BUCHANAN WARNS OF HYDRO POWER SHORTAGE

U. S. Submarine Is Driven On Maine Rocks During Storm

CREW SAVED AFTER SUB GROUNDS

U. S. Naval Vessel S-48 Is Driven on Rocks Outside Portsmouth Harbor.
FLASHED SIGNALS
High Seas Made Rescue of 46 Men Difficult Task.

Associated Press Despatch.
Portsmouth, N.H., Jan. 30.—The crew of the submarine S-48, which was driven ashore off the entrance to Portsmouth harbor last night, was taken off by coast guardmen at 8:30
this morning. The men were suffering from exposure and their clothing was frozen. The submarine had been leaking badly, coast guardmen said.
The sea was rolling high and it was snowing furiously. The submarine appeared to be partly submerged, as though stuck on a mud bank, and had a perilous list. Whether this was due to her resting on bottom, or to leaks in the hull, was only conjecture. With a pocket flashlight her crew had flashed repeatedly signals of "need help badly."
Her position was about three-quarters of a mile off the Wentworth House pier.

Night of Peril.
Last night was a night of desperate peril for the officers and crew of the vessel, caught on the rocks of the point for many hours, while a northeast gale lashed the coast. The submarine apparently was carried off
by a huge wave early today and driven into the haven of Little Harbor.

The S-48, which was on her way from New London, Conn., to Portsmouth, was driven on the rocks in the fierce gale of last night. Her sister vessel, the S-47, which was also on her way from New London, arrived at Portsmouth today.

Radio messages from the stranded vessel shortly after 11 o'clock asked that the crew be taken off at once.
At 11:51 o'clock the submarine's response failed. The force of the storm prevented coast guard crews and naval tugs from reaching her.

Fought Bitter Weather.
The suspense of the watchers on shore became acute when early today
the lights of the submarine disappeared. When she was seen, the S-48 was not more than 300 yards from Fort Stack, and her position today was considerably nearer shore.

Coast guardmen from the Wallis
sands and Wood Island stations strove desperately in bitter weather
last night to bring aid to the submarine, but the S-48 was driven on gigantic seas along the rugged shore and lifeboats were thrown back on the beach time after time. Naval tugs from the navy yard here were not so successful.

The S-48 carried 46 men according to officials at the Portsmouth navy yard. Lieutenant-Commander Stewart E. Bray, of New London, Conn., was her commander. The S-48 was undergoing refitting at the navy yard here.

Reception Held at Home of

Special to The Advertiser
By Staff Reporter.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 30.—Very quietly
in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, King street, the marriage was solemnized at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon of Miss Marion Beck, only daughter of Sir Adam Beck, and the late Lady Beck, of London, to Mr. J.
Strathairn Hay, son of Mrs. John D.
Hay, St. George street.
The church was not decorated and there were no ushers. Only the organist, Dr. Norman Anderson, supplied the music. While the 50 or more relatives and friends were gathering, he played the wedding air of several countries. As the bride and groom entered the church, he played the music from Lohengrin, and afterwards, the familiar march from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Sir Adam and Miss Beck left their home at the Alexandra apartments about 2:30 o'clock and proceeded to the church. About the same time the groom, with his brothers, Mr. Robert Hay and Mr. Hendrie Hay, and his mother, left their home for the scene of the marriage.

Given Away by Father.
The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a simple but beautiful Paris gown of beige, fashioned on straight lines and trimmed with wool embroidery and beads. A brown lace hat with smart feather trimming and brown shoes and stockings, completed her costume. She carried a small tight bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The bride was unattended. The groom had as his groomsmen his brother,
Mr. Robert Hay.

Rev. Stewart Parker, D.D., of St.
Andrew's church, conducted the service, which was of the simplest type.
Immediately following the ceremony a reception for the relatives and intimate friends was held at the home of the groom's mother, 42 St.
George street. About 60 guests were present. The rooms were decorated with ferns and mixed spring blossoms.
A wedding cake, which came from Hamilton, and was made by the same establishment which has prepared bridal cakes for the families of both the bride and groom for many years
had a prominent place on the bride's table.

Relatives of Bride.
Several relatives of the bride attended the wedding, and reception.
Among these were her two uncles, the Hon. H. T. McGovern of Ottawa, and Mr. A. J. C. O'Farrell of Toronto, and three cousins, Mrs. Haberkorn of London, Mrs. Bensford and Horace Beck of Toronto. Among the relatives of the groom were Mr. and Mrs.
Braithwaite of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hay, his eldest brother.
The presents were lovely, and all day there were many telegrams and cables of congratulations from friends and relatives both in Canada and England.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Hay left on their honeymoon trip to Fort Meyer, Florida, and other points in the south. Mrs. Hay was wearing a leopard skin coat. They intend to be away for at least three weeks.
Upon their return they will temporarily establish their home with Mrs.
Hay's mother, pending the completion of

CHANCELLOR PUTS KNIFE IN ESTIMATES

Earl Beatty Maintains More Money Necessary, But Churchill Protests.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Jan. 30.—An increase of nearly $50,000,000 in the British naval estimates for the coming financial year is said to have been demanded
by the admiralty, and to be meeting with resistance from the Treasury.
Earl Beatty, who as first sea lord,
usually figures in political gossip as champion of generous expenditures for the navy, has repeatedly submitted estimates for $327,500,000, maintaining this is the lowest figure compatible with the safety of the nation.
The estimates for the last year were $277,500,000, and the proposed increase in the estimates this year is wanted for the carrying out of new construction.

Chancellor of the Exchequer, Winston Churchill, whose business it is to scrutinize the estimates of all departments before submitting them to parliament in the budget, opposes the admiralty claim. It is understood, on the ground of economy. He himself is well qualified to criticize the naval proposals. It is added, having been first lord of the admiralty from 1911 to 1915.

Some of the news writers say there is a sharp tug-of-war between the gross impertinence and a scandalous
shame," was the comment of Fred T.
Smye, president of the Hamilton Conservative association, when seen yesterday in regard to the curious held at the King Edward hotel, Toronto, on Tuesday afternoon, which was attended by some twenty-two Conservative members of the Ontario legislature.

Mr. Smye, who is in sympathy with the government control idea, declared that he was absolutely opposed to any section of the Conservative members of the legislature holding "hole-in-the-corner" meetings in connection with any question of public interest.

UNION OF MARITIMES IS URGED

Gratton O'Leary Appeals For Cut in Cost of Government.

LINK UP WEST

Would Cut Senators' Salaries
by $1,000 For the Year.

Declaring that the reason of the high taxation in Canada today was the result of grotesque over-government, Gratton O'Leary of the press gallery at Ottawa outlined a few suggestions for reducing this which met with the hearty approval of the London Kivans club.

Mr. O'Leary having shown by statistics that Canada, with nine million people, was paying in salaries to its politicians $2,822,000 a year, as compared with Great Britain, which paid only $1,230,000, offered the following reductions and savings which, he believed, would not only reduce government overhead but also increase efficiency in the Ottawa administration.

Reduce Senators.
"Reduce all senators' indemnities
by $1,000 a year. Reduce the senate to 72 members. (Canada has only three fewer senators than the United States with 110,000,000 of a population.) Reduce all judges' salaries by one-fifth. Reduce the cabinet to 12 members. Eliminate both the secretary of state and the solicitor
general as they are merely sinecures and do not function as their office demands and as their work can be done
by other departments quite easily.

Abolish the P. S. C. R. Combine the departments of public works, canals, railways, and fisheries under one administrative head. Group the three maritime provinces under one legislature, and do the same with the three prairie provinces, and join the Yukon with British Columbia in one legislature.

Living on Taxes.
"Today," he said, "there are in Canada about 500,000 people living directly or indirectly on the taxes paid by the rest. He showed that while in every other English-speaking country, the public debt had been reduced and taxation made lighter since the war, that in Canada it had actually been increased.
"The debt of Canada in 1917 was $1,000,000,000. Today it is $2,000,000,000.

To Sacrifice Dogs In Dash to Nome

Famed Mushers Carrying Diptheria Serum Northward.

Associated Press Despatch.
Fairbanks, Alaska, Jan. 30.—A hard dog team relay, carrying diptheria anti-toxin for Nome, left Seward Peninsula, was due today in Ruby, 250 miles from Nome on the Alaska railroad at midnight last night, according to word received here.

Exceptional time was being made by the relay teams carrying serum to relieve the situation in Nome.
Famed mushers of the north prepared that a few of the dogs in the various teams might be driven to death in order to deliver the 300,000
units of antitoxin sent from Anchorage, 384 miles south of Nome, at Nome in record time.

A few antitoxin units were being sent to Nome from points nearer than Seward.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY SHOWS BIG DECLINE

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Judge J. Mc-Kinley, of the Ottawa juvenile court, has presented his annual report to the Ottawa board of control, which stresses the interesting fact that for the first time the number of serious delinquents has decreased in the city and states that much credit for this is due to the fact that greater interest is being taken in child welfare work in the capital.

He also points out that Ottawa
has the smallest percentage of cases where children are sent away to involving £20,000,000 sterling, has been provisionally agreed upon by the principals, Buchanan, Dewar, John Walker & Sons, and the Distillers Company, subject to approval of the respective shareholders.

The Distillers Company, it is understood, will take over the ordinary shares of the other two companies at the rate of five shares of the new issue for four shares of the other two companies. The respective companies will conduct their business on the same individual lines as formerly.

ONTARIO MUST FACE SHORTAGE OF HYDRO

E. V. Buchanan States Steam Plants Will Have To Be Built.

HAVE SOLUTION

Construction of St. Lawrence
Dam Urged in Next Two Years.

Build the Morrisburg dam on the St. Lawrence within the next two years or reconcile yourselves to paying $50,000,000 a year to the United States for coal to operate steam power plants. This is the warning to Ontario from E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utilities commission in London, who has just returned from the annual meeting in Toronto of the hydro commission.

"The one outstanding fact which members of the association realized
at this meeting," he said, "was that the province must face this alternative immediately. It is recognized that with the most conservative estimates, when the last of the generators is installed at Chippawa by the fall of 1925, that with the present rate of increase in the use of power
the full production from that plant will be taken in Ontario. There will then be a power shortage."

"Now, there are two ways of meeting this power shortage, by building a dam at Morrisburg, since that is the logical thing to do, and by building steam plants throughout the province. Even as things are at present steam plant sites are being built in Toronto, and the provincial government has given permission to the hydro commission to appropriate $5,000,000 for this purpose. It will be at least eighteen months before this is in operation.

Share the Power.
"Now the proposal of the commission is to interest a private firm in New York state to meet them halfway in erecting the Morrisburg dam and to share the power. This would give Ontario five million kilowatts of power. The cost to the province would be $200,000,000, but if it is not built it will take $500,000,000 a year in coal
to be put to the United States to supply the same amount of power. It might be argued that a million horsepower is more than the province will require in any one year, but the conservative estimate of our best engineers is that it will all find a market within a time that will make the investment a profitable one."

