

ALL FOR RICHES.

CHAPTER XXXI.

THE CONFESSION.

"Why, Belle!" ejaculated her husband. "I do not care. She is nothing but a torment to me. Why should I wish her here. If she lives, she will come between us and wealth. If she dies, Major Grant will give you half of his immense property. Let her die?"

Grant Whitney had long ago ceased to love his wife, and now he felt an absolute horror of her. He muttered, "Terrible creature!" and went out of the room, leaving her alone. "There's murder in my heart toward you!" muttered the angry woman between her set teeth. "If ever I get the papers all right I will find a way to keep you quiet."

Under the skillful treatment of Jane, Mrs. Grant had given signs of life before the arrival of the physician, sent by Frank, who had telegraphed to Major Grant to return at once, adding the single word "Evangeline!"

The major was sitting upon the piazza of his hotel that same afternoon, only an hour after Mrs. Grant's sudden illness was known, when a messenger from the telegraph office placed a folded paper in his hand. He opened it and read:

"Major Grant, come immediately—Evangeline." "E.G.W."

"What can it mean? Something has happened to Evangeline!" cried the distracted husband, hastening into the hotel to make preparation for departure. The next train for the North bore him rapidly toward his home where he arrived, to find his beautiful wife, raving with fever, and calling upon him to come and save her from some great evil. He knelt beside her and his low voice soothed her madness.

For many days this devoted husband did not leave the sick room for an hour, and at length his patient labor was rewarded. Mrs. Grant opened her eyes and gazed about her with the air of one who has long been absent from home.

Major Grant bent over her. She asked: "Is little Frankie here?"

"Yes, Frankie and Chrissy are both well."

"Has Frank Whitney gone away?"

"No. He is waiting until the danger is over," answered her husband.

"Have you been with me all the time?"

"Yes, my sweet wife. But you must not talk now. You are quite weak."

Mrs. Grant gazed upon the care worn face of her husband, and in that first hour of returning consciousness came the old regret, and took up its residence in her heart. It had haunted her ever since she had first yielded to temptation, and she felt that it would haunt her until the weary burden of life was yielded and she slept the sleep that knows no waking. Oh, how the memory of one sin can haunt the whole life, peering wistfully face upon the joyous scenes of mirth or quiet enjoyment, which the tired soul has well-nigh forgotten its terror!

MADE WELL AND STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto.—I gladly give you my testimonial in favor of your wonderful medicines. Last October I wrote to you for advice as I was completely run down, had bearing down sensation in the lower part of bowels, backache, and pain in the side. I also suffered terribly from gas. After receiving your directions, I followed them closely and am now entirely free from pain in back and bowels, and am stronger in every way.

I also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my baby was born, and I recommend it highly to all pregnant women.—Mrs. E. WANDY, 92 Logan Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Another Woman Cured. Maple Creek, Sask.—I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I am now in perfect health. I was troubled with pains every month. I know other women who suffer as I did and I will gladly recommend your medicine to them. You may publish this if you think it will help others.—Miss F. E. COOK, Maple Creek, Sask.

If you belong to that countless army of women who suffer from some form of female ills, don't hesitate to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

With a sickening dread of returning life, Mrs. Grant closed her eyes with the wish that she might never wake again. Life held but one real joy for her, and that joy was rendered bitter by the memory of her one misdeed.

Her child was a comfort to her when he was all her own, but that was but for a few moments only. Another, proud, revengeful, and cruel, was the ruler of that little boy, whose very life was under a cruel hand.

Her weary thoughts were mercifully shrouded by sleep, and not until the next day did she awake. Her first question was:

"Is Frank here?"

"No, my wife. He came in and looked at you as you slept. Poor Frank, he is worn to a skeleton! He is worried himself sick about you and the dear boy actually shed tears when he looked upon you this morning. He bent over you and kissed you twice. You see how much he thinks of you, Evangeline. Then I went away, looking as though my heart would break. I am glad that Frank and my little wife are on such good terms."

The blue eyes were closed now, and a faint color stole into the cheeks of the beautiful, pale invalid. Presently she said: "Did I say anything when I was ill?"

"You talked some. Not so much as some people do who have brain fever," he answered.

Mrs. Grant would have given much to have known what she did say, but she dared not ask. She was glad that Frank Whitney was not at Laurel Glade. You will miss him very much when you are able to ride and walk out," he said to her one day, when she had grown well enough to sit up in the comfortable chair by the window.

She answered: "I wish for no companionship but yours, my dear husband. Frank is like a dear brother to me, and I prize his friendship; but I shall not be able to go out much this season, and I wish for a quiet winter all to ourselves. We can have Frank here in the springtime. We will enjoy the coming winter together."

Major Grant was evidently pleased with the compliment given him by the preference for his society shown by his young wife, but he replied:

"You will miss young company, Evangeline. I am so much older than you are that you would grow tired of being all alone with me through the winter."

"I should never grow tired of being alone with you," she protested, "You are older than I am, it is true, but from one who has seen so much of the world, I cannot fail to learn much that will make me both wiser and better. You will humor this request. I know you will, Major Grant."

She spoke earnestly, and her husband kissed her anxious face as he promised to allow her to have her own way about filling the house with young company during the coming winter.

