tolls, while a Canadian vessel would be taxed at Panama for every ton of freight it carried from Vancouver to Halifax, Obviously it would be Vancouver. In Madagascar you can cheaper to send the Canadian cargo buy them for 20 cents, and when the transportation through channels. That this discrimination would be contrary to treaty agreement between Great Britain and the United States is admitted by many frir-minded Americans. The New York World says: "There can be no doubt that the bill now in Congress permitting American coastwise vessels to use the Panama Canal free of tolls vio-lates the Hay-Pauncefote treaty By that agreement we are bound to operate the canal on terms of entire equality for all nations, with no discrimination against any nation in respect of charges, which shall be just and equitable." Those who resent British interference in this matter should remember that there are at least two parties to every treaty, and that a sure way to provoke complications is for one to violate the rights of the other. When the Hay-Pauncefote agreement was made it was generally conceded that the canal should be free to all or, if not, that it should be operated on terms of

"That should be the policy of the American people now, no matter how noisy the lobby of the ship-subsidy people or how unpopular for the moment the representatives of the land lines may be.'

Congress is now upon its honor. Will it pass the bill in face of the British request for parley?

PROF. BLEWETT'S GREAT BOOK

[By Special Arrangement With

the Winnipeg Telegram.]

The majority of Canadians have heard of Jean Blewett, a singer of homelike songs, but few have any knowledge of a cousin of hers, Professor George Blewett, who holds the chair of philosophy in Victoria College, Toronto. Dr. Blewett writes for that "fit audience though few" for which the soul of John Milton had such respect. About five years ago Professor Blewett gave to this small and select audience of world scholars his first book, "The Study of Nature and the Vision of God," I had the pleas. ure at that time of reviewing this volume in two leading Canadian publications and calling attention to it as the greatest book that had ever been preduced by a son of the Dominion, These philosophical essays were written in a style approaching that of Newman in lucidity and grace; they were packed with profound thought and the author's erudition was apparent on every page. Although the sale of this remarkable book was not encouraging to the author, it brought him abundant recognition from foreign scholars. In England, in Germany, and in the United States leading professors of philosophy regarded it as the book of the year. On the strength of that collection of brilliant ersays, Professor Blewett was offered the chair of philosophy in Boston University to succeed the late Professor Borden P. Bowne, one of the greatest scholars that America has produced. Through a feeling of loyalty to his alma mater he preferred to remain in his present position. Then another great honor came to him as the result of having written his first book. In 1910-1911 he was invited to deliver a special course of lectures at Yale University on the Nathaniel William Taylor foundation. I have been told that, if he had given any intimation of acceptance Professor Blewett would have been of-

The lectures that he delivered at Yale have now been collected and published in book form under the title, "The Christian View of the World" (Yale University Press, New Haven, and William Briggs, Toronto). To the general reader this work will not prove nearly so acceptable as Dr. Blewett's larger first volume. Here he revels in the deep things of theology and philosophy. In order to understand his closely-involved argument one must be at ease in following the terminology of the philosophical schools. The expert theologian will enjoy his two first chapters, "The Christian Consciousness and the Task of Theology" and "Human Experience and the Absolute Spirit"; the general reader will be tempted to pass them by as caviare, but will find much food for thought and a clear and limpid style in the chapter on "Nature" and in the last in the book, entitled "Freedom, Sin and Redemption." Each of these chapters is really a book in itself, and as one follows the subtle reasoning the impression is gained that Professor has thought long and deeply on the riddie of existence, on the greatest problems that the human mind can grapple with, and has come out at last on the side of the apostles and angels.

fered a chair at Yale.

