British Enter Comblès; French Are Near; More Saint John Homes Are Haddened

Khaki Troops Overcoming German Resistance in the Streets of the Town

Enemy Said to Have Withdrawn Some Guns Yesterday, Seeing That Place Could Not be Held; Was of Great Value to Them as Checking Advance of the Allies

British and French troops today reached the town of Comblès, on the Somme front, after having virtually pocketed the place in a struggle of many weeks duration.

Attacking from the north, British troops have forced their way into the place and are overcoming the German resistance there. On the south the French have reached the edge of the town and have penetrated the cemetery. In addition they have further closed a small opening left in the Comblès pocket by capturing all of the village of Freigicourt, a mile to the east.

The Comblès salient, doggedly maintained by the Germans, has long been a serious hindrance to the allies, hampering them in their offensive toward Bapaume and Peronne. Its elimination however, seemed imminent after yesterday's combined thrust by the Franco-British forces which carried them to Morval, on one side and Freigicourt on the other, after leaving as a line of retreat for the Germans only a roadless gap a mile and a half wide, swept by the allied guns.

BEATEN, TOO, AT VERDUN While the great battle on the Somme front was at its height the Germans last night attacked the French lines at Verdun, driving in between the Thiaumont Work and Fleury to the east of the Meuse. Paris today announced that the French guns were effective in checking the German assaults.

Eight hundred unwounded prisoners were taken by the French in the fighting yesterday on the Somme front. There were forty-seven aerial engagements yesterday on this front. Five German aeroplanes were brought down and others were badly damaged.

Comblès, a town of some 3,000 population before the war, had been rendered almost unrecognizable to the allies by their long continued encircling movement. It has been of notable value to the Germans, however, because as long as they cling to it, the Franco-British freedom of action in pushing their movements between Bapaume and Peronne on either side of it was hampered.

Turned into a strongly fortified position by German defensive ingenuity, it has been held fast like a rock in the course of a turbulent stream that has had to be blasted down before the channel was fully opened up. This process has been accomplished by long-continued and costly effort on the part of the allies. Driving in from the south, the French successively swept by Harecourt, Maucourt, Le Forest, and finally reached Freigicourt, a mile to the east of Comblès. More slowly, but none the less surely, the British have pushed their advance on the north of the German salient.

Yesterday came the combined effort. Only two roads remained over which the Germans could withdraw their men and guns. Attacking from the north, the British forces pushed on and occupied Morval, cutting the northerly road, running to Le Treux. Striking from the south, the French pushed their line to the Rivinon of Freigicourt, severing communication with Comblès over the easterly road that stretches towards Sallières. The gap between Morval and Freigicourt, a mile and a half in width, and reaching back toward Comblès, was swept from either side by the combined artillery of French and British guns. It is not thought probable that any considerable force of Germans remained in Comblès.

Yesterday, when it was becoming evident that the allied forces were achieving their object of closing in to the east of the town, the Germans are reported to have begun withdrawing guns from it.

REV. MR. THOMAS PAYS TRIBUTE TO OFFICER WHO GAVE UP ALL

Moncton, Sept. 26.—"No finer fellow went overseas," said Rev. H. E. Thomas, commenting on the death of Capt. C. E. Williams of Lakerville, Carleton county, who was killed in action. "He was eager from the first to go to the front."

Rev. Mr. Thomas is recovering from a severe illness that he contracted while with the Canadian troops in England.

Venezelos Believed to Plan Manifesto to be Issued on Island of Crete—Constantine to Have One More Opportunity

New York, Sept. 26.—A news agency dispatch from Bucharest says: "Tentative forces in Dobruja retreated on the left wing in Sunday's fighting after several lively engagements. The German and Bulgarian losses have been very great. One Romanian division picked up 5,000 rifles abandoned by the enemy."

In Transylvania the Roumanians have made a further advance in the Callian Mountains.

Paris, Sept. 26.—On the western end of the Macedonian front, to the east of Florina, the Bulgarians last night made violent counter-attacks. Today's official announcement says these assaults were checked by the French. West of Florina the Russians and French made a combined attack and took fifty prisoners.

Between the Struma and the Vardar the Serbs were successful, together with some skirmishing, especially on the left flank. No important action developed in the sector held by the Serbs.

Venezelos' Stealing Move. London, Sept. 26.—According to Athens dispatches received here, it is believed that a manifesto to the Greek people from Gannous, island of Crete, where he probably will direct the operation of a separatist government, besides Admiral Kondouriotis. The dispatches add that Constantine, M. Venezelos on his expedition include all the members of his former cabinet with the exception of M. Rakkavim, minister of justice. The proclamation of M. Venezelos, it is said, will invite King Constantine to put himself at the head of a national defense movement.

Reports of the total number of New Brunswick Highlanders already enlisted is now almost 100. Newcastle led the strength of the 29th Kilites is already nearing the 900 mark. The opening meetings of the recruiting campaign last night furnished the spectacular events of the campaign, and from now on it will be a more serious business, as the work of getting in the recruits must be pressed forward vigorously.

Reports this morning from every county showed the total number of recruits at last night's meetings to be thirty-one, and with the 180 odd on the Kilites' strength, before the campaign opened, the total number of New Brunswick Highlanders already enlisted is now almost 100. Newcastle led the strength of the 29th Kilites is already nearing the 900 mark.

At Oromotou, Gagetown, Andover, Yarmouth, Dorchester, Hopewell Cape and Hampton there were no recruits. This morning Lieut.-Col. Percy A. Guthrie left by automobile for Centerville, Carleton county, commencing his tour of the province. He is accompanied by Dr. A. W. Thornton, of the Dental Faculty of McGill, and Lieut. W. Ensign Howe, of Nova Scotia, a singer who accompanies himself on his guitar. Colonel Guthrie will speak once in each county during the Kilites' opening campaign. He will be at Centerville tonight, at Grand Falls on Wednesday night, and at St. Leonards on Thursday night of this week.

AMERICANS TO GET MORE N. B. LUMBER PROPERTY? Fredericton, Sept. 26.—It is reported today that an American syndicate which has been negotiating for the purchase of the Partington lumber property on the Nashwaak and Bertholme rivers will soon take over the property. Rumors that the deal has been closed cannot be confirmed here. The erection of a large pulp mill at Marysville is said to be among the possibilities.

The steamer Viking arrived here last night on her first trip of the season and left for St. John at noon today.

Premier Clarke and Hon. B. Frank Smith are here for a meeting of the provincial government this evening.

CHICAGO'S GIGANTIC POLICEMAN IS DEAD Chicago, Sept. 26.—Edward E. Martin, Chicago's biggest policeman and yesterday, he weighed 421 pounds and was six feet two inches tall. For years he was a member of the gambling squad where he was of great value in breaking down doors in raids by leaning against them.

