MAN REPORTED MISSING FROM HOME SINCE MONDAY NOON

Whereabouts of Samuel Christie Are Unknown.

POLICE AID IS ASKED

Suffered Accident Recently That Left Him in Nervous Condition.

Samuel Christie, 45 years of age, left his home at 725 Richmond street, at noon on Monday, and has not since returned. Because he is still suffering from the results of an injury to his head, received six weeks ago, his family is greatly worried. Inquiries made at the homes of all the friends of the family in the city have failed to reveal his whereabouts. The police have been asked to aid in the search.

Six weeks ago Sunday Mr. Christie, who keeps a second-hand store on Richmond, near Oxford street, struck his head on a plank which had been left in the stairway of his store by some painters. He fell unconscious down the steps causing concussion of the brain.

Since that time he has been extremely nervous, and at times has suffered greatly. On Sunday last he had a particularly bad attack. He told his family at that time he did not believe he could stand another such day. On Monday he seemed better than he had been for a long time when he left to attend a sale on York street. Since that time he has not been seen.

The missing man wore a dark cap and a heavy overcoat, with a black and white design. He was clean-shaven and his hair was but slightly tinged with grey. The top of one finger is missing. He suffers considerably from frequent muscular twitching.

WRANGEL AND 20,000 TROOPS MAKE ESCAPE

Anti-Bolshevik Leader Eludes Capture by Reds.

London, Nov. 16.—Gen. Baron Wrangel, head of the South Russian Government, whose army has been virtually wiped out by the Bolshevik offensive in Crimea, left Sebastopol on a Russian cruiser filled with soldiers, says a Constantinople dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The cruiser was accompanied by three transports carrying 20,000 troops and another carrying wounded men, the fleet sailing for an unknown port.

Russian Soviet forces had not reached Sebastopol before the city was evacuated, it is said.

FRENCH ADMIRAL WARNS AGAINST LOOTING BY TROOPS

Constantinople, Nov. 16.—The French admiral of the Black Sea forces sent a wireless to the Bolsheviki after the evacuation of Sebastopol by Gen. Wrangel's troops, threatening reprisals if the town were looted or the population molested.

A panic is reported to have occurred at Yalta during the evacuation and remarkable scenes to have been witnessed in Sebastopol and Feodosia.

FRANCE NOT READY YET TO RECOGNIZE SOVIET GOVERNMENT

Paris, Nv. 16.—The defeat of Gen. Wrangel, whose South Russian Government had been recognized by France, does not mean that France is ready to consider recognition of the Russian soviet government, it was said at the foreign office today. The French Government is pessimistic regarding any further military movements in Russia at present, it was indicated.

BRITISH WARSHIPS TO AID IN RESCUE OF NON-COMBATANTS

London, Nov. 15.—Although the Admiralty has issued no orders to the commanders of the British warships in the Black Sea, except to carefully observe strict neutrality, it was officially stated today that British ships would assist in rescuing non-combatants if they were really in danger.

The question of rescue work is left to the discretion of the officers on the spot. No troops will be transported under any circumstances, it was added.

Calgary, Alta., Nov. 16.—Hon. J. R. Boyle, attorney general for Alberta has prepared a case to be launched in the court to secure possession of natural resources on behalf of the province of Alberta, and will institute such action if the Dominion Government does not take action within a reasonable time. This action will be along similar lines to that proposed by Manitoba although there will be no co-operation between the two provinces.

FRANCE'S CONSENT IS TO BE SOUGHT BEFORE TRADE IS RESUMED

Lloyd George Favors Renewing Commercial Relations With Bolsheviki.

London, Nov. 16.—Representatives of the Russian trade delegation in London headed by Leonid Krassin, were in conference yesterday with the cabinet, discussing the preliminaries for the possible resumption of trade with Soviet Russia.

Some progress was made, but it is stated that there is a sharp division of opinion in the British cabinet on the subject. Premier Lloyd George is reported to favor resumption, but several of the prominent cabinet members are opposing it. Mr. Lloyd George is said to be supported, among others, by Andrew Bonar Law, Government leader in the House of Commons, and Sir Robert S. Horne, president of the board of trade, who heretofore had opposed the recognition policy.

The difficulty of the situation is made greater by the attitude of France, where general public opinion is reflected as against any resumption at present. It is said that Great Britain will not resume trade with the Soviets without the consent of the French cabinet, which has been informed of yesterday's proceedings and requested to comment upon them.

In the House of Commons today, Mr. Bonar Law said he hoped that within a week Soviet Russia would have so far fulfilled the conditions upon which Great Britain based resumption of trade negotiations as to enable him to make a statement. One of these conditions was the release of the British prisoners in Russia. He deprecated the delay in the negotiations, but said this was not Great Britain's fault, being due to the delay of the Russians in releasing the British prisoners.

PLAN SALVAGE OF STEAMER WIDLAR

Freighter Is Not Believed to Have Been Damaged Below Waterline.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 16.—Captain Arthur Forbes of the wrecked steamer Francis J. Widlar and representatives of the Becker Line, owners of the vessel, were planning today to undertake to salvage the freighter which was driven upon Pancake Shoal, Lake Superior, Friday night, and had, up to noon yesterday, withstood the pounding of the heavy seas.

According to Captain Forbes, with the 27 memebrs of his crew who arrived here last night aboard rescue tugs, the steamer was not believed so badly damaged below the waterline that she could not be saved.

The members of the crew, recovered from their sixty hours' exposure on the stranded vessel were preparing to leave for their homes. Nothing had been heard early today of the whereabouts of the steamer Charles N. Bradley, another vessel overtaken by the severe storm last week. All other steamers on Superior at the time have been accounted for.

STEAMER REPORTED MISSING WAS SAFE AT HOUGHTON PIER

Superior, Wis., Nov. 16.—The steamer Charles H. Bradley, reported missing last night, left Houghton, Mich., at 5 a.m. today, according to local agents of the steamer, and will arrive here tomorrow morning. The agents said their information was that the steamer was in dock at Houghton when it was reported she was missing.

SUGAR PRICES STILL DESCENDING; NEWEST PRICE IS 11 3-4 CENTS

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Still another cut has been made by the Dominion Sugar Company. A new low price of 11.75 cents per pound to retailers, less five per cent to wholesalers equal to 11.17 cents has been announced. Other refiners are quoting around 13 cents today between 13 and 15 cents.

INDUSTRIAL SLUMP SLOWLY SPREADING THROUGHOUT STATES

Factories in All Sections of the Country Curtailing Production.

SOME CLOSING DOWN

Pennsylvania Railroad Alone Has Laid Off 10,000 Men in Few Weeks.

New York, Nov. 16.—By the Canadian Press.—Reports of further curtailment of production received from several points in the United States this morning indicate that the industrial slump, which first was registered in the New England textile manufactures, is continuing to spread. Statements from representatives of several large plants today were to the effect there is a probability that some mills, now working on part time, may be closed down entirely in the near future. Reports from Montana today tell of the cutting down of the working forces of various mines, while Philadelphia dispatches state that the Pennsylvania Railroad is still laying off men at the rate of several hundred per day. Since the end of October there has been a total net reduction of over 10,000 employees of this system.

Further curtailment of production by New England textile mills are reported, while factories turning out other lines of merchandise have within recent days been compelled to cut down the working days or lay off hands.

Hits Food Production.

The curtailment of production has eventually hit food products, several Kansas flour mills having reduced their output, because other mills, using Canadian wheat, which they were in a position to secure at a lower price, were able to undersell them. The court of industrial relations is now holding an inquiry into the curtailment by the Kansas mills, which are reported to be running at only about two-thirds capacity.

In addition to the Pennsylvania, a number of other United States railroads are laying off hands.

While it is admitted that in many cases only those shop workers who were inefficient were let go, to be replaced by the skilled workers, who left the railroad to join war workers in industrial plants, it is asserted that one of the reasons for laying off of hands is that repair programs in many of the shops have been nearly completed, because a great deal of work was farmed out to equipment builders. The carriers, in pressing their efficiency campaigns, found that it was expedient to contract for a large amount of car and locomotive repair work with the builders of equipment. This took a large volume of business away from the shops. According to a local paper, textile producers and selling agents here unite in declaring that unless there is a distinct betterment in trade, textile mills throughout the United States will curtail production still further.

Greater Curtailment.

In the downward march of textile prices most mills some time ago reached the point where it was declared that further reductions would eat into future profits.

According to one silk manufacturer, the open market price on staple silks today cannot be duplicated by mills with any profit.

A prominent cotton goods producer said that indications pointed to a still further curtailment of production in the cotton goods division of the textile trade, and an executive of one of the largest producers of staple worsteds said that the outlook in his line was toward a lessened production during the next two months.

Took Hammer To Start Man On Work Hunt

So Wife Testifies About Husband Who "Hated Work" —Is Granted Divorce.

Detroit, Nov. 16.—That she had been compelled to drive her husband out in search of work with a hammer, was the testimony Monday of Mrs. Ella May Peters, who was granted a divorce from Michael Peters by Judge Harry Dingeman.

Michael hated work, his wife said, and never held a job but a few days at a time. He preferred to loaf about home, she said, and it was necessary for her to use force to make him even look for a job.

GERMANY'S CONDITIONS FOR ENTERING CONFERENCE

London, Nov. 16.—Dr. Simons, the German foreign minister, who, with Chancellor Fehrenbach, is visiting the Rhine provinces, has outlined in a public speech at Dusseldorf the conditions under which Germany would be willing to enter the reparations conferences at Brussels and Geneva, says a dispatch to the London Times from Dusseldorf. Summarized they are:

"First, the economic body of Germany not to be further weakened, especially by the taking away of Upper Silesia.

Second, Germany to be no longer hindered in her economic activities in the world.

Third, the colossal cost of the occupation to be decreased.

Doomed Man Declines Favors in Death House

New York, Nov. 15.—Walter Bojanowski, scheduled to be electrocuted in Sing Sing, declined the offers of the other men in the death house that he take the time allotted them in the fresh air to brace himself for the ordeal the next day. A few weeks ago those in the deathhouse decided to give up their 20 minutes in the air each day to the man next to die. The practice began just before James Byrd was executed. Bojanowski was the first condemned man to refuse to accept.

TASCHEREAU DEFENDS KING AGAINST MEIGHEN'S ATTACKS

Quebec, Nov. 16.—The Canadian Press.—Addressing the members of the Quebec Reform Club last night, Premier Taschereau dealt in part with what he termed the encroachments of federal authority on provincial rights, and also vigorously defended Hon. Mackenzie King against the attacks of Hon. Arthur Meighen.

In regard to attacks upon the war record of the Hon. Mackenzie King, such, he said, only aroused prejudices which had existed during the war, and he protested against this method of conducting a political campaign.

GEORGE GAFFNEY ON WAY TO MARKET, TOPPLES DEAD FROM LOAD OF PRODUCE

Horses Plod Over Blackfriars Bridge Without Guidance — Coroner Pronounces Death Due to Heart Failure— Inquest Unnecessary.

George Gaffney, a market gardener, residing on the Sarnia gravel road in London Township, died suddenly from heart failure on Blackfriars street at the western approach as he was driving to market at 12:45 this afternoon. Coroner Dr. Robert Ferguson was called and pronounced that death was due to natural causes and that no inquest was necessary.

A few minutes before his death, Mr. Gaffney was seen by a woman who was in a grocery store immediately west of the bridge driving by, apparently in good health. As he drove up the incline leading to the bridge he toppled from the load. He was found dead.

The team continued on its way as if nothing had happened. It was stopped on the Ridout street hill by Charles Maker, market clerk. Mr. Maker notified the police, who in turn notified the coroner.

Mr. Gaffney conducted a market garden on the Sarnia road, opposite the Kingsmill property, for several years. He was a familiar sight on the local market and was well known throughout the city. He was over 60 years of age. He is survived by his wife.

The body was taken to Griffith's undertaking rooms.

DOES NOT BELIEVE JUVENILE OFFENDERS PROPERLY HANDLED BY POLICE MAGISTRATE GRAYDON

Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M. L. A., Airs His Views On Subject— P. M. Should Write Parents and Leave Punishment to Them—Bringing Boy to Court Hardens Him, in Opinion of London Member, Who Says He Will Stop It.

Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M. P. P., does not believe that juveniles are handled properly in the courts of London. Because he believes that a different system should be adopted in handling boys who are guilty of minor offences against the peace of the city, Dr. Stevenson called upon Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon and aired many of his views on the matter.

He did not believe that boys of tender ages should be summoned to court for every little complaint which might be made against them by some irate citizen. He said that it was a disgrace that the names of such boys should be entered on the blotter of the court.

Dr. Stevenson urged that the magistrate should write the parents of the boy, telling them of his conduct, and asking them to correct his behavior. He expressed the opinion that the parents could do all that was necessary to keep the boy straight, if their eyes were opened by a communication from the police magistrate.

Hardens Them.

Bringing the boy into the court for every little offence only tended to harden them. Every boy has a natural evasion of the police court until after he had been summoned there a few times. After he knows that his name is already on the records of the court, he is liable to be reckless.

To illustrate what he meant, Dr. Stevenson produced figures compiled from the records in the juvenile blotter of the police court. The greatest percentage of those entered there had been found guilty of playing ball on the streets or on Sunday, and for trespass. There were comparatively few who had been accused of malicious crimes.

He Will Stop It.

When interviewed by The Advertiser, Dr. Stevenson stated that he intended to put a stop to the bringing of boys into police court on every little charge. "I will not have it," he continued, "for it is putting the boy under a handicap. If by any chance the boy was to enter public life when he became older the fact that he was in police court when he was a youth will be used against him by his opponents. They will not consider on what charge he appeared in court. The mere fact that his name is entered on the police blotter would be a weapon in their hands.

Dr. Stevenson does not believe that the remedy could be found by establishing a juvenile court. In fact, he is not in favor of that. He expressed the belief

VENIZELOS CABINET RESIGNS FOLLOWING ELECTIONS DEFEAT

George Rhallis Called Upon to Form New Ministry.

250 ROYALISTS WIN

Leader of Opposition Declares Grecian Policy to Remain Unchanged.

RHALLIS REFUSES.

Paris, Nov. 16.—An Athens dispatch received here this noon said it had been announced that the Opposition leaders in Greece had decided to intrust the formation of a cabinet to George Rhallis, but as he had refused to undertake the task it was believed former Premier Venizelos would head the new government.

MARTIAL LAW FEARED.

Athens, Nov. 15.—Troops fired from a number of points on several occasions today to disperse after-election trouble makers. Tonight there are fears of further trouble which may lead to martial law, and there is said to be danger that the army may get out of hand.

The stores, banks and theatres were closed today and soldiers patrolled the streets. Tonight the population was keeping close, not taking the risk of leaving their homes.

Athens, Nov. 16.—Premier Venizelos' cabinet resigned early today, and Admiral Coundourotis, the regent of Greece, has sent for George Rhallis, to whom, it is expected, will be intrusted the formation of a new ministry.

The complete victory of the Opposition seemed almost certain last night, although final results were still lacking. Even leaders of the elements opposed to Premier Venizelos in the elections held on Sunday were surprised by the showing their candidates had made in Macedonia and Attaca.

It is said Venizelos will leave the country, and he has advised Liberals to abide by the verdict of the people.

Demetrios Gounaris, leader of the Opposition, has declared the foreign policy of Greece will not be changed.

Latest returns from the election give the supporters of M. Venizelos 118 deputies against 250 Royalists. M. Venizelos and all but two of his ministers were beaten. None of the Venizelist candidates were elected in Greece and Macedonia, with the exception of Epirus and the Aegean Islands.

TROUBLE FEARED AS RESULT OF DEFEAT OF GREEK PREMIER

Paris, Nov. 16.—Reports that Premier Venizelos of Greece met defeat in the elections held on Sunday came as an unpleasant surprise to Paris. Newspapers here agree that Great Britain and probably France will forbid the return of Former King Constantine to Greece.

Hope is expressed by Pertinax, political editor of the Echo de Paris, that even a compromise placing Prince George, the eldest son of Constantine, on the throne, will not be sanctioned by the Entente.

Most writers fear the result of the election, if it brings about the fall of Venizelos, will still further complicate the already difficult situation in the Near East.

FORMER GRECIAN PREMIER ASKED TO FORM MINISTRY

London, Nov. 16.—George Rhallis, former Greek premier and minister of finance, has been asked by the regent to form a cabinet, succeeding that of Venizelos, which resigned this morning, says a Reuters dispatch from Paris.

The Rourse at Athens has been closed because of the fear of a panic, it is said.

BRITISH EXPECTED TO PREVENT RETURN OF KING CONSTANTINE

Athens, Nov. 16.—The announcement by the cabinet that it will resign if it is beaten in the elections is considered here as a significant indication of the results of the balloting. The Venizelist organs are gloomy, their editors tacitly admitting that the premier will not have a majority even if he is not defeated. The Opposition claims the election of 200 deputies, with a majority in ancient Greece. It is rumored that if Venizelos goes down to defeat the British will prevent the landing of Former King Constantine, declaring that his return to power is impossible. The Opposition's surprising vote is attributed in some quarters to overconfidence on the part of the Venizelists, the premier's absence from Greece during part of the campaign, and his interest in foreign affairs, as well as to the silent organization of the Gournarists. It was only today that many members of the opposition made their appearance, wearing the olive branch, the emblem of the Opposition.

Premier Venizelos, amid all the turmoil, spent Sunday night sleeping peacefully.

C. N. R. EMPLOYEES TO TAKE REFERENDUM ON PRESIDENT'S ACTION

Dismissals of Men For Political Activities Creates Unrest.

Winnipeg, Nov. 16.—Local officials of the C. N. R. union likely will take a referendum on the dismissal of C. N. R. employees for political activities, involving direct action by 60,000 employees of the system to bring the matter to a final show-down.

Meantime a conference of C. N. R. union representatives of the Dominion will be held to deal with the preliminary procedure.

JOSLIN GREEN IS ADJUDGED INSANE AT MURDER TRIAL

Bruce County Man To Be Committed to Asylum.

[Special To The Advertiser.]

Walkerton, Nov. 16.—The trial of Joslin Green, charged with the murder of Bert Cavill at Chesley on July 28 last, came to a sudden termination today when the prisoner was adjudged insane. Mr. Justice Meredith ordered that he be sent to Hamilton Asylum for Criminal Insane. The jury returned a true bill of murder against Green, but after hearing expert evidence from alienists, who pronounced Green insane, the presiding judge announced that the ends of justice would not proceed. In the event of Green's mental recovery, he will again be arraigned on the murder charge.

The murder of Cavill, a Chesley drayman, was the outcome of an argument during the moving of a piano.

ALLEGED TO HAVE BEEN "DIRECTOR" OF WINNIPEG MURDER

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 16.—James Uttley, provincial constable, who was shot during the raid at the Stockyards Hotel last Thursday when Inspector McCurdy was killed, died today of his injuries.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 16.—An entirely new aspect was lent to the Stockyards Hotel murder case at St. Boniface, with the evidence which was forthcoming at the inquest touching the death of Alex. McCurdy, which was opened last night. It would appear that the man, O'Neil, now in custody, was the "director of ceremonies," and leader in the enterprise. It was O'Neil, according to the evidence of Bierns, the hotel proprietor, who had assumed the leadership in all the directions given to him, and the threats made upon his life in case of failure to carry out his instructions.

O'Neil was referred to as the "short man," and it was he who after the shooting, held a revolver to Bierns' head and placing his left hand on his shoulder, ordered him to proceed to his automobile and drive the two murderers away. The inquest was adjourned until tonight.

FUND IS OVERSUBSCRIBED.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 16.—The million-dollar building fund campaign of Duquesne University of Pittsburg has been oversubscribed, according to official announcement made here today. The campaign started November 6.

PROVINCES TO REMAIN WET UNTIL AFTER THE NEW YEAR

Dominion Government Is Not Officially Notified of Vote Yet.

RETURNS STILL COMING

Question of "Vendors" Must Be Settled by Justice Department.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—From present indications Christmas and New Year's in the four provinces which recently voted against the importation of liquor will be "wet" days still. The vote in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Nova Scotia was taken on October 25, and was emphatically in favor of drought. But so far the Government here has not even been officially notified that there was a vote, and will take no action until it is notified. After that it is discretionary on its part as to when the law shall become effective. The act provides that proclamation shall not be issued within less than sixty days of polling, and that the law shall become effective thirty days after the proclamation is issued.

The returns are still coming in to the chief election officer, Col. Biggar. They are coming slowly, and will not be gazetted until the totals for each province have been received. Then and only then will the Government take action in the matter. In the meantime there is some legal controversy regarding the existence of licensed vendors. If such vendors are deemed to be "licensed" within the meaning of the act, no province in which they exist can go dry until such licenses expire. There will have to be some conferring with the provinces on the subject.

SETTLEMENT OF ADRIATIC ISSUE PLEASES THREE GREAT POWERS

D'Annunzio's Actions Are Not Causing Any Great Anxiety.

ITALY RATIFIES PACT

Italian Newspapers Express Different Opinions Regarding Agreement.

London, Nov. 16.—Great Britain, France and the United States have, through their ambassadors, expressed satisfaction with the settlement of the Adriatic question reached at Rapallo, Italy, last week, Premier Giolitti, of Italy, announced at a cabinet meeting yesterday, says a dispatch from the Stefani News Agency, a semi-official organ. The Italian premier's statement was made during his reply to congratulations to himself, Foreign Minister Sforza and Minister of War Bonomi from their colleagues. The three officials conducted the negotiations with the Jugo-Slav delegation at Rapallo.

Signor Giolitti is quoted as declaring the situation in the armistice zone around Fiume gave no cause for anxiety. He said that although he did not understand what was meant by a strategic frontier for such a small state as Fiume, her liberty and independence were safeguarded, as under the treaty any violation by the Jugo-Slavs would be tantamount to a declaration of war on Italy.

The cabinet approved a bill ratifying the treaty and annexing the new territory which goes to Italy by virtue of the provisions of the convention.

NEWSPAPERS DISAGREE.

Rome, Italy, Nov. 16.—Italian newspapers, with the exception of Nationalist organs, continue to approve the treaty of Rapollo and to urge the people to show patriotism and discipline in supporting the Government in this grave moment. They declare the people should assume this attitude despite the renunciations which were inevitable in order to reach a compromise with the Jugo-Slavs.

The Idea Nazionale, a Nationalist journal, bitterly attacks the treaty, calling the ministers who negotiated it, "traitors," for having sacrificed Dalmatia. A protest against the treaty signed by Dalmatians, including two newly-appointed senators from that district has caused considerable interest.

COUNCIL APPROVES OF PUTTING L. AND P. S. CLAUSE IN BILL

Two Aldermen Object, But Later Vote For It—Ald. W. A. Wilson Opposes Springbank Dam Bylaw—Want Health Board Elected.

Unanimous approval was given by the city council last night to the placing of a clause in the London bill to authorize $257,000 debentures for the London and Port Stanley Railway. Some objection was voiced by Ald. C. G. Moorhead and Ald. Ashton, but after discussion they voted for the proposal.

Ald. Moorhead questioned whether such an item could be included in the bill. He believed that if the matter were properly explained and submitted to the people they would approve it. Mayor Little said it was quite legal to include it in the London bill, but that it rested with the Legislature whether it was passed or not. He was as much opposed to unnecessary expenditure as any one, but it would be necessary to reballast the road next year, and there was not proper equipment for doing this. The chief thing needed was a locomotive and most of the expenditure was accounted for by that. As the council's representative on the railway commission, he believed that they had a good cause for the expenditure. He believed it was a mistake to submit too many bylaws, because they would be defeated for no valid reason, as was done last election. Ald. Ashton contended that the people owned the road and should control the expenditures. It seemed to him the commission was afraid to put the matter to the people. He believed in letting them vote. If they were not interested enough in it to keep it up then he advised letting it go.

Neither Are Burden.

Ald. Bridge said that if this expenditure was referred to the people, those of the public utilities commission must also be referred. Neither was a direct burden on the taxpayer, he pointed out, as both concerns were revenue-producing. He therefore saw no objection to authorizing the expenditures through the London bill. Ald. Seabrook pointed out that the freight traffic had doubled and provision must be made for it.

Mayor Little said he had been widely advertised as an opponent of electrification and of the railway commission. He could not therefore be accused of having an axe to grind in supporting the expenditure.

He believed that the council must take the responsibility of the expenditure, as no progress would ever be made by following the procedure of last year, when a number of bylaws were submitted and defeated, because there were so many of them.

