Newsboy, Among First To Apply, Is Disappointed Through Error.

Hope gave way to realization for the small depositors in the late Home Bank this morning, when payment of the relief afforded by the federal government commenced at the market branch of the Bank of Montreal. Only individual depositors, whose accounts did not exceed $500 were eligible, and long before the doors of the bank opened some of these were in line, fearful lest the funds give out, before the year allotted for payment is past.

The bank was carefully prepared to handle the rush. A room had been specially fitted up where the depositors could fill out the forms provided by the liquidators, which absolved them and the federal government from all further responsibility in the matter. Six clerks were on duty here.

After filling out the forms, and being identified the depositor went to one of the six wickets where payments were being made and secured his money. Many compliments were his money. London district felt the touch o mystery yesterday when a silent air man, racing to Montreal on a supposedly secret mission was forced bring his machine to the ground at Talbotville through the breakage of the motorpulse, a device which forces the gas feed into the engine.

Declining to answer all questions, the man left little knowledge of the nature of his mission, but one who was talking to him said afterwards that he had gathered that he was an American emissary to Canada in the international war on liquor traffic.

The reticent pilot was accompanied by his wife and they made a hurried trip to this city in an effort to secure the required part. If You Have Heard Suggestions of Doubt You Should Attend Tomorrow Night's Meeting and Demand Full Explanations.

The progress of any undertaking which is based on faith and enterprise, usually carries in its wake an undercurrent of doubt and misgiving. It is to be regretted that this is true to some degree of London's new hotel plan, but it is not surprising, partly because human nature operates that way and partly because there are individuals who see in the erection of a fine new hotel a competitive danger to their immediate business profits.

PROOF OF SINCERITY.

The open air meeting in the federal square tomorrow night is a clear-cut answer to any whisperings of misgiving. It is convincing proof of sincerity on the part of those who are sponsoring the new hotel, because the whole city, regardless of opinion, may attend this meeting, air any doubts, ask any questions, demand explanation of every detail and guarantee and safeguard of the plan from begin ning to end. The group who are opposing the hotel as a competitor, have been specially invited to attend the meeting and state their arguments.

IF YOU DOUBT-ASK YOUR QUESTIONS.

Nothing could be more open and above board than this meeting, and nothing could better prove that the hotel plan is generous and sincere. It is to be hoped that any citizens (and The Advertiser has received letters of inquiry from one or two) who have listened to suggestions of suspicion or doubt will attend this meeting and demand direct answers to the questions they have in mind. answers will be there-straightforward answers from straightforward men who are working to see the city grow,

In spite of this his selling prices came down rapidly, while those of others from whom he had to purchase made the descent very slowly and with a stub-

The agriculturists themselves will admit that, but it does not solve the problem of how they are going to pay them when they have such a small voice in naming the price at which they will sell their produce.

We'll Keep Warm

Just warnin' folks to keep their peace and lay no trouble on their soul, for there be lots of things to burn if you be runnin' short of coal.

If miners keep on strikin' long and heavin' out no coal at all, no doubt the folks will be well scared when comes around the chilly fall. And if the winter comes on too and no more coal be comin' through, they'll be a meetin' in the town to figure out what things

So I've been thinkin' on these things, and of the days with little fuel, resolvin' not to lose my calm about the hut becomin' cool,

For there's some things that I will burn when comes the chilly winter time, to throw a ray of heat about to warm the joints upon

One neighbor has a wooden fence, of timber cut from ancient tree, to keep the boundary of his lot from edgin' down too far toward me. Another has a wooden barn with slabs upon it two foot through, I gaze upon the family axe and plan the wicked things I'll do.

I'll carve the boards from off the fence when falls the first of autumn snow, and reckon that the timber there will keep me for a week or so. That barn should last two months or more, it is a bulky sort of thing, and by the time that barn is gone we'll be quite close to joyous spring.

For days when thaw is in the air and sun is shining in its turn, there be some other things I know to make a fire to crack and Election time may come around and when the politicians shout, there's sure to be great reams of stuff the Tory party sends about. I'll grab the sheafs they send to me, and pile it up quire after quire, quite certain how it's dry enough to kindle me a goodly fire.

Likewise I'll take the bills that come remindin' me of debts I owe, I'll bind them in great parcels too and watch the bundles how they grow. And stores from distant lands away that tempt me sore to buy their truck, I'll save their readin' matter too and heave it in the stove kerchuck.

So don't get worried yet a spell about the shivers or the breeze, or how the cold will smite your jaw and scamper down around your knees. Nor don't go down and raise a fight nor with the coal man pick a row, for we'll be able, so I see, to stoke the kitchen range somehow.-ARK.

"Don't get married while in debt." said United States Senator McKinley "Don't get married until you have some sure and certain way of making a decent living for a family." For nothing would do more to stop divorce and promote the general average of human happiness than for young people to recognize the cold, hard, unromantic fact that for a marriage to be successful it has to be adequately financed.