Gallant City Lads Wounded In Big Combat; One Reported Killed

George Given, although not living under the empire's flag when war was declared, heard his country's call and answered. Now, after only a short period of service at the front, he lies beneath the soil of France or Flanders, another who has given his life bravely and cheerfully for the sake of those who remain at home.

Private Given, who was in his twenty-fourth year, was a son of David Given of St. James street, besides his father he leaves two sisters, Mrs. R. B. Mitchell of St. James street, by whom the word was received and Mrs. Louis Mullin of Fairville, and three brothers, David, in Norton, and Charles and John of this city. He left St. John about five years ago and, at the outbreak of war, was working in the state of Washington.

Leaving his position there he made his way across the border and enlisted at Red Deer, Alberta, in the 98th overseas battalion in July, 1915. He sailed from St. John with his unit Easter Sunday in April last and had been at the front but a comparatively short time. The brief official message merely conveyed the news that he had been killed in action, but that is probably an error.

J. A. Chandler Wounded. Grenadier J. A. Chandler who is reported in the official list as wounded and whose place of residence is given as St. John, is a son of H. A. Chandler, formerly divisional surveyor for the C. P. R. with headquarters in St. John, and now resident engineer in Woodstock, Jack, who is twenty-one years of age, was engaged in the engineering department in Woodstock before enlisting. When war was declared he took a course of instruction and qualified as a lieutenant. His appointment did not come soon enough to suit him so he resigned his commission and enlisted in the ranks of the 26th battalion. Since arriving in England he apparently was transferred to the artillery. His father was an artillery lieutenant in the militia and served at Partridge Island for some time after the outbreak of war.

Eugene Woodrow Wounded. Victor J. Woodrow of St. Market Place, West St. John, has received word from Ottawa that his son, Driver Eugene F. Woodrow, supply services, was admitted to No. 2 Stationary Hospital at Boulogne on September 18, suffering from wounds in the right leg and thigh. Driver Woodrow, who was nineteen years of age only this month, left St. John with No. 1 company, C. S. C., under Major McKeen and this is his first injury. Before enlisting he was employed by Northrup & Co., South Wharf.

Corp. J. Edward McKinney James McKinney of the customs staff received word today that his second son, Corp. J. Edward McKinney, had been wounded. A card from the wounded soldier merely said that he was being removed to the base hospital and was doing well. A letter added that he has been wounded in the groin by a high explosive.

Corp. McKinney was with an imperial unit. He was in the mechanical transport of the Army Service Corps, the only Canadian in it, and was permitted to wear his Canadian army badges. Corp. McKinney was in charge of the motor truck of the fire department here before enlisting. A host of friends will learn with regret that he has been wounded. He has a brother also at the front.

R. S. Robinson. Word was received here yesterday from S. T. Robinson, who is now in Belgium, that his brother, R. S. Robinson, had been wounded. These brothers crossed in March with the 67th Western Scots of Victoria, B. C. and are sons of J. R. Robinson, a former resident of St. John.

Pte. W. Cummings. Mrs. Cummings of 92 Forest street has received a letter from her son, Pte. W. Cummings, who is in No. 2 General Hospital, suffering from an injured knee cap, resulting from a kick by a horse. He wrote on Sept. 8 that he would soon be all right again. The weather, he says, is getting cold. Pte. Cummings was with the Div. Ann. Column.

Murray Fogarty. A letter has been received from Private Murray Fogarty of the 90th battalion, who was recently wounded and is at present in a hospital. He expects to return to the trenches within a short time. Private Clarence Fogarty of the 26th is a brother.

Moncton Man Killed. Pte. William Day of Moncton, was killed in action on September 15. At the outbreak of the war he was in Regina and enlisted with a western regiment. His wife, a daughter of Lena of Moncton, and three children now in Regina, will come to Moncton in a few days. (Continued on page 12, third column.)

THIRTY ONE JOIN KILITES' BATTALION ON OPENING NIGHT Seven Counties Did Not Give Any Recruits—Newcastle Leads

Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 26.—The strength of the 29th Kilites is already nearing the 900 mark. A WRITER WHO SAW THE GREAT FIGHT MONDAY

Most Splendid Spectacle of All Attacks

WILDERNESS OF GUNS

British Artillery in Raging Tempest of Fire—Germans Now No Longer Have Advantage of Prepared Lines

British Front in France, Sept. 26.—(Via London, Sept. 26.)—This has been another great day for the Anglo-French forces on the Somme. As a spectacle for the observer it was the most splendid of all the attacks made by the allied forces since the commencement of the great offensive. What either army was trying to do and how they were doing it, the positions they held and sought to conquer in the main play of the blue French regiments and the khaki-clad brigades of Britain, were unappreciable to the eye in the glowing autumn sunlight for a sweep of ten miles.

The scene had the appearance of war's grandeur—it was seen to have many grandeur. The British have taken half of Morval, all of Peronne, and have advanced their line on a front of 8,000 yards for an average depth of 2,000 yards; the French have stormed the outskirts of the village of Freigicourt, a mile east and a little north of Comblès. The German stronghold of Comblès is virtually isolated.

The correspondent went forward yesterday for two hours from the crumpling and Ginchy Wood where the British had fought for more than two months to gain. He walked for two hours over an area which reverberated to the blast of great guns, picking his way between the bars of flame from the crashing batteries and moving around the rows of dead bodies.

On his return the correspondent decided that he would not pass through the lines of British guns of all sizes and calibre while he had any breath left. Every one of the guns was firing. He chose a gallery which for two miles was pouring out their share of flame from the trench. From the ruins of some old German trenches, whence the battle raged, he saw a new view of the French gun-batteries stretched before him, the corresponding British gun-batteries and the German machine and trench-breaching machine and with the mechanical precision of automatons.

British wounded said their great gratification was that it was becoming an open fight. The British officers were fighting in the open. According to the British officers the Germans on the fighting front have no longer any trenches except those which are dug under fire.

YOUNG SOLDIER, ONE OF THREE BROTHERS, WINS HONORS IN THE WAR

Included in the twenty-five names on the honor roll of the Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation is that of Sydney Baker Harris, the youngest of three sons of G. F. R. Harris of Winnipeg, manager of the Manitoba branch. "All are serving the empire in France."

In the latest list of military honors won by Canadians is the following: "Lieut. Sydney Baker Harris, infantry. During a raid on the enemy's trenches he killed two of the enemy and was wounded by three bombs. After being wounded, he continued encouraging his men to throw bombs and finally helped to carry a wounded soldier under heavy fire."