Professor Blewett's view of nature corresponds largely to that of Wordsworth. He finds in nature a healing power, a spiritual influence, revelation, and consolation. Nature is also the arena of man's labor, the stubborn material of his moral struggle. The reality of nature, he contends, is the reality of a relation between man and God. In other words, nature is "a term or method in a spiritual process; is that through which and in which God gives to us our spiritual being; a medium through which he makes the communication of himself which is the impartation to us of life, and freedom, and individuality. When we see that-and, I arry think, only then-we at last see nature in the truth, not of its empirical detail indeed, but of its intrinsic character and uniformity, are in the last analysis spiritual laws, divine purposes; its necessities are divine media in producing freefulfilling himself and fulfilling man even in the cyclone. Dr. Blewett claims that was, the stiff leather was crushed death is only an event in the life of the spirit, and "man's relationship to nature -nature in all her processes, all her strange blending of apparent indifference and cruelty with unspeakable tenderness and grace-is in its ultimate truth a relation to God and to the purpose and the ways of God."

of the problem of evil. It is not very original sin in the heart of every child born into the world. But after patient study of all the researches of modern science Dr. Blewett ranges himself on rect current to the bus bars; the side of Paul, "In helplessness we begin our life," he says in a notable passage, "and come only gradually to be to be ourselves, long before we are capable of clean and deliberate volition, we passiors, instincts, habits, which altogether naturally and altogether easily became the matter, the body, the conrete filing, of our slowly-g owing will, and as thus taken up into our will, be. ame our siz. What we were naturally, we tend to become deliberately; and thus coils in the main shops where it keeps there is in us original sin-the sin which comes by nature in the sense that nature, in o ent w en taken abstrac ly or in itself, becomes sin in the will of man. It of the past winter is met true that in this there are in were kept warm without difficulty. The finite varieties of kind and degree. It is most true that some men are so involved in the evil of the world that it is only by a convulsion, a radical and catastrophic spiritual change, that they enter into the Christian life; while others have been so brought up in Christian homes that they have never felt themselves outside the church, never felt themselves aliens from the Kingdom of God, but have entered upon the Christian consciousness as morning deepens into day." This inheritance of sin is what Professor Blewett calls our 'tragedy of freedom." Freedom of the will given to mankind by God made possible both sin and righteousness, our capacity for and tendency towards sin God also planned a way of escape. All history has been organized as a saving process, and redemption is God's great.

And this is the great significance of A NEW SCHOOL NEEDED this learned book. Here stands one of the greatest Canadian scholars, a man trained in the best universities of the world, and saturated in the wisdom of ancient and modern times; here stands this profound thinker on the side of the old doctrines of the freedom of the will and of salvation through Christ. There are many Canadians today who have not done one-thousandth part of the wide reading-and deep study of Professor Blewett who have lost their faith in the Christian religion, who in the arrogance of a shallow self-conceit, have discarded it as an idle tale. They may never read this weighty book, but it should make them pause and doubt their own easy rejection of the old faith to learn that this great scholar, who reaches out into eternity after the truth, sets down this confession of his belief that Jesus Christ stands at the heart of nature, and of history, and of human life, and is the light of the world-"In a gospel which builds itself upon the idea of an eternal Son of God, who became the Son of Man, and is the centre, the organizing principle, of proper state of efficiency would require the whole scheme of human history-in an expenditure of $40,000, and the such a gospel and such a view of the world, I think we have the synthesis, the whole of truth, of which man's per_ petual spirit of enlightenment on the one side, and his perpetual mysticism on the other, are the sundered and shattered fragments." I rejoice to hear this voice of certainty in an age of doubt.

Six large automatic stokers feed coal to as many furnaces in order to generate the requisite steam. By the system of chain grate stokers coal is fed continuously to the fire and consumed with a minimum smoke. In addition to these there are two other furnaces stoked by hand. The finely crushed coal is fed from above the furnaces by huge hoppers, with a capacity of 640 tons. The boilers are of a type not ordinarily used in Canada, being a vertical water tube. The smoke is carried by means of a smoke box to a reinforced concrete stack outside, which is 12 feet in internal diameter and 210 feet in

Would Cost $40,000 for an Addition and Only $60,000 for a New Structure.

That a new school is necessary to replace the present Aberdeen school was the opinion of Building Inspector Piper, whose report was presented to the finance committee at the meeting yesterday afternoon. The school as shown by Mr. Piper's report is in a very bad state. The inside walls and foundations are weak, the floors and joists of some of the rooms are unsafe, the drainage and ventilation systems are very poorly constructed, there is not enough room set aside for cloak rooms, the windows in the various classrooms are not in the proper place to decently light the rooms and proper provision has not been made for protection against fire.

