Beautiful Cynthia;

Victory After Many Defeats.

CHAPTER V. A SCHOOL-GIRL TRANSLATED.

"Here we are, Cynthia," said her ladyship. "If you can leave off crying while we drive through the streets, I shall be obliged; it's an open carriage, and if the people see you mopping your eyes, they'll think I've been ill-treating you and probably give me in charge; you can begin again when you get home, if you like."

This not particularly encouraging speech was not spoken in an unkindly tone, and, indeed, Lady Westlake did not mean to be unkind; she was just simply an unsympathetic old worldling who prided herself upon being an eminently practical woman whose one aim and object in life had been, and still was, notwithstanding her age, to get everything she could out of that same life.

She flattered herself that she thoroughly understood men and women, and she told herself that any attempt to soothe or console the heartbroken girl would not only be futile, but in-

Psoriasis All Over Body

Doctors Said Incurable, But Now There Is No Sign of Disease, Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mde. N. Massey.

Psoriasis is one of the most dreaded of itching skin diseases. It is a sort of chronic eczema. The itching it causes is almost beyond human endurance, and doctors are accustomed to give it up as incurable.

But here is a case that was given up and pronounced incurable. The result proves that Dr. Chase's Ointment almost works miracles in curing the worst form of itching skin disease imaginable.

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Concession, Ont., writes:—"For five years I suffered with what three doctors called psoriasis. They could not help me, and one of them told me if anyone offered to guarantee a cure for $50.00 to keep my money, as I could not be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this ointment enough."

The soothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment is truly wonderful. Eczema, salt rheum, barber's itch, ringworm and scores of such torturing ailments are relieved at once and as certainly cured if the Ointment is used persistently. Mothers find Dr. Chase's Ointment invaluable in preventing and curing the skin troubles of babies, such as chafing, irritations of the skin and baby eczema.

crease her suffering. Let her have her cry out—when she got home.

Obediently, Cynthia gave a last nod to her eyes, rolled her handkerchief into a ball which she concealed in her hand, and held down her white and swollen face. It was the first time she had left home and her father, and she bitterly regretted having done so. Then again, she had not said good-by to Darrel; the letter was all very well but she would like to have seen him, to have shaken hands with him, before she departed.

A very large barouche, drawn by a pair of gigantic grays, was waiting at the station. Cynthia thought the coachman must be a very old man, until a second glance showed her that his hair was powdered; so also was the footman's.

The whole turnout was marked by an old-fashioned staidness and grandeur which harmonized with the staidness and grandeur of its owner.

The carriage was hung on Cee springs, and to Cynthia, who had hitherto never known anything easier than a village cart, it seemed as if she were reclining on a movable feather bed.

The equipage made its way through the streets as if it were saying to the passers-by, who gazed at it, "Yes, pray look; we are worth looking at; we are one of the biggest things in carriages and servants, and the lady inside is one of the biggest things in ladies."

Now and again they passed some one on the pavement who raised his hat, to which salutation her ladyship deigned a short nod, or they passed another carriage whose occupants bowed and smiled. Sometimes the old lady stretched her lips in a responding smile, but more often only vouchsafed the little sharp nod; but presently a carriage came toward them rapidly with servants in blue liveries; a beautiful lady was seated in it, a lady with a serene, placid face and exquisite violet eyes.

Lady Westlake woke up as if she had been galvanized, and bent almost double; and as the lady in the carriage smiled gently and bowed, Lady Westlake said:

"The queen, Cynthia. You will know her the next time you meet her; you will bend forward, as you saw me do."

Cynthia gasped. "You know the queen?" she asked, in a voice rendered thick by her sobbing.

Lady Westlake nodded and grinned. "Yes, my child," she said; "and so will you some day, I hope. I devoutly trust she didn't see you, for you are looking a perfect sight. Thank Heaven, here we are!"

the aristocracy, and drew up with stately deliberation at a house in the best position; the outer door flew open, two footmen appeared with well-regulated alacrity; in the hall stood the housekeeper, a dignified-looking lady in a black silk dress, her customary attire of an afternoon. Cynthia thought it was another relative, and was prepared to shake hands, but the wearer of the silk dress inclined her head respectfully and murmured:

"I hope your ladyship is well?" Beside the housekeeper stood an imposing-looking personage with gray hair and side whiskers; he was in evening dress and reminded Cynthia of the Bishop she had once seen on his way to church for a confirmation. She thought that he really must be a relative, or at any rate a friend of the family, and got her hand ready, but he was only the butler, and he murmured Mrs. Stone's greeting in exactly the same words, the same manner, the same tone.

"Thanks," said her ladyship. "Oh, yes, I am well; but I am tired and bored to death. It's been a trying journey." She glanced at Cynthia. "You got my telegram, Stone? This is Miss Cynthia. Her room is ready, I suppose?"

"Quite ready, your ladyship. Parsons will wait on Miss Cynthia."

"Go, Cynthia," said her ladyship. Cynthia followed Mrs. Stone, the housekeeper, up the broad and massive staircase, along a still broader corridor adorned with pictures and lined with cabinets and statuary, up another flight of stairs and into a spacious and very handsomely furnished room.

Cynthia looked round her with wonder and pardonable bewilderment; she had never imagined such a room, for she had never been inside the Court at Summerleigh, had never known anything larger or more luxurious than her own plain little room at the cottage.

A pleasant-faced maid, attired in lack alpaca, with spotless collars and cuffs, approached her, exchanging glances with Mrs. Stone as she did so, and began to take off her coat and hat; but as Cynthia attempted to do the same thing, Parsons said:

"Better let me, miss," and Cynthia, with an air of resignation, submitted. Parsons surveyed the flushed, swollen, and tear-stained face with barely concealed dismay. She poured out some cold water in the silver basin and gently bathed the face.

"The dust do get in your eyes traveling, don't it, miss?" she said, with a respectful sympathy. "I've always noticed it myself. If you'll let me bathe it long enough your face will come quite right presently—or nearly right."

Cynthia gave a gulp; she was honest or nothing. "It isn't the dust," she said; "I've been crying."

"Yes, miss," murmured Parsons, still more sympathetically. "You can't help it. I always cry when I leave home, come back from my fortnight; but, Lor', miss, you get over it."

"Do you think I shall? Do you really think I shall?" sniffed Cynthia anxiously, incredulously.