Lieutenant Harris is not twenty-one years of age yet. He went overseas with a unit from Winnipeg in the second contingent and since his arrival in France has been in practically all of the heavy fighting. His two brothers have been on the firing line since the first of the war. Major Guy, with a western unit, and Lieutenant Thomas with the 10th battalion.

George H. Smith of Toronto, superintendent of branches of the Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation, is in the city today on official business. Mr. Smith has reasons to be proud of his boys. He has three sons and all of them are in the service of the empire. Lieutenant Walter is a member of the 18th and Russell a member of the 134th.

He also expects to do some work in Russell street, between Kane's corner and the One Mile House. He is securing the material for repairs from a pit off the Golden Grove road, in the same district as the pit from which material is being taken for the government repairs to Rotherly avenue.

HELIGOLAND -- A LOST POSSESSION

Transfer One of Britain's Great Blunders
Now Apple of German Eye
Lonely Sentinel Guards Approach to German Coast -- Of Greater Value to Them Than Alsace and Lorraine

There are many names of places in English history the mere mention of which thrills like the blast of a trumpet. Such, to mention but two or three, are Crey, Banockburn, Trafalgar and Waterloo. There are some others -- happily but very few -- that bring a blush to the cheek or provoke in every patriotic heart intense indignation. Of this latter class the one most prominent since the war began is Heligoland, or, as it is sometimes written, Helgoland. For generations to come, unless happily the fortunes of war restore the island to Great Britain, this word will recall a striking example of the fate of nations of the folly of despising a day of small things, and of deliberately closing the eyes that they may not see, and of stopping the ears that they may not hear.

Topography and History
Heligoland, an island, a religious centre of the Frisian race (whence its name, "Holy Island"), is a very small island, or rather pair of islands, in the North Sea, about 45 miles northwest from the mouth of the Elbe. The chief island is a triangular piece of ground, or rather of rock, consisting of a steep plateau 180 feet above the sea, about one-third long with a strip of firm sand at its southeast foot. Its area is about 130 acres and its population at the close of the British rule in 1910 was 3,415. All these at the outbreak of the war were deported to the mainland. Denmark is a neutral. It is formerly Danish. It was taken by Britain in 1807, ceded to Germany in 1890 in exchange for certain tracts of land in East Africa, chiefly Zanzibar, and a right of way in Central Africa. The exchange, not without considerable opposition in press and parliament, was made in order to placate Germany, which loudly professed to look upon this British seizure right at its front door as a standing menace to a "desirable peace" between the two countries. Magnanimously, as it was termed, the exchange was made. In vain Germany was already learning to pray beneath her breasts, "Gott strafe England," though some wiseacre politicians and theologians not a few, insisted it was "God bless England" and were ready to quarrel with you if you did not believe and say that war between the two countries was "unthinkable."

Its Strategic Importance
A glance at the map will serve to show the strategic importance to Germany of this bit of rock. As above stated, it stands in the open sea about 40 miles from the mainland. It is equidistant from the mouths of their great rivers, the Weser and the Elbe, the former with its tremendous system of fortifications at Wilhelmshaven, and the latter with its scarcely less tremendous system at Cuxhaven. It is, therefore, within easy distance of the famous Kiel Canal, which connects the North Sea and the Baltic. When it is remembered that the whole coast-line of Germany does not exceed 200 miles and that its defence is wonderfully aided by the natural advantages of shallow waters and flat, sandy shores, no wonder will be felt that, standing as it does a sleepless sentinel on the watch for the approach of a hostile fleet, Germans have not grudged any expenditure of money and effort, and have exhausted all the resources of science and skill to render Heligoland impregnable from sea and in making it a cooling station for ships and a safe anchorage and base of supplies for their submarines. It has become "the very apple of their eye," and the opinion is offered by an acute observer that they would sooner return Alsace and Lorraine tomorrow than give up that mile-long piece of rock.

Closely-Guarded Secrets
As might readily be supposed, it has been very difficult for foreign nations to obtain any large and accurate information as to German coast-line defences and the condition of their fleet. There

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

"WHEN DREAMS COME TRUE"
When Dreams Come True, which comes to the Opera House Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, is by Philip Bartholomae, author of the successful "Over Night." Little Miss Brown and "Very Good, Eddie." The author has indicated the same originality in the book of "When Dreams Come True" as he did in his farces. He recounts the story of a wealthy young New Yorker who awakens to find his allowance cut off on account of his adventures with a French dancer.

A stungling plot is interwoven in the story, to which the "Dream Girl" is an innocent party. All sorts of trouble is heaped upon the pair until "dreams come true" in the final act. A musical comedy cast of more than ordinary ability will be seen in the principal parts, and a chorus of twenty-four capable and sprightly young women will sing, dance and help to make the production a success.

PALACE THEATRE
Don't forget that this week it is for the Soldiers' Comfort to help them in their noble work of keeping our boys at the front supplied with something from home to cheer them up under the terrible conditions that they are forced to endure while fighting for their king and country. While we so far away are enjoying every luxury and comfort for which we have fought, let us make it possible for us to do this.

AT THE GEM
If you did not see "The Wild Girl of the Sierras" and "Love's Getaway" at the Gem last night, don't fail to do so tonight. They make a great seven-reel programme. Tomorrow Chapter 2 of "The Yellow Peril" and "Holbrook Blinn, in 'The Unpardonable Sin'."

PERSONALS
Major Corbet of the Field Ambulance Depot left last night for Aldershot Camp, where he will spend the week-end. Sir Herbert Ames is in the city on patriotic duty business. Mrs. Penna leave Moncton today for a trip up the St. John river. Mr. Penna goes to the city on business. Mr. Ames is in the city on patriotic duty business.

GIRL GUIDES HAVE DONE GOOD WORK

All over war-ridden Europe today little scout maidens are showing their patriotism and their usefulness in various ways. In Halifax, through all of the winter weather, since the war began, the Scout Girls, in their uniforms with the long coats or caps, met the trains that come in from the redressing stations with their loads of wounded soldiers, and supply the disabled men with hot coffee, homemade cakes, cigarettes, candies, and other little home-reminding luxuries that they have probably not seen since leaving home at the call to arms.

IN MEMORIAM

PERCY--In loving memory of our dear girl, Ida, who fell asleep Sept. 26, 1915.
Often times we fancy, at the close of day

Then our hearts grow lonely, bitter tears do fall
That's the time we miss you--need you most of all.

