FACTORY OF J. & D. A. HARQUAIL CAMPBELLTON, N. B.

When you think of building or improving your home please bear in mind that we have one of the Largest and Best Equipped Planing Mills, Drying Kilns and General Woodworking Establishments in the Maritime Provinces; this, with our advantages of handling large quantities of lumber at little expense, places us so as to compete with any Special attention given to kiln drying.

THE QUALITY OF OUR WORK CANNOT BE EXCELLED

Eternal Vigilance is the price of Success

Our first year's experience in the wood-working business has taught us that there are 3 Things Necessary to Success

The Man Machinery Material

1st the Man, having secured the services of M. Lavallee for man, a gentleman who has had 20 years experience having charge of some of the largest manufacturing establishments in the Western States and in Montreal, and who thoroughly understands his business, we are now prepared to give estimates on all material used for building purposes, cabinet work as well, and will guarantee satisfaction

2nd the Machinery, during the past year we have added a number of new machines to our already large variety, and we contemplate adding other machines this year which will make our factory the best equipped in the Maritime Provinces.

3rd the Material, having our own long lumber and shingle mill, we manufacture direct from the tree every part both the rough and finished wood-work of a house from the foundation to the saddle board.

We also keep on hand a full supply of hardware and nails, brick, lime, etc., for building purposes. A car of lime just arrived, will be pleased to furnish quotations on anything in our line.

Town Council.

Meeting held Friday Evening.

A meeting of the Town Council was held on Friday evening, the full board in attendance with exception of Mayor Murray. Deputy Mayor Murry took the chair and minutes of last meeting were read and adopted.

Accounts of Water and Sewerage Dept. were passed.

Coun. Taylor submitted a report of stock on hand in the Water and Sewerage Departments, showing a total value of over $515.00.

Accounts of Public Property and Street Com. passed.

W. J. Appleton's acct. of $60.00 salary as steam fire engineer and Jas. Sargeant's acct. of $30.00 as fireman. Passed.

Coun. Bruce submitted report on accounts from Electric Light Com., which passed; also a recommendation that free commercial wiring which heretofore had been furnished to private individuals, firms and corporations to the extent of $1.50 for each lamp installed be now discontinued, owing to the unwarranted increase in Electric Light Capital consequent upon such installation, service wire and meters only to be furnished by and chargeable to the corporation of Campbellton. Recommendation passed.

Coun. McDonald submitted report from special committee appointed to confer with a similar committee from the County Council in reference to the lockup. The proposition of the County is as follows:

Town to keep building in repair and bear cost of all future maintenance, including board of County prisoners; Town to keep building insured for $1500.00; all rents to go to town.

The report was received and a committee appointed to meet the County Com. and have an agreement drawn up and report to Council, said Com. to employ legal counsel if necessary. Couns. McDonald, Bruce and Duncan were appointed as Committee.

Letter from railway authorities giving power to town to put up a shelter for hose reel on the railway property was received and placed on file.

The Special Com. re Arc Light at Fortin's crossing reported progress and asked for an extension of time to obtain estimates of cost.

On motion it was ordered that stock book for the different departments of the town's services be opened and the Town Clerk was instructed to enter stock lists as presented to the Council.

Meeting then adjourned.

Local Legislature.

In the Provincial Legislature on Tuesday Mr. McLatchy introduced a bill to change the date of holding the Municipal Elections in Restigouche. He also introduced a bill to amend the Woodman's Lien Act.

Mr. McLatchy subsequently moved that the bill to amend the Woodman's Lien Act be read a second time, on the ground of urgency. He explained that there was a large operation in lumbering in the Province of Quebec, and that many laboring men of the counties of Restigouche, Gloucester, Northumberland, Madawaska and other counties had been at work all winter, and had received no pay. The sum of at least $20,000 was due these poor people, and their families were likely to suffer if they were deprived of their earnings. The Lien Act as at present only gives a lien on logs that are cut in the Province of New Brunswick. He believed that this measure would commend itself to the House, and that every member would see the importance and justice of passing this bill. It provides that persons who have purchased logs bona fide shall be protected to the extent of the money they have paid, and that after that the lien will attach so that the laborer will not be robbed of his earnings. The bill was read a second time.

Fredericton, March 30.—The public Accounts Committee went into the expenditures on bridges in Gloucester County this morning, which amounted to $2,657.94. Out of this expenditure the sum of $1,410 was in Lower Fokemouche bridge.

While waiting for Mr. Winslow, the committee had under discussion the Charlotte County by-roads. Mr. Geo. Clark was sent for in reference to the expenditure in this county, and in reply to Mr. Morrison, Mr. Clark said that J. L. McCombe was a good man and he took a pride in his road work, while some of the other commissioners he did not know.

Mr. Poirier, one of the representatives of Gloucester County, was sent for in reference to bridges in this County. Sullivan bridge with an expenditure of $327.41, was under discussion, as also a protection wall. The accounts were sent for in reference to the expenditure of $310 were thoroughly looked into. Richard Landry Neil bridge was under discussion, Mr. Poirier answered a few questions satisfactory and was allowed to retire, but the committee has not finished with Gloucester County. It will be taken up again.

