Gen. Buller Reaches Pietermaritzburg and Gets a Splendid Reception.

An Advance on Colenso Begun at Once.

Evidences That the Boers Are Retiring and Matters Moving Briskly.

London, Monday, Nov. 27-5 a.m.-A dispatch from Estcourt dated Sunday says: The Mooi River column has joined Gen. Hildyard's forces and is bivouacking this morning at Friere, about midway between Estcourt and Railway communication between Estcourt and Mooi River has been restored by Lord Dundonald's force, and the Mooi River column entered Estcourt ysterday (Sunday), the Estcourt column immediately starting the advance towards Colenso.

The news from Natal this (Monday) morning is distinctly more hopeful from the British point of view. The details are rather vague, but it seems that railway communication is being opened, and that British relieving forces are joining hands. All this, taken with Gen. Buller's arrival at Pletermaritzburg, is expected to make matter move briskly soon. Gen. Hildyard's reconnoissance is praised as a work of very great difficulty, admirably executed.

AT WILLOW GRANGE. London, Nov. 27.—A special dispatch from Estcourt, dated Thursday, Nov.

23, and describing the engagemen at Willow Grange, says the British losses are estimated at eight killed and 42 wounded. A Pietermaritzburg dispatch, dated

Nov. 24, 10:30 p.m., says: After an exciting ride and favored by a heavy stopm. Mr. Amery, a correspondent of the London Times, arrived at Mooi River from Estcourt last night, guided by a farmer. He passed unnoticed within 300 yards of two Boer camps. He reports that Wednesday night the West Yorks, the East Surreys and the Dur-ban volunteers marched in the direction of the Boer lines at Willow Grange, and later the Borderers joined them. The British were out all night, and at dawn advanced almost within charging distance. The Boers, discovering them, rushed up two hills some dis-They received some volleys, but succeeded in withdrawing their longrange Krupp. The Boer position was held by the British for some time, but eventually the British had to retire, as the Krupps got an accurate range, though their shells did no damage.

THE BRITISH GUNS WERE OUT-RANGED.

Even the naval gun was outdistanced by one or two thousand yards. In the early morning the mounted infantry and the Imperial Horse joined in the action, which lasted till noon. the Boers, having gradually failen back, Gen. Hildyard ordered a retirement, having attained his object. The British suffered much owing to the rain and to having had no food since the previous day. The Boer loss is unknown. Thirty horses were captured by the British.

BOERS STARVING. Pietermaritzburg, Nov. 24.—Two armed Germans have surrendered, and were brought into camp yesterday. They say they escaped from General

The Mooi River and Est- Joubert's commando, which was nearly 3,000 strong and marching on the Highlands. They were commandeered (pressed into the service) at Johannesburg, and say they are tired of the war. They allege that the Boers have no commissariat and are starving. BOERS COMING SOUTH. Durban, Nov. 25.-Advices from Mool River say that a Kaffir was brought in yesterday, who was impressed at Johannesburg and allotted to Gen. Joubert as a servant, asserts that Gen. Joubert and four sons, with a com-mando, are coming south. The Kaffir estimated the Boer strength at from 2,000 to 3,000 men. According to his story the British smashed one or two of the enemy's big guns at Ladysmith.

There was a heavy thunderstorm at Mooi River last night. All is quiet there and two guns for the naval brigade have arrived. ACTIVITY OF THE BOERS. London, Nov. 27 .- Despite the brighter outlook today the Times, in its interview this morning voices itself thus:

"The activity the Boers display at points separated by hundreds of miles, their ability to invest several towns, their readiness to offer battle at Belmont and again at Gras Pan, their widespread operations south of Orange River, and their bold and offensive action in Natal, seem to indicate numpers far in excess of our estimates. It is clear that the military requirements were at first greatly underestimated, and that a sixth division ought immediately to be prepared for embarkation."

NO HOLIDAYS AT THE ARSENALS. The utmost activity prevails in getting war necessities ready for the front. Five thousand men worked all day yesterday (Sunday) at Woolwich arsenal preparing stores. The arsenal employes, now numbering 19,000, have been warned that they need not expect holidays at Christmas tide. Among minor items of news is a rumor that President Kruger is suffering with Bright's disease, and that his condition is giving rise to anxiety. BOERS BEATEN IN BECHUANA-

LAND. Five hundred Boers attacked Kuruman, in Buchanaland, on Nov. 13. The fighting lasted continually for six days and nights, but the Boers were finally beaten off with a loss of 30 in killed and 28 in wounded. The British lost 1 killed and 1 wounded. The Boers suddenly disappeared for some reason unknown to the British.

MORE TRANSPORTS AT THE CAPE Cape Town, Nov. 27.-The troopship Medic arrived at Cape Town yesterday with the Australian contingents. The Pindairi and the Idaho arrived there on Saturday, bringing three batteries of much-needed artillery.

The Servia, with troops, has left Cape Town for Durban, and the transports Mohawk and Manchester Port have arrived at Durban. The British transport Avoca sailed on Saturday for Southampton from Bermuda with the 2nd Worcester Regiment.

SEIZED A MAGAZINE. A dispatch from Queenstown says the mayor of Barkley East, who has arrived there, asserts that last Wednesday 70 well-known Barkley East farmers seized the local magazine, with 300 Martinis and 4,000 rounds of ammunition. They were Orange pugarees made a lively demonstration, and rode through Hartley's bar and billiard-During the evening 130 Free State burghers arrived and immediately joined them.

BRIDGE BLOWN UP. Cape Town, Nov. 27.-In the northern portion of Cape Colony, Boers are turning up in all directions. A dispatch received at a late hour reports that the enemy have blown up a railroad bridge between Rosmead Junction and Middleburg, with the object of preventing an advance from Port Elizabeth. This was effected by a small commando, which, it is stated, remains in the neighborhood. The effect of blowing up this bridge will tend to isolate Naauw Port, which was recently occupied by the British.

ADVANCE ON MOOI RIVER A dispatch from the British camp at Mooi River, Natal, dated Nov. 24, 2 p.m., says: Gen. Joubert's nephew is commanding the Boer forces which have checked here the advance of the British reinforcements on the way to Ladysmith. He has the reputation of being a determined fighter. The Boers seen advancing in force northwest today, and the British troops, considerably reinforced, commenced an attack. Artillery took up a strong position and opened fire, the Boers retreating without replying. Twentythree shells fell in the village yesterday, only two bursting. There is no confirmation of the report of a fight at Ladysmith on Sunday. An official message from Gen. White, dated Wednesday, says the situation there is unchanged, and that his troops are cheer-

STORMBERG OCCUPIED BY BOERS Cape Town, Nov. 26 (midnight) .-The Boers occupied Stormberg, Cape Colony, Sunday morning.

THE IRREGULARS.. Queenstown, Cape Colony, Nov. 26 .-There is remarkable enthusiasm among the troops of Gen. Gatacre's address of last Sunday, advising his men to watch the irregulars, as they understood the country, and to note what kind of people they were dealing with. The irregulars regard the address as a tribute to their usefulness, and have had several thousand copies printed. BOER PRISONERS. Cope Town Nov. 26. Evening .- The

A Remarkable Coincidence.

An examination of the evidence which has for over fourteen years been accumulating in regard to Odontine, discloses a remarkable coincidence of opinion among those who have used it, and, grateful for the benefits it has conferred upon their teeth, have voluntarily testified in its behalf.

We doubt if there is a lady in the city with a proper regard for her teeth who is unfamiliar with this standard article for the toilet, which not only restores and perpetuates whiteness and soundness of the teeth, but causes the gums to assume a healthy hardness, and breath to become pure. See that each bottle bears the name Cairneross & Lawrence.

