The Countess of Landon.

CHAPTER XVII.

Half an hour before this, a post-chaise was drawn up to the door of the inn in the town near camp. The horses were fagged and panting, the postilion tired and cross, and he swore as he got off his horse and eyed it and its fellow for a moment or two before he went to the carriage window.

"Beg pardon, sir," he said to some one inside, "but my boss is clean beat."

The door opened, and Seymour stepped out. He looked as tired as the postilion, and sullen and ill-tempered into the bargain.

"What place is this?" he asked.

"Crosby," said the man. "If we are to go on any further to-night, I must have a change of horses, sir."

"Can we get them here?" asked Seymour.

The postilion nodded reluctantly as he thought of the comfortable kitchen and the plentiful supper that awaited him if his passengers would only stop.

Seymour went to the carriage.

"Will you stop the night here, mother?" he asked.

The countess was leaning back, her eyes closed, holding Irene's hand. She sat up and looked at Seymour, and beyond him at the setting sun.

"Can we not go on?" she said in a low, strained voice.

"We can go on to doomsday, or the end of the world, if you wish it," he said, with ill-repressed irritation. "But the question is, whether you are strong enough to endure even another hour's journey."

"I am quite strong," said the countess. "It is Irene."

Irene pressed her hand.

"Do not think of me, dear," she said in a low voice. "I would rather go on, if you are sure you can bear it."

The countess thought a moment.

"We will go on," she said, resolutely. "I can not rest. Besides, we may miss them again."

"I think that very likely," said Seymour, as he helped them to alight.

Both the countess and Irene looked pale and wear; but there was in each of their faces and shining in their eyes the look of proud unbelief with which they had met Seymour's assertion of Royce's degradation.

The countess drew her fur cloak round her and looked up at the sky. "When and how will this end?" she murmured.

Irene caught the words and pressed her hand.

"Do not be afraid, dear," she whispered, encouragingly. "If we find him, it will be to prove that the story is a lie. With every mile we have come my trust in him has grown stronger. You will see!"

Seymour came up to them.

"It will take half an hour to change horses," he said. "The man must have some rest. We had better go into the house."

He led them in, and the landlord escorted them to the best room, and brought the wine Seymour had ordered.

"Ask him," said the countess in a low voice.

Seymour nodded, and in a careless tone made some remark about the weather.

"An out-of-the-way place, this," he said. "I suppose you have a great many tramps—and gypsies here?"

The landlord polished the table with his napkin.

"Now and again, sir," he said. "We lie a bit off the high-road, and don't get so much troubled as some. But, ah, yes! there's tramps and gypsies about, especially at this time of the year. There was a camp in the woods the other day. Maybe it's there still, very like, sir."

Seymour waited until he had gone, then he turned to the countess.

"This may be the part of the gang to which Royce belongs," he said.

Irene's face flushed.

"Why should you say that?" she said, her eyes meeting his with proud steadfastness.

He shrugged his shoulders and drank some wine before replying; then, with a smile, he said:

"Your faith does you infinite credit, my dear Irene. Not even the description of the strange gentleman who, the gypsies we caught up after Markham Fair told us had joined them, appears to shake your conviction that I have concocted this story. That part of the gang which had left the main body traveled in this direction, and the landlord tells us that gypsies are encamped near here. If we do not find Royce among them, I shall be very much mistaken."

"You did not find him before; you will not find him now," she said, proudly.

"Time will prove," he said. "Will you not have some wine?"

She declined with a motion of her hand, and, going to the window, gazed out upon the long stretch of road. The countess sat silent and motionless, and Seymour, having half finished the bottle, went out to hurry up the hostler.

If he had been asked whether he wished to find Royce or not, he would have been puzzled to answer. Gambler-like, he was going on with the hope that, if Royce should be found, it should be under such circumstances as would disgust and alienate Irene from him forever. They might find Royce among a set of vagabonds and poachers—the center of a scene which would fill Irene with horror.

The sullen post-boy announced that the horses were ready, and escorted by the obsequious landlord, the countess and Irene re-entered the carriage, followed by Seymour.

Scarcely a word was spoken as the fresh horses dashed along the road; but Irene's hand held the countess's as before, and every now and then she drew the fur cloak round the elder woman or raised her hand to her lips.

They had been traveling for days. By the time they had reached Markham the gypsies had left the place, and Seymour had hit upon the track of the largest part of the tribe, and so missed Royce. But by diligent inquiry he had learned that strange gentleman had joined the tribe, and that he had gone south with a detachment. Thereupon Seymour had tried to induce his mother and Irene to return to Monk Towers and leave him to pursue the trail; but the countess had announced her resolution to go on; and for three days they had followed the track, sometimes being led astray by ignorant directions, and at others hitting upon it by mere chance as to right.

As the horses tore along, the road grew still more lonely. Dark woods shadowed it on either side, woods through which the moonlight found its way with difficulty, and Seymour, anxious as he was to expose Royce, swore over his cigar at the wild chase.

After covering about four miles they came to the cross-road, and Seymour called to the postilion to stop, while he got down and examined the sign-post.

"The next town is five miles off," he said to the countess. "This moon doesn't last long. Had we not better go on to the town?"

"As you please," she said, as if awakening from a dream.

He was mounting to the box again when his keen eyes caught the light of a fire gleaming in the wood to the left.

"Keep the horses still a minute," he said to the postilion, and he walked quickly into the darkness. In scarcely more than a minute he came back, and going to the carriage window, said in a loud tone of conviction:

"There is a gypsy camp here. Shall we—"

The countess inclined her head.

"If you think it any use," she said, wearily.

The postilion guided the horses on to the narrow track through the trees, and the carriage proceeded almost noiselessly over the turf and bracken.

Suddenly Seymour signed to the postilion to stop, and leaped from the box.

They had pulled up within sight of the camp-fire. Seymour went stealthily forward a few yards and looked about him.

Madge was sitting by the fire; at full length beside her, with her head upon Madge's knee, was Lottie, asleep. Seymour went back to the carriage.

"Come!" he said in a whisper. "If we do not find him, we may hear of him here."

The countess and Irene got out, and the three walked slowly toward the fire.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Gypsies are said to sleep, like dogs, with one eye open. Long before they had reached her, Lottie heard them, and she sprung to her feet and peered into the darkness.

"What is it, Lottie?" asked Madge, who thought it was Royce.

"It's gentry," said Lottie in a hushed voice. "Oh, my, what furs. They're swells, Madge. What can they be doing here?" and she stood stock still, her unkempt hair falling over her face, her big eyes opened to their fullest extent.

"Come back, Lottie!" said Madge in a low voice; but Lottie seemed incapable of motion, and stood staring like a thing of wood or stone at the gentry, and especially at the fur cloak.

The three figures approached the camp-fire, and then Madge rose.

She had been in heaven's love-land a moment before, and there was a startled look in her dark, lovely eyes.

Her first thought was that the visitors were the lord of the manor, or the neighboring squire and his friends, for sometimes the gentry, out of curiosity, condescended to visit the gypsy camp.

She stood with her hands folded, her eyes downcast, and Seymour came forward with a mingled air of patronage and command.

"You are gypsies, I suppose?" he said. Then as the fire happened to glare up and throw Madge's face into relief, he stopped short, and involuntarily touched his hat; for the meekest natures are awed by purity and loveliness when they are combined, and there was something in the calm face, the graceful bearing of Madge, which extorted his respect.

"We are gypsies—yes," she said; and the musical, low-pitched voice surprised and somewhat embarrassed Seymour.

"So I thought," he said. "Are you of the"—he was going to say "gang," but said "tribe" instead—"tribe of Lee?"

"We are of the tribe of Lee," said Madge.

At this moment the countess and Irene drew nearer, and at sight of Madge, Irene's hand closed on the countess's arm.

"Oh, look, madame!" she whispered. "How lovely!"

OXO CUBES save the Housekeeping Money

Oxo Cubes are more than the easy way of cooking.

They are the economical way.

They lend zest and flavor to warmed-up dishes, and by stimulating the system, enable you to obtain extra nourishment out of the other foods you buy.

And there is another gain besides the monetary one—the family gain in health and strength that follows Oxo cooking. By getting more nourishment from your foods, you and those around you grow rapidly in strength and energy.

Put Oxo Cubes on your order list to-day. After a test you will never want to cook without them.

In tins of 4, 10, 50 and 100 cubes.

To Kiss or Not to Kiss

"We are all getting so learned and cautious," contends a scientist, "that even kissing will soon be abolished."

Can you imagine for a single minute that the sad state of things will really come to pass?

"Reason, as the years roll on, will surely overcome emotion," argues the scientist. "Sweethearts will be on the alert to guard against germs."

Will they? The merry and happy old world has revolved for a few thousand years while youths and maidens have made love. And all this time erudite men with snow-white beards have issued their solemn warnings and propounded their theories and philosophies concerning the danger of kissing as we kiss to-day, says Isabel Elsom, a charming stage and screen actress.

In spite of it all sweethearts kissed; and they will continue until this globe cools down millions of years hence.

"The victims of Cupid will not, in the course of time, salute each other lip to lip," the scientist remarks, "they will probably adopt a handshake."

Probably not. Just fancy getting the girl you adore under the mistletoe at Christmas, perhaps after waiting months and months, and then, as advised by our intellectual friend, merely taking her tiny hand in yours and shaking it! Something would be sadly lacking. It would be as bad as taking strawberries without cream, or polyp without its luscious jam.

"Another method of osculation for amorous folks," adds the scientific one, "is for the young man, like the Roman soldiers of old, to grip the girl's forearm."

A Dainty Toilet Accessory.

To use THREE FLOWERS, is a mark of refinement. At all drug and department stores.

This is really too bad! Why, only attempting such a scientific method of saluting the lass you love would put even an Adonis out of favor. The modern girl, like all the girls of all the yesterdays, has the sense and instinct to realize that lips are made for kissing. If you venture to adopt these "hygienic" methods she may say something about a "quiet home," but not in allusion to the little love-nest you dreamed that she might share with you.

How many sweethearts care one jot for "reason"? They never did and never will. And is it right that they should? Too much reason is like German competition—a most inconvenient thing. If we wish to get the best out of life we mustn't be too reasonable out of business hours. If we made reason our be-all and end-all, what frightful bores we'd be! Reason is troublesome enough in our hobbies and sports, but when it comes to love-making, well—

Human nature is human nature all the world over, and it's doubtful if any so-called "progressive" movement will affect Cupid's methods one iota—any more than his "will stop the earth revolving on its axis."