(Special to Events)
Fredericton, March 30.—In House today Hon. Mr. Tweedie on questions of privileges denied statements in Sun with regard to his treatment of the temperance people.

Hon. Mr. Engley announced that the consolidated statutes would be ready by May 1st. At the evening session a number of bills were agreed to, including an Act to authorize the County Council of the municipality of Gloucester County to effect temporary loans in certain cases.

Special Easter Novelties

Our showing of Easter Novelties this season is larger and better than ever before. Special care was exercised in the selection of these goods so as to have nothing but the very latest goods now in vogue in New York and Paris. We wish to call particular attention to our splendid range of Stock Collars and Neck Novelties generally. You will find our collection of Belts, Buckles, Blouse Setts, Neck Beads, etc. right up-to-the-minute in style and originality.

New Kid Gloves

If you are not already a patron of our Kid Glove Dep't you should be, for we carry the largest and best stock of Kid Gloves in Northern New Brunswick. The name "Rouillon" is famous the world over for excellence of quality and perfection in fit, every pair guaranteed or money refunded if they don't prove satisfactory. You will find all the new shades in Tans, Browns, Custors, Greys etc., as well as Blacks and Whites in all sizes.

Easter Neckwear, Hats, etc., for Men

There are three items in a man's dress that are perhaps more noticeable than anything else he wears, viz, his Hat, Shoes and Tie. We cater to the most particular trade and are in a position to show what is really NEW at no greater cost than others ask for out-of-date goods. Every line we handle in Men's Furnishings is confined to us and in no other stock will you find such high class goods as here.

Millstream

Miss Fanny Walsh, Mrs. John Hadley and Mr. David Walsh spent Sunday afternoon with friends in Millstream.

It is with regret that we announce the death of Mr. Wm. Wilson Dunlop, who passed quietly away Wednesday 23rd inst. The deceased who was 72 years of age was highly esteemed throughout the community. Though he had not been in good health for some time his death was sudden and unexpected. The interment which was delayed, awaiting the arrival of relatives of the deceased from Kent Co., took place on Saturday and was well attended considering the rain and soft roads. The deceased leaves a wife and several nephews and nieces who have our sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

We are pleased to note the recovery of Mrs. Christina Moody and Mr. John Taylor who have been seriously ill.

Miss Jane Muir returned from Janerville last week.

Mr. Herbert Muir returned home from the woods.

Fishery Commission

Meets at Charlott

The Fishery Commission presided over by Prof. Prince, the Dominion Superintendent of Fisheries which is looking into the lobster and salmon fishing business of the Maritime provinces, will hold a sitting at Charlott Tuesday 14th April. The special purpose of this meeting is to receive evidence from the Salmon fishermen as to the best modifications to be adopted in regulation regarding the lifting of the nets on Saturday night. The commission will also sit at Bathurst and Caraquet next week.

ADVERTISING RATES ON APPLICATION.

OUR NEW PUBLIC BUILDING.

CAMPBELLTONIANS are rejoicing over the prospect of a new public building to be erected in the town for the Post Office and Custom House Department. The grant of $12,000 in the estimates mentioned last week in our columns has been voted by the House and the further information is given by the Minister of Public Works that the site for the building has been purchased from Archibald McKenzie. It has been an open secret all along that this site was the one in view by the Government and the official news of its purchase is a matter of considerable satisfaction. The lot is 100 by 100 feet and is centrally situated on Water Street near the present post office. In fact we might say it is the only desirable site in town. The price paid was $4,000, a not outrageous figure, considering the land values in town at present. The building to be erected will cost in the vicinity of $18,000, an additional grant to be made probably next year. This will place Campbellton in line with other important towns of the province in this particular, and our townspeople can now look forward with some certainty to the time when they will not have to elbow their way through the crowded lobby to procure their mail in the evenings.

A delegation from the city of St. John waited upon the Government at Fredericton on Monday and presented a petition asking for a prohibitory measure. In the event of the Government not granting the request, important amendments to the present License Act were suggested, chief among which is the making of the offices of the License Commissioners elective. It is claimed that this would lead to a fairer and fairer expression of opinion of the people than would otherwise be obtained. Another important change suggested is to amend the Act so that an applicant for a license will have to secure the signatures of the majority to his application before a license can be granted. As it is now the temperance people must secure the signatures of one-quarter of the ratepayers against the granting of a license and afterwards a majority of the ratepayers to vote on their side before the granting of a license can be prevented. These seem to be reasonable demands and the decision of the Government will be awaited with interest.

Late War News.

Tokio, March 26, p.m.—A mixed force of Japanese cavalry and infantry attacked and dispersed a force of Russians at Tyon Jyn, near Ping Yang, last Sunday morning. The Russians had erected a temporary fortress which was defeated by a force of Cossack cavalry estimated at 600. The Japanese attacked in considerable force. The Russians offered a strong resistance at first, but finally fell back, abandoning their position. The Japanese sustained a loss of one officer and one sergeant killed, and two officers and ten privates wounded. The Russians are reported to have left three dead behind, but have succeeded in carrying off the wounded. The Japanese force entered the town cheering for the Emperor.

