Mr. Sidney Moore, the popular teller in the Bank the age of 73 years. She was the youngest sister of More Cruel Than the Tower.

Lord Stanley came, plainly dressed, to request a private royal audience of King James I., but was refused admittance in the royal closet by a spruce-dressed countryman of the King's. James hearing the altercation between the two, came out and inquired the cause.

"My liege," said Lord Stanley, "this gay countryman of yours has refused me admittance to your presence."
"Cousin," said the king, "How shall I punish him? Shall I send him to the Tower?"

"Oh, no, my liege," replied Lord Stan-him back to Scotland!"—Texas Siftings.

THEY ARE NOT HAPPY.

THE GOVERNMENT TICKET-MAKERS ARE KEPT VERY BUSY.

The Advent of Edward Lantulum seems to Settle the Vexed Question of the Right Man for a Catholic Candidate—The Effect of the New Combination.

The telephone wires were made a little fired this week. They were kept pretty busy in the service of the government.
North and South Ends gave the central plenty of work in connecting lawyers, merchants, liquor saloons and junk shops one with the other, merely to ask what appeared to be very simple questions.

Probably these questions were more important than they seemed. They ought to be, for they were asked and answered by the men who are trying to make up the government ticket. They were in search of an eligible Catholic, and several eligible catholics were in search of them. The choice of a candidate of that denomination has become more difficult than ever, but it is believed the problem has been solved by the acceptance of Edward Lantulum.

Perhaps it would be more correct to say that Mr. Lantulum has solved the problem by the selection of himself. He is said to have asserted that he would be a candidate, whether the ticket-makers wanted him or not. It goes without saying that if this is his determination, he will be on the ticket.
Mr. Lantulum will make a very good candidate. He is very popular in York Point.

Unfortunately for the harmony of the government camp, he is not the unanimous choice of the ticket-makers. To begin with, Mr. Blair does not want him, and is reported to have said as much during his passage through the city, the other day.
The Provincial Secretary is reported to have answered that he was running this constituency himself, and had a right to choose whom he considered best in the interests of the ticket.

Alderman John Kelly is believed to be out of the race. He does not want to be a candidate, and has said so. It is not absolutely certain that he will work for the government ticket, unless a "religious cry" is raised, when he would probably throw himself into the fight. It is quite certain that he will wear out his shoe leather in hustling, if Mr. Lantulum is a candidate.

If Ald. Kelly is not a candidate, he is believed to have his choice of a candidate, and the man is John L. Carleton, who is also the favorite of Ald. Connor. This gentleman, however, is not acceptable to other leading Catholics, such as Police Magistrate Ritchie, Dr. McAvenny and W. A. Finn, who strongly urge the claims of Mr. B. Carvill. It is reported that the magistrate has been paying a good many visits to Ald. Kelly of late, and the purport of the conference can only be surmised.

It was said last week, on very good authority that James C. Robertson had consented to be a government candidate, but this is by no means certain. The ground for this is believed to be a report that Mr. Robertson said he would run if John Kelly also ran.
As Ald. Kelly will not come to the front, it may affect the chance, if there was any,
of securing Mr. Robertson. Besides the Globe advocates running the election on grit and tory lines, which might put Mr.
Robertson, if a candidate at all, on the opposition side.

Another thing in this connection is the fact that C. W. Weldon's nominee is H. L.
Sturdee, who is a sure enough grit, and who, on party lines, is entitled to the place for which it was thought to secure Mr.
Robertson.

At present, however, the fight is chiefly in regard to a Catholic candidate, who is expected to fill Mr. Ritchie's place. So far, as stated, the chances seem to favor Mr. Lantulum. The government does not want him, but it cannot afford to ignore his claims.

There are a good many wheels within wheels, and the situation appears to be considerably mixed. McLellan, Quinton and Lantulum are to the front, but the fourth man on the county ticket, and a colleague for Dr. Berryman on the city ticket, appear to be horses of a very dark shade.

It Is Not a Cattle Car.

The alleged "gentlemen's cabin" on the Carleton ferry is a disgrace to the city, in its present condition. It is dirty, foul smelling and unfit for the occupancy of any decent man, whether he is a "gentleman" or not. It will continue so as long as the committee allow it to be used as a smoking room. There is no reason why it should be devoted to that purpose. If it is a necessity for people to smoke while crossing the harbor, they should be compelled to stand out upon the deck. They have no right to poison the air of the cabin and keep the floor in a filthy condition by spitting competitions. Such a state of things would not be tolerated in any American city, and there is no reason why it should prevail here. The cabin was built for the use of respectable citizens, not to be a club room for toughs. It is not a cattle car, though it is about as dirty as one.

NOTABLE PROVINCIAL TROTTERS.

Three who have Distinguished Themselves
During the Past Season.

The racing season may now be said to be over for the year in this country.

Among the most notable performances which have taken place on provincial tracks, the past season, may be mentioned Maud C's record of 2.31; Speculation's record of 2.41; and Besie Clay's record of 2.54.

Maud C. is a bay mare, by Sir Charles, out of a mare by Southerner (thoroughbred). She was foaled in 1882, and as a four year old made a record of 2.45; as a five year old she reduced this record to 2.39½, and the past season she still further reduced her record to 2.31, in a closely contested race.

When it is considered that this mare has been fitted and driven entirely by her owner, Mr. Thomas Clark, of St. John, and that this record is the second best ever made by a lower province mare on a lower province track, (being second only to Black Foil, 2.30½) the record reflects great credit on the mare, her sire and owner.
Mr. Clark is a gentlemanly, unassuming man who never "kicks," not even when his favorite may happen to be beaten by a "ringer," but one who always tries to do what is square and right, and then leave his case in the hands of the judges.

Besides Maud C., 2.31, Sir Charles has to his credit Lady Max, 2.42, and Maggie T., 2.44, and several other good ones yet untried; and another season may see him in the great battle of sires of 2.30 performers.

Speculation is a gray stallion, foaled in 1885, sired by Mambrino Messenger, he by Mambrino Monarch. Speculation's dam was by Mambrino Charta. Speculation's record of 2.41 as a four-year-old eclipses anything previously made in the province, for that age. Some eight or nine years ago, Bayard Bright, as a four-year-old, made a record of 2.42, which was unap-proached until last year, when Lady Max made the same record. This year Speculation has trotted on a number of tracks, and got a record of 2.41 on two of them, and was a close second in Moncton in 2.85. Mr. George Carvill, of St. John, is the proud owner of Speculation, and, like Mr. Thomas Clark, he fits and drives his own horse.

Bessie Clay is a large bay filly, foaled in 1887, sired by Hernando, dam by All Right. She is owned by Sheriff Sterling, of Fredericton, and was foaled his property, he having purchased her dam on P. E.
Island while in foal to Hernando. The best previous record for a two-year-old on our tracks, was that of 3.0½ made in 1888 by Nervia, a filly imported by Mr. John McCoey. Now Sheriff Sterling comes to the front with Bessie, himself develops and drives her to a record of 2.64, only thirteen seconds slower than the best four-year-old record, and only twenty-three and three quarters seconds slower than the best previous record made by a lower province horse on a home track!

Here are three of the most notable performers of the season, developed, handled and driven in their races by their owners.
Would it be fair to inter that there is something lacking in the handling of professionals, or rather that all these performers would have done much better and have made lower records had they been in the hands of professional trainers and drivers? DOBLE.

ANOTHER JUDGE'S CHARGE.

A Brief and Brilliant Elucidation of the Points in a Case Before Him.

Speaking of judges' charges, a St. John lawyer tells of his experience, when a student, with a well-known magistrate in Westmorland county. The student appeared for the defendant in the suit, and having, as he thought, proven the case, made a very elaborate speech. Then he waited for the justice's charge to the jury.
This was it:

Gentlemen of the jury.—This case is about a bundle of hay, and is very important. Have known counsel for defendant a long time—fine young man—knew his father—mother—knew all his family.
Fine old family—best blood in the country—often visit our house. The eloquence of that young man is great—great eloquence—fine speech—fine address.
Startle everybody. Have to get a carpenter, gentlemen of the jury, to examine the roof of my office, and see if any of the shingles are started. I leave the case with you, gentlemen—and for the plaintiff.

The jury retired, and to the surprise of the justice returned a verdict for the defendant.

They Will Make It Pleasant.

The Scottish gathering under the auspices of the St. Andrews Society, Monday night, is sure to be an enjoyable affair.
It goes without saying that all who attend will enjoy themselves. The managing committee will make it pleasant, or violate all the traditions of this venerable but extremely active organization.

Found a Use for the Water.

Dorchester has waked up to the belief that it ought to have a fire department.
True enough. There is plenty of water here, and it ought to be put to some use besides washing purposes.

TELL US ALL ABOUT IT.

A SUGGESTION TO MR. SECRETARY
JOHN MARCH.

The Questions are all Asked in Plain English—Give the Public the Answers Either Through Progress or in Other Ways—
They are Entitled to It.

That interesting concern, "The Canada Schools Supply Co." which has its office in the apartments of the board of school trustees, 85 Germain street, where it is represented by C. S. March, the son of Secretary John March, is as mysterious as ever.

The people have got a fairly good idea through PROGRESS, that C. S. March is merely the agent of the Canada Schools Supply Co. Will Mr. March kindly tell them who the members of the company are?
Progress has asked a number of questions which need answers. None have been given. If Mr. March's difficulty is to find a medium of sufficient circulation in which to tell what he knows, PROGRESS is glad to be able to remove that obstacle, and places its columns at his disposal.
And no person will be more rejoiced than this paper to have Mr. March explain and show that there is nothing in the school department which savors of jobbery. With so many aldermen anxious and willing to find profit in doing the work of the city, and securing by their position what should be open only to outside public tender, it is not pleasant to ferret out anything approaching jobbery in other public departments.

