PRESENT MONTH EVENTFUL ONE IN GREAT BRITAIN

Will Probably See Three Great Measures Put Through House of Commons.

HOME RULE AND WELSH DISESTABLISHMENT UP BEFORE AND GOVERNMENT IS DETERMINED THAT THEY SHALL NOW GO ON STATUTE BOOK.

LONDON, May 16.—This month probably will see the passage through the House of Commons of three great controversial measures. Home Rule for Ireland, Disestablishment of the Welsh Church and the abolition of Plural Voting. This first of them has been passed for the third time under the Parliament Act, and no matter what the House of Lords do with them they will become law. The Plural Voting Bill still has another time to pass through the House of Commons.

Of course the greatest interest is taken in the Home Rule Bill. There has been much talk of compromise and settlement by consent, but the best informed opinion of the country is that nothing in this direction will be done in the House of Commons, and any settlement must be reached when the Bill is before the Lords.

No Room For Compromise

The Nationalists and Ulster Unionists have stated their demands quite plainly and there seems no room for compromise between them. The Nationalists have agreed to the temporary exclusion of Ulster from the operation of the Bill, while the Unionists demand permanent exclusion. Neither side apparently will recede, although Nationalists have been heard to say that perhaps there will be a little more concession to "save the face of the Ulster leaders; but no exclusion." It was thought Mr. Balfour, who knows his Ireland well, would be the man to find common ground on which the opposing leaders could meet with his speech at the Hyde Park demonstration, in which he spoke against compromise, has ruled him out, and now it is for the Lords to find the way out, if the question is to be settled by consent.

Not Kindly Taken

There has been talk of a Federal system for the whole of the United Kingdom, and it has been suggested that Ulster should be excluded from the Home Rule Bill until this system is inaugurated, when she could choose the state which she would join. The Federal system, however, has many influential opponents, and as for Ulster it raises another difficulty. Many of the great Belfast merchants do the bulk of their business with the people of the South and West of Ireland. These merchants are opposed to Home Rule, but say if Home Rule must come they do not want their province excluded. The bankers of Belfast take the same view.

Three Arrested As Fire Suspects

In Connection With the Blaze at the Wood Working Plant Last Night.

The police were busy to-day looking up suspects in connection with the fire at the Empire factory last night.

Five young men were examined. Two named March and Moore were let off as they gave satisfactory information as to their whereabouts last night.

Three others named Condon, Baird and Quirk are now held at the police station, and will go before the Magistrate to-morrow.

Inspector General Sullivan is determined to round up all individuals who endanger property as the Empire factory was last night.

WEATHER REPORT.

Toronto (noon)—Moderate N. and E. winds, cool and unsettled with local showers to-day and on Thursday.

Nfld. Lady Weds In Grace Church

The Bride Was Miss Lillian Roberts, Daughter of Capt. James Roberts, Of This City.

The beautiful Episcopal Church, of Broadway, New York, Grace Church, which has been the place of many brilliant matrimonial functions, and which is one of the places of interest to those who travel the 'Great White Way' was the scene of a pretty, if quiet wedding on Tuesday, 12th inst., when one of the principals was a St. John's young lady.

The bride was Miss Lillian Roberts, daughter of Captain James Roberts, John Street, this city, who has travelled extensively the last four years as maid with Miss Nellie Reid, sister of the Messrs. Reid, of the R. N. Co. The groom is Mr. Frank Lawlor, a popular draughtsman of New York.

The bride, who was very attractively attired, was attended by Miss Margaret McCormack, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Joseph Lawlor. Rev. Mr. Grohn performed the ceremony.

The bride had been staying at the Waldorf Astoria with Miss Reid, and the wedding took place from that famous and exclusive hotel.

Being a popular and attractive young lady, the bride received a large number of valuable presents, including a number of handsome cheques. They will reside in New York, where the groom holds a lucrative position.

The Mail and Advocate joins with other friends in extending congratulations, and wishes Mr. and Mrs. Lawlor every happiness.

GREATLY DESIRE CONCILIATION

Understood In British Political Circles That a Section of the Asquith Cabinet is Willing to Offer Further Concessions to Ulster Despite Nationalist Opposition.

LONDON, May 14.—All hope of an Irish compromise is now deferred until the Home Rule Bill is forced for the third and last time through the Commons under the Parliament Act.

The Unionist Die Hards proved sufficiently powerful to prevent Mr. Bonar Law following Mr. Balfour's personal attitude of the regretful acceptance of Home Rule as inevitable, provided Ulster is mollified.

On the other hand, Mr. Redmond's deal in the receipt of an ultimatum from the Nationalist party in the Commons does not affect the fact that 65 Nationalist members have drafted a memorial that it is impossible to make concessions beyond Mr. Asquith's offer of Ulster's temporary exclusion.

Unionists attach much importance to this apparent cleavage between the Nationalists and a section of the Cabinet, who, with a considerable number of Ministerialists, are willing to conciliate Sir Edward Carson still further rather than risk disturbances. Many Unionists believe the Government cannot find it impossible to avoid a general election on the Ulster issue this year.

CORRECTED DATE.

In the announcement of the Daughters of Empire Concert on another page the date should read May 25, instead of June 25.

ICE AT FOGO

Fogo-Ice blockade continues; light variable winds. Two schooners bound north ice-bound at Eastern Tickle.

A PLEASANT DANCE

The dance at the British Hall last night under the auspices of the ladies of St. Bon's Association was a very pleasant affair. About three hundred young people were present and enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

At midnight an excellent supper was served, and was all that could be desired.