Scientists of the hygienic school can recommend various substitutes for the kiss—shaking hands, gripping forearms, rubbing noses or patting heads. But—Why the very idea is laughable. And, in the far-off days, when they fell in love, it's a million to one the girl of their heart was not put off; no—not even by those terrible germs!

THE GROWLER.

I said, "What ho," to Richard Roe, "this is a good old earth; wherever I look I see, gadzook, some cause for joy and mirth. All kinds of grief are passing brief, whatever is right; a o w congress whacks the income tax, and makes our burden light." "It's always so," said Richard Roe, "with men who have the price; the skies are blue, their cars are new, and everything is nice. You walk abroad and have a wad to buy what you desire, a mustache cup, a pointer pup, a rubber plated tire. You have the dough," said Richard Roe, "and everything is grand, the brasses sweet are good as wheat, birds sing to beat the band. But I am broke; I'd like to smoke, but can't afford cigars; my tired feet burn; in vain I yearn for rides in motor cars. I am in debt, and balliffs get like hounds upon my trail, they bring their writs and throw their fits and rag me for the kale. My wife has chills; to buy her pills I soaked my Sunday casque; I, too, am sick, but I must stick to this my dreary task. So go and blow," said Richard Roe, "your unearned increment, and do not josh with sunshine tosh a tired and heart-sick gent." It seems to me I seldom see a man who's full of bliss; whenever I state that life is great, some fellow starts to hiss.

Candid Chats Concerning Crisco

Crisco was not made as a substitute for lard, but as something better. Something that would not only accomplish as much in cooking, but a great deal more. Modern women know that it has been an unequalled success, and to-day nearly all good cooks prefer to use Crisco—the pure vegetable shortening.

If you have missed any of the previous ads, look up the back papers since April 1st.

Two Nfld. Sailors Washed Overboard From "Electric Flash"

Nansen to Undertake a Polar Flight -- 'Varsity Boat Race Takes Place To-day -- 10 Persons Injured in C.P.R. Crash.

NANSEN TO FLY TO POLE.

MOSCOW, April 4. It is reported that Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, the famous Norwegian explorer, has consented to undertake, with the Russian airman Rossinsky, a flight to the North Pole. According to the latter, while approving the plan, Dr. Nansen has called that he will shortly arrive here to discuss full details of the expedition.

TWO NEWFOUNDLANDERS SWEEP OVERBOARD.

GLOUCESTER, April 4. With her Canadian crew at half mast, the former Gloucester fishing schooner, Electric Flash, was registered at Fortune Bay, Nfld., on Thursday last evening, reporting the loss of two of her crew on Thursday last while the craft was off Shelbourne, bound to Gloucester, with a cargo of salt herring. Captain Charles Austoy to-day told the tale of horror, death, and near destruction, as he entered the craft at the customs. The schooner, after being frozen in the ice at Bay of Islands all the winter, managed to work clear and sailed for Gloucester on March 25th, last. On Thursday morning, while the captain and crew were below, eating breakfast, George Drake, mate, Frank Lynch and John Rombull were on deck. The weather was dirty; the craft was under jumbo, only, hove to in a bucking wind. In trying to get her over, Drake, who had the wheel, parted the peak of the jumbo and the sail fluttered helplessly in the wind. The foresail was run up; but before this was accomplished the mountainous sea swept the craft from stem to stern; sent her staggering, and washed Drake and Lynch over the side. The cabin was filled with water, and the stern of the craft opened in seams. Buckets were employed in taking the water out of the cabin, and pumps were worked to keep the craft from filling. Drake was 21 years old, single, and a native of Miller's passage, Fortune Bay. Lynch was 18, single, and a native of Carling, Newfoundland.

CANADIAN POSTAL STRIKE.

TORONTO, April 4. Postal employees in Ontario are united in favor of the proposed strike, according to G. R. Jackson, chairman of the Postal Employees, who announced yesterday the result of the vote taken throughout the province. That result, he said, indicated the Ontario was solid for the strike. A telegram received yesterday from T. J. Palletter, head of the Railway Mail Clerks of Quebec, read as follows: "Quebec solid as a rock, no difficulties arising anywhere."

BULLETS TO SETTLE MINE DISPUTE.

PINVILLE, Ky., April 4. Labour trouble, brewing for weeks at the mines of the Liberty Coal and Coke Company on Straight Creek, has come to a head to-day. One Lucas was killed and Edward L. Haman was wounded, victims of a fusillade of bullets directed from the mountain side late yesterday, by hired riflemen. The men, both from Virginia, were among the Company's new union employees. It is the second time recently, according to the Company's officials, that their men have been subjected to shooting. This time from the mountain side was the combination of a series of changes in operation of the mines.

COLLISION ON THE C.P.R.

MONTREAL, April 4. Ten persons were injured, one of them seriously, when a Canadian Pacific Railway through passenger train from St. John to the city, crashed into a work train on the C.P.R. tracks, two miles east of St. John, at 1:21 this morning. The victims included six passengers, an engineer, who was the one seriously hurt, and the cook on the passenger train. The engineer on the latter train leaped clear just before the crash and escaped without a scratch.

DISGRUNTLED HARVESTERS LOOK FOR WORK.

OTTAWA, April 4. Disbandment of the former British harvesters who walked from Toronto to Ottawa, is imminent. Finding it impossible to obtain work through the Employment Bureau, the hikers split into small parties this morning and individually looked for jobs.

MORE PROPAGANDA.

MONTREAL, April 4. "Purely a political affair" was the characterization given by Richard Squires, former Liberal member of Newfoundland, to the recent investigation of his administration by Government Commission. S. Richard, who arrived here to-day and will leave to-morrow for Toronto, flatly denied all charges of graft made against him and members of his party. He added that though there was no recourse to the courts, he would ask for the Commissioner's report to be tabled when the Newfoundland Legislature met on April 2nd, and "I look confidently for complete vindication during the debate that will follow. Moreover I am certain that as soon as I can get to the country I will lead the Liberals at the polls and will regain my former position. Outside of political circles, Newfoundland was only mildly interested in the graft charges," Sir Richard declared.

MONTREAL POLICE HAVE BANDITS IN THE NET.

MONTREAL, April 4. Proof that the two men, held by the police as suspects, were implicated in the attack on the Bank of Hochelaga collection car last Tuesday, when the Bank chauffeur was killed, one bandit slain, and $142,238 stolen, is understood to have been secured by detectives who to-day detained four men in connection with the case bringing the total in the cells to nine men and two women.

"Hearts of the World"

A LOVE STORY OF FRANCE.

"The sweetest love" story ever told is the description given to David Mark Griffith's latest spectacle, "Hearts of the World," to be seen at the Star Movie last week.

When it is recalled that Mr. Griffith is the man who gave playwrights "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance" and other tremendous productions so far unparalleled in the annals of the screen, it is a matter of interest to note that "Hearts of the World," while produced in France amid the din and devastation of the recent war, is after all not a war play but a wholesome romance wherein war figures merely as the background. "The story of a village," the program calls it. And again it is referred to as "an old-fashioned play with a new fashioned theme."

All of these facts are interesting to Griffith enthusiasts for the reason that any producer who could spend eighteen months in France during the very thickest of the fighting and bring back to America a production not engulphed by blood and horror, proves himself an artist, a genius big enough not to yield to the temptation to reproduce the war, but rather to tell a simple story about the people to whom war came. Mr. Griffith has brought back to America a story setting forth all the beauty of France, the music of her moonlight, the perfume of her flowers, the light-laughter and small troubles of her people, the charms of the old walls and the picturesque roads over which Caesar marched to conquest and where Henry of Navarre whispered love into the ears of his sweethearts.

The coming of peace makes all the more attractive this latest of the Griffith masterpieces, for from all accounts it is as great a history of the world struggle as all the war books combined, visualizing the conflict in a clear, understandable way; telling of the hopes and fears of the people rather than showing the progress of the war as a struggle.

A large symphony orchestra will accompany the showing of "Hearts of the World" the music having been specially arranged to suit every scene and action throughout the production.

Twenty Years of Successful Automobile Building

January 28 Buick celebrates its twentieth birthday.

Proud as Buick is of its growth within the short space of two decades, it is not in its vast organization that Buick takes its greatest pride. Rather it is in what these attainments indicate.

Buick's position of leadership has been achieved solely by the accomplishments of Buick cars in the hands of more than a million owners. In their dependable performance, in their satisfying comfort, and in their year by year fulfillment of every demand of motoring, Buick cars have won the place they occupy.

From the rich background of experience—with all of its unequalled manufacturing facilities—and inspired by a deep sense of personal obligation to Buick friends, owners and the general public—Buick will seek ever to maintain on an even higher level the confidence of the public which it now enjoys.

When better automobiles are built, Buick will build them

Trepassey Notes

Forty young men from this place will leave by S.S. Walker next week for New York, Boston and other parts of the United States to seek employment. The fact that those who left here last year for the United States have been able to send their passage money to practically all those who are now going to seek their living in the land of the Stars and Stripes, where remunerative employment is assured is an evidence that the fishery will be practically abandoned the coming summer.

The glowing report from those working at New York and Boston who left here a year ago is a strong incentive to all young fishermen to give up a calling which with high prices charged for fishery supplies make it an impossibility to continue fishing, and valuable traps, fishing boats and rooms will be left to rot.

We learn that sixty more intend leaving Salmonier and men who have followed the fishery for a lifetime are now giving it up and emigrating to the United States, some of them taking their families with the intention of making their homes there in future.

We wish them success and prosperity under the star spangled banner.—COR.

Pimples Disappear

"You don't need mercury, potash or any other strong mineral to cure pimples caused by poor blood. Take Extract of Roots—druggists call it "Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup"—and your skin will clear up as fresh as a baby's. It will sweeten your stomach and regulate your bowels." Get the genuine.

At drug stores.

