

PRIVATE MOIR IN LONDON JAIL
CROWD MET HIM AT DEPOT

"Good Boy, Moir," Shouted
One Man, While the Crowd Cheered.

POLICE SQUAD
WAS ON HAND

But There Were No Serious Demonstrations—Story of Ride To London.

A more grateful man than Private Moir did not exist last night when he was finally placed in a cell at the city police station, free from the thousands of prying eyes which have been peering at him since his arrest near Elora Saturday night at 6:30.

Handcuffed to Detective Thomas Nickle, Moir arrived in London at 11:30.

He was met at the C. E. R. station by Detective Egleton and a squad of police, and hustled through a crowd of at least three hundred people into a waiting patrol wagon and driven to the station.

Chief of Police P. J. Farrell, who assisted in the capture of the much-wanted man, and an Advertiser reporter came down on the same train from Arthur, Ont.

In County Jail.

Moir this morning appeared before Magistrate Love and was remanded until Friday. He is now in the county jail.

Chief Farrell, of Arthur, stated today that Moir has lost fully fifteen pounds since his arrest.

The trip to London was an uneventful one, and but few of the passengers on the train realized that the demure, boyish-looking young man seated alongside of Detective Nickle was the man for whom the continent was being scoured.

Arthur Excited.

The scene all day yesterday at Arthur was a stirring one. Business was practically suspended, and everybody sought to get a glance or an interview with the alleged murderer. There are about 1,000 people in Arthur, and Moir was visited in the tiny lockup adjoining the town hall by every clergyman, lawyer and many businessmen of the place.

Throughout the trying scrutiny of curious eyes, Moir maintained a quiet expression.

Sort of Museum.

Detective Nickle and The Advertiser reporter arrived in Arthur on the noon train yesterday. Up to that time the lockup was being utilized as a sort of a museum.

Crowds thronged around the place, which consists of two cells, seeking admission. Many had obtained an interview.

Everybody Barred.

Detective Nickle became wrothy when he saw the state of affairs, and at once gave orders to bar out everybody but Mr. M. Wilkins, Moir's attorney. This led to a brief skirmish between the Arthur authorities and the London officer, but the latter came out victorious, much to the displeasure of those who were awaiting their turn into the lockup.

Sympathy for Murderer.

During the afternoon, Arthur talked nothing but Moir, and the deepest sympathy was expressed for the young man.

To those in London who have been reading highly-colored pen sketches of Moir's alleged sullen disposition, this may seem ridiculous, but to The Advertiser reporter, who arrived at the lockup before Detective Nickle, and obtained an interview with the prisoner, the reason was at once apparent.

Not many London papers get up as far as Arthur, and the only information the people had there of Moir's previous character was brief squibs from the Toronto dailies.

Looked Well.

Again, Moir, since being arrested, has purchased a new suit of clothes, has been shaved, had his hair cut, and altogether presented a very neat appearance.

Moir speaks with a very strong Scotch accent, and he readily answered the questions asked him. So far as can be learned he was not drawn into making any incriminating statements.

Moir was apparently anxious to get back to London as soon as possible, but prior to going he asked that he be given proper protection upon his arrival here.

Took Up a Subscription.

During the afternoon the Rev. Mr. Richardson, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, circulated a subscription list to aid in Moir's defense, and (Continued on Page Four.)

POLITICAL GOSSIP

Hon. A. G. MacKay at Meaford.

Meaford, May 11.—Hon. A. G. MacKay addressed a big meeting here Saturday, scoring the Whitney administration vigorously. He referred to the redistribution, saying it should have been left till after the next census. The opposition leader also took up the La. Rose grant, the educational question, the price of school books, and the Mackenzie & Mann guarantee.

Toronto, May 11.—The writs for the provincial elections have all been issued and after 11 o'clock this morning all candidates came under the election law. This will affect not only those who have been regularly nominated but those also who have expressed their intention of becoming candidates.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, May 12.—There is a good deal of foreboding on the part of the Conservative party over the nomination of George H. Gooderham. He is not looked upon as being any acquisition to the cheap power movement, while in other quarters it is feared his nomination will estrange the temperance vote throughout the province.

He has never been much of a "worker," and it is openly stated that the convention which nominated him was a "packed" convention. The convention was picked to nominate J. W. Owens, and then Owens, without any explanation except that "the party demanded it," handed the nomination over to Mr. Gooderham. With a strong opinion it is felt that Mr. Gooderham could scarcely be elected, but his strong opponent has not yet appeared.

MOIR REMANDED TILL FRIDAY
BIG CROWD AT POLICE COURT

Police Would Not Allow Anyone Under Twenty-one Years of Age To Enter the Court-room—Soldier Looked Well—Was Glad When Hearing Was Over.

Few people would have thought that the demure, boyish-looking young man who walked briskly into the prisoner's cage at the police court this morning was Private W. A. Moir, the slayer of Color-Sergt. Lloyd.

The hearing of Moir is that of a gentleman, and he has an unmistakable air of refinement and intelligence about him.

He had to wait for several minutes before his name was called, and he took a keen interest in the proceedings, even smiling at some of the more humorous replies made by prisoners.

At last his turn came, and the magistrate called:

Moir Called.

"William Alexander Moir." Moir was quickly on his feet and listened as the magistrate read:

"You are charged with killing Color-Sergt. Henry Lloyd at Wolseley Barracks on the night of April 17."

Moir listened to the charge, and for a moment a troubled look appeared in his eyes, but it passed away, and he then listened attentively while the magistrate and Crown Attorney McKillop conferred together, and set the time for his preliminary examination as Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

LORD AVEBURY FIGHTS
TO SAVE THE BIRDS

Introduces a Measure to Prevent the Importation of Plumage.

London, May 12.—With the object of checking the wanton slaughter of birds, Lord Avebury (Sir John Lubbock) introduced a bill in the House of Lords today prohibiting the importation of plumage, except that of certain species of birds set forth in the bill. Lord Avebury pointed out that this measure was framed on the same lines as the New York state law on the same subject. It enacts heavy penalties for contravention of the law. In a memorandum attached to the bill Lord Avebury says that unless the British Parliament follows the example of the New York Legislature, the extinction of the most beautiful species of bird life is only a question of time.

NOT FOR HUGHES

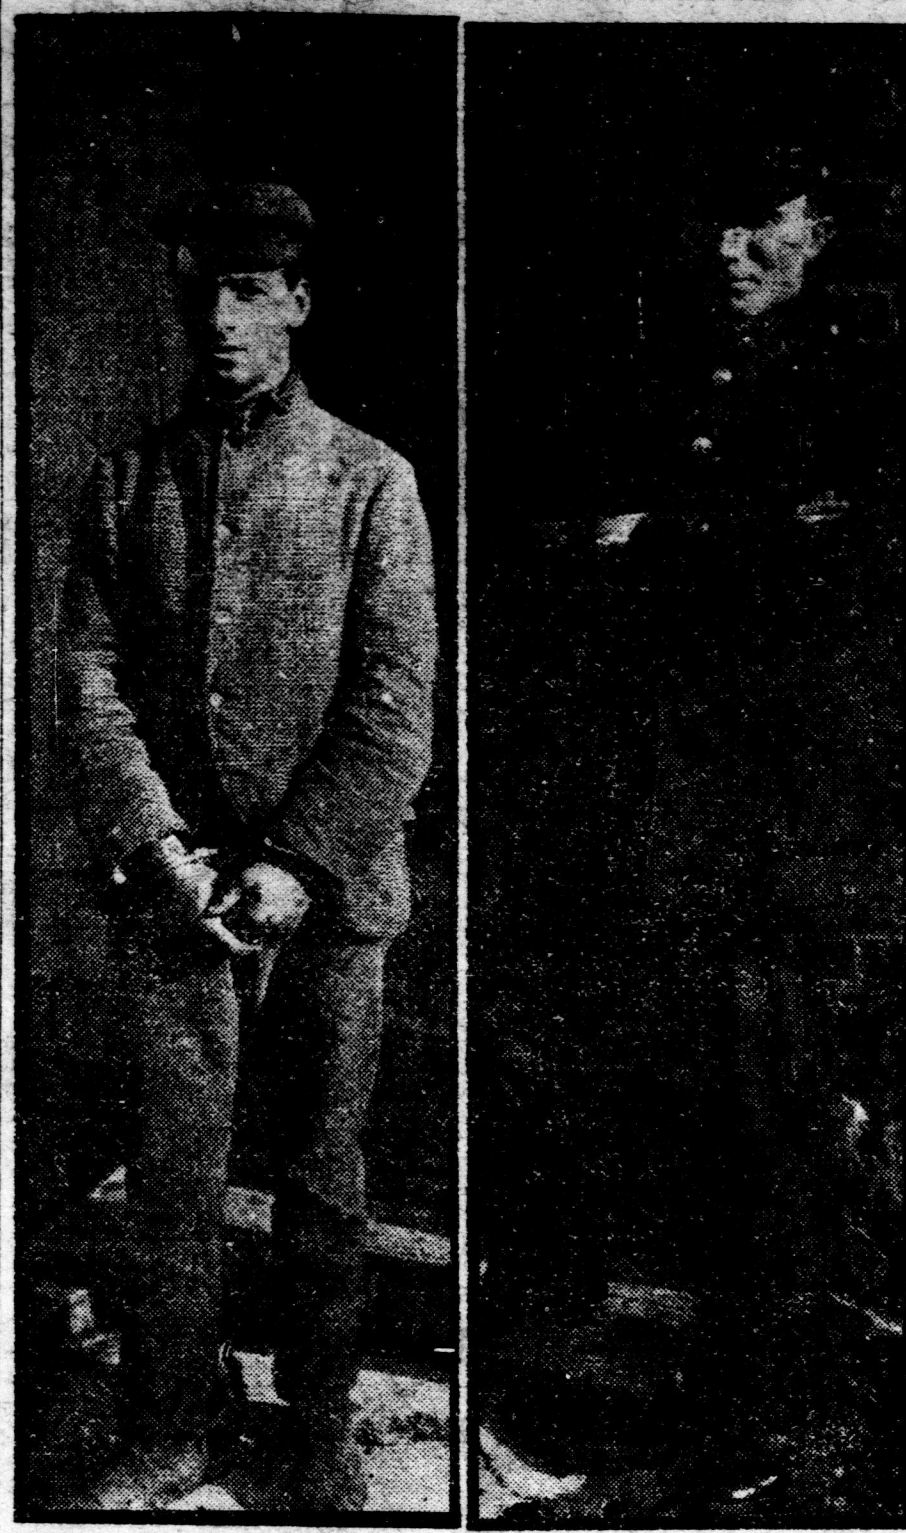

Declares He will Not Accept a Nomination for Vice-Presidency.

New York, May 12.—Governor Hughes will not accept a nomination for vice-president of the United States. This announcement is made in a letter to Gen. Stewart L. Woodford.

In his letter the governor says: "For reasons which are controlling, and which leave no room for discussion, and though I would be deeply sensible of the honor thereby conferred, I shall not be able to accept, and would not in any contingency accept, a nomination for the vice-presidency, and even were I elected I could not serve."

Leave for Costa Rica.