Mr. Buchanan lays a finger on the weak spot in the hydro commission's charge today. He was spokesman for his companions, but failed to give the court a plausible excuse for their presence in the basement of the jail.
Three empty bottles of rubbing alcohol were found when the men were arrested.

"You men realize the seriousness of this charge," Magistrate Graydon asked. "The police have no record of McPherson's activities, so I will remand him for one week. You other two will be sent down to the Ontario reformatory for six months."

ORDER DEPORTATION OF CANADIAN WOMAN

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Jan. 30.—Mrs. Hilda Betty Cook, of Toronto, is under order of deportation from the United States, following her supposed flight across the border with her little daughter, Shirley, after her alimony action against her husband, a local barrister, was dismissed. The authorities at Washington have ordered her deportation "if and when she can be found in the United States." Mrs.
Cook is supposed to have gone to Westfield, N. J., but cannot be locatcustody of the child.

PIERCING EARS FOR RINGS

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Jan. 30.—The present
vogue of wearing long drop earrings has revived the occupation of ear piercing which flourished many years ago when women wore the small gold ring with a single stone.
The present ear-rings are of a size
and weight that the ordinary screw is not sufficient to hold them to the ears, and many London women are having their ears pierced.

FIRE ALARM TALK SHELVED UNTIL ESTIMATES STRUCK

Council Decides To Delay the Discussion on Recommendations For the Present.

10-YEAR PROBLEM

Chief Aitken Urges That $15,000 Be Spent For Adequate System.

Recommendations for improved fire alarm equipment in London have been given a temporary hoist by the city council and will not be considered until the estimates are struck. For ten years Fire Chief John Aitken has been seeking a modernized system for fire alarms and each year the matter has been side-tracked as unnecessary expenditure.

According to Chief Aitken, the department has never had an efficient alarm system. Expenditure on a reliable switchboard is badly needed in order that service may be given. He is urging strongly that the council spend $15,000 on such a system and keep in line with the fire protection facilities which are offered in many other cities the size of London.

In Use Fifteen Years. "The system we have now has been in use for fifteen years," Chief Aitken told The Advertiser today. "Before that we had a 'home-made' outfit for alarms, but," he went on satirically, "it was as good as the one we have now."

There is no way citizens can be assured of service when they turn in a street corner alarm box. The chances are that the call will go through correctly, but there is always the possibility that wire trouble will give the department difficulty.

"The new switchboard would give us a chance to detect wire trouble outside at any time," the chief points out. "Now we have to run all over the city to find out where there is interference. The new system would show up every outside fault as soon as wire trouble occurred."

Only 32 Alarms. "We had only 32 alarms by the alarm system last year," the chief admitted in answer to a question, "and we had 312 alarms sent in by telephone. Ten per cent of calls by the alarm box system is going down."

However, the chief declares that this should be no reason for laxity in providing an efficient alarm box system. The system should be adequate and up-to-date, covering the whole city and giving citizens every aid in turning in alarms. Much co-operation is given the fire department by telephone company employees, but there are times when fires are detected, that telephones are not available and alarm boxes are very convenient.

McKay Hits Plan. The position of the finance committee of the city council on the matter is given by Aid. Frank McKay, chairman. Aid. McKay points out that in the past the decrease in the use of the alarm system has been taken by the finance committee and the city council as sufficient discouragement for expenditure of $15,000 on a new system.

Last year there were ten times as many alarms sent in by telephone as by the box system. Aid. McKay understands the chief's recommendations, the new switchboard would not provide a more convenient for the users of the system, but would merely be an expensive means of detecting defects along the wires. However, the matter has not by any means been settled this year, and will come up when the estimates are struck next month.

E. E. EVETTS KNEW CONDITION, CLAIM

Case in Which Farm Deal Misrepresentation Is Charged To Be Finished Today.

Canada may be a land flowing with milk and honey—or it may be a country, bleak, desolate and unfriendly to the immigrant. According to witnesses in a winter assize court case here yesterday, what is a golden harvest to one newcomer sometimes proves adversity and hardship for another. Suit entered for damages on a charge of misrepresentation in a farm deal here for two of its chief actors two old country men; one, the plaintiff, and the other included in the triumvirate of defendants.

The plaintiff, Ernest E. Evetts, who traded property in Manor Park for a farm in Caradoc township owned by Alfred J. Taylor, found that rosy dreams of life on the farm which he had before purchasing, should have been nightmares. He claims that the farm was misrepresented to him, and he wants his old property back again.

Evetts and other witnesses for the plaintiff couldn't say anything that was good about the farm when they were in the witness box.

In direct contrast was the evidence of Taylor's family this morning.

Tells of Visit. Miss Kate Taylor, daughter of defendant, told of the plaintiff's visit to the farm in June 1924 with Messrs. Colbert and Frouse, co-defendants. Witness said she milked the two cows morning and night. One was a "blue" and the other a Jersey. The cows filled a 12-quart pail with milk morning and night. She heard her father say that Mr. Evetts could have any three horses he wanted.

John Taylor also told what a fine farm it was. All the implements were in good condition and none of the horses were lame. Five acres of rye were 2 1/2 feet high, the corn was five inches and potatoes and other crops looked good when Evetts journeyed to the place on June 18.

"Where the wheels broken off the buggy," asked J. W. G. Winnett for the plaintiff.

"That I know of,"

Witness said that a sorrel horse had a big lump on his knee.

"Bigger than your head?"

"Could the horses lie down in their stalls?"

"Yes."

Arthur Taylor stated that the crops were about the same in present years when Evetts inspected the farm.

He told of visiting the farm a week after Evetts took possession.

"Evetts and his nephew were putting in potatoes," said the witness. "Evetts had plowed the land deep and not awful straight. He said he didn't know much about it and I put the potatoes in for him."

Pail Kicked Over. "After supper I saw a girl milking the cow and the pail was kicked over."

"Did she finish the milking?"

"No."

Witness told Mr. Winnett that the farm was worse than in present years, who had testified otherwise were wrong.

Harry Greenlee told of drawing up the papers for both parties. He said the agreement that had been signed between Evetts and Taylor before they came to his office. He asked them if that was the agreement they intended, and both men answered in the affirmative, and stated they wanted it fixed up at once. Mr. Greenlee told that he would have to have more time.

Next afternoon Mrs. Evetts appeared at the office of witness and wanted to withdraw from the deal, thinking it was too big a proposition.

"I told her I would speak to Taylor about it and asked if there was anything crooked about the deal. She told me 'no,'" said Mr. Greenlee.

Only Worth $200. "An expert valuator yesterday declared that the crops and stock were not worth more than $200. Taylor, in his evidence, carefully itemized the cost of every animal and of every piece of farm machinery, and claimed that all the equipment had been good, second-hand machinery and that the crops looked good when sold."

George Colbert and Samuel Frouse, real estate men, testified that the true condition of the farm had been carefully explained to Evetts before the transaction was completed last spring.

The case will be concluded this afternoon and has been before Mr. Justice Rose for two days.

WILL CONDUCT SERVICES. Ensign Ferris of the Samia corps of the Salvation army will be in the city to conduct the revival services at the Tecumseh and Edward Street citadels on Sunday.

MEETING POSTPONED. The weekly meeting of the first Port Stanley troop of Boy Scouts is being postponed this week on account of the opera "Cinderella," which is being presented in St. Thomas this evening.

Motley Vanguard "Captures" City With Aid of Make-shift Armored Cars.

Shanghai, Jan. 29.—Staging a dramatic entry, a daring vanguard consisting of 50 Russians captured Shanghai for Lu Yung-Hsiang at 6:30 o'clock last night. They arrived at the Shanghai north station in four improvised armored cars, which were merely gondola cars with rims of sandbags around them, and armed with one field gun and a dozen machine guns.

The train arrived from Soochow, with Russians as engineers and firemen. The Russians had several brief skirmishes en route with retreating Chi Hsieh troops, and captured considerable munitions. They expected fierce resistance here which failed to materialize. Several thousand Chi Hsieh Yuan troops deserted the station, leaving big supplies of arms and munitions, which the Russians are now guarding.

Two thousand Lu Yung-Hsiang's Chinese troops deserted the station, leaving big supplies of arms and munitions, which the Russians are now guarding.

Approximately 3,000 defeated troops in the vicinity of Shanghai are expected to enlist with General Kung Pang Dah, under orders of Lu Yung-Hsiang.

The Russians arriving here state that the Chi Hsieh Yuan troops are badly disorganized. They showed little resistance to the Russians at Wushih, and suffered heavy casualties, while the Russians had only five wounded.

GASTON MEANS FOUND GUILTY OF BRIBERY

Former Department of Justice Agent and His Attorney Convicted.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Jan. 30.—Gaston B. Means, former United States department of justice agent, and Thomas B. Felder, his attorney, today were convicted in the federal court on charges of conspiring to bribe government officials in the Crager System Casket fraud case in 1923.

Maximum penalty under the conviction is two years' imprisonment and fine of $10,000.

The verdict, returned by the first judge-picked jury to function in a federal court trial here marks one of many high lights in the sensational career of Means. At intervals in the last 20 years he figured in a series of episodes ranging from a trial for murder to accusations of graft in which the names of men prominent in public life were bandied about.

In the present case officials of the Crager System, Inc., and the Glass Casket Company of Altoona, Penn., charged Means and Felder with having obtained $65,000 from them on their representation that it would be spent in bribing high government officials to call off their prosecution on charges of having used the mails in a stock fraud conspiracy.

ST. THOMAS RAILWAY DEFICIT IS LOWERED

Annual Report Shows Loss For Last Year Less Than in 1923.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Jan. 29.—At the last meeting of the parks and street railway committee held this evening Manager Johns presented his annual report, showing a decrease in the operating deficit for 1924 over the previous year of $1,610, which includes the price of repairing due to several of the big cars.

The operating expense for 1923 was $12,577, and for 1924 was $10,967. The number of passengers carried shows a decrease. The cost per passenger was 7.97 cents in 1923 and 7.93 cents in 1924. The cost of operating per car mile was 19.6 cents in 1923 and 18.1 cents in 1924. In the quoted figures, interest or capital payment are not considered.

The receipts of the street railway department for January were $2,054.90, and expenditure $2,795.99. The deficit is $739.94 for the month, as compared with $995.82 in 1923. Although the passenger service has increased, the lowering of the fare left the railway with an increased deficit. Cash fares increased $206.15, and ticket sales decreased $226. The expenditures for the year amounted to $35,323 and the receipts $24,356. The deficit for the year was $10,967.

Parks Department.

The calculated expenditure for the parks department in 1925 is $12,000, or approximately $550 less than the expenditure in 1924. For the most part the individual items in the estimates remain intact, but the appropriation for the baseball park has been lessened, along with the appropriation for St. Andrew's park, boulevard upkeep, stables at park, tree-trimming, and an account listed as "new roads." The latter includes the improvements at Pinetown park.

Twenty-one hundred dollars will be spent on the athletic park development for sports. A new road will be constructed for St. Andrew's park, and the improvements at Pinetown park.