But the facts remain to be explained.
Mr. March should show why for many years the clerkships in his office have been open only to members of his own family; he should say how it is that while in the employ of the school department his son and assistant finds time to be the agent of the Canada Schools Supply company, which has its head office in the trustees department; he should tell who compose that supply company and what connection, if any, it has with himself or any other official of the board; he should take the people into his confidence to the extent of telling them why it was better when there was any blackboard painting to be done in the schools that the job should be given to his sons rather than to the painters of the city; he should go further and state why he, the secretary of the board of school trustees, supplied the school board with the surface for the blackboards.

And if the secretary would make his explanation complete, he should recall the cool contract with Mr. Scammell, year before last, and with Mr. Busby last year.
He will remember that in the absence of any written contract both of those dealers, when coal rose in price, neglected to supply the department. He will recollect that the department purchased at the highest figure the supply for the schools. Will be at the same time say why he permitted such immense quantities of fuel to be bought and summered over, when the supply could have been got this fall at a far lower figure?

Some time ago, Mr. Frank Hayes, the present superintendent of schools, published an article in which he compared the cost of each pupil in the St. John and Portland schools, in the latter of which he was superintendent. He stated that the cost in St. John averaged about $15 per pupil, while the average in Portland was only $8.
And yet the Portland school department came out about square, while the St. John school board is now under the shadow of a $40,000 deficit. Can Mr. March explain?

The Sexton Was Wrathful.

The way of the drummer is hard. This came near being the case with a hardware drummer and a boot and shoe drummer belonging to St. John, who were travelling in St. Andrews last week. St. Andrews is rough on drummers anyway. It was but recently that one was chased by a bear through the public streets of the town, and only escaped into Kennedy's Hotel by making a brilliant slide through the door.

One of the treasures of St. Andrews is the fine old pulpit in Greenock church. It is two stories high and has a mansard roof.
To climb into it is almost equal to ascending Chamceock.

The two drummers went up to inspect the ancient structure. The hardware drummer ascended the pulpit and electrified the audience by a thrilling recitation from the poet Burns. But this did not favorably impress the sexton who had admitted the party to the church. He started up the stairs after the hardware drummer. The hardware man made a hasty descent from the structure, but was collared by the irate sexton at the preacher's desk. For a moment it seemed as if blood would be shed. It cost the drummer just one dollar to effect a ransom. But the drummer is happy. There is reason for believing that if he had recited from any other poet than Burns it would have cost him his neck. B.

Can Any One Tell Why?

A correspondent wants to know why Hon. David McLellan has not carried out his promise to Mr. John Russell. Can any one tell why?

PATRONS OF "PROGRESS."

Men Who Understand the Advantages of the Right Kind of Advertising.

Those people who are beginning to think about the holidays and holiday gifts should read Carl Schmidt's advertisement in the regular columns. He has something for everybody, and is as anxious to show it as he is ready to sell it.

A curious result of advertising comes to PROGRESS from Messrs. Barnes & Murray, who announced a hair crimper in these columns some time ago in French. Some time afterward they received an order from an English lady who wrote to a friend in this city, enclosing the advertisement, and asked her to get her the "crimper." PRO-GRESS goes to a great many places.

One of the really amusing and new toys is the harmless pistol, of which Mr. D. J.
Jennings has the sole agency for New Brunswick. It is nothing more or less than a long and powerful spring in a pistol barrel which when released by pulling the trigger discharges a rubber capped bolt. The rubber cap on the end of the bolt ensures it remaining where it hits the target, which is an ornamental card circled and marked as a target should be. Considerable skill is required to do good shooting. It is a perfect parlor amusement and is meeting with as much favor as "Pigs in Clover," though there is nothing quite so tormenting about it. Mr. Jennings' business announcement gives particulars as to price, etc.

"Hurrah, for Santa Claus!" is the ringing, old-fashion'd salute of F. Beverly to the boys and girls of St. John; and every lad and lassie echoes the cheer. Beverly's has become so firm in the favor of the youths of the town that, as a lady said to PROGRESS, recently, "It really doesn't matter very much what gifts my children get, so long as they come from Beverly's."

Messrs. Estey, Alward & Co. have a very timely reminder in this week's issue.
With the snow and rain and slush and mud, they are to the front with rubbers, overshoes and, in fact, rubber clothing of all kinds. They have admirable stock to select from, and satisfaction can be found there if anywhere.

When such an experienced gentleman as R. D. McArthur says "a chest protector is invaluable" at this season of the year, people with weak lungs and those who are liable to take cold easily, should heed his words. He talks about chest protectors only in his advertisement today but PRO-GRESS can add that if any of its readers are in need of anything to keep them on the road of health, McArthur can supply them.

ORGANIZED FOR WORK.

"The Masonic Club" Enters Upon Life with every Prospect of Success.

The Masonic Club has both "a local habitation and a name," and its members are already showing that they mean business in the winter campaign.

At the meeting for organization held last Monday evening the attendance was large and the attendants full of enthusiasm.
Several plans and estimates for fitting up unoccupied parts of the Temple were submitted and fully discussed. None of them involved a heavy expenditure, compared with the advantages to be derived from having a fine suite of rooms, but those which had reference to the now unfinished Chapter room on the third floor, and the apartments connected with the present Grand Lodge library and Templar Asylum on the second floor meant considerable delay. It was the sense of the meeting that a room should be had for immediate use, and the well lighted apartment over one of Arthur Everitt's stores was chosen as the quarters of the club until the 1st of May.

In the meantime, if found advisable, steps can be taken for the fitting up of more commodious quarters up stairs. The advantage of this location is that no time will be lost in proceeding to business, and that the expense for this winter will be a mere trifle.

The room in question is about 40 feet long and proportionately wide. Access will be had from the main floor by cutting a doorway from the hallway which runs parallel with the Public Library.

The club will start with a membership of at least 100, and probably more. The prospects are good for double that number before the first of May.

The next meeting of the club will be held in the new room, and will be called as soon as the place is made comfortable for occupation.

The Right Way to Put It.

Mr. Blair, at the Elgin meeting, said:
There was a breeze in St. John because the government had appointed to an office a gentleman who had three times received the unqualified approbation of the constituency.

Would it not be better to say that there was a breeze because the government dismissed from office a gentleman who, for more than a quarter of a century, had shown himself a most just and upright judge? Plenty of people would have been glad to see Mr. Ritchie get an office, who will oppose the government because Mr.
Peters was illegally put out of office, in the face of the protest of the people. Mr.
Blair's way of putting things is rather misleading, to say the least.

SMILING AT EACH OTHER

THE RECEIPTS AND EXPENSES OF THE A. A. CLUB

Only $10 Apart—Recommendations Submitted by the Managing Committee Last Evening for the Work of the Year—Wise Suggestions.

The real end of the season of sport was last evening, when the semi-annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic association was held. PROGRESS was printed several hours before the meeting opened, but owing to the unfeeling courtesy and thoughtfulness of Secretary W. S. Barker, it is able to give a synopsis of the season, and the recommendation of the managing committee for another year.

The secretary could not tell the club much more than they already knew about the season. Each and every one at the meeting was conscious that it had been a most successful year for sports of all kinds in St. John. They knew that the club was 30 stronger than the previous year, and
and that there had been so much base ball, and so many victories, so many professional engagements that the finances were in a very normal condition. A smile crept about the club, as it was known that the expenses and the receipts were near enough to speak—only about $10 apart.

Mr. Barker's effort was in accounting for some new properties, the grand stand's seating capacity being handled; the asphalt
"cycle track and the elegant tennis courts.
In return for this and the first-class and gentlemanly base ball exhibitions, more than 30,000 persons visited the grounds during the season. Without any attempt at boasting, just one line in his report showed that out of 45 games, the club won 32. The winning of the league pennant was chronicled in the same modest style, as was the championship of the maritime provinces.

Due credit was given to the generous crowds who, with heart and purse, aided base ball and cricket during the year. But for them the deficit would have indeed been considerable.

Cricket comes out even in respect to games lost and won, but uneven financially.
Lawn tennis and its popularity, the tournament and its success, as well as the attempt to introduce lacrosse obtained suitable reference.

The improvement in the foot ball team was referred to, the added strength of the team, the popularity of the game and the result of the four matches, one won and three drawn.

The success of the fall and maritime sports meetings come next, and included the names of those who so well sustained the name of St. John.

The recommendations of the committee include the raising of the membership fee from $5 to $6, the admission of ladies—or girls—over 13 years old by the payment of $1.50 which gives them a right to vote and should they number more than 40 that a special pavilion be erected for their use; the engagement of a professional trainer for the clubs athletes and the formation of a purely amateur nine to enter the city league; the limiting of professional salaries to $9 per week and the application for membership in the Maritime Lawn Tennis association.

The recommendations are good; such as PROGRESS would expect from such a managing committee.

If report was true, Secretary Barker and Treasurer Macmichael have given way to new officers. They found the work hard and in many ways unthankful, but all will agree with PROGRESS that their duties were always well and impartially performed.
They have given valuable time to the nursing of the club to health and strength, they deserve a rest, and the genuine gratitude of the members.

GETTING IT READY.

The Christmas "Progress" Will be a Handsome and Readable Paper.

PROGRESS-compositors are already at work on the Christmas number, which will appear two weeks from today, on Dec. 14.
Wide awake merchants who know the extent of the circulation of such a paper, and the interest taken in it by the people, have sent in their advertisements, and it is safe to say that those who put it off until the last moment will get left.

