INGERSOLL WATCHES

15,000 Ingersoll watches bought every working day—4,500,000 a year—65 million since the first Ingersoll was made.

This is a record that stands unequalled. In fact more Ingersoll watches are made than all other American brands combined.

So when you buy an Ingersoll, you get dependability, good looks—and big value, because you get the savings that result from immense quantity production.

The Spectre of Edremont.

CHAPTER II.

At the same hour in which the Lady marked Lady Lorean, reassuringly, Alexina had learned of her betrothal to a man whom she had never beheld, a carriage and four, with outriders, was steadily advancing upon the road leading to Egremont.

The vehicle was occupied by only two persons. "But I am sure I shall, Lorean." "Very well, then," said his sister, with a smile. "I am glad you have made up your mind in advance. If you keep to your present resolution, we will hasten your wedding festivities—of course, Alexina will never refuse you—and I will then reward my devoted captain for his years of waiting."

His lordship started, exclaiming: "How blind I have been! Has Captain Challenger been more to you than a friend during the last year, Lorean?" "He has been my suitor during the last ten years, Lionel," was the blushing response. "But why have you not married him?" "I have kept single on your account, Lionel," answered the Lady Lorean, with assumed lightness. "The truth is, I could not leave you until you married. Besides, I fancied you might not like the Lady Alexina on seeing her, and I resolved to bestow the larger share of my fortune upon you, if you should be obliged to forfeit part of your own. Papa never knew of my resolve, but thought I remained at home to comfort him in his loneliness."

"You darling, quixotic sister!" cried his lordship, touched at her self-denial and self-sacrifice. "I shall have no need of your fortune, for even if I were obliged to forfeit something, I should have my rent-rolls remaining. Our father placed little dependence in his threat of forfeiture, and only so stipulated because Lord Egremont had done so. He wished me to feel bound to marry the Lady Alexina, and I feel so bound."

"On entering the plantation Ashcroft had beheld a man in full retreat, dodging in and out among the trees, and he had called upon him to stop, but the fellow had only quickened his steps at his command. He had then assured him that if the affair was an accident he should be held blameless, but the stranger made no reply, and renewed his efforts to escape."

Active, lithe, and sinewy as was his lordship, it was not to be wondered at that he gained upon the fugitive. Incumbered as was the latter with his rifle, and he had nearly overtaken him, when the fellow dropped his gun and sped, like an arrow from the bow, into the intricacies of the plantation.

By the time Lord Ashcroft reached the rifle, the quarry was beyond his pursuit. He picked up the weapon, examined it carefully, and then set out with it to return to the carriage.

you would credit it, Lionel, I fancied you would feel the loss of the amount you would forfeit in desisting an alliance with the Egremonts. But that was not the only reason for my remaining single. The captain was poor—he's a younger son, you know—and he's obliged to live upon his pay, and he is afraid of being thought a fortune-hunter."

"That can easily be arranged," returned Lord Ashcroft, as his sister paused. "Challenger has no taste for the army, and I have influence enough to obtain for him a government office, where the duties will be merely nominal, and the salary sufficient to make him feel independent."

The Lady Lorean pressed her brother's hand in silence and a tear came into her keen eyes, giving them a look of unwonted softness.

"Since you are so sure, Lionel, that you will love the Lady Alexina," she said, recovering her usual manner, "you should take a good view of your future domain."

Even as she spoke, Lord Ashcroft was looking out of the carriage window, viewing the various attractions of the estate. Presently the carriage entered Egremont Wood, and here the road leading to the mansion was somewhat gloomy in consequence of the overarching trees. Their progress was necessarily slower.

Now and then a branch lay across the road, as if placed there purposely to obstruct the passage of the carriage, since they must have been brought from the wood; and the outriders were sent on in advance to clear the way should there be more obstructions.

The carriage horses, therefore, proceeded at a quiet walk.

The travellers had arrived at the spot where the overarching branches of evergreen dropped lowest, shutting out the sky completely, and compelling the driver to crouch upon his box, and to remove his gold laced hat for fear of injury.

"What a lovely and romantic spot!" exclaimed his lordship, charmed with the unexpected beauty of the scene.

To obtain a better view of the road he obtruded his head from the window beside him, and he beheld the Lady Lorean look out from her side of the carriage and note the extreme beauty of the trees.

She had scarcely obeyed him when a loud report sounded upon the wintry air, and a bullet dashed past Lord Ashcroft, narrowly missing his head, and passed out of the opposite window, in dangerous proximity to his sister.

The Lady Lorean uttered a shriek of terror, forgetful in her fears for her brother of her own narrow escape, and flung her arms around him as if to shield him from further danger.

"Hush, Lorean!" said his lordship, with gentle firmness, seemingly unmoved by his late peril, as he unwound her arms and placed her in her seat. "Do not impede our movements."

The carriage halted at this moment, and his lordship dashed open the door, sprang out, and hastened in the direction from which the bullet had proceeded.

The outriders, hearing the report of the rifle, looked back, and seeing that the carriage had stopped, turned and rode toward it at full speed.

The driver, who had all he could do to hold his frightened horses, hurriedly informed his fellow-servants of their master's course, and they leaped off their horses and hastened after his lordship, alarmed for his safety.

On entering the plantation Ashcroft had beheld a man in full retreat, dodging in and out among the trees, and he had called upon him to stop, but the fellow had only quickened his steps at his command.

He had then assured him that if the affair was an accident he should be held blameless, but the stranger made no reply, and renewed his efforts to escape.

Active, lithe, and sinewy as was his lordship, it was not to be wondered at that he gained upon the fugitive. Incumbered as was the latter with his rifle, and he had nearly overtaken him, when the fellow dropped his gun and sped, like an arrow from the bow, into the intricacies of the plantation.

By the time Lord Ashcroft reached the rifle, the quarry was beyond his pursuit.

He picked up the weapon, examined it carefully, and then set out with it to return to the carriage.

A Revolutionary Car for Every Owner

THE BROUGHAM

In literal sense, a revolutionary car! What other term could describe the Chrysler Six—a car that gives a high gear speed range of 2 to over 70 miles per hour—that weighs only 2705 pounds and yet can be driven in comfort 60 miles an hour on a cobbled street or a rutted road.

Never has there been a car within many hundreds of dollars of the Chrysler price, that could begin to do the things it does.

Never has there been a car that combined such startling performance with such economy of investment, maintenance and operation.

Armistice Day Celebrated by the Allied Countries

Irish Free State to Adopt Protective Tariff—British Artisans en Route to the Humber—Derelict Sighted May be Leif Ericsson.

REMEMBRANCE DAY AT LONDON.

LONDON, Nov. 11. Tens of thousands of people of London gathered to-day around the Cenotaph in sorrowful yet proud remembrance of their one million kin who died in the war that came to an end six years ago. Whitehall was thronged its entire length by subjects of the farflung British Empire, most of whom wore red poppies bought with pennies and pence to help the men who came away halt, lame and blind from the fields of Flanders and from other battlefields of the great war. At the core of the crowd stood the King. He and his two elder sons, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York, placed wreaths at the foot of the Cenotaph. Just before Big Ben in his tower rising above the Houses of Parliament tolled the eleventh hour which ended the greatest of wars. On the echo of the tolling of the great bell there came a hushed silence, and for two minutes the crowds stood in reverent quietude. Throughout the British Isles the same two moments were given over to silent remembrance of the empire's dead.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATED IN IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Nov. 11. For the first time since the end of the war Armistice Day to-day was generally celebrated throughout the Free State with memorial demonstrations in Dublin and elsewhere. Tens of thousands of people were said, and the wearers included Republicans as well as Free Staters. The day's programme in Dublin included a parade of ex-Servicemen and placing of a wreath on a cross in College Green by General Hinkle, who commanded the 15th 16th Division. So dense was the crowd in College Green that the tramway traffic was suspended for more than an hour. Some members of the crowd carried Union Jacks and a Union Jack replaced the Free State Tri-color over the Bank of Ireland building, formerly the old House of Parliament. The Government offices suspended business during the ceremony.

ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVED IN U.S.A.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. The observance of Armistice Day was general throughout the United States to-day, the day being a legal holiday in some states while in others special ceremonies were carried out under the auspices of patriotic organizations. In Washington the day was marked by special ceremonies at the tomb of the unknown soldier in the Arlington National Cemetery. Thousands of persons joined the annual pilgrimage to the National Shrine led by President Coolidge and other high Government officials. A service in memory of Woodrow Wilson was held in the National Cathedral. The day was not a holiday in the capital.

FRENCH CELEBRATE ARMISTICE DAY.

PARIS, Nov. 11. Armistice Day this year is for the first time a full holiday in France. Although Parliament voted it a legal holiday long ago, the application of the law has been suspended hitherto mainly for economic reasons, with business only interrupted for the one minute of silence. To-day everything is closed except places of amusement. The main feature of the celebration in Paris was at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the Arc de Triomphe, with President Doumergue, Premier Herriot and his Cabinet, Marshals, Generals and members of the Diplomatic Service in attendance. Two hundred and fifty tattered flags of disbanded regiments were carried by reserve officers headed by General Gouraud and his staff from the Invalides to the Arc.

MONTREAL'S CENOTAPH UNVEILED.

MONTREAL, Nov. 11. In the presence of a great crowd of men, women and children, among whom were many wet eyes, His Excellency Lord Byng of Vimy, Governor General of Canada, this morning unveiled the new permanent Cenotaph of Dominion Square, to the glory of God and the memory of the immortal dead who brought us honor and peace.

PARIS BOURSE OBSERVES SILENCE.

PARIS, Nov. 11. The roaring Bourse silenced itself one minute at two o'clock this afternoon in observance of Armistice Day, as the exchange will be closed to-morrow. When the gong rang at two o'clock every hat came off and all the brokers faced the centre, many saluting. In the great echoing hall with 2000 excited, perspiring brokers and clerks present, there was heard only the click of the news cameras and one strangled cough. When business was resumed the brokers gave five minutes to cheering. They also hooted one of the busy photographers who had forgotten to take off his hat. The crowd promptly took it off for him. Many other Armistice ceremonies were held to-day, including the placing of a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier by a delegation from the Chamber of Deputies headed by President Painleve.

FREE STATE TO ADOPT PROTECTION.

LONDON, Nov. 11. A comprehensive scheme of high protective tariffs is about to be announced in Daily Express, according to the Dublin correspondent of the Morning Post. He understands that the Free State Government intends to tax all imported clothes about 25 per cent, raise the present import duty on shoes, and tax furniture and prepared foodstuff.

BALDWIN CABINET COMPLETED.

LONDON, Nov. 11. Premier Baldwin completes his new Cabinet to-day by appointing Viscount Peel as First Commissioner of Works and Public Buildings, and Viscount Cecil as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

U. S. SECRETARY OF LABOUR TO RETIRE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. Secretary Davis, of the Labor Department has informed President Coolidge he wishes to retire from the Cabinet after March 4th next. Mr. Davis is the only Cabinet member who has indicated his desire to retire, it was said officially to-day at the White House.

ILLITERACY IN CANADA.

OTTAWA, Nov. 11. Illiteracy is steadily decreasing throughout the Dominion, according to information compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This improvement in the educational status of the population of five years of age and over during the last twenty years is indicated by the decrease in the percentage of illiterates from decade to decade. In the last census for the total population of 1913, 9.25 per cent were reported as being unable to read and write as compared with 10.50 per cent in 1901.

EIGHT DEAD FROM POISONED CIDER.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Nov. 11. Eight veteran members of the Elks Organization, residents of the Elks National Home, at Bedford, Va., died yesterday at the home, from what is thought to have been fresh cider, poisoned by a compound used for tree spraying. The cider, it was said, was bought from a farmer, and the barrel is believed to have been used last spring in connection with spraying. Several other residents of the Home are ill.