The St. Thomas baseball club was granted the same concessions as last year, and will have the privilege of the baseball diamonds on each Wednesday afternoon and all civic and provincial holidays with the exception of Labor Day, which was given over to the trades and labor council. The club will make arrangements which will enable the junior organizations to have a couple of games on Wednesday afternoons to bolster up their bank account.

The Kiwanis club was represented at the meeting, and requested the committee to take over the responsibility of playground work here. The St. Thomas bowling club have both made application for the use of the greens at the Athletic park. A conference is being arranged between the two clubs and the committees in an effort to find a solution for the matter.

RECITAL AT ST. PAUL'S DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

H. T. Dickinson Appears in Attractive Program With Assisting Artists.

The second organ recital in the group which is being given by Harry T. Dickinson in St. Paul's cathedral, was given last night, drawing an interested and appreciative audience.

Not only were the organ numbers beautifully rendered, but the work of the assisting artists, Paul de Marky, pianist, and Mrs. MacDermott, contralto, was of a very high order.

Mr. Dickinson is playing a series of Mendelssohn sonatas, one at each recital. Last night it was the second of the group which he played with supreme artistry.

Another outstanding number of the evening was Mr. de Marky's interpretation of the d'Albert "Suite in D minor," rendered with technical brilliancy and feeling.

Mrs. MacDermott's beautiful rich contralto voice was heard in an artistic and sympathetic rendering of "Life's Glorious Anthem" (Kenneth Lee). Where Corals Lie" from "Sea Pictures" (Elgar), was another delightful vocal number, displaying the full, mellow tones of the artist.

The program also included three spring songs from Mendelssohn, Harwood and Ledger, played by Mr. de Marky. The "Chaconne" rendered by Paul de Marky, and the brilliant finale from the Pasch organ suite op. 17. The next recital is to be given on Feb. 5.

Has never existed to me. For over its rims where tree-patterns sway Were lovely cloud-pictures to see—

And then came the snow, star-petaled and still. Weaving all through the darkness of night

A delicate fabric of contrast until It blended a gray world with white.

It furried sharp ledges with soft rounded grace. Edged chimneys with frail

And quite like a flower in one wind-stirred place. It hung o'er the eave, curving down.

Just once as a foil for the silver-tipped trees, And a path to a flame-light sky.

Is a gem-strewn way undisturbed by a breeze. To know a snow miracle by the guests were Miss Florence Foot, Miss Marion Grant, Millard Grant, Howard Obeay, Miss Jean McNaughton, Allan Grant, Miss Marion Schuster, Frank Adams, Norman Austin, Miss Dora Mitchell, Miss Janet Morton, Arnold Ward, Cervin Werner and Philip Leach.

—Amy Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Harris were the hostess of the season's most successful dances, when they entertained about one hundred guests at the Hunt Club last night. The dance rooms had been made attractive with palms and ferns, while pink tulips, narcissi and freesias were used effectively on the mantle pieces.

Striking groups of purple, from which fell streamers of salmon pink and apple green, shaded the lights. Candles too were used in tall brass holders of the same material.

The evening Purdy's orchestra furnished attractive dance music. Mrs. Harris received her guests wearing a striking gown of purple and georgette. Old gold georgette formed a wide insertion in the skirt, which was marked on the left side by a cascade of French roses, the whole falling gracefully from a yoke of purple lace. A diamond circle in her hair, completed the costume.

Miss Harris, who received with her was an imported gown of black jet. Mrs. J. L. Counsell of Hamilton, who is visiting her sister, Miss Helen Gibson, was a special guest of the occasion.

Mrs. Arthur Borland, past worthy matron of the Forest City chapter, entertained the 1924 officers at a successful dinner party held last night at her home, Kent street. Covers were laid for 18 at a table centered with a great star, fashioned in the colors of the order and encircled with a silver vase of daffodils. Candles in the colors of the order were also used on the table, as were pretty favors in the colors of the order and encircled with a silver vase of daffodils.

To each place card was attached a beautiful dolly—a gift of her own handwork to each guest from the hostess. Little Miss Marion Borland made a charming door attendant. After supper Mr. Thomas Shaw, past worthy patron, was presented with a gold ever-sharp pencil, and a gift from the officers of the chapter. Brief speeches followed. Those present included Mrs. Conner, Mrs. W. Weemes, Mrs. Mary Young, Mrs. Mary Peacock, Mrs. May Haldane, Mrs. M. Murdy, Mrs. A. Willis, Mrs. T. Redman, Mrs. Annie Tozer, Mrs. W. Newman, Mrs. A. Wilkes, Mrs. T. Williams, and Mr. Westman. The evening concluded with cards and dancing.

TRAFALGAR CHAPTER.

Mrs. L. Harding will entertain the members of the Trafalgar chapter at her home on King street on the occasion of the annual meeting of the chapter to be held on Tuesday next.

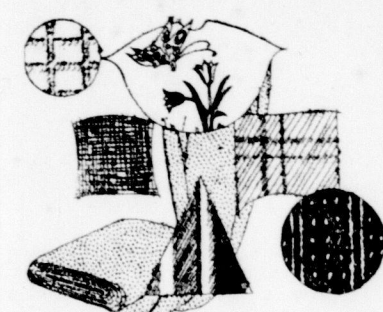

The officers' mess at the armories was yesterday the scene of a smart afternoon bridge and tea arranged by the Seventh regiment chapter, L. O. D. E. Mrs. F. H. Butler, the recent chapter, welcomed the guests, and the afternoon was in charge of the general conveners, Mrs. J. Wetherill Smith and Mrs. W. A. Gough. During the afternoon eighteen tables were in play. At the tea hour Mrs. A. A. Campbell and Mrs. George Little presided over the banquet at the pretty table arranged with a wide bowl of deep mauve pottery, filled with fragrant blue hyacinths, pale pink tulips, daffodils and white narcissi, and slender yellow candles in wrought iron holders. A number of additional guests joined the players at the tea hour and members of the chapter assisted in the tea room.

A delightful evening was enjoyed this week by the members of the Nikitar club of the Dundas Centre Methodist church, when they entertained their girl friends to a theatre party at the Majestic to see "Charley's Aunt." Following the theatre, they went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Grant, Talbot street, where dancing was enjoyed, and later in the evening dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Grant. Among

Winnipeg Mother Finds Ideal Remedy for Colds of Children

A Vaporizing Salve which Relieves Colds Over Night and Croup in Fifteen Minutes. Nothing to Take—Just Rub It Over Throat and Chest.

Mothers everywhere will be interested in the experience of Mrs. W. Butterfield, 627 Caydon Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Mrs. Butterfield tried the new external remedy for colds, Vicks VapoRub, when it was first introduced in Winnipeg, and writes: "My three-year-old boy, William, became very sick with what seemed to me like a pneumonia cold, accompanied by indigestion. He was a very sick boy for two or three days. I grew alarmed—he breathed so quickly and was so restless. I rubbed him with Vicks VapoRub, and the result was quite gratifying. He breathed more easily and I was able to get a little sleep myself. The next two nights I again rubbed him with Vicks VapoRub, and he became as healthy as ever. I surely appreciate Vicks VapoRub and shall use and recommend it at all times."

Master William Butterfield

Vicks is just as good for adults. It is the direct treatment for sore throat, tonsillitis, bronchitis, catarrh, head or chest colds. When rubbed over throat or chest, Vicks has a two-fold action. Internally it is inhaled as a vapor and at the same time, externally, absorbed like a liniment. This double action seldom fails to give immediate relief—Advt.

MRS. ANDREW BIRDSALL DIES AT TILLSONBURG

Highly Esteemed Resident Had Reached Advanced Age of 97 Years.

Special to The Advertiser. Tillsonburg, Jan. 29.—Tillsonburg's grand old lady, Mrs. Andrew Birdsall, passed away, in her 97th year, this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Oliver Fox, after a somewhat lengthy illness. Despite her age, she was in possession of all her faculties until the end of her long journey. Her husband predeceased her 11 years.

She was formerly Miss Elizabeth Scott, and was born in Essex, London, England, of Scottish descent, and came to Canada when but three years of age, locating at Toronto with her father, who was a farmer and local preacher. They moved to Hamilton, and many are the vivid stories she has told of the early struggles in the days when Hamilton was only a small settlement. Her father was educated in the Presbyterian ministry, but afterwards became a Methodist.

Mrs. Birdsall later moved to South Middleton, and came to Tillsonburg some 25 years ago. Ten children were born, six of whom are now living, and three of whom are over 70 years of age. They are: Mrs. (Rev.) Sharpe of Toronto, Mrs. (Rev.) Hamilton, Mrs. Oliver Fox of Tillsonburg, Wesley of Sarnia, John and Hamilton of South Middleton. Nineteen grandchildren and 29 great-grandchildren also survive.

The late Mrs. Birdsall was married in Carleton Place, Ont., on April 26, 1848. She was a devout member of St. Paul's Methodist church, and in politics a most ardent Liberal. The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with interment in the town cemetery.

The Woman Who Never Learned to Play With Her Husband — and So Lost Him. Advice to a Worried Father on Managing an 18-Year-Old Son.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a married woman with three children. My husband has left me and is living with another woman because I would not go to dances and parties with him. He takes this other woman out in his car driving, and they go to dances and shows together. My parents brought me up strictly and taught me not to play cards or dance.

Now my husband wants to take the children from me. What can I do? CARRIE.

Answer: The courts probably will give you your children if your husband is leading a double life, and that, to a certain extent, you are responsible for your husband's sin, as from your own account, he tried at first to put with you and include you in his pleasures, and you refused to go with him.

But, I think, Carrie, that you have brought a good deal of your trouble on your own head by your narrow-mindedness, and that, to a certain extent, you are responsible for your husband's sin, as from your own account, he tried at first to put with you and include you in his pleasures, and you refused to go with him.

Before you married him you must have known that he was of a gay and lively disposition, and that he craved amusement. You know that he liked to dance, and go to parties, and play cards, and if you were so austere that you were opposed to any of these diversions you should have refused to marry him and chosen a Puritan like yourself for a life partner.

There is one thing, my dear Carrie, that every woman should recognize; she has to keep up with her husband or else lose him.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—My son, who is now 18 years of age, is hard to manage. I find it almost impossible to make him go to bed early, and equally impossible to get him up in the morning. At night he reads and writes before 11 or 12 o'clock, and in the morning we have to call him about ten times before he gets up. Then he does not have time to eat his breakfast properly and has to run to work.

Lately he has started taking exercises using dumbbells, and this tells more of his time. I have told his mother to call him only once in the morning and then let him be late to work, and perhaps lose his job. It might be a good lesson to him. The boy is cross and cranky, and it is almost impossible to live with him. What shall I do with him? JOSEPH.

Answer: Good gracious, Joseph, were you born with whiskers? Weren't you ever a boy yourself? Don't you remember how you hated to go to bed at night, and how you loathed to get up in the morning? Don't you remember how irritated you used to get with your parents when they nagged about it? Don't you remember how you used to feel that you could cheerfully choke them when they solemnly quoted the old adage about early to bed and early to rise making a man healthy, wealthy and wise?

It is a pity, Joseph, for this is the most critical time in your life and the boy's, and by the way you treat him now you will alienate him from you or grapple him to you with hooks of steel.

