And as the young lady was not there to speak for herself, being upstairs construing Caesar for her classmates' edification, that was the reply Mr. Duvesne bore away some half hour later, bearing also, as Phillips opening the hall door observed with a secret snigger, a "Madame d'Arblay" carnation worn by Miss Leonora at luncheon. ("Hadn't the countess that shade? Then would he take it to her?") And Mrs. Alwyn announced to Sydney, "Leonora and I go to Oakleigh Place on Saturday, so I must depute you to receive Mr. Villiers. He writes asking for a peep of the country. I don't fancy he is very robust, so I hope he may enjoy the change, poor fellow.' Accordingly, on the day fixed, Mrs. Alwyn drove off with her elder daughter. Drive her with the naffle and not with the curb, my lad! er mother uses that too much"-but her personal charms he passed over with "you'll see her soon, and I needn't describe her:" so the appearance of his young hostess took Mr. Rupert as an agreeable surprise.

As the Hedyngham cab turned in at the leafy sweep of the Dale grounds, she came to meet him from under the drooping lime-boughs, the gracefulness of ready greeting in her slender summer-clad figure, the slight embarrassment that flushed her cheeks and darkened her serious eyes melting quickly as she fancied she detected in the new-comer that delicacy which her mother had foreshadowed.

Handsome after the type of his cousin Leonora, whom he immensely admired, she might not be, but wellbred to the most careless observer, with "points that gain upon a fellow every time he looks at her, you know.' exchanged for long. But given a mother and suitor playing judiciously into each other's hands. the game went on with every prospect of success. Though Leonora and her mother performed their devotions at Oakleigh church next day, Mr. Villiers elected to walk with Sydney to St. Clair's, gravely informing his companion that he thought people should always attend their parish church, though he would have been corely puzzled to tell where or what his was! And, coached by the cunning major, he fearlessly attacked his aunt's prejudices on feminine occupations, pronounced gardening a most invigorating exercise, and only wished he could shake off office drudgery any day and come and help his "cousins" at the work.

"But I shall be down again soon," he informed Sydney on the Monday morning when his first visit ended, and she, at the request of her mother, whose head did so ache if she rose too early, attended their guest's seven o'clock breakfast. "I feel no end better for this splendid air. I shall soon repeat the dose if I don't outstep my welcome." "There is no risk of that," returned Sydney, pleased at this tribute to St. Clair's curative powers; "as mamma said last night, you must come soon and come often if it does you good." And of this invitation the young man took full advantage. The Comynghams had all left Oak-eigh in September. A scare as to the water supply at the House dispersed them till the spring.

"It's awfully provoking, especially for me," said the Honorable Edward uite sentimentally, taking leave a the Dale, "for I wanted to hurry or those builders at my new rectory. The lace ought to be done by the spring. hope Miss Villers will show an inerest in it then, and tell me how i ugh to be arranged."

That speech was food for hope hrough long winter weeks, when Oak-and saw little of Mrs. Alwyn or her daughter. It might be well, too, the elder lady consoled herself with thinking, that this break had occurred. Sydney's affair could now be adjuste at reasonable leisure. Her marriageday might be decided on by when the Com sham's came back; and they would be without her through the next mmer's campaign, destined, the mother fondly hoped, to bring the bride-groom of her desire to Leonora's feet. Thus, through his flying visits Mr. Rupert's courtship was well seconde by his Aunt Helen, and-without much were made brighter to Sydney than may7,eod,tf

Ladies' Hats

We have just received a clearing line in Ladies' Straw Hats in newest American styles, and despite increased duties can offer you Hats

At Half the Price at the opening of the season. All other Hats at present in stock are also reduced.

You can add greatly to your dress by having a greater variety of Hats. Our Hat Pricing now, and at other times, enables you to do so, for here you can always buy a good hat in the very latest style for very little money.

It is our opinion that many ladies expend too much money on Hats and get very little for their money.

They sometimes put too much money into one hat. We want to emphasize that they never do that in this store, though our Hats are of the finest quality and right-up-tothe-minute styles.

Well Known Oarsman Dead.

Big Future for

Bell Island.

