LONDON GIRL BURNED TO DEATH IN DETROIT

BRITISH SLOOP CAPTURES SHIP IN TRALEE BAY

ROUT SINN FEIN INVADERS

Crown Troops Drive Forces From Main Positions in Ulster.

London, England, June 5.—A steamer, bound from New York for Fenit, County Kerry with corn and a mixed cargo, was held up in Tralee Bay by a British sloop today.

A large quantity of ammunition in barrels was seized, the dispatch states.

A Central News message says the steamer mentioned is the Seattle Spirit, and that she is now berthed at Fentit pier.

The Seattle Spirit is a steamer of 5,783 tons gross, built at Seattle in 1919, a United States shipping board vessel.

Shipping records show her to have sailed from New York May 18, calling at Boston, whence she sailed for Cork, Dublin and Belfast.

British troops have driven the Sinn Fein invaders from their main positions in Ulster territory, and a large part of the border between Northern and Southern Ireland now is practically a battle front.

The Daily Herald prints a report from Chatham that several warships are about to leave there for an unknown destination, believed to be Ireland, and that the town is filled with naval men, under instructions not to leave port.

News dispatches from Ulster declare that feeling there has been embittered by the murder of Magistrate Flanaghan, which caused a great sensation. The victim had lately sentenced many offenders under the firearms act, and had often been threatened, but had ignored the threats. He was accompanied to the cathedral at Newry, where the shooting took place, by his sister. She seized one of the assailants, but the latter threw her off and escaped with his companions in an automobile into Lough County, which is free state territory, and where they consequently could not be pursued by the northern authorities.

RECAPTURE PETTIGOE.

Belfast, June 5.—Authentic details of the recapture of Pettigoe show that a British staff officer entered the village at noon yesterday and gave the Republicans holding the town fifteen minutes to leave. Some immediately departed, but about one hundred decided to oppose the military.

At the expiration of the time limit the British crossed the bridge leading into the village, and were received with machine gune and rifle fire. Then the British artillery came into action, and when the first shell landed on a hill behind the town some of the more timid of the defenders made a dash for safety. Four more shells followed in quick succession, and one, striking in the middle of a party of the retreating Sinn Feiners, inflicted several casualties.

Troops which had been landed secretly from Boa Island, in Lough Erne, during the night took the republicans in the rear, but several managed to escape through their superior knowledge of the country.

It is officially stated that but one member of the crown forces was killed.

Seven republicans are known to have been killed, while sixteen were made prisoners, including the commandant. It is understood that Belleek, southwest of the Pettigo, is still held by the republicans, but

Find Body of London Man Lying In Field

VICTIM FOUND BELIEVED TO BE CHAS. A. PEASE

HAD WHITE RUBBER BOOTS

Notebook in Pocket Thought To Reveal Identity.

BULLETIN.

Provincial police, at noon Monday, arrested a man, giving his name as Summers, in Pottersburg, who, it is alleged, figured in the hold-up near Thamesford last night.

The other two alleged members of the hold-up gang have disappeared.

Lying in a field near Beatty Bros.' foundry, Chelsea Green, the body of a man, believed to be that of Charles A. Pease, 23 Euclid avenue, was found by Howard Beatty, an employee of the above firm, about 2 p.m. Monday afternoon.

In one hand a dish was held as if the man were intending to feed horses when death overtook him, and there was a pair of wire rubber boots on the feet.

The body is that of a man apparently 55 years of age, and in a water-soaked notebook found in the clothing is the name of "Charles A. Peas or Pease, 23 Euclid avenue, in case of accident phone 6080."

Sergeant of Detectives Robert Egelton responded to the call of Beatty in the police car, and the body was removed to Logan's undertaking parlors.

Detective Egelton reports that there are no indications of foul play.

One of the spectators who viewed the removal of the body declared that he passed the spot where it was discovered Sunday night, and that it was not there. The note book had been soaked in water no doubt from Monday morning's rain, and the writing in ink was scarcely decipherable.

The man wore a soft hat, and in the opinion of the undertaker had not been dead long.

John A. Rose, whose phone number is 6080, informed The Advertiser this afternoon that he does not know any person by the name of Pease, and is at a loss to understand why his phone number should be written in the notebook.

Mr. Rose, who is sales manager of the Hobbs Hardware Company, formerly resided at 23 Euclid avenue, the address given in the notebook.

Tells London Women How To Reduce Fifty Pounds In Seven Months

"LOVE has its thrills, but these are nothing compared to the emotional reactions of a woman who finds her waistband too loose, following a period of gastronomical negativity."

So says Nina Wilcox Putnam, English short story writer and author of the new book, "Tomorrow We Diet," who succeeds in keeping her income up and her flesh down.

"Once I weighed 98 pounds," Miss Putnam is speaking again. "And I was declared tubercular. After following a doctor's instructions two years I weighed 197 1-2 pounds.

"Then the doctor said the tubercular condition had disappeared. But it certainly was the only thing that was missing. Otherwise, I was all there and 50 pounds to the good.

"THEN I embarked upon the great adventure—getting thin. At first I tried everything. I ate Buns. I read 'Feed and Fade Away.' I wore Dr. Blank's rubber garments.

"Turkish baths intrigued me. Then I found a corset, strongly reminiscent of the Inquisition, which was supposed to put the stomach where the chest should be, and keep it there.

"I went in for electric and human massage, and classical dancing.

"But after all these the scales still hovered close to the 200 mark.

"Then I was driven to dieting. With the help of my doctor, I evolved a system of do's and don'ts that I found effective. By following it I lost 50 pounds in seven months.

NINA WILCOX PUTNAM.

HOW SHE DID IT!

WHAT SHE GAVE UP.	WHAT SHE ATE.
Potatoes, in every form.	Steak or chops.
Soup.	Turkey, chicken, broiled pork tenderloin.
Bread, cake or pie.	Fish, except those creamed or fried in butter.
Pastries, puddings, ice cream.	These vegetables: Spinach, chard, lettuce, asparagus, tomatoes, cucumbers, onions, string beans, fresh peas, summer squash, new lima beans, colrabi, French or Jerusalem artichokes, vegetable marrow, cabbage, brussels sprouts.
Nuts—absolutely.	All fresh fruit.
Butter and cheese.	Water ices and apple sauce.
Corn, ripe olives, grapes, bananas.
Mayonnaise dressing.
Thickened gravies and sauces.
Bacon.
Milk or cream.
Sugar.

"I believe that before following any diet schedule a woman would do well to take up the matter with her doctor.

"I advise every woman, who goes on a strict diet, to take good care of her face and massage it scientifically, otherwise it is likely to become wrinkled.

"I found that I kept my strength and pep unimpaired by eating bran bread three times a day.

"How often I reached out a trembling hand and surreptitiously patted the soft cheek of a roll, then withdrew it by sheer will power, leaving the little roll unharmed.

"Often the sight of a potato, even the humblest boiled one, brought tears of longing to my eyes. But bread and potatoes are the handmaidens of avoirdupois.

"Finally 50 pounds had melted away, and I was myself again. I felt more than compensated. What are pies and potatoes against youth and lightness of foot?"

REPORTS TRADE IN BRITISH ISLES BECOMING NORMAL

Special to London Advertiser.

Quebec, June 5.—The Canadian Pacific steamer Scandinavian, from Antwerp and Southampton, which arrived at Quebec at 9:30 o'clock with 338 passengers, in which were included 137 third-class travelers, landed the latter this morning for immigration inspection after which they were immediately forwarded to their western destinations.

These new arrivals comprised 90 British and the balance foreigners all, however, of the farming class, well developed in physique and intelligence. Included in the 161 cabin passengers were 50 returning Canadian residents of Montreal, Toronto, London and Winnipeg, and other points in the west.

Capt. J. Hall, commander of the boat, had nothing special to report, except that the weather was good and they had had a fine passage. Returned Canadians report, according to their observation and opinion, that business in the British Isles is under improvement, and commercial industry is gradually creeping towards normal.

DOUBTS LAYMEN ARE FIT TO DECIDE CLERICAL TRANSFERS

John C. Hay of Listowel Voices Disapproval of London Methodist Conference Memorial To Change Stationing Representation.

Consideration of memorials proposed for submission to the floor of the general conference, together with election of delegates to that body, occupied the greater part of the Monday morning sessions of the London Methodist Conference, meeting in Centennial Church.

Defeat met the memorial setting forth equal lay and ministerial representation on stationing and transfer committees.

The attitude of the delegates who opposed the resolution, including both laymen and clergy, was summed up in the opinion of John C. Hay, of Listowel, who definitely stated that laymen were by no means enough acquainted with the affairs of the districts to undertake the execution of so important a part of the church work.

A more extensive resolution, and one which had also to do with the principle of equal representation, was adopted without comment for submission to the General Conference. This proposed revision of the church discipline, having as its object the unified control and co-ordinated operation of the work of the Methodist Church, and that in such revision the principle be applied of equal representation of lay and ministerial members to and for all conference and district committee boards and courts; and further, that the largest possible amount of responsibility be placed upon the annual conference and its committees, boards and courts, with freedom to adopt and carry into effect detailed methods of procedure that will secure stability, efficiency and growth of

The budget system is not confined to parliament or the London city council by any means. There is one little London girl who had a total capital of $1.60 to spend at the school picnic last Friday, and she had decided just what she was going to do with every penny, but she lost her purse Thursday night at the Springbank Amusement Park.

The purse was picked up by one of the employees and turned in to the proprietors. In it was the $1.60 and a little note book, which read like this: Cash received for picnic—Daddy, 50 cents; mother, 50 cents; auntie 25 cents; uncle, 35 cents; total, $1.60 to spend.

On another sheet was the following: How I am going to spend the money—Roller coaster, 20 cents; Ferris wheel, 20 cents; four cones, 20 cents; pop, 15 cents; candy, 25 cents; train rides, 20 cents; anything at all 50 cents; total, $1.60.

Later in the evening a worried little girl with tear-stained eyes asked the big kindly policeman at the park if a little purse had been found. She was a mighty happy youngster when she boarded a street car for the city clutching her "good time" for the morrow.

SWISS DECLINE SOVIET AS GUESTS

The Ontario Commercial Travelers held a meeting on Saturday afternoon for organization purposes in connection with the United Welfare Drive to be held in the city within a few weeks.

Each year the travelers canvass the city for this drive, and the success of the United Welfare campaigns in the past has been due very largely to the enthusiasm displayed by the travelers in the city-wide endeavor to aid the charitable institutions of London.

On Saturday, June 17, more than 250 travelers will solicit and leave literature and subscription blanks at every house in the city, and then on Sunday they will make the rounds again to collect the offerings of the citizens.

The city has been divided into 24 districts for the purpose, and a chairman has been chosen for each district. The chairman for the 24 districts are: No. 1, J. Harold Thompson; No. 2, A. A. Morrison; No. 3, Gordon M. Reid; No. 4, W. E. Thorpe; No. 5, A. E. Heaslip; No. 6, Oliver Gidley; No. 7, G. Morley Adams; No. 8, A. J. Smith; No. 9, G. W. Pulling; No. 10, A. W. ADMITS BLAME IN AUTO SMASH

Guy Mann, However, Denies Charge of Drunkenness.

Attorney Questions Authority of Justices To Pass Judgment.

Whether two justices of the peace, sitting in county police court in the capacity of a police magistrate, possess the authority to pass judgment on cases other than breaches of the traffic bylaw is the interesting point of contention that was raised by J. M. Donahue, appearing Monday morning for Guy Mann of Lambeth, who appeared before Squire Chittick and Captain Robson, jointly, charged with driving a car while intoxicated.

The crown charges that Mann, by careless driving Sunday afternoon on the Wharncliffe road, while under the influence of liquor, crashed into a car containing Leslie Cox of Goderich, and his cousin, Mrs. Dawson, wrecking the machine and injuring the latter to such a degree as to necessitate medical attention.

After considerable delay the court convened after 10 o'clock Monday, it being first necessary to prepare the necessary documents to bring the prisoner into court. While the crown called two witnesses in the morning, Leslie Cox and C. Hopkins, the defense asked for an adjournment at noon, in view of the fact that certain witnesses were to be called to "prove that the prisoner was not drunk," as was charged by the prosecution witnesses.

Squire Chittick set 2:30 p.m. as the time when the case would be resumed.

Asks Respite.

When the court convened the defendant asked for a few minutes' respite in order that his counsel, J. M. Donahue, who was in attendance at the county court, might arrive to plead for him. After certain delay, Squire Chittick ruled, however, that the case proceed. Both J. M. Donahue and Crown Attorney Douglas both subsequently arrived, however, and as the latter leaned over and questioned Squire Chittick, "Have you heard from Mr. Graydon?" the counsel for the defence asked if the bench had been vested with the proper authority to judge the case.

"I have never had it countermanded," retorted the squire. "Magistrate Graydon has told me to go on. Is that plain enough? I am not going to sit up here on this bench and utter untruths."

"Well, I don't want it understood," shot back Attorney Donahue, "that just because I came in after the case had commenced that I consent to the jurisdiction of the same."

"When is a person to be adjudged under the influence of liquor?" This is the second important question that seemingly bothered the witnesses. As the first witness for the crown, Leslie Cox of Goderich, in answer to a question by Squire Chittick, as to the defendant's condition Sunday, replied: "When is a man under the influence of liquor? Can you tell me that?"

"Well, it is not a question of that," cautioned the bench; "it is a question of whether in your opinion he was fit to drive a car."

Not in Condition.

Witness testified that the defendant was not in the best condition from that point of view. He had spoken to him after the accident, he related, and his breath smelt of liquor. Prisoner also admitted he was to blame, and would settle for all damages.

Cross-examined by J. M. Donahue, witness said he could not distinguish the brand or kind of liquor. While he was a teetotalar himself, he had been familiar with liquor breaths, however.

As Attorney Donahue questioned the witness as to the value of his ma-

PASSENGER IN AUTO CRUSHED BY STREET CARS

BLAZE CONSUMES VEHICLE

Companion, Also of London, Receives Painful Injuries.

When an auto in which she was riding with two companions was crushed between two street cars in Detroit Sunday, later catching fire, Miss Irla Strong, 23 years old, whose mother resides at 409 Horton street, London, received injuries which resulted in her death a few hours later, and Amy Nicol, 22 years old, daughter of Joseph Nicol, 73 Elmwood avenue, was painfully injured.

Miss Strong, who was well and favorably known in this city, was riding with Miss Nicol, who was her room-mate, and William Leavoy, their driver and escort, when the accident occurred.

Caught in Car Tracks.

Leavoy was driving the car east on Charlevoix street, according to eyewitnesses, parallel to a street car, proceeding in the same direction. At Canton avenue the auto cut in front of the street car in order to pass an automobile, parked on Charlevoix street, and was driving off the tracks, when the wheels of the auto became caught in them.

This fact swerved the auto around into the path of the street car, and the two vehicles crashed. A second later, a westbound street car crashed into the auto from the other side, crushing the engine and setting the machine on fire.

Miss Strong occupied the front seat with the driver, and before she could be extricated from the flaming vehicle by the street car crews and pedestrians, she suffered fatal burns. Her clothing literally was burned off her body, and some silver coins in the pocket of her dress were scorched black by the flames.

Leavoy was not burned, but was cut slightly about the face and hands. Miss Nicol suffered contusions of the hip and knee, and was cut on the forehead. Her condition is not believed to be serious. The accident occurred shortly before noon, when the two girls were out on a flat-hunting tour.

In Search of Flat.

Leavoy had stated to the accident investigation bureau at Detroit that he was called to the young ladies' residence for the purpose of driving them about the city in search of a flat.

The automobile was consumed in the flames.

The first news that relatives of Miss Strong in London received of the fatal accident was a telegram Sunday, informing her mother that the girl died at 5:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The bereaved mother immediately left for Detroit, accompanied by her son, Percy Strong, and his wife.

It is expected that the body of Miss Strong will be brought to the family home on Horton street Monday night or early Tuesday morning, and interment will be made in this city.

Besides her mother, Irla, who numbered a host of friends in London, where she lived for several years, is survived by four sisters—Emily, Rhea and Mrs. E. McKenzie, all at home, and four brothers—Percy and Roy of London, William of Thedford and Harry of Winnipeg.

NOMINATE CANDIDATES.

Hope Toronto House Will Close This Week

TORONTO, June 5. — Hopes are being expressed at Queen's Park for an ending of the legislature session at the end of the present week, with formal prorogation in the middle of next week. Legislators face the hardest week's work of the season with morning, afternoon and evenings sessions with public accounts, legal and private bills committees holding their few remaining meetings concurrently with house sessions.

FOR GRANDMOTHER DIDN'T WASTE HER TEARS ON THE WRONG MAN!

THOSE who have a taste for comparisons are particularly happy when comparing the athletic girl of our London of today with her non-athletic grandmother, usually to grandmother's utter disadvantage.

Grandmother, we are told, was a poor creature, who shrieked at sight of a mouse and fainted at sight of a cow.

She scarcely knew what lay beyond her garden gate, she blushed at the mere mention of trousers; a mild rubber of whist was the only game she ever played.

She knew how to keep house, it is true, but she had never heard of higher mathematics.

Yet, after all, when we come to analyze the two women impartially, does grandmother compare so unfavorably with her statuesque descendant as she is supposed to do?

She was not an athlete, but so far as endurance goes, her granddaughter cuts a poor figure beside her.

To begin with, grandmother had no nerves. She did not know what the word meant. If you had talked before her of a "rest cure," you might just as well have been talking Chinese. Her tears and her fainting fits were merely weapons in her armory. She did not waste them on the wrong man.

If she had a smaller waist than her descendant and was less magnificently developed altogether, she had, as a rule, a better carriage and walked better and more gracefully, and she braved all weathers in low-necked dresses and short sleeves.

And grandmother, when she married in her teens or early twenties, looked forward with perfect equanimity to the bearing of a round dozen of children. That her descendants, with all the alleviation of modern science, thinks differently, is the complaint of patriotic publicists in Canada.

If modern women would pause to think they would see that they have little cause for sneering at grandmother. She can meet them on their own ground and justify her existence as a link in their pedigree.

She was less sharp-witted, no doubt, but she was more wise.

She could not play rough games or take violent exercise, but she could bear inconvenience, tedium and suffering with more fortitude than her descendant.

And, on the whole, she was not a failure in the chief field of womanhood's successes. For men loved grandmother and laid down their lives for her as often as they do now for the women who prefer to be their companions rather than their enshrined saints.

BARES PERIL OF ALIEN INFLUX FACING CANADA

Arthur Beal Addresses Askin Street Men's Brotherhood Sunday Morning.

TERMS PROBLEM VITAL

Declares Dominion Needs immigrants Who Will Build World Nation.

"Canadian Immigration" was the subject of an address delivered to members of the Askin Street Men's Brotherhood Sunday morning by Arthur Beal.

"Perhaps the largest and most important problem that Canada has before it today for solution is to show how the incoming tide of immigrants of various nationalities and different degrees of civilization may be assimilated and made worthy citizens of the great commonwealth," declared Mr. Beal. "Our neighbor to the south of us—the United States—has been grappling with this question for years, but has not yet found a solution. Canada is now facing the same problem, but in a more aggravated form.

"A much larger percentage of foreigners, in proportion to the population, is coming to us just now than came at any one period to the United States. The larger the percentage the most difficult is the problem of solution.

"Western Canada has this problem in an even more perplexing form and to a greater degree than has Eastern Canada. It has been said that the city of Winnipeg might, without any misuse of words be called the 'storm center' of the problem in Canada.

Admit 148,477 in Year.

"The increase in a country's population depends upon two things—the increase in its birth rate, and the increase through its immigration. If you were to refer to the government's blue books you would find that last year Canada permitted 148,477 to settle within its fair boundaries.

"Out of the remote and little-known regions of Northern, Eastern and Southern Europe forever marches a vast and endless army. It is the march the like of which the world has never seen, and the moving columns are animated by but one idea—that of escaping from evils which have made existence intolerable and of reaching the free air of countries where conditions are better shaped to the welfare of the masses of the people.

"It is a vast procession of varied humanity, in tongue, in dress, in customs, in religion, and in beliefs. They carry their equipment on their backs, forever, moving always in the same direction, westward. This vast army comes out of the shadow, converges to a natural point of distribution, masses along the international highways, and its vanguard disappears. Absorbed when it finds a resting place throughout Europe, the word America in all languages stands for freedom, prosperity and happiness.

"The desire to reach America is the first signal of revolt against harsh environment, the dream of age and youth alike. Within the past year Canada has risen from the status of a colony to that of a nation. A national consciousness has developed.

On Eve of Change.

"We are told by writers of economic conditions that we are on the eve of a great change along the line of immigration. Conditions in Europe and on this side of the Atlantic are vastly different, and the fact that Europe and America now hold diverse points of view on the immigration issue challenge our most thoughtful attention.

"Each European nation to strengthen further its own nationalism is sending out a call to its well-to-do immigrants in other countries to return home, at least temporarily. Even where economic conditions are unsettled, each country now deems it wise to strengthen the immigrant's home ties, which have been weakened during the war. Belgium has sent out word that it needs every able-bodied Belgian, no matter where he has settled. Poland has appealed to its immigrants, far and near, to return to the land of their birth.

"Germany has established an imperial department of immigration to undertake the work of bringing her colonists back to the fatherland.

"In fact, immigrants from all over the world are returning to Europe in obedience to the call of their native land—a call which many of them consider hardly less imperative than that of the war. From the shores of America alone nearly four hundred thousand immigrants left during the second year of the armistice. And this, we are told, is every evidence to indicate that the day of unregulated flow of immigration is passing, and that its conscious utilization as an element in the economic expansion of the nations is fast approaching.

Will Answer Call.

"Hitherto the immigrant, a traveler of his own free will, answering to the call within him of adventure, of freedom, or of conquest—is he now to become a pawn in the great commercial contest between nations for economic strength and permanent expansion. Can the day when immigration will be a matter for international settlement come too quick for Canada—and should not every Canadian help its progress. Look at it from the viewpoint of our mother on the west coast. We, in the eastern part of Canada, fail to appreciate the situation. Our mother on the west coast are face to face with a serious problem, despite the restrictions in immigration. They are facing 800,000,000 people. There are in Japan 60,000,000, China 400,000,000, India 340,000,000; total 800,000,000.

"From time immemorial movements on the part of peoples have been common. As time goes on and transportation becomes easier, it is easier for these people to move. Would not Canada's future be safer if we as a people help further the movement of the world's immigration being placed on a national basis.

"Any nation which continues to regard immigration solely as a matter of the individual immigrant's desire or initiative fails to comprehend but little of the new forces which have been released by the war—and of the necessities and opportunities existing in Europe—all of which are changing the world toward immigration.

Are Marking Time.

In the meantime we on this side of the Atlantic are marking time—while the governments of Europe are making their plans independently of us. They are requiring the immigrant, not so much as a free individual—but as one whose ambitions, hopes, possibilities and progress will keep him united to his home government. They seek to tie him to his native land—not less by economic elan by political bonds. They conceive the task broadly and profoundly—and the time has come for our governments to wake up, it must think, act, plan not less broadly or less profoundly. For great as is our wealth and power, numerous as are our opportunities in the field of immigration, Canada is yet but one competitor among many.

"Canada today needs immigration. The millions of acres of untilled land demands it. The craze for numbers, however, must not be allowed to interfere with the same policy of opening the doors only to those who are likely to be of use in building what promises to be one of the greatest of the world's nations. Our forefathers came to this shore when this country was a vast wilderness and laid the foundations of a new nation as solid and strong as if they were made of granite. To us, their descendants, has been handed down the sacred responsibility of erecting the superstructure.

Movers and Packers!

Do you remember the last time you moved? Wasn't there a big confusion? And when you were moved and getting settled in the other house you remembered you had left the babys' high chair or the garden hose or something. Then when you unpacked you found broken pictures—china—scratched mahogany—battered furniture.

There is no necessity for this ever happening again. Under "MOVING and STORAGE" in the Classified Section, there are firms who will take all this worry from your shoulders. They move with padded vans. They employ men who know how to pack so things will not break.

French-Canadian Jumps Into Well, Saving 4-Year-Old Child From Death

Quebec, June 5.—A courageous act was performed at Sillery, about three miles from this city, on Saturday afternoon, when Fred Julien, a young man, jumped into a well to rescue four-year-old Adolphe Gignac, who had fallen into the well.

There was thirteen feet of water in the well and Julien, with great difficulty, managed to hold the child between his knees while he clung to the slimy stones on the sides. He lost his grip several times and plunged into the water, but managed to cling to the child and come to the surface. His cries for help finally attracted attention and both were rescued. The child was unconscious when taken out and artificial respiration had to be resorted to to revive him. His rescuer was completely exhausted.

that Magheramena Castle has been evacuated.

There is considerable interest here regarding the fate of the Belleek fort, the holding of which by the republicans practically renders the barracks there untenable.

PETTIGOE CAPTURED.

LONDON, June 4.—Infantry, cavalry, artillery and whippet tanks took part in the first offensive action of the British troops on the Ulster borderland early this afternoon, when Pettigoe, which straddles the line, though a large part of the town is in Free State territory, was stormed and retaken from troops of the Irish Republican Army who entered on May 30. Reports from Belfast describe the border countryside as swarming with khaki, while the British general directs the operations from headquarters on a hill outside the town. When it became evident that the British were moving in force against Pettigoe the Republicans began to withdraw; consequently there was little resistance to parties of soldiers in motors and on foot who dashed through the town shortly after noon. It is semi-officially announced that the Republicans suffered fairly heavy losses, but the sole casualty on the northern side was the driver of a motor car.