Unique Wall Decoration

The Pen and Pencil Club of Providence, R.I., an organization composed of the newspaper writers and artists of the city, has adopted an unique decoration scheme for its quarters. The walls have been papered with first-page matrices of the leading dailies of the world. These, coated with transparent varnish, add to the journalistic atmosphere of the rooms. Among the newspapers represented is The Evening Telegram, which shows up prominently among such journals as The London Times, Manchester Guardian, Melbourne Argus, Toronto Globe, Allahabad Pioneer, Japan Advertiser and the leading American dailies. One of the most unique specimens is a "mat" from an Icelandic paper with an unpronounced name.

More of the Infliction

We can easily understand that the comments on the Walker Report which have appeared in the Telegram have been an infliction upon the Advocate. The truth, when it has to be forced upon those who shut their eyes to it, is often painful, but the fact that they acknowledged the effect is a hopeful sign and may in time have beneficial results. Medicines for serious afflictions are often unpleasant to the taste, and when they have to be administered to children are usually disguised in some way or another or are followed by something that they like. We have treated the Advocate as an adult and omitted the sugar coating or the spoonful of jam, and consequently it has wailed and lamented. Apparently we were wrong in concluding that it had grown up, and should have been more considerate.

In the attempts made to belittle the Walker Report or to stifle it, every conceivable expedient is adopted. The whole thing is politics, they say, and the only reason why the Government have been pressed to carry out their duty is because it is hoped the Warren Administration will be disrupted. Fortunately the Newfoundland people are fully aware of the motives which underlie these tactics. Thanks to the section of the press which stands for decency and honesty in public life, full publicity was given to the proceedings of the Enquiry and everyone has been enabled to read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest the history of the last five years and to draw his own conclusions. There is little likelihood that they will be misled by a small cotery who they know have already deceived them, and when the opportunity arrives, their opinion will be expressed in an unmistakable manner.

In its reference to an article on the Fishing Industry which appeared in the Telegram on Wednesday, the Advocate stated that we "virtually admitted" that confidence in the Fisheries could not be restored by political agitation, and it prefaced the garbled quotation by a specious request for the sinking of differences and for co-operation.

What we demanded was first and foremost the restoration of public confidence, and we repeat that the affairs in this country will remain in a condition of stagnation until that has been accomplished. A coat of paint may conceal for a time the rust which has eaten into the plates of the ship's bottom, but it does not check the corrosive action, and sooner or later disaster is bound to come. We term the call for co-operation specious, because the attitude adopted by the Advocate has consistently been to make one section of the community antagonistic to the other and to denounce all and sundry who have declined to fall in line with its misleading principles. Even now when it poses as the strong arm of the Government, its insincerity is obvious, and the reliance which may be placed upon such support can be measured by applying the standard of self interest.

"Within Our Own Memories"

MR. C. E. HUNT, M.H.A. DELIVERED INTERESTING LECTURE.

A large number of members and friends of the T. A. Society were present at the T. A. Armoury last night and enjoyed an excellent lecture delivered by Mr. C. E. Hunt, M.H.A. Mr. J. J. Murphy, Vice-President of the Society introduced the lecturer, who had taken for his subject "Within our own memories." The lecturer explained that what he would speak on had happened within the past thirty years, and in the space of an hour and ten minutes he painted for his hearers a picture of many notable things that had happened within the time. He first spoke of events that had taken place in the T. A. Hall of the many plays and the excellent actors who had appeared there and who had made life so much happier than it is to-day. He referred to the Regatta meetings that were always held in the hall, and of the men connected with it, some of whom were no longer in our midst, who had done so much for the happiness of others. He next turned to world conditions within that period and briefly discussed the world history of the years and the outstanding men, who had performed deeds of merit. Following on he spoke of what had happened in Newfoundland, and of the leaders who had lived "within our own memories." The lecturer then came down to St. John's and in a very interesting manner he reviewed the days gone by and garnered a harvest of interest from the memories of the years. In concluding, Mr. Hunt held out every hope that in the near future, conditions generally would improve and that this country with its great resources and possibilities would be able to give to every one of its people, the means to live comfortably. To do this, he said, required the earnest efforts of everyone; petty differences must be thrown aside and harmony prevailed. If this happened he had no doubt that we should soon see a return of that happiness which the country had "within our own memories."

At the conclusion of his address a vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. T. J. Rolls, seconded by Mr. R. J. Power, and carried by acclamation. The National Anthem concluded the evening's programme.

In reference to the matters complained of by the workmen at Deer Lake, the delegate Mr. J. Thompson had another interview with the Prime Minister yesterday. The matter has been taken up between the Government and the contractors and so far negotiations are proceeding satisfactorily.

Model of S. S. Neptune

A CLEVER PIECE OF CRAFTSMANSHIP.

A model of S.S. Neptune "burned down" in the main patch, placed on exhibition in the eastern window of the Martin-Royal Stores. Hardware today attracted much attention. The model, enclosed in a glass case, is the four months spare time of Ernest, son of John Maunder, tailor, and shows every detail of the arduous work of seal hunting as well as the equipment used. The ship is over two feet long and is made to scale of 1/8 inch to the foot. On the deck is shown the Avro aeroplane with which Roy Grandy located the patch. The tiny plane is fitted with skids and alongside are the pontoons used in open water. Ice conditions are shown with Plaster Paris. By a judicious use of red paint a most realistic representation of the slaughter is given. Each stage of the operation is given. One man is seen cutting, another is shown hauling, and another is shown cutting. The dangers of the work are not forgotten and one man is seen in a lake of water being pulled out by a companion. For neatness in finish and completeness in detail the model would be hard to beat. In congratulating Mr. Maunder on his work, we suggest that it be sent to the forthcoming British Empire Exhibition.

City Unemployment

OVER $200,000 EXPENDITURE RELIEF WORKS THIS WINTER.

This forenoon a representative of the unemployed called on the Prime Minister in reference to procuring further work in the city. During the past winter from 1800 to 1600 men were given employment in the rock sheds, and a total of about $200,000 has been expended. The work ceased last week. An agitation has been started to get relief works going again and a meeting with this end in view was held on Thursday and a delegate appointed. Questioned as to what steps if any the Government is going to take, the Prime Minister refuses to make any statement other than that the money appropriated for relief in the city has been expended. Work will, we understand, be secured on the number for those suitable. The names of about 500 willing to work there have been enrolled by Mr. Byrne, employment officer, and about 200 of these will be sent forward as soon as possible.

Railway Commission

SUBMIT PLANS TO EXECUTIVE.

The Government Railway Commission held a meeting at noon yesterday in the office of Mr. Russell, General Manager of the Railway, when matters pertaining to the operating of the coastal boats under a new system, was discussed. The commission formulated plans and made the necessary preparations for the transferring of the steamers Prospero and Portia to the Dry Dock where they will run in conjunction with the other boats in future. As regards the operating of the boats over the same route as before, this will be a matter for the executive government to decide. Preparations are now being made at the Dry Dock wharf for the handling of freight, enlarging the sheds, and the making of every provision for the safety and comfort of the travelling public. It is understood that only temporary repairs be made to the shed at present. It is the intention of the commission to build a more commodious and up-to-date one at a later date.

Two Houses Wrecked

EXPLOSIONS SUPPOSED TO BE DUE TO MOONSHINE MAKING.

From parties who arrived in the city yesterday from Bonavista we learn that moonshine making & being largely carried on and serious explosions have occurred recently at its manufacture. In one instance a house at Broad Cove, B.B., was partly wrecked and practically everything in the kitchen where the explosion occurred was demolished. The other case happened at King's Cove. The whole house was damaged and the inmates had a narrow escape. In an upper room, where it seems the still was located, the window was blown completely out and the place caught fire. People gathered, removed the furniture and by a big effort saved the house from destruction.

SEALING NEWS

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR SUCCESSFUL CATCH.

Further news of an encouraging nature was received from the Sealing fleet on the Northern front this morning, when word reached the city that the Ranger and Sagona had struck the fast. Judging by the message received the ships got into the thick of the herd yesterday afternoon, and before darkness set in 8,000 young seals were killed and banded. The message received last night from the Neptune is very encouraging indeed. Capt. Barbour's crew killed and banded an addition 6,000, which now gives that ship a total of 30,000. The messages received at 11 a.m. to-day are as follows:—

Ranger—Struck whitecoats 2 p.m. off Little Hr. Deep, men have killed and banded 5,000.

Sagona—Men have killed and banded to-day 3,000, prospects fair, hope better news later.

Eagle, (last night)—Made unsuccessful flight, propellers splashing in Water, hope make another flight to-morrow, banded to-day 7,000.

Theta, (this morning)—Killed and banded 7,000 Friday, position 1 mile from Harbor Deep, whitecoats plentiful; bay frozen 't'ice.

Last night the following messages were received:—

JOB BROS. & CO.

Neptune—Killed and banded to-day, 6,000; on board and stowed down 7,000; weather fine and frosty; wind West North West, fine, difficult to get in, direction required; Theta just in sight.

BAIN JOHNSTON & CO.
 Seal—Weather fine, ice very tight, impossible to do anything with picking up pans; 19,000 or 20,000 banded, hoping to do a good day's work to-morrow.

BOWRING BROS.

Terra Nova—Total on board 9,000; still on pans, 8,000.

Eagle—Position 10 miles N. E. half E. Partridge Point. Another flight impossible.

Viking—In heavy sheet ice, making slow progress, steering N. W. First sign at noon to-day 20 miles S. half E. Deadman's Island; too thick to see far. From present indication think main patch lies North West 20 miles.

Magistrate's Court.

A resident of the Higher Levels was summoned before court this morning for a breach of Section 4, entitled of the Prohibition Act. He was convicted and fined $100. The evidence showed that his daughter took the liquor from his pocket and handed it over to the police. Questioned as to how the liquor came into his possession, the accused stated that he got a script from a man on the street and later purchased the bottle at the Control.

VARSITY BOAT RACE TO-DAY.

Betting is 2 to 1 on Oxford.
 LONDON, April 4.—Odds as high as 2 to 1 have been offered on the Oxford eight to defeat Cambridge on the annual row on the Thames to-morrow. Cambridge partisans, however, are not without hope that their crew will be the heavier and more experienced eight, stroked by W. P. Mellen. The crew will strike from Putney Bridge at full tide about two p.m.

Of the 75 encounters between the rival crews, Oxford has been victorious in 40, Cambridge has won 34.

CAMBRIDGE WINS.