DERELICT MAY BE MISSING MOTOR YACHT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. Reports have reached the cruiser Trenton in the North Atlantic that a derelict corresponding in dimensions to the missing motor yacht Leif Ericsson, was sighted recently at sea in that vicinity. A message from Captain Galois, commander of the Trenton to the Navy Department, said that a derelict was reported on November 4th, in Lat. 40.33 North and Long. 67.39 West. The Trenton had been unable to find the wreck, but is now searching that vicinity and has broadcast a request to all vessels to keep a strict watch for the derelict.

NEARLY 150,000 DIVORCES LAST YEAR.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. Divorces in the United States showed more rapid rate of increase than marriages last year, the Census Bureau of Statistics announced yesterday. The number of divorces were 11.1 per cent more than in 1922, while the number of marriages were only 3.4 per cent larger than the previous year. The marriages numbered 1,283,825 as compared with 1,129,045, in 1922, while the divorces granted numbered 165,393 against 148,810.

GETS TEN TO TWENTY YEARS.

MIDDLEBURGH, Pa., Nov. 11. A maximum sentence of ten to twenty years in the Penitentiary at Philadelphia was imposed on Mrs. Annie E. Willow, recently convicted of murder in the second degree, in the killing of Harvey C. Willow, her husband. The sentence is the same as imposed upon Ralph H. Shadle, 18 years old, employed by Willow as a farm hand. Shadle had confessed he shot Willow while on a hunting trip at the urgency of Willow's wife who was in love with Shadle.

PARLIAMENT FURTHER PRO-ROGUE TO DEC. 2ND.

LONDON, Nov. 10. King George called a meeting of the Privy Council at the Palace to-day and Parliament was further prorogued from Nov. 18th to Dec. 2nd. This postponement was made for the purpose of enabling new ministers to become acquainted with their departments before the meeting of the new Parliament. When Parliament does reassemble many days will be spent in swearing in the members and electing a Speaker and other officials. Only when these formalities have been completed will the King formally open Parliament with a ceremony.

HEDJAZ TROOPS ADVANCING ON MECCA.

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 10. A Port Sudan despatch is published here stating the Hedjaz troops are advancing toward Mecca and that they expect to occupy that city within three weeks. Mecca is now under the reign of the Moslem Puritans, the Wahabites. It was formerly in control of King Hussein of the Hedjaz.

MUTINOUS BATTLESHIP PUTS IN TO URUGUAYAN PORT.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Nov. 10. The Brazilian battleship, Sao Paulo, whose crew mutinied last Tuesday and sailed the vessel out to sea from Rio Janeiro harbor, arrived here to-day and anchored in the roads. She was immediately boarded by the Uruguayan authorities. The battleship did not show any exterior damage from the shells which, according to official accounts, she was hit when the Rio Janeiro forts attempted to prevent her flight. The fate of the mutineers has not yet been decided upon.

CHINESE LEADERS TO DECIDE FUTURE GOVERNMENT.

TIEN-TSIN, Nov. 10. Chinese National leaders continued to arrive to-day for the conference which is expected to determine the immediate future Government of China. Feng Yu Hsiang, the Christian General, now in power in Peking, reached Tientsin this morning, while a special train on which Chang Tso Lin, the Manchurian War Lord, was a passenger, arrived shortly after 2 p.m. Extraordinary precautions were taken to protect the Manchurian train. It was packed with troops.

STRIKERS FORCIBLY REMOVED.

SEATTLE, Wn., Nov. 10. Sheriff C. F. Conn, of Skagit County and six Deputies, conducted 150 industrial workers out of Concrete, Washington, to-day, and telephoned for six motor trucks to carry them to the Snohomish County line, said a despatch to the Seattle Times. The men have been on strike for three weeks and it was reported they refused to permit others to take their jobs.

REORGANIZING LIBERAL PARTY.

LONDON, Nov. 10. Former Premier Asquith, leader of the Liberal Party, the losses of which in the recent elections have given grave concern to his supporters, said in an address at a luncheon to Liberal Members of Parliament to-day, that there was no use disguising the seriousness of the Party's set back. He asserted, however, that Liberalism was far from dead, and the incidentally revealed the fact that a small committee of experts was already working on a complete organization for the Party, which needed, he said, an overhauling from top to bottom. Mr.

Lloyd George who, since his retirement from the Premiership, has been associated with Mr. Asquith in the Party leadership, declared there was nothing in the situation which ought to dismay us. Meanwhile, he said, the Party had valuable work to do in the House of Commons. In connection with to-day's meeting it was reported in political circles in Liverpool that a seat in the House of Commons might be found for Mr. Asquith in Denbighshire.

MOORE TROUBLE IN CHINA.

TIEN-TSIN, Nov. 10. The Chinese here expect hostilities between the Christian General, Fon Yu Hsiang, who is in control of Peking and Chang Tso Lin, the Manchurian War Lord. The city was thrown into a panic yesterday when an ammunition train caught fire and a series of explosions resulted, but prompt action enabled 210 of the 215 cars to be removed beyond the danger zone and the flames burned themselves out. There was one casualty and some damage. The fire broke out about 500 yards from the Central Station. The munitions had been left by Wu Pei Fu when he fled from this part of the country after a coup d'etat had ousted him from his position as head of the Peking Government army. The explosions caused a frantic exodus into the foreign concessions. Fon, who was erroneously reported here, had not arrived this evening. He was last reported at Yangtsuh, 21 miles to the west. Chang had passed thru Tangshan, 81 miles to the Northeast to-day, and was expected to reach Tientsin. An Allied train, bound for Peking was held at Kotsu where the Manchurian forces had gone. Feng Fu Shiang was reported to have ended the war with Manchuria when he seized Peking, set up a military regime and drove from power his former commander Wu Pei Fu, who has fled to Chetco. Later despatches said the Manchurian leader, Chang Tso Lin, had been invited to attend a peace conference in Peking. Feng and Chang joined in menacing from the east and west respectively the troops of General Wu, until these forces were disintegrated.

BRITISH TRADESMEN EN ROUTE TO THE HUMBER.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 10. En route to Corner Brook, Nfld., where they will assist in the construction of the giant pulp and paper mills now being erected there by the Armstrong, Whitworth Co., of Ells-wick, Newcastle-on-Tyne, a party of forty-eight tradesmen, including lumbermen, carpenters, masons, pipefitters, cranesmen, and representatives of other departments of building construction, arrived in Halifax yesterday morning on the Cunard liner Scythia, from Liverpool via Queens-town. The party, under I. G. Burns, left for Newfoundland via S.S. Kyle. The party, all of which are residents of Tyne-side, England, expect to spend the next eight or nine months in Newfoundland in the construction of the mills, after which they will return to England.

NAVAL ACTIVITIES CAUSE ADVANCE IN LIQUOR PRICES.

BOSTON, Nov. 10. According to advices, the Prohibition Enforcement Navy, of this port, has caused a considerable falling off in Rum Row between Cape Cod and Cape Ann, and driven the price of liquor at the Gangway up $8 a case, the coastguard officials here announced yesterday.

ONLY HALF THE AMOUNT OF LAST YEAR'S CROP HARVESTED.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 10. Slightly more than half as much wheat has been marketed by producers of the Prairie Provinces from August 1st to November 7th, of this year, as was marketed during the corresponding period of 1923. It was shown by figures here yesterday. For the present season the total by that date had reached 113,990,808 bushels. Last year it was 224,861,384 bushels. Explanation of wide difference is found in the fact that 1924 season was late and that after a belated start at harvesting and threshing operations were held up in all districts by bad weather for more than three weeks. The crop as a whole is much lighter than last year.

A NOTABLE FIGURE IN PUBLIC LIFE.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 10. The body of Henry Cabot Lodge, Senator for Massachusetts, and for many years one of the outstanding figures in the State, who died shortly before midnight at Charlestown Hospital here, lay to-day at the home of a lifelong friend in Boston, while plans for funeral were being perfected. The death of Senator Lodge came after a courageous fight for life lasting more than four days from the time he suffered the stroke last Wednesday, ended a career of notable distinction as a statesman and publicist.

CHO FOO, China, Nov. 10.

Wu Pei Fu, the deposed commander-in-chief of the Peking military forces, who is on board a transport here, announced to-day his intention of going to the South to reassemble his forces and return at the head of a punitive expedition. The General declared that 46,000 of his troops were at Hankow and more were at Nanking, awaiting his instructions. On his trip south he said, he will be accompanied by four transports and three warships. It is believed that he intends to go to Shanghai to reassemble his forces.

City Owned Hydro vs. Private Company

ASTONISHING CUTS IN ST. JOHN ENERGY RATES.

Hydro Competition Forces Private Company to Reduce Domestic Rate from Fifteen Cents a Kilowatt Hour to 2½ Cents a Kilowatt Hour with a 54 cent Service Charge.—And this is on the Part of the Company that Declared the Saving from Hydro Would not benefit the Citizens of St. John by More than a Fraction of a Cent!

When the Musquash hydro project was developed, the citizens of St. John City, after a determined fight, retained control of the development and the energy flowing therefrom. Failing to reach a satisfactory understanding with the New Brunswick Power Company (the tram and power company of St. John), the citizens of St. John undertook the distribution of the Musquash current—and hydro came into direct competition with the private power corporation in the New Brunswick city.

The Results Have Been Amazing.

Before the introduction of hydro in St. John, the private company there declared that the power from the new source would not benefit the consumers more than a fraction of a cent in the rates. That fraction of a cent, the private company told the citizens, would be the difference between the cost of steam-generated current from the Musquash development.

Subsequent events tell their own story.

When hydro was introduced in St. John, the private company there was charging a flat rate of fifteen cents per kilowatt hour for domestic lighting.

Then hydro came—and the amazing results.

The private company, up against competition began to cut its rates, until, at March 1 of this year, the following rate for domestic lighting was given by the private company.

From an original flat rate of fifteen cents per kilowatt hour, down to three and a half cents per kilowatt hour plus a service charge for each house for 80c.

And under this rate established in March of this year the private company in May announced "a satisfactory increase in the company's surplus!"

But that was not the end of the St. John rate-slashing. Now we learn that another amazing cut has been made by the private company, hard up against hydro competition.

For domestic services, the energy rate has been cut from three and a half cents per kilowatt hour to two and a quarter cents per kilowatt hour and the monthly service charge has been reduced from eighty cents to fifty-four cents.

And all the while other rates have been scaled down, as well.

The new rates, the general manager of the private company announces, are lower than the city's own hydro charge on domestic lighting, heating and cooking!

That is what cheap hydro current can do—when it is given a chance. In St. John it has forced the private company to make the astonishing cut of from fifteen cents per kilowatt hour down to two and a quarter cents per kilowatt hour, plus the service charge of 54 cents.

The citizens of Halifax lost control of their hydro—and what has been the result?

The private corporation here is in absolute control; and it is stated in quarters close to the corporation that the citizens of Halifax will pay, under the new rates, for the services supplied by the local company more than they ever paid before.

Contrast that with the St. John situation! The facts are there—are the rate-payers of this city content to allow this situation to drift longer?

Steam From Mid-Earth

HARNESSING HEAT FROM UNDER THE GROUND.

What will happen when the earth runs short of coal and oil supplies? This problem was discussed by Professor W. W. Watts, in a paper on "Geology in the Service of Man."

He suggested the possibility of a great new power which humanity may harness to its service—nothing less than the heat of the earth's nether regions.

A beginning has been made at Volterra, in Italy, where a new source of power has been found in the high temperature steam from fumaroles, which has previously been used only as a source of borax. Now the steam is being tapped by boring, and its chief heat is employed in running great power stations.

This may be but the beginning of the application of a new and valuable source of power in which the services of geology will be required.