Mr. Philip Pocock and Mrs. Pocock leave this evening for a two month's trip to Boston, Costa Rica and other southern points. While in Costa Rica they will be the guests of Mr. William Mullins, an old London boy, who is superintendent of the railway in Costa Rica.

Insurance Reduction Is Now Assured

"I had a letter from the Underwriters' Association last night," said Mayor Stevely, "and they say that if the water scheme is carried out there will be a substantial reduction in the insurance rates."

TWO MEN KILLED STEALING A RIDE

Two Construction Trains Come Together in a Cut Near Parry Sound.

Parry Sound, May 12.—A serious accident, in which two men were killed outright, occurred last evening on the C. P. R., five miles northwest of here. The place was at a rock cut in a curve, two construction trains containing plows and ballast cars, going in opposite directions, collided with great force, the vans and a number of the cars being completely demolished. On the train, coming to Parry Sound, were two men, George Hannigan and Levi Sutton, his son-in-law, residents of the township of Carleton Place, both of whom were instantly killed, and the bodies afterwards being burned in the fire which broke out in the wreckage. These men had been stealing a ride on the train, and their presence was unknown to the train crew. Conductor Jarvis and Trainman W. E. King received slight injuries. An inquest will be held.

A HIGH PROMOTION

Brother of London Citizen Substantially Honored by Illinois Central.

Mr. R. W. Bell, for the last four years master mechanic in the Illinois Central shops at Waterloo, Iowa, has been appointed assistant superintendent of machinery for the system, with headquarters at Chicago. Mr. Bell, whose worth as a railroad man is recognized in such a substantial manner, was first employed by the Illinois Central as engineer between Dubuque and Chicago. He was later promoted to traveling engineer on the St. Louis division, and after a short time was appointed master mechanic of the East St. Louis shops. He held this position for a couple of years and was then transferred to Waterloo as master mechanic. His ability has been recognized by both those under him and the officials of the road.

Mr. Bell is a brother of Mr. Joan Bell, York street, this city, the well-known engineer of the Wabash system.

Charged With Theft.

William Stevenson, a Glencoe farmhand, was this morning committed for trial by Squire Chittick on a charge of having stolen two bags of oats from Mr. Walter Thompson, a farmer residing near Ekfrid. Stevenson will probably elect trial tomorrow.

WATER VOTE TO BE ON JUNE 22
BYLAW GIVEN TWO READINGS

Practically No Opposition To the Proposal in the City Council
—Tuberculosis Hospital Matter Is Deferred for a Few Days
—Wage of D. R. O's. Will Be $5, as Formerly.

At the special meeting of the council last night, the waterworks extension bylaw was given two readings, and will be submitted to the ratepayers on June 22.

A denutation was also presented and asked that a bylaw to raise $6,000 for a tuberculosis hospital be submitted at once.

The matter was deferred.

There was some routine business transacted also.

Tuberculosis Hospital.

A denutation consisting of Mr. T. H. Purdon, K.C., Dr. John D. Wilson, Dr. Niven (chairman of the board of health), Mr. H. Blackburn, Mr. E. B.

Smith, Mr. T. C. Duncan, and a denutation of ladies—appeared before the council and addressed the aldermen.

They asked that a bylaw be submitted at the same time as the water extension bylaw to set aside $6,000 for the purchase of land for the site of a tuberculosis hospital.

It was pointed out that Mr. Blair stood prepared to give $20,000 for this purpose.

The matter was sent to the special hospital committee, who will consult the city solicitor with regard to the city's rights on this matter.

Dr. John D. Wilson, on behalf of the denutation, addressed the council. He pointed out that at the last municipal

OPPOSITION BACKING DOWN
MAY CEASE OBSTRUCTION

Conservatives Offer To Compromise on Fight Over New Elections
Bill—Ask for Plenty of Time for Revision of Lists, Which Government Has Assured.

Ottawa, May 11.—The Opposition

members are beginning to back down from their attitude of uncompromising and undying hostility to the election bill, and have held out the olive branch to the Government. The debate so far, with accompanying revelations of manipulation of election lists in Manitoba by the Roblin Government, has been making much more good campaign material for Liberals than for Conservatives, and the latter are now seeking a means of retreat that will not be ignominious.

The Government, on the other hand, is anxious that the business of the country should be no longer held up by the obstruction tactics of the Opposition, and especially in view of the fact that it is necessary to put through more supplies this week to keep the various departments running until the estimates for the year are voted.

The Opposition now say that if a provision is put in the bill, making it absolutely sure that ample time will be given for revision of lists by county court judges, and guarding against any manipulation at the last moment, they will be content to let the bill pass.

The Government's whole object in drafting present measure has been to insure fair lists, and although Mr. Aylesworth, in his speech explaining the bill, made it quite clear that there would be time given for revision before county judges. The Government is understood to be willing to redraft the clause in this connection to meet the desires of members on both sides of the House. As a result it is probable that the debate will be very considerably shortened.

Empire Accident and Surety Co.
Absorbed By Imperial, Says Rumor

Policy-Holders Fully Protected —Change Expected for Some Time.

The Empire Accident and Surety Company of this city has been absorbed by the Imperial Accident Company, so rumor says today.

No confirmation could be obtained from the officials themselves, all declaring that they had nothing to say on the subject.

Mr. Leitch, president of the company, refused to talk, but would not deny the rumor.

Mr. C. H. Ivey, solicitor of the company, had nothing to say, declaring that there was nothing of interest to the public as yet.

It was stated this afternoon that the Imperial Company had already sent out renewal receipts.

Policy-Holders Protected.

The policy-holders are protected, as the Imperial Company has assumed all risks and responsibilities, and they are further protected by the fact that there is no deposit with the Government $80,000, which all companies must pay to the Government before they can do business.

The company is capitalized at $1,000,000, and it is understood that all the stock is subscribed.

So far as can be learned negotiations have been going on over a month between the two companies.

"I have not had anything to do with the company for two years," said one of the directors to The Advertiser. "Things have not been prosperous for some time, and I got out. I expected this."

The last straw came yesterday when the Merchants' Bank served a writ on the company for $17,766 yesterday.

The company was unable to meet this and went into liquidation, the Imperial Company taking over the business.

Mr. M. Leitch, a retired clergyman, is president of the company and its general manager.

The head offices of the company are in London.

A director informed The Advertiser that the stockholders will lose about 50 per cent.

Liberals Are Completing Organization

The Liberals of London have held several organization meetings of late, and are now in splendid shape for a contest. Every polling subdivision will be manned by enthusiastic Liberals, and there is no doubt that on election day every Liberal vote will be polled.

Mr. McEvoy is making a splendid impression, and is proving an energetic candidate.

His outstanding gifts that fit him for the position as member for London are recognized by the people, and he is meeting with great encouragement in his canvass.

A series of public meetings will be arranged for shortly, and a number of well-known speakers will be present.

S. BAKER, City Clerk.

EVELYN'S SUIT POSTPONED.

New York, May 11.—A hearing on Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's suit for the annulment of her marriage to Harry K. Thaw was scheduled to begin in this city today, but was postponed by agreement of counsel.

Daniel O'Reilly, counsel for Mrs. Thaw, requested a postponement on the ground that he had been unable to secure certain evidence which he desired from Pittsburgh. A commissioner to take the testimony was appointed recently by Robert E. Deyo, the referee appointed to take the evidence in the Thaw case. Counsel for Thaw consented to the postponement, but declared that he would agree to no further delays. The new date of the opening of the hearing has not been fixed.

East Middlesex Liberals at Lambeth

A meeting will be held in Lambeth tomorrow evening in the interest of Mr. John Gillson, the Liberal candidate for East Middlesex.

Mr. Gillson, Dr. Routledge and other speakers will address the meeting. Every Liberal is invited to be present. Mr. Gillson is meeting with splendid encouragement in his canvass.

of the riding, and will make a magnificent run. His chances of redeeming the riding are excellent. He is a speaker of more than ordinary ability and has a good grasp of public questions from the farmer's standpoint. Let every Liberal keep the date in mind.

An Alleged Case of Horse Stealing

A warrant was issued this morning against Ernest Poole by William Patterson, who charges Poole with stealing a horse belonging to him.

According to Mr. Patterson he had bought the horse from Poole, and paid him $46 for it. Patterson says he sold the horse to Oley Johnston, of London Township.

who took it home and put it in his barn. About 2 o'clock on Thursday morning, it is alleged that Poole went to Johnston's barn and took the horse away.

Poole has not as yet paid his livery license, he having been convicted a few days ago of keeping a livery stable without a license, and a warrant was ordered for his arrest.

Tuberculosis Exhibit in the City Hall

The tuberculosis exhibit opened this morning at the city hall with a large attendance. As soon as the doors were opened at 9 o'clock large crowds of people kept coming continually.

Ald. Stewart has a large staff of officers in charge, and they do their best to make the visitor appreciate the exhibit.

It is a splendid object lesson in the methods of the white plague. Large photographs of cottages and tents and other structures for the accommodation of the tubercular patients, sleeping bags, sputum cups, and all the rest of the paraphernalia is shown in the exhibit.

A large number of boxes were required to bring the material here, and the city hall is well filled. Several Government employees are on hand.

Around the walls are many pictures and cuts of houses and hospitals, showing the methods of treating the disease in all parts of the world.

Maps and Charts.

There are maps and charts in profusion showing the number of deaths from this disease compared with other diseases, what districts are particularly adapted for the spread of the disease, and every conceivable information about this greatest of all modern scourges.

The exhibit will be open all day. There is no admission. No person can well afford to miss the exhibit, as its educational value is very great.

This evening a public meeting will be held in the city hall, in connection with the exhibit. His Lordship Bishop Williams will preside.

Addresses will be delivered by Dr. W. H. Moonhouse on "The Prevention of Tuberculosis," and by Dr. John D. Wilson on "The Necessity of a Tuberculosis Hospital in London."

These lectures will be illustrated by stereopticon views. The exhibit will last until Friday, and will be open afternoon and evening.

Liberal Convention at Mt. Brydges

Great interest is being shown in the Liberal convention to be held in Mount Brydges on Thursday next at 11 o'clock.

From every part of the riding the most encouraging reports have come, and the convention promises to be one of the best ever held in the riding. A number of prominent Liberals will allow their names to go to the convention, prominent among them being Mr. T. G. Turnbull, reeve of Lobo; Mr. J. C. Elliott, of Glencoe; Mr. J. F. Lethbridge, of Caradoc, and others.

SOLUTION OF MURDER MYSTERY

The Laporte Prosecution Say They Know the Facts.

CHLORAL WAS USED TO KILL

Large Quantity of Surgical Knives, Daggers and Dirks Found on the Guinness Farm.

Chicago, May 12.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Laporte, Indiana, says: A complete solution of the mystery of the Guinness murder farm is expected within 48 hours. Those officials who have been conducting the searching of the house of many deaths, practically admitted this fact yesterday. They refused, however, to make known their purposes, further than to say that the final step may be taken to-day or tomorrow at the latest. The mystery surrounding four of the fourteen deaths which are known to have occurred at the place is cleared by the allegation that Ray Lamphere, the former farmhand, prisoner in the county jail, set fire to the home of Mrs. Belle Guinness on the morning of April 23, and thereby caused the death of the widow and the three children.