"We are here to do the business of the city, and it is up to us to do it," he said. "The Legislature, which is only elected every four years, doesn't take a referendum on every expenditure it proposes to make. They didn't even take it when they inaugurated a new road policy. I believe that any new project of general interest should be submitted to a vote, but that on other matters it is up to the council. The people are not opposed to these expenditures, but they don't all take the trouble to express their approval by voting, so that we don't get a real expression of opinion. If there is opposition to this clause it can be expressed in the election of aldermen who are opposed to it. The Legislature will not pass any measure for London which is not approved by next year's council."

Others Carry.

Approval was given to all the other clauses recommended for the London bill by No. 1 committee and also to the bylaws which they recommended, submitting to the people.

Ald. W. A. Wilson said he was opposed to the bylaw to issue $200,000 debentures for a Springbank dam and river improvement. He believed West London would be in danger of a flood through the erection of a dam. Ald. Ashton warmly approved the bylaw. The present condition of the river was offensive and a disgrace to the city. He thought there would be no danger to West London if locks were built in the centre of the dam. Ald. Bridge said the people should be given an opportunity to vote on it, and that many of them would campaign in support of it.

Tightening of rods on the Ridout street bridge was ordered, subject to No. 2 committee finding funds for the purpose.

Ald. Drake, seconded by Ald. W. A. Wilson, was not successful in trying to introduce a motion, whereby the council would inform the board of education that it would approve no debenture issue for high school purposes unless it was submitted to the people.

The Legislature will be petitioned to amend the health act to permit the election of members of the board of health by a general vote instead of having them appointed by the council as at present.

No action was taken on a motion by Ald. W. A. Wilson and G. B. Drake to have information regarding the rental of buildings placed on the assessment rolls. Mayor Little said this would be considered with general assessment matters.

By a vote of six to three a motion was carried to petition the Dominion Government to increase the representation of the city in the Dominion Parliament to two members.

ACTION BROUGHT UP BY MITGIS IS DISMISSED

Chief Justice R. M. Meredith in the non-jury fall sessions of the supreme court yesterday afternoon dismissed the action of William Mitgis against George Strathopoulis, and intimated that there were grounds on which to institute charges of perjury against Mitgis and his brother Stephen.

In the action Mitgis asked for an accounting of a partnership, which he claimed existed between him and his uncle, George Strathopoulis. Evidence of the defence was to the effect that Mitgis, after the death of his brother Peter Mitgis, had waived any claims to partnership on being appointed manager of the shoe-shine parlor over which the action arose, at a salary of $65 a month. Mitgis claimed that if he signed any papers waiving his claim to his brother's estate, he did not understand what he was doing.

CITY COUNCIL WAS QUITE "IN THE DARK" AT MONDAY SESSION

Weighty Questions Discussed Midst Inky Gloom of the Council Chambers.

Quite frequently the city council is accused of being "in the dark" about the weighty questions with which it deals. Last night it was literally true. A fuse burned just as Ald. Cunningham, chairman of No. 1 committee, was introducing a recommendation to authorize a debenture issue for the L. and P. S. R., and the council chamber was plunged in gloom.

This didn't phase the city fathers a bit, for they kept right on with the discussion. As the dulcet tones of each individual were fairly well known to Mayor Little, who was presiding, there was no difficulty in keeping order and preventing anybody from speaking out of their turn. The only persons in difficulty were the city clerk and the reporters. In order to transcribe the words of wisdom to paper they had to use up their whole supply of matches.

Fortunately these held out until three oil lamps were rummaged out of a remote part of the building. One of these was furnished to the city clerk. The two others were placed at the elbows of the committee chairmen in order that they might read their reports.

Just a few minutes before closing time, the damage to the electrical system was repaired, and the proceedings finished in a blaze of glory and hydro.

LONDON COUNCIL VOTES TO OPPOSE THE B. N. A. ACT

Wants More Local Representation in Dominion House.

Just how slightly many prominent citizens are acquainted with some of the basic statutes of the country was indicated last night when six members of the city council voted to increase London's representation in the Dominion Parliament from one to two members.

Such a change would entail a fundamental change in the British North America act, because the representation of each province is fixed by that document. Quebec is represented by 65 members, and each of the other provinces has representation in accordance as their population compares with that of Quebec. If Ontario's representation is to be increased by the addition of one member then that of Quebec also would have to be increased, as well as the other provinces. The only way another member for London can be obtained is by decreasing the representation in some other riding or by having a sufficient increase in population here to warrant it.

Unanimous approval of redistribution could be obtained in the city council, it is thought. Three members of it voted against "increased representation" because they knew it was impossible. But redistribution of the representation throughout the province is another story, they agree. A movement to obtain this along with revised representation in the Provincial Legislature may be started here.

GET PURSE OF GOLD FROM LADIES' AID

Evangelist and Wife Both Receive Presents in Recognition of Faithful Service.

Evangelist T. L. and Mrs. Belcher were happily surprised on Monday evening at a banquet given by the Ladies' Aid of the York Street Mission, when they were each presented with a purse containing $50. With the two purses, which were presented by Mrs. Clara Collins and Mrs. Nellie Spence, an address was given, read by Mrs. C. Hier, secretary of the Ladies' Aid of the mission. Mrs. H. Healey, the president, in a short speech, told Mr. and Mrs. Belcher how delighted the society was to be able to make the presentation. Mr. and Mrs. Belcher both thanked the ladies heartily for this token and expressed the hope that they would be able to give many more years of service to the York Street Mission. Rev. S. Drew and Rev. R. G. Peever made impromptu speeches.

The banquet table was prettily set in the ladies' parlor at the rear of the mission. Huge clusters of pale yellow chrysanthemums and little baskets of red roses were attractively arranged down the whole length of the table. Mr. and Mrs. Belcher left the mission last night amid showers of congratulations on the work which they had done in York Street Mission during the past 24 years.

LIGHTS IN WINDOWS PROHIBITED UNTIL 6:30

Although London has secured 1,500 additional horsepower it has still been found necessary to prohibit the use of lights in store windows from dusk until 6:30, E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utilities commission, explained that here is such a demand for factory, commercial, domestic and street use at this time of the day, that the issuing of the order was a necessity.

DELINQUENTS ARE NOW PAYING UP INCOME TAXES

Saving Heavy Penalty Involved in Exchequer Court Proceedings.

"The service of the informations for arrears of the 1918 income tax is being carried out, and in the large majority of cases the delinquents are paying the amounts due to me, thereby saving the heavy penalties which would accrue if they allowed their case to go to the exchequer court," said G. R. Tambling, inspector of taxation in the London district, to The Advertiser today.

Answering a question, Mr. Tambling pointed out that failure on the part of a man subject to income tax to pay, and his allowing the matter to stand in arrears till it reaches the exchequer court means that, with the accrued interest, service and court costs, he has to pay approximately $25 for every $1 of the original tax.

Speaking of the payment of the 1919 taxes, Mr. Tambling said: "There is no complaint to make, the payments are coming in well." Asked what time allowance is made to a taxpayer from the date of the approval of his assessment, as fixed upon the report of his income made to the department, Mr. Tambling stated that "one month is allowed from the date of the mailing of the assessment. If a man allows his payment to pass that date he is subject to an addition of 5 per cent interest for the first month of arrears and thereafter an additional 1 per cent per month, or a total, with accrued interest, of 16 per cent if he allows it to go unpaid for twelve months.

Regarding the costs of service of informations on a delinquent taxpayer, Mr. Tambling pointed out that in cases where the taxpayer lived in a small town or village the service would be made through the sheriff of the county from the county town and would probably mean an extra $5 or more dollars to the amount called for in the information, but where the delinquent resides in the city and personal service is possible the costs might reach only 50 cents.

TALKS TO MANY OVER RADIO PHONE

Radio telephoning which has just come into prominence, especially in European countries where many successful experiments have been recently made, will undoubtedly in time be used far more extensively, and at a lesser cost than the wireless spark system.

Already many amateurs have little stations in operation, all of which tend to incite interest in this new work. The hobby is so firmly established that a relay club has been inaugurated, where owners of sets and members of the club may send a message free, any distance. The message is sent to the nearest operator, who then relays it to the next, and so on, until the message reaches its destination.

Ronald Gurd, son of Walter Gurd, 187 Elmwood avenue, has both a spark system and the radio telephone in operation. The telephone is capable of receiving messages for more than 600 miles, and he has had conversation with the operators on two American boats, the Ontario and the Gloucester, just off Atlanta City.

He has also had conversation with operators at Florida. He expects to build a stronger set so as to receive sounds of music more distinct. Mr. Gurd states that his conversation to Atlanta City was as distinct as any held over a city telephone.

TRUST TO CONSIDER PETITION MONDAY

Conference of Nurses With House Committee Results in This Promise.

Two members of the hospital trust, composing a house committee, met nine delates from the nurses' organization at Victoria Hospital last night, and after discussing the petition for better working conditions, promised due consideration of the matter. The question will be referred to the hospital trust, which, it is expected, will be called into session on Monday, November 22. The conference last night was an agreeable one, during which every clause of the petition was explained fully.

PROBLEM OF LABOR SOLVED FOR FARMER

Middlesex Residents Arranging to Accommodate British Immigrants Who Saw Service.

Quite a number of Middlesex County farmers are taking advantage of the British Government's standing offer to pay the travelling expenses of any British ex-soldier to Canada who is ready to engage in agriculture. Farmers having housing accommodation to offer their farm help are in this way solving the farm labor problem. A lot of red tape, however, has hitherto been involved, but judging from a letter received today by S. F. Glass, M. P., prompter handling of such matters is likely to be the rule hereafter.

A London Township farmer was in communication with a British ex-service man who was an experienced farmer, but who wished to bring his wife and four children with him. The department of immigration, it appears, has cabled its representatives overseas to provide transportation for the whole family, all the members of which will assist the farmer, with the exception of one child. Two sons and a daughter are of adult age.

$400 IN LESS THAN FIFTEEN MINUTES

Police Court Mill Grinds Out Cash Payments in Record Time.

Less than fifteen minutes brought $400 into the local police court cash register this morning, when two men were fined $200 each for having liquor in a place other than a private residence, contrary to Section 41 of the O. T. A.

William Todd of this city pleaded guilty when he was charged with having a bottle of liquor in his possession when he was arrested by Constable Dawson at Talbot and King streets, Monday night. A Florida water bottle, partly filled with whiskey, was produced in court as evidence.

He told the magistrate that the liquor was given him by a friend who had obtained it from a vendor. The friend presented him with the whiskey just before he left for the bush.

The police proved their case against a local citizen, who claimed that a bottle which he was carrying when arrested on Thursday night last, contained cider. This morning he was fined $200 for carrying intoxicating liquors.

When the supposed cider was analyzed at the Institute of Public Health it was found to contain $0.22 per cent proof spirits by measure. The magistrate thought that it must have been exceedingly strong cider. He refused to allow the prisoner's counsel to change the defence.

COUNCIL WILL TAKE NO OFFICIAL ACTION ON COLLEGIATE ISSUE

But Two Members Vote To Interfere With Board of Education.

Although they decided to take no official part in the controversy as to whether London needs thre high schools or one, aldermen last night showed that they were keenly interested in the matter. Ald. C. B. Drake and Ald. W. A. Wilson came out strongly for one central school. They wanted the council to refuse to pass any debenture issue for high school purposes unless it was first submitted to the people. They were confident that if this was done the citizens would decide for one school. The 1921 council would be asked to take similar action, they said.

Ald. E. R. Seabrook objected that a high school for South London had already been approved by the council and debentures authorized to finance the building of it. There was no reason for changing this, he contended. The board of education had no intention of asking the present council for a debenture issue, and there was therefore no need for the council to deal with it.

Ald. Cunningham said it was another question in which the council was trying to interfere with technical experts. All the government's highly-trained inspectors had recommended that three schools be built, and had pointed out that Ottawa made a serious mistake in erecting one large central school. His first impression on hearing of the proposal to build further north was that Sir Adam Beck wanted to sell his property. He found that Sir Adam could obtain $85,000 for it, but was willing to sell it for $75,000 provided it was used for school purposes.

The mover and seconder of the motion were the only ones who voted for it.

SUFFERING ARMENIANS

Miss Blanche Mills Gives Vivid Address to W. M. S., Askin St. Church.

At a meeting of the Askin Street Methodist Church W. M. S., Miss Blanche Mills, recently returned from Armenia, where she was in the service of the Hoover mission, gave an intensely interesting and vivid account of the sufferings of the Armenians.

She outlined the atrocities of the Turks. Her stories of feeding little children with bread, who resembled mummies more than young humanity, were heartrending. She told a story of having seen a number of children in a courtyard at Tiflis who had arrived during the night. She supposed that they had traveled sleeping on mattresses, but was horrified to learn that many of them had nestled to sleep on the dead bodies of their parents.

Miss Mills's address to the ladies of Askin Street Church made a profound impression.

LUCAN ANGLICANS HOLD ANNIVERSARY

Concert On Monday Evening Adds to Pleasure of Event.

Lucan, Nov. 16.—Anniversary services of the Holy Trinity Church, held here Sunday, were conducted by Rev. A. A. Bice of All Saints' Church, London. In connection with the anniversary of the church, a fowl supper and concert were given on Monday evening. The concert was given by the Centennial Methodist Church choir, London. The choir's musical comedy play, "Trial by Jury," was witnessed by an overcrowded house. The first part of the evening's program in the opera house was given by members of the choir, and each one was encored several times. A feature was a violin solo by Mr. F. Short. Stanley Chadwick won great applause with his singing. Miss Edna Lancaster was repeatedly encored for her readings. In the play, Stanley Chadwick took the part of the judge and deserves special mention for his acting. Freddie Short, as the defendant, was exceedingly good, while Miss Myrtle Rouson, as the bride, who was suing her fiance for breach of promise, was also good. Bob Patterson, as the dignified court usher, kept the audience in an uproar. A Tutor, as the plaintiff's lawyer, may be termed as being "cut out for the part."

At the close of the concert the members of the choir went to the church, where a supper was served.

CATS! CATS! CATS!

Cats, cats, cats, 27 of them by actual count, black and white ones and some striped, some healthy, but most of them mangy, all of them so wild that they flee like mad when one approaches, infest the courtyard of the old Queen's Hotel, located on Carling street right in the business heart of the city.

They haunt the piles of old lumber which have been left in the yard. They skulk about as if they are afraid of the light. Where they have come from no one seems to know. It is thought that they are the grandchildren and great-grandchildren of ancestors who used to warm themselves on the hearth of the now abandoned hotel in its palmy days.

To clean up on this feline clan is the task which has been given to George Tustin, humane inspector. He is not allowed to shoot them nor would the law allow him to trap them, so he has devised a wooden box with a trapdoor. The cats crowded themselves into the box to get the food the first time he baited it, but it proved too small.

He is now building a box which he believes will be large enough to provide accommodation for 27 cats, rent free.

BAND CONTESTS AN ADMIRABLE IDEA, SAYS W. A. JENKINS

Promises to Give Proposal His Support If Properly Organized.

CENTRALIZE INTEREST

E. V. Buchanan Offers Assistance in Bringing About Initial Conference.

Discussing the proposals to organize band concerts throughout Western Ontario with the finals in London during Western Fair week briefly with The Advertiser this morning, W. A. Jenkins of the W. A. Jenkins Manufacturing Company, said: "I think the idea is an admirable one, and I should be quite willing to join other businessmen of the city in promoting the scheme by making a substantial donation to the organizing expenses."

"My original idea as expressed to F. L. Willgoose of the London Conservatory of Music was the bringing to this city of some big bands, such as the British Guards or Lancers bands, to give public concerts in the parks, so that everybody could have an opportunity of enjoying the best music obtainable rather than such music should be confined to the comparative few who could crowd into a building. I am ready to support such a scheme, but if this other suggestion is properly supported I am quite willing to do what I can to assist it.

"The proposed competition of the many bands of Western Ontario, civil and military, in classes according to the standard of the band, can only have the effect of decidedly improving the general standard of music and the consequent uplift of the communities concerned. The idea is an admirable one, and I hope to see some organization, the fair board, the parks board, or say the Chamber of Commerce, take hold of the proposal and carry it through to the success that I feel confident would result under proper management."

Referring to the evident interest that has been aroused in musical circles in the proposed band contests throughout Western Ontario, E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utilities commission, which includes the parks board, today told The Advertiser that "in order to centralize the interest with a view to bringing the idea to a definite conclusion," he would be quite willing for those who are really interested to get in touch with him, and that he would willingly give all possible assistance he could to organizing an initial conference on the matter.

ACTION FOR $5,000

Entered in Supreme Court by Edwin Hawkins for Alleged Negligence by John Ideson in Operating Mowing Machine.

Action for $5,000 damages for personal injuries has been instituted in the supreme court by Edwin Hawkins, on behalf of his little son, Edwin Hawkins, jun., the defendant named being John Ideson, a farmer in London Township, whose alleged negligence in the operation of a field mower was, according to the statement of claim of the plaintiffs, responsible for the accident.

The accident over which the action has arisen occurred last midsummer on a farm north of Broughdale, when the Hawkins child had one foot severed by the teeth of the mower knife.

J. M. Donahue is solicitor for the plaintiffs.

After having been stationed in this city for nearly a year, the P. P. C. L. I. left this afternoon for Winnipeg at 3 o'clock. Full military honors were given the "Pats" at the station, when Gen. Panet, G. O. C., and His Worship Mayor Little and other officers bid farewell to them.

During their stay here, many new men have been added to the battalion. During the summer they took an active part in sport. A baseball team was entered in the Manufacturers' League, as was a team in the City Soccer League. The band, which was considered the best in the city, was practically organized since its arrival. Led by their band, they left the barracks at 2 o'clock and proceeded south on Adelaide to Queen's avenue, to Waterloo street, south on Waterlo street to King street to Clarence, thence to the station.

ROTARY LADIES' NIGHT. — The executive of the London Rotary Club have announced Tuesday, December 7, as Rotary ladies' night." Last year's "ladies' night" was one of the most successful ever held by the London Rotary Club. The fun was fast and furious, and the entertainment provided by the London Rotarians to their wives and sweethearts excelled anything of the kind ever given in London. The executive committee, which has the present year's arrangement in hand, will endeavor to surpass last year's entertainment. It will be held, as usual, at the Tecumseh House.

R. C. HENDERS BOOSTS UNION GOVERNMENT

Winnipeg, Nov. 16.—Speaking at the Premier Meighen meeting last night, R. C. Henders, M. P., ex-president of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, defended briefly his course in supporting the Union Government. The Government, he claimed, had carried out its pledges, and he approved of the present tariff commission as a means of building up a sound fiscal policy. The Government's platform was sound, progressive and well thought out, calculated, he believed, to place the burden of taxation most heavily on those best able to pay. "I indorse," he said, "the work of the Government to this hour and if they carry out their platform along lines marked out, they shall continue to receive my support."

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—Sentiment improved among traders on the stock exchange today, following the cessation of the feverish liquidation that has sent market leaders in Canada and the United States toppling down to new low records. The firmer tendency which developed yesterday aternoon assumed wider proportions this morning, and in active trading practically all stocks on the local list had made partial recoveries.

CITY SOLICITOR TO APPEAR FOR CITY IN TOZER LEGAL AFFAIR

Matter Not Likely To Come Before City Council.

City Solicitor T. G. Meredith has been instructed to appear for the city in the action which Thomas Tozer is taking in connection with his dismissal from the fire department. Mr. Tozer was formerly a lieutenant in the brigade. He was promoted to captain. This led to considerable controversy, which finally led to Captain Tozer being dismissed by Chief Aitken.

He is now suing C. R. Somerville, who was mayor at that time; Ald. Harley, who was then chairman of No. 1 committee; union officials and Trades and Labor Council officers. With the consent of the council, Mayor Little has instructed Mr. Meredith to look after the city interests. The matter, therefore, likely will be confined entirely to legal circles, and is not likely to be discussed by any civic bodies.

The royal commission of the Province of Ontario, appointed to investigate university finances with reference to the three larger universities of the province, Toronto, Queen's and Western, will visit London on Thursday, when inquiry will be made into the Western University situation.

According to notices received here from J. F. Uffen, secretary, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, the royal commission investigating university finances invites representations from educational, industrial, scientific and other public bodies on the subject of the investigation in which it is engaged.

Among other matters, the commission is empowered to inquire into and report upon a basis for determining the financial obligations of the province towards the University of Toronto, and the financial aid which the province may give to Queen's University of Kingston and the Western University of London.

Arrangements will be made for receiving deputations in connection with the presentation of such statements.

RED TRIANGLE NOTES

A meeting of the membership committee of the Y. M. C. A. was held today at noon. Plans for the winter were drawn up and discussed.

Five boys turned out for orchestra practice Monday evening. R. E. Crouch, the organizer of the orchestra, stated that he thought the "Y" would experience no difficulty whatever in securing at least three more boys.

The cage ball for the winter picnics is on its way to the "Y," Industrial Secretary R. P. Liddle announced this morning. He said that this will be the first time the game has been played in London, and he thought all factories would take an active part in encouraging this game.

The Lambs beat the Kittens in the 'Hit and Miss' Basketball League Monday evening at the "Y." The score was 21 to 8.

The Colts plays the Pups in the volley ball league next Thursday evening.

Two games are scheduled for the city league basketball at the "Y" next Thursday. In the first game the Leafs and the Tigers will play, and the second will be between the Skeeters and the Pirates.

KNOLLWOOD PARK CHURCH

William Smith Will Have Charge of Presbyterian Mission Till April.

William Smith, student missionary, has been appointed by the home mission committee of the London Presbytery to carry on the work in the Knollwood Park Mission.

Knollwood Park pastorate has been vacant since the resignation of Rev. F. Hirst, who resigned some time ago. Mr. Smith will have charge of the church until next April.

GOLD MINING INDUSTRY IN ALASKA AFFECTED BY CALL TO COLORS

Denver, Col., Nov. 16.—The rush of Canadian and old country miners from Alaska and the Yukon to answer the call of the colors during the war, coupled with the high wartime wages in Canada and the United States which attracted thousands of miners from the north have crippled the gold mining industry of Alaska, Dr. Milner Roberts, dean of the College of Mines, University of Washington, at Seattle, told delegates to the 23rd annual convention of the American Mining Congress here today. In 1915, Alaska produced $16,702,782 in gold, and in 1919, the output, Dr. Roberts declared fell to $9,000,000 with indications that the production this year will fall below that figure.

Dr. Roberts said that high costs of operation "have not only lessened actual mining, but have discouraged prospecting for new ground and development of finds already made."

Gold mine owners and operators are in attendance at the congress. Revision of all existing tax laws pertaining to mining is being discussed, as is also a movement to standardize all materials and methods of the industry.

OPERATORS AND MINERS AGAIN IN CONFERENCE

Philadelphia, Nov. 16.—Representatives of the hard coal miners and operators resumed their conference here today in another effort to reach a settlement of their wage dispute.

When the conference adjourned on November 6 it virtually was deadlocked.

Should this virtual deadlock not be broken today, miners' representatives said their committee probably would appeal to President Wilson to make a ruling in order that wage negotiations may proceed.

Among the men's demands are increases equal to the 27 per cent granted the bituminous coal miners, a $6 minimum day rate, a universay eight-hour day, and adjustment of alleged inequalities in the present agreement.

VICTIM OF MOTOR ACCIDENT.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 16.—Mrs. Muriel M. Morris, aged 20, is dead, and Clarence Shortt, a chauffeur, is in jail, awaiting examination, as the result of an automobile accident in Dartmouth. Mrs. Morris was near her home, when the car driven by Shortt dashed up on the sidewalk and struck her down.

BANDIT IS CAPTURED.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 16.—"Sailor" Malone, the man who pulled off the hold-up of an Imperial Oil Company employee here Saturday, and got away in a stolen automobile with cash and checks to the value of $20,000, has been caught, according to police statements.

Y. M. C. A. AUDITORIUM MAY BE TURNED INTO A GYMNASIUM

Addition to Building Will Also Be Discussed at Important Meeting of Board of Directors Tonight.

Y. M. C. A. directors tonight may decide to turn the auditorium of the "Y" building on Wellington street into a gymnasium. Membership rolls have nearly doubled during fall and winter months and present gymnasium accommodation is overtaxed. The use of the auditorium to increase the gymnasium space was discussed at the last meeting of the directors, but definite action was deferred. A decision to make the change may also mean an addition to the building.

E. J. Jenkins, general secretary, is convinced that the alterations are necessary. He pointed out to The Advertiser today that in eight sessions this year the gymnasium had been used by 3,199 boys, compared to 1,263 last year. The total average attendance for this year was 400, while last year it was only 250. Mr. Jenkins believes there will be further increases.

Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown has been appointed to the National Council of Y. M. C. A.'s in Canada as one of the representatives of the local branch. W. R. Yendall is the other representative.

TWO HUNDRED DELEGATES ATTEND MISSIONARY CONVENTION HERE

Wellington Street Methodist Church the Scene of Large Gathering of Women—Mrs. W. E. Pescott and Mrs. B. Childs Speakers at Afternoon Session.