We are haunted by the fear that a limit will be imposed by high temperature to deep mining, while that very heat may provide energy as valuable as the material which would otherwise be mined—just as we dread the gas from certain coal seams, when the gas might, if it could be exploited, give a return equivalent to that of the coal itself.

Remembrance Day Address

This morning the members of the Dominion Executive of the G.W.V.A. addressed the various schools in the city on Armistice and all that it means. The following address was delivered at Parade Street School by Asst. Vice-President Garland:

REMEMBRANCE DAY.

The Dominion Executive of the G.W.V.A. has undertaken to-day to lecture to the various schools of the city, fully realizing that it is to you girls and boys of to-day—who will be the women and men of to-morrow—who will raise a lasting memorial to our dead. Not one built on violence, outrage and brutality upon which the enemy's was built—but love, justice and honour, which were the ideals for which our dead comrades paid the supreme sacrifice.

To-morrow is the sixth anniversary of the Armistice, and throughout the length and breadth of the British Empire a grateful people are wearing a Flanders Poppy to the remembrance of the 2,000,000 who gave their lives for the high ideals which form the corner stones upon which our Empire was founded.

The peoples of Flanders Fields have been watered with the blood of the soldiers who gave their lives for the faith for which they died and from far away Australia to Newfoundland—the smallest link in that great Imperial Chain of Empire—the thin red line of Flanders poppies will be worn by a grateful people to their memory. The Dominions have paid a great price for Empire and the war has deepened our self sacrifice and love. Perhaps in years to come their blood and their sacrifice may prove the solution to the difficulties which beset our Empire. It has kindled in England's children beyond the seas the fire of united patriotism to such a degree that the Empire has become incandescent throughout.

It was said by Germany in August, 1914, that England's treaties were only scraps of paper, made to be broken. They failed to realize that England's honor demanded that she should stand by Belgium and France if attacked by Germany. They nicknamed her army "that contemptible little army," but within two years it had grown from 120,000 to several million, Canada alone sending over half a million. Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India and Newfoundland sending over their proportionate number according to their populations.

I would like here to give you a brief outline of the Royal Newfoundland Regt., the major engagements they fought in, the number of killed, wounded, missing, and the honors conferred.—The first five hundred (the Blue Putties as they were called) went across with the Canadian contingent in October, 1914. A further company was sent over before the end of the year, and early in 1915 the battalion was completed by the arrival of D Company.

After completing their training at Aldershot, they left by steamer for the Dardanelles; landing at Sulva Bay on Sept. 20th, consisting of about 1,000 officers and men. The Regiment sustained 33 deaths in action and from disease; and 76 casualties from wounds. From Nov. 26-27, there was a great storm on the Peninsula, the Regiment losing 150 men with frost-bitten feet and sickness, who were sent to hospital. Through a large number of the men being sent from Gallipoli suffering from dysentery, etc., only half of the Regiment was left to take part in the evacuation of Sulva. After the evacuation of Sulva in December, 1915, the Regiment went to Cape Helles, where they remained until the early part of January, 1916. From there they proceeded to France and occupied a part of the Somme sector of the British lines. Their first taste of fighting in France was when 100 men took part in a trench raid on June 27th, for which Capt. Butler received the Military Cross and two others received decorations. Next we come to the battle of Beaumont Hamel where the Regiment sustained more casualties than in any other engagement it took part in. On July 1st at 7:30 a.m. the order to advance was given and so destructive was the enemy's machine gun fire that the Regt. was practically wiped out and the further advance had to be given up. 100 men were reported killed, 210 missing and 374 wounded. They were awarded 1 Military Cross, 4 Military Medals and 3 were mentioned in despatches.

The field over which the Regiment advanced that day was bought by voluntary subscription by the people of Newfoundland and is now made into a beautiful park with suitable memorials erected therein. The large number of casualties suffered by the 29th Division that day necessitated its withdrawal from the line and re-organization. Ypres—During the first part of October they occupied the Ypres Salient and from there they proceeded to the Somme and occupied the trenches at Gueudecourt. On the 12th of October they advanced, and not only took their own objective but also that which the Essex Regiment were supposed to have taken. At Gueudecourt "revenge was the order of the day" and through good bayonet work very few prisoners were taken. This was the loss of our full ranks at Beaumont Hamel paid in full.

The Regiment was 450 strong at the Gueudecourt. Forty-five were killed, 119 wounded and 75 missing. Capt. Butler won a Bar to his Military Cross. Also 1 Croix-de-Guerre, 1 Military Cross, 2 Distinguished Conduct Medals and 6 Military Medals were won in this engagement. During the latter part of January, the Regiment moved into the line at Les Boeufs. On the 27th, the Kaiser's birthday, an attack was made on the enemy's line. Lieut. Gardiner captured, unaided, one officer and a company of the enemy. An incident of interest was the action of the German officer taking the Iron Cross from his own breast and pinning it on Lieut. Gardiner's tunic. In this action 7 of our men were killed and 179 wounded.

Sail-Sail (Silly Silly Sal)—On March 3rd our Regiment was drawn into an important engagement at Sail-Sail. Thirteen were killed, and 39 wounded. The honors conferred on the Regiment were, 1 Military Cross, 1 Military Medal, 1 Distinguished Conduct Medal.

Monchy Le Preux—Next we come to Monchy. The Regiment took part in a very important engagement there and the casualty list consisted of 49 killed, 143 wounded and 296 missing. The Germans attacked in such large numbers that the Regiment was practically surrounded. A small headquarters party who were left, consisting of 9 men, held a grove in a village from 10 in the morning until 4 in the afternoon. Speaking of them Lieut.-Col. Nangle said: "Lieut.-Col. Forbes-Robertson and his eight men are the men who saved Monchy. They won fame for themselves, they won fame for the Regiment. The whole British Army in France honors the names of these men for their heroic conduct." They all received decorations. Nine days later the Regiment engaged the enemy at Les Fosse Farm a short distance from Monchy. Here they suffered severe losses. The killed, wounded, and missing numbering 550. It was here that Capt. Bartlett received his Military Cross. In a subsequent engagement he paid the supreme sacrifice.

Three important engagements were fought during the latter part of 1917. Steenbeck we had 9 killed, 93 wounded and 1 missing. The honors conferred on the Regiment for that engagement were, 1 Military Cross, 2 Distinguished Conduct Medals, Capt. Bartlett Bar to Military Cross, 12 Military Medals. The cowardice of the enemy during this battle was chiefly why our Regiment has such a small casualty list. Large numbers of the enemy were killed and taken prisoners.

Broombeck—On October 9th the Regiment attacked at Broombeck where it lost 50 killed, 130 wounded and 14 missing. Decorations received were 5 Military Crosses, Captain Keegan Bar to Military Cross, 6 Distinguished Conduct Medals and 21 Military Medals.

Cambria—A great honor was conferred on the Regiment here. Henceforth it was to be known as the Royal Newfoundland Regiment. No greater compliment could be given to those that served than this. This battle lasted practically two weeks, 79 were killed, 340 wounded and 43 missing. Honors granted were, 1

A PURSER DESCRIBES PECULIAR PASSENGERS.

However many times a man may cross the Atlantic as a passenger, he sees comparatively little of life on a floating hotel. Unknown to him, not a few of his fellows in the saloon may be penniless. I remember one passenger, an American dentist, who left with a certain company, as a pledge for his passage money, his entire professional outfit, including many sets of artificial teeth. The security was not redeemed.

Another American got a passage on the security of a United States Government Bond for $1,000. Shortly before sailing he requested that the bond should be sent to New York, so that he could redeem it a day or two after arriving there.

Refused to Pay His Bill.

When the ship reached Sandy Hook, the passenger, who had run up a heavy bill, demanded his bond, which, of course, the purser refused to give him until he had paid. He said he would not pay anything, and at once entered an action for its recovery, with the result that the company was not only ordered to give it up, but to pay all costs. Under American law, scrip is real estate, which a United States citizen abroad cannot transfer except in the presence of an American Consul or a notary public.

Some years ago a woman crossed with us at least twenty times, and though on every occasion money or jewellery disappeared from a cabin, we could not prove anything against her.

The Best Of The Bargain.

It may be thought that the frequent appearance of her name in passenger lists was suspicious; but that in itself was nothing. One of the legends of the Liverpool service is that a certain woman would not sell her shares in a trans-Atlantic steamship company—were very anxious to acquire—except on condition that she should have a free passage whenever she liked. When her terms were agreed to she sold her furniture and went to live on the Company's boat.

Whether this story be true or false, there is no doubt that some people do make homes on liners. I knew an American woman who for a long period spent only two or three days on shore at a stretch, crossing the Atlantic in one boat and returning in the first that left after her arrival. Ultimately her friends considered this a clear proof of insanity, and brought an action to have her declared a lunatic.

Diamond Smugglers.

A certain couple used to travel to Southampton together, visit the Continent, and then return by different routes—one from the Hampshire port and the other from Liverpool. At last an ex-Scotland Yard man was engaged by the American Government to shadow them. He followed them from Southampton to London, then to Dor-

Newfoundland, perhaps, we do not realize the frightful casualties of the war. In England there are thousands of men blinded by the war. Hundreds of thousands of partly disabled men with arms and legs missing and broken bodies. It will take at least half a century to get over the effects of the war, apart from the fact that the soldiers put in the best years of their lives when they could have been establishing themselves permanently in civil occupations.

Towards the closing years of the war England was spending £6,000,000 a day. It is estimated that it will take 150 years for her to get rid of her financial obligations brought on by the war. Perhaps in Newfoundland we shall never fully get rid of ours. It is a burden to be born for all time.

We have known the insatiable thirst for an ideal and spiritual exultation of helping to make that ideal victorious; but civil life is also a struggle. Making must be its existence, for its comfort, for its happiness. In the army we worked collectively. In civil life we have to work out our own destination by our own individual effort.

Some of you boys and girls might say that it was the spirit of adventure which prompted our soldiers to enlist, others that it was patriotism. Don't you think that it was a combination of these two and a greater third Justice. They had a vision of world peace and the ushering in of that international brotherhood of mankind. It is not to the living that you are asked to pay tribute, but to the memory of your dead brothers and our dear comrades who sleep in Flanders fields.

They have gone west into the sunset. Perhaps our thoughts linger there for awhile—but our vision is on the sunrise—and we shall see that great army of lostwhites in the breaking of that great morn'g—last'ng week. It is to their memory that we look for our inspiration.

During the first six months of 1918 the Regiment was withdrawn from the firing line owing to the non-arrival of drafts from Newfoundland and the fact that the remainder of the first five hundred embarked for Newfoundland on two months' leave.

In the engagement on October the 15th, 1918, Sergt. T. Ricketts won his Victoria Cross, the only one awarded the Regiment. This was the last day's fighting the Regiment had with the enemy. When it next moved forward it was to occupy a part of Germany after the signing of the Armistice.

I have tried in brief to outline some of the major engagements our Regiment took part in and the decorations conferred on the officers and men. The responsibility for the war was Germany's. Ever since 1871, when she defeated France, she was accumulating a large amount of money every year which she placed in her war chest for "Der Tag". Her gamble for world power ended in a sickening fiasco. Never shall we forget the brutality, the hardships and the devastation in the occupied areas. Here are a few of the atrocities to French women and girls: A woman's breast cut off; also right arm. Girl aged 11, foot cut off. Women handed to troops. Rape of Women. Women bayoneted. During the war large quantities of fodder were brought in the United States. German agents there placed small steel hooks in it. Large number of horses dying in agony. Murder of the wounded. Murder of prisoners. All of which were against the rules of warfare. No greater compliment could be paid to British honour and justice than the fact that a large number of the South African contingent who fought against us in the South African war were fighting with us in the late war.