"Why, of course, miss," said the experienced Parsons, cheerily. "You see, you can't go on crying forever; and there would be no use in it if you could. Besides, her ladyship wouldn't allow it. None of us would dare to do it; you mustn't have even the toothache or headache; it gets on her ladyship's nerves; and very natural, because her ladyship never has anything of the kind herself, and as to crying, I don't suppose her ladyship has cried since she was a baby. But, I beg your pardon, miss, I'm making free with her ladyship. Ah! here's your box," she broke off, as one of the footmen softly deposited the tin trunk on the mat outside and as softly knocked on the door to intimate that he had done so. Already Cynthia had noticed that all the movements and speech in this great house were hushed, as if by awe.

Parsons opened the modest box, and, with the slightest elevation of her brows, surveyed the equally modest contents.

There had been no time to replenish Cynthia's wardrobe, and her best dress revealed itself in the shape of a plain blue serge, which Parsons, as she lifted it, saw, at a glance, was too short and small for its owner; but, fortunately for Cynthia, Parsons was a good-hearted and good-tempered girl, and she was able to say without an apparent effort:

"What a pretty dress, miss; you'll wear this, this evening?"

"It's my best," said Cynthia; "I haven't any other. I can put it on myself, thank you."

"Yes, miss; but I think you had better let me help you; I can fasten it up more quickly; besides, I've got to wait on you. I'm to be your maid."

Cynthia turned from a somewhat unsatisfactory inspection of herself in the glass and stared at the smiling Parsons.

"Do you mean that you are going to undress me and dress me always, as you have been doing just now?" she asked, her eyes opening with astonishment.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Series Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

9517.—A SIMPLE EFFECTIVE MODEL.

Women realize the importance of having a house dress that is adapted to its purpose. This one is simple in design and comfortable, a model that is practical and that will prove desirable and suitable. The waist may be developed with centre front plain closing, or with the extension as illustrated. The skirt has the new back panel effect and closes at the centre front. This practical feature will appeal to every homemaker and laundress, as it renders the ironing of the dress easy. The sleeves may be made in elbow length or in wrist length. Gaiters, seersucker, gingham, percale, chambray and lawn are suitable for this design. The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 6 yards of 36 inch material for the 36 inch size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

9518.—A NEW AND PRACTICAL APRON.

Ladies' One Piece Apron.

This model affords protection and covering to the dress and is comfortable and neat in appearance. It is fitted by a dart under the arms, and has ample pockets in front. Gingham, chambray, percale, lawn, cambric, muslin, alpaca or denim may be used for this design. It is easy to make, and may be trimmed with edging, or the free edges may be scalloped and embroidered. The Pattern is cut in 3 sizes: Small, Medium, and Large. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 27 inch material for the medium size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Living by One's Reputation

By RUTH CAMERON.

Did it ever occur to you that a man's past reputation often has a great influence on his present acts? It seems to me that it does. I believe that most of us are far more influenced than we realize by what we think other people think about us.

For instance, a man who has naturally good manners and is rather thoughtful for his wife's comfort and happiness, acquires the reputation among their friends of being a model husband. He may not hear it expressed in just these terms, but he knows in a general way—just as we all know some things without ever having been told—that he is held up to other husbands as a standard of manners and kindness.

Now of course there are times when this man is tempted to be selfish and careless just like other men, but the moral force of his reputation won't let him be. It holds him up to his duty like an iron hand. Other men sit around in their shirt sleeves on an evening, or fail to lend a hand with the dishes, or gradually grow sleek about such little courtesies as

A few of us seem to like to do that.

NO ONE STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

The celebrated Dr. Abernethy of London was firmly of the opinion that disorders of the stomach were the most prolific source of human ailments in general. A recent medical writer says: "every feeling, emotion and affection reports at the stomach (through the system of nerves) and the stomach is affected accordingly. It is the vital center of the body."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. "Several months ago I suffered from a severe pain right under the breast-bone," writes Mrs. G. M. MURNEY, of Corona, Calif. "I had suffered from it, off and on, for several years. I also suffered from heartburn, did not know what was the matter with me. I tried several medicines but they did me no good. Finally, I was told it was my liver. I did not dare to eat as it made me worse. Whenever I swallowed anything it seemed that I would faint—it hurt so. I grew very thin and weak from not eating. Was told to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took five bottles of it, and could feel myself getting better from the first dose. I could eat a little without pain and grew strong fast. Today I am strong and well and can do a big day's work with ease. Can eat everything and have put on flesh wonderfully. I will say to all sufferers write to Dr. Pierce. He has my unending gratitude."

Household Notes.

- Spare ribs should be parolled before roasting.
- Creamed Cauliflower, served in green shells, is a pretty and tempting dish.
- It is best to roast or pan chicken with the breast down. It will be more juicy.
- For 15 cents you can buy a little device designed for sprinkling clothes. If a bag of sulphur is kept in the bird cage it will drive away lice in hot weather.
- Left-over jelly of several different kinds mixed together can be used for cake filling.
- Do not put salt in the water in which peas are cooked. It will cause the skin to crack.
- When rubber gloves wear into holes, try mending them with surgical adhesive plaster.
- Try adding a leaf of spinach to water in which peas are cooked, they will keep a good color.
- Rub brown sugar on a sliced ham before boiling it. The ham will have a delicious flavor.
- When ice cream is buttery, the can has been turned before the cream was thoroughly chilled.
- Milk is very good to take out ink spots when they are fresh. It has no effect on dry ink spots.
- When velvet is spotted with rain allow it to dry thoroughly then brush well with a stiff brush.
- The white mayonnaise made by foreign chefs calls for cream, lemon juice and white of an egg.
- A cupful of liquid yeast is equivalent to half a compressed yeast cake or a whole dry yeast cake.
- Pocket handkerchiefs and laces will whiten if soaked over night in a bath of toilet carbolic soap.
- When frying mush, it improves the crispness if the mush is dipped in white of an egg before frying.
- To clean pewter, wash it with hot water, rub it with fine sand, and when dry, polish with leather.
- Pineapple crystals are made of one slice of preserved pineapple inside round transparent lemon jelly.
- A few minced dates added to fudge as it comes from the store will make a novel and dainty confection.
- The tops of bureaus will keep in good condition longer if a piece of blotting paper is placed under the cover.
- When the top of the kerosene lamp becomes loosened, it may be tightened by applying a little melted alum.
- The juices from pickled fruit improves the flavour of boiled ham, if added to the water in which it is boiled.
- If a teaspoonful of vinegar is put into the water in which white silk hose is washed, they will retain their whiteness.
- Try panning mutton chops in the oven. Just as they are ready to serve pour over them a glass of currant jelly, melted.
- The thick jellied water from rice is too good to throw away. It makes an excellent addition to soups, cream or vegetables.
- Bread sponge, if made with rice water, has a velvety texture and it is as good as that made either with potatoes or milk.
- Press cooked cereals or mashed potatoes into empty marmalade jars. When cold they can be turned out and sliced for frying.
- To clean bed springs, use an ordinary dish mop. The bottom of the coils can easily be reached with it and all dust removed.