Young people are quick to recover from illness, and Mrs. Grant saw the roses blooming upon her cheeks long before the frosts of winter set in, and she enjoyed many a drive about the country with her devoted husband beside her.

They also walked out together when the weather was fine, and Major Grant thought his health would be perfectly re-established with the winter. He was destined to be mistaken, however, and when Christmas came he was confined to his room.

The doctors all agreed that it was impossible to cure him. His ancestors had all been swept away by quick consumption, and he felt that he was to follow soon. He murmured not, although the thought of leaving his sweet young wife was more bitter than any thought of death.

With the conviction of approaching dissolution came the desire to leave his worldly affairs in order, and Major Grant was startled to think that his last will was in existence, and that by that document his whole property would be divided between Frank and Grant Whitney. He was startled to think he had been so careless.

"Of course, Frank would never deprive my widow of her just due; nor would Grant, if left to himself; but it is best to have all things left in order," he said to himself.

Mrs. Grant had been devoted to her husband since his health had failed, and for several weeks she had not been out for a drive, and scarcely an hour had been passed in the open air. Her fresh color was fading, and she knew that she was growing thin; but she was determined not to forsake the post of duty.

Wishing to spare her the knowledge of the fact that he was making his will, Major Grant proposed to her to leave the sick room for a while and ride to the city to make some purchases which she desired to make before the first of January.

He spoke to her about going the day before he wished her to be away from Laurel Glade. She reluctantly consented to go over to the city the next day, if it was fine weather.

Then they sat in the sunshine a long time, talking about their hopes and plans for the future.

Mrs. Grant did not for one moment suppose that her husband would leave her so soon, and her plans extended over a term of years. After this conversation he asked her to tell him something of her early life.

"I have always felt that there was a mystery connected with the early days of your young life. Perhaps it is from the fact that you have never spoken of your life that this feeling arises. If there is anything that you do not wish to speak of, pass it by. Do not put yourself to any trouble, or feel that you must tell me anything that will embarrass you."

"I will tell you all my life, Major Grant, and then you shall judge if I merit your love or hate."

"Hush, Evangeline! Nothing could make me hate you," he said gravely. "Nothing," she asked. "Would nothing make you hate me?"

"No, my love. If you should tell me that you had been a murderer, or false to me, it might break my heart, but it could never cause me to hate you. I speak of the possibilities of such a thing, not because I have a thought of it, but to prove to you how perfectly I love and trust you."

Gathering strength from his words, Mrs. Grant commenced the story of her life.

"When I was a child I lived upon a farm. My father and mother were worthy people, but quite plain and humble," she said.

"Your father's name, love? We must not omit names," playfully reminded her listener.

She went on without looking up: "His name was Mellen—"

"Not—"

"Christopher Mellen is my brother. Mrs. Grant Whitney is my eldest sister."

"How can this be?" he asked.

"Please do not interrupt me, and I will tell you all about it," she answered; and then she told him her whole story. She did not spare herself, but told all from her earliest recollection to the time when she had fallen ill from excitement.

"Then I have the reason why you did not wish Frank to come back here this winter?" he asked, when she had paused.

"I was not afraid to meet him; but I could not bear to have him here here."

"I am glad to hear that," he said, and then he told her the story of his own life, and how he had come to be a doctor.

and know that I was playing a part before you. I have so desired to tell all this, and throw myself on your mercy, for the secret of my life has eaten into my heart until it has nearly worn it through. Do not quite scorn me, husband?"

For all answer, Major Grant drew the head of shining golden curls softly down upon his bosom, and held it there while he answered:

"I do not scorn you, darling. I pity and forgive, even as I hope to obtain forgiveness of Him who has said, 'Let him who is without sin cast the first stone.' If you had told me this when we were first married, I would have spared you many hours of unhappiness. As it is, I will see that justice is done the child. Bring him in here, that I may see if he does resemble you."

"First, tell me that you forgive me fully and freely," she said.

"I forgive you fully and freely, Goldie," he answered, kissing her tenderly.

She returned the kisses, and went away to find Frankie.

Mrs. Whitney was crossing the hall with the children as Mrs. Grant went out of her own room.

"Will you please allow me to take Frankie into our room for a little while?" asked Mrs. Grant of the hearty woman who stood, looking sorrowfully upon her.

"Who wants Frankie?" was the abrupt question.

Fads and Fashions.

Velvet is paramount. Fringe is everywhere. There is a decided reversion to the large hat.

Tappe is an immensely popular shade this season. Many black velvet hats are trimmed with white.

The larger the better—this is the rule for frills. Embroidered belts are very dainty and fashionable.

Leopard skin is quite the favorite in motoring coats. Black buttons of satin or velvet are introduced on lace.

Dark wine color vies with sapphire blue and motor color. Fur evening wraps were never more artistic or regal.

Lace is to be used in greater profusion than ever before. Serge and velvet one-piece dresses are an important feature.

Automobile veils are seen in all colors and combinations of colors. The use of Chantilly lace is one of the interesting fads of the moment.

The vogue is to wear a wrap or lace over afternoon and evening gowns.

Juliet caps for girls are among the novelties just brought out from Paris. Fine net and maline are much in evidence in this season's dainty fixings.