So my advice to you is to quit worrying over him and quit nagging him. Let him go to bed when he feels like it and wake him up twenty times if it is necessary in order to get him off in time for his work.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man 20 years of age and I am in love with a girl of 18. A night or two ago she asked me if I was going to marry her. I play a cornet at the store, and make good wages, and could support a nice little home. Do you think it wise for me to propose to her? NIG.

Answer: It seems to me that the lady has popped the question, and all that you have to do is either to accept or decline her proposition. But don't let any girl inveigle you into matrimony at present. You are too young to know your own mind and what you want and need in a wife. When you are married, you are married for a very long time, and it seems longer if you don't get the right girl. DOROTHY DIX.

IN GLORIA'S TROUSSEAU.

Special to The Advertiser.

Paris, Jan. 29.—One of the striking costumes in the troussseau of Gloria Trousseau, whose marriage to the Marquis de la Palaise has been announced, is a white ensemble of white silk moire. The collar, cuffs and hem of the rather long coat are banded with white fox. The skirt falls just below the coat hem and is snug and rather tight. With this toilette goes a small plain white felt hat turned up slightly at one side and plain round-toed white pumps.

Fashion Prescribes Vanities, But Bids Us Not Use Them Too Openly.

"Should a woman make up her face before all the world and his wife?" asks a French fashion writer and then after an emphatic "no"—she goes on: "To powder the nose swiftly and unostentatiously may pass, but to paint the lips, blacken the brows, and tint the cheeks before an audience is ill-mannered impudence, about which it is hard to be tolerant."

But that most women do at least powder their noses swiftly and unostentatiously in public—and probably more than that—is apparent from the high regard in which vanities are held. The woman who does not carry some such contraption is a rare bird indeed these days. And most women possess quite a number of some that are appropriate only for the evening, others for formal afternoon, another to go with tailored street costume and this one for sports.

Some women with a decidedly limited dress sense still feel that several vanity cases are essential, while other women who have to spend it, find one vanity quite sufficient.

Some women are best satisfied with merely a dust powder box to be held in the purse or slipped into a pocket. These may be chosen to match the color of the frock. Black and white effects are very good, whether they be gained by onyx head diamonds or by black enamel and rhinestones. One small vanity with a convenient wrist of black moire with pearl and rhinestone ornament, and another more expensive one is of onyx, jade and diamonds.

A French novelty consists of an evening vanity case of brilliant and steel beads to match a bandeau of the same materials, and for a rainy day there is an even better with a tortoise-shell handle which contains compartments for powder, lipstick and rouge.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

MAKING A CHIFFON SCARF.

It is possible to make an exceedingly interesting chiffon or georgette scarf, and if you have a little of the material to make a wide and long scarf. One trouble with many home-made scarfs is that they seem shrinking and scaling.

Then plan your trimming. Perhaps a band of ostrich at each end. In that case, either make the scarf of two thicknesses of the chiffon, with a pilot edge to hold it together, and fasten the row of ostrich in the ends, or else have a double hem, opened to receive the ostrich.

You can make an interesting scarf with a splashy design done in a few minutes with a spray of paint, or with silk, perhaps, a good idea is to use a neutral sort of chenille, like gray on white, and to couch it on in eight colors, red, green, yellow, purple and blue.

Another effective scarf is made simply by putting a wide double hem

TWO KINDS OF SANDWICH Ham Sandwiches. Mince a little cold boiled ham and flavor with a little dry mustard. Moisten with cream. Spread between slices of buttered bread, white or brown.

Celery Sandwich. Take equal parts of hard-boiled eggs and celery. Chop fine while eggs are hot, add butter, pepper and salt, and spread.

Shadow, Awakening, Is Very Hungry So He Goes Hunting For a Dinner

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Shadow the Weasel yawned and stretched. He had been asleep most of the afternoon. He curls up for a nap whenever he happens to feel sleepy, whether it be day or night. It was just dusk now as Shadow started out to hunt for something to eat. He was hungry. He usually is hungry when he awakens. Shadow the Weasel is like Bowser the Hound in that he dearly loves to hunt. He has a keen little nose, and there is nothing he likes better than to find the trail of one of the little people of the Green Forest and follow it with his nose just as Bowser follows the trail of Reddy Fox. But there is one great difference between Bowser and Shadow. Bowser tells everybody what he is doing, but Shadow makes no sound. The one he is hunting may not know that he is being followed until too late, or almost too late.

Shadow ran swiftly over the snow, twisting and turning, looking into every place it was possible for any one to hide. He is very clever and he knows he is clever. He has boasted that no one can hide where he cannot find them. So for a time Shadow enjoyed the hunt. He found the tracks of Peter Rabbit. They were old tracks, so old that only here and there could he see Peter's foot. But the scent left by Peter's feet. But Shadow kept right on following Peter's trail.

"If I follow it long enough I'll catch up with him," muttered Shadow. "There doesn't seem to have been any one else around here. And after all it is fun to find out where Peter has been and what he has been doing. I hope he hasn't left the Green Forest. As a matter of fact Peter had left the Green Forest. He was at home in the dead old Briar Patch. But even there he would have been frightened half to death had he known that Shadow the Weasel was on his trail. But I didn't know, which was just as well."

Whether or not Shadow would have followed Peter across the snow-drifts of the Green Forest, we do not know. Old Briar Patch I do not know. You see, something else caught the attention of Shadow. Peter's trail had led Shadow right up to the foot of a tall, dead stump. Shadow paused.

AT THE THEATRES

CAPITOL THEATRE
"Life's Greatest Game."
A vivid portrayal of the sinking of the Titanic with all the terrific thrills and heroic deeds which that great maritime tragedy involved, was presented at the Capitol theatre yesterday when the first presentation of a three-day run of "Life's Greatest Game" was made. The Titanic disaster is woven logically and interestingly into a human interest story and the background of this thrilling tale is America's national game of baseball. Johnnie Walker, supported by Thomas Satchel and Gertrude Olmstead, is the principal star of the picture. The quaint picturesque costumes of twenty-five years ago; the amusing vehicles, mannerisms and dress of an almost forgotten generation which seems to present-day ideas mid-Victorian; and the vivid contrast of a story which combines the present and the past with rare insight and judgment of dramatic values, make "Life's Greatest Game" one of the most unusual productions of the year.

"The Eastern Westerner" is another Harold Lloyd comedy which the Capitol theatre includes in this week's program. Harold Lloyd is at his best in this picture, a story of real wild west life, with bucking bronchos, dime novel cow boys and pistols galore.

A Pathe Review, showing interesting scenes of rice growing in Madagascar, completes an excellent bill. The Capitol "singing ushers" rendered a most pleasing popular selection yesterday, and the Capitol theatre orchestra provided a gratifying and appropriate score for the feature picture.

THE MAJESTIC
"Charley's Aunt."
Reaching the middle of the week without any relaxing of popular interest, "Charley's Aunt," that dear old comedy from the pen of Brandon Thomas, is playing to capacity houses at the Majestic this week. In the hands of the Majestic Players the play loses nothing of its fun-making properties. The company is seen to advantage and in a new role. This is the first farce in which they have appeared in London this season. Whatever doubt the management may have felt at the time when it was decided to put on the time-honored comedy, has now been entirely dispelled. Every seat in the house has been taken every night, and the matinees have been as well attended. The company fits in easily with the hilarious mood of the play, and the energetic fun is maintained throughout. Londoners have nationalized this play so well that no one in future can justly accuse them of a lack of humor.

THE GRAND THEATRE
Blackstone.
Each night the great Blackstone has something new for the audience which attend his performances at the Grand Theatre. Last night was "spook night," and it was indeed a mystified group of volunteers from the audience who assisted at his remarkable table-moving scene, which followed the regular performance. Blackstone has issued a challenge to the people of London. He guarantees to get out of any box made for him, and to appear in his own box and tie him inside. Blackstone assured the audience last night that he would certainly get out.

The audience was also made that on Saturday afternoon Blackstone would give four dozen rabbits to the children, conjuring up these rabbits from the air.

The program presented is an excellent one this year as ever. Blackstone comes with many new and amazing feats of magic, which he has dressed in such a way as to satisfy the eye for beauty as well as the mind which delights in mysteries.

Among the spectacular numbers which "Blackstone" has in his repertoire, a variety of beautiful costumes are displayed by models which appear upon the stage as if from out of thin air. The closing number, all "Oriental Nights," is amazing in its cleverness and beauty. Here the magician makes a live horse disappear before the eyes of the audience.

LOEW'S THEATRE
"Tomorrow's Love."
"Tomorrow's Love," the feature picture, and "Nine o'clock," the concluding vaudeville act, are easily the leading lights of the bill at Loew's theatre for the last half of the week. The picture is a Paramount domestic comedy-drama, in which Agnes Ayres and Pat O'Malley co-star. It is adapted from the story, "Intercourse," by Charles Brackett, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. Raymond Hatton and Ruby Lafayette also contribute to the success of the picture.

"Nine o'clock" is something new in vaudeville, and is therefore a refreshing change for the audience. The teacher in the act is distinctly not hard to look at, while the men pupils sing well and are fun to watch.

Other vaudeville acts are: Nelson's Katland, novelty animal offering, in which cats and mice play together, and Lloyd and Ford, jokers and singers. The latter pair found it very difficult to get more than a laugh or two out of the audience. Their best gag was that "they are calling them flappers any more, but bungalows, because they are painted in front, shingled on top and nothing in the attic."

"Tomorrow's Love" is a picture that offers still another angle of the first-year marriage theme, and holds up trial divorce for criticism with an 80-year-old grandmother playing the role of the peacemaker. It is a merry mix-up of a young wife who divorces her husband and then decides she can't live without him.

"Saturday Morning" is the title of an intriguing Hal Roach comedy by "Our Gang."

The bill includes a Ford-Canada picture, "An Angler's Paradise," "Topics of the Day," and "Aesop's Fables."

LOCAL COMMITTEE NAMED TO AID FIRE PREVENTION

New Vigilance Board Will Meet This Afternoon To Pick Chairman.

LEWIS SPEAKS
Educational Campaign Would Embrace Schools and Business Houses.

A city fire prevention committee, which will work in co-operation with the provincial fire chief, was appointed last night at a special meeting in the city hall. Representatives from the service clubs, women's clubs, and public bodies were present, and took an active discussion in the subject of fire prevention, on which Provincial Deputy Fire Marshal Lewis of Toronto spoke at length.

This committee, which will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the city hall to select a chairman and receive final instructions from the deputy marshal, consists of Ray Lawson, Mrs. Floyd Weiss, George Moll, Police Chief Birrell, Fire Chief Aitken, John Colbert, School Inspector Wheable, Mrs. A. T. Edwards, Frank Gray, R. J. Fuller, Edwin Smith and Harry Hayman.

Mr. Lewis, outlining his plan to encourage fire prevention in London, proposed that a questionnaire be given to every child in the public schools and colleges. In the city which would be filled in by the parents and the child. The questionnaire would be returned to the department of the provincial fire chief, would form the basis on which an accurate study of the fire hazard situation in London might be made.