Besides the Republican commandant and staff, who were taken prisoner when the troops entered the town, it is reported that a large number of Sinn Feiners were captured in a later clean-up of Pettigoe. Of three columns of troops, which last evening began advancing into the section of Fermanagh County occupied by the southerners, two columns operated toward Pettigoe, the other in the direction of Beleek, which the Republicans had also occupied.

At noon the troops had approached to within a mile of Pettigoe without drawing the fire of the southerners, who were engaged in the evacuation of the place and of the hills which dominated the main road along the line of march of the troops. While on the Free State side there was complete silence, the greatest activity was displayed by the approaching columns, with manoeuvring cavalry, and specials in motors and whippet tanks flying the Union Jack, the tanks always in readiness to move to the support of the advancing columns.

The Pettigoe columns made an uninterrupted advance, but the smaller body of troops was held at Boa Island, ready to land in case of necessity, and were held ready to advance on the town.

Howitzers were placed in position near Beleek, where troops were massed awaiting orders to go forward.

The auxiliary Pandora and numerous little armored motor craft participated in the general movement. The Pandora convoyed across the lake a regular fleet of small boats to be used as transports.

Additional British troops reached Belfast today.

CRAIG STATES POSITION.

LONDON, June 4.—In the course of an interview with the newspaper people, Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, said:

"The testing time for Ulster has come; it may be that testing time for England also has come. If we go down, our flag goes down with us."

In the present stand Ulster is taking, Sir James asserted, "we are fighting not only our own cause, but the cause of Great Britain."

He declared the reason Ulster refused to have anything further to do with the boundary commission was because the two leaders of Southern Ireland had signed a pact which, "in our opinion," jeopardized the whole question of empire citizenship.

"In taking up that attitude," he continued, "we felt we were taking the only steps citizens of the empire could take, and it is because we believe the people of England are with us in our stand against any attempt to drive us out of the empire that we are going forward with confidence and without fear."

KILLED IN BELFAST RIOT.

BELFAST, June 4.—One civilian was killed and twenty were wounded during two hours sharp fighting Saturday night between Republicans and specials in Cromack and Joy streets. The constabulary riddled houses with machine gune and rifle fire, while the civilians used bombs, rifles and pistols. A saloon was wrecked by a bomb.

As the curfew hour approached communication with the centre of the city was cut off, and everyone on the streets was searched, with much resultant inconvenience to many hurrying to catch the last train.

MAGISTRATE KILLED.

BELFAST, June 4.—James Flanagan, a resident magistrate, was shot and killed this morning as he was leaving Newry Cathedral, after mass. The assassins escaped.

As Magistrate Flanagan left the cathedral he was approached by three men, of whom one said: "Come with us."

The magistrate declined to do so, and was shot. The trio immediately leaped aboard an automobile, the engine of which had been kept running.

Magistrate Flanagan's last words were: "I forgive them."

VETS LAY SIEGE TO PARLIAMENT

Unemployed Army Camps On Lawn, Demanding Answer For Relief.

"General Riley" Persuades Men To Return To Barracks.

Ottawa, June 5.—Canadian Press.—For about twenty minutes this morning "General Riley's army" of unemployed, which had marched from Toronto, sat in silent siege of the Parliament Buildings before they marched back to barracks. Promised every consideration and sympathetic treatment by the prime minister and by Hon. H. S. Beland, minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment at an interview between the army executive and the governor-general, Riley returned to his men, and in an impassioned speech declared that they would remain in front of the buildings until a specific the "army" cheered.

"I want you to see that we get a specific answer," he declared, while the "army"cheered.

"We will! We will!" the 'army' shouted in response, and camped itself on the lawn.

The men sat patiently, while "General" Riley appeared to be holding hurried consultations with individuals in the crowd surrounding the "army." He again called his men to order.

"Men," he said, "the premier of Canada has neither consented nor refused to come out and address you. I consider that the government has been very evasive. I think that the best thing to do is to march back to billets."

This was received in absolute silence.

Riley's lieutenants gave the necessary orders. His military police asked the crowd to stand back. The men marched away.

The crowd which surrounded the "army" did not move aside quickly enough at one point, and "General" Riley called out in a loud voice: "Is there any of the Ottawa city detective force here?"

There was no answer.

"None!" he shouted, disgustedly. "That is the protection we get from the city of Ottawa."

Many clapped as the column marched down the broad, central walk to Wellington street, on its way back to the billets.

THREE THUGS ROB TRAVELER OF $15

Dorchester, June 5.—Z. J. Edgeworth, of Brantford, traveler for the St. Thomas Packing Company, was held up at the point of a gun by three masked bandits at the south end of the bridge over the River Thames, at Dorchester, at 9 o'clock last night and relieved of $15. The bandits ordered Edgeworth to get into his automobile and drive north through the village, while they entered their car and sped south.

The hold-up men, believed to be Londoners, followed Edgeworth, who was on his way to his home in Brantford from London, where he had been visiting over the week-end. He drove rapidly to Dorchester and, apparently, the bandits would have held him up before he got to Dorchester had he not kept in front of them. When he went to cross the bridge at Dorchester the bandit car pulled in front of him and ordered him to stop.

When Edgeworth stepped out of his machine one of the trio held a gun to his head and ordered him to hold up his hands. While he held his hands in the air the other men searched him. During the time the bandits frisked Edgeworth several motorists passed by, but did not notice what was going on.

Following the hold-up Edgeworth got into his car, and after carrying out the orders of the bandits turned back and proceeded to go to Brantford by way of the Hamilton road. When about a mile from Dorchester village he noticed the bandit car on the roadside. He immediately turned around and went back to London, where he notified the police.

Mr. Edgeworth left London about 8:30 and was going home via the Hamilton road. The bandit car travelled close behind him all the way, but apparently could not overtake him until he slackened speed at Dorchester.

Mr. Edgeworth did not get the number of the bandits' machine, and was unable to give the police any clue as to who they might be.

Escaped Lunatic Terrifies Motorists On Hamilton Highway With Stolen Car

Hamilton, June 5.—Motorists on the highway received a bad scare early this morning. Bill O'Grady, a lunatic, escaped from the Ontario Hospital and raced down the mountain to Aberdeen avenue, where he seized a car belonging to George Parke of Parke & Parke, druggists. In this car he made a dash for the highway at a dizzy pace, swaying from side to side, terrifying pedestrians and motorists alike. The police received warning from a number of sources that a man was heading towards the highway in a car, and acting like a crazy man. Three times at least, and possibly more often, Bill collided with other vehicles in his mad race, causing much damage both to the cars he struck and to the car he was driving. The last of these crashes displaced the engine and set fire to it, also breaking the block, but still he kept on. Chief Smith of Burlington was notified and asked to intercept him, but residents at Aldershot, who had notified, succeeded in stopping the car, which was all aflame.

O'Grady is in safe custody of the police now, but the car is a wreck. Dr. Peart of Burlington and Mr. Van Scriver brought the fugitive back to the city. Fortunately, no one was hurt.

ADMITS BLAME IN AUTO SMASH

chine, Squire Chittick intervened, holding that the question was out of order. The former explained that while such might be the case, it was not unusual to obtain such information when the defendant had already expressed a frank desire to pay for the damages.

"We are not in a position, of course," replied the bench gravely, "to tell learned men whether they are out of order. We just use common sense."

Provincial Officer Arthur Palmer testified that he arrested Mann at his home at Lambeth Sunday evening, and that he was, in his opinion, under the influence of liquor, "sobering up," he termed it.

Had Bad Breath.

Cross examined, he said that he noticed nothing peculiar about the defendant's walk, but had arrived at his conclusions by his bad breath, excited conversation and general appearance.

"You have had a good deal of experience in this line," suggested Mr. Donahue. "Would you state that he was incapable of driving a car?" The witness replied emphatically that he would.

C. Hopkins, local garage owner, testified that he drove the provincial officer to Lambeth, where the arrest was made. Relating that he had searched the car driven by the defendant, when he found papers addressed to Dr. Turner of Dutton, counsel for the defence interrupted with "What has that got to do with it?"

Witness also stated that he found an empty six-ounce bottle that smelt of liquor, but admitted upon examination that as far as he knew the machine, papers and bottle might have all been the property of the Dutton physician.

Like the police, he also based his impressions of the defendant's alleged intoxicated condition upon a "bad" breath, conversation and general appearance. He stated that if he was in the condition he likened to the prisoner, he would not attempt to drive an automobile or allow any of his men to do so.

The defendant, while denying that he was intoxicated admits that he was at blame for striking the other machine, but contends that as he drove from behind, another machine directly ahead of him, he failed to see the Cox machine in time to avoid a collision.

U. S. PAYS TRIBUTE TO CITY OF VERDUN

Verdun, June 5.—In the name of the United States congress and the American people, Myron T. Herrick, the United States ambassador, yesterday presented a commemoration to the city of Verdun.

The ambassador and Premier Poincare together visited the ground, where are buried many thousands of French, whose valor the medal commemorates, and both spoke under the emotion aroused by the thought of the dead and the sight of the "red zone" so devastated that it may never be fit for human habitation.

PASTOR TO REMAIN AT LUNDY'S LANE

STEERS BALLOON IN DIRECT COURSE

Major Westover, Pilot in National Race, Recites Experiences of Trip.

Quebec, June 4.—None the worse for wear as a result of their remarkable experience in the great Milwaukee race which took them across the Great Lakes, over the terrain of Northern Ontario and the virgin forests of Quebec, a distance of nearly 850 miles, in 17 hours, to the point of their forced landing at St. Andre le Pouvante, Major Oscar Westover, chief of the air service at Washington, and his companion, Lieut. C. F. Bond of the proving grounds, Maryland, arrived in the city of Quebec last night.

"The feature of the flight, from our point of view," declared the major, "was the demonstration of the fact that it is possible, by the correct interpretation of the aerial currents at different altitudes, to shape an almost definite course from the moment you take the air. When we left the field at Milwaukee I made the statement that I would come down at Anticosti Island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Well, we didn't quite make that, but if you look at the map you will see that we were directly in line for that point when we made our forced landing through lack of ballast."

"And, what is more important, we maintained that direction all the time we were in the air. The first point we picked up after leaving the starting ground was Muskegon, which is directly northeast across Lake Michigan. The next point we identified was Bay City, directly in line of our route. After that we veered slightly to the north across Lake Huron, passing over Owen Sound into the province of Ontario. Thereafter we proceeded in a straight line due northeast, and traversed the great stretch of the province until we entered the province of Quebec. Although for the major part of this final stretch it was impossible to pick up any landmarks, we maintained our direction by means of instruments, and, I think, justified all that has been claimed for directional ballooning.

CADDOCH-BISCUITS DRAW.

COLUMBUS, June 3.—After each man had scored one fall a wrestling match between Earl Caddock and Stanislau Zbyszko was called a draw at the end of a two-hour time limit last night. Caddock won the first fall in 34 minutes, and Zbyszko in 17 minutes.

THINK 80 PERISH WHEN BOAT SINKS

Passengers On Villa Franca, Sailing Parana River, Wake To Find Ship Ablaze.

Buenos Aires, June 5.—Eighty persons are believed to have perished in the sinking yesterday of the steamer Villa Franca on the Parana River near Posabas. At that point the river forms the boundary between Argentina and Paraguay.

According to one survivor, the sleeping passengers were awakened at 1:40 o'clock yesterday morning by cries of alarm, and rushed on deck, to find the vessel enveloped in flames. A few seconds later there was a heavy explosion which caused the boat to fill and sink rapidly, nearly a mile from the Paraguayan shore.

Some of the uninjured survivors swam ashore, eventually reaching Posabos in a small boat. It is asserted, but not confirmed, that the only cabin passengers saved were the members of a family of a North American and three others. Their names are not known here.

BELIEVES FRANCE MADE WAR PACT

London, June 5.—France is reported to have concluded a treaty with Abd-el-Aziz es-Saud, Sultan of Najd and Hasa, whereby the French undertake to supply arms, ammunition and money to Saud, and to lend him military assistance if he is attacked from the Hedjaz, Mesopotamia or Transjordania, says an unconfirmed dispatch from Cairo to the Exchange Telegraph.

The Emirate of Nejd and Hasa is the more powerful of the two Central Arabian principalities, having a population of about 250,000.

Third Annual Campaign

UNITED WELFARE FUND

JUNE 12 - 18

"The movement that brought the city's organized welfare work out of chaos and wastefulness."

The third campaign of the United Welfare Fund Association opens on June 12, continuing until Sunday, June 18.

This campaign will embrace, as usual, London's organized charitable and welfare institutions, fourteen in all, and, through the team play spirit of citizens born in war days, will cover in one big drive the collection of all the funds required to carry on for another year.

The strongest recommendation of the Welfare Fund Plan is the fact that outstanding businessmen selected for their experience in philanthropic work, certify that only absolutely necessary money is asked each year.

This year the need for strict economy being apparent, the objective has been materially reduced and stands at $125,000.

The movement has been a conspicuous success commending itself to all citizens who realize the inevitable waste of money and effort in the old haphazard overlapping methods.

Today London is doing a greater work for the unfortunate, helpless and friendless than ever before, each citizen should match with his or her contribution the public spirit and self-sacrifice of those who, the year round, carry on this splendid work.

London's per capita contributions to this work are remarkably low. Every good citizen will recognize the obligation to stand behind the Welfare Organizations and to carry the campaign of 1922 through to complete success.

BATS .500 IN POLICE COURT

Freed On Charge of Having Liquor in Place Other Than Dwelling.

Thomas Cameron batted .500 in Chief Birrell's police court league Monday morning.

The case against him, of having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling, was dismissed, but he was found guilty of assaulting a police officer in the discharge of his duty and will appear a week hence for sentence.

The scrap took place on Horton street Saturday afternoon in the presence of several witnesses.

The evidence went to show that Cameron had walloped Constable Inch on the side of the face, while he had also kicked the constable while they were wrestling on the ground.

On the other hand, Cameron got at least two "home run" swats over the head with the constable's baton, which did so much damage to Cameron's cranium that it was necessary to call a doctor.

The prisoner appeared in court with his head swathed up like an Arab.

Constable Inch said he saw three men going down Horton street, between Clarence and Richmond street, about five o'clock Saturday afternoon. They all looked to be under the influence of liquor, and he decided to investigate, whereupon two of them ran away. The two men hustled up Horton and turned on Clarence, running down between two houses. Something was heaved over a fence, but he could not say what it was, nor which man threw it.

Subsequent investigation after the patrol arrived, showed two bottles of whiskey in the back yard over the fence. Cameron came back after witness had taken over his prisoner and started to abuse him. Later, when he endeavored to take him along, Cameron started to fight and they "had a little wrestle."

Cross-examined by Norman Newton, counsel for Cameron, Constable Inch stated that he would not swear what was thrown over the fence, but he found two bottles there ten minutes later.

"What did they contain?" asked counsel.

"Whiskey," was the reply.

"Did you taste it?" demanded Mr. Newton.

"No, I smelled it," said Inch.

"I submit, your worship, that you and I would be better judges of the contents of the bottlees," observed Mr. Newton, with a glance at the bench.

"You might be, but I wouldn't," declaimed Mr. Graydon.

Edward Sutherland saw the fight, but didn't see anything thrown over the fence.

Mr. Newton asked that the case be dismissed, as there was no evidence that his client threw any whiskey away.

"It might have been the other man," suggested counsel.

"In all my experience, it has always been that the man that ran away and was not caught was the one that had the whiskey," observed the magistrate. "However, the liquor was not found in this man's possession, and I will dismiss the charge against him."

Cameron also pleaded not guilty to assaulting Inch. The officer swore that Cameron kicked him in the face when they were struggling on the ground.

"You used your baton?" asked Mr. Newton.

"Yes, two or three times."

"When you brought Cameron to the station, did you know it was necessary to call a doctor for him?" continued counsel.

"I didn't pay any attention," was the reply. Inch admitted hitting Cameron "pretty hard."

"It looks as if you were ahead in the argument," suggested Mr. Newton.

"I don't think so," declared Inch.

Reginald Few and Ed. Sutherland told about the fight, their evidence being substantially that of the constable.

Mr. Newton did not call any evidence for the defence, and asked the court to take a lenient view of the case, as Cameron was probably dazed from blows received when he kiced at Inch.

"I cannot take a lenient view of the case," declared Mr. Graydon. "Any case in which a constable is assaulted while in the execution of his duty is not trivial. It is a serious thing. I am very sorry for this man's father."

In reply to Mr. Newton's request for a day's remand, Mr. Graydon stated he would remand the prisoner for a week, and hear any representations Mr. Newton cared to make.

"I can't express myself too strongly," declared the court. "I must give the officers every possible protection I can. That has been my attitude since I have been here."

Will Recommend Changes In School Staffs

CHANGES in public school teaching staffs, effective Sept. 1 next, will be recommended by Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer at the next meeting of the board of education Tuesday afternoon. It is expected that probably 25 teachers will be affected by the alterations.

CHANDLER WILL START NEW ACTION

Acquitted On Theft Charge, Detroit Man Sues For Damages.

Honorably discharged Monday morning by Judge Talbot Macbeth, presiding at a special session of the county criminal court, on a charge of the theft of $62.50, Russell Chandler, secretary of the Trust and Guarantee Company of Detroit, will, through his counsel, J. M. Donahue, enter action for malicious prosecution against R. R. Slighter of this city.

The case was of a highly-involved nature and claimed the attention of the court throughout the morning. As the prosecution, through Crown Attorney A. R. Douglas completed its case against the defendant, Judge Macbeth ruled that the charge was of such a flimsy nature that it was unnecessary for the defence to call witnesses. He dismissed the charge forthwith, acquitting the prisoner with a clean sheet.

The prosecution claimed that the latter unlawfully cashed a note signed by H. Stephens, while in the employ of A. Greg, who was connected in an official capacity seemingly with not only the Equitable Finance Corporation of Toronto, but with the Trust and Guarantee Company of Detroit.

The case involved the sale of stock by the former company for the latter concern, and the defendant was in the employ of Greg. The information was preferred by one Slighter, against whom action will now be taken, the defence declared at the conclusion of the trial.

PLAN DRIVE FOR WELFARE FUNDS

Association Completes Arrangements To Aid London's Charitable Institutions.

Decide To Set Objective of 1922 Campaign at $125,000.

Final organization arrangements have been completed by the United Welfare Association of the city for the 1922 campaign. The last details for the drive, which is to be held during the week of June 12 to 15, were settled at a meeting of the executive, held in the chamber of commerce Saturday afternoon.

It was determined, after the various charitable organizations included in the United Welfare Association, had set their budgets and presented them, to fix the objective this year at $125,000.

Lowest Amount Required.

In the amount raised the following organizations will share: Mount Hope Home for Aged People, McCormick Home for Aged People, Day Nursery, Protestant Orphan's Home, Women's Sanatorium Aid, Mount St. Joseph Orphanage, Byron Sanatorium, London Health Association, Salvation Army, Child Welfare Association, St. John Ambulance Brigade, Children's Aid Society, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., and the Victorian Order of Nurses.

The objective set, of $125,000, is the lowest amount required for maintenance only of the fourteen benefiting associations or institutions. No money is placed on this year's budget for capital expenditure.

The following are the officers of the association: George M. Reid, president; Col. Wm. Gartshore, vice-president; Philip Pocock, vice-president; A. E. Silverwood, general chairman of campaign; John S. Moore, honorary treasurer; Gordon Philip, honorary secretary, with the chairman of the various committees form the executive of the campaign.

On the publicity committee are the following: Major Gordon Ingram (chairman), A. M. Smith, F. W. St. Lawrence, W. R. Jarmain, T. P. Elliott, Dr. George Clark and Wallace Laut.

The committee is indebted to Mr. Clark and Mr. Laut for supervision of the preparation of a special four-page illustrated pamphlet, which will be delivered to every home in the city next Trusday.

Prepare Newspaper Publicity.

J. E. McConnell, of the firm of McConnell & Fergusson, generously offered to undertake the preparation of the newspaper publicity for the campaign without cost to the association.

Audit committee: H. F. Skey (chairman), W. J. Westervelt Jr., Col. G. Eric Reid, D. S. O., Kenneth Ingram.

The "A" list canvass committee will consist of the enlarged executive, including directors of the Chamber of Commerce, the members of the executive committee, and other prominent businessmen.

The "B" list will be canvassed by teams supplied by the Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club and Salvation Army, working under the general chairmanship of A. E. Silverwood and John Bridge.

The canvass of downtown stores and offices will be undertaken by teams from the London Advertising and Sales Club, the Catholic Clubs and Loyal Order of Moose.

A thorough canvass of the employees of all the industrial plants will be undertaken by a committee, under the chairmanship of W. R. Yendall, who is also being assisted by Robert Liddle, industrial secretary of the local Y. M. C. A.

Canvass Employees.

T. W. McFarland is chairman of a committee which will have in hand the canvass of employees of the various public utilities of the city, such as the railrads, postal services, etc. Mr. McFarland relieves Mr. Buchanan as chairman of this committee, the latter being absent from the city.

The Ontario Commercial Travelers' Association will again undertake a house-to-house canvass of the whole city on Saturday, the 17th and Sunday, the 18th. Ed. Hannah, A. E. Barbour and Geo. T. Hair are co-operating in completing arrangements for this big effort.

The educationalists, including the staffs of the London public schools, collegiate institute, technical school, Western University, etc., will be canvassed separately by a committee headed by H. B. Beal, principal of the London Technical and Art School.

Magistrate Condemns Automobile Markers Issued by Government

"The government ought to be impressed that their markers for this year are deficient," declared Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon in dismissing a case against Harvey Mitchell, who was charged with having dirty automobile markers.

"I cleaned them as well as I could. The enamel was all off the numbers," stated Mr. Mitchell. "I showed them to the chief."

"The government is sending out markers that are not serviceable," observed the court. "It is not fair to summons people when they are in bad condition. I have had complaints about them from people who have not been summoned."

Mr. Mitchell's markers are very bad, "declared Chief Birrell.

"Wouldn't it be a good thing to send them down to the government?" questioned the court.

"Mr. Keene, who issues markers in London, will attend to the matter," stated the chief.

PLAN TO SUPPORT WELFARE DRIVE

Rotarians Vote Down Picnic —Anti-Picnic Squad Will Undertake Canvass.

London Rotarians, by a practically unanimous vote, at luncheon Monday noon, decided to "get behind" the Welfare Fund Campaign, which begins next Monday, and to canvass two districts or one half of the city in aid of the cause.

When the Rotarians voted down the proposal to stage an annual picnic this year, Robert Dowler, who espoused the outing, immediately rose and challenged the opposition "to show that they are good sports" by vieing with the "pro-picnic men" in collecting money for the welfare fund.

The challenge was accepted, and Frank Harley will captain the anti-picnic squad, dubbed "recalcitrants," by President Vining. Rotarians Dowler and Harley will select their own team captains, of which there will be eight to assist in the drive.

A. E. Silverwood, chairman of the Welfare Fund Campaign, was the chief speaker at the luncheon. He explained that the Rotary Club is being asked to look after two districts, while members of the Lions' and Kiwanis Clubs will likely canvass one each of the remaining districts.

He pointed out that the United Welfare budget this year has been reduced to $125,000, and urged the club to assist in obtaining this objective. The returns of last year, in Mr. Silverwood's opinion, were not what would be expected from Londoners, there being only 1,582 subscriptions obtained.

That London Rotarians en route to the International Rotary Club at Los Angeles are boosting the Forest City is evidenced by a telegram from them, signed by James Gray, Clarence May and William Martin, stating that these three delegates sing "London Town" at every station. The telegram was forwarded from Grand Canyon, Arizona.

President Jared Vining scored the Rotarians who failed to attend Monday's luncheon because no outside speaker was scheduled to address them.

"The Rotary Club does not exist merely to hear men talk?" he commented.

Owing to the fact that many of the club members decided against the proposition, it was decided to forego an anuual Rotary picnic at Port Stanley this year.

ANGLICAN CLERGY REPORT GOOD FINANCIAL BALANCE

Association Hears Interesting Paper by Rev. A. L. Clarke on "Modernism in Religion."

Final details of the year's business were wound up at a meeting of the Anglical Clerical Association Monday morning. The financial statement for the year, read at the meeting, showed a substantial balance on hand.

June 19 was decided upon as the date of the anual picnic of the members of the association and their families.

Rev. A. L. G. Clarke, of St. John's Church, at the meeting, gave a very valuable paper on "Modernism in Religion." He showed that there was at the present time a tendency towards orthadox christianity among the modernists, judging by their recent conferences.

In the discussion that followed the reading of the paper several important points were raised by Canon Sage and Archdeacon Doherty. Rev. Dean N. L. Tucker occupied the chair.

WILL EXTEND CAMPAIGN

STRATFORD, June 4.—At a meeting of the directors of the Perth County Live Stock Improvement Association, the idea of extending the scrub bulls campaign now in progress in Downie Township to the greater part of county was discussed.

It was decided to undertake the work of organizing campaign meetings to be held at the following places: Tuesday night, June 6, township hall, Blanchard; Wednesday night, June 7, town hall, Fullerton; Wednesday evening, June 7, Ellicot township hall; Thursday, township hall, North Easthope, and at townhall, Hibbert; Friday, June 8, at Sebastopol, for South Easthope, township hall. All interested in livestock are invited to attend these meetings.