LONDON, April 5.—The Cambridge oarsmen upset all the popular expectations to-day on the Thames, when they defeated Oxford Varsity eight in their seventy-fifth historic race. Practically all the thousands of enthusiasts who crowded the banks of the river conceded a victory to Oxford, last year's winners.

A.A.A. MEETING.

A meeting of the Amateur Athletic Association was held in the office of Messrs. Higgins, Hunt, and Emerson, last night. The President was in the chair and the main business was the discussion of arrangements in connection with the Championship Boxing and Wrestling Tournament, which will be held in the Prince's Rink. It was decided that the preliminary bouts take place on Wednesday, April 30, and the Championship bouts on Friday, May 1st. Some discussion took place as to the programme and it was eventually decided to leave this matter as well as the appointing of officials, to a committee consisting of Messrs. F. Mitchell, S. Cullen, A. Johnson and B. Burns. The conditions governing the championship heavyweight bout presented by Padre Nangle was also discussed and eventually left over to a future meeting.

MATEUR BILLIARD TOURNAY.

Excellent Billiards Witnessed Last Night.
 A record attendance of spectators, including His Excellency the Governor and Capt. Goodfellow, were present at the Star club rooms last night, to witness the continuation of billiard games to decide the Amateur Billiard Championship of Newfoundland. The game of billiards, which is undoubtedly the most fascinating and popular of indoor games, has been taken with ever increasing interest by the followers of the game. Last night's exhibition far outshone anything of its kind witnessed in the past, particularly do we speak of the excellence of the performance so ably put up by Mr. G. Rabbits in his game with Mr. T. Ryan. The fans were highly delighted with the high class of billiards witnessed, and were well rewarded for their attendance. The first game, played by W. Newbury and W. J. Moakler, was brimful for its many excellent plays. This match proved to be a nip and tuck battle for the points, from beginning to end. Moakler, who was putting up a creditable performance from the very outset, gradually forged into the lead, and at the 200 mark had an advantage of 57 points over his opponent. Newbury, however, who won the confidence of his many friends in his previous game with Ryan, steadily improved as he went along, and by a well played break of 39, he soon cut down his opponent's lead. Both players were making an earnest endeavor to get the balls into the proper position during the last hundred. Newbury soon got the desired opening and made a slight gain, which he succeeded in holding to the end. The breaks were:

Scores at Intervals.
 Rabbits—48, 143, 256, 324, 376, 400.
 Ryan—70, 95, 130, 201, 241, 267.
 Upwards of thirty spectators tried their luck from the position of the balls last played by the winner, Mr. P. Whittle, with a score of 15, was the best for the night.

RICKARD SIGNS WILLS FOR TWO FIGHTS IN 1924.

If Negro Disposes of Firpo or Other Foreigner, He Will Tackle Dempsey.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Harry Wills, giant New Orleans negro, who has been practically barred for two years from the pugilistic "inner circle," today took the first definite step toward reaching his goal of a title match with Jack Dempsey whom he signed with Tex Rickard for two bouts this summer.

Rickard, in the most important pronouncement so far affecting the 1924 heavyweight program, disclosed that Wills had signed for a match in June or July with Luis Firpo, or one of two other foreign prospects, and also if successful in this test, for a title contest with Dempsey in September.

No Contract With Kearns.
 Firpo's recent declaration of his intention to retire is understood to be the only hitch in the way of a match between him and Wills, which would determine Dempsey's foremost challenger. An agent of Rickard, however, is now on his way to Buenos Ayres to lay the promoter's terms before the Argentine, as a result of which Firpo may change his mind and undertake another American campaign in an effort to lift the championship.

Should Firpo be available, however, Rickard's agreement with Wills

Altadena Poultry News

THE ALTADENA POULTRY FARM offers eggs for hatching from 240 selected hens, mostly either imported stock from the best known and most reliable breeders, or birds hatched and raised from imported eggs. We can therefore supply promptly a large quantity, and will give every order, large or small, careful attention, and assure the purchaser satisfaction.

THIS IS OUR GUARANTEE:
 From every setting of fifteen eggs we guarantee you a hatch of nine chickens. Should you from any cause whatever fail to get the nine, we will supply you with another setting at half price. Thus: If from a setting of fifteen eggs costing $2.50, you get only eight chickens, return the non-hatchable eggs, remit $1.25, and we will send you another setting. This guarantee applies up to June 10th, after which we will sell all hatching eggs at half price.

THE FOLLOWING PRICES APPLY TO JUNE 10th:

WHITE LEGHORNS	... $2.50 per setting of 15 eggs.
S.C. RHODE ISLAND REDS	... $2.50 per setting of 15 eggs.
BARRD PLYMOUTH ROCKS	... $2.50 per setting of 15 eggs.
WHITE PLYMOUTH ROCKS	... $2.50 per setting of 15 eggs.

These from 25 birds imported in December last from U. R. Fisher, Hope, Indiana, well developed, layed 40 p.c. January, and 50 p.c. in February.

BUFF ORPINGTONS ... $4.00 per setting of 15 eggs.
 This pen imported from Maurice Delano, Mass., headed by a $30.00 Cockerel, awarded 1st prize last fall.

JERSEY BLACK GIANTS, at $5.00 per setting, all booked to nearly end of May. This pen imported in December, all yearlings, weighing 10 lbs. each but one on arrival. One 2nd prize Pullet in U.S.A., finished year in November with 207 eggs. Pen headed by 1st prize (then cockerel at same show) weighing 15 lbs. 2 oz. All very strong active birds, the five producing 140 eggs in January and February, and now going stronger.

BABY CHICKS—If sufficient orders are placed with us the latter half of April or early May, we will supply Baby Chicks between the 15th of May and 30th of June, for delivery within 48 hours after hatching, in St. John's, at the following prices:

WHITE LEGHORNS	... 20c each.
BARRD PLYMOUTH ROCKS	... 25c each.
S.C. RHODE ISLAND REDS	... 25c each.
WHITE PLYMOUTH ROCKS	... 25c each.
BUFF ORPINGTONS	... 45c each.

CUSTOM HATCHING—Any person wanting eggs incubated and supplying their own, we will do so at a charge of ten cents per egg, but assume no responsibility for result of hatch.

TABLE EGGS—From now on by phoning us, you are almost certain of obtaining a supply of non-fertile, (strictly fresh), selected Table Eggs.

million-dollar gate for each, would net him about $400,000.

Mullins previously had rejected Rickard's bid of $150,000 for a Firpo bout and countered with a demand for 20 per cent. of the receipts. Color to the acceptance of the latter proposition was given by Mullin's statement that his terms had been met and Rickard's admission that the contract was on a percentage basis.

The promoter declined to name the site he has in mind for the battles, but the most likely available arena is his Boyle's Thirty Acres at Jersey City. Recently Rickard also declared he intended to stage his most important matches in New Jersey, which has raised the maximum ticket charge from $15 to $25. All the promoter would say to-day, however, was that the fights would be held in the United States.

DUNDEE READY TO BOX CRIQUI AGAIN.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 28.—If Eugene Criqui of France desires another bout with Johnny Dundee in an attempt to win back the featherweight title, Dundee will accommodate the Frenchman. Dundee made that statement here to-night when his attention was called to reports that Criqui was returning to the United States, with the intention of asking him for a fight.

"I have five fights booked for this summer, but if Criqui meets a couple of good boys and knocks them over I will be glad to give him a return bout after I have filed my other engagements," he said.

The Passing Hour

Smiling Faces.
 "When I see all these smiling faces before me," began the great man who was revisiting the school where he had learned his a-b-c's, "it takes me back to the days of my childhood. Why is it, my dear children, that you are all so happy?"
 The speaker paused for rhetorical effect. Instantly a grimy hand shot into the air.

"Well, my boy, what is it?"
 "The reason we're so happy," piped the boy, "is 'cause as long as you keep on talking, we don't have to study our 'rithmetic.'—Everybody's Magazine.

An Amendment Proposed.
 The hecklers were many and active—but the lecturer on. He was undaunted—although he certainly found it hard going.

Finally, however, he halted, gazed patiently around the hall and cleared his throat.
 "I'll just digress for a second," he said, "to inform the persons who are interrupting me that instead of confusing me they succeeded only in egging me on."
 Then the voice spoke:
 "Well—if that's so," it said, "it's about time they changed tactics and started egging you off!"—Judge.

Some people will never miss an opportunity for contradiction. Which fact recalls the story of the English woman who was traveling through "wild Wales."

"My, ain't them mountains high!" exclaimed a fellow passenger.
 The contradictory one looked out of the window to see the summits of the lofty hills and sniffed:
 "Only the tops of them is," she protested.

"Do you remember the time when your father drove a donkey cart?"
 The candidate for election fixed his glasses, and gazed thoughtfully at the interrupter. Then he replied: "As a matter of fact, I had quite forgotten the cart. But I am thankful to see the donkey is still alive."

TRINITY

THE SOUTH SIDE OF TRINITY—AS IT WAS, AND AS IT IS.

We have had many reminders during the last few years, of the changes that have gone on, in and around Trinity in connection with our population. Some few people have come to us during those years, and they are satisfied to remain with us. Fully ninety per cent. of the changes, however, have been in the opposite direction. The removals by death have not been exceptional, and of them it may be said: "As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be." The removals by individuals, and families leaving for the interior industrial centres; for St. John's, Canada, and the United States, have increased with increasing years, and they still go on, and we fear "the worst is yet to come." True, there is no one, great, striking evidence of such removals in the town of Trinity; and at Church Services, and other public gatherings, we are often surprised to find that there are so many people still in our midst; whilst there are very few empty houses, and but two (I am glad to know) with windows boarded up, and one of those should have been taken down years ago.

