TREES.

I love the trees: each hath its separate The endoring oak, with its out-reaching boughs,
Extended shade; the high, majestic elm;
The graceful poplar and the spreading ash;
Tet, not the least, the ever-verdant pine—
All, with their leaves of varying shades of green,

Add vocal with the songs of choristers
That cheer the heart and elevate the soul. Lieve to roam through Summer's shady noise.

Among the rugged columns, towering Grand, whewn, stately pillars, firm rock—
Effect unbewn of Nature's God-built temple, Bearing their leafy canopy o'erhead,
and apreading their protection over all,
Fit emblem of the kindly love of Heaven.

How cosely doth the history of trees Mark out the eventful course of human life, From the first germing of the infant sprouts, Through all successive stages of its youth! The youthful sappling, with its gay, green Bends playfully before the evening breeze But later, wildly sways its leafless limbs

In writing strugglings with the norther To stand erect amid a world of storms, Or else succumb to be deformed and gnarle Until, at last, just as it is cut down,
With all its faults and blenishes, laid prone. This is the course—this is the life of man,

Trees, which of all on earth, reach nearest Heaven, True type of human privilege!

For upward from the ground, with growth on growth,
Trees emulate the sky. Upward their progress,
And upward, too, all growing Nature tends,
Grass, flower, and shrub, each to its height,

Their exhalations to the sky ascend like prayerful incense to the mercy-seat; So, even so, O man, thy prayers should rise Those real aspirations of thy being; And thy soul upward progress to thy God.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.-Dull.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and ond in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians. By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache.
Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh." Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of lthaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I coulabarely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Hemedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting." "Constantly Hawking and Spitting."
Thomas J. Russhind, Eaq. $909 Pine Sheet.
St. Louts, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not breathe through the nostrils. I thought nothing could be done for me. Lucki ly, I was advised to try Dr. Sago's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh. ELI ROBBINS, Runyan P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., says: "My daughter had catarrh when she was five years old very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her; a third bottle effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and hearty."