Beware of imitations

Boer prisoners from Belmont arrived this evening. The wounded prisoners were sent to the military hospital at Wynburg, and the others to the convict station, which has been converted into a military prison. All appeared to have lost heart and were in a fearfully dilapidated condition.

A further dispatch from Cape Town dated yesterday says: The officers, non-commissioned officers and men in the hospital at Wynburg are doing well, except a driver and a gunner, both of whom are seriously ill. Two privates have died of pneuminia. On the arrival of the Belmont wounded with the Boer prisoners taken in that engagement, most of the wounded will be lodged in Beaufort hospital, where 125 beds have been prepared.

DIDN'T WAIT FOR THE BAYONET

CHARGE. One of the Boer prisoners, who was injured in the Orange River engagement, on being asked what he thought of the British bayonet charge, answered: "Almighty God! You think I waited for that?" JOUBERT'S VIEWS. The Berlin Deutsche Zeitung publishes a letter purporting to come from General Joubert, and dated Ladysmith, Oct. 27, in which the writer says: Even if we do not succeed in preventing the concentration of Gen. Buller's troops, the British army will be weakened from natural causes to such an extent that not more than 35,000 efficient troops, or 40,000 at the outside, can take the field. In this connection, it is to be borne in mind that not only Natal, but Cape Colony, with a base of operations covering 435 miles, must be considered. Our basis of supply are at home and organized on the relay system in three directions. To protet these does not require 500 men. If one base should be seriously threatened, the supplies will be destroyed. A war of defense, of which we need not think for considerable time, would present far greater advantages than an offensive war. We are at home in highlands of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. The British will have to contest every step under inconceivable difficulties, and must be prepared at every moment to fight one, two or three fronts. Then will begin a guerilla war, which the British will not be able to endure. Already we have 50,000 men in the field. So we do not need to calculate upon a rising of the Boers in Cape Colony and Natal. Nevertheless if the British stir up the natives and employ them to fight us, a rising of the whole Afrikanderdom is PERPLEXITIES. London, Nov. 25 .- The position in Natal remains full of perplexities, which the censorship has increased. Although a division and a half have now reached Durban, that place is practically powerless until supplied with cavalry and artillery, and until these arrive the situation will undoubtedly remain grave. With three beleaguered garrisons in Natal, beside Kimberley and Mafeking, and no signs of succor in the immediate future, it is no wonder the outlook is regarded

DISTINCTLY GLOOMY tonight, and that the most possible is made of Gen. Methuen's success, such as it was. That battle decided nothing, and it seems certain that many experts are of the opinion that the story of the return of the pursuing cavalry without getting in touch with the retreating Boers, indicates that the cavalry discovered in time that if it had gone on it would soon have been on the Pretoria racecourse with its comrades of the hussars. It will not surprise anyone greatly if the Boers are shortly again discovered in an intrenched position near the spot from which Gen Methuen has just evioted them.

MAFEKING'S PLIGHT.

From no other point can even a semblance of success be reported. Mafeking is apparently in worse plight than the Britishers have hi hierto cared to admit, and it is difficult to see how it can be relieved for some time to come. While the official dispatch from the Boer head laager outside Ladysmith, dated Nov. 24, showed that the town (Continued on Page 2.)

The reported silence of the British guns also again arouses fears of a shortage of ammunition, and the fact that the Boers have just placed in position another large siege gun shows that they have not yet done their

GERMAN OFFICERS TO HELP THE BOERS.

The arrival of the German officers, some of whom, it is understood, gained large experience in reducing foru-fied towns in 1870-71, is calculated to lead to a change of tactics which will add to the suspense of the sorely-tried garrison.

The situation in the northern portion of Cape Colony is about as unsatisfactory as it can be. Boers are turning him. up in all directions. NO NONSENSE FROM KRUGER. London, Nov. 27.—The reported determination of the United States to compel President Kruger to allow Consul-General Macrum to exercise his rights as British agent at Pretoria, has created an excellent impression here, and has called out various expressions of satisfaction and gratitude. The Pall Mall Gazette says: "The United States government is not going to stand any nonsense from President Kruger. It was the British representative who kept an eye on Hobson's captivity at Santiago, and it was Britservices for captured Americans everywhere in Cuba and the Philipplines. More power to Macrum's elbow."

FROM BOER SOURCES.

Pretoria, Nov. 26.-An official dispatch from the Boer head laager outside Ladysmith, dated Friday, Nov. 24,

The garrison at Ladysmith was strangely quiet yesterday. The can-nonade today hardly evoked a re-saying: sponse. The balloon no longer soars. The third big cannon, which the Boers have baptized 'Suzerainty,' was placed in position today. The German offi-cers arrived last night. The Boer generals think thy will encompass the fall of Ladysmith at the end of this week. "There was a terrific thunderstorm last night. Four Boers guarding a cannon were seriously struck."

RECRUITING IN AMERICA. Philadelphia, Nov. 27.—Recruiting for the Boer army, it is alleged, is being conducted here under the direction of an organization known as the Irish National Society. It is alleged that on Thursday night 450 men left this city en route to the Transvaal to join the Boer forces. Recruits in much larger numbers are said to have been shipped at various intervals since the beginning of the war. It is also asserted that recrulting is going on in all parts of the country, and that Chicago contributed a force of 1,000 men.

GEN. METHUEN CRITICISED. London, Nov. 25.-E. F. Knight, a well-known war correspondent, at Belmont, who went to Cuba during the Spanish-American war, was wounded in the arm by a dum-dum bullet. Several military experts question the wisdom of Gen. Methuen's attack on the Methuen intends to march direct to Kimberley, or double round and out off the Free Staters, who have invaded the Colesburg and Burghers-deep districts, and, by driving them on Gens. Gatacre and French, inflict a crushing defeat on them. The general opinion is that he will proceed north and ottack the Personal Moddon Pinon and attack the Boers at Modder River, thus relieving Kimberley.

Cape Town, Nov. 26 .- Reports received here of the brilliant success of Lord Methuen as Gras Pan say that the Boers had 80 killed and many wounded, and the British took numerous prisoners A DESPERATE FIGHT.

London, Monday, Nov. 27-5 a.m.-No further news respecting Lord Me-thuen's advance have been received, and the absence of official details regarding his losses creates the greatest suspense, especially since the heavy sacrifices endured by the Natal Brigade. No alarm, however, is felt as to the position, despite the evidence that the Boers intend to contest every foot of the way. It is known that in the absence of sufficient cavalry he would be compelled to advance slowly, and he has préference for night or early dawn attacks, which event seems to have been justified, the Boers being decidedly averse to darkness for their operations. The fact that in the Gras Pan action one battery fired 500

CANADIAN TRADE ACTIVE

Sides of the Border.

Bradstreet's weekly review of Canadian wholesale trade says: Trade at Montreal has been fairly active this week. A better demand for coarse grains has tended to stimulate retail trade at London, there having been a larger demand from the farmers for various lines of staple goods. markets have displayed more activity, and it is apparent the farmers are prepared to do more winter shopping than in previous years. A good many farmers are holding their wheat as result of the low price, but as mixed farming is now largely the rule, the effect on business of holding back the wheat is less noticeable than it would have been a few years ago. The wholesale houses are doing a good sorting business, and report payments all that could be desired. Winnipeg wholesale trade continues active, notwithstanding the mild weather that has lately prevailed. Business at the coast is much better than it was a year ago.

Hamilton trade reports fully accord with those received from other leading Canadian cities so far as they indicate a prosperous, healthy and expanding condition of business.