The Cost. To bring the present building to a building inspector estimated the cost

The installation of the shower bath will fill a long-felt want, and will be greatly appreciated by all the members. It is expected that they will be ready for use early next week. One of the locker rooms is to be set aside for the use of businessmen alone, and is being fitted up according to their needs.

The exterior, in the course of a few weeks, will also show a great many improvements. This was made clear recently in the case of a very lame horse which had been turned out to pasture in East London. A member of the Humane Society noticing the painful condition of the animal endeavored to locate the owner, but without success. Some weeks later, he was told that in some way the poor brute had broken a leg, and this in addition to its lameness, caused it untold suffering. The inspector and a constable were at once brought to the scene and after examination, the former stated that as no relief could be given, the animal should be destroyed. On the Window of Your Soul

BY MISS BILLIE BURKE, AMERICA'S MOST CHARMING YOUNG ACTRESS. The first word-"YOUR SKIN IS THE WINDOW NOT ONLY OF YOUR BODY, BUT OF YOUR SOUL."

A famous physician who is writing on the cultivation of health said the other day that "your skin is the window of your physique—by it you can tell the state of your health." As I read it I thought we could go farther even than that and say that through the window of your skin one could also tell your disposition, tastes and vocation. I have never seen a discontented person who had a beautiful complexion and whether discontent comes from a disordered liver or a disordered liver comes from discontent I am not sure, but you can usually say if you see a woman with brown or yellow complexion, that not only is her liver out of order, but she is not right in her mind with the The co-relation between the mental and the physical of a human being is so close and delicate that we can hardly separate one from the other. When I feel that "the times are out of joint" and that all's not "right with the world," look to my liver. I start in a regular regime of exercise, walk at least six miles a day, I do the deep breathing exercise, and I am extremely careful of my diet and I find that in less than a week the world is seen through different glasses. The yellow has turned to rose. For the woman who is troubled with a disordered liver and who is unhappy in consequence, three quarts of cool water a day, taken between meals is a great beautifler. For a torpid liver, a couple of tablespoonfuls of olive oil up-on going to bed at night, and a cup of warm water in which half a lemon is squeezed in the morn-

If the blindman guesses the identity of the player, the latter is blind-folded in his place. Benny Speer played a great game yesterday. Only one man stole second on him, his pegging to second being great. His catches of two foul flys were of the sensational variety, and it was he who began the run-getting for the Indians.

Neale is getting to be a great favorite with the crowd, and he is loudly clapped every time he catches a fly. It is to be hoped the fans won't spoil the left-fielder by turning his head. A good many good ball players go bad when they begin to suffer from swelled head.

Renfer's hit in the fourth inning broke the bat he was using and one of the splinters cut a gash in his hand. It both-ered him for a time after that.

The fifth inning was once again fatal for the Indians. If the locals can pass this session without a run being scored on them, they generally manage to win.

CANADIANS NOW IN FIFTH PLACE

United States Leads All Nations in Points at Olympic Games.

Stockholm, July 12.—By winning two and taking two seconds and two third places in the three track and field events decided today, the American athletes increased their lead over the reat of the world combined, and the rest of the world combined, and at the close of the session had a total of 61 points to 51 for all other nations. Little Finland is still safely in tions. Little Finland is still safely in second place, adding to her score by taking the discus throw. England is still third, while Sweden retained fourth place, and Canada went ahead of Greece, to be placed fifth.

