

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., OCT. 11, 1912.

A Worthy Work.

We have received the report for the year ending November, 1911, of the Massachusetts School for the Feeble-minded, of which institution Dr. Fernald has been Superintendent for a period of twenty-five years. This report contains most interesting information concerning the School and Home that cares so efficiently for the afflicted class within its walls. There are nearly 1500 inmates, with more applications for admission than can be accommodated. The support of this School is guaranteed by the State, yet donations and bequests are gladly received by the Corporation. It will be remembered that Dr. Fernald, the Superintendent of this noted institution, paid a short visit to Halifax last summer. The Halifax papers published interesting accounts of interviews with Dr. Fernald, also of a drawing-room meeting at the home of Mrs. Dennis, president of the Woman's Council, where he addressed a large number of interested men and women on the subject so dear to his heart. Many persons who for years have been longing that a suitable provision should be made for the feeble-minded of our land, received fresh courage and inspiration from Dr. Fernald's talks and advice. He was surprised to find that while our province has cared well for its insane, no refuge of any sort has been provided for the feeble-minded of whom there are about 1200 according to reliable statistics. Several years since this important need was brought before our Legislature, and Dr. Fraser, Superintendent of the School for the Blind, Drs. Hatfield and Woodbury and others were appointed a committee to inquire into the matter, gather statistics, etc. This League for the protection of the feeble-minded was formed at Halifax. Dr. Fraser is president of this League. The Woman's Council of Halifax is deeply interested and through the newspapers keeps this important matter before the public, hoping in this way to awaken an interest in others that would bring things to pass. We learn from recent Halifax newspapers that Dr. Fraser has formulated a scheme for a school for the feeble-minded, and that Mr. John Wier has been sent out to visit fifty towns and villages of Nova Scotia to form branches. Leagues and hold meetings in the interest of this much needed but long neglected institution. Mr. Wier has already held meetings in Antigonish and Guysboro which were most enthusiastic, and a League was formed at each place. He expects to be in Wolfville for the same purpose early in November. Let us each prepare for his coming by considering the needs of those who through no fault of their own are incapable of caring for themselves, and therefore are entitled to receive from all of us in full possession of normal mental powers, the protection of a suitable home. This may be the best and most distant when the stigma of our neglect in this respect will be removed!

The Morality of Hanging for Crime.

A conversation with Radcliffe, the late official haugman of Canada, is published by a Socialist weekly. It appears that he was the son of an English clergyman, and during his twenty-one years as executioner he was the means of sending one hundred and thirty-two souls to eternity. Referring to his first execution, that of Barbell of Woodstock, Ont., he said the crime for which he was found guilty was so terrible, that I had no compunctions about putting him out of business in quick manner. Very different was his story of later hangings. "My family deserted me and changed their names, but I kept right on the job because, I argued with myself, that if I was doing wrong then the government of the country was wrong and would be punished. I held that I was the minister of justice at a hanging, and that if I was a murderer he was also a murderer. And so I pacified my conscience in that way for many years, but of late it is killing me. The remorse which comes over me is terrible, and my nerves give out until I have not slept for days at a time. I suffered agony of mind that was terrible, and began to feel as if iron bars lightened around me. I used to say to condemned persons as I beckoned with my hand, 'Come with me.' Now at night when I lay down I start with a roar as a victim after victim comes up before me. I can see them on the trap waiting a second before they meet their Maker. They taunt me and haunt me until I am nearly crazy with an unreasoning fear. I will go to hell soon, and terrible punishment, for I am two hundred times a murderer but I won't kill another man. I had always thought capital punishment was right, but not now. I believe the Almighty will visit the Christian nation with dire calamity if they don't stop taking the lives of their fellows, no matter how heinous the crime. Murderers should be allowed to live as long as possible and work out their atonement on behalf of the state. It is the only solution, for the slaying of Cain is on my brow and the blood of the government and the nation, so long as capital punishment is practiced on this globe." It is a question whether a good living man could be found who would act as official haugman, and if found, whether he would be saved from demoralization. It is expedient that one who had spent his life in capital punishment should be refused in order to the carrying out of capital punishment. We hope the Legislature is confined to anti-Maritime Republics.