Even coat suits have the fashionable soft finish of fur at the collar and cuffs. Dark fur to the edge of skirt and train of light evening gowns, is very popular.

The fancy fur fringe seems unabated; it is seen everywhere on gowns, hats and bags. Velvets and chambrase are strong in combinations. The latter trims the velvet dress.

Every dress boasts of a bunch of silk mousseline or worsted blossoms somewhere. Panels and covered buttons are very effective on the skirts of the season's street dresses.

The reversible coat is not only an accomplished fact, but is a great favorite in silk and wool. Silver and gold cloth slippers are very attractive, and can be worn with gowns of any light color. Jewels, embroidery, rich brocades, lace and fur all are used as magnificent trimmings on the new gowns. Some pretty scarfs are now worn which are shaded from a deep tone to the palest tint of the same color. All sorts of pretty caps are worn with tea gowns. These are trimmed with beads or gold bands of fur.

What The Times

And other British newspapers say of the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The reviews, from which portions are quoted on this page, afford overwhelming evidence that the new edition of the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA is indeed a book "that one ought to have." It will become as one review phrases it, "an indispensable part of the life of millions of people."

But it is also, as another review says, "a miracle of cheapness," i.e., a possession which everyone can afford.

A Great Achievement

"Merely on the score of achievement one can but feel proud that such a great work should have been produced in England, but beyond this pride the reader feels the joy of possession. A notable, invaluable, and handsome addition has been made to his library.—Daily Mail.

A New Method

"The first point that makes it memorable is, as we have said, that, unlike all its predecessors, unlike any other book of similar dimension and scale, it has been finished at once. . . . The whole of the 29 volumes have been passed under the editorial eye before any one of them was given to the world; and thus there has been secured a unity of system, a harmony and a homogeneity, which would have been impossible if the issue had been made volume by volume.—The Times.

A Historical Incident

"The publication of the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica by the University of Cambridge is something more than a merely literary event. It attains the dignity of a historical incident, full of national importance. . . . Alike in its fullness of treatment, its comprehensive character, its authoritative nature—depending upon the work of the highest authorities—we believe the present edition to leave behind any and every other publication of the kind, and its successful completion is a matter of congratulation, not only to those responsible for it, but to the English nation at large.—The Daily Telegraph.

Incomparable

"If we have appeared warm in our eulogy of this new edition, we have said not a word that we should wish to withdraw. The Encyclopaedia Britannica in its new form is a work in which the nation may feel a just pride. There has been nothing to compare with it in the past. . . . Scholarship and research in no country have produced anything on the same scale.—Westminster Gazette.

A Great Undertaking

"Criticism is swallowed up in admiration at the administrative ability which has brought so large a scheme to so successful a realization.—Morning Post.

Up-to-Date

"Each article contains the latest available information on its subject, and the events and discoveries of last year are recorded, not merely occasionally, but uniformly. The work, in fact, is all that the available knowledge of to-day or yesterday can make it.—Standard.

Universal Knowledge

"It represents, literally, universal knowledge so far as it can be acquired by reference to the printed document.— Scotsman.

"One ventures to predict that, with the appearance of the Eleventh Edition, the Encyclopaedia Britannica will become an intimate and indispensable part of the life of millions of people. The reason for this lies in the nature of the work, in the way it is produced, and in the needs and tendencies of these days, of ours, which it comes to supply. It has come at the right time, and in the right way, and is the right thing.—Manchester Dispatch.

The new, 11th edition, of the Encyclopaedia Britannica can be delivered AT ONCE to immediate purchasers only, who also secure the advantage of the present low prices. A payment of $5.00 secures delivery at once, and purchase may be completed by monthly instalments of $5.00 only.

Immediate delivery to PROMPT Subscribers!

There are at the present moment in St. John's a number of sets of the new edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica ready for immediate delivery. The number is limited and orders received for them will be taken in strict rotation. When this stock is exhausted, orders should at the earliest possible occasion notify the Cambridge University Press office in St. John's their intention of purchasing.

It is, therefore, essential that those who wish to enter at once into possession of the work should at the earliest possible occasion notify the Cambridge University Press office in St. John's their intention of purchasing.

The increase in price must take effect shortly.

The present prices at which the new work is offered in Newfoundland are lower now than in the United Kingdom, Canada or elsewhere. This offer can only be extended for a short period longer. The price, therefore, must very shortly be raised by at least $10.00. This increase in price will be the first step towards the final price, at which the work will be ultimately sold. An immediate application is, therefore, also essential to secure the work at its lowest price.

Any reader who has not yet received particulars of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica may obtain them by writing name and address below, tearing out this corner of the page, and enclosing it to

For Everyone

"The literary worker, the historical student, and the public man will find in every volume a number of authoritative articles on their special subjects, while the professional or business man will be sure that if he wants to find facts or statistics bearing upon his special activity, he can do so with the least expenditure of time and trouble by turning to the Encyclopaedia Britannica. It is the most comprehensive and most authoritative that has ever appeared in any country.—The Nation.

An Event

"The completion of the new edition (the eleventh) of the Encyclopaedia Britannica is not only destined to rank as the chief literary event of the year, but, when account is taken of the character of the work, it may without hesitation be set down as the greatest achievement of its kind that has ever been accomplished.—Northern Whig (Belfast).