As to the manner of death of the ten murdered persons whose bodies were uncovered in a little patch of ground guarded by closely-woven wire netting, the silence of the officers in response to queries as to the arrest of one or more accomplices provides the only answer.

Killed by Chloral. That the victims came to their death through the administration of a deadly amount of chloral has been proven. The places at which the drug was purchased during the last eight years have been found. That the inanimate corpses then were dismembered either in a chamber of horrors on the second floor of the Guinness home or in the basement, has been shown to the satisfaction of the investigators. Two knives, one a six-inch dagger, and the other a needle-pointed, double, razor-edged surgeon's knife, have been found in the ruins.

That the big, stolid Norwegian woman enticed some of them into her lair by the bait of matrimonial advertisements and there had an active hand in killing them and disposing of their bodies, is said to have been established without question. The one remaining question, that of whether she had assistance in her crimes, is expected almost hourly.

The arrival at this point has been preceded by a hunt for minutes, rumors of which have been made public. Here and there, bits of evidence have leaked out, but the great array of facts, it is said was secured from statements made by Lamphere.

The chief agent in securing the confidence of the prisoner has been Rev. E. A. Schell, pastor of the First Methodist Church, who ever since the first day of the prisoner's incarceration has been a visitor at his cell.

Upon the reports of the clergyman the investigators have built their case.

Digging Again.

The "mining" operations which have been promised by Sheriff Smutser for several days started in earnest today in the ruins of the Guinness home. Louis Schultze, who was employed by the sheriff to sluice the ashes in the cellar, completed his apparatus early and began work.

Additional evidence regarding the methods by which the persons whose corpses were found on the Guinness farm met death was unearthed this morning. Almost two dozen pairs of scissors, bent and curved in the fashion of surgical instruments, are said to have been found in the ashes in the cellar, and in addition, three knives, two of a surgical character, and another an unmistakable dirk, were picked up. It is believed by some that the dirk may have been the chief weapon employed in the series of murders, but the fact that there was no mark of penetrating wounds on Andrew Heiglein's body is a possible refutation of this theory.

DEATH OF JOHN TEMPLIN

One of Fergus' Most Prominent Business Men Passes Away.

Fergus, May 12.—Mr. John Templin, carriage builder, and senior member of the Templin Manufacturing Company, died suddenly last night of heart failure. He was one of the oldest residents and best known business men in town. A widow, two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Barnett, of Lively Springs, and Miss A. C. Templin, proprietor of the Fergus News-Record; G. C. Templin, of the above firm, residing here, and F. W. Templin, of the general store of Templin & McDonald, of Kincardine, survive. The funeral will be held on Thursday, at 2 o'clock.

A WILL CASE.

Toronto, May 11.—Chief Justice Falconbridge gave judgment this morning construing a clause of the will of the late Catherine Ann Merriek of Uxbridge. She left an estate to be divided equally among her children, but in another clause said she left nothing to her daughter Catherine. The latter was already provided for. Catherine claimed to rank on the estate in virtue of the first clause of the will, and the judge upheld this contention.

YARMOUTH FOLK ROW OVER SCHOOLS

Eastern and Western Sections Divide as to the New Site.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

St. Thomas, May 12.—There is war on between the eastern and western divisions of School Section No. 18, Yarmouth. In this section there are three schoolhouses. One is located just at the city limits of St. Thomas, and at a recent meeting the trustees met and decided to build a new $4,500 school. To this the eastern section strenuously objected, and insists that a new central school be built on the site of the old school a mile further east. Last night a mass meeting of about 200 farmers was held at the eastern school to discuss the question and it was a warm session. The western contingent characterized the men of the east as "thickheads," and refused to entertain the idea of a central school. A vote was taken, resulting in 91 in favor of a central school and 76 against. Instantly pandemonium was let loose. There were charges of impersonation, fraud, and all the practices known to corrupt elections. The western people declare they will go ahead and build their new schoolhouse, and incorporate Yarmouth Heights as a village, and the eastern people may do as they please.

LONDON, TUESDAY, MAY 12.

THAT GIFT OF $130,000.

The gift of $130,000 to the owners of the La Rose mine was one of the acts of the Whitney Government in "that last awful week." The fact that the brother-in-law of the Minister of Mines was among the recipients of this bounty did not make it easier for the Government to justify the deal.

The transaction had its origin in a dispute between mining companies.
The La Rose and the McMartin syn-dicates demanded possession of two mining claims, staked by the O'Brien Company, which bought all its claims from a Mr. King, of Haliburton. The Ross Government had to decide among the claimants. A commission was appointed, which took evidence under oath for three weeks. The decision gave to the La Rose people the forty acres they asked for, and to McMartin forty of the eighty acres he claimed, leaving the remaining 277 acres to the O'Briens.

Later on, when Hon. Frank Cochrane became minister of mines, Mc-Martin and his associates challenged
the legality of all the O'Brien leases, on the ground that King had never made a valid discovery, but had been put up by the O'Briens to make false affidavits. McMartin applied to the Attorney-General for leave to use his name in an action to have the O'Brien leases canceled. The Attorney-General refused the fiat, but brought actions in his own name to test the truth of McMartin's allegations. Mr. James B.
O'Brien describes the sequel as follows:

"These actions hung for a year and a half, and in the meantime we had spent much money on our properties. We were anxious, of course, to get our title cleared from the actions, and finally made an offer to pay a 25 per cent royalty in consideration of having the title fully cleared. We were led to do this in part by the talk about a graded royalty tax of from 3 to 20 per cent which the Government was thought to be about to impose, and of which,
by the settlement, we are relieved.
The ordinary defenses in such an action, such as 'innocent purchasers for value' and 'estopped' by the decision of the commissioners, were good as against the other contestants, but not as against the crown, and this influenced us to make a generous offer for the sake of peace."

The present Government presented $130,000 to the La Rose people on the plea that the latter furnished information which could not have been secured from any other source, and which placed the O'Briens in the power of the Attorney-General. The charge has been also made that the O'Briens had a "pull" with the late Government, and got a favorable decision through political influence. Mr. James B. O'Brien denies all these allegations.
He is a Conservative, but says he is bound to protest against the aspersions upon Hon. G. W. Ross and the commission, which was composed of Mr. Thomas Gibson, director of the Bureau of mines; Mr. Aubrey White, assistant commissioner of crown lands, and Dr. Kennedy, law clerk of the crown lands department. He says that his company was much disappointed by the decision of the commissioners, and sought to appeal to the executive council. Mr. Ross refused the appeal. Moreover, McMartin and the leading members of his syndicate are Liberals.

The statement of the facts of the case discredits the present Government.
Its gift of $130,000 to the La Rose people has all the earmarks of a job.
It is another suspicious circumstance in the dying hours of the session.

THE SEED DISTRIBUTION.
It was expected that the Opposition at Ottawa, in its present desperate frame of mind, would seek to make party capital of the distribution of seed grain by Government officers in the west.

In pursuing this policy Mr. Borden's followers in the House and the party organs have resorted to gross misrepresentation. A most effective answer to these attacks is furnished by letters received by the seed grain department at Regina from farmers who have had the benefit of the distribution, a number of which are published in a recent issue of the Regina Leader. These show unmistakably that immense though the work was, it has been carried through without a hitch, and to the satisfaction of all.
About the middle of February last,

the much-abused R. E. A. Leach assumed control of the work at Regina.
He had first to organize his staff, which was at once confronted with 16,000 applications for seed. When it is said that close on a million and a half bushels of seed grain, requiring over a thousand cars to transport, and involving 45,000 individual consignments, have been distributed, the magnitude of the work may be imagined. To go into details would be to speak of the correspondence, which meant the consideration and filing of ten letters from each applicant; the handling of as many as eighty shipping bills in one day, each covering from 10 to 100 consignments; the notifying of railway agents and con-signees of shipments, and a vast amount of other clerical work.

The greatest care was taken in the selection and buying of the grain, which was thoroughly cleaned before being shipped; and for fear that some grain of inferior quality might have got into some of the consignments, two inspectors were kept traveling over the country, examining grain arriving at its destination, and making sure that it was all up to the required standard. But so thorough had been the care exercised by the distribution department that of the vast amount of seed sent out only seven carloads were returned.

The Government has been actuated in this matter solely by a desire to save the western crops of 1936 from failure through lack of proper seed.
It was the department of agriculture at Ottawa which made the discovery that much of the grain grown in the west last year had been rendered unfit by frost for seeding purposes, and it was the Government at Ottawa which devised a plan for meeting the serious conditions confronting the farmers of that part of the Dominion. That that plan has been efficiently and satisfactorily carried out, those immediately concerned now unanimously attest.

PROMISE AND PERFORMANCE.
The policy of giving vast sums of money or huge grants of land to railways, has been abolished, says the Toronto Mail and Empire, the chief Conservative organ.
The Mail has confounded Mr.
Whitney's promises with his performances. The Weekly Sun, of Toronto, shows that his pledges and his record are far apart.

In the session of 1906 the Whitney Government voted $265,000 to a railway from Little Current to a point thirteen miles from Sudbury. In the same session it voted $3,000 a mile for 23 miles to the Bruce Mines and Algoma Railway.

In the session of 1907 it voted $5,000
a mile toward connecting Thessalon with the Soo branch of the C. P. R.
It also extended the time for the Canadian Northern subsidy for $2,000 a mile from Sudbury to Lake Abitibi, and extended the time for earning other subsidies.

At the recent session a guarantee of $2,500,000 bonds was granted to the Canadian Northern, the bill being sprung on the House and put through in the last day of the session. Besides this it voted a land grant of 575,000 acres to the O. H. B. and W. R.

No honest man can call it an honest redistribution.

The Toronto Globe sees no fairness in giving Toronto eight members and London only one. London has received a cold deal, not a square one.

The Montreal Horse Show ended
Saturday. The interest of horsemen now centers in the Woodbine. Mr.
Beck will indeed have no time for the handshake.

A lawyer represented the city of London in the Legislature for twenty-two years. For twenty-two years the Free Press had nothing to say against legal candidates.

The bulk of the old country immigrants are paying for their own passages and travelling third-class, unlike the Beck horses which proudly crossed the Atlantic at the public expense.

Mr. J. M. Godfrey, the Liberal candidate in Peel, is a brother of Dr.
Godfrey, the Conservative candidate in West York. It seems to be a matter or surprise in this country when all the sons don't vote as their father did.

The Free Press says that the Liberal nominee in North Middlesex refused to keep the nomination. Mr.
Turnbull lives in Lobo and Lobo was gerrymandered out of the riding. For shame's sake the Free Press should have kept its mouth closed.

CHICKEN BROTH.

[Chicago News.]
Mistress (an invalid)—Jane, I thought I told you to make chicken broth?
New Cook—Shure, an' I did, ma'am.
Mistress—Well, where is it?
New Cook—Oh, fed it to the chickens, ma'am.

AN EXCUSE FOR JOHN.

[Punch.]
Vicar—Well, Mary, I was very surprised to see John walk out in the middle of the sermon yesterday.
Mary—Ah, sir, I do 'ope you'll excuse my poor 'usband. 'E's a terrible one for walkin' in 'is sleep.