The one part of Trinity which today is, from the beginning to the end of it, a standing advertisement; a sad, and silent reminder of the series of changes that have gone on relentlessly, and ending in desolation, is Trinity South (the South Side). There, along the slope of the South Side hills, from the Fort Point settlement on the East, to Otter Point on the West, the fishermen who came to us in early summer every year one hundred and fifty years ago, from Hants, Dorset, Devon, and Limerick, carried on their fishing under the jurisdiction of the "Fishing Admiral" during the summer and then left again for home in the autumn. Then some of them decided to remain, and the temporary huts and shacks of the transients gave place to permanent buildings; and homes were made and families were raised. Then came Peter Street, and others from Foole. They built stores and wharves along the shore, and property, and prosperity increased with increasing years. Then owing to death and other causes those premises were dismantled and the business ceased. This, however, did not immediately or seriously interfere with the prosperity of the settlers there. A fishing fleet of carefully modelled and equipped boats was built, and the fishery at Baccalieu was inaugurated and prosecuted by some of the best and most daring fishermen in Trinity Bay. Under the leadership of Robin Hiscock, the South Side entered upon a new stage of prosperity, which was enjoyed for several years, and well built houses and carefully cultivated gardens dotted the whole length of the South Side hills.

Then with the death of the old people, and changes in the habits of the fish, together with the differences between the inclinations of the young men, and those of the old men who had passed away, there came a discontinuance of the Baccalieu fishery. From this date began the downward trend of the South Side as a section of Trinity Harbour. Some of the people moved over to Trinity. Some were lost at sea. The Dohertys (John and Edward) went down in the S.S. Lion in Baccalieu Tickle. Houses began to be closed. The school was discontinued for lack of children to be taught. Gardens and fertile fields became commons. A whale factory was built there, and during the operations for a few years, the employment that it gave arrested the going away of the people. Then with the closing of the factory, the people, one after another, again began to leave. Some went to the coal mines in Cape Breton, and other industrial centres in Canada. Some moved over to Trinity; and to-day, where fifty years ago the Hayters and Adams, and Dohertys, and Hiscocks, and Penhorns, and Woolridges, and Spurrels, and Moores lived and constituted some forty families, and two hundred and fifty people, there is but one family left (not including the Fort Point settlement) viz., the Pinhorns, and they have begun preparations to move over to Trinity. Such is the outline history of the South Side of Trinity; and to-day the few unoccupied houses that still remain, do but, in their decay, emphasize the sadness and the loneliness of their surroundings. Then, just across the water of the Bar from Otter Point, is the Bar Point; one of the most picturesque spots in the beautiful South West Arm. Here Samuel and Maria Morris lived and raised a large family some seventy years ago. Here a schooner was outfitted for years for the Labrador fishery; and the surface of the Point was made a model of productivity. One son, William, the only one living to-day, has recently returned from Canada and built a house near the main road; but the old house, in which was raised a God fearing, God loving, happy and industrious family, and which was the scene of the kindest hospitality to all who sought it—the old house, I say, has disappeared, and the grey rocks of the Point that once protected the house from the North East winds, silently suggest the word lehabored to those who pass the spot. Visitors to Trinity who have landed at Otter Point, and walked from there to the beach at the Port Point; had tea there and then on to inspect the Fog Horn and Lighthouse machinery, will not soon forget the natural beauties of the South Side hills, and the unselfish kindness of the Light keeper and his assistant. In spite of all the changes that I have mentioned, it will always be a deeply interesting place to visitors; for the hills themselves, and the beautiful views from them, of Trinity and the adjoining settlements eastward, can never be removed. Nature will always be very generous in this respect, and "Nature is but a name for an effect, whose cause is God." The everlasting hills! The unchanging God!

LOST AND FOUND.

One of the many stories that I heard when I was a boy, and that occasionally trickles down through my slumbering memory, is a story of John Pinhorn, John Pinhorn, a son of Joseph Pinhorn, Jr., was married to Lucretia Maidment fifty years ago (1874); and as the event of this story happened in his life before he was married, it would be about fifty years ago, and when I was a boy of eleven years of age, I remember the day very well, and the commotion that went on during the early hours of the morning. Father and mother talked about some one lost in the woods. I saw Mr. John Newhook go down the hill, with his long gun on his shoulder, and disappear up the harbour, followed by two or three other men with guns. John Pinhorn had gone into the woods of Powell's Country a day or two before, to hunt for deer. As he had not returned a day and a night after he was due to return, it was taken for granted that something had happened to him, and a number of men volunteered to go and look for him.

Each man took his gun with him, not so much because he thought that he might need it for protection, but that it might be used to "fire off" as a signal to be heard and answered by Pinhorn. The men met on the South West Arm ice, and then went in a body (some ten or twelve men) on their way towards the woods. As this body of men, armed with sealing guns were seen by some people coming towards them, and not having heard of Pinhorn being lost, they took it for granted that they were Fenians, or some others coming "to murder them, and they hid themselves anywhere and everywhere. One woman, cooler and more thoughtful than the others, ran to her room and put on clean clothes, so that if she had to die, she would die decently attired. The armed men, of course, knew nothing of all this, and they passed on to the woods on the back of the settlement. As they got in the vicinity of Powell's country, where they hoped to find something of Pinhorn, they fired several powder guns, and after a while a faint answering report was heard. They walked on in the di-

Then Pinhorn heard the signal shots of the men who were looking for him. The wolves also heard them, and without any hesitation they raced for the woods in the opposite direction from which they had heard the shots. Pinhorn then came down from the tree and fired an answering shot, and he had not gone far before he saw the search-party coming towards him. They had not come too soon, for he was very hungry. A fire was made, and after a cup of tea, or two, etc., Pinhorn assured them that he was all right, though it took him a long time to get over the cramped stiffness of his limbs, after having been in the tree all night. Then the march began homeward, and as they got out sufficiently near, for their guns to be heard in the town, they fired gun after gun, and the anxious relatives and friends knew that they had found Pinhorn. It was not till they had passed on to the ice of the S.W. Arm, on their way home, that they heard of the anxious time they had given to some of the people as they were passing on their way to the woods, earlier in the day.

dwelling, 24 Haggerty Street, for garage purposes; as it was pointed out that if same was permitted it would constitute a fire hazard, particularly in view of the danger of gasoline and the upper part of the building being occupied as a dwelling.

J. Kane's application to use a motor at his premises, Adelaide Street, will be granted subject to the approval of the City Engineer.

The matter of improving conditions in the vicinity of the War Memorial, King's Beach, for which allocation has been made, was referred to by Councillor Outerbridge, and it was decided that the City Engineer take up the matter with Rev. Col. Nangle and report back for the next meeting of the Council as to what is required in this direction.

Report of Health Officer for week showed fifteen new cases of Scarlet Fever and two Diphtheria.

Matters in connection with the Commercial Travellers' Tax, Poll Tax and City Tax arrears, were the subject of considerable discussion, and the City Clerk was instructed to immediately take the necessary legal proceedings to enforce payment of same. It was pointed out that of late Commercial Travellers visiting the city have been wrongly informed as to the laws with regard to this tax. The Council, however, is determined that all regulations in this respect shall be complied with.

Requisitions for several department were granted and with the disposal of routine business such as passing of weekly accounts, etc., the meeting adjourned.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A GUEST

THE LITTLE SLEEP DESTROYER.
Along about six o' the morning
She wakes with a shout of glee,
And then with a mischievous warning
Comes pattering in to me.

She stands at my bedside smiling,
And pinches my whiskered cheek,
And then in a way beguiling
She greets my nose a tweak.

She pokes with her little fingers
And tickles me under the chin,
And that sweetest of morning singers
Then begs to be taken in.

Gone is the sleep I needed,
Sped is the night away,
Now must her cry be heeded,
Now must I wake to play.

"Say," napped the boss this morning,
"Why don't you go to bed?
Sleep is the cure for yawning!"
And never a word I said.

But I thought: oh, some day, maybe,
He'll yawn in the self-same way,
When at daybreak a bright-eyed baby
Comes into his room to play.

She'll wake him at six in the morning
She'll put all his sleep to flight,
And the game, when they see him
Yawning,

Will think he's been out all night.

Hatching Time

THE CARE OF CHICKS UNDER THE HEN.

(By J. N. LEIGH, the well known Utility Poultry Expert.)

A mistake frequently made by the over-anxious attendants on the sitting hen is to follow the old custom of removing the chicks from under her as they hatch out, wrapping them up in flannel, and then keeping them in a basket in front of a fire until the hatch is over, when they are returned to the hen. This is a great mistake, as any interference at that critical time only disturbs the hen and makes her restless and often results in the death of some of her chicks. It is far better, and attendant with much less risk of crushed eggs and chicks, to leave her severely alone until the hatch is well over.

A Good Feed.

The hen should then be taken out of the nest and given a good feed of grain and water after her long fast. When she has fed and relieved herself, put her in a coop previously got ready and placed in a suitable spot. The south side of a hedge, or in front of a clump of evergreens, and with the front of the coop facing the sun, is an ideal situation.

In wet or windy weather keep the coop with its back carefully turned to the wind. Everything should be done to prevent the draft, with which the bottom of the coop should be littered, from getting wet.

Having placed the hen in the coop, give her the chicks by placing them just in front of her, and if she is a good mother she will generally call them to her and brood them. If she does not do so readily slip the chicks one by one under her. In doing this it is advisable to hold the chicks in the palm of the hand turned downwards so as to prevent their being injured by the hen.

Avoid Feeding Too Soon.

Merely placing their heads between her breast feathers is quite enough, as they will be attracted by the warmth of her body and quickly creep under her. The front of the coop should be put in place and not removed until the chicks require their first feed, which will not be until 24 hours or thereabouts after having them hatched, as the yolk of the egg is absorbed into the stomach of the chick just before it releases itself from the shell, and this must be assimilated before more food is needed. To force chicks to feed before this yolk substance is completely absorbed is most harmful and is one of the most common causes of bowel trouble. Strict cleanliness and freedom from dampness are essential to the successful rearing of chicks, and for that reason the coops should be fitted with movable floors, and these should be taken away and scraped every day.

It is best to cover the floor with short straw chaff or savings. If straw is not available a thin coating of sand or dry earth will answer. This covering makes it much easier to clean the floors.

In dry, warm weather, and especially if the soil is of a sandy nature, chicks will do better in floorless coops. Bare boards without covering should be moved twice daily—the first thing in the morning and again in the evening.

Necessary Precautions.

Proper ventilation of the coop is of first importance, and at least two inches along the front should be open, but covered with fine wire mesh netting to keep out vermin and also to prevent the chicks from getting out.

It is not the policy of the manufacturers of Ivory soap to make extravagant claims in its behalf. They simply say that Ivory soap is a good pure toilet soap and that it will cleanse the skin thoroughly without injuring the most delicate complexion.