While differing some in detail, it is possible the above is another version of the engagement at Chong Ju, which has already been reported from Russian sources. The name of the place Tyon Jyn is not given on any maps that are available. The Russian account of this fight says: "An important engagement took place near the town of Chong Ju, in which the Russians were defeated, retiring in perfect order. The Japanese suffered heavily, but the Russian loss is not stated. Cavalry and infantry on both sides were engaged. The Russians occupied a commanding position. The Japanese fought gallantly, but owing to their heavy losses were unable to occupy the position abandoned by the Russians."

Obituary

JOHN NADEAU

The many Campbellton friends of Mr. John Nadeau were shocked to learn of his sudden and untimely death on Saturday at Quebec. He had been in town only a few days before apparently in the best of health and was commissioned as a delegate to Ottawa in the interests of the Bay Chaleur Navigation Co. and returning home was stricken with pneumonia at Quebec. He went to the hospital there and was in a fair way to recovery, as best we can learn, when he suddenly died of heart failure. The remains were brought to his home at Port Daniel for interment.

Mr. Nadeau was well and favorably known throughout the entire Bay Chaleur district and for the past few years has successfully conducted a lumbering business at Port Daniel. He was one of the principal promoters of the Bay Chaleur Navigation Co. and has done much to place the company in the position it now occupies.

He was 33 years of age and leaves a widow and two children to whom we extend our sincere sympathy.

Mrs. Wm. Wilkinson

The death of Mrs. Wilkinson, wife of Mr. Justice, Wilkinson took place at the family residence, Chatham on Sunday evening, at the advanced age of eighty years. About two weeks ago she was attacked with lagrippe which proved too severe for one of her years. Besides her husband the deceased leaves two daughters, Mrs. Burchill, wife of Hon J. P. Burchill, Nelson; Mrs. Butler wife of Professor Butler of the Royal Military College, Kingston, and one son, Rev. W. J. Wilkinson, rector of Bay du Vin Miramichi. Mr. Wm. Wilkinson of the Bank of Nova Scotia here is a grandson of the deceased. He left on Tuesday to attend the funeral which took place on Wednesday.

DONALD MALCOLM

On the 14th inst. occurred the death of Donald Malcolm at the residence of Mr. John Jamieson, Dalhousie Junction. Deceased was a member of the Loyal Orange Association, and the funeral which took place on the 17th was under the auspices of that body. He was 29 years of age.

MR. SPLIDE

One of the oldest and most respected residents of Dalhousie, in the person of Mrs. Splide, passed peacefully away on Sunday 27th inst. after a lingering illness. His sufferings which were very great were borne with Christian fortitude and resignation to the Divine Will. He leaves a wife and large family to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father.

His funeral which was very largely attended took place Wednesday 30th. His remains were interred in the R. C. Cemetery.

Matapedia.

It is quite a long time since we saw any notes from this vicinity which in times past was so well represented by numerous correspondents whose efforts were so much appreciated besides making "Events" more interesting to its readers in this place.

Now the question is what became of those correspondents? Although my humble experience hinders me somewhat I trust I will be permitted to take the opportunity of writing these few items if it is to the satisfaction of the many friends who ask me to do so and I hope it will not fail to be inserted.

Quite a number of our young people were entertained at the home of Mr. and Miss Aylette Monday Night last. In the early part of the evening, various little amusements went on and at twelve o'clock the guests were summoned to the dining-room where a sumptuous repast was served to which all did good justice, thus showing their appreciation. The floor was then soon cleared and dancing was indulged in till the "wee sma lours".

The ladies dresses were remarkably pretty and among the number we noticed the following particularly so, Miss Mary Robertson, navy-blue silk trimmed with lace applique. Vena Adams white lace over black silk. Jennie McDonald cardinal voile trimmed with lace medallions. Maggie Styles' blue silk exquisitely finished with corresponding shade of ribbon. Jessie Andrew white lace over black silk. Willy Adams black lace over red satin, ornamented with Tenerife wheels. Maud Styles red velvet. Mary McDonald snowflake crepe. Miss Aylette grey crepe-peche.

In regard to the wishes of our excellent host and hostess, the good old English custom was revived by ending with Sir Roger de Coverly, at the conclusion of which the guests returned to their respective homes having spent a most enjoyable evening.

Mr. Geo M. Adams while taking a trip to his lumbercamps had the misfortune of losing a large Newfoundland dog. Miss Martha MacMillan spent Sunday with friends in this vicinity. Harry Nelson paid a flying visit to his home in Campbellton last week.

We regret to hear that Miss Milly Adams is confined to the house with a severe attack of LaGrippe.

Mr. Harry Robertson of California who for the past two months has been visiting at his home in Robinsonville spent a couple of days at "Willow Cottage" previous to his departure for the West again. His many friends wish him a safe journey and a speedy return.

Mr. George Styles one of our popular young men has recently purchased the Wheeler property in Runnymede.

Though it is with regret that we see him leaving our settlement yet we all join in wishing him much joy and happiness in his new home.