LEAP YEAR INCIDENT.

[Ellegende Blatter.] Elderly Aunt—I suppose you wondered,
dear little Hans, why I left you so abruptly in the lane. I saw a man, and oh, how I ran.
Hans—Did you get him?

WHY WORRY?

[Exchange.]
He who finds himself consistently out of joint with his surroundings will do well to ponder the language of the Chinese philosopher:
The legs of the stork are long, the legs of the duck are short; you cannot make the legs of the stork short, neither can you make the legs of the duck long. Why worry?

UNPLEASANT POSSIBILITY.

[Philadelphia Inquirer.]
Teacher—If you are kind and polite to your playmates, what will be the result?
Scholar—They'll think they can kick me.

DUELS.

[Pall Mall Gazette.]
More duels are fought in Germany than in any other country, and Jen-Gottinen are the cities which take the lead. It is said that a duel takes place in Gottinen every day, and on one occasion some years ago twelve combats took place in the 24 hours. Jen's greatest number has about 4,000 duels a year.
France has about 1,000 combats which may be regarded as such; Italy runs to about 270 per annum. In ten years it boasted of 2,750 meetings, of which 884 originated in newspaper articles or public letters. The great majority of the duels were fought with swords; only one with revolvers.

KEY CHISELED FROM STEEL.

[Philadelphia Bulletin.]
J. H. A. Klauder, an art connoisseur, of this city, is one of the few Americans sufficiently astute to go in for the collection of old keys.
"In the past," said Mr. Klauder, recently, "the finest artists worked in keys.
Count Adolph de Rothschild has a key made by Benvenuto Cellini. It is chiseled from a great block of steel, and represents two splendid grotesque female figures. It has, besides, a number of other mask and scroll ornaments. For this key Count Rothschild paid $8,500."
"The best work of the golden age of silversmiths is found no less in keys than in mirrors, cups and salt cruet."

LION HUNTER MAULED.

[London Globe.]
G. Powell Buxton, of Norwich, has received news that his son, Major G. C.
Buxton, has had an exciting encounter with a lion while shooting near Nairobi, in East Africa.
The lion was wounded, but charged Major Buxton and mauled him badly, especially his right arm. The Somali gun bearer, who gallantly rushed in to the rescue of his master, was severely wounded by the enraged beast. Luckily a doctor was within twenty miles of the place, and attended to Major Buxton's injuries. The gallant officer is progressing favorably, and his right arm will probably be saved.

A THOROUGH JOB.

[London Express.]
"I want a good revolver," began the determined-looking man.
"Yes, sir," said the salesman. "Six chambers?"
"Why—er—y—er—better make it a nine-chamber. I want to use it on a cat next door."

NO ROOM.

[Judge.]
"Simpkins refuses to have his flat papered," reported the agent of the building.
"What's the matter now?" inquired the owner.
"He claims they haven't room enough as it is."

HOW MAN AND WIFE COM-

PROMISED.

[Hamilton Spectator.]
James Walker, one of the old-time merchants of Hamilton, closed his account with this world yesterday afternoon, at the advanced age of 84 years.
Fifty years ago last November Mr.
Walker and the good wife who survives him were united in marriage in the little Anglican Church over in Burlington.
They were the parents of thirteen children, nine of whom are living. Mr. Walker his younger days, was brought up in the stern Calvinistic doctrines of the Presbyterian Church, while Mrs. Walker's training was in the Anglican Church. They harmonized in religious matters by Mrs.
Walker agreeing to attend the Presbyterian Church for the first 25 years of their married life, and then they would change around and Mr. Walker was to become a communicant of the Anglican Church for the remainder of their journey. It was a happy solution of church relationship, and for the past 25 years
Mr. Walker was a member of the latter Church. He was a cheery, pleasant gentleman to meet, always having a kindly greeting for the old-timers of fifty years ago.

MOOSE DRINK AT A PUMP.

[Kennebec Journal.]
James Tibbetts, of the Nook road, Bton-ton, has been entertaining strange company for several days. Early last week
Mr. Tibbetts went to the barn and turned out his stock. When he stepped into the barnyard a few minutes later to start the water at the pump, he was surprised to find a bull and a cow moose appearing waiting for the water.

Mr. Tibbetts went directly to the pump and began raising water for the stock.
As the water poured from the spout into the big trough, among the first of the animals to reach it were the strangers.
Each moose drank its fill and then slowly walked past the farmer to a low place in the fence, where each vaulted over and struck off across the field in the direction of the woods.

Every morning since the creatures have appeared in the barnyard when Mr. Tibbetts has turned out the water. The strange pair of the affair lies in the fact that the farm is well watered by three small brooks which keep running all winter, and the Sebastook River is but a few hundred yards away. It is possible the creatures have discovered something in the water, or that the river itself is their taste going in another direction.
For they are watering regularly at the Tibbetts pump.

The moose have never bothered the cows or the oxen of the Tibbetts herd, and the latter have never apparently paid any attention to the presence of the strangers.

Dug Up Arm—Pain Left

[Roscoe, N. Y. May 11.—Although Leslie Finkle had an arm cut off by the cars on Jan. 13, he could still feel the fingers doubled up, and could get no relief from the pain. Last week, relatives dug up the amputated arm, straightened out the fingers, and reburied it. Mr. Finkle says he has felt no pain since.

This was imagination—not actual pain. Mr. C. J. Placey, of Wolverton, Que., was tortured for years with excruciating pain in the back, due to serious kidney trouble. "I took every known kidney remedy," writes Mr.
Placey, "but nothing gave me relief,
when I was advised to try 'Fruit-atives.' This medicine cured me when all others failed."

SEVENTH REGIMENT
TROOPED COLORS

A Large Crowd Witnessed the Maneuvers in the Armories
Last Night.

One of the largest crowds that ever assembled in the local armories was present last night, when the Seventh Regiment trooped the colors.

The men were greatly hampered in their movements by the spectators, who were present in such numbers that took up much of the space on the armories floor.

Considering the fact that many of the men in the ranks last night have just graduated from the recruits, and have never trooped the colors before, the work was splendidly done, and there is no doubt that the regiment will be in the very finest shape for the trip to Galt on May 24.

ALTERNATIVE CHANNEL
FOR DETROIT RIVER

Engineer Lamb To Report on the Matter for the Government.

A very largely signed petition has been presented to the Dominion Government, requesting that considerable dredging be performed on the easterly channel near Fighting Island in the Detroit River, across from Amherstburg, Ontario.

The object is to provide shipping with an alternative channel, which will be used by the upbound boats.
It is stated in the petition to the Government that the existing channel is tortuous and dangerous.

The Government has favorably considered the request, and Engineer Lamb, of the local branch of the de-
for Amherstburg to make a report on the matter.

CARD OF THANKS

WM. AWCOCK IS VERY GRATEFUL TO ALL THOSE WHO ASSISTED HIM.

The Advertiser has received the following letter:
"Will you please accept the heartfelt gratitude of my wife and self for your kindness in allowing the columns of the London Advertiser to be used in an appeal for help on our and the little ones' behalf."

"We also wish to publicly thank the many kind friends who have so generously come to our assistance in our time of need."

"I should also like to mention that we are being well looked after, and want for nothing that will do us any good. Yours faithfully,

"WM. AWCOCK.
"Dane street, May 9."

"Strongheart."

"Strongheart," the college play, in which Ralph Stuart will appear at the Grand tomorrow evening, tells a story of an educated full-blooded Indian, who is finishing a post-graduate course at Columbia University, New York, who is a pastmaster at football, a good fellow and a friend to everybody who knows him, but because of his love for a Caucasian, finds that the "knife of prejudice" has cut the ties of friendship, and that he has been ostracized from their set because he is an Indian. The play is extremely novel, is absolutely unique and original, as an Indian hero has never before been utilized for stage purpose.
Mr. Stuart's characterization of the redskin is said to be one of the most delightful bits of acting seen in this country for a long time. The play has proved a notable success, and the company, whose number is twenty-five, is said to be one of excellence. The scenes have to do with college life, and are in consequence full of good,
genuine comedy.

Queries Answered.

London, May 10, 1936.
Two friends of mine as to which is the larger city, Winnipeg or Toronto. Will you tell us through the columns of The Advertiser which has the greater population? And oblige, R. J. F.
Answer—Toronto has nearly three times the population of Winnipeg.

when the party left for London some $33 had been subscribed.

Rev. Father Doherty, pastor of St.
John's Church.

Rev. Mr. Richardson, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Mr. M. J. Brown, proprietor of the Arlington Hotel.

Mr. Geo. Shoner, Jeweler.

Rev. Mr. Russell, latter Day Saints Church.

Rev. Colwell.

The highest amount subscribed by one person was $5, and the lowest

The list will be kept in circulation for a few days, after which it will be placed in the Traders' Bank and worked up until several hundred dollars are raised.

Wouldn't Touch It.

An effort was made by Rev. Mr.
Richardson and others to interest Mr.
H. E. Bywater, of the Arthur Enterprise, the only paper there, in the subscription list, but with little success.

However, public sympathy in Arthur was all with Moir, and the people there seem to believe that he is an unfortunate young man who was led astray by drink and company, and that while under the influence of drink he committed the crime in question.

Money Was Lacking.

In an interview with Rev. Mr.
Richardson, Moir stated that had he been possessed of enough money he would certainly have escaped.

"How long were you going to remain with Mr. Robb?" was asked of Moir.

"Six months, at least, after which I would have taken a trip to Australia."

When Rev. Mr. Richardson informed Moir that all of the Arthur churches had on Sunday last offered prayers on his behalf he smiled gratefully.

Went Under Assumed Name.

It was learned last night that despite statements to the contrary, Moir went under the name of "Frank Miller" while working for Mr. Robb.

At 4:45 yesterday afternoon Moir was hustled in a double-seated rig and driven rapidly to the C. P. R. station at Arthur.

There he was taken into the ticket office to avoid the large crowd which had gathered.

On the way to the station it began to rain, but the crowd did not appear to mind a waiting for the sake of getting a look at Moir, and men, women, children of all sizes, and dogs of every description ran alongside of the carriage all the way.

Camera Fiends.

In front of the station were two box cars and upon these were stationed a number of camera fiends, waiting in the pouring rain for an opportunity of taking a snapshot of Detective Nickle and Moir, or Chief of Police Farrell, who accompanied the party to London solely to get away from the camera fiends and Arthur.

Since making the arrest Mr. Farrell has been questioned by several hundred people, and has shaken hands until his arm is sore.

No Trouble.

There was no trouble of any kind when Moir was finally placed aboard the train for London.

and before the wheels moved again many of the eager Arthurites were on the scene of action, having come down the track at top speed.

A newspaper was held up to the window where Moir sat, and he appeared very grateful for the shelter
it afforded him.

At Streetsville.

A wait of over half an hour ensued at Streetsville Junction, and the natives of that place made the best of the opportunity, or tried to get a glimpse of the prisoner.

In this they were only partially successful, for Detective Nickle kept Moir away from the light of the station, and but few got a peep at him.

Once again on the road Moir settled down for a nap, but he appeared restless and opened his eyes at the slightest sound.