Societies and bodies represented at the meeting included: Mothers' clubs of the city, local council of women, chamber of commerce, Western Canadian club, University of Western Ontario, Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions' club, Canadian club, ministerial alliance, public utilities commission, board of education, Builders' six miles boys scouts, Women's Labor party, the Labor Party of Canada and various city officials.

DEATH OF WINDSOR MAN LAID TO ODORLESS GAS

Wife and Three Children Are Recovering—Discount Poison Theory.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Windsor, Jan. 29.—Gas and not poison was the cause of the death of Jean Campeau and the serious illness of his family in Tecumseh Wednesday. This is the theory which is generally accepted here today.

Mrs. Campeau and the three children in hospital here, all of whom are recovering, discount the poison theory. Mrs. Campeau said today that there was nothing eaten by the family that could possibly have caused poisoning, and that some of the children ate food different from that consumed by the parents.

When the body of Mr. Campeau was first discovered there was no smell of gas in the house. It is considered certain now, however, that burned gas was responsible. This is offset, however, by the fact that the gas from the stove which heats the Campeau home was closed, thus preventing the fumes from escaping. Evidence of gas now show in markings on the walls of the home, considered a sure sign.

SEARCHER FINDS MAN DEAD ON CABIN FLOOR

Police Will Investigate Death of J. Wright, Whitefish.

Port Arthur, Jan. 29.—Not having heard from him for a couple of weeks, Mrs. Kate Bowerman, of Port Arthur, a few days ago sent Louis Swanson to the home maintained by her father, J. Wright, six miles from Whitefish, about 40 miles from here, where the man, aged 80, had been taking out pulpwood. Swanson returned reporting that he had reached the cabin and looking through the window saw the body of Mr. Wright lying on the floor, dressed but with his boots off. The door was open, and a bench overturned and things generally upset.

There was half a dozen chickens, which are said to have been on the place, were missing.

Swanson did not attempt to enter the cabin, the door of which was locked.

Coroner Boyd and provincial police will make an investigation.

EUROPE ANXIOUS AS WHEAT SOARS

Demand For American Grain Continues To Jump—Russia Sways Prices.

London, Jan. 29.—The soaring wheat prices in Chicago have aroused the liveliest anxiety in European countries, where the demand for wheat has increased enormously in recent years. Experts agree that the price increases will continue as long as Russia continues buying.

Other factors also lead them to predict more costly wheat. The famine in Western Ireland, where the potato crop failed, means the substitution of grain, mostly wheat.

The British shipowners have begun sending their steamers all the way from England to Australia in the last week of the year, in order to take advantage of the rising freight rates on wheat cargoes. The price of flour on the London market jumped a shilling a sack during the last 24 hours. The rate of bread is certain to soar unless something intervenes to stabilize the wheat market.

HERRIOT GIVEN CONFIDENCE VOTE

French Premier Secures Largest Vote of Career Following Security Speech.

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Jan. 29.—Premier Herriot, ably supported by the parliamentary shockwire, has succeeded in bringing the gulf separating the political conceptions of the right and left groups in the chamber, which he had widened by his security speech yesterday. Solidly behind him except for the communists, parliament today placed the seal of its approval on his foreign policy by the largest vote of confidence he has ever received.

Although his elimination of party lines was a big success for the premier, ministerial circles are under no illusions as to the duration of the reunion thus achieved; they know that it applies only to questions relating to France's security and will be broken as soon as matters of internal politics are again broached.

Nevertheless, the friends and opponents of the government feel that M. Herriot scored a personal success. The Socialists, who had decided to abstain from voting on the posting of the premier's address, went into caucus in the afternoon and M. Herriot was invited to make a statement to them. Socialist members attending this caucus said that the premier spoke to them with hitherto unknown severity and told them he was ready to relinquish the leadership in French affairs, but that his resignation would mean the end of their political influence in national matters.

CANADIAN ASBESTOS FIRMS MAY MERGE

Milling and Mining Interests To Join, Is Report.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Jan. 29.—Conferences held today between representatives of the asbestos companies of Canada Limited, and Dillon, Read & Co., bankers, foreshadow a merger of most of the asbestos mining and milling companies of the Dominion, according to a New York paper. The paper says that a merger which may ultimately involve companies with total assets of $30,000,000 or $40,000,000 came into sight today.

At the offices of the bankers it was explained that while such a merger might be the ultimate outcome of the conferences now proceeding, negotiations were in such a tentative stage that it was not yet known what companies would be involved. The object of the movement would be stabilization of the Canadian asbestos industry, it was said.

Adding Another New Tax.

It is intimated in a despatch from Toronto that a bill will be introduced in the legislature to place a tax of two cents per gallon on gasoline. The proceeds to be devoted to the road-building program of the province. With the general principle of making those who use the roads pay for their building, in part at least, and also for their maintenance, there can be no fault found. As things stand at present, though, many of the rural communities will consider that they have paid well for the roads that run through their districts, in the way of their taxes. Cities, too, that have been presented with bills for these roads that run many miles outside of the city limits will contend that their ratepayers have also made a very generous contribution.

The city of London has one bill now of $164,000 for its share of the highway running to Lambeth and east through Crumlin; to this will be added the city's portion of the new road to Hyde Park and also on Richmond street north, known as the Proof Line road. The costs of these will make a very generous addition to the bill already in, and not yet paid.

Yet, in face of these levies, and the amounts charged to the rural communities, there is not sufficient money to carry on the roadbuilding and maintenance program the government has in view. It will require wise administration to see that those who are using the roads are assessed for their upkeep. If this is done fairly it may be that the new tax will serve a good purpose.

The government at Toronto would have been in a better position to impose a new tax if during its time in opposition and when it was making its appeal at the last provincial election it had not spoken so vigorously or so often about the number of new sources of taxation started and utilized by the Drury government. The whole drift of their argument was that the government of that day was taking too much money from the people; that it was extravagant beyond all reason, and the inference was that a return of Mr. Ferguson and his economists would mean an immediate cessation from the burden of provincial taxation. Yet, after taking office, the government has kept right on taking the revenue as well that comes from all the sources tapped by the Drury government. On no occasion has it come forward to state that it has found it possible to so economize that any one of these taxes is no longer necessary. Premier Ferguson has even admitted that the province is invading fields of taxation that ought to belong to the municipalities, but that is as far as he has gone. The situation is somewhat similar to the attitude of the Conservative party when, in opposition to the Liberal government, they attacked the succession duties levy as a thing that should not be continued, and when they came to power they made no move whatever to do away with it.

This proposed new tax on gasoline, if wisely administered and so collected that it does not put a burden on those who are now paying all they should for roads, may serve a good purpose, but it is also an admission that the Ferguson government was talking through its hat when it railed against the Drury administration for its extravagant ideas of taking money from the people by invading new fields of taxation.

The Election In Kitchener.

Kitchener Record calls for an investigation that will go the limit in connection with the manner in which civic elections were conducted in that city.

One official has admitted that he marked some ballots for a friend of his in the election. This might have the effect of changing the whole course of an election, and thus make it possible for one individual to dictate who would be declared elected.

The Record says, and rightly too, that "the citizens must have absolute certainty that the men for whom they collectively cast the highest number of votes are actually elected."

The report that the whole council of Kitchener might resign in a body should not be allowed to come to pass if such a move would close the investigation. It is a matter of extreme public interest that an affair of this character should be sifted to the bottom, and the electors told plainly what transpired and who was responsible.

Romance and Murder.

Miss S. Umiska is called upon to face a charge of murder in a Paris court, the circumstances surrounding which are so peculiar as to take it out of the usual run of sordid murder cases. The accused admits that she shot and killed her fiancé, a Polish artist, Zynowski, when he was lying in a hospital with only a day or so to live.

For years Zynowski had suffered from an affection, which turned out to be incurable, and from which he suffered such pain that at times it was unbearable. He had reached the point where the doctors could do nothing for him in the way of administering opiates, and during periods when nurses and doctors were out of the room Zynowski pleaded with Miss Umiska to shoot him so that his torture would end.

end. She did so after the physicians told her that, at the most, her fiancé could not live more than a day or so. She admits to the police that she took his life, and now she must face the courts on the charge of murder.

For months Miss Umiska had been in constant attendance upon Zynowski; she submitted to the ordeal of blood transfusion willingly in hope that she might save his life, and it was to end his suffering that she did an act which the law holds to be an illegal one.

The case is even more unusual because the defence is being prepared by Mme. Mary Fournier, a young woman lawyer of only twenty-two years, the youngest of her profession in France. The case is tragic and contains many possibilities for legal appeal, although the courts of France generally deal severely with murder cases. It is doubtful if a more unusual case has come before any court in years.

The Millennial Dawn.

The time will come—
When someone will not be extolling the good old days.

When oldsters will not be viewing with alarm the goings on of young people.
When comic sheets will not pretend that husbands are henpecked.

When a reporter, a detective and a parson on the stage or in the movies will resemble a reporter, a detective or a parson in real life.

When a man will work as hard as he leads his wife and his friends to think he does.

When an employee admits that he is being paid what he is worth.

When professional reformers admit that society is O.K. and voluntarily quit their jobs.

When a man will give up his automobile and explain that he cannot afford one.

When easy marks will not be stung by fake investment salesmen.

When bores will not take the perfunctory cue, "How are you?" as an invitation to give an organ recital.

The time will come—but we shall never see it.

Note and Comment.

The old-timer who said there would be an open winter came in to explain that what he really meant was that the furnace door would be open most of the time.

Government urges every family to keep a budget. Brantford Expositor editor, after trying it a spell, says it can't be done because one cross-word puzzle at a time is all he can stand.

Ontario is likely to put a tax of two cents a gallon on gas. The oil companies must have heard of this in advance for they have already clamped a two-cent increase on the price of locomotion.

Even the writers of market reports break into mixed metaphor at times. A Winnipeg despatch, speaking of the break in the wheat market, says "the toboggan came unexpectedly, but it was a thorough washout."

Keeping a Maid

I got a letter writ to me, 'tis one that speaks of spades as spades, the writer says as how she's sick of hearin' folks talk of their maids.

She says when she goes out to call that folks start talkin' when she's sat, of how their maids stay out at night and how their maids do this and that. They never talk of homely things, or travels off in Rome or France, or how they sit up late at night a-patchin' up their husbands' pants.

Likewise she claims they don't converse about good books what they has read, or show as how they've piled away some worthy sayin's in their head—nor do they talk of other things, discussin' how green cheese is made, they always romp back to the point of talkin' 'bout their new hired maid.

This woman says as how she knows a heap of others in her block, who used to wear plain calico and show a goodly woolen sock, and how they had to scrub and work and hustle when the whistle blew, and scot like sixty in the shop a-doin' what they was told to do.

But now when they is married off they left their moorin' in the shade, and they won't talk of nothin' else but how they try to keep their maid.

And furthermore this woman writes as how she ain't a-scared to bet that lots of them don't pay their bills, they run their husbands into debt. And then what's worse she writes along and says as how these folks would roar if they but knew these maids they talk about the folks they're workin' for. She says she knows from some of them how husbands and their wives will row, how wife says he's a stingy pig, and he says she's an ugly cow.