Miss Sadie Moores Student-Nurse of Elliot City Hospital, Keene, is still remaining with her father, who we are pleased to see is recovering from his recent illness. Miss May McPherson spent some time visiting friends here last week.

Andrew Dixon spent Sunday in this vicinity.

After a long cold winter we are well pleased to welcome the return of spring and with it comes all our young men from the lumber woods.

George Marsh Found Dead in Bed

At the Revere House.

On Saturday evening about six o'clock a report was circulated about town that a man had been found dead in his room at the Revere House. Upon investigation it was found that the man was George Marsh, a native of Bonaventure River, Bonaventure Co. It seems he lately came out of the lumber woods and was drinking for a day or two previous to his death. On Saturday afternoon he went to his room and on being called for tea gave no response. Upon going to the bed there was no sign of life visible and Dr. Pinault was immediately summoned. He pronounced life extinct and Coroner Doherty was also summoned. An inquest was commenced on Monday and after several witnesses had been examined, the proceedings were adjourned till Friday evening.

The unfortunate man has been in town for the past few years and his death under such sad circumstances is much to be regretted. The funeral took place Tuesday.

Notice

A special meeting of the Shareholders of The Restigouche Boom Company, will be held in the Secretary's office Campbellton, N. B., on Tuesday the 31st day of April next, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of repelling By-Law No. 1 of said Company and substituting the following in lieu thereof, be it ordained by The Restigouche Boom Company:—
"That that the annual meeting of the Company shall be held at the office of the Secretary in Campbellton, N. B., on the 28th day of March in January, in each and every year for the purpose of choosing Directors to carry on the business of the Company and of transacting such other business as may be deemed necessary. At such annual meeting there shall be elected five Directors, three of whom shall on all occasions form a quorum and the said Directors shall hold office for a period of one year or until others are elected in their stead.
"Directors or any of them may be removed from office for any reasonable cause at any time during their term of office by a majority vote of the shareholders present at any special general meeting duly convened for that purpose, and another or others elected in his or their stead at the same meeting. And it is also ordained that this By-Law shall be immediately operative in its application to the existing board of Directors." And also for the purpose of appointing an official Surveyor of lumber on behalf of the said Company and for the further purpose of ratifying and confirming a certain agreement bearing date the sixteenth day of January A. The hockey boys are arranging a programme of sports for Wednesday April 6th, the proceeds to go to Mr. Jas. Wood, the popular caretaker of the rink. The boys feel that this is the least they could do in compensation for the services of Mr. Woods during the winter as he has been at his post early and late in order to give the boys a good sheet of ice both for practice as well as match games. The programme will consist of a Hockey Match between the Orients and High School Ramblers, a burlesque game between ladies and gents and a grand challenge tug-of-war between Orients and Victorias. This apart from any other consideration, ought to draw a good house.

Sad Fatality this Morning

Andrew Peterson

Accidentally Killed

At Tobique Shingle Mill

Just after work was commenced in Wm Currie & Co's Tobique mill this morning one of the sawyers Andrew Peterson, met with an accident by which he lost his life. It appears from the story told by one of the men in the mill that the unfortunate sawyer reached over the edge saw and in some way his clothing became entangled in the pulley and belting. The result was that he was drawn upon the saw in such a way as to completely sever the left arm close to the body. What gives strength to this theory is the fact that the clothing of the right arm and upper part of the body was torn off, whilst that on the severed member was intact. The man was taken to the house alongside the mill and Mr. John Innes despatched for a doctor. He made the trip of ten miles in 35 minutes, but before the doctors reached the mill they were met by parties conveying the sad news that the man had died. Nothing could be done to stop the flow of blood and consequently life ebbed quickly away.

The deceased leaves a sorrowing widow to mourn his sudden and sad loss.

GIRL WANTED—A good servant will find an easy place, and good wages by applying to J. T. Flett at 26 1-P.

GOOD-NIGHT.

I am not brave enough to sleep. The rule of a hope just done. The word "good-night" would surely bring the shadow upon swifter wing. Come, let us say good-night instead.

See where upon the water's crest. The sky comes down, a gentle pall— to our poor vision, dim at best. Fast currents of new melody. Marks the sure ending of it all.

Alas, heart, the lesson you forget. The wind which goes with hurrying sweep. See further on, and farther yet. The white ships go, the waters fret. The brave, true stars their vigil keep.

So not good-bye, good-night, that's all. The loneliness, the loss is mine. To-morrow, when the glad winds call. The purple folds will backward fall. And leave me with my woe in mine.

—Margaret B. Sangster.

Shortest Day of Year.

On Dec. 21 the position of the sun is immediately over the tropic of Capricorn, which is situated 23 1/2 degrees south of the Equator. In all places situate in northern hemisphere that is the shortest day of the year. At Toronto the sun rose at 7:47 in the morning, and set at 4:43. This means that the sun is above the horizon for three minutes under alpha hours. At Quebec, the day is eight hours and thirty-one minutes, while at Winnipeg, which is three degrees further north still, daylight lasts only eight hours and four minutes. The district around Toronto being as far south as any in Canada, enjoys a longer period of daylight.