Talked About Moir.

In the seat ahead of the detective and his much-sought-for charge sat a young couple, and their child, a little girl.

They were talking over the Moir case, and the husband was heard to say that he understood that Moir had been taken back to London that morning.

Moir in the seat behind smiled nervously.

"I guess that fellow must be a terror," continued the young husband, while his wife shuddered and snuggled closer to her spouse.

Had the lady known that the subject of discussion was almost rubbing shoulders with her, she might have felt still more nervous.

Drummers There.

In the smoker ahead the travelers were alternately asking Chief Farrell questions and sympathizing with Moir.

"He may be a cold-blooded murderer," said one, as he handed the chief a cigar, "but he doesn't look it."

Occasionally, as the train neared
London, Moir would ask Detective Nickle the time.

At the London Depot.

It was expected that the officer and his charge would get off the train a few blocks the other side of the London station, but this was not the case.
Several hundred people blocked the way for Detective Nickle and Moir as they stepped off the train, but Detective Egleton and a squad of waiting policemen soon made a way for the pair, and they walked through the station, stepped into the patrol wagon and were driven rapidly away.

THE CRIMSON BLIND

BY FRED M. WHITE

"Albion," Bell muttered. "What a fine game is this? I wonder if that second—well, no. In that case there would be no object in concealing my presence here. I wonder—"

He bowed and touched the pure white bow with his fingers. At the same moment Enid came into the room. She panted like one who has run fast and far.

"Well," she whispered, "is she better, better or—Hatherley, read this."

The last words were so low that Bell hardly heard them. He shot a swift glance at his colleague before he opened the paper. One look and he had mastered the contents. Then the swift glance was directed from Walker to the girl standing there looking at Bell with a world of passionate expectancy and longing in her eyes.

"It is your sister who lies there," Bell whispered, meaningly, "and yet you—"

He paused, and Enid nodded. There was evidently a great struggle going on in Bell's mind. He was grappling with something that he only partially understood, but he did know perfectly well that he was being asked to do something absolutely wrong and that he was going to yield for the sake of the girl he loved.

He rose abruptly from the bedside and crossed over to Walker.

"You are perfectly correct," he said. "At this rate—at this rate the patient cannot possibly last till the morning. It is quite hopeless."

Walker smiled feebly.

"It is a melancholy satisfaction to have an opinion confirmed," he said. "Miss Henson, if you will get Williams to see me as far as the lodges—"

It is so late that—

Williams came at length, and the little doctor departed. Enid fairly covered before the blazing, searching look that Bell turned upon her. She fell to plucking the bedclothes nervously.

"What does it mean?" he asked, hoarsely. "What fiend's plaything are you meddling with? Don't you know that if that girl dies it will be murder? It was only for your sake that I did not speak my mind before the fool who has just gone. He has seen murder done under his eyes for days, and he is ready to give a certificate of the cause of death. And the strange thing is that in the ordinary way he would be quite justified in doing so."

"Chris is not going to die; at least, not in that way," Enid whispered, hoarsely.

"Then leave her alone. No more drugs; no medicine even. Give nature a chance. Thank heaven, the girl has a perfect constitution."

"Chris is not going to die," Enid repeated, doggedly, "but the certificate will be given, all the same. Oh, Hatherley, you must trust me—trust me as you have never done before. Look at me, study me. Did you ever know me to do a mean or dishonorable thing?"

They were down in the drawing-room again; David waiting, with a and here he followed Enid. The lamp was turned down low as Enid glanced at the bed. Then she smiled faintly, yet hopelessly.

There was nobody in the room. The patient's bed was empty.

"It works well," Enid murmured. "May it go on as it has been started. Lie down, Rollo; lie there, good dog. And if anybody comes in, tell him to pieces."

The great brute crouched down obediently, thumping his tail on the floor as an indication that he understood. As if a load had been taken from her mind, Enid crept down the stairs. She had hardly reached the hall before Henson followed her. His big face was white with passion; he was trembling from head to foot from fright and pain. There was a red rash on his forehead that by no means tended to improve his appearance.

"What is the meaning of this?" he demanded, hoarsely.

Enid looked at him coolly. She could afford to do so now. All the danger was past, and she felt certain that the events of the evening were unknown to him.

"I might ask you the same question," she said. "You look white and shaken; you might have been thrown violently into a heap of bones. But please don't make a noise. It is not fitting now, Chris—"

Enid hesitated; the prevarication did not come so easily as she had expected.

"Chris has gone," she said. "She passed away an hour ago."

Henson muttered something that sounded like consolation. He could be polite and suave enough on occasions, but not tonight. Even philanthropists are selfish at times. Moreover, his nerves were badly shaken and he wanted a stimulant badly.

"I am going to bed," Enid said, wearily. "Good-night."

She went noiselessly upstairs, and Henson passed into the library. He was puzzled over this sudden end of Christian Henson. He was half-inclined to believe that she was not dead at all; he belonged to the class of men who believe nothing without proof. Well, he could easily ascertain that for himself. There would be quite enough in the morning.

For a long time Henson sat there thinking and smoking, as was his usual custom. Like other great men, he had his worries and troubles, and that they were mainly of his own making did not render them any lighter. So long as Margaret Henson was under the pressure of his thumb, money was no great object. But there were other situations where money was utterly powerless.

Henson was about to give it up as a bad job, for tonight at any rate, he wondered bitterly what his admirers would say if he knew everything. He wondered—what was that?

Somebody creeping about the house, somebody talking in soft, though distinct, whispers. His quick ears detected that sound instantly. He slipped into the hall; Margaret Henson was there, with the remains of what had once been a magnificent opera-cloak over her shoulders.

"How you startled me!" Henson said, irritably. "Why don't you go to bed?"

Enid, looking over the balustrade from the landing, wondered so also, but she kept herself prudently hidden. The first words that she heard drove all the blood from her heart.

"I cannot," the feeble, moaning voice said. "The house is full of ghosts; they haunt and follow me everywhere. And Chris is dead, and I have seen her spirit."

"So I'm told," Henson said, with brutal callousness. "What was the ghost like?"

"Like Chris. All pale and white, with a frightened look on her face. And she was all dressed in white, too, with a cloak about her shoulders. And just when I was going to speak to her she turned and disappeared into Enid's bedroom. And there are other ghosts—"

"One at a time, please," Henson said, grimly. "So Christiana's ghost passed into her sister's bedroom. You must go back again. Fly to your own room and compose yourself. Only let him see you lying white and still there, and he must be satisfied."

"And if the wretch offers to touch me," she moaned. "If he does—"

"He will not. He dare not. Heaven help him if he tries any experiment of that kind. If he does, Rollo will kill him to a certainty."

"Ah, I had forgotten the faithful dog. Those dogs are more useful to us than a score of men. I will step by the back way and through my dressing-room. Oh, Enid, how glad I shall be to find myself outside the walls of this dreadful house!"

She flew along the corridor and gained her room in safety. It was an instant's work to throw off her cloak and compose herself rigidly under the single white sheet. But though she lay still her heart was beating to suffocating, as she heard the creak and thud of a heavy step coming up the stairs. Then the door was opened in a stealthy way and Henson came in. He could see the outline of the white figure, and a sigh of satisfaction escaped him. A less suspicious man would have retired at once; a man less engaged upon his task would have seen two great amber eyes close to the floor.

"An old woman's fancy," he muttered. "Still, as I am here, I'll make sure that—"

He stretched out his hand to touch the marble forehead, there was a snarl and a gurgle, and Henson came to the ground with a hideous crash that came from the corridor. Rollo had the door into the room; a thousand crimson and blue stars danced before the wretched man's eyes; he grappled with his foe with one last desperate effort, and then there came over him a vague, warm unconsciousness. When he came to himself he was lying on his bed, with Williams and Enid bending over him.

"How did it happen?" Enid asked,

with stimulated anxiety.

"I—I was walking along the corridor," Henson gasped, "going—going to bed, you see; and one of those diabolical dogs must have got into the house. Before I knew what I was doing the creature flew at my throat and dragged me to the floor. Telephone for Walker at once. I am dying, Williams."

He fell back once more utterly lost to his surroundings. There was a great, gaping, raw wound at the side of the throat that caused Enid to shudder.

"Do you think he is—dead, Williams?" she asked.

HAD A STAB-LIKE PAIN THROUGH THE HEART.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS CURED HER AND SAVED HER LIFE.

There is no one, we imagine, sets about deliberately to do injury to the heart, yet in the excitement and excesses of present-day living, the nervous system is done violence to, and the heart and nerves being so intimately bound up with one another, disorganization of the one means disease and disorder of the other.

They'll put you in such condition you'll never know you have a heart, make your brain clear and active, your nerves strong, your blood rich and pure, and your whole being thrill with a new life.

ROUNDING UP A STERLING TEAM

Johnson and Howells Join Londons at End of Week.

Manager Wreath of the Londons, announces that Abbie Johnson, the new second baseman, and Bill Howells will join the team at the Falls on May 17 for the exhibition game there on that date.

Both Johnson and Howells are coaching and playing with college teams, Johnson at Elmira, N. Y., and Howells at North Adams, Mass.

Another announcement that will be pleasing to Londoners is that "Nig" Jeffries has made good and will be a fixture on the team. Manager Wreath thinks that Jeffries has major league ability.

The London outfield will be, Howells in center, Jeffries in left, while Forth and Shortman will battle for the right field position. The infield by the opening of the season looks like Keenan, 3b; Bird, s.s.; Johnson, 2b; Klinek, 1b; with Dauber or Gates for catcher. Glanville looks like a fixture so far, and Paine seems to be the goods.

Paine is a warm weather pitcher, but weather permitting on Wednesday or Thursday, he will be expected to show all he has against the fast Brooklyn Royal Giants.

Friday and Saturday London plays Niagara Falls. All these games are at 4 o'clock, except Saturday, which will be called at 2 o'clock.

STANLEY KETCHELL TO MEET PAPKE

Then Will Come the Heavyweights Even to Tommy Burns.

San Francisco, May 11.—Joe O'Connor, manager for Stanley Ketchell, who is being hailed as the next heavyweight champion of the world by ring critics who saw him knock out Jack (Twinn) Sullivan Saturday, will leave tonight or tomorrow for Chicago to arrange details for a match between Ketchell and Billy Papke, claimant of the middleweight championship.

Papke is said to be ready to take on the coast youngster for a battle at Milwaukee about June 1.

Because of Ketchell's rapid growth it is being predicted he will be unable to make the middleweight limit within a few months. It is Stanley's ambition to get into the heavyweight class and go after the title. He declares he will fight all comers, even Tommy Burns, if his manager can make terms.

BASEBALL.

Last night the St. George's and Shamrocks clashed on St. George's diamond, the former team winning out by one lone tally. The score was 9 to 8.

Batteries, St. George's—Dinsmore and Daniels.
Shamrocks—Holland and Logan.

The prizes for Saturday's big race meet at Queen's Park are now on exhibition in Casselman Bros.' shoe store on Dundas street, and are attracting considerable attention. They include 37 medals and two handsome cups. The cups are for the long-distance races.