Within the course of a year, if al goes well, Bell Island will be in a posi-tion to export from two to five million tons of iron ore annually. This information was gleaned from enquiries recently made by a Telegram represent-ative from various officials of the companies which have now amalgamated under the name of "British Empire Steel." This, and other facts obtained, point to a great future for the "Iron Isle." Up to a few months ago, two companies were mining iron in Bell

Island, the Nova Scotia Steel Co., and the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. Recently, for purposes of more economic administration and production, and for other reasons obvious to all, an amalgamation of the companies took place and further capital was solicited. How well this appeal was answered is proved by the statement that there are $25,000,000 in English capital alone invested. In the meantime, whilst the new company is in process of reorganization no contracts are being accept ed and the plants have been closed down for a month. The Nova Scotia the office staff only being retained and men to work the pumps, whilst at the Dominion plant, 400 men are working shifts. As soon as the new company is reorganized, all work will start up as usual and upon an enlarged scale. It is expected that when reorganization takes place, a manager will be kept at both Scotia and Dominion sures constituting an urgent Legislative programme, drafted yesterday by Congressional leaders and President Whilst all officials approached were unwilling to talk on the matter of the proposed tax on ore, from outside sources it was gleaned that it is not looked upon with favour and that the general concensus of opinion seems to be that it would be better for the company to give a great deal of employment rather than that production should be to any degree reduced by miles southeast of here yester-torning, according to word the Cartain Readily to word of the directors of the new company > of 660. The potency of this can easily be imagined when it is realized that the voltage generated through the city and supplying all our electricity, is only 110. The whole of Bell Island will shortly receive its power from Whilst it cannot be claimed that everyone on Bell Island is in good circumstances, nevertheless, there is no member of the Opposition opposing it. But brute force and majority won the issue, and today Newfoundland stands pledged on its solemn honor to pay the contractors a sum of guaranteed losses up to ONE MILLION FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS. The CLB and C.C.C. gave some splendid selections which added much to the evening's enjoyment. At the close of the day's entertainment, a dance was held in the large recreation Bill as passed by the Government next goes to the Legislative Council, but the powers of that body having been shorn by Sir Edward (now Lord) Morris, there can be nothing expected from them but acquiescence from them but acquiescence to the dictates of the Lower did success achieved. The proceeds are house, unless the most potent, expected to exceed those of last year. grave and reverend Councillors k the Bill to death, a fate which previously had been met by many an Act sent up from the Commons. But that fate is not likely to overtake the Railway Bill. There are many things which prevent, and amongst some of the principal reasons are some which had better be left unsaid. There is a certain list of names which has been repeatedly asked for in the House of Assembly, that would tell the tale if they were admitted to publication. Therefore there is no hope from the majority in the Legislative Council. Newfoundlanders must sweat.

Following the passage of the series of which previously had been met

Following the passage of the Railway Bill, known as the Deal, of 1898, a wave of indignation spread over Newfoundmen, merchant and planter, dealer and laborer, seaman and fisherman, protested with all the trip on Red Indian Lake averaging 10 knots. Mr. Chaulk has built besides power at their command against the pretensions of the Government of that day. But the Deal of '98 had nothing in common with the Deal of 1921. The one received a quid pro quo, for the Colony, the other receives nothing. Really the present Bill makes a present of the huge sum of One Million, Five Hundred Thousand Dollars to the contractors, in addition to a deficit of One Million Six Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars, lost by Fifty Thousand Dollars, lost by the Railway Commission of operation last year, of which Commission the man of many parts, yclept W. F. Coaker was the Chairman. The colossal sum of THREE MILLIAN ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS has therefore been pledged by the Government of Newfoundland to recoup the contractors for their losses of the short period of two years, one twelve month of which time the read was being run under the supervision of two Government appointees, one of whom, Hen. W. F. Coaker, would not know a draw head from a brake rod. Yet Newfoundlanders have to pay the cost of this operation, and apparently they do it without a state of the members of Wesley Bible Class

People may starve next winter, but one miltion and a half dollars must be paid to the railway contractors. And this under so-called responsible government, and voted by men who in 1910 had no word of praise in their vocabulary for the company, only condemnation. One wonders what has happened to change condemnation. One wonders what has happened to change their opinion at present. Let the people ponder this also. The future of Newfoundland is in pawn to the railway people, and whether Confederation or a Crown Colony becomes the issue, the blame must be laid upon the political parasites who the political parasites who

It chanced that a small stream, tributary to the Tagus, flowed through a part of the batants, During a pause, produced by haustion of the troops, men of both armies went to the banks of the rivulet for water. On either side they approached without fear, threw down their caps and muskets, chatted to each other like old acquaintances, and exchanged their brandy-flasks and wine-skins. For the moment all asperity of feeling was suspended. In fact, to a stranger they would have appeared more like an allied force than men