America's wins were scored in the running read tump and the 110-metre running road jump and the 110-metre hurdle race, and although in the latter event another clean sweep was added to the many previously placed to the credit of the United States, the real feature of the day's performances was the marvelous winning jump of A. L. Gutterson, the Vermont University man, who competes under the colors of the Boston A. A. Gutterson only took one jump, and in this he cleared the astounding distance of 24 feet 11 inches, beating the previous Olympic record by 4½ inches, and coming within % of an inch of the world's record, held by Peter O'Connor, of Ireland. Bricker of Toronto, Canada, was second, and

The final heat of the 400-metres

The final heat of the 100 metres, free style, was won by Miss Fanny Durach, of Australia, in 1 minute, 22 1-5 seconds. Miss Wilhelmina Wylie, of Australia, was second in 1 minute, 25 2-5 seconds, and Miss Fletcher, of England,

Hungary was second, in 10 minutes, 24 2.5 seconds. minutes, 34 3-5 seconds, and England, third, in 10 minutes, 39 2-5 seconds. America's win was due largely to the lead secured by the Hawaiian, Duke

Kahanamoku.

In spite of the enforced absence of Longworth, who has an abscess in the ear, Australia entered a team, composed of Hardwick, Healy, Champion and Boardman, and swam over in the second heat with Germany. Notwithstanding they were not pressed, the standing they were not pressed, the Australians covered the course in 10 minutes, 14 2-5 seconds, 12 seconds less than the time of the Americans.

The American Marathon runners have stopped work, and will take no further practice for Sunday's struggle. They spent the day in fishing.

THE ACADIAN TEAM

Fast Game Played at Springbank Park Thursday Evening. Thursday evening the Hermitage the Springbank diamond, and for five awful spasms the battle raged. The Acadians struggled heroically to overcome the lead taken by the Hermits in the early stages of the game, but to no avail. The contest ended in a victory for the Hermits, 3 to 1. The features of the game were Crow Carruthers one-handed catch at short; Vic. Smith's work in centre field, and Chick Clark's sensational catch in left field. Percy Cope, as mound artist for the Hermits, induced ten Acadian swatters to swing harmlessly at his curves and shoots, while George Richardson, who twirled for the Acadians, was very effective in the pinches. Umpire Millman's work was very satisfactory to all and his decisions brought great applause from the fans. Dick Balfour was at his old game of stealing bases, and was loudly applauded when he stole first,

Some players on the Acadian asked the police officen to lend his aid and punish the culprit, but the "cop" merely picked up the stolen bases, and imprisoned them in the stone cottage. The lineup:

Wilfred Plays the Man.

A sharp contrast to the noise outside was presented by the quiet of the Varney house inside. The sewing women, in view of the attack and the movements of the boys and old men, had separated sooner than they had intended and had gone their several ways. Old Jonas, frightened to death, remained locked up in the closet where he had been left by in the closet where he had been left by in Howard's room, making ready to watch over him during the night.

Caroline Mitford had not gone home. She had sent word that she intended to pass the night at the Varney house. The two women looked at each other for a moment, both of them thinking the same thought, to which neither dared give utterance. The object of their thought was the boy, and the continuous flashes of light on the horizon seemed to make the situation more horrible.

Both cases are Spaniards from the infected area. This is the first death that has occurred north of Porto Rico, and the second case reported from the Cuban capital. Both of these agreed in their reports that cultures obtained from each patient proved to be those of the plague. Up to today there has been some doubt on this point. Dr. Von Ezordorf stated that he was assisting the Cuban health authorities in their work exterminating rats in the district where the disease has appeared, and also along the waterfronts. Dr. Von Ezordorf has established a strict quarantine over all vessels clearing for American ports, and each ship is being searched for rats before clea ing.

Montreal, July 12.—The sweeping victory of Premier Scott in Saskatche wan on a frankly reciprocity campaign has been taken as a serious actice to Eastern Canada by all the Montreal papers, and has led to much editorial comment. #### STRENGTH OF RECIPROCITY WON FIGHT, SAYS HAULTAIN

Sask. Opposition Leader Can- a good many people supposed, stronger, I think, than even Liberals themselves bedid in Regard to Result of Election.

Regina, July 12.—Mr. Haultain, seen this morning by a press representative, was looking fit and well and did not appear to be down-hearted or disconcerted by defeat.