CARSON, LEADER OF COVENANTERS, IN DEFIANT MOOD

Declares He Would Rather Die Than See Ulster Under Home Rule Act.

SAYS GOVERNMENT OFFER IS HYPOCRITICAL SHAM

Ulstermen Ready, If Necessary, To Accept All Consequences Of Civil War.

LONDON, May 20.—In a striking speech at the Women's Tariff Reform and Unionist Association at Queen's Hall last night, Sir Edward Carson breathed defiance of the Government, declaring he would die first rather than see Ulster under Home Rule.

Sir Edward poured ridicule on the idea that the Unionists were disheartened and ready to abandon the struggle, and said he was never more determined. He brushed aside the offer made by the Government in the House of Commons as a hypocritical sham, and then taunted the Government for being afraid to prosecute gun-runners.

Civil war might be a savage thing in the present century, he said, but, if driven to it, Ulstermen were ready to accept the consequences.

It would be the Government which would have to climb down, for it was quite plain that where Gladstone had failed, Asquith had also failed.

Sir Edward's colleague in the representation of Dublin University, J. W. Campbell, will move the rejection of the Home Rule Bill, when its second reading comes up on Thursday.

An important financial amendment has been put down by Sir Frederick Banbury, the effect of which is to require that under Home Rule, Ireland shall pay its own way.

Was Married At Lowell, Mass.

Miss Gertrude Simms, of Lowell, Mass., was married on April 16 at St. Ann's Church in that city, to Mr. Heaton Binns, of Amsterdam, New York. She was attended by Mrs. Byram Woodhead, of Palmer, Mass., a sister of the bridegroom, and by Miss Winnifred Shears, of Concord, N.H., her cousin.

Little Victoria Munn was flower girl. The ushers were Messrs. Herbert L. Bishop, Arthur T. Munn and Harold Nickerson.

The fair bride is a native of St. John's, a daughter of the late Dr. W. Simms, of honored memory, and of Mrs. Simms, nee Miss Julia Hayward, formerly of Harbor Grace.

She has lived in the United States for about 18 years past, engaged in profession of nursing.

The bridegroom is Superintendent of the Shuttleworth Brothers Carpet Mills.

The Mail and Advocate joins with other friends in wishing the bride and bridegroom very many years of happy married life.

Schr. Hiram Lowell has sailed from Woods Island for Boston with 250 bbls. frozen herring, 302 bbls. pickled herring, 200 bbls. bulk herring, 114,000 lbs. green codfish, shipped by T. M. Nicholson.

STREET CAR SCENE

A woman who was taken past her destination in the street car yesterday, gave the conductor a 'meal of tongues' to the amusement of the other passengers.

A policeman had to be called to remove her.

Motor Launch For The "Gaspe"

A new motor boat built by Mr. John Taylor has been added to Messrs. Baird's Gaspe. It has been fitted with a splendid 10 h.p. Mianus engine, installed by Mr. Arthur Osmond, which will give the boat a speed of 10 knots.

The motor boat will be of great assistance to the Gaspe in the Brazilian trade.

Two patients for the hospital are coming from Burin by the Portia.

Suffragettes Make Threats

Say That They Are Determined to See the King To-morrow—Otherwise There'll be Squalls.

LONDON, May 19.—Lively scenes, in an effort to see the King, are promised for Thursday.

At yesterday's meeting of the suffragettes Mrs. Mansell said it was going to be the biggest thing ever. She thought the authorities ought to be trembling in their shoes. If there was going to be any militancy it would be on the part of the other side. If there was any attempt on the part of the minions of the Government it would be at their peril.

Mrs. Mansell said that Mrs. Pankhurst would be safe because, like Carson, she had got a body-guard.

JAPANESE MUST AT ONCE PREPARE FACE THE WEST

Tokio Paper Says That the Struggle Is Inevitable—Asiaties Must Get Ready.

WHITE MEN PREJUDICED, AND ALSO UNRIGHTEOUS.

Outburst Provoked by Sir Ian Hamilton's Recent Speech in New Zealand.

TOKIO, May 19.—The Japanese must prepare to stand alone and face the white race in battle.

Such is the bellicose retort that an influential newspaper make to Sir Ian Hamilton whose recent speech in New Zealand as to the coming struggle for the Pacific, between the white races and the Asiatics, was cabled to England and afterwards here.

The paper adds that the Japanese must inform other Asiatics of the fearful consequences of the prejudice and unrighteousness of the white man. Asia must be prepared to cooperate with Japan for common defence.

PLAN REVOLT AGAINST HUERTA

Cabinet Minister, Who Flew the Country Because His Life Was Threatened, Says That a General Revolt Against the Provisional President is Very Likely.

Vera Cruz, May 19.—Dr. Aureliano, ex-Minister of the Interior, declares that he left the capital, because he feared assassination, and in the belief that a revolt would shortly occur in the City of Mexico.

"I left the capital, he said, for two reasons; the first was knowledge of a plot among Huerta's close political supporters to assassinate me. They said I knew too much. Secondly there has been planned a general revolt by the people and the army."

"I would not be surprised at any minute to hear news of an uprising against Huerta, of whom both the people and army are tired and determined to rid themselves. I did not want to be in Mexico City when this occurred."

LIBBERALS WIN FIRST VICTORY UNDER NEW ACT

Welsh Disestablishment Bill Passes Commons With 77 Majority.—Passed Three Times.

WILL NOW BECOME LAW
IN SPITE OF THE LORDS.

Bill Will Have Big Effect on Church in Wales on Convocation and on House of Lords.

