

ACCEPTED ORDER.

A Discharged Employee Shoots Hon. George Brown.

ARREST OF THE ASSAILANT.

The Prisoner Confined at the Central Station - Mr. Brown Under Medical Treatment - The Prisoner's Record.

Shortly after four o'clock on Thursday afternoon, as Hon. George Brown was sitting in his room in the Globe office, he heard some one turn the handle of the door, which he always keeps locked. Then a rap came, and Mr. Brown rose and opened the door, to find a young man standing there with a paper in his hand. Mr. Brown walked back to the table, and, on sitting down, asked the stranger what was wanted. The man said that he was a discharged employe, and wished, before leaving the city, to have Mr. Brown's signature to a certificate of character. The latter said that he could not conscientiously sign such a paper, as he did not know whether he had worked in the office under the name of the man in question, and, therefore, could not vouch for his character. The man persisted, and Mr. Brown again refused, he put his hand back to the door, and, as he was about to close it, he was seized from behind by the man, who held a pistol against the wall, but he was not quick enough to prevent the discharge of the weapon. The ball passed through Mr. Brown's coat, and struck him in the chest, just above the heart. The man then fled, and Mr. Brown was taken to the hospital.

Dr. Thornburn accompanied the injured gentleman to his home. On their way, Mr. Brown did not utter a word, but he was feeling a pain from the wound, but, on the contrary, was quite talkative, and related at length the circumstances connected with the shooting. He was standing in front and at the side of Mr. Brown when he fired. The bullet traversed about the length of the torso, and, as it passed through the chest, it struck the lung, about three inches below the hip. The bullet took a downward course, which would show that the man who fired was standing slightly in front and at the side of Mr. Brown when he fired. The bullet traversed about the length of the torso, and, as it passed through the chest, it struck the lung, about three inches below the hip. The bullet took a downward course, which would show that the man who fired was standing slightly in front and at the side of Mr. Brown when he fired.

After the excitement had somewhat subsided, a messenger was dispatched for Dr. Thornburn, the injured gentleman's medical adviser, who hastened to the Globe office. The wound was found to be a penetrating wound of the left leg, about three inches below the hip. The bullet took a downward course, which would show that the man who fired was standing slightly in front and at the side of Mr. Brown when he fired. DECEASED WIFE'S SISTER.

Opinion of a Jewish Rabbi on Mr. Montreal, March 25.—On Mr. Girouard's marriage bill, Dr. De Saia, the eminent and learned Jewish rabbi, has given his opinion as follows:—From the earliest times of Jewish ecclesiastical history down to the present day, both kinds of marriage have been permitted. This is the Jewish law, and it is the duty of the Jewish community, especially in the United States, to observe it. The rabbi's opinion is that the bill is in accordance with the Jewish law, and that it is the duty of the Jewish community to observe it.

A STRIKE FOR LIBERTY.

Three Convicts at Kingston Throw Dust in their Keepers' Eyes and Try to Escape. Kingston, March 26.—Last night about 5:30 o'clock, as the guards were making up the ranks for the purpose of marching the prisoners from the quarry on the new pen to the penitentiary, three convicts, Gow, Doyle and Winslow, made a strike for liberty and nearly succeeded. Doyle, who was nearest guard Bryson, had charge of the gang of 31 men, threw dust in his eyes, and while Bryson attempted to brush it away, he was struck down and prostrated. The other two convicts, Gow and Doyle, followed him, and the three men escaped. They were pursued by the other convicts, but they managed to get away. They were seen by the guards, but they were not captured. They are now at large, and are being sought by the police.

GRAYBURN'S MURDERER.

Arrest of a Suspected Indian at Fort Fort Benson, Canada, March 26.—An Indian was arrested here to-day for the murder of Policeman Grayburn of the 17th North-West Mounted Police. The murder was committed on the 17th of November, 1879. Grayburn, with his horse and gun, went out from Fort Benson on the 17th of November, and was seen by the Indian. The Indian shot him, and he died. The Indian was arrested on the 26th of March, and is now in custody. He is being held for trial.

ALLEGED WIFE MURDER.

An Ex-Policeman Accused of Beating his Better-half to Death. Shooting Story of Fiendish Brutality. PRINCE ALBERT, March 26.—An inquest was held here to-day on the body of Mrs. Cooper, who died on the 4th of January. It is alleged, from the effects of a kick administered by the accused, that she died. The accused is a former policeman, and is now in custody. He is being held for trial.

DEATH OF MR. F. H. MEDCALF.