A Library

"I have found the ordinary dry bones of a work of the kind clothed with flesh and inspired with life by experts as literary as they are scholarly. I have spent, in fact, many pleasant and profitable hours in a library—to borrow Leslie Stephen's happy title—not in a museum, and in one of these rare libraries which has every book you need with almost everything that you need packed tersely yet attractively between its covers.—Truth.

An Intellectual Treasure

"Two classes of readers will find the Encyclopaedia invaluable. The ordinary student, whose main interest and effort are necessarily confined to a single subject, could not have at his elbow a more serviceable book of reference; and the general reader, whose lot is cast in the country or in the Colonies, where libraries are distant and books not easy to obtain, will find in the Encyclopaedia an intellectual treasure hardly to be over-estimated.—The Daily Graphic.

A Material Feature

"They (the volumes) are light to hold, and so well bound, both as regards the sewing of the sheets and the covers, which are of flexible leather, that you may bend them back and hold them for reading, folded as you would a magazine, without damage. Improvements in contents apart, this innovation, which humanizes a book previously not to be lightly taken from a shelf, is in itself enough to justify the new edition.—Manchester Guardian.

A Book to be Read

"Certainly one of the world's masterpieces in editing, printing and publishing. . . . It is a book to read—read with comfort sitting in a chair.—Daily News.

India Paper

"One of the things for which 1911 will be famous is the publication of the eleventh edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, by the Cambridge University Press. . . . It is one of the most wonderful books of reference which have ever been compiled. Not only are its contents marvellous, but its formation is incomparable.—Express.

A Miracle of Cheapness

"Normally, we expect to pay nearly twice as much for an India paper edition; the India paper volume of the new Britannica is only 1s. 2d.—or about 7 per cent.—dearer than the thick, Surely 17s. for a volume of nearly 1,000 pages on India paper is a miracle of cheapness.—Morning Leader.

The Fancy Fair of the C.C.C. was renewed at 3.45 last evening at the British Hall. There was a large gathering and the ladies were kept busy up to the closing hours. The tables were generously patronised and most of the goods were sold. At 8.30 a concert was held under the direction of Mr. Hatton when the following program was rendered:—Duet, Piano—Mr. Hatton; French Horn—Lieut. A. Bulley; solo—Miss Coady; song and chorine—Boys of St. Patrick's Hall; solo—Mr. H. Foster; solo—Miss M. Devine; recitation—Miss M. Doyle; song—Miss D'Alberty; con song—Mr. J. L. The recitations by Miss Doyle were excellent and evidenced both talent and culture. After the concert a party supper was served to which several hundred people sat down. The goods at all the stalls had to be replenished to-day in order to keep the fair running the third night. It will open at 3.45 and the Sale will close down at 6 in order to give time to replenish the hall for the grand dance that begins at 9.30. The lower flat will be reserved for bridge games. Refreshments will be served throughout the night. The receipts last night amounted to about $900. The ladies in charge deserve to be complimented on their success. They are working very hard.

Some of the double-woven satin blouses and some of the two light-weight satins of contrasting colors, placed back to back, are made reversible. They are finished alike on the two sides, with a large single revers and a basque effect and cuffs that button back to show the obverse color.

will tell you if she wants you to know."

At once the curious one went to Gretchen and said, "Nelly said that you would tell me yourself."

"Why, I never said any such thing," protested Gretchen. "How could she have told you so? I think it was abominable of her, when I trusted and confided in her."

Whereupon a fine three-sided quarrel was well under way. And the whole cause was simply an instance of that careless reporting, which I firmly believe causes half of the misunderstandings, disagreements and broken friendships in the world.

That was a case where a statement was actually heeded, but we all know how much mere intonation or inflection can change the meaning of the simplest sentence.

Probably you remember the passage in Middlemarch, where Lydgate appeals to his wife to help him get out of the debts into which her extravagance has helped to plunge him? Rosamond's reply is perfectly heartless, but the heartlessness is wholly an inflection.

"What can I do, Tertius?" said Rosamond, turning her eyes on his again. That little speech of four words, like so many others in all languages, is capable by varied vocal inflections, of expressing all states of mind, from selfish dimness to exhaustive argumentative perception from the complete self-devoting fellowship to the most neutral aloofness. Rosamond's thin utterance threw into the words, "What can I do?" as much neutrality as they could hold.

Now, suppose some partisans of Rosamond were telling of Lydgate's unjustifiable wrath with his wife and were to repeat that passage. How easily in his report the "What can I do?" might become the most eager and loving offer of help from a devoted wife.

Haven't you often heard some one repeat a conversation, at which you yourself had been present and been amused and astonished at the wholesale inaccuracies, both of spirit and letter, in the report?

I do not think the repeated word is ever to be fully trusted, no matter how excellent the intentions of the reporter. Surely never to be trusted to the detriment or prejudice of the person who is the author of the speech.

Even the unwritten word is an untrustworthy medium for conveying one's feelings. It needs the interpretation and supplement of accent, look and gesture.

Robert Louis Stevenson recounts, "Not long ago, I wrote a letter to a friend which came near involving us in a quarrel, but we met and in personal talk I repeated the worst of what I had written, added worse to that, and with the commentary of the body, it seemed not unfriendly either to say or to hear."