The Methodist District Women's Missionary Society opened in convention this afternoon in the Wellington Street Methodist Church, with over two hundred delegates present from all parts of Western Ontario.

Routine business occupied the greater part of the afternoon. Mrs. W. E. Pescott and Mrs. B. Childs, both of this city, were the speakers.

This evening Miss Ellen Ferguson, a missionary in the Canadian Northwest, will appear in a Russian costume, and give an address on her work in the west. Mrs. Gordon Wright will also give a missionary address. Special music will be given by the Wellington Street Church choir and the Mission Band will give exercises.

SOLDIER AND LABOR FORCES IN GENERAL MEETING ON FRIDAY

Municipal Matters Up For Discussion—May Run Candidates.

Plans for the co-operation of soldier and labor forces at the coming municipal election will be made Friday night following the regular meeting of the Grand Army of United Veterans. The Labor Representation Committee, the Army and Navy Veterans will each send four delegates.

They will discuss policies to be supported by the combined groups, and also the advisability of running candidates for all the offices. Last year a similar plan was adopted. No actual connection was formed between the two bodies, but nominees for all civic offices were either members of labor bodies or of the soldier organizations. The support of both groups was pledged to each of these.

ST. MARYS RESIDENT IS SUING QUARRY CO.

Action in Non-Jury Assizes Is Concluded This Afternoon.

The morning sessions of the fall non-jury assizes of the Supreme court, before Chief Justice Meredith, were occupied with the action of A. Fuller of St. Marys against the Thames Quarry Company. Mr. Fuller's action was to restrain the defendant company from continuing blasting operations on adjacent lands as a result of which, he claimed, stones fell on his premises endangering the lives of his family.

One day a large piece of rock fell close to the veranda, he testified, and another day a heavy piece of stone struck and knocked some boards from the wall surrounding his fox kennel.

The action will be concluded this afternoon. A. E. Parkinson appeared for the plaintiff and J. M McEvoy and J. W. Graham for the defendant company.

EXCELLENT CONCERT

Put On at Granton by Dundas Centre Methodist Church Choir.

A jolly crowd of musicians and friends of Dundas Centre choir to the number of about 75 motored out to Granton Methodist Church last evening and put on one of their high-class concerts, under the direction of J. Parnell Morris, organist. The edifice was filled to capacity. Rev. Selby Jefferson, the pastor, occupied the chair, and welcomed the performers.

The program included solos by Miss Anna Cochrill, Mr. E. N. Harding, Miss Lulu Somerville, Walter Chalcraft, Miss Corbin; duet, Miss Cochrill and Mr. Chalcraft; trio, Miss Cochrill, Mr. J. P. Morris and Mr. Harding; quartet by the Arion Boys; piano solo, Miss Pearl Godwin. The artistic interpretations by the choir of their several numbers were carried out in a highly creditable manner, especially noticeable being the unaccompanied number, "By the Waters of Babylon."

The ladies of the church provided a lavish spread of good things for the city visitors, which were partaken of at the conclusion of the concert. The thanks of the choir were extended to the hostesses by Mr. A. R. C. Hourd and Mr. George F. Copeland, and responded to by Rev. Mr. Jefferson on behalf of the ladies. Interspersed at the banquet were a couple of popular "rounds," under the baton of Mr. Copeland, which provoked much merriment, and the characteristic recitation by Mr. Morris, who paled the endman of a minstrel show, brought to a close a very happy outing.

A little cause for suspicion was aroused early in the evening, when the pastor made reference in his remarks to a couple of "suspicious-looking characters" that had entered the church and had taken up their quarters in the basement, where the "eats" were kept. On investigation by the officials later on it was learned that the "crooks" were only kindly-disposed chauffeurs, who had loaned their cars for service of the choir members, and were seeking solid composure alongside the cosy furnace fire, unmindful of the "goodies" spread about them.

CHARGE IS DISMISSED.

Paw Paw, Mich., Nov. 16.—The charge of manslaughter against Mrs. Sarah Taber, 82 years old, who was accused of causing the death of her daughter, Maude Taber Virgo, has been dismissed.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

New York, Nov. 16—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Sentiment was decidedly more cheerful at the opening of today's stock market, this condition being manifested not only by higher prices, but by the strength of foreign exchange as well. The money market also gave promise of greater ease, especially for demand loans. Early gains ranged from 1 to 1½ points in Reading, Mexican Petroleum, Baldwin Locomotive and United States Rubber. Other leaders trailed along at substantial fractional advances. The few exceptions included Bethlehem Steel and several of the obscure specialties.

SCIENCE TO AID WAR ON CRIME

Modern Methods Must Be Used in Sleuth Work, Detectives Say.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Driven by the wave of crime that has been sweeping over the United States since the close of the world war, the police authorities of city, state and nation are invoking the aid of science and invention in the fight against hold-up men, bomb-throwers and murderers.

William J. Flynn, present chief of the secret police of the United States, is facing a problem, compared with which the fabled labors of Hercules were simply part of the day's work.

In the course of his never-ending investigations, Flynn has found it necessary to employ the most modern of police methods. He has experts of all kinds on his staff, and this, with his own experience, makes possible what would otherwise be beyond the reach of human ingenuity. His net has been spread from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and only a few months ago, when it was hauled in it brought with it at least a dozen men who were charged with half the crimes in the calendar.

Unsolved Mystery.

At the time the attempt was made to assassinate Attorney-General Palmer, Flynn and his assistants had nothing to work upon except the fragments of the remains of the terrorist. By piecing things together the detectives came to the conclusion that the would-be assassin answered the following description:

He was a slender, swarthy man, with dark hair.

He is thought to be a Philadelphian.

He wore a black suit with green stripes.

His shirt was white, with green and yellow stripes and of poor quality.

Underclothing was of winter weight.

Socks were of tan lisle.

He carried two pistols.

Wore a steel grey soft hat, size 7½, bearing the name of De Luca Bros. of Philadelphia.

Wore a collar of widely-advertised brand, with a laundry mark that may aid in identification.

Had many papers in pockets, which were blown to pieces.

Among these papers was an Italian-English dictionary and two volumes of radical literature.

This man has never been discovered, but from the description thus presented there are possibilities never dreamed of in the philosophy of Sherlock Holmes.

Smuggling By Aeroplane.

Two other phases of the prevalent wave of crime concern the smugglers and the violators of the Volstead act. In the old days the business of cheating the Government of its customs duties, while often complicated and unique, was never so daring as it is at the present time.

The accomplished smugglers of today have pressed flying machines into their service, and the customs officials are almost distracted by the smuggling that is going on between this country and Mexico by means of aeroplanes. The boundary lines are so large that it is practically impossible to picket them effectively. But if aeroplanes are not utilized into the bargain the idea of collecting any duties will have to be abandoned.

Crime Sweeps Cities.

Turning from smuggling and violation of the Volstead the growth of crime in large cities of the United States is so bad that it is disturbing the authorities. Drunkenness may or may not be so prevalent, but the more alarming kind of crime grows worse all the time. Automobile bandits seem to be able to operate at will in most of the large cities. Readers of the newspapers are becoming familiar with stories of hold-ups in the heart of the cities. Jewelry stores have been entered and robbed in broad daylight. Burglars have broken into stores within a half block of the city hall and safes blown open and rifled. The managers of chain grocery stores have been held up at the point of a pistol, the money drawers emptied, followed by the escape of the robbers in swift automobiles.

In New York City crime has become so systematized that the police have found it necessary to specialize if they hope to match their wits against the lawbreakers. They have a bomb squad there, with an expert whose duty it is to look after infernal machines. Whenever one of these death-dealing instruments is found it is the duty of this expert to open it. The finger print bureau is older, and deals with all types of crime. In the hunt for anarchists and undesirables the members of the bomb squad and the finger print bureau work together to great advantage.

MANY POTATOES IN THE GROUND STILL

Farmers Around Embro Were Not Prepared For Sudden Coming of Winter.

EMBRO, Nov. 15.—The cold weather finds many of the farmers in this section unprepared and quite a large quantity of potatoes and vegetables have yet to be saved. It is feared that some of the produce will be a loss.

Mr. and Mrs. James Martin and daughter, Miss Josie Martin of Harrington have moved to their residence on Elgin street, recently purchased from D. Noble of Woodstock.

The Halloween tea from 4 till 9 o'clock under the auspices of the King's Daughters, which was held in Knox Church, was well attended. The program consisted of piano solos by Miss Wilds, Mrs. Lane, Mrs. W. W. Murray, Edna McCorquodale. Miss Maggie Smith, also a Halloween contest. The proceeds amounted to $28.

PURSE AND CLOCK FOR LONDON RECTOR

Congregation of St. John's at Brussels Honors Rev. Mr. Mess.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 15.—Rev. Mr. Mess, rector of St. John's Church here, who is moving to London to take over the pastorate of St. David's Church, was presented with a handsome mantel clock and a purse at a well-attended gathering. Following a brief address by Warden George Colvin, an address was read by Miss Ina Bryans, and the presentation made by Mr. Chapman. The address was signed by George Colvin and W. McCutcheon. Rev. Mr. Mess made a supitable reply.

Repairs have been temporarily made to the washout in the cement mill dam, and it is hoped they will last until the work can be completed next spring.

A car of live poultry was shipped to New York by R. Thomson recently.

A few cars of coal are coming, but many people are very short of fuel.

Several changes have taken place in business concerns here recently. W. Bell has moved his restaurant across the street to the Baeker block, and Jas. Anderson, V. S., has changed his office to the Stretton block.

Apartments are being let in the Queen's Hotel to relieve the shortage of houses.

The cold weather has caught some of the farmers with turnips and potatoes in the ground.

INSURE DIVIDENDS FOR STOCKHOLDERS OF GRAND TRUNK

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(Canadian Associated Press.)—Hon. Dr. J. D. Reid, Canadian minister of railways, told the Canadian Club here at a luncheon today that the proprietors of the Grand Trunk and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railways, through the Canadian Government taking over these systems, would have their investments absolutely safe for all time, and would never have to fear for their dividends or their principal.

The Canadian Government had been criticised for building in advance of requirements, but such building had hastened the development of the country.

Power Shortage

Businessmen, Attention!

London's increased hydro allotment relieves the shortage, but does not end it entirely.

Sufficient power is available for all purposes during the day, but the co-incident demand for hydro for factory operation and street, domestic and commercial lighting produces a high peak-load demand when darkness comes at evening.

Warns Board To Give Stricter Attention to Question of Quarantine

Truant Officer At St. Thomas Tells of Finding Children From Homes Where Contagion Existed Out On Streets — Medical Health Officer Will Take Action in Matter.

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 15.—The board of education was warned by Truant Officer R. J. Newton tonight that the medical officer of health should give stricter attention to the question of quarantine. Mr. Newton told the board that he has come across the children of several families on the streets, the members of which were supposed to be isolated on account of infectious diseases. The children in the families had been down with scarlet fever, measles and diphtheria.

One child whose sister was suffering from scarlet fever was shopping on Talbot street. The officer prevented her from getting far from home.

A boy whose people were down with measles was going to the public library.

"In view of these facts," said the truant officer, "I have found it necessary to report five more suspected cases in one week, some of whom the M. O. H. has since reported as suffering from infectious diseases, the truant officer is compelled to ask the board in advising the support of enforcing a more strict observance of the law."

A resolution by Trustees Coniey and Wright ordered that the appeal of the truant officer be sent to M. O. H. Dr. McKillop.

Deficit At End of Year.

The secretary reported that the board will be in debt on current expenses from $6,000 to $8,000 at the end of the year. The accounts passed to date on Elmdale school were $59,514. Items amounting to $70,000, including plastering, plumbing, furniture, etc., will have to be provided for.

Inspector's Report.

The monthly report of the public school inspector shows the registered attendance to have been 2,449, and average, 2,170. The non-resident fees collected was $28. The report of the school nurse mentions that she had found 38 having adenoids or enlarged tonsils, adenoid operations, 10, skin diseases 78, unclean 5, teeth attended to by dentist 17, not vaccinated 103, home visits made 86. Miss Ina M. Gilbert has resigned from the staff, Miss Eva Tuck, Ambross Arnold and Miss Gertrude Fowler having been filling vacant positions on the city staff at $4 a day. The inspector advised that a principal and staff should be selected for Elmdale school. Prior to this the board was directed by the inspector to determine what disposition is to be made of the two schools made vacant by the transfer of 91 pupils from Wellington to Elmdale.

May Use Building.

The Mothers' Club of Balaclava street school will be permitted to use the building for a ten-cent tea and food sale on December 3.

The request of the pupils of Balaclava street school to hold a poultry exhibit and domestic science demonstration was allowed.

The resignation of John N. Lannon, janitor, Scott street school, was accepted.

Backward Children.

The deputy minister of education wrote that the St. Thomas School Board has made applications to the department for a survey of their schools, with a view to establishing classes for backward children, and to inquire whether it will be possible for your organization to conduct this survey. In that case, replies the deputy minister, the inspector of auxiliary classes, Dr. Sinclair, will make arrangements with your official for this purpose.

A petition signed by 700 ratepayers appealed to the board to provide a new building for the Myrtle street district, and with it a note that the children's health may not be sacrified, and that they may be privileged to enjoy more comfort and accomplish the best results while attending school.

Makes Protest.

Trustee Mrs. McCully protested against a further postponement of so important a factor in the education of the little ones. "For the whole year," declared Mrs. McCully, "it has been all talk, and the people of the district who have been demanding these educational needs have been met with nothing more than talk. Mrs. McCully insisted upon some definite movement towards a solution of a serious matter in the lives of hundreds of little ones.

The request was sent to the internal management committee.

Deaths Only Twelve Per Thousand, According To Official Figures.

BRANTFORD, Nov. 15.—There were 34 deaths from influenza in the past year, said the report of M. O. H. Dr. Sutton, submitted here tonight, and eight from diphtheria. The death rate was 12 per 1,000, inclusive, and the infant mortality 90 per 1,000, the lowest ever known in this city. He again urged that milk be pasteurized or certified. During the year there were 24 cases of deaths from external injuries, including one suicide, an increase from 14 the previous year. There were few cases of typhoid. The report in general was accepted as very satisfactory.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS DEATH OF ACTRESSES

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Two young and pretty vaudeville actresses, Marie Alma Ramey and Lillian Thompson, both of New York, are lying dead today in the morgue, while police search for clues to their mysterious death early yesterday in Grant Park, within a few hundred feet of Michigan boulevard. The girls died under circumstances that indicate murder.

The two women left their apartment Saturday night and visited an Italian grocery a few blocks away, where they purchased olive oil, chestnuts and wine. Police were unable to find anyone who saw them between 9 p.m. Saturday, and 9 a.m. Sunday, when the bodies were found.

Miss Ramey, whose real names is said to be Mary Rhodes, was born in Altoona, Pa. She was married to Jim McCauley, an actor, five years ago. Miss Thompson married Joseph McAree, an electrician, in Wheeling, W. Va., September 19, 1919.

WHEN FOOD DOESN'T DIGEST

Give the Stomach a Rational Rest by Proper Aid, Not by Harsh Starvation Methods—Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

A sour stomach may indicate an acid condition that calls for an alkaline effect.

This you will get from one or two

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after a meal. Sour risings, gassiness, a heavy bloated feeling and such distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia are usually only temporary. And yet they may lead to serious disorder. The regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals reflects to a high degree the intelligent selection of preventative measures.

One cannot always select or inspect the quality of food to be eaten nor its method or manner of preparation. But it is possible to avoid the acidity that is so often the result. And it is a far better plan to eat without worry over what may happen, than to starve for fear it will happen. Many physicians recommend these tablets for stomach distress due to indigestion or dyspepsia.

They are sold by all druggists everywhere at 60 cents a box.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys If Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

MILLERS FORM DOMINION-WIDE ORGANIZATION

C. R. Hunt, of London Firm, Is Among Directors of New Body.

[Special To The Advertiser.]
(By Roy Carmichael.)

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.—As a direct result of the valuable experience gained through the operation of the Canadian millers' committee, which was created as an advisory board to the now demobilized Canadian Wheat Board, prominent representatives of the Canadian milling industry have laid the foundations for a permanent organization, which is to be nation-wide in its scope and usefulness, and will be known as the Canadian National Millers' Association.

Important Step.

The action of the millers represented on the former committee marks an important step in the advancement of the milling industry in Canada. It means that while every milling concern will be absolutely free and independent in the direction of its own affairs, the whole milling industry, comprising hundreds of individual milling enterprises, become crystallized into a homogeneous whole for the greater prosperity of the milling business.

Montreal Headquarters.

Although strong efforts are being made to have the headquarters of the new organization established in Toronto, it is, according to high officers of the new organization, a foregone conclusion that these headquarters will be established in Montreal. Montreal contains not only the head offices and principal mills of several of the largest milling companies in Canada, and is as well the head of ocean navigation and the principal terminus for all water-borne commerce from the head of the lakes.

Amongst the directors of the new milling association is C. R. Hunt of Hunt, Bros., London, Ont.

TORONTO MAY SPEND MILLION DOLLARS FOR MOTOR BUSES

TORONTO, Nov. 15. — Toronto's transportation commission, which is arranging to take over the Toronto street railway next year, has decided to spend a million dollars for motor buses. Chairman Ellis of the commission has written to the board of control, asking that a bylaw be submitted to the people on January 1, calling for the million-dollar expenditure. Previous to the appointment of the commission, the city council had decided to buy 25 motor buses to try them out in the sections of the city not served by street cars.

Granite Works with some other lads. While one boy was operating the lifting crane young Willard in some manner got his left hand caught between two cog-wheels with the result that four fingers and part of the thumb were crushed off.

CREW BEARING STORM BRUISES LANDS SAFELY

On Storm-Battered Steel Freighter For Sixty-Three Hours.

STEWARD IS HERO

Ventured Across Buckled Deck To Get Food To Crew "Up For'd."

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Nov. 15.—After sixty-three hours aboard their storm-tossed vessel, the 7,600-ton steel freighter Francis J. Widlar, Captain Arthur Forbes and the 27 members of the crew, reached here late today on the rescue tug Iowa, and the steamer C. E. Ainsworth, none the worse for their experience except for minor bruises and exposure.

Rescue of the crew was effected at noon today, when a yawl from the Iowa braved heavy seas to make three trips to the Widlar, which lies in imminent danger of breaking up on Pancake Shoals, near Whitefish Point.

The vessel, according to Captain Forbes, lies hard aground for practically her entire length in about fifteen feet of water.

Driven on Rocks.

From the time the ship was driven upon the rocks Friday night until the crew was taken off, great waves pounded over her, at times washing completely over the deckhouse. A portion of the deck was buckled and what hatch covers were not ripped off by the seas were torn off by the crew for use in kindling signal fires. This allowed her to fill and subjected her to inside as well as outside pounding.

The crew gathered in the forward cabin when the vessel grounded, suffered some hardship Friday night and until late Saturday, through lack of food, the high seas preventing their going astern for supplies. They minimized their dangers upon arrival here, however, and mentioned that they had had fried chicken for breakfast this morning.

Steward is Hero.

Alexander Stevens of Ashtabula, Ohio, steward, was their hero. It was Stevens who ventured across the buckled deck Saturday, and after narrowly escaping being washed overboard, brought forward food, which he cooked on an improvised stove in the forward cabin, using bits of furniture for fuel. Stevens was the first of the crew to sight the rescue tug Iowa this morning.

The men also showered praises upon "Tootsie," a fox terrier, whose rompings aided in keeping up their spirits during the watch for a rescue ship. The members of the crew were unanimous in their assertion that their experience had shown the necessity of maintaining an ocean-going type tug in the coast guard service off the treacherous Whitefish coast.

BECK CONSENTS TO ACT AS ARBITRATOR IN TORONTO CASE

Will Help To Determine Purchase Price of Street Railway.

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—Sir Adam Beck has written to City Clerk Littlejohn of this city stating that he will be pleased to act as Toronto's representative on the arbitration board to determine the amount to be paid by the city for the Toronto Street Railway Company's property when the railway is taken over by the city at the expiration of the company's franchise, next September. Sir Adam was named by the city council some time ago as the city's arbitrator.

REDUCTION DELAYED.

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—As a result of the turning on of 15,000 horsepower by the Electrical Development Company Sunday night, the threatened cut by the Toronto Hydro-Electric Commission in the power supply to the various business in this city did not go into effect today, and the probability is that it may not become necessary. General Manager E. M. Ashworth, following a meeting with Toronto manufacturers today, said that with proper economy on the part of the customers, the contemplated restrictions would not be necessary, though the hydro system was running with a narrow margin.

TURKEYS ARE SCARCE AROUND CLANDEBOYE

No Money in Them At 41 Cents a Pound, Farmers Say.

CLANDEBOYE, Nov. 15.—The opening price offered by both city and local dealers for turkeys is the low figure of 41 cents per pound, which makes the profit to the growers little or none. There are not nearly the usual number or turkeys in this section.

The warm fall made it unsafe to store apples and roots as early as usual, with the result that the sudden severe frost and snow have caught a lot of apples and turnips not gathered. There will likely be considerable loss of both.

The fall plowing, which was about half finished, is ended for the present on account of frost.

Mrs. Margaret Lewis, widow of John Lewis, McGillivray, has sold her household effects by auction at Clandeboye, where she had been living for some years. The results of the sale were quite satisfactory. H. Stanley, auctioneer, of Lucan, officiated. Mrs. Lewis previously sold the house and lot to E. Hodgson, a farmer near the village. Mr. Hodgson will use the place as a residence for his hired man and family.

The tall westerner adhered to his practice of refusing to be interviewed, "unless I have something to say."

LABORITES REOPEN FIGHT TO SECURE PEACE WITH RUSSIA

British Workers Object To Political Imperialism Obstructing Trade.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—"The Council of Action" of the Laborites has decided to reopen its fight against the Government to secure peace and return of trade with Russia, according to the Daily Herald, the labor organ. The newspaper today prints the text of a manifesto of "the Council of Action," which is addressed to the local courts of action and the trades union organizations. The manifesto reiterates the former plans of the council, and contends that peace with Russia is of vital importance in relation to the unemployment problem in Great Britain.

"Break down the barriers which now obstruct the free exchange of commodities between Russia and Great Britain and an immediate demand for British-manufactured goods would be created, with the inflow of the necessary raw materials in exchange," say the manifesto. "Peace with Russia would increase employment and bring down prices.

"We cannot allow political imperialism or the interests of international financiers to stand in our way. Workers should not starve to promote inflated prices or perpetuate artificial bank rates.

The manifesto concludes by urging the local councils to set to work and organize meetings and distribute leaflets calling for action.

TORONTO VIADUCT IS NO NEARER REALITY AFTER CONFERENCE

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—Construction of the proposed viaduct along the water front of this city was not brought perceptibly nearer as a result of a conference here today between President E. W. Beatty, K.C., of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, President Howard Kelly of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, the Toronto harbor commissioners, Toronto city council and civic officials, although it was stated after the conference that some progress had been made in the matter.

The railway president suggested delaying the construction of the viaduct for ten years, by which time conditions would be more normal than they are today. While plans of the railways and alternative plans submitted by this city were discussed at considerable length, the conference adjourned without any definite decision having been arrived at, and another conference will be held at a date to be set later.

AUTO PLUNGED INTO ICY WATER

[Special To The Advertiser.]

LISTOWEL, Nov. 15.—What might have been a serious accident was narrowly averted when the funeral of Peter Crerar of Molesworth was on the way to Fairview Cemetery. The car driven by John Alexander, containing his wife and Rev. T. A. Bell, who was in charge of the service, was endeavoring to pass a farm wagon on the bridge at the corner of the Trowbridge sideroad, when Mr. Alexander's foot slipped off the brake and the car plunged over the embankment and fell top down into about five feet of water. On striking the bottom of the creek the car fell over on its side. This alone enabled the occupants to escape with little more than a severe soaking in the icy water.

Rev. T. A. Bell's leg was bruised and crushed, but all were able to go to a nearby farmhouse and receive attention. After waiting to pull the wrecked car up the bank, the procession proceeded to the cemetery, where the service was concluded by Rev. J. M. Nichol of Listowel.

POLICE BELIEVE TWO ARRESTED ARE PART OF EX-CONVICT GANG

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—With the arrest here tonight of Thomas Goddard and William Gardiner on a charge of being implicated in the robbery of Patrick's store in Hamilton, Ont., from which place goods valued at $5,000 were stolen a few nights ago, the local police believe they have captured two of a gang of seven ex-convicts who are responsible for many robberies within a radius of a few miles of this city. Goddard is said to have escaped from Burwash Reformatory in September, and it is stated that he told the authorities that he had to swim the river to get away from the prison farm, being pursued by wolves while escaping. Gardiner is said recently to have served a term in the jail farm here.