Mr. Lloyd George said in 1917: "I have just visited the battlefields of France. I stood as it were at the door of Hell, and saw myriads marching into the furnace. I saw some coming out of it scorched and mutilated. The ghastliness must never again be enacted on earth."

It is up to the people of this generation, and particularly the boys and girls, to build up a memorial founded on love and justice that will embrace all the nations of the earth. Here in

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Ready and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for

Thousands of housewives have found that they can cure their coughs of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air-passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the mucus, softens and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat irritation and distress disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma. Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known for years over for its healing effect on the membranes. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. A Pipeless Furnace

WHAT IS IT, YOU ASK?

The most modern and inexpensive heating appliance on the market. Thousands being sold throughout Canada and the United States.

HOW IS IT INSTALLED AND OPERATED?

In most cases can be installed in one day, causing no interruption or inconvenience in the house. It is placed in the basement immediately under the floor of the hall. It sends a flood of heat all up through the house,—into every room and corner, and at the same time draws all the cold air back again from the house, heats it and sends it back into the house again. It is thus a circulating system, which re-heats the air four to five times an hour in an average house.

WE INSTALLED—

"Enterprise Pipeless Furnaces"

(Made of all Cast Iron)

In several homes in the city last year, and the owners speak in highest praise of the absolute comfort and dependability of having the house warm in the coldest weather. All of this with a minimum of fuel. Burns any kind of fuel, and simple to operate.

THE MAKERS' GUARANTEE—

These furnaces are guaranteed to be of finest manufacture, absolutely smoke and dust-proof, and when installed according to our approved specification, to give entire satisfaction in every respect.

All enquiries given prompt and courteous attention, and fuller explanation furnished from illustrated circular.

Also highly recommended for heating churches, halls, schools and stores. A size for every purpose.

er and on to Amsterdam. There they gave him the slip, and he returned to England discomfited.

About a fortnight later, however, a local detective recognized one of the men with a stranger at Southampton. He communicated with the American Consul, who called to the Government, giving the names of the steamers in which they had booked passages. Both were arrested on arriving in New York, and diamonds worth many thousands of dollars were found on them.

Some years ago a runaway betrayed himself in curious circumstances. When a certain boat touched at Queenstown, a New York passenger wished to land, so that he could return to Liverpool. He was prevented from carrying out his intention. Nine months previously he had deserted his wife, and since then he had considered himself free. Shortly after his embarkation, however, he had seen his wife among a group of women in the steerage. She, too, was on her way to America, and consequently he resolved to let her proceed alone. By means of a little diplomacy, man and wife were brought together, and when the boat reached New York they left it together, completely reconciled.

"Och! don't believe them, sorr," came the reply. "Sure, but the lies told about me isn't true."

READ THIS A Newfoundlander's Testimony "Mecca" Ointment saved his life from blood poison

Gentlemen— St. John's, Newfoundland. Last February I cut my finger with the cover of a salmon tin. Shortly afterwards I had to seek medical aid as my finger and arm swelled, and now would not heal. Blood poisoning set in, and in April the doctor informed me the only hope to save my life was to amputate the arm at the shoulder. But instead I applied Mecca, that night all over the side and under the arm pit. In the morning I felt so much better, and on removing the bandages much of the black appearance of the side was gone. I continued applying Mecca, and in less than a week I was able to proceed to my home, a distance of 9 miles, unaided on horse back. I continued to improve, and am now perfectly restored to health.

Yours truly, THOMAS A. HOLMES.

Prompt Action by the Municipal Council Demanded

The serious inconvenience imposed on householders by the strike of the Sanitary men and the dangerous position into which the city is drifting because of the accumulations of garbage everywhere have exhausted the patience of citizens, and already they are giving strong expression to their feelings. The action of these public officials cannot in any way, shape or form be defended, as their position is not in any respect similar to that of the longshoremen. The latter are for the most part men who work when and where they choose. The sanitary men are city officials, regularly paid, constantly employed, and provided with whatever is required to perform their work. The householders are taxed to the hilt to pay for their services, and are in no mood to remain silent with a week's accumulation of garbage in their homes, all because the men responsible for its removal choose to take a holiday.

The public want to know what the Municipal Council are doing in the matter. They have allowed a whole week to pass without giving any intimation of their attitude and without making an attempt, so far as can be learned, to exercise their authority. Dirt has accumulated in the gutters; public eating houses and food distributing centres have amassed large quantities of swill, which is in various degrees of putrefaction, and citizens who have put out their garbage cans have been ordered by a city official to remove the nuisance from the streets. Remove the nuisance, indeed! Whose business is that? Is the cellar or the backyard to become a dumping ground and the health of the family endangered all because of a whim on the part of the collectors and because of inaction on the part of the authorities?

Prompt measure immediately the first sign of insubordination was observed would have prevented this outrage, but the Council have shown weakness and have failed to protect the rights of the citizens, which is their first duty.

A few weeks ago strenuous efforts were made by doctors, nurses, private individuals and the Press to improve the health of the children in the city—energy and money expended to what purpose? At present there are several infectious diseases which the health authorities are trying to stamp out, and all the while the homes are being turned into breeding grounds for germs of all descriptions.

There is every justification for the resentment voiced by the citizens, and we trust it will have the effect of stimulating the Council to action. There is only one course open to them and that is to issue instructions to the men to return to work immediately, and in the event of refusal, to find others to take their places.

Rev. N. Powell's Lecture

This lecture recalled the best days of the Antheum. There was plenty of fun but there was also a certain dignity of presentation that was becoming to the speaker's profession. There was also a distinct religious aspect, not at all labored but seeming to grow of the subject itself. Indeed Britain is only great as she is truly religious. The setting of Armistice Day and Thanksgiving day was just what was needed, and Mr. Ruggles' fine rendering of three songs, characteristic of the three chief stages of the Empire, was a distinct contribution to the success of the evening.

Mr. Powell seemed to produce his effects without effort and by a skillful use of voice alone to impersonate every type of whom he told a story. There were darkies, Cockneys, the shires of England, fishwives and aristocrats. All of them lived for the moment. Their sayings will live a long time. The Englishman was pictured as the business man, the always courteous, the independent. The Scot and the Irishman in their well known national traits. Grave and gay alternated until the story of the volunteers for the Zeebrugge enterprise, brought the audience to its feet to sing Rule Britannia.

The Governor, who presided, was happy in adding an Indian story to the list of the evening, and "God Save the King" brought a good evening to an end.

Ceremony at War Memorial

HIS EXCELLENCY'S ADDRESS.

The ceremony at the War Memorial yesterday was simple but most impressive. There were present a large number of relatives of the men whose sacrifice was being commemorated, and the scene, as all stood in silence with bowed heads, was a touching one.

Shortly before eleven o'clock His Excellency the Governor arrived accompanied by Capt. Goodfellow and was received by Vice President Crocker of the G. W. V. A. Lined up were the Dominion Executive of the Association and a number of sailors and soldiers. His Excellency opened the proceedings with the following brief speech:

COMRADES, ATTENTION!

"We have assembled here to-day to pay a tribute to those, our Gallant Comrades, whom this Memorial commemorates. We renew afresh our pledge to continue unceasingly the struggle of Right against Might, and to protect the fatherless children, widows and aged parents of the men who gave their all for God, King and Country. May we as Veterans and citizens be fully charged with the sense of our duties and responsibilities and ever strive for life with the torch lit by our comrades who in a true spirit of self-sacrifice passed out of this life through the gateways of Duty, and who are calling to us to keep faith with them. May each one of us carry forth from this Memorial a solemn realization of what Remembrance Day means and may our lives be devoted to the cause which so many died to uphold. I call upon you all to stand with bowed heads for the space of two minutes out of love and respect for those who have answered the last Roll Call."

All stood with bowed heads and many a silent prayer was uttered for the brave lads who on this day six years ago, had successfully helped to make the world safer for its people.

His Excellency then laid a wreath on the monument, after which other wreaths were placed there by the Veterans, Sailors, Ladies, Auxiliary and other citizens.

At the Sergeants' Memorial a short ceremony was also held at which the members of the Sergeants' Mess observed the silence and placed a wreath on the monument.

The annual billiard dinner of the T.A. Athletic Association took place last night at the Armory Hall, and proved a very enjoyable affair. Mr. J. J. Spratt, Chairman of the Club, presided, and carried out his duties admirably. Covers were laid for about seventy. Included in the number of guests present were, Dr. A. H. Carnell, medical officer of the Society, Hon. W. J. Ellis, President, Mr. John O'Toole, Chairman of the Guardians of the Juvenile Society; E. Foran, Vice-President of the Juvenile Society, the Spiritual Director, Rev. Fr. Pippy, who was regrettably absent owing to illness.

The menu was provided by the Ladies' Auxiliary and was a most excellent one, and the ladies were very highly complimented on their work by the various speakers who followed. Before the toast list was taken up the assembly rose and stood in silence for two minutes as a mark of respect for their brother members and their comrades who paid the price.

The speeches were of a very high order, and with the songs which intervened, the evening was well spent and thoroughly enjoyed by all. The following was the toast list:—

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

THE GREAT FINISH. LONDON, Nov. 11. Six years ago to-day, says the Daily Mail, the Canadian Troops irresistibly capturing the whole German garrison. Just after daybreak they passed out of Mons still advancing in a line with the British units to the north and south. They went forward with wonderful dash and resolution. Though knowing that the close of the war was at hand, at three minutes to 11 the firing which had been heavy all that morning suddenly fell as if by general consent, but then rose to one final violent burst before it stopped altogether. The Great War was over and for the last time in the war London heard the crash of alarm rockets that morning.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

THE GREAT FINISH. LONDON, Nov. 11. Six years ago to-day, says the Daily Mail, the Canadian Troops irresistibly capturing the whole German garrison. Just after daybreak they passed out of Mons still advancing in a line with the British units to the north and south. They went forward with wonderful dash and resolution. Though knowing that the close of the war was at hand, at three minutes to 11 the firing which had been heavy all that morning suddenly fell as if by general consent, but then rose to one final violent burst before it stopped altogether. The Great War was over and for the last time in the war London heard the crash of alarm rockets that morning.

Magistrates Court

An 18 year old labourer taken for safe-keeping was discharged. A motorist for driving without a tail light was discharged. An express driver for driving his horse and vehicle on the wrong side of the street was allowed to go upon paying costs. Serat. Green had a female resident of Quidi Vidi Road before court this morning charged with a breach of Section 1, Chapter 64, of the Prohibition Act. She was allowed to go under suspended sentence. The postponed case of the four German stokers, and a Spaniard, members of the crew of S. S. Monte Blanco, charged with being loose and disorderly, and assaulting the 1st, engineer and 3rd, officers of the ship, on Friday last, came up for hearing this morning. The men were sent to the Penitentiary to await the sailing of their ship.

Remembrance Service at the C. of E. Cathedral

The annual billiard dinner of the T.A. Athletic Association took place last night at the Armory Hall, and proved a very enjoyable affair. Mr. J. J. Spratt, Chairman of the Club, presided, and carried out his duties admirably. Covers were laid for about seventy. Included in the number of guests present were, Dr. A. H. Carnell, medical officer of the Society, Hon. W. J. Ellis, President, Mr. John O'Toole, Chairman of the Guardians of the Juvenile Society; E. Foran, Vice-President of the Juvenile Society, the Spiritual Director, Rev. Fr. Pippy, who was regrettably absent owing to illness.

The menu was provided by the Ladies' Auxiliary and was a most excellent one, and the ladies were very highly complimented on their work by the various speakers who followed. "Road to Ruin"
An Excellent Play

TO-NIGHT "THE CALL OF THE WOODS."