A Tangled Web

BY MRS. ALEXANDER

Author of "Beaton's Bargain," "His Perfect Trust,"
"By Another Name," "Her Hea't's Idol,"
"Half a Truth," "His Rival."

Mrs. Ruthven was unusually particular in ordering luncheon, though at no time was she indifferent as to what she ate and drank, and as to what she put on. A very becoming costume of dark blue plush and cashmere, made her fairly content with herself, while her thick, shining, auburn-gold hair was crowned by a dainty little lace cap, with pale blue ribbons.

Marsden was delightfully punctual, and in his admirably cut frock-coat, with a delicate button-hole bouquet, his high-browed face and beautiful soft, sleepy blue eyes, looked so handsome and distinguished that Mrs. Ruthven thought a woman might be excused for making a fool of herself about him.

"And how are you, dear Mrs. Ruthven, after these long days? What sin did I commit that you forbid me your presence?" exclaimed Marsden, holding her hand tenderly, a moment longer than was quite conventional, and looking into her eyes.

"Forbid you my presence?" she repeated, laughing. "Once when you called I was really out, and once I was really engaged."

"Do you mean that is the beggarly account of all my attempts to see you? Why, I was here four, five, six times, at least."

"Then they omitted to tell me? Do not let us quarrel about the exact number, Mr. Marsden! Tell me some Divesleigh news. How are your charming relatives at Brookdale?"

"I really do not know. I have never heard of them since we left my ill-fated house. Do you know, I can not bear the idea of going there this winter."

"You must not allow yourself to grow morbid, I shall regret the loss of my pretty rubies more than ever! Come, luncheon is ready in the next room."

While the servants were in the room they talked of ordinary subjects, but Mrs. Ruthven soon managed to get rid of them, and resisting the temptation of listening to Marsden's charming voice and flattering speeches, she looked at her watch.

"You must not be long away," she said. "I shall want a tolerably large sum of money soon," and proceeded to tell of the opportunity which offered of purchasing the desirable villa at Twickenham; after enlarging on its merits, she continued:

"I always wished for a place of that sort. It is so nice for fetes and pretty recherche parties. Besides, I may as well lay out some of that money which is lying idle in the Three-per-Cents, so you must come back in time to pay it."

She looked up suddenly with a smile and a keen glance, and Marsden met it with his usual lazy, good humored expression.

"Very well," he said, "the cash shall be ready when and where you will. What are you going to give for this new toy?"

"Thirty-three thousand five hundred."

"That is a long price, my dear Mrs. Ruthven."

"Not too long, I think; there are some fields attached which insure privacy at present, and are worth a good deal as building land. There is a good deal of handsome old-fashioned furniture in the house."

"Oh! if your solicitors are satisfied, I have nothing to say against it. My business faculties are of the lowest order. I fear, however, that I can not return before Saturday-week. You will be sorry to hear that my friend Mr. Meadows has been dangerously ill. I will try to return by Paris, and have a look at him."

"Yes, I am sorry," said Mrs. Ruthven.

"Then, I may only get on the track of your jewels, and have to go further afield to discover them. By the way, have you any note of their size and weight?"

"Only of some—a few. But I wish you would not go off on such a wild-goose chase. As for me, I am weary of the subject, and inclined to let them go! The whole affair has depressed and exhausted me. I feel pursued by an evil fate—as if everything was innocent—I never feel safe!"

"Merely morbid feeling, such as you accused me of indulging, and proves that you ought never to be left alone! Why do you think of going to so heathenish a place as Folkestone? My sister will only be too delighted, if you will go to Chesham, Dorington's place in Hants. They will be there in about a fortnight, and get some pleasant people to meet you."

"You are very kind! But at present I want to be quiet—and—"

"Captain Shirley," announced a waiter.

Marsden elevated his eyebrows interrogatively, and Mrs. Ruthven replied with a smile.

"I beg a thousand pardons," said Shirley, a sullen look of annoyance clouding his face. "I thought you were alone."

"I assure you I am very glad to see you," cried Mrs. Ruthven, gayly. "I have been trying to find my inexorable trustee, here, into good humor, to get his consent to my new purchase. Come and help me, when you go on this rather wild-goose chase to Amsterdam?"

"I have already lunched, thank you."

"A glass of Burgundy, then? This, I assure you, is not to be despised," Shirley condescended to take a glass—and began to thaw.

"Come into the next room," said

Mrs. Ruthven, leading the way, and, nestling into the corner of a large sofa, she proceeded to coquette with both her visitors.

"Mr. Marsden is going all the way to Amsterdam, on the chance of finding my poor rubies," she remarked, after a little discursive chatter. "Is it not good of him?"

"We would all go further than Amsterdam, if we thought we could find them," said Shirley, gallantly.

"If? Yes, that is just it. But it is too far for a mere chance. By the way, how far is Amsterdam from Ostend?" asked Mrs. Ruthven, in a curious mocking tone.

"I really do not know," returned Shirley, gravely, and looking very straight at her, his face darkening.

"Why do you ask?"