We all know that to communicate one thought correctly to another, is not the easiest thing in the world. Even speaking directly to our friend, we may offend him when there is not the slightest intention of offense in the heart.

Considering this and how vastly more uncertain a medium are repeated or written words, it certainly seems to me that the fairest, safest thing to do is to make an invariable rule to disregard them as matter for offense.

Don't you think so?

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat, eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, or indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strength-giver.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. THURSDAY, November 16, 1911.

They Contradict One Another.

The Daily News is apparently unable to reconcile the gross discrepancies we have exposed in the statements made by the Premier, the Minister of Finance, and the Daily News itself, and continues to maintain silence on these points.

In the Manifesto which the Premier made at Burin last month and which was published in the Daily News, Sir Edward Morris declared that the Bonavista Branch, the Trapessy Branch, the Heart's Content Branch, the Bay de Verde Branch, the Bonne Bay Branch, the Fortune Bay Branch and the extension of the latter through the long peninsula of Burin were all to be paid for out of the money realized from the 1910 Railway loan.

A financial statement tabled in the House of Assembly last session showed that the loan realized about $3,780,000.

The Daily News estimates these branches, excluding the Burin extension, have a mileage of 350, and reckoning the charge at $15,000, brings out the cost at $5,250,000.

We have already pointed out, and it is not denied, that the Daily News estimate for part of the programme the Premier set forth at Burin, exceeds the Premier's estimate for the whole of it by $1,500,000 in cash.

We have, also, shown and it is not denied, that the Daily News estimate of $15,000 a mile is an under estimate for not a cent is allowed for the purchase of the rights of way, and further not a cent is allowed for the value of stations, piers, wharves, fences and other extras which are not covered by the charge of $15,000 a mile, but form the basis of a separate charge based on their fair value, and which the Government is called upon to pay monthly.

In estimating the total cost at $5,250,000, the Daily News includes the Bonavista item as 88 times $15,000 or $1,320,000.

It is to be wondered that the glaring discrepancy between this assessment and the statement of the Minister of Finance in his last Budget Speech. Here is what appears in the official report of that Speech:—

"Really the public debt on the 28th of February last was not $27,000,000, but about $24,235,000, the railway contractor having been paid up to that day $1,212,000, and the right of way arbitrations, etc., having cost $80,000. The branch railway to Bonavista is now about four-fifths completed and will be finished early this summer."

It is to be wondered that the Daily News has refused to undertake the job of reconciling this statement of the Finance Minister, with its own estimate that $1,320,000 would pay for the whole branch, rights of way, stations, wharves, piers, snow fences, etc., and all extras.

It is to be wondered at that in view of the most extraordinary muddle of the Premier's financial statement at Burin that we have asked for a plain financial itemized statement of the actual expenditures on the several branches already under construction and an estimate of what remains unpaid for and what remains undone in connection with the Bonavista Branch.

It is to be wondered, in view of the discrepancy between $1,212,000 for four-fifths and the $80,000 right of way, and the Daily News' estimate of $1,320,000 for the finished line, stations, rights of way, that we persist in asking for particulars?

Does the Daily News realize that its own estimate only exceeds Mr. Cashin's $1,292,000 by $28,000, which is not near enough to complete the short Trinity Spur with stations, etc., and which was begun recently?

How then could $28,000 pay for the one-fifth of the Bonavista Branch of 90 miles which remains to be built last February, when the Finance Minister made his statement?

In view of these facts it is up to the Premier and the editor of the Daily News to put themselves right with the public, whom they have so glaringly misled.

Importers' Association May Meet.

In a conversation with Hon. E. R. Bowring, President of the Importers' Association, which the Telegram had this forenoon, that gentleman stated that if it could be found that there was any reasonable ground to believe the reports about the city which would go to indicate that dishonesty was apparent in the city stores, in connection with the big seizure of goods made from a house on Colonial Street, he thought it might be advisable to call a meeting of the Importers' Association to deal with the matter, and to see to it that a rigid investigation would be made in all the dry goods stores of the city. This he believes, would be the means of weeding out and possibly putting an effectual check on crooked practices and would vindicate the character of the innocent, who may be under suspicion of wrong doing.

Molasses Advancing

Yesterday the price of molasses again advanced and is now quoted at 31 cents a gallon, which is the highest for many years past. Stocks in the city are very low and the price it is feared will be prohibitive to dealers later. The year's crop is all in and there will be no opportunity of augmenting the stock now held here.

I am coughing, mother, coughing, till my neck is out of joint, and I wish you'd bring the goosegrease, my worn bosom to anoint. I have coughed in ancient times, I have coughed in modern times, till my india rubber larynx seems to telescope my lungs. I've COLD SEASON done ground and lofty coughing, all the plain and fancy kinds, till my coughing jarred the plaster and shook down the window blinds; I have coughed a country-tenor, I have coughed a rumbly bass, I have coughed until my coughing blew the whiskers from my face. All the dope you've brought me, mother, simply fails to hit the spot, I have taken tons of tablets, demijohns of liquid rot; I have drunk the tea you brewed me, worn a poultice on my throat, and the doctor has my savings and the druggist has my goat. Let us change the treatment, mother; give me goose or gander grease; rub it on my tortured larynx and perhaps I'll die in peace.