There is no other such crime as that of teaching people to look upon matrimony solely from a sentimental standpoint, when in reality it is the one thing to whose consideration we need to bring the most good, hard, common sense. Yet to such an extent has the romantic fallacy been carried that if a couple of callow young creatures imagine they are in love public sentiment actually backs them up in getting married, although they may have never a cent with which to pay the butcher and baker and candlestick maker. It is precisely as if we thought that life ended, as a novel does, with the wedding, and that the happy couple would not be hungry for beefsteak and onions by the next mealtime.

No man and woman are in the proper fram of mind to be lovers when they are hungry, and the affection that has stand the wear and tear of shabby clothes and the harass. ment of unpaid bills is pretty apt to soon show signs of frazzling around the edges.

Of course every young man love thinks that there is no sacrifice that he would not be willing to make for the woman he loves. Perhaps if he could make one great. stupendous sacrifice all would well and love would justify itself.

But the sacrifice a man is called upon to make when he marries before he is able to afford a wife are not one grand heroic gesture. They are neverending, sordid, nagging, little sacrifices that sting like a gadfly and get upon his nerves.

TO OUTLINE NEW PLAN FOR AIDING RAILROADS

Important Pronouncement On Canada's Leading Problem May Be Made by King On Saturday Next—Cabinet Now Busy On Matters of Policy in Preparation For Big Meeting in North York.

GOVERNMENT DEALS WITH MANY VACANCIES

By E. C. BUCHANAN.

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent. Ottawa, Sept. 1.—Premier King is completing preparations for his important political pronouncements to be made at the gatherings of his constituents in North York on Saturday. Final decisions are being reached this week in matters of government policy to be discussed on that occasion. The cabinet met today and yesterday, and will hold one or more meetings before the prime minister leaves for North York on Friday.

Confers With Rail Heads. Railway and immigration policies engaged the prime minister today. The heads of the two big railway systems, President Beatty of the C. P. R. and President Sir Henry Thornon of the Canadian National, were in Ottawa today and conferred with him on both the railway question and immigration. A number of the advisers of the railway presidents and the heads of their immigration departments accompanied them. There is still reason to believe that the government has a plan for the betterment of the railway situation, and in all probability it will be outlined by Premier King and Hon. Geo. P. Graham to the North York electors and to the country generally on Saturday. This plan may be one of co-ordination rather than amalgamation. It has been estimated that between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000 a year could be saved to the people of Canada by close co-operation be-tween the two systems. Such a saving, it is suggested, would permit saving, it is suggested, would permit of substantial federal contribution to lower freight rates where heavy transportation costs are an obstacle to industrial prosperity and progress.

"Practical" Education.

When a scout goes after a high school boy, he is equipped with a convincing list of athletes from his college who have found soft landing places out in the big world of finance. Tigers' Star Kicking Half Joins Local Football Club

Irwin Raynor Will Play Under Red, Black and White Banner.

SENIOR BACK LINE

While Sarnia claimed Irwin Raynor etar kicker for the Hamilton Tigers last year, in its bid for the dominion championship, it was discovered last night that not only the Tiger star, but his brother Fred, an outside wing with the Galt intermediates for the past two seasons, were located in London. It's probably a case of mistaken identity with the Sarnians, or they were doing a little premature counting of football eggs that were as yet unhatched.

Added to this good news came a further encouraging announcement from London sughly officials that the first lead of the sughly officials that the lead of the land o London rugby officials that Jack Stirrett, elder brother of Jo Jo Stirrett, and also a former Varsity star half, would return to the gridiron. Stirrett was a sterling open field runner. After sersterling open field runner. After service overseas he played English rugger for Oxford University. He is in law in London this year, and although he has been out of the game for several seasons, is anxious to get into the leather togs again.

This gives London a senior halfback line, with Sandy Somerville, an almost certain starter, Raynor and Stirrett. Jerry Goodman will likely be back in the game again, and last year's half line will all be available, so that London will have reserve halves, which will Raynor is one of the surest kickers in Canadian football and one of the longest booters senior rugby has seen. He broke out into the limelight last year in Hamilton, which has produced some of the greatest kicking halves the Canadian game has boasted.

With two pairs of brothers on the team, "hit my brother and you hit me" will probably be the inspiring motto tacked up in the dresing-room and put into practice outside.

Meantime the census returns in Sarnia will have to be corrected.

In twenty years of baseball in the sociated with one bail club. In those twenty years, from Aug. 30, 1905 when he made his first appearance with Detroit, two days after being purchased from Augusta, until the close of the 1924 season. Ty Cobb played in 2,604 official league games, was at bat 9,938 time, made 3,656 hits, scored 1,941 runs, stole 843 bases, and turned in a grand batting average of .368. In only one year, and that was his first was his batting mark less than .300. In 1905 his mark was .240. His highest batting average was made in 1911—a mark of .420. He batted .410 in 1912 and then went ten years before he was again able to climb into that extraordinary circle. He finished with .401.