Mr. Brent, of the Y. M. C. A., who is looking after the entries for the meet on behalf of the London Athletic Association, reports that the number of entries was undoubtedly be very large, and that the meet will be run off without delays between events.

WILL GO TO AUSTRALIA

Burns Accepts $15,000 Offer From Sydney Fight Syndicate.

London, May 11.—A telegram received here today from Sydney, says that Tommy Burns, the heavyweight champion, has accepted an offer of $15,000 to visit Sydney and that it is expected he will take part in three fights, while the American battleships are at Sydney next August.

Burns' representatives in London say the champion has not accepted the offer to visit Sydney. He agreed to go if he was given $15,000 for one night, but the Sydney club demanded three contests for this amount, which Burns declined.

Burns is now in Ireland trying to arrange a fight with "Bill" Squires.

ACCOUNT OF THE FINAL TIE GAME

Wolverhampton Played a Remarkably Clever Forward Style and Won.

The London Sporting Life describes the final English Cup football game as follows:

So far, there was no comparison between the football shown by the teams. Newcastle were the classics; Wolverhampton the workmen. And the "classics" did not have it all their own way, though they certainly claimed a far larger share of the play. Indeed, for ten minutes the ball never left the Wolves' territory, so solid was the Newcastle defense and attack.

It all came to naught, for a defense that was truly gallant nipped in here, there and everywhere, and simply refused to break down. They were somewhat aided by the too close implication of Appleyard and his confederates. Every one of the five wanted to get within the penalty line before opening fire. All the same, it seemed merely a matter of time for the Tyne-siders to open the scoring.

Missed Easy One.

But continued non-success began to affect the smoothness of the Newcastle game. They were more easily driven to their own half, although only to Rutherford himself could explain how he missed netting with the goal yawning straight in front of him. Marvelous to relate, the ball soared many yards over the crossbar. Speedie and Howie were much more accurate from positions that were infinitely more difficult. Howie's left foot being responsible for a fine low shot. Then Speedie began to call on his men for a goal, himself setting a brilliant example by covering an extraordinary amount of ground, and plying Hedley and his flankers with passes of the very best.

Great Attack.

And gradually the ball was taken up. Pudan and McCracken suddenly found themselves beset by a pack of forwards, whose one mission was to get the ball past Lawrence. Lawrence was approached, and when McCracken partially mis-kicked and Hedley sent a first-time message just by the posts he was so near to the target that the crowd yelled "Goal." Without a doubt the Wolves were well-vigorous enough to satisfy anybody; yet it was not rarely that the limit was overstepped. There was heavy charging in plenty, but invariably fair. Naturally, the higher men suffered, and several stoppages were necessary. Woodbridge had Appleyard, Speedie and Howie to attend to, and very dour and grim did the famous trio find him. His resources were not great.

Half an hour had now elapsed, and with both sides able to show a clean sheet, it looked more and more probable that a blank first half would be recorded. But a startling transformation was wrought. The Wolves threw themselves on to the Newcastle back, with an intense ardor, and when Shelton caused Lawrence to dive for a goal-like shot which swerved just outside the net, the long "oh-oh" went up showed how thoroughly the crowd was entering into the spirit of the game. Yet again the Wanderers returned to the attack, and this time success was theirs. Hedley was the prime initiator of the movement that led to the point. He glided round McWilliam and Pudan, and put across a neat center-low, and consequently Lawrence, who McCracken contrived to momentarily clear his mind, but the ball went straight to Hunt, some thirty yards out.

How Goals Came.

Cool as an icicle, the amateur International dribbled a few yards, then, was a breast-high shot that scored—fast, and with a lot of twist, and Lawrence, who partially diverted the course of the ball, was quite deceived. This was after thirty-eight minutes.

Lawrence, once twice, and twice, was achievement; Newcastle were correspondingly dismayed. They could not get together, and in a tree the Wolves were within reasonable distance of Lawrence. Once, twice, and twice, Lawrence was again deceived, and McCracken sent a trio of warriors away, but the fourth time paid for all. Exhibiting wonderful pace for a veteran, Hedley—feinting to pass—rushed and went straight for Lawrence. McCracken rushed across to tackle, but with subtle skill Hedley gave the Irishman the go-by, and sent in a magnificent low-drive with the right foot yards out of Lawrence's reach. The two goals had been scored within three minutes, and both of them points of irreproachable character.

Newcastle Braced.

Newcastle had had time to reflect during the interval, and steady concerted efforts kept their fortress intact. Not only did they succeed in this direction, but, in addition, the forwards got moving, and very pretty to watch were the skilful runs of Hedley and Speedie. The inside right was an indefatigable worker, and fed Rutherford assiduously. Unfortunately for his side, Rutherford could not make maximum use of his chances. To a certain point he was good; it was when Bishop got on his track that he failed. Once, however, he escaped this sleuth-hound, and then followed such a "scrum" within a yard of Lunn as is rarely seen in association football. For a minute a dozen varied-colored jerseys were intermingled, and it seemed certain that a goal must accrue. But no, Lunn came through frantically, and with a vim that was strongly reminiscent of a charging "Rugger" forward, and sent the sphere out of the danger zone. Then it was that Newcastle dropped ches- board-wise, and adopted the methods of their opponents. Their effectiveness increased tenfold almost in-

DOUBLE MURDER ENDS CARD GAME

Shots Through Window Kill Two—Woman Accuses Her Husband.

Watertown, N. Y., May 11.—The crash of a charge of buckshot through a window upon a party of card players, sent Jerry Apple waiting in his blood to the floor of his little cabin on Apple's Island, in Black Lake, north of the city, last night.

As Apple fell, a son-in-law, Albert Crowder, jumped to his feet. The report of the shotgun again echoed through the woods, and Crowder fell dead.

Mrs. Royal Dunham, Apple's daughter, fled and escaped, in spite of several charges aimed in her direction. She brought the news of the double tragedy to this city after a night of terrified flight through the woods.

On her way, her husband, Royal Dunham, with whom she had quarreled, had been arrested, charged with murder. Dunham stoutly maintains his innocence.

A LITTLE LADY'S BREAKFAST.

A bit of a girl toddled into the dining-room of one of the big hotels and was escorted to her table by the head waiter. He placed a hassock on a chair, lifted her up, took her order, then a napkin under her chin and then left her in the care of an ordinary waiter, feeling that she was fairly well provided for. She sat there in lonely state and stared with round blue eyes at the other breakfasters. Presently her order came and the orange, which had been attentively squeezed into a glass, gave her a happy, messy ten minutes. Next came her oatmeal, toast and a cup of chocolate. She watched the waiter impatiently as he laid them before her and pounced at once on her chocolate. After one sip her mouth opened furiously and she announced, "It's sour." What an oversight! No sugar had been put in. The waiter was all contrition. With elaborate flourishes he dropped in two big lumps and thought all would be well. But no, she still scowled a small scowl and said sternly: "Wind it!" Wind it? The waiter was willing but ignorant. She gave him one glance of scorn and raising her voice called loudly, "Head waiter!" Every one jumped and the head waiter ran faintly to this imperious person. He bent low and inquired what was wrong. Her long lashes

Moir Taken To the County Jail And the Curious Cannot See Him

The Sheriff Bars All Visitors
From the Jail for the Present.

Shortly before noon today Moir was taken from the police station to the county jail, and so quietly did the officers go about their work that but few people realized what was taking place.

Moir was accompanied by Detectives Nickle and Egelton, of this city, and Chief of Police Farrell, of Arthur.

Curious Warned.

No one will be permitted to visit the county jail, for the present, at least. Such is the edict of Sheriff Cameron, who said: "The morbid curiosity of the public should not be, and will not be, gratified while I hold sway at the courthouse."

The sheriff stated that the small staff of turnkeys at the county jail had all they could do under ordinary conditions to accompany visitors around the jail, and that under the circumstances surrounding the Moir case he would not permit anyone to see the prisoner.

"How long will this order prevail?" was asked.

"Until I change my mind—which won't be soon."

Moir will not be tried for several months, unless a special order is made to give the trial prior to the assizes. The high court judges in Toronto set the date for the assizes the latter part of June, and Sheriff Cameron generally receives notice of the date by July 2.

Moir's Defense.

In an interview today, Mr. Ed Meredith, K. C., who will probably conduct Moir's defense, stated that he was not prepared to discuss the case at present, as he knew but little of it except what he had seen in the papers.

Mr. Wilkins, of Arthur, telephoned him yesterday asking if he would take charge of the Moir defense, and he had partly agreed to do so.

A prominent citizen of the south side this morning offered to donate $10 toward Moir's defense if a subscription was started in London.

The City Teachers' Trip To Buffalo

Arrangements have been completed for the excursion of the city teachers to Buffalo on Friday next.

Inspector Edwards has received a letter from Mr. Henry P. Emerson, superintendent of education in Buffalo, expressing his pleasure at the prospect of the visit of the London teachers and promising to do all in his power to make the visit profitable.

Mr. Emerson gives a list of the schools, and advises for the short time at the disposal of the teachers that they be divided up into different sections so that notes can be compared when the teachers get together again. There are typical schools in each district that can be visited by each deputation, and a profitable day spent.

He also promises guides for each party, and has made other arrangements for the entertainment of the London teachers.

The department of education and the teachers guild have invited the teachers to luncheon in the teachers' chapter house.

Mr. Emerson points out that in several of the schools history, geography and literature are taught with the aid of stereotypical views.

There is an excellent technical school in Buffalo, and this will be visited by the teachers.

There are grade rooms libraries in connection with 39 of the 62 schools. It is operated in connection with the public library.

A course of lectures is given for the students in connection with these libraries.

Inspector Edwards thinks that 90 per cent of the public school teachers will go to Buffalo.

A large number of the board of education have signified their intention of going to Buffalo, and it is expected that all of them will attend, as the trip will be most profitable.

Western Fair Board Lets Tenders

At a meeting of the Western Fair Board held yesterday afternoon in the fair offices the tenders for improvements at Queen's Park were considered and contracts awarded.

The following are the contractors for carpenter work:

McDonald & Co., new open stand to take place of old show bleachers, also an addition to horse stables. The same company will also move the fireworks stand to the center of the ring.

The Forest City Paving Company will repair the boiler house and put in a new foundation.

Morris Inwood will make the alterations in the dog show building, and also do the fence work.

The painting contracts let were as follows:

M. Cotten, painting poultry building and the new open stand. He will also paint the judges' stand.

R. Mulken has the agricultural building, the King street entrance and the transportation building.

G. Burdick has the cattle barns, stock pavilion, bandstand, ticket offices, machinery hall, double horse stables, the Dundas street entrance and the single horse stables.

Bennett Stewart has the contract for the main building.

P. Richardson will do the horticultural hall, the dog show building, the stand and the single horse stables.

Work will be commenced immediately, it being the aim of the fair board to have the grounds and buildings in fine shape for Old Bay week, in August.

The tenders were opened last Saturday night, but nothing was done, as Ald. Gerry was absent through illness.

Youth of 16 Fined for Drunkenness

In the police court this morning, Henry Hart, aged 16, and George Kemp, aged 20, were found guilty of being drunk and disorderly.