Since last week two splendid original stories have been received. They are interesting from the first to the last line.
The illustrations are equal, if not superior to many in the foreign pictorial holiday papers, the only difference being in the form of the publication. The paper will be at least twice the size of the ordinary paper and probably larger. Newsdealers should make up their minds for a big demand for the Christmas PROGRESS.

BYGONE DAYS RECALLED

AN OLD TIMER'S REMINISCENCES OF PEOPLE AND EVENTS.

The Story of a Man who Wanted to Explain his Case to His Honor Mr. Justice Parker—What the Learned Judge thought about it, and what he did.

Probably one of the most upright and conscientious Judges who ever occupied a seat on the Supreme Court bench of this Province, was Judge Robert Parker. There was a case about to be tried before him, and one of the principals interested, an Irish gentleman, well-known in St. John at the time, was not quite satisfied that his lawyer could do him full justice, as it was not possible for him to know as much about his side of the story as he knew himself. A bright idea struck him, that if he could only have some conversation with the Judge before the court opened, he would come out all right and gain the suit. Accordingly he called upon Judge Wilnot (supposing he was to preside), and after the usual salutations our litigant finding that he had a good listener in the Judge, commenced his story. Now, as Judge Wilnot was not to occupy the bench, and somewhat inclined to enjoy a little humor, our friend was even thrown off his guard, while the Judge, in a quiet way, encouraged him to proceed. All the points of the case were duly laid down—the absurdity of his opponent's contentions he as clearly demonstrated, and he could not see for the life of him how John Doe could possibly get the better of John Rowe, especially while so upright a Judge as Judge Wilnot was to hold the scales of justice in the Court House that day. As our friend waxed warm, the Judge nodded, signifying that Paddy was right and his opponent in the case would not have a leg to stand upon. After getting through with his story the Judge informed him that he was sorry, but Judge Parker was going to preside, and he would strongly advise him (Erin) to call upon him and state his case as he had to him, and no doubt Judge Parker would be interested.

In half an hour from this our friend stood in "the learned Judge's" porch—on the present site of Collector Ruel's (who is soon to be superannuated, because he is in good bodily condition, with all his wits about him) residence—and not many minutes afterwards was ushered into the presence of the worthy Judge, who looked the embodiment of Coke, Mansfield, Jeffries, and all the learned Jurists who ever held court at Westminster or, for that matter, the City Court of St. John, where one of the Aldermen used to help the City Clerk expound the law and consign some poor fellow to his merited fate. The Judge was tall, about six feet high, as erect as a beanpole, slim, very dignified of aspect, and while he would not kill a mouse, woe betide that individual who might attempt to deceive him, or give symptoms of crookedness in any way—in fact he was death upon all shams and imposters. I don't mean to imply that Erin was either. On one occasion a case was before his court when the issue turned upon smelling. It seems that ten witnesses swore that they did not smell anything (I suppose evidence rested upon some dead animal that had been secreted away and the endeavor was to convict the prisoners at the bar, suspected of having killed the animal) while the eleventh swore that he smelt a very bad smell, almost enough to knock him down. "Gentlemen of the jury," said the Judge, "you must believe this witness who smelt the smell, and not the eleven who could not smell anything at all." But in all his rulings Judge Parker was an ornament of the Bench of New Brunswick.

Well, it was in the presence of this most excellent Judge that our friend found himself, with hat in hand. "Is it yer honor who intends to hold Court this day?" "Yes," said the learned Judge. "Glad of it," was the reply—"will yer honor listen to me for a few minutes while I state a case in which I am largely interested to come before yer honor—I'm sure a few words of explanation in my case will be of great use to yer honor—"

"Hoo-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o!" was the Judge's response at the tip-top of his voice—fire bursting from his eyes—while his arms would have done no discredit to John L. Sullivan.

Paddy was not long in finding the front door after that! AN OLD TIMER.

She Got the Facts. "Oh, I had my fortune told, and Miss Larkins broke off the engagement." "Why, is she as superstitious as that?" "Oh, no; but my fortune was told by Bradstreet and that settled me."—Harper's Bazar.

THE MISSING BRIDEGROOM.

A Mistake Which Was Easily, if Not Satisfactorily, Explained by Him.

A well-known business man, residing in a prosperous village in Victoria county, and a fair and popular husband, recently linked their fortunes together, and amid customary showers of rice, with the congratulations of mutual friends, embarked on the Grand Falls express for a brief bridal tour to Quebec, via the Temiscouata railway. Before departing, after a sumptuous wedding breakfast, the happy groom opened several cases of Moselle, and his future happiness and prosperity were pledged with the sparkling beverage by his male friends.

When Riviere du Loup was reached, the groom was so much exhilarated by the bliss that Cupid had lavished upon him that he soon determined to return to Edmundston, and boarded the Temiscouata express, as he imagined, in company with his bride. Tired with the journey, he courted Morpheus, and peacefully slumbered until Edmundston was reached, in the evening. The conductor awakened him some 20 minutes after the arrival of the train there, and he then inquired for his bride, but could obtain no information regarding her whereabouts. Thinking his cherished wife was huffed at his seeming neglect, he drove to the leading hotel, where he imagined she had preceded him, registered Mr. and Mrs. —, and retired to repose his wearied mind.

He arose early the next morning, and enquired for the number of the room occupied by his bride, but a ghastly pallor overspread his handsome features when the landlord informed him that no daughter of Eve had partaken of his hospitality for several days. Summoning a coach, he made enquiries at all the hostleries in the village, but could find no trace of his better half. Much alarmed, he wended his way to the telegraph office, flashed a message to Riviere du Loup, and awaited several weary hours for an answer. None came. His agonized brain could no longer endure the torture and suspense, and he boarded the first train for Riviere du Loup, where he imagined he and his blushing bride had taken the train for Edmundston. Reaching there, he discovered his wife of a day plunged in tears, and mourning her fate and the absence of her lord. He kicked himself several times, and implored her to kill him and thus satisfy her unsteady honor. She finally forgave him, but he has not yet quite forgiven himself.

SOMETHING FOR THE MEN

POINTERS AS TO THE DUTY AT THIS FESTIVE SEASON.

The Trials and Tribulations of the Gentle Sex who do not Possess a Bank Account—Tests to which their Ingenuity is Put—Something about Soiled Gloves.

And extravagance remarked to selfishness "I'd rather be caught stealing meal from a blind hen than shopping with my wife." The sympathetic reply of selfishness was characteristic of the average man of the day, who agrees to devote one tenth of his yearly income to his wife, "to run the house on you know" and then finds so many profitable ways of investing the remaining nine-tenths that she soon realizes that "running the house" also includes the renting, repairing, refurbishing and meeting the demands of the small army of tax-collectors, plumbers, coal, wood, gas and laundrymen, church wardens and missionary societies, etc., etc. Then she is at liberty to devote the surplus to herself and children, looking forward with eager anticipation to the next drawing of the Louisiana lottery, when she may possibly be able to demonstrate her appreciation of this magnanimous spouse by providing him with a unique depository for the ashes and stubs of his affection. Bah! is it any wonder such men are ashamed to be caught shopping with their wives?

And now the festive season is again at hand when the daughters of these men (or the generality of them) would willingly collapse into a trance state. They would barter all they possess in exchange for a small bank account. Their "allowance" is also small—decidedly small—generally consisting of an occasional birthday V and any loose change they may catch "on the wing." However, the donations of last Christmas must be returned p.o. rata anyway. And in the selecting of

WOMEN OF BRAINS.

Need Any Ambitious Woman Despair of Her Own Success?

HARRIET HUBBARD AYER.

Mrs. Harriet Hubbard Ayer is the youngest child of the late Henry G. Hubbard, one of Chicago's oldest and most distinguished citizens. As a child she was extremely delicate, but so bright that at the age of four she could read as well as most children at ten. At fifteen she graduated at the head of her class from the Convent of the Sacred Heart, in Chicago. At sixteen she became the wife of Mr. Herbert C. Ayer, a then wealthy iron merchant of Chicago and Youngstown, Ohio. Society knew Mrs. Ayer as a leader, because of her wealth, her beauty, ability and hospitality. Her intimate friends knew her as a loving mother and noble woman. The poor as their friend, not in words alone, but always in deeds of kindness.

HARRIET HUBBARD AYER.

She was then, as now, a person of the best impulses, and generous to a fault. The most remarkable thing, however, in the history of this interesting woman, is that, although born and reared in luxury, she met disaster bravely and unflinchingly when it came, thinking, as usual, more about the welfare of others than her own comfort and concern.

Mrs. Ayer is a woman whose history would read as far more improbable than the wildest fiction ever written, and of whom in recounting the sad story of her life—and how in a few hours she found herself instead of rich in millions, absolutely destitute with two little daughters to support—the New York Herald said, "She is a woman whom any country may be proud to call her daughter." To-day Mrs. Harriet Hubbard Ayer's name in the business world is a tower of strength. She has gained the confidence and respect of every business house with which she has had dealings. It has been her motto to always tell the truth. Her advertisements, which the whole country has read, are plain and truthful statements. The result of such a policy is this: Mrs. Ayer is the head of a great and prosperous business, founded by her, and to-day by her guided and directed in all its departments.

Mrs. Ayer is a woman of perfect breeding as a well-born American, cultured and accomplished, she has been cordially received by the literati and beau monde of London and Paris. She speaks French and Italian as fluently as English, and her knowledge of literature is very extensive.

How Mrs. Ayer accidentally obtained the formula for the famous Recamier Cream.

One day, in Paris, Mrs. Ayer, while suffering intensely from the scorching sun of a July journey across the English Channel, was offered a pot of cream by an old French lady friend, to be used on her face when retiring, being assured that it would do wonders in softening and beautifying the complexion. Its effects were so magical and so marvelous that Mrs. Ayer became anxious to possess the formula for the cream, which she learned was not an article to be bought. But the old French lady finally sold the recipe, which (so she told Mrs. Ayer) was used by her beautiful and famous ancestor, Julie Recamier, for forty years, and was the undoubted secret of her wonderful beauty, which Mme. Recamier retained until her death.