Theodore Hook.

Stories of the Greatest Practical Joke of His Day. On the list of geniuses the name of Theodore Hook is near the top. At sixteen he was making a big income and enjoying great popularity. His name was blazoned in the papers as a prodigy, his portraits were in the shop windows, and he had free admission to all theatres and other places of amusement. For years he was a social and literary lion. His last words were: "It is only to the grave that I must be carried. If my poor children were safe I would not care. I am suffering under a constant depression of spirits which no one who sees me in society dreams of." Hook's practical jokes were the talk of the day. His intimates egged him on continually, and there was nothing he would stop at. One day they pointed out to him as an appropriate specimen for his museum a gilded eagle of enormous dimensions which had just been erected over a grocer's shop. A few weeks afterward while entertaining his coterie at dinner at one of the old taverns he ordered the "game" to be served. To the astonishment of the guests the waiter entered the room staggering under the burden of a dish of unusual size. On uncovering it there was produced the identical eagle which Hook as a practical joke had contrived to carry off. Merely for this sort of fun Hook used to pull off knoekers and bell handles, carry away tradesmen's signs, overturn the boxes of sleeping janitors and do other devilment until he had a roomful of household attachments and street ornaments.

One night Hook was passing a great house where there was a reception of the swellest of the swells. Dinner had just been announced. He said to the friend accompanying him: "John, I'm going in here to spend the evening. Call for me at 11 o'clock." The friend was horrified. Said he in protest, "You do not know these grand people, and you are not an invited guest." "That's all right. Call for me at 11." Knocking at the door, he gave his hat confidently to the lackey and was ushered upstairs. Entering the drawing-room, he affected at first to have discovered his mistake and poured such salutes of wit that the host and hostess actually pressed him to stay for dinner.

At 11 o'clock, when his friend called, not knowing whether he would find Hook at the reception or in the lockup, he was more than astonished on entering the drawing-room to see Hook seated at the piano delivering some extempore poetry to a bevy of the fairest women in the gathering. Perceiving the entrance of his friend, the practical joker, who had not hitherto divulged his name, arose and said: "I'm very much pleased with your fare. Your cellar's as good as your cook; My friends, Mr. Terry, the player, and I'm Mr. Theodore Hook." The King being present and full of enjoyment, took a great fancy to Mr. Hook, and immediately appointed him treasurer to the Island of Mauritius with a salary of $10,000 a year.

Stafford's Liniment!

Numerous testimonials have been received in reference to Stafford's Liniment. Below we publish a few of them: "I have used almost two bottles of your Liniment and I must say it is all you claim for it." "I have used your Liniment and have found it to be the best Liniment I ever used." "We have used your Liniment in our home and find that it is as represented." "I can highly recommend your 'Queen of Liniment.' My mother has been an invalid for two years; she praises it more than any other remedy she ever used." "We have used a great many bottles of your Liniment in our family, and are selling dozens. We find it the best, and everyone that uses it says the same." The above Testimonials are the exact words copied from a few of the letters which we have in our possession, and can be seen by calling at our Drug Store, Theatre Hill, St. John's.

That Delusive Surplus.

We have already drawn attention to the declaration of the Minister of Finance in his Budget Speech of 1912, that any general reduction in certain articles (clearly those in the Morris Manifesto) would stop the wheels of progress and lead to stagnation, and that he would not be responsible for advising a general reduction of taxation at the present time, and that whenever made it should be gradual in order not to dislocate our economic and industrial machinery.

This year he has assumed the responsibility for doing what he declared was inadvisable last year, and has further done it in a manner that he led us last year to believe would lead to dislocation of trade, if ever it should be done in the manner he has done it.

But the most remarkable feature of this extraordinary procedure is the fact that he put forward an estimate of a surplus of $290,000 after giving up the means of obtaining $400,000 for the revenue. In other words he asks folks to accept the argument that were the taxes on tea, sugar, and barrelled pork and beef kept on till June 30th, 1914, the surplus would be in the neighborhood of $600,000.

In other words, he wishes us to accept the position, that, had no change in the tariff been made, the surplus for the year ending June 30th, 1914, would have been roughly as great as the surpluses for the years ending June 30th, 1911, 1912 and 1913 added together.

Or, as we pointed out yesterday, had the reductions been made three years ago, with the same scale of expenditure, the country would have been saddled with a deficit three years in succession.

How deceptive and delusive the prospective surplus for 1914 is, may be gathered from the gross contradiction which appears in the Budget Speech of the Minister of Finance, delivered on Monday last.

In his demonstration how the revenue for the year ending June 30th, 1914, was to exceed by far all former bounds, he declared that the wages generally of workers would go up $225,000 and that one-third of this increase would come back to the revenue.

Among those who were to contribute one-third of their earnings to the revenue during the year ending June 30th, 1914, he specially enumerated those who would be engaged in the construction of the railways.

This was the tenor of the Finance Minister's argument when he wanted to show that next year the Revenue would be so great, without the taxation of tea, sugar, pork and beef, that there would be a thumping surplus of a quarter of a million dollars.

Strangely, however, he forgot this argument a few minutes later and in trying to depreciate the effect of the Railway Loan in buoying up the revenue the past three years, he stated that during the past three years the men engaged in railway construction had only contributed one-tenth of the money they made, on this work to the revenue.

This glaring contradiction will be found in the third column of the report of the Budget Speech as reported officially in the "Evening Herald" last night. No more, signal illustration could be given of the unsoundness of his argument. It shows that the surplus in question is not only thin as air, but that it is a delusion and a snare, and the Budget Speech will take its place alongside Morris's railway financial statement, in which Morris led the country to believe that he was going to complete the branch railways in the contract of 1910 for some $4,000,000.