LONDON, May 19.—The first bill to become law under the operation of the Parliament Act, is the Welsh Disestablishment Bill, which passed its third reading to-night by a vote of 328 to 251.

Renewed interest has been taken in the question during recent months, because of its relation to Church and Churchmen.

Under the Parliament Act the Bill automatically becomes law after the third passage by the Commons, no matter what action is taken by the Lords.

Among other things the Bill provides, so far as Wales is concerned, that the Church of England will cease to be established by law, and all cathedral and ecclesiastical corporations will be dissolved.

The Bishops of the four Welsh dioceses will cease to be members of the House of Lords, and the present ecclesiastical law will cease as a law. The Bishops and clergy will not be members of or represented in the House of Convocation of the province of Canterbury.

Marina Reported Off The Funks

Mr. Gerald Harvey had a wireless this morning from the Donaldson liner Marina that she is 53 miles East of the Funks; the wind is S. W. and weather moderate.

Mr. Harvey acquainted the captain of the ice conditions and advised him to proceed cautiously, as the coast is still blocked with ice. The Marina will not be able to reach her destination for some time.

Repair Tritonia Temporarily

It has been decided to give the Tritonia temporary repairs. She is now at the dock premises, but will not have to go on dock.

The work will occupy about ten days and will be done by the R. N. Co.

The Tritonia will then proceed to Botwood, discharge her cargo and load for England, where she will dock and have permanent repairs done.

COASTAL BOATS.

BOWINGS.

Four Men Taken From Third Lifeboat of the "Columbian" Reported Doing Well.

Halifax, May 19.—The chief officer and other three men of the steamer Columbian, rescued by the Revenue Cutter Seneca, are slowly recovering, although the chief officer will have to undergo an operation and have part of both feet amputated.

A collection was taken up on board the Seneca, when an amount was realized totalling $100 for the sufferers.

Tragic Fatality Of Sinking Ship

Ten Persons, Including Two R. C. Priest Are Drowned.—Thirteen Saved.

Belize, May 19.—Ten persons, including two Roman Catholic priests recently from Ireland, and Capt. Stappler, were drowned in the sinking of the schooner Elamo. Thirteen were rescued.

ADVENTURE'S REPAIRS

The repairs to the S.S. Adventure at Philadelphia are progressing favorably. She leaves there on the 30th for St. John's with a cargo of coal.

She will then engage in the coal trade between Sydney and this port until she goes to Hudson Bay.

MANY TROUBLES OF TRANSLATORS

Difficulties To Be Contended With In Rendering the Bible in the Zulu Language.—What British Arms Failed To Do, Holy Writ Has Accomplished.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Tons of Bibles of a revised version in the Zulu language are now on the presses of the American Bible Society, in the Bible House, this city, and in a week or so they will be shipped to South Africa. The revised proof was held up from going to print because of an unforeseen difficulty the Rev. J. D. Taylor, a missionary there, who has been laboring over the revision for fifteen years, experienced in translating the list of accessories of women's articles of attire found in the last verses of the third chapter of the Book of Isaiah into the vocabulary of a woman of the kraals. For the latter's entire equipment consists merely of some bead work, a leather apron and a blanket.

The Zulus in 1879 were known chiefly for having cut to pieces a column of British troops at Isandula, in Natal. To-day letters to the Bible Society say many of them are as eager for the revised Bible in their own language as were the English speaking Protestants to get their revised Bible in 1881. These letters further state that the lives of the Zulus have been deeply influenced by the Bible.

Bellaventure Sails For Botwood

The S.S. Bellaventure, Capt. Randle, sails to-night for Botwood with 1000 tons of coal.

Owing to the Tritonia being unable to reach there coal has run short, so the Bell is being sent with a supply.

Owing to the ice conditions it is not known when she will arrive there.

A DAUGHTER OF THE STORM!

BY CAPT. FRANK H. SHAW.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Stubbs Final Effort.

"The day will be here in an hour," croaked Leigh, licking his parched and blistered lips. "We'll see what we've done then."

"Yes, the day will be here in an hour," echoed Aileen, not knowing what she said, and they gathered themselves together for the final effort. The crackling underfoot grew nearer; with fixed and glassy eyes they saw a piece of deck planking shivel away to nothing and fall away, to be followed by a leaping tongue of flame. The fire had burst its bonds at last, and there was no telling to where it might fly.

It was well for the Zoroaster that a portion of her cargo, beneath the upper cases and bales, was fireclay and firebrick, stacked in the 'tween decks, that the ship might have top-weight to make her sea-fit. But for that the flames must have spread wildly, unchecked by the feeble efforts of the strugglers, but, as it was, the unflammable material drove the flames forward and aft. But they had forgotten this, and they only saw death staring them in the face if they relaxed their efforts one jot.

"It's gaining," said Leigh, with a groan, as a thin grey line grew across the horizon ahead; "but we'll die fighting."

"Ah, thank God I've worked with men!" grasped Aileen, throwing out her hands to cover his. And they toiled anew, toiled on and on, hope dead, bodies hardly alive. So stupid had they become, so drunken with effort that they heard nothing of a wild yelling from the poop, heard nothing of a steady throb from a far distance, saw nothing of a bulky shape looming up nearer and nearer through the dawn. It was Aileen who first aroused herself from the strange lassitude of toll to look about her in the growing day.

"Oh!" she cried, "oh!" She could find no more words, but her pointing finger showed them a huge New Zealand liner bearing up to their broad-side, almost within a biscuit toss.