The Walker Report

Address Delivered by Mr. A. B. Morine, K. C., Before Llewellyn Club—The Sores Laid Bare and the Treatment Prescribed

LAWLESSNESS—The report refers to wood stealing, to shirking, to extortion, to misappropriation, as rampant amongst fishermen, laborers, suppliers and civil servants respectively. It is a terrible indictment concerning the immorality of our people, and it stands confessed. They all, with one accord, can make excuse. The wood-stealer says the wood was cut off the three mile limit reserved for his class. The supplier says he only got a part of the political patronage which is the custom of the country. The civil servant says he worked overtime, and his immediate superiors helped him in the misappropriation. In all these excuses, there is an element of truth, and yet no justification from either the legal or the moral point of view. The wood on the three mile limit created, in 1898, the "unemployed" ought to have been put at jobs the public utility of which would have impressed on them the determination to demand honest work. The duties and salaries of civil servants ought to have been fairly equalized. Supplies ought to have been bought by tender and contract. All were law-breakers, and the quality of their crimes differed little. The shirker received money under false pretences, the wood-stealer committed larceny, falsifying property he did not own, the supplier received money without rendering good value, but all are thought to have used false weights, and the civil servant, knowingly violating the law which he was directly employed to maintain, was just as guilty as a watchman would be who deserted his post for a bribe. How and why has this terrible epidemic of dishonesty got root and spread amongst us, what will be the result unless it be eradicated root and branch, and what may be done to destroy it before it destroys us?

It were vain for me to discuss at this time the cause or causes for the moral laxity which creates or permits the crimes, I am speaking of, though I believe it is in the main due to the loss of religion, but I do with certainty point to the lax enforcement of law by the Crown Law officers during recent years as one of the instrumentalities for the spread of lawlessness, and with equal confidence I declare my opinion that lawless practices, amongst the "higher ups" in the government, has permitted and encouraged the lawlessness visible on every side. Every frank man will admit that if the first wood-stealer has been punished, there would have been no other. It will as frankly be admitted that if the first "shirker" had been dismissed, and not allowed to return, shirking would have ended. Officers were tempted, encouraged, aided by unlawful extras by the complicity of Ministers of the Crown. The Government itself flagrantly practiced illegality. It made its own wishes a law unto itself, impudently brushed the Legislature aside, and by unlawful regulations confiscated and destroyed private property. "Moonshiners" were not punished, but the Magistrates who interfered with them were deported. The government intentionally embarked on "boot-legging" to make money for the Colony by selling spirituous liquors as a beverage, in violation of the Prohibition Act. Incidentally, they used a portion of the money, and much of the liquor, to elect their candidates corruptly in bye-elections. When I have regard to the carnival of crime by the government, I confess I am not surprised at the offences of the government, nor do I find in myself much heart to condemn these poor victims of demoralization in high places. I am convinced through and through that there will be no general or lasting improvement in the moral tone of this Colony, no obedience to law, no safety for credit or property, until a cleansing of the establishment of better government, and until justice has ceased to be blind only, for blind in one eye only, and has unbarred the sword.

WHAT THE CAUSE—When consideration is given to the Fisheries Regulations of 1920, the fish buying and loss of 1921, the scandalous waste upon roads from the railway line to Halls Bay and Bonne Bay, to railway expenditures and losses for several years, one feels that the revelations by the Walker Enquiry and Report are but part of a nightmare of Waste and Corruption under which the Colony has been suffering for years and the questions (1) What has caused this saturnalia of crime against the state, (2) Why has it been permitted to continue, and (3) What is the cure, demand solution. A corrupt and servile Assembly, have been the instrumentalities through which all this wrongdoing has taken place, and the people of the Colony represented by them, and whom they have in a large degree corrupted, must soon answer the question whether they will permit the guilty to carry on their destructive work until the Colony has lost its independence, and passes into the hands of a receiver.

RESPONSIBILITY—I deprecate the importance placed upon the personal charges against Messrs. Squires and Campbell as unduly great, not because I would minimize their offences, but because to center attention upon them may draw proper attention from the responsibility of their colleagues. The labors of their lawyers, the evidence of their witnesses, have resulted in a Report which is a most crushing, most unanswerable, indictment of those colleagues jointly with Squires and Campbell. A true Bill has been found against them for being accessory both before and after the fact to high crimes and misdemeanors. What the public knew all along about the conduct of the Liquor Control department, they were well aware of. The improper use in elections of liquor purchased from that department—a scandal known to many—some of them must have been personally cognizant of, and all of them must have heard about it. That Mealey was in the constant receipt of secret commissions was so well known that even members of the government must have heard of it. That a physical audit was necessary, they could not have been ignorant of. Yet in the face of all this they unanimously gave Mealey a full appointment as Controller, and conspired to suppress the fact until the general election was over. And it is undeniable that the government itself, with the acquiescence of every member of it, allowed Mealey to violate the Prohibition Act for the profit of the Treasury, by permitting the unlawful sale of liquors as a beverage and that the annual estimates submitted to the Legislature, and the open and unpunished evasions of the law, are proof.

AS INDIVIDUALS—I have been speaking of the government as a corporate body in a condemnatory sense. It is only fair that I should say of them as individuals that they are average good citizens, not a bad man amongst them. But their abject business man professions no statescraft. Their man most experienced in public life exerts no energy. The "Bronco Buster" of other days is roped to the affairs of his society, giving to the few what was meant for the many. During nearly four years, he and I amicably co-operated in Union affairs, and he was always reasonable. The truth is, the audacious Squires, the virile Campbell, the impulsive Coaker were dynamic forces in the government, and the remainder were as ready to follow them whether they led as they would have been to follow wiser counsels. They "didn't know where they were going, but were on the way", in those days, and now with the dynamic forces abated, the government is like to be "as idle as a painted ship upon a painted ocean", adrift without compass, and without rudder with the breakers on every hand.

Responsibility for Fish Regulations, Buying and Bounties, for Salt scandals and Road scandals, for waste on pit-props and all forms of relief frauds, lies as clearly and undeniably upon the Squires government as for Liquor Control scandals. Every member of it knew of these things, and shared in them, by commission or omission. They endured them, they profited by them, they assented to them or failed to oppose them, and they have not even the defence that they ever believed in the honesty, propriety or necessity of the things that were being done. The degree of moral turpitude on the part of various members of the government may have varied, but "they all like sheep have gone astray", and the most charitable thing that can honestly be said of all or any of them is that they neglected the high duties of their positions. Hear

D. D. D. for Eczema

The Standard Remedy

with thousands of endorsements from all over Canada to recommend it

A trial bottle only is required to stop the pain—the sleepless nights—the agony of itching.

We publish just one letter that tells the story in a few words.

It was written by Mr. J. W. Corry, 31 Melbourne Ave., Toronto, one of the prominent business men of that city. A letter from you would cheer me up. I have seen a sufferer from the legs and ankles. I tried three or four different doctors. I went to a skin specialist. All of no use. I used D. D. D.—that is all. Today I am perfectly well.

D. D. D. is a soothing, cooling fluid directly applied to the skin. This powerful agent instantly sets on the inflamed and tortured cells. The itching disappears at once. The pain is soothed. Under continued treatment rough unsightly surfaces assume the healthy normal look you have perhaps not known for years.

Perhaps there is someone in your home who is suffering with some skin disease, a mild case of rash, a chronic eczema of long standing. Perhaps you have a friend, know a growing child, a tiny baby, who have tried other ways of relief without success. Why not try D. D. D.? Thousands of people in every walk of life have used it. It gives results in the worst cases, yet is mild enough to use on infants' tender skins.

A trial bottle will prove to you that D. D. D. is the REAL REMEDY, YOUR REMEDY. Do not make the mistake of selecting to try this great medical discovery.

what the Commissioner says on this point:—

(1) "Generosity to those in need of relief did not necessarily exclude justice to those who had to pay for it."

(2) "In my view money was lavishly and often recklessly poured out. I accept Dr. Campbell's statement that no new more was made without consultation with his colleagues 'in the Council.'"

(3) "The work was done in haste, 'one might say in panic, it was attended by looseness, irregularities and mistakes, which made possible 'impostures from without, and put it 'in the power of others to steal a profit from the turmoil. Its record is in the main a record of rash bargains, rendered disastrous by the condition of the times and the temper of the people, and of public money poured out in alarming profusion without care and without safeguards."

(4) "Politics caused the distribution of contracts for supplies among petty profiteers, crowded the rocksheds and model farm with shirkers, scattered seed potatoes among all money asked for them, paid out money all over the Island without care or check, and accounted for the phenomenal growth of every form of relief 'on the approach of a general election. Relief was not business, it was politics."

What a terrible indictment that is! How dare we leave the control of public affairs with these men! Acquit some of them, if you will, of all willful wrong-doing. Acquit some of them, if your charity extends so far, of ignorance of the riotous misconduct amongst them. Yet you cannot acquit all of them on either ground, and none of them of negligence and incompetency, of unfitness for the high positions they occupy, and for the great responsibility they daily bear. It is rank treason to our duty as citizens to permit our public affairs to remain longer in the hands of men responsible for the past four years. What guarantee have we that they will do better, or be better, or be less weak and incompetent than they have been? Can we leave the ship of State in their hands?

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY—"Upon the introduction of responsible government, the only definite change in the royal instructions," says Todd's Parliamentary Government, "was to provide that the members of the Executive Council should be appointed by the House of Assembly."

DOCTORS WANTED TO OPERATE

Mrs. Quillon Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her from an Operation

Muskegon, Michigan.—"After doctoring for eight or nine years with different physicians without any relief at all, they said that medicine would not reach my case and I should have an operation. I had heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and often saw it advertised in different papers where some women had suffered just as I did and got well and strong again by taking the Vegetable Compound. I decided to see what it would do for me, and before I had finished the fourth bottle I was much better, the weakness stopped and the severe pains in my sides left me. I am now much stronger and do my own work and work in the factory besides. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound, and give full praise."—Mrs. NELLIE QUILLON, 17 Morris St., Muskegon, Mich.

Women should heed such warning symptoms as bearing-down pains and weakness, for they indicate some female trouble, and a prompt and faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will seldom fail to help.