Fishermen Indignant.

We learn that ninety men came up to Carbonear yesterday from Bay de Verde District, and on arrival to connect with the train were disappointed to find that the agent there would detain the train long enough to check their baggage, they were left behind. To say that they were disgusted is to put the case mildly, they were infuriated, and Judge Penney telegraphed to Hon. J. C. Crosbie, who wired back to see to them and have them fed. The men arrived by last night's train in the city and go by the Lintrose to Sydney to work there. They roundly denounced the carelessness and neglect of the Government and its members and say that they will be heard from next fall.

The annual tea and Concert under the auspices of Onward Lodge was held last night at Victoria Hall, and proved to be a decided success. A large and appreciative audience greeted the performers, and Chairman Striving and his associates must have been well pleased with the results of their efforts to augment the funds of their Lodge. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to all who added so much to the evening's enjoyment by Mr. I. C. Morris.

HOUSE of ASSEMBLY

Yesterday's Sitting.

Petitions were presented yesterday by Mr. Moulton, Mr. Goodison and the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, for various utilities in their several districts.

Mr. Clift presented a petition from Emanuel Chalk and a number of others of Scissors Cove, asking for the inauguration of various public works and also one from the inhabitants of Shoe Cove, on the same subject. Both petitions were from the members of the Fishermen's Protective Association and were forwarded to him for presentation. He heartily supported the prayer of both. The Hon. Colonial Secretary (Mr. Watson), also presented a petition from Salmon Cove, Port de Grave, asking for $100 for a much needed public work there. He presented it on behalf of the Speaker, Hon. Mr. Warren.

The Bill to amend the Law relating to merchant shipping, was read a first time. The Bill amending the Customs Act, of 1898 and the Bill relating to Marine Docks, passed in Committee and were sent to the Upper House.

In Committee on Supply, the Hon. Minister of Finance (Mr. Cashin), tabled the additional estimates calling for $5,115, $5,000 of which he explained were under the head of the Resolutions passed a few days ago for affording assistance to sufferers from marine disasters; $960 for Pensions in the Customs Department, overlooked in the general estimates, and $15,000 for Education. For new lighthouses and maintenance of same $7,000 and for the Post Office $27,155. That included $10,000 for the second steamer in Green Bay, $17,000 for Labrador service and salaries for Labrador Postal service $755.

Mr. Kent pointed out that when the Estimates were being put through, he drew attention to the fact that the Auditor General had referred to the irregularity that a number of salaries had been increased, particularly in the Customs Department, that were not provided for in the estimates before the House, and was told by the Minister that they would be provided for in the additional estimates, but there was no provision for them in these estimates tabled to-day. He took it, therefore, that these increases were not intended to go beyond the present financial year, and that no provision would be made for them the coming year. He thought it most unfair to increase these salaries and make no provision for them. If it was the intention to continue them it was wrong to bring in additional estimates and make no provision for them. The estimates in that case were not a fair representation of the charges on the public exchequer. If not provided for in the original estimates, they should have appeared in the additional. The same applied to the Post Office, and he was informed these would appear in the additional estimates, but there was no such provision there. He had referred to other charges for other Departments but none of them appeared here. The estimates should have been completed before the House was asked to vote them. The Minister of Finance and Customs replied that the $2,000 for supernumeraries, tidewaiters, and out-port supernumeraries, covered the amount of salaries referred to by Mr. Kent. These were paid out of contingencies account and were continued to the present. They raised in amount and he didn't think it was necessary to bring down additional estimates for them. The expenses of the Post Office extension would be paid out of the surplus they looked for next year.

Mr. Kent. These salaries were to be paid out of the general vote for such the Minister declared, as he understood it that votes of $2,000 for supernumeraries was to meet amounts required that were not in the permanent pay list of the Government. These salaries were passed by the Executive Council and reported upon by the Auditor General were part of the fixed permanent civil list of the Colony. As regarded the Post Office, the Minister this year intends to have a surplus from which he can appropriate an amount sufficient to meet such expenditure. Then he (Mr. Kent) took it that the provision of this work was contingent upon having a sufficiently large surplus to cover such undertakings. In other words, the work could not be undertaken until then. If this were so the Minister should now be in a position to inform the House what the amount of the expenditures will be, and for the other public buildings to which he referred.

The Minister of Finance held that the Government were always pretty sure of their prophecies as regards prospective surpluses, and they would get that for the Post Office out of the surplus which he was sure they would have on June 30th next. He held that the surplus this year would be $150,000 if not $200,000. In voting the $5,000 for supernumeraries, they were following in the footsteps of their predecessors in office. There was no intention on the part of the Government to hide anything.

Mr. Kent hoped the Minister's anticipations as regarded a surplus would be realized, but he thought that the Committee should get an idea of what all those works would cost. He then asked what these works would be and was told that in addition to the Post Office there was the General Post Office repairs and repairs to buildings at Spaniard's Bay, Bay Roberts, Hr. Grace and Grand Falls.

Mr. Earle, here, brought the Government to task as to the conditions prevailing in the District of Fogo. Two years ago he had asked if a tidewater had been appointed at Fogo and was answered that no such appointment had been made. The man who is acting there is considered to be a supernumerary, and his salary was not at all up to the mark. He had no fault to find with the official there at present.

Mr. Roberts was pleased that the Government had acceded to the requests of those who forwarded petitions from Notre Dame Bay for an additional steamer there. He would like information as to her route, the ports at which she was to call, and if the members of the District were to be consulted as to those matters, or would the Government alone arrange these matters. A good deal depended upon the schedule to give general satisfaction, and he would like to be permitted to help the Government in these matters. He also complained that the salary of the postmaster at Twillingate had been $300 received about 10 years ago, and to-day he does five times as much work as before with no raise of salary. Representations were made as to this, but all to no purpose. The mail officer on the Clyde had an addition to his salary, his fares and worked about six months, the postmaster works 12 months, does five times as much as the other and gets the same salary. This, he considered very unfair.

The Premier said, any suggestion from Mr. Roberts, the Government would be glad to receive, and would promise them proper consideration. The Bill to amend the Law in connection with the Registry of Deeds, passed in Committee with an amendment suggested by the Opposition.