GERMAN KNEW ST. JOHN
Moncton Transcript--A St. John officer, in a recent letter to a friend at home, told, The Transcript learns, an interesting little story in connection with his experience at the front. After action, in which a New Brunswick battalion had been engaged, many German prisoners were being escorted to a point of safety. Among them was a German officer, who was engaged in conversation by the St. John officer. He inquired of the latter where he was from, and the answer was "From St. John, New Brunswick." To this the German replied, "I have been in St. John, know the city quite well, have also been in the United States, and graduated from Harvard." He enquired for a few people in St. John, with whom he was acquainted, among them a certain young lady, whom he described as being very clever, in fact led her class in High School graduation. "And do remember my name," asked the St. John officer. "It was Miss So and So," was the reply. "That is my name," was the New Brunswick officer's reply, "and the young lady is my sister." She is now the wife of a well known Anglican clergyman, recently removed to Vancouver, B. C.

MILITARY MOLLY AND THE ROTARY CLUB; A GOOD TEAM

Preparations Well Advanced for the Big Rotarian Fair Thursday, Friday and Saturday of This Week--The Best Ever, it is Said
Accompanied by the music of a band, thousands will be led to St. Andrew's rink on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week to participate in the good times being offered by the Military Molly Fair. The admission is but ten cents and the eight which will greet the eye of patrons after entering the door will itself be worth many times this sum in keeping with the ingenuities of the clever Rotarian Club committee having this department in charge.
The bright lights and gaudy of the Military Molly fair, together with the attractive nature of the entertainment offered should be the means of drawing many thousands to St. Andrew's rink on the mentioned dates. "Alec" Wednesday and Thursday's papers for further details and in the meantime keep their eyes on the news columns for the final Rotarian amusement effort. Needless to say the funds are to be used for patriotic purposes and every dollar available ten are needed.

SMALL ATTENDANCE

Sackville Tribune--Classes at Mount Allison University began tomorrow. A number of the students in the residence came in toward the close of last week, but the main body will arrive today. It is estimated that something like sixty male students will be in residence this year. In ordinary years, the average population of the residence amounts to close on to two hundred students. Of the men in attendance this year, about forty are freshmen and the remainder consists of old students. The university classes also contain a number of students, who will likely bring the total attendance at the classes up to about a hundred students in round numbers.

FURS IN BIG DEMAND. Funsten Sale Brings Out a Crowd and Prices Rise High. St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25.—At Funsten Bros. & Co's fall auction for sale the following lots were disposed of: Five hundred silver foxes, 628 chinchillas, 11 sea otters, 78 Russian sables, 12,000 Kollinsky, 46,000 mink, 85,000 ermine, 14,500 lynx, 4,700 lynx cat, 7,500 wild cat, 2,900 Persian, 2,600 fitch, 4,000 leopard cats and 10,200 Wallaby. Silver foxes sold at from $1 for a kitten fox to $200 for a pair of mated skins. Sea otters ranged in price from $700 to $2,000. A small parcel of real chinchillas sold at $40 a skin.

THE WAR NEWS

Interest grows in the daily developments in the eastern theatre of war. Mr. Venizelos, the strong man of Greece, who has waited with impatience for action on the part of the king and cabinet, has left Athens and it is believed will join in a revolutionary movement, forcing Greece into the war on the side of the Allies.

FLEMMING THE ISSUE

Premier Clarke, in an interview printed in Saturday's Standard, says the result of the Carleton county election was a verdict for good government. We quote two paragraphs: "While, within the past two or three years, two by-elections have been held by the government and one seat has gone to the opposition, this is the first contest in that period when the issues between the two parties have been clearly defined—on the one hand a policy of clean and progressive government and careful administration; on the other, a policy which contains no suggestion looking toward improved legislation or the betterment of provincial conditions and which has found expression in utterances which are wholly unjustified and accompanied by methods which the people of one of the most advanced and intelligent counties of the province have overwhelmingly condemned."

The Toronto Star says

"At the outset of the war the Canadian government announced that the prices of the necessities of life must not be unnecessarily increased, and that steps would be taken by the government to see that nothing of this kind was done. A good deal has happened in this way, and what steps, if any, have been taken by the government?"

in the Royal Navy. His cap was pulled so far down over his right eye that one could hardly see that optic. Admiral Beatty is extremely good looking, a typical rolling-sailor chap. He gives his orders in staccato tones, and in all cases is quick-spoken and wants to do everything with great rapidity. He confines himself to about three words as a rule and is on the move all the time. When he is talking to anyone he walks up and down the deck at a fast pace. Admiral Beatty is a man who always has a hundred things to do.

Nervous Periodical Headaches

This trouble commonly called "sick head" is said to be due to the retention of bile in the system. Often it is noted the poor condition of the blood in cases of these headaches, or that it is a nervous condition and in certain cases no doubt, it is true. When treatment is demanded, it is in the form of a cathartic, and a F. F. S. cathartic of Louisville, has proved most satisfactory relief. "Bile should be expelled from the system, and the patient should go to bed, darken the room, and rest as long as possible. An emetic will sometimes be necessary, and the bowels should be kept open with 'Actoids' a hot bath and a thorough full-dress with a coarse towel, often give great relief. Two anti-manna tablets when the first signs appear, will check one tablet every hour or two will check the attack entirely. These tablets may be obtained at all drug stores. For 25c. Tablets. ### BISHOP OF LONDON ASSAILS CITY VICE

Shooting is Too Good For The White Slavers

Attacks Immoral Play—Denounces All Who Temp Soldiers as Worse Traitors Than German Spies

London, Sept. 26.—A crowd which filled the churchyard of St. James in Piccadilly was addressed by the Bishop of London from an outdoor pulpit. His topic "A Moral Change Required in London." The bishop wore a black uniform as chaplain of the forces and carried his pastoral staff.

"Now, good people," he began, "I am going to speak to you as I have been speaking to all the officers and men of the great battlefields and the fleet. I am going to talk to you in a perfectly informal way. You must forgive me for being in khaki, although there is nothing to be ashamed of in wearing the King's uniform, but I have just come from the camps on Salisbury Plain, where our gallant fellows are waiting to take on any number of Germans."

The Bishop quoted from a British war correspondent's description of the spirit of the men in the Somme battle.

"I read that," he said, "because my whole soul swells with pride in being a Briton, and I would tell you Londoners that no one would ever be able to blacken the character of my fellow-citizens. No! What I have come out to denounce today are the villains, more mischievous than German spies, who ought to share their fate; who lie in wait to stain the chivalry of our boys, to poison their minds and undermine their characters. They are all traitors to this country."

White Slavers as Traitors

"I have very good authority for everything I say to you today. The first traitors that I denounce today are the male hawks who walk up and down this very Piccadilly night by night with an army of heliopes and trembling girls under their surveillance and who take from them the very money the girls earn by their shame. I am not a blood-thirsty man, but I say shooting is too good for them. I brought in a bill before the war—and shall bring it in again after the war—which not only raised the age of consent from 16 to 18 years, but would have made the life of the souter or bully too much of a hell for him in London for him to stay."