The pair arrested are believed to have been implicated in the wild gun play here Saturday night, when a bursting automobile was fired upon, and an inoffensive pedestrian, W. C. Bucke, was shot and severely injured.

Cuticura Soap Complexions Are Healthy

Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. each. Sold everywhere. Can. Depot: Lymans, Limited, St. Paul St., Montreal.

Aged, Wrinkled Faces Easily Rejuvenated

An aged face is often only a mask to a comparatively youthful person. Beneath is a countenance young and fair to look upon. It's a simple matter to remove the mask. Ordinary mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, gradually absorbs the worn-out surface skin; in a week or two the user has the loveliest pinky white complexion imaginable. An ounce of the wax usually is sufficient to complete the transformation. It is put on at night like cold cream and taken off in the morning with warm water.

This remarkable treatment is invariably effective, no matter how muddy, sallow or discolored the complexion. Freckles, moth-patches, liver spots, pimples, black heads and other cutaneous blemishes, naturally vanish with the discarded skin.

To remove wrinkles and flabbiness, here is a recipe that cannot be too highly recommended: Powdered saxolite, one ounce; dissolved in witch hazel, one half pint. Use as a wash lotion.—Advt.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy, Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and, moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.—Advt.

Border Residents Wire Attorney-General Regarding Rev. Arthur Spracklin.

(By Staff Reporter.)

WINDSOR, Nov. 15.—Protesting vigorously against the actions of Rev. Arthur Spracklin, special license officer on the border, and brother of Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, and one of his aides, in assaulting them, Ex-Reeve C. C. Chauvin of Sandwich West and W. L. Messenger, manager of the Postum Cereal Company, Windsor, today wired details to Attorney-General Raney.

"Responsibility for any further killings in this district," the telegram declared, "is up to you."

The two men, both well-known borderites, were returning in their automobile to Windsor after a drive on business into the county, when they were halted by two officers and ordered to alight from their car to permit a search for contraband liquor.

When they protested and questioned the right of the officers to search their car, Messenger, it is alleged, was handled roughly and hand-cuffed by Spracklin, while Ex-Reeve Chauvin, who was suffering from a carbuncle on his arm, was seized roughly and held by the other officer, it is said.

When the search for whiskey proved fruitless the men were released.

In filing their complaint with the attorney-general, Messenger and Chauvin declared they intended seeking legal redress through the courts. They claim both officers flourished revolvers.

MUST MAKE CHARGES.

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—Investigation of the administration of justice in the city of Windsor will not be undertaken unless and until specific charges are made in writing, Attorney-General Raney stated today. So far no such charges have been made, but it is understood a Windsor solicitor has been retained by interested parties to formulate certain charges.

METHODISTS PASTORS PAY-ROLL GOES UP

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—Through the campaign carried on by the Dominion ministerial support commission of the Methodist Church under the chairmanship of A. E. Ames of this city, $397,635 has been added to the annual pay-roll of the Methodist pastors in Canada and Newfoundland. The payroll for 1919-20 totalled $1,905,793, whereas for 1920-21 the sum is $2,303,434. Announcement of the success of the campaign was made here today by Secretary Denzil G. Ridout.

MEIGHEN WANTS TO TALK BEFORE ELECTION COMES

Premier Willing To Go To Country After Propaganda Is Done.

DISCUSSES TARIFF

People Must Wait To Hear Government "Case" Before Getting Vote.

BRANDON, Man., Nov. 15.—(By Canadian Press.)—Premier Meighen and Hon. J. A. Calder addressed two meetings held here tonight with a total attendance of probably thirteen hundred persons. There was no large hall available and people packed the city hall auditorium and overflowed to the Prince Edward Hotel.

Meighen, speaking first at the main meeting, said that until recently the Government had been too busy to explain its position.

"We stayed on the job," he said, "mostly day and night, and while we did not conduct Canada perfectly, we are not ashamed of our record. We have sought to get results for the country rather than results politically.

Would Talk First.

"We hear talk that we should have an election. Those who talk that way know time is on our side; they know that we are just now beginning to lay our case before the people and the people are going to have time to hear it. They try to make out that we are a war government with a war spirit, and that with the war over we should go to the people. Well, the Government elected in 1911 was a peace government, and when the war came did they say we should go to the country? We'll go to the country, but we will see that the truth gets to the country first."

The premier devoted most of his speech to discussion of the tariff.

"I believe," he said, "in the protective principles, but you can overdo the protective principle, nothing easier, and it takes a strong leader and government to avoid doing so. In this country it is particularly necessary to avoid overdoing it."

Maintain Industries.

"We cannot maintain our industries in this country in any substantial state unless we follow the protective tariff, but I would follow only to the extent of keeping Canadian industries in this country. We should seek such a level as is reasonable and fair."

Mr. Meighen said the West did not enjoy the advantages of protection to the same direct degree as Eastern Canada, and therefore, it is necessary that the tariff should be kept at the lowest level which would maintain the industrial integrity of the Dominion.

The prime minister declared that even if the United States threw down all tariff bars he would not favor doing the same, because, for one reason, there could be no assurance that their policy would not be altered after another election. "We can't," he said, "let down the barriers. While we retain our individuality as a nation, it would be most obviously the plainest madness on our part to take up free trade. Nothing would be more fatal to our industrial structure."

"I believe," said Mr. Meighen, "in outside competition as well as competition from the inside. Don't put up a tariff wall which will make of Canada a haven of lethargy and ease and rest for those making goods in this country. It's healthy to have outside competition also."

The prime minister gave "the insistence of the member for McDonald" (R. C. Henders), much credit for the reduction in tariff on agricultural implements during recent years.

RANEY PROMISES TO ENFORCE ACT

Municipalities Ask For Action in Reference To Natural Gas.

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—Hon. W. E. Raney today was waited on by Mayor Brisco of Chatham, Mayor Winter of Windsor, and R. L. Brackin, M.P.P., representing the Western Ontario Municipal Gas Consumers' Association, asking for enforcement of the regulations under the natural gas act. The attorney-general promised that the Government would enforce the act. The deputation said municipalities paying a lighter rate received the most favorable treatment.

DEMAND A PROBE.

INGERSOLL, Nov. 15.—Following repeated protests against the raising of the price of natural gas locally from 45 cents to 85 cents, the following resolution moved by Councillor Gibson, and seconded by Councillor Scott, was unanimously passed at tonight's meeting of the council:

"That this council request the Ontario Government through the premier and his cabinet to appoint a commission to investigate the gas situation as it pertains to Ingersoll, also that the Government request the gas company to keep as a separate account the difference between 85 cents and 45 cents, and that the account be absolutely separate and distinct, and if after investigation by the commission they find it is not necessary to charge 85 cents that this council would ask that the amount be refunded to Ingersoll consumers."

Members of the council, speaking in connection with the matter, said there was a good deal of room for doubt as to the necessity of the company making such a large jump in the price.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to Hon. Henry Mills and to Premier Drury.

WANT IT SETTLED.

WINDSOR, Nov. 15.—With the object of settling finally whether the producing gas companies in Ontario shall have the right to discriminate against municipalities adhering to their franchises and refusing higher rates to companies, Mayor Winter and Ald. Urquhart of Windsor, accompanied by Mayor Brisco of Chatham, and R. L. Brackin, solicitor for the Municipal Gas Consumers' Association, interviewed Premier Drury in Toronto this afternoon.

With the pressure in the border mains at a minimum last week, and showing little improvement today, Mayor Winter voiced his conviction to Gas Commissioner Estlin that Sarnia and other centres in the province that have agreed to an advance in rates are securing better pressure.

Upon being informed by the commissioner that his suspicions were probably correct, the mayor immediately got in touch with Mayor Brisco at Chatham, and Barrister Brackin, and arranged for the meeting with Premier Drury to have this point settled definitely.

Tells Bakers To Cut

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Chicago bakers were summoned to the city hall today by Russell Poole, secretary of the councils' high cost of living committee, and urged to reduce the price of bread from 15 cents for a pound loaf to 10 cents.

Unless the request is complied with, Mr. Poole told the bakers, the city council would launch a campaign advising housewives to resume home baking until the price comes down.

BLAME CANADIAN WHEAT FOR LACK OF PRODUCTION

Kansas Millers Say They Cannot Compete With Northern Plants.

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 15.—Officials of Topeka flour mills, testifying today before the Kansas court of industrial relations on a citation to show why they have limited production of flour without first obtaining permission provided by the industrial court act, said they have partly shut down because of a slack demand for Kansas flour. This is due, they said, to the fact that northwestern mills, by using their cheaper Canadian wheat, are able to sell flour for about $1 a barrel less.

The price of flour has decreased since September 1, from about $12.50 to $8.50 a barrel, testified P. Gramer, president of the Topeka Flour Mills Company. "We are operating now at two-thirds capacity."

It was brought out that the total quantity of flour manufactured in Kansas is about ten times that consumed in the state, and that the millers depend largely on the eastern market to take their surplus production.

PAID $130 FOR RIVER WATER

Haunted House Mystery At Port Lambton Has a Peculiar Solution.

PORT LAMBTON, Nov. 15.—The story of the haunted house was revived here, when a light was observed in the vacant house at the corner of Front street and Broadway between 12 and 1 o'clock. The light was seen for a couple of nights, and for a time those who saw it thought there was a fire in the house, as it flickered considerably and vanished only to reappear again soon. The matter was reported to Scott McDonald, who is in charge of the property. On investigating he found the doors locked, but downstairs noticed that a coat, which had been hanging on the wall, was missing. On going upstairs he noticed a leather suitcase on the floor, and on stepping into a room noticed two men lying on the floor in the corner covered up with old clothing and magazines. He did not report the matter to the police, but kept watch on the house. No one came out during the day, but at night two men slipped out and went to the Victoria Hotel, where they had supper. One was identified as a man named White, who was here some time ago, but beat a hasty retreat, when four officers suddenly appeared in search of bootleggers.

White and his pal, who is unknown here, apparently fulfilled their mission here this time as on Thursday night it is learned they sold and delivered to a party across the border two cases supposed to contain whiskey, but when opened were found to contain perfectly good St. Clair River water, for which they received $130. A boat was stolen from the other side, and it is supposed the pair used this to get across the river.

COAL AND SUGAR PRICES BOTH SLIP

FREDERICTON, N. B., Nov. 15.—Coal prices have dropped in Fredericton one dealer announcing this morning that he was now selling anthracite at $20 per ton, delivered. Former prices ranged up to $25 per ton.

SUGAR AT TEN CENTS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Several companies operating chain stores in the lower west side offered sugar at 10 cents a pound this morning, but stores in other districts continued to quote it all the way from 11 cents to 16 cents. Wholesale quotations were unchanged at 10 cents to 10½ cents per pound.

APPLES IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—The latest prices here for Canadian apples are: Ribstones, No. 1, 50 to 52½ shillings; do., No. 2, 40 to 45 shillings; Blenheims, No. 1, 50 to 52½ shillings; do., No. 2, 40 to 42½ shillings; Kings, 55 to 60 shillings.

SCHOOL FOR WIFE

BENTON, Ill., Nov. 15.—Mrs. Clyde Billington, fifteen-year-old housewife of Rockford, a small village near here, has been ordered to go to school. The law provides that all persons under 16 years of age must attend school unless they have completed the eighth grade. Mrs. Billington will be 16 next April. She has not completed the required grade. Mrs. Billington was married last July.

Craftsman Fabrikoid The Choice of this Furniture Maker

"The cheap split leather ought to be entirely eliminated in upholstering furniture," says S. Karpen, a leading furniture manufacturer in the States.

CAST aside the cow. There are many things in which man can improve over nature, and one is the making of a covering for furniture. Mr. Karpen learned this from experience in the line in which he is a specialist. For upholstery Fabrikoid looks better, is more sanitary, and, above all, does not deteriorate or absorb water or grease. The life of Fabrikoid is practically interminable—it outlasts the furniture itself in many cases. This is proof of its economy.

The best you can get in leather upholstery is most likely "split" leather—uneven in thickness, irregular in texture, full of soft spongy spots, or hard brittle ones that crack. Craftsman Fabrikoid is pliable, even, richly colored, dyed if you wish, and without waste.

When buying new furniture, or having the old recovered, insist on Craftsman Fabrikoid. Your dealer can supply it, and the appearance and the saving will surprise you. Our free booklet "Fabrikoid in the Home" will give you a few hints about many things that can be done about the home with Fabrikoid. Write today for a copy.

Five Things Happen

When you brush teeth in this way

Dental science has produced a new teeth-cleaning method. Millions of people have already adopted it. Leading dentists everywhere advise it.

In effective ways it combats the film on teeth. And it deals with this tooth wrecker as was never done before.

The fight on film

Modern dentistry finds that most tooth troubles are caused by film. The film at first is viscous. You can feel it now. But it clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Very few people have escaped these film-caused troubles.

Ordinary methods do not end this film. So millions who brush teeth daily find they still discolor and decay.

A multiple attack

Now new ways have been found to fight film. Careful tests have proved them. High dental authorities approve them.

They are all combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. It meets every modern requirement. And this new tooth paste is fast coming into world-wide use.

You'll know in a week

Some results of Pepsodent appear rapidly. Within one week the good effects will be amazing to you.

One ingredient is pepsin. One multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. One multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva to neutralize mouth acids.

Two factors directly attack the films. One of them keeps the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily cling. In all these ways it brings and maintains whiter, safer teeth.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how the teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

Compare the results with your old methods. Then let those evident results tell you what is best. Cut out the coupon now.

WHO PROVIDES THIS MONEY?

The Meighen publicity bureau must have a poor opinion of the intelligence of the East Elgin electorate if it thinks that its big propaganda of paid newspaper space is the channel through which the farmers of this riding are going to obtain an insight into the issues of the day and of this campaign. The neighbors of Mr. Stansell, the Conservative candidate, must stand amazed at the literary abilities that are displayed in his "heart to heart" talks—amazed, that is, until they look down below and read those magic letters "Advt.," which indicate that instead of receiving pay for his efforts, as authors ought to receive reward, he is forced to pay in cold, hard cash, at so much a line to have his efforts brought before the public. Truly, this is a cruel, cruel world.

If the Meighen forces can spend money like water to win a single by-election when they really do not need it to maintain their majority, it is very clear that the amount of money that will be spent in the next general election to divert public indignation and secure the election of government candidates will be enormous. All election funds of the past are put in the shade by the money that the Meighen Government appears to have at its disposal. Where does it come from? Have the Conservative electors of East Elgin put up this money in order to hold their riding for the Government? We very much doubt if one dollar of it comes out of the pocket of an East Elgin Tory. It is sent in from the outside. Its origin ought to be of a good deal of interest to the public.

There isn't any doubt where it comes from. People who are making a good thing out of a highly-protective tariff can afford to pay into the "slush fund" if in return they are assured of a continuance of high tariffs. And, judging by Hon. Arthur Meighen's speeches in the west they need have no fear of any lowering of the bars while he is there. The cost of living may be today double what it was in 1914, while profits of the protected interests may be greater than ever before. Whence can come relief for the great mass of the people who are not shareholders or bondholders, but who have to buy goods and pay the profits that the protected interests demand.

Have you any kick against treatment of this kind? If so, you must remember that in the Meighen mind "those who are not for us are Bolshevists." If you oppose the protective tariff you are "seeking to undermine the foundations of British liberty"—that is about the way the new premier would put it. East Elgin people know just what the Government thinks about them, for Sir George Foster was there and told them to their face. They have probably not yet forgottin his words.

East Elgin will vote in a week. The campaign has been a long one, and it has seen such effort made by the Government to win the seat as makes plain its fear of a defeat. It is not the Government alone that fears a reverse in this riding. There are others fearful that the time has come when the public will refuse to continue building up fortunes for others. This is the reason why there is such an expenditure of money in East Elgin, with paid speakers and organizers, vast newspaper advertising and every other form of propaganda. It is simply to defeat the real will of the people of East Elgin, to divert them from their hope of freeing themselves from heavy tariff bonds and to make possible a continuance of the reign of the protected profiteer.

RADIALS AND THE FRONTIER.

In considering the larger features of the proposed hydro radial program, now undergoing an investigation by the Sutherland royal commission, the public should not lose sight of what has been stated by Mr. F. A. Gaby, chief engineer of the hydro-electric power commission, in his evidence at Osgoode Hall. He has pointed out, in explanation of his extraordinarily high estimates of earnings that they are based, first, upon a system of approximately 325 miles in Ontario; second, upon a physical connection of this system with the Niagara frontier.

It is obvious that one section of hydro line, independent of others, would not have the same earning opportunities as several sections, reaching various cities and towns and all linked together.

But the vital thing so far as earnings are concerned is the necessity of connecting this system with American roads and traffic distributing points at the Niagara River, as to which only vague expectations are entertained. If this cannot be accomplished, Mr. Gaby admitted he would have to revise downward his estimates of earnings.

An analysis of the situation in the Niagara district suggests no small doubt as to whether these desired connections can be effected in the way now proposed.

The hydro-electric commission has been negotiating with the Dominion Government for the acquisition of the Niagara-St. Catharines and Toronto Railway. This is an electric road with central terminals in St. Catharines, and runs to Thorold, Merritton, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Port Dalhousie, Niagara Falls, Welland and Port Colborne. It passed over to the Canadian people as part of the Canadian Northern Railway system. It gives a good service, local and interurban, without any liability whatever upon the people of these municipalities.

The department of railways and canals and the national railway board have signified a willingness to sell the road to the hydro at, roughly, three and a half millions. The hydro, Mr. Gaby states, would spend an additional $800,000 on the line for improvements.

The only way, of course, in which railways can either be built or acquired by the hydro is through the issue of debentures by the municipalities concerned. This means that the cities, towns and townships in the Niagara district, now receiving service without any capital obligation whatsoever, except as citizens of Canada, would have to become liable for a load of four and a quarter millions, which would be distributed among them. St. Catharines being the largest centre in the peninsula would no doubt be asked to be responsible for quite a portion of this amount. It is already obligated for $683,000, as its share of the capital cost of the Toronto to St. Catharines lines.

Mr. Gaby admitted before the Sutherland inquiry that bylaws setting forth the amounts the municipality would be required to bear have not yet been submitted. The question naturally arises as to whether, if they were submitted, the municipalities could be induced to carry them, and thereby shift to their own shoulders a liability of $4,300,000. Should the electors not assume this liability, then the only way connection would be secured would be by paralleling the N. S. and T. tracks. Even this cost would have to be financed by the issuance of debentures by Niagara Peninsula municipalities.

The reason the hydro commission is anxious to get connection with the border is that it is like one end of a funnel, through which a heavy volume of freight passes. The opposite end is Ontario. Coming to the frontier from United States points are the large railway systems, known as the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Lehigh, Lackawanna and Erie. They control practically all of the freight business from the United States to Canada, and very little goes the other way. The hydro, Mr. Gaby stated, hopes to get turned over to it at the border a large tonnage which would be carried over the hydro radial to Hamilton, Toronto and the province generally. Operating on this side of the border are the Grand Trunk, with a double-track, the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo, owned jointly by the C. P. R. and the New York Central, and the Niagara-St. Catharines and Toronto, with its Canadian Northern connections. The question arises as to whether any of these United States lines will be likely to deliver any considerable volume of freight to the hydro radial, unless the latter has a heavy amount of freight to turn over in exchange. It is a practice in the railway world that "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours." How will the hydro radial be able to corral much heavy freight business when most of it is routed on steam roads for long hauls?

And yet, unless this physical connection with the border is made, and a good deal of traffic is secured, Mr. Gaby stated his present estimates of earnings would be too high.

It will be appreciated, therefore, that there are several bridges yet to cross before hydro radials can be a fact, regardless of what the investigating commission may report.

WRANGEL'S DEFEAT.

The crushing defeat of Gen. Wrangel's armies by the Bolsheviki forces will create anxiety in Allied capitals and throughout Western Europe generally. The victory is so overwhelming that it is bound to restore any confidence in Lenine and Trotzky they may have lost as a result of their disastrous invasion of Poland. With a huge, well-trained and triumphant army at their command Europe will wonder where next they will turn. Any treaty made with Poland will be treated as a scrap of paper by the treacherous Lenine without a moment's hesitation, if he elects to send his soldiers at Poland once more. With the Crimea as a jumping-off place, too, there is nothing to prevent his moving into Asia Minor and Persia, if he believes the heaviest blow can be struck at the Allies in that direction. There is a hint of this menace in the report from London that the Moscow Government has demanded that England at once resume commercial relations with Russia. The Bolshevists are undoubtedly in a position to drive a bargain with the Allied governments unless the latter are prepared to face the possibility of another bloody struggle in Eastern Europe. To prevent the Reds sweeping into Western Europe the Allies may be compelled to follow the lead of France, which has continued to actively oppose the Bolshevists. The alternative to active hostility on a large scale is humiliating recognition of an infamous government, which rules by a tyranny worse than that of the czars, a despotism it hopes to put on the rest of the world. The downfall of Wrangel's cause is heavy with possibilities of new misery and catastrophe for the world.

RETURN OF THE BICYCLE.

[Boston Herald.]

Once more the bicycle is popular. The old fad for "the bike" faded away years ago; for a time it seemed almost disreputable to bestride a machine of two wheels while the four-wheeled motor car was leaping into public favor as the almost universal vehicle. Now a new generation of young people is learning to ride the bicycle, and, especially in the neighborhood of big industrial centres, "wheels" are numerous again. This is due partly to the creation of a great system of smooth "black roads" in response to the demands of the automobiles; partly also to the increase in trolley fares; in some degree, too, to the cheapness of the bicycle. A first-class wheel may be had for $50 or less; a cheap auttomobile costs many times as much. Then the housing scarcity and the high rents have caused numbers to migrate from the congested sections of the cities, and they find the bicycle a convenience for all ordinary errands. Many industrial plants besides have relocated in thinly-settled regions, and hundreds of their employees nowadays wheel home for a warm dinner at the noon hour instead of eating from a pail at the works. As a pleasure vehicle the bicycle promises also in a season or two to gain much in popularity.

From Here and There

HI SAFTER-DINNER SPEECHES.

[Argonaut.]

William Lyon Phelps, professor of English literature at Yale, declares he gets credit for only 25 per cent of the after-dinner speeches he actually makes. "Every time I accept an invitation to speak I really make four speeches," he says. "First is the speech I prepare in advance. That is pretty good. Second is the speech I really make. Third is the speech I make on the way home, which is the best of all, and fourth is the speech the newspapers next morning say I made, which bears no relation to any of the others."

HUMAN INTEREST STUFF.

[New York American.]

The world's greatest orators, perhaps, were Demosthenes, Isocrates, Mirabeau and Burke. A well-written article, describing all four of them, would interest nine hundred out of a thousand men less than the news story about Silent Pat Hanley, who spent ten years in prison without saying a word. He writes that he once talked too much, which got him into trouble, and has never spoken since. Doctors believe that he could not talk now if he tried.

AMBIGUOUS TREATIES.

[Argonaut.]

Senator Lodge had been pointing out some flaws in some of the League of Nations articles to a staunch supporter of the covenant, when the latter interrupted, saying: "But that isn't what it means. As you express it, I can see the menace, but the meaning as intended is perfectly all right, and a good thing for the nation." "Very well," said Lodge, "but in that case, as in all others, an agreement should be worded in such a way that it can mean but one thing, and be understood by all to mean just that one thing. Too many of our treaties and our laws are so phrased that sometimes they can be construed in exactly the opposite way from what the author intended. Indeed, many remind me of the announcement of a Boston clergyman, who, just before he began his sermon, said: 'There are some flowers here for those who are sick at the close of this sermon.'"

BERNARD SHAW URGES MUSIC FOR THE YOUNG.

[Western School Journal.]

"Repression of the human impulses of young men and women is futile as a preventive of immorality. Nature provides the real remedy," declared George Bernard Shaw recently in London before the British Musical Society.

"If municipalities really want to raise the morals of a district they must remember that the community consists very largely of young people growing up. At a certain period of their lives, when they begin to take a more general interest in human relations and before they can afford to get married, there is no use in pursuing a policy of Puritanism.

"There must be an outlet for these impulses in art, and especially in the art of music. If young men had pictures and music to interest them, to engage and satisfy many of their impulses and to enliven their days, they would not go to the low pleasures of the streets, they would have an alternative and would be too fastidious to do so."

Shaw urged popularization of music, whereunder every municipality would maintain a competent symphony orchestra, so that no child in the country should be brought up without having access to the best of music. Towns would be healthier and public taxes lower if they had an abundant and generous provision for art, he added.

ONE MILLION FOR McGILL.

[La Patrie.]