The Young-Adams Company's presentation of "The Road to Ruin" must have satisfied the demand for dramatic sensations, for it is a play that brings out all that is in an actor or actress playing it. Nevertheless the outstanding role, that of Clarice LeMoyné as played by Marjorie Adams does not detract from the play. In the first act Miss Adams is seen as Clara Ramsay, the neglected wife of Robert Ramsay, the very busy business man. As Clarice LeMoyné, an international adventuress Miss Adams makes you believe in the existence of such a woman. She even compels a certain admiration for her by the consistency of her characterization. This is done by most careful acting on the part of Miss Adams. She makes full use of facial and bodily expression and all her resources of gentility and voice. Her scenes were indeed a revelation, particularly to the fair sex. H. Wilmut Young played the role of Judge MacLean with the perfect ease and assurance for which he is noted. Miss Marguerite Young as Lottie was all at home in a role that appeared to have been molded for her. Her enunciation and charming appearance added much to the portrayal of the character. Harry W. Young and Edgar Jason played their respective roles to excellent advantage. Edward H. Stauffer gave a true to life impersonation of Inspector Foley, whilst the remainder of the cast gave good account of their respective roles.

To-night's play is entirely different from anything yet presented by this company namely "The Call of the Woods." A breezy atmosphere of the west predominates in this piece, and the leading roles are in the hands of Marguerite A. Young and a St. John's boy Thos. J. Walsh who is now a member of the Young-Adams Company. Having seen a rehearsal of this bill, the writer has great confidence in the ability of Tommy in the role of Dave Ferguson, and believes that to-night he is going to register a big success. This play will run two night only to be followed on Friday night by the season's dramatic hit "The Veiled Woman." Seats for all bills are now on sale at Hutton's Music Store.

"Buick" Motor Raffle

STATEMENT.

The Committee in charge of the Raffle of the 1925 model, Buick Standard Six Motor Car has heard the report spread by some malicious minded person that the promoter of the Industrial and Mercantile Fair is to receive a commission or "rake-off" on the sale of raffle tickets. This is absolutely untrue. Neither Mr. McKay nor anybody else will receive any commission or profit on the "Buick" Raffle enterprise other than the Children's Playground and Recreation Association of St. John's and certain other local philanthropic objects to be decided upon. The space at the Rink where the car is, was exhibited free to the Committee. At the close of the raffle a statement of receipts and disbursements will be published.

Tickets are selling well and the Committee expect at an early date to announce the drawing of the Raffle, which will be conducted by His Worship Mayor Cook, assisted by other prominent citizens. Tickets costing ten cents each (60 for $5) may be obtained at many popular stores in the city, while "outport" orders (which must be accompanied by cash) may be addressed to "The Hon. Treas. 'Buick' Raffle Committee, P.O. Box 25017, St. John's, (Signed) P. E. Outerbridge, Hon. Secy-Treasurer, Claude Hall, Hon. Manager, "Buick" Raffle Committee.

Fire at Portugal Cove

At 4 o'clock yesterday, a phone message was received by the Minister of Justice, asking that the pump be sent to Portugal Cove, where a conflagration threatened from a blaze which originated in the residence of Mr. Sheppard, school teacher of the settlement. A second call, received a few minutes after, stated that there was no need of sending the apparatus as the fire was then under control. The home, and also a barn, owned by Mr. Sheppard, with practically all the contents, were destroyed.

On the Trail of Livingstone

NOT EXPLORER'S ADVENTURES IN AFRICA.

Only recently have the journals of Alfred Dolman been published. Although only twenty-four when he died in 1881, he made four visits to Africa. References to his journeys are to be found in the records of the Royal Geographical Society.

He was within a few miles of Livingstone, whom he was anxious to join, when he met his death; whether at the hands of natives or in an encounter with a lion has never been solved.

That he was a man of great courage and determination is evident from his book, "In the Footsteps of Livingstone" (John Lane, 12s. 6d.), which contains some of his diaries and notes and is illustrated by his clever drawings.

Impressions Of The Dutch.

Dolman's first visit was to Cape Colony. He was not favorably impressed by the Dutch. Here is an entry in his journal when he was making an excursion, in 1844, at the age of eighteen:—

There was among the Dutch Boers here one who last night had refused us any forage for our oxen that were dying for want of food, even though we offered him double price.

As he was leading his wagon along the hard road we had the infinite satisfaction to see it capsize, and all the oat-hay, many hundreds of bundles, strewn upon the road and no one to assist him.

But there was another side of the story, which is faithfully recorded. He received very kindly treatment at the house of Mynheer De Wet, and also at Henrick Beyer's.

Our kind entertainer would not only not receive any recompense for his trouble, or for various feeds of forage for the teams, but sent one of his servants as a guide, while his son drove our wagon for some distance (this is a great mark of respect), though he was one of the wealthiest farmers in this part of the Colony.

Pretorious At Ninety.

It is interesting to find how the names with which we were destined to become familiar fifty years later figure in these pages. De Wet, Du Toit, Pretorious. Pretorious called on the author.

This old man is upwards of ninety years of age, and still enjoys good health and strength; he has 13 children and 130 grandchildren. He formerly served in the Dutch service when the Cape of Good Hope was taken by the English in 1795.

That young Dolman had abundance of courage, if no great discretion, is proved by an incident concerning a large snake.

An Encounter With A Snake.

I quickly dismounted, but before I could strike him with a small switch that I had thrust his head and body into a hole, leaving only a small portion of his tail visible. I stamped upon him with my boot, but, not wishing to injure the skin, I caught him by the tail, and, by dint of pulling and hauling, at last got him out.

Immediately he raised his body in the air, and blew out his neck as large as a cocoa-nut, but before he could do any mischief I lent him a thwack on the head that stunned him. After a few more blows I tied a small piece of rope round his neck and carried him home, a distance of eight miles. The snake proved to be a cobra capella.

Britons' Faces Still Set

AGAINST FEMININE RIVALRY.

LONDON, Oct. 28 (A.P.)—Although another report has been submitted by a commission recommending an increase in the number of women police employed in England, it is predicted in many quarters that such a recommendation will not be speedily carried out.

The fact of the matter is that although great political and social changes have taken place in England, this is still a country of masculine domination, albeit the women received the vote during the war. What the women must overcome is the traditional prejudice which men have against feminine competition in the various callings of life.

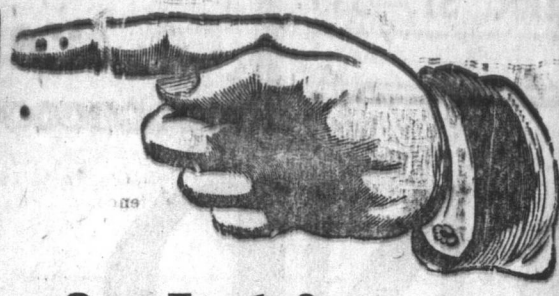

Sir Neville Macready, former head of the London police force, thinks that London alone might usefully employ 200 women police constables, whereas at the present time there are only 110 women on the police force of the whole country.

Although women who are carrying on the fight over here to win recognition for women of all the rights which men enjoy, half the police commission's report as a victory, they realize that much ancient prejudice must be overcome before the English "coppette" can enter into the fullness of jobs which were so long the exclusive property of the sterner sex.

New Form of Twilight Sleep

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(By Canadian Press)—A new and safer form of "twilight sleep" is being used at the Lying-In-Hospital under the direction of Dr. James T. Gwathmey. It was learned recently at the convention of the Eastern Society of Anaesthetists, at the Hotel McAlpine.

Within the last few months, 1,000 babies have been brought into the world without pain to the mother, and without the danger of poisoning the child, which was the cause of the "blue babies" under the first method of using "twilight sleep."

Dr. Gwathmey's discovery consists in the use of scopolamin and morphine in a solution of Epsom salts. The Epsom salts make it possible to obtain the same degree of immunity from pain with one-fourth to one-sixth the quantity of scopolamin, thus reducing the danger of toxic effects on the child. The treatment is completed with ether and oil.

In "twilight sleep" the doctors used scopolamin and morphine in a large number of repeated doses, which was harmful to the child. By the use of one-sixth the quantity of scopolamin, Dr. Gwathmey finds the psychic relief and the freedom from pain as complete as it was before, while the danger to life virtually is eliminated. The use of the term "twilight sleep" is frowned on by the inventor of the new system, as it conjures up pictures of "blue babies."

Dr. H. H. Johnson, of Hampton, Va., reported somewhat similar method, in which he has been successful in approximately 1,000 cases. He uses scopolamin, with the addition of one-eighth of a grain of strychnia, five minutes before the baby is born, thereby reducing the chance of a "blue baby." He amused the convention by reporting that, when he gave larger doses of strychnia, the babies were so frisky that they were hard to handle.

Dr. R. E. House, of Ferris, Tex., an authority on "truth serum," described his experiments with inmates of prisons, who were reduced by scopolamin to a state in which only their memories functioned. While in this state, they were asked questions, which, in the absence of a conscious will power, they answered out of their fund of pure memory, and truthfully.

Dr. House expressed a belief that truth serum would be part of the equipment of every court and prison of the future, especially for the memories of amnesia victims. He prophesied that in the next war every spy would be treated to a dose of the "truth gas."

The Sun as Your Doctor

WEATHER THAT MAKES YOU WELL.

Have you noticed how the weather affects your health?

Doctors are realizing more and more that change of weather cause changes in the human body. They say that sunshine and rain, cold and heat, are important factors in our health. The study of the relations between health and weather has become a new science, which is called "climatology."

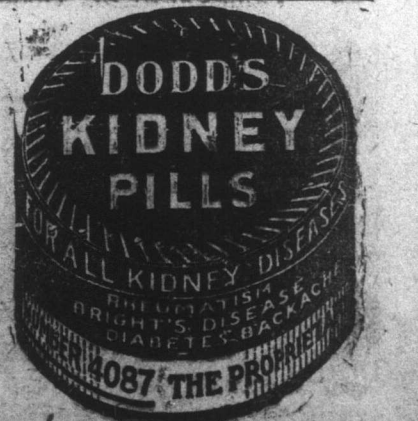

Different kinds of weather affect different people in different ways, but as a rule we feel better when the sun is shining. Damp is an enemy of health; a cool, bracing day, a friend. Doctors frequently order their patients a "change of scene," and they are now learning that the benefits of such a change are greater even than they had thought, because a change of scene usually means a change of climate as well. Temperature, the amount of moisture in the air, the height above sea-level—all these things can affect our health.

Rays That Cure Rickets.

Not only has weather a direct influence on our health, but an indirect one also. Our lives are arranged to suit the weather and climate. Bad weather keeps us indoors, and consequently, in winter, when darkness hampers our movements in the open air, many of us lead unhealthy lives.

Another discovery made by "climatology" is that sunshine has a wonderful healing effect in such diseases as tuberculosis and rickets. The direct ray of the sun on our bodies form a treatment which is being given more frequently every year.

In the same way, the study of weather reports has become of increasing importance in deciding the situation of hospitals, sanatoria, and convalescent homes.

Historical Records About Harbor Grace

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.
(H. F. SHORTIS.)
Article IV.

From the old records in my possession I shall endeavor to give the principal firms in Harbor Grace, Carbonear and Brigus, the most of which carried on important business, trading direct with European and foreign markets generally, on their own account, possibly in a more personal and intimate manner than the most of the St. John's merchants do at this time.

When Thomas Ridley started as a young man in the trade of our country, he was employed as supercargo, looking after the fish as it was loaded on the vessels, and he often went to foreign markets on the sailing vessels, when he became proficient in the exact requirements of the different places, and in this way he formed an intimate acquaintance with the principal merchants in Portugal, Spain and Italy, which enabled him to find a ready sale for his fish at the best prices, and with his desire to please, repeated orders came quickly, as they could depend on getting suitable quality, which meant satisfaction to all concerned.