"Come aft and get the flags," said Leigh numbly, staring as a man might stare on coming back from the grave. "We're saved, darling, we're saved!"

CHAPTER XXXV.

In Sydney Hospital.

It was very quiet in the cool private ward of the Sydney hospital. A flicker of sunlight broke through a tiny tear in one of the drawn blinds and focused itself on the face of a girl who sat motionless at the side of a bed. It lit up a pair of earnest eyes. It shone dazingly from piled golden tresses, rested caressingly on a white cheek, roved on to fall across the recumbent figure of a man in the bed. At a little distance a uniformed nurse sat reading.

Aileen lifted her head and drank in the quietness. She was well again by this—a strong gale before they reached port had blown away the lassitude and listlessness that had fallen upon her that morning when they saw help in sight. Already, although she hardly dared own it to herself, she was longing for the sea. It was wonderfully quiet—even the very flies seemed asleep. Now and then the nurse turned a page of the book she was reading, glanced up quickly at the patient's face, then down again with a slight smile at the expression of waiting that Aileen showed. Presently the silence was broken—a distant footfall sounded outside the door. Aileen drew herself erect in her chair, and a deep glad flush suffused her cheeks. She could have told that step in a thousand, many a time and oft had she lain awake in her cabin listening to its steady tread on the deck above her. It checked outside the door, and the nurse, with a cool rustle of draperies, answered the suggested knock.

"He's asleep just now," she said softly, "but if you'll promise to make no noise you may come in. Yes, he's quite out of danger."

Leigh came in on tip-toe, his soft canvas shoes making no sound. He was dressed in white duck, for spring was growing in Sydney, and his brown, clean face showed bravely above the shimmer of his clothing. Aileen caught her breath with a sharp gasp, and her eyes filled. What a man he was! Stern and strong in danger, as gentle as a woman in times

DIRECTIONS FOR TRANSFERRING

Lay a piece of impression paper, face down, upon the material. Place the newspaper pattern in position over this, and with a hard, sharp pencil, firmly trace each line.

If the material is sheer, this may be laid over the pattern, and the design drawn direct on the goods, as it will show through. When handled in this way, impression paper, of course, will not be required.

of suffering. And he was hers, unalienably, her lover, almost her husband.

He came towards her and seated himself on the floor at her feet, without a sound. One of her hands drooped down beside him, he pressed it to his cheek gravely, yet he thrilled at the cool contact. And just then Captain Curzon opened his eyes.

"Ah, Leigh, you here?" he said faintly. The nurse came forward reprovingly.

"Now!" she said, finger uplifted. "It's all right, nurse. I'm going to talk," said Curzon stubbornly. "You know I'm almost well again."
"For an hour, then. But I put you on your honour not to excite the patient." And she disappeared, with a little laugh on her lips, for nurse Deering loved a romance.

"So you're here to see the old hulk, Leigh? Well, it's not quite a shattered hulk as it might have been. What's the news?"

"Everything's going well, sir. They've discharged the ship, and found the damage isn't much, considering. There's a good freight offering for home—but how are you, sir?"

"They'd tell you the operation was successful—in part," said Curzon. "I'll get the use of my limbs again, after a while. They've removed the pressure on the spinal cord, and so far as health goes I'll live to a ripe old age. That's my news. But—my seafaring days are over. I'll never command a ship again. I've lost my nerve, Leigh, I've lost my nerve." There was something of a silence as the voice died away, none seemed to know what to say next.

"It was a good plan of yours, Leigh, to ask for men from that steamer rather than abandon the old Zoroaster. You won't suffer for it—when the tale's told as it happened."

"He's gained already," flushed Aileen. "The papers got hold of the story at the trial, and he'll all kinds of a hero here in Sydney."

"Aye, aye, and so they sent them all to penal servitude for life? It was summary justice, but the needs of the case called for it. Mutiny on the high seas—good thing the courts were sitting. But you'll find the owners aren't ungrateful, my boy, when the reckoning comes. You saved this ship and her cargo—when you might easily have abandoned her."

Leigh said nothing. His mind flashed back to those ensuing weeks when six men and a junior officer had been spared him from the Wallaroo, and together, wedded into a bond of brotherhood by dint of peril, they had fought the fire with added zest, and conquered. He thought of the following striving, with storm after storm to cope with, his ship under-manned, cranky, unsafe, and yet—he'd brought her through—brought her right to her appointed haven, at that. And he knew that his work was good.

"Funny thing about Stubbs, sir," he said at length. "It must have been he who started the fire. There were all the earmarks. But where did he get to? He must have crept down that open ventilator—there's no question of that—and fired the ship, but what became of him?"

"Didn't they find anything?"
"Not a scrap. My theory is that he was overcome by the fumes of the fire he lighted and totally burnt. A horrible death."

"He deserved it," cried Aileen, and her father patted her head.
"That's all done with now. Aileen's told me how it is with you, Leigh. I wouldn't wish to give her to a better there's something to be said yet. You're a sailor—my girl won't do for man. No, you needn't flush. But—a sailor's wife. She couldn't stand to be cooped up in a shipping port, seeing you now and then. Of course you're going into steam when you've taken the Zoroaster home?"

"Meaning—?" said Leigh.

"That you must give up the sea. Stay a bit"—Leigh made an impetuous gesture—"listen till I've done. It's played out, the sea. Foreign crews and poor freights have sent everything downhill to the bottom. The merchant service is fizzled out, my lad. So—you'd better get a shore billet. I'm not altogether a pauper. I'm quite willing to sell my share in the Zoroaster and put it into any business you like to name, provided you settle ashore. There's my offer. Accept it, and you can marry the girl as soon we get home—she says she says she won't leave her daddy until then. You'll sail when you're loaded, of course, but we'll be home as soon as you, going by steamer. They won't let me leave my bed for another six weeks at the least. There's my ultimatum, Leigh."