Hart, although a mere lad, has been on the Indian list for some time. He was fined $5, and given a severe reprimand by the magistrate. Kemp was placed on the Indian list, and fined $10 and $2 costs.

The case of William Sully, who is charged by Inspector Weir with sending his little girl to school, was adjourned for a week, as Mr. Sully has not yet had a reply from the registrar-general, to whom he wrote to find out the child's age.

Mr. T. H. Preston Will Speak at Aylmer

Mr. T. H. Preston, M. P. P., Brantford, will speak at Aylmer tomorrow night on behalf of Mr. C. W. Wonnacott, the Liberal candidate for East Elgin.

Mr. Wonnacott is a very strong candidate and will make an excellent run.

He is gaining ground every day, and it is acknowledged by both parties that he stands an excellent chance of redeeming East Elgin.

The present member, Mr. C. A. Brower, has lost strength of late, and will by no means have an easy time.

Inspection of St. George's Ordered

The attendance of the St. George's school is very good. Inspector Edwards reports the absentees being very few.

"I was at the school yesterday, and there were perhaps two or three absent from each room," said Inspector Edwards. "There is some little nervousness, you know, but nothing serious. The rooms are all well repaired now, and there is absolutely no danger from the ceilings as they are nailed and bolted."

An inspection of the school regarding the roof has not been made yet.

but it is understood that it will be made shortly. The board of education has permitted the inspection as rigid as possible, as several of the board have declared that the schools of London must be made safe as they can be made.

"If the school is not safe we want to know it," said Trustee MacRobert, who is chairman of the committee in charge of the building. "If it is not safe we will make it so, and that very soon. I have ordered a letter sent to City Engineer Graydon and Mr. Nutter asking for an inspection of that school."

Bicycles Fines May Be Doubled

Owing to the large number of people who are coming up in court every day for riding bicycles on the sidewalk, Magistrate Love is seriously considering the advisability of raising the fine from $1 to $2.

Four young men were up in court this morning, and each paid $1. Before the week is out nearly 25 summonses for bicycle riding on the sidewalk will be issued.

To The Advertiser this morning, A REGULAR MEETING OF ST. JOHN'S LODGE, No. 30, will be held in the Masonic Temple, at 8 o'clock this evening. Visitors welcome. M. D. Dawson, secretary. St. John's Lodge, No. 30, James O. Weldon, W. M.

Magistrate Love pointed out that the majority of the offenders are mere boys, and that it is with the idea of protecting the lives and health of older people that the fines will be raised.

His worship mentioned two cases where permanent injury had been caused to aged men by their being run down by boys on bicycles, and in view of the increase fears that others may be injured, as the boys ride at such a rapid rate on the sidewalks.

Moir's Captors and the $500 Reward

Crown Attorney McKillop was asked today if he had any idea how soon the men who captured Moir would receive their reward.

"I haven't the least idea," he replied. "It may take as long as two months or more to settle the thing up."

"Isn't there any precedent to go by?"

"Oh, yes, there are lots of them. I have known the Government to issue a check a few days after the criminal was captured, but that was in a case where there was but one claimant for the reward. Where there is more than one claimant there is generally a dispute as to the amount each is to receive."

In the present case there may or may not be a dispute.

Chief Farrell and Constable Coughlin are willing to divide the money equally with Stage Driver Draper. The latter, on the other hand, is said to be seeking a larger share of the money than offered, and is quoted as saying that Constable Coughlin should receive but $25, while he and Chief Farrell divide the remainder.

According to this line of figuring, the latter two men would receive $227.50 each.

However, Mr. Coughlin will probably have something to say on the subject of a division, and it is the general impression that the three claimants will come to an agreement before long.

Two Verdicts Pending at the Sittings

The non-jury sittings were resumed today before Mr. Justice Magee, and several cases were disposed of in short order. There were in all eleven cases set down.

A verdict for $460 and costs was awarded the Manning Letter Press in its action for $1000 against H. A. Wilcox, of Buffalo, for non-delivery of a printing press ordered several months ago. MacPherson & Perrin for plaintiffs; Buchner & Gunn for defendant.

Kane vs. Trusts Guarantee Company, was transferred to Sandwich. A settlement was arrived at in the case of McBride vs. London, on the basis of $450. William and Janet McBride sued the city to recover $1,000 damages for injuries received by the latter in falling through a hole in the side of the Pipe Line road in the second cove last August.

J. M. McEvoy for plaintiffs, T. G. Meredith for defendant. Acres vs. Rooks—An action to recover rents of $200 and possession of certain lands in Komoka Village, is being tried this afternoon.

Corner in Junk Peddling Is Suggested

The police are maintaining an active campaign against all peddlers and junk dealers who are without a license.

This morning Moses Elsen and Moses Lesinsky appeared in court and were fined $2 each and ordered to take out a license.

One of the best-known Hebrew peddlers, in speaking of the matter to The Advertiser, threw out the suggestion that it would be more profitable for both the city and the junk dealers and peddlers if the number were limited to say ten, each of whom would pay $50 each for his license.

At present there are sixty-three peddlers and junk dealers, each of whom pays a license fee of $2, making $126.

The dealer who spoke to The Advertiser said he was sure that the junkmen would willingly pay the increased license fee and have the whole city to themselves.

In addition much of the petty pilfering which is now so often complained of would be eliminated. It is not unlikely that the matter may be taken up with the authorities before long and some arrangement arrived at.

WOMAN WAS CAUGHT STEALING A SKIRT

Management of Smallman & Ingram's Allowed Her To Go This Time.

One of the young lady employees of Smallman & Ingram's yesterday afternoon noticed a middle-aged, respectable-looking woman walking away into a corner with a dress skirt tucked beneath a rain coat, which she was carrying over her arm, and at once reported the matter to the management of the store.

When questioned the woman broke down, and admitted that she had tried to steal the skirt in the manner mentioned. She pleaded to be allowed to go free, and stated between sobs that she was a respectable woman, who had fallen for the first time.

After being warned that such an offense could not again be overlooked, the woman was allowed to go. An example will be made of the next offender.

Two of the animals were captured before they had gone many yards, but a spirited horse belonging to Mr. Ernest Moore, the fruit dealer, ran across King street, and would have gone straight through a large plate glass window, had not Mr. Frank Moore, a brother of the horse's owner, managed to capture it before it reached the sidewalk.

MR. WILLIAM BARNEY HAS PASSED AWAY

Old and Respected Resident of London Dies in Victoria Hospital.

An old and esteemed resident of this city died at Victoria Hospital this morning in the person of Mr. Mark Barney.

Mr. Barney was 73 years old, and came to this country from England. He settled in Stratford, going from there to Kilworth, and finally to London. Some time ago Mr. Barney fell and broke his arm and had never been well since.

Besides his wife two sons, James, of St. Thomas, and William, of this city, survive. The funeral will be held on Thursday to Kilworth.

HODGINS TO CALL MANY WITNESSES

Government Determined That His Charges Shall Be Probed To the Bottom.

Ottawa, May 12.—The special committee, composed of Messrs. Geoffroy, MacDonald, Carvell, Barker and Lennox, appointed to investigate charges made by Major Hodgins with reference to classification of material on the Transcontinental, met again today, and again adjourned without making a start with the inquiry. The committee adjourned on Friday, Mr. Frank Hodgins, K. C., who is counsel for his cousin, the major, promised to have a précis of charges filed with the clerk of the committee by 6 o'clock yesterday, and the under-should resume today to ascertain the examination of Major Hodgins. It appeared, however, that yesterday Mr. Hodgins, K. C., having an engagement in Toronto, approached members of the committee individually and suggested that the opening of the inquiry be postponed until Wednesday. Some misunderstanding arose on this point with the result that the précis of charges was only filed this morning, and when the committee met it was not quite certain whether the inquiry would be proceeded with.

Chairman Geoffroy having stated that the précis had been lodged, Mr. Barker asked that before anything else be done all documents bearing upon the charges should be produced.

These he contended were necessary in order to enable him to conduct the examination of Major Hodgins.

Mr. Carvell thought the proper course was to have witnesses sworn, and when the committee met it was not quite certain whether the inquiry would be proceeded with.

Mr. Lennox was of the opinion that the first thing was to ascertain what the charges were, and he gave notice that tomorrow he would move for production of necessary documents.

Mr. MacDonald said he had been assured that the committee would not meet until tomorrow, and accordingly he was not prepared to go on, especially in the absence of counsel for the Transcontinental commission.

After further discussion Mr. Barker moved that the charges be read.

Mr. MacDonald moved as an amendment that the committee adjourn until tomorrow, and that the clerk be instructed to prepare copies of précis of charges for members of the committee.

The amendment was carried and the committee adjourned.

Mr. Frank Hodgins stated that the charges lodged were identical with those contained in Major Hodgins' letter and interview.

"Nothing," he declared, "had been added and nothing subtracted. It is understood that Major Hodgins will call thirteen witnesses, chiefly connected with the Transcontinental staff."

STORED THE GOODS IN RAILROAD BOX-CARS
Sale Here of Goods Saved From North Bay Store of A. Screaton & Co.

A bad fire at North Bay a few days ago destroyed a number of business houses, entailing in a number of cases severe loss on stock and premises. Among the firms who suffered were A. Screaton & Co., of this city, who recently opened a branch store at North Bay. The premises were stocked with an immense amount of goods. A majority of the merchandise was saved. After the fire it was found that no premises could be rented to store the saved merchandise, so a number of box cars were rented from the railroads and the goods stored in them. Quite a novel way of caring for salvage. Mr. Fred Screaton hurriedly left for North Bay, and adjusted affairs with the insurance people. It was decided to bring the goods to London and put on an immense sale at sacrificial prices. A half page announcement in this issue shows what they intend doing. The prices, no doubt, will be very attractive at this time of the year when householders are requiring so many new things for the home.

Londoners Hit To Tune of $10,000
By Failure of Cincinnati Brokers

Fifty Cents On the Dollar Paid
By Local Representatives.

The failure of the George H. Stapley Company, stock brokers, of Cincinnati, Ohio, interests certain Londoners to the tune of $10,000. This is the firm to which reference was made in The Advertiser some days ago. This firm is well known to Londoners, as many have done business with the firm through its London agent, Mr. C. N. Spencer.

At the time of the failure there was the sum of $20,000 of London money invested with the firm. A guarantee fund of $10,000 was held by Mr. Spencer, and that has applied to the debt, making 50 per cent of the original amount of investment.

A Satisfactory Firm.
"The Stapley Company was a very satisfactory company to deal with," said Mr. C. N. Spencer. "The firm had direct connection with Wall Street and were in close touch with stock movements."

"It paid up regularly until Tuesday for three days nothing came, although several deals had been made. I became suspicious, and put in the wire of the Moorhead Company, another Cincinnati firm, with a direct Wall Street connection."

A New Company.
Yesterday Mr. Spencer received a wire from Mr. George Stapley as follows: "We are planning a new company to take over our business. Wirecable 50 cents on the dollar."

"More Unfortunate Than Sinful" Minister's Opinion of Murderer Moir

Much Sympathy for the Man Who Slew Color-Sergeant Lloyd.