ASKS BUS DRIVERS TO PROTECT CITY

Alderman John Ashton Would Insist On $4,000 Bond Being Given.

That every owner of a bus which travels city streets for hire, should be required to deposit a $4,000 bond with the city, as a guarantee in case of accident, is the contention of Ald. John Ashton, who has announced his intention of introducing a motion to this effect at the next meeting of the city council.

Ald. Ashton contends that in case of accidents in which any one of these busses is involved, the city is liable for damages. However, he asserts that a $4,000 bond for each bus will protect the city.

"I am not opposed to these busses," said Ald. Ashton, "but if there was a damage suit and the bus owner could not pay as ordered by the court, the city would be liable. A $4,000 bond protects the city, and I will introduce a motion requiring it at the next meeting of the city council."

Ald. Ashton will also urge that $25 per annum rental be collected for all curb gasoline stations in the city. He points out that sum is levied in other cities on such stations, and declares that it will serve as a deterrent to "every Tom, Dick and Harry" erecting a curb gas station.

In this manner he advocates protection of the gasoline salesman, whose station is on private property.

The fate of these two proposals will rest with the city council.

SAYS HE HAD ONLY ONE BOTTLE BEER

Motorist, Charged Under O. T. A., Given Benefit of Doubt.

The fact that Thomas Nottage had imbibed "only a bottle of beer," and declared that "not a drop of whiskey had passed his lips that day," saved him from a seven-day shift in the county jail. Mr. Nottage was charged in police court with being intoxicated while driving a motor car, and after hearing the evidence Mr. Graydon decided to give the accused the benefit of the doubt, although he expressed himself as being gravely suspicious.

Constable Parker stated that he arrested Nottage Sunday night at Stanley and Perry streets. He had followed the accused in his car from Elmwood avenue and the Wharncliffe road. The constable said Nottage had been zig-zagging across the street, and at one place hit the curb. He stopped him at Perry street, and Stanley could smell liquor on Nottage.

Constable Burgess declared emphatically that Nottage could not stand straight, and was very much under the influence of liquor. The prisoner amditted he had been drinking, witness stated.

Mr. Nottage denied that he had been intoxicated. He had driven to Lambeth and consumed a bottle of beer (local option).

"There were lots of cars passed me on the highway. If I had been zigzagging, as the constable says, I would have hit some person, wouldn't I?" demanded the prisoner.

"How do you account for that chief?" asked the court.

"I don't know," responded Chief Birrell.

Asked by the court if he had ever been convicted under the O. T. A., Nottage replied in the negative.

"The circumstances are gravely suspicious, but I will give you the benefit of the doubt," stated Mr. Graydon, and Nottage left the prisoner's box a free man.

REGIMENTAL RIFLE practice for the season will be opened on the ranges near the Pere Marquette bridge on Wednesday afternoon. Shooting in competitions will commence June 14.

Asking That Government Post Lists Of All Post offices In Dominion

London Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of a letter from St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce, asking it to favorably consider an accompanying resolution, which urges upon the postmaster-general and the postoffice department, that they place large signs in a conspicuous place on the postoffices throughout the country the name of the city, wherein are the various postoffices.

The resolution points out that if the name of the municipality of all towns, cities and villages in Canada were placed on the postoffices of the said towns, villages and postoffices, it would be a great convenience to tourists.

In the letter, it is pointed out, that American tourists traveling through Canada spend considerable sums of money, and that it would be of great benefit to them to have the names of the towns and so on marked, in addition to having signs, naming the municipalities, placed on the roads approaching the city.

SEEK REMEDY IN SCHOOL TANGLE

Board of Education Members To Relieve Congestion in Dakin Area.

Consider Temporary Use of Old Building On Ealing Property.

Fully reconciled to the conclusion that it would now be practically a physical impossibility to complete by Sept. 1 next a new public school at the corner of Dakin and Price streets, members of the board of education will move that immediate steps be taken to insure that accommodiation of another nature be found, with as little delay as possible, to relieve the congestion at the Ealing and Chesley avenue public schools, for which purpose the proposed school was intended.

Although they have for several months championed vigorously the Dakin site, despite equally aggressive opposition emanating from the city council, certain school trustees believe that the time has arrived when they should prepare for the reopening of the schools after the summer holidays.

With this idea uppermost, they hold as the only feasible solution, in view of the fact that Mayor Cameron Wilson and his associates of the city council have, temporarily at least, withheld approval of the necessary debentures for the undertaking, the rental of suitable buildings, cottages perhaps, which might be placed at the disposal of the lower grades.

This solution would mean, of course, they point out, a considerable expense, including rent, heat, light and similar expenditures, as well as the required number of teachers. It is suggested also that the old building, termed as a "shack," still resting on the Ealing property, might also be utilized in a like manner.

The trustees stress their point that the question involving class room accommodation in Southeast London for next fall is one that has gone past "pro and con" discussion as far as they are involved, and explain that although it is quite probable that sanction will be received from the city council to proceed with the construction of the contemplated four or eight-room school, the same would not even, with an immediate start, be completed and fully equipped earlier than the Christmas holidays. In the meanwhile they assert some provision must be made for the present overflow, as well as the normal increase expected in September.

When the trustees meet in regular session again Tuesday afternoon the Dakin street proposal is due for a searching inquiry and further discussion.

TOURISTS TO PASS THROUGH LONDON

A special train with 125 Norwegians on board will pass through the city 2 o'clock Wednesday morning on its way to New York.

The Norwegians assembled in Chicago from all parts of the Western States, and are returning to their native country for the summer months. The special, consisting of five coaches, left Chicago Monday, and will take on more passengers at Detroit and Buffalo.

Railway officials report that the number of foreigners returning to their homes in Europe has been increasing steadily within the last two weeks, and they expect during the summer months that the steamers sailing from New York will have a considerable number of European tourists on board.

the church within the respective conferences.

Defeat Budget Plan.

Non-concurrence was the vote of the conference, dealing with a memorial proposing the application of the budget system to local churches. The general feeling concerning this memorial was that such a procedure, if carried out, would seriously affect the connexional funds, more particularly the missionary revenue.

The present practice of setting aside certain days on which special appeals could be made for money for missions and similar evangelical work, thus levying a direct claim upon the generosity of the people, was considered eminently more desirable than having such allotments made by the quarterly board.

The London conference will submit to the general conference a memorial proposing the elimination of the three months' probation term before admittance into full church membership.

The discipline at present allows for such a term of probation, but the practice has to a certain degree became obselete and it was felt was one with which the church might better dispense.

Elect Examiners.

The elections of the morning resulted in the selection of a board of examiners, on which were the following names: Revs. J. E. Millyard, W. L. Hiles, S. N. Hazen, N. D. McCamus, R. Hicks, J. W. Hibbert, H. J. Urie, A. E. M. Thompson.

The following delegates were elected to the general conference: J. E. J. Millyard, J. W. Hibbard, A. E. M. Thompson, R. Hicks, H. J. Uren, J. W. Graham, D. N. McCamus, W. E. Millson.

FLOWERS PICKED DESPITE WARNING

George Graham, park superintendent, reports that despite persistent warnings the visitors at Springbank Park continue to pick flowers, steal plants, and otherwise help to mar the beauty of the city's playground down the river.

The park authorities have noted one case in particular when some plants were stolen from the vicinity of the pump-house. Certain persons were suspected, and a hint was dropped in their direction, with the desired result. The next morning the missing property was located again, just inside the gates of the park.

Whether further action will be taken has yet to be decided by the members of the park board.

RENEW BATTLE ON SEWER TAX

Residents of North End To Appear Before City Council Tonight.

Want 30-Year Debentures Issued For Richmond Street Pavement.

Residents of the north end in the vicinity of Huron, Victoria, Richmond and St. George streets will appear as a deputation before the city council Monday night to protest against paying for the famous sewer on their streets within a period of ten years.

They will also ask that 20-year debentures be issued for the Richmond street pavement in this district in lieu of the conventional ten-year term. As an argument in favor of these requests they point to the enormous taxes which they must pay in order to meet these expenditures.

The deputation, according to one of its members, will allege negligence on the part of the city engineer's staff years ago, when the old Richmond street sewer was laid, claiming that it was so laid that continuation northward would cause it to come out on the street surface. The cause of this feature is the fact that Richmond street dips down, and the sewer pipe would come out in this low road.

Had To Be Relaid.

The deputation asserts that because of this manner of laying the sewer the new sewer had to be relaid deeper, there being a straight five-foot drop at one point. The members further allege that a pumping station is necessary because of the above state of affairs.

City Engineer H. A. Brazier has refused to discuss the matter for publication.

The cost of the new sewer averages $3.60 per foot frontage on Richmond street, and $2 per foot for taxpayers on Huron street, which is regarded as prohibitive. At present very little sewage is being handled by the station, because of the fact that the majority of the houses fronting on the streets served are not connected up.

For this reason, thirty-year debentures will be asked for, and whether their request will be granted is doubtful.

Ald. John Ashton stated Monday that he will espouse the cause of the deputation, under the circumstances, although on principle he is not in favor of extending debentures beyond the usual term. He will also present a resolution asking that the garbage department employees be allowed their former wages, instead of continuing at a reduction of 10 per cent, which has been in force.

Wilson Out of City.

There is some doubt as to whether the city council will meet Monday night, owing to the fact that Mayor Cameron Wilson is not in the city, and will not return in time. City Clerk S. Baker has ruled that if a majority of the aldermen put in an appearance, they can, if so desired, appoint a chairman and continue the meeting regardless of the mayor's absence.

One member of the city council who will not be present Monday night is Ald. Childs, who is confined to his home by illness. Should the council meeting scheduled for Monday evening be called off it will likely be held Wednesday.

URGES MOTORISTS BE KIND TO DOGS

It is the opinion of George Tustin, officer for the London Humane Society, that motorists in the city, as well as in the county, should exhibit greater consideration for dumb animals.

Mr. Tustin is particularly vexed concerning what occurred Sunday, when seven cases were reported to him in the city alone of dogs being struck by passing automobiles.

"Sometimes these accidents are unavoidable," he pointed out, "but the least the drivers could do, in my opinion, is to notify the Humane Society as soon as possible, and not allow the stricken animal to lay on the street suffering intensely and probably in a dying condition. If they would call me at once, we could take steps to place these animals out of their misery if their recovery is not expected."

The Indians' Plea.

MEMBERS OF the Oneida Indian tribe who follow peaceful and law-abiding pursuits down at Muncey are to be congratulated that they possess such a stalwart champion as CHIEF WILLIAM CORNELIUS, who addressed the London conference of the Methodist Church on Friday afternoon.

CHIEF CORNELIUS did not beat about the bush, but came right out into the open and told the 400 odd delegates present what his people demanded as their heritage. He also gave the lie to those, who in their ignorance, are prone to attribute misconduct to the women of his race.

In fact, CHIEF CORNELIUS politely intimated that it is the unscrupulous white man who is too often responsible for leading his people astray, and hinted that if such trouble-breeders would mind their own business and keep within their own circle his tribe would be enabled to uphold the fair name of his ancestors.

All that CHIEF CORNELIUS asked his white brethren for was fair play and the rights of his people along educational lines. He voiced a soul-stirring plea that the Oneidas be given the opportunity to educate their children so that they could take their place in the world with the white man.

That the Indian has been neglected in regard to educational facilities is too true, and CHIEF CORNELIUS' address has served to bring this unenviable state of affairs home. He expressed the hope that his young men be allowed to become ministers of the gospel, spreading the doctrine of universal brotherhood throughout the land.

This loyal warrior also pleaded that the fair sex of his tribe should be called ladies, resenting the disrespectful term of "squaw."

This point is well taken, and it should not be necessary for CHIEF CORNELIUS to request that his sister, mother or wife be called a lady. The Indians of Canada, whether residing on their reserves or in the city, are citizens of the highest calibre, and are entitled to all the rights which true Canadians accord to one another.

It is rather a shame that such good men as CHIEF CORNELIUS should be compelled to protest and plead for his people before the London conference, but this does not eliminate the conditions which should not be.

That his words were as the arrow flung from the bow of his forefathers with telling effect, is evidenced by the fact that the conference has decided to investigate the moral menace to the young Indians of the five reserves in the district, with a view to protecting them from evil influences which hold sway at present.

Further, the conference has recommended that a primary residence school be provided for the orphan and dependent Indian children of the conference, thereby providing educational advantages which they hitherto have not enjoyed. The relation of the Muncey Institute to the London conference is also to be probed in order to produce better results.

That is pretty good for one day's work. A few more assets like CHIEF CORNELIUS, brought into contact with the leaders of the community, will serve materially to bring our Indian fellow-citizens of Canada in their own.

City Improvements.

PROTEST upon protest has been made to the local Board of Works this year against the high taxes for local improvements. Ratepayers declare that too great a burden has been placed upon them, and they cannot meet their bills.

There are several cases in point, but in two in particular the cost of sewers laid is much more than the property is worth. Knollwood Park sewer is one, and the Huron-Regent-St. George sewer is the other.

The fair-minded will readily agree with these residents when they question the right of a city to put down an extensive sewer system abutting mostly on vacant land without first consulting the wishes of the property owners. On the face of it it is hard to see the necessity for such works, especially when there is little or no prospect of the property being built on for some years to come.

With these facts in mind it would seem that some changes in the city's policy are necessary for the protection of these ratepayers, if the city is going to try and pursue the policy of laying small sewerage systems in an area whether there is a demand for them or not.

In the first place, the policy recently put in force by the present council of notifying ratepayers of the probable cost of a work before it is undertaken will help in a measure, if it is continued. If the residents can holler loud enough, and quick enough, they may stop the starting of the work.

In the second place, why burden all this vacant land with so many side drains? These are the private drain connections from the sewer into the boulevard, and are put down at the time the sewer is being constructed to save tearing up the road again.

Here is how it works out: A widow on St. George street has a long lot. When the sewer in question was put down about six side drains were run into her property. The charge for these drains runs about $110 each, scattered over ten years, and by the time they are all paid for not one of them may be in use. Prior to opening up St. George street to put down the sewer, the street was covered with virgin sod, which will give some idea of the street's importance and its prospect for the future. These side drains could have been very easily passed up.

Then, again, should this vacant land have practically the same number of private drain connections as the downtown area? It works out about the same. It's a heavy burden to place on these people, and as an evidence of how hard it hits them it might be pointed out that a lot on St. George street offered for sale for some time at $300 has just netted the owner a sewer tax bill that will total $360 in ten years.

It was the same in Knollwood Park. The owner of a wide lot in that area found the sewer cost him within a few dollars of $1,000. He bought the lot for $350. He planned moving his house and letting the city take his lot.

Another important point in the city's policy that is open to question is the charging of these sewers on ten-year debentures.

At once the answer will be that the city must get down to the pay-as-you-go system, and this argument has already been used with these ratepayers.

MAYOR WILSON has said that it will take 20 years to put the pay-as-you-go system into force, and he may be right, but it is doubtful if the pay-as-you-go system can be made applicable to permanent and lasting improvements such as sewers.

It is hardly fair to ask the present generation to pay for a sewer in ten years, when that sewer will last from 30 years on. The William street sewer is an example. It was built somewhere around 1885, paid for in ten years, and has just been taken over by the city as a storm sewer.

It will also be argued that extending sewer debentures to 30 years increases the interest charges and the total. In fact, MAYOR WILSON told the north enders it would practically double the cost.

Isn't it the same with all 30-year debentures? If it is a bad policy to issue them in one case, why issue them at all, and vice-versa?

The city of London cannot continue to burden sections of the community against their will, and then turn its back on them when the burden drives them up against the wall. A change in the city's works policy is needed.

A Coast Problem.

THE SPEAKER at the Kiwanis club luncheon a week or so ago in London was HON. H. STEVENS of British Columbia, and he took full advantage of his opportunity to drive home to the men of London the full meaning of what was going on at the Pacific coast in the way of Oriental domination. He traced the way in which Orientals had gradually worked their way to the control of the fishing business, of the marketing, lumbering and much of the retail trade, showing all the way through that it was neither possible nor desirable for a white to come in competition with them on their low plane of living.

MR. STEVENS also went further, and showed that the same thing was taking place in cities all over the Dominion. In Kingston, where he had spoken some years previously, a couple of Chinese in a laundry were the curios of the place. Today there were almost 300 of them in that city.

An article in The Veteran, published at Toronto, takes up the same matter in the current issue, and shows that Asiatics are getting a firm hold on the coast province. The birth rate shows something of this development. Take the province of British Columbia:

Year.	Births.	Japanese Births.
1911	5,841	30
1913	11,088	80
1914	10,410	172
1915	10,516	303
1919	10,022	386
1920	11,532	657

The figures show up in another way, viz.: The proportion of Japanese to whites in relation to the birth rate:

1910	1	in	252
1911	1	in	198
1912	1	in	186
1913	1	in	138
1914	1	in	61
1916	1	in	31
1918	1	in	23
1919	1	in	26
1920	1	in	17

These figures give the question an important bearing on the whole trend of Canadian life and development, and show that British Columbia has a problem that the rest of the country does not fully appreciate because the brunt of the invasion has fallen on the Pacific coast.

He has made two notable contributions to the debate at Ottawa, one shortly after the house started, when he was goaded into speaking by the taunts of the MEIGHEN party. His latest speech was on the budget, when he placed before the house the position he placed before the voters of Brantford. His style is a clear, easy manner of speech, with no attempt at effect, keeping his facts well to the front, and backing them up with a wide knowledge of Canadian and British history and the affairs of the world in general. HENRY GEORGE, in "The Crime of Poverty"—Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin. I believe that in a really Christian community, in a society that honored not with the lips but with the act, the doctrines of Jesus, no one would have occasion to worry about physical needs any more than do the lilies of the field. There is enough and to spare. The trouble is that, in this mad struggle, we trample in the mire what has been provided in sufficiency for us all; trample it in the mire while we tear and rend each other."

Kincardine Reporter: "We cannot help but comment on the death of JOHN MCLEOD, returned soldier. The boys who went overseas had a hard time of it, and as the years go by the terrible strain is telling on them. Perhaps the fellows who were gassed have had the hardest strain of all. A man may lose a limb, but when it comes to lungs and heart being affected the continual pain and struggle for breath makes it disheartening. Thousands are passing through what this unfortunate man had to suffer. His trip to Byron Sanatorium was of no avail. We wonder that there are not more men who lose heart and follow the route taken by JOHN MCLEOD. The future is a dull outlook. It behooves us to use the boys the best we know how. We cannot realize what they are passing through. A little more thoughtfulness and kindness on the part of one and all may help to lighten a burden which is hidden from us yet heart-breaking to the bearer."

READ YOUR CHARACTER

By Digby Phillips.

NO. 232—SELLING THE UNEVEN WALKER.

You may remember that there is a very clear indication of character in the way a man walks, and that you adopt rather indifferent methods in selling the man with the long, easy stride, and the man with the short, snappy step.

But what about the fellow whose walk is nervous, hesitating, whose steps are of unequal length?

What is the main point to keep in mind when you are trying to sell such a man as this?

You can make up your mind to one thing when you face this prospect. You are either going to get his name on the dotted line before you go out, or you are going to have all your work over again.

Consider first of all that he is the kind of chap who never seems able to make up his mind once for all about anything. He is a time waster, a vacillator. It's "yes" with him one minute and "no" the next. He's not an ideal type of customer. Still you may need his business for all that. Very well. Push him. Go the limit in forcing his decision. You'll not get him any other way. And be sure to get the agreement he makes with you in black and white, so that he can't slide out of it later on.

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE.

HAVE YOU A PHOBIA?

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

IN some people attacks of fear are a very real and distressing disease.

The most frequent form of fear is probably agrophobia, in which the victims are oppressed by an exaggerated feeling of anxiety the moment they come into an open space.

They tremble all over, and complain of faintness, a smothered feeling, and heart palpitation. They are then likely to break into profuse perspiration and to declare that they feel as if unable to move a step.

It is remarkable that the sufferer is likely to be able, without trepidation, to cross the open space when accompanied by some one, even a little child, or carrying a stick.

The origin of this phenomenon has been explained in this way:

Our primordial ancestors were arboreal. From the treetops they could, without fear of reprisal, pelt their foes in the jungles under them with cocoanuts and the like. But when they ventured into the open spaces below, the swifter and more powerful jaguar, lion, and other enemies could "get them if they didn't watch out."

People who fear society, who blush and are exceedingly nervous when spoken to, may be called anthrophobics.

Then there are those who have the fear that things will fall upon them from on high (bataphobia); and those afraid of everything and everyone (pantaphobia).

The fear that here concerns us most is pathophobia—the fear of disease. The best way to dissipate this fear is to get thoroughly examined and to find out definitely if there is any occasion or no occasion to be disturbed.

This subject of fears is many-sided, and we must take it as seriously and as sympathetically as we would any material illness.

The BOOKSHELF

EDITED BY CABR

THE UNSPEAKABLE GENTLEMAN. By J. P. Marquand. Charles Scribner's Sons, Publishers, New York.

Here is a rollicking tale of high romance and daring adventure that will carry the reader back to the days when men drew their swords from habit, and the insult deliberately proffered called for blood reparation.

The plot has to do largely with the attempt of a group of French royalists to unseat Napoleon in the year 1805. Skilfully etched into this background is the tragedy, a domestic one, that serves to account for the character of the hero.

The story is told in the first person, supposedly by the son of the Unspeakable Gentleman. It opens with the receipt of a letter from his father, whom he has not seen for ten years. The son, Henry, is staying with his Uncle Jason, his mother's brother. He decides to call on his father, though he has for his sire only feelings of contempt, slightly modified by pity.

The father is a polished, cultivated man of the world, a ship owner and adventurer. After having left America under a cloud, he had roamed the world over, leading a piratical life.

The development of the character of the father, who, by assuming an attitude of cold cynicism, coupled with the drinking of much wine and rum, attempted to convince his son that the reputation he bore was highly deserved, is one of the most unique pieces of literary artistry we have met with in many a day.

The story is chuck full of action. There is a succession of thrilling incidents, the flashing of swords in midnight encounters, duels, wild forays across slithering marshes, secret meetings in lonely places, with much plotting and conspiring. Then there is a much-prized document containing the names of a group of royalists who had secretly agreed on a compact to take the life of Napoleon. It is in the clash between this group and the agents of the "Little Corporal" that most of the action of the story hinges.

There is a pretty romance, too. Mlle. De Blanzy, daughter of the House of Blanzy, one of the ancient royal families of France, accompanies the Unspeakable Gentleman to America. She is deeply interested in the document in question. Likewise, she is interested, or appears to be, in the Unspeakable Gentleman, much to the disgust of the son.

But the story is so well worth reading, so exquisitely done, with its perfect atmosphere of glamor and romance, that it must be read and not spoiled by telling. It will be read if once it is opened, for it is a glorious relief from the crass materialism and gloomy cynicism of the present-day school of realism. To write such a story in this day and age took courage. The result fully justifies the effort and the risk.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is MANDATE.

It's pronounced man-date, with accent on the first syllable.

It means—an authoritative command; has been used recently to designate an authorization by the League of Nations to some power to direct affairs in a country or district considered incompetent to govern itself.

It comes from Latin "mandare," to commit to one's charge; being a combination of the two Latin words "manus," hand, and "dare," to give.

It's used like this—"The French deny sentencing Charles R. Crane to prison for criticizing the way they are exercising their mandate in Syria, but it is evident they are annoyed."

ADVISE SELLING SHOALS PLANT TO HENRY FORD

WILL MAKE FERTILIZER

Detroit Manufacturer May Also Remove Auto Factories To Alabama.

WASHINGTON, June 4. — The house military committee voted yesterday to report the Ford proposal for the purchase of Muscle Shoals to the house, and recommend its adoption.

Recommendation, however, will be made by the committee reporting in the Ford proposal that the Gorgas steam power plant, which is sought by the Detroit manufacturer, be eliminated from the properties disposed by the government.

The action of the committee followed discussions of differences in the offer as made by Mr. Ford and the model evolved by the committee after inquiry into the offer of the Detroit manufacturer and others.

Complete agreement was reached by the committee members and representatives of Mr. Ford on the fertilizer provisions which had been in dispute.

The Muscle Shoals plant, located on the Tennessee River in Alabama, was built by the United States government during the war for the manufacture of nitrates to be used in making high explosives. At the termination of the war the government's purpose was achieved and the plant became available for private enterprise.

Henry Ford in an effort which comprised many provisions, offered to take over the property on the understanding that the government loan him the necessary money to carry on, the money to be repaid with interest over a period of years.

On his side Mr. Ford undertook to manufacture cheaper fertilizer for the farmers than has ever been available.

His plans include the development of a large volume of water power and the establishment of model towns for his employees. It is generally understood that he would eventually move his automobile manufacturing plant to Muscle Shoals.

Special to London Advertiser.

SIMCOE, June 4.—Albert Patterson, 13 years old, and Cyril Johnson, 15 years old, chums, of Simcoe, died together, when they dove into a small private lake on the farm of S. M. Culver, Townshend Township, Sunday afternoon. Whether one was drowned in attempting to save the other will never be known, as the tragedy was not uncovered until some time after their vain struggle for life.

Culver's hired man discovered the clothes of the victims on the bank and notified neighbors. Douglas Woolley recovered the bodies, but attempts to resuscitate the boys were fruitless.

It is believed the boys went swimming without their parents' consent.

OWEN SOUND BOY MEETS DEATH IN SYDENHAM RIVER

Special to London Advertiser.