Trade at Toronto has been of fair volume the past week. Country remittances continue good, and the wholesale trade finds no discouraging features in the conditions of trade, nor any indications that in the future business will not continue as favorable as it has in the past year. The demand for money is good, and rates are firm. New York, Nov. 27 .- Dun & Co's review of trade in the United States for the past week says: The iron industry shows no yielding in material, but a little advance in Bessemer pig at Pittsburg, with large inquiries for next year. Leather continues very strong. buyers' prices seeming to increase the demiand, which in some grades exceeds the supply. The hide market at Chicago rises about one-quarter cent. Sales of wool pass all records, having been at the chief markets 61,694,201 pounds in three weeks of November whereas October sales in five weeks were but 68,314,989 pounds, and in only one full month have sales ever reached 60,000,000 pounds. Trading is largely between dealers, and gives no indication of consumption. Cotton goods are rising also, and print cloths have been advanced an eighth. Wheat wearied speculators, with scarcely any change in prices for the week, though western receipts are 80 per cent below last year's for the week, and have been in three weeks but 16,-565,973 bushels, against 28,544,198 last From Atlantic ports the outgo for three weeks, flour included, was only 7,761,been 2,712,457 bushels, against 3,376,900 last year. So slender a foreign demand in Atlantic markets, with prices as low as they have been, tends strongly to prevent a rise in prices, and the exports of corn also have some influence, amounting for the three weeks to 11,769,643 bushels, against 7,573,033 last year.

Failures for the week have been 791 in the United States, against 188 last year; and 22 in Canada, against 21 hast

TWO FINE SPECIMENS

Of Physical Manhood.

No form of athletic exercise demands perfect physical condition prize-fighting. Every muscle in the body must be fully developed and sup-Every muscle in the ple, and the heart, lungs and stomach must act to perfection. Whether we indorse prize-fighting or not, it is nevertheless interesting to know the manner by which men arrive at such physical perfection. James Jeffries, the present champion heavy-weight of the world, and his gallant opponent, Tom Sharkey, in the greatest pugilistic encounter that has ever taken place, both pursued much 645 miles, 7 laps; Waller, 645 miles, 6 the same course of training, and the first and most important part of this training was to get the stomach in condition, and to keep the digestion absolutely perfect, so that every muscle and nerve would be at its highest capabilities. This was not done by a secret patent medicine, but both of these great pugilists used a well-known natural digestive tablet sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and composed of the digestive ferments every stomach requires for healthy digestion.

Champion Jeffries says: "Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets prevent acidity, strengthen the stomach and insure perfect digestion. They keep a man in fine physical condition." Signed, James J. Jeffries, champion of the world.

The gallant fighter, Sharkey, says: "Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets remove all discomfort after eating. They rest the stomach and restore it to a healthful condition. I heartily recommend them.' Signed, Thos. J. Sharkey. The advantage of the daily use of Stuart's Dyspensia Tablets is that they keep people well and ward off sickness and are equally valuable to well persons as to the dyspeptics. Another advantage is that these tablets contain no cathartics, or poisons of any char-acter, but simply digestive ferments, which are found in every healthy stomach, and when digestion is imperfect it is because the stomach lacks some of these elements, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets supply it.

They are no cheap cathartic, but a perfectly safe and efficient digestive, and the demand for them is greater than the sale of all other so-called dyspepsia cures combined. No remedy possibly reach such a place in public esteem except as the result of positive merit.

Full-sized packages are sold by all druggists at 50 cents, and the best habit you can possibly form is to take a Stuart Tablet after each meal. make weak stomachs strong and keep strong stomachs vigorous.

Expert Canadian Electrician Killed by a Live Wire-Chatham Farmer's Close Call.

Niagara Falls, Nov. 27.-About noon Saturday John Sheffield, an expert electrician in the employ of the Union Carbine Company, was instantly killed by coming in contact with the primary terminals of a switch. He was standing on a transformer repairing the wires and had neglected to turn off the current. It is supposed that he lost his balance and fell against the live wire. He was a Canadian by birth and was a graduate of McGill University of Montreal. His home was in Peterborough, Ont. He leaves a brother in Kingston and a mother and sister in England.

SCOOPED TO HIS DEATH. Buffalo, Nov. 27.-Cornelius Madigan, a scooper, 45 years old, was smothered to death by being drawn under the grain in the hold of the steamer City of Venice, being unloaded at the City Elevator Saturday night. Madigan was standing knee-deep in the grain as it was sucked up the elevator leg, and was apparently in no more danger than usual when his fellow-workmen saw him last. When they looked a few moments later he was gone. The machinery was stopped and the unfortunate scooper was discovered buried in the grain, he having been drawn under by the suction from the leg.

FARMER NEARLY KILLED. Chatham, Nov. 26.-Anthony Fanbert, a drover farmer, attempted to make his way on the G. T. R. express from here Friday night. When about two miles out he was discovered and one of the train hands chased him off the train. Fanbert was nearly killed. Besides a badly dislocated shoulder he is terribly bruised and cut, but it is thought that he will recover.

THE NIAGARA SUICIDE. Buffalo, Nov. 27.-The identity of the man who jumped over the falls here last Monday is still unknown. Dispatches from Ischua say that Rev. A. It looks as though this case of suicide would only be another to add to the already long list of "unidentified."

AGONIZING STOMACH PAINS!

Messrs RADWAY & CO.: Dear Sirs,-I know a business man on the east side of town who has for years been ailing and suffering agonizing pains in the stomach. The doctors from Prof. Jacoby down to others by the dozens, could neither effect a cure nor could they even tell what the malady was. He a few years ago, crossed the Atlantic to consult German doctors, without result. I used to call at his store every few months and heard his tale of woe. He said while ill he was never able to retain his food, and at certain times of day he was attacked with an agonizing pain which lasted an hour or so, when he acted as a madman, breaking chairs, etc., and having to give up business for the time being. Food never stayed in his stomach longer than half an hour. Yesterday, after a lapse of eighteen months, I called again, and to my surprise he was still alive and looking well. I asked after his health. He said he has been well for over a year and has gained 40 pounds in weight. I wanted to know what doctor had cured him. This is what he told me: About a year ago or over a man came to his store telling him he had been sick very much the same as he was for some time, and tried Radway's Pills, which quickly cured him. He at once decided to use the pills. The druggist did not have any, and tried to give him another kind, but as he insisted on Radway's, they were procured for him the next day, He only took one at night and he immediately felt better. He kept up for a time to take the pills, and from the first day to this day his malady never returned.

London, Monday, Nov. 27.

T. H. Preston, editor and proprietor of the Brantford Expositor, has been selected as the Liberal candidate for South Brant, in succession to Hon. A. S. Hardy. It is a strong and winning nomination. Mr. Preston is a man of ability and great energy, and will make his mark in the Legislature. Journalism already contributes a large share of the best talent in the house.

An Important Step for Ontario.

The Ontario Government have taken a step which may and probably will have a large effect on the industrial future of the province. As all are aware, we have in Ontario the greatest deposits of nickel-copper ore in the world, or at least the largest that have yet been discovered. The development of those riches has been left almost exclusively to foreign capital, the pioneers being the Canadian Copper Company-an American syndicate despite the name-who obtained their charter from the Dominion Government in 1886. This company have five furnaces in blast in the Sudbury district, smelting an average of 400 to 500 tons daily. The province, however, has not reaped the full advantage which should accrue to it from such an industry, for the reason that the ores, after being smelted and reduced to matte, are shipped to the company's refinery in New Jersey, for the extraction of the nickel and copper. The result is that only a fraction of the money laid out in the production of nickel and copper, from the first stage to the last, is spent inside this province, which furnishes the minerals. Mr. Archibald Blue, the Ontario director of mines, in a very able and comprehensive report on this matter, points out that in the seven years, 1892-98, the quantity of ore smelted and reduced to matte in the Sudbury district was 591,852 tons, containing 29,705,000 pounds nickel and 34,570,500 pounds copper. The total value of this matte was $4,596,865, but the selling price of the copper and nickel extracted from it would be $14,372,357. The total amount paid for wages in Ontario during the seven years was only $1,-929,894, while it is certain that the share distributed outside of Ontario for wages, services, and profits has been not less than $10,000,000. If the refining had been done in this province, the whole amount would, of course, have been spent here. The president of the Canadian Copper Company has proved by the circumstance that at the declared, under oath, that it was the intention to build refining works in Canada, but nothing has been done to redeem the pledge. The Provincial Government, acting on the principle that this province should profit to the fullest possible extent by its natural wealth, instead of exporting that wealth to enrich another country, has caused to be passed an order-in-council with three provisions.