Leigh's face was flushed, his fingers laced and relaxed convulsively. He glanced under his eyebrows at Curzon's quiet face, then at Aileen's. Suddenly he drew himself upright.

"I can't leave the sea, sir," he said gently. "It's in my blood. Anything but that." And at his elbow he heard a little sigh of satisfaction, as Aileen breathed deeply. She had been hanging on this answer more than she quite knew.

SIMPLE AND GIRLISH

The model shown above may be developed successfully in taffeta or woolen materials. The coat portion is similar to a Russian blouse and is worn over a shirt of fine texture. Two plaits of the material flank the tucked shirt front and little silk-covered buttons trim these and the sleeves. A pretty contrast is made by using plaid material for the skirts, this combination is often seen in coat-suits this season. A pretty suggestion for this would be abouse or coat in Russian green taffeta, the skirt plaid taffeta of harmonizing shades. The hat shown on the figure is of green hemp with full crown of self-tone taffeta and roses of the palest pink.

A SUCCESSFUL

BUSINESS MAN

Every successful business man can give reasons for his prosperity. Most essential to any success is a careful and ceaseless attention to details. Every well conducted office or store in the world finds that simple and efficient filing systems are an absolute necessity. No employer will waste his own time or allow waste with his staff by using old fashioned methods. The benefits derived from the time and money-saving system which "Globe-Wernicke" devices encourage are self-evident. Not a paper can go astray when the "Safeguard" method of this Company is used. And no matter how complicated your filing problem, no matter how peculiar, no matter how small or how large, the "Globe-Wernicke" can provide you with the equipment that will place every record at your finger tips. Why not investigate? Mr. Percie Johnson represents the "Globe" in Newfoundland.

Important Notice!

The Fraser Machine & Motor Co. for the purpose of reorganizing and enlarging their plant, lately went into voluntary liquidation; the organization is now complete, much more capital has been subscribed to meet the growing demands of the business, and this year double as many FRASER engines will be built as last year. There is no other engine so popular in Newfoundland or Canada as the FRASER, and with the new Company we can promise better service and deliveries than in the past, when many had to wait for their engines, as we could not get them from the factory fast enough. All orders now booked we can ship at a moment's notice. FRANKLIN'S AGENCIES, LTD., St. John's, Newfoundland, Agents.—1424

MADAME SCOTNEY'S ADVANTAGES

Her Ambition Has Been Furthered By Splendid Physique and Unusual Mentality.

Mme. Evelyn Scotney has every advantage, physical and mental, to help along her ambition to be the world's most famous soprano. But twenty-seven years old, she is strong, vigorous and beautiful—and this she ascribes to her athletic training since childhood. Her great lung power has been developed through long distance and speed swimming; her untiring energy is the result of hours of physical training daily. Her thorough musical education and extraordinary ability to memorize made it possible for her to learn the role of Violetta in "La Traviata" in seven days. And her God-given voice, that soars bird-like to higher notes than any living soprano, can only be compared with Tetrazzini's, and in the younger woman's favor by many critics. She will be heard at the Methodist College Hall on the evenings of June 1st, 2nd and 3rd, assisted by other distinguished artists from the Boston Opera Company.

IMPORTANT FISHERY PROBLEMS GET PRACTICAL CONSIDERATION FROM MEMBERS OF UNION PARTY

Mr. Coaker (continued)—

Now, I hope the Government will turn over a new leaf and take these things into consideration and endeavour to make the fisheries more valuable than they are now and see what a difference it will make to the country.

I was speaking to Mr. Thompson down at the Institute the other day and he told me that dogfish is a valuable fish, and that it is sold in England under the name of Rock Salmon. He says it is one of the best fishes which you can get to eat and almost equal to salmon.

Market Available
Of course, it has an awful appearance. But, you know, dogfish is the purest so far as flesh goes, of any fish, because it feeds on fresh fish. It is not a scavenger. You will find a market in England for this fish. I have not the slightest doubt but that we will see a reformation take place in this country during the next four years in connection with the fisheries. We can enhance their value fifty per cent., but in order to do this we will require to put in hard work and have competent men at the head of the Department.

If the officials are going to work only five or six hours a day then nothing will be done, and it would be far better to pay five thousand dollars to a competent head of the fishing department who would work for ten hours a day.

Ignorant of These Things
As far as the seal fishery is concerned we seem to be content year by year to make no effort to ascertain from a scientific point of view, the habits of the seals and the conditions under which they live. We know absolutely nothing about their life nor the period of gestation, nor how soon they produce their young. Some people say once a year while others are of the opinion that it is much longer.

Nobody Worries
From my observations in Green Bay I have not the slightest doubt that the seal breeds once a year.

Again, what do we know about the food of the seal. It is said they live on codfish, which if true, it would be better for us if we never saw a seal for the reason, that if we have a million seals around our coast the destruction of codfish must be tremendous.