French-Canadians and English-Canadians alike will applaud the act of the Provincial Government, which, according to the prime minister's announcement, intends to grant to McGill University a subsidy of one million dollars, as it has done to the University of Montreal and the University of Laval. McGill University has had the advantage of benefitting by the munificence of several of our citizens who in a way have shared their fortunes with this institution. Its needs may, perhaps, be less pressing than those of some of its contemporaries in the province, but we know McGill will be able to use this state subsidy to profit by a renewed exertion in the propagation of human knowledge. McGill University is about to make, as our Catholic universities have recently made, an appeal to the generosity of the public, and we have no doubt other millions of dollars will flow into its treasury and so facilitate the realization of the projects it proposes for its expansion.

KAISER HAS NOT YET BEEN HANGED.

[Toronto Telegram.]

Two years have passed since the armistice was signed. The almost universal demand then was that one of the first terms of peace should be that the kaiser be brought to trial and ultimately hanged.

The kaiser has not been brought to trial; neither has he been hanged. Recent dispatches indicate he is doing more worrying about his income tax than about his life insurance.

Time may not make a hero out of a criminal, but there is no denying the fact that it is a wonderful softener of any penalty that may be headed in his direction.

THEIR HEROIC DEAD.

[Halifax Chronicle.]

France joined with Britain in glorifying the memory of their heroic dead. The unknown pollu who was laid to rest beneath the Arc de Triomphe, equally with the nameless soldier who sleeps in the storied Abbey, symbolizes the victory achieved by the great host of gallant men who fought and fell facing the foe. They now sleep in peace. Their glory will endure forever.

LLOYD GEORGE—OPTIMIST.

[Montreal Gazette.]

In his Guildhall speech the British prime minister insisted upon an optimistic outlook on the world. There were many difficulties to overcome. There were hatreds which must be eliminated. There were selfishness and jealousy which must be put away. But there was no condition that justified despair. There was no confusion so inextricable that a way could not be discovered. There was turmoil in Europe. Britain had her problems, of which not the least was Ireland; but in no instance would despair be justified. This high-heartedness evoked great applause, for the Britisher will go through fire and water for the leader with the "sporting" spirit—using the word in the domain of statecraft. But the prime minister urged the cultivation of a better spirit as solving the problems of the world. There must be a determined effort to eliminate selfishness from the consideration of large issues. There must be the cultivation of a reasonable spirit. There must be give and take. There must, above all, be the determination among governments and peoples to seek for the point of amicable contact, rather than a yielding of racial antipathies which postponed indefinitely the composure of Europe, so urgent in the interest of order and content and prosperity—even of civilization itself.

Lloyd George has used this appeal before, and always with acceptance. It meets with response from all reasonable men. For its fulfillment it needs that rational persons use their utmost endeavors, first of all, in their individual capacity, and, secondly, in conjunction with others like minded, to create a more composed and rational atmosphere as a preliminary to the realization of the optimistic forecast of the British premier.

The peace treaty has not done all that was hoped. The League of Nations is in a nebulous state, and one is not sure that it is functioning in any degree. Selfish passions have been given the rein. Law and order have been ignored, and the world is upset. It speaks volumes for the courage and optimism of the British premier that at such a juncture, he should be able to feel that fine optimism which will not admit that any problem dealing with human relations is insoluble, and to inoculate his audience and the country with his own high feeling. The British premier pleads for an attitude and purpose which, if they had prevailed that tense and awful week before the outbreak of war, would have altered the direst calamity that ever befell the human race. He asks for rationality. He invokes a spirit of amelioration and assuagement. He seeks for the friendly contact. He is after that better spirit which would eliminate the machine gun as that last argument in human affairs. While the diplomatic pathway is devious, and compromise must soften the adamant attitude, and strange company is kept, and ambitious schemes are planned for individual or national aggrandizement, whoever else may suffer, Lloyd George, who is called shifty by his enemies, directs his thought to one purpose—the bringing in of better relations as between the opposing elements in Europe, in order that the world may take off its coat and get on with its work, which is not the perpetuation of violence, but the saving efficacy of production.

Poetry and Jest

OLD SHIPS.

There is a memory stays upon old ships,
A weigadless cargo in the musty hold—
Of bright lagoons and prow-caressing lips,
Of stormy midnights—and a tale untold.
They have remembered islands in the dawn,
And windy caps that tried their slender spars,
And tortuous channels where their keels have gone,
And calm blue heights of stillness and the stars.
Ah, never think that ships forget a shore,
Or bitter seas, or winds that made them wise;
There is a dream upon them, evermore—
And there be some who say that sunk ships rise
To seek familiar harbors in the night,
Blowing in mists their spectral sails like light.
—David Mortlin in Los Angeles Times.

VERY TRUE.

Mrs. Figgers (with newspaper)— 'Do you know Henry, that every time you draw your breath someone dies?"

Mr. Figgers—"Well, I'm sorry; but I can't help it. If I quit drawing my breath I'll die, too."

OLD WISDOM.

[Margaret Widdemer, in November Good Housekeeping.]

It will seem so easy, when I look back some day,
All the things I should not do, all I leave undone;
"Why, it was so simple, was so foolish," I shall say,
"A silence here at morning, a swift word at set of sun!"

It will be so clear then, when I recall, and see
The far years, the past years, unchanging then as stone,
All I build or shatter now, all that baffles me;
Saying, "But this thing was plain; but that I should have known!"

I shall mock her blindness then, under sunset skies,
The foolish girl who gropes today in morning sun and storm. . .
O far-off woman I shall be, done with life, and wise—
Give me of your wisdom now, while life is wild and warm!

SMALL SIZE.

Will—She takes a very small shoe, doesn't she?
Nell—Oh, yes!
Will—What size?
Nell—Two sizes smaller than her foot."

PRAIRIE ROSES.

[By Arthur L. Phelps.]

Name me not your hot-house beauty,
Fairer than these;
They have harked to the far-travelled wind,
And to journey-men bees.

Songs of the winsome heaven,
Wide and so blue;
They have caught from the music sweetness,
And they tender it to you.

When the bird leans on the spray
And sings so clear,
My prairie rose will listen to that,
And will say, "Did you hear?"

When comes a morning of June,
In hush and light,
'Mid the poplar green my roses nod,
Each with her dewdrops bright;

Each woven with sunset hues,
Each one so frail—
What is sweeter than prairie roses
By my June prairie trail?

A JEST ON INDIA.

[Answers.]

At a school examination the examiner asked one child:

"What are the products of India?"

The wretched infant began at once to reel off the list she had learnt by heart.

"Please, sir, India produces curries, and pepper and rice and citron and chillies, and chutnay and—and—and—"

"Yes, yes!" said the examiner impatiently. "What comes after all that? What is the most important of all?"

Another infant's hand was raised.

"Well, you tell her!"

"Please, sir, India—gestion!"

DOWN BY THE SEA.

[Ethel Marjorie Knapp in the New York Times.]

I love the sea on a troubled day,
I love the sea on a happy day.
With the tossing foam and the dancing spray,
For the waves more sunshine than they can hold,
Gold and blue, blue and gold.
And the voices of the children, shrill with glee,
At play by the frollicking, changing sea.
Then the tranquil sea, subdued, serene,
Green and blue, blue and green.
I love the sea on a happy day!

Oh, I love the sea whatever the day,
Blue and gold, and green and grey,
And it matters but little—the things that be,
I'm in love with the sea—I'm in love with the sea!

Every Man For Himself

BY HOPKINS MOORHOUSE.

She went on to speak of President Wade, of the Canadian Lake Shores Railway, in the warmest terms. She had known him all her life as a close friend to her father and he was a frequent visitor at the Lawson home.

She stumbled on a cross-tie and would have fallen but for the strength of his supporting arm. She winced a little.

"Here, Miss Lawson, try putting your arm across my back and your hand on my left shoulder for a while. That's it."

With a thrill he slipped his arm about her waist, but she smiled up at him without protest. They made better progress after that. The steel rails streaked away in the moonlight endlessly before them, endlessly behind with uncompromising sameness.

"I suppose I deserve a good scolding for jumping off the train so far from this Thorlakson place; but the sleeping-car conductor told me the train would not stop on any account, short of a damaged track, until it reached—Indian Creek, I think he said it was. My best plan, he said, was to get off there and ride back to Thorlakson on a handcar. I was warned not to try any moving-picture stunts; but when I found out we'd have to slow up on the grade near the siding, I made up my mind to risk it. So when we slowed up back there, I thought it was the place, and sneaked to the back platform without being seen by anyone but you."

Kendrick shook his head at her, marvelling at her nerve and the foolishness of the whole thing. Not many girls would have dared it. Lucky for her he had seen her or she might have been in a pretty bad plight along these lonely reaches of track before any section hands chanced to find her. He studied her anxiously and decided that it was best to keep her talking while they trudged along.

"Will you tell me how you came to be masquerading as Miss Williams?" he asked. "Or is that something you'd rather not—?"

"Oh, no," she laughed. "That was Mr. Wade's bright suggestion. You know, he's been helping me in my work quite a lot. I have had to keep Daddy in the dark about it for fear he'd put his foot down on the whole thing; so I made a confidant of Mr. Wade."

"Then I've got a bone to pick with him," said Phil. "Why in the dickens didn't he tell me about you being at Ferguson's office when we were both on the same trail?"

"It's just like him not to, Mr. Kendrick. Probably he thought your work and my own would not cross at all and the less either of us knew about the other the safer it would be. Why, he even refused pointblank to tell me what he was going to do with that money—the envelope—that is—"

He saw that she hesitated as if she had said too much.

"You mean the fifty thousand dollars, stolen from the Alderson concern?" asked Phil quickly. I was going to ask you about that. You mean that Mr. Wade really has the money? You can trust me, Miss Lawson. Surely you know that," he urged. "He said he was piecing together a puzzle of some kind and would tell me all about it soon. How did he come to have that money?"

She studied him keenly before she spoke.

"I gave it to him to take care of," she said slowly.

"You! And where did you get it?"

"From Jimmy Stiles."

"Jim—my Stiles? Great Scott! And where did he get it?"

"He stole it."

CHAPTER XVI.

THE TAN SATCHEL ONCE MORE.

She told him about it. He was much cleverer than most people thought, young Jimmy Stiles, and he was overpoweringly anxious to help the Lawsons. There was no length to which his loyalty to them would not carry him. Kendrick nodded, recalling the boy's story as he had heard it from her father.

"I had no hesitation in taking Jimmy into my confidence from the first," said Cristy, "and it has been a big help to have someone watching Nickleby from the inside. He is a great little actor, that boy, and has succeeded in fooling our friend, Nickleby, into the belief that all he has to do is to snap his fingers and the frightened Jimmy will perform his bidding without question. Daddy told you about Stiles' early indiscretion, you said. Well, Jimmy has been pretending right along that he is afraid of exposure for that, and Nickleby has felt so sure of him that there have been occasions when he has permitted Jimmy to see behind the scenes and get a peek at some methods of doing business that would not stand analysis."

"Have you tried to get a line on Nickleby's past, Miss Lawson?" asked Phil with interest. "I understand that he was less than nobody when your father befriended him, and he may have drifted up here from the States and have a police record a yard long."

"We've thought of that. There is nothing in the local police records, but I believe Mr. Wade is making some quiet investigations in the States.

"Well, anyway, to make a long story short, Stiles knew the Alderson Construction company was planning to make a substantial contribution to the government campaign-fund, J. C. Nickleby, that is; for he really is the Alderson Construction Company. When Jimmy reported this to me I thought I saw a good chance to get some sensational illustrations for the exposure story the Recorder was after if only we could get hold of the money long enough to photograph it. Jimmy was enthusiastic over the idea and told me to leave it to him. On thinking it over more carefully, though, I saw risks attached to the stunt which made it very unwise, and when I met Jimmy by his own appointment at the Union Station one night I asked him at once to make no attempt to obtain possession of the money, even for a short time.

"But I was too late. He was carrying a suitcase and calmly informed me that the money was inside. I was badly frightened. If we were caught with that money in our possession we would be arrested at once as a pair of ordinary thieves. I had jeopardized my editor's plans that we had been working out so secretly and regretted the foolishness a thousand times. Stiles wanted me to take the suitcase then and there—take it home and do the photographing, then have a messenger deliver it to Ferguson's office; or, if I preferred to give it back to him, he'd arrange to get the money to its destination somehow without anybody being able to trace it.

"But I was too frightened to decide and it was not long before I felt that we were being watched. You cannot imagine a more disagreeable feeling! We strolled around a bit to make sure that we really were being followed and when we found that the man we suspected was still on our trail, Jimmy was as badly scared as I was.

"While we were wondering what we'd better do I suddenly spied President Wade standing near the door of the big rotunda waiting-room and I had hard work to keep from calling out. I said good-bye to Jimmy, and walked over to him with the suitcase, blessing my stars for the good fortune. His private car was standing down on the track and as soon as he saw that I was in trrouble of some kind he took me down to the car and I told him the whole story. There was nobody around except ourselves at the moment and he was not only greatly interested, but agreed to help me. We lifted out the envelope of money and he placed this in his safe aboard the car. He would not tell me what he intended to do with it, except that he promised it should be photographed for me and that it would be taken care of. He told me to ask no questions, but just leave everything to him and forget all about it. The less I knew about it the better, in case I was questioned.

Personal Health Service

(By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D., Noted Physician and Author.)

The Twin Dental Delusions.

Some people still imagine it is "dangerous to have an ulcerated tooth extracted." And a few old fossils still manage to do a little dental practice in spite of the fact that they agree with this dangerous delusion. An "ulcerated" tooth is one with an abscess at its root, and if a competent dentist thinks the tooth is damaged beyond saving, then certainly the safest course for the victim is immediate extraction of the tooth. It is precisely like a sliver in a festering wound—and surely no one would hesitate about having the sliver extracted. Yet hundreds of deluded human beings suffer for days and days with "ulcerated tooth," waiting for the "inflammation to go down" before they even consult the dentist; or, if the dentist happens to be one of the rare mossbacks mentioned, waiting until the ignoramus can screw up sufficient moral courage to extract the offender. The suffering thus unnecessarily endured is but a minor matter. The danger of such neglect is that the inflammation may spread, the infection travel deeply into the jaw bone, producing a grave condition indeed. This very thing now and then happens just before the victim, in desperation, finally seeks dental treatment; and the extraction having been too long delayed, the infection is not overcome, but progresses unrelieved. It is in such a case that the ignorant patient is inclined to blame the dentist for his plight! And because public opinion is unreasonable and juries are composed of all kinds of people, some dentists refuse to extract an "ulcerated tooth" if they think the patient is of inferior intelligence. This is not good surgical practice, to flinch in the path of duty, yet one can hardly blame them.

Another delusion that is twin to the "ulcerated tooth" delusion is the one that helps many a quack dentist out of a bad situation. The dupe patronizes the dental charlatan who blows his horn and tells the world of a "painless" method all his own. The quack injects the same local anesthetics that any other dentist would use, but with this difference: The quack dentist is uneducated, unskilled, and he is careless or ignorant about surgical cleanliness, asepsis. His victim, a few days after the "painless" extraction, suffers a swollen face. What is the matter? Oh, "caught cold!" The truth is, however, that the jaw has been infected, and in most such cases the infection is attributable to plain neglect of the essential principles of surgical cleanliness.

The "catching cold" delusion lets many a quack dentist out of a bad situation, just as it helps many an incompetent doctor over a doubtful diagnosis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Beards Are So Coarse.

Would you advise the use of the electric needle for removing the whole beard of a young man aged 22? About how long would the operation take, and what would be the cost, estimated? (L. K. S.)

ANSWER—Not unless he were to be Queen of the May.

Tea and Coffee.

I love coffee, my worser half loves tea. Each thinks the other's favorite beverage the more harmful by reason of containing the more poison. Please settle the argument for the sake of peace in the family. (Mrs. C. R.)

ANSWER—Neither contains any poison, if not boiled.

Blood Purification.

Is it necessary to take a blood purifier once a week, such as —— Tea? (A. S.)

ANSWER—Such herb "teas" are decoctions of various crude drugs, some mere flavors and some cathartics. It is unnecessary and unwise to take any physic habitually.

MRS. A. ROGERS

MRS. A. ROGERS, western parliamentary respresentative.

MRS. W. L. ARMITAGE IS PRESIDENT OF THE GIRLS' WORK COUNCIL

Miss Trotter and Miss Gemmell Address Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the London Co-operative Council for Girls' Work, held last night in the Y. W. C. A. residence, King street, was both inspirational and practical. Two speakers, whose lives are closely in contact with the work among 'teen age girls of the whole country—Miss Gemmell of the Presbyterian Church and Miss Trotter of the Baptist Church of Canada—brought with them suggestions and plans for a much broader field of work along these lines in London. It is now but a year since the Co-operative Council for Girls' Work was first organized here, and since that time the interest in 'teen age girls in the city churches has increased enormously. Last night a council of the girls themselves was proposed, and its organization under the direction of the old co-operative council will be a feature of this year's endeavor. A training course for leaders will also be shortly organized, as last year.

A report of the Girls' Work convention was given at last night's meeting by Mrs. W. R. McIntosh, the president of the council, who occupied the chair. Representatives were present from Anglican, Baptist, Methodist, Congregational and Christian churches.

An election of officers for the coming year resulted in making Mrs. Leslie Armitage president and Mrs. W. R. McIntosh second vice-president, the first and second vice-presidents being appointed by the council. Miss Helen d'Avignon is secretary and Miss Elsie McDermid treasurer. The representatives from the different churches are as follows: Anglican, Miss G. Gibbert and Miss Edith Johnston; Methodist, Miss Tracy, Miss Norris and Mrs. Woonton; Baptist, Miss Freeman and Miss Minhinnick; Presbyterian, Miss Jean McCrimmon and Miss Viola MacDonald.

THE MARRIAGE OF ANNE

BY MAY CHRISTIE

(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

LVIII.—The Destination.

It seemed hard to believe that I—Anne Travis—who had come to New York for the express purpose of marrying Fred Delaunay, was now definitely leaving the city, not as the bride of faithless Fred, but as the bride-to-be of his "enemy," Neil Saunders!

I stole a glance at my companion as the car whirled us through the traffic. How excellently he drove!

He had no nerves. He could "cut in ahead" of buses and huge street cars, calculating his distance to the fraction of an inch.

Usually, I was rather nervous of motoring through the New York traffic in any vehicle but a taxi. I put small trust in amateurs.

But, with Saunders at the wheel, I didn't feel a scrap of nervousness, only a curious, heady sense of exhilaration.

"I'm wondering whether you like the town or country best?"

My companion broke into my thoughts with the foregoing query.

"Oh, the country!" I said, instantly.

In my present mood, I felt a sort of antagonism toward the town. New York seemed so vast, so cruel. Such a great, lonely, heartless sort of place. New York had been inhospitable to me, a stranger. And the feeling that resulted from that inhospitable reception, persisted.

"But to be quite honest," I added, scrupulously, "there used to be times when I adored the city. For instance, when aunt and I came up to stay at the Carlton for a few days' shopping, and to see the latest shows. We did everything in the best possible style—"

I broke off, only to supplement my remarks with a vindictive:

"Oh, how I hate to be poor!"

Neil Saunders smiled.

"You'll never need to use that word again, my dear."

"What word?" For the moment I was puzzled.

"Poor!"

"But I am poor. It's going to take me ages and ages before I can pay you back the thousand that I borrowed!" My voice shook a little.

He laughed aloud, throwing his head back in a boyish way he has.

"I never heard of such a thing! A wife to owe money to her husband!"

Then he let go his hold of the steering wheel with one hand, and touched mine gently.

"You foolish little Anne!" he whispered.

Thereafter, silence fell upon us for a while. I abandoned myself to the new feeling of security and ease that had come upon me.

It was good to be looked after—"managed"—for a time. I'd been so hopelessly incompetent to arrange my own affairs.

Now, in two senses, a strong man was at the wheel!

Pretty soon we had left New York behind us, and were bowling smoothly through the countryside. It looked so fresh and sweet after the dusty, noisy city streets.

The woodlands and the hedgerows had gained a darker hue than was theirs in early spring. Shade had become densest, and the green fallen to its deepest tones.

The lovely blossoms of the chicory peered at us, and a brood of big white butterflies darted over us, the sun glittering on their snowy wings.

"Look! There's a scarlet tanager," I cried, pointing to a handsome specimen of his kind, who fluttered across our path. "The first one of the season I believe."

"You're a regular child of nature, aren't you?" My companion smiled at me. "I'm glad of it. We'll go off camping, one of these days. And I'll introduce you to all kinds of butterflies and birds and flowers and beasts that I'll guarantee you've never met before!"

"Go off camping!" A little thrill of something akin to fear went through my heart. After all, what a risk I was taking, in placing my fate and my future in the hands of a comparative stranger! What did I really know of Saunders??

But then what did any girl really know of any man, until she married him?

There was some comfort in the thought that others—all those happy, care-free girls about to marry—were in the same boat as myself!

"Where are we going?" I asked at last, waking from my reverie.

"Oh, to the funniest, most old-fashioned little church you ever saw!" Neil Saunders drew his case from his vest-pocket with one free hand, selected a cigarette, replaced the case, then said:

"Do you mind feel in this other pocket for some matches, and lighting up for me? Thanks very much."

After he had taken a puff or two, he added:

"It's just occurred to me that the average girl wouldn't be content with this sort of wedding! She'd want a huge fuss, and white satin, and orange blossoms, and a string of bridesmaids and little pages to hold the train up, and a church crammed with friends and spectators, and a reception afterwards, and—"

"Stop! Stop!" I protested, laughing. "Heaven keep me from that sort of thing! I'd just detest it!"

"Honest-to-goodness, Anne?"

"Honest - to - goodness, cross-my-heart," I rejoined; "I loathe display and parade, and useless ostentation! Truly I do!"

He suddenly swung round, and—before I realized what he intended doing—kissed me on the lips.

"You're a girl after my own heart, Anne!" he whispered.

GREEN TOMATOES.

Many are the uses of green tomatoes. It is a pity to think how many go to waste in all the gardens every year. They make a welcome change in the vegetable menu, sliced, dipped in egg and bread crumbs and fried, and even fried without the egg or crumbs.

The use to which they are most commonly put, however, is in pickles. For chow-chow, take two quarts of green tomatoes, twelve medium cucumbers, three red peppers, one cauliflower, two bunches of celery, and a pint of small white onions, and, if desired, two quarts of green string beans. Prepare vegetables and cut in small pieces or chop them. Some people like to put them through the meat chopper. Cover them with salt, let stand 24 hours and drain. Heat a gallon of cider vinegar, add a quarter of a pound of mustard seed, two ounces of turmeric, one-half ounce each of allspice, pepper and cloves, bringing it to a boil, add vegetables and cook until soft. Keep in a covered stone crock.

Green tomatoes also make an excellent and very economical foundation for mincemeat. Use one peck of green tomatoes, one peck of apples, six pounds of brown sugar, two pounds of currants, two pounds of raisins, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, cloves and allspice. Core the apples, and cut out the stem end of the tomatoes. Cook altogether three hours. This is a very generous recipe. Half the quantity will make enough for the average family.

A good green tomato sauce is made by boiling together two dozen large tomatoes, two dozen apples, a quarter of a pound of salt, four large green sweet peppers, one red pepper, two pounds of brown sugar, two ounces of mustard, two tablespoonfuls of ground ginger, two pints of vinegar, and six large onions. Boil them for an hour and a half and press them through a sieve fine enough to hold the apple seeds.

PEDRO IN OVER-THE-MOON-LAND.

Part Five.

King Puss-In-Boots lived in a great snow-white castle. It was in the throne room of the castle where all wrong-doers were tried, and as poor Pedro was considered a wrong-doer by the cat king, he was brought there for trial on the third day of his imprisonment. Alas for our little friend, the dog. How he wished he hadn't followed the cow over the moon, for he had been shut up in a dungeon for three whole days and had been given nothing to eat.

The porcupine guards had not left him and he was forced to march in their midst to his trial.

"Well, young fellow," said Puss-In-Boots haughtily, "what have you to say for yourself?"

"Nothing, except that you are a very mean cat not to give me something to eat," said Pedro.

What a shout of laughter the cats gave out then. King Puss-In-Boots was so taken back by the boldness of the prisoner he could not speak for some minutes, and while he was trying to get his breath Pedro glanced around the throne room to see if he could see a friendly eye.

Sure enough he did see someone who was friendly. It was Little Boy Blue away in the back row, and by his side was a little girl with a red riding hood. It was Little Red Riding Hood. Pedro thought, for he could see a basket under her arm.

What a long and tiresome trial it was. Puss-In-Boots did not give Pedro a chance to defend himself, for he had heard from Mrs. Tabby that Pedro had once torn his picture out of a story book and was very angry.