What the Recamier Preparations are and why they are to be used.

Recamier Cream, which is the best of these world-famous preparations, is made from the recipe by Julie Recamier. It is not a cosmetic, but an emollient to be applied at night just before retiring, and to be removed in the morning by bathing freely. It will remove tan and sunburn, pimples, red spots and blotches, and make your face and hands as smooth, as white and as soft as an infant's.

Recamier Balm is a beautifier, pure and simple. It is not a whitewash, and unlike most liquids Recamier Balm is exceedingly beneficial and is absolutely imperceptible except in the delicate freshness and youthfulness which it imparts to the skin.

Recamier Lotion will remove freckles and moth patches; is soothing and efficacious for any irritation of the cuticle, and is the most delightful of washes for removing the dust from the face after traveling, and is also invaluable to gentlemen to be used after shaving.

Recamier Powder is in three shades, white, flesh and cream. It is the finest powder ever manufactured, and is delightful in the nursery, for gentlemen after shaving and for the toilet generally.

Recamier Soap is a perfectly pure article, guaranteed free from animal fat. This soap contains many of the healing ingredients used in compound Recamier Cream and Lotion.

The Recamier Toilet Preparations are positively free from all poisonous ingredients, and contain neither lead, bismuth, nor arsenic. The following certificate is from the eminent Scientist and Professor of Chemistry, Thomas B. Stillman, of the Stevens' Institute of Technology:

40 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, Jan. 1887.

Mrs. H. H. AYER.

DEAR MADAM—Samples of your Recamier Preparations have been analyzed by me. I find that there is nothing in them that will harm the most delicate skin, which is not authorized by the French Pharmacopoeia as safe and beneficial in preparations of this character.

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS B. STILLMAN, M.D., Ph.D.

I OFTEN WONDER WHY THE SO.

Some find work where some find rest. And so big wavy world goes on. I sometimes wonder which is best; The answer comes when life is gone. Some eyes sleep when some eyes wake; And so the dreary night-hours go; Some hearts beat where some hearts break; I often wonder why 'tis so.

A DUTIFUL NIECE.

After an absence of more than 30 years, Silas Thornton found himself again in his native land. At the end of a week's sojourn in London, he began to wonder whether he had made a mistake in coming home.

His buoyant temperament made him hope that his future experience would be more cheerful; for he was going to Jersey to see his sister Susan and her girls—the only relatives he had in all the world.

Silas had succeeded in his mission, although not without a very severe struggle. He had wandered far and wide, and often lived from hand to mouth, before he "struck it" in the Western States of the Union.

Many things, going among them, made Silas Thornton think he might do worse than wind up his affairs at San Francisco and settle down in Susan Mann's home.

"Oh, yes—ever since my father died! My sister and I have grown up there. It's rather a jolly place," she added, after a moment's pause—"there's a regiment there."

"Indeed! And yet I gathered that you are sorry to return there." "Well, of course I don't like my fun in London being cut short, and all for an old fog of an uncle!"

"But you must think of your mother. It may be a great joy to her to see you uncles!" "Kitty opened her eyes in amazement, and exclaimed: "A joy to my mother! Oh, you can't expect her to care for a brother she hasn't seen for thirty years!"

"How should I know? I could see nothing but a beard and a broad-brimmed hat on the top. He had had it done in some out-of-the-way place in the Rocky Mountains. He said he should shave before he came to see us; so his features will be quite a surprise. But his clothes—ah! I ever forget them! That waistcoat!"

"What an unnatural girl!" thought Silas Thornton. "I am thankful my nieces are not like her!" "When do you say you expect him?" inquired the gentleman.

"Next week, Mr. Dacres; but of course we are anxious to get our dance over first." "But why?" queried the gentleman.

"Ugh," exclaimed Kitty, "and disgrace us by wearing a suit of clothes made in Oregon! Thanks—we won't give him the chance! And, besides, what's the use of mother writing and saying we're so poor, when we can give a dance, and Sue and I appear in cream satin?"

"May I ask if you are going to Jersey tonight, sir?" "Well," replied Silas, dubiously, "I have a ticket for Jersey."

"Oh, well, then, may I ask you to render any little service you can to this young lady? She is travelling alone." "Certainly," and the obnoxious Kitty stepped into the carriage. She was delivering voluble messages and kissing her hands, when the guard slammed the door, the engine whistled, and they were off.

"I have come to show you the manor-house where Mrs. Langtry lived for a year soon after her marriage," said Kitty at his elbow, at the same time pointing out a square house embowered in trees half-way up the hillside.

"It is prettily situated," replied Mr. Thornton. "We shall be in soon, I think?" "Oh, yes—there is St. Helier's Harbor straight in front of us. I feel quite jolly this morning! Mr. Lovell here has been telling me of so many parties and picnics that are coming off! We must go to them in spite of twenty uncle Silas's pains."

"Oh, well," replied Kitty, "he may expect us to show him the island! And, if there is one thing I hate, it is scenery—except at a picnic, you know; and I am sure he'll think us very frivolous, and quite the reverse of what mother has painted us in her letters. She always said we were so good and useful, while in point of fact we never do anything but amuse ourselves!"

"I wish you could," said the gentleman. "Annie and I own the old ogre," as you call him, a grudge for taking you away."

"Perhaps, after all, you may like your uncle very much," suggested Annie mildly. Miss Kitty tossed her head and said: "Nothing but unlimited tips could induce me to tolerate him!"

"What an unnatural girl!" thought Silas Thornton. "I am thankful my nieces are not like her!" "When do you say you expect him?" inquired the gentleman.

"Next week, Mr. Dacres; but of course we are anxious to get our dance over first." "But why?" queried the gentleman.

"Ugh," exclaimed Kitty, "and disgrace us by wearing a suit of clothes made in Oregon! Thanks—we won't give him the chance! And, besides, what's the use of mother writing and saying we're so poor, when we can give a dance, and Sue and I appear in cream satin?"

"I have come to show you the manor-house where Mrs. Langtry lived for a year soon after her marriage," said Kitty at his elbow, at the same time pointing out a square house embowered in trees half-way up the hillside.

"It is prettily situated," replied Mr. Thornton. "We shall be in soon, I think?" "Oh, yes—there is St. Helier's Harbor straight in front of us. I feel quite jolly this morning! Mr. Lovell here has been telling me of so many parties and picnics that are coming off! We must go to them in spite of twenty uncle Silas's pains."

"Indeed! And yet I gathered that you are sorry to return there." "Well, of course I don't like my fun in London being cut short, and all for an old fog of an uncle!"

"A Dry Cough"

Is dangerous as well as troublesome. It renders the patient liable to the rupture of a blood vessel or to other serious injury of throat and lungs. To allay bronchial irritation and give immediate relief, the best medicine is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

I was recently troubled with a dry cough, which seemed to be caused by an irritation in the throat. My physician prescribed for me, but no relief was obtained. A little over a week ago, my attention being called to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I concluded to try it, and purchased a bottle. After taking this medicine only one day, I could see a change for the better, and, by the time I had used it a week, my cough had entirely disappeared."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral leads all other medicines as a safe, sure, and speedy cure of throat and lung troubles.

PAY AND LOOK PLEASANT.

The gentlemen who made most of the trouble in the old Portland council, and are a legacy from the expired city to the living one, made a determined effort to prevent this city saving its honor in the matter of the carnival deficit.

It is, however, a matter for regret that a more liberal spirit was not shown in dealing with the electric exhibition bill. The attempt of the council to dictate as to further reductions of the accounts after they had been carefully scrutinized by a committee of citizens, has led to a refusal of the petty sum offered.

The carnival claims which have been approved by the committee will be paid, but not by the council. The committee has faith that the citizens will respond to the call, and when they do, the last will be heard of the matter.

THE TYRANNY OF LABOR.

That the tyranny of labor is as bad as the tyranny of capital is a fact which has impressed itself upon most people who have given a calm attention to industrial matters. It has lately been exemplified by the removal of the large foundry and iron works of RATHBONE, SAID & Co., from Albany, N. Y., to Aurora, Ill.

The determination of the concern is not a hasty one. The fight with the labor bosses is not one of recent date. Four years or so ago, when the writer was living in that part of New York state, the trouble was of a character to interfere materially with the operations of the great works.

The workmen most interested would have been content enough in most matters, if they had been let alone, but they were not. Able bodied men who had nothing to do with the concern or its affairs, and aspired to gain a living by working with their jaws, made perpetual discontent. Strikes were the rule, rather than the exception, and a boycott was on the foundry much of the time.

Doubtless, at the outset there were reasons for dissatisfaction among the workmen, as there often are in such cases. We do not take the side of capital in the abstract, and believe in the recognition of the rights of labor in the fullest sense. But a personal knowledge of this case proves that there are two sides to the question.

They are in Troy, near by, the home of the tough, the beeler and the saloon-king, is a class of professed friends of labor, composed of men who would be detrimental to the interests of any honest industry. They are practically black-mailers, who are as willing to boycott a widow as a capitalist, if it will serve their turn.

This means a loss to the people of Albany of a pay roll of $70,000, and it is a particular source of sorrow to several hundred saloons which handle the most of the money each month. It will be a good thing for the foundry, however, for not only is it likely to escape its past troubles, but as wages, iron and coke, are cheaper in the west, there must be a material increase in its profits.

This appears to be one of the cases where the tyranny of labor has over-reached itself.

AIMED AT JOBBERY.