The interval was employed in carrying off the wounded who lay intermingled upon the hardfought field; and it is to the credit of both sides that each endeavoured to extricate the common sufferers and to remove their unfortunate friends and enemies without distinction. But suddenly the bugles sounded, and the drums beat to arms. Many of the rival soldiery shook hands, parting with expressions of mutual esteem; and, ten

Lord Melbourne's Retort

Foote, the actor, dining with some friends, a heated discussion arose between himself and a young nobleman. The latter sought to disparage Focte by asking what his father was. "A tradesman," said Foote. "Then, sir, it's a pity he did not make you one. "And pray, let me ask what your father was, my lord?" "My father, Mr. Foote, was a gentleman." "Then, my lord, it's a pity he didn't make you

Lord Melbourne's retort to Mr. Black, editor of the Morning Chronicle, was perfect in its way. Melbourne was Prime Minister, and was constantly being attacked. Meeting in Pall Mall. they inquired after each other's health. Mr. B. explained that he was suffering from a bad cold. "Ah! Mr. B.," said Lord M., "you have been lying between damp sheets."

In the days when it was customary in Scotch churches for the minister to bow in succession to the chief heritors of his parish. Dr. Wightman, of Kirkmahoe, noticing that no male members of the family of Miller occupied their pew, refrained from bowing in that direction. Miss Miller (later Countess of Mar), who was present, on the first opportunity took the minister to task for his omission, and found him quite equal to the occasion. "I beg your pardon, Miss Miller," said he. "but surely you know that angel worship is not permitted in the Church of Scotland!"

Stealing the Crown Jewels.

Major-General Sir George Younghusband, whose official title is "Keeper of the Jewel House in the Tower of London," is in the unique position amongst high officers of State of having no superior in Court or Kingdom, save only His Majesty King

That is to say, he receives no orders except from the King personally, or conveyed to him by word of mouth through the Lord Chamberlain.

The origin of this rule (says General Younghusband in his most interesting book entitled "The Jewel House") is not far to seek, for otherwise, in less settled days, anybody who was in a position to do so might have ordered the Keeper to hand over portions of the Regalias.

This has actually happened more than once in the past; while several attempts, more or less successful, have been made to steal the jewels

Of these the best known was that engineered by Colonel Blood in the reign of Charles II. Blood actually succeeded in getting possession of the crown and sceptre; but General Younghusband is careful to point out that any modern Raffles bent upon emulating his exploit may certainly count on being guillotined or elec-home rule, is one of finance, includtive plan would be to provide for joint action in this matter by the two Legislatures. Ulster declare vehemently that it will never consen cal policy. A conflict between th adveates of a Protestant tariff and a Catholic tariff is an absurdity which need not be seriously considered. Such matters as education, which do involve religion, could be still confronted by each Legislature in accordance with

The Canadian analogy may be in structive here. The old Union of Upper and Lower Canada, now Ontario and Quebec, was a Legislative union. There was one Government and one Parliament for both. Up per Canada might be compared approximately with Ulster, and Lower Canada with the South of Ireland. The difference in the points of view was so great as to give rise to numerous quarrels about such matters that the problem has ceased to be one of a prince as working hard for his as the construction of local works, for the South. It is equally portentous living—so hard as to excite the anxiety education, the endownment of ecclesiastical institutions, and the granting of money for sectarian purposes.

So great was the dissatisfaction with the working of the system that will be a smouldering volcano of social British crown—the young man whose it was proposed to dissolve the union. As an alternative it was suggested that the union be federalized, so that there would be a joint Government and Parliament for all Canada, and a separate one for each section. The question was earnest ly discussed at a convention of Up-What was finally agreed upon there was a compromise. Instead of a ed that there should be "some joint authority" for Federal purposes."

Confederation, as we know, went farther than this, and resulted in the creation of a powerful Government and Parliament at Ottawa. But i is not necessary that in any Irish settlement the Canadian precedent should be followed in every detail. The division of general and local authority is a matter for agreement and compromise. The suggestion embodied in the phrase, "some joint authority," is a useful one, Might not the economic unity of Ireland be maintained without raising any of the religious questions about which Ulster is sensitive?

The question of finance and taxato be compared in importance with the restoraton of peace and goodwill, and the ending of civil war and murderous hatred. It is a question upon which large concessions might be made without any sacrifice of principle. Some of the champions of Ulster seem to be opposed to any negotiations with the South, regarding such dealings as condoning murder and rebellion. But such an attitude would make settlement impossible. When Responsible Government was established in Canada i was objected that the participation of French-Canadians in governmen would be a concession to rebellion and it was this feeling that led the champions of the old order to burn down the Parliament . Buildings at Montreal and mob Governor Elgin. But the new way was the only practical way, and the result was the establishment of peace and good government. Mrs. (Rev.) E. Davis and child after having spent a month or more here visiting friends, left for Bay of Islands by yesterday morning's train.