I have never known a captain of a sealing steamer to take the trouble to find out what the seal actually does eat, and, it is very important we should know it. A great deal of valuable knowledge would be obtained if the Government would hire a steamer like the "Neptune" or "Terra Nova" to leave St. John's about the 15th of February and follow the old seals north to the breeding ground, watch all their actions and find out where they breed and the particular habits of the seals and the conditions under which they live. We know absolutely nothing about their life nor the period of gestation, nor how soon they produce their young. Some people say once a year while others are of the opinion that it is much longer.

kinds of food on which they live. In order to do this it would be necessary to kill occasionally a few old seals when full information could be obtained as to the particular kind of food consumed by the seals. We ought to know how many seals breed in the Straits.

No Scientific Knowledge
We know absolutely nothing about the seal fishery from a scientific point of view, and a great difference of opinion exists amongst our own practical men about the habits and food of the seals. We have been told over and over again that the killing out of the whale is to a large extent the cause of the scarcity of bait during the last few years.

The resolutions discussed here yesterday provide for enquiries to be made concerning the whale fishery with a view to protecting those mammals, but it would not be found such an easy matter, as some people may suppose. What are we going to do if the Select Committee will report that the killing out of the whales has an injurious effect upon our bait supply.

Suggested Taxation
Would it not be better to tax each factory a couple of thousand dollars a year and if the owners did not feel inclined to pay it they could drop out of the business altogether. No doubt if this Legislature were to close up the whale factories the owners would be looking for compensation, but such payment should not be entertained for one moment.

Last night the hon. member for Bay de Verde, Mr. Hickman, in speaking of the fishery resolutions stated that the credit system had something to do with the bad cure of fish. I agree with the hon. member, that the credit system has a great deal to do with the bad cure of fish, for it is only reasonable to assume that a man will not take the trouble to turn out a good cure unless some inducement by way of higher price is held out to him.

Stimulate a Good Cure
If a fisherman realized that unless his cure was up to a certain standard he would get a less price for his fish, he would take very good care to see that it was well cured.

I do not agree with the hon. member for Bay de Verde that the cullers should be under the control of the magistrates or should be ex-police-men. We must have a Commission composed of representatives of the Board of Trade, fishermen, government and others who would have full charge of carrying out all rules and regulations with regard to the cull after standardization of fish.

I am very glad to learn from the hon. member for St. George's that he was instrumental in inducing the Gorton Pew Co. to come to this country, for I always understood that the Minister of Marine and Fisheries had taken to himself that credit.

Looked For Suggestions
I trust that when the select committee appointed last night on fishery matters will make its report to this House, we will have many valuable suggestions which we will be able to accept unanimously.

The representatives of the Fishermen's Union in this House cannot take part in the deliberations of that Committee for reasons which I gave yesterday afternoon, but, at the same time we will watch its proceedings and the evidence of any member of the F.P.U. will be at their disposal, should any require it.

Every representative of the F.P.U. in this House is desirous of improving the conditions of the fishermen and nothing will be allowed to interfere with that object. The fishermen are at present better represented in this House than they have been in the past thirty years, consequently useful legislation in connection with our fisheries should be brought into existence. Our party will do everything in our power to bring about good results, and I hope the Government will lose no time in getting to work to bring about some alterations in the present system as carried on by the fisheries department.

Rather a Mistake
The hon. member for Harbor Grace, Mr. Piccott, would probably make a very good Minister of Agriculture and Mines, but he is not and never will be competent to fill the position of Minister of Marine and Fisheries which should be filled by the very best man in the country.

Mr. Jennings—Mr. Chairman, I judge from the report of Mr. Dee and the remarks of the hon. member who has just sat down, that an honest man the noblest of God's creation, was not to be found, engaged in the lobster fishery.

Plan is Needed
It seems to me that a plan could be formulated to arrest the decline of this fishery, and that if we paid 15 cents for each egg-bearing lobster put back in the sea we should hold out a sufficient inducement to the fishermen to carry out the rules and regulations in this respect. Some people are of opinion that when the female lobster is removed from its own pound to another locality the propagation is interfered with, but, I think that if we can succeed in having the egg-bearing lobster returned to the sea, we need not trouble about the propagation.

I remember distinctly many years ago when the lobster fishery was far different to what it is at the present day. I distinctly recollect the time when Mr. White commenced operations up north. At that time three we would have very little trouble in filling a boat with lobsters in one day, and very often the supply exceeded the demand and many thousands were thrown away.

People Were Unwise

We now see how unwise people were in those days, not to have taken measures for the protection of the lobsters. I fully concur with the hon. member, Mr. Coaker, in his remarks about the warden's, for I consider that under the present conditions their employment is only a waste of money. I notice that we have a vote in the Marine and Fisheries estimates of five hundred dollars for the protection of herring, which fishery, I think, is capable of tremendous developments. Something must be done to obtain better prices for our herring. In looking over Mr. Dee's report, I find that seventy-three thousand, eight hundred and fifty-four barrels of pickled herring were put up last year which were valued at two hundred and nineteen thousand dollars, or an average of two dollars and ninety-six a barrel.

Would Welcome Advice
I believe that every man packing herring would welcome any information in connection with the cure which would result in a better price for the fish.

In Green Bay herring are very plentiful on the South Side in the months of May and June, and they are to be found in large quantities on the North Side of the Bay during the autumn months.

If we could obtain sufficient information to enable our fishermen to adopt the Scotch cure they would very quickly become proficient at the work and they would receive a far higher remuneration for their labors than they do at present.

The report of Mr. Dee on the herring fishery seems to point out all its defects but suggests no remedy. He gives us one of the reasons why the herring fishery is not more profitable than every man is his own cooper and makes his own packages, and in some cases owing to lack of skill in this work and in other cases owing to actual dishonesty the herring packed by these men often turn out bad.