The first looks to the renewal of negotiations with the British Government, with the object of interesting the imperial authorities in the nickel deposits in this province. It has been demonstrated, especially by the American navy in the late war, that nickel steel makes the very best armor plate, and there is certain to be a growing demand for nickel for naval

The second clause of the order-incouncil sets forth that having in view a larger scope for the employment of capital and labor in the copper-nickel mines and works it is desirable to the Times how grave is the necessity plants in the province, and that, if South Africa. He affirms, from posithat export duties be levied on nickel and copper ores.

The third clause provides that all be subject to the condition that the copper and nickel ores upon such lands shall be treated and refined in the pro- He adds:

I do not conthis province. The result has been a marked revival of our sawmill industry. Similarly the Government now require, in issuing permits to cut spruce on the crown lands, that the logs be not exported, but manufactured into pulp or paper. As a direct consequence of the latest order-in-council, we may expect to see the Canadian Copper Company hasten to fulfill their promise by erecting a refinery at Sudbury, Instead of sending the crude product to be refined in the United States, to the deprivation of Canadian labor. It is entering the field, and that the immediate future will witness a great develwith all the processes of manufacture carried on within the province. On European Topics--Mission From Pretoria to Propose an Armistice Probably Hopeless -- Popular Feeling Favors a Fight to the Finish.

Britain Wants More Troops-United States Takes Up the Matter of an "Open Door" in China-International Agreement Probable-Indignation Aroused by French Attacks on the Iron Candlesticks, Dainty China Pen, Pin and Comb Queen-Failure of the Irish Unity Conference

Thursday the cabinet considered the intimation, cabled presumably by American Consul Macrum, that a mission has left Pretoria for Cape Town to propose an armistice preliminary to THE FRENCH ATTACKS ON THE negotiations for peace. Premier Salisbury's speech at the Guildhall, when he was reported to have said that England did not desire to acquire gold mines or territory, was the reason for sending the mission. Lord Salisbury has not disavowed the meaning placed on his words, leaving the conclusion that the two republics will lose their cherished independence. The mission is absolutely hopeless. The Boers will is absolutely hopeless. The Boers will tion next year. Whether he does so or not surrender everything dear to them not, there is likely to be a decline in without a struggle. On the other hand, England will not negotiate so long as a single Boer invader is on British soil. The suggestion for an armistice is in any case inopportune now from a political point of view, A vast majority of Englishmen have gone into this war with a determination to make it a fight to a finish. If the government were to show indications of repeating the policy of 1881 their large parliamentary majority would not save them from being outvoted. No candid observer can deny the strength of the popular feeling at this moment in favor of fighting to the end and absorbing the Transvaal and the Orange Free State into the British Empire.

The correspondent of the Times "That no thoughts of peace enter the minds of our officials or the J. Part of this division will have to be drawn from the militia. I am told, and after it has been sent, we can have no regular troops worth speaking of beyond a few recruiting sergeants left in the country. Another ten thousand men is also being sent from India, and should all these troops be poured into Africa, we shall have an army there from first to last of more than 130,000 men. This probably means an expenditure of rom £1,500,000 to £2,000,000 a week. It may be a smaller sum if we are in our transport facilities and in the health of our men, cavalry horses and baggage animals, but it will be well to count upon the larger amount in preparing estimates of the cost of war. Up to now the nation has not given a single calm thought to this side of the question, and the time for reflection is yet some distance off." MORE TROOPS NEEDED.

staff officer, in friendly criticism, has been telling the British authorities in secure the establishment of refining for sending large reinforcements to necessary to the effect of this object, tive knowledge, that the Boers are able to put 60,000 men in the field. Against this force the English have 80,000 men. From these, he points out, must be deducted those needed grants of mining land hereafter shall to keep open the requisite base lines, as well as the force necessary for checking risings in Cape Colony, and for garrison duty in the chief centers. He adds: "I hold the opinion, one which is freely shared by brother staff officers, that not less than 40,000 or 45,000 men will be absorbed such necessities, leaving 35,000 to 40,000 that a majority of the men are unused to the climate, and an unusual percentage of sickness must be expected. The local geography is a sealed book to most of the British, and an unusual number of reserve men must be pressed into use before the English sider that our German view is unjustified, viz.: How can England expect to crush a force of at least 50,000. with an army of 40,000 available for offense, when we consider that these 50,000 Boers are acclimatized, and know every yard of the country and its capacities for traps for the bravest European troops? They shoot admirably, and they are maneuvered with an astonishing strategical ability. They have already revealed in trifling operations that they can ignore the questions of food and encampment to degree out of the question with the British-fed troops; they are contending for their rotten oligarchy with the courage of despair, which has understood that other companies intend been heightened by success of a certain nature up to the present. They have found time during the advance south to put their route in an able opment of nickel and copper mining, state of defense. Finally Pretoria has been fortified in such an able manner that an almost insignificant defensive force will be able to hold the place, while the main army can be devoted to other duty. Taking all the foregoing into account, the conclusion has to be arrived at that, if England means to come out victorious, she will quite beyond the proportions of any-

The English press expresses only imperfectly the indignation excited here among the masses and classes alike over the attacks upon the Queen, which have been published across the channel, made apparently from no other cause than her decision to visit the Italian rather than the French Riviera. Prince of Wales is credited, without any authority, with the determination to stay away from the Paris Exposi-English patronage as the result of the censorious criticism of the Queen, and the constant abuse of the nation. GERMANY IN FAVOR.

As France has fallen under the ban of English disapproval and dislike, Germany has advanced by leaps and bounds in popularity. The German emperor has succeeded in removing at a single stroke the old-time prejudice which existed against him in the world of wealth and fashion. I have learned from many sources that he created the most favorable impression at Windsor by his gracious manners and the high intelligence he has displayed in conversation. Mr. Chamberlain has evidently interested him more deeply than anybody else, and high affairs of state have been discussed with him. and in a minor degree with Mr. Arthur

LADY SALISBURY'S BURIAL. Lady Salisbury, daughter of the law baron, who was once considered a poor match for one of the Coyne Cecils. was buried with a close approach to old feudal simplicity under shadow of Hatfield House. All the Cecils were there, excepting Lord Cecil. who is fighting at Mafeking, and the coffin, made of oak from Hatfield Park, was borne to the ivy-draped grave on the shoulders of the workmen of the The burial service was atestate. tended by the powerful Cecil clan and its retainers and its servants, and it was extremely simple. Few wreaths, save the Queen's and the Prince of Wales', were laid among the evergreens in the quiet nook of the churchyard. where the gentle lady who had been the prime minister's most trusted adviser in public affairs was buried. The services held at the same time in the Chapel Royal, at St. James', were attended by the diplomatic corps, members of state and the state functionaries. It was solemn and impressive, with music that was sung with singular beauty and feeling. A prominent German general and FAILED TO UNITE. The Irish unity conference, held in Dublin under the presidency of Timothy Healy, proved of no account. Only nineteen members out of a possible 80 attended, all, with the exception of three, being Healylites. Redmond's party was absent, also those who usually follow Dillon. Outside of Dublin and Waterford, where the Parnellites are still supreme, the only live political organization in Ireland now is William O'Brien's and Davitt's Unlited Irish League. It is spreading steadily, and receiving substantial financial support. Its policy is to make a clean sweep of all existing Irish parties as such, and It is expected quite confidentially that the Dillonites will be obliterated at the next general election.