OWEN SOUND, June 4.—David J. Carmichael, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dougall Carmichael, was drowned while bathing in the Sydenham River last evening shortly before 5 o'clock. With his smaller brother and another boy he went in swimming, and when he had been in the water only a short time he was seized with cramps, due, no doubt, to the cold water. The boy sank immediately.

His brother summoned help, and the boy's body was removed from the water only about ten minutes after he sank. Two docotrs, assisted by members of the fire department, worked on his body in an attempt to restore the boy for over an hour, but without avail. This is the third death from drowning in Owen Sound in three days. The boy was particularly bright, and his death under such tragic circumstances has cast a gloom over the community.

DEMERS SUSPENDS CAPTAINS OF SHIPS

Officers of Boats in Lake Collision Lose Certificates.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., June 4.—Captain Demers, Dominion wreck commissioner, issued a finding Saturday following the inquiry held here this week concerning the collision on Lake Superior during a fog on May 18 between the steamers Glefinnan of the Great Lakes Transportation Company and the Midland King of the Canada Steamship Lines.

He finds that the master of the Midland King, R. F. Fayette, was not awake to the responsibilities of his position in leaving his post when the ship was surrounded by a fog. His certificate is therefore suspended for three months. Norman H. Miller, first mate of the Midland King, is also found to have violated the rules of navigation, and his certificate is suspended for three months. Captain J. N. Foote of the Glenfinnan is in default for having failed to stop or reverse his engines on hearing signals from the other boat, and his certificate is suspended for two months. The first mate of the Glenfinnan, Donald McLachlan, is exonerated. The court says leniency is shown because of the previous good record of the two masters.

The Midland King is now in drydock here undergoing $35,000 repairs as the result of the accident.

WELL-DRILLER IS ASPHYXIATED

Falls From Windlass Rope 45 Feet When Near Surface of Ground.

ST. MARYS, June 4.—Russell Bodfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Bodfield, Station street north, of St. Marys, was asphyxiated about 9:30 Saturday morning while engaged with Lexie Barr of Kirkton in drilling for water on the farm of Mr. Fletcher, six miles west of Parkhill.

They were using a 30-inch drill at a depth of 80 feet, and beginning at the bottom of a 45-foot well. Mr. Bodfield went down to inspect the well and remained for several minutes, after which he was drawn up by Mr. Barr to within ten feet of the surface of the ground, where he fell off the rope back to the bottom of the well.

Other workers lowered Mr. Barr into the well, but he failed to signal them, and another man went down and brought him up. After being unconscious two and a half hours Mr. Barr was revived by Dr. Tracey of Parkhill.

The body of Bodfield was brought up by Mr. Fletcher, but all efforts to revive him proved futile.

It is said that pockets of carbon dioxide gas are common in this district at the depth at which the workmen were drilling. On the adjoining farm 40 years ago three men lost there lives in similar manner.

Mr. Bodfield was 23 years of age, and served three years overseas in the great war. He is survived by his father and mother, four brothers, Thomas, Si, Wilfrid and Harold, and two sisters, Lila and Gladys, all at home in St. Marys, also three uncles, also of this town, Alexander Bodfield, John Delabough and William Ogelsby.

The funeral will be held Monday afternoon from the bereaved home in St. Marys.

OPEN CONFERENCE OF BRITISH LEGION

Large Delegations Attend the First Annual Rally From All Parts of Empire.

LONDON, England, June 4.—(By Canadian Press Cable).—The first annual national conference of the British Legion opened in Cannon Street Hotel, London, yesterday, with a large attendance of delegates from all parts of the country and representatives of American, French and Belgian legions, and delegates from the Empire Services League, representing India, Canada, Newfoundland and Australia.

Lord Haig presiding read the telegram from the Prince of Wales, patron of the legion, expressing his best wishes for the success of the conference, to which a reply was sent, thanking his royal highness for his influential services to the legion, and anticipating with the utmost pleasure the return of the prince from his highly successful tour.

Lord Haig, referring to emigration, said: "Far be it from me to say it is right that our old comrades should emigrate when one sees so many aliens in Great Brtain, but we are out to help every man who does want to emigrate, and when he does go abroad we want to have the Empire Service League ready to help him and see that he gets a good start."

Where 412,000 ex-service men are out of work and 24,880 disabled men are still awaiting training, continued Lord Haig, the government must be induced to tackle unemployment more thoroughly and more methodically, and also fill the pledges regarding the training of ex-service men.

The opening of the conference was celebrated by a memorial parade, inspection of the Horse Guards by Prince Henry, and a service at a cenotaph, at which many distinguished persons were present.

ALLEGE EXTORTION TRIED

Police Hold Vancouver Man For Threatening Mrs. Ambrose Small.

TORONTO, June 4.—Alleged to have tried to extort $15,000 from Mrs. Ambrose J. Small, under threat of exposing her to the police as a person intimately concerned with the disappearance of her husband, more than two years ago, Northcote L. Dainton, aged 30, was taken into custody today.

The arrest was made in the northwestern part of the city, a few minutes after Dainton had picked up a decoy package placed by Mrs. Small.

Dainton is charged with extortion. The police say he sent a letter to Mrs. Small last Friday and warned her that refusal to place the money demanded in a certain place would lead to her being exposed. Mrs. Small carried the letter to detective headquarters.

Dainton said he had been in the city only two weeks and had jumped freights from Vancouver to Toronto. He would not say why he had written the letter to Mrs. Small.

SCHOONER LEAVES ON ARCTIC VOYAGE

WORLD News Cut Short

LONDON, June 4.—In trade union circles it was stated late yesterday that complete peace in the engineering industry would probably be restored within a fortnight. At a meeting of representatives of most of the unions and employers an agreement was signed calling for the resumption of work, as far as possible, on June 7. The engineering lockout has been in force for several weeks.

TOKIO, June 4.—A new and fast Japanese merchant fleet, aggregating 500,000 tons, financed by government loans at low interest, or without interest, is the program recommended to the government by its investigating committee as a means of meeting competition on the Pacific and rehabilitating Japan's ocean services.

The investigators pointed out that such a plan would revive the shipbuilding industry, hard hit by the scrapping agreements at Washington.

BERNE, Switzerland, June 4.—The Swiss budget will face an annual deficit of 100,000,000 francs for the next three years, according to estimates submitted today by the minister of finance.

It is proposed to cover this deficit by reducing the number of state employees and their wages so as to save 30,000,000 francs, by raising the tariff to realize an increase in customs revenue amounting to 40,000,000 francs annually, and by introducing a tax on spirits, wines and beer, which would produce 40,000,000 francs annually.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 4.—Conversations which have been held in Rome between Greek and Turkish Nationalist representatives to pave the way for direct peace negotiations between the Athens and Angora government are declared by Greek newspapers here to have resulted satisfactorily.

Nothing is known in Turkish Nationalist quarters in Constantinople as to the correctness of this report, but these quarters declare their understanding is that the Angora authorities would welcome reasonable proposals.

LONDON, June 4.—There is nothing to prevent properly qualified women from being appointed judges in England and wearing the black gowns, big horsehair wigs and other symbols of judicial dignity, the attorney-general, Sir Ernest Pollock, has ruled.

Asked by a Lincolnshire member whether, as a woman had now been called to the bars and others would be called in the near future, judicial positions would be open to them, Sir Ernest said:

"Any woman who possesses the statutory qualifications required for the appointment to a judicial office is equally with any man eligible for appointment to that office."

LONDON, June 4.—For the first time in the modern history of this country a newly-married daughter of the king entertained last night her parents to dinner and dance in her London home. It was Princess Mary's first appearance as a hostess.

With the king and queen as the principal guests the gathering at Chesterfield House was one of the most brilliant that has ever taken place in London. Everybody who was anybody in Mayfair was present among the 350 guests. There was a display of gowns and jewelry and men wore knee breeches and decorations. Among those specially invited were many of Princess Mary's girl friends.

After dinner there was a dance which kept up until the small hours of the morning, Princess Mary herself joining in.

ATHENS, June 4.—In an address before the national assembly Foreign Minister Baltazzi gave a detailed report regarding alleged massacres of Greeks in Asia Minor, and also told of the deportation of women. The number of persons massacred in the districts of Amasia, New Cesarea, Trebizond, Chaldea, Rodopolis and Kolenia was given as 303,238.

The minister told the assembly that it might judge how many more Christians had been killed in other parts of Anatolia, where the Greeks had been unable to make an investigation, from the figures he had already given.

Referring to the proposed commission of inquiry, M. Beltazzi ridiculed the demand of the Turkish Nationalists that the commission should also be sent into the parts of Asiatic Turkey occupied by the Greeks. He said the Greeks would offer the commission all possible facilities for an impartial investigation in the territories held by them, and that the inqury would show how well the Greeks were rulng.

WILL OPEN NEW COLLEGE IN FALL

GUELPH, June 4.—W. B. Roadhouse, deputy minister of agriculture, and Dr. MacGillivray, head of the Ontario Veterinary College, were in the city Saturday and spent the greater part of their time out at the new veterinary college building on College Heights, which is rapidly nearing completion.

Mr. Roadhouse stated that the new buildings would be ready for occupancy this fall, the term opening up about October 1, and he expected that there would be at least 100 students in attendance. He also stated that plans and specifications were now in the course of preparation for the erection of two more buildings in connection with the college.

Hampson were formally ordained as Methodist ministers before the Hamilton conference in St. Paul Street Methodist Church this morning, the ordination being conducted by Rev. H. Caldwell, president of the conference, and the sermon being delivered by Bishop Quayle of St. Louis.

Rev. T. A. Moore this afternoon addressed the conference on social service.

A Pair of Boots Now Last Hope of Convict Saved For Electric Chair

NEW YORK, June 4.—A hurried operation, performed in Sing Sing Prison Hospital while armed guards sat outside the operating room, saved Rutger Warder from death by appendicities—in order to permit the state to take his life by the electric chair.

Warder, convicted of having killed Henry Werner of Herkimer, N. Y., was sentenced to die the week of May 16, 1921. An appeal acted as a stay of sentence, and for a year Warder has been an inmate of the death house at Sing Sing.

Three weeks ago the prisoner developed symptoms of acute appendicitis, and the prison doctors agreed that unless Warder underwent an operation at once, he would die. So precedent was broken, and the man was taken to the hospital, operated upon, and once more taken to his cell in murderer's row.

Now his lawyers have dug up new evidence to place before the supreme court to sustain their argument for a new trial. Warder, in a first confession, declared Werner's wife had killed her husband with a hatchet, and that he had aided her in disposing of the body, firing several shots into Werner's head to hide the hatchet wounds. He said, incidentally, that Mrs. Werner had pulled on a pair of rubber boots when the two went out to place the body in the ravine, where it was found.

The rubber boots have now been found, and they bear the mark of a high-heeled shoe.

DECORATE GRAVES AT ST. CATHARINES

ST. CATHARINES, June 4. — The greatest decoration day parade in the history of St. Catharines was held this afternoon when the graves of all veterans were decorated with flags and flowers as well as the memorials at the city hall, St. Paul Street Church and G. W. V. A. Clubhouse.

W. Benson. Mayor H. M. Campbell commanded a guard of honor for Major-General Panet.

The Tenth Field Battery, I. O. D. E., veterans, naval brigade, girl guides, boy scouts and cadets, the Pipe Lincoln Regiment and St. Catharines Concert Bands and several fraternal societies participated in the parade. The addresses were made by Mayor Graves, Rev. A. H. Walker and Fther Kearney of London.

JUDGE GRANTS ALIMONY, BUT WIFE WANTS HUSBAND

Mrs. Lillian R. Watson Faints as She Is Leaving Courthouse.

DETROIT, June 4.—Mrs. Lillian R. Watson tends the switchboard at Hotel Fort Shelby here. She is accounted one of the most decorative features of the hotel lobby. Two years ago Lillian married Charles R. Watson, a street car man. Her husband grew cruel, the hello girl alleged in a bill for divorce filed last week.

Saturday Lillian and her attorney, Frank A. Ruddy, appeared in circuit court to apply for temporary alimony. Judge Joseph Barton awarded her $10 a week pending the outcome of the suit. Lillian and the lawyer left the courtroom.

No sooner had they reached the corridor than Lillian swooned dead away. Ruddy caught her, bystanders rushed for water and smelling salts. Pretty soon Lillian opened her big eyes. They straightway filled with tears.

"Oh," she cried, "I want my husband back! I want him back!"

"It's all right," soother Ruddy. "The judge has given you alimony."

"I don't want alimony," wailed Lillian. "I want my husband."

"Can you beat it?" remarked the attorney as he led his sobbing client to an elevator.

BUDGET DEBATE TO COME TO END IN A FEW DAYS

King, Crerar and Meighen To Present Arguments.

SUBMIT RESOLUTIONS

Efforts Put Forth To Speed Up Work in Commons.

OTTAWA, June 4.—(By Canadian Press.) — The three party leaders will probably figure in the budget debate lists during the first two days of the week. Hon. T. A. Crerar is expected to lead off on Monday afternoon, it being the understanding that R. H. Halbert, who adjourned the debate Friday night did so on his leader's behalf. Mr. Crerar will be followed on Monday evening or Tuesday by Right Hon. A. Meighen, while the premier, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, will also probably speak on Tuesday.

Whether or not the debate will end Tuesday is problematical, but that day is looked upon as likely to see the finish. Then the resolutions based on the budget will be put through during the next few days, it is expected. By the time the budget debate is wound up the house is expected to be in possession of the report of the special committee on soldiers' pensions and re-establishment. This report is expected to be ready for presentation on Tuesday.

The report of the agricultural committee, respecting reconstitution of the wheat board is ready for discussion, and it will probably be taken up as soon as the budget debate is finished. The special committee dealing with transportation costs is still sitting, and on Monday will commence re-examination of D. B. Hanna and other railway witnesses. There are some new witnesses yet to be heard, but it is expected that they will be disposed of by the end of the week so that the report will be ready by the time the house is prepared to take it up.

Seeing Week-End Market With Aunt Maria's Eyes

"How much are you selling potatoes for today?" asked Aunt Maria Saturday forenoon of the farmer whose family hoed the sandy soil in which the potatoes were planted last summer when it was so hot you couldn't touch it with your hand without getting burnt.

"I'm not selling them. I'm giving them away," he replied.

"At $1.75 a bag?" queried Aunt Maria.

"At $1.85," he answered brazenly.

"Call that a gift?"

"It sure is," he declared, in spite of the fact that some other farmers, at least, on that old market square seemed to think they weren't getting robbed when they disposed of potatoes for $1.75 a bag.

The woman who has been noticed selling cream for 30 cents a pint wanted 35 Saturday.

"But, why?" she was asked.

"We've got to have a license now to sell, and we've got to make up something to pay for it," she explained. "Some, perhaps, haven't advanced their prices, but that is up to them."

"The license costs a dollar?"

"Yes," she admitted.

Gentle reader, how many pints of cream will it be necessary to sell to pay for the license?

'Twas ever thus in the world of commerce. The consumer pays.

Not only the little standard, or approximately (?) standard pints, half-pints and other measures are brought to market of a Saturday morning filled with country cream, but a variety of other containers. A farm homemaker was caught in the act of telling a city buyer how it was the cream she was selling in catsup and vinegar bottles would stay sweet to the last drop. First she poured it into the nice, clean bottles, then she popped these into a pan of cold water over the fire until the water was boiling merrily.

Spinach 15c a Peck.

Down again comes spinach. A city woman bought a huge bagful for 25c a peck, nice, clean, big-leafed spinach. As she lugged her bundle along, her attention was arrested by the words, "Spinach, nice fresh spinach. Only 15c a peck."

"But," she said to the owner of the second lot; "I've just paid 25c."

"That comes of not looking round enough," he politely chided. "But, say, prices—you can't tell a thing about them on this market. There's no such a thing as fixed prices to judge by."

His words came echoing back down in the cool, religiously dim basement. Butter, all apparently equally good, nestled in baskets side by side, one lot at 30c an appetizing roll, the other at 35c. Eggs were discovered to be 28c, 30c and 32c a dozen, according to the will to pay for them. But the woman who always commands the best prices was still holding her own in a class by herself at the first Saturday market of June. She was holding out for 37c a pound for butter and 35c for eggs. "And I'll get it," she declared, the ring of conviction in her voice.

Gooseberries arrived, somewhat immature green ones, but the first fruits of summer just the same. They were 25c a quart box.

Poultry was plentiful, and, apparently, not very popular. Anyway, it wasn't selling with notable speed.

Lettuce, said to be home grown, was retailing at three bunches for a quarter, head lettuce of a sort, as well as the more common variety.

New white radishes were out, two bunches for 15c or a nickle a-piece. Again, it depends upon the vendor.

Rosy-red radishes appealed to eye and appetite, although one grower with white radishes to offer declared he wasn't growing red any more. The white have a habit of turning out so much better, are "Juicier," and of finer flavor, in his estimation.

Which Tomato?

Everybody with the gardening bug is thinking garden, talking garden, digging garden and buying garden. Those who haven't their own nicely sprouted plants grown from seed are finding the market a tremendous boon. Bunches of tomato plants, 15 or 18 in a bunch, of the Champion variety, were offered for 20c, while the boxes and baskets, earth and all, were selling for 35c and 40c for the same number of plants. One dealer was swearing by "Byron Pinks" as the finest tomato on the market Another wouldn't touch them when he could get Champion. So there you are.

Any number of cabbage plants could have been purchased, ready to set out, at 10c for 20 plants.

Fish was a trifle dearer than the previous week, and the "choicest cuts" of meat showed no sign of diminishing in price. A man with a big family bought a pot roast of 8 pounds. "Always get it," he told the butcher." The way my wife cooks it you wouldn't ask anything better."

He gave a dollar bill in payment—and didn't get a cent of change back.

Young wife bought a 3½ pounds porterhouse roast for her household of two, though she protested it was too much, and butcher insisted it would be difficult to cut anything smaller.

The butcher made out her check for $1.40, then he turned to Aunt Maria and said, "What did I tell you about the cheaper cuts being a big bargain just now?"

The man who got his 8 pound roast of beef for Sunday parted with one dollar.

The woman who was having a 3½ pound roast of beef delivered at her door Saturday afternoon gave out of her week's allowance one dollar and forty cents, almost half as much again for less than half the amount of meat.

Thus are things evened up in this world.

Mr. Reuben Pepper, secretary of the Central Passenger Association, Chicago, has been an interesting visitor in the city the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hunt, 423 Dundas street. Mr. Pepper was much delighted with the early summer loveliness of London, expressing in particular admiration of the beautiful maple trees. Miss Effie Nesbitt and Mrs. Hope Gibson of the C. L. G. U. executive, both of whom are enthusiastic golfers and have done much to raise the standard of the game for women in Canada, are in the running.

Cynthia Grey's

THANKS TO MAIL-BOX.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—I wonder if I am too late again this year to get a few cinnamon bulbs. I wrote last spring, but they were all gone. I would like a few flower seeds—any kind except hollyhocks. Mine are doing fine this year, thanks to the Mail-Box.

I inclose mite for hospital fund, also stamps for postage. My, what an encouraging report that was in the paper of the Sick Children's Hospital. Wishing you every success, I remain,

MADCAP MARIGOLD.

No, you are not too late this year. I am mailing you a few bulbs, also some seeds, and wish you the best of luck with them. Thank you for the hospital mite. It was a splendid report from the War Memorial Hospital, wasn't it? Weren't you proud of the Cynthia Grey donation? But we are aiming for $1,000 for a cot, in place of the crib.

OFFERS SUMMER HOME.

Dear Miss Grey,—I think your page very interesting and helpful to those in need, and I am writing to see if any one would like a good home for a girl for the summer, between the ages of 12 to 14, on a farm. We would treat her well, and there are just three of us in the family. Wishing you all good luck.

MRS. S. B.

I have placed your name and address on file, in case it is asked for regarding the home for a little girl.

MISSES' PAGE.

Dear Miss Grey,—I thought I would join your cosy corner, this being my first letter. I haven't much to say. We have been taking The London Advertiser for several years, and I love to read your page, and miss it when it isn't in. I would love to get a correspondent about the age of 19 or 20. Next time I'll send a mite. Hope to see my letter in print. My address is with Miss Grey.

BLACK-EYED BEAUTY.

I am sure you will receive some interesting correspondents through the Mail-Box, Black-Eyed Beauty.

WANTS CORRESPONDENTS.

Dear Miss Grey,—Here I am again. I was very much pleased to see my letter in print, and hope this one will be, too. I would like to correspond with a girl about my age. I am writing to a girl in England, as I chanced to get her address. My sister is writing to three girls in England. I can get more addresses if I want them, and I think I will.

I planted some nasturtiums, cosmos and morning glories. They are all up now. My aunt gave me some hollyhocks. They are growing.

How are you enjoying this lovely spring weather? It makes a person feel like going out to the woods to pick flowers. I was out to the woods a few times. Inclosed find a mite for the hospital fund, and hope to send more next time.

A SCOTCH LASSIE.

Thank you for the hospital mite, Scotch Lassie. One of the rules of the Mail-Box is to write on one side of the paper only, so try and remember next time, will you? The woods are lovely just now, aren't they, Lassie?

COUSINS AND CHUM WRITE.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is the first time I have ever written to your column, though I have been an interested reader. Two of my cousins, and also my chum, Wanetta, have written, and seemed quite fortunate in getting correspondents.

It is very lonesome here in the winter, but not much that way in the summer. Wanetta gave a good description of our village, but I don't think she said anything about our forests. It is densely wooded here, and there are only a few people scattered about. We have a school near the banks of the river, and a church on the lake road.

I would like to correspond with someone, and if they care to write to me, my name and address is with Miss Grey.

DOLORES.

I hope you are as fortunate as your cousins and chum in finding some correspondents, Dolores. I think your village must be very picturesque.

MOTHER'S LOVE HELPS.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am very busy, so cannot stay long. Will you please send me Mother of Three's and also Phyills' addresses? I think I can help them both a little. I know what it is to be in such trouble. I have had a good deal of it in my young life. But by perseverance and trust in our heavenly Father, we have pulled through. I like to help others, if only to bring a little sunshine, where the clouds are shadowing. Accept my mite.

MOTHER'S LOVE.

How lovely of you to try and help our needy boxites. I have sent the addresses you asked for, and many thanks for the hospital mite. We will be looking for an interesting letter when you are through housecleaning.

Dear Miss Grey and Friends,—It is a long time since I wrote to the Mail-Box, though I wrote once last summer, but did not see it in the paper. I had a letter from Tip telling me that she had got my quilt block, and when I wrote I said that she would see it and know that I had her letter as I was very busy at the time and would write her later. I also had a message in it for K-K-Katy, telling her that I had received a letter from her and could let her have more patches, but soon after I wrote I had to go to the hospital for an operation and have not been myself since. I have often thought of writing again, and when I saw Flowerbell was asking for that old recipe for the ginger cookies I got busy, as it was I who sent it in during the war. My boys both got safely back from war. I would like a few of the pumpkin seeds that G. E. M. sent in. They are small pie pumpkins. Would also like the Cinnamon vine bulbs someone offered; don't remember who it was. Will inclose required mite for them. How nicely the fund is growing. I was glad to be able to help with the quilt while I was able. This is very long and not very interesting. M. E. W.

Thank you, M. E. W., for sending the cookie recipe, but someone who saved it sent it in ahead of you. Your letter must have appeared while you were in the hospital. I hope you will soon be feeling better again. I am mailing seeds, and many thanks for the hospital mite.

HOW TO PLANT BULBS.

Dear Miss Grey,—Sorry I did not write about the Cinnamon vine bulbs when I sent them in, but was in the midst of housecleaning and had company come unexpected and, of course, neglected it. I always plant bulbs in a pot in a sunny window first, and when they are a few inches high plant outside and train them with twine. They grow very rapidly. Those starting vines last year need not expect to see them before some time in June, as they are late coming up. They have small white blossoms and smell just like cinnamon. They grow best in a sunny place, and do not need covering in the winter. Be very careful when training them to climb so as not to break the runner, as it stops the growth for some time. Should you need any more bulbs, Miss Grey, let me know and I will send them to the Mail-Box. CINNAMON VINE.

Thank you, Cinnamon Vine, for the information re the planting of the cinnamon bulbs. They must grow into lovely vines. Thank you for offering to send more bulbs, but there are still some in the Mail-Box.

ASKS, JUST THIS ONCE.

My Dear Cynthia,—I see by the paper where I can be of some help to one of the Boxites. Phone is asking for lily roots, so if you will please send me her address I will send her some. Don't bother about the postage for them, Phone, but if you feel like giving a little to the fund you can. I wonder if I could ask for something just this once. Mother would like three of those cinnamon bulbs, please, and I will inclose 25c for the fund. So many are asking what they are like; well we have a seed book from Illinois (Seeds grown by a woman), and this is what she says about the cinnamon bulbs: "A hardy climber of dark green foliage, and late in the season bearing a profusion of small white flowers of a delicious cinnamon fragrance." I wish I could help all the needy Boxites, but we can't all do that, can we?

A REAL LANCASHIRE LASS.

I am mailing you the address and bulbs, and many thanks for the hospital mite. I wish you the best of luck with the vines. I am trying them this year, too.

WITH THE BRIDES

PAKENHAM—WRIGHT.