"Then side by side with the male hawk as a traitor to his country is the man or woman who writes lecherous and silly plays. He has the insolence to try to make money out of the weaknesses of our boys. God knows in the heyday of their youth our dear boys do not always find it easy to keep straight, and these devils deliberately try to make it harder for them. I agree absolutely with

ROUMANIA'S QUEEN

London, Sept. 2.—(Correspondence)—One of the many reasons for rejoicing here at the entrance of Roumania into the war on the side of the Allies is the fact that the Roumanian Queen is an Englishwoman of great popularity. Before her marriage to the Hohenzollern Prince, who is now King Ferdinand, Queen Marie was the beautiful and popular daughter of the late King Edward's eldest brother, the late Duke of Edinburgh. She is still regarded as beautiful, and indeed she, her husband and two boys and four girls are frequently spoken of as constituting the best looking royal family in Europe, as well as the most photographed.

Queen Marie is beloved throughout her country for her generosity and constant efforts in behalf of the poor. She is the leading spirit of the Society of Goddesses of Roumania, each goddess acting as a fairy godmother to at least one poor child. The queen has an odd hobby in the collection of scent bottles, of which she had more than 8,000.

When aboard her father's flagship at Malta, Roumania's future queen became a great favorite with officers and sailors. She had a great love of helping the ship's cook with his duties. On one occasion she fried fifty eggs and slices of ham and had them distributed among the men as a token of goodwill.

Our Better Suits Have Long Coats and Skirts of Simple Lines

This is the Best Indication That They Are the Choicest Models Produced this Season

PARTICULARLY do these Suits appeal to young women and women who invariably choose apparel with youthful lines. Nearly all the coats of our better quality suits reach to the knee or below and have simple skirts gathered at the waistline, cut in flared effects or showing the use of pleats. Far trimming is seen on many. Rich wool velours, broadcloths and fine serges are featured fabrics. You could not wish for more graceful, youthful suits than these.

BUILD UP BRITISH SHIPPING

Financial Amalgamations for Competition After the War

London, Sept. 9.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The shipping trade of Great Britain while suffering considerable losses from enemy submarines is nevertheless quietly strengthening itself by means of various financial amalgamations of interests to meet the "after war" competition, and by means of fresh tonnage construction, despite the huge increase in cost of material and labor. The investing public also is showing its belief in the future of British shipping by absorbing all sorts of shipping shares privately and on various stock exchanges.

The recent move by the admiralty in giving certain shipbuilding firms freedom to proceed with construction of mercantile vessels, has led to orders being freely placed in practically all the yards of Great Britain, most of which now have work on hand for the next two years. Overhaul and repair work is particularly brisk on the Clyde and Tyne, and in certain South Wales yards; several new vessels are competing and fitting out which were ordered as far back as early in 1914, while several large oil tankers have recently been put in hand.

A new shipbuilding project at Chertsey, for constructing standardized vessels, is well under way, and the yards are expected to be begun soon. Engineering firms have also been attracted to the district, which is experiencing a sharp rise in land values.

Germany's Hatred Of Great Britain

Grows Stronger as The War Progresses

Kaiser Helps Fan Flames

Britain's Share in War Decided But Empire is Blamed for Every Fresh Disaster to German Cause

Germany is losing the war, but she is not losing any of her hatred of Great Britain. The sentiment which Ernest Lassauer embodied in his famous "Hymn of Hate" appears to be growing rather than diminishing, or at any rate, German writers and German generals are doing their best to rouse in their readers and soldiers such a hatred for the British as no race has before borne to another. In addressing his troops at the Somme a few days ago the Kaiser was reported as telling certain divisions that it was their "privilege" to oppose the English. He harped on the old story that Britain had sworn to ruin Germany, and exhorted the men not to fall back before the accused "ice-cold haterdashers of the Thames," wherever else they might find it necessary to give way. His soldiers have been consistently giving way ever since, but correspondents at the front have frequently remarked that the Germans oppose the British troops more stubbornly than the French or any other enemy.

Officially-inspired Hates. The same sentiment appears in most German newspapers, and it is evidently officially inspired, for as a special correspondent of the New York Sun remarks: "Every new development in the great war is exploited as a new reason to hate the English." Britain is blamed for everything; she was blamed for the intervention of Italy, and now is blamed for the intervention of Roumania. In a few days she may be blamed for Greece's abandonment of neutrality. References to the French are almost living in comparison to the references to England. Germany's cartoonists also employ themselves almost exclusively with the British theme. British soldiers are lampooned; their courage is denied; their numbers underestimated. It is asserted that hate for the British, however, the French and the Russians would be easily dealt with, not alone on the battlefield, but diplomatically. It is the accurate British who are prolonging the war; therefore, all Germans who do not want the war prolonged, that is to say, all Germans, are invited to rise and give three hateful hoots for the British swine.

Germany's Right on One Point. This effort to rouse German hatred to unprecedented fervor is a sufficient answer to those critics who have jeered at the "park Britain has been playing in the war, so far as her army is concerned, alone, for instance, who said, "The English will fight to the last Penmanian." "Everybody's fighting but the English." The Germans have made no such mistake. As the Kooltsche Volkstaatung says in a recent issue: "There has never existed any difference of opinion in Germany as to the fact that England is our greatest and most dangerous enemy. Britannia intends to reign supreme over the world, politically and commercially. * * * England, therefore, is the enemy. On this point all the States in the German Empire are agreed." This paper is permitted by the German censorship to express the belief that the war against Britain is not being conducted with all due intensity, and, as it says, "adequate ruthlessness." It also asserts that Germany will have deserted to lose her independence if she fails to crush England.

Warning Other Allies. The Hamburger Nachrichten wants to know when the city authorities will remove a "deadly crescent" from our midst. This disgusting sight is nothing more than a brass plate affixed to the Altona waterworks, bearing the name of the English contractor who erected them. In another article it tries to awaken the other Entente Allies to the real situation as regards their infamous partner, wit, England. She is using them as her pawns, saving her own strength while they are pouring out their blood. This will mean that when the war ends every combatant will have been bled white and brought to the verge of ruin except Britain. She will then step in and seize the world's trade, which is her sole reason for having forced the war upon Germany.