CHINA'S "OPEN DOOR." London, Nov. 27.-As a result of the United States' request to the power for assurances regarding the maintenance of the "open door" in China, negotiations have been in progress looking for a more permanent and important International agreement than yet mooted. According to reports current here, in consequence of Russia and France failing to reply satisfactorily to Washington's request, the United States declaed to take up the Chinese question still more vigorously. The co-operation of Great Britain to this end, it is asserted, was secured, and upon the infuiative of the United States efforts were set on foot to secure not only assurances to the United States. but a definite agreement between the European powers themselves.

THE OPEN DOOR PRINCIPLE. Such an understanding, to the average European statesman, has long seemed Utopian, yet today it appears there are fair chances of Great Britain, Russia, Germany and France, in conjunction with the United States, becoming signatories to a treaty delimiting the spheres of political influence in China and determining their fiscal polky in that quarter of the globe, based on the "open door" principles. Such is the scope of the negotiations. The projected arrangement may be retroactive as regards territory; in other words, districts now controlled, for instance, by Russia, may change hands in return for other privileges.

FRANCE NOT A STUMBLING-

BLOCK. France apparently has exhibited the greatest opposition to this plan so far. but assurances have been received from Russia, and her apparent willingness to enter into an agreement with the has given rise to the belief that France is not neces arily a stumbling-block. for, if Russia entered into the agreement, France, it is asserted, is almost bound to follow, or render herself powerless in the far east. It is understood the United States, Great Britain and Japan have already arrived at

A PERFECT UNDERSTANDING. Germany's decision was greatly influenced by the emperor, who has had frequent conferences on this far eastern problem, while in England, with Mr. Joseph Choate, United States ambassador. At the Queen's banquet Mr. Choate conversed at length with the emperor, and, it is said, chiefly confined himself to the question of China. It is scarcely probable that any official or semi-official reference will be made to this important under-current. which proposes publicly under the guise of merely giving assurances to the United States, until it has assumed such shape that no hitch is possible. In the event of the failure of the nego-

or Germany, it is likely the world will never know how near the great powers came to settling the greatest problem of the century. THE TRANSVAAL WAR.

tiations through the refusal of Russia

The Transvaal war becomes a matter of momentary interest compared with the tremendous possibilities dependent on these exertions, which are now occupying the diplomats of Europe, and the war itself has reached a stage where even British interest somewhat flags. The advance of the troops to the relief of Ladysmith, Kimberley and Mafeking, is, necessarily, clothed secrecy, which is only broken by the news of desultory engagements. The past week seems to have altered but little the conditions described in these dispatches. Even if Gen. White holds out till relieved, it will only revive a picturesque phase of the campaign, and does not mean it will hasten its end. The Boers, it is claimed, are not likely to risk the deciding battle of the war until they have got Gen. Buller's invading force into a position believed to be favorable to them, or until they are driven into a corner, which promises to be a matter of months.

The criticism of the methods of the British army organization has led several writers to again seriously consider the advisability of adopting some form of conscription, but, although a preponderance of military experts might favor such a step, the British nation has not yet reached that stage where It could submit to such militarism. WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

Wireless telegraphy, Marconi's system, has finally been introduced into the navy as a branch study. The old hulk Hector, lying at Portsmouth, has been fitted out as a school of instruction, and signal men from her will be attached to the battleship Canopus, which goes to the Mediterranean in December, taking Marconi's instruments as part of their regular equipment. She will be the first British ship to do this.

BOY SHOT THRE BOERS.

In a letter received at his home, written on the eve of the battle of Elandslaagte, the 16-year-old trumpeter, Shurlock, of the 5th (Royal Irish) Lancers, who shot three Boers, shows that he lived up to his word. "All the other boys," wrote Shurlock, "were left behind at Pietermaritzburg. I am went to revolver practice the other The sergeant-major said 'Very aay. good for the first time,' and I bet I will shoot some of the Boers down if I get the least chance."

RESTRAINED BY FRIENDSHIP. The speech of Mr. James Brice, M.P., last week at Aberdeen, when the electors passed a vote of confidence in him, has been the cause of much comment. He presented the Liberal case with great fairness. Speaking in a statesmanlike manner, and laying special stress on the American revolution he showed that self-governing colonies could only be restrained by friendship and not by force of arms. LORD SALISBURY'S LOSS.

The death of Lady Salisbury called out the most sincere expressions of sympathy and appreciation for the premter's personality from all sections. The fears that his loss would cause Lord Salisbury's premature retirement do not appear to be based on fact, though Lady Salisbury was a great help to him in public life.

KAISER'S VISIT TO ENGLAND. So far the private nature of the emperor's visit to England has prevented its attracting much public attention, though any number of rumors are current anent its diplomatic result. That is will seriously affect, if not decide, the Chinese negotiations men-tioned seems highly probable, while it is more than likely that it will be followed by further British-Cerman agreements regarding Nigeria, which topic Mr. Chamberlain doubtless discussed during his audience.

It is said the Queen has promised to visit her grandson at Potsdam in thespring, after staying at the Italian Riviera. According to a dispatch to the Lancet from Rome, the Italians are hugely delighted at her majesty's determination not to go to France, interpreting this change in her programme as an intended and deliberate rebuke of France's anti-British press utterances.

DEWEY'S DIFFICULTY.

Commenting on Admiral Dewey's difficulty with his house, the Saturday Review says: "His period of apotheosis has been even shorter than usual with a darling of the democracy.

Mr. Choate's slip at the Edinburgh literary dinner, in a speech crediting Multon's "Peace Hath Her Victories" to "an American orator," continues to be the source of comment and amusement. A writer in this week's Speaker says: "It is not surprising that Mr. Choate failed to give the orator's name, while it is very surprising that a cultivated man should make such a mistake."

A scandal has arisen over the old age retreat, Malakoff, near Paris, founded by an ex-Franciscan monk Many wealthy old ladies were sent there, and are said to have been beaten, tortured and robbed. Even murder is now alleged to have been committed. One woman, 85 years old, is said to have been induced by an attendant, 25

Who Advises Her Friends to Take Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Neepawa, Man., Nov. 27.-Mrs. T. H. McKee, of this place, was cured of Bright's Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Since then sae has been the means of saving the lives of dozens of her friends in Manitoba, besides banishing the unnecessary suffering of many who were unaware that there was a cure at hand.

In a letter written lately in response to an inquiry as to her experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills, Mrs. McKee says: 'I certainly recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills. I believe they saved my life with our blessed Maker's wish. I have the greatest faith in them, and have advised dozens of our Neepawa friends to take them."

In Abyssinia the coffee plant grows wild in great profusion, and derives its name from Kaffa, a district of that country.

Piles for 15 Years.

Mr. Jas. Bowles, Councilor, Embro. Ont., writes: "For over 15 years I suffered the misery of lieeding, protruding piles. The many remedies I tried all failed. I was advised to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and must say that the first application gave relief, after the third day the bleeding stopped, and two boxes cured me completely.'

THE ADVANCE IN CRUDE. Detroit Free Press: The advance in crude oil is what raised the prices of kerosene, gasoline, naphtha and other refined oils. In less than a year crude oil has advanced from 47 cents until today it is $1 09. The reason for this advance is that the consumption is growing larger than the production, and as long as this condition prevails the price will steadily increase.

The boardings were very small, 540 boxes being the amount London.

Acting in good faith the city has given the C. P. R., in consideration of the covenant on their part herein contained, a bonus of $25,000, and the C. P. R. bind themselves to the city for the performance of the said covenants.