This writer added at the end as how her name must be kept out, for fear her friends would pull her hair and bounce a broomstick on her nape.

So we're just passin' this along, a-sayin' 'how it seems to us that it may cause a frown or a p'raps kick up a little fuss. And yet it seems that in the end it's just an even sort of score, the wimmen talkin' of their maids, the maids of them they're workin' for.—A.K.K.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir—You say the churches are suffering, and so they are, and the ministers will suffer also if people won't support them.

Union has separated ministers and people, and churches are broken up. Congregations will never be the same again. People have gone away from the church that they always worshipped in.

Look at the debt the country is in, that the people will never be able to redeem.

Union has put the country in a terrible struggle. See the churches that have gone out and voted against it all over Ontario. Those people don't want union.

"Faults" Are Valuable.

Interesting Discovery That May Have Very Important Bearing on the History of Mining.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir—The geological reasoning of the eminent authority, J. McIntosh Bell, mining engineer, who has rediscovered and made the famous Keeley silver mine, is, according to the Canadian Mining Journal, to be further credited with the making of several other mines, his reasoning being that the combination of a "fault" zone with an igneous intrusion has provided the ore deposits in those mines.

Heretofore "faults" were considered of no value, but were, in fact, looked upon as trouble-makers, being fractures in which there is a displacement of the rocks, or rock, throwing it out of line. Now, however, the "fault" has assumed a place of great importance and it is now observed that all of the producing mines at Cobalt or Porcupine, Kirkland Lake and South Lorrain are situated in "fault" zones.

Dr. Goodwin, late dean of the faculty of sciences in Queen's university, in his latest work dealing with the location of ore deposits, published in the summer of 1924, makes the following statement: "It is common experience that these zones ('fault' zones) are the more favorable places for ore deposits."

This has now settled the question as to where to expect the most valuable deposits of ore, and may save great trouble and expenditure in endeavoring to locate valuable minerals in going in the wrong direction, when, by this knowledge, the ore may be ascertained to be quite near.

Had this information been known when the Farmers Bank and Dr. Beattie Nesbitt were interested in the Keeley mine, they and not the other owners would have long ago enjoyed possession of this wonderful silver mine, their workings at that time being within a few feet from this now famous silver deposit. No Consolidated Schools.

Present System the Best Way Out Because It Is Impossible to Get Children to Consolidated School in Winter.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Sir—I read an article in your paper of last night, signed "Margaret Bruce," telling all about Dr. Karr's figures of rural schools and advocating township trustees instead of the present sectional system. Dr. Karr gave us reports about different schools, and how expensive it was where there were only a few schools, and how much more economical it would be to have larger schools and better teachers. The same arguments came up when they were advocating consolidated schools before.

Now they tell us some of the advantages are more regular attendance, lower costs per pupil, better teachers. Now we will take the argument as he puts it. I would like to ask Dr. Karr how he would have got children to school for the last two months, supposing they had built the school at Delaware Village, as they were suggesting. You could not run a school for the last two months. Then, about the cost—in the first place they were going to build a $50,000 school, then each bus would cost $5,000. Then if you do not live on the bus roads, the poor little kiddies would have to walk across the concession and wait till the bus came—as far as they have to walk to school now—and then walk all the way back all hours of the night.

About the better teachers—where are they going to get them? The teachers all go to Normal and get the same training exactly, whether they are going to teach in country or town, so I can't see where that argument stands. About this township trustee board—don't you think, Mr. Editor, that the men in a school section ought to know what the people want better than men that live 15 or 20 miles away, and the school trustees do their work free. You can't get it done any cheaper. Another thing, if there are only five or six scholars in a school section they can better afford to educate them than where there are forty, as the section will be better off.

No, these arguments are too thin. If Dr. Karr or Margaret Bruce would come out straight and say there were some political jobbers down at Toronto that wanted a good fat government job, they would be nearer striking the nail on the head.

I think our minister of education must be one of those fellows that broke out of the asylum two or three years ago and got a job at Toronto by the laws he is trying to push across. I see where Hon. Mr. Ferguson says that the rural schools must have a different education than the city schools. Probably he thinks he can keep our children on the farms to plod and die like their parents did, but they have more brains than their olds dads had. FARMER.

WOOD TRIAL ENDS, RUSSILL UP NEXT

Hearing Comes To An End When Counsels Reach Agreement.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—When court adjourned this evening the argument was still in progress in the trial of S. Casey Wood, K.C., Home Bank director, and the plan was that it would be continued tomorrow morning. However, Crown Counsel D. L. McCarthy, K.C., and W. N. Tilley, K.C., one of the counsel for the accused, came to an agreement afterwards to allow the argument to end where it was left off. Judge Coatsworth was notified and he has consented to the change, so there will be no hearing tomorrow.

OFFICIAL HAD ORDERED LAD BEATEN, CHARGE

Inquest Into Death of Eight-Year-Old Boy From Scalds Adjourned.

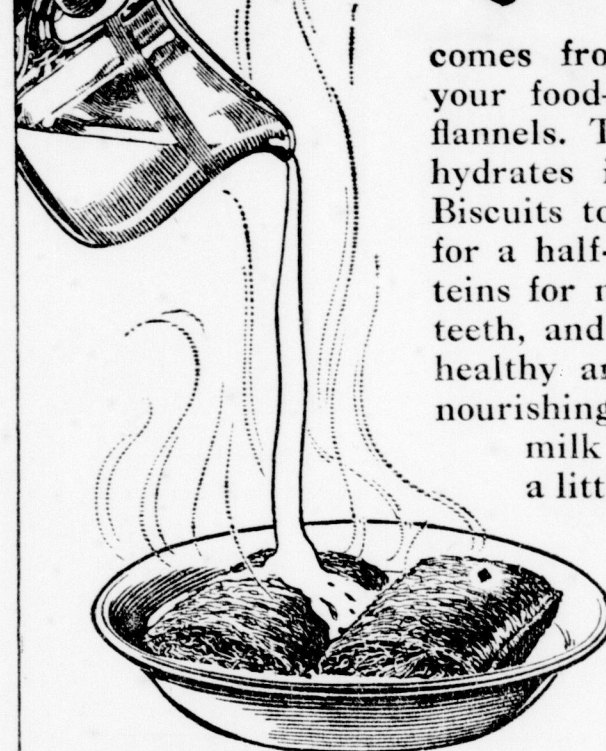

Montreal, Jan. 29.—After hearing evidence alleging that Hector Galarneau, 8 years of age, who died at the Ste. Justine hospital Saturday afternoon of scalds had been beaten by other boys of the Huberdeau orphanage at the suggestion of Brother Usmar, one of the brothers of the college, Corner McMahon adjourned the inquest until next Wednesday.

In the meantime the provincial police will make further investigation into the cause of the boy's death and into the general system of conducting the orphanage.

The evidence was given by Philippe Galarneau, 11 years of age, Hector's brother, and was corroborated by another witness. Brother Usmar having elected to give evidence after the statutory warning, admitted that he had told the bigger boys to beat young Hector Galarneau, but that he had always prevented them from going too far.

Brother Usmar gave his version of the way in which the boy suffered the fatal scalds, stating that on account of the boy's personal habits he had to give him a bath. He undressed him and placed him in a wash-tub, after which he had left the boy for a brief time, in order to get him a change of clothing. Young Galarneau was kneeling in the tub and had been told not to move or touch anything. While the brother was away he heard a shout, and returning found the boy standing in the tub and apparently stupid. The boy was scalded, and Brother Usmar picked him up and carried him to the infirmary.

PENNANT CHANCES OF CUBS BRIGHTER

Cooper, Rabbit Maranville and Grimm of Pirates Join Chicago Roster.

Associated Press Despatch.
Chicago, Jan. 29.—Acquisition of three sterling veterans from Pittsburgh, the recovery of a trio of Cub players whose injuries crippled the team last fall, and the signing of George Gibson as coach and assistant manager to handle the sixteen pitchers of the club's roster have brightened the pennant prospects of the Chicago Nationals for the 1925 season, according to President William Veeck.

The three players who came to the Cubs in exchange for George Grantham,
second baseman, Vic Aldridge, pitcher,
and First baseman, Ben Schumacher, former Southern league player, are Wilbur Cooper, a dependable left-hand pitcher, Rabbit Maranville, a sturdy second baseman, and Grimm, a high-class first baseman. The trio fit in well, as the club was considered weak in these positions.

Charles Hollocher, shortstop who was sick last year, says he will be able to return to his old position this spring.

Harney Frieberg, who suffered a broken leg last season, which forced him into retirement, has fully recovered.
He is one of the best third sackers in the league. The Cubs also obtained Clarke A. Pittenger, a racy infielder, from the Coast team, and he may be inserted at short, or even at third, if it is decided to shift Frieberg to the outfield.

On came Frieberg in sent to center field, the Cubs will have one of the best outfielders in the league. Hack Miller and Arnold Stutz will undoubtedly be retained as substitute outfielders.

Alexander Cooper, a veteran infielder, but steady worker. Keen is a collegian who moved from last year season, while Schumacher, a former National star, possesses a brilliant assessment of pitching warfare. Bobby O'Farrell will do the bulk of the catching.

Tonight Is Sixth Meeting of Stratford and 75's

Locals Confident of Turning Tables On Previous Conquerors.

ARENA SOLD OUT

For the first time this season the S.
R. O. sign and most of that outside will be hung out at the arena tonight
as the 75's and Stratford hop over the boards for their sixth meeting of the season.

One of these was a tie exhibition
here, another 2 win for London on Stratford's own ice, and the other three victories for the Indians by the narrowest of margins until the fifth clash between the two.

Even the group play-offs could not have packed any more interest than tonight's affair. Although their favorites were beaten in three straight league games, London fans are still convinced that man for man and in balance the 75's are a better team than their conquerors. The 75's believe, it too, and they figure that it was only the toughest of breaks and good net-tending by London that cost them victories which would have made a vast difference in the local outlook.

There may be a lingering suspicion,
too, that they haven't received all the breaks in the refereeing, but again, once mix-ups were allowed to get going, even the most partisan of local fans couldn't say that the locals got any the worse
of the feuds. It's been even-Stephen all the way except where opinion differs as to who knocked the first chip off
the ice. The Stratford and London fans are scrappy to opposite poles.

However, the majority of the fans
tonight are not interested in feuds.
They have a sincere desire to see the Indians humbled, preferably by the kind of hockey the 75's are capable of, rather than the sort that leaves wide, bawling spaces in the London arena
and clatters up the moisture bench.

Victory for the Londoners tonight means a revival of hope. Stratford has lost all chances to slip up, yet they've got a battle on their hands with the Falls, on home ice, but if the Falls crew travel like they did they'd be against the 75's, home ice won't cut any figure on the deal. They've also a trip to make into Galt and another into Preston—neither joy-rides.

The playoffs can happen yet, it enough goals happen tonight.
The arena was sold out last night and the 75's are expected to have their chances, outside of 150 reserved,
for the 1,000 seats remaining.