Of course, Pedro was being tried for bringing the clattering old pudding dish to Over-the-Moon-Land.

"Why don't you try to catch the pudding dish and put it on trial?" asked Little Boy Blue, when he saw that things were going hard for Pedro.

"Yes, that would be the sensible thing to do," said Little Red Riding Hood, for she, too, had taken Pedro's side.

"Silence or I will call in the wolf to eat you both up," angrily retorted Puss-In-Boots. "Haven't my soldiers been trying to catch that horrible pudding dish ever since it came to the kingdom?"

At that very minute there was an interruption. A clatter sounded on the floor of the throne room, and in ran the pudding dish, waving the spoon and making as much noise as it could.

"Stop it, stop it," cried Pedro. "It has the only pudding dish we had in the house. It's a bad thief." What a scramble there was, guards, soldiers, cats, Little Boy Blue, Little Red Riding Hood and everybody tried to catch the pudding dish, but it dodged them all, ran up onto the ceiling and was away again. In the excitment Puss-In-Boots had had his crown knocked off and his nose scratched.

"This dog is responsible for all this," he cried. "Take him away. Execute him at sunrise a week from tomorrow. In the meantime let him starve."

Poor Pedro! What a sad fate seemed to be awaiting him. Little Red Riding Hood ran to the foot of the throne, and throwing herself on her knees, pleaded for the faithful Pedro, but without avail. King Puss-In-Boots was too angry to listen to reason. Sobbing on the shoulder of Little Boy Blue, Red Riding Hood was led from the room and Pedro was taken back to the dungeon.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Facts about your name; its history; its meaning; whence it was derived; its significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

MYRTLE.

Myrtle is both a floral name and an appellative growing out of ancient Greek mythology. The fragrant white-flowering shrub which adorns so many urim gardens is the modern product of the evergreen which bloomed on the Hellenic hills and occupied a place of honor in the gardens of Olympus.

The ancients believed the myrtle to be sacred to Venus, goddess of love, and the superstition carried over into new-world nomenclature, so that the fortunate possessor of the name of Myrtle is thought to possess the secret of love and attraction. Certainly, if she wears a sprig of Venus' symbol above her heart, she will be irresistible, according to the ancient belief.

Despite the charming fancy which accounts for its derivation, Myrtle is more often regarded as a floral name by etymologists. Its greatest vogue is undoubtedly in England, though of late years, it has attained great popularity here, unfortunately losing much of its dignity in transit.

The emerald is Myrtle's talismanic stone. It promises her success in love and protects her from a deceitful lover. The gift of prophetic vision is said to come to the wearer of the emerald. Tuesday is her lucky day and six her lucky number.

WOMEN INVITED TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS OF CIVIC IMPORTANCE

Chamber of Commerce Holds Banquet On Thursday.

The London Chamber of Commerce is holding a civic banquet on Thursday night at 6:30 for the purpose of discussing the new collegiate institute problem and the Thames River improvement scheme. To this banquet the members of the chamber of commerce are inviting all the women of London interested in these matters, with the hope that they will enter into the question of the location of the new collegiate and the proposed erection of dams on the River Thames are of vital interest to the community, and are questions on which there is a strong diversity of opinion, it is expected that there will be some very hot discussions.

Gordon Philip, in speaking to The Advertiser yesterday, said that the chamber of commerce hoped that large representations of women would come from the different women's organizations in the city. Dinner is to be served by the women of the Talbot Street Baptist Church. Tickets should be procured at the chamber of commerce, so that the banquet committee will know for how many to prepare.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

"But of all days in my calendar,
This one shall have sacred place,
For I looked through a woman's heart today
And saw God's face!"
—Peter McArthur.

Loves the Country.

Dear Cynthia,—It has been such a long time since I've written to the Box that I thought I'd get busy and write, as everybody is having such a nice time discussing their joys and sorrows, trouble, etc., and finding so much sympathy, I thought I'd tell you what I was doing. I saw where some of the readers had gone to some of the dances, etc. The season has just opened for that around here, too, and I have been out about three nights a week, either to a dance, card party, chicken or oyster supper, or to a ball, and have sure been enjoying myself. I shall be glad when it freezes up and we can get out on the ice. Some city people think it dull in the country, but in the summer it is work in your nice airy kitchen with the sweet, pure air fanning your cheeks, and at night a bunch of friends gather and sometimes nice quiet games are played and everybody has a merry time and goes home and has a sound sleep, leaving all your doors open and nobody is going to come in and steal anything, and in winter it is dances, parties, concerts, etc., and go to town on Saturday and to the movies, and get some ice cream. Oh, I do adore my pretty home and friends. Well, I did want to have a chat about books, but guess I haven't time. If anyone has any books to exchange I would like to exchange some. So here's good luck to everyone, and hoping they enjoyed Halloween and that they have a happy, merry winter.

DAFFYDOWNDILLY.

Interested in Fund.

Dear Cynthia,—Thought I would send a few seeds to help along the S. C. H. fund. Also a mite for same. Would like a few cosmos and Canterbury seeds if you still have them. I belong to the I. O. D. E., so am very anxious for this fund to grow. Do not know whether I have made packages all right or not. If not, please fix to suit self.

BUSY ISY.

Ans.—Many thanks for the Scarlet Runners, also for the hospital mite. I shall be pleased to send you the seeds asked for.

A Dear Little Boy.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—So many helpful suggestions are given in your Mail-Box, I do not hesitate to come asking a favor. Can anyone supply me with a pattern for mocassins or hours slippers for a child of 2 years?

Miss Grey, we went to your city and visited the Shelter, and carried away with us a dear little boy. He is such a darling, bright, rosy and happy. Nothing has ever given us the pleasure we find in watching him develop. I wish I could have gathered all the motherless tots to my heart. Inclosed is my mite.

SWEET BRIAR.

Ans.—You deserve all the happiness and joy you receive from your baby boy, Sweet Briar, as it is only a just reward for opening your hearts and home to the little motherless tot. Thank you very much for the mite. Your request is referred to the readers.

Requests.

Dear Miss Grey,—It is some time since I wrote to you, but I read the paper every day.

I saw where Jack o' Lantern wanted the song, "Red Wings," so I sent it to you. Will you please send it to her? I also inclosed one of my favorite old songs, entitled "Who's At My Bedroom Window?" If there are any of the other Boxites who would like it I would send it.

I would like to correspond with someone from 18 to 21, if they will write first.

TEDDY.

Ans.—Thank you, Teddy, for filling Jack o' Lantern's request, also for the other song.

Dear Miss Grey,—May I enter your Mail-Box, as I would just love to? I have never written you before, but am a silent reader of your Page. May I ask a favor of you? Would you please send me the S. F. P.?

1. Now, Miss Grey, have you some good candy recipes? If you have would you please send me some?

2. I am 13 years old, and am in the Senior IV Class. Should I be further advanced?

I like to read Crippled Annie's letters, and if you have her address I would be pleased to get it.

If there are any seeds in the Mail-Box, please send me some of some kind. It doesn't matter which ones.

Here is a good recipe for green tomato mincemeat: Slice a quantity of green tomatoes and sprinkle them with salt. Put them into a large cheesecloth bag and let them drain over night. In the morning do not wash off the salt that is on the tomatoes. Cook equal weights of drained tomatoes and granulated sugar until tender. To seven pounds of the combined mixture add three pounds of seedless raisins, with mace and cinnamon to suit the taste. Cook for a few minutes after adding the seasoning, and put into jars. This will keep without being sealed.

ALETHA.

P. S.—Inclosed please find hospital dime.—A.

Ans.—1. Maybe some Boxites could give you a few good candy recipes.

2. I don't think so. The address and seeds have been forwarded, also the S. F. P. Thanks for the recipe and hospital dime.

Dear Miss Grey,—The most popular request in the Mail-Box at present seems to be for recitations for Christmas entertainments. I, too, am helping prepare a program and I would be very grateful if I could get any help or suggestions, or an opening song.

What day did February 17, 1870, also February 17, 1872, fall on?

ALLEGRA.

Ans.—February 17, 1870, fell on Thursday, and February 17, 1872, on Saturday. Many thanks for the inclosures.

Divinity Candy.

Dear Miss Grey.—Inclosed please find 25 cents for S. C. H. and could you please send me some seeds? I would like hollyhocks, cosmos, Canterbury bells and four o'clocks. Am sending in the recipe for divinity candy that Cleopatra of the Nile asked for. Would you kindly send me the S. F. P.?

SUNNY SIDE OF LIFE.

Divinity Candy—One cup corn syrup, 1 cup boiling water, 4 cups sugar, white of 3 eggs, 1 cup nuts (if desired). Put first three ingredients on stove and boil till thick as syrup. Then take 1 cup out and add to it the beaten egg whites. Let the rest boil till it breaks when a little is put in cold water. Take off and pour over the other beaten mixture. Add nuts and beat till it begins to get stiff. Pour in tins and mark in squares.

Ans.—The S. F. P. and the seeds asked for have been forwarded. Many thanks for filling Cleopatra's request, also for hospital mite and inclosures.

Mediocre Fields Diet of the 1920 Racing Season

Man o' War, Sir Barton and Cleopatra Performances Only Outstanding.

Although the racing year which was brought to a close some days ago was the most prosperous financially, since the renaissance of the sport, it cannot be said that the closing periods of the season brought about anything other than unsatisfactory racing, warranted be mediocre fields, with horses outstanding in a majority of the events. Of course, the year gave the turf world the horse of the century, and in Man-o'-War followers of the horse racing game will have an equine king to talk about, whose equal will probably not be seen in another generation.

While he demonstrated his prowess as a two-year-old, it was during that period of his career that he was spun in short distance races. While it would appear that it is for the especial purpose—sprinting—that a majority of our breeders point their efforts, it was in the three-year-old development of Man-o'-War that proved that he could go on as a distance horse par excellence and smother those of his age which in any other year with such a horse as the son of Fair Play out, would indeed have been champions.

Cleopatra—Sir Barton.

Among fillies of the three-year-old division Cleopatra is certainly entitled to the crown. Her most recent win of the Latonia championship, at a mile and three-quarters, proved her class conclusively. That she totally eclipsed the efforts of the colts which were arrayed against her aided in placing her in a niche among those of her sex of all time, and aids in strengthening the regret which is expressed at her early retirement. She, as well as the colt king, will race no more.

Among the older horses, Sir Barton is still the top of the heap, although he seems to have gone back a bit since his defeat by Man-o'-War at Kenilworth. His most recent showing brings up the question as to whether or not he had his heart broken in that particular race. It will be remembered that John P. Grier has been a totally different horse since that day at Aqueduct in the Dwyer Stakes, when he gave Man-o'-War the hardest tussle that champion had as a three-year-old.

Still a Question.

The two-year-old situation still remains unsolved, as the youngsters of the year which have won the plums of the 1920 season have either been retired or are on the shelf. Those others which have continued to sport silks have not shown the sort of form which is associated with top-notch performers. This was shown when the Futurity winner, Step Lightly, was easily beaten by three of her opponents in the Manor handicap, at a mile, which furnished the feature of the Laurel wind-up.

Some interesting figures in connection with the speculative side of the racing game are disclosed by an enthusiast in figures, who states that first favorites have won 19 per cent of the races during the 144 days under Jockey Club auspices. The normal average, he states, in most years has been about 42 per cent.

Continuing, he states: "The increase is due to scarcity of horses, owners not desiring to risk losing them and backing them to cover raises when they get home at short prices. Second choices won 23 per cent, and third favorites 14 per cent, leaving only 16 per cent for intermediate-priced winners, long shots and the much-talked-of 'jobs.'

"Racing is pretty clean compared with certain other forms of speculation which are considered of the 'legitimate' sort. The odds against the winning first choices were 5 to 4, a slight decrease from last year and a big decrease from the 8 to 5 of pre-Hughes days. At odds of less than 1 to 2 only 14 favorites lost in 60 such races.

"No favorites won during a period between July 2 and 5, when 12 were beaten. July 12 and 13 a like number failed in succession. July 28 and 29 seven failed in a row, while between August 23 and 25, ten straight failed to live up to expectations."

IS SECOND SHOT

S. VANCE of Tillsonburg, Olympic trapshooter, is second amongst the first ten amateur trapshooters of Canada. Consistent shooting has marked Vance's work during many years at the traps, and his inclusion in the Olympic team of Canada was popular amongst Western Ontario trapshooters.

SENIOR MEDS PUT GUELPH O. A. C. OUT OF MULOCK CUP

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—Senior Medicals today defeated Ontario Agricultural College by 27 to 1 in the semi-final game for the Mulock Cup and thus earned the right to meet Victorias on Thursday afternoon at Varsity Stadium in the final rugby game for the cup. Victorias entered the finals a week ago by defeating the junior Dentals.

Plans To Enlist Falcons in C.A.F. and Play O.H.A.

Capt. Frederickson, of the World's Champs, Now in 'Peg—Would Be Air Force Team.

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—A dispatch from Winnipeg today says Frank Frederickson, captain of the champion Falcon hockey team, is there from Camp Borden, where he has been with the air force for the last few weeks, and that he is trying to enlist the entire Falcon team for duty at Camp Borden, with a view to having them play in the Ontario Hockey Association.

W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the association, asked about the above, said the Falcons could not enter the Ontario Hockey Association as the Falcons. They could, however, as a team representing the Canadian Air Force.

"A team from the Canadian Air Force, a permanent military organization," said he, "would be eligible to enter the Ontario Hockey Association. I doubt, however, if they could get enough Falcons to make up a team, though there are three or four Falcons at Camp Borden now. I saw Frederickson on his way through Toronto to Winnipeg, and he did not say anything about getting up a hockey team. He said he was going west to get recruits for the air force at Camp Borden. If he organizes a hockey team at Camp Borden they would get the same concessions as any enlisted soldiers. A team at Camp Borden would necessarily have to be a Canadian Air Force team."

LADY BECK TO ACT AS ONE OF JUDGES AT N. Y. HORSE SHOW

Canadians Will Take Important Part in Big Annual Event.

New York, Nov. 16.—(By the Canadian Press).—As usual, Canadians will play an important part, both as exhibitors and spectators, in the 35th National Horse Show, which opened yesterday at Madison Square Garden. The show will continue until Saturday night, one day longer than last year. The classes to be judged are very numerous, and seem to cover the entire range of equine aristocracy.

Military features, arranged with the co-operation of the United States war department, are giving an unusual martial aspect to this year's show, while an indoor polo tournament adds to the varied character of the exhibition. Part of the program of the opening day was a display of big field guns drawn by six-horse teams, and turned out as if ready to go into action. Later in the week four teams that exhibited yesterday and other teams that will be shown on succeeding days will be judged for prizes. The polo match of last night resulted in Brooklyn winning over a Boston team by a margin of four goals. This novel attraction afforded much entertainment for the garden crowd. Lady Beck of London, Ontario, is on the roster of judges this year. On the opening day she took part in judging the novice class for saddle horses not exceeding 15.2 hands. This event was won by Red Cedar, ch. g., owned by Gosh J. Murphy of Troy, N. Y.

Other Canadian visitors to the show noted on the opening day were Miss Katherine Langdon Wilkes of Galt, Ontario, and her brother, Matthew Astor Wilkes. As usual, the show has attracted entries and owners from Ottawa to Kansas City, and from the famous breeding farms of the Southern States.

SARNIA TEAM SUSPENDED BY O. R. F. U. WHO AWARD SEMI-FINALS TO TIGERS

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—The Sarnia Rugby Club have been suspended by the O. R. F. U. for failure in not keeping the grounds clear of spectators, and the semi-final round has been awarded to Hamilton Tigers II., who will now meet Dons in the finals with the first game likely in Hamilton on Saturday.

The Sarnia Club on Saturday furnished no protection whatever and the game was continually being stopped until the field was partly cleared of spectators.

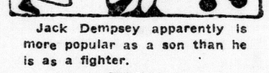

It is understood that the managers of the two teams agreed to meet in a sudden death game this week in London, but the O. R. F. U. knocked this on the bean be declaring Sarnia out of the running.

BISCUITS BETTER AS HE AGES

Zybyzko's recent appearances show that his sojourn in Russia, during which time he entertained bewhiskered Bolsheviki when they wanted a little recreation after a hard day on the firing squad, has done him little harm. He still wields his unwieldly ton or so of flesh around the mat in a frolic. He and Stecher will be brought together this winter, and there are a lot who like the big Pole's chances.

BOXING

Jack Dempsey apparently is more popular as a son than he is as a fighter.

The newest father Jack has says Jack is afraid to meet him because he was put in care of a younger brother, whom he allowed to wander away and get killed in Salt Lake City. The Bridgeburg father says Jack is afraid of a father's grief. On the other hand, Jack could get used to that kind of grief after getting used to his dad's long absence.

Both Leonard and Kelly have been warned by the New York State Boxing Commission that they must make a showing in their fight next week or lose their pay, and probably shreds of their reputation. The former argument will probably weigh the strongest with both fighters.

All the big cities are coming out in favor of boxing in the schools, and the Detroit Highs are the latest to be equipped with boxing gloves, water pails and sponges. Cauliflower ears won't be necessary adjuncts to toughness from now on.

Lou S. Marsh says: Charlie Hallat, the Grand Army match-maker, arrived from New York today with contract cinching another slamfest here between Patsy Wallace and Teddy Joyce, the Toronto fireman's son. The last time they mingled at the armories Joyce weighed 127½ pounds—and that was giving him the best of it—and the Italian with the Irish-Scotch monicker 118 pounds soaking wet, and a ripsroaring bout was declared a draw. Some people said Wallace won by a narrow margin. The Joyce faction were tickled pink with a draw. Now Joyce must make 122 pounds at 6 o'clock on November 26. Since then Joyce has changed managers and he is busy trying to get down to weight. "Bud" Lennon is now handling the little fellow's business, and "Bud" has Tommy Daly, Billy Jarvis and Fred Crompton looking after him. If there is anything in that "laugh and grow fat" wheeze Joyce will weigh a ton when he gets into the ring. He's got cracked lips now laughing at Tommy Daly's tales of how Detroit won the pennant. Anyway, Joyce is confident that he will knock Wallace into temporary oblivion. If he does, he will do what Jimmie Wilde could not do. James hit Patsy a million times and a few times more here one spring evening.

Joe Welling is matched with Benny Leonard for the latter part of this month in the first real championship contest, in which Leonard has engaged since winning the lightweight title. Richie Mitchell and Willie Jackson were both being considered for the match, but Welling got it.

Why Welling should have been given preference over either Mitchell or Jackson is a question for a Solomon to answer. Either Mitchell or Jackson has it on Welling in performances, and Jackson's recent knockout of Eddie Fitzsimmons should at least have given him the edge. Welling should not prove very difficult for Leonard if the latter extends himself.

Ted Block's showing against George Chip, former world's middleweight champion, last week, promises well for the Detroit battles for the future. Had Block been handled properly in his corner there is reason to believe that he might have put Chip to sleep.

Knocking out Chip is something that has been done but three times in the more than 10 years that the ex-king of the 158-pounders has been active. Block, however, had him on the verge of a knockout several times, only to lose his great opportunity when he was advised to be careful by seconds in his corner.

Too many cooks will spoil the broth and too many seconds will often spoil a boxer. That was the case in the handling of Block. There were too many advisers in his corner, and each was telling him what to do. One adviser, one towel swinger and one rubber is all any boxer should have in his corner.

Fighting Dick Atkins, the 118-122-pound champion of Canada, made a good showing in his first appearance in Detroit, though beaten. He was outweighed by his opponent, and next time out should be given a chance to show against one more his equal.

The fans are glad to hear that Charlie White gets another crack at Benny Leonard. Charlie certainly deserves it. He will have the best wishes of many a fan when he steps into the champion at Jersey City December 10.

Mike O'Dowd's 15-round decision victory over Jeff Smith entitles the former middleweight king to a return match with Johnny Wilson. Wilson has had but one match since he won the title on points from O'Dowd at Boston last spring.

The public is tiring of Wilson's inactivity, and several promoters are endeavoring to rematch O'Dowd and Wilson. Tex Pickard has made an offer for the match, and it is more than likely that it will be staged in New York.

Soldier Bartfield has issued a defi to three champions. He wants to meet Benny Leonard at 142 pounds, Jack Britton at 147 pounds, and Johnny Wilson at 160 pounds. He also is willing to take on Harry Greb at 165 pounds.

CHRONIC CATARRH

Follows Repeated Colds When Blood Is Impure.

Your body suffering from a cold does not properly attend to digestion and elimination. As a result your blood becomes impure, it inflames the mucous membrane and brings about that condition in which chronic catarrh occurs and on which it depends.

Purify your blood, make it clean, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and if your bowels are not healthfully active, take Hood's Pills. These medicines have relieved and prevented thousands of cases of chronic catarrh. Economy is one of the strong points of Hood's Sarsaparilla—100 doses in a bottle. Why not get it today?

ON THE ALLEYS

The Maple Leafs were rolling in an exceptionally consistent way last evening, doing the unusual stunt of rolling an even 900 in the last two games, and 901 in the first. The last 900 was not sufficient to keep off the Roscoe five, and they took the third game with a score of 958. This puts the Maple Leafs slightly in the lead.

WHO IS GOV. COX?

BY HEK.

New York, Nov. 15.—While Governor James M. Cox of Ohio was campaigning for the presidency we wrote him asking his opinion of baseball in general and the effect of the bribery scandal upon the game. Governor Cox is an ardent baseball fan and his attitude is revealed in the following reply to our letter:

"When honestly conducted, government will retain the faith of the people. When those who appear before the people as candidates fail to tell where they really stand, they remind me of baseball players who attempt to 'throw games.'

"The American love of the game of baseball is deeply rooted. The prominence given recent unfortunate incidents and the resentment against the men under accusation is a true reflection of the real interest in this great sport.

"When it is cleansed by the proper methods, baseball will be as popular as any sport can be. I, for one, am loath to believe that the disease is very deep-seated."

Right you are, Governor Cox. It will take more than the efforts of gambling rats to destroy baseball.

But why do we not learn the identity of the men higher up in the bribery plot? These men succeeded in turning baseball players into traitors. Are they going to get away with it?

If the baseball magnates who are squabbling over a new baseball dictatorship would only turn their efforts to the unmasking of the bribery king and his accomplices, they might help baseball.

The indictments returned by a Chicago grand jury are not sufficient to clear up several mysterious phases of the investigation. It is all right to begin at the bottom and work up, but the work should not stop before the top is reached.

Isn't it peculiar that certain eastern politicians took so much interest in the baseball investigation?

Rickard, Cochran and Brady In Corporation Known As the American Sporting Club

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—"Tex" Rickard, Charles Cochran of London and William A. Brady, co-promoters of the Dempsey-Carpentier championship boxing contest, having combined their interests in staging bouts in this country, it was learned tonight, through the granting of a charter at Albany today to the "Dempsey-Carpentier Company."

The three promoters are the only directors of the corporation, which will hold contests under the name of "The American Sporting Club," a representative of Mr. Rickard declared. Mr. Cochran, it is understood, will look after the European interests of the corporation in indusing foreign pugilists to come to this country.

PROVINCIAL BOND ISSUE.

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—Tenders for a provincial bond issue of $5,000,000 were opened today by Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer, and the bid of Wood, Gundy & Company, Toronto, at 104.53 was accepted. The issue is at 6 per cent.

ROUTINE BUSINESS.

OTTAWA, Nov. 15.—A quantity of routine business was disposed of at a meeting of the cabinet council held this morning. Questions of main governmental policy are being deferred till the return of the prime minister to Ottawa.

This Strain Won't Be Put On Toronto's Conscience

TORONTO, Nov. 15. — This city's "public conscience" will not stand for the staging of a Dempsey-Carpentier prizefight in Toronto, according to the emphatic declaration of Rev. Dr. Trevor H. Davies, in a sermon in the Metropolitan Methodist Church last night. Dr. Davies said he thoroughly appreciated the value of the art of boxing and indorsed its development, but the financial arrangements and general results that would attend the suggested fight would constitute it as a "pure development."

Wetzel Has Now 23 Players To Go South in Spring

Latest Additions Are Pitcher, Infielder and Outfielder.

On his way home from Kansas City, Mo., Manager Wetzel of the London M.-O. League champions, stopped over in St. Louis for the purpose of signing up Pitcher Charley Harding, who was very successful in the South Dakota independent league last summer, as can be gathered from his record of 26 victories in 32 games pitched. Harding affixed his John Hancock to a London contract. Outfielder Bittle, secured from Galveston, is a fast lead-off batter, who broke into professional ball with Charleston, W. Va., while Wetzel managed the latter club.

