PRICE, THREE CENTS

DISCOUNT RATE NOT EXPECTED TO TAKE JUMP

New York Financiers Predict Canadian Dollar Will Not Drop Below 96 1-2.

NOW WORTH 99 CENTS

Hundred Million Dominion Loan Floated Monday Causes New High.

New York, April 28.—(By Canadian Press).—While the discount on the Canadian dollar in the New York money market is not expected to hold at one and a fraction per cent for any length of time, it is freely predicted that owing to the favorable position shown by Canadian finance, it will remain below 3 1/2 per cent for a considerable time.

Canadian funds early this week were at a discount of one per cent here, the lowest rate touched since January 19, 1918, before which Canadian funds had sold at a premium in this market for a considerable period. The rate had risen as high as 17 1/2 per cent in February, 1920.

The $100,000,000 Dominion loan floated here Monday was the direct cause of the new high in Canadian funds.

Other factors in the improved condition of the Canadian dollar here have been the rise in sterling exchange and the improvement shown by Canadian trade.

The Wall Street Journal today in a general review of the exchange situation as it affects Canadian funds here says:

"Rise in value of Canadian funds during the last sixteen months is due to several reasons. Rise of sterling exchange, and consequent increase of English buying in Canada has had a notable influence. England and the United States are Canada's two best customers and the relations of the three countries have been fast approaching normal.

Canadian trade has shown distinct improvement. For 1921 there was a small export balance, which was unexpected at beginning of the year. Since January, Canada has had an import balance, although a small one. It has been estimated that April trade figures will show an export balance, as in previous months.

"The factor which has had probably the greatest influence has been Canada's capital imports. In 1921, out of financing which totalled about $400,000,000, about $182,000,000 was floated in United States and $16,500,000 in England. Loans floated in the United States in 1919 and 1920 were even greater than in 1921.

So far this year, Canadian financing here has been in good volume, and although Canadian bonds held here which mature this year total about $62,000,000, most of them are expected to be refinanced.

After predicting that the use to which the proceeds of the $100,000,000 loan are to be put will have considerable effect on the future exchange rates, the journal continues: "Bankers acquainted with the situation predict that Canadian discount will remain steady between 3 1/2 per cent for a considerable period, and although all factors which will influence it during the fall cannot be foreseen, a decline to 5 per cent or 6 per cent later in the year will not be unexpected."

BARTHOU LEAVING GENOA FOR PARIS

Eleven Chinese Are Fined In Opium Raid In City

2 FOUND WITH PIPE ASSESSED $200 AND COSTS

Major Murphy, Prosecutor, Asks Informants Be Given Half Money.

COURT REFUSES ORDER

Declares He Is Instructed To See City Gets Full Amount.

Lee Sing and Charlie Yee, two Chinese caught with opium pipes in their hands when police and department of health officials from Ottawa raided premises at 357 1/2 and 343 Clarence street a week ago, were fined $200 and costs or three months in jail when they appeared in police court Friday morning.

Other Chinese who were fined $10 and costs for being among those present when the officers arrived there were Lee Lung, John Lee, Charlie Lee, Oh Lee, John Sam, Wong Gong, Lee Yook, Lee Chung and Wong Long Poy.

Charlie Lee admitted that he had been smoking opium, but claimed that the substance on his hand that the police said was opium, was merely some Chinese sauce.

"It is dark brown and thick, funny smell," said Lee. "I use him keep sickness out with opium."

"It is bad for other people, though good for you," observed the magistrate.

"Keep my life longer—consumption—try to stop, and can't," replied Yee rapidly, winking his eye.

"This man is the owner of the place," said Albert Judd, counsel for Yee.

"Yes, one man goes out and his cousin comes in, that's been my experience with them," stated the sergeant.

Sergeant Lucas said that he went to 357 1/2 Clarence street, on the evening of April 20 with Inspector Wilson, of the public health branch, Ottawa, and Constable Fuller. After getting into the place they walked down five or six steps to another door and into a room where Charlie Yee and four others were. Charlie threw away an opium pipe as they entered and opium was found on his hands.

Found Both Warm. Constable Fuller stated that Yee was moving his feet around and two decks of opium were found on the floor under his feet. The pipe and spirit lamp found in the room were both warm from recent usage.

Inspector Wilson said that Yee threw the pipe on the bed and knocked the lamp out as the officers entered.

Lee Sing, from St. Thomas, was looking for a man to work for him when the police entered, he testified.

"Werent you find here once for selling opium?" queried T. J. Murphy, K.C., who was prosecuting the case.

"No! No! No!" replied Sing, with a horrified look.

"Well, I've got evidence to prove that you were," replied Mr. Murphy.

"You saw Charlie smoking?"

"No! No! No! No!" laughed Sing.

Inspector Lucas then entered the witness box and stated that the previous witness had been convicted five times.

King George's Second Son Is Real Industrial Leader In England

the school at Osborne just as do so many other British boys who intend to become naval officers. Two years later he entered the Royal Naval College at Dartmouth. The best proof that the ways were not paved for him is that it was officially announced that he passed his examinations, but was only the 64th in the class.

Like other cadets, he was appointed to the training ship Cumberland, did the same work, ate the same grub and was subject to the same restrictions. In 1913 his ship went for a six-months' cruise in Canadian and West Indian waters, and that was the first glimpse the then Prince Albert had of his father's dominions. He had a splendid time in Canada, the papers noting the fact that with 60 of his fellow cadets he played leap-frog in front of the Place Viget Station in Montreal and chattered French with the Canadians in that French section of the great metropolis. The one thing that bothered him was that the wide-awake Canadian newspaper photographers were always on the job snapping him. He thought they ought to let him have his fun.

Fought at Jutland.

When he got down to the Barbados in West Indies he took part in field athletics, easily winning in the distance handicap race of four furlongs.

Later in 1913 he was transferred to the battleship Collingwood and was on her when the war broke out. He had to leave his ship for a time owing to an operation for appendicitis. He rejoined the navy and was present at the great battle of Jutland.

Just before the war ended, having completed his naval training, the prince became interested in aviation. He thereupon joined the air force as a cadet, wore the khaki like the rest of the fellows, and took the full flight training. Before the armistice he had made many flights to France.

PRINCE ALBERT, THE DUKE OF YORK.

About two years ago he was created Duke of York by his father. This gave him a seat in the House of Lords, and he is an occasional attendant at big debates.

He is essentially an outdoor youth. He is a good tennis player, a fine shot, a motorist, a keen fisherman, and goes in for cricket, boating, swimming and riding to hounds. He is a good dancer, and is a frequent attendant at big house parties. Those who know him say he is rather shy and reserved until the ice is melted. Then he shows up as a good, well-read conversationalist.

Interested in Labor.

He is devoted to his brother the Prince of Wales. While the prince goes in for dark and more sedate clothes, the Duke of York likes the latest colors in his suits and often dazes Bond street with his check overcoats.

His public appearances have been more frequent in the past two years, as his brother has been away from England so much. This has brought out the serious side of the young man. He is much interested in labor matters, is frequently in touch with the well-known labor leaders and is president of the Industrial Welfare Society. The object of this organization is to bring about closer understandings between employers and employees. It is said that the Duke of York has never missed a meeting of the society.

One of his great stunts is to get information at first hand. His automobile will drive up without warning to a great engineering plant. He will step out, introduce himself and his aide to the manager, and ask to go through a plant. He will then go through one department after another, asking questions of the workmen and getting more information than if he read many volumes.

Sunday, Old Sol Ceases As Clock Regulator, Many Places

Daylight Saving Jam

TORONTO, April 28.—(Canadian Press).—On Sunday night next there opens up in Canada the annual and more or less popular sport of "jamming" the various time systems of the Dominion. Not content with the natural divergencies of opinion in Canada's clocks from coast to coast, sundry cities will at various dates during the coming month order their clocks forward one hour, to "daylight saving time," while neighboring cities, towns and countryside will stick to the time regulated by the orderly and methodical course of Old Sol. Railways and other cross-country services will stay by standard time—and thereby hangs the perennial tales of much confusion and inconvenience.

It would not be quite so difficult if the cities with clock tinkering penchants made the change on the same date. This is far from being the case, however. Montreal and Quebec cities, for instance, also Halifax, N. S., will start daylight saving at midnight, Sunday, April 30, following the city of New York and other United States cities which put their clocks forward at Saturday midnight.

Last year Quebec Province was under a provincial daylight saving measure, but the Legislature decided not to try it again. St. John, N. B., will adopt fast time, Ottawa goes Monday on May 14, and Toronto on May 20, and other cities will follow.

SPRING BRINGS SIX MENACES TO HEALTH OF CITY CHILDREN

(BY DR. W. S. DOWNHAM, MEDICAL OFFICER OF HEALTH, LONDON.)

of diphtheria after babyhood has passed. More than one-seventh of all deaths of children under five years of age are caused by this disease. Babies may catch diphtheria, but it is unusual because they are not exposed greatly. Nursing babies rarely develop the disease.

Diphtheria is preventable and, when properly treated with antitoxin, is curable. Most of the children who die from diphtheria really lose their lives because of ignorance and carelessness of parents.

Diphtheria may resemble a very mild sore throat, the tonsils and neck of the mouth being redder than usual and the child does not feel ill. It may look like a more severe sore throat or tonsillitis with a white or greyish patch, called a membrane, on the tonsils.

The glands in the neck may be slightly swollen. Or the disease may be like a very severe sore throat with large grey or white patches.

Nasal diphtheria in children is dangerous. It is shown by a mucous discharge from the nose. A second child may take it in the throat. The symptoms are the same, and the child may be dead before a doctor is called.

The cure lies in the quickness with which antitoxin is administered.

FEVER

VERY case of scarlet fever is not always recognized. Some people have mild cases of the disease and never know it. Yet such a mild case is able to infect someone else with a very severe case.

Scarlet fever is not so dangerous as are its results. Not in the fever, nor the rash of scarlet fever does the danger lie, but in the complications which are very likely to follow in the wake of the disease.

The direct cause of the disease is not known. There is no preventive measure like vaccination. Once contracted it must run its course, but extreme care should be taken that others do not come in contact with the sick person.