Reciprocity Still.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is still shouting reciprocity and 'wider markets.' Canada has to-day in her home market a greater boon to the producing acres of our great country than any treaty with the United States could possibly produce. We defy any one to name a single product of the farm from British Columbia to Cape Breton that is not bringing a higher price in the Canadian home market than is afforded to the producer in the United States. But anything goes in the attempt to turn the West against the East.

Those Liberal politicians who were so badly discredited in September, 1911, still act and talk as if they were the appointed guardians of the West and East, and the political prognosticators of stormy weather, and that they had a vision of western Canada tottering on the brink of a precipice of irretrievable ruin, and that they had rushed forward with the panacea of reciprocity, only to be confronted and rejected by a parliamnt and deluded electorate, who are now awakening to the awful mistake they made in throwing away their policy that had been invented in a crisis of despair by the men who ought to govern Canada through all the ages of time.

Reciprocity is a sort of traditional inheritance with a portion of the Liberal party like a few other nostrums, but so far as Canada is concerned reciprocity was buried a thousand years deep in 1891, and ceased even to be an academic question in 1897, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier solemnly repudiated it in parliament.

In 1891 it was openly connected with annexation in the writings and speeches of such men as Farfar, Charlton and Wiman. To these leading Liberals many of that party inclined more than a friendly ear. It reciprocity had been carried in 1891 there would have been no great Western Canada except as a territorial adjunct of the United States. And that whole school of Eastern politicians have dreaded the West and in their hearts bear an hate it, and would have welcomed the consummation earnestly sought by a band of politicians in 1891. Unrestricted reciprocity was their policy, and Hon. Edward Blake pronounced it but annexation in disguise. If the newcomer into western Canada as well as the younger generation of the East, would study the history and look up the records of many politicians still living and active, they would know that they only pipe loyal Canadianism because the nation forced them to change their tune.

As the national policy bore fruit in the building up of Confederation and in the development of the national resources, reciprocity receded from and more into the background. No body ever expected to hear of it again and nobody would have had not the exigencies and ulterior motives of President Taft induced him to bring up reciprocity as a policy convenient to the good of the United States involving the eventual absorption of the Dominion. At his suggestion all the yelping pack of unbelievers in our own country from Sir Wilfrid Laurier and W. S. Fielding down to the Morning Chronicle raised their chorus of fear for the future of Canada. They preached reciprocity as the alternative of ruin. They gave Canadians an ultimate gospel of weakness, fear and self-abandonment, in stead of a self-reliant facing of the difficulties of development, and they did so, not of themselves but as the catspaws and dupes or else the conscious coadjutors of an ulterior purpose, never very closely veiled and now openly disclosed in the mind of President Taft and the Democratic majority in congress and of Theodore Roosevelt also.

Reciprocity was not invented by them. It was not drawn from the lumber room of outgrown ideas by them to improve the markets of Canadian producers. It was invented by President Taft to bring cheaper food to the masses of Americans and cheaper raw materials to their factories. Nor did Mr. Taft take great pains to hide its ultimate effect because in his egotism he could not understand Canada refusing crumbs from the great American table. That now a year later there should be an aftermath of this famous reciprocity struggle is more surprising than dangerous. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is now only using reciprocity because of his vanity and as a prop to sit upon. In the West, reciprocity is dead and can never be implemented so long as Canada endures, and that if the Liberals returned to power they would not even make the attempt to revive the pact. It has lost all reality except as the hobby horse of a sore politician in a final attempt to make himself one of the leaguers of his country.