The House having gone into Committee on the Bill to amend the Education Act of 1903, the Premier referred to the deputation which recently waited on the Government to discuss educational matters generally. The Government outlined its policy as to continuation schools.

Mr. Kent felt sure that all would be as one on the subject of Education. It was not a mere controversial question. The consolidation of the Education Act was a matter of great necessity. Many changes and alterations had been made and it was now most difficult for superintendents, teachers and others to discover their duties and responsibilities, or what their rights were. He anticipated that this with other matters would be referred to a competent commission. He thought industrial and technical education did not receive the attention they deserve, and he thought in many ways technical education could be applied in this country. It could be applied to our fisheries, so that the younger generation could be brought up to a skilled and technical knowledge of every branch of the fisheries and their subsidiary industries, and in other countries large amounts were expended in this direction. Our people were possessed of more than ordinary intelligence and skill, and if they had the benefit of the training which could be imparted by experts of the world, wonderful results would be achieved. The same could be said of mining, farming and industries arising out of our forest resources. To apply technical education here might be expensive, but it could be done in a gradual way. The training of teachers was a fundamental matter in our educational system. He clearly showed the difficulty of enacting and enforcing a law relative to compulsory education and to get the best attendance at school.

the parents and guardians should be impressed with the sense of the duty they owe the children in compelling them to attend school. He emphasized the trouble of inspectors being compelled to pay their travelling expenses. He did not think the public required this of them. He hoped that the Government would be able to deal in a satisfactory manner with the recommendations of the deputation which waited on them. The Bill then passed in Committee.

The Medical and Municipal Bills went through Committee and in connection with the latter which permits the Council to place more than one lavatory in small houses, a tax on bowling allies, etc.

Mr. Kent referred to the question of absentee landlordism and pointed to the fact that great sums of money are being taken out of the country by people who owned property here, but many of whom had never set foot on our soil. By some misfortune he held these parties had never paid their proportionate share of taxation, which bears heavily upon our people and to make them share in the burden, as this amendment was, he held to be a step in the right direction. It was, however, pity that we had not some legislation that would make them pay much more to the upkeep of the city. He hoped that when the question of amending the Municipal Act would come up, that this subject of absentee landlordism would be fully gone into.

The Bill respecting survey of passenger steamers on inland waters, Legislative Council's amendments to Marine Disasters' Bill, and the Bills to incorporate the Dominion and Eastern Trust Companies, passed second reading.

The Speaker read a message from the Legislative Council that they had passed the Registration Supreme Court Money Bill, without amendment.

The House then adjourned until this afternoon.

Second Arrival

S. S. Adventure Arrives With 7,000 Seals—Ship Practically Disabled all the Spring and Leaky.

The S. S. Adventure, Capt. Kean, arrived back from the sealfishery at 7 o'clock this morning with a poor fare. She hauls for 7,000 seals, mostly young harps, but the catch was not pay for the outfitting of the ship for the voyage.

The Adventure left here March 13th, in company with the rest of the steel ships. After passing Cape St. Francis Capt. Kean steered a N.E. course and the next day arrived off the Punks and the next day arrived off the Punks ing about in search of the whitecoats. On March 16th she met with a mishap and as a result was crippled for the balance of the voyage. Her main steam pipe broke and although temporary repairs were made the ship could make but little headway in fact, none at all when in ice. On St. Patrick's Day she struck the seals with the Newfoundland, Nascopee and Florizel, but as the patch was pretty well cut up when she got there the Adventure only got 5,000 out of it. When the last tally was on board a storm came on and the ice began to break up. Capt. Kean sheltered in the heavy ice out of the gale and then went looking for old seals, of which 1,000 were secured. During the latter part of the voyage, owing to contact with heavy ice the ship got several plates loosened in the forehold and began to leak badly, the pumps having to be kept going to keep her free. At present the Adventure has quite a lot of water in No. 1 hold. The Adventure was in company with the Bellaventure and Bonaventure during the trip. The latter two ships are not doing well; they have about 10,000 seals each and their chances of getting more are none too bright. Capt. Kean reports the Eagle with 13,000; did not speak to any other steamers for about a week. On Monday passed Sagana and Eagle taking old seals about 70 miles east of Baccalieu. This is the smallest catch for the Adventure since she went to the ice-bergs first in 1906. She will commence to-morrow morning to discharge her seals at Job's premises after which she will be dry docked for repairs.

Sealing Notes.

Wireless From Florizel.

Mr. J. S. Munn had the following message this morning, sent last night, from Capt. J. Kean:

"Took only 100 seals to-day; since 4 p.m. gale, rain and fog; Newfoundland steamed N. W. this morning; saw Bonaventure at noon S. E. of us."

Wedding Bells.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the R. C. Cathedral, on the 24th March, when Mr. John Butler led to the altar Miss Josephine Kean, a well known and popular young lady of the East End. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. D. O'Callaghan. The bride looked charming in a dress of cream voile with picture hat to match and was assisted by Miss Hettie Butler, sister of the groom, who wore a pretty costume of cream serge and black picture hat; while the groom was attended by Mr. Thomas Kean, brother of the bride. After the ceremony the wedding party, which numbered 35, drove to the residence of the bride's brother where a sumptuous wedding supper was served and a pleasant evening spent.

A HARD TIME.

By a letter received recently from one of the crew of the Nellie Louise, we learn that that ship has a very trying experience on her voyage from Bahia bound to this port. It appears that on the 18th of February the rudder gave way and left the ship almost in an unmanageable condition. To quote the words of the letter:—"We have too about 6 p.m. on the 18th (Feb.) in lat. 31.00, long. 38.00, wind W. N. W. We never saw anything like the wind go far south, and at 11 a.m. on the 19th, while looking over the side we saw our rudder was adrift, with two pintals and upper gudgeon broken. We could do nothing but break down the wheel box, disconnect the wheel gear and let it go. About a minute after that part of the rudder floated by our side and drifted with us for quite a while. We were then left without anything to steer with, and you can hardly imagine a more helpless thing than a vessel at sea without a rudder. We then had to construct a jury rudder. To do so was no easy task, for non-success meant that we would have to abandon ship at first chance. We had it fixed, however, on the 21st. On the 2nd of March the temporary repairs gave way and we had to go over the same ground again, and the task was harder than on the former occasion but was accomplished ere dark set in, and on the 4th March we arrived here at Barbadoes, not much the worse for our trying experience." The people at Barbadoes never saw a ship come into port with such a rudder. We could use the wheel almost as well as with the original rudder."