Mr. Whiteway Injured. Mrs. Butler in Court.

Mr. Otto Whiteway in charge of his father's horse and wagon, met with a serious mishap at Water Street West last evening about 3 o'clock. The horse took fright and ran in mad career up Water St. The carriage collided with a telegraph pole opposite the Victoria Park and Mr. Whiteway was thrown out and badly hurt. His shoulder was dislocated. Two young ladies helped him to his feet and assisted him to get to Mr. O'Mara's Drug Store when he was treated. He will not be able to come down to work for several days.

Mrs. Charlotte Butler, in whose house the big seizure of goods, supposed to be stolen, was made by the police Tuesday evening, was before the court to-day. His Honor Judge Knight presiding. Accused was not asked to plead. The specific charge in the record journal recorded against her was (1) the larceny of a quantity of goods, (2) the unlawful detention of a large quantity of goods, the property of persons at present unknown. The value, the time when taken and the specific amount was left blank on the Journal. Mr. R. A. Squires appeared for accused and Inspector General Sullivan prosecuted. Sergt. Byrne was put in the witness box and examined by the Inspector General, testifying in effect that he with officer Tobin on Tuesday went to the residence of accused on Colonial Street to execute a search warrant. The woman, when he went to read the document, refused point blank to allow him to search the house, and only when he called a constable in uniform did she submit to the search being made. He first visited her bedroom on the second flat. The house is a three storey one, and the bedroom is on the middle flat at the rear of the residence. He found every part of the room packed with parcels of all descriptions. There were in the room a quantity of second hand clothes, Men's, women's and children's clothing of all descriptions, and each parcel was labelled in lead pencil with the contents. In other parts of the house he found walking sticks, umbrellas, clothing, photographs, photograph albums and 7 large and 1 small trunk, which they had not yet been able to examine, but which contained as far as deponent knew ladies' nightdresses, underwear, blouses, boys' and girls' underwear, men's pants, coats, skirts, bed covers, cushions of all descriptions, 150 door and other mats, mostly second hand. He acted under the instructions of the Inspector General and said the goods were in a great quantity. He did not have time since to examine the trunks. There are marks on some of the things to indicate the owners, who are people personally known to deponent. He had not yet time to interview these people. Mr. Squires objected to witness being asked as to whether he had questioned accused as to how she came by the goods. He took the goods because it was suspected they were stolen and in all respects as to the matter. Mr. Sullivan here intimated that he had no further questions to ask at this particular stage of the proceedings. Mr. Squires made an application for bail for his client, who, he stated, was not of robust health and had to care for a little girl. Mr. Sullivan objected on the ground that the ends of justice might be defeated. After considerable discussion on the matter the Judge refused bail for the present and a mandamus until to-morrow, when at 2.30 p.m. Mr. Squires will renew his application for bail.

Mr. Lester Injured.

Mr. James Lester of Topsall Road met with an accident near Coughlan's there yesterday while going to attend the funeral of the late Mr. A. Turner. His brother John was also going to the funeral with friends in a carriage. He stopped the horse to take his brother James in, when the horse knocked him down with its head and then started off pulling the carriage wheels over his body. He was badly injured in the hip and forthwith had to be taken back to his house. He is now under doctors care.

Folks Past Fifty Must Use Cascarets.

What glasses are to weak eyes, Cascarets are to weak bowels—a 10-cent box will truly amaze you.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscular. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whipl the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

Fire in West End.

An alarm of fire sent in at 7.25 this morning called the West End and Central men to the central part of Alexander Street, where a little boy in the house of Mrs. Gosse had set fire to the window curtains with matches. The men from Parker & Monroe's factory were there before the firement and put out the fire which looked threatening as it ran up the window and burnt the curtains and blinds and was just catching the wall.

BIG BUSINESS.

Big business is a term of reproach calculated to cast opprobrium upon every man who has the price of a pair of theatre tickets and two suits of clothes a year. It is responsible for more crimes against the English language than a text book on rhetoric. Whenever a candidate for Congress wants people to forget how he voted on the tariff he turns a three-inch stream of eloquence and added grammar on big business and riddles its prostrate form with split infinitives. Big business is supposed to control the prices of all commodities, from seedling onions to senatorial vacancies, and as a consequence it is no longer admitted to our best homes. Many a man is throwing the books into big business in order to conceal the splits on a driving horse from a near-sighted purchaser. Big business is a favorite topic of vituperative conversation with agents for land which never grew anything but sage brush and a prospectus in three colors. We are always a little leary of the man who punctures the steel trust with one hand while trying to sell us a Cuban fruit farm on $2 down and $1 a month with the other. It is a peculiar fact that very frequently the man who is so horrified at the crimes of big business that he can't pay his barber bill will be found to have more blue sky for sale than a scene painter. Just now your Uncle Samuel is trying to equal big business with a high check and a wire bit, and if he succeeds there will be a shrinkage in the demand for pop-eyed oratory.

A Wonderful Case.
THREE MONTHS IN HOSPITAL AND CAME OUT UNCURED.