The Public will learn with regret that Mr. F. H. Medcalf, ex-Mayor of Toronto, died at his residence, King street east, about half-past one on Friday. The deceased gentleman was a native of Toronto, and was a member of the City Council. He was a man of high character, and was respected by all who knew him. MORE RAILROAD COMBINATION.

Proposed Amalgamation of the Street Western with the Wabash System. NEW YORK, March 27.—The Commercial Advertiser says it is rumored that the Wabash combination are in treaty for the Great Western of Canada, and that a new connection is to be built between the Wabash line and the Great Western. This will bring the Wabash line into continuous line from Kansas City on the West and Omaha on the east side of the Missouri river to the bridge on the Niagara river. From hence freight connections are practicable with either New York or Montreal by rail or canal. It is also rumored that the South-Western, the Garrett, of the Baltimore and Ohio, and the Wabash, have been together the last few days, and that liberal offers have been made to the Wabash for their freight traffic to Baltimore and Philadelphia. This would signify the Wabash line to be in the hands of the New York and Montreal, and the Baltimore and Ohio.

Iron mining is being vigorously prosecuted at Mr. Boyd Caldwell's mines in Lavant, six miles from the terminus of the Kingston and Pembroke Railway. It is reported to be completed by December, and will be a large amount expended in mining in Lavant.

Two cars of gold ore from the vicinity of the Canada Mining Company, near the terminus of a consignment of 100 cars, were forwarded to Buffalo on Tuesday. Five bags of gold ore, valued at $100,000, were lately forwarded to the same place from the Gatling mine.

Sickness is very prevalent in Dorchester County, and is believed to be the result of the continued mild but disagreeable weather of the winter. Several cases of diphtheria are reported from Montserrat, and the disease is also reported from the rounds elsewhere, with serious results.

The funeral of the late Mr. Dumas, M.P., took place on Thursday last, his remains being placed in the vault of the late Mr. Dumas, Westminster. The attendance was large. One of the oldest residents of Westminster, he was widely known and highly respected as an upright Christian man.

At a meeting of the Barrie Literary Association on Friday evening, the 19th inst., the Society discussed the following interesting question:—"In the National Policy an injury to Canada?" The affirmative was supported by Messrs. Brown, McKinnon, Holmes and Brown. The President, Rev. J. H. Moorhouse, after a careful summary, gave his decision in favour of the negative.

Every log of lumber in the yard owned by Messrs. Caldwell & Son, Carleton Place, is either sold or partially bargained for, and the heavy machinery of the yard is in the tramp of many of the mills. A gentleman, who deals largely in rough lumber, has advanced $100,000 to the yard at 8%. Last Monday he was asked $90 for the same class, with the additional information, gratifying to the public, but unpleasant to the mill owner, that the matter of indifference, as it could be cheaply put on the wing for the States as a wagon for local delivery. We hope, an advance in monthly wages.—Central Canadian.

The annual meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association of Eastern Ontario was held in the village of Markdale. The attendance was good, most of the townships of the riding being well represented. The conduct of the meeting was of the highest order, and the reports of the various committees were critically and strongly approved. A vote of thanks was accordingly rendered them. The following were elected officers:—Mr. Neil McNeil, President; Mr. J. H. Moorhouse, Vice-President; Mr. Thomas Kelly, of Ardenburg, President; Mr. T. Lyons, of Ardenburg, Secretary; Mr. Samuel Robinson, of Carleton Place, Corresponding Secretary; Mr. Lemmon, of Dundas, Assistant Corresponding Secretary; Mr. J. H. Moorhouse, Treasurer.

After the business part of the meeting was over, about forty-five of the gentlemen present retired to Mr. Alexander's billiard room, where a very pleasant and very substantial dinner was in readiness.

It is our duty this week, says the Strathroy Dispatch, to record the death of Mr. Alex. Johnson, who was born in Scotland, March 18th, 1830, in the 70th year of his age. The deceased was a native of the town of Tyrone, Ireland, May 12th, 1818. In 1834 he emigrated to Canada; and in 1836 settled on lot 6, con. 3, N.E. 1/4, Adelaide, Ontario. He was a man of high character, and one of the earliest settlers in Adelaide. Mr. Johnson was highly respected in his neighbourhood, and was a man of the kindest heart and best neighbours in the township. He gathered considerable wealth, and was a man of high social position. He was well known in this town and vicinity.

Interesting Summary of News from the Island of Rhodes.