While the timidity of some of the daily papers and the self-interest of others have kept them silent in regard to jobbery by members of the council, PROGRESS alone has told the truth and protested against the undesirable state of affairs. Its exposures have done some good, and if the council does its duty will accomplish much more.

That the directors, officials and committees of the city be instructed not to enter into any contract with any alderman at this board, his partners or employees for the performance of any work or the furnishing of supplies of any kind or description whatsoever for the use of said city.

This was referred to the committee of the whole, with the recorder. If it is adopted, as it should be, and enforced, it will be a cold day for some of the jobbers. The public may thank PROGRESS for it.

WHITHER TENDING?

The New York Mail and Express, commenting on the removal of the last American monarchy, by the resolution in Brazil, takes occasion to say:

The event is important not in the history of America only, but of the world. It is a manifestation, in a very emphatic form, of the modern spirit. Individualism is asserting itself; reason is gaining the mastery; and the day is not distant when thrones and crowns, whether associated with temporal or spiritual authority, will be remembered as baubles of the past and seen only in antiquarian museums, where they will be looked upon as strange and and mysterious relics of a defunct superstition.

If "individualism is asserting itself," what is to become of the United States? That country, while nominally republican, is less a republic than England, which is nominally monarchial. A majority of the people are supposed to choose a ruler every four years, and he is clothed with powers more absolute than VICTORIA, who reigns by popular consent.

Now that the arc-light wire has shown that it can burn Boston at the rate of a million dollars an hour, it is likely to be buried or abolished in that city. The citizens are not like the New Yorkers, and once is enough for them. The statement of Sergeant Sims, of the New York police, that every fifth man on the force is a socialist, has caused some alarm, and will be investigated. Perhaps the reporter misunderstood him. He may have said that every fifth man was fond of a social glass.

MR. SAGE'S APOLOGIST.

It is altogether likely that Mr. Sage and the other owners of the Shore Line value highly the esteemed suggestions of PROGRESS as to how their road should be managed, but, at the same time, it is possible they will continue to follow their own ideas in the matter. No one doubts that PROGRESS can give Russell Sage important pointers on all things pertaining to railways. Notwithstanding this, it is safe to conclude that Russ will continue to stumble along in his own old-fashioned and clumsy way.

And if he does, his railway will stumble along in its non-paying, "old-fashioned and clumsy way"—only a little more so. The Shore Line is a road on which a great deal of the people's money has been expended. It was well subsidized, and the rate-payers of Charlotte have been taxed for its support. The people have some rights in the matter, and it is for them that PROGRESS speaks. Russell Sage may not be open to pointers on the subject of railroad gambling, but there is a good deal that he and the "other owners" need to learn about the Shore Line and its patrons. The road was bought as a speculation, and the apparent idea is to run it as meanly as possible. The owners are doubtless of the opinion that the management of the concern is nobody's business but their own, and that "the public be damned" is a good enough motto for them. They act that way, and the Courier knows it. It would look better for our contemporary to take up the cause of the people, rather than endorse the meanness of a millionaire who attempts to walk over them. Perhaps this is too much to expect from a paper which fattened for years on the money taken from the widow and orphan by the worst lottery swindle ever permitted to disgrace America. And that is the kind of a paper the Courier is.

PEN AND PRESS.

A handsome enlarged number of the Shoe and Leather Journal contains a portrait of Mr. C. N. Vroom, of St. Stephen, with his attractive business announcement. The portrait is familiar to the readers of PROGRESS, having appeared in its special St. Stephen edition.

STAR CHOP TEA.

SUNDRY HITS AND HINTS.

What about that injunction? This is great weather for dry dock schemes. Ticket or no ticket, this has been a good week for canvassing.

The aldermen will give up their $100 a year—as the boy hood the cabbage. Whether the carnival did good or not, no one is likely to propose another one.

If the people of Fredericton must have the Scott Act, let them have it. It is not our funeral. Why is it that the man who gives a stranger his money in exchange for a bogus cheque is always a Nova Scotian?

How would it do for Rev. Mr. Hartley to use his Latin prayers in an effort to exorcise the spirit of greed in the common council? Wages are low in China. Plumbers receive only 24 cents a day, but it is probable that the boss plumber gets there just the same.

Maryland will have an oyster crop of 20,000,000 bushels this year, and the Jews on the church fair stew will amount to the usual number. A lawsuit was begun in Rokeby four centuries ago over a 40 acre tract of wild land, and has just been settled by peaceful arbitration. Why couldn't that have done in the first place?

Roswell P. Flower, of New York, believes that postmasters should be elected by the people. He does not suggest how money letters should be sent, with the class of men such a system would put in office.

Now that the arc-light wire has shown that it can burn Boston at the rate of a million dollars an hour, it is likely to be buried or abolished in that city. The citizens are not like the New Yorkers, and once is enough for them.

The statement of Sergeant Sims, of the New York police, that every fifth man on the force is a socialist, has caused some alarm, and will be investigated. Perhaps the reporter misunderstood him. He may have said that every fifth man was fond of a social glass.

It would appear that the Rev. H. A. S. Hartley thinks that while the prayers of the Protestant are good enough for every day work, when it comes to driving away a ghost the Latin prayers of the Roman Catholic church are about the safest to rely on. It is well to be posted on both systems of treatment.

SOCIAL NORTH ENDERS.

The Hoben Club, Its Objects, Aspirations and Distinguished Office Bearers.

Some years ago a few gentlemen of the North End seeing that the pernicious spirit of loafing was rapidly developing bad habits, and anxious to ameliorate their condition and rescue their friends from social thralldom organized the Hoben club.

The objects of this association are the social, moral and intellectual cultivation of its members, and although it is not definitely known what the rules are, yet it is currently reported that in the particular of games and such like intellectual exercises, drive-whist, progressive euchre, and similar amusements of a gambling tendency are strictly prohibited.

On Monday evening the club held its annual meeting, and elected the following officers:

- G. W. Hoben, Chief Dispenser De Haute Antique. R. Wisely, Dispenser of Knowledge; J. S. Gregory, Most Elegant Driver; A. B. Holley, Stay-in Chief; F. Flewelling, Monetary Packer; W. H. Keltie, Keeper of the Golden Coffin; J. T. Knight, Extinguisher of Lights; Dr. Smith, Plenipotentiary to Jawdism; J. W. Holly, Illustrious Shouter; Dr. March, Director of Pulses; W. Graham, Moderator; Dr. Marter, Exasperator; C. Miller, Orator; F. Tapley, Eminent Visitor; R. A. Courtenay, Follower En Bloc; L. A. Curry, Advisers in Intermediate Straits. W. B. Wallace.

After the officers had indulged in a little moral refreshment and discussing the advisability of nominating an intellectual ticket for the next local election, it was determined to feel the pulse of the constituency by having a social gathering in the Domville building at an early day, the committee having reported that in the present turbulent state of affairs it was impossible to procure "The Saints Rest."

A Curious Benefit.

Mr. Mason's "benefit" Thursday evening was undeserved. There must have been a loss of $40, judging from the size of the audience. It will be repeated in Berryman hall in the near future and persons who held unused tickets will lose nothing if they attend. Give Mr. Mason a good house then.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Patriotic Speech.

TO THE EDITOR OF PROGRESS: At a meeting of the Loyalist Society, May 18, 1889, with Chief Justice Allen in the chair, among other patriotic speeches was the following of Alderman Thomas W. Peters, to which I ask the attention of his associates of the common council:

He referred gracefully to the filling of a great void in the society by the enrollment of a number of the ladies present as members. This naturally led the alderman to enlarge upon the value of sentiment, which he pointed out had been behind all great movements in all ages. The sentiment of loyalty should be intensified. It was most unfortunate that anything tending to annexation should be permitted to exist. We are of a citizenship that can afford to stand alone. We are confident that our neighbors will succeed, but no less confident of our own success. He believed our people would be no parties to the dismemberment of the empire.

Concerning Mr. Jack's proposal of a monument, Alderman Peters pointed out that if the twenty-six aldermen of the new city would contribute each his $100 for the first year, there would be a handsome nucleus for private contributions to grow around. He sincerely hoped all would labor earnestly for the society which would be a powerful element in the city, now the fourth, but soon, he believed, to be the second in prominence among the cities of the Dominion.

I know of no better way to illustrate practical loyalty than to honor the founders of St. John by the erection of an enclosure around the old grave yard. A donation from each of the twenty-six aldermen, their $100, in this the first year of the enlarged city, would be a graceful tribute on their part, and one their constituents would appreciate.

As Mayor Lockhart unexpectedly finds his income increased, a gift from him no doubt will be most cheerfully given. The same may be said of the Director of Public Works, who not only has an increase from $1200 to $1800 per annum, but the use of a horse and carriage, and this with no increase of office hours. The Chamberlain is among those who cannot feel otherwise than grateful, for his $1600 has grown to $2000. Come, gentlemen, go forward, especially as two of our city architects offer free a choice of designs. LOYALIST.

How to Raise the Money.

TO THE EDITOR OF PROGRESS: There is a great deal of discussion at the present time in regard to the wants of the city: the winter port, the dry dock, the Short Line railway, the shortage in the school accounts, and last, but not least, the erection of a fence around the Old Burial Ground. Let us at least show the outside barbarians, when they come to pay us their annual visit with their pockets well lined with the needful, that we are equal to the occasion by taking all they have got, and their promise to remit the balance when they get home. I would suggest that each one of our aldermen be compelled to open a hotel. I think that we would then be in a position to solve the financial problem. They have been so long grinding the public between the upper and the nether stone of the corporation grist mill that the outside barbarians would never get home after they had an opportunity to apply their section pumps to them. It is possible there might be an awakening of conscience in the aldermen that would compel them to restitution sufficient to put a fence around the Old Burial Ground, build the dry dock, pay the school debt, build and equip a line of ocean steamers for the West India trade, make a loan to the St. John Forwarding and Dry Dock company, and pay the carnival deficit in full.