Infielder William Sanders, who was highly recommended by Scout Billy Doyle of the Detroit Tigers, has also accepted Wetzel's terms, while Jack O'Dowd, another infielder, has come to terms.

Shortstop Shay will return to the London Club if he is not retained by May 1, according to the terms of the sale to the Birmingham, Ala., Club. The speed with which the London leader is securing his talent for the 1921 season will nearly enable him to start his spring training at Delaware, O., with the number of men desired to make the pennant race during the split seasons in the M.-O. League interesting.

If the 23 players now on the roster report, he will have more than he started out with last spring. Wetzel doesn't go much experimenting with players, but he has the faculty of gathering good men around him to begin with, and therein lies the secret of his repeated successes.

At Saginaw only 18 players reported to him in the spring, and 14 of that number were with his champions during the greater portion of the first Mint season. Last spring he had about 29 report, and only added Pitcher Harper to his staff after he got under way and the weaker ones were eliminated.

Call Aggies Names, But Admit They Can Play

The Toronto Star says: A lot of funny fellows that zero weather could not freeze up, referred to the Guelph Agricultural College rugby players Saturday during their game with R. M. C. cadets, as "chicken cuddlers," "cow nurses," "gentlemen plowmen," "milk feds," "cabbage doctors," "hay rubes," "soil ticklers," "hog washers," but when the game was over they had to admit that for tactics and strategy the cow punchers had it all over the adolescent Haigs and Fochs and were collectively a might sweet-looking rugby team. Looking them all over I am of the opinion that the Aggies can trounce the best team in the intermediate inter-collegiate ranks. I do not know who coaches them, but whoever he is he knows rugby and he has implicit discipline.

To Be Troubled With

CONSTIPATION

THE CAUSE OF MANY ILLS.

If you do not feel well and go to your family physician, one of the first things he will do is ask you to hold out your tongue. The reason for this is that the condition of the tongue shows the condition of the stomach and bowels.

If you allow your bowels to become constipated you will have bilious attacks, sick headaches, coated tongue, foul breath, heartburn, water brash, etc., and those troublesome piles, which cause so much annoyance and misery.

Keep your bowels moving regularly and you won't be sick.

In Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills you will find just the remedy you require for this purpose. They are purely vegetable and do not gripe, weaken or sicken.

Mr. James S. Harris, Box 324, Halifax, N. S., writes: "For two years I suffered with constipation. I could not get anything to cure me, and hardly anything would give me even temporary relief. One day my uncle induced me to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and even brought me a vial. I tried them without much faith, but I soon found they were doing me good, and after using the second vial I was relieved of my trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price of The T. Milburn Company, Limited Toronto, Ont.

CATARRH

Canadians suffer more from Catarrh than from any other disease. On this account Catarrh is dangerous and should be checked at the outset.

It isn't necessary to take internal medicine to cure Catarrh. There is a far better method.

Doctors now treat Catarrh by sending a purifying, healing vapor through the breathing organs. In this way the germs of Catarrh are destroyed.

The only successful vapor treatment is CATARRHOZONE, which the patient breathes through a special inhaler to the real seat of the trouble. The rich, piney essences of Catarrhozone heal and soothe all inflamed surfaces. They effectively treat the nose, throat and lungs with a powerful antiseptic that destroys irritation at once.

Catarrhozone brings into the system the balmy air of the pine forest. It cures completely colds, coughs, catarrh, weak throat, and bronchitis.

Once tried, Catarrhozone is always used. Nothing so pleasant, so simple, so quick to relieve, so absolutely sure to permanently cure. Accept no substitute. Large size lasts two months, and costs $1; small size 50c; sample trial size 25c; at all dealers.

PAUL HYMANS OF BELGIAN IS ELECTED AS HEAD OF LEAGUE

Former Foreign Minister of Belgium Receives 35 Out of 41 Votes—Significant Discussion Over Applications of Albania, Bulgaria and Austria For Admission — French Delegates Force Side-Tracking To Committee.

Geneva, Nov. 15.—Paul Hymans of Belgium was elected permanent president of the League of Nations at the opening session of the league's assembly here today. He received 35 votes to 4 for President Motts of Switzerland, and one each for ex-President Ador of Switzerland and Leon Bourgeois of France.

Declares Session Open.

When Mr. Hymans, who heads the Belgian delegation, and who is a former foreign minister of Belgium, declared the first session of the assembly open, the hall was crowded with men and women, and there were several women among the delegates. Their toilettes, with the quaint red and yellow gowns of the Swiss Guards, gave touches of color to an otherwise sober scene.

Geneva's Bells Ring.

The first session of the league assembly was greeted with the ringing of all the bells in Geneva, after several minutes of silence on the part of all the people of the canton.

The Socialist leader, Hjalmar Branting, head of the Swedish delegation, provoked the first debate by objecting to the election of Paul Hymans as president of the league by acclamation. M. Hymans himself decided the question by holding that since one member requested a secret vote he was entitled to it.

Lively Discussion.

A more animated and more significant discussion grew out of the adoption of the agenda. Lord Robert Cecil, who represents South Africa, held that the applications of Albania, Bulgaria and Austria, which were received since the agenda was made up, should be added to it.

Sets Up Precedent.

The assembly so decided after the French delegates, M. Viviani and M. Bourgeois, had made it clear that applications would be referred to a committee to be examined, and a decision taken as to whether they would be received. This reservation, it is contended, will establish a precedent, so that if Germany's application is received later the French delegates will be able to raise the question of eligibility.

LLOYD GEORGE CLAIMS GAS NEEDED DESPITE COVENANT

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Much adverse comment has been caused here by an announcement at a scientific meeting Saturday that the war office had requested the universities to undertake research into the development of its utmost extent of chemical warfare for both offensive and defensive purposes.

The question was raised by interrogations in the House of Commons today, asking, in effect how the Government reconciled this order with article 171 of the Treaty of Versailles, under which the use of asphyxiating, poisonous or other gases and all analogous liquids, materials or devices is prohibited and whether the investigations would be governed by similar declaration by the council of the League of Nations.

Under Consideration.

Mr. Lloyd George, replying, said that the whole subject of chemical warfare had been under consideration by the Government for the last year. It was a question in which any action must depend upon that of other nations, and as other countries continued to develop this method of warfare the safety of the British fighting services would be seriously jeopardized by lack of similar developments here.

The subject, he added, would, of course, have to be reconsidered when the League of Nations made its expected pronouncements.

Chemical Research.

Chemical research, as relative to dyestuffs is one that has been greatly agitated in one section of the press since the war, though this subject was not mentioned in connection with the interrogations today. It has been agreed that Germany by her extensive dyestuffs factories and her research reable to turn her enormous chemical resources to the purposes of chemical that Great Britain ought, therefore, to warfare, and it has been contended develop the dye-stuffs industry to the utmost.

"NECESSARY FOR SAFETY."

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(By Canadian Associated Press.—In the House of Commons today Premier Lloyd George said that pending the decision of the League of Nations, it was "necessary for our safety that we should continue experiments in poison gas."

Cops Peer Under Hoods; Autoists Fret and Fume

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. — New York City's 14,000 policemen became automobile experts all of a sudden today.

Acting on orders received Saturday from Commissioner Enright, who has planned a three weeks' campaign to reduce the number of automobile accidents, the police hailed thousands of automobiles and examined them for mechanical defects. If there was anything wrong enough to increase the possibility of accidents the chauffeurs were directed to garages and repair shops. The police took free rides to make sure their orders would be obeyed.

Such a thing as never having traveled in anything fleeter than the proverbial "twin twelves" that house the walking apparatus of patrolmen did not bother the bluecoats one bit. They carried pamphlets telling all about the place and purpose in life of magnetos, crank-shafts, sliding gears, transmissions, spark plugs, self-starters and the other instrumentalities in making the wheels go round.

But it was a most fretful day for automobilists. Business barons speeding to their desks were halted. They waited impatiently in the tonneau, while their chauffeurs smiled at the patrolman's meticulous examination of the engine and allied pieces of mechanism. Taxi-cab drivers took it as a joke, though grieving over the loss of time that would neither return nor bring returns. It was one day when the subway patron, ever a subject for high-priced humorists, could return the laugh.

Finishing their mechanical inspections, the police handed every driver a book containing traffic regulations, bearing on its cover the Biblical commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill."

During the day a dozen persons were injured, and a baby was killed by automobiles.

EX-MAYOR JACKSON MAY BE CANDIDATE

Interesting Developments At Border Are Expected Regarding Elections.

WINDSOR, Nov. 15.—Rumors at the city hall indicate developments following the recent appointment of W. E. Gundy as police magistrate, that may change the whole complexion of the municipal elections. The Advertiser was advised that Ex-Mayor Arthur Jackson may be a mayoralty candidate. It is understood he was assured of the appointment to the post made vacant by the death of Magistrate Miers, and was promised support in gaining that office. Friends of the former mayor freely predicted tonight that he would again be in the field, in which case Mayor Winter would probably reconsider his announced intention of resigning and again contest the office.

The candidacy of Mayor Winter would mean the retirement of both Ald. P. J. England and H. Wilson, who have already declared themselves in the field. Ex-Mayor Tuson will, in all probability, be a candidate with the settlement of the ferry controversy as his platform.

FAMILY BUDGET OF FOODS SHOWS SLIGHT DECLINE IN COST

OTTAWA, Nov. 15.—(By Canadian Press.)—A slight decline in the cost of the weekly family budget of staple foods is reported in the current issue of the Labor Gazette. The average cost for a family of five was $15.83 at the middle of October, as against $15.95 in September, $14.21 in October, 1919, and $7.93 in October, 1914.

The price movement continued downward, substantial decreases occurring in grain, cattle, hogs, sheep, butter, vegetables, cereals, sugar, cotton, some lines or metals and lumber, linseed oil, turpentine, chemicals, raw rubber and laundry starch.

The retail prices of food averaged lower, especially in sugar and potatoes and there were slight decreases in beef, bread, flour and rolled oats. Advances were shown in hog products, eggs, milk and coal.

M'GILL UNIVERSITY STARTS OFF DRIVE WITH BIG DONATIONS

Prominent Montreal Residents Attend Enthusiastic Opening Gathering.

[Special To The Advertiser.]

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.—"Get the gold, old McGill, get it, get, it, get it!" the campaign yell, coupled with the McGill yell, which issued with energy from 400 throats at the opening luncheon of the McGill campaign workers held at the St. Lawrence Hall today, reflected the dominant spirit of the gathering. Sir Vincent Meredith was chairman, and with him were Sir Arthur Currie, Prof. Stephen Leacock and a great array of prominent citizens, with a large crowd of workers, who greeted the announcement of $1,232,913 as the day's total with tremendous and enthusiastic applause. Prof. Leacock made a characteristic speech, in which sense and nonsense were so closely intermingled as to keep the audience on the alert to miss none of either.

Check From Mayor.

A communication was read from Mayor Martin, who sent a check for $1,000, and added that he saw no reason for doing less for "Old McGill" than for the French University.

The citizens' teams gave the following result: Team No. 1, $11,263; Team No. 4, $4,725; Team No. 5, $9,150. Teams No. 2 and 3 made no report.

TARIFF BOARD SITS IN LONDON NOVEMBER 29

Commission Announces Dates For Coming Sessions in Ontario.

ARGUMENT IS LIVELY

Drayton Considers Shoes At $20 a Luxury, and Shoemaker Strongly Objects.

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.—(By Canadian Press.)—The tariff commission announced today that sessions of the commission will be held at Ontario points as follows:

Kingston, November 25.
Hamilton, November 26.
London, November 29.
Windsor, November 30.
Toronto, commencing December 1.

Although requests have been received that the commission should sit at other points in addition to those specified above, this has not been found possible, in view of the pressure of the work, and the need for getting the evidence summarized in time for the next session of the Dominion Parliament. It is felt, however, that a sufficiently wide area will have been covered in Ontario to enable those who wish to appear from outside points to have an opportunity of coming before the commission at any one of the points specified. Those doing so will be given preference at each of the hearings.

A special fiscal winding-up meeting of the commission will be held at Ottawa in December, at which all those who have been unable to appear before the commission will have a last opportunity to do so.

LIVELY ARGUMENT OVER LUXURY SHOES

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.—(By Canadian Press.)—The main feature of today's opening session of the tariff commission here was a prolonged argument with regard to the requirements and position of the Canadian boot and shoe industry, presented by J. D. Palmer of the Hartt Boot and Shoe Company, Fredericton, N. B.

While Mr. Palmer presented a gloomy picture of the straits of the industry at the present time, with factories closing, prices declining on high-priced goods, unemployment among operatives and suffering caused by general dumping of surplus goods from the United States, his statement was enlivened by a series of animated discussions with Sir Henry Drayton. These were especially lively in regard to the luxury tax, which Mr. Palmer and other shoe men objected to strenuously, declaring that a good shoe at $20 was not a luxury.

Await Further Figures.

Neither Sir Henry nor Mr. Palmer could convince the other, but both awaited further figures.

Sir Henry throughout proved indefatigable in the search for more exact data than most of the witnesses could give him, and in every case his examination concluded with: "Well, we'll leave that over till you produce the figures we need."

The session was opened in the morning by a brief speech by Mayor Martin, who was followed by Albert Monet for the Market Gardeners' Association, asking that their growing industry be granted adequate protection in any tariff changes.

Manufacturers' Statement.

F. W. Stewart presented a carefully prepared statement on behalf of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, saying that a retention of the present tariff was needed to keep the plants in operation. A long discussion followed on the presentation of a factum for the Canadian Piano and Musical Instrument Manufacturers of Canada by A. P. Willis.

The case for the leather belting manufacturers was presented by Lieut.-Col. W. J. Sadler.

SINN FEIN OUTRAGE AROUSES NEW YORK

Insults to Union Jack Are Resented Hotly in the Tribune.

New York, Nov. 16.—The New York Tribune publishes numerous letters from United States citizens couched in terms of protest against the recent indignities accorded the British flag by Irish Nationalists in this city during armistice week celebrations. Under the caption, "A Local Sinn Fein Outrage," the Tribune supports the angry protests of its readers in the following editorial:

"The act of these Sinn Feiners was an indefensible outrage alike upon every decency of memorial sentiment and upon every obligation of courtesy due a friendly power.

Friendship Broad-Based.

"We do not think Englishmen will at all mistake the source of this act. The American friendship for England was never so broadly based and cleareyed as today. If we are aware of English mistakes and shortcomings—comparable to our own mistakes and shortcomings—we are equally sure of the underlying common cause of justice and right and democratic faith which the English-speaking nations of the world all share. Such an insult to the flag of Great Britain could not come from any true American.

Historic Selfishness.

"The Sinn Fein hand turned against an armistice day flag was, as one of our readers notes, typical of Sinn Fein in the great war. On this day, when Americans assembled to commemorate an occasion hallowed by the sacrifice of American soldiers in a common cause with Great Britain and France with all democracy against all autocracy, all that these Sinn Fein minds could think of was their own grievance. So it was in the war. Many Irishmen, south as well as north, suffered from no such petty egotism, and united all in the great fight. But not Sinn Fein. They trampled the flag on Broadway as a wholesale reminder of an historic selfishness that can never be forgotten."

UNEMPLOYMENT LESS THAN IN SEPTEMBER, SAY LABOR FIGURES

OTTAWA, Nov. 15. — (By Canadian Press.)—At the beginning of October, according to the Labor Gazette statistics, the percentage of unemployment among trade unions was 3.25 as compared with 4 per cent (revised figure) at the beginning of September, and 2.19 at the beginning of October, 1919. In reports from over 5,100 unions the volume of employment showed a decrease which was more marked in the latter half of the month.

The time loss due to industrial disputes was greater during October than in the previous month, but less than in October, 1919. There were in existence during the month twenty strikes, involving about 5,147 work people and resulting in a time loss of 65,556 working days.

At the end of the month there were on record eleven strikes, involving about 1,418 work people.

During the month of October reports were received from two boards established to deal with industrial disputes; four applications for boards were received, and a board was established in connection with one of three applications.

DRESSED CHICKENS LOWER IN PRICE

Crock Butter Also Cheaper—Potato Prices Firm.

The market this morning was exceedingly small, considering the shape all country roads are in. Several loads of poultry were offered. Dressed chickens were lower than they have been for some time. One farmer had a large load, and the whole supply went for 30c per pound. Live ones were slightly firmer at 22c per pound. Geese by the pound fell to 28c and 30c per pound. Turkeys, ducks and old fowl were in good demand.

The retail quotation of crock butter was 2c per pound lower than the quotations ruling for the past week. Wholesale lots bring 58c per pound, and retail at 60c per pound. All other quotations of butter were unchanged. No changes in the prices of eggs were recorded.

Potatoes took another jump when this morning the supplies were very small. Wholesale lots bring from $2.15 to $2.25 per bag and retail for $2.35 per bag. In many cases lately there have been considerable potatoes brought in in bad condition. One dealer in the city bought 50 bags from a farmer and he claims that one-third of the load was frozen.

Cabbages sold for 50c per dozen and a few Hubbard squash sold from 10c to 20c each.

Hog buyers say that prices on Wednesday will be a little lower, and that they expect large offerings the remainder of this week. One buyer said that live hogs would be bringing $15 per cwt.

Corn—Dec., 75⅝c; May, 80c.

Oats—Dec., 68⅝c; May, 63⅝c.

Chicago(Nov. 16.—resh strength developed in the wheat market today owing more or less to indications of European purchases over-night, presumably of Canadian wheat. Bullish sentiment was also stimulated by the scarcity of cash grain here. Besides, country offerings were meagre. Opening quotations, which ranged from ¼c to 3c higher, were followed by a moderate reaction and then by new upturns.

Corn hardened with wheat despite considerable selling pressure of a speculative character. After opening ¼c to ⅝c up, the market sagged a little and then rose again.

Oats paralleled the action of corn, starting ⅛c to ⅝c up, then declining somewhat and later going up-grade once more.

GULLY PROBLEM IS IN POLITICS

Decision of Railway Board May Affect By-Election.

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 15.—The Stalter gully, south of Copenhagen, has drifted into politics. The gully has been drifting all over the landscape now for the past decade or more, but at last it has been anchored. The Ontario Railway Board has been requested to give a finality decision today or any other day before the 22nd, but not later. What disposition will be made of the gully and upon these findings of the board may depend how much of a vote the U. F. O. candidate will receive in Malahide. Reeve McTaggart of that township, Clerk Hale and Barrister Barnum of Aylmer are in Toronto today urging the railway board to give a final pronouncement on the gully; whether it may be operated as an understructure for a bridge or left to drift further down Nova Scotia street. he waters that pass through the gully have already washed away two bridges, and the stream is now bent on wiping out every residence within the area of its erosive journey.

Makes Restitution.

Mary Jane Scott, an Aylmer lass of 16, pleaded guilty this morning to stealing articles of clothing from Mrs. Gwalter, Manitoba street, to the value of $20, and was remanded a week for sentence. Restitution was made by John Van Syckle, who made good the value of the property stolen. Mr. Van Syckle, who is a stranger to the police, claimed to be a cousin of the accused. The young girl, who has been to Buffalo, begged of the magistrate not to send her to jail because of the cold.

Severed Artery.

Cuthbert McCormick, 126 Alma street, of the M. C. R. car department, is in a serious condition at the Amasa Wood Hospital. When trying out an air-brake on Saturday afternoon, the valve let go, and, striking him on the neck, severed an artery close to the jugular vein. He suffered a considerable loss of blood.

Death of Mr. Anderson.

When sitting with his family on Saturday evening Matthew K. Anderson, 38 Redan street, died suddenly from an attack of heart disease, in his 78th year. He was born at Acton, Ontario, where he was working at the blacksmithing trade. He is survived by his widow, three sons and three daughters. The interment will be in St. Thomas Cemetery Tuesday afternoon.

TWELVE APPLY FOR ALLOWANCES

Boards Organized To Consider Elgin and St. Thomas Cases.

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 15.—The organization of the mothers' allowance boards for the city of St. Thomas and county of Elgin has been perfected, and they will co-operate with the mothers' allowance commission, Toronto.

The applications for help which have been sent the commission because of the absence of the organization of the county board will be returned to the secretary, Mrs. B. B. Graham, Rodney. About a dozen county mothers have made application for recognition.

Will Investigate.

To investigate the conditions governing the shipments of livestock from the port of Detroit through Canada, Elgin Humane Society Inspector Mattis is in that city and will report back to the society. Reports have come from parties interested in the care of cattle crossing the border that there is need of some supervision by a society officer.

Is Recovering.

Hon. T. W. Crothers, M.P., who has been seriously ill at the residence of his brother-in-law, Dr. W. Burns, Southwick street, is recovering.

New Organist at Trinity.

W. H. Spooner, Stratford, has been appointed organist of Trinity Anglican Church.

Miss Alice Mouvyez, Syria, and Mr. Nicholas Chouny were married recently in the Church of the Holy Angels, Monsignor West officiating. Miss Salma Abdo and Abraham Campo were the attendants.

MANUFACTURERS ASK A CONTINUANCE OF FAIR PROTECTION

Heads of Montreal Industries Appear Before Tariff Commissioners.

Montreal, Nov. 16.—(Canadian Press). —Manufacturers of textile and iron and steel goods and wall paper appeared before the tariff commission meeting in the city hall today and urged that the moderate protection now enjoyed by these various industries should not be changed.

On behalf of a company making braids, laces and embroideries at Coaticook, Que., E. F. Tomkins drew attention to the fact that his concern is manufacturing in competition in Canada with 20 other companies. Before the introduction of tariff protection the industry existed only in a small way.

Mr. Tomkins argued that prices in Canada were not higher as the result of tariff protection. Mr. Tomkins prophesied that if the tariff were taken down the foreign producer would be able to dump goods in Canada, when his own production exceeded his requirements, but owing to high duties in other countries the Canadian manufacturer could not retaliate.

After stating that the continued development of the iron and steel industry in Canada was a matter of national importance and concern, a brief fyled on behalf of this line of manufacturing in the city and district of Montreal showed the need for protection by mentioning that imports of iron and its products for the year ended March 31, 1920, amounted to $189,907,602. A considerable part of these imports constituted goods that were not made in the Dominion as yet.

LONDON HEARS TALK OF IRISH CONCILIATION

Dublin Correspondent Claims Country Is Ripe For Settlement.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—According to the Daily Mail's Dublin correspondent, there is again talk of peace conciliation in Ireland. He declares the power of the Sinn Fein extremists is broken, and that extreme Sinn Feinism is no longer popular; that the moderates are again being listened to, and that the country is ripe for a settlement.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

On legal affidavit, John Hart Brittain, business man, certified to this: "My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth.

"Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs." Mr. Brittain certified further:

After hair growth

INDIAN'S SECRET OF HAIR GROWTH

"At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian 'medicine man' who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly.

Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved."

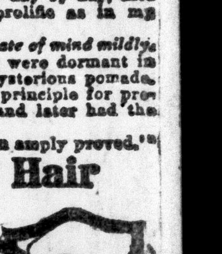

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

It has been proved in very many cases that hair roots did not die even when the hair fell out through dandruff, fever, alopecia areata or certain other hair or scalp disorders. Miss A. D. Otto reports: "About 8 years ago my hair began to fall out until my scalp in spots was almost entirely bald. I used everything that was recommended but was always disappointed until at last I came across Kotalko. My bald spots are being covered now; the growth is already about three inches." G. W. Mitchell reports: "I had spots completely bald, over which hair is now growing since I used Kotalko." Mrs. Matilda Maxwell reports: "The whole front of my head was as bald as the palm of my hand for about 15 years. Since using Kotalko, hair is growing all over the place that was bald." Many more splendid, convincing reports from satisfied users.

LLOYD GEORGE URGES GREATER PRODUCTION

LONDON, Nov. 15.—In supporting the new agricultural bill against criticism of the extensive powers of control it gives to the board of agriculture for the forcing of land into cultivation in compensation for a guaranteed price for products to farmers, Mr. Lloyd George tonight in the House of Commons entered a strong plea for greater production.

Mr. Lloyd George declared it was a scandal that Great Britain during the last year had been forced to import £500,000,000 worth of food which she should have produced herself. The possibility of reducing Great Britain to starvation, he added, was a temptation to other powers to assail her.

"If we want the sovereign to look the dollar, or any other money denomination, straight in the face we must increase the production of food," said Mr. Lloyd George.

SAYS MAN WANTED IN SLAYING CASE IS RIDGETOWN NATIVE

Winnipeg Man Says He Recognizes Picture of Old Schoolmate.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 15.—James Buller, the man sought by the police as the alleged murderer of Alex McCurdy in St. Boniface last Thursday, is a native of Ridgetown, Ontario, according to a statement of a former resident of that town, who says he recognizes his photograph as that of an old schoolmate. Buller, he says, came west in 1909 or 1910.