Zam-Buk Cured Him in Few Weeks
Mr. Fred Mason, the well-known upholsterer and mattress manufacturer, of St. Andrew's, N.B., says:—
"I had eczema on my knee, which caused me terrible pain and inconvenience. The sore parts would itch and burn and tingle, and then when rubbed or scratched, would become very painful. When the knee got warm it burned worse, and the itching and burning and smarting were almost unbearable. I tried various remedies, but got no better, so I decided to go to Montreal and take special treatment. I received treatment at the Montreal General Hospital for thirteen weeks, but at the end of that time I was not cured, and almost gave in. A friend advised me to give Zam-Buk a trial.
"Almost as soon as applied Zam-Buk stopped the itching and the irritation. I persevered with the balm and it was soon evident that it would do me good. Each day the pain was reduced. The sore spots began to heal and by the time I had used a few boxes of Zam-Buk I was quite cured. "Since then Zam-Buk has cured blood-poisoning in my finger, and at the time when my finger was in such a terrible condition that I feared it would have to be amputated."
For eczema, blood-poisoning, piles, ulcers, sores, abscesses, varicose ulcers, and leg cold sores, chapped hands, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries and diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal."
A box all druggists and stores or post free from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, Nfld., for price. Refuse imitations.

Straits Report.
The S.S. Home arrived at Bay of Islands at 3.20 p.m. yesterday. Capt. Keen sent the following report to the Reid Nfld. Co.: "Left Bay of Islands Thursday morning last at 6.30; had strong N.E. winds. Arrived at Battle Harbor at 12 noon Sunday. Weather very cold. People report plenty of fish with Jigger at Battle Harbor and Chateau when the boats can get out. Red Bay is frozen over and the people are travelling across the ice the past ten days. Monday and Tuesday had a gale of westerly wind and snow showers."

That Missing Oil.
We learn that the police have got track of the cod oil which was taken from Bay's wharf recently, as exclusively reported in the Telegram. It went north in a schooner and the losers are charitable enough to believe it was taken by mistake. The matter, however, will be rigidly investigated, and if any crooked work was resorted to in the taking, the person or persons concerned in it will be severely punished.

That Big Seizure
Mrs. Butler Arrested Yesterday—Several Business People Visit Lock-Up to Identify Stolen Goods—Woman Said to Have Confessed.

The seizure of such a great quantity of goods which the police now know were stolen, created a great sensation yesterday, and in the early afternoon the woman from whose house it was taken was quietly placed under arrest and brought to the police station, where she was placed in a cell and was given every attention by the matron in charge.
Yesterday afternoon Sergt. Byrne and Detective Tobin were at her house again and cleared out the rest of the goods left there, taking them to the lock up. Yesterday afternoon the proprietors and managers of most of the largest stores on Water Street visited the police station, but such a great collection of goods was there that they could not find time to go through them, though some articles were identified. The business community are appalled at the magnitude of the dishonesty disclosed by the seizure of stolen goods from this woman's residence, and we hear from good authority that the Importers' Association will take the matter up and have a thorough investigation conducted. It is rumored that the woman has made a clean breast of the whole affair to the police authorities and it is thought that for years past she systematically visited certain stores at the dinner and tea hours and obtained much goods on these occasions. Rumor has it also, as the Telegram noted yesterday, that another house has been used as a storage depot for more illicitly obtained property. Last evening and night the two officers (Byrne and Tobin) were engaged until about midnight trying to assort the stolen goods. These included a great variety of blankets, table cloths, ladies underwear, blouses—silk and linen, crockery and glassware, hats, stockings and a large variety of other goods. None of the trunks have yet been examined, but one which is open contains blankets of the finest kind, with jewellery, etc., underneath. The police are very reticent over the matter, and when asked as to the alleged confession made by the woman would give no information.

FLIES FURNISH FLAG.—Yesterday on the departure of the S.S. Almeriana the flag of the Furness Wharf Co. was flown for the first time on the premises formerly known as Pitts' East End premises.

One Dose Makes Indigestion Go.
Heartburn, Gas, Sourness and other Stomach miseries vanishes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, burp, or a belching of gas, you can make up your mind that you need something to stop food fermentation and cure indigestion.
To make every bite of food you eat aid in the nourishment and strength of your body, you must rid your Stomach of poisons, excessive acid and stomach gas, which sours your entire meal—interferes with digestion and causes so many sufferers of Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Bloatingness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your case is no different—you are a stomach sufferer, though you may call it by some other name; your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.
A case of Pape's Diapepsin will cost fifty cents at any Pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer five minutes after taking a single dose that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of Indigestion.
No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that a certain cure is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.
Pape's Diapepsin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat.

Two colors of ostrich in the one set are attractive. White in the centre, with brown or black or tinted ostrich looks well especially in the muff, and while trimmings on colored sets are liked.
The woman who wears black will delight in the new crepe de chine and dull or satin finish. They are fashionable and well liked for whole gowns.

Small neckpiece of ostrich and marabout with ends of wide, double-faced velvet ribbon, are becoming and wonderfully smart. One side of the ribbon is of contrasting hue.
Sleeves to suit are mostly of the regulation coat style. In droopier models some are made with the extended shoulder line, the sleeve being attached, which is on the order of the kimono.

The new evening gowns largely show some form of a train, the slashed design, one-sided arrangement and fish-tail cut being used for the most elaborate models. When the slashed suit is taken the points often have some form of trimming.
Black and white are still good. Double-faced materials are in the foreground and are appearing even in lace.