Children who escape scarlet fever until they are 10 years old seldom die of the disease.

Important symptoms of scarlet fever are sore throat, headache and vomiting. Rash develops on second day and the whole body, usually from the neck down, depending on severity of the rash, is generally covered.

WHOOPING COUGH

is a "simple" disease not feared greatly by ignorant mothers, who do not know that 10,000 children die annually of this disease.

Whooping cough is a serious and "catching" disease. It is contracted by children coming in contact with others having it. An ignorant mother often lets her children play with others who have it so that her kiddies may get it and have it over with. This often amounts to murder!

The disease begins as an ordinary cold and cough, the distinctive whoop not appearing until from one to three weeks, while some children have no whoop at all. Some medical men have distinct success with the provincial vaccine "Pertussis" while others report no success.

Whooping cough lasts from five to six weeks and the child having it should not under any circumstances be allowed to associate with other children or return to school until permission from the doctor or health authorities has been obtained.

If a child becomes languid, has fever, rapid breathing and constant cough, call a physician.

NOTHER

disease like scarlet fever that is not so serious in itself, but must be watched carefully because of possible results, is mumps.

People are won't alarm.

Mumps—if they don't have it themselves.

It usually affects children between 6 and 15, though lots of adults catch it, as many Londoners are well able to testify.

Mumps occurs especially in the months of early spring. Now is the time to look out for it.

It is believed to be contracted by direct transmission from one person to another. One seldom has it twice.

The disease is seldom fatal, but it is painful and sometimes leaves unpleasant results.

One or two weeks before the disease develops fully, the child will be drowsy and have a fever. These symptoms will later be followed by a slight swelling under one of the ears, which will gradually spread to the face.

is chicken pox fatal, nor does it require much attention. Nevertheless, its symptoms are so similar to those of other eruptive diseases, that they may cause confusion and some

A cold on the lungs that occurs with and follows measles may result in pneumonia. This is a frequent complication that may end in death.

Measles often leaves deaf ears or weakened eyes. It may lead to tuberculosis or any of a dozen other diseases and ailments more or less serious.

Measles is caught through transmission of the secretions of the nose and throat of one ill with the disease to another person who has not had it.

Perhaps the greatest cause of the spread of the disease is the failure on the part of parents to recognize in the cold in the head and reddened eyes of children the oncoming attack of measles. Children frequently attend school during this stage of the disease.

It is one of the most contagious diseases, and when an epidemic starts in the fall, London is sure of from 400 to 700 cases by June.

BOMB KILLS 3 MINERS, ASLEEP

Fourteen Children Are Left Fatherless by Outrage On Strike Breakers.

Congress At Rome Orders No Overtime in Europe, As Strike Aid.

Apollo, Pa., April 28.—Three miners were killed, and one seriously injured, when a bomb was thrown early today into a bunkhouse at the Patterson Mine of the Kiski Coal Company near here.

The men, who had been employed on a non-union basis after the coal strike was called April 1, were asleep in the bunkhouse after dawn today when the explosion occurred. Stanley Melke, Andrew Bornack and Frank Ridgaki were instantly killed and Frank Czakowski so badly hurt by a steel splinter from the bomb, that hospital doctors said he might not recover.

Each of the dead men were married and their deaths make 14 children fatherless.

The Patterson Mine is in Westmoreland county, across the Kiskiminnas River from Apollo. Before the strike it employed 75 men, its product being sent to a steel company here.

GET AID ABROAD. Indianapolis, Ind., April 28.—To aid United States coal miners in their suspension of work, the executive committee of the International Mining Congress in session at Rome, Italy, has recommended that all European miners refrain from working over time according to a cablegram received today at headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America.

If we find that their coal is taking place of the United States coal," said William Green secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, "we may call on the miners of Great Britain to refuse to supply these markets."

1,100 CARS COAL STAND IDLE. Charleston, W. Va., April 18.—Reporting that there were 1,100 unused cars standing on the Norfolk and Western Railway, the Kanawha and Michigan Railroad and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, with the number increasing daily, officials of the West Virginia Coal Association late yesterday reported that the demand for coal has not increased to any extent in the past few days.

They added, however, that according to their reports for Wednesday, 37 mines more than were open Tuesday were operating.

Two of the fields, it was stated, had worked on a union basis prior to the strike.

STRIKERS ASK ASSISTANCE. Connellsville, Pa., April 28.—First indications of privations and want in the coke regions of Fayette County were apparent here yesterday when a large delegation of striking miners from Mount Braddock, formerly employed by the W. J. Rainey, Inc., coal and coke interests, and members of their families visited Connellsville and made a tour of the business and residential sections soliciting material assistance.

FIRE LOSSES INCREASE. Toronto, April 28.—Fire losses in Canada during the week ended April 26 are estimated by the Monetary Times at $110,500, compared with $104,500 the previous week.

Genoa, April 28.—Louis Barthou, head of the French delegation to the Genoa conference, plans to leave tomorrow morning for Paris to confer with Premier Poincaré regarding developments at the conference, according to the Havas Agency. He will return from Paris next Wednesday.

If Vice Premier Barthou is returning to Paris Saturday, it is an initiative, it was declared in official circles in Paris this morning. The government has made no request for his return, says a dispatch from that city, and has forwarded all the instructions which the head of the delegation was supposed to require. One supposition is that M. Barthou desires to impart to Premier Poincaré information of such a confidential nature that he does not want to confide it to the wires.

Plans for Russia's reconstruction were being finally determined upon today in the conference sub-committee. It is asserted that the Russian delegation by the week-end, with the suggestion that the proposition be either accepted or rejected without further discussion.

Indicates Proposals. The Italian press today gives indications of what the allied proposals are. It is asserted, no loss will be offered to soviet Russia, but it will be suggested that an international consortium be formed to finance trade with Russia through a combination of firms and individuals of the various countries represented. Germany will be included in the consortium, it is declared, and provisions made that the United States may join.

The plan contemplates the economic colonization of Russia with guarantee that the autonomy and sovereignty of the soviet government will not be infringed upon.

The division of trade will be arranged in such a way that the countries participating in the consortium will have the opportunity of dealing with the sections of Russia situated nearest them. For example, Great Britain would be given the opportunity to trade with Northern Russia through Archangel and the Baltic ports, while the southern countries would be given advantages in the Black Sea ports.

Russia has stoutly objected to the consortium idea. She has the support of the Baltic entente in this position, on the theory that Russia, the Baltic states and Poland would do better to have independent financial arrangements with individuals and corporations rather than dealings through a government controlled consortium. The Russians insist that such a consortium would put them into a same class as China, Turkey and other backward countries burdened with capitulations.

The conference sub-committee on Russian affairs today had a discussion of the final document of the Allied powers' final proposals to Soviet Russia as framed at yesterday's notable conference in Mr. Lloyd George's villa. The sub-committee was expected to approve the document, which explains exactly what the powers are prepared to give and what they must have in exchange.

North End Boy Hit By Car, Narrowly Escapes Serious Injury

JIMMIE WORRALL, aged 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Worrall, Huron street, was painfully bruised and cut about the head and neck when he was knocked down by an automobile in the city of London. The accident occurred at 6 o'clock Thursday evening. Sent on an errand to the grocery store by his mother, on coming out, the boy started across the street and ran directly in front of the automobile. The driver, who was too late for the owner to stop.

He was hit by the fender, and fell between the wheels under the car. Those who witnessed the accident considered his escape from more serious injury remarkable. The driver of the car took him to his home, where he is confined today, largely due to nervousness from shock.

WITNESS, FROM COVER, HEARS BATTLE RAGE

Frank Burch and Aubrey Davis Both Fined For Scrap.

IS HEARSAY EVIDENCE

Witness "Got Out and Got Under" As Tools Flew.

Frank Burch and Aubrey Davis got into such a terrific scrap at Burch's garage, at 331 Wellington street, last Monday afternoon, that a Mr. Walker, employed by Burch, crawled under one of the motor cars until the battle was over, the police station and charging them with disorderly conduct.

Both men pleaded not guilty when they appeared Friday morning before Magistrate Graydon, but the court thought otherwise, and tacked a $5 fine on each of the fighters.

Sergeant Elmer Walsh told of being called to the garage, and finding Davis with his clothes soiled. The sergeant saw Burch coming across the yard, bleeding at the mouth.

"Each wanted the other arrested," said Sgt. Walsh, "so I brought both of them to the station. Mr. Davis accused Mr. Burch of doing something dishonest in a business matter about a check."

Three Tools.
"Mr. Burch said Davis threw some tools at him, and Davis said Burch threw him over a box."

Constable Leitch stated that he had arrived with Sergeant Walsh after the smoke of battle had wafted away. Davis in the witness box said that Burch had overhauled his car, and the work had not been satisfactory. Witness went to see Burch several times about the car, and finally Burch said he would give him his money back.

"He gave me a check for $20 and then stopped payment on it," said Davis. "I went to the garage and told him he had lied to me, and he told me not to call him a liar too often. He hit me and pushed me back over a work bench and covered me with oil and grease."

"I grabbed a tool and threw it at him, and then I threw some more and he went away."

"The proper thing to do would have been to come here and lay a complaint," reproved the magistrate. "When a man is hit he tries to defend himself," replied Davis. "I did it more to scare him than anything else."

Lawyer Late.
"I got a lawyer, but he isn't here yet," said Burch when asked to give his side of the case.

"I'm not running this court for the convenience of the lawyers," informed Mr. Graydon.

Mr. Burch then walked to the witness box and said that Davis' statements were correct until he came to the part about grabbing him.

"He got so excited and I jumped up quickly and he made a pass at me," declared Burch. "He hit me with a wrench and knocked the pipe out of my mouth. That's what caused the blood."

Witness then produced some heavy cut-looking tools which he claimed Davis had thrown at him.

"I think both men lost their tempers and acted very foolishly," said the court, "and I will fine them both $5 and costs."

J. M. McEwen, K. C., who had arrived in the meantime to act for Burch, asked if an independent witness might not be called, and on his request being granted, called Mr. Walker.