If the aldermen and the Lime Kiln club—the board of trade—are not equal to the occasion, I would advise that the affairs of the city be turned over to Alderman Smith's

Weldon's Illustrated Dressmaker:

The Historical Society.

TO THE EDITOR OF PROGRESS: I read with interest the Telegraph's notice of Mr. Scott's paper on the life of Col. DesBarres. I may be mistaken when I disagree with Mr. Scott that Col. DesBarres became Governor of Nova Scotia. Was he not appointed Governor of Prince Edward Island, and did he not die in Halifax about the year 1822, at the age of 102, not 103? Mr. Scott further says he left two sons, one of whom became Governor; but as our historian does not name the province he was Governor of, I am unable to say—but certainly not of Nova Scotia. The Judge, who died in Halifax in 1842 (?), is personally correct. However, as historians are supposed to be correct in their data, it must be that it is my memory that is at fault. [NOTE.—Our correspondent appears to have been misled by the incorrect report published in the Telegraph.—ED.]

What the Printers Think of "Progress"

PROGRESS, an eight page weekly published in St. John N. B., has received an improved four roller Cranston press, attached to which is a Stonemetz folder which folds and pastes. Previously PROGRESS had to have its press-work done outside, but with the latest improved machinery will now be able to supply the demand of its large and increasing circulation. This journal was started about eighteen months ago, and has shown a great deal of pluck and enterprise during that time, giving employment to union men only, paying a high rate of wages and does not use plate matter. In fact it is the only paper published in that city, with the exception of a religious weekly which does not use "boiler plate."—St. Louis Artist Printer.

Mr. E. G. Nelson's New Song.

Up With the Union Jack is the title of a new song, for which Mr. E. G. Nelson is responsible. In conversation with PROGRESS, Mr. Nelson incidentally said that a speech of Secretary Blaine's, particularly offensive to Canadians, gave him the idea of the poem, which afterwards appeared in the Empire. Col. Denison, of Toronto, read it, and, writing to the author, asked him to set the words to music. This was a more difficult task than he had already accomplished, but after months of waiting for the inspiration, the tune—and musicians say it is a pretty one—came to Mr. Nelson and he lost no time in putting it on paper. A chorus has been added, and a leading singer of Toronto has given the song a place on his repertoire. The song is for sale by all music dealers for 20 cents.

Mr. Lindsay's solo, "Abide with Me," was finely sung, as was also the song, "I Love Myself," by Mr. F. H. J. Row. Miss Nellie Robinson gave a reading which showed her powers as an elocutionist to be all that one could desire.

A quartette by Mrs. Macdonald, Miss Smith, Mr. Lindsay and Mr. Fred Smith was well sung, their voices blending admirably.

Mr. Daniel's fine bass voice was heard with good effect in his song. This concert was the opening of a course of lectures, to be given in the same room throughout the winter; and it is hoped such good audiences will greet the talented lecturers as on this occasion.

Prof. Bailey, of the University of New Brunswick will occupy the platform next Monday.

On Wednesday evening last a very pleasant encore party was given by the Misses Bayard, German street, for their young friends. Between 30 and 40 guests were present and much interest was manifested in the game throughout the evening.

MONCTON.

Nov. 27--This has been another quiet week. I suppose everything goes in waves, and one must accept the thick with the thin, and vice versa, besides people are beginning to think about their Christmas presents...

Speaking of dances reminds me that I hear rumors of yet another club being formed in our city. It is a "small and early," and the guests and butter is no material, and we have plenty of it at home...

By the way, it strikes me that we are hearing a great deal about East End and West End lately. Where is this struggle for supremacy going to end? Are we to set an example of civil war to Europe, and be engaged in all the horrors of an internal conflict?

Mr. H. C. Huntington, of Dorchester, has decided to cast in his lot with the growing town of Moncton, and that in early spring a bison of a house is to be erected on one of those vacant lots on Lancaster Heights.

Mr. J. O. Crisp, Mrs. A. Coster, Mrs. Geo. Harding, Miss Annie Tilley, Miss Edith Peters, Miss Annie Ellis, Mrs. E. J. Wetmore and Mrs. McDuffee. The church, which has been closed during the three last months, undergoing extensive improvements and alterations, will be reopened this Sunday.

On 24th, that on our most charming young ladies is thinking of leaving us for a few weeks' visit to Moncton. We hope she will not follow in the steps of one of our late young ladies, and be persuaded to make it her home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Dunn, who have been spending some weeks with their daughter, Mrs. Jewett in Boston, have returned to their residence, on Lancaster Heights.

The Ladies' Aid association of St. Jude's church held a very enjoyable high tea and sale last Thursday evening. The attendance was large, and the amount realized far exceeded the expectations of the most sanguine.

Mr. B. C. Boyd, I am glad to see, able to be out again. On his return to the Bank of New Brunswick, he will, I understand, fill the position of accountant...

On Tuesday night, the congregation of the Mission Chapel will tender a welcome to their pastor, Rev. J. M. Davenport, on his return from England, by holding a conversation in the school house.

[Progress is for sale in Annapolis Royal at Fred S. Symonds & Co.]

Nov. 27--Our little town has been very quiet lately, but I hope before winter sets in that it will improve. There was a time when we had a what club here. Why not form a what and chess club now? It would afford amusement for some of the long winter evenings, and I am sure some of the members of the old club would take a deep interest in it.

How about the penny readings? I hope they are not to be given up just as they were becoming so popular.

The members of the A. A. A. & C. club repeated the entertainment, given here on Thanksgiving, at Bear River, last week. They had a jolly time, but their success financially did not meet their expectations.

THE WORLD OF BOOKS.

Something About Ibsen. That the study or pretended study of the writings of the Norwegian writer, Henrik Ibsen, has become so popular on both sides of the water is a strong evidence of the tendency of the age toward a better knowledge of social topics.

Ibsen is an Anarchist. Thousands of those who are trying to become familiar with his plays do not realize this, nor do they realize that what they applaud is anarchism pure and simple.

Take, for instance, An Enemy of Society, in which Dr. Stockmann is the rather unfortunate hero. It is a satire on the right or ability of the majority to rule, yet shows clearly that it does rule with an iron hand, under the name of democracy.

Dr. Stockmann. Yes, but isn't it a citizen's duty, whenever he has a new idea, to communicate it to the public.

It should be explained that Dr. Stockmann is trying to do, as an individual, what he considers for the best interests of his fellow-citizens of the justice of his cause, but is continually interrupted. One of the disturbers is a drunken man, who insists on his right to his opinion because he is "a duly qualified rate-payer."

Dr. Stockmann. I have said I should speak of the great discovery I have made within the last few days—the discovery that all our spiritual sources of life are poisoned, and that our whole bourgeois society rests on a soil, teeming with the pestilence of lies.

A little later he asserts that the leading men, "these old remnants of a decaying world of thought," are not the most serious danger of society.

Dr. Stockmann. . . . It is not they who are the most effective in poisoning our spiritual life or making pestilential the ground beneath our feet; it is they who are the most dangerous enemies in our society.

Naturally there is great disturbance at this assertion and the doctor is asked to withdraw his remarks. He refuses. They argue with him and assert that right is always on the side of the majority.

Dr. Stockmann. The majority is never right. Never, I say. That is one of those conventional lies against which a free thoughtful man must rebel.

It may be added that in Dr. Stockmann, Ibsen is believed to have given a glimpse of himself and his experiences. Some of the author's views are recorded in a speech made by him to a club of working men, in 1885, in which he declared that he would work with all his life and strength in the social revolution which concerned the future of the workers and the women.

A Doll's House, now being played in the United States, is a social drama which deals with "the tragedy of heredity," while Ghosts is "the tragedy of heredity."

How long the Ibsen fad may last is uncertain and unimportant. It will be at least the means of introducing the nature writer to many who are thinkers, and can appreciate the crystallized truths which are brought to them from the bleak regions of Norway. It will help in the great work of making others think. It will aid in what Ibsen says is the "only one thing that avails—to revolutionize people's minds."

Among the first of illustrated holiday books to reach Progress was Europe Illustrated from the well stocked store of Mr. Alfred Morrison. Good descriptions of country scenes and buildings is always interesting to Canadians, especially when accompanied by good illustrations. Celebrated structures and scenes in each country of Europe are found in this illustrated edition. Among the most notable under France are the Chateau de Maisons, New Opera House, Paris, and the Tower of Joan of Arc, Ronan. In Spain, the Rock of Gibraltar, General View of the Alhambra and the Inquisition, Barcelona, are among the most interesting. The Palace in Berlin, the National Gallery and the Grand Ducal Castle, chain the reader's attention to Germany. The Lazaretto in Norway and the Coliseum arena, the Temple of Minerva and the Forum in Rome are not less interesting than the score of illustrations of well known places in old England. The letter press, while not exhaustive, is interesting and instructive. The book is handsomely bound and the average purchaser of holiday books will be surprised to learn that it is marked at $1.50.