Mrs. Ruthven was saved the difficulty of answering, as her courier came in bearing she could reply, and handing a card to his mistress, asked:

"Will you receive the gentlemen, madame?"

"Oh, yes, show him up." Then, with a little confidential nod to Shirley, she added:

"This is my engineer!"

"He has lost no time," he returned.

"I shall not let him stay long. I will tell you all about him afterward," said Mrs. Ruthven.

Shirley looked sharply at the door; but Marsden seemed too much occupied with his own thoughts to heed what was going on.

In a few minutes a middle-aged man of average height, with iron-gray moustaches and whiskers, his right arm in a sling, came into the room, and made a deferential, though clumsy, bow.

"Good-morning, Mr. Colville," said Mrs. Ruthven, who had risen, and was standing beside a table near one of the windows. "You have lost no time in answering my note."

"I was anxious to tell you for your kindness in writing," he returned, in a low, hoarse voice.

"And how is your little girl?" asked Mrs. Ruthven. "Let me see, she must be nearly eight?"

"No, ma'am, she is nearly seven, and looks less. She is a delicate, little creature, but why I am anxious to keep her away in the country."

"Very naturally, I am sorry I can not attend to you," said Mrs. Ruthven, graciously. "You see I am engaged with this gentleman, and Captain Shirley."

"In the direction of the latter," said Shirley, who had been looking at Marsden with a half smile, and a half frown.

"If you will call to-morrow, I can give you half an hour; do not be late, please."

"I shall be punctual, and I thank you."

"Wait for a moment," said Mrs. Ruthven. "I have a little gift here for your goddaughter." She went to her dressing-table, and took from a drawer a small packet tied with ribbon, which she placed in his hands.

"You are very good, madame," he said, as with another clumsy bow and a look at each gentleman, he left the room.

"Do you not remember him at all?" asked Mrs. Ruthven.

"No," returned Shirley. "I never saw him before, and I can not say he looks the sort of man I should be inclined to trust."

"You are too suspicious. The poor fellow has been unlucky, his arm was broken in some machinery, and he is out of work."

"I have a fellow-feeling with the unlucky," said Marsden, rousing himself. "We not had much good luck myself."

"Why you seem to me a remarkably lucky man," said Shirley.

"By the way, Captain Shirley," began Mrs. Ruthven, in a languid tone. "I hope you will excuse me for breaking my engagement; but my head is quite too bad to drive down to Twickenham. It would be worth while going in a closed carriage, and with my neuralgia an open one is not to be thought of."

"Pray do not dream of accommodating yourself on my account," said Shirley, turning white. "But as you do not need me, I have business to attend to in the city, and will bid you good-morning." He bowed to Marsden and went away quickly.

"How cross he is," said Mrs. Ruthven, as the door closed to him.

"Yes, poor devil," returned Marsden, carelessly. "You treat him rather badly."

"Why does he court bad treatment? I do not want him to come here."

"There is a strong dash of cruelty in you, charming though you are."

"Do you think so?" looking down, and speaking softly. "Yes, I am capable of taking my revenge, believe me," her lips quivered as she spoke.

"I am quite sure these pretty wavy little hands could strike unflinchingly; but they could care tenderly too."

"Clifford!" she exclaimed, with sudden emotion, then, correcting herself—"I mean Mr. Marsden."

"No, no," he said, smiling on her. "You have broken the ice, and I will not have the colder appellation."

"Not yet," she said softly, withdrawing her hand which he had taken. "I may call you Clifford one day—but not now. Tell me, when you go on this rather wild-goose chase to Amsterdam?"

"Tonight, I cross to Calais, and shall get to Amsterdam some time to-morrow. I shall not write, as I hope to see you soon again. I trust you will go and amuse yourself somewhere. I can't bear to think of your moping in an hotel at Folkestone, do go to my sister."

"Well, perhaps I may, but I am anxious to settle about this place."

"We must also arrange about a second trustee; I feel my responsibilities too heavy."

"Oh! We can see all about that when you come back."

"Good-bye, then, my dear Mrs. Ruthven. Wish me success."

He pressed her hand, and was gone. Mrs. Ruthven grew very pale, as she stood for a moment in thought, and pressed her handkerchief to her eyes, then she looked in the glass, smiling at her own image.

"I should never be alone," she murmured. "Does he mean to be my constant companion? I am to select another trustee, Albi Marsden, if you but loved me, I could forgive anything. Sometimes I almost believe you do. Be that as it may, you are bound to me—for love or for revenge—I will never let you go."

CHAPTER VIII.

The result of Miss L'Estrange's self-commune was very perceptible, at least, to herself. The careful work she established over her own words and manner, however, was too delicately exercised to be in any way remarkable. She was bright and frank as ever, but she said easily away from any approach to sentimental subjects, though talking readily on other topics.

The quiet weeks went by swiftly, their monotony broken by occasional dinners at the houses of the theatrical dignitaries at Oldbridge, where Nora's songs and lively talk, and Mrs. L'Estrange's gentle tact and sympathetic "listening," made both welcome guests.