We understand the vessel was docked and is being extensively repaired. She will likely bring a cargo of molasses to this port. Capt. Barke and his crew are well and wishes to be remembered to all their friends in St. John's.

The Turkish Govt. Surrenders

Special to Evening Telegram.
CONSTANTINOPLE, April 1.
The Turkish Government to-day declared that it unreservedly accepted the terms of peace, proposed by the European Powers. The terms are as follows: (1) The frontier of Turkey in Europe shall start from Enos following the course of the Maritza River, then that of the Euxini, and shall end at Midia. All territories west shall be ceded to the Allies, with the exception of Albania, the delimitation of which shall be fixed by the Powers; (2) The question of the Aegean Islands shall be settled by the Powers; (3) Turkey abandons all claims to Crete; (4) The Powers cannot favorably entertain any claim for indemnity, but will allow the Allies to participate in the discussions at Paris for an equitable settlement of their participation in the Ottoman debt and the financial charges of the districts handed over to them. On Friday last, Bulgaria notified her acceptance of the offer of mediation, but persisted in her demand for indemnity, and declined to agree to the suggested frontier, proposing as a substitute a line from Midia to Caus at the top of the Gallipoli Peninsula. The European Ambassadors in London have since been considering the situation, but have arrived at no definite conclusion.

The Ladies of the Congregational Aid Society will hold their last Social for the season on Thursday, April 3rd, commencing at 8 p.m. Tea and Entertainment as usual. Candy and Ice-Creams will be on sale during the evening. Admission, 30 cents.—mar29,ap1,2

Self-Playing Piano
BY H. L. RANN.

The self-playing piano is a musical instrument which was invented for the benefit of people who never learned to play on anything but the board of trade. Thousands of people who were obliged to cultivate corn while others were cultivating a musical taste now have the satisfaction of sitting down to a piano player and mauling long streaks of melody out of the Tannhauser overture, in the presence of fatigued guests who are too polite to attempt to escape.
Nobody knows why the man who deeded this deadly implement called it a self-playing device, inasmuch as it requires at least 32 horsepower to keep it from lying down and expiring with a deep sigh in the middle of the Moonlight sonata. A series of careful tests reveals the fact that it places a greater strain upon the leg muscles of the operator to drive a self-playing piano through the finale of the William Tell overture than it does to climb the Washington monument.
The average self-player consists of an upright piano equipped with a suction pump, which draws the music out of the interior and throws it around the room in large melodic hunks. This is accomplished by feeding a roll of pre-digested harmony into the machine and then working both feet up and down until the operator is seized with cramps and the audience with a nervous chill. Every once in a while the roll will get off the track and start a new piece which nobody is interested in, when the machine has to be backed up and placed on the rails again.

All player pianos are fitted with a handy arrangement known as the recoil, which helps people to forget the music by hiding it as fast as possible. After a man has pumped through a roll of music 400 feet long and is about to rub the kinks out of his right biceps, he is confronted by the necessity of speeding up the re-roll, by which time he is usually too exhausted to tackle anything for several minutes. There would be more demand for the self-playing piano if it consisted of nothing but the recoil and a speedometer.
To whom it may concern: This is to certify that I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT myself as well as prescribed it in my practice where a liniment was required and have never failed to get the desired effect.

Noiseless Gas Gun.
Remarkable Weapon Invented By a Hull Chemist.
Deadly properties are claimed for a remarkable machine gun invented by Mr. Ernest Welsh, Hull chemist. The gun, weighing about three hundred weight, is discharged by explosive gases, and it is claimed that it will send projectiles a distance of five miles, which will then ignite whatever they hit. The gun is not unlike a Maxim in appearance, and the mechanism consists in part of three generators which manufacture three distinct gases. In the stopper there is a small sponge saturated with a certain fluid, which also gives off a gas; whilst there is, further, a supply of oxygen and hydrogen inside the cylinder. The cylinder rests on a plate, and by the setting into motion of a small electric motor situate on the right hand side of the gun the gases are exploded, and the projectile is propelled through the muzzle. There is no report when the gun is fired. Mr. Welsh states that there is no recoil, and there is no pressure on the outside of the cylinder. All pressure is felt forward. The nature of the gases is a secret, which Mr. Welsh would not divulge, but he stated that the gun had been tested with satisfactory results to himself and all who witnessed the demonstration. He said: "It has taken me thirteen years to find out the different gases. The projectiles will ignite on water, and although I have made the stuff I have not found out as yet what will extinguish the flames they cause." When tests were made on wooden buildings, within 30 seconds of the projectiles striking the buildings, says the inventor, they were in flames and were quickly destroyed. While experimenting with the gun Mr. Welsh had a narrow escape. He had placed several grains of his secret explosive chemical compound in a test tube, and was putting it into an iron box, when an explosion occurred. Fortunately, the explosion was outward and not upward, and Mr. Welsh escaped with injuries to his face and right hand. He stated that he was misled as to the temperature he was working in. Mr. Welsh has suffered serious injury on previous occasions, once spending three weeks in the hospital as a result of an explosion. Mr. Welsh states that he has also perfected a shot for bringing down aeroplanes. He states that in using it it was not necessary to aim accurately at the machine, but simply to fire the projectile into the air so that it got within measurable distance of the aeroplane, and noxious gases were given off which would suffocate anybody within the area of their escape. Amongst other inventions Mr. Welsh has tried his hand at an aeroplane, has devised means for lighting rivers and at the time of the coal strike he announced the discovery of a chemical substitute for coal, which he offered to give for the benefit of poor people.

Morris's Election Kite.