"The outstanding feature, of course," said Mr. Haultain, with a smile, "is that we are beaten. As far as I can see, the reciprocity idea was much stronger than was very strong in Saskatchewan last autumn, and I always wondered why the Government did not go to the country much sooner. I said openly to my friends last spring that if the Government were to go to the country then we would be wiped out of existence. I regret very much that some of my old friends in the Legislature have been defeated. With Dr. Elliott I have been associated for four-teen years, and with Mr. Gillis for eighten years, I attribute the Liberal victory almost entirely to the strength of reciprocity in Saskatchewan." And Magistrate Has Some Trouble in Sifting the Affair in Court.

Folice Magistrate Judd had trouble this morning conducting the Carling street court with a batch of drunken plaintiffs, defendants and witnesses, and but for his generosity could have taxed the capacity of Castle Carter.

The main trouble centred round a boarding house on Ridout street, where a row occurred at midnight in which Earl Beckwith disarranged the countenance of James McPherson. The only independent story of the fuss was told by Mr. Clarence Davidson, of No. 140 Queen's avenue, who happened along. He had, however, never seen any of the combatants previously. Mr. Davidson stated that McPherson was seated in a chair on the lawn, when Beckwith sud-denly startled him, clinched, rolled in the ditch and proceeded upon righting himself to smash the face of McPherson. After punching McPherson while sitting astride of him he got up, kicked the man in the ribs, and then fell to with his fists again. Mr. Davidson interfered, but McPherson was then in

Parnell. Parnell is an exception to so many public men whose deeds and fame suffer eclipse with their death. His fame has risen instead of de-clined. Parnell has passed into his-tory and now may be discussed with the frigidity of a historical retrospect. This is partly because, apart from the man's political career, he was the central figure in one of those great tracedies of human passion which always excites pity in all life, he will remain a dominating of the House of Commons, and by figure in the human imagination long 1877, two years after his entrance

One of the marvels of Parnell's career is the extraordinary and immediate instinct he showed for political warfare, and especially in that difficult and perilous arena of the House of Commons. Lord Eversley brings out the will-known fact that when Parnell at twenty-eight began his parliamentary career, there were very few

He had never read Irish history, probably he had read but little English, indeed, he never was a reader of anything literary to the end of his days-I doubt if he ever read a novel or a poem in the whole course of his existence. And vet within a couple of years of his entrance into the House of Commons, without any pretensions to great oratorical power, this unlettered small squire was the equal of the greatest

I pass on to that dramatic epoch in Parnell's life when he was imprisoned in Kilmainham. And here there enters on the scene the Strange and singleter forms of the scene the strange and singleter forms when viewed as leaves a startled to hear that he was dead. I have heard him speak at length when his audience consisted of but two or three people, induce the ministry of Gladstone adopt legislation which appeased then terrible Irish situation, and in-cidentally, facilitated Gladstone's resolve to release Parnell from Kilmain ham. How explain the conduct of Capt. O'Shea at this fateful moment in Parnell's life? There is no doubt that the fatal passion which wrecked Parnell and the woman he so fanatically loved had already taken possession of both their souls; could O'Shea alone have been ignorant of a thing so palpable? I don't know; I suppose no-body will ever know. It is certain that the saying of Captin O'Shea, uttered years after Parnell was dead, "I killed him inch by inch."

He burnt his own smoke, but assuredly when often he came down to the House, tired, drawn, walking with an enfeebled step, and with glassy eyes, one ought to have easily seen agonies of body and mind he must have been passing through.

The final struggle of Parnell after his deposition by his party lasted only ten months. Some years before Parneil had been ill for months. Nobody knew it, for he had disappeared into that region of mysterious cloud in which he so often veiled himself, and he had not recovered until 1891. ## Music in the Home Is Refining and Uplifting

The educational and moral influence of music is of the highest order. Young people love it—and if parents make no provision for this form of amusement in the home, they need not be surprised if the young folks go elsewhere to find entertainment.

Don't compel YOUR children to seek amusement away from home. Make HOME the most attractive place to them. Give them the privilege of enjoying the world's sweetest music.

In summer many of the patients are housed in cottages, and as the number of patients are increasing, the need for larger quarters is being felt. The estimated cost for these improvements will amount to over $5,-