A smart nuptual event of the early summer season took place at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Cronyn Memorial Church, the marriage of Gladys May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Wright, to Arthur Browning Pakenham of Toronto, son of Mr. Walter Pakenham and the late Mrs. Pakenham of Toronto. Rev. G. Quintin Warner performed the ceremony. The church was artistically decorated with summer flowers, gladioli and snapdragons decked the altar, and with palms and ferns were used on the chancel steps. Clusters of bright summer flowers also marked the guests' pews. To the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, played by Miss Ina Colerick, the bridal party entered the church, led by the tiny flower girl, Miss Lorna Nash, wearing a dainty frock of yellow organdy with frilly hat to match, and carrying a basket of flowers. Miss Eunice Freeland was the bridesmaid, wearing a graceful gown of orchid silk crepe with a large hat in the same hue, and carrying Sunset roses. The bride, lovely in her wedding gown of white georgette over charmeuse satin, was given away by her father. Her gown fell in gracefully draped folds and points, and the flowing sleeves were of georgette. Her becoming hat was of white georgette trimmed with white velvet flowers, and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mr. T. Lewis of Toronto acted as best man, and Messrs Everett and Cecil Wright, brothers of the bride, were ushers. During the signing of the register, Miss Alicia Element sang "Love's Coronation," with violin obligato by Mr. Cecil A. Wright.

After the ceremony, at which over 50 guests were present, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 869 Queen's avenue. Throughout the rooms masses of fragrant flowers were used, also decking the table from which a buffet supper was served. Receiving with the bride and groom was Mrs. T. A. Wright, the bride's mother, wearing a gown of navy canton crepe, and a corsage of Killarney roses, and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. William Whitehall, wearing a gown of black charmeuse, with a corsage of sweet peas.

For going away the bride donned a smart suit of navy tricotine and a black mohair hat. After a honeymoon they will reside for the summer at Hanlon's Point, Toronto Island.

The groom's gift to the bride was an ermine neckpiece; to the bridesmaid, a silver card case; to the soloist and organist, strings of pearls; to the flower girl, a silver mesh bag, and to the ushers, gold knives with gold chains.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Wright, Mr. Walter Pakenham, Miss Amy Pakenham, Mrs. Electa Dempster, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hall, Dean and Mrs. Pakenham, Mr. W. B. Colerick, all of Toronto, and Mrs. W. H. Harrison of Windsor.

HENDERSON—LIDDICOTT.

A pretty June wedding took place Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the bride's home, Dufferin avenue, when Edith Mary Liddicott, daughter of Mrs. Ada Liddicott and the late Edmund L. Liddicott, was married to Thomas A. Henderson of Detroit, Rev. A. E. M. Thompson officiating. The rooms were decorated throughout with roses, carnations and peonies gracefully arranged. The bride, who was unattended, wore a lovely wedding gown of sand-colored taffeta trimmed with flowers in henna shades, and a French hat of sand shade with henna trimmings. Her corsage was of Sunset roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held, only the immediate relatives being present, and a dainty buffet supper was served from a flower-decked table. Mr. and Mrs. Henderson left on a honeymoon which will be spent in Ohio, the bride traveling in a smart suit of navy tricotine, embroidered in iri- town guests were Mrs. Thomas Gadd descent beads, and a hat of henna of Thamesville, and Mrs. Samuel canton crepe. Among the out-of- McEachren of Mull.

Radio Radiations

BY THE RADIO EDITOR.

CHIEFS of police throughout Canada and the United States are being invited to attend the convention of their international association by radio.

August Vollmer, head of the organization, has worked out a scheme to reach each member by wireless whether he has a set or not.

There are hundreds of small villages and towns, and even a great many cities whose police headquarters are not equipped with receiving equipment. But it is doubtful if there is a town of any size without a radio amateur who is interested in relaying wireless messages.

So Chief Vollmer called in the "minute men of radio"— the American Radio Relay League. The officers promised to deliver the message and soon had its organization of 25,000 radio amateurs preparing for the transmission.

The convention opens in San Francisco on June 19. The success of their previous enterprises staged by the relay league augurs well for their success.

"Some time between 10 p.m. and midnight your local standard time," reads the official announcement to the amateurs, "some station will break loose with the message of invitation. The call letters of this station and the time of starting will not be made known. The message will come as a surprise right out of a clear sky. It will be broadcast once at 10 words a minute, each word being sent twice. Once a station broadcasts a message, that station will cease firing. That will be the start of the message."

All radio relay amateurs were requested to co-operate.

If they respond as they have done in the past every chief attending the convention will have come invited by radio.

Serpent green and periwinkle blue are the colors of the moment, but one needn't cramp one's style by refusing all others.

You may have gathered by now what we started out to say—that your season won't be complete without at least one ratine frock. Unless it's a brilliant color you won't be able to look your mirror in the face.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Twins Set Forth To Solve The Great Moon Mystery

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

Mrs. Cottontail mistook burdock for lettuce.

"NANCY and Nick," said Mr. Peerabout, the Man-in-the-Moon, "I wish you would find out how much mischief my enemy, Comet-Legs, is doing."

"Has he been wicked again?" asked Nancy.

"I'm not sure," nodded Mr. Peerabout. "Someone has been tampering with my handles I run the moon with. Someone has been in my engine house.

"Now I had it fixed so that earth-people would have a clear, bright, full moon last night. And here I got a letter today saying that the moon was so wishy-washy and pale (and only out half the time) that Mrs. Cottontail mistook burdock for lettuce in Farmer Smith's sasspatch garden and had to have a poultice."

"How can we find out?" asked Nick.

"Well, the best way, I think," said Mr. Peerabout, stroking his long beard, "is to go down to some good place on earth, and mark down in a little book everything the moon does."

"We'll do the best we can," said Nancy. "Have you got a book?"

Mr. Peerabout had a nice little red one and handed it over.

"Now, you children go down on a moon-beam, or wish yourselves down to the earth with your Green Shoes, and I'll fix the handles so that there will be a moon like half a dollar, I mean a dollar cut in half.

"And I'm going to have it as clear as a drug-store window. If it is different, I want you to tell me at once. You can telephone. There's a telephone in Cob Coon's tree. He lives in Old Oak Apartments."

Away went the Twins.

WHAT IS ONE?

"ISN'T she a dear. She's such a perfect lady."

How often it is that one overhears such a compliment from the members of an admiring group as the subject of their remarks predominates majestically at the tea-hour, while her more unassuming sisters or those not so blessed with physical charms or with the latest frock, are compelled to shrink insignificantly into the background to "blush unseen" as it were.

Just what do the critics mean by this "perfect lady" standard? Is she a perfect lady in fact, Will she stand the acid test? As in the case of the man, does attractive, well-fitting and fashionable wearing apparel indicate the real woman?

In these hectic, mile-a-minute times, when "Let's go" and "Where do we go from here?" seem to have been the universal slogans adopted, not by "male brutes" alone, but by the "female of the species" as well, both young and old, is it any wonder that thoughtful men have commenced to believe that perfect ladies are scarcer than hen's teeth, and that if such a creature did exist in the historic past, she has now almost totally disappeared from the haunts of men?

What is your idea on the question? Do you think as does the man who shakes a gloomy head, deplores the passing of the old days and pathetically inquires "Where are the girls of grandma's day?"

The modern definition of a perfect gentleman has been satisfactorily established. Now, The Advertiser is offering a first prize of $5 and five prizes of $1 each for definitions as to what constitutes a perfect lady.

KEPT HER GIRLS QUIET.

Dear Miss Grey,—It was indeed splendid to see so many interesting letters in your Mail-Box this morning, and although busy as most mothers are, I couldn't help but read most of the letters and feel proud to belong to such "one grand family." Now, I want to advise Mrs. All-Trades, one way to keep her little girlie quiet during church service. It is a way I have practiced with my own girls and never found it to fail. First of all the mother must insist on girlie sitting down quietly every day for half an hour, tell her her legs want rest and she must rest them, same as mother does. Make an effort to sit down the same time and talk to her about her legs growing, etc. It doesn't matter how young. You can't start too early; then the next day do the same and so on until the one-hour church service is fulfilled; the day of rest will come, and baby girlie will have got quite used to it, if mother begins on Monday. The first day may be a battle, but mother must be firm, but kind. I had the same trouble, but my motherly old nurse advised me what to do, and thank God I followed her advice. The other two girlies often sat down of their own accord, and I never had any more trouble.

I am, indeed, very pleased to have been able to supply English Violet roots to some of our readers, and I have had some very nice kind words of thanks returned. I am quite sure God has blessed our efforts, for my few roots left are just growing abundantly, so I feel that the giver of all good gifts is growing more, for another spring. Should any of our Boxites want a coat, size 38, for country use, it is gray and in fair condition, light in weight, I will gladly give it. Address is with Miss Grey. Trusting I have not tired you with my lengthy letter. Yours sincerely,

ESME.

Thank you for the valuable information for Mrs. All-Trades, which will help other mothers I am sure. Thanks, too, for the offer of the coat, which will be useful to some of our needy Boxites. I am pleased to hear your violet roots are doing so well.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH FOR EIGHT YEARS

The cause of this trouble is the fermentation of food in the stomach which generates a gas that is very frequently belched up. There is also a rumbling of the bowels and a discharge of gas therefrom, there is constant retching, and the meals are frequently vomited. There is a burning pain in the stomach, the appetite is fickle, the tongue coated, the breath bad, constipation is generally present and the sufferer becomes weak, nervous, depressed and exceedingly miserable.

The blame lies with a sluggish liver, as it holds back the bile which is so necessary to promote the movement of the bowels, and when the bile gets into the blood a badly disordered condition of the stomach, liver and bowels will surely follow.

Keep your liver active and you will always enjoy good health.

Mrs. Agnes Gallant, Reserve Mines, N. S., writes: "I had been a great sufferer for eight years, from catarrh of the stomach. I tried several, so-called, catarrh remedies without relief until a friend advised me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, which I did, and four vials completely relieved me. That was six years ago, and I have had no return of my old trouble."

REMARKABLE LETTER

Canadian Woman Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Manitoba.—"I can not speak too highly of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was a nervous wreck and I just had to force myself to do my work. Life was a misery and work was a burden. Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said that he could do nothing for me owing to my condition, but told me to expect another miscarriage. My husband's grandmother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I started it right away and everyone noticed what a different woman I was in a short time. I went and engaged my doctor and he did not know me, I was so well. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a 'fine bouncing baby' to use the doctor's own words. I am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I can not help recommending such a medicine, and anyone seeing me before I took it and seeing me now, can see what it has done for me. It can do the same for anyone in my condition. I am only too pleased for you to use my testimonial."—Mrs. Emily Davis, 721 McGee St., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Ham and Pineapple Mixed Make Delicious Dish

ANOTHER delicious combination of meat and fruit into an appetizing and wholesome dish is ham and pineapple. The pineapple serves admirably in supplementing the ham and bringing out its flavor.

Ham and Pineapple.

One slice ham through center of joint, ½ cup pineapple cubes, 2 whole cloves for each pineapple cube, paprika.

Trim fat from ham and rub over a hot frying pan. The spider should be very hot. Put in ham. Stick two cloves in each pineapple cube and add to ham in frying pan.

Broil first on one side and turn and broil on the other. When the ham is seared on both sides cover the frying pan. This will draw the juice from the pineapple and the meat and fruit flavors will be blended.

Put ham on a hot platter and sprinkle with cubes of pineapple. There should be some fat and drippings in the frying pan.

Add one cup water and bring to the boiling point. Add caramel if necessary to make brown and thicken with one teaspoon flour stirred to smooth paste in a little cold water.

Let boil five minutes, stirring constantly after the flour is added.

BABES OF TODAY WILL MOLD FUTURE DESTINY OF CANADA

Child Welfare Exhibit Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at Technical School Will Do Much To Stimulate Health and Welfare of London's Future Citizens.

All the world adores a baby, whether it be the child of prince or peasant.

And so the baby is something of inestimable value to every community to be guarded and preserved above all else. Too many people who have babies do not understand them and their care. Therein lies the reason for the high infantile death rate.

The babies of today will mold the destiny of Canada 30 or 40 years hence. Therefore it is most important that they be given the best possible start in life.

Babies keep the domestic circle intact. Home without childish laughter and radiant baby faces is indeed a dull place.

Too often, parents think that as long as a baby is fed and clothed and gets lots of sleep no harm can come to it. They do not regard proper diet, proper clothing, nursing and regularity as matters connected with the rearing of a child.

New-born babes are like plants. They need to be kept warm, to sleep, to be kept clean, to be given their food regularly, to drink pure cool water and to get fresh air and sunshine.

Give Bath Daily.

Healthy babies should be bathed daily. It is best to give the bath before the mid-morning meal. If possible a room with an open fire should be chosen in chilly weather as the one in which to bathe the little one. The temperature should be about 78 degrees Fahrenheit. All draughts should be prevented.

Before the baby's bath has been completed, the scalp should be washed, the head being lowered a little to prevent soap getting in the baby's eyes. Little soap should be used on the skin. After bathing wrap the baby in a warm towel at once. Dry with a warm towel and pat skin gently. The child should not be kept in the tub longer than one minute.

Wash Eyes Daily.

Its eyes should be washed daily with a weak solution of boric acid. On each eye a fresh piece of cotton should be used.

It is not long before babies learn the regular hours for feeding. In time, if a mother is careful, her baby's life will run evenly. Then the mother can count on certain hours each day in which to do other work. It is not necessary to begin the day's feeding at a certain time as sometimes the baby will waken a little earlier than usual.

Insanitary bottles and nipples are also often found to be to blame.

Use Pasteurized Milk.

If it is found necessary to feed the baby milk from the bottle, mothers should make sure that the milk is pasteurized. Milk can be pasteurized by placing it in a bottle tightly sealed and then placing the bottle in a pan of cold water, and bringing it to a boil, removing it from the fire at once and cooling it.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday have been set aside for the demonstration of mothercraft and child welfare work in London, which will be held at the Technical School.

BASEBALL and LATE SPORTING NEWS

Ingersoll's Inexperience Lost Them Chances To Make Tally Look More Even— Looks Promising.

London's lacrosses team opened the group season with a 9—2 win over Ingersoll's young, but ambitious crew over at Tecumseh Park, Saturday afternoon. A good crowd saw the locals make their maiden voyage with several of the new-found regulars unavoidably absent against the blue and white Dairymen, and while technically much of it wasn't good lacrosse, the teams were well conditioned and individually earnest,and it was a pretty pastime to watch. It was experience against better condition and experience won, although Ingersoll had more than their share of the ball. Time and again, the blue and white not only had the odd man, but went in with two and three in excess, but the London defence had little trouble in jockeying them out of their advantage. Failure of the Ingersoll home to bore in lost them as many chances as ill-advised passing when they were going into the attack. The blue and while while they show many raw edges possess lots of speed, have mastered all the stick handling they need and above all are young and in the best of condition—the elements of a promising team with one or two more games, for experience, tucked away under their caps.

Lose Chances.

The Londoners lost many chances of scoring through inaccurate passing and shooting, and some through hard luck shots. Even if Ingersoll didn't know what to do with the ball, they were never in doubt what their legs or their sticks were for, and they kept to the Londoners' heels pretty well all afternoon, and everything that the locals got away with they earned.

3—0 was the tally at the end of the first. Sid Rankin opened the scoring on a pass from Antone, Russell got the next alone and the third on a pass from Antone, all shots that gave the Ingersoll net-minder little chance to save. Rotcher was badly hurt during this period with a bad slash over the eye, and was forced to quit the game. To close the period, Sid Rankin, who stayed the whole route and played some good lacrosse, made the Ingersoll goalposts ring like a cash register with four hard shots.

London only scored one goal the second period, and this one on a lone rush by Russell, who went in through three defense men for his chance at goal. Sir Rankin was knocked out, but gamely continued. Both goalkeepers had plenty of work to do this half, and the gong rang with the blue and white crowding the London nets.

The third quarter saw the Londoners slowing up a bit, but Ingersoll, while they ran them ragged for a time, couldn't work in to dangerous shooting distance through the good work of Bill Donahue and Arris, the latter a real find as a defense man. Sid Rankin again broke out into a scoring sweat on a nice pass from Russell, and Russell himself, just before the gong, nicked his fourth goal and London's sixth.

Enlivens 4th.

Bill Lightfoot, in a cross between a hockey and a soccer get-up, enlivened the start of the final session with several long marathons, during which he shed off pieces of raiment to get more speed, but they didn't result in anything more than worry for Colquhoun. On a pass from Rankin, Bill had another shot at the posts. On the return of play to the other end Ingersoll, without an odd man, got their first score when Rolph let go a waist-high shot past Sandford. Russell, after missing several good chances with high liner shots, went in alone and scored. Neil for Ingersoll came right back with the blue and white's second shot. Whitby went up from the defense for London's last tally.

Hutt, Ingersoll's little center, while he didn't figure in the scoring, was the connecting link with most of the Ingersoll attacks, and his work was outstanding.

The lineups:

Ingersoll—Goal, Colquhoun; cover, Greeves; 1st defense, Murphy; 2nd defense, Mophal; center Hutt; 1st home, Neil; 2nd home, Sherwood; outside home, Armstrong; inside home, Rolph; subs, Napp, Nunn, Miller.

Referee—Thompson, Ingersoll.

GAS SPEEDSTERS PUT UP FINE CARD

Eason of Stratford Gave Fans Most Speed of Day.

London saw its first auto and motorcycle racing of the season on Saturday afternoon, when the London Racing Association dished up a little in the way of speed on the half-mile track at Queen's Park.

Four motorcycle races, three auto races, two bicycle races and a race between a motorcycle and a motor car were run off. Although no speed records were broken by any type of machine, most of the drivers made a creditable showing for the first meet of the season.

Easson of Stratford was the best cycle driver of the day and furnished most of the speed during the afternoon. In the 15-mile motorcycle race, after losing 12 half laps on account of engine trouble, he overcame the handicap with apparent ease, and was an easy winner.

Baker and Seed, both of this city, were outstanding motor car drivers.

The results:

Bicycle, one mile—Simpson, Davies and Alford, all city.

3 mile single motorcycle—Morris Hay, Wellington Hood and Humphrey Hood, all city. Time, 4 min. 5 sec.

3 mile motor car—Baker and Seed, city. Time, 5 min. 10 sec.

5 mile twin motorcycle — Easson, Stratford; Haskett, Lucan, and Clements, city. Time, 7 min. 5 sec.

5 mile motor car—Seed, Baker and Lewis, all city. Time, 12 min. 30 sec.

3 mile motorcycle and motor car—C. Clements, motorcycle. Seed developed engine trouble on the first lap.

10 mile single cylinder motorcycle—Hayes, city. Time 8 min. 5 sec.

TECS LOSE WHOLE SERIES TO SAINTS

Crowning Effort Comes With Two Losses Sunday.

PORT HURON, Mich., June 4.—The Saints swept the London series today, winning both games of today's double-header 14 to 8 and 4 to 2. The first game was a slugfest, in which Walsh with four hits starred. Mather hit a homer in the fifth with bases full.

In the second game Bullard and McMillan, former team mates, pitched good ball, but the breaks of the game gave the Saint hurler his first victory in his last five starts. Horne with two spectacular catches in the seventh inning, saved the game. The scores:

Alert and Hermit Wins Make O. B. A. Race Three-Cornered-Tie

Standing.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Orients	2	1	.667
Alerts	2	1	.667
Hermits	2	1	.667
Forest City	0	3	.000

Alerts and Hermits were returned the winners in the O. B. A. contests at Queen's Park Saturday afternoon.

In the opening game the Orients were forced to accept their first defeat of the season at the hands of the fast traveling Alerts by a score of 5—3, and their defeat makes a three-cornered tie in the race for the first half honors.

The large crowd of fans present were treated to the best amateur game of the season, both clubs playing beautiful ball.

Baker, the youthful twirler of the winners, pitched a wonderfully steady game, especially in pinches while on the other hand "Hank" Down, although twirling good ball, was reached for hits at the most opportune times.

The Alerts started off as though they meant business. Connors, first up, singled to left; Pirie beat out an infield hit, and both runners advanced on Doherty's out to F. Burgess. Jeffries was equal to the occasion and smacked a double to deep left, scoring both runners. He was left stranded, as neither H. Smith nor Milligan could assist him to negotiate the rest of the way.

Down pitched airtight ball from here on until the sixth when the winners scored again. Pirie, first up, got a life on Southcott's error and went from first to third on Doherty's perfect sacrifice, Down to Reilly. It was a nice piece of base running. Hank fooled Jeffries into watching a third strike float over, but H. Smith lined a double into left, scoring Pirie. He was left when Milligan fooled out to Armstrong.

In the seventh they scored twice and put the game on ice. With two men gone Baker singled to Southcott and scored when J. Smith allowed Connor's line single to get away from him. The latter scored on Pirie's single to right.

Orients One at Time.

The Orients scored one at a time in the first, fourth and seventh innings. In the first F. Burgess first up doubled to left. Armstrong sacrificed him along, but he was caught at the plate, attempting to score on Reilly's tap to Baker. Southcott walked, and Reilly eventually scored on a passed ball, but Cline ended the inning by grounding out Pring to Smith.

In the fourth Southcott, Cline and Nopper singled, but the former was eventually run down, and Cline was the only man able to score, as Baker tightened up and retired J. Smith and J. Burgess on strikes.

Their final run was scored in the seventh after Down had fouled out to Pirie, and F. Burgess had fanned. Armstrong singled to left and went to second when the ball bounded badly on Jeffries. Reilly scored him with a double to right, but Southcott ended the game by grounding out Baker to Smith.

Hermits Move Up.

The brand of ball displayed in this fixture was hardly as good as in the first contest, but both teams showed marked improvement, and are coming fast. The Hermits scored in every inning and ran their total to 13 while the best the Forest City boys could do was to shove seven counters over the pan. J. McLeod Lawrence and G. Chantler battled well for the victors while Summers, Hazelgrove and Watts were the bright lights for the losers.

SCULLS RACE IS ON AGAIN TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, June 4.—Unfavorable weather conditions yesterday resulted in the postponement of the sculling race for the Philadelphia gold challenge cup scheduled over the one-mile-and-a-quarter straightaway course on the Schuylkill River, until 10 o'clock Monday morning.

The decision was announced after the committee inspected the course, finding it in a raging, white-capped stream, instead of the usual placid stretch. Three days of rains made it intolerate. Incessant downpours of rain, flashes of lightning and a brisk northwest wind swept over the river, rendering the course unfit for a contest to determine the champion single sculler event of the world.

ST. ANDREWS MEET ROVERS TUESDAY

St. Andrews play St. John's Rovers Tuesday night in St. Thomas in a St. T. C. L. fixture, the game having been originally scheduled for next Saturday. However, on that date the local Scots are drawn to meet the W. O. R.'s in what will probably be the most interesting game of the season thus far, as both teams are headed for the title.

The St. Andrews team will catch the 5:20 car Tuesday night, unless other arrangements are made, and the following are requested to be on hand: Adamson, Wilson, D. Smith, Knight, Russell, J. Smith, Croall, P. Macfarlan, Mackintosh, Whitelaw, Morgan, J. Holt, Owen.

St. Johns' secretary is asked to communicate with St. Andrews with regards to arrangements for the game, as nothing has been heard about it.

PACK GET INTO FIRST DIVISION

Trounce Brants in Both Ends of Double Sunday Bill.

BAY CITY, Mich., June 4.—Bay City got back into the first division Sunday by soundly trouncing Brantford in both ends of a double-header 7 to 0 and 8 to 0, making it three victories out of the games series. Incidentally the Wolves set three league records for the day's work, the first game consuming but one hour and nineteen minutes for the fastest contest on record in the league this year, only 29 men facing Matuzak in the first game, and the Wolves having but three assists in the second contest. Both Matuzak and Summers were in rare form, Brantford getting but three hits off each pitcher in each game, and at no time did the Brants seriously threaten to score. Both Crandall and Dahlin, Brantford twirlers, were hit hard in the early innings of each game, Simon, Knoll, Whaley, Harris and Koehler all getting extra base blows. Hegedorn had three stolen sacks in the two games, and raised his total to 11 for the past week. Koehler stole home on Lalonge in the first game. The score:

Buzz Trades Brown and Fisher For Watson of Saints.

PORT HURON, June 4.—When London Tecumsehs left town today they took with them Leon Watson, third baseman of the Port Huron Saints. A trade was negotiated between Managers Kelley and Wetzel, and the league champions gave two regulars, Fisher, an outfielder, and Brown, a third baseman, for Watson.

Watson hit 306 in the Mint League last year for the season, and fielded well. Buzz Wetzel has a bad hole at short, and it is his intention to use Watson at that position. There was no money involved in the deal.

The Preston North End club was fined £500 and the manager of the club was fined £50. At the time of the transfer the directors of the Preston North End club were suspended from the league for a period of twelve months.

17 EVENTS CARDED FOR M. A. A. MEET

12-Mile Modified Marathon Heads Good Program For June 24.

Seventeen events comprise the program which will be 'submitted to the general meeting at the Y. tonight, which will arrange final details of the M. A. A. track meet for June 24.

The construction of a subway under the track at Queen's Park which starts this week, it was thought, might force the postponement of the meet, but at tonight's meeting it will be shown that even if the work is not finished, planks may be laid across the ditch, as a bridge, and this would not effect any of the events.

Motor bike events are not included in the preliminary draft of the program, but may be later put on as new circumstances develop. The speedsters were a big hit last year, but at the same time are an expensive item, and they could not negotiate the bridge, anyway, it is pointed out by officials.

The events outlined in the first draft to be submitted by Chairman A. T. Taylor, are as follows:

Open.

1 mile run.
Running high jump.
2-mile bicycle race.
4-mile bicycle race.

Closed.