The coat with the shield effect is coming in stronger for winter wear, particularly in general utility wraps. Many of the more expensive coats have the odd-cut seams, which give the designers an opportunity of showing their cleverness, and many smart effects are produced by the clever use of the scissors.

Dispute About Site of Wharf.

Special to Evening Telegram.
SOUND ISLAND, To-day.
A stormy meeting was held here on Monday night to decide where the Government wharf should be built. The bellows cast showed a majority vote for Newtown. The Magroty Cove people are dissatisfied and say they only voted for fun. The North Harbour men are going round with a petition against it. But the place is paid for in Newtown and men are at work on it. This should end all controversy.

This Lady Gives a Splendid Reason

WHY SHE WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS IN THE HOUSE.

They helped her husband and cured her own Rheumatism, Dropsy and Gravel of thirteen years' standing.

Cando, Sask., Nov. 15. (Special)—"I would not be without Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house. My husband, Mrs. C. McKenzie of this place, and those who have heard Mrs. McKenzie's story do not wonder that she is so emphatic.

"I was a victim for about twelve or thirteen years of Bladder and Kidney trouble," Mrs. McKenzie says. "It grew into Rheumatism, Dropsy and Gravel. Doctors attended me, but they did not do me any good.

"My husband had used Dodd's Kidney Pills with good results so I decided to give them a trial. Before I had finished the first box I was greatly benefited. The Pills benefit and cure permanently all who suffer from any form of Kidney Disease. They cure the Kidneys and cured Kidneys strain the poison that causes the disease out of the blood. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure Rheumatism, Dropsy and Gravel.

The Evening Telegram wishes them many years of happiness.

Clark-Urban Co.

"Sold into Slavery" was produced last night by the Clark-Urban Co. at the T. A. Hall in presence of a large audience. The plot is an interesting one and shows how a counterfeiter, passing as a good man, wins the love of a woman who is completely ignorant of his career and marries him. Another lover reveals to her the real character of the man and advises her to elope with him. Maisie Cecil, who took the leading role, was superb. The acting of Miss Hunt, Miss Hodgkins and Miss Leith was well up to the standard and the audience showed due appreciation. Mr. Urban and Mr. Clark as usual did faithful work. Mr. Fred Schreiber and Mr. W. H. Pen-dexter filled their respective roles in a most capable manner. LeRoy Kennedy, Frank Field and Robertia, in their specialties rendered valuable support to the troupe. The play will be repeated to-night. It is well worth seeing.

HEALTH RESTORED TO THIS FAMILY

Wife's experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food led to husband's cure.

"Since childhood I was afflicted with biliousness and sick headache," writes Mr. A. K. Van Wyck, Park Hill, Ont., "and as all the doctors' medicines and prescriptions failed to do me any permanent good, I had lost faith in all medicines. It was by accident that I came to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for it had been recommended by Mrs. Van Wyck and did her so much good that she wished me to try it.

"I did so, and was surprised at the results. It is now three years since I discontinued the medicine and I have not had an attack of the old trouble. I hope that others may benefit by my experience."

The cures effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food are lasting because it builds up the system and removes the cause of trouble. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmansson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A Terrific Crush.

A Jamb of Buyers as Busy as Bees

BUYING--BUYING--BUYING.

All Selling Records Smashed!

A Pressing Emergency that necessitates the Most Stupendous Sacrifice of the C. L. March Co., Ltd., Entire $75,000.00 Stock of Dry Goods and Furniture.

READ THE REASON,
READ THE FACTS,
The Compelling Cause.

Owing to a stockholder's death and also the business changes demanded by the retirement of the principal stockholder of the C. L. March, Co., Ltd., together with backward season and disastrous money stringency C. L. March, Co., Ltd., are compelled to at once sacrifice their big $75,000 Stock to raise a required amount of cash in 30 days time. Now--It Has Come--We Could Not Help It--We tried to meet this crisis but find no alternative--We are actually forced to at once sacrifice this fine all new, fresh, winter stock of DRY GOODS and FURNITURE to immediately realize a required amount of CASH to meet the emergency, and we come before the public with a plain statement of our predicament and appeal to you, by unmercifully cutting and lowering PRICES DOWN TO LESS THAN COST TO MANUFACTURE, to come and now buy as much as you can use of the GOODS.

The opening day of the forced Sacrifice Sale of the C. L. MARCH Co., Ltd., entire $75,000 Stock of DRY GOODS, FURNITURE, Etc., witnessed a Terrific Crush of Buyers. Never has there been such a stupendous business anywhere in one day's selling.

When the order went out to sacrifice the C. L. MARCH Co., Ltd., stock, to at once realize a large amount of Cash, to meet a pressing emergency, the instructions were to let nothing stand in the way for quickly forcing out the stock. The command stated to remove all obstacles--Tear down all price barriers--only SELL--SELL--at all hazards to raise the CASH requirements.

The result has been miraculous--Selling has been fast and furious--We haven't a moment's intermission--Being most phenomenally busy SELLING.

This stock must be turned into CASH--NOW--at once--no matter what the loss--We have hammered down prices to the very bone to meet this crisis--and the goods are now being sacrificed at any PRICE that will bring the CASH.