The Standard, of St. John, N. B., one of the ablest and best newspapers in Eastern Canada, is making extensive improvements in its plant in order to succeed in its effort to win first place. A new Hoe Overseer press, capable of printing to four colors; a complete stereotyping and casting equipment of most modern design; additional linotype machines; a photo-engraving plant are being installed. The Standard building is being reconstructed with a view to creating the most compact and convenient arrangement of offices possible in the printing business. Always a most courteous visitor to our table, we are very glad to note the prosperity and enterprise of our contemporary.

Nova Scotia Sunday School Association.

The 28th annual convention of the Nova Scotia Sunday School Association will be held at New Glasgow on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Oct. 23rd, 24th and 25th. The programme of the convention includes a wide range of subjects relating to all phases of Sunday School work. These subjects will be ably handled by experts. The convention will be preceded by an elementary institute of two sessions on Wednesday morning and afternoon and a pastors' conference of one session on Wednesday afternoon. There will be a half hour conference on district and county work, conducted by the Field Secretary, beginning at 8.45 on Thursday morning, and on Friday morning a conference of departmental superintendents also in charge of the Field Secretary. The programme also provides an hour for denominational rallies on Thursday afternoon. Representation is as follows: Each Sunday School is entitled to send one delegate for every one hundred scholars or fraction thereof. Besides the above all evangelical clergymen, Sunday School superintendents, county and provincial Sunday School officers can attend as delegates. Sunday Schools are requested to elect delegates, for whom free entertainment will be provided. Send the names of the same to Mr. W. T. Robb, New Glasgow, on or before Oct. 10th. All railways and the Bras D'Or Steamship Company are granting reduced fares on the standard certificate plan. The convention is to be considered specially unique among religious conventions. It is to deal with the most important work with which the churches of Christ are charged; to reach the world for Jesus Christ with the message of the Bible. It is earnestly hoped by the pro-man will pass up an 85 cent shirt. And why? Solely because they are cheap in price. The woman wants summer frocks that cost $10 and the man shirts that sell at $2. It is true that rents have advanced, likewise fuel, meat, butter and other common articles, but to help offset these advances, wages have been increased.

CALGARY HERALD.—The busy politicians who 'commandered' the Western Grain Growers' Association in the Dominion election and used it as a party machine, still keep bobbing up with their cry of 'wider markets.' These frantic partisans continue to flatter themselves that the people can be lullabied by the vain repetitions of the campaign phrase, when, as a matter of fact, the people are seeing more clearly every day that the 'wider market' into which it was sought to lure them would have been their undoing. Ever now with a wheat duty at twenty cents a bushel in their favor, the farmers of Canada see cargoes and trainloads of United States wheat being delivered from time to time at four mills in this country.

Take a Kodak with you.

We say 'Kodak' advisedly. We do not merely mean camera, but the particular make of camera that bears the trade-mark 'Kodak.' The satisfactory results that it has given to our customers justify us in specifying 'Kodak.'

Your vacation will mean more to you, if you Kodak. Not only more pleasure at the time, but afterward, the added pleasure that will come from the pictures.

Let us show you how simple it all is by the Kodak system. Our stock is very complete and we are always glad to give photographic help to any amateur.

Dedication at Gaspereau.

Sunday, Oct. 6th, was to the people of Gaspereau a red-letter day, or a day that will be long remembered by the people. For on that day was dedicated to the service of God their new house of worship.

The day was in every respect an ideal autumnal day. The sun rose in a clear sky and the air was warm and cheerful.

An hour before the appointed time people began to gather at the church and when the hour of service arrived the church building was crowded to the doors. All standing room was taken and numbers were forced to remain on the outside.

Promptly at 10.30 the organist, Miss Annie Martin, began to play the prelude. The pastor read the 'call to worship,' parts of Psalm 95. Then the Rev. M. P. Freeman, one of the ex-pastors, pronounced the invocation, after which the choir sang the anthem 'Praise ye the Lord.' This was followed by all singing the hymns, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty. The scripture lesson was read by Brother Alex. Gibson (L.C.) and prayer by the Rev. Alfred Chipman, of Berwick.