The Magazines. The Atlantic Monthly is so well known as a magazine of solid value that the mere announcement that it is out is quite sufficient to make a demand for each number as it appears. Depending on literary merit without pictorial attractions, and in the face of so much that trenches more or less upon its field it holds its own in the popular heart as of yore. Whatever is in it is worth reading. In the December number, everyone who knows anything of old-time Boston, and every intelligent man who has sojourned in the aesthetic city, ought to be included in the list, will be interested in Edwin Lasseter Byrner's article on "The Old Bunch of Grape's Tavern" around which cling so many historic memories. In addition to this very attractive beginning, Henry Van Brunt's paper on "Architecture in the West" tells about the new school of architecture which is arising to solve the problem of making art keep step with progress. All architects will read it with interest. Prof. N. S. Shaler, of Harvard college, contributes a paper on "School Vacations," and William Cranston Lawton writes about "Delphi: The Locality and its Legends." Miss Hope Notner has a second paper on the romantic lives of the "Nieces of Mazarin;" and "Latin and Saxon America" forms the subject of a paper by Albert G. Browne. Mr. James "Tragic Muse" is continued, and there is an installment of Mr. Byrner's serial, "The Begum's Daughter." Thomas Bailey Aldrich's "Two Lyrics—"A Dedication," and "Pillar'd Arch and Sculptured Tower"—have the grace which distinguishes his work. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

The sixth volume of Scribner's closes with its December number. The ending is worthy of a successful year. It is quite safe to say that no magazine has in that period increased in popular favor more than Scribner's. The articles on railroads and electricity have attracted the attention of thoughtful people throughout the world. These admirable series are not yet finished, and will form a feature of the next volume. "How the Other Half Lives" gives one a good idea of tenement life in New York. The article is fully illustrated, and loses none of its interest under the realistic pen of Jacob A. Riis. "Contemporary American Caricature" is the history of the successful illustrated humorous papers of the present day and their artists. To Thomas Nast and Harper's Weekly belong the credit of beginning the work which has been carried to such a popular and successful point. To the ridiculing pencil, the author claims, is due the downfall of Tweed and bossism in New York, and many of the very important reforms since that time. There can be no doubt that in many cases the clever artist is more effective than the ablest writer—one appeals to thousands, while the other reaches hundreds. It is easier and pleasanter to "take in" a ridiculous, but effective, cartoon on some timely topic than to read a labored editorial on the subject. American journalism knows little of the success which the timely and artistic treatment of the pencil must bring it, but the day cannot be far distant when "the deadly cartoon" will make its influence felt in the best of our newspapers. We have the subjects; all that we need—and they are indeed all—are artists and engravers. Scribner's fiction is always good. This month there is an additional supply, and readers of the magazine will not fail to enjoy "Mrs. Jones' Speech," and "A Midwinter Night's Dream." To be abreast of the best thought of the day it is essential that one should read Scribner's.

The Forum for December treats of a wide range of topics of live interest. As each is dealt with by some one who is well qualified to write on his particular subject, it may be certain that each is treated with ability and vigor. The list of contents is: "Divorce in the United States," by Edward J. Phelps, ex-minister to England; "Can the Race Problem be Solved?" by Prof. Henry A. Scowp, of Emory college, Georgia; "Religious Teachings in Schools," by Bishop B. J. McQuaid, of Rochester, N. Y.; "The Possibilities of Electricity," by Park Benjamin; "Do We Want Industrial Peace?" by Prof. William G. Sumner, of Yale; "Is Medicine a Science?" by Dr. George M. Gould, of Philadelphia; "Immigration and Crime," by William M. E. Round; "The Natural History of Dogma," by Prof. Charles C. Everett, of Harvard; "Experiences with Spiritism," by Rev. M. J. Savage; "The Farmers' Defensive Movement," by William A. Peffer, of Topeka, Kas. The Forum Publishing Company, 253 Fifth ave., New York. Price, 50 cents.

Nov. 27.—The professors of Mount Allison college gave a reception Saturday evening in the Memorial hall. The president, Dr. Inch, and his wife received the guests, who consisted of the students and teachers from both institutions, with a fair sprinkling of the residents of Sackville. Prominencing was the principal amusement in which nearly all participated, the exception being chiefly small boys who sat in front of the scrolls and made comments on the passers-by. There were no refreshments served, but the refreshment of the "happy" corner of the hall, which was a very agreeable feature, was considered sufficient. This was a most successful affair, and the hungry students, who were present in a large number, were well satisfied with the results. The evening was a very successful one, and the citizens of the North End, this evening.

Miss Milner spent Saturday in Amherst. Mrs. Ernest Anderson has returned from her visit to St. John. The friends of Dr. P. R. Moore will be glad to hear that he is comfortably settled in Los Angeles, Cal. Although that city is swarming with M. ## THE STRANGE NARRATIVE

Of Walter Bates, Esquire, Subject of the King,

FORMERLY OF NEW ENGLAND

Sometime High Sheriff of the County of Kings,

BIOGRAPHER OF THE NOTORIOUS
HENRY MORE SMITH.

In These Chronicles, Now Given to the World for the First Time, is Told the Tale of the Loyalists, and Their Amazing Trials Amid the Enemies of His Majesty in the Colonies.

(BOUND IN NO. 8.)

I was provided with the necessary pass from the commanding officer to General DeLancey at Jamaica (Long Island), who furnished me with a pass directed to General Smith at Brooklyn, who furnished me with a pass to Colonel Axtell at Flat Bush, who administered the oath and also furnished me with a pass to General DeLancey again at Jamaica. Here not being acquainted with customs of the army exposed me to great inconvenience. I just only prudently knocked at the same door where I had received my pass the day before. This I was informed was considered an offence and that the old General was apt to be very severe after drinking wine all night.

At length the old General came down from his chamber, and surely his face looked to me as red as his coat.

"Where is that damned rascal who has disturbed my quarters this morning?
Send him to the guard house!" roared he.

This subjected me to great difficulties, too unpleasant to mention.

Yet kind providence seemed to prepare ways and means, unforeseen by me, for my escape and preservation amidst all troubles, afflictions and dangers by land and sea, and during that unhappy war there were many instances of God's mercy for which I can never be sufficiently grateful. For example in the case of my eldest brother's sickness, on Long Island, with the fever that few survived at that time, I was providentially in a situation to render him every comfort he could receive while in life, and after his death to attend to his decent burial in the town of Huntington, the 10th day of September, 1781; and soon after I was taken sick with the like fever on Lloyds Neck, where I must soon have died had not I providentially been removed to a friendly house in Huntington, where I received the kind attention of the family.
It was feared that I could not survive until morning, a doctor was called late at night who administered medicine which, under providence, gave immediate relief and I was soon restored to my former health.

Shortly after this I commenced teaching a school on Eaton's Neck, where all the people were Loyalists and most part with myself, churchmen from Connecticut.

Here some of the Church clergymen came occasionally to hold divine service on Sundays.

There being none of our religion on the "Neck" we were so united the church at Eaton might be justly styled a church of Eden.

"Oliver DeLancey upon the submission of Long Island to General Howe, in 1776, was commissioned a Brigadier-General, and orders to raise three battalions of 500 men each for the defence of the Island. To raise this corps large sums of money were contributed by General DeLancey and by the inhabitants of every town on the island.

Sons of many reputable farmers and a number of respectable freemen enlisted. The third battalion, commanded by Colonel Gabriel G. Ludlow, was composed entirely of natives of Queens county, Long Island. Colonel Gabriel Ludlow was afterwards first major of St. John, N. B. (A. D. 1785), also Administrator of the province for five years after the retirement of Lieut. Governor Thomas Carleton. The house in which he resided still stands, near St.
George's church, Carleton, N. B.

Colonel Ludlow's battalion was stationed at Brook-haven and Lloyds Neck, on the north shore of Long Island, till the close of the Revolutionary war, when the three battalions were disbanded in New Jersey.
A full and extremely interesting account of De-Lancey's corps will be found in the History of New York During the Revolutionary War, by Judge Thomas Jones, edited by Edward Floyd de Lancey.

"Judge Jones gives an amusing account of Colonel Axtell and his achievements: "William Axtell, Esq., of Kings county, Long Island, was commissioned by the Commander-in-Chief as Colonel of a regiment to consist of 500 men, to be raised by him on the King's account, the officers to have the same rank and pay, as the other provincial corps, with this condition however, they were to be disbanded on the first day of the ensuing December.
Axtell's recruits amounted to about thirty. They formed his regiment. It was in pay from the 1st of May 1779 to the 1st of December following, seven months. It was encamped in his court yard, except his cows. No other service did the regiment do. Yet he received full pay, clothing, arms, and provisions for 500 men the whole time. . . . His excellency, the general, gave orders that no person whatever should pass Brookland (Brooklyn) from Long Island to New York without a pass from Colonel Axtell. Not less than 20,000 people, exclude the military, at that time annually passed thence of the military, at that time annually passed formerly paid, was obliged to pay the Colonel eight shillings, which yearly amounted to the tune of some thousands."

Nevertheless, the position of the Loyalists at Eaton's Neck was not free from trials, as witness the following, the original of which is in possession of Miss Pickett, Kingston, N. B.:

"To His Excellency, James Robertson, Esquire, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Province of New York and Lieutenant General of His Majesty's Forces, etc., etc., etc.

The Memorial of John Fowler, Isaac Hoyt and David Pickett, most humbly sheweth:

That having left their properties in the country and come within the Royal Lines for protection, upon application to Government for support they obtained with others a grant of Eaton's Neck, the

ALEX. STEWART,
20 Germain Street,
ST. JOHN, N. B.

The Rev. John Sayre came to attend public worship here in April, 1783, and at the same time to acquaint us that the King had granted to all Loyalists who did not incline to return to their homes, and would go to Nova Scotia, two hundred acres of land to each family, and two years provisions; provide ships to convey them as near as can be to a place for settlement where lands would be granted for support of church and school. The next day I obtained the articles for settlement (yet in my possession) from Huntington. A general meeting was held on Eaton's Neck to investigate the same together with our present and future prospects.

After we had discussed the matter it was resolved by all present, and mutually agreed to remove with all their families into the wilderness of Nova Scotia, and settle all together in such situation as we might enjoy the comforts of a church and school in the wilderness, fully relying for future support in the promises of God to His people.