"I am getting up this subscription for Moir's defense because I believe that he is a poor young fellow who has been more unfortunate than sinful." So said Rev. Mr. Richardson, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, of Arthur, when interviewed by The Advertiser reporter in Arthur yesterday. Mr. Richardson stated that he had been informed that Moir had heretofore borne a good reputation and that drink was wholly responsible for his downfall.

Sorry for Murderer.
Another gentleman who had donated to the fund, said that he gave the money because he felt sorry to see such a decent appearing young fellow in such serious trouble. He did not expect that at least $300 will be raised in a short time.

How Moir's Capture Was Effected
Chief Farrell Tells Interesting Story

Didn't Let His Wife Know the Errand That He Was Going On.

Chief of Police P. J. Farrell, who with Constable Stephen Coughlin, of Arthur, brought about the capture of Moir, is a sturdy, square-jawed man of thirty.

His is a determined face, but withal a kindly one. Mr. Farrell has been chief of police at Arthur for the past four years, and during that time he has transformed the little town from a popular center for barroom fights into a quiet, respectable place.

Everybody in Arthur speaks well of Mr. Farrell, or "Paddy," as he is affectionately known, and a more popular official could not be found anywhere.

The Clue.
In describing the manner in which Moir was captured, Chief Farrell said: "About two weeks ago a farmer named John Kaiser, of Goldstone, some four miles from Arthur, informed me that he thought he had seen Moir passing through that place. At that time I paid no attention to the report, as there were so many other rumors flying about."

"A few days later Mr. E. Draper, the Ferguson-Arthur stage driver, tipped me off that a man with a mutilated ear was working on Robb Bros' farm ten miles from Arthur."

believe creditors will suffer no loss if patience is exercised, and the new company is encouraged." (Signed) Geo. H. Stapley.

Mr. Spencer immediately wired that his London clients be ranked among the creditors for $10,000, the amount due them.

"The amount of money invested with the company would not be over $20,000," said Mr. Spencer. "They have already been paid $10,000 out of the guarantee fund that I held out from the company."

"I refused to do business with the firm until I had a guarantee of $10,000. This was given me, and we did a lot of business with each other. When the payments ceased to come, I thought something was wrong, and paid out the $10,000 to my clients. That is just enough to pay 50 cents on the dollar. Had I waited until the failure was announced, this money would have been held as an asset."

"The guarantee is not usual with brokers. I was overcautious perhaps, but the fact that I had $10,000 to protect my clients was a very fortunate stroke of business. No other broker has that in Canada."

Are Going Up.
"The stocks in which we were interested had gained several points lately, and if I could have closed out with the firm on Saturday we would have had $50,000."

"Mr. Stapley himself is a wealthy man, worth probably three and a half millions of dollars. There is no doubt he can settle up all right if he so desires."

So far as can be learned Mr. Spencer's clients are quite well satisfied at wirecable 50 cents on the dollar.

It was late in Arthur yesterday that the young Scotchman who visited Moir on Sunday would subscribe liberally to the fund when the proper time came.

When Moir was visited by his fellow-countryman he broke down and wept, and it was afterwards stated that Moir and his visitor had fought together in the Boer war.

Many residents of Arthur have also announced their intention, it is said, of contributing to the fund later on.

It is known there that Moir cannot be tried for several months, and many of the people feel that the proper time to subscribe is at that time. It is expected that at least $300 will be raised in a short time.

ronto paper, and read of a reward of $100 being offered for Moir's arrest. At once the thought flashed through my mind that there was a chance to make some money.

"Accordingly, somewhere about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, I told my wife that I was going to Drayton, some four miles west of Arthur, and in the opposite direction from Elora. Had she known that I was going out to capture Moir she would have worried herself sick before I returned."

I hunted around Arthur for a man to go with me to the Robb farm, and eventually found County Constable Coughlin in the barber shop.

"How would you like to go for a drive?" I asked.
"Oh, all right, I guess," Coughlin replied, little dreaming that he was going out after a man reputed to be the most dangerous and desperate of criminals.

After the Murderer.
"About two miles out of Arthur I told Coughlin where we were going and what for. He laughed, and replied, 'I guess you are on a wild goose chase.'"

"Maybe I am," I said, 'but I won't be the only one who has been fooled in hunting up this fellow Moir.'"

He replied, "Coughlin and I arrested the man, and should receive the reward. However, I suppose it will be equally divided between Draper, Coughlin and myself."

"A certain party suggested to me that I give Coughlin $25 and divide the rest between Draper and myself, but I vetoed the suggestion. The man should have known better than to approach me with such a proposition."

Is Very Modest.
Chief Farrell takes the praise that is being bestowed upon him in a very modest manner, and laughingly says, "Oh, that was nothing" when it is suggested that he performed a brave deed in tackling Moir as he did.

"How was it that the Guelph police were notified of Moir's presence near Elora the same day that you brought about his capture?" was asked.

A Coincidence.
"Merely a coincidence," was the reply. "I did not know that they were after Moir until late Saturday night, when Chief Randall 'phoned me, and stated that his men had arrived on the scene too late for action."

Chief Farrell stated that he did not think the Guelph officers would have taken Moir as easily as he had, for the reason that they were known to Moir, while he and Coughlin were not.

MOIR TAKES ARREST COOLLY
LAWYER TO PUT UP STIFF FIGHT

To Save His Client From the Gallows—Interesting Story of Doings Monday in the Town of Arthur—Moir Speaks of His Travels.

For a man charged with murder, Moir takes his arrest most coolly, and although he exhibited nervousness when being brought home last night, he was one of the coolest men in Arthur yesterday.

When The Advertiser reporter first entered the Arthur lock-up to interview the prisoner, he saw standing near a little stove just inside the lock-up door, a young man, coolly smoking a good cigar. The man was in his shirt-sleeves, was dressed in a tweed suit, and wore a neat gray tie, and a standing-turn-down collar.

Inside the lock-up are two small cells. Both were open and the reporter peered into the darker of the two, seeking Moir.

"Mr. —, Mr. Moir."

It was the attendant who spoke. The Advertiser man turned around, and beheld the young man in the tweed suit, smiling, and holding out his hand.

For a moment the news-seeker was nonplussed. Surely this boyish-looking, neatly-dressed young man was not Moir! Moir, the man who was looked upon by the general public as a hardened criminal, ready to shoot a fellow-being down at the slightest provocation!

Murderer's Inquiry.
"How are things in London?" asked Moir. "Are they very much down on me?"

"Which way did you travel after leaving Stratford?" was asked by way of evading a reply.

Then Moir told his story. He remembered going down-town on the night of April 17. What took place upon his return to the barracks he following morning, and found himself lying on a haystack adjoining a barn some six miles from London. He was cold, and suffered from a feeling of depression, which he could not understand. Then he saw his rifle lying by his side, and realized that he had committed some awful outrage but what it was he could not tell.

To Get Away.
His first impulse was to get as far away from London as he could, so he made his way over the Grand Trunk Railway and headed for Stratford. On the way there he discarded his rifle and forty rounds of ammunition. Moir said that he had a few dollars in his pocket when he started out, and this lasted him for some time, as he was given most of his meals by farmers free of charge. Moir did not remember where he stopped on Saturday, but it is understood that he put up near the Gore.

On Sunday night Moir arrived at Stratford and put up at Richardson's hotel. The next morning he heard the newsboys shouting their sales on the street and determined to buy a paper. The first line which struck his eye was, "Sergt. Lloyd murdered by Pte. Moir."

Lost His Bearings.
Moir then decided to make for the United States, but not knowing the country, he became confused in his bearings, and cut across country to Elora, where he spent some time at the horse show. This was on the 21st. Moir said that he felt quite safe in the big crowd present at the exhibition.

Going east on the Elora road, Moir eventually arrived at the Robb home- stead, where he hired out as a farm-hand at $22 a month, with a promise of an increase if he made good.

Chief Farrell is in London today and will be here possibly tomorrow. He wishes it understood that he is merely here on a visit, and to get away from Arthur for the time being and is not seeking publicity.

Constable Coughlin.
County Constable Stephen Coughlin, who assisted Chief Farrell in the capture of Moir, is a man of 60, with gray hair, and mustache of the same color.

He has been a constable in Wellington County for upwards of seventeen years, and is a laborer by occupation. Mr. Coughlin is even more modest than Chief Farrell—if that is possible.

"I did what I could to help the chief," he said, when interviewed by The Advertiser yesterday at Arthur. And then with a twinkle in his honest eyes, he added: "I think it was really about the biggest capture I ever took part in. The money will come in handy, too."

Mr. Coughlin is well liked in Arthur, and has done much to preserve peace and order in that vicinity. He is known as a fearless officer, who will stop at nothing in the way of danger to get a criminal he is after. Law-breakers in the region surrounding Arthur have a healthy respect for his prowess.

Will Put Up Fight.
The latter scowled and walked on to the hotel where Detective Nickle was stopping. Here he was besieged by another group of curious men.

Lawyer Stepped In.
"What about the newspaper you took home to Mr. Robb and from which you are alleged to have cut out a description of yourself?"

Mr. Wilkins, Moir's attorney stepped into the breach.

"I am afraid that we will have to go down street now," he said and he and the reporter departed.

On every street corner of Arthur were gathered groups of men and boys. All were discussing the Moir capture, and expressing sympathy for him.

"Going to get Moir free?" asked one man of Mr. Wilkins.

The latter scowled and walked on to the hotel where Detective Nickle was stopping. Here he was besieged by another group of curious men.

Will Put Up Fight.
"Will you put up a fight for an acquittal?" some one asked.

"Well, I'll be there or thereabouts when there is any fighting to do," was the terse reply, and several of Arthur's leading citizens bear out the latter statement.

Mr. Wilkins is Arthur's leading legal light, and it is said that as a fighter with staying qualities he has no equal in that section of the country.

Just what Mr. Wilkins' plan of defense will be, he would not state, but he informed Moir that if he was guilty there was little or no show of getting him entirely free.

Moir did not reply to this. Mr. Wilkins held several interviews with Moir yesterday, and has forwarded particulars of the case to the latter's relatives in Hawick, Scotland.

OLD AGE
WHEN DOES IT BEGIN?
Many of the most successful, alert and active business men of this century are men who have passed the milestone allotted by the Psalmist to man of three score years and ten.

This is because it has been demonstrated over and over again that when active men lay down their burdens, give up business, and retire into an inactive life, decrepitude and all the symptoms of old age quickly appear.

The surest way for any person to retain their powers and faculties into very old age is to continue their activity in some direction, but not overdo. Keep the blood and digestive organs in good condition, and here is where Vinol comes in.

Vinol repairs worn tissues, and checks the tendency to natural decline. It tones up the digestive organs, aids assimilation, makes rich, red blood, and strengthens every organ of the body. In this natural manner Vinol replaces weakness with strength. This is because Vinol is a real cod liver preparation made by a scientific extractive and concentrating process from fresh cods' livers, combined with peptonate of iron from the medicinal, healing, body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil. Thus Vinol builds up strength and vigor and delays that feeling of old age.

Try it. It won't cost you anything if it fails to help you. Anderson & Nelles, druggists, 268 Dundas street, first store west of Wellington street, Sign—Big Red Cross. Phone 29.