The choir rendered the anthem 'The Lamb of God.' The dedicatory sermon was preached by the Rev. J. D. Spidell, M. A., of Kentville. It was a very appropriate, helpful and beautiful sermon for the occasion, delivered in Mr. Spidell's earnest and animated style. He took as his text, 'spiritual temple building the first and most important thing in life.' After the sermon Pastor Powell and his people read responsively the dedicatory declaration. The dedicatory prayer was offered by the Rev. G. O. Gates, D. D., of Truro. It was a most appropriate and impressive prayer.

The afternoon service was in two parts. The first part had reference to the Sunday School. Scripture lesson and prayer was offered by Brother Alex. Gibson. Anthem by choir, 'Jesus, I my cross have taken.' The address, a very helpful one, was delivered by the Rev. Alfred Chipman, of Berwick.

The second part had reference to the Memorial window. Mrs. E. O. Read had presented a very beautiful window, design 'The Good Shepherd.' It was placed back of the choir platform. The presentation was made for Mrs. Read by the pastor, in a few words. He also took the opportunity to thank Mrs. Read for her splendid gift. It is erected in memory of Rev. E. O. Read who was ordained in Gaspereau and served the church as pastor some 13 years. In that time he baptized about 500 persons. The Rev. M. P. Freeman delivered the memorial address, giving many reminiscences of bygone days. Rev. J. D. Spidell sang a solo. Prayer and benediction were given by Brother Clyde Robbins.

The evening service began at 7.30 and the following program was carried out: Invocation, Dr. Chipman; Scripture lesson, Brother Gibson; Anthem, choir; Jesus, Lover of my soul; Prayers, Brother C. A. S. Howe; Solo, Rev. J. D. Spidell. A powerful gospel sermon, that held the large congregation in intense interest, was preached by the Rev. G. O. Gates, D. D., of Truro. He took his text from John's Gospel, 12:32. This theme 'The uplifted Christ: the divine attraction of the Universe.' All who heard the sermon will not soon forget it. Benediction by Rev. J. D. Spidell.

Monday evening a meeting was held entitled a 'Meeting with Pastors.' Not many, however, could be present. The present pastor gave the fraternal greetings, responses were made by the Rev. Dr. Gates and the Rev. Mr. Spidell.

Tuesday evening an evangelistic meeting was largely attended at which a very strong sermon was preached by the Rev. W. J. Rutledge, pastor of the Berwick Baptist church. The Revs. J. D. Spidell and Rutledge sang two duets very acceptably. The Rev. P. S. MacGregor also gave a few very helpful words. Good congregations characterized all the services.

A DESCRIPTION OF THE NEW CHURCH. Many visitors declared that the building is beautiful and convenient, as pretty as any country church in the province.

It sits aside to the road with two entrances—the main entrance on the southwest corner, through the main tower. The tower forms the vestibule. Doors that swing either way open in to the audience room which is nearly square, with floor sloping towards opposite corners from entrance. The pulpit and choir platforms are across that corner. The latter is raised a little above the former, which is circular in form, and separated from it by an oak railing. The choir is provided with a new bell organ, which sits across the corner back of the choir.

The audience room is seated with the opera chair, which gives the room a very pretty appearance, being finished in native oak wainscoting and southern pine doors and trimmings, with hemlock ceiling, all finished in oil and varnish.

The lecture room is at the left of pulpit platform, a drop partition separating it from the audience room. On either side are fine class rooms. Both these rooms are finished in spruce.

A large cellar extends under the entire building, in which is placed two furnaces. The heating plant is complete.

The audience room will seat about 150 and the lecture room about one hundred more.

The young people raised money to purchase both the fine bell and the organ. Much credit is due the young people for their enthusiasm and interest in the work. The building committee also was efficient, and has given general satisfaction. There is one sad feature. Mr. George Hunter, a member of this committee, did not live to see the completion of the work.