An Invitation to Bankruptcy — A Stumbling Block to Progress.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Sir Edward Morris by his recent action in reducing the revenue by $400,000 has given the country another proof that he is pre-eminently a politician. The record of the past four years of Tory Government abounds with such examples of ill-balanced policy. Morris began his term of office with a spectacular attempt to line up the country behind him by extravagant and ill-timed expenditure of public money. Such was the branch railway policy. It was abortive and underdeveloped. Four million dollars were to suffice for construction work. Six have already been borrowed for the purpose and it is conceded that a further loan of two million dollars will have to be floated before the five branch lines can be finished. The Government press hailed the branch railroad as a masterpiece of statesmanship—a practical and well-considered attempt to supply a long-felt public need. The miscalculations made in estimating the length of the branches and the total cost thereof prove conclusively that the present Government plunged blindly into an expenditure that bids fair to amount to at least eight million dollars without first thoroughly counting the cost. In his public speeches, Sir E. P. Morris has persistently scored the late Liberal Administration as a "band of political apprentices." He has rolled the phrase under his tongue time and again even as a morsel of honey; he has attempted by spell-binding, by arrogant assertion, by vague charges to blind the electors to the fact that under the direction of Sir Robert Bond, the country enjoyed an unparalleled decade of sane, conservative, practical administration. But his dust-throwing has failed, and that right utterly, to blind our people to this fact; nor has it prevented them from recognising the glaring mistakes and mal-administration of the present administration of the "pretence" manner in which Sir E. P. Morris has guided the Ship of State.

APPEALS TO THE CROWD.
Practically all of Premier Morris's political acts may be characterised as political appeals to the crowd. Not one shows a vestige of statesmanship. The "Old Age Pension" Scheme, so called, bestows the handsome amount of ninety-six cents per week upon the toiler of the sea who has worn himself out as a producer of revenue for his country. It is merely a case of granting pauper relief with the voting disability removed. Why should not other indigent fishermen who have been deprived of their franchise for years because of the receipt of a few cents per week of Government relief money be also permitted their right of having a share in public affairs? What if misfortune or ill-health has dogged their footsteps and reduced them to poverty? Are they any the less men? The high-placed official, to whose salary the worn-out toiler contributed his mite every year, retires, is pensioned, held in high esteem and permitted to exercise all his privileges as a citizen. But the fisherman who is assisted by the Government in his disability is, perforce, disgraced and disenfranchised. Socialism or any other system that would right such a grievous wrong would be infinitely more Christian than the class system of to-day. As for the Morris pension doles, they make excellent vote-catch-friends in need to the Premier, et al., by attempting to cover up his miscalculations. But "it can't be done!" The 23 miles from Deer Lake only bring the railroad to the bottom of Bonne Bay and to reach the settlements the surveyors have had to take a route which adds on upwards of thirty miles, making the branch 60, instead of twenty-five, miles in length. It will take quite a number of surveys to reduce the length of the line from sixty to twenty-five miles. Of course the trouble could be fixed up by making this branch as elastic as Sir E. P.'s politics.

"THE GLAD HAND"
As with Districts, so with individuals. J. C. Crosbie immolated himself in last elections. He was well rewarded. Least there should be any misconception, he was officially dubbed "Honorable" and, being an energetic man, has "made good"—for J. C. Crosbie, that spar deal and the coastal contract show that the honorable John above everything loves home comforts and is not sparing the necessary feathers to make it easy. Likewise the Honorable Donald with the abbreviated memory. During the Morris mounting season these two "honorable" managed to secure feathers valued at $39,900 in the shape of a coastal contract for a company of which they are co-directors. Then there is the celebrated Anglo-Development Company, in connection with which Hon. Donald came very near shocking our recent and much-lamented Governor, Sir Ralph Champney's Williams.

Small wonder that these gentlemen; that the "News," "Herald," "Plandealet," et al. vote Morris "a jolly good fellow." But the intelligence of the country, the fishermen and laborers who value the independence of the island and long for a return to sane, wholesome, statesman-like administration, have been forced, by the record of the past four years, to the conclusion that, whatever value Morris may have had as head of a department, he is too much of a politician of the opportunist kind to be entrusted with the leadership of an administration.

CONDEMNED BY HIS OWN ACTS.
His revenue-reducing act has clinched the case against his party. For four years now the Government newspapers and orators have bragged almost unceasingly of mounting revenues. "Prosperity, prosperity" has been parroted by a hireling press and by self-interested politicians. But it does not seem to have occurred to the premier or his associates that the general public had any right to a share of this superabundance of good things, at least not till the year of a general election. Contracts were provided for the Rieds, for Crosbie, for Morrison; jobs old and new were assigned to a multitude of lesser fry, but the voter was left unconsidered until a campaign stared the Government in the face.

"Look at Morris' record for the past four years and tell us how any reasonable man could in view thereof refuse him support," was the appeal of the government to the people up to the present session of the Legislature. They were abundantly confident that the administration stood in the good graces of the people; had no doubt of the return of Morris to power; professed to believe that the whole country was behind the Premier and his party.

Sincerely yours,
H. M. MOSELL,
Bonne Bay, N.F., March 24th, 1913.

The Nickel Crowded Again.
There was much regret last evening that "Vanity Fair" could not be repeated, but the condition of the film was such that it could not be satisfactorily shown, and rather than have constant interruptions, Mr. Kieley decided not to put it on. The programme given was a highly interesting and amusing one. Nemesis is a great story, that is often heard of in high life. The principal character is impersonated by the world renowned actor Maurice Costello, and he is ably assisted by Rose Tapley. It is a drama that all should endeavor to see. There are four comic pictures, each a screacher. Misses Gardner and Guerin were in splendid form again last night and sang to delighted audiences.

New Concrete Building
As already intimated in the Telegram, the new locomotive shops will be built of reinforced concrete during the summer. The temporary erection is finished and is covered outside with roofing felt and the work of installing the machinery has begun. The engines are not as badly damaged as it was at first thought, and can be put in good order after a while though some engines must be imported for the line.

Dear Sirs.—Nearly one year ago I had my first order of "Mathieu's Syrup" from you. It was not known in this country, and I gave samples to several families whom I knew would use it. After a few weeks I began to have a call for it, and sales have increased wonderfully since. I have not the least doubt but that it will soon be the best selling remedy for coughs, colds, etc., on the market. In my store here sales are good and our people ask for it. Several stores in this country now keep it in stock and report sales increasing. I have bought from you since August 16th, 1907, 4 Gross and have only three dozen on hand at this date, and which I am holding for retail trade in my store.
Yours truly,

Picnic Party at Carbonear

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—We are a long suffering people in this District. When the last election was on we were told to elect the right man, the man with "backbone" who would make the "crooked places" straight and the "rough places" smooth. Well, sir, we elected this man who made us all the promises and now we are within a few months of another election and surely our member has had all the chances any man could wish to even up matters, but so far he has done nothing! but make "crooked" things more "tortuous."