Walker said that he heard the talk about the check and some loud talking. He saw Davis make a pass at Burch and the tools started to fly. "I got under the car and stayed there," testified Mr. Walker.

Strikes Will Be Minus Quantity in London On May Day

FROM present indications London will witness a May Day entirely devoid of strikes, lockouts and similar labor disturbances.

At the moment there is but one dark cloud upon the local industrial horizon, the wage disagreement affecting the London Street Railway Company and its employees. As a board of conciliation will not open for at least a week to arbitrate this dispute, no May Day demonstration is possible.

F. McGuigan, formerly Grand Trunk official, has been appointed by the London Street Railway Company as its representative upon the board.

COMMISSION TO RENT ITS HOUSES

The housing commission has decided to rent the thirteen Garfield houses which remain on its hands. The rental will be $40 a month and leases will be yearly.

The sale of these houses has been slow, despite the reduction made in the price, while the Pine Lawn houses and lots are moving out quite briskly, seven houses and four lots having been sold by J. W. Cunliffe in the last few weeks.

There have been numerous applications to rent the houses at Garfield avenue and the commission finally concluded that it would be better to get rent for them than to have them stand idle.

BECOMES SUPERINTENDENT UNDER NEW CLASSIFICATION

T. J. MacLean, Local Man, Likely To Be Confirmed in Present Post.

T. J. MacLean, postal superintendent for London district, is one of sixteen postal superintendents who came under the recent re-classification of the civil service commission, their status being changed from postal inspectors to postal superintendents.

It is understood that these sixteen former inspectors will be confirmed in the office of superintendent, with the exception of two.

Superintendent MacLean, who was acting inspector, civil service commission officials state, will in all likelihood be confirmed in the office of superintendent. Arrangements are being made to complete the reorganization of this branch of the postal department, and part of doing this latter will be to confirm acting officers into permanent incumbents thereof.

When the change of classification was made in the status of the inspectors they were given considerably wider powers, and jurisdiction in their respective districts.

HYATT AVE. CHOIR HEARD IN CONCERT

Renders "St. Cecilia's Day," Under Direction of Organist, J. H. C. Woodward.

SEVERAL SOLOS GIVEN

Official Board of Church Tenders Banquet To 65 Artists.

"St. Cecilia's Day," one of the finest compositions of J. B. Van Bree was rendered Thursday evening in Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church, by an augmented choir of 65 voices, with Miss Hilda McMillan as soloist, and under the direction of J. H. C. Woodward, the choir-master.

The cantata was rendered with exquisite blending of the large number of voices, showing splendid training and Miss McMillan's solos stood out as work of splendid artistry. Her two selections, in addition to the cantata, were "La Capernaum" and "A Birthday," in both of which her voice was splendidly displayed.

Other local singers, of recognized ability, assisted in the program. Fred Callard was heard in two solos, "Until the End of Time" and "Love's Garden of Roses," which were followed by a reading, "A Bird in Hand," by Miss Kathleen Heard. Mrs. Anita Carson, a violinist of skilled interpretative power, rendered two numbers, "Consolation" and "Draha's 'Bartolomek'."

Mr. Harry Carson, whose voice is of magnificent quality and timbre, sang "A Bird in Hand" and "Land of the Long Ago." Two numbers by Mrs. William Self, "Sincerity" and "Where My Caravan Has Rested," completed an excellent program.

Proceeding the concert, a banquet was tendered to the choir, the official board of the church, Rev. R. J. McCormick, introducing the following toast list: To the choir, proposed by W. D. Yeo, with a response by Mrs. William Self, the choir president and J. H. C. Woodward, the organist and choir-master; to the visitors, proposed by C. R. Merrick, with a response by Fred Callard, and a toast to the trustee board, by Richard Bengate, with an apt response by Stanley Lee.

Ald. Douglass Claims He's Not In Market For Votes, Against City's Interests

Are aldermanic decisions regulated by the number of votes they will bring?

This was the trend of remarks thrown out by Ald. L. Douglass at the meeting of the board of works on Thursday night.

The lumber yard dispute was on Ald. Douglass in this case was championing the Mathews cause more or less, by contending that as the new site for the yard chosen by these people was outside the fire limits, the committee could not act.

One irritated Simcoe street resident wanted to know if he was going to side with one against all the residents involved.

This question came after a hot debate which was punctuated with what almost bordered on personalities.

"You are here to represent us," the Simcoe street resident thundered, addressing Ald. Douglass.

"Yes and I am here to represent the other people. It doesn't make any difference to me whether a deputation consists of one or a thousand, I intend to do things as I see them," said the alderman.

"You'll be down to us after votes," said the citizen.

"Perhaps," said the alderman, "in the meantime I am not bidding for votes."

"Well, we are here to make you mind what we say and we intend to do it," came back the resident.

Rather amusing was the serious manner in which Ald. Drake took the remark of a young man during the lumber yard debate. He only got out a few words in favor of the Mathews Simcoe street yard when Ald. Drake thundered, "Who told you to speak? There is too much jabbering going on in here."

This was just at the point where Ald. Drake was trying to convince Ald. Douglass that he (Douglass) had first objected to the site of the lumber yard on Simcoe street.

"I didn't object," said Ald. Douglass. "You did," "You did," "You did," and "I didn't," the debate spluttered on.

Order was conspicuous by its absence during most of the session.

"For any sake let's have some order," called Ald. May at one time and a few minutes later he came back, "Come on with the meeting! What's the matter?"

"Come on, gentlemen, a little order," he "Drake," whose running this affair," asked the chairman in accordance to Ald. May's call for business.

Citizens sitting on the side lines were heard to make some sarcastic remarks about aldermanic jabbering when they could be heard, after Ald. Drake had censured the youth for "jabbering in here," but of course, the aldermen were privileged.

Many were wondering how No. 2 committee is going to wind up the year. The meetings are getting more and more boisterous every session, and the present rate of progress would indicate that the murder stage should be reached about October, just prior to the time when the vote bidding time will come around again.

MOTHERS DISCUSS BOYS' WEEK PLANS

Clubs Hold Decisions In Abeyance Until Committee Is Interviewed.

REPORTS ON DAY NURSERY

Mrs. A. T. Edwards Tells How Small Donations Would Be Appreciated In Work.

Discussion with regard to what can be done by the mothers to aid in making boys' week in London a success, occupied a large share of the time devoted to business at the meetings of mothers' clubs on Thursday evening.

At the Talbot Street Mothers' Club the suggestion was approved to entertain boys in the individual homes on Friday evening. One suggestion made at the meeting of the Rectory Mothers' Club was that the members might co-operate in entertaining the boys of the district at the school. Decision was left in abeyance until consultation with boys' week officials.

Mrs. A. T. Edwards, president of the day nursery board, was the speaker of the evening at the Talbot street school, giving an illuminating review of the two years of history of the institution, telling of extension plans for the immediate future, and suggesting simple ways in which members of the mothers' club may help other mothers, through making campers for the nursery, sending in donations, no matter how small, such as soap, etc. Mrs. Alex. Harvey, junior, presided, and a most pleasing feature of the program was a solo by Miss Beryl Wainwright, who took a leading part last week in the presentation of "The Prince of Myland."

The proceeds of a tea recently held in the home of Mrs. A. G. Calder, amounting to $8.75, were voted to the milk fund of the school.

Mrs. A. G. Calder, vice-president of the Union Mothers' Club, addressed the well attended meeting of the Rectory Mothers' Club, impressing the importance for mothers of keeping close to their children and sharing the interests of their boys and girls during their growing years.

BRINGS TO LIGHT ROW OVER LIGHTS

R. H. Cullis brought to light another trouble that landlords are up against when he told Magistrate Graydon in police court, Friday morning, that two of his tenants had started to quarrel and one had turned off the hall light to spite the other.

Mr. Cullis was summoned for not having a light burning in the corridor of one of his apartment houses. "You had better see your tenants and get the matter fixed up," advised Magistrate Graydon. "I don't think there was any intention of violation of the act," the case is dismissed.

Julius Siskind neglected to take out a building permit for some work he was having done. He told the court he had one now, and was allowed to go with a warning.

COURT DISMISSES MOTOR CAR CASE

Edgar Guest, a member of the permanent militia, who was summoned to court a week ago on a charge of driving a motor car without a license, had the case against him dismissed Friday morning in police court.

"The attorney-general's department is satisfied that there should be no prosecution," declared Mr. Graydon. "Gen. Panet has told me that Guest is a bona fide soldier."

Hon. W. C. Kennedy Adroitly Talks of Weather To Avoid Interview

HON. W. C. KENNEDY, minister of railways and canals, passed through London on Friday morning at 11:49 en route to Windsor.

Mr. Kennedy, when interviewed in his private car, C. G. R. 104, stated that he had nothing at all to say in regard to the railway situation in Canada at the present time, very adroitly changing the subject by remarking that it was a beautiful day.

When asked what he thought would be the outcome of the coal strike, he replied that the matter would no doubt be handled by the proper authorities in the right manner. That was all he would say on the subject.

Mr. Kennedy denied that he was going to his home in Windsor for other than just a week-end visit.

GRAYDON MAKES "THINGS SQUARE"

Lorne Girvin told Magistrate Graydon that he had been going with Florence Walters for the last two-and-a-half years, and he thought too much of the young lady to use insulting language toward her, as accused by Miss Walters.

"You better sit down and I'll attend to this matter later," said the magistrate, looking at the youthful couple, who looked as if they had yet to see their twentieth birthdays.

As soon as one of the two Chinese opium cases was concluded, Mr. Graydon left the bench and listened to what was termed by Chief Birrell as a "lover's quarrel" in the privacy of his office.

It took the magistrate in the guise of a mature Daniel Cupid but a few minutes to "square" things, and it was not long until pretty Miss Walters and her former "steady" left the courtroom.

TRUSTEES CAN'T GET ANY ACTION

Civic Commission Hard To Find and Board Needs Money.

New School Must Be Built For Beginning of Fall Term.

Does Mayor Wilson's newly-created civic commission still exist, or has it passed uneventfully over the Great Divide?