1-mile relay (four men to a team).
Tug-o'-war, 5 men to a team (not over 800 lbs.)
1-mile bicycle race.
3-mile bicycle race.

The sports committee is as follows: A. T. Taylor, chairman, J. B. M. Ferguson, Bill Lawrence, Dr. E. S. Detwiler, George Sinclair, George A. Wenige.

FLINT, June 3. — Gene Tippett pitched Kitchener to a twin victory over Flint here today, the first exhibition of this kind in the Mint League this summer.

Tippett, a right-hander, beat the Vehics in the first game 5 to 2, and emerged a 7 to 6 victor in the second, which went into ten frames. Timely hitting won both games for the Beavers. Bad fielding cost Flint a chance in the first clash, while Stewart and Feigert were hit opportunely by the foe.

GALT, June 4.—In a clean and closely played game here on Saturday afternoon, the Galt City football team won its first game in the provincial league when they defeated Taylor-Forbes of Guelph 2—1. CHATHAM BEATS WALLACEBURG TO OPEN UP LACROSSE

Burg Home Threatened All Time, But Fleming Saved Day.

CHATHAM, June 3.—By the score of 12 to 7, the Chatham lacrosse team beat the Wallaceburg aggregation in the opening game of the intermediate series at Athletic Park this afternoon. Had it not been for the clever manner in which Fleming defended the net for Chatham the score might have been otherwise, as the combination work of the Burg forwards was well nigh perfect.

A detail of city police had to be called to keep the crowd in order. Included in the big crowd which witnessed the game were several hundred fans from Wallaceburg, who, wearing the brown and yellow of the Burg team, did considerable rooting. The crowd was also augmented by several hundred boys of the city, who, carrying lacrosse sticks, were admitted free to the park for the game.

Referee—Wickens.

W.O.R.'S BEAT R.C.R.'S 5—1 IN CITY TILT

City Soccer League.

	P.	W.	L.	D.	For	Ag.	Pts.
W. O. R.	4	3	1	0	18	5	6

R. C. R.	3	2	1	1	10	5	4

First W. O. R. were at home on Saturday for the first time in a month and took the R. C. R. into camp at Springbank by a 5—1 score.

The W. O. R. lost the toss and faced the sun, and from the kick-off pressed the Royals' goal, and Ridley taking a shot 40 yards out went over the crossbar. From the goal kick Short received the leather and passed to Moore, who transferred to Ridley, the latter sending in a nice shot which hit the upright. From this the R. C. R. broke away and took the ball down the field and became dangerous, but Herring in goal for W. O. R. saved in nice style. The R. C. R. continued to press when a corner was forced, and from the kick-in Ashton cleared splendidly which sent the W. O. R. forwards going with great combination between Taylor and Moore ending in the latter opening the score with a terrific shot. The R. C. R. attacked strongly, and Ashton and Dennis were kept busy, but proved too sound for the Royals. These two full backs are undoubtedly the best pair in this district. They play with great coolness and good judgment at all times. Broomhead received the ball and broke through and fed Moore, and after some clever footwork the latter scored the second goal which the R. C. R. protested, claiming an offside play, but the referee awarded a goal and would not alter his decision. The R. C. R. started to walk off the field, but after some delay decided to continue the game and pressed the W. O. R. goal, and after a strong bombardment put one past Herring, who tried hard to save.

From now on the blue and white shirts had things their own way and became dangerous when one of the R. C. R. was penalized, and Short taking the kick beat McQueen easily and registered the third goal. The W. O. R. still attacked hotly, and Whitworth fed Turner in fine style. The latter passed to Ridley, who scored a lovely goal. From the kick-off Short received and fed Taylor, who was playing a real game. He passed to Moore, who, after some very clever footwork, transferred to Perkins, who passed to Ridley, the latter driving in a hard shot and the final goal.

W. O. R. team was: Herring, Ashton, Dennis, Whitworth, Broomhead, Short, Turner, Ridley, Perkins, Moore, Taylor.

The work of the referee did not meet with the approval of the teams nor the spectators. R. C. R.'s played a one-back game, making his task still heavier.

RANGERS, WITH 3—1 WIN, HAVE GROUP ABOUT CINCHED

Preston Provides 4th Straight Win For Kitchener.

KITCHENER, June 4.—The Rangers, Kitchener's intermediate W. F. A. representatives, practically cinched their group Saturday, when they defeated Preston 3 to 1 here at Victoria Park. The Kitchener team was a changed one, Zepway being replaced at center by Jimmie Mason, and the latter played a star game, scoring two of the Kitchener goals by clever work. Tommy Langton was another absentee, his place being taken by Richardson.

The half-time score was 1 to 1 for the locals. The Preston team scored on one of their excursions down the field in the dying moments of play. They earned it, too. Had the locals' shooting been up to par they would have got at least two more goals. Franklin Mason and Bards starred for the Rangers, while Illingworth and Hewitt were best for the Preston team.

ADJUSTING VALVES.

After the push rod of a valve is adjusted to the proper distance from the valve stem (the thickness of a sheet of paper), difficulty is encountered sometimes in fightening the nuts. The easiest way is by means of two wrenches, one for the locking nut and the other for the adjusting screw. Since they tighten in opposite directions, the wrenches are drawn away from each other. The diagram above shows how this is done.

Ruth Hits First Ball Out of Polo Grounds in Yank Win.

CLEVELAND, June 4. — Cleveland made it four straight from Detroit, winning 14 to 6 today. Errors gave both teams their early runs, but clean hitting and Stoner's wildness accounted for the later tallies piled up by Cleveland. Stephenson had a perfect batting average for the day.

NEW YORK, June 4. — New York closed its spring home stand today with an easy victory over Philadelphia, 8 to 3. Ruth's home run with Miller and Ward on bases, his third of the season, put the Yankees ahead in the fifth. It was the first ball he has driven out of the grounds this year, the ball clearing the right field roof of the grandstand.

WATERLOO 11 LEADS CRICKET

WATERLOO, Ont., June 4.—Tom Seagram's Waterloo Cricket Club went into the lead of the Western Ontario Cricket League by defeating Galt 112 to 62 at the Waterloo oval Saturday. It was the first defeat for the Galt team this year, and the locals have yet to be beaten. It was a good game of cricket, featured by the splended bowling of Tom Seagram, who got 5 wickets for ten runs. Seagram and Charlie Maddick went in when the count was 62 to 44, and by careful batting ran the count past the danger mark, running up 41 runs between them. Galt used no less than seven Bowlers, and the only Waterloo man who failed to get a run was Downing.

Everyone Is Welcome at Any of These Churches On the Sabbath Day

Believes "Other She ep" Mentioned In Bible, America n Indian Ancestors

Elder Nephi Jensen, president of the Canadian mission of the Mormon Church, spoke at Knights of Pythias Hall on Sunday night on the Book of Mormon. He said in part:

"Who are the 'other sheep' Jesus spoke of? This is one of the most interesting of all Bible questions. The 'other sheep' were not the Gentiles. They were not in the Holy Land at all. For Jesus said, 'they are not of this fold.' He also said: 'Them must I bring.' It would not be necessary to bring them if they were in Palestine. The other sheep were on the American continent. They were the forefathers of the American Indians. Jesus actually appeared on this continent after his crucifixion. Lord Kingsborough in his Mexican Antiquities tells of the tradition of the Mexican Indians concerning Quetzalcohuatl, who was born of a virgin; who came into the world to save the world by penance, and who was crucified and arose from the dead. This Quetzalcohuatl was the Christ. The Mexican Indians got the tradition of him from Jesus himself when he appeared to the 'other sheep.'

"Not only did Christ appear at two separate and distinct places upon the earth, but two distinct divine records have been kept. In Ezekiel xxxvii., 16, 17, we read of the 'stick of Judah' and the 'stick of Ephraim.' The stick of Judah is the Bible. The stick of Ephraim is another divine record. It contains the gospel which Jesus preached to the 'other sheep,' who were descendants of Joseph through Ephraim.

"Isaiah in his 29th chapter tells us of the coming forth of this other divine record. In the 17th verse of this chapter he says: 'Is it not yet a very little while, and Lebanon shall be turned into a fruitful field, and the fruitful field shall be esteemed as a forest? And in that day shall the deaf hear the words of the book.'

"Lebanon or Palestine commenced to be turned into a fruitful field in the last half of the nineteenth century. Where is the book which should come forth at that time?

"John the Revelator also foresaw the coming of an angel with the everlasting gospel (Revelations xiv., 6, 7). The Book of Mormon contains the everlasting gospel brought to the earth by this angel. It contains the gospel which Jesus preached to the 'other sheep.' It is the stick of Ephraim. It is the book Isaiah said should come at the time Palestine should be turned into a fruitful field."

GIVES REASONS FOR BELIEF IN GOD

"It has been estimated that 99 per cent of those in jails at the present time believe in God. Even the devils are supposed to believe and tremble at the name of God. There is nothing beautiful in a mere intellectual belief in God," said the Rev. I. Couch of Strathroy, speaking yesterday morning in Dundas Center Methodist Church.

Rev. Couch in his address dealt largely with the reasons for belief in God, and spoke at length on the instinctive desire and hunger that is in all human beings for a knewledge of God. He cited the reasonings that might be put forth against there being a God, and those that would be set out to prove that there is a God. He summarized he latter under the heading of mere intellectual belief.

"We are taught," he said, "that there can be no thought without a thinker. As the universe is infinite there must be an infinite thinker, and, as we cannot think of an impersonal thinker, so we think of God as a human being. God is an intelligent personality."

Following out the different methods of reasoning on the subject he said "doubtless many have come along the drear path of logic to the beautiful one of faith. There is nothing beautiful in a mere intellectual belief in God. If God is to be a help to us we must have something more than intellectual belief. What the world and the people need today is an intellectual assurance that the Spirit of God is more in the relationship of a father to a child.

"Why should a person be ashamed to confess the hunger of the soul more than the hunger of the body," he said, "bringing forward the universal hunger after God as a testimony for His existence." Can we not trust the deep instinctive longing for the soul after God? If we cannot trust that, what can we trust? There are people who say they trust their eyesight because they can see things. But if a thought is a delusion, sight may also be a delusion. Religion is its own evidence.

"In times of trouble we are ready to cry out to God, and yet there are people who say that if this world has been produced by the operation of the physical laws, and that everything now is all right, the skies blue, and they have lots of friends, what should they care for anything else, or what is the need of God. These people do not realize that although seemingly the same from the exterior, there is a vast difference between a living man and a dead man, inasmuch as in the one the spirit is absent. It would be the same with the world if the spirit of God were to be taken away. There would be a vast difference between a living universe and a dead one."

Rev. Lewis Hill, of Parkhill, conducted the evening service, and Rev. George Sparling, who has been working in the church in China, spoke in the afternoon. Throughout the day the services were of a special nature on account of convention week, and special prayers were offered.

CLAIMS EUROPE SICK UNTO DEATH

Rev. Henry Godfrey of Dutton preached in the Robinson Memorial Methodist Church Sunday evening, his text being, "There is no other name whereby we may be saved."

The preacher said that many people were discouraged because of the moral and economic condition of the world today, and quoted Philip Gibbs, who said: "Europe was sick," and a French writer, who said: "Europe was dying." A feeling of despondency had fallen over America as well as Europe, he said. Five years of war had introduced evils which would take centuries to wipe out.

The cause of the present condition was the failure of education.

Remedies Proposed.

Many remedies were proposed, but only one thing would save the world, namely, the adoption of Jesus Christ's program. Were that given a fair trial the world would be saved.

Viscount Grey said some time ago, in answer to the question "Is a better world possible and desirable?" it was possible and desirable, but that a change of external conditions would not alone produce a better world.

Talks of Europe.

The preacher drew attention to the condition of Europe, particularly England in the 18th century. France was deluged in blood, the Chartists in England were on the point of rising up. Statesmen like Burke feared that England would suffer the same fate as France. Then came Wesley with Christ's program; the evangelical revival began, and England was saved from a revolution such as that through which France had passed.

Apply Gospel.

Today only the application of the gospel to an individual's social and intellectual life will save the world.

At the morning service Rev. Martin J. Wilson, B.A., of James Street Methodist Church, occupied the pulpit of the Robinson Memorial Church, and preached an interesting sermon on "The Laws of Character Building." He pointed out that one of the first laws for the building of real manhood was that a man allow the spirit of adventure to dominate him. He must be a Christopher Columbus in spirit, never satisfied with present attainment, but ever reaching out for something just beyond his grasp.

To be satisfied with oneself is to be on the verge of a precipice over which we shall soon fall to destruction. Again, one cannot build a life worth while without a plan, and we should not be satisfied with any plan which is not perfect. Jesus Christ is not only the perfect head, but also the perfect pattern of mankind, in the highest and holiest moments of our lives we recognize him for what he really is. "Let us see that we build our lives according to the pattern shown us on the Holy Mount," said the speaker.

Law of Giving.

A third law of giving and getting, the law of the harvest, "whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." "What we spend we keep." "We lay in dust life's glory dead, and from the ground there blossoms red life that shall endless be."

The speaker stated as the fourth law that strength must be coupled with weakness if we would be doubly strong. God's strength coupled with man's weakness makes man strong, but only as the weak man made strong by God uses his strength in the service of weaker men will he retain that strength.

In the afternoon Rev. J. R. Peters addressed the Sunday school, taking for his subject "The Potter and the Clay." In the evening Rev. Henry Godfrey of Dutton occupied the pulpit.

TELLS OF EFFECT OF WAR ON YOUTH

Rev. Alfred J. Johnston preached the conference sermon at Askin Street Methodist Church in the morning. An instructor at Victoria College, Toronto, he dealt particularly with the effect of the war on young men who left the seminary for the sword. He declared that all those who returned had not been touched by the evil of war beyond awakening in them a great and Christ-following compassion. But they had been deepened. Old shibboleths became real tests in the light of battle cries, old truisms became invested with new meaning, revealing the soul of truth.

He also gave a new interpretation of the kingdom of God which is to be. Not merely as in scriptural language, a kingdom absorbing the political fabrics of mankind, but a kingdom taking over the impalpable but no less real empires of commerce, art, industry and education.

In the afternoon at Askin Street, Rev. Harold J. Bentley, B.A., addressed the Sunday school. In the evening a large congregation heard Rev. John H. Johnstone, M.A., B.D.

SIX ORDAINED INTO MINISTRY

Impressive Services Held in Centennial Methodist Church.

Rev. J. E. J. Millyard Presides At Sunday Morning Ceremony.

Impressive ordination services in connection with the London Conference of the Methodist Church were conducted in the Centennial Church Sunday morning, When Rev. J. Edwin J. Millyard of Sarnia, president-elect of the conference, assisted by London Conference pastors, ordained six young men in the Methodist ministry.

The East London edifice was filled to capacity by Londoners and visitors to the conference, the aisles of the auditorium and gallery being crowded. The same condition predominated in the church vestibules, many people standing throughout the service.

Taking for his text, "Now, then, we are ambassadors of Christ," Rev. Joseph W. Hibbert of Kingsville, retiring conference president, preached one of the most inspiring sermons heard in a London pulpit, and addressed his remarks chiefly to the young men up for ordination. Rev. E. W. Jewitt of Wyoming read the lesson, and Rev. A. E. M. Thomson of Centennial Church led in prayer.

"Paul always exalted his office," began Mr. Hibbert. "His was an inspired task. He was no hewer of wood or drawer of water. He was exalted, for was he not the ambassador of the Lord Jesus Christ? One of the finest assets of any preacher is a lofty conception of his office. It is a wonderful aid to a minister of the Cross when he speaks with no uncertain tone.

Ambassadors of the Lord Jesus Christ do not always work in a friendly country, but in an alien land," he continued, pointing out that as ambassadors of today, ministers of the gospel must labor under the flag of their sovereign, which is their protection.

"It is under the protection of Our King that we, as ambassadors, move," he said. "His ambassadors must abide in the atmosphere of the home land. They must be pregnant with the spirit of the King and the spirit of the Lord, whose they are. They must be able to minister unto the King.

Must Be Diplomatic.

"It is very essential that ambassadors of spiritual things should be first borne in the spirit of our Lord; that they first must have experienced the touch of the King and not only so, they must abide there. Wonderful prospects have brought shame to the King whose cause they espoused.

"It is not the allurements of the world that threaten the minister of the gospel, for when an ambassador starts out nothing can threaten if he keeps in the atmosphere of the homeland. O take time to be holy. Abide in Him always. Make friends of God's children and help those that are weak.

"Ambassadors must be students in diplomacy and must have a knowledge of men. But away and above all that, is that the ambassador must deliver the message of his own King. When an ambassador of Christ stands before the people, and can firmly declare for the Lord, that man can hold men in the hollow of his hand and make men quail.

"There are some ludicrous and pitiable methods employed to make men listen to the message," asserted the Kingsville pastor. "I am not objecting to sensationalism. I believe in sensationalism. My what a sensation it must have been when that woman at the well went up and down the city, saying, 'come and see a man who tells me all that I have done.' It was a mghty sensation.

"It is not the sensation, but what is behind it. I am not concerned with the method, if behind it all you are speaking the whole counsel of the Lord. Great as it is to be an ambassador of Britain, that glory fades as we think of the ambassadors of the King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

"Some people say talent and ability is wasted in the church. My friends, you can save your sympathy and pity. No king on his throne; no premier is there whose position for one minute compares with an ambassador of the King of Kings. As for remuneration, we have an unhappy system of gauging everything in dollars and cents.

Declares Ministry Underpaid.

"I know that the ministry is underpaid from a monetary standpoint. No other men receive less compared to services rendered than the ambassadors of God. After all, I am convinced that you can scarcely find a man who has entered the ministry actuated by the principle of pay.

"The stipend is not a problem at all. The only question is Can I adequately serve and completely espouse the great cause placed upon me? I will not promise you much remuneration in money. None of you will become millionaires or ride in limousines.

"But, after all, things of this earth are not things that compensate the ambassadors of Christ. Greater distinction cannot be placed upon the shoulders of a man than that he shall represent the King of Kings and Lord of Lords," concluded Mr. Hibbert.

Rev. J. Edwin J. Millyard, conference president, then approached the six young men to be ordained, who were standing in the front row of the congregation. Assisted by Rev. E. W. Jewitt, A. E. M. Thomson, W. E. Millson, S. Anderson and other conference pastors, he conducted the ordination ceremony.

The young men ordained are: Rev. S. Hosking and Rev. O. Gerald Lawson of London, Rev. William John Maines, Rev. Wallace Hanley Moss, M.A., of St. Thomas, Rev. Stanley M. Sweetman and Rev. Robert B. Cummings of Ridgetown.

These young men have been assigned to pastorates in the London conference. Special music by the conference choir featured the ordination service.

Says World Would Pay Anything To Enjoy Christian Peace of Conscience

On Sunday Rev. G. A. Leichliter, pastor of Adelaide Street Baptist Church, commenced his series of twin sermons, which he intends to continue for the next two months.

"Two Preachers on a Mission of Othodoxy" and "The Same Fellows in a Fight" were his subjects for Sunday morning and evening, respectively.

To bear out the contention that salvation, the gift of God, cannot be purchased with money, Mr. Leichliter took for his evening text, Acts 8:18, where it appears, after the apostles Peter and John had gone into Samaria and made conversions, there was a man named Simon; who, professing to believe, offered money for the gift of God.

"The world today," said the minister, "is very much the same as it was then, and would pay anything for the peace of conscience that the Christian fraternity enjoys.

"These apostles were in a strange country and without money but they were not ready to sell out for cash," the minister said. "The real value of a man is found when he is faced by temptations, and the highest value in life is what a man is."

Mr. Leichliter argued that the church lives for faith, that where Christ is there stands the church, that where Christ is not present, there can be no church; that the mission of the church is spiritual, and that where the flames of faith is burning there is no shortage of money.

"Money," said the preacher, "is simply a medium of expression, and where Christ is uppermost the financial problem is always a little one.

"The mission of the church was not only to preach repentence but to point a better way.

"We have become so polished," said Mr. Leichliter, "that we are afraid to speak of perdition, or to suggest that people are guilty of anything for which they should repent."

CLAIMS CHRIST'S TEACHINGS FACTS

Peter's great answer to Christ's question as to what the disciples believed concerning Him, "Thou art the Christ," was Rev. Dr. D. C. MacGregor's subject at St. Andrews' Church Sunday morning. Dr. MacGregor leaves today for the Presbyterian General Assembly, and will not fill St. Andrew's pulpit again until August 20.

"It is fitting," he said, "that at the close of a year's ministry I should ask you this question: 'What think ye of Christ?' Not what theoretical ideas you may have, but what do your experiences tell you?

"There are many theorists who denying the divinity of Christ, admit that He was the world's greatest teacher up even to the present. How often have we heard that even in churches. But if we take from Christ the things He taught of Himself, we have nothing left but an imposter. Christ is either the son of the living God or our whole system is wrong.

"Those who argue against the divinity of Christ assert that evolution will produce a greater Christ. But this sort of evolution is the kind treated of in magazines. The real scientists are not so sure concerning evolution as the explanation of all things. Thinking men have to admit the facts of evolution, but men who have sat at the feet of nature that they may understand the laws of science are not certain that evolution is the final explanation or that we shall continue to improve until the earth will become all that is desirable and good.

"There are no theories in Christ. All His statements were statements of fact. We do not need theories to support our faith. We have the power to test what Christ taught.

"Prayer is one way of making the test. Some doubt the efficacy of prayer. They point to the universe teeming with billions of worlds and consider it improbable that God should concern Himself with one human atom. It is a strange thing that we hear more of this sort of thing around colleges than amongst comparatively unlearned folk.

"No week passes without there coming to me a story of someone who has proved the statement of our Lord: "Ask and ye shall receive, seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened to you.'"

The fundamental weakness of theorists who proceed from slight premises to uncertain conclusions, was illustrated by the minister in saying: "How frequently are we annoyed by strangers coming to this country who spend a few days in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, and go home and write books said to be authoritative criticisms of the Dominion. We are annoyed at them for presuming to speak authoritatively concerning us out of such glaring ignorance."

During June Rev. F. W. K. Harris will fill the pulpit at St. Andrew's. Throughout July and August, until Dr. MacGregor's return, the congregation of the First Presbyterian and St. Andrew's churches will hold union services.

URGES FAITH IN POWER OF GOD

"We should all have a program to carry out when we are starting out in life," said Rev. John W. Hedley, pastor-elect of Victoria Avenue Methodist Church, Goderich, at Colborne Street Methodist Church yesterday morning. "If we had the same program as Jesus and will follow it as He did we will be equally repaid."

"Wherefore, seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin that doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us." Hebrews xii., was the subject of the sermon by Rev. Hedley.

"What is the race we are about to run?" he asked. "We are inspired to run a race, but let us run it for Jesus Christ, so that the Kingdom of God will be built up by our endeavors."

Sin Is Handicap.

That we must lay aside all weight and sin and run the race for life for Jesus Christ without carrying the burden of sin, which would hamper those running in record time and according to form, was especially emphasized by the speaker.

Carrying the weights and the burdens would render it impossible for the people of today to make the necessary progress which is most essential in the race in order to be a winner for Jesus Christ.

"One of the greatest weights referred to in the Scripture is unbelief," he said. "If the people are commanded by God to lay aside the weight of unbelief and the other sins, surely we have the power to do it. God would not command us to do it if it were not possible."

Had Great Faith.

Rev. Hedley referred to the great faith Jesus Christ had in God, and also the enormous faith he had in man. He believed in the power of love, and that by the manifestation of love man could be drawn to God.

"Jesus Christ had faith in God, man, method and the future," he said. "If we have a program such as Christ followed, then we will be sure to follow in His fotsteps. May it be your great fortune and mine to run this great race for Jesus Christ."

Rev. S. Judson Kelly, pastor of Colborne Street Methodist Church, in introducing Rev. Mr. Hedley, told of his activities in the mining district of British Columbia, and added that he had known Mr. Hedley since boyhood.

CLAIMS BIBLE VERY MODERN

Rev. Heber Crews Preaches at St. Andrew's Church Sunday Evening.

Conference Delegate Urges Men Not To Acknowledge Defeat.

"Blessed is the man who is able to rise from the dust and say: 'I am not beaten. I will succeed yet, even if I have been defeated. I can still win out. I'll dig another well.'"

Such was the ringing challenge to faith and courage sounded by Rev. Heber Crews, M.A., D.D., of the London Methodist Conference, at the conclusion of an inspiring sermon, preached Sunday evening in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Taking as his theme the incident of Isaac again digging the wells which had been filled in by the Philistines, as narrated in Genesis xxv., Mr. Crews referred to the great service Abraham, the militant, and Isaac, the pacific, had rendered their times by sinking wells, the only source of water supply in that era of the world's history.

Attention was called to the great expense to which municipalities have gone to insure a pure, adequate supply of water, Glasgow bringing the clear water which supplies the population from Loch Katrine, a distance of 36 miles; Birmingham bringing its water supply 79 miles, and Manchester 96 miles.

"In Old Testament times," said the preacher, "anyone who sank a well was a public benefactor. Abraham and Isaac sank wells as religiously as worshippers of the true God later built cathedrals. In filling up the wells the Philistines were guilty of an envious act—a diabolical act such as we have paralleled today.

Old Testament Is Modern.

"The thing that strikes me about the Old Testament is that it is so wonderfully modern that it as truly represents our own age as that of the men of the days in which it was written. Again, it is so wonderfully human, such an expression of real life. Take this chapter, for example. Cut it anywhere, and it will bleed. It might have been just off the print, so true is it to modern life and modern human nature.