Now, I do not know if Mr. Dee has come up against many of these cases, but I know that in the neighborhood in which I live every man engaged in this herring fishery makes his own packages, and he makes them good, as he wishes to have the pack good to get good prices.

FOUR BLAZES YESTERDAY KEPT FIREFIGHTERS BUSY

Combination of Fre and High Wind Too Much For Nerves Of Our Citizens.

BRIGADES ACTED PROMPTLY AND SAVED THE SITUATION

Most Threatening Outbreak Was At Empire Wood Working Plant—Night Prowlers Responsible

THERE were no less than four fire alarms between 3.30 yesterday afternoon and 11 last night, and consequently the fire fighters were kept busy.

The high winds during the day made people nervous, and when they heard the bells and saw the apparatus dashing through the streets they were anxious to know where the blaze was and the extent of it.

The first alarm was at 3.55 p.m. from box 232, a spark from the chimney having fallen on the roof of T. Galway's house and igniting. The Central and the Eastern men were quickly on the scene and a stream from the chemical soon had the fire extinguished. The damage was trivial.

The Second

The firemen returned to their stations and just had their apparatus placed away when another alarm sounded. This time it was from the Western part of the city and the Central and Western companies were quickly on the scene.

The blaze was at the residence of James Sheehan, George St. West. Const. Nugent was quickly on hand and procuring a Pyrene fire extinguisher from the Post Office had the fire under control when the apparatus arrived.

The chemical was brought into use and after a few minutes the danger was over. The damage was slight.

No one was in the house at the time and it is not known how it originated.

The Third

At 6 o'clock a man called at the Eastern station and acquainted the men that the residence of Capt. Wakeham, York Street, was ablaze.

The firemen lost no time in proceeding there and found the fire to be in the chimney. It was put out without difficulty, no injury to property being sustained.

No alarm sounded for this blaze.

The Fourth

At 11.30 last night the extensive premises of the Empire Wood Working Co. situate on Water Street East, were in danger of destruction, due to the action of two night prowlers, who who sneaked into the kiln to have a comfortable sleep in the warmth, which that part of the building afforded.

They had worked so hard during the day looking for nothing to do that the exercise of the body and mind had to be suspended. Any old place they could hang up their hat, was "home, sweet home" to them, and as the city hotels are crowded just now they decided to enjoy the comforts which the kiln of the Empire Wood Working Factory afforded.

Came Upon the Sleepers

The watchman going his rounds found the kiln to be on fire. He noticed a coat hanging up all ablaze, and as he tore it down to throw it outside the building, he saw two forms sleeping peacefully, while the ceiling just above them was burning fiercely.

The sleeping beauties were much annoyed on being aroused from their slumbers, but realizing their danger they made a bee line for the door, and beat a hasty retreat. The watchman hurried to the Eastern firehall, a few yards distant, and informed the guard, who aroused the men and acquainted the other stations.

Prompt Work

The Eastern and Central men were quickly present and a couple of streams of water was all that was necessary to extinguish the fire.

The building quickly filled with smoke, making it exceedingly difficult to work, but they continued against the great odds and in less than half an hour the danger was over.

The loss is not great, due to the excellent manner in which the firemen labored.

The kiln and other warm spots in such factories are popular resorts for a number of young men who are afraid of work; they dodge the night watchman and spend their nights there.

Kept Out of the Way

An hour before discovering the blaze the watchman visited the kiln and found everything O.K. The prowlers no doubt had their eye on his lantern and when he left they went and were soon asleep.

Had the blaze not been discovered in time, they would probably have been smothered or burned to death. This morning the police were busy looking for the pair. The names of three men who answered their description have been given the officers, who will spare no pains to arrest them.

They deserve no sympathy, because the police believe they are individuals who will not work except when forced to, and when they earn a little money they spend it in rum.

Had the fire assumed serious proportions last night, a number of mechanics and other good citizens would have been thrown out of employment, and to safeguard such men, as well as for the protection of property, marauders should be severely dealt with.

C. L. B. AT BELL ISLAND.

The C.L.B. of Bell Island will hold its first church parade on Sunday next. Monday the new armory will formally open with an 'at home.'

The Band of the St. John's Corps and about fifty others, non-coms and privates, intend going over for the occasion.

They will leave here Sunday morning and return Tuesday.

DUST WAS TERRIFIC

Citizens from all parts of the town assert that they never saw so much dust before as yesterday.

All the available watering carts were in operation, but they were not able to cope with the situation. The sand blizzards of the Sabara could hardly be worse than what prevailed in parts of the city yesterday.

C. C. C. ATHLETIC NOTES

"THE PRIEST AND THE MAN" SHOWN AT THE NICKEL.

There was a large audience at the Nickel Theatre last night and all were pleased with the programme.

This evening the attraction is the well known story "The Priest and the Man," adopted from the Going of the White Swan by Sir Gilbert Parker. It deals with life in the Canadian woods and should be of especial interest to Newfoundlanders.

"The Ferrits" is a romantic story of underworld life, in which two almost human ferrets play permanent parts.

"The Man Who Wouldn't Marry" is a fascinating drama and will give satisfaction to patrons.

"Love," is a pretty picture of love and romance, acted by French artists and produced by the Pathe Co. Miss Etta Gardner sang an attractive novelty song, "Do You Take This Woman For Your Lawful Wife." Mr. McCarthy rendered an Irish ballad.

Friday evening the thrilling drama "Wamba," a child of the jungle, will be produced. This is a two reel feature by the Selig Co.

All patrons of the Nickel should make an effort to attend to-day.