This is the question which arises in the minds of the members of the board of education, notably Trustee Edwin Smith, chairman of that body, who Friday morning decisively scored the city council for apparent laxity of method in dealing with the trustees' requisition for school debentures.

"This is no joke," commented the chairman, vigorously. "It is a serious matter with the board, whether the others realize it as such or not. They must not forget that we have a school to build in the southeast section of the city, and have it ready for occupation when the fall term opens in September."

"We are still held up, however, until some action is taken by the aldermen or the civic commission. Plans have to be perfected, and the school built and equipped. It is now nearly the month of May."

Seeking definite information upon the subject, the secretary of the board was informed by Finance Commissioner James Bell that the question was awaiting the consideration of the civic commission which met, he understood, once a month upon notice from City Clerk Baker. The latter was under the impression, however, that the commission was still in status quo.

Members of the latter's staff explain that Mr. Baker is sojourning in New York, and were incidentally at a direct loss to throw any light upon the matter.

"The whole thing could be cleared up at the next meeting of the council Monday night," pointed out the finance commissioner, "if they should desire to dispense with the civic commission's action."

FOREST FRUIT GROWERS EXPECT GOOD CROP IN 1922

State That Buds Are Only Slightly Damaged By Recent Cold Spell.

FOREST, April 27.—Growers in this district declare indications all point to a good fruit crop. All fruits in this district have a large showing of buds, and everything came safely through last week's frost, with the exception of some cherries. The early Richmond and Montmorency have all their advanced buds frozen hard hit. It is probable, however, that there will be an amount of later buds which will escape the frost. Sweet cherries, peaches and plums have come through without damage. The apple crop is also safe.

Relaxing of Regulations Pleases Lovers of Pike Fishing At Rondeau

Special to London Advertiser.
BLENHEIM, April 27.—Information given out here yesterday pleased the lovers of the toothsome pike greatly. It was to the effect that an order-in-council had recently been passed by the provincial cabinet allowing persons to take (during the months of April and May) pike from either Rondeau or streams in this district by either spear or net, the fish to be for domestic purposes only.

The information was received by J. K. Laird, a resident of South Harwich, who has taken a great interest in the issue, and who was, a number of years ago, under the Liberal regime, a fishery inspector of the district. Mr. Laird received his information by letter from Hon. Manning Doherty, M.L.A. for this riding, and it may be considered as coming through efforts put forth by a number in this district who were much opposed to the recent attempt of officers to strictly enforce regulations prohibiting all from spearing or netting fish without a license, especially when it was made known that licenses were not granted even when applied for.

In fact, only a few weeks ago, a number of young men appeared before the magistrate on a charge laid by a fishery inspector, and were fined for fishing for pike without a license. It is needless to say that there will be a general taking-down of the spears now, and the streams will, after each froget, for some days, see many a lad scanning with eagle eyes their depths in search of pike.

KILLED WHILE STEALING TRUCK RIDE AT WINDSOR

Clayton Ellis, 3 Years Old, Falls
From Running-Board Under Wheel of Vehicle.

Special to London Advertiser.

WINDSOR, April 27.—Falling from the running board of an auto truck while stealing a ride, 3-year-old Clayton Ellis, son of Fred Ellis, 1116 Erie street east, slid beneath the rear wheel, sustaining injuries which caused his death at Hotel Dieu shortly before 1 p.m. today. The tragedy occurred at 12:15 o'clock at Niagara street and Langlois avenue. The driver, Stephen Smith, is an uncle of the little boy.

The lad was enjoying a ride unknown to the driver, who is employed by the Windsor Hardware Company. He was not aware, he states, that the boy was on the running board until he suddenly felt the rear wheel of the truck strike a bulky object. Glancing behind, he saw the lifeless little form lying on the roadway.

It is the belief of the driver that the boy sat down on the running board of the truck when he stopped in front of a house adjoining the child's home. The little chap had been allowed to play on the street during the morning by a relative. His father was at work as usual at the plant of the Dominion Forge and Stamping Company, and his mother went shopping.

WORKS BOARD STAGES USUAL 'FIELD EVENTS'

Deputations, Petitions, Clashes and Jangles Add Zest To Meeting.

FILE WENIGE COMPLAINT

Aldermen Indulge in Only Brief Discussion of Charge Against City Engineer.

The board of works staged another of its regular "field events" on Thursday night. There was the usual number of deputations, petitions, rows and jangles, with a little added zest of clashes between some of the aldermen thrown in for good measure.

Past sessions of the committee have been referred to as "Donnybrook," which is supposed to be the limit of disorder. Thursday night's meeting was a "Donnybrook par excellence."

A few pre-arranged decisions were handed down. Lumber yards are banned from within certain limits. The committee agreed to the location of one yard within the limits, refused another firm permission to start business outside the fire limits, and then turned around, after having stopped the firm from doing business within the limits for months, granted permission for it to carry on business within the limits for the next 30 days.

Cause Much Jangling.
The lumber yards were responsible for a great deal of jangling. Dr. Douglass stood practically alone against the proposal to violate the fire bylaws in regard to the lumber yards. He and Ald. Drake had several clashes over them.

The first application was from Clatworthy's of Albia Craig, who wish to locate a yard on the C. P. R. between George and Talbot. It will be recommended to the council.

The second was the Mathews Lumber yard, which has been up at practically every meeting this year, and featured many 1921 meetings. Mayor Wilson contended that a great injustice had been done these people, and moved that they be allowed to retain their old stand on Horton street.

It is within the fire limits, though it was not when the yard was first located there. Out of the wealth of discussion, wrangling, arguing, etc., to the town planning commission to lay out a definite policy for the city in regard to lumber yards, and in the meantime the Mathews people may use their Horton street yard.

Must Remove Lumber.

It was decided not to allow them to locate on the Simcoe street property which they bought and in which they have already placed lumber. The result is that this lumber will have to be moved. As the committee agreed that they can use their Horton street yard for 30 days, the only place the lumber can be taken will be back to the Horton street yard, which is within the fire limits.

The committee found that it is powerless to act in regard to the removal of the rendering works in the southeast part of the city. This is the decision after the matter has been hanging fire since away last year.

The act allows the board of health to interfere when property up to $1,000 is involved, and the province to act when it is up to $2,000. If it is over the latter sum, the matter must go to the high court. The amount involved in the plant is $25,000 or more.

Chief Aitken and Inspector Piper reported six gasoline tanks put in around the city without permits.

"What are you going to do about it?" asked Ald. Douglass.

Once again the matter was referred to the engineer, fire chief and building inspector.

Complaint Filed.
There was a short discussion on the Wenige complaint against the city engineer. There were some members of the committee who wanted the matter dropped. Ald. May said that something would have to go on the minutes. Ald. Drake moved that the matter be filed, and it was so agreed.

There was a long-drawn-out discussion over works. The mayor said that daily demands were being made to him for work, and he wanted gangs put on. The engineer said he would gladly do so, if he had the work to go ahead with, but the new plan to initiate work or notify all of the cost was holding up work, and he was about through.

Many schemes to get more work underway were broached, and the engineer was told that as soon as walk, or curb and gutter bylaws were passed he could go ahead with them.

Ald. Douglass rather spoiled matters by asking what about the council resolution to call for tenders on all this work, and the committee decided that the council will have to rescind this motion on Monday night next.

GIVES EXQUISITE MUSICAL PROGRAM

Cleveland Symphony Orchestra Entertains With Performance At Winter Gardens.

EXCEPTIONAL TRIUMPH

Nikolai Sokoloff Displays Masterful Control As Conductor of Organization.

BY OLIVIA HOGG.
Need of a magnificently inspired instrument to give a truly complete interpretation of the divinely purposeful souls of the men who have made themselves immortal through the medium of their music, was fulfilled by the performance of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, in the Winter Gardens, Thursday night.

London audiences, usually so loath to display unusual enthusiasm in their reception, literally went "wild" and the crowd which packed the auditorium and gallery to capacity exhibited such a marked reluctance to hear the end of the performance that N. Sokoloff, the really marvelous conductor, was obliged to add another number to an already generous program.

Rung of Triumph.
The last two numbers on the program interpreted the intensely passionate nature of the Slavic races of the old world. The orchestra reached its topmost rung of triumph in its fervid rendering of Tchaikowsky's "March Slav." All the volume of sound seemed as one gigantic force, swaying softly and gently or booming like thunder at the slightest inclination of the master mind of the conductor. Opening with the deep-toned sadness of the bassoons, there was a swelling into a violent crescendo, with the crying wail of the string instruments, and then from under the vast volume of sound there rippled forth the tenderly gentle theme, "Come, Dearest, Why So Sad This Morning," emphasized by the rushing sound of the wood wind instruments rising like a summer breeze.

Attacks and releases were so well defined as to be remarkable, and whether the last note was a mere wisp of sound or an intense volume there was the same clean-cut cessation.

On the part of the audience there was an absolute refusal to be pacified until a repetition of Grieger's "Shepherd's Hey" was offered. The number gave opportunity for the first introduction of the harp, and the stirring effect gained by the addition of percussion instruments and xylophone. The theme was more than sprightly. It seemed the embodiment of all the grace and verve of youth, and there was incorporated in it a lilting rhythm which made one vision the swaying litheness of dancers.

Seemed Scarcely Possible.
So different of theme, that it seemed scarcely possible for the same orchestra to interpret it, was the majestically solemn oratorio of Camille Saint Saens, "The Prelude to the Deluge."

It depicts with majestic grandeur the sorrow of the Creator at beholding His handiwork overwhelmed by sin, and in the last movement the violin brings out all the sorrowful love of the angels for the daughters of earth, a theme completely brought out by the violin in the hands of Louis Edlin, whose solo playing was interpretative genius itself. Here, again, the audience refused to be denied an encore.

The most pretentious number rendered was perhaps "Siegfried's Rhine Journey," which required the utmost skill, a delicate handling of light and shade effects, and the reaching of perfection in every detail. M. Sokoloff was obliged again to acquiesce in the insistent demand for an encore, giving an unexpected treat in the prelude to the third act of "Lohengrin."