British Ignorance and Lascency. Speaking of the British threat of reprisals the Nachrichten delivers itself as follows: "With respect to Lord Crew's threats about the 'punishment' which they intend to mete out to the German Empire, the noble Lord is quite right. Such talk leaves us cool, and should the English attempt, either now or after the war, to exercise this 'punishment' in whatever form it be, that attempt would leave all Germans as cool as the threats themselves. Psychologically considered this pastime in which the House of Lords has indulged is very instructive. It demonstrates not only the immeasurable English ignorance, but also the cunning and impotent desire to react by means of reprisals. The English prime minister appears to imagine that once peace is concluded people in Germany will be burning with the impatience to see an English representative among them once more. Mr. Asquith is mistaken. In Germany the idea is not entertained with enthusiasm of resuming diplomatic relations with a country whose statesmen and press vie with each other in insulting and slandering Germany and who in giving expression to their thoughts manifest a lack of decency that is unparalleled since the world began."

Another Smashing Blow Delivered In The West

British and French Drive Home Attack and Combes Garrison is Cut Off

Attacking simultaneously on an area of fifteen miles, running from Martinpuech to the Somme, the British and French forces have delivered another smashing blow on the German lines and pushed forward their positions for notable gains.

From Martinpuech to Combes, a distance of six miles, the British have driven in their wedge to a depth of more than a mile, and captured in the attack the important strategic towns of Lesbois and Morval, the latter a scant mile north of Combes.

To the French fell the town of Raucourt, two miles east, and the outskirts of Freignourt, one mile northeast of Combes. In addition, trenches near Lesbois and Morval, the latter a scant mile north of Combes, were captured.

The capture of Morval by the British and of part of Freignourt by the French apparently seals the fate of Combes, which the Germans have stolidly held for weeks despite the violent attacks thrown against it. The defenders of the virtually surrounded town have left to their escape only the valley, a mile in width, running north-northeast, and in the tracing of which the British and French respectively from Morval and the vicinity of Freignourt. Another notable step in their approach upon Peronne is marked in the capture by the French of trenches in the Canal Du Nord region.

Six Miles British Share. London, Sept. 26.—The British troops have captured the village of Morval, together with several lines of trenches on a six-mile front between Combes and Martinpuech, says the official report from British headquarters issued about midnight. This front was penetrated to a depth of more than a mile. Many prisoners were taken and heavy losses were inflicted on the Germans.

The text reads: "South of the Ancre our troops attacked Monday and have been everywhere successful. Enemy positions were stormed on a front of about six miles between Combes and Martinpuech to a depth of more than a mile. The strongly fortified villages of Morval and Lesbois, together with several lines of trenches, have fallen into our hands.

The village of Freignourt, on the right bank of the Somme, and with its subterranean garrises, trenches and wire entanglements, constituted a formidable fortress. The possession of these two villages is of considerable military importance, and practically severs the enemy's communication with Combes.

"A large number of prisoners, machine guns and other war materials were taken. Heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy. In comparison with the results achieved our losses have been, so far, comparatively small.

"On Sunday six enemy aeroplanes were destroyed in air fights, and at least three were driven to the earth damaged. Three of our machines are missing."

Esquimaux Murderers Caught. The Mounted Police department at Ottawa has received a report from Inspector LaNause of the chase and capture of the murderers of two Catholic missionaries in the far north.

The two Esquimaux, who were accompanying the missionaries on a trip to the farther north, suddenly set upon them and killed them, cut them open and ate their livers.

The police got their first trace through an Indian who was wearing one of the priests' robes. He told the names of the murderers and, after a long chase, both were captured and taken to Herschel Island, where they await trial.

Derby Recruits Heroes on Somme

New Men Made Great Names For Themselves

Two "Tanks" Destroyed—One Turned Over in a Shell Hole While the Other Was Smashed by German Artillery

(By Philip Gibbs.)

With the British Armies in the Field, Monday, Sept. 18.—(Despatch to the London Daily Chronicle.)—I have been today among the men who have broken the Fiers line and given the Germans the hardest blows they ever suffered on this front. They were all splendid. They were put to the supreme test of courage by the most damnable shell fire and fierce concentrated barrages by which the German gunners at long ranges endeavored to support their infantry.

What touched me most was the way in which the newest and youngest British troops went through with their business. Some of them were Derby recruits who had not yet seen what shell-fire means in the Somme battle. The older men among them, who knew, were sorry for them. They wondered how they would "stick it," and said, with a touch of encouragement, "Cheer up! You'll soon be dead." They did not hang back, these new fellows. The rawest recruits among them strained forward with the rest, hounded over shell-holes and the others, kept into the German trenches like men of the old fighting spirit. The London men did gloriously and had one of the hardest points of the attack and came under some of the heaviest sorts of fire. These young devil servants and men of London suburbs who used to go to their city offices by the early morning trains, fought bravely and endured with stoicism. They had a laugh in them after the battle, when they forgot the frightfulness of it all and remembered the fantastic adventures of the tanks.

Praise for French Canadians. The Canadians gained great glory on Friday and Saturday. Their attack was finely organized, and when all the difficulties are known it will be pretty credit as really a great military achievement. Among them is a body of French-Canadians, dark-eyed fellows, whom I used to meet about the villages of France, speaking volubly with the peasants in their own tongue. These fellows, close in likeness to the provincial Frenchman, although perhaps more daring and reserved, went away like wolves a-hunting and raced forward to the German stronghold which they had asked leave to take. They were swept by machine-gun fire and checked by the stubborn defenses on the part of the Germans, but with the help of two tanks, called Crene de Menthe and Corneille, which sat on the German machine gun emplacements and knocked out their machine gun crews, the French-Canadians carried the stronghold and captured hundreds of prisoners.

Sir Douglas Haig's Guards. They fought as the Guards always fight—with superb discipline and with the addition that is sacred to them. They are not the old Guards who fought at Ypres and in the many bloody battles of the British were hard pressed and afterwards at Loos, when they had some fearful hours. Many of those brave men lie under the soil of France, but the tradition stays—and the physical standard of the men has not lowered by a hair's breadth. They had a very difficult part of the line and had to pass them in the face of a heavy fire.

They gained their way forward in a series of charges which went straight through three lines of German trenches and captured large numbers of prisoners after heavy fighting and held on to the ground against strong counter-attacks.

More About the Tanks. In all accounts of this fighting since Friday the story of the tanks runs like a humorous thread, full of humor and fantasy because of their shape and qualities. They are also filled with very gallant men to whom great honor is due. The skippers' crews of these landships, as they are called, had to go out alone, in many cases in advance of the infantry and upon hazardous chances. They set out to attack the line from Combes to Morval made a rendezvous at Wedge Wood and took up their position at night. One of them set off and snailed slowly until it came within 400 yards north-west of Combes, far in advance of the infantry. Here it sat for five hours, fighting the Germans alone and shooting down German bombing parties until the neighborhood of Bouleaux Wood, reached the German trenches near Morval, and finding it had left the infantry behind, went back to inquire for them. Finally the skipper with his surviving men came back to the British lines, leaving the derelict monster still used as a barricade.