STAFFORD'S Sarsaparilla Blood Purifier

FOR THE CURE OF

Skin Diseases, Anemia, Lack of Blood, Paleness, Impure Blood, Lack of Ambition and Vigor, Debility, Weakness, Tired Feeling, Boils, Pimples, etc.

THERE is no Remedy of more universal application than a genuine true-arterial Blood Purifier and Blood Builder. A medicinal preparation that will purify, revitalize and renew the blood, restores hope and pleasure, ambition and happiness, vigor and vitality. It is of inestimable value not only as a strengthener of the system, fighting it against invasion of disease, but also as a cure for chronic diseases which depend upon an impoverished condition of the blood. Diseases of this nature are usually caused by impurities in the blood deposited through the inactivity of the liver and kidneys.

These secretions if not removed from the circulation, gradually form poisons which deteriorate the condition of the blood and allow other diseases to obtain a free ready entrance to the system. In the effort of nature to throw off these impurities, frequently pimples, boils, carbuncles, appear, and it is wise to respond promptly to the Warning of Nature.

THIS SARSAPARILLA

is a genuine preparation scientifically prepared from the best and purest remedies for the purifying and rebuilding of the blood. It should be taken every spring, as at this season the blood is more apt to become impure and impoverished. Keep your blood in perfect condition any way will be prepared to fight life's battles with greater success.

One Bottle of this Blood Purifier is all that you will need to take to produce results.

When candidates come to be voted for on the score of their own fitness, their personal qualifications will be enquired into more fully than when they are merely the delegates of a society. Experience, ability, education, special training, all these will be looked for in candidates by a people freely choosing representatives. The making of laws is the highest and most difficult to which men can be called, and the best available men should be chosen by a people sincerely concerned to discharge aright the most sacred duty of freemen—the right exercise of the franchise. It is your wish men of Newfoundland, that you shall be well governed, then freely choose qualified men, to represent you! If you choose men to represent you, you will not be helped or hindered. If you choose men dependent upon public pay, your government will continue to be corrupt and bad. A better standard for government and assembly is dependent upon a better standard for electors. The people, it is said, get as good government as they deserve. That is to say, the cure is in the people's hands, and if they will not exercise it, theirs is the fault, and the punishment inflicted upon them is deserved. To create better standards, education—in the broader sense—instruction on the rights and duties of electors, and in public question is essential, and the moral obligations for doing this is upon all those who think that better government is necessary and possible. Education is needed in two ways—economic and moral, or financial and religious. What should be done, why should it be done, is the question.

The Walker Report

done, and the duty of doing it should necessarily be taught, and while it is especially a subject for the teachers or religion, and should be handed by them from pulpit and platform, instruction on the economic or financial side should be given by laymen, through the press, by letter, and by word of mouth. I hold that the leading far more blame-worthy for existing conditions than that has been betwixt by demagogues.

Forcible appeals for uplift have recently been made in certain city centres, and let us hope that this example will be followed throughout the Colony. If "Thou shalt not steal" be politics, it is part of the ten commandments also, and they ought to be orthodox in every pulpit.

CONFESSING AND AVOIDING—There are persons who, having neither the audacity to deny the justice of the Commissioner's findings nor the courage to openly defend the wrongdoers, resort to excuses in the form known by lawyers as Confession and Avoidance. "He is no worse than others," they say, or "it cannot be helped, it will always be so," and other things of the same tenor and purpose. But even so, how much better than those others! If these others have not been exposed how can it be proven that they were as bad as the men whose offences have been proven. Whether guilty or innocent, those others referred to are out of office, and the degree of their guilt is not of present importance. But I wish to say that my personal knowledge of the course of public affairs in this Colony for nearly forty years makes me absolutely confident that no other period has the Colony had a government so corrupt, so incapable, so negligent, so injurious to the Colony as during the time between the accession of Sir Richard Squires to the premiership in 1919 and his deposition in 1923.

"It cannot be avoided," say some, "it will never be better here." Speaking very kindly words of praise to me a few days ago about my address to the M.C.L.L. a dear friend said of proposed reforms: "Magnificent, but Utopian," that is "fanciful to the degree of impossibility." It is that spirit of hopelessness in the courage and virtue of our people, that belief that they are incurably corrupt and ignorant, that is the greatest stumbling block in the way of reform. I will not accept the cry of despair! It is the coward's grope! We can have reform if the people will do it so and they will have the will if appealed to in the right way by the right men. Hear what the Commissioner says: "I have hope that the said disclosures which have been made in the course of this investigation may do something to create a better public opinion and a higher plane of spirit, to the lasting advantage of this richly endowed land and her brave and hardy people!"

WHAT OF THE FUTURE—The Enquiry and Report will have been in vain, it was better that the exposure should never have taken place. If nothing more valuable is to come of it than a futile discussion as to the offences of individuals, and proof to endure the incapacity of our rulers. The lamp of experience should light our footsteps in the future. The Enquiry and report should be a light not only to warn us of the awful guilt which yawns before the Colony, but a point of departure for a safe harbor.

Regard the abundant Natural Resources with which Almighty God has endowed this land. Consider the splendid people who populate it. Recall their heroism, dispositions and fundamentally Christian character. And on the other hand, contemplate the misgovernment of the country, the waste and inefficiency in all public affairs, the poverty of the people, and their forced migration to other lands, to earn the living there they should get at home. Is this contrast to endure forever? Shall the time not soon come when the country's wealth shall keep and maintain its people at home, in peace and prosperity? It can be so, the country can be well governed, and good government will give prosperity. Not by waste, but by economy; not by incapacity, but by efficiency; not by the expenditure of borrowed dollars upon unemployment relief, but by the development of labor-giving industries can prosperity and contentment be restored to this happy country. Shall it be? From you and from your fellows throughout the Island must come the answer.

ARE YOU A SHIRKER?—The word shirker has come into common use to describe the so-called unemployed who get public pay and did not work, but there is another class to which it applies as aptly—the men and women who are shirking their obvious duty in this crisis. What are they but shirkers, who say "it was always thus," and take no part in any effort for uplift? What are they but shirkers who being socially high in the land neglect their duty as citizens. Do you take a flying start in choosing candidates and electing members of the Assembly, or do you say "politics are dirty," and abandon the task to others? If so, you are a shirker. Do you say now "Reform is Utopian." If so, you are a shirker. You owe as much to your country as any man who received daily pay from the government, and if you are not doing your best for that country, you are as much a shirker as they whose conduct you condemn. Shirking our obligations to the country is our national sin, and we should rise above it now. We should here "highly" resolve that this nation, under "God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

A writer to the Telegram, on the need of reform, thinks it necessary to warn against "emotional appeals." I am convinced, on the contrary, that our first appeal, and most hopeful, must be to patriotic and religious emotion. Not by pure reason alone can we hope to rouse the people at large from the condition they have been dragged down to. Let us, by all means, appeal to hard common sense by instruction as to finance and tariffs, by proving that "Honesty is

The New Rector

WILL BE INDUCTED TO-MORROW.

The Rev. John Brooke Elliott, Honorary Chaplain to the Forces, who, to-morrow morning will be inducted Rector of St. Thomas's by the Lord Bishop of Newfoundland, is a son of the late Rev. Anthony Elliott, Canon of Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin. He was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and at the University of Toronto where he took the full theological course, and previous to his ordination was student-in-charge of Missionary Churches at the prairie towns of Morse and Herbert, Saskatchewan, about 100 miles from where, unknown to him, his predecessor at St. Thomas's, Canon Earp, was living at the time. Mr. Elliott was ordained in 1915 by the Archbishop of Rupert's Land and was at once appointed Curate to St. George's Church, Winnipeg. The following year he applied for a commission as Chaplain and went to war. While he was in France, the Rector of St. George's resigned and the congregation cabled an invitation to Mr. Elliott to return to Winnipeg and be their Rector, but he felt his duty was with his men at the front. After the Armistice in 1918, he spent a year lecturing in Ireland and for a time was Curate of St. Mark's, Dundela. From 1920 to 1922 he was Garrison Chaplain at Canterbury and an Assistant Chaplain at Woolwich. In 1922 he went with the British Army to the Near East, being stationed at Gallipoli during hostilities and until the ramification of peace with Turkey. Returning to London he was appointed Chaplain to Queen Alexandra Military Hospital, Millbank, where he remained until the offer reached him from St. Thomas's Church in this city. An invitation from a Canadian Bishop was received at the same time, but after giving the matter full consideration Rev. Mr. Elliott decided to "set his face towards" St. John's.

Chevrolet produced 245,000 motor cars in 1923; 500,000 in 1922; commencing March 1st, 3,000 Chevrolts are being manufactured daily—all of which are high class fully equipped motor cars. mar14,10,000

Obituary.

REGINALD SULLIVAN.

The Angel of Death again visited the little settlement of Pouch Cove, and took from our midst Reginald Sullivan, a highly respected and industrious man of this place. Deceased was only a short time ill but had, severe attacks of stomach trouble for the past year, and on February 25th was forced to give up with a rather severe attack, and developed jaundice. On March 10th he entered the General Hospital for treatment with the intention of undergoing an operation, and good hopes were held out for his recovery, but on Thursday, March 17th, unexpectedly, the summons came, and he was called to the Great Beyond, from which bourne no traveller returns.

He was a busy life; he was a husky fisherman of this place, and also occupied a prominent position as merchant and supplier for the past twelve years, and this settlement mourns to-day the loss of one in such standard of life. On Sunday evening as the beautiful sun shone o'er the hills, the funeral cortege wended its way to the C. of E. Cemetery and was largely attended by the L.O.A., S.U.P. and general public, when he was committed to Mother Earth in God's Acre to await the final call of Him who doeth all things best. Left to mourn are a wife, mother, four sons, five daughters, two brothers, three sisters and a large circle of friends.

"He is gone to his rest and his conflict is o'er,
He is free from his sorrow and pain;
The fife of this life which he patiently bore
Shall never distress him again."

Musical Treat at the Crescent Last Night

DAN DELMAR HEARD IN NEW BALLADS AND SONGS.

Apart from the Amateur Contest last night, which was well up to any yet held, Dan Delmar treated his audience to a number of catchy parodies which nearly brought down the house. Messrs. Neider and Smith also appeared and delighted everybody with their excellent selections and jokes.