Gorgeously colorful was the rendering of "The Festival at Bagdad," which gave scope for every magnidering of "The Festival at Bagdad," which gave scope for every magnificent effect which could conceivably be gained from the use of man-made musical instruments.

The roll of drums and the prolific use of good wind instruments brought before one vividly all the bizarre charm of the Orient, the brilliant, fascinating Orient familiarized by from "Thousand and One Nights," from which has very evidently been drawn the inspiration for composition.

And then again, of another world entirely was Bach's air on the G string, which breathes a stately solemnity as of angels walking, a slow dignified rhythm brought out subtly, definitely by the pizzicato effect of the "cellos."

Refused To Leave.
The end of the program was reached, but an audience vigorously clapping and with a muffled undertone of stamping feet refused to leave, their musical appetite so aroused by the performance that it could not be satiated. So M. Sokoloff must need return and announce an encore of the "Hungarian March," from the "Damnation of Faust." It was completely magnificent, but it was also completely evident that the end had to be and the audience heard "God save the King," entirely won by the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra and reluctant to realize that they had heard the last of them for at least this season.

Weigh Their Vote.

COUNT THAT day lost when the Liberal government at the capital is not facing a brand-new crisis. If the crops in any other part of the country are not up to scratch it can be taken for granted that the rumour crop at Ottawa will be growing so high that it will take a big man to see the line fence.

Right now Conservative papers and certain papers with Liberal leanings part of the time make it appear that the rank and file of the Liberal party at the capital are ready to pack their grips and get out.

The rank and file of the Liberal party at the capital are not going to get out, neither are they up in arms against the cabinet, as has been so commonly reported.

Some of the stories coming from the capital make it appear that the days of the government are numbered, and that it is all because the private members are opposed to the way the cabinet is carrying on the business of the government.

The feeling that is growing, and that has existed more than ever in Liberal ranks in recent years, is desirable, and it is one of the best evidences of a departure for all time to come from any following of a party for the sake of following and recording votes.

It is not a symptom of weakness—it is an evidence of strength.

Several members of the Liberal government have stated that they intend to weigh each and every vote they give in the interests of the voters who elected them.

When a government is made up of men who have that idea in mind there is going to be sure and safe legislation.

It is a good thing for a government to know that its members are not simply rubber stamps—that any and all legislation that is brought down is not going to be sure of a safe passage simply because it has one political stripe on it and nothing else.

Canada, in common with other countries, has had its full share in the past of this sort of government. Under such conditions it is possible for any government to play party tactics in their poorest sense. Under such conditions it is possible—and there are plenty of instances—the world over—for legislation to be put through that is not for the good of the whole people.

The LONDON ADVERTISER sincerely hopes, looking to the long future, that the King government never gets where it is simply a machine to record votes. Real Liberalism cannot grow under such circumstances, and rugged reform principles will certainly never grow into sturdy, worth-while realities in such an atmosphere.

Regard it as a splendid sign that there should be that feeling of independence that wants to weigh matters and consider the effort of each constituency and on the country as a unit. As long as that sort of business is kept up and maintained the critics can forecast as much disaster as they wish. It will be a sorry day for the Liberal party when it ceases to be made up of men who think and act upon the weight of evidence as presented to them.

Those who see revolution springing up in the ranks of the Liberal party are out of a branch that is apt to crack from the weight of being overworked. Those who are going the distance of talking a new election in the near future are in an even worse condition. They are so far from actual conditions and actual facts that they are hopelessly misled.

Is Child Lazy?

SOME day all parents and teachers—as, quite evidently, many still do not—that laziness in children as regards their school work is usually something more than a bad habit. Comparatively few are the children who can be rescued from laziness by exhortation or punishment.

Usually what lazy children most need is medical attention. This is because laziness is often a product of malnutrition, unfavorably affecting the quality of the blood circulating through the brain. And it may be a product of malnutrition even when the diet meets the child's needs.

If the child does not exercise enough in the open air it will be poorly nourished. And malnutrition may result if it is permitted to sleep in underventilated rooms, to play too much, to stay up too late at night, or become overexcitable and over-motivated.

Overemotional children are pretty sure to be children subject to brooding or worry or panicky fears. These exact to disturb digestion, besides directly depleting their energy. Then their food is poorly assimilated, they become malnourished, and as a symptom of their malnutrition they may develop laziness.

Overemotional, still further, may have an adverse influence on the workings of the glands of internal secretion. If these function poorly from any cause laziness is a possible consequence. So that it appears that lazy children sometimes need treatment by glandular therapy to be cured of their laziness. Sometimes, on the other hand, they may need only treatment to correct impaired vision or defective hearing, or treatment for the removal of infected tonsils, adenoid growths, abscessed teeth.

All these physical imperfections have been known to contribute to the development of laziness.

So, it may be added, have physical imperfections in a child's surroundings and in the circumstances of its life.

Faulty home conditions—especially constant bickering and quarrelling of parents, or the failure of parents to set an example of industrious activity—may give rise to laziness in children. And not infrequently the blame chiefly rests with late entrance into school, frequent change of schools and irregular attendance at school.

Finally, though happily not frequently, the laziness may be a sign of some degree of inborn weakness of mind. In which case it obviously is important to ascertain as soon as possible what that degree is and what specially corrective treatment may most hopefully be undertaken.

And even when the most searching medical and psychological inquiry fails to disclose any adequate cause for laziness, treatment by threats and punishment should still be avoided. Wiser far is it to try to persuade, since always it remains true that in the words of one who has given much thought to this problem of laziness in school children: "The driven child is more likely to be seized by a distaste for work than is the child whose inspired or spontaneous interests impel him to activity. The rational course is to offer an external stimulus that will tend to create an inner urge."

Own Your Own.

OWN YOUR own home. Don't be a renter or a mere transient in the community in which you live. Get a piece of ground, rooms enough to suit your needs, a lawn, a garden, some trees, a few shrubs and flowering perennials—own them all and be rewarded with a sense of security and contentment unknown to the mere tenant.

People are always interested in homes, for they are about the most interesting things in everyday experience.

Whether one owns his own home or lives under another's roof depends very largely on himself. Generally speaking, one can if one will. It is not how much money one earns, but what use one makes of the income that counts in the long run. A modest salary will build a modest home, and that's the kind of home the possessor of a modern salary should build.

It's the beginning, that counts, and the beginning of a home-building enterprise lies in the joint determination of husband and wife that, regardless of other demands, they will save enough from month to month to get them a house.

LITTLE TISERS

The house at Ottawa spent a great deal more time than was necessary discussing daylight saving. Once it was put on the floor of the Commons it was debated from every angle possible. The man who would assassinate the time-tinker had his say, and so did those who would have things left just as they are. The whole thing will right itself in a few more years if Parliament leaves it alone. Let Parliament pass a measure that no municipality shall have daylight saving, and right straight off it will be found that places want it that never thought of the matter before.

The Peterboro Examiner comments on the folly of using country roads when they are in no shape to be used. The Examiner says: "If driving on the country thoroughfares were reduced to a minimum for several weeks in the spring there would not be so many complaints later on of bad roads. People who are not on business bent should keep that fact in mind and give the highways a chance to recover before the joy-riding season is inaugurated. There is not any more sense in unnecessary motoring on the country roads in their present condition than there is in making footpaths across soggy lawns."

The Simcoe Reformer raises a pertinent point in the following:

"Hasn't Easter Monday outlived its usefulness as a holiday? The churches give it no visible observance, why should the banks and public offices? It's a simple nuisance, and should be scrapped."

To which we all say Amen! The fact that such places as banks and public offices are closed on Easter Monday causes no small inconvenience to the business community. About all that can be said in its favor is that it gives Easter vacationists an extra day in which to get home after spending the week-end away.

The Monitor (Alberta) correspondent of the Calgary Herald writes to that paper as follows: "A meeting was recently held in town, when delegates from all the adjacent U. F. A. locals, rural municipal district and the board of trade met for the purpose of recommending the appointments of all the government officials in this district. The various J. P.'s, commissioners, weed inspectors, etc., were recommended, and these recommendations sent on to the member for the constituency who will place same before the attorney-general's department at Edmonton." Seems to be a wee bit of patronage sprouting along with the other crops in Alberta.

DR. BISHOP'S ADVICE.

Fight Mosquitoes; They Spread Malaria

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP. MOSQUITO bite is a trivial thing. We are all bitten hundreds of times during the summer. A bite doesn't bother much, though it itches severely for a few minutes. But if left alone will cause trouble after a short time.

But did you ever stop to realize that every time you are bitten you take the chance of being infected with malaria?

Malaria is spread only by the mosquito. Eliminate mosquitoes and you get rid of malaria.

Few of the troubles called malaria by most people are really of malarial origin. They are usually due for the most part to bad digestion, or bad elimination through skin, kidneys or bowels.

Malaria itself is due to the invasion of the blood by a tiny germ more complex than the bacteria which cause most of our infectious diseases. It goes through several stages of development something like those of a frog or butterfly. It is an organism which cannot live and multiply in the human blood alone, but must spend some of its existence outside the human body.

While in the blood it lives within the corpuscles themselves. At a certain stage it frees itself and swims about in the blood. When this occurs the patient has fever and chills with all the symptoms of true malaria. Now comes along a mosquito and bites the person stricken with malaria. It sucks up some of the blood. The malaria germ then enters the mosquito and lives the rest of its life.

In changing its home from the human body to that of a mosquito it changes also in form, becoming what we might call the larva or offspring of the original germ.

When this germ matures sufficiently it wanders through the tissues of the mosquito to the salivary glands, and when the insect pushes its proboscis through the skin of a human body the organism passes easily into the fluids of the individual bitten.

And thus malaria is spread, always in an endless chain, from human being to mosquito, and from mosquito to human beings again.

Quinine is the specific remedy for the disease, for it kills the germ in the human blood. Besides quinine, of course, a general and sensible means of treatment must be used, such as proper diet, proper cleansing of the skin, and proper evacuation of the bowels.