North of Ginchy telegraph station one of the tanks attacked a machine gun emplacement and killed many of the men. East of Deville Wood another advanced upon a German trench called Lausanne Lane and so frightened the Germans that about 100 of them came out under white flags. They surrendered to it, following the monster back to the British lines. The attack on Hop Alley by Deville Wood was led by a tank which attacked a number of bombers and put them to flight, so that the trench was cleared for the infantry. Afterwards, under a heavy German barrage, it could advance no further, and the skipper and crew, after doing this fine work, came out of their monster with splendid heroism and helped the wounded for three hours.

Tank's Escape in Fiers. The officer, who did what the soldiers call the great stunt in Fiers, told me his story today, and I found him as modest a fellow as any naval officer on a light cruiser and of the same fine type. He went into Fiers before the infantry, and, followed by them cheering in high spirits, knocked out a machine gun which began to play on him. The town was not much damaged by shell fire, so that the tank could walk about real streets, and the garrison, which was hiding about in dugouts, surrendered in small, scared groups. Then other tanks came into Fiers, and together they lopped around the town in a free and easy manner before going farther.

The tank which went through Hop Alley did great execution over the German trenches, and another wandered around shell craters, killing German machine gunners. The casualties were slight, considering the great success of the experiment, and on all sides among the British soldiers there was nothing but praise for the gallant men who led them. They are still going strong.

Because the time is short and war correspondents have not four hands to write dispatches, I must put into a line some late and important news of the day, which is that great casualties were inflicted upon the Germans in the neighborhood of Guedecourt. A body of infantry was observed to be retreating through the mist and they were caught by some of the advanced British patrols, who cut them to pieces with machine gun fire. Elsewhere the Germans are surrendering in small batches, unable to stand the fearful slaughter inflicted by the British guns.

DIVES TO DEATH FROM A NEW YORK HOUSE

Thomas Kenny, Supposed to Be Weak-Minded—First Smashes His Way to the Wormer Home and Asks for Water

New York, Sept. 26.—A fairly well-dressed young man walked up the steps of the home of Mrs. Isidor Wormer, 380 5th avenue, about eight p.m., and, drawing a stone from a pocket, hurled it through the glass of the vestibule doors. Immediately there was great commotion within and lights sprung up in every window.

Servants who were on the first floor saw the man put his right hand through the broken pane to turn the lock. Their cries did not deter him and he entered. Meanwhile some one had blown a police whistle. Every household in the fashionable neighborhood had been alarmed and a dozen police whistles added to the excitement.

The man walked leisurely from the first landing to the top floor, where he met Nicholas Heindorf, the butler. Heindorf set him, but he showed no fight.

"I only came in for a drink of water," he said. "I'm thirsty."

The butler led him to a side room, where he was seated, engaged him in conversation, then started for a glass of water. As he stepped out of the room the unwelcome visitor picked up a bottle on a dresser and calmly announced that he was going to kill himself. The maid overheard his remark and screamed.

Heindorf ran to the man and tried to seize him. He broke away, rushed to window facing 5th avenue and, without a word, dived to the sidewalk, landing on his right side as many autoists look on and screamed.

He was hurried to the Presbyterian Hospital. It was found there that he was suffering from fractures of both

ANADIAN NORTHWEST SCENE OF STRONG PLAY

Imperial Presents Robert Edson in Unusual Drama; Other Excellent Features

Vitagraph productions seem always to be dependable in interest-holding qualities; they seldom peter out. Such is the case, indeed, if the plays of this brand presented by Imperial Theatre are any criterion. Yesterday again the Vitagraph people presented a story of unusual strength, one of James Oliver Curwood's red-blooded northern yarns. It was called Fathers of Men, and the principal roles were entrusted to such sterling players as Robert Edson, little Bobby Connelly, William Humphrey, Harry S. Northrup, Robert Gallard, Naomi Childers, Carolyn Birch and Betty Howe.

In producing Fathers of Men, William Humphrey, the director, was evidently determined to convey the atmosphere of the great northwest on the screen. The entire picture is enacted in this frozen country. He cast about for characters to portray the strong northern roles for which the story calls and succeeded in getting a cast of players which were ideal for their respective roles. When he could get no one to play his Indian characters with realism, however, he fell back on real redskins.

In addition to this leading picture the Imperial showed the Pathe British Gazette, which is such a good weekly feature with its views of our allied heroes, and also put on another of Kendall Weston's delightful little plays lasting a half hour. The playlet was entitled The Open Gate, and disclosed a twenty-year love affair, a quarrel and a rustic English cottage gate left open for the return of the lover. The lover does return in his khaki—a soldier on furlough from Flanders—and the sweet little story ends to the satisfaction of everybody. Mr. Weston and Miss Hurst, as the elder lovers, and Miss Moynello and Mr. Vances as the younger pair—a sort of double love affair—were splendid in their respective roles. The stage was set to represent both the interior and exterior of an English cottage and with its home-like accessories and genuine trees and blossoms, was most realistic, eliciting rounds of applause.

Tomorrow the adorable Mabel Taliaferro is to be the Imperial's star in one of the prettiest of all motion picture stories, Snowbird, as pure and as chaste as its title suggests. Miss Taliaferro recently made a profound impression at the Imperial in a novelty production, Her Great Price.

IT'S A GOOD BILL AT GEM THEATRE

Mae Marsh, Robert Harron and Fay Tincher the Stars; Strong Drama, Jolly Comedy

The Gem opened the week with striking five reel picture—The Wild Girl of the Sierras, in which dainty Mae Marsh has the leading part, with Robert Harron playing opposite. Other stars in the company are Wilfred Lucas, Missie Radford, Olga Grey and James O'Shea. It is a story of the gold rush of '49. Jim Hamilton, a prospector, has left his outfit, in which are his wife and baby, to locate a mine. In his absence Indians swoop down, kill and rob and when he returns Hamilton believes the little girl has been carried away. But she has not; she has escaped notice, even of her father, and she becomes a child of the wilds. Fifteen years later she is found by Bob Jordan, a young man from the east, who also has gone west in the quest of wealth, and is out hunting in the woods. Love attends upon this strange meeting and there is a very happy ending to the picture story.

FIRST TIME ON FILM AT LYRIC THEATRE

Henry E. Dixey Featured in "Father and Son"—Also Comedy Vaudeville

Drifting from the top tiers of the celebrities of the stage, the famous star Henry E. Dixey, adds further laurels to his theatrical reputation by his amusing screen portrayal of Andrew Slocum, the pickle king, in the Masterpiece, Father and Son, which was the premier attraction at the Lyric Theatre yesterday. Andrew Slocum, Mr. Dixey has been cast for one of the most laugh-provoking characterizations he has ever assumed in his long association with things theatrical, while Gladden James as Slocum, Jr., portrays a most interesting role.