Part of the agreement, section 1, relating to the train hands and crews operating the road being residents of London, has, I believe, been carried out by the company; also section 2, relating to the construction of a machine shop, 80 feet by 40 feet, where a blacksmith and his helper can be seen at work at any time, the machinists for that shop not being numerous, if Manitoba wheat is steady, at 77c to 77½c, grinding in transit. Buckwheat slow, at 47c, should locate the proposed carshops here. I distinctly recollect the state ment made by the representatives of the C. P. R. as to the reason why they wanted inserted in the agreement "west of Toronto Junction." It was to give power to the company to enlarge their present works in Toronto if the company desired to do so. But the council were led to understand that the wording of the agreement was only intended to refer to additions to the present works in Toronto if found necessary, and that should the company build carshops separate from the present works in Toronto, London would be the place selected.

Now, I believe the proposed shops are to be located some distance from the present C. P. R. works in Toronto. If such is the case the C. P. R. is not acting in good faith with the city of London, as I understand the agreement at that time was that should new works be erected. London would be the place selected. I still believe that if proper representations are made to the C. P. R., that they will be honorable enough to return value for the $25,000 that the city of London pald over to them for earshops. What we obtained in the way of a machine shop is an apology for a bargain, and the matter of changing the crews here and the train-men residing in London, we would have obtained without the $25,000, as this is a central point, and it is convenient for the company to do so.

The Committee

As the public are aware, during the past six months, Division 97 of the Street Railway Employes Union, has carried on a desperate struggle against the whole power of organized monopoly. No scheme or effort has been left untried to disrupt out ranks or discredit us with the public, but we are pleased to state that the division was never more firmly united or determined to insist upon their rights as British subjects than they are today. POOR VS. RICH.

While discussing the subjects of Sunday Schools at the Manhattan-Brooklyn conference of Congregational churches, now being held in Brooklyn, the Rev. Charles E. Jefferson said among other things, that in future years there might arise a sanguinary conflict between the poor and the rich, unless the conditions changed for the better. He advised the wives of millionaires to visit the slums and to teach the Bible to the children of the Rev. Dr. Newall Dwight Hillis said there were 13,000,000 children whose feet had never crossed the threshold of the Christian church, and they would be found in the front rank of the army of the poor against the rich when the conflict comes.

BUSINESS MEN ARE OPPOSED

Orders Yet Received.

Lieut.-Col. Holmes, who is in command of both the London and Toronto military districts, said this morning he had received no definite orders regarding the transfer of the London men to Toronto. There is a very strong feeling among the business men of London against the proposed change, and they would deeply resent the closing of the London school for six months. Tomorrow Col. Holmes will go to Brantford, the next day to St. Catharines, and thence to Toronto, on a tour of inspection of both armories

Manila, Nov. 27.-The insurgents have evacuated Mangalaren, province of Pangasinan, leaving seven American and 94 Spanish prisoners, who escaped in the turmoil of the Filipino rout. They report that two Americans who were unable to escape are with the insurgents.

Col. Bell, of the 34th Volunteers, arrived at Mangalaren yesterday evening after a hard march and fording the Agno. He found that Fowler's company of the 33rd had occupied the town for two days.

The insurgents, Gen. Alejandrino commanding, had retreated to the mountains behind the town, short of food and ammunition. Besides this his men were deserting, and six cannon which the insurgents were dragging

There has been a good deal of nonsense talked about the boycott of those who find it convenient to use the electric street cars. While there undoubtedly was, at the height of the contest, a strong boycott of public opinion, it is equally true that for the last month or two there has been little attempt, even through opinion, to missed interfere in any way with those who see fit to use the cars. Apparently it is held that the public have taught the Company a sufficient lesson. We hope so. The Advertiser is as much convinced today, as it was six months ago ,that the strike need never have of their officials pursued a course more judicious, more conciliatory, more moderate. To Closing the Military School-No The lesson does not stop at this point. Even voluntary arbitration is not a sufficient remedy, as we have seen. In cases where running rights over the people's streets are involved, it is simply monstrous that the general public should have no remedy except to look on until a dispute burns itself out. At present there is an Ontario Arbitration Act, which seems fair and reasonable to all parties to any dispute. It can be readily invoked; and it is important to know that those giving evidence do so under oath. But, unfortunately, after the arbitration board has met, heard evidence, deliberated, and agreed on a finding, no provision has been made by which the decision arrived at can be enforced. It is easy to conjure up difficulties; but what are parliaments for if not to surmount difficulties? In New Zealand these difficulties have been successfully met. If in New Zealand, why not in Ontario?

NONE TO SOON

Comes the News of the Improved Outlook for British Arms in Africa.

London, Nov. 27 .- None too soon for the British has come the news of the improved outlook for them on both the eastern and western sides of the South small reverses were arousing keen resenfment against the authorities here. This was evidenced by the result of the Wandsworth election to the London County Council on Saturday, when the previous Conservative plurality of 910 was converted into a Liberal plurality of 232, though the Conservatives made Chicken thieves the other night the war an issue and their candidate was a military officer. To Gen. Methuen it appears, belongs the honor of the first real British victory of the present war, as Belmont was the first battle after which the British advanced instead of retreated.

Presumably Gen. Methuen has al ready resumed his march northward. When last heard from he was still 50 miles from Kimberley, and doubtless an action will have to be fought at Modder River before "Diamondopolis" is relieved. There is no doubt as to what is meant in the statement that the Boers are falling back on Warrenton, which is 50 miles north of Kimberley, unless the dispatch was intended to fall into British hands in the hope of misleading Gen. Methuen. The latter, however, is said to be far too cautious to be caught by such a trick, and it con be confidently anticipated that his months, for killing Andrew Gowanlock. column will sweep steadily forward in spite of the determined resistance he will meet with, It seams that the conclusion must be reluctantly reached that the Boers are deliberate in their misuse of white flags. On top of Gen. Methuen's warn-ing and other evidence, comes the statement of Correspondent Knight,

The Strange Metamorphosis

"Well," he said at last, "you've acted very wrongly. Because I thought it best that you should not-ahem-leave your studies for this party, you chose to disobey me and alarm your master, by defying my orders, and coming home by stealth-that was your object, I presume?"

"Y-yes," said Dick, looking rather puzzled, but seeing that he was ex-pected to agree, "that was it." "You know as well as I do what good cause I have to be angry; but, if I consent to overlook your conduct this time, if I ask Dr. Grimstone to overlook it, too" (the doctor made an inarticulate protest, while Dick stared, incredu-"will you undertake to behave better for the future; will you?"

Dick's voice broke at this, and his eyes swam-he was effectually conquer-"Oh, I will," he cried, "I will, real-I never meant to go so far when I fnen, Dr. Grimstone," said Paul, "you will do me a great favor if you will take no further notice of this. You see the boy is sorry, and I am sure he will apologize to you amply for the grave slight he has done you. And by Ine way-I should have mentioned it before-but he will have to leave your care at the end of the term for a public school-I intend to send him to Harrow -so he will require some additional preparation, perhaps; I may leave that in your hands." Dr. Grimstone looked deeply offended, but he only said, "I will see to that myself, my dear sir. I am sorry you did not tell me this earlier. But, may I suggest that a large public school has its pitfalls for a boy of your son's disposition. And I trust this leniency may not have evil consequences, but I doubt it—I greatly doubt it."

As for Dick, he ran to his father and hung gratefully on to his arm with a remorseful hug, a thing he had never or though of attempting, in his life till then. "Papa," he said in a choked voice,

"you're a brick! I don't deserve any of but I'll never forget this as long as I live." Mr. Bultitude, too, felt something spring up in his heart, which drew him toward the boy in an altogether novel manner, but no one will say that either was the worse for it.