So far as the family is concerned, the treatment of the disease is not so much the giving of quinine, but that should be directed by the physician, but the prevention of spread of the disease. Mosquitoes should not be allowed to bite the patient, because in this way they get material to infect other people. Every person with malaria should be screened off and otherwise protected from the insects.

The BOOKSHELF

EDITED BY CARR

THE CANYON OF THE FOOLS. By Richard Mathews Hallett. Hodder & Stoughton, Publishers, 265 Adelaide St. West, Toronto. $2.

GOLD fever, the lure that has called men thousands of miles from their homes and loved ones in search of precious metal, all the thrilling romance that accompanies such a search and all the perilsous toil, disappointments and hardships to which it leads—such is the theme of "The Canyon of the Fools," by Richard Mathews Hallett, a book which has to do with the exploration of an abandoned Mexican gold mine by an adventurous youth, Bob McCarthy.

Arrived at the Canyon of the Fools in search of the mysterious gold which is claimed to be in existence in this mine, Bob immediately finds himself the center of a vast amount of mystery and intrigue, a situation which is made doubly exciting by the fact that Bob is madly in love with May Gowdy, a fair lady of the athletic, albeit intensely feminine type, who is eligible in every single particular except that she is tied by a previous engagement to Jim Harper, in search of whom she has come from Omaha to the Canyon of the Fools.

To further distract him occurs the appearance of a Mexican general and his extremely bewitching wife and the mysterious non-appearance of Jim Harper, the rival lover for the hand of May.

The story is told in the first person, which lends much vividness to the well-sustained action and makes the mystery and intrigue of the plot all the more realistic.

An element of humor throughout occurs at unexpected moments, causing delightful surprises and preventing any tendency on the part of the plot to become over serious.

The climax is effective and well worked out, so that one is eminently satisfied with the end of Bob's career among the mines of old Mexico.

NIGHT COUGHS

Terribly wearing on the system is the cough that comes at night and prevents sleep.

The constant coughing keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in such an irritated and inflamed condition that they get no chance to heal.

You will find in

a remedy without an equal for soothing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, strengthening the breathing organs and fortifying them against serious pulmonary disease.

Mrs. John McKerney, Lower Montague, P. E. I., writes: "About three years ago I caught a very bad cold accompanied with a sore throat and hoarseness, and was so hoarse you could hardly hear me speak. I could get no rest at night with the terrible annoying, hacking cough. I tried several remedies, but they did me no good. Finally I saw Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised; got a bottle, and at once it gave me relief, and after using four my cough had all gone. Now I always keep 'Dr. Wood's' in the house, and shall recommend your wonderful remedy to others."

Price, 25c and 50c a bottle, at all dealers. Put up only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Adv.

PAINS IN BACK AND SIDES

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lindsay, Ontario.—"I used to have very bad pains in my back and sides and often was not fit to do my work. I tried many medicines before I began to take yours. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Toronto Globe' and now that it has helped me I recommend it to all of my neighbors. I keep it in the house all the time and take it once in a while no matter how well I feel, for one ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."—ELIZABETH CAMPBELL, 13 St. Paul St., Lindsay, Ont.

To do any kind of work—and you know there is much to be done—is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back to ache or a pain in your side; it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of these troubles, and restore them to normal health.

READ YOUR CHARACTER

(By Digby Phillips.)

NO. 200—VARYING YOUR METHOD TO THE PROFILE.

"Of what use is it to be able to read people's characters?" you may ask. "You can't change them unless you're a sort of professional reformer; so what's the difference?"

There is a good bit of difference. The better able you are to read them the better able you are to persuade people, whether it be to buy the goods you have to sell, to hire the services you have to offer, to like you when you want their friendship, to exert influence in your behalf, or perhaps to marry you. The ability to persuade is the measure of power.

How, then, would you go about persuading the man or woman with the convex profile? How would you persuade the concave profile (biding brow and protruding chin)? How would you try to persuade the person whose profile is perpendicular, straight up and down lines?

You should use very different methods of thought and action, and be interested principally in practical results. In making suggestions to such people embody lots of statement of fact in your talk. Avoid theories. Let them draw their own conclusions from mere facts under the stimulus of your suggestion.

To the concave profile give the "reason why" and explain theories in making your suggestions. Also show respect and consideration for the theories and opinions which such people give you.

To the perpendicular profile give both facts and theories in your suggestions.

Question—What is the new sheep feeding enterprise at Fort William?

Answer—Eight thousand sheep are being fed at Fort William from the elevator screenings, which, heretofore, have been thrown away. It is said the animals are thriving on the food, and that the enterprise may be greatly increased.

Question—How many of the Canadian provinces have a provincial prohibition law?

Answer—Seven of the nine Canadian Provinces have a degree of prohibitory law. British Columbia and Quebec have government sales systems.

VOWS TO KEEP CANADA BRITISH

Miss Joan Arnoldi Addresses Provincial Convention of I. O. D. E.

National President Appeals For Check Upon Immigration.

HAMILTON, April 27.—Registration of delegates, welcome and greetings occupied the greater part of the opening session of the annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, at the Royal Connaught Hotel here this morning. Several hundred delegates from all parts of Ontario have already registered.

Miss Griffin, regent of the Municipal Chapter of this city, the oldest chapter in the order, officially welcomed the delegates to Hamilton, and Mrs. F. Colson of Ottawa replied. Joan Arnoldi, national president of the I. O. D. E., brought greetings to the Provincial Chapter, and said that the success which had attended the Provincial Chapter in the past three years since its inception was one of the most encouraging things in the order.

A plea for individual responsibility by every member of the order was made by Miss Arnoldi, for she said: "Membership of the order was not a thing to be taken lightly." Touching on the question of citizenship, Miss Arnoldi said:

Will Remain British.

"We have declared that as long as there is a drop of blood left in us that Canada shall remain British and true to British traditions. If we are to uphold that boast it is our duty to look into the matter of immigration and make up our minds whether we want thousands and thousands of immigrants coming into Canada to make for a temporary prosperity, but which will later be the means of Canada losing her British identity, or do we want to build up slowly a carefully-selected population which will build a permanent prosperity and a true British connection."

In conclusion, Miss Arnoldi appealed to the members to bring in the young people as the future success of the order depended on the introduction of the young into its ranks.

Questions dealing with child welfare work, immigration and the Canadianization of aliens in this country were discussed at the afternoon meeting.

A resolution calling for the removal of the ban on the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine in Canada was adopted.

Plan Small Hospital.

A report on the work being done in the remote settlements of Northern Ontario was read by Mrs. F. W. Hudson, who is directing the work of the Mary R. Gooderham fund. Many families have been taken care of in the North. Mrs. Hudson said there was pressing need for the establishment of a small hospital somewhere in the northern part of the province. It was agreed that the site for such an institution should be left to the judgment of Mrs. Hudson.

Miss W. Gordon, educational secretary, reviewed the work being done among the inhabitants of the remote settlements of Northern Ontario. Small libraries had been established. Miss Margaret Edwards, provincial treasurer, reported that total receipts for the year were $21,616, of which $17,907 was paid to the funds of the National Chapter. Other disbursements left a small sum on hand.

MAJOR BLAKE TO REPLACE SMITH

LONDON, April 27.—Major W. T. Blake of the Royal Air Force has been invited to take the place of Sir Ross Smith in the proposed round-the-world flight, the Evening Star announced today. Major Blake told the Star he was taking Captain Norman MacMillan, but he had not decided on the type of flying machine to be used.

Major Blake expected to start about the end of May and plans to complete the trip in two months.

Send Six Pounds To Deck Graves

Three or four pictures in the collection of War Memorial photographs and reproductions of paintings, on exhibition in the city this week, in aid of the War Memorial Children's Hospital, are of special interest to the children of Ryerson and Lord Roberts Schools. The photographs in question were taken on a May day when, following an annual custom, the children of Folkstone and surrounding towns trooped out to the Canadian cemetery near Shoreham to lay their floral tributes on the graves of the gallant men from the Dominion overseas.

When decoration day comes this year the boys and girls of the two London schools will be represented by flowers, amounting in value to £6 4 shillings. This sum, raised by the pupils, was forwarded to Folkstone some days ago by Inspector V. K. Greor of the London public schools.

The supervisor of household science in the public schools brought a similar picture to those in the collection with her when she returned from a trip abroad last summer. Her pupils in the two schools were so impressed with what their little English cousins were doing they wanted to have a share, hence a tea and home-cooking sale recently held, and other means taken of raising money.

Nightingale Club "Makes Lane Turn," Scoring Success in Clever Play

"Where the Lane Turned," a rural comedy drama, with plenty of wending bells, one of those delightful pieces in which everybody tries to be good at the last, and everything turns out happily for everybody ever afterwards, was ably presented before a much-pleased audience in the Masonic Temple Thursday evening by the Nightingale Club of the Y. W. C. A.

Several capable men artists supported the fair members of the cast, dividing with them the laurels for clever interpretation.

Complications set in away back before the action of the piece, when Caleb Brandon and Jasper Fernley, country youths and comrades, decided to try their fortunes in the big city of New York, each setting out with a hundred dollars in his pocket. While Caleb sleeps, Jasper considered the situation, decided $100 too little for a start, and yielded to the temptation to rob his friend. Caleb returned home when the perfidy was discovered. Jasper in the city met success, and his conscience pricking, returned the $100 to his friend with explanations and plea for forgiveness. The money failed to reach Caleb, and Jasper became bitter over the failure on the part of the former friend to make acknowledgment.

The rich Jasper Fernleys are on a motor trip when the curtain goes up, accompanied by their doctor, their beautiful daughter, her English suitor, a French maid. With all the ability of the chauffeur, Speedmore Gassaway, the dramatic accident happens which causes Jasper, seriously injured, to be carried to the house of his one-time friend and long-time enemy.

The doctor in the case is a former suitor of the nurse, who once had

Only One Named

MRS. C. H. HILL.

MRS. C. H. Hill, wife of Lieutenant Col. C. H. Hill, D.S.O., officer commanding the Royal Canadian Regiment, who is the unanimous and enthusiastic choice of the London council of Girl Guides for the post of London commissioner. The recommendation must go for ratification to the headquarters, from which the new commissioner will receive her warrant. She succeeds Mrs. F. P. Betts who, as provincial commissioner, has been acting for London.