A reward of $2,500 for information leading to the arrest of the slayer was offered by the Provincial Government today.

CHARGE IS REDUCED AGAINST GUELPH MEN

Colonel Simpson Takes Lenient View of the Case.

GUELPH, Nov. 15.—Charles Balfour, William Rutherford and George Hayward, local young men, charged with the theft of a motor car owned by Col. Wm. Simpson, were before Judge Hayes this afternoon. At the request of their solicitors the charge was reduced to a minor offence under the code, after which all three pleaded guilty. His worship imposed a fine of $199 and costs on Balfour and $25 and costs on each of the other two.

Col. Simpson, the only witness, stated he had no desire to press a conviction, as two of the accused were returned men who had fought overseas with a clean record, and having had command of thousands of Canadian boys, he did not wish to be hard on any returned man.

SAYS BANKS OBTAIN COMMISSION UPON LUXURY SALES TAX

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—E. M. Trowern, secretary of the Dominion board of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, in an interview here today declared that the banks were obtaining a 5 per cent commission on the sale of luxury and sales tax stamps. The banks collect 1 per cent, Mr. Trowern said, and the Bankers' Association 4 per cent. There is strong opposition on the part of retail merchants throughout the Dominion against the luxury tax, Mr. Towern asserted.

POET'S FORCES EXTEND SWAY ALONG COAST

D'Annunzio Troops Meet With No Resistance in Castua District.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Soldiers of Gabriele d'Annunzio, commander of the Italian insurgent forces at Fiume, have taken possession of the coast and Mount Luban, to the east of Fiume, says a Rome dispatch today, quoting the Fiume correspondent of the Messaggero. The troops, says the dispatch, have occupied all localities of the district of Castua without struggle or incident.

The inhabitants of the village of Podogres, the message adds, opposed resistance to the inaurgent forces, causing them to retire. A column of manifestants from Fiume entered the Susac quarter and replaced all inscriptions and signs in the Slav language by others in the Italian language.

OPPOSES SETTLEMENT.

FIUME, Nov. 15.—The hostility of Gabriele d'Annunzio, insurgent Italian commander at Fiume, to the settlement of the Adriatic question reached between Italy and Jugo-Slavia at Rapallo, was announced today at a session of the rectors of the Fiume regency summoned by the commander.

OCCUPIES ZONE.

Fiume, Nov. 15.—Occupation by forces belonging to the Fiuman regency government under Gabriele D'Annunzio of one of the zones under discussion in the recent Adriatic negotiations between Italy and Jugo-Slavia is announced in an official statement issued today by the D'Annunzio staff. The regular Italian troops were withdrawn from this zone, it is stated, and the positions occupied by the regency forces are being fortified.

Cody, chairman of the Ontario Commission on University Finance, has issued an invitation to educational, industrial, scientific and other bodies to aid the commission in its work of fixing a basis for determining the financial obligations of the Province of Ontario toward the University of Toronto and the financial aid which the province should give to Queen's University of Kingston and the Western University of London.

J. E. Uffen has been appointed secretary of the commission with his office at the Parliament Buildings here.

MOTHER AND THREE CHILDREN ARE BURNED TO DEATH IN FIRE

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Soucquet and her three children, aged 11, 7 and 5, were burned to death in a fire on Saturday which destroyed the home of Emile Soucquet at Saint Malo d'Auckland, 20 miles from Sherbrooke. The only member of the family to escape was a boy of 8, who jumped from a window. He is being taken care of by the neighbors until his father, who is working in the woods, shall have returned.

REDUCTION IN HOURS.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 15.—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company today put into effect a cut from 54 to 48 hours a week in its working schedule, affecting 1,800 employes. At the same time the Moore Drop Forge Company abolished its eight-hour night shift, laying off between 700 and 750 men. The Westinghouse Company, according to Works Manager A. B. Reynders, expects to avoid reduction in the number employed.

HAD AN ANNOYING HACKING COUGH

GOT NO REST AT NIGHT.

Hacking coughs are very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest, and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in such an irritated and inflamed condition, that unless you get immediate relief the cough may become settled and serious lung trouble ensue.

There is no better remedy than Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for relieving all kinds of coughs or colds, combining as it does the lung healing virtues of the pine tree with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing and healing expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Mrs. E. J. Ross, Penhold, Alta., writes: "About three years ago I caught a very bad cold, accompanied with a sore throat and hoarseness. I was so hoarse you could not hear me speak. I could get no rest at night with the terrible annoying, hacking cough. I tried several remedies, but they did me no good. I finally saw Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised so I got a bottle. It at once gave me relief, and after using four of them my cough had all gone. Now I always keep it in the house."

"Dr. Wood's" is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark, price 35c and 60c a bottle. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Company, Toronto, Ont.

RATEPAYERS TO VOTE ON $38,350 BYLAW

Power House Is Needed At the Kitchener Hospital.

KITCHENER, Nov. 15.—The city council tonight, after listening to a deputation from the Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital, unanimously passed a resolution providing for the submission of a bylaw to the ratepayers on January 1, to raise $38,850 in connection with the financing of a new boiler house, which is required. A committee comprising Aldermen Harttung, Massel, and Ratz was appointed to investigate prices charged locally for necessities of life, and to make definite recommendation on action in the case profiteering is discovered.

JAZZ MENACES OPERA

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—American grand opera is threatened by jazz. Girls with "jazz minds" never can become opera singers. And most girls in this day have jazz in their minds. These are some of the statements made by Miss Madeline Kaltie, young American soprano.

She is concerned over where the opera of tomorrow will get its singers.

"Opera," she says, "is as serious, as it is expensive. Don't get the view that it's a gold mine. For it's not, unless the singer can appear in concert, register for records or enter the movies."

SAYS BRITISH TRADE SUPREMACY IS COMING

OTTAWA, Nov. 15.—Charles Cambie, London manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, is here with an optimistic view of British supremacy in trade and manufacturing, despite the upheaval of war and the task of reducing the tremendous debt. Mr. Cambie is a member of the committee of the British Bankers' Association, and in close touch with developments in financial readjustment. He expresses confidence that the country will produce goods, which, after commitments for food and raw material, will gradually improve exchange.

"With the improvement in exchange," said Mr. Cambie, "I believe there will be a marked increase in immigration from Great Britain to Canada." He cites Belgium as the best illustration of a "come back" after the war.

PLANNING SCHOONER TO RECAPTURE CUP

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 16.—Designs are being drawn in Halifax by W. J. Rous, member of the Halifax sailing committee, for a semi-knockabout fishing schooner to be built at Lunenburg this winter, which it is hoped will bring back to Nova Scotia and Canada the Dennis cup, emblematic of the championship of the North Atlantic fishing fleet.

Work on the new vessel will start on December 1, and she will be ready for the water the latter part of February or early in March. She will spend the full 1921 season on the fishing grounds, thus qualifying for entry in the international contest.

At The Theaters

AT THE GRAND.

A picture with a plot extraordinary is the "Imp," the feature picture showing at the Grand Theatre during the first half of this week. Plunging suddenly from rich scenes in a splendid home and a country club, the story carries one into all the wretched sordidness of the underworld. Through scene after scene each one more tense than the one before, the spctators are held in gripping interest, until when the climax of the story is reached and a peculiar, unexpected twist is introduced into the plot breaking the tenseness, a wave of laughter sweeps through the house from sheer relaxation. Although there is no comedy in the denouement, this actually happened last night when that point in the story was reached. The plot is a cleverly-tangled skein, which is as cleverly untangled.

No one better than Elsie Janis could have been chosen to portray the role of the daughter of a rich banker, who, as the result of an accident, loses her memory, and then imagines she is the "Imp," a famous woman crook. In her madness she is led into many startling adventures, and then is restored to her normal self by an experiment even more startling than any of her previous experiences. In this role Elsie Janis, always famous for her vivaciousness, proved that she is versatile as well. She gave an excellent interprettion in her role as a crook.

The underworld scenes of the picture were unusually good. The character work throughout was realistic, and the types well chosen. The supporting cast must receive credit for some fine dramatic work.

Probably a better-balanced picture program has never been exhibited in a local theatre. The dramatic tenseness of the main picture was relieved by something new in the way of comedies in the form of the famous "Bringing Up Father," adapted to the the screen in a Christie comedy. The characters were more realistic than in any previous attempt made to bring the funniest of cartoons to life. It had rich settings, and a bevy of pretty girls. The role of Jiggs was characterized by Johnny Ray in a capable manner.

To all lovers of things artistic, the Prizma pictures appealed some startling results having been gained in an attempt to produce pictures in their natural colors. This week a beautiful nature study is made on the speckled trout. The history of the famous game fish is traced from the egg form until its colorful form flashes through the mountain streams. The settings are magnificent, and are produced in natural colors.

A News Weekly completed a program which will be repeated today and tomorrow.

"TWIN BEDS" AT THE GRAND THURSDAY.

Mabelle Estelle, the clever little ingenue, who appears in the leading role in "Twin Beds," which will be the attraction at the Grand, November 18, 19 and 20, is responsible for the following:

"A great master once said that 'music is the poetry of the soul.' If this be true, then laughter must be the life of the body, for I can't imagine any more invigorating tonic than a good, hearty laugh.

"Have you ever tried this: When you get up in the morning, stand before your mirror, and first grin at yourself; then grin a little more; then open your mouth and laugh at yourself real hard—all to yourself. Keep this up for a few minutes and see what a change comes over your entire system.

"In place of that ugly, grouchy feeling you generally get up with, you begin to feel light and gay, and before you are through you will feel like turning a few handsprings. Take this recipe home with you and try it on your mirror, and you will agree with me that laughter is the life of the soul as well as the body." Seats now on sale.

AT THE PATRICIA.

A picture full of thrills and tense moments, coupled with beautiful scenery and actors of extraordinary merit was shown at the Patricia Theatre last night. The picture "The Luck of the Irish," adapted from a book by the same name, written by Harold McGrath, is worthy of special mention. It is probably the best picture that has been shown at this theatre for some time. James Kirkwood is exactly suited to the role of the hero, and Anna Q. Nilsson's poise, grace, acting and personality was exceptional. The two players alone put the picture over in no small style.

The story is of an Irish plumber who inherits a fortune, and sets out to see the world. He meets a young lady who is not attempting to see the world, but to get out of the clutches of a millionaire whom she jilted after he had shown his insincerity. The millionaire does not intend to lose her, so instructs some of his aides to watch her. They report to him the Irishman who has become quite intimate with the runaway. Plans are then set to get rid of the Irishman whom the millionaire believes will foil his plans to get the girl who jilted him.

William Grogan, the Irishman, suspects that his friend is in trouble, and in assisting her gets into numerous scrapes. He, however, always turns out on top. The picture is full of pathos, romance, love and laughter, and is sure to delight the children as well as adults.

A century comedy "Uncle Tom's Caboose," and two part western drama, "The Honor of the Range," and a singing and dancing vaudeville act completed the performance, which will be repeated today and on Wednesday.

AT LOEW'S THEATRE.

Nazimova again captivated her audience, when she appeared yesterday afternoon at Loew's Theatre in the magnificent picture "Madame Peacock." In this picture of the life of a great dramatic star, Nazimova has ample scope for a display of magnificent acting. For not only does she play the role of the lofty star, who worships fame, and tramples under foot love and friendship, ignoring her wifehood and motherhood, but she also plays the part of the simple, loving-hearted daughter. The marked contrast between these two characters as she portrays them, testifies to the magnificence and versatility of her acting. The story runs in this wise. Just as the star has reached the pinnacle of her fame, and the pinnacle of her unreasonable demands upon the rest of the world, her own daughter comes upon the theatrical horizon and eclipses her, playing a minor part in the same play. The star, not recognizing her daughter, flies into a tantrum at the thought that she has become second in the hearts of the public, from which she finally emerges a new woman with a heart capable of loving both husband and daughter.

The play has a magnificent setting, the home of the great star, being a veritable court of oriental splendor and her gowns like the plumage of the vain bird from which she took her name, "Madame Peacock."

The vaudeville bill, accompanying this picture, is also very fine. One act, presented by "Hite and Reflow," is set in a maze of colors. The stage is dressed with oriental colors, back of which great curtains open to permit the entrance of gaily costumed dancers. The act opens with a quaint Chinese scene. "Hobby Van Horn" is an interling and dancing numbers and then closes again upon the same far-away Chinese scene.

"Erford's Golden Wheel" is another dazzling piece of stage work. Colors float about the stage, while three girls in feathered head-dress, whirl about the great brass wheel in the centre of the stage, performing all manner of intricate acrobatic manoeuvers, brought to a climax by the final bell-ringing scene. "Boby Van Horn" is an interesting joker and singer, who received rounds of applause and an extra on the program, was a troupe of London musicians in a very fine presentation of "Hawaiian Songs and Melodies."

Excellent comedy and news films, a very fine overture and a song number, illustrated by colored slides, completed the performances, which will be repeated today and Wednesday.

AT THE ALLEN.

To few men falls the lot to portray, for the purpose of pointing a moral or telling a vivid story, the depths of satanical evil to which the unrestrained revenge-tainted soul of man may descend, yet fewer men could do it with a fidelity that makes even the callous man of the world seated in a comfortable theatre bent on a brief time of entertainment and recreation, feel the chills of an unnameable dread run through him. But this is just what Lon Chancey, as "Blizzard," in the graphic picturization of Governeur Morris' story, "The Penalty," the feature picture at Allen's Theatre yesterday does in a most effective manner.

Set in the world-famed crime centre of San Francisco, the Barbary Coast, the story tells of a boy who by the error of an unexperienced doctor is deprived of both his legs, and who hears as he comes out of the ether an older doctor remonstrating with the culprit for having "ruined the boy for life." The memory never leaves the boy's mind, and the desire for revenge on the doctor responsible for his condition and the world at large develops in him a demoniacal determination to become a Nero, a Caesar, using as a means to this end the uncanny power which he gained over the denizens of the underworld, the dope fiend, the white slaver and his victims, and all classes of thugs.

How the daughter of the doctor, now risen to fame, who deprived him of his legs, comes into Blizzard's power; how all efforts of the federal secret service to get to close grips with the master mind of the great crime centre are defeated; how by another operation the man is restored to normal mentality, but in the end perishes at the hands of one his dupes, are all told with a power, a vividness and an almost ghastly exactitude that causes even hardened witnesses of blood-curdling drama to shiver.

Nor is the wonder of the fidelity of the scenes depicted lessened when it is known that Lon Chancey is a normal man with two perfectly sound legs, and that in order to fill his part he had to have them strapped in a position, the physical pain of which forbid more than a twelve-minute posing at any one time. When this condition is realized, it is not so hard to understand the vividly diabolical expressions which Chancey is able to produce seemingly at will.

A beautiful Chester "Outing" picture, a Chester comedy, and a delightful overture, "A Medley of Popular Airs," makes one of the most pleasing programs for the entertainment of the pleasure-seeker or the recreation of the mind-wearied worker. The same bill will be presented today and on Wednesday.

MAJESTIC PLAYERS PROVE WORTHY OF LONDON PATRONAGE

"Within the Law," Opening Play—All Members Artists of Highest Order.

Bayard Veiller's great play, "Within the Law," one of the greatest and most powerful plays ever written, was a fitting vehicle for Grew & Powers' Majestic Players to make their bow through to London audiences in the old favorite Majestic Theatre last night. A capacity house greeted the rise of the curtain, and although the audience was too discriminating to applaud too violently, there was no mistaking the patent fact that practically every patron was marvelling at the excellence of the performance presented. "Within the Law" has been presented on one or more previous occasions in London, but, all things considered, it would probably be a conservative claim to say that the new local company is offering the best performance of this mighty drama ever presented here.

It was like old times at "Bennett's," as many people still call the Majestic, to hear the scenery shuffled again over the ample and traditionally popular stage, and the reception accorded the company augured emphatically for the fond hope that for the two years of the lease, as William A. Grew mentioned in his brief announcement between acts, London will accord sufficient and in every way satisfactory support to a London producing company. Practically without exception, the actors are the best that a stock company could possibly hope to secure, and a fair proportion of them are artists of the first class.

If Grew & Powers will only keep here the actors they now have and not let the lure of New York or some other highly-reputed theatrical centre steal them away one by one, then in all fairness London patrons of good drama should be generous and continue with their patronage.

"Within the Law" is a play to make one think. It smashed the protective mystery from a corrupt police system in New York, and it challenged the veil of self-assumed holiness with which blind justice in many lands was wont to shroud her actual ugliness. Blind justice too often was not blind, but under the cover of traditional infallibility of judges and the supposed incorruptibility of juries turned out to be the open-eyed and deliberate brutality of organized injustice.

Gwendoline Pates, as the confidence woman, is a little whirlwind of cleverness. William A. Grew, as Inspector Burke, is admirable. Ann Bert, as Mary Turner, the saleswoman, is splendid, but better as the avenger of innocent victims of injustice. Dillon M. Deasy rises to real excellence in the last act. Marguerite Weston, as the stenographer, is quite capable, and high-class acting is offered by Charles Fletcher, George V. Dill, James W. Swift, Mary P. Young, Edna Marshall, William M. Power, Hudy Davis, Alfred L. Regali, Edward Latimer, Grace Beacher, Fred C. Jones, George Summers, Frank Pearcy and William Hubbell.

The beating of tom-toms, the loud cry of men's voices intensified by megaphones, the shrill piping of girls' voices selling their wares, the laughter of pleasure-seekers, the merry shouts of boys, hilarious over a lucky grab bag, all accompanied by the shuffle of hundreds of feet and the chatter of half as many tongues, proclaimed the great "Shirners' Circus" to be open last night. This bedlam let loose into a fairyland of gay booths and colored lights, was the immediate result of an official proclamation of the Illustrious Potentate of the Mocha Temple Patrol, John Stevenson of Strathroy, who declared the great bazaar to be open.

"It is appropriate that Shrinedom should do something for little children, because, after all, Shriners are nothing more than big children," he declared.

Miss Joan Arnold of Toronto, national regent of the I.O.D.E., preceded Potentate Stevenson in delivering an official address on the opening night of the bazaar.

"It is marvelous to me to see all the women's organizations in London co-operating so harmoniously with the I. O. D. E. and the Shriners in conducting this great bazaar," she said. "And never more important was the old saying, 'In unity there is strength,' than today; for it is our duty to work together and restore the civilization that has been fought for on land and on sea. Many say that women are responsible for this reconstruction of civilization, and probably we are; for if it wasn't for women there might perhaps be no civilization."

The circus, which is to be held all this week, is given under the auspices of the Mocha Temple, in aid of the War Memorial Children's Hospital.

Wares For All.

There are wares to suit everyone's fancy at the greatest assembly of booths, which has appeared in the city for many years. There is almost every variety of surprise packet for the children—to be fished for by poles, to be dived after through sawdust, to be plucked from a tree, to be searched for beneath the breast of the immortal goose of the golden egg, and to be rescued from the magic skirt of the little old-fashioned Lady of Many Pockets. There are just as many attractions for grown-ups. There are the mystic gypsy ladies who tell the future by palms, or by tea cups or cards, just as the fancy of the moment wills; there is the table where just the right Christmas presents may be found, and another with stickers to seal them; there is the booth which pleads with the busy housewife not to touch a bake tin this week with its luscious array of cakes and pies, and even Christmas puddings and cakes. And for the men and the women and children there are the games of chance. And up and down the middle of the great fair all evening long went vendors, impatient at the restraint of their booths, selling ice cream, flowers, raffle tickets, Christmas stickers, and what not, the women, many of them in pure white with badges of their organizations, and the men wearing the picturesque Shriner's fez.

And all about them was the ever-moving, chattering crowd, while above, in the balcony others sat and watched the throngs go by.

A Bit of France.

Directly within the entrance to the bazaar was the Army and Navy dugout, a most realistic affair of sand bags in which presided W. Cluffe, as "Old Bill," who declared that everything was like home in France, except the mud and water. Sergeant W. A. Btnley was in charge here, assisted by Sergt. W. Leach, Sergt. E. J. Petty. Sergt. Rawlings was posted close by outside, assisted by Frank Campbell, selling chances on the automobile, which had been parading through the streets for the past few days, and will continue to parade until the end of the week.

Just opposite was the ice cream booth, a pretty white affair, decked with apple blossoms and climbing roses. Ice cream cones and sandwiches formed the chief bill of fare, supplemented by ice cream specials, named after every organization taking part in the circus, too numerous to mention. But let it be said that among the five which stood out in large type from the others was the "Press Club Special," the "London Special," the "I. O. D. E. Special," the "Shriners' Special" and the "Children's Hospital Special." Mrs. George MacDonald was convener of this booth, assisted by a committee of Mrs. Forristal, Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, Mrs. Hardie, Mrs. Kitchen, Mrs. E. H. Young, Mrs. Jos. Brown, Mrs. Logan, Mrs. Harry Bell, Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Coffey and Miss Staples, who in turn were assisted by the following young girls, Miss Walker, Miss Viola MacDonald, Miss Bessie Hardy, Miss Ruth Stevenson, Miss Jessie Manson, Miss Shirley Walker and Miss Verna Martin.

Oriental draperies of richest pattern and colors concealed the three small fortune-telling tents, before which a gypsy fire burned brightly and two gypsy maidens booked up patrons for the mystic ladies in the sanctuaries behind. Miss Harriet Priddis was convener here, with the Abigail Becker Chapter in charge for the evening. Miss Strongman, Miss Marjorie Pennington and Miss Minnie Raymond were the fortune-tellers, and they were assisted by Mrs. Brick and Miss Hewton in the booth.

The fishing pond was another attractive booth. Here real water filled the tiny moss-banked pond, where with line and hook the patrons fished for a lucky number, which would entitle them to a mysterious packet, many of which contained handsome pieces of china. Mrs. E. C. Bowker is convener of this booth, with Miss Mary Grant in charge last night, assisted by the following London Township women: Mrs. McCoomb, Mrs. Wyatt, Miss Taylor, Miss Hodgins, Miss Haskett, Miss Scott, Miss Foster, Miss Lowe, Mrs. Hardingham and Miss Fraleigh.

The whole stage was devoted to a tea-room, the convener being Mrs. E. H. Johnston. Mrs. J. S. Niven and the Lord Roberts Chapter were in charge last night. Mrs. W. J. Robinson, Mrs. W. Worthington and Mrs. Gartshore were in the tea-room proper. Ms. Robert Reid and Mrs. Westland were in charge of the fancy-work novelties; Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. R. E. Davis of the "Goose That Laid the Golden Egg," which was specially cared for by two small girls, Miss Nellie Campbell and Miss Edra Burridge, and Mrs. Rutledge was the fascinating lady of the paisley gown of many pockets, black lace shawl and poke bonnet.

Other Booths.

The other booths were as folows: "Christmas Stickers and Tags" Mrs. Emerson Nichols, convener; Mrs. Ashplant, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Jackson; "Flowers," Miss Jean Waugh, convener; Miss Ora White, Miss Margaret McCrimmon, Miss Velma Wylie, Miss Hewton and Mrs. Stuart Wilson; "Orange Booth," Mrs. Egelton, convener; Miss Fitchett, Miss Raymond, Miss Petch and Miss McArthur; "Home Cooking," Mrs. Hugh McCallum, convener; Mrs. Chamberland, Mrs. Bowman and Mrs. Crane; "Provision Store, No. 1," Mrs. Ross Thomas, convener; Mrs. Heard, Miss Pigott, Miss McQueen, Miss Brenner, Miss Mee and Miss Leigh; "Provision Store, No. 2," W. D. MacGregor, convener; L. Davies, Athol Henry and Alfred Johnston; "Provision Store, No. 3," A. R. Skelton, convener; C. E. Marley, Ben Noble, Miss Logan; "Silk Stocking Booth and Candy Club," A. E. Gibbens and J. A. Rose; "Hewsie-Howsie" game, Bob Pierce, convener; J. Chiera, W. Parkinson, H. Looney, F. Thompson, Reg. Johnston and I. Irwin. The Adelphic Chapter, I.O.D.E., are raffling a splendid oil painting by E. A. Dickenson; the High Niven Chapter, a ton of coal, a set of dishes and a pair of lady's pumps.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Grey Hair with a Home-Made Mixture.

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about grey hair and how to darken it with a home-made mixture:

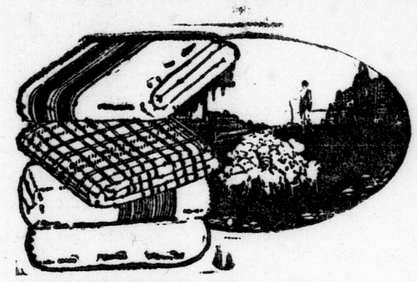

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken grey, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Orlex Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a grey-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky, or greasy, and does not rub off.—Advt.