You will have seen from these records that it was quite a common occurrence for vessels to clear from Brigus and Cupids for Oporto and Spain, and I shall give records later on of the manifests of these cargoes for the West Indies and the United States, which cannot but help to show how trade has changed, and St. John's is now practically doing the whole of the business carried on formerly by the outports. There were merchants in Adam's Cove and Lower Island Cove shipping their fish to foreign countries.

HARBOR GRACE MERCHANTS AND SHIP-OWNERS.

The principal merchants and ship-owners in Harbor Grace were: Hugh William Danson, Thomas Ridley & Co., Thorne, Hooper & Co., Josiah Parkins, Joseph Soper & Sons, John C. Nuttall, Thomas Foley, Roger Harrigan, Wm. Donnelly, Peter Rogerson, Patrick Heenan, David Power, James Brown, John Murphy, Thomas Golden, William Parsons, Francis Lynch, James Glavin, Robert Parsons, Robert Oke, Moses & Israel Gosse, Peter Brown, Patrick Kelly, David Butt, Wm. Sheppard, Daniel Green, Henry Webber, John Stevenson, Alfred Mayne, Darby Hartery, William Innot, Power & Coady, W. Mullooney.

It is impossible for me to find space to tell even a few items about each of these many firms, all of which I have heard of as if I was intimately related to them. As I have already mentioned, our country was struggling through rough times, as an aftermath of the Napoleonic wars, and it took at least a generation to recover.

In 1831 Danson's was the largest firm, with branches in Holyrood and Bay de Verde. They owned a score of vessels, but they were in financial difficulties, and so was Josiah Parkins, J.P. Danson's place of business was where Munn & Co. and Murray and Crawford are now situated, and Josiah Parkins was in the place now occupied by the Public Building.

Danson's headquarters were at St. John's, and at the time of the failure, Hugh William Danson was Mayor of that day. I have often heard the late Mr. Claudius Watts state they should never have been closed up, but it was done by the ill-advised directions of the creditors. A few weeks later every ship of this firm arrived from the fishery loaded. I little thought to be able to verify this, but the old gentleman was right, and later on I will give a list of these sealers, their Captains and catches of seals—and it certainly was a very successful year. It was considered a great calamity when Danson failed, but again the old adage comes true: "What is one man's loss is another man's opportunity," and when Danson's premises were sold by auction in December, 1832, they were purchased by John Munn, then a young man about 25 years of age, who joined partnership with Capt. William Puntun, and by perseverance, industry and ability they built up the large business of Puntun & Munn, and later on John Munn & Co., which at his death in 1879 was second to none in Newfoundland.

In these old records I find Capt. Puntun in 1832 commanded the brig "Norval" and made her regular voyages summer and winter between Newfoundland and Europe. The "Norval" sailed from Harbor Grace on December 24th, 1832, for Lisbon, and was again reported in March at her landing berth at St. John's. Capt. Puntun died in 1843 in Aberdeen, Scotland, where he had retired, and the business was carried on by John Munn and relatives, who are still on the old stand, with nearly one hundred years to their credit. I must cut these notes shorter as there are many firms to tell about.

Thorne, Hooper & Co. was another firm carrying on business in the premises which William Donnelly took over afterwards, and now occupied by Archibald's Boot & Shoe Factory. It is recorded that Thorne & Hooper purchased the premises from Denis McGrath, uncle of our late good old friend "Uncle" Din Shea, for eighteen hundred pounds. I am certain of this.

Mr. Claudius Watts told me that the firm of Thorne, Hooper & Co. had a record of four hundred years, which must have taken them back before the discovery of this Island by John Cabot. They were largely interested in the Iceland fisheries, also in the Baltic lumber trade. I quite believe this because Robert Thorne of Bristol is said to have been the principal backer in sending John Cabot on his Voyage of Discovery.

The very name "Bristol's Hope," which comes to us in John Guy's records in 1610, shows the intimate connection that Harbor Grace had with the old city that commemorated John Cabot with a tower, the same as we have done.

OUT OF PLACE.

WALT MASON.

When winds are bleak and skies are gray, and rain oaks through our clothing, the man who is too blithe and gay is look-loathing. From words the sun-shine experts flout a m a l l comfort can we borrow; on dreary days we only want companionship in sorrow. There is a time for everything, for borrowing and loaning; there is a time to dance and sing, and there's a time for groaning. It is a scene of unmix'd bliss when grouches get together, and sigh and weep, and hoot and hiss, and cuss the beastly weather. They're havin' such a bully time, before the clouds are clearing! And it would be a sordid crime to bring a message cheering. It is a blunder, nothing less, to hand them consolation; there is a comfort in distress, a balm in indignation. When men are sore at life and fate, talk not the bright to-morrow; they want to meet up with a skate who has an equal sorrow. Their miseries they would compare, their scalding tears they mingle, and walk the floor and rend their hair, and make the welkin tingle. So let them teeter to and fro, and in their sorrow languish; there is a rapture in such woe, a solace in such anguish. But when you see them spring once more a smile of latest model, confront them by the Blue Front store, and talk your sunshine twaddle.

WE SUBMIT OUR FABRICS FOR YOUR APPROVAL.

Good tailoring begins with the selection of exclusive, serviceable and dignified woollens and worsteds, different from the common run found in ready-made clothing stores. The cutting, fitting and workmanship follow as a matter of course—here.

ADVERTISE IN THE EVENING TELEGRAM.

Would You Believe It?

ASTOUNDING COINCIDENCES IN REAL LIFE.

Do coincidences have any special significance, as many people who have experienced them believe, or are they just another of the many inexplicable tricks played upon us by Nature? Interest has been added to the question by a number of strange cases reported recently, but, remarkable as these have been, there are others, all of them authentic, which are nothing less than amazing.

A DEAD MAN'S DOUBLE.

Take as an example the astounding story which came to light four years ago, following upon the death of a man in a bath in the town of Bath. The man's name was found to be Fairbrother, and it was mentioned that he had been in love with a Brighton girl who was seventeen years of age. A fortnight later a man named Fairbrother was arrested at Scarborough on a charge of theft, and the Chief Constable declared that he was identical in appearance with the Fairbrother who had been found drowned at Bath.

But that was not all—for this man was also stated to have been in love with a girl who also came from Brighton, and who was only seventeen!

AN INCIDENT IN PARIS.

Another series of coincidences, no less remarkable, has been recorded by Mr. Sisley Huddleston, the well known Anglo-French writer. A friend in Paris had mentioned a certain poem to him, asking him if he could find a copy. He could recite some of the verses, but could not tell where he had read them. The next day Mr. Huddleston had occasion to take a bus (the taxi-cab drivers being on strike), but the driver of the bus apparently being a novice pressed into the service in the emergency, he got off and wandered along the bank of the Seine, looking at the contents of the book boxes. Turning over the leaves of the very topmost number of an old periodical, he came upon the poem for which his friend had asked him to look for!

WHAT WOULD A JURY THINK?

"I do not frequent the quays," Mr. Huddleston declares: "I rarely take a bus; only on that one day would a twenty-four hours' strike have put a man at the wheel whom I could not trust. Why should I have got down at that point? . . . It is hard indeed to accept the theory of pure coincidence, though I suggest no other.

"And how often do similar incidents occur—against all the laws of probability—in our everyday life? Were I on trial with some sort of presumption of guilt against me, I am certain that no jury would believe a similar story which might have the material bearing on the case. I imagine the scorn of a keen cross-examiner on being informed that chance alone guided my footsteps to what was probably the only copy of the poem, about which I had been questioned the previous day, exposed for sale in Paris!"

HIS LONG-LOST SON.

The Strand Magazine once published among its "Curiosities" a photograph of an American Indian boy who was born without arms and was giving exhibitions in this country of shooting a bow and arrow with his toes. This number of the magazine actually reached the boy's father, a Red Indian, dwelling somewhere in the wilds of North America. He recognized the picture of his son, of whom he had lost sight for years. The joy of the boy's family on learning that he was alive and making a career for himself may be imagined. It is difficult to say which is the more extraordinary—the fact of an English magazine reaching so very unlikely a reader, or the almost incredible coincidence of his finding his son's portrait in it.

There are many remarkable birth coincidences on record, but perhaps the most outstanding is that concerning the family of Mrs. White, of North Hill, Fareham, Hants, who is the proud mother of six children, all of whom celebrate their birthday anniversary on the same day! Here are the facts: Daughter born July 27th, 1886; triplets born July 27th, 1901; twins born July 27th, 1902.

What is more remarkable still is that they were all born between four and five o'clock!

Cast of Notables in "Pleasure Mad"

Mary Alden, Huntly Gordon and William Collier, Jr., in New Barker Film.

One of the most promising pictures of the year is "Pleasure Mad," the Reginald Barker production, coming to the Nickel Theatre to-morrow. This is Mr. Barker's third picture for Metro and Louis B. Mayer. The other two were "Heart's Affaire" and "The Eternal Struggle," both of which scored immediate success.

Mary Alden, who was recently featured in "The Eagle's Feather," will again appear in her favorite role of a mother, the kind of role that won her fame in "The Old Nest." Huntly Gordon, famous for his sterling characterizations in "The Famous Mrs. Fair" and "The Social Code," will play opposite her. Other favorites also exceptionally well cast include William Collier, Jr., Norma Shearer, Winifred Bryson and Frederick Truesdell.

"Pleasure Mad" was adapted from Blanche Upright's novel, "The Valley of Content." Dealing with the fortunes—and misfortunes—of a happy family of moderate means which is split up by the affections and indulgences which follow sudden acquisitions of wealth, this book has proven one of the most popular novels of the last year.

Norbert Brodin, who has done remarkable work behind the camera in many productions, is the cameraman, and the scenario was by A. P. Younger, who wrote the screen versions of "Fair and Warner," "The Walk-offs" and "The Flirt."

Wesley Debate

Resolved: "That modern life tends to induce decay in our physique." Such was the topic of debate at the Wesley Young Men's Literary Class last night. The set speakers for the affirmative were A. K. Snow and M. Bourne, and for the negative H. H. Hookey and R. Bursey.

The affirmative maintained that modern life as we have it to-day prevents the development of the people and tends to induce decay in our physique. Thirty or sixty years ago the people consumed more strengthening food such as plenty of game and fish, while to-day the foods consumed are not so nutritious; too much canned stuff is being consumed. The introduction of the tram cars and motor cars have made the healthy exercise of walking less indulged in, and the mad craze for pleasure by the people do not give the body time to recuperate and tends to induce decay in our physique.

The negative contended that medical science has explained to us what is good for us and what is not, and has instructed us in the case of our body that by following those instructions we ward off many diseases and obtain a healthy physique. Modern life contains many beneficial exercises such as football, racing, skating and many other practices which are instrumental in producing a healthy physique. Our modern life offers excellent facilities for the development of the mind, and a healthy mind is an asset to any individual.

After the set speakers had spoken the debate was thrown open for discussion from the floor, and many members gave some excellent opinions for and against the subject. On a vote being taken the negative won by a majority of 5 votes.

Every member of the Class is earnestly requested to come along each Tuesday night and avail himself of this splendid means of mental development.—B.S.

"The Age of Desire"

AT THE STAR MOVIE TO-DAY.

Through twenty long years the one cry in a mother's heart, "Where is my boy—what is he doing now—is he happy?"

Twenty long years before she had deserted him for the life and luxury she wanted and which were not hers until she had renounced her son.

Now she wants him back—back near her when all the treasures of life are at her command to give him.

Just imagine what Borage has done with that drama. Just imagine the heart-rending moments that spring in it and realize that here in a picture that will grip the souls of men and women until the final fade-out.

Not just ordinary drama—no just the kind that brings a tear, but a big living document of one mother's mistaken step and her after sacrifice that glorifies with memory.

A big cast to play it and a wonderful story to portray and a marvelous picture as the result of a great director's genius.