Delicious humor was provided by Miss Elsie Chambers as the French maid Marie, Miss Violet Plain creating much amusement as Mrs. T. A. Smythe, the pretentious summer boarder.

Other members of the splendidly-balanced cast were Miss Ada Minelly as Mrs. Brandon, Miss Jean McVicar, who played the part of Laura Fernley; Fred Nye as the typical stage Englishman, Sir Blashington Ingleby; Master Sidde Reid, who appeared as Thomas Algernon Smythe; Albert Outram as the chauffeur, and Paul Sasche in an ungrateful part, convincingly interpreted, that of Vincent Grafton, the scoundrel.

Much credit was due to the club for the ingenuity revealed in evolving suitable stage settings.

FORMER SERVICE MEN PREFER PHOTOGRAPHS

Princess Patricia Chapter Buys War Memorial Picture to Present to School.

Among the people visiting the exhibit this week of Canadian war memorial photographs and reproductions of paintings, which is being held in the former Nordheimer store on Dundas street, are numbers of ex-service officers and men. They go for the photographs first thing. They have known the grim realities of war, and they will not be satisfied with anything but strictest fidelity in depiction in the pictures. The camera has given them this, the scenes, the characteristic situations, even the people they knew in the years of the big fight. They examine the pictures on the walls long and critically, making illuminating remarks for the bystanders, then they pore over the albums containing collections of photographs made at Ypres, Cambrai, Vimy and Etaples.

"Isn't that Nursing Sister?" exclaimed a woman as she paused at an interior view of the 7th Stationary Hospital at Etaples. "The face isn't so clear, but I am sure it is her figure. And, there, I am sure that is she again, in that picture after the bombing."

Teachers are finding it well worth their while to spend an hour or so making a study of the pictures, to pass their findings along to their pupils. Thursday a department from the Princess Patricia Chapter, I. O. D. E., paid a visit to find a picture to purchase for presentation to a school. The members were delighted when they found the ideal thing from their point of view, a colored picture of the gallant Princess Pats at Ypres.

One picture which especially appealed to several teachers who visited the exhibit Thursday after school was that of the heroic little V. C. who stood by his gun at Jutland, stuck heroically to his post when all the rest of the crew were put out of commission.

So great an interest has been awakened in the pictures, which are shown here, by the way, in aid of the War Memorial Children's Hospital, that requests have already been received by the conveners, the Nicholas Wilson (educational) Chapter, I. O. D. E., to have them held for a few days next week.

What Women Are Accomplishing in London.

WOMEN'S FEDERATION TODAY.
The annual meeting of the Local Council of Women to be held Friday afternoon at the King street residence of the Y. W. C. A. is of widest interest to women of the city. It is a federation of the various women's clubs and societies in the city which are rendering magnificent service along educational, philanthropic, patriotic and welfare lines. A number of new organizations will be welcomed into the broad circle at the annual meeting, including such significant associations as the Federation of Girls' Clubs of the Y. W. C. A.

AID GRENFELL MISSION.
The Grenfell Mission Auxiliary is very grateful to the members of the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church for many articles fashioned by them out of the flannellette donated to the Grenfell Auxiliary some time ago. Mrs. Williams Simson was convener of the committee in charge of the making of the articles, which included three quilts, four suits of pyjamas, two children's sleeping suits, five pairs of bloomers, seven petticoats, five waists and six women's nightdresses. The auxiliary also expresses thanks to the Misses Fox for the gift of a large Bible, six pairs of socks, knit by Miss Fox, six caps, knit by Miss Florence Fox. Other donations acknowledged are: four pairs of socks from Mrs. O. T. ton, one pair from Mrs. E. M. King and one suit of underwear from Mrs. Arthur Gleason. The auxiliary has on hand at the present time a large donation of wool, which will be given out to any one wishing to make articles. The next meeting will be held in the First Presbyterian Sunday School, Wednesday, May 3.

PUPILS' RECITAL ENJOYED.
An interesting recital was given on Wednesday evening by the piano pupils of Miss Maude Norris at her home, 65 Byron avenue.

Those taking part were: Misses L. Gilbert, B. Armstrong, W. Dawson, L. Crocker, D. Upshall, G. Beemer, J. Watt, and Messrs. H. Upshall, V. Steele, W. Franks and G. Upshall.

During the evening a vocal solo by Mrs. Watt was enjoyed, also a piano trio by Miss Dorothy, and Messrs. Hartley and George Upshall.

KERWOOD W. I.
Thirty members and visitors were out for the April meeting of Kerwood

Women's Institute, held at the home of Mrs. Howard McLean, when Mrs. McFie, district president, gave a talk on institute work, presenting a vision of what might be accomplished by such a large organization as the Women's Institute, through co-operation. She advanced the view that in district work much might be achieved through each institute working to help some definite outside need, also taking up educational work, making a study of such subjects as "Laws concerning women and children," a musical contest, built on the names of songs, old and modern, proved entertaining.

Again one of those agonizing waits, racking to the two men whose future depended largely upon the happenings atop the range. Far on the other side, fighting slowly upward, was a freight train loaded with the necessary materials of a large sawmill.

"Guess it's all off," came at last. "The general superintendent in Denver's on the wire. Says to back up everything to Toller, including the plows, and give up the ghost."

"Give it up?" Houston stared blankly at the telegrapher. "But that's not railroaded."

"I know. I'll call Denver."

He turned to the key and hammered doggedly. Only soggy deadness answered. The line was gone!

CHAPTER XVII

"I'll take a guy with a diving suit to find some of them wires, I guess," the operator hazarded, as he finally ceased his efforts and reached for his coat and hat and snowshoes. "There ain't no use staying here. You fellows are going to sleep in town tonight, ain't you?"

There was little else to do. They fought their way to the rambling boardinghouse.

Morning brought no relief. The storm was worse, and they faced drifts waist high at the doorway.

Two hours later, the agent once more at his dead key, Ba'tiste turned to Houston.

"Get is no use here," he announced. "We must get to camp and assemble the men to help those who are not fortunate. There is death in this storm."

Again with their waist-belt guide lines, they started forth, to bend against the storm in a struggle and at last to reach the squat, snowed-in buildings of camp. There, Ba'tiste assembled the workmen in the bunk house.

"There are greater things than this now," he announced. "We want the strong men—who will go back with us to Tabernacle, and who will be willing to take the risk to help the countryside. Let is the danger ahead. How many of you will go?"

One after another they reached for their snowshoes, silent men who acted rather than spoke. Huddled, clumsy figures of white, one following the other, made the grueling trip back to Tabernacle. Already the reports were beginning to come in, brought by storm weakened, blizzard-battered men, of houses where the roofs had crashed beneath the weight of snow, of lost ranchmen, of bawling cattle, drifting before the storm to death. It was the beginning of a two weeks' siege of a white inferno.

The whole world was one great, bleak thing of dreary white—a desert in which there was life only that there might be death, where the battle for existence continued only as a matter of instinct.

And over this bleak desert went the men of the West Country, silent, frost-burned men, their lips cracked from the cut of wind, their eyes blood-red with inflammation, struggling here and there with a pack of food upon their backs that they might reach some desolate home where there were women and children; or stopping to pull and tug at a snow-trapped steer and by main effort, drag him into a barren spot where the sweep of the gale had kept the ground fairly clear of snow.

A two-inch crust of snow formed over the main snowfall, permitting small sleds to be pulled behind struggling men; to the world beneath had been frozen in, to give place to a new one above. And with that:

"It's open! It's open!" The shout came from the lips of the telegrapher, waving his arms as he ran from the tunnel that led to the stationhouse.

"It's open! I've had Rawlins on the wire!"

"Rawlins?" Houston had edged forward. "There's not a chance. Get Denver on the wire. Then take this message to every newspaper in the city."

"Can't you help us? Please try to start campaign to force Crestline Road to open the Pass. Women and children are starving here. We have been cut off from the rest of the world for two weeks. We need food—and coal. Road will not be open for four or five weeks more under ordinary circumstances. This will mean death to many of us here, the wiping out of a great timber and agricultural country, and a blot on the history of Colorado. Help us—and we will not forget it."

"CITIZENS OF THE WEST COUNTRY."

"Sounds good." The telegrapher was busily putting it on the wire. Then a wait of hours. Then the wire clattered forth a message. He could swing a pick or jam a crowbar against grudging ice would be needed up there. A mad desire began to come over him; a strange, impelling scheme took hold of his brain. They would need men—men who would not be afraid, men who would be willing to slave day and night if necessary to the success of the adventure. Long before dawn he rose and scribbled a note to Ba'tiste Renaud:

"I'm going over the range. I can't wait. They may need me. I'm writing this, because you would try to dissuade me if I told you personally. Don't be afraid for me—I'll make it somehow. I've got to go. It's easier than standing by."

"HOUSTON."

Then, his snowshoes affixed, he went out into the night. The storm clouds were thick on the sky again, the snow was dashing about him once more. He floundered aimlessly, striving by short sallies to recover the path from which the storm was driving him.

Lawn found him at last, floundering hopelessly in snow-screened woods, going on toward he knew not where.

A half-hour, then he stopped. Fifty feet away, almost covered by the changing snows, a small cabin showed faintly. His numbed hands banged at the door, but there came no answer. He shouted; still no sound came from within.

The door yielded, and climbing over the pile of snow at the step, Houston guided his snowshoes through the narrow door, blinking in the half-light in an effort to see about him. There was a stove, but the fire was dead. At the one little window, the curtain was drawn tight and pinned at the sides to the sash. There was a bed—and the form of someone beneath the covers.

Houston called again, but still there came no answer. He was looking into the drawn, haggard features of an unconscious woman, the eyes half-open, yet unseeing, one emaciated hand grasped about something that was shielded by the covers. Houston forced himself even closer. He touched the hand. He called:

"Agnes!"

The eyelids moved slightly; it was the only evidence of life, save the labored, irregular breathing. Then the hand moved, clutching. Slowly, tremblingly, Houston turned back an edge of the blankets—and stood aghast.