Comie Smythe is slated to handle
the bell for three periods, or three rounds, just as he elects to make them play.

Weekly Bonspiel Will Begin at 2:15

Members of the Thistle club are reminded that the weekly Saturday bonspiel will be held at 2:15 p.m. As only 40 entries can be received, it is essential that the names of competitors should be in not later than 2 o'clock. Be sure to phone in your entries early.

The Tuesday evening bonspiels are very popular. Supper is served at 6 o'clock and curling begins at 6:15.

Two eight-end games are played.
A. E. Chapman, the energetic chairman of the games committee, is to be commended for his untiring efforts,
which have resulted in outstanding success for these bonspiels. A large number of entries have been made in the leads and seconds competition.
Last year's contest was a marvelous success, but it will be outdistanced
by this season's efforts.

KEARNS-DEMPSEY BREAK RUMORED

Stories of Disagreement Are Now Rife in San Francisco.

By FAIR PLAY.
Copyright, 1925.

New York, Jan. 29.—Stories of a break between Jack Dempsey and Jack Kearns are rife in San Francisco.

The explanation as generally given relates to the crack accredited to Kearns after Dempsey's engagement was formally announced. Kearns is alleged to have said that "the wedding might never take place."

This, it is stated, has made Dempsey
as sore as a crab, but it all may be a piece of similar stories of a Kearns-Dempsey break heard from time to time
in the past.

That battle between Paul Bernhardt and Young Marullo on Friday night at the Garden ought to be one real jam-bore.

Tony made good with a bang in his former home town, New Orleans, when he put the axids under Billy Britton
the Kansas City lad, in five rounds, and then continued the good work in a slashing battle against Hattie Slick.
There is only one thing that Marullo lacks to put him on top of the pugilistic heap, and that is good hands. He has everything else, and in looking up with Sammy Goldmen, Pete Herman's old pint-sized manager, he has bettered his chances.

If Marullo's hands stand up when he meets Bernhardt, the fans can rest assured they will see enough action to bring them to their toes. Both are about equal in sheer aggressiveness and punching power. The fight ought to be the best slugfest of the year with Bernhardt, fighting to win, provided Marullo's hands fall him. If they hold good then the result will be a close-up.

One Hit Brings Bucky's Batting Average Up To .300 For Season

Hitting Against Pitching of Red Stars in Pre-Season Tour Proved Real Advantage When Schedule Games Began.

CHAPTER XXVI.

One Hit Puts Me in the 300 Class.

By STANLEY "BUCKY" HARRIS.

The Reds had won the White Sox.
It wasn't known then that some of the Chicago players had deliberately thrown the games to their National league rivals, Joe Jackson, Chick Gandi, Happy Felsch, Swede Risberg, Claude Williams, Buck Weaver, Charlie McMillin and Eddie Ciolette were read to hit baseball when the plot was later uncovered. They were all great players. They sacrificed their reputations and means of earning a living by being misled by bad companions.

I stood a little in awe of the world's champions. They were a cocky crowd. They didn't think they could do anything wrong. The trouble was they were over-confident. They struck me as thinking they could earn nothing more. After we beat them, a few times I realized that my reputation alone will not bring continued success. Confidence is necessary, but over-confidence may be fatal.

The champions had a great pitching
staff, including Luque, Ruthen, Eller, Ring, Fisher, See, Saline and Bresler.
They faltered in the 1920 pennant
chase, in which the Reds finished third, but they looked like a winning combination to me on the long exposed. I started off well hitting bats. In the first four or five games I hit around .375. Then, as they began putting more speed on the ball and using their curves, my average dwindled like a piece of ice on a hot griddle. I had a batting average of .198 when the series ended.
Washington won eight of the thirteen games played. My fielding mark was .959.

I was handicapped at bat because I was a bit shy on confidence. The Cincinnati pitchers were throwing things I had never seen. Griffith noticed my slump. He called me aside and said: "Don't go up there thinking that maybe you won't hit," he advised
"Step up, figuring you've got something on the pitcher, and that you can't miss hitting one on the nose.
If a man knows how to hit and has confidence in himself, a few pitchers can't stop him. You know how to hit.
The rest is up to you."

Four Points to Make.
Such talk encouraged me. I managed to meet the ball better under the end of the trip, but I almost always knocked it into a waiting glove.
As things turned out, the pitching I had to face on that long, tiresome
trip of a month was a great help in
my first full season in the big leagues. It prepared me for what I was up against in the championship
race. I got off to a good start in the league season and finished with
a batting average of .300.

I didn't reach this high figure until the last game of the campaign. We were playing Philadelphia. My average was .296. I made up my mind to increase it four points and finish my first season in the majors in the .300 hitting class. I went to Umpire Billy Evans before the game. I knew him to be sharp on figures and asked him
"How many hits do I need today to reach .300?"

"Depends on how many times you've been at bat and how many hits you have already. How do you stand?" he answered.
I told him as near as I could. I wasn't sure my figures were correct.
He looked puzzled, thought a few seconds and then laughed. "Better go out and hustle and get all you can,"
I managed to get three hits in my first three times at bat. Then, in the seventh inning, Griffith told me I had to face on that long, tiresome
trip of a month was a great help in
my first full season in the big leagues. It prepared me for what I
was up against in the championship
race. I got off to a good start in the league season and finished with
a batting average of .300.

WATFORD SIX ENTERS CONSOLATION SERIES

Trenouth, Defence Player, Still Out of Game With Injured Knee.

Special to The Advertiser.

Watford, Jan. 29.—The Watford
hockey club has decided to try its luck
in the consolation series of the O. H. A.
and the team is confident that it can make a better showing than it did in the regular series. The boys are sure that they have had more than their share of hard luck in the way of sickness and injuries, and feel that it is time for Mrs. Fortune herself to be their mascot, instead of sending her daughter along as in the regular series. Dunnouth, strong defence man, is still out of the game with an injured knee,
and it is not yet known whether he will be able to take the ice this season again or not. If not it will be a heavy loss to the team.

The Watford club is entered in the senior N. H. L. series also, and in an effort to strengthen the team for this series a strong appeal is being made to Dr. A. P. Bowles to turn out with the boys. Although the doctor has not played for some years, he is a capable player and his presence would mean added strength and confidence to the team.

CHARLIE GEHRINGER GOES TO LEAFS FROM TIGERS

Special to The Advertiser.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Jan. 29.—Manager Dan Howley, of the Leafs, wired from Augusta that Detroit had turned over infielder Charlie Gehringer, last year with London, to the Toronto club. Howley expects to complete his spring training games this week and will return home next week.

PAN-DRIEDS THROUGH.

Tillsonburg, Jan. 29.—The local O.
H. A. hockey officials have finally decided not to enter the junior O. H. A. team in the consolation series, as finances are low and it is felt that the fans would not support the team
in large enough numbers to meet the financial obligations.

Tomorrow: I Spill Johnson's Perfect Game.

GODERICH GAINS EDGE IN PLAYOFF FOR GROUP

Sailors Run Up 8-3 Count
On Exeter Intermediate Team.

Special to The Advertiser.

Goderich, Jan. 29.—In the first game of the play-off for Group 13, O. H. A.,
the Goderich Sailors gained a stranglehold by their 8-3 victory over Exeter
here tonight.

The first period was evenly contested,
each scoring two goals on individual play. In the second the locals hit their stride and scored four in rapid succession by fast handling in on returns. Throughout the game Statham ran wild, showing pretty stick handling and real speed. The locals all played nicely together, with no outstanding star. The line-up:
Exeter—Goal, Walser; defence, Knapp, O'Brien, center, O'Brien; wings, Statham and Wells; substitutes, Hey and Shaddock.

Goderich—Goal, Stewart; defence,

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Jan. 29.—The Woodstock
junior hockey team has been officially entered in the junior O. H. A. consolation series. It is likely that the locals will be grouped with Brantford, Port Dover and Simcoe, with Tillsonburg
also in the group if the team from that town enters. Up to yesterday Tillsonburg's officials were undecided.

Sh! Sh-peculators!

Speculators were supposed to have made their appearance here since the seat sale for the Stratford game opened. It's business on a very small scale then. Pastebards going as high as $7 each were rumored.

Nearly 1,000 subscribers' seats, held in reserve until five o'clock yesterday afternoon, nearly 1,300 rush seats and, of course, box holders, do not leave many tickets open to the speculators. There were also 150 reserved for Stratford fans.

Two and Half Per Cent.

Toronto Star: The rumor has spread around London that tomorrow night's Big Six senior game there with Stratford is going to be a repeat order of the Battle of Bull Run with a few extra trimmings and the result is that the manager of the arena up there, Goldie Progers, is able to report a sell-out. The rumor is that the London team is going to "get hung" for some alleged ill-treatment in Stratford last week. The London players themselves do not complain of any ill-treatment up in the Classic City, and say that they are at a loss to understand the rumor which has spread around the city. Anyway these "feed" games usually analyze out about as dangerous as O.T.A. beer.

Double Umpires.

Dual umpiring is coming in hockey. Incidents during the last few weeks in the N.H.L. have made the demands more insistent than ever.

DEPOSITS INCREASED BY DOMINION BANK

Report Shows Good Business
Throughout Year Despite Depression.

While it is generally admitted that 1924 was a year of slow business, the figures in the fifty-fourth annual statement of the Dominion Bank, presented by the directors at the meeting of shareholders in Jan. 28 show improved profits, increased deposits and a strong liquid position well maintained.

After deducting charges of management and making full provision for bad and doubtful debts, the profits for the year were $1,444,022.22 or about 115,000 more than last year, to which has been added the amount brought forward from last year, $280,438, making available $1,724,460.22. Dividends at the rate of 12 per cent per annum, $200,000, a bonus of 1 per cent, $100,000, and officers' pension fund, $10,000, Dominion Bank, $100,000, leaving a balance of $300,140.22 carried forward to the next year.

The largest amount of business carried forward in its history.

A notable feature in the statement is the increase of $5,000,000 in interest-bearing deposits and an increase in total deposits of $10,000,000, which now stands at $31,375,255.32.

The statement makes it abundantly clear that the bank has maintained its acknowledged strong liquid position. Cash assets are $25,553,255.32, 21.87 per cent of the bank's liabilities to the public, and quickly realizable assets are shown at $16,500,102.15, or 51.40 per cent of liabilities to the public. The quick assets include the considerable sum of $21,667,725.00 invested in Dominion, provincial, municipal and other securities.

It is quite evident that the bank has kept its funds well engaged during the year, as is noted that current loans have increased by $2,000,000. This increase may very probably have been occasioned by the higher price of products.

The capital and reserve fund of the bank remain as at the close of last year, capital $5,000,000, reserve fund $7,000,000, and profit and loss account $9,000,125.32.

The statement was accepted by the shareholders with satisfaction, as the figures made it quite clear that, notwithstanding the depression, business conditions which obtained during 1924, the bank has made substantial progress.

The bank's officers are: President, J. V. Shepherd, C.A., of Port, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., Ltd.; Vice-President, C.A., of Macdonald, Cole & Robinson, chartered accountants, Toronto.