Miss Rene Wills, stenographer at Messrs. A. Harvey & Co.'s., St. John's, is on a two week's holiday here, hav-ing arrived by Monday night's train.

Motor boats Zelda B. and E. L. Stewart arrived in port on Monday night from Bell Island, bringing a large number of passengers, being chiefly those who have been discharged from the different companies there until operations are again commenced. This places quite a lot of men out of employment, but we hope it will not be for long and conditions will be such that they will be able to resume work on the island again.

The Heat Wave Madne

Through the irritation and depres sion bred by long spells of wet, gloomy weather may lead people to say, half in jest, that they "feel like itting murder," it is nevertheess a fact that it is the fine weather which sends up the average of crimes of violence, while wet weather pulls

Statistics show that during a hear wave murders, suicides, serious assaults, and other crimes of violence increase to an alarming extent. In London offences of this sort are at their lowest in January, and rise to their highest in July, after which the crime curve falls steadily until by the middle of October it is normal

And what is true of London hold: good also, in regard to Paris, New York, and other great cities. Worst of all is it when abnormal heat is associated with a dry burning wind. In Australia, for example, a wind of this type blows occasionally from the interior deserts, and when this is the case the police know what to expect. For statistics, taken over a number of years, prove that quarrels and murderous assaults are three times as numerous while this scorching wind is blowing than during normal

How Royalty is Guarded

Elaborate Police Precautions,

(By an Ex-Detective.) I was for thirty years in the police orce, and for the last twenty-one in the special branch of Scotland Yard entrusted with the delicate duty of guarding royalty.

The elaborate care exercised in th Belfast royal visit is but a magnified those distinguished strangers who or casionally visit our shores.

How necessary the vigilance is may be understood from the fact that albeing four times the victim of miscreants who attempted her life, while another scoundrel assaulted her by striking her across the face with a then work in conjunction with the stick. It is the class of weak-minded people that give the detectives in charge of royalty more anxiety than the "political" miscreants. The latter are pretty well known; in fact, the police records of both Scotland Yard and of the world's great cities are so complete, and the exchange of information so admirable that the movements of these men are perfectly revealed to the special detectives that are detailed for this class of work. But the lunatic is another

Strange Visitors.

I may give an instance that illustrates this. During the last year of Queen Victoria's reign she was a good deal at Osborne. This lightened the task of the detectives in attendance for it is easy to watch the comings and goings to the Isle of Wight. But one morning the detectives on duty had a shock. They suddenly saw a man emerge from the bushes that terrupted by a man in the hall, who fringed the big lawn and start climb-"Where did you get your ing up the spouting that ran up the terruption, and proceeded until the Her Majesty's bedroom faced this asman again shouted: "Where did you pect. #### Wind Dries Washing.

Have you ever wondered why wet garments hung out in the open air will dry fairly quickly even though a cold wind is blowing?

It is because the air is thirsty. On a cool, clear day the air drinks more water than all the Pussyfoots in the world. On such a day cool, dry air descends to the earth from a height of six miles, sweeping down in an ever widening spiral.

This cool air plunges into an atmosphere where the temperature is higher and the pressure greater than above.

It absorbs clouds, fogs, the water in your fluttering garments on the line. and even small pools, turning them into an invisible vapour. TUESDAY, July 26. The Upper House, evidently seeing signs of the end of the session, did a lot of business, putting bills through various stages by unanimous consent. The Bill to Indemnify the St. John's Municipal Commission was put through committee, and third reading, after Hon. M. P. Gibbs had explained that the Bill covered acts done in "the electoral district of St. John's" instead of "the Municipal instead of "the Munici because the Commission agreement with the members for the district, had carried out road works beyond the city limits.

The Bill for the Quieting of Titles

was carried from first reading through committee, after brief speeches by Hen. Messrs. Gibbs and McGrath explaining its purpose, and will be read the third time to-morrow.

with the amendments made by the Assembly on the Municipal Bill, as adopted by the Council, which were but four in all and unimportant in their tenor.