Bail players the type of Cobb appear on the horizon only about once in a quarter century. During the twenty years that Ty has been the greatest of all players, there have come to view but few men like him. And they have failed to stay the route. Rogers Hornsby is regarded as the player most likely to fill Ty's shoes. Yet the St. Louis infielder and manager has been at the game for ten years and only in batting has he come to the fore. Hornsby has a ten-year batting mark of .359. Twice has he hit over .400. In 1922, he compiled a mark of .401. Last year was his greatest with .424. Hornsby, nor no other man, has been as fleet as Cobb on the bases. His as fleet as Cobb on the bases. His as fleet as Cobb on the bases. His as against 843 for Cobb over twenty years, which would be approximately 421 for the same length of service.

SEASON PLEASES NAVIGATION FIRM

St. Ignace Had Good Traffic -Loss of Colonial Has No Effect.

The burning of the steamer Colonial which has in the past operated between Port Stanley and Cleveland will not affect the local shipping situation this year according to F. B. Clarke, agent for the Western Re-serve Navigation Company here. Mr. Clarke said today that the effect might be noticeable next season in that the company would have to procure another boat for their lines so that it could be used in event of the Steamer St. Ignace being laid up.
In that case the new boat would be put on the Port Stanley run.

The owners were well pleased with the season which closes on September 13, said Mr. Clarke. The passenger traffic and freight tonnage was better than expected. It was ex-pected that an improved service would be offered next year, though Mr. Clarke said that the present service had been good. Only during the summer did the vessels fail to get in and out of Port Stanley on time and with improved docking facilities schedule could easily be maintained

Mrs. Janisse, who confessed to the crime with which she is charged, according to the testimony of Chief Constable Daniel Thompson, displayed little emotion this morning when Mrs. Adjutant Wallace Bunton, police court matron, and two constables led her into the courtroom. She was again given a seat at her counsel's table.

Mrs. Janisse sat silent throughout the hearing. Only once did she raise her head and that was when Dr. U. O. Durocher identified the clothing worn by McMullin on the night of the shooting. Then a shudder passed over her body, and a sigh was audible in the courtroom. The police matron put her arm around her shoulders and supported her in the box.

CLAIMS OF GLOBE

Former Acting Editor in Letter Again Attacks Attitude of Paper.

Canadian Press Desnatch. Toronto, Sept. 1.-The Globe tomorrow will publish the following letter from John Lewis, former actng editor:

"To the Editor of the Globe: "In your editorial of today you very properly uphold the right of the Globe to express disagreement with the Liberal government or the Liberal party on a question of principle. But this is not the point. I am familiar with the career of the Hon. George Brown, whom you quoted. I can imagine him disagreeing with the Hon. Alexander MacKenzie as the Hon, Alexander MacKenzie as leader of the Liberal party, and speaking out frankly, but I cannot imagine his issuing an order that the Globe must never say a word in favor of MacKenzie or his government of the Liberal party, or a word in criticism of Sir John Macdonald. I cannot imagine him in a general election remaining neutral as between the two parties or vaguely telling the electors to vote for Liberal prin-

"In a general election that is not enough. A choice must be made be-tween men. Mr. Brown and his suc-cessors realized this. No matter how frankly they have disagreed with how frankly they have disagreed with or criticized. Liberal governments, they never hesitated in a general election to say what public men and what party ought to be entrusted with the task of governing the country. And they never, until the election of 1917, nesitated to make their choice for the Liberal party. In 1917 the Globe supported union government under peculiar circumstances such as do not now exist.

under peculiar circumstances such as do not now exist.

"In the next general election the electors must decide for the King government or for a Meighen government. They cannot evade this choice by saying that they are in favor of Liberal principles.

"The Globe is dissatisfied with the King government because it did not protest with sufficient vigor against the Senate's obstruction of Liberal measures. Consider how that bears upon the general election. A vote for a Liberal candidate is a vote to bring the Senate into line with the Liberal government and the House of Commons. A vote for a Conservative candidate is a vote to bring the government and the House of Commons into line with the Senate. It is a vote, to quote your closing words, 'to surrender the direction of public affairs in Canada to a senatorial oligarchy, representative of nothing but the prejudices of superannuated politicians and the predatory instincts of high finance." North Perth Liberal Conven-

"The idea that the miners cannot work unless they have a contract," he said, "is unsupported by reason or practice."

Hundreds of thousands of workers in every class of employment," according to Mr. Inglis, continued at work after contracts expired in the certainty that sooner or later new ones would be made.

"John L. Lewis will not permit the miners to do this," he said. "That is why we have a strike. It is not because there is no other course, It is because a strike is the only course he is willing to adopt."

The first day of the strike was the convention.