"Well," he said mildly, that I have made no mistake. Go back to Crichton House now, work and play well, and try to keep out of mischief for the rest of the term. I trust to you," he added in a lower tone, "while you remain at Rodwell Regis, to keep my—my connection with it a secret; you owe that at least to me. You may probably have—show some theory and probably have—ahem, some inconveni-ences to put up with—inconveniences you are not prepared for. You must bear them as your punishment."

And soon afterward a cab was called and Dr. Grimstone prepared to return to Rodwell Regis, with the deserter, by the last train.
As Paul shook hands through the cab window with his prodigal son, he re-peated his warning: "Mind," he said, you have been at school all this past week; you have run away to attend this party, you understand? Good-bye, my boy, and here's something to put in your pocket, and-and another for Jolland; but he need not know it comes from me." And when Dick opened his hand afterwards he found two halfsovereigns in it.

So the cab rolled away, and Paul went up to the drawing-room, where, although he certainly allowed the fireworks on the balcony and in the garden works on the balcony and in the garden.

This was Dick's punishment, and a This was Dick's punishment, and a led all the other revels up to an advanced hour with a jovial abandon quite worthy of Dick, and none of his little guests ever suspected the change children had driven off, Paul sat down bered with something as nearly resembin an easy chair by the bright fire, which sparkled frostily in his bedroom, to think gratefully over all the events of the day—events which were beginning already to take an unreal and fantastic shape.

His experiences, unpleasant as they had been, had had their advantages; they had drawn him and his family closer together.

to see before. Roly, after this, had a claim upon him he could never wish to forget, and even with the raceless Dick there was a warmer and more natural feeling on both sides—a strange result, no doubt, it such unfilial behavior, but so it was.

Mr. Bulfitude would never after this consider his family as a set of trouble-some and thankless incumbrances; thanks to Dick's offices during the interregnum, they would henceforth throw off their reserve and constraint in their father's presence, and, in so doing, open his eyes to qualities of which he had hitherto been in contented ignorance.

It would be pleasanter, perhaps, to take leave of Mr. Bultitude thus, as he sits by his bedroom fire in the first flush of supreme and unalloyed content. But I feel almost bound to point out a fact which few will find any difficulty in accepting—namely, that although the wrong had been retrieved without scandal or exposure, for which Paul could not be too thankful, there were many consequences which could not but sur

Neither father nor son found himself exactly in the same position as before their exchange of characters. It took Mr. Bultitude considerable time and trouble to repair all the damage his son's boyish excesses had wrought both at Westbourne Terrace and in the city. He found the discipline of his clerks' room and countinghouse sorely relaxed, and his office boy in particular attempted a tone to-ward him of such atrocious familiarity that he was indignantly dismissed, much to his astonishment, the very first day. And probably Paul will never quite clear himself of the cloud that hangs over a man of business who, in the course of however well regulated a career, is known to have been at least once "a little child." And his home, too, was distinctly demoralized; his cook was an artist, unrivaled at soups and entrees; but he had to get rid of her, notwithstanding.

It was only too evident that she looked upon herself as the prospective mistress of his household, and he did not feel called upon as a parent to fulexpectations which Dick's fill any youthful cupboard-love, had unintentionally excited. For some time, as fresh proof of Dick's extravagance came home to him, Paul found it cost him no little effort to restrain a tendency to his former bitterness and resentment, but he valued the new understanding between himself and his son too highly to risk losing it again by an open reproach, and so with each succeeding discovery the victory over his feelings became easier. As for Dick, he found the inconveniences at which his father had hinted, anything but imaginary as will perhaps easily understood. It was an unpleasant shock to discover that in one sort week his father had contrived somehow to procure him a lasting unpopulartiy. He was obvi-ously looked upon by all masters and boys as a confirmed coward and sneak. And although some of his companions could not fairly reproach him on the latter score, the imputation was particularly galling to Dick, who had al-ways treated such practices with sturdy contempt.

He was sorely tempted at times to right himself by declaring the real state of the case; but he remembered his promise and his father's unexpected clemency, and his gratitude always kept him silent. never quite understood how it He was that the whole school seemed to have an impression that they could and assault him generally with perfect impunity, but a few very unsuccessful experiments convinced them that this was a popular error on their

Although, however, in everything else he did gradually succeed in re-covering all the ground his father had lost him, yet there was one respect in which, I am sorry to say, he found all his efforts to retrieve himself hopeless. His pretty princess, with the gray eyes and sofe brown hair, cruelly re-fused to have anything more to do with him. For Duleie's pride had been wounded by what she considered his shameless perfidy on that memorable Saturday by the parallel bars, and the last lingering traces of affection had vanished before Paul's ingratitude on

She did not even give him an opportunity of explaining himself, never by word or sign, up to the last day of the term, showing that she was even aware of his return. What was worse, in her resentment she transferred her favor to Tipping, who became her humble slave for a too brief period; after which he was found wanting in polish, and was ignominiously thrown over for the shy new boy, Kiffin, whose head Dick found thost.

When it was all over and the sleepy and her chilling disdain, are remembered with a daylor of Paul at the sleepy hard driven of Paul at the sleepy hard with a small state.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the most effective blood purifier and germicide that modern medical science has produced. 'An Inconsistent Preacher.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: I see by last evening's Advertiser that E. M. Baskerville is seeking information relative to the consistency or inconsistency of the Rev. Richard Hobbs. With your permission I will Hobbs. With your permission I will try and answer at least some of her questions. First-Yes, it is true that I was in full sympathy with the strikers at the first when there was a demand for higher wages, because I thought that their demand was just and reasonable. But as soon as the servant wanted to usurp the place of the master, and to rule him as with a rod of iron, and began to "punish and the free workingman, my ostracise" sense of right would not allow me to stand by and look at this "organized tyranny," and wholesale opprobrium, hurled against the free workingman, and thousands of loyal citizens, without offering my emphatic protest against such tyranny in this free country! Neutrality, to my mind, is a crime, under such circumstances. And all who have heard or read Chief Justice Armour's address to the grand jury on Monday last will see that my contentions have all been in harmony with the law of the land, and, I am with the law of the fand, and, sure in harmony with the law of God. That address of his lordship's should be read by every citizen of London, and it must come as a timely condemnation to all my critics, as well as the vindication of the principles for which I stand at the cost. I am assured, of stand, at the cost, I am assured, of my dearest friends in London! My advice to all such neutrals is, get last Monday's Advertiser and read his lordship's address, and learn the crime of your neutrality, and sue for pardon at the mercy seat of the Judge of the whole earth! Second—All of the remaining ques-tions propounded by E. M. Basker-ville can be answered in one, as faras they relate to me. I am not so much concerned as to what a man, or a company of men, may have been in the past. I, for one, refuse to be governed in my attitude or disposition towards any man or body of men, by what they have been or by what they have done or said. If I find a man doing what I consider to be right to-day I commend him for it, and will give him the hand-shake of encouragement, in that one thing, though he may have done a hundred things in the past of which I could not approve. Am I "inconsistent" in taking such an attitude? Will Mrs. B. or any other person dare say that such a disposition is 'inconsistent' with the Gospel I preach? I preach the Golden Rule, and defy the world that I do not live it, by the grace of God. I preach the doctrine contained in the Sermon on the Mount, and by the grace of God live it, namely, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you." Or, as the Apostle Paut taught: "If thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink." But even our friend, Mrs. Baskerville, like all the other correspondents that I have been contending with, has adopted the "starve out" principle with all who do not agree with her; for she wonders how "a minister of the Gospel of Christ can enrich the coffers of that paper by a single cent." This sounds very much like the dictum of Mr. George McFadden, already pubhished to the world, assuring us what their attitude is toward their enemies -"We will punish him (the "scab"), we will ostracise him from our society. we will not buy from him, we will not sell to him, we will keep him as far from us as we would a snake." I am surprised to hear a woman like Mrs. Baskerville proposing to boycott a paper doing a legitimate business in the city of London, so much so that there should not be the income of "a single cent" to supply the common needs. Hear what Judge Armour says: "If persons combine together to prevent others trading wheresoever they please, or using any particular mode of transportation, they are guilty of a misdemeanor, and liable to punishment, besides being mean and cowardly." "Such offenders," he goes on to state, "are liable to a fine not exceeding $100, or three months imprisonment." But the Judge of the whole earth says: "Out of thine own mouth will I condemn thee."