"Now, Mike," he said, "I've heard some queer stories about your doings lately."

A Lesson From Germany

Glasgow Herald: Cash on delivery is the only present basis of transactions between Russia and her immediate neighbors. In the nature of things, Germany would be the first country which would succeed in establishing commercial relations with Russia. But her concessionaires have found it a ruinous business, and are not disposed to throw. And, as Sir Robert Horns and other opponents of the Treaty have pointed out, where Germany has failed in this matter no other country is likely to succeed.

WHEN YOU CAN'T TAKE A VACATION.

nature has that much more energy to use in getting rid of whatever enemy is invading her territory.

A Week's Vacation In A Day.

There are some doctors who advise a day in bed once in so often even if you are in good health because it gives you a change to catch up with yourself. "A day in bed," says one doctor, "is as good as a week's vacation."

And those who are so placed that they can form the habit of spending an hour lying down every day and just relaxing are surely fortunate, and foolish if they do not take advantage of their good fortune. Of course one can get along all right without relaxing, of course one can keep at it all day, especially in the before-30 years. But even then, one can keep oneself more fit to get the full joy out of both work and play by such a rest period. And as for the after-30 years, well for them it is invaluable.

The Place Of A Go-Away Vacation.

Another way of catching up with oneself for those who have gotten behind and cannot afford to go off for a regular vacation is a scheme of mine practices. She gives up all evening engagements and goes to bed directly after supper. She reads for awhile, but puts her light out at eight o'clock. She says a week or two of this treatment supplemented by as long an afternoon rest as she can steal from her necessary daily work as house-mother in a family of five, will put her on her feet when she has begun to go down hill, and cannot afford a go-away vacation.

I imagine there is many a breakdown that might have been avoided if the sufferer had given himself this treatment of a stay at home vacation at the right moment.

The point is, of course, that nature is always working toward health, always directing your energies toward health. When you are up and around, a certain amount of that energy has to go on keeping you going. When you lie down that part is released and

Bricks and Brakes

London Daily Telegraph: It becomes every year more obvious that health of mind and spirit is not to be maintained by those who are always in a hurry. Men and women need to go out into "the wind on the heath" to come in contact with the open country and the life of the wild creatures there. Some of the most enfeebling ailments of the body politic in our time arise from ignorance in town-bred people of any manner of life but their own.

THINKERS ALL.

You can't find out what a fellow thinks until he comes up and the metal sinks. In the cupola of a foundry's gloom; You can't get his thoughts in the crowded room. And the clang and stir of a factory grim; Then life is too busy and swift for him To do more than snarl at the dirt and heat; You can't read his mind on the busy street; You must wait till you get him somewhere alone, Then he'll make his dreams and his fancies known.

They are merely men as they walk to work, Mechanic and foreman and drudge and clerk, Laughing or frowning, or sad or gay, Merely a throng as they go their way; But each of them's bringing a thought to bloom. Which you never will see in a factory's gloom; Never from seven to five you'll find The nobler side of the toiler's mind; But somewhere away from the world's harsh tone He'll tell what he thinks when he's all alone.

Out in the woods, by stream or hill, When the stars come out and the night is still, He will turn to you and he'll whisper low Of the thousand things which he wants to know; He'll utter his faith in a simple way, He'll tell what he says when he kneels to pray, He'll talk of eternal joys to be— Oh, a different sort of man you'll see Than the toiler grim in the furnace hole. When you get him alone and he bares his soul.

Sweden Ready to Supply United States With Lumber

STOCKHOLM (A.P.)—A new and important item may soon be added to the export trade from Sweden to America, according to statements in the press by a Swedish lumber expert, the government forester, M. Juhlin-Dannfelt, who has returned here after an extended tour of the United States as an exchange scholar under the auspices of the American Scandinavian Foundation.

The demands on the forest resources of America have already become so great, says Mr. Juhlin-Dannfelt, that a lumber shortage is being increasingly felt, especially in the eastern states. Besides, the long haul from the region of standing timber involve sufficiently heavy freight charges to make imports from overseas advantageous. Consequently a new market for Swedish lumber is opening up and, in fact, a considerable number of shipments have already been made by Atlantic ports, Spruce, fir and pine lumber, especially dressed materials, such as lath and planks, has been absorbed easily by the American market, and Swedish mills now look for a big trade along this line.

Pulling the World's Leg!

HOAXERS WHO HAVE DECEIVED CONTINENTS.

From time to time the world is stirred by some amazing item of news. It becomes the chief topic of conversation. Then, with startling suddenness, comes a bombshell. The story is a "hoax." A clever schemer has hoaxed the world.

Something of the sort happened recently. One day it was announced that the "lost" books of Livy had been found. Livy was a famous Roman historian, and a certain part of his work has been missing for a thousand years. The news that this missing part had been found caused great excitement among learned men all over the world. Then the finder caused an additional sensation by disappearing. The frontiers were watched and the closest search was made for him. He reappeared, only to confess that his story was untrue. The world's "leg" had been "pulled."

A Water-Power "Wonder."

A few days later it was reported in London that King Boris of Bulgaria had been assassinated. Nothing definite could be learnt. All day long the telephone of the Bulgarian Legation rang. The greatest anxiety was felt. Then it was learnt that the king was alive and well. A Bulgarian newspaper had been hoaxed, and the story had been copied by newspapers all over the world.

Curiously enough, scientists and other intellectuals seem to be among the easiest to hoax. There is the instance of the "Keely motor." An inventor declared that he had discovered a new force, more powerful than any power then known. By means of this invention, he stated, a quart of water could be made to exert a force of one thousand horsepower. There was intense excitement over this announcement. Twenty thousand pounds was raised by a public fund; the inventor was hailed as the greatest inventor of the age.

The inventor produced a machine—a baffling tangle of pipes and tubes—and invited scientists to witness a test. Unfortunately for him he bungled the affair and was seen to slip in a reservoir of compressed air—the only power his "invention" possessed!

New Up The Wrong Beat.

Another hoax deceived scientists and some of the greatest naval experts. A certain "professor" stated that he had discovered a ray which could blow up ships that were lying five or more miles away. He gave a wonderful demonstration in the presence of well known people.

He had, of course, discovered no ray at all. The ships were exploded by a charge of dynamite placed on board, and ignited by an electric cable arranged by two accomplices. On one occasion of a second test something went wrong, and instead of the ship being blown up, the fate befell the boat containing the "professor's" assistants.

One of the most amazing hoaxes on record is that of the American explorer, Peary, who reported that he had found a channel at the north of Greenland. This was supposed to prove that Greenland was an island, and the channel was marked on American Navy maps. It was not until six years later that another explorer reported that where the channel was supposed to be he said there was a range of hills, free from ice and where game abounded.

The Crop That Failed.

Peary also claimed to have discovered a tract of land called Crocker Land. Subsequently, other explorers established the fact that no such land existed. Peary's discoveries have been deleted from the naval maps, and much doubt has, consequently, been cast upon his statement that he discovered the North Pole.

Some years ago a letter was received by an important newspaper declaring that the greatest sufferings were being experienced by the inhabitants of certain parts of Italy owing to the failure of the macaroni crop. An article was actually published on the subject and a relief fund suggested. Macaroni is not a plant, but an article manufactured from flour!

Ex-Postman's Record

QUARTER OF A MILLION MILES WALKED IN 41 YEARS.

Twenty miles a day for 41 years and eight months—excepting Sundays and annual holidays of a fortnight—making a total mileage of 250,000, is the walking record of Mr. William Plowman, formerly a Relgate postman, whose exploits in this respect rival those of Mr. James Drew, mentioned recently in the "News of the World." Mr. Plowman, who is now 58, holds an Imperial Service Medal and the Postmaster-General's certificate for over 41 years' service. His family has been connected with the Post Office for the past 65 years, his uncle entering the service in 1859. His son is now carrying on, having started three years ago. During Mr. Plowman's long service his work has often been of an arduous nature, for, in addition to the load of heavy mail bags and parcels, he often had to encounter very severe weather, particularly in the winters of the early eighties. He recalls that St. Valentine's Day used to be a very strenuous time for postmen, especially before Christmas cards came into general use, after which the custom of sending valentines gradually died out. Mr. Plowman, who retired two years ago on pension, has by no means stopped walking. In order to keep fit he very often tramps from his home at Relgate to Walton Heath, a distance of four miles, and carries clubs on the links of the Walton Heath Golf Club.

Germans do Not Generally Observe 8-Hour Day

HONOVER, Oct. 29 (A.P.)—The eight-hour day, while theoretically guaranteed by the new German constitution, is by no means generally observed among factory workers, according to an investigation just conducted by the Factory Workers' union. Of the 481 locals of the union, 320 turned in reports covering 4,860 concerns employing 481,449 persons.

The results show that only 54 per cent of the employees in the concerns investigated work up to 48 hours per week, while 5.8 per cent, work from 48 to 51 hours, 26 per cent, from 51 to 54 hours, and 15.9 per cent, over 54 hours per week.

A man had several complaints made to him regarding his Irish servant, and took him to task.

The Will

There comes a time in the life of every man when he must leave his worldly possessions to the care of another. In anticipation of this, therefore, the first obligation resting on an individual who is possessed of property is the making of a will, and this should be done before the capacities become impaired by time or the ravages of disease.

Britain's Under-ground Wealth

Although the undeveloped underground wealth of such countries as China and Brazil, as well as many of our own overseas possessions is known to be enormous, there is no area in the world where such a wealth and variety of mineral and metal lies within workable reach as in this country.

It is estimated that up to the present year the mineral matter extracted from the United Kingdom amounts to the prodigious total of 460 tons for every acre of its extent. This works out to twelve thousand million tons, a figure which the human mind is incapable of grasping.

But we are faced with the further fact that there is no similar area in the world which has been more heavily and continuously worked, and this consideration has led many to regard Britain as a depleted country so far as mineral wealth is concerned. Experts say, however, that the real mineral wealth of these islands has not yet been seriously impaired, and it is a fact that new lodges of great value and variety are constantly being traced. Moreover, with the immense improvements in machinery—with compressed air, hydraulics, and electricity as helpers—mines which seemed exhausted are again workable and the time will come when far greater depths will be explored.

Brooklyn School Girl

WATCHES WITHOUT MOAN SURGEONS REMOVE FOOT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4—Her left foot so crushed it had to be amputated, 13-year-old Fannie Loftman, of Brooklyn, lay pinned under a surface car for an hour without a whisper, although fully conscious. While a wrecking crew, aided by firemen and ambulance surgeons, worked to extricate her, Fannie lay perfectly still, her eyes open and her gaze fixed on the workers.

"She is one of the bravest girls I have met in all my experience," said

Ambulance Surgeon Singer and at Bushwick Hospital his sentiment was echoed by other doctors.

Fannie was on her way to high school. She got off a car, walked behind it and was run down by another car going in the opposite direction. Her left leg was caught in the front truck and she was pinned underneath the car. At the hospital it was said after the amputation that her condition was "very encouraging."

Feeding the Zoo

Wild animals in captivity are notoriously capricious about their food. Their temperamental appetites must be catered to like a spoiled child. Ever since the establishment of the Bronx Zoological park the kitchen for the animals' food has been presided over by Rudolph H. Bell, and the fact that the "guests" are usually in the pink of condition speaks well for the tact and patience of their head cook. Practically every kind of food is needed for the many different kinds of animals, reptiles and birds. The monkeys are the most difficult to please. They demand variety and are easily peevish if things do not suit. Their diet includes about everything humans demand except meat and fish.

Years in the Service of the Public—The Evening Telegram.