Every job in this District was promised to several voters, if they would only work for the party and get the votes of their families and then keep quiet long enough to clear the way for their appointment. Some of the old fellows had the fight of their lives to get their little jobs and were in open revolt before the supporters of the Liberal Government were sacked, but a good many others have never seen their appointments and are still waiting—not for their jobs now, no, but for another election.

Our Customs Collector has been dead now quite long enough to have had his successor appointed, but what do we find? An old gentleman, apparently past the allotted span, who has held a position as Tidewater at St. John's, trying to keep the office going all winter, and with the help of our "virtue" railway tidewater has done so. No one expects a wornout man, who should be living upon his pension and who never expected to come to such an onerous and responsible position, "to be right up to date" and it is a crying shame to impose such duties and responsibilities upon him. Goodness knows there are aspirants enough for this position for the "Member" to choose his man and have him gazetted. Now and again the name of some individual is thrown out as likely to be appointed soon, just a bluff to see how such would take with the member's "bosses." A man who has been a fisherman and who has been better days, I am told is looking for this job. Why not appoint him? It is said a big, hard "tradesman" is to get the job, however. Put up someone and make a show at decency, Mr. Member.

We also have the Post Master's position filled by one of the train malmen—he is not a fire sufferer. Our postmaster has been sick for a considerable time and rumour says he is not likely to go back to the position again. Surely if this efficient official is seriously ill, while he is not a young man, there can be objection to giving him a pension and appointing a smart young man.

The present relieving officer is quite competent. Why not appoint him? The several individuals who are entrusted with managing the Carbonear Water Co. have, we are led to understand, an official upon their hands who causes them some worry, and either through incompetency or disregard for the responsibility attached to his position the service is rotten and most annoying. Although this is a "vital" public utility still a condition of things exists which should not be tolerated in this age.

Mr. Editor, while the adherents of the present Government in this District at the last General Election only outnumbered the Liberals by a mere few votes the "Bosses" seem to have the idea that they can handle our affairs as they please and that the most flagrant abuse of our District monies and services can be carried on with impunity. However, sir, the day of reckoning is at hand and when the "Little Crabs" of these "bosses" are shown up the electors will see why their wishes were flouted while "fat" fees were gathered by the thousands of dollars.

Our roads, sir, are a model of neglect, and how can they be otherwise, while the member distributes the grants in sops to his clients who make a "kick" and occasionally he sends an order to a few men nominally termed a Road Board, but who have never had the monies to handle which were granted for our Roads. Who gets the Commissions?

We understand this is a feature of the Morris Government which Mr. Coaker aptly terms the family grant. We are supposed to have an Agricultural Society in this District, and this society took over the P.P.'s headquarters and have been keeping those rooms open with a janitor to look after them. Now what in the name of common sense has the fostering of agriculture to do with a few party leasers to while away their evenings? How much of the grant is spent in this way? The "blind" voters know that this is only providing a place for the party leasers to plan their work, and I hear the Members has a private room next to the one this misnamed society uses. What an abortion! How long will this thing go on until we get a chance to make our X again.

The P. P. Candidate used to take special delight in stating the Liberal candidate had no "back bone" but I'll say if the skin of the present member can stand the revelations some "members of his last committee" will make at the next nomination, then it will be thicker than that of the Highland Bulls or Sheland Ponties, which were brought along to improve our stock? In the name of agriculture. Please excuse the mistakes. It is the best I can do and I don't write often to the press.

YOUNG VOTER.

Funeral of the Late Mr. Ribaltier DesIsles.

Numerous foreign consuls and representatives of the French colony in Montreal attended the funeral of the late Mr. C. Ribaltier des Isles, held yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, from his residence, 156 St. Luke St., to Cote des Neiges Cemetery, where a service was conducted.

The chief mourners were: Madame des Isles, widow; Mlle. M. des Isles, daughter; and Mr. Robert Aylwyn Bradley, of Quebec, nephew of Madame des Isles; while among those present at the service were Mr. Renaud, vice-consul of France in this city; Mr. Garciay Cruz, Spanish consul; Judge Conroy of St. John's, Nfld.; Mr. du Chaatel de Montroque; Dr. J. G. McArthur and Dr. F. J. Hackett. Wreaths were sent by relatives and many personal friends, also by the Union National, and the French and Spanish consulates; while messages of condolence poured in from many points in the United States, Eastern Canada, and Newfoundland.—Montreal Witness, March 22.

M. Tiberit Cim published in La Revue de Paris an amusing series of "howlers perpetrated, not by school-boys, but by the great panjandrums of French literature. It appears that hardly one of the great men in the pantheon of nodding Homers escapes. "Throughout the day torrents of rain poured down, and twenty thousand Austrians bit the dust!"

The weighty and erudite lawyer, M. Troplong, proclaims in one of his somber tomes that "In the midst of many crumbling institutions that of property stands erect on its feet, seated upon Justice!"

The pen of the famous critic, Franckauce Sarcey, had its frequent lapses. "On his helmet waves a missing plume!" and "In the tones of Mlle. Ugalde one recognizes her mother's familiar hand!" for example.

M. Tousseneil, journalist, naturalist and historian, has a sentence, no doubt, of profound ethnographical interest which might perhaps have been phrased otherwise: "The English and Russian nations, the two greatest powers in the world, are precisely those in which the man makes the greatest efforts to resemble the woman—the Englishman by shaving himself daily, the Russian by puffing out his chest!"

Superior Merit Alone

Can win the approbation of those accustomed to the luxuries of life. Their approval is not lightly given. The unstinted praise accorded OLD HOME TEA by tea-drinkers of this class clearly proves its vast superiority.

Made from the finest, purest and most carefully selected teas, OLD HOME is precisely what a perfect tea should be—full flavored, rich and exquisitely mild.

SHOES

YOUNG MEN.

We have a Shoe that is a great favorite with Young Men who are smart dressers, and who want all the style kinks that can be worked into a Shoe.

Our TOURIST $3.50 Shoe.

This is the Shoe that fills the Young Man's fancy to the letter.

Made on lasts that are correct but extreme in style.

Straight or swing. Extension soles, narrow toes and military heels.

Blucher and lace cut. Choice leathers.

All sizes and widths. Not high priced, when we say $3.50.

Many young men have already found out, and others are finding out, that this is the store for swell Shoes. If a Shoe is here, it's right.