Market Sidelights

CANADIAN STEEL REPORTS.
W. W. Butler, president of the Canadian Steel and Foundry Association, in reviewing the outlook in the steel building industry, made some interesting remarks in the fact that out of a total of 250,000 box cars which Canadian roads have on duty, 20,000 are under the twelve-year normal life limit.

"An advance of $3 a ton in sheet piling by Canadian mills, compared with the advance in the steel market, but prices and bars are still lower than the U.S. Steel Corporation, while advancing prices in the home market, has not touched the export market."

CITY DAIRY.
It is said that the milk and cream trucks were behind the advance yesterday in City Dairy's shares. "Anything is liable to go up in this market," said a broker, and City Dairy happens to be one of the good ones. Earnings this year are reported to be running in the neighborhood of $12 a share.

The annual meeting will likely take place in February, and last year the same advance in the stock occurred prior to this event. A year ago, however, the shares were in the neighborhood of 10, while the price of the common at the time was $10, which was equivalent to the old basis to 200.

The company has been in an exceptionally strong position for the past four years. In 1921 the common earned 24.24 per cent. In 1922 it earned 31.25 per cent, and in 1923 it earned 31.25 per cent, and in 1924 it will show $12 a share for the common, which would be equivalent to $18 on the old basis.

BUILDINGS FOUND IN BAD CONDITION

Repairs to Structures Between York and King, on Clarence, Urged.

INSPECTION MADE

Following a report made by a cornerer's jury Tuesday night, that buildings on Clarence street between York and King streets were in bad condition, fire prevention engineer, E. Ritchie, fire prevention engineer, and two fire inspectors, surveyed the buildings yesterday.

According to Mr. Ritchie, it was found that the Clarence street buildings themselves could be repaired to an extent that would make for fire prevention.

Written orders will be made out for the necessary repairs and a general clean-up of waste material has been ordered. In one store the fire engine found that beaver board was being used as a roof for a non-combustible material was ordered to be used instead.

Two fires have occurred in London within the last ten days, caused through negligence, according to Mr. Ritchie. Excelsior and waste material lying about the basement of structures became ignited and caused the blazes, he said. Had this material been put in containers the fires, which occasioned about $1,000 loss, would never have occurred.

More than 150 inspections have been made in London during the fire inspectors' visit in the city. Of that number, 60 per cent of the buildings were found to be in a condition that would not make for fire prevention and orders and instructions were given in each case.

Mr. Ritchie and his assistants leave for Toronto today. They will return to London on Monday, however, to continue their inspection of the city.

City Churches

SOUTHERN W. A.

The regular meeting of the women's auxiliary of the Southern Presbyterian church was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. Powell, Maitland street, and it was largely attended. Mrs. W. Hilson, the vice-president, occupied the chair, and the devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. T. Hill. The financial report of the treasurer, Miss J. Clark, showed that the auxiliary has had a very successful year, for after reaching the proportion made last year, the society also raised a substantial sum for church improvements. Arrangements were also made for a bazaar to go to Africa, and Mrs. H. Taylor and Mrs. W. Hilson were appointed to be in charge of the sewing. Mrs. W. Clark in charge of the patches, and the preparations will be in charge of Mrs. W. Powell, Mrs. R. Rodda, Mrs. W. Hilson, Mrs. J. Hawke. At the close of the meeting light refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. R. Rodda, Mrs. W. Hilson, Mrs. M. Scandrett and Miss Powell.

RELIGIOUS SOCIETY.

The young people's religious society of the Latter Day Saints church held a meeting last night in the church. The president, J. V. Shepherd, was in the chair, and after the usual opening exercises a lesson study was taken up. The following program was also carried out: A vocal solo by Miss G. Middleton; Miss G. Middleton and H. A. Koehler contributed delightful vocal numbers. There was a young people's chorus in charge of Miss Lenore Henry and the time critic's report was given by L. Bernard.

The feature of the evening, however, was a splendid debate, in which it was resolved that good character is better than culture. The affirmative was taken by Miss E. Simpson and Miss G. Vassinder, and Mrs. H. Sutter and N. Ridley upheld the negative. The judges were Mr. Van Nest, Mr. Brandon and Mr. MacDonald, and the affirmative won by three points. There was also a guessing contest, which was won by the senior members.

FIRST METHODIST PLAY.

The young people's league of the First Methodist church presented their clever and successful play, "His Uncle's Niece," in the town hall last night to a capacity audience. At the close of the play the cast went to the Methodist church, where light refreshments were served, after which Mayor Scott opened his home to the cast, who were delightfully entertained with music and radio selections until train time.

HAMILTON ROAD L. A.

The members of the ladies aid of the Hamilton road Presbyterian church met yesterday with the president, Mrs. John Lindsay, in the chair. Mrs. James Kendry, and Mrs. Munroe were in charge of the devotional exercises. At the close of the play the cast went to the Methodist church, where light refreshments were served, after which Mayor Scott opened his home to the cast, who were delightfully entertained with music and radio selections until train time.

SOUTHERN SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The annual meeting of the teachers and officers of the Southern Presbyterian Sunday school was held last night at the home of the superintendent, B. Wherry, William street. Splendid reports were given by Mr. Wherry, and also by the assistant superintendent, Dr. H. Taylor. The secretary-treasurer, L. R. Anderson, gave a very gratifying report on the work in the past year, which has been very successful. The teachers of the primary department reported a very successful year in their work, and also the women's adult Bible class, of which Miss M. Santner is the teacher. This class has had a number of members who have graduated for teachers and officers, and they are now helping in the work of EVANGELIST J. H. WELLS, who during the week has been conducting a series of lectures in the Church of Christ Disciples. His lectures will close on Monday night.

Next Sunday is the rally Sunday of the school, when the children and their parents will be given the opportunity of hearing W. E. Sanders speak. This will be followed by the distribution of diplomas, seals and medals to the children who have been faithful in attendance at Sunday school for the past year. At the close of the evening a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Sherry, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Chapman.

Mother Dies In Vain Attempt To Save 5 Children From Fire

Rimouski, Que., Jan. 29.—Mrs. Adelaide Morneau and her five children were burned to death last night in a fire which, starting from an explosion of gasoline in an outhouse, leaped to their home. The fire occurred at nine o'clock when the children were in bed. Mrs. Morneau lost her life in attempting to save her children. The gasoline was in a tractor belonging to a neighbor which had been housed in the shed for the night following lumbering operations.

COUNCIL ADOPTS SUPERVISION PLAN

Middlesex Body, On Close Vote, Backs Provincial Government Scheme.

DEFICIT IS CUT

Middlesex county councilors three months to the four weeks last night when it came to a vote on the Ontario government policy of forcing road superintendents on the various rural municipalities if they were to receive a grant of 30 per cent of township road costs.

The council finally decided to give the government proposition a trial, the deciding vote being cast by Warden McPherson, a Liberal of the old school.

Chief among the opponents of the government measure, which goes into effect this year, were A. C. Hodgins, Marshall, the government engineer, and Wm. Roler, deputy-reeve of Westminster township, both of whom are said to be aspirants for Conservative nomination in East Middlesex.

R. T. Reycraft and J. N. Sullivan moved earlier in the week that the council go on record as being opposed to the government policy regarding road superintendents. The matter was referred to the highway committee, which brought in a resolution last night that be taken.

Committee of Whole.

Mr. Reycraft then asked for committee of the whole on the report, and Austin Winter was asked to take the chair by the warden.

"I may be in favor of the present government, but I'm not in favor of their law regarding road superintendents," declared Mr. Reycraft. "The last three years in our township (Biddulph) the work has been passed on an being an engineer," continued Mr. Reycraft. "Why should we have a road superintendent at a salary of $1,000 or more when the reeve can look after the work at small cost? We might get a $600 grant and spend $1,000 to get it. The last three years has not cost our township more than $50. I refuse to accept this new law, 30 per cent or otherwise, and I'm asking the county council to back me up."

"The reeves have been looking after the business in good shape, and it hasn't been costing us much," declared J. N. Sullivan. "My expenses have never been over $30 a year for the past three years. I won't say that I've been overpaid."

Councillor Tom Elliott, who usually proceeds to turn the well-known Elliott guns on Messrs. Reycraft and Sullivan.

Urges Fair Trial.

"I think it is a step in the right direction," declared Mr. Elliott. "Put your work under one management. I believe every township should try it out. If it isn't successful, we can talk to the government then. I think it is good business."

"In five years' time our municipalities will be represented by a reeve and a township overseer," retorted Mr. Sullivan. "That's what has happened in the United States."

"I am pleased with Mr. Elliott's stand," declared J. S. Cousins, reeve of Westminster township. "We calculate in our township that a road superintendent will be a road force."

The high constable reported that it had not, and he believed that the government had decided to take no steps in the matter.

The council granted $250 to the Salvation Army rescue home, and $1,000 to the Children's Shelter. The tender for all county printing was awarded to Evans Bros., Stratford.

Asks Allowance.

A letter from Miss Maudie Harris, former jail matron, asking for a superannuation allowance was referred to the finance committee.

A deputation from the western fair asked a grant of $250 for the calf competition. The request was promised consideration.

Byron village trustees appeared in person and asked the council to protect children on the Pipe line road in the vicinity of Springbank Park.

The trustees declared that the auto traffic was so heavy in summer months that protection near the amusement park was an absolute necessity. The deputation consisted of R. M. Miller, Jos. Cassidy and Alex. Graham. This matter also will be looked into by the council.

A grant for the London humane society was requested by W. Wallace and E. H. McKone. Action will be taken later in the week.

On the suggestion of Duncan Gordon, reeve of Delaware, the entire council will inspect the jail today at 10 o'clock.

Institute Asks Grant.

R. W. Wilcox representing the Canadian National Institute for the blind, asked for a grant to that institution.

Public School Inspectors J. H. Sexton and Thompson gave their reports for the year.

Mr. Sexton stated that teachers' salaries in West Middlesex totalled $110,755, with 2,347 pupils attending or a cost of $48 per pupil. Eighty-two per cent of pupils trying entrance examinations passed with flying colors, the inspector stated.

Some 108 teachers were employed in West Middlesex during 1924, with an increase in the number of male teachers.

Education Costs.

The cost of education in East Middlesex last year was $198,000, Mr. Thompson said. Of this amount $23,000 was used in building two new schools.

Alex. Campbell, inspector of the House of Refuge, Stratford, asked that power be delegated to some individual to discharge inmates and collect board from those in a position to pay. He pointed out that since the bylaws had been revised no one had this power. Action was promised by the House of Refuge committee.

COUNCIL IS COMPLETED.

Listowel, Jan. 29.—Robert Ronalds on Tuesday obtained 84 more votes than A. E. Rennie in the election for councillor. Mr. Ronalds had 301 votes and Mr. Rennie 217. It was necessary to hold this election as only five of those nominated at the regular nomination meeting qualified.

REEVE A. C. HODGINS.

runner-up in contest for wardenship of Middlesex county. He was born at Denfield. In 1912 he was appointed assessor of London township, in 1919 was elected a member of the council, and in 1924 and 1925 elected by acclamation as reeve.