"The Philistines were envious of the goods wells of Abraham's people. Wherever we turn we see envy bearing fruits in malicious deeds. We had it in the Germans cutting down the vines and fruit trees in France. Evil would destroy the superstructure of righteousness if it had the power.

"But what of the attitude of the good towards the evil?

"In Abraham and Isaac we have two types, the militant and the pacifist. Tolstoi would have called Isaac the pacifist, the true ideal. Oliver Cromwell would have named Abraham such.

"Some of the greatest victories that have come to those nearest to God and to the church have been achieved by bearing indignities without retaliating. The pacifist is needed in the world, but so is the militant too, the Abraham type of men. If spoilers came into the tents of Abraham and threatened his family he would be a coward if he permitted them to be injured without trying to defend them.

"If a robber came into my home I'd be more apt to hold up a revolver than the New Testament, and he'd be inclined to appreciate the firearm more than ethical power. The New Testament which says, 'If a man smite you on one cheek,' also says, 'Cast not your pearls before swine,' thus justifying the militant when occasion demands as well as the pacifist. Even in the beautiful city of London you can sleep at peace in your homes at night because policemen are patrolling the streets. While resistance by force is a last resort, we must always have it."

Draws a Lesson.

In the story of the digging out of the wells, Dr. Crews saw a lesson with regard to the treatment of the degenerate by those filled with God's spirit.

"Man is essentially religious," he said. "Away down deep, hidden frequently beneath much rubbish, you will find fountains of good if you can only strike them. Clear out the well and you will find the fountain in a man's soul. Don't always judge men even by their own rating of themselves. Seek the fountain of good in them."

Continuing, Dr. Crews intimated that an aggressive as well as defensive attitude is necessary on the part of those who would serve their fellowmen.

"The motto, 'what we have we hold,' may be all right from a national standpoint," said the preacher, "but it would never do with the church. Where would the Presbyterian Church be if it said, 'The mission stations we now have we will hold,' making this an excuse for refusing to press forward in obedience to the command, 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.' Every church, every Y. W. C. A., every Y. M. C. A., every library, good book, sermon, prayer offered represents a well dug to supply fountains of pure, life-giving water.

"Isn't it a great thing to be able to sink wells in the interests of the kingdom of God?

In this connection, Dr. Crews quoted Abraham Lincoln's famous "If I can't get over a difficulty, I go around it." A man sailing down the St. Lawrence in recent years had commented that the beautiful islands which dot the great river were originally barriers to its sweep. But, the river caressed them and transformed them into places of beauty.

"So we, too," he concluded, "can wrest triumph from defeat, turn our sorrows into blessings. Victory lies in struggle."

London, Ontario, Is Just As Holy As Holy Land, Sa ys Rev. Geo. Elliott

Rev. George Elliott, D.D., of New York, a visitor to the London District Methodist Conference, occupied the pulpit at the morning service in the First Methodist Church, and taking his text from Exodus i., 2 and 20 verses, he preached an edifying and uplifting sermon on "Spiritual Dynamics."

Continuing the text the preacher pointed out that it was the rod of Moses, but it became the rod of God, showing how from a shepherd's crook, a common tool of trade, the rod became the symbol of Jehovah's power. If a person took the trouble to look in the books of the Pentateuch one would find various interpretations of the rod. Held up in the hands of Moses it became the instrument whereby God's people might march from slavery into freedom. Again, when Moses struck the rock with the rod water flowed forth to quench the thirst of God's people, and again when Moses on the mountain top held the rod on high it turned the tide of battle on the plain below and gave the victory to God's people, therefore, it was not the rod of Moses but the rod of God.

There are some who cloak the rod with an air of mystery, imbuing it with the power of the miraculous, and various claims are set forth as to its origin. This is especially so in the Talmud, where it is claimed to have been cut by Moses in the Garden of Eden. Dr. Elliott denounced the absurdity of believing that the rod was a "Rod of Magic," as it was only a common shepherd's crook, probably cut by Moses from some little bush in the desert. It became the rod of God, and that is the lesson which can be taken from this text. By placing the very commonest of things in the hands of God they become imbued with his power and invested with His divinity. He can take the most prosaic things and make them instruments of His power.

One of the lessons that must be learned at the present day is the glory of the commonplace. Dr. Elliott declared. "We all want to go to the Holy Land to see holy things, but London, Ontario, is just as holy as the Holy Land if we look at it in the proper light. We all ought to learn to see God everywhere. Persons talk of seeing God in the burning bush. We have burning bushes right here in this glorious Canada of ours, when the maples change their leaves in the fall to the most beautiful colors. Then can it be truly said to be burning bushes with their flashes of red and yellow. Is this not God's work? It is only when we learn the value of the commoplace that we can become God's sword."

The speaker declared that most frequently the value of the common things was recognized in the material world, and what surprised Him most was that we should stress material things so and yet pay so little attention to the things of the spiritual world. "We have been trying to share God's omnipotence with our wonderful inventions of electricity and other things. We are hitching God's power to all our human tasks. Utilizing His forces for everything. Why cannot we learn in the realms of the material and the spiritual to place ourselves in God's hands, commented Dr. Elliott.

The pastor was of the opinion that it was not the preacher or what the preacher did, or a church with its costly fixtures that counted. It was only when God was called in to share the task that the work ever amounted to anything.

Dr. Elliott declared that some people thought that Jesus had come and had gone away again, and would return at some future time, but such is the case, Jesus is here in the world today. He is a living personality, and the people should turn to Him to solve their difficulties.

URGES NEED FOR TOWNSHIP NURSE

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, June 4.—Living next to nature may be averse to the average urban dweller who craves excitement, but being a rural resident is at least not detrimental to the health, according to Dr. C. D. Chappin, M. O. H., of Brantford Township, who reported no quarantine cases and very little sickness. However, the medical officer very emphatically stresses the need of a school nurse, asserting that the education of school children was badly neglected.

While the employment of such a nurse had been authorized no appointment has been made. A number of school sections in the township have united, including 30 classrooms, which will be known as Unit No. 1. They have taken the initiative in this matter and anticipate having a nurse appointed before school reopens after the summer vacation.

Superintendent J. C. Wallo of the parks board draws attention to the continued practice of the youth of the city in destroying freshly set-out plants in various parts of the city. In some cases boys have been playing games in which they run over big flower beds, and in other cases cyclists racing through shrubbery and across lawns. The department is doing everything in its power to stop this sort of play, and the co-operation of citizens and police has been appealed to.

Statistics of the medical inspection of 367 children during May show that 11 had defects which required referring to their family physician. Only 93 parents were present during these examinations. Dr. R. L. Hutton, chief inspection officer, stressed the necessity of parents attending. The school nurse in follow-up cases made 243 home visits.

RADIO TAKEN TO ISOLATED ISLE BY MISSIONARY

JAPANESE BOAT CALLS

Inhabitants Ordinarily Hear From Civilization Once in Two Years.

MONTEVIDEO, June 4.—The British island of Tristan da Cunha, in the middle of the South Atlantic, with its 120 odd souls, mostly descendants of Napoleon's St. Helena guards, who hardly hear from civilization more than once in two years, is at last to have a missionary and radio communication.

For more than eighteen months an English clergyman named Rogers and his wife have been trying to reach the island from Cape Town, and finally induced the captain of the Japanese steamship Tacoma Maru, which left Cape Town on March 26 for the River Plate, to deviate from his regular course and land them at Tristan da Cunha.

Missionary Needed.

W. Denis Myers, a passenger on the Tacoma Maru and a lawyer of Cape Town, who has just arrived here, tells of the vessel's call at the island with Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, and thinks the population is truly in need of a missionary.

"The student of evolution, the psychologist as well as the missionary, would find much to interest him in this curious, forgotten community," says Mr. Myers. "The settlement originated, it is said, when a detachment of soldiers who were guarding Napoleon at St. Helena, to the north, were dispatched to Tristan da Cunha to forestall the remote possibility that Napoleon might attempt to escape thither. Two of the soldiers remained, and, importing wives from St. Helena, laid the foundation of one of the strangest settlements in the world.

"From time to time shipwrecked mariners have added to the inhabitants on the island, who have married and intermarried till relationship after a century has become a hopeless tangle. Nearly all the present population were born on the island, and have a colored strain in their blood. They speak English with a peculiar drawl, resembling West of England speech. There is one old Italian among them, shipwrecked from a sailing vessel, who appears to have forgotten his own name, and, in fact, his mother tongue.

Children Pitiable.

"Continued intermarriage has in this generation produced some pitiable children. Some of them are idiots, some lack limbs, some are deaf and dumb. The population does nothing agriculturally, except to cultivate potatoes. On this food, together with fish and penguin eggs, they chiefly exist. There are a few wild cattle and a few sheep, and out of the woool of the latter the women knit rough woolen stockings. That is their only manufacture. They wear old clothes, usually seamen's, begged from the ships, usually wandering windjammers, that visit the island at rare intervals. There being no commerce, there is no need for money.

"The islander's attitude toward visitors is curious. As he stands before one his head droops, his arms fall listlessly to his side, and he answers limply and uninterestedly questions as to his life and mode of existence. He seems to have no other interest than to trade a penguin, an albatross skin or a seal's flapper for an old shirt, a little tobacco or anything from civilization that would be useful. He articulates slowly and with difficulty, as if he had forgotten speech. I did not see one smile.

Live In Stone Huts.

"Tristan da Cunha is a mountain 4,000 feet high, rising out of the ocean waves like an inverted pudding bowl, and as we saw it, was wreathed in swirling mists. The little colony lives in stone huts on a green strip of pasture land at the foot of the mountain.

"Having no commerce and no money, these people certainly cannot worship Mammon, but it is doubtful if they worship God. The two plucky missionaries who have exiled themselves among them for at least two years will try to teach them. They brought large quantities of supplies and civilized comforts, and a radio set, so that henceforth Tristan do Cunha will not be cut off entirely from the outside world."

Kent Receives Checks For Road Building.

CHATHAM, June 3.—Three big checks were received by County Treasurer Fleming this morning from the highways department of the province in respect of the government's share of the cost of road improvements carried out in the county during the year 1921.

The amounts of the checks are $40,000, $250,000, and $14,135.01, or a total of $304,135.01.

Last year was a busy one for the county roads department, $700,000 being spent on permanent roads and improvements to other roads. It is believed that a similar sum will be spent this year on road improvements.

COUNCIL SILENT ON HARRIS CASE

No Indication of Investigation by Middlesex Councillors.

Reading of communications and the referral of the same to the various committees for consideration is claiming the attention of the Middlesex county councillors, who convened shortly after 2 p.m. Monday at the county building for their regular June session. John Cousins, warden of the county, is presiding.

Should another session be held Monday evening, the councillors will consider certain proposed amendments to the bylaws affecting particularly the council's method of procedure at meetings as well as defining more definitely the duties of the county clerk, county treasurer and other of the officers.

The council will not complete its activities until Saturday afternoon, and arrangements will be made for the annual inspection of the Middlesex House of Refuge at Strathroy.

Councillors arriving at the county buildings Monday morning were somewhat reticent pertaining to the predicted investigation concerning the dismissal and eviction from the county jail of Miss Harris, former assistant matron at that institution. From present indications it would appear that no such action is contemplated by the members as a body.

A sharp debate is expected, however, when the proposal is made that the ratepayers be assessed this year for the county's entire share of the Lambeth highway construction. The councillors seem about equally divided upon this question, there being those members who advocate strongly the issuance of debentures for this debt extending over a long period of years.

"NO AGE HAS MONOPOLY ON GOD," STATES REV. BEATTIE

First Presbyterian Church Pastor Preaches On "Visiting Our Yesterdays."

"Visiting Our Yesterdays," formed the subject of Rev. William Beattie's sermon at the First Presbyterian Church, Sunday. Speaking of the futility and the utility of such visits, Dr. Beattie declared: "It is futile to revisit our yesterdays merely to weep over them. The utility of such visits lies in the fact that they teach us how we may better ourselves today.

"An outstanding distinction between the east and the west is that the east lives in the past and glories in its ancestry. The west lives in the present and glories in its posterity. Yet much good may be found in adopting the oriental viewpoint, and paying an occasional visit to life's yesterdays.

"We may learn that there is not so much difference between our childhood days and the present. Then we were little children, now we are bigger children. Then it was the penny lost in the dust which troubled us, now it is the pound lost in the dirty road to the bucketshop.

"Then it was the broken toy, now it is the "busted' motor car. But in the essentials of childhood there remain the three characteristics, the love of fun, the love of something to do, and the love of one another. We also learn from these visits to our yesterdays that no age has a monopoly of God, no matter what the peculiarities of that age have been. The teachings of religion have adapted themselves to the need of the age. As individuals also we can confidently assert that Divine Provindence has kept a hand upon all the events of life."

PROBES REMOVAL OF LAKE ERIE SAND

BLENHEIM, June 4.—An officer from the department of mines, Toronto has been here this week investigating in reference to the removal of sand and gravel from the shore of Lake Erie, and looking into the matter of granting a license to the township of Harwich to use sand and gravel for municipal purposes.

As the law stands, no person, owner of lands or otherwise, has a right to remove sand or gravel from the shores without first obtaining a license from the department, and a license will not be granted until the matter has been looked into and reported to the department by one of its engineers.

WILSON OFFERS POLICE PUZZLE

Special to London Advertiser.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 5.—When Robert Louis Stevenson, who sleeps on the headland looking out from Vailima, in Samoa, gave to the world the prose epic, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," he penned a bifurcated life tale of prosaic doings and dark passions, whose parallel is now being unfolded in the courts here.

Consider the case of Herbert Wilson, who in London, Ontario, Oregon, Washington, and Southern California, posed as a clergyman and a traveling evangelist.

This same Herbert Wilson is now in the county jail on the double charge of robbing the United States mails in this city of loot amounting to about $500,000, and the murder of his pal and companion, Herbert R. Cox, to prevent him "peaching" on the gang.

It is seldom that characteristics so opposite are combined in one individual and the erstwhile pastor is the big question mark to the federal authorities. While his record shows, federal officers stated yesterday, that he has been engaged in a number of criminal acts, Wilson might pass anywhere as to the cloth born.

Was Much Surprised.

Some weeks ago a stranger, who gave his name as William Johnson, called at the federal building to inquire about the robbery charge against Wilson. He was very much surprised to know that Wilson was in custody, saying that he knew Wilson as a Baptist clergyman at Brownsville, Ore., and had been baptized by him in the Baptist faith. He did not go to the county jail to see his former pastor, but he recognized a photograph as being that of the man who several years ago officiated in one of the Brownsville churches. It also is of record that Wilson was connected with a church in San Diego and that he was known as a clergyman in a number of different localities, including London, Ontario.

Yet federal officers charge that this man was the leading spirit in the robbery of the mail truck in this city on the night of March 3, 1921, was connected with a score of holdups in various parts of the state, robbed several stores in this city, San Francisco and elsewhere, and assisted in the robbery of the Fifth street store in Los Angeles, while he was posing as a detective in the employ of a local agency.

Was Long Mystery.

The affair was a mystery for months, and the facts were not really known until some months ago, when a search of the house of Cox, whom Wilson afterwards murdered, according to the assertions of the state authorities, resulted in the finding of $1,500 in pennies, said to have wards orthodox Christianity among home was at 1762 West Forty-Second Place.

The Fifth street store job was touted as an "inside" robbery. However, at the time, Wilson was posing as a detective, and authorized to enter the store.

BIG PEONY SHOW OPENS JUNE 16, 17

Delegates From All Over Canada and United States Will Attend.

June 16 and 17 have been set as the dates of the annual meeting and show of the American Peony Society, to be held in the Armories in London. The annual meeting will be held at the close of the show Friday night, and delegates are expected from all over Canada and the United States.

Headquarters will be at the Tecumseh Hotel, where a parlor will be reserved as headquarters for ladies, and there will be another meeting room for men.

The exhibits should be in place, as far as possible, by 1 p.m. Friday, as the judging will be done Friday afternoon.

Local enthusiasm, according to the officials, is running high, and they expect that not only will the show itself establish a new high plane for the society, but an attendance of visitors is expected that will make many new enthusiasts in Peony culture.

Word has been received from Thurlow Bros., the largest growers and exhibitors of poenies on the continent, that they will ship a refrigerator car of flowers from their beds, near Boston, to London for the exhibition.

T. C. Thurlow's Sons, Inc., West Newbury, Mass., offer a special prize for twelve varieties of peonies, two blooms of each.

Three prizes will be given for this section, which will belong to the advanced amateur class, and will be staged under No. 36.

First prize will be either a Katharine Havemeyer or Edwin C. Shaw; a Cherry Hill or a James Boys for a second prize, and a Nymphaea or Pride of Essex for a third prize.

These varieties are rated very high in the symposium, and are among the very best introduced by the Thurlow company.

ONLY OFFICIALS ENJOY LUXURY

Bourgeoisie, as in Czarist Days, Travel in One-Horse Cabs.

MOSCOW, June 4.—For all the troubles of the revolution, life in Russia is reverting to about the same general plans as under the rule of the czars, according to the statement of old residents of Moscow. There is, however, a complete rearrangement of classes at the top and the bottom of the social scale with the bourgeoisie still safely placed in the middle.

Merchants and others of the bourgeois class, who escaped the red terror, have again become merchants or taken on pursuits similar to those they followed under the czar. The less fortunate nobility, except its few members who have become bourgeois, now occupies the lowest rung in the economic ladder. The revolutionary workmen who are employed in high official positions, occupy the privileged positon that once belonged to the nobility.

Conditions Reversed.

The workingmen, who once walked, ride in the automobiles that formerly belonged to the nobility, while the nobility now walk, but the bourgeoisie, just as always, rides in "droshkies," or one-horse cabs. Less fortunate workingmen, who are not officially employed, live on a scale even less bountiful than they did under the czar.

It is not only in this arrangement of classes that the similarity of Russia today and before the war is becoming more pronounced daily. "Do as you please, but don't bother with politics," was the general creed of Russian life under the old regime. Since free trade has been restored, the creed of the Soviet regime might be expressed in the same words.

If one did bother with politics under the old regime, the old secret police got him and did with him just about as they pleased. If one today opposes openly the Communist oligarchy which now rules Russia, its secret police get him, and he has no recourse. In neither case was or is there any freedom of the press or real freedom of speech.

Must Meet Secretly.

Just as before the revolution, persons desiring today to form political parties in opposition to the government now meet in secret places and speak in hushed whispers.

Persons who have recently fallen into the hands of the "state political department," as the successor to the "cheka" is known, declared that, just as this is nothing but the Cheka in a reduced form, so was the Cheka nothing other than an outgrowth of the czar's "Okraina," or secret police. In fact, many of the principal operatives of these institutions have served in their same positions throughout the three changes of the name.

FINDS WOUNDED ITALIAN DYING ON OAKVILLE ROAD

Oakville, June 4.—At 11:30 tonight an unknown man, thought to be an Italian, was found crawling through the grass bordering the sixth concession sideroad, near the Oakville Golf Club. He was covered with blood, and had a bullet wound in his head.

The discovery was made by George Joyce, who lives north of the town. Mr. Joyce was motoring home at the time, and noticed a hat lying in the middle of the road.

Getting out to investigate, Mr. Joyce just heard the man moving in the grass, and then saw him trying to rise to his feet.

Going to the man's assistance, Mr. Joyce was surprised to find him covered with blood and dust. The dying man was very weak and unable to speak.

Chief Kerr of Oakville was notified, and went immediately to the scene, but the man died before his arrival. The body was removed to Oakville.

Over $60 was found in the man's pockets, but no clue of identification was contained in his pockets or on his clothing.

At a late hour tonight he was still unidentified.

TELEGRAMS ARE READ

TORONTO, June 3.—The telegrams that passed between G. C. Porter, the Telegram's Winnipeg correspondent, and editors of that paper were read at the Huston investigation on its resumption by John A. MacIntosh, commissioner, today.

D. L. Maccary, K.C., for the Telegram, objected to their being produced, claiming that the judgment of the appellate division left the matter still open, not disclosing which was relative, but the commission ruled that all were relevant, and permitted them to be read.

Following the reading of the telegrams Major A. C. Lewis was called to the stand.

REPORTS EARLY WHEAT AFFECTED

BLENHEIM, June 4.—That it is not always best to sow wheat early in the fall of the year some of the farmers in this district are finding out to their cost this year. A number who were in the lead in sowing last fall are now finding that the wheat that gave good promise a few weeks ago is now very badly affected by the fly that attacks in the joint.

A. I. Huffman, ex-reeve of Harwich, is reported to have to plough up 20 acres on account of this. Some others have smaller fields that will have to be dealt with in the same way or be satisfied with a small return. It is thought, however, that the percentage of the acreage sown here will not be large.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 5.—Traction stocks this morning resumed their position at the head of the list of active stocks on the local stock exchange, with Mackay and Canadian General Electric next in order of activity. Toronto Railway, the mos tactive on this list, was likewise the strongest, with sales reported as high as 72¼, the close at 72 showing a net gain of 2⅝ points. Revival of the report of a favorable clean-up deal with the city is given as the cause for strength in this stock. Brazilian gained ½ at 48½, with Mackay also ½ up at 95¼. Bread and milk stocks were lower, Canadian Bread losing 1¼ at 33 and City Dairy 2 points at 123. Maple Leaf Milling continued its decline of Friday, odd lots today going at 120, a 5-point drop. General Electric was steadier, selling this morning between 77 and 76, with the close at 77, a net gain of ½ for the morning.

MONTREAL STOCKS

Montreal, June 5.—The local stock exchange was not particularly active this morning, and only a few of the leaders were traded in. Toronto Railway was one of the most active issued and advanced 3 points to 72¼. The second preferred of British Empire Steel was also strong, registering a ¾-point gain to 35¾. Riordon was lightly traded in at 9¾, ¼ below Friday's close. Montreal Power was steady and unchanged at 90¾. The flour stocks came in for some attention. St. Lawrence Flour, for the first time in some weeks, was in demand, and the price rose to a little better than 82. Demand for Ogilvie was noticed, and the common stock rose to a new high record at $240 a share, while the preferred sold at $113. Steel of Canada was also somewhat of a feature. The stock was moderately active, and the price slipped off to 74½, compared with the recent high at around 76. The pulp and paper shares were on the easy side. General Electric made a new low mark at 75, but later recovered to 76.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

New York, June 5.—Movements of oils, prominent industrials and rails were conflicting during the morning. Tobaccos and merchandising shares were equally unsettled. Rubber, textile and food specialties improved on pool operations. Vanadium was included among the heavy steels, with an extension of the early setback in Midvale, and Dupont cancelled the greater part of its early gain of 9¾ points. Lake Erie and Western common and preferred again represented the stronger rails with Canadian Pacific and Delaware and Hudson, but transportations as a class were lower. Call money opened at 4¾ per cent, easing to 4½ per cent before noon.

1:30 p.m.—Persistent selling of Mexican Petroleum, Baldwin, Studebaker and the independent steels offset the beneficial effects of the further reduction in call money rates to 3½ per cent, and although bullish efforts persisted in a handful of stocks, the main tendency was downward in the early afternoon.

Chicago, June 5.—Ideal weather for the ripening of harvest fields in the Southwest led to general selling of wheat today during the early part of the board of trade sessoin. The slowness with which wheat that has accumulated in Chicago was moved out tended likewise to depress values, and so did deliveries here this morning of 130,000 bushels of wheat on June contracts.

Corn and oats reflected the weakness of wheat, and oats touched the lowest prices yet this season. After opening ⅛c to ⅜c off, the corn market continued to descend.

Oats started ⅛c to ⅜c down for July at 36⅞@37⅛c, and later underwent a further sag.

INTIMATES BIG DIVIDENDS FOR FORD MOTOR COMPANY

New York, June 5. — (Canadian Press.)—Two fifteen per cent cash dividends may be expected by the stockholdrs of the Ford Motor Company of Canada during 1922, it is predicted in a special dispatch to the Wall Street Journal from Detroit. The approach of June 15, the date on which the company last year paid a 15 per cent cash dividend, has led to much speculation as to this year's situation, the dispatch declares.

"It is expected that results for the current fiscal year, ending July 31, will show material improvement over the preceding year." The Wall Strret Journal continues: "The company has maintained an almost uniform production of more than 200 cars a day since December, 1921, the greater part of the time turning out 225 a day, while from December, 1920, to December, 1921, production averaged about 150 a day.

The increase in the current fiscal year, it is estimated, will bring the total output near to 60,000 cars against 46,832 in the preceding fiscal year. On the estimated 60,000 production, the paper declares, there should be a net profit of about $4,000,000. "The company has no prescribed dividend policy," says the dispatch. "Nothing official has been given out, but on the basis of past performances at least two 15 per cent cash distributions in 1922 are expected."

STRATFORD ROTARY CLUB CHARTERED

Special to London Advertiser.

STRATFORD, June 4.—The Stratford Rotary Club has been chartered and duly launched upon its career of service. Presentation of the charter was made on behalf of the International Rotary by Rotarian Russell Kelly, president of the Hamilton Rotary Club, whose active interest in the inauguration of the Rotary in Stratford is due.

Mr. Kelly, in presenting the charter, reviewed briefly the aims and aspirations of Rotary, and the charter was received by President Dave Wright in a speech that showed that the spirit of the Rotarians has not been misunderstood.

Mr. Wright emphasized that the undertaking of a Rotary Club for Stratford had been proceeded with only after deliberate and careful consideration, and he was convinced that there was room for such a club here. Weekly Rotary luncheons will be held, commencing Thursday of next week, in the chamber of commerce.