October was more than half over, and hunting had begun—a congenial amusement which latterly had a good deal with Winton's frequent visits to Brookdale. The rapid falling of the leaves, and the success of stormy nights, made Mrs. L'Estrange think seriously of spending November and December in town.

Which Nora originally proposed, which Mrs. Ruthven wrote at length, very amiably.

She was detained in town by business, she said. She was in treaty for a pretty villa on the Thames, and would be delighted to have Miss L'Estrange's counsel and assistance when she set about furnishing.

Mr. Marsden had been so good in trying to find her jewels, and had gone to Amsterdam in search of them, but all in vain. He was at Brookdale, for no one could know what had become of him.

"Do you know I think it would be very nice to help Mrs. Ruthven in choosing her furniture? Shall I tell her we are thinking of going up to town? Perhaps she would take him on the train for a short time, and had read this letter aloud at breakfast."

"My dear Nora! she would not care for the trouble; and what a price she would agree to give for rooms! We must be very prudent; my little savings during the last year, of our stay in Germany will not go far."

"Oh, yes! I forgot. You are raising her eyes suddenly, encountered those of her step-daughter. How much she had colored through her delicate pale skin, to Nora's great surprise. "Some day," said Mrs. L'Estrange, quickly, and with some confusion, "I must tell you my little history; every one has some secret romance in their life, even to promise a person as I am."

"Do, dear! tell it to me now."

"Now? Oh, no, I must interview you, and plan the dinner; the romance of the past must give way to the needs of the present, vulgar though they be, some evening, by the fire-light, I will pour about day's gone by. It is fine and calm to-day; let us give Ben a holiday, and walk across the park. The most is at Crowland Gate, and we will see the bounds throw off."

"By all means, I feel as if I wanted to be in the open air."

Mrs. L'Estrange went away to her household duties. Nora snatched into the drawing-room and sat down at the piano, but she did not begin to play for some moments. Was it possible that her quiet, unselfish step-mother had had thrilling experiences? She was so reasonable, so wise in a simple way, that Nora could never imagine the irregularities and redundancy which constitute romance gathering round her. How good she had always been! even from her first entrance into the family. How she had stood between every one and her husband's hasty irritation; how much Nora herself owed to her justice and generosity. What a good influence she had been, how much she had endured from her selfish, unsympathetic husband, who looked upon her as a slave whom he had bought, and who had no rights, no title to consideration, whom he had married to be an upper servant.

What a life of suppression, of careful conscientious sick-nursing she had had, without the reward of gratitude or recognition! From how much she had saved Nora herself! How strong and patient she had been.

"If I can reward her I will," thought Nora. "I do hope Ben will be a good, loving child; she is like my father, but no woman would be as so much and troublesome as he was; perhaps his bad health made him worse. I must take care I do not grow hard and selfish myself. I wish I were juster; my life is too easy; it leaves me too much time to think; I must not think."

And she applied herself diligently to a piece of Chopin's, bustling with accidentals and crabbed passages, till Ben, with a radiant face, came to tell her it was time to get ready.

The walk through Evesleigh Woods on horseback, the curate's little children, who sat on a wide common, where the woods ended and an undergrowth of brushwood and firs, and the view of the distant hills, field had assembled, but not many spectators.

The rector's daughter, who rode a powerful chestnut, with the temper that color is usually supposed to entail, managed to keep the fiery creature still for a moment beside Mrs. L'Estrange.

"Very glad to have caught a glimpse of you. I am going off to-morrow to Devonshire, an old Indian chum of mine has asked me to share his hunting quarters in a splendid country. I hope I shall be in town next month. You'll let me know your movements?"

"Yes, certainly. We shall miss you very much."

"I hope you will, unlikely though it seems. We must do some plays when we go to Devonshire, an old Indian chum of mine has asked me to share his hunting quarters in a splendid country. I hope I shall be in town next month. You'll let me know your movements?"

BATHURST NEWS

At last there is a significance in the air of spring, and the resolute thoughts of the hard winter will soon disappear into oblivion. The change is welcome and even the birds in their morning carols seem to express their verdict in favour of the sun's hottest rays. There is joy in thoughts of Easter. When all folk go shopping to examine the many new things under the sun, and delight comes no less to the small boy who toys with his marbles, or goes coasting on these bright clear mornings. A moment's ecstasy in the anticipation of a gaze over our calm bay with the fragrance of a million buds shooting forth from nature's surface, and the melody of the birds in the trees on some fine May morning. There is another side to the picture. The water pool, the mud puddle, the dreaching rains and blasted falls our new hat into the dirty ditch; but enough said—It is Spring.

It is now conceivable that some repairs will shortly be made to the old Village bridge, which for some time past has been a subject for much discussion. Already a large quantity of cedar posts and blocks of square timber have been delivered to be used in the re-construction work. We are informed that a very capable and experienced bridge builder has the contract and no doubt under the supervision of the Minister of Public Works, the work will be carried out strictly in accordance with the specifications on the plan.

The management of the Caraque Railway seem to be unfortunate this spring in keeping a regular train running over the road. The interests of the company and people along the coast are mutual. Likewise the inconvenience is detrimental to both.