I here introduce the rhymes of a young
School master:

Come Loyalists all come
And listen to my word;
We left our country and our home
And trusted in the Lord;
Let us not now forsake our trust
Returning back with sorrow;
I fain would see the Rebels flee
Like Sodom and Gomorrah, Yet think these offers very just
And thank the King sincerely—Altho' the Rebels gain so much,
We see not yet quite clearly;
God is too wise to be unjust,
Too good to be unkind,
While subject to his sovereign will
Our hearts are well inclined.
God when He gives supremely good,
Not less when He denies;
Afflictions from His Sovereign hand
Are blessings in disguise.
For in the wilderness, we're told,
God's church will comfort give,
And his good thing will He withhold From those who justly live. W. BATES.

property of John Sloss Hobart, in Rebellion, but the same being applied for and obtained by James Jauncey, Esquire and others, who had a mortgage on the same, your memorialists hired the same from those gentlemen at a mutual agreement.
That being settled on said place upon the aforesaid terms, and endeavoring to support their families by honest industry, they found themselves disappointed, and prevented enjoying the fruits of their labors by the crews of the armed vessels stationed in Huntington Bay for their protection, who have taken their property from them without any license, pay or satisfaction.

That they have made repeated application to the commanders of said Guard Ships to prevent the raages of their crews and to obtain satisfaction, but obtaining neither, they, with their associates, applied to Admiral Digby for redress, who kindly wrote to said commanders on the subject, but without producing the desired effect; that upon the delivery of Admiral Digby's letter to Captain Steel he flew into a violent passion, threatening to try the complainants to a gun and fog them, ordering them out of the ship, and adding he would blow them to Hell if they came alongside again, telling them he would give them no redress nor protection, but would have his revenge before he left the station.

In this situation, being left remediless, they applied to your Excellency, as Governor of the Province, the Patron and Director of all Loyal subjects driven from their habitations, and humbly request your Excellency would be favorably pleased to recommend their distressed case to His Excellency Admiral Digby, and to interpose in their favor, so that they with the others suffering in a similar situation may have effectual redress and a stop be put to such raages of the future; and they as in duty bound will ever pray, etc.

New York, 24th January, 1782.

It seemed as if heaven smiled upon our undertaking, selecting the best ship in the fleet for our comfort, and by far the best captain. And so, with warm, loyal hearts, we all embarked with one mind on board the good ship Union, Captain Wilson, who received us all on board as father of a family.

Huntington Bay, on the north side of Long Island, is formed by Lloyds' Neck on the west and Eaton's Neck on the east, both of which project a considerable distance into the Sound. The water is deep enough for the largest man-of-war; the anchorage good, and the bay secure from almost every wind the bay is large enough to contain the whole navy of England.

The embarkation began on Friday, April 11th, and was completed five days later. The original Manifest of the ship Union is now in the possession of William Fyler Dibblee, of Woodstock, N. B.

HALIFAX.

Nov. 27.—"Fortune" does not always "favor the brave" as evidenced by the rain storm that put in an appearance on Miss Fuller's wedding morn...

The bridesmaids were Miss Kenny and Miss Kate Kenny and little Beatrice (Trinie) Fuller. The Misses Kenny wore dainty costumes of pale pink silk and tulle, with green ribbon trimmings, green hats to match. Miss Trinie looked sweet in a white silk frock with pink ribbons, a large hat with pink feathers. All the bridesmaids carried elegant bouquets. Messrs. Wm. Thomson, W. A. Henry, John South, Frank Thelan, D. A. Curry and Hart, acted the part of ushers. The aisle was carpeted in red, and lovely flowers and ribbons were used for decoration. The chairs placed for the bride and groom were very handsome. The seats were of Indian work and they were upholstered in white moire antique. Here the Rev. Archibishop, with the Rev. George B. Kenny, S. J., Rev. Father Daly, and Rev. E. F. Murphy were present. Rev. G. B. Kenny, uncle of the groom performed the ceremony. The service was very long as the Nuptial Mass was celebrated. About a dozen presents were made, which was attended only by relatives, the happy couple left for an extended tour in the States and Upper Canada. The number of presents was something wonderful, hundreds of gifts including a chest of silver from the groom's parents, etc., etc.

Thursday afternoon was the day appointed for Miss West's wedding and just at half past three the sun managed to struggle through the heavy clouds, and bestow its warm and blessing on the happy pair. The marriage took place at St. Luke's cathedral, which was crowded with curious onlookers. Even the streets were lined with people, and many littleurchins poked their inquisitive little noses even into the bride's carriage. At the hour named, Mr. Findlay Dalziel, of Canterbury, Eng., arrived on the scene, accompanied by Lieut. Wallace, and the bride and groom. Miss West soon followed, escorted by her father, Mr. Augustus West, and assisted by Miss Jean West, Miss Mary Abbott, Miss Millie Carly and Miss Ina Mabel West (a young niece of the bride). The service was performed by the Rev. W. B. King. The choir and clergy preceded the wedding party to the chancel. The bride was elegantly attired in a robe of white satin, with a magnificent train, which was borne by two lady attendants. Misses Jack and Dick French. The front of the gown was a perfect poem, a design being carried out in ostrich feathers and orange blossoms. A lace veil was worn and fastened with a handsome diamond spray. The bridesmaids had the most successful dresses imaginable. Their costumes were in Directoire style and were made of creamy white cloth, trimmed with bands and large buttons of white enamel. The bridesmaid of color, trimmed with ostrich feathers and pompons of felt. The elder bridesmaids carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and ferns, and the children had baskets filled with the same charming combination.

A large number of guests attended the reception after the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Dalziel received them with much grace. Suspended above their head was a beautiful floral bell. I must not forget to tell you that Mrs. Abbott, with Miss Annie, decorated the church very pleasingly for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Dalziel have gone for a tour in the United States, purposing to return to town before Christmas. They will not leave for their future home in London, G. B., until after Mr. Frank West is married. I shall not say a word about the presents. I certainly should fall to do them justice—look up brides of the week were so well remembered by their friends.

Some of the dresses worn by the guests were very stylish. Mrs. West, mother of the bride, wore a lavender silk, sequin bolero, and a pretty bonnet of lace and pearls. Miss Annie Abbott, a blue costume, with hat to match. Mrs. Jones, of Newfoundland, wore a handsome black silk, with steel ornaments. Miss Edith Duffin, green, with judicious touches of red. Mrs. Dixon, a pretty red costume. Mrs. Bagot and Mrs. Stairs also wore red. Miss Nagle appeared in white cloth, with brown trimmings, hat to match. Mrs. Binney, with Miss Helen Binney and little May Bellfield, will leave for England in the "Surman". An aunt of the late bishop's is very ill, and has sent for them to come and see her. Miss Binney will be much missed at the "Girls' Friendly society," of which she is the chief staff and support.

Halifax people turned out on masses last Thursday evening, as no less than eight public entertainments were given, of which it is only give you a brief resume. The Y. M. C. A. had a dance, a very jolly one for those who participated. Strolling harpers furnished the music. The concert in aid of the fishermen netted $100, and it goes without saying that with such names on the programme as Prof. Currie, Mrs. J. M. Taylor, Miss Annie Taylor, and the Misses Bury, the affair was sure to be a success. Miss Taylor sang the same evening to a crowded audience in the G. of E. Institute rooms. Mrs. King's recital was very droll, and Miss Black's song was vigorously executed. Two teas took place, one at the Jost Mission chapel and the other at St. Mark's hall. Everyone appeared pleased with their reception, and the teas were enormously good. The Masons of St. Andrew's chapter, invited their lady friends to a dance, and about 200 ladies and gentlemen danced to the inspiring music of the West Riding regiment. The good people of St. Andrew's extended a welcoming hand to their pastor, Rev. Mr. Gordon, and provided a bountiful supper. It was quite a happy reunion of church members to greet Mr. Gordon. A number of ladies and gentlemen, notably military residents of the city started for a ride across country. I imagine they did not find country just to their fancy. Mrs. Fen was unable to go the whole distance because of a cold, and poor Prince Paul got a couple of tumbles. Miss Noyes is a fine rider and kept up splendidly; her father, Col. Noyes, was thrown. Some of the horses became unmanageable, and take it all together the ride could hardly be called a success. Try, try again, is evidently the motto of the members of this riding club. On Saturday last, about a dozen ladies with three cavaliers each started for a long ride. The day was fine and mild, and from all accounts they had a very jolly time, winding up with a tea at the Wellington Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dimock, of Windsor, are staying at the Queen hotel. Miss Dwyer is returning to this city after a very pleasant sojourn in Charlottetown. One of the events of the week was the tea given by Mrs. A. Wiswell and Mrs. Wm. Wallace at their residence on Brenton street. Such sun well's blizzards were talking and laughing. Just imagine a sprinkling of fair matrons gathered together on one of these crisp, frosty afternoons, and the scene was noticed—Mrs. S. Kinneer in a combination suit of lawn and brown, Mrs. Wiswell, gray satin, Miss Kinneer, a dress of blue and white, Mrs. Wallace, Miss Wainwright, in old blue, which is exceedingly becoming, Miss Gilpin wore black with a pretty terra cotta hat, Miss Fairbanks, green and white, etc., etc. Miss Kinneer's wedding is to take place next Tuesday at half-past two o'clock. Invitations are out for a dance at Mrs. Wallace's in evening. Mr. Charles Lee, of the Halifax Banking Co., and wife, paid a flying visit to town en route for Springhill. Mr. and Mrs. G. Troop, of Dartmouth, and the Misses Troop, are en route to town to reside at the Queen Hotel for the winter. CUSCUS.