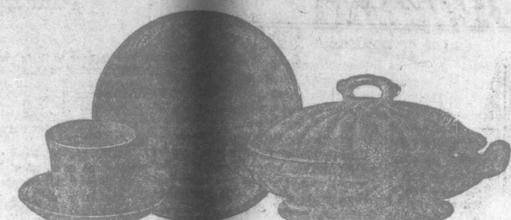

You don't need to be afraid to bring the kiddies, your best beau or your grandmother to see "Shadows of Conscience" on the Crescent screen. It's just what we have been looking for in the way of clean, American drama. It has plenty of thrills for you but no blushes. The kiddies will like the child scenes and the comedy, your best beau would like the fights and the smashing climax and your grandmother will enjoy the good old-fashioned standard of morals that prevails.

"Shadows of Conscience" is a story of yesterday in this country, but the entertainment value is such that it can be appreciated at any time and in any place. Action and suspense run high but there is not a single objectionable scene or distasteful moment. Our censors must have had a light job when they gave this picture the "once-over."

Russell Simpson is a hero, as an actor and as a man in the role. He has two charming feminine assistants in the persons of Barbara Tennant and Gertrude Olmstead and a powerful aide-de-camp in Landers Stevens, the "heavy."

Mother's Advice

NO mother ever taught her children a more valuable lesson than the necessity of keeping the bowels regular. Health, happiness and success are more dependent on this simple rule than most of us ever realize. This mother advises the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills because she has found this medicine to be absolutely dependable as a regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels. Physicians have estimated that nine-tenths of all human ills have their beginnings in the sluggish action of these eliminating organs and the consequent poisoning of the system. Not only such ills as indigestion, constipation and biliousness but also appendicitis, Bright's disease, diabetes and high blood pressure arise from this cause. Prevention is so much easier than relief after the disease has become settled that the value of mother's lesson is at once apparent. In many homes the rule is one pill at the week-end as a regulator and preventative and more frequent doses when required. The strong points for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are their dependability to produce the desired results and their direct and combined action on liver, kidneys and bowels. It is worth remembering that colds and other contagious diseases are quickly checked by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to rid the system of the accumulating poisons. Dr. Chase's medicines are for sale in Newfoundland by all druggists and dealers in medicines. If your local merchant cannot supply you write direct to Mr. Gerald S. Doyle, Water St., St. John's, N.S., as he is sole agent for the Dr. Chase's medicines in Newfoundland.

Harbor Grace Notes.

Four of the vessels which drifted from Bay Roberts in the storm of Saturday night last, were towed here Saturday by the tug "Hugh D." at least of the vessels belonging to this port, also drifted from her berings during the storm, but was cured before she had reached any other than the Point of Beach.

Reports from the sealing steamers have been more encouraging during the last few days, and all are hoping that the ships will continue to strike seals, and return in due time with bumper voyages. The fact that Bell and will resume operations more extensively, and employ over a thousand men, is very welcome news, and especially so to the people of this port, as so many have depended on the island as a source of livelihood.

The thunder storm which St. John's experienced Monday morning last was here, though not to any extent. Through the night a few flashes of lightning were seen, and hail stones also fell towards the morning. Our nice spring like weather has now changed, and has been replaced by snow and frost.

Lieut. Rickard, R.N., who is on a day visit to Newfoundland, for the G.W.A., in the interests of ex-service men, came to town on Friday. On Sunday night, Lieut. Rickard gave a lecture entitled "The Flanders Fields," in the Academy Hall. He was greeted with a packed hall, and a stirring appeal made by ex-service men was made for him. On the platform were John Esq., J.P. (Acting Judge), who acted as chairman of the meeting; Messrs. Father Din, W. R. J. Higgit, S. Coffin; also Karl S. Trapnell, who is accompanying Lieut. Rickard in his work. Vocal selections were rendered by Miss L. Joy, Mrs. W. L. Messrs. Karl Trapnell, A. L. Miss Mrs. N. Davis gave an overture. Rev. Mr. Higgit addressed the meeting and proposed a vote of thanks to the lecturer. This was seconded by Rev. Fr. Finn, who gave an address, and the next speaker was the Rev. Mr. Coffin. A motion in aid of the worthy cause, was taken up, and mounted to a very high sum. With the singing of the National Anthem, the meeting came to a close.

On Monday night, Lieut. Rickard presented the big picture production, "A Tour With Our Smiling Prince," in the British Hall. This was attended by 450 people. During the storm, Mr. Karl Trapnell sang "Asleep in the Deep." A matinee was held this afternoon when all the school children were given an opportunity to see this wonderful picture, which is of paramount interest to this age and old. Lieut. Rickard took down by storm, as he had done St. John's, and was given a splendid reception by our townspeople; a lot in itself that we are with him in his good work.

Lieut. Rickard, who was accompanied by his wife, whilst in town registered at the home. The party was on Tuesday, and we trust to have a most successful reception at each of our hotels.

Mr. J. J. Lynch, who has been operating a telephone exchange for several years, has received a license for the operation, and is now operating the stock and office of the United Towns' Electrical Co. here. Mr. Mary Dunn succeeds Miss Lynch as operator.

More the harbor is free of ice, it is to be hoped that it will come so.

Many friends here of Mr. C. C. of Bay Roberts, learned with regret, of the death of his little George, which occurred there on Saturday, as the result of a sad accident. We extend sincere sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Butt, and the loved relatives, in their great sorrow.

Our Dumb Animals

REPORT OF CHIEF AGENT FOR WEEK ENDING APRIL 4.

In 7 horses for treatment and lameness. The remaining two I have had the Vets opinion were not fit for work, and the owners have consented to keep them of the street. There is quite a number of lame horses with which the owners on the whole are trying to do the best possible. Three carloads of horses have arrived lately from the lumber woods, one carload for Mr. T. Curran in splendid condition, and one for Mr. P. Lewis; also one for the Horwood Lumber Co. These horses on the whole are the best lot I ever seen returning from the lumber woods. Humanely put to death 2 dogs and several cats. Many of these cats were suffering from some disease in the paws and head. I received complaints of some very valuable birds destroyed by dogs on Hamilton Ave. The owners I understand will be taking action against the owners of the dogs in court. These dogs are becoming a great annoyance around St. Clare's Hospital and the Grace Maternity Home. This matter is not in my line of duty unless dogs are being killed Hospitals and institutions would be well advised not to put refuse food outside buildings to attract dogs to visit their yards and thus cause annoyance. I imported another Humane Killer from the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, London, by S.E. Sachem today. This is for the private use of the progressive and up-to-date firm of Matthew Peckham and Son, Butchers, who having seen a demonstration of the killer highly approved of the same and ordered one for their own use. Phone all complaints to 653. JONAS BARTER, Chief Agent.

MINARD'S LIME FOR HEADACHE.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES

RATIFICATION OF LIQUOR TREATY CAUSES LIVELY DEBATE IN DAIL.

DUBLIN, April 4. A proposal to ratify the Anglo-American Liquor Treaty provoked a lively debate in Dail Eirean to-day. Desmond Fitzgerald, Minister of Foreign Affairs, in moving the ratification of the Treaty, said he had called the attention of the British authorities to the fact that the words "King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland" no longer were descriptive of fact, but that he had not pressed upon the British Government that it take steps to amend this wording, pending settlement of the Irish Boundary Question. The Irish Government, the Minister added, would endeavour to put no hindrance in the way of the United States enforcing its own laws. The debate on the Treaty was adjourned till Wednesday.

REPORT OF ABANDONMENT OF PRIORITY CLAIM DENIED.

BRUSSELS, April 4. A Belgian semi-official News Agency to-night published a denial of reports which have appeared in a portion of the French press to the effect that Belgium might abandon her right to priority of German payments under the Versailles Treaty.

ARGENTINE AVIATORS KILLED.

BUENOS AIRES, April 4. Two Argentine navy aviators met death to-day when the hydro-aeroplane in which they were flying, fell into the Bay off the Naval Aviation School at Puerto Belgrano.

NOVA SCOTIAN ROAD MONEY.

HALIFAX, April 4. Over $3,000,000 was spent on Nova Scotia highways last year, and over $12,000,000 in the past four years, according to the Provincial Highway Board report presented in the Legislature to-day by Hon. William Chisholm, Minister of Highways.

GOVERNMENT SECURE VOTE OF CONFIDENCE.

PARIS, April 4. Premier Poincare's choice of new colleagues for the Cabinet, apparently was vindicated to-day when the Government secured a vote of confidence in the Chamber over the most dangerous part of the Pensions Bill. To-day, Minister of Finance, Francis Marshall succeeded where the former Minister of Finance De Lasteyrie recently failed, resulting in the resignation of the Cabinet and the formation by M. Poincare of a new one.

FRENCH SUPPRESS GERMAN SOCIETIES.

COBLENZ, April 4. By order of General DeGoutte, the French Commander, vast operations have been begun throughout Ruhr and Rhineland with the purpose of suppressing activities of German societies.

SUBMARINE DESTROYS BURNING VESSEL.

FORT SUDAN EGYPT, April 5. The British submarine KD-26 has blown up the British steamer Frangestan which caught fire in the Red Sea yesterday morning threatening the lives of twelve hundred persons who were taken off by vessels summoned by wireless call. The steamer was still blazing from end to end and would have been total wreck.

A NATIONAL CALAMITY.

VICTORIA, April 5. Australians look upon the decision with regard to the abandonment of Singapore Naval base as being nothing short of a National Calamity, as without such a base the Commonwealth cannot at any sacrifice rely upon its own measures of safety, stated D. H. Ross the Canadian trade Commissioner to the Commonwealth on his arrival here yesterday from the Antipodes. No immediate danger is anticipated he said, but the decision arrived at must add very materially to taxation for defence purposes.

BRITISH AIRMAN DELAYED.

ATHENS, April 5. Stuart McLaren British round the world flight who was forced to descend on a lake south of Corfu a few days ago is awaiting spare parts for his plane from London and expects to continue his flight to Athens Sunday.

HEALTH MINISTER ISSUES A WARNING.

LONDON, April 5. Speaking at Glasgow yesterday the Minister of Health John Wheatley said that if the country had really been startled by the proposals such as were contained in the recent evictions bill God help their tranquility in the days to come, for when a Labor majority appeared in the Commons it would alter the whole social question.