Closing of the Industrial Exhibition

The Mercantile and Industrial Fair came to a successful conclusion last night, when Mr. W. A. McKay, the manager and organizer, brought it to a fitting close with a speech in which he thanked the public for their patronage, the exhibitors, electricians, decorators and all other helpers for making it the unqualified success that it was. During the eight days of the Fair, upwards of 18,000 people visited it. Interest did not wane one bit throughout, as the attendance was equally as large on the final night as on any other night during the performance. This certainly speaks well for Mr. McKay and all concerned, and they are deserving of all the congratulations showered upon them. Yesterday afternoon the exhibit was thrown open to the Orphans of the city between 8 and 5 p.m. The children, numbering five hundred, were the guests of the management and they were all delighted with the excellent display. During the afternoon, the Misses Furman, of Southville, were kept busy serving the little ones with drinks and sandwiches. The exhibits at the Fair for 1924 have proven an eye-opener to many, and as a result much good has been accomplished. Many of the exhibitors received orders for their goods, amounting to thousands of dollars, and this alone illustrates the effectiveness of such an exhibition. Last night the C.L.B. Band was in attendance and rendered some pleasing selections. With the following concludes a series of articles, giving a brief description of the various booths at the Industrial Exhibition. With the limited space at our disposal, it has been impossible adequately to describe the many items of interest and we hope that what has been said was sufficient to give those who had not the opportunity of being an eye witness a general impression of this most interesting event.

MOREY'S COAL

In a booth at the western corner of the Curling Rink, Morey & Co. has a very attractive display of coal arranged in diamond shape. The display includes the world famous North Sydney Screened, Welsh, Anthracite, (4 sizes) Nut, Stove, Egg and Furnace. There was also a display of American Anthracite in these four sizes, besides an exhibition of BESCO coke.

ST. GEORGE'S COAL FIELDS.

Many visitors were impressed with the display of local coal from the St. George's Coal Fields, Bay St. George. Samples from The Duke's, Howley and Murray seams were shown. The usual comment was "Why do we have to send outside when we have such excellent coal in the country?" We learn from Mr. Freeman, President of the Company, that the successful termination of the fight to interest capitalists will not be long delayed and the coming spring may see work begun in earnest. The earliest mention of coal in Newfoundland was made by a celebrated circumnavigator, Capt. Cook. Over one hundred years ago, a celebrated traveller, W. E. Cormack, whilst crossing the island became acquainted with the coal outcrop on the Barrow's Rivers. The Duke's Seam, from which one of the samples shown was taken, was discovered in 1840 by an Irish Geologist, F. B. Jukes, M.A., F.G.S., F.C.P.S., sent here by the British Government. In 1873 Alexander Murray, C.M.G., F.G.S., discovered a very promising seam of coal in the St. George's area, which he named Howley Seam. It was not until 1899 that the Murray Seam was discovered by the late Geologist, Mr. Howley. The St. George's Coal Fields possess many more seams of coal than those from which samples are exhibited, but time and other matters did not permit of a full display being given.

COLIN CAMPBELL & CO.

Messrs. Colin Campbell & Company's display of Sunlight Soap occupies a good position and represents a shop window in which the packages are shown in profusion. In the centre is shown a cutout, which represents a corner of Port Sunlight. In the centre is displayed an enormous cake of the soap. This booth has attracted much attention during the Fair and the owners are to be complimented on its excellence.

ORANGE CRUSH BOTTLING CO., LTD.

A booth which called for much favorable comment during the Fair was that of the Orange Crush Bottling Co. This display, which was a well arranged one, consisted of the various flavors of Crushes, all of which are in demand in the market and sold at reasonable prices. Seven years ago the Orange Crush Company did not exist; to-day its products circle the Globe.

STIRLING'S RESTAURANT.

The only booth of its kind in the display, was that of Stirling's Restaurant, in which was exhibited a line of their confectionery on sale at their store. During the week waitresses were in attendance and sold drinks and other articles from over the counter, and a pretty brisk business was done. In addition they ran a full service restaurant in which excellent service was given.

Colds Reached Instantaneously by New Method

Long's Mill Stenographer Uses and Recommends Vaporizing Ointment to Her Friends.

Miss Fern Morris, a local Stenographer who lives at No. 71 Long's Hill, writes: "I just want to tell you what Vicks means to me. I was on the verge of having a very bad cold, but my sister, who, by the way, carries Vicks around with her, practically forced me to use it. I put some in my nostrils every night before going to bed and, to my surprise, the cold I was in for never appeared. "I would not be without Vicks now and, at the least sign of a cold, I rub it on my chest and put some in my nostrils."

For all the Family. Miss Morris expresses the opinion of thousands of others who consider Vicks the family "standby" for all cold troubles. In the States, where it originated over 17 million jars of Vicks are used annually. This success is due to its two-fold action.

When Vicks is rubbed over throat or chest for head or chest colds, sore throat, tonsillitis, bronchitis, croup or whooping cough, the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thymol, etc.—are vaporized by the heat of the body and inhaled with each breath directly into the affected air passages and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through the skin like a liniment or ointment, taking out the tightness and soreness, and thus aids the vapors inhaled to break the congestion.

It is a severe cold indeed that can withstand this double-direct action of Vicks.

Wedding Bells

PITTMAN—FITZGERALD.

St. Thomas's Church was the scene of a pretty but quite wedding on Monday afternoon, the 10th inst., when J. Robert Fitzgerald, of Corner Brook, was united in the bond of Holy Matrimony to Carolann Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Pittman, Laminale. Precisely at five o'clock the bride entered the church from the west door, leaning on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Frederick Carter, and advanced to the Chancel steps where the groom, accompanied by his brother, Walter, who acted as best man, was in waiting. The marriage service was recited by the Rev. Canon Bolt, M.A., D.C.L., and, at its conclusion, a short address from the altar was delivered by the officiating priest. The bride, who was attired in a neat travelling costume of navy serge with hat to match and wearing an emerald fur, looked very charming. Her flowers were a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and maiden-hair fern. Miss Gertrude Bolt, the bride's only attendant, was prettily gowned and carried a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums and maiden-hair fern. After the signing of the register the happy couple, with their attendants and party left the church amidst showers of confetti, and motored to Waterford Bridge where the bride and groom entrained for palea in Conception Bay on a brief honeymoon, prior to taking up residence at Corner Brook.

GREEN—STANLEY.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at St. Andrew's Church, Petty Harbour, on Wednesday evening, October 29th, at 5 o'clock, the contracting parties being Miss Hilda Greely, daughter of Mr. Samuel Greely and Mr. Alan Stanley, son of Mr. Chas. Stanley of the Goules.

The bridal party were met at the church door by the choir, all robed in cassocks and surplices. The bride, who was a member of the Choir, was here presented with a beautiful bouquet of white flowers. She then entered the church leaning on the arm of her father preceded by the choir singing the Hymn. "The voice that breathed 'our Eden.'" The ceremony was performed by the Rector and was fully Choral.

While the party were signing the Register the Hymn "O Father all Creating" was sung by the Choir, after which the Wedding March was played by Mrs. Severn, the Organist. The bride, who is a very popular young lady, looked charming in a pretty costume of brown, and was attended by her sister, Louise, who wore a costume of blue trimmed with gold. Mr. Geo. Stanley, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The bride received a large number of very valuable presents, among which were presents from the Choir and Girls' Guild. After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's parents' after which the happy couple left for their home at the Goules. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Stanley every happiness in their future life.—COM.

Normal School Gives the Opportunity

Editor Evening Telegram
Dear Sir—As one who was present at the Normal School this afternoon, and who had the pleasure of listening to His Excellency's fine address—and of afterwards seeing over this fine building, erected in memory of our fine boys, I say "God Bless The Men" who, in response to the appeal of the ones who were returned to us, saw to it that a lasting memorial in the interest of education was erected. The building is an inspiration to all who enter it and as we are all part owners, we should see that the utmost is made of it. As a mother of a family I would like my children to have the opportunity of continuing their education, and I suggest that night classes should be held during the coming winter. Every hour lost in educating our sons and daughters is a loss to the country. There are rooms for every branch of education. There are hundreds of young men anxious to learn who have to work during the day. Personally I am very interested in drawing, but I never had the opportunity to learn to draw, and my visit to the room devoted to this work was a delight, and I envy the students. Many other mothers were interested in this room. All Newfoundlanders love beauty but the opportunities to take up this branch of work are few, and I heard many say that they wished they could send their children. As a Newfoundland mother I say we have the brains and ability and all we want is the opportunity to fill this fine Memorial School with willing students, morning, afternoon and night. I know that you are interested in education and I am sure you will give this letter space in your widely read paper.

Odd Fellow's Dance and Entertainment

Last night the Independent Order of Oddfellows held a dance and entertainment in their rooms at the corner of Adelaide and New Gower Streets, which was largely attended and proved very enjoyable. The guests of the evening were the entire troupe of the Young, Adams Company, Mr. and Mrs. Young being members of the three links. The Hall was delightfully decorated in honor of their visit, and when the party assembled there was not one dull moment during the proceedings. D.G.M. Brother George Soper extended a hearty welcome to the members of the troupe on behalf of the Order, to which Mr. Young, on behalf of the troupe, made a suitable reply. After a delicious repast had been served by the ladies present, the balance of the evening was taken up dancing and did not conclude until early this morning.

"To the Last Man"

The final showings of the Paramount picture, "To the Last Man," which opened at the Majestic Theatre last Monday, will take place there this evening. This splendid picture includes in featured roles Richard Dix and Lois Wilson, Noah Beery, Robert Edson and Frank Campeau play in support. Victor Fleming directed the production, which was adapted by Doris Schroeder. The supporting cast is composed of prominent screen players.

The fight between Jean Isabel and Sigmund Bruce in Gray's general store, Bruce has heard the story of Jean kissing Ellen Jorth and speaks indignantly. Jean thrashes him with his fists.
The wiping out of all the labels except Jean by the setting off of a blast of dynamite, which causes the cliff to tumble down upon them in an avalanche. The Isabels were pursuing the Jorths.
Jean Isabel and Ellen Jorth, whose families are sworn enemies, chance to meet on the "rim." They love each other only to find that they will probably never see each other again because of the feud.
Little Tad, one of the Isabel youngsters, is shot down by the Jorths as he attempts to get his toy boat left in the rain barrel, when the family fed indigestion. Jean Isabel risks death to rescue him.
The five pictorial scenes include:
Scene shot from the "rim" looking down into the Tonto Basin. The cliff has a sheer drop of several thousands of feet and mountains in the background are extremely rugged.
The fight between Jean Isabel and Sigmund Bruce in Gray's general store. Crowds of men around the bar with Sigmund Bruce on the floor and Jean standing over him.
Colter, one of the Jorth gang, finds Jean Isabel wounded and hiding in a small cabin. He is about to kill him when Ellen shoots Colter with a rifle.

ROCK ISLAND.

October Earnings Expected to Exceed September—Heavy Grain Movement Boosts Gross—Low Ratio of Transportation Expenses.

Boston—The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway is getting splendid results this fall, due to the heavy grain movement, high condition of its equipment and other facilities for handling the business, and the low ratio of transportation expenses to gross which has been obtained. October is expected to exceed September and to show an even larger surplus after charges than the $1,921,615 reported for that month.

New York—September was the largest in the history of the Rock Island. Ratio of transportation expenses to gross was only 82%, the best result since the reorganization. At the end will be in greater demand this year than ever, judging by our sale last year which beat the three previous years combined, and we would suggest that you place your order either through your wholesale house or from us direct during the next couple of weeks so as we can have same delivered to you the early part of December. Last year lots of orders were received too late and goods could not be sent out in time for the Xmas Trade.

To Our Numerous Outport Customers!

Stafford's ESSENCE OF GINGER WINE

We have STAFFORD'S GINGER WINE ESSENCE packed in cartons of 3 dozen, and we guarantee absolutely no breakage in transit.