A number of sub-contractors employed on the construction of the new addition to the Collegiate Institute are said to be threatening to issue liens against the building, and Chairman Smith of the board of education fears that if litigation ensues the school may be closed. Some time since the board handed over a check for $53,000 to the main contractor, leaving only about $3,000 in the hands of the trustees to meet any claims that may be presented.

TRAVELERS TO HOLD BIG PICNIC

A monster picnic for all the members of the United Commercial Travellers in Western Ontario will be held at Port Stanley on July 15. This was decided on at a meeting of the U. T. C. on Saturday afternoon.

It is the aim of the organization to make the picnic an international affair, and to invite members of the organization from Cleveland, Detroit and other American cities, but this has not been definitely decided as yet. The matter will be discussed at a meeting of the travelers on Friday evening of this week.

J. P. Doidge has been chosen chairman of the picnic committee, and will bring up several matters in connection with the celebration at the next meeting.

SICK SOLES.
'Tis the soles of the people, I keep in view,
For I am the doctor of boot and shoe.
I sole the living, but not the dead—
With the best of leather, wax and thread
I can sew on a sole, or nail it fast,
Do a good job and make it last!
There is nothing snide about what I do.
Doubt not this—my work proves it's true.
I can give you a lift in this changeable life.
Not only you, but your children and wife.
A good many patients have come to my door,
Worn out, run down and feeling quite sore.
Though I don't use poultice, plaster or pill,

Life and Character Reading.

JUNE 5.

It is necessary for parents to be exceedingly careful of children born on this date and under the sign of governing it. These children will become ill from no apparent cause. They should be carefully guarded against looking for evil, as this soon grows into vague imaginings of evil and error everywhere. This tendency is seldom eradicated in later years, producing the most unhappy results in an old age full of suspicion and distrust.

The governing sign of this date is Gemini, the sign of the Twins Castor and Pollux, giving persons born under it a dual personality which makes them have very contradictory natures. The governing planet is Mercury, the winged messenger, and the birthstone is an aquamarine.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE. BY AHREN

I. O. D. E. SELECTS NEW PRESIDENT

Mrs. I. E. Doolittle of Toronto Will Head National Chapter.

VANCOUVER, June 4.—(By Canadian Press.)—Mrs. I. E. Doolittle of Toronto was elected president of the National Chapter, and Quebec City was selected as the scene of the 1923 convention, at the closing sessions of the annual meeting of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire here on Saturday. Most of the delegates left on the night boat for Victoria, where they will be entertained by Capital City members.

A resolution urging the co-operation of the Great War Veterans' Association in the fight against the circulation of Hearst publications in Canada was presented, and it was also decided to ask the aid of the Daughters of the American Revolution and Daughters of the British Empire in the United States in this campaign. A news item to the effect that Premier Lloyd George had entertained Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst at luncheon in London was the subject of heated discussion.

Joan Arnoldi, Toronto, moved a resolution of protest against the empire's premier "taking this step towards one whose doctrines assume such flagrant and insulting an attitude toward all things Briitsh."

This motion, however, was withdrawn, as it is considered that such a report should be verified before the order could take any action in the matter.

Presentation of an illuminated address to Miss Arnoldi expressing the "sincere affection and loyalty of the Daughters of the Empire to their retiring president, after two years of oustanding service in that office," was made in behalf of the National Chapter by Mrs. Graham Thompson, Toronto.

HELD ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Special to London Advertiser.

CHATHAM, June 3. — William Dupuis, who drove the car in which Charles Edward Nanson met his death in a distressing accident about one month ago, was today placed under arrest by P. C. Glover of the city police, as he was leaving St. Joseph's Hospital on a charge "That he did cause the death of Charles Edward Nanson."

He was formally arraigned before Magistrate Arnold this afternoon, and the crown authorities will consider an application for bail.

On the evidence submitted at the inquest, inquiring into the death of Nanson, the jury returned a verdict, alleging that Dupuis was responsible for the accident. On the strength of the evidence given the above charge has been laid.

ITALIAN IS SHOT, CAST FROM CAR

OAKVILLE, June 4.—Late tonight an unknown man, thought to be an Italian, was found crawling through the grass bordering the sixth concession sideroad, near the Oakville Gold Club. He was covered with blood, and had a bullet wound in his head. The discovery was made by George Joyce, who lives north of the town.

The dying man was very weak and unable to speak.

Chief Kerr of Oakville was notified, and went immediately to the scene, but the man died before his arrival. The body was removed to Oakville.

Over $60 was found in the man's clothing, but no clue of identification was contained in his pockets or on his clothing.

80 PERISH WHEN STEAMER SINKS

BUENOS AIRES, June 4.—The steamer Villa Franca sank today off Hohenau, Paraguay, following an explosion, and it is believed 80 persons perished, according to a dispatch to La Nacion.

The steamer had on board tourists from Iguazu Falls. The explosion occurred at 1:40 o'clock this morning. It is said the vessel sank so quickly that the passengers had no time to dress or to seek life belts.

MONTREAL BOY TAKES OWN LIFE

MONTREAL, June 4.—After his father had insisted either on his getting work or attending a school higher than the one he was going to, Raoul Bachard, 16, of Eleventh avenue, Montreal North, placed the barrel of a rifle against his temple and pulled the trigger here this morning. He died a few minutes later.

Suspends Sentence On Boyish Husband.

GALT, June 4.—The 14-year-old husband, who a week ago pleaded not guilty to breaking into and entering the home of Morris Siegal last December and stealing liquor, on Saturday changed his plea to guilty, and as a result faced a charge of perjury for stating at the previous hearing that he did not break into the house. However, he was allowed to go on suspended sentence on both charges, the magistrate taking into consideration the fact of his age, that he had spent a week at the Coombe home at Hespeler, and that he has a wife to support.

SAYS COMPLEXION CAUSED FAILURE

ST. THOMAS, June 4.—A sallow complexion was blamed for his downfall by a vagrant brought into the police station by Detective Kast late Saturday night.

Alexander MacIntosh, who appeared uncertain as to his age, home and previous occupation, was found by the officer clinging to a freight car in the Michigan Central yards. He said that his sallow complexion had always made him unpopular with the opposite sex, and to this he attributed his lack of a home. Sergeant J. Geddes pointed out that if he were unable to keep himself he would hardly be able to support a wife.

PRESTON STOREKEEPER ROBBED

Joseph Warden Held Up by Unknown Strangers.

Special to London Advertiser.

GALT, June 4.—Hold-up men visited the town of Preston last night and made a good haul. Shortly before midnight, just as he was preparing to close up for the night, Joseph Worden, who runs a grocery store at the east end of King street, in that town, had a young man come into the store and ask for a package of cigarettes. Mr. Worden turned to get them, and as he faced the stranger again was confronted by a gun in the customer's hands, with the demand that he show where the cash drawer war. Mr. Worden had no other alternative but to obey, and the hold-up men cleaned out the till, and backed out of the store, and with two accomplices, one of whom was on guard, whisked away in a Ford car. It is estimated that the hold-up netted the robbers between $200 and $250, the day's receipts.

It is reported that a Ford car with three strangers had been seen in the vicinity of Worden's store on two or three occasions during the evening. The police were immediately notified and messages were sent broadcast, but a good description of the men was not obtained, and there is not much to work on.

Upon his return on Saturday from the capital to spend the week-end at his home here, William Elliott, M. P., announced that on Friday he and President S. L. Clark of the board of trade had interviewed Hon. Charles Murphy, postmaster-general, in regard to the purchase of the site of the old Imperial Hotel for a new postoffice building, which is badly needed, as the present quarters are taxed to the limit. The postmaster-general promised to recommend to the minister of public works the purchase of this property with the idea of building at a later date. Photographs of the property in question were submitted to the postmaster-general, and it was emphasized that now a branch of the customs department was in a separate building, and it was advocated that in the new building the postoffice, customs department and Canadian National Railways and Express offices should be accommodated. Postoffice inspectorc will now have to inspect the site, which is a splendid one, and practically opposite the present postoffice.

ORANGE ORDER ATTENDS SERVICE AT ST. THOMAS

Rev. J. R. Turnbull Delivers Interesting Address at Center Street Baptist Church.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, June 4.—Declaring that while man frequently offers an excuse for not accepting Christ, he cannot give a valid reason, Rev. J. R. Turnbull delivered an interesting sermon at Center Street Baptist Church this afternoon to about 500 members of the Orange Order. About 300 brethren from the Forest City joined with their local friends at the annual parade. Three fife and drum bands conducted the parade to and from the church.

Mr. Turnbull used as a theme for his remarks the words: "What think ye of Christ," Matthew 22:42. This question, he said, was one that must be answered by every person desirous of being a Christian. He said that it matters not whether a man accepted Christ's teachings, it was his belief in Christ that counted.

GARAGE WRECKED BY EXPLOSIONS

HAMILTON, June 4.—Two terrific explosions which tore gaping holes in the roof of a garage, shattered almost every window within a radius of half a block, and startled from their sleep citizens who reside more than a mile from the scene, preceded a blaze which destroyed a $1,500 garage and a $5,800 truck at midnight Saturday. The garage is located a short distance from the street, near the corner of Cannon and Cathcart streets. The explosions were caused by the bursting of two oxy-acetylene tanks which were hurled through the roof. Four men in the garage escaped without injury.

Guelph Merchants Discover Money Missing After "B lessing" by Gypsies

Special to London Advertiser.

GUELPH, June 4.—A band of gypsies, comprising about 15 people altogether, arrived on the outskirts of the city Friday evening on the Eramosa Road, where they spent the night, and Saturday morning they proceeded to enter the city and some of them, it is alleged, had a very profitable morning.

Several of the women entered the cigar store of James Hillis on Upper Wyndham street. Mr. Hillis went to answer the telephone, leaving a small bag containing a sum of money amounting to $16 lying on the counter. When he returned the money was missing and also one of the gypsies, but the others still remained in the store.

Blesses Money.

Not long after this L. N. E. Lafontaine came down to the police station and stated that he was just $20 short in his cash as the result of a visit to his place of business of some of the gypsies. They adopted an altogether different method of doing business with Mr. Lafontaine. One of the gypsies said she would like to bless his money, and he promptly pulled out a roll of bills from his pocket.

She asked him to take some silver out of another pocket so that she could bless that, too, and as she took the bills in her hand she opened them up, in order to do the job properly, and then she neatly folded them up again, and he returned the roll to his pocket, but in a short time discovered that there was $20 missing.

Still later in the morning, R. B. Robson came over to the police station and reported that he was out the sum of $9 as the result of a visit made to his place of business on MacDonnell street. He claims that this is a case of straight theft, and that when one of the women succeeded in getting the cashier to come out into the showroom another went into the office and deliberately tapped the till.

Finally Plead Guilty.

When the two women were held by the chief and a charge of theft laid against them, the other members of the party were not long in coming to the rescue. They at first denied that there was anything wrong, but when they were formally brought before the magistrate, and Mary and Carmella Markovitch charged with the theft of the money, they saw a jail sentence staring them in the face and decided to plead guilty. They agreed to repay the money which was stolen, and in addition to this, each one of the women was fined $25 and costs, which was promptly paid. They were then ordered to leave the city at once.

FORMER LONDONER DIES

Mrs. Marcella Lewis Succumbs in Windsor Hospital.

TILBURY, June 4.—This community received with deep regret this week the news that Mrs. Marcella Lewis, widow of the late Harry Lewis, a well-known contractor, had passed away in Hotel Dieu, Windsor, following a protracted illness. She had been in that institution since early spring in the hope that constant supervision by skilled attendance might effect a restoration of her health, which had suffered a sad collapse more than two years ago.

Her husband predeceased her five years. No family survives. Two sisters, Mrs. Pettee, in the Southern States, and Mrs. J. W. Laird of Detroit, and two brothers, William and John Brophy of Detroit, are the bereaved relatives.

Mrs. Lewis was born in London, Ont., and lived there until her marriage, when she moved to Tilbury.

The remains were brought to this town via M. C. R. on Saturday morning for celebration of requiem mass in St. Francis Roman Catholic Church by Monsignor Parent. Thence they were conveyed to London via C. P. R. for interment in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery.

PROMINENT RESIDENT OF TILBURY DIES SUDDENLY

W. J. Taylor Succumbs to Heart Attack While Motoring.

Special to London Advertiser.

TILBURY, June 4.—W. J. Taylor, one of Tilbury's most highly esteemed citizens died suddenly from heart failure Friday evening. He had driven his auto out to Tilbury East Township where he owns a couple of farms, and after pulling some rhubarb at one of the farms that is worked by Robert Foreman, he started the car to return to town.

In the car with him were two nieces, and when he stopped the car, which had only gone a few lengths and started to get out, one of the girls asked him if he were sick. He replied that he was, and very sick.

He fell over as he was getting out of the car, and was lifeless in a moment. Medical attendance was instantly summoned, but all attempts to revive him were futile.

He had been a resident of the town of Tilbury for the past eight years, and had operated a garage here in addition to overseeing his farms in Tilbury East. He was well known as a bean growing expert throughout Essex and Kent counties, was 61 years of age and was born at Morpeth, Ontario.

He leaves his widow and one son, Clarence. He was a member of the Methodist Church and one of the strong supports of the local congregation.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon and will be under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity in which he was an officer. Interment will be in Stewart Cemetery.

AWAIT HYDRO IN LOBO TOWNSHIP

Long-Delayed Power Contract May Be Signed in Week's Time.

Special to London Advertiser.

KOMOKA, June 4.—Besides having a population that is so progressive as to want hydro power on its farms and in the homes of its villages, Lobo Township is possessed of a council that has proven itself the most conscientious that ever guarded the interests of ratepayers.

Several months ago about 70 farmers and villagers signed applications for hydro power. Houses and other buildings were wired, fixtures were bought, motors were installed, and all the equipment necessary was procured.

It was then left to the township council to sign a contract with the hydro commission before the commission would turn on the electricity to make homes brilliant and wheels turn on the farms.

So, representative delegations from the applicants, composed of the following: John Graham, James Stewart, C. Waugh, D. Matheson and P. A. McIntyre, waited on the council several times to importune the council to sign a contract with the commission.

Delays Action.

The council received the contract, but did not sign it, delaying action until the applicants became highly indignant. Every day they entered their houses they saw the hanging wires asking bulbs and power.

Then a week ago Reeve James Campbell sent out a notice of a special meeting, stating to the councillors that the question of the hydro contract would be dealt with. The date set was Saturday evening, June 3.

A lively tilt with the council was anticipated by the applicants, because it was generally rumored that the council was unalterably opposed to the signing of the contract. Their expectations were right.

At eight o'clock a majority of the applicants assembled at the Kokoma Village Hall to attend the meeting. They had invited from London, since they were proponents of hydro, Phillip Pocock, member of the public utility commission, and A. O. Hunt, assistant public utilities commission manager, to aid them in the debate.

The council arrived close to nine o'clock. Its personnel consists of James Campbell, reeve, William Chapman, deputy reeve, Herbert Steele, L. A. Leckie, and D. Gray, councillors.

Concerning the hydro contract the council had felt, he said, "that there were things in it that we didn't understand and don't understand yet." They owed an obligation, they thought, to the ratepayers.

Balk at Collection.

The sticking point had been around, he explained, the part of the clause which had bound the council to be responsible for the collection of the hydro rate, flat rate and all. They thought that it wouldn't be just to the remaining ratepayers of Lobo Township to be asked to shoulder, nor be liable for the non-payment of any of the applicants.

"We have been unjustly criticized for the delay, but what we have been trying to do is merely to safeguard your interests, since you are ratepayers."

He told the meeting that the council had taken the contract as presented to them to J. M. McEvoy, lawyer of London, for his advice on it, wanting to know to what extent it bound the councillors and the ratepayers, for the collection of the hydro rate.

Later the council transferred to the London firm of McPherson & Perrin for advice. They wanted to know, said the reeve, "why they were asked to sign a contract that is worthless, which it would be if it didn't bind in the collecting of the money.

"We felt we ought to have something to protect the interests of the ratepayers if we were going to sign a contract like that handed down to us.

Not All On Surface.

"I believe there is more in that contract than what shows on the surface. It favors the commission in all ways. The councillors' solicitors had given the council an agreement which they would ask the applicants to sign before they signed the contract. This agreement bound the applicants to the payment of all the charges, so that the burden of the payment rested on the applicants should one refuse to pay instead of on the municipality.

"I feel we ought to have some guarantee that the money will be paid by the applicants," declared the reeve.

"Do I understand you to say," said D. Matheson, one of the applicants, rising, "that if we sign your contract you will sign the hydro contract?"

The reeve didn't have time to answer this before another was asked him.

The reeve got a chance. "No," he said.

Thomas Turnbull, another applicant then said: "Come on, tell us."

Whereupon Councillor Herbert Steele stood up, and after advising the applicants to keep cool, told them he was the recipient of a letter from Mr. McPherson, the lawyer.

Someone in the audience then questioned Steel: "Is this advice you received from the solicitor to be paid for by the ratepayers of Lobo Township?"

Steele, emphatically: "Yes."

Ratepayers To Pay.

He qualified his "yes" then with the remark that he, at least, wouldn't pay for it.

This last was greeted with a stamping of feet, cheers, jeers and catcalls.

Somebody shouted out: "Everybody in the audience that wants to see that letter stand up."

With one accord the audience took to its feet.

Steele said that McPherson had advised the council the contract should exist.

Matheson said: "It has been given to me offhand that part of the agreement you are asking us to sign was prepared outside."

The reeve replied: "There has been too much of this offhand business going on. I know of all sorts of petty things that were done."

Someone shouted: "You sure do."

The meeting continued in this tenor or worse for some time. Steele's letter was the object around which contention was rife. He refused flatly to read it, or tell what was in it. Then Thomas Turnbull said they know what was in the letter, anyway, and Steele asked if they knew what was in it why did they want it read?

Development brought out that the reeve hadn't seen any of the applicants' cards; that he himself would pay for the letter from McPherson, and that it was of no avail to argue.

Mr. Pocock Speaks.

Mr. Pocock was asked to speak.

He said there was very little danger of any of the ratepayers being asked to pay anything not paid by the applicants. "I cannot conceive of any of you gentlemen signing a contract and going back on it, but if he should he will certainly be called up by the commission and made pay for it as sure as shooting."

He told how hydro has advanced in London from the start, when there had been opposition, until now when there were 12,000 customers.

"A lot of these 12,000 are men who don't own their own houses, and who have a hard row to hoe, and we don't have any great losses, possibly $100 or so from some scalawag who left town, a mere bagatelle."

Sign Similar Contracts.

Three hundred municipalities had hydro in Ontario, had signed a similar contract, he said, and he had never heard any kick from them. Mr. Pocock dilated on the advantages of hydro and the benefit it had wrought to other townships in the immediate vicinity of Lobo.

A. O. Hunt also spoke, saying that he did not see any reason why the council should refuse to sign.

After all this the council put their heads together for a few minutes, and the reeve announced that they couldn't sign at once, but they would decide at their next regular meeting a week from Monday next.

A banquet in the Komoka Hotel, which the council and applicants both attended, and at which they shook hands, gave a roseate view to the prospect of hydro in Lobo in the near future.

Opens New Hotel At Windsor Tuesday

GEORGE H. O'NEIL.

WHEN George H. O'Neil was proprietor of the Tecumseh House in London some years ago he was esteemed by all citizens for his public spiritedness and his keen interest in the promotion of clean sport.

His capacity as a businessman gave him a leading place in the life of the city, so that when he left to join the United Hotels Company of America as their Canadian general manager many friends predicted for him a very successful future.

Under his guidance the concern's hotels now take a leading place in America. To the King Edward in Toronto, Royal Connaught in Hamilton, Clifton at Niagara Falls, Ontario, is now to be added the Prince Edward Hotel of Windsor, which will be opened to the public on Tuesday, June 6.

With the completion of the Mount Royal in Montreal next autumn, the company will have as fine a chain of hotels as can be found on the continent, and under Mr. O'Neil's management the service will be everything that patrons of first-class hotels could desire.

MUST BUILD TO SECURE GRANT

Lack of Accommodation Makes New Building Necessary.

Special to London Advertiser.

BLENHEIM, June 4.—The school board here have been notified by the continuation school inspector that unless they build a new school there will be no grants from the department of education this year and they are required to give immediate assurance that definite action will be taken with this end in view or the 1922 grants will not be forthcoming.

The matter of building a continuation school has been before the board for several years. They went so far a few years ago in the way of meeting the recommendations of the inspector as to purchase a site which is situated on the property in the vicinity of the skating rink. Owing to the high cost of material the matter has been delayed, but now it has been put up to them to get busy.

It is understood that on Monday night the board will confer with the town council as to getting in shape for proceeding and give them an understand of the situation and inform them that the board will be under obligation to approach them in the near future to provide the necessary funds for a new building.

At the present time the public and continuation schools are in the one building and the rooms are said to be filled. The primary classes are provided for and have been for several years in the Universalist Church which the board rented for that purpose. It is thought that if a continuation school is built there will be sufficient scholars from town and surrounding country to require three teachers. The board has already a site near the skating rink and which they purchased several years ago.

LINER MONTCALM REACHES QUEBEC

MONTREAL, June 4.—According to advices received here today the Canadian Pacific Steamship Company's liner Montcalm was pulled off the sand bar at Champlain, where she had been ashore since 5:30 Friday afternoon, about 5 o'clock this morning.

At high tide a concerted effort was made by five of the most powerful tugs on the St. Lawrence and this was successful.

General examination below was made of the ship by Captain J. O. Walsh, superintendent of the C. P. steamships, when it was found that the Montcalm had suffered little apparent injury, although some of her bow plates had been sprung enough to make her take a little water. Her grounding is said to have been occasioned by the jamming of the rudder.

The Montcalm proceeded under her own steam to Quebec, where she arrived at 11 o'clock this morning, and where most of the passengers were transferred to the Metagama and the Canada, which at once sailed for Liverpool. One hundred and fifty-two who were left behind will sail on the Donaldson Line steamer Cassandra or the Minnedosa.

The Montcalm was unloaded and will be sent to the Davie Shipbuilding drydocks at Levis for a thorough survey, and such repairs as may be found necessary.

Sell Serbian Women As Wives For $20 If Found Perfect Physically

BELGRADE, June 4.—"Mr. Markovitch, I like your daughter. If you can guarantee that she hasn't a wooden leg, one eye or false hair, how much?"

"It's a bargain."

Mr. Markovitch's daughter leaves the paternal fireside arm in arm with her new possessor, and becomes automatically a wife. Just like that. Mr. Markovitch counts his dinars.

So says Dr. Charles L. Outland, who returned yesterday from the Fetch country of Serbia, on the Albanian border.

"A woman is rated at one-tenth the value of a cow," he added. "You can buy a fairly good looking, healthy wife for 1,500 dinars, about $20 in Canadian currency. Arrangements financially have to be made with father, but once you buy a wife she's yours for ever and ever. There are no divorce laws in Petch. Of course, you can resell her, if she doesn't make good.

"If a girl happens to have some defect, physically or mentally, the prospective wooer lowers his bid, maybe down as low as 900 dinars or about $13. If the family has pawned off a bride as a perfect piece of feminine goods when she has a wooden leg, the next day the husband returns the bride to her home and collects his money.

"Turkish girls are not allowed to go to school, and in the city of Petch of 25,000 inhabitants, only six Turkish girls are enrolled in classes.

"Since the buyer of women or girls never sees their faces he is taking a big chance in paying cold cash. Usually he requires a written statement from the girl's family that she is perfect or her defects are enumerated, such as deaf, eyesight poor, limps a little and so on.

TILBURY PIONEER PASSES AFTER LENGTHY ILLNESS

Special to London Advertiser.

TILBURY, June 3.—John Richardson, 96 years old, died Thursday evening at his home on Fort street, after several weeks illness from acute bronchitis following influenza. Until that time he was known throughout this district for his astounding physical robustness.

He was born in Roxboroughshire, Scotland, and emigrated in early youth to the province of Quebec, where he lived for several years. He and his wife whose maiden name was Margaret Stewart, moved to Tilbury East with their young family when this district was a region of swamp and bush. Later he acted as reeve of Tilbury, and up to the last election was a conspicuous figure at Liberal conventions and gatherings.

Mr. Richardson engaged in various occupations in his lengthy career before moving to Tilbury seventeen years ago. He operated a large farm, conducted a general store at Valetta, ran a cheese factory and manufactured pearl ash in the pioneer days. He was a staunch Presbyterian.

The surviving members of his family are three sons, Henry, of Detroit, George, of Alberta, and Benjamin, of Portland, Oregon, and three daughters, Mrs. B. Stacey, and Mrs. Logie of town, and Mrs. D. McAllister of Comber. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon with interment in Stewart Cemetery, Tilbury East.

TOLMIE MAY HEAD CONSERVATIVES

OTTAWA, June 3.—A strong rumor is current in parliamentary circles today to the effect that Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Conservative for Victoria and ex-federal medical officer of health, may become leader of the Conservative party in British Columbia.

Interviewed by Canadian Press today, Dr. Tolmie admitted that he had been approached on the matter, but had at present no statement to make.

Another name prominently mentioned in gossip here is that Hon. H. H. Stevens, member for Vancouver Centre. He was minister of trade and commerce in the Meighen cabinet.

As he was passing a team of horses one of them kicked at him, striking his hand and lacerating it so badly that seven stitches were required to close the wound.