The island of Rhodes, in the Southern Sea, is only six miles from the coast of Asia, and a half hour's ride, but according to the account of it which has just been brought by Mr. Major-General Newgate, it has a population of much larger than it is. It has, in fact, been engaged in civil war for many years past, and it is now the seat of the most sanguinary and ferocious of the rival factions engaged in the political system of the island, which is a subject of great interest to the public.

This is very satisfactory to the surface, and might appear at first sight to show that our superiority in morality and intelligence is trusted to introduce a radical amendment in the ways of household economy. We meet, however, with an extraordinary addition to the intelligence in the statement that almost the whole of the inhabitants are nominally Christians, and profess themselves either Roman Catholics or Wesleyans, and that the hostile tribes are to be seen attacking respectively the two opposite persuasions. What is still worse, there is said to be reason to fear that "the Roman theologians" are not only the advocates of the most atrocious and sanguinary of the ways of household economy, but that they are also the most active and energetic of the advocates of the most atrocious and sanguinary of the ways of household economy.

It is not so much that a fresh supply of Western energy should be imported into the island, but that the island should be subjected to a new and more energetic and more energetic of the advocates of the most atrocious and sanguinary of the ways of household economy.

The parties opened fire, and the officer commanding the picked fire two or three volleys. The assembly was wounded, and the sergeant-major was positively killed. He saw a body of Zulus advancing; as he heard no bullets whizzing over his head, he at once stopped the firing, and very shortly after again sent out the picked fire. It was afterwards said by Zulus belonging to Siray's regiment, that 1,000 men that they actually intended to make an attack, but in consequence of the hot fire which they were met, gave it up, and they were again sent out a night attack. On the 15th of June two shots were fired by the picked fire on some few Zulus who were lurking about. The troops fell into their places quietly. The picked fire was not withdrawn, and no attack was made the men were disarmed. On the 16th of July, at the White Umvolvo River, one of the picked fire sent heard tramping in his front in the long grass. He charged, and being obliged to give no answer, and being unable to do what was before him, he fired one shot into the air to give the alarm. It turned out, however, to be a party of Zulus, and he was attacked, and he was obliged to give up. On this occasion the picked fire was perfectly regular, except in one small portion of the larger. The battalion of picked fire, in case of alarm, is to be formed up inside, and not to leave the trenchment, carried back with them in their arms, instead of carrying their arms, and also carried over their right shoulder the waggons where Lord Chelmsford and his headquarters had arranged their bivouac. Colonel Lowe also, in the morning, received an injury on his head. I regret that I must add that the regiment which was sent to the 10th, and the 2nd Division during the campaign. All the others remained perfectly steady at their posts, and the regiments fell in quietly in the morning, and were dismissed. I blame myself entirely for the confusion which I have described. The picked fire was sent to the 10th, and the 2nd Division during the campaign. All the others remained perfectly steady at their posts, and the regiments fell in quietly in the morning, and were dismissed. I blame myself entirely for the confusion which I have described.

and the pills composing the wrought-iron hide of the cannon disengaged themselves from the broken barrel. The assembly was wounded, and the sergeant-major was positively killed. He saw a body of Zulus advancing; as he heard no bullets whizzing over his head, he at once stopped the firing, and very shortly after again sent out the picked fire. It was afterwards said by Zulus belonging to Siray's regiment, that 1,000 men that they actually intended to make an attack, but in consequence of the hot fire which they were met, gave it up, and they were again sent out a night attack. On the 15th of June two shots were fired by the picked fire on some few Zulus who were lurking about. The troops fell into their places quietly. The picked fire was not withdrawn, and no attack was made the men were disarmed. On the 16th of July, at the White Umvolvo River, one of the picked fire sent heard tramping in his front in the long grass. He charged, and being obliged to give no answer, and being unable to do what was before him, he fired one shot into the air to give the alarm. It turned out, however, to be a party of Zulus, and he was attacked, and he was obliged to give up. On this occasion the picked fire was perfectly regular, except in one small portion of the larger. The battalion of picked fire, in case of alarm, is to be formed up inside, and not to leave the trenchment, carried back with them in their arms, instead of carrying their arms, and also carried over their right shoulder the waggons where Lord Chelmsford and his headquarters had arranged their bivouac. Colonel Lowe also, in the morning, received an injury on his head. I regret that I must add that the regiment which was sent to the 10th, and the 2nd Division during the campaign. All the others remained perfectly steady at their posts, and the regiments fell in quietly in the morning, and were dismissed. I blame myself entirely for the confusion which I have described.