About this time of the year our fishermen are at work getting their factories in order for the coming season. They are also busily engaged fitting up their lobster traps and repairing their salmon nets. This is an industry in our County of no small magnitude extending as it does from Belledune to Shippegan and it must be remembered that Gloucester has the longest sea-coast line of any County in the Province, with fishing privileges second to none. When summing up the resources of our County the fishing along our coast must be reckoned with, as no doubt the revenue from this industry alone must be very great. The fishermen bring in each year lots of foreign capital, which is circulated in the place and a failure in their line of traffic always makes itself felt. We therefore trust they will have a good busy season with many big hauls.

It just reminds us that at the present time there is almost what might be called a fish famine in the Maritime Provinces. It is particularly so with dry cod fish. The very few that are on the market are being quoted at $5.75 per quintal.

Notwithstanding that the principal portion of the business part of our town was destroyed by fire last fall, there are very little signs of any building operations in evidence. However we have heard it mentioned that McKenna Bros. would build up their block this spring, and there is a rumour that Mr. E. M. Lunnigan would put up a large building on his ground if he could reach a settlement with a party who holds a lease of some of his ground, which only expires after another year. In either case there is a possibility that the greater number of the buildings burned will not be replaced this summer unless the land owners lower their rents.

In the Village we notice Mr. Angus Kennedy is tussling a large two and a half storey building to completion. We understand this building will be in two divisions, and will be occupied as a restaurant and dwelling.

One by one our landmarks are passing away beyond the portals of this life and leaving the burdens of life for younger shoulders to carry. The past winter has marked the last stroke for many both young and old and death in its grimness has visited many thresholds of the comfortable and poor alike. This week we record the death of Mr. Wm. Wilson, who died the 25th inst., aged 72 years, at his home in Dunlop. He was a good neighbour and citizen and respected by all. His funeral took place on Saturday to the Presbyterian Cemetery. John Aubrey Lavigne died on March 23rd inst., aged 68 years.

Messrs W. J. Kent & Co. are loading potatoes at Bathurst Station. We understand several cars will be loaded here by this firm. When the Caraque railway resumes business no doubt there will be a rush of buyers loading cars along this line. We are told that the price now being paid is $1.10 per barrel and there seems to be quite a supply of potatoes yet available in the County.

Sumner & Co. closed their winter operations at Red Pine mill on Tuesday and report a very successful season's work. A few lectures are being given at different points in this end of the County, the object of which is to instill moral reform. This is a move in the right direction and we trust the results will be far reaching.

We are sorry to announce the critical illness of Mrs. Hugh B. Chalmers at her home in the Village. It is much relief to Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Sutton and their friends to know that their son Master Ritchie, a bright boy of 12 years, is convalescent. On Saturday last the doctors decided an operation would be necessary on Monday. If no change for the better took place. On Sunday the patient's condition was much improved and since then there is every hope that the boy will be well again shortly. Mr. Hector Manson went to Memramcook to attend the concert given by the students of St. Joseph's College on St. Patrick's night.

John W. Hachey and Jim Connors spent Sunday last in Campbellton.

We are glad to see our friend Mr. Jos. C. T. Arsenault formerly of Petit Rocher, but now of Chatham, in town showing a line of samples in the interests of The Campbell Shree Co. Ltd. of Quebec with whom he has recently accepted a travelling position.

Jim Whalen, Engineer, was in town this week booking orders for Merritt Bros. St. John.

At the Bowling Alley last week Mr. Allan Ramsay held the record setting 224 points.

The death of Mr. Richard Blackhall occurred at his home in Caraque on the 29th inst. The deceased was in his 52nd year and for a number of years held the position of Postmaster at that place. The sympathy of the many friends is extended to the sorrowing members of the family. The funeral takes place Friday morning.

Tracadie has lost an old and estimable gentleman in the recent death of Mr. Colin G. Turner, who passed away on the 22nd at the ripe old age of 84 years. Mr. Turner was an old resident in Tracadie and formerly did an extensive commercial business. Seven sons and two daughters survive him.

The marriage of Miss Lulu Ramsay of our town to Mr. A. G. Berry of Campbellton is announced for Wednesday, Apr. 6. Miss Ramsay is one of our town's most congenial young ladies, and will be much missed among her large circle of friends as her future home will undoubtedly be in Campbellton.

Messrs John P. Legere and J. J. Vanier were in Fredericton last week on business in connection with the proposed Electric Light and Power Co.

Mr. W. J. Milligan left this morning for a fortnight's visit to his home in Presque Isle, Maine.

Horse Race at Petit Rocher.

Whoa! On Tuesday, April 5th, there will be trotting races on the Bay ice opposite Petit Rocher Church. A mile track has been prepared and from all reports there will be a big field of good horses line up. The attraction will draw a large crowd of Bathurst people as well as representatives from close parishes. If the weather is favourable Tuesday will be a general holiday in Petit Rocher.

Janeville

We are having a spell of very soft weather which makes the roads very bad. The Caraque Railway has not yet got the road open but will soon be running regular again.

Misses Laura Dempsey and Birdie Gale were the guests of Mrs. H. Johnson on Saturday afternoon.