Talking Pictures At The Casino

The much talked of Edison Talking, singing and laughing pictures will be presented here for the first time at the Casino Theatre. Edison may well claim the title of 'wizzard.' Wonders some and go with the opening of each day, but few remain to stand the acid test of time. New forms of amusement are always in demand and the successful ones are those that meet with the approval of an exacting public.

When Thomas A. Edison announced that he had perfected an appliance whereby he could show life motion pictures that would repeat, in perfect tones, the voices of the principals, many smiled at what seemed an impossibility. But when the "Talkies" are head doubt is changed to amazement and the auditor is convinced that the great inventor has added another jewel to the crown he wears as the world's electrical wizard.

The B.I.S. baseball players intend going to Bell Island to play the Islanders next Monday. They will also attend the opening of the new C.L.B. armory.

MAGISTRATE'S LEVEE.

Three drunks were discharged. Two were fined $2 or 7 days each. Const. Peachey summoned ten drivers for not having prechords to their carts; they had to pay costs. Const. Peachey summoned a man for cruelty to a horse; deft. had to pay costs.

OBITUARY.

Mr. John Carter.

Mr. John Carter, son of Peter Carter, Wesleyville, died at the General Hospital on Sunday.

He had been employed at J. W. Taylor's and was highly respected. The remains were sent home by Sunday's express.

He leaves a father, two brothers, one sister and a large circle of friends to mourn their loss.

LEWISPORTE PARADE

(Editor Mail and Advocate)

Dear Sir,—On April 29th we held the first Union parade, tea and concert. Although the day, toward the latter part, was very stormy, the whole affair was a great success.

Early in the afternoon, the members left the Orange Hall, with all the musical instruments available. After parading through the place, we returned to the Hall where we found that the good ladies had a bountiful repast prepared.

Shortly after 7 o'clock the doors of the basement were opened and an interesting concert was held, the audience being a large and attentive one. The total proceeds were $80.00 which we are using in connection with the building of a Union store.

EXPRESSION OF SYMPATHY

(Editor Mail and Advocate)

Dear Sir,—Our Local Council wishes to express its deepest sympathy with those who have been caused to mourn by the loss of friends or relatives in the great sealing disasters. We are enclosing the sum of $19.20 as a contribution to the F.P.U. Disaster Fund. This is not as big an amount as we would like to give, but a considerable number handed in their donations at the church collections which were made beforehand.

We very much appreciate President Coaker's untiring efforts to have an investigation held into the great loss of life at the seal fishery this year and we think it high time that some of the captains were relieved of their commands.

LATE LINGERING ICE SETBACK TO USUAL SPRING ACTIVITIES

Interesting Notes of News From The Ancient Settlement of King's Cove.

During the past couple of weeks our people have been very much handicapped by the ice hanging around the shore so late. A good many of the men have put in their time gunning. Some have secured quite a number of ducks and others have secured a few seals from the ice.

So far, everything points to the Spring being a very backward one, but in spite of all difficulties our people are beginning to get about the usual work of preparing for the fishery.

Many Sympathizers

The people of this place sorrow with those bereft by the sealing disasters and a great many are of the opinion that the loss of life was due to somebody's great blunder. It has been remarked that had Capt. Kean exercised the same amount of energy in notifying the other captains concerning the Newfoundland's crew as he did in endeavoring to prevent the passing of the Sealing Bill, joy and gladness would prevail to-day in homes where there are sorrowing and lamentation.

Friend Samuel Tiller has returned home safely from the seal fishery as enthusiastic in the Union cause as ever. If men, possessed of great abilities and holding high positions, would only follow the example of Friend Tiller in working for the good of his fellowmen, what a difference there would be in conditions of living to-day.

Most of the schooner captains have secured their crews for the summer season for which some of them are already preparing. Skipper Joshua is, as usual, in the front rank, and hasa ready got his trip to the Bay over.

Have Secured Crews

Many of our friends who engage in the lobster fishery are delaying putting their traps out owing to so much ice being around.

Friend Abraham Stanford launches his schooner on the 11th. He has practically rebuilt her and has finished the work much earlier than was generally expected. I think all will agree with us when they see the "Broadwinner" that Friend Abel Hann easily comes first among our local builders.

Herring have been showing up around the Bay lately, but the ice prevented our men from doing any netting. Report says that caplin were recently taken by the boat load at St. Brendan's, but many of our people are of the opinion that they are white fish instead of caplin. We hope this is true as some of our old people have a saying that early caplin indicate a poor fishery.

Venturesome Chaps

Several of our young men have embarked on the matrimonial voyage since returning from the seal fishery. We wish them every success and a pleasant trip.

Some of the supporters of the Government have had their eyes opened by recent events, which we believe, with many others, foreshadow Confederation.

KING'S COVE NOTES.

The weather the past few days is much finer and everybody is now taking advantage of it.

The Fishermen are all actively engaged preparing for the coming voyage. Messrs. Richard Hancock and Kenneth Brown have their cod traps already in the water, but no sign of the cod yet.

The S.S. Prospero arrived here on Tuesday evening bringing considerable freight for this port.

Good Meeting.

Tuesday night was our regular meeting night, a goodly number present and we had the privilege of hearing Mr. J. G. Stone, M.H.A., who gave us a very interesting address which delighted all present. We all feel sure now we have men in the House of Assembly who are well able to fight for the working class. Men the stamp of Mr. Stone are not met every day amongst the Tollers.

The S.S. Dundee called here on Thursday, making her first trip for season. Several of our young men are taking passage by her en route to Sydney for the summer as they are