ASSERTION WAS UNWARRANTED

Position of the Government on the Electric Railway Franchise Dispute.

Toronto, Nov. 27.—A reporter of the Globe interviewed the Premier of On-tarlo Friday morning with regard to the action of the railway committee of the privy council in assuming fjurisdiction over electric railways holding municipal franchises.

To the question, "Do you think the Dominion government under the Dominion railway act has the power to exercise control over electric railways chartered by the province, and holding a franchise in the municipalities through which they pass?" the premier replied that the matter was largely a constitutional question, and, therefore, he did not wish to express himself as to its legal aspect. It did appear to him, however, a rather unwarrantable assertion of the powers of the Dominion governemnt. The franchise under which electric railways carried on business was necessarily a municipal franchise, as in every instance the conlic streets and highways for transpordation purposes was necessarily obtained. It did not appear reasonable that the railway committee of the privy council should declare that the privileges of the public streets, which the municipality had conferred upon an electric railway, should be used in any way without the consent of the municipality, or apparently without con-sideration. This action appears to be an encroachment upon the rights of municipalities as well as upon the rights of the province, from which the municipalities derive their power; and if that view should prevail upon further consideration, the provincial government would feel bound to protect the municipalities against encroachment upon their rights in such a manner as the constitution warranted.

CHRISTMAS AND THE CHILDREN-TOYLAND

If grown-up people would only stop to consider the pleasures they derived from toys in their childhood, they would gladly spend a little money occasionally in this way on their own little ones.

Our Toyland is in the basement, and it is one of the sights of this interesting store to watch the children go through it.

We sought for Toys long and seriously. Our close touch with foreign manufacturers and dealers was made closer. We have here, imported from all the towns and villages where Toys are made, the finest and best selected lot that we have ever spread before the public, and that says much.

We can't tell about them. No one but a child or a mer chant could really appreciate what all these heaped-up fancies mean. But there's everything here that is made in all the world to give little tolks a merry Christmas. We know that, for we hunted the world over to find them.

If you don't visit Toyland you'll miss a treat.

"A MAN OF MYSTERY." A new melodrama, "A Man of Mystery" was presented at the Grand Opera House Saturday afternoon and evening to large audiences. The play appeared particularly to the gallery, and proved acceptable. It was full of exciting climaxes. Nothing in the whole range of stock thrill-producers was missing and, by way of novelty, the villain was possessed of hypnotic power, which he exercised in various crimes, but which did not prevent the introduction of an attempt at poison ing, a sewer-trap murder and an exciting rescue. The Man of Mystery leads a double life and gives the hero of the play, a detective, plenty of op-portunity to distinguish himself. The detective also gets mixed up in some melodramatic love-making. Good specialties were introduced by Mr. Mills and Miss Mary Leslie.

POSTOFFICE AT NILESTOWN BURNED

Together With Two Stores and a Stable-Fire Broke Out at Midnight Saturday—The Losses.

A disastrous fire occurred in the village of Nilestown, seven miles southeast of the city, between midnight Saturday and 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The blaze was discovered by a resident of the village, and the alarm given shortly before midnight. The postoffice and general store, occupied by R. W. Puckridge, and a store kept by Mr. Arthur Maule, together with a stable, were completely destroyed.

The fire started in Maule's store, and the villagers turned out in force to fight the flames, but the blaze had gained great headway, and soon spread to the Puckridge store, the greater part of the stock from which had, however, been removed to a place of safety. Maule's store, a frame building, owned by Mrs. Byers, and formerly owned by Mrs. Byers, and formerly occupied as a hotel, was destroyed with all the stock. The Puckridge store was owned by Mr. John Garvey, of all the stock. The Puckridge store was owned by Mr. John Garvey, of this city. Maule's loss on stock, etc., will be $700; insured for $400. The building was also insured for $400. The frame barn in the rear was also burned. Puckridge's loss will be light. Both stores were closed for the night shortly before the fire broke out, everything appearing safe then, and some of the villagers are inclined to think that the fire was of incendiary origin.

Mr. Maule had only started business in Nilestown a few months ago, having gone there from Dorchester. When the fire broke out Mr. Maule was visiting friends at Dorchester Station.

Rev. E. C. Oakley Accepts the Call-Anniversary Services.

Anniversary services were held yes-London. The pulpit was occupied in the morning by Rev. C. C. Owen, of the Memorial Church. In the evening, Bishop Baldwin, assisted by Rev. Provost Watkins, Rev. Mr. English and Rev. Mr. Sage, conducted the services. Very large congregations were in attendance both in the morning and evening. The basis of Bishop Baldwin's sermon was in the words found in Psalms, exviii., 22-23. The Bible was built on the most perfect and developed plan, and the center of this plan was Christ, It was divided into three great parts, the history of Israel, the history of the church of the living God, and the history of the Gentile nations of the earth. The bishop closed his address by an urgent appeal to all those present to place themselves on the side of Christ Jesus, "the stone which the builders rejected," but which "is become the head of the corner."

ACCEPTED THE CALL. Rev. E. C. Oakley, of Detroit, occupied the pulpit of the First Congregational Church yesterday. As it was known that he would give his reply to the call recently extended to him to become the pastor of the church, much interest was evinced, and the congregations were large, buth in the morning and evening. He stated that after full consideration he had decided to accept the call to the pastorate, and felt that from the cordial unanimity of the call he would have the hearty cooperation of the congregation. He wanted every member to work in the church and to pray that God's blessing might rest upon them and guide them in their work. Mr. Oakley said he would not be able to assume the pastorate immediately, but assured the congregation that he would do so as soon as pos-

Hobart. Paterson, N. J., Nov. 27 .- The earthly remains of the late vice-president, Garret A. A brief fun-eral service was held at the late residence of the deceased, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Dr. Magie. President McKinley and his cabinet offi-cers, and over sixty members of the senate and a great many congressmen who came on special trains, attended the services at the house. After the house services, the body, inclosed in an oaken casket with silver ornaments, and almost hidden with flowers, was taken from the house and the president and his party went to the Church of the Redeemer. CANCER RUNS

IN FAMILIES

Those With Hereditary Predisposition Should Take Treatment in Time.

The writer on cancers in the British Encyclopedia says that nearly half of all cases can be traced to hereditary predisposition. Nearly every author ity on malignant growths emphasizes the fact that in a large proportion of cases it will be found that either the father or mother, grandfather or grandmother, died of the disease. This hereditary tendency to cancer shows that the disease must be of a constitutional nature, and it should also put those persons whose progenitors have died of the disease on their guard to take treatment on the very first indication of its approach. And new light has been shed on the methods of treating this serious malady. The barbarities of the knife and plaster with their overwhelming percentage of failures and recurrences, have been superseded by a constitutional remedy, that builds up the depleted strength, searches out the cancer poison in every corner of the system, and without and cutting or suffering, radically and permanently cures the disease. LIFE SAVED .- Mr. James Bryson Cameron writes: "". was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs and was given up by physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a threat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice I procured the medicine. and less than half a bottle cured me: I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me grood.