The tale is hung upon the rivalry of Mrs. Winkle and Slocum, each the owner of a pickle factory. Some of the most unusual and humorous situations imaginable arise, forming a play of consistent well staged and well acted comedy. Each and every scene abounds in laughable situations and the complications that arise as the story progresses have a strong tendency to convince the audience. It can safely be classed with such amusing satires as Charlie's Aunt. My Friend From India, or any of the better known class of light plays. Miss Mabel Montgomery appears as Mrs. Winkle and dainty Millicent Evans as her daughter. For those who enjoy good clean comedy, they should by all means see Father and Son.

Wise and Wiser, a comedy aerobic and tumbling act, enhance the value of the programme greatly by the remarkable numbers they give. Their different acts were thoroughly enjoyed and they were encored time and time again. The vaudeville for the latter part of the week will be Robinson and Leemonier, two colored minstrel end men.

EXCELLENT PROGRAMME GIVEN AT UNIQUE

Variety and Merit, Three Great Companies Catering to the Patrons

Another one of those delightful variety programmes was seen at the Unique Theatre yesterday, and the catering of good pictures was left in the capable hands of the Biograph, Kalem and Vim companies. Each of the three contributed a special feature which seemed to be very much enjoyed by the different audiences.

The Biograph company in their three part problem play, The Harvest, were usual exceptionally good. Madame Januscheck, the celebrated Polish actress, made a great success of this film version of the well known play. The characters in the Biograph production are well handled by Viola Smith, Jack Drummer, Herbert Barrington, Charles H. Malles and Jack Muthall. The scenery is one of the features of the play and the stagings were evidently selected by a critical producer with a view to pleasing the most exacting picture fans. The story itself is one of intense interest from beginning to end and elicits the assistance of every emotion the human mind is capable of conceiving.

The Girl on the Bridge was the second picture of the Kalem company to be presented. This presents Miss Helen Gibson in one of her famous dare-devil roles. For excitement and really thrill-

ANN PENNINGTON IN DELIGHTFUL PICTURE

Musical Comedy Star in "Susie Snowflake" at the Opera House

Ann Pennington, late of the famous musical comedy organisation, Ziegfeld's Follies, now of the Famous Players' organisation, was seen at the Opera House yesterday in her latest screen triumph, "Susie Snowflake." The drama is a happy mixture of life in a quaint old New England village and musical comedy life, about evenly divided, and has a heart appeal as touching as "The Old Homestead."

Of Miss Pennington herself, one can only say that she is even more piquant, more charming and dainty than the advance notices predicted. She has a personality as striking as Marguerite Clark, the magnetic appeal of a Mary Pickford, and wins it all she has real dramatic talent and the fact expression so necessary for successful screen work. Ann Pennington is known all over the country as a wonderful dancer—naturally the play gives an opportunity to exploit this talent and it lends zest to the enjoyment of the drama.

With the feature play were shown the English Tropic Bazaar with some striking views of allied troops, scenes in Paris, London Constabulary and English Boy Scouts, also the second in the series of the Prof. Dorsey travel pictures, showing the Rough Riders of India, an elephant race and many novel scenes in Imperial India.

The same programme will be repeated tonight and for actual performances tomorrow.

THE NATURE MAN

A Photographic Achievement That Stands Unparalleled in the Annals of Motion Pictures Shown at The Empire

"The Nature Man" is the most exciting, instructive and most fascinating film novelty of the season," declared a world-renowned explorer recently. "The Nature Man" shows how Joe Knowles, big game hunter, trapper and soldier, went into the wilds of the Sierra Nevada Mountains in California, and again in the trackless Maine woods, without shelter, just as a new-born babe, and fought for an existence, incidentally winning a set of several thousand dollars. Knowles leaves civilization stripped of everything except his brains. He makes a fire from huts, canoe, traps and bows and arrows, and comes out of the forest at the end of six months with enough skins to provide him with a year's living expense in civilization.

"The Nature Man" is a film extraordinary. Its six reels are jammed with real, primitive, Martin Eden adventure. He battles hand-to-hand with a bear in a tree—a tremendously thrilling spectacle—strangling the bear to death. He traps a savage mountain lion and kills it before the camera; at one time he has on his hands a snarling, snapping fight with wildcats and panthers; he kills poisonous rattlers and deadly copperheads in primitive fashion, and meets other wild beasts. Though his body is covered with gashes and rips from innumerable claws and fangs, Knowles delights in the show.

"The Nature Man" was the result of the conviction on the part of Mr. Knowles that it was possible for a human being to go into the wilds alone, with no mechanical assistance, and by superior intellect and knowledge of the forces of nature, carve out his own existence. Having proven this by previous experiments, one conducted in the Maine woods and the other in the mountains of California and the Sierra Nevada range, Mr. Knowles undertook to do it for the moving picture camera. For gorgeousness of scenery, the natural wonders of wild mountains, virgin forests, rushing cataracts and hurling waterfalls, no picture which has ever been taken is the equal of "The Nature Man."

This wonderful production will be screened twice tonight, the first performance at 7, and the second at 8:30 o'clock. All sportsmen are advised to make a special effort to see it.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

(Hardware and Metal, Sept. 23.)

Of the many important price changes this week the advance in the price of liquid paint is probably the most far-reaching. All white paints have advanced 20c per gallon, and colors 10c per gallon. The lines affected are inside and outside red-mixed paints, floor paints and wall paints. Changes will undoubtedly have to be made in the prices of sundries as well. The advance in price was inevitable owing to the scarcity and increased cost of raw material, labor, containers, etc. Unless coats of materials recede in the near future, further advances may be looked for by the first of the new year.

Other hardware lines which have advanced this week are harvest tools, hay knives, scythes, sash cord, reaping hooks, axes, wrapping twine, cotton rope, pig lead. The demand for steel is as insistent as ever and the movement is gaining in momentum. Producers are now concerned with delivery problems rather than with new transactions. Canadian manufacturers of hardware lines have all the business they can handle. Many are handicapped by a scarcity of labor and raw materials. Further advances are not improbable in wire nails, boiler tubes and plates and wood screws.

Collections generally are very satisfactory. Paint manufacturers have announced new terms effective October 1. The terms will be 2 per cent, 15 days or 60 net. Those formerly in effect were 2 per cent, 30 days or 80 days net. The advent of cooler weather has stimulated the demand for stoves and accessories, glass and all lines of fall hardware.