The Bill to permit the cutting of pulpwood for four years and its ex-port for five, introduced by Hon. Dr. Campbell, as a relief measure to help cope with unemployment, was a first and second time, and sent to a select committee on the suggestion of Sir P. T. McGrath, who sent form it would deprive us of a valuable weapon in any negotiations with the United States for recipro-He said that within the las fortnight Congress had requested President Harding to negotiate with nada for free pulpwood and that we should hold our pulpwood as a trump card also. He added that he opposed the principle of the bill and supported it as a relief measure for a limited period. He said our proper policy was to have our wood fully manufactured at home, and that Sir Robert Bond, when Premier, and Sir Edward Morris, later, had always set their faces against such a policy as the export of pulpwood. If such an act as proposed had been in force, Sir Robert Bond could never have got the Harmsworth mills established at Grand Falls, and our proper policy was to get other mills elsewhere in the country and all our pulpwood fully manufactured at home.

Hon. Dr. Campbell concurred in these views, and agreed that our pulpin reciprocity, and assented to a se-Hon. M. P. Gibbs also agreed with these views and thought the greatest caution should be exercised in dealing with our natural resourcees Every effort should be made to utilize

The Bill was then sent to a select committee consisting of Hons. Campbell, McGrath, Gibbs, Browning and

Bill for the guaranteeing y supplies was then read the Shea had explained its object, but be fore the committee stage was taken Sir P. T. Mrs. McFatridge Says Change in Her Condition Almost Past

"I can testify that Tanlac does even more than is claimed for it," said Mrs. Daniel McFatridge, 30 Peter St., St. John, N.B.

Peter St., St. John, N.B.

"When I began taking it I expected to get some relief, but I never dreamed it would do as much as it has done for me. For years I had stomach trouble in a bad form. The little I ate seemed to do me more harm than good, and often I had a heavy feeling in the pit of my stomach as if I had swallowed a lump of lead. I had terrible pains at times too between my shoulder blades, and every bone in my body ached. I was weak and tired all the time and finally had to give up and time and finally had to give up and take to my bed.

"This was the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac. It soon benefitted me in every way and I kept taking it until I was restored to per-fect health. I eat three hearty meals a day now and never have a sign of indigestion. I sleep like a child all night and wake up in the morning as fresh and happy as when I was a girl. Actually life was a burden to me when I was so weak and miserable, when I was so weak and miserable, but now I enjoy every minute of the day. It is almost past belief that any medicine could make such a big change in anybody and I certainly am a firm believer in Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, in Paradise by Mrs. Martin F. Byrne, in Upper Gullies by Heber Andrews, in Portland by H. C. Haines, in St. Joseph Salmonier by Mrs. I in St. Joseph, Salmonier, by Mrs. J. incorrectly stating the position, and showed that while in years gone by this bill might have been considered a money bill, it was so no longer, because the "Legislature Act, 1919," expressly passed to prevent the Up-per House interfering with money bills, provided that all money bills should bear the Speaker's signature to that effect, and that as the bill in question bore no such signature, i was quite within its rights in amend ing it. He moved that a message be sent to the Lower House pointing out these facts, and asking that the offending message be withdrawn and a correct one substituted.

Hon. A. W. Mews seconded the mo tion and said he had heard the debate on this matter in the Lower House and had pointed out to some members, informally, that it was not a money bill, and was astonished that the message had come up phrased as

ANDERSON'S,

Water Street

I sat to-day, with my Aunt flies; we counted up to fourteen sighs. I hoped missed my meals and slumbers, to put the flies in dutch. For years I'd read the health dutch. For years 1'd read the nearth board papers, denouncing files as M. H. A.'s Taken to Task crimes; and you beheld my swatting capers, and praised my zeal betimes. I thought the health board sports babes and doting mothers to kill flies with a spade. I called on ancient aunts and uncles, and said to them,

"Oh, chee! Forget your spavins and carbuncles, and kill some flies with me!" I called upon my idle neighbors, who sat beneath their vines, to join me in my useful labors, or else counted passing take in their signs. I bored all people with my clamor. I bored them with million, then mer and kill a lot of flies. I sat tomy cries, to take a shotgun or a hamday, with my Aunt Lillian, to count the buzzing bands; we counted up to fourteen million, and then threw up swatted flies so pasted, above the kitchen door; I feel that all are the state of t shall swat no more.

> Mr. Bennett appears to be very bom-bastic in his dictation as to what should have been done with this fish. It would probably be more advisable if the said Mr. Bennett made a few enquiries before making such rash statements, namely: "That the fish were caught last year and because of its being a little old it was dumped in the fields for fertilizer." I may mention now that those fish were caught in 1917, and have been in Cold Storage since; therefore, under ordinary hy-gienic principles, those fish are unfit for human food. From the information of Mr. Bennett and Mr. Walsh, I may mention that in the Old Country all good.