On her breast was a baby—dead!

CHAPTER XVII

SOON water was boiling. Hot cloths went to the woman's head; quietly reverently, Barry had taken the still, small child from the tightly clenched arm and covered it, on the little table. And with the touch of the small, lifeless form, the resentment which had smoldered in Houston's heart for months seemed to disappear.

"I'm sorry—Agnes. Don't be afraid of me. I'll get help for you."

It brought Houston to a sharp knowledge of conditions. They had given, that the rest of the country might not suffer. Their enemies had worked on, fired with the new hope that the machinery necessary to carry out Houston's contract would not arrive in time.

A shout had come from the distance. Faintly through the sifting snow they could see figures running. Then the words came: "They're going to open the road!"

"They're going to open the road!"

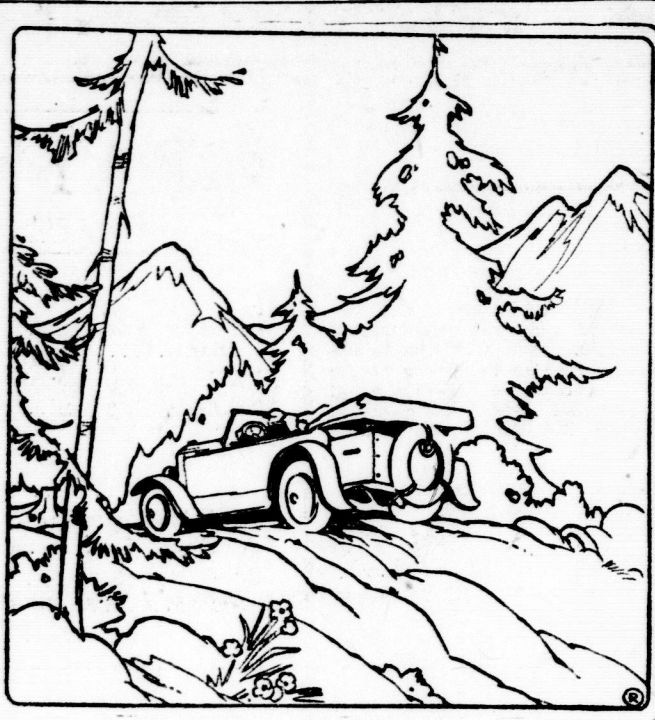

A message bearer came from the station. "It's the M. P. & S. L. According to the message, the papers hammered the stuffing out of the Crestline road. The other road saw a great chance to step in. It's lending the men and the rolling stock. They're going to open another fellow's road, for the publicity and the good will that's in it."

Two pictures flashed across Houston's brain; one of a snowy sawmill with the force working day and night, when all the surrounding country cried for help; another of carload after carload of necessary machinery, snow-covered, ice-bound, on a sidetrack at Toller, with the whole, horrible, snow-clutched fierceness of the Continental Divide between it and its goal.

In the night he awoke, again thinking of it. Every possible hand that

Fluffy Ruffles For the Little Girl Graduate

ALREADY, no doubt, all over the Dominion, thousands of hectic conferences are being held, with grammar school girls gravely considering the graduating frocks, and anxious mothers, aunts and cousins offering counsel.

Of course, there are always ruffles for young girls, and unless they are extremely pudgy little girls, the crisp ruffles are bound to be becoming, lending a youthful and flower-like look of festivity to the young wearer.

And white organdie, of which three-fourths of this season's graduating frocks will undoubtedly be made, seems almost to beg to be ruffled.

Yet there is a distinct rival to the ruffled frock this spring and that is the almost severely tailored frock. Tiny tucks, fagoting, or picot edges are about all the frivolity some of the smartest junior models allow themselves this spring.

While organdie, dotted Swiss and other of the very fine novelty cottons will be used extensively for graduation frocks, net and lace will also be seen, and doubtless some finely pleated crepes de chine will be worn, though tradition rather favors cotton or the very finest of handkerchief linen frocks above any of the silks for this one occasion in the little girl's life.

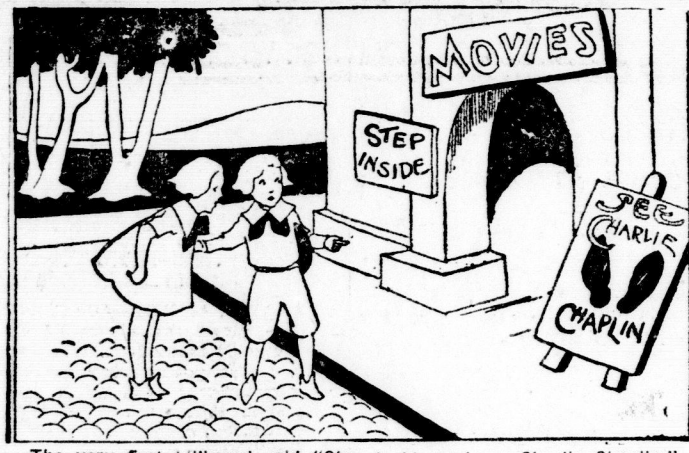

One lovely all-over lace frock was seen, with white satin bindings instead of hem at the bottom of the skirt, arm openings and neck; a narrow string belt made of the satin tied carefully at one side of the front

Slim little girls look best in wide sashes and girdles, and plump little girls seem less so in fairly narrow waist decorations.

VALLEY OF THE MOVIES

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

The very first billboard said "Step inside and see Charlie Chaplin."

THE sixth of the Seven Valleys on their way to the Land of the Korns was called the Valley of the Movies. But Nancy and Nick did not know this as they looked down into its depths from the top of a hill.

"Oh, ho!" said Nick to the dove who was guiding them. "We don't need to stop here, do we? All I see is a building, and Nancy and I can go right past it."

The dove shook his head sadly. "Don't think that you can fool Twelve Toes the Sorcerer," said he. "Twelve Toes knows all about you, just where you are and what you are doing, and if he cannot stop you altogether he is going to delay you all he can. He has a magic machine which can throw pictures over the Seven Mountains and all the valleys to this place, and he intends to see them. The building is a movie theatre."

"But we'll shut our eyes and not look," protested Nancy.

"But I tell you they are magic pictures, and that you cannot help yourselves," cooed the dove mournfully. "I'll fly on as I did before, and wait for you on a tree-top at the other end of the valley."

Away he flew, and the Twins started down the path.

And what do you think? The very first billboard said "Step inside and see Charlie Chaplin."

It seemed as though they couldn't get by, whether or not. The Green Shoes were certainly bewitched, and in they walked as though journeys and Fairy Queens and important messages counted for nothing at all. It was a funny show and they stayed to the end.

When it was over they stayed still longer to see another called "Laugh at Harold Lloyd." And there was another and another and another after that. Nancy and Nick stayed on and on, completely forgetful of time.

"Ho, ho, ho! Hee, hee, hee!" giggled Twelve Toes in his cave, as he fixed another film in his machine.

But he made a mistake. One picture showed a dove, and instantly the Twins were reminded of their errand. They left at once.

CANNED ASPARAGUS

If you are lucky enough to have an asparagus bed of your own, and it is big enough to more than supply your table, try canning some for winter use.

Asparagus is one of the best vegetables to can. It keeps well after canning and requires little preparation for canning.

Pint jars are preferable to quart jars for asparagus, as the stalks pack better in the smaller jar.

To Can Asparagus.

Cut off the tough ends of each stalk. Wash carefully and remove large scales from stalks. Blanch, cold dip and pack one jar at a time.

Put enough stalks to fill one can in a cheese-cloth square. Tie loosely to keep the asparagus from breaking.

Plunge into boiling water and boil 15 minutes. Remove from boiling water and plunge immediately into cold water.

Do not let stand in cold water. Drain. Pack sterilized jars. Add one-half teaspoon salt to a pint jar and fill the jar to within one-quarter inch from the top with boiling water.

Put on can rubber. Put can cover half way on. Place in canner and boil two hours. Count the time after the water begins to boil again. The jars will cool the water a few degrees below the boiling point.

At the end of two hours remove from boiler, finish screwing down top and cool quickly. Store in a dark, cool place. Light will cause the asparagus to lose its color.

To half seal a screw top jar turn the cover with the thumb and little finger as far as possible.

To half seal a spring top jar put the cover in place and adjust the top ball. Do not clamp the lower ball around the jar.

If you prefer to can the tops for salad and the ends for soup cut the tips in two-inch lengths. The new flat glass jars are very satisfactory to use for the tips.

To Can Asparagus Tips.

Wash tips very carefully. Put enough to fill a pint jar in a cheese-cloth square and tie loosely. Blanch water began the making of gruel from the supplies on the shelf.

Forcing himself to the subject, Houston asked a question: "Where is he?"

"Who?" Sudden fright had come into the woman's eyes.

"Your husband."

Radio Radiations

Amateurs are requested to make their queries as brief as possible to facilitate the publication and answering of the questions. Address your communications to the Radio Editor, The London Advertiser.

BY THE RADIO EDITOR.

THE head piece of a radio set is much more sensitive than the receiver of a land line telephone.

It has to stand 2,000 ohms. Three currents are often much weaker than the feeblest sounds on the phone.

The telephone, as used in wireless reception, converts the electrical energy sent through the air into sound energy, after the incoming oscillations have been rectified by a detector.

The resistance of the phones should not be less than 2,000 ohms. Three thousand ohm receivers are better, of course, but they are more expensive.

Construction.

This resistance depends upon the number of turns of wire on the pole pieces. As seen by the accompanying sketch, there is a "C" shaped soft iron magnet upon which are placed two small forms insulated from it.

The magnet is of soft iron because it is so easily magnetized.

Upward of 10,000 turns of extremely fine wire, as fine as hair, are wound in coils on the small forms. In addition to the permanent iron magnet and the two coils is a very thin iron or mica diaphragm which fits on top of the coils and is held in place by the permanent magnetism of the soft iron magnet.

After the incoming signals have been rectified by the detector, they pass into the windings of the phone and there create a magnetic field, which increases the field of the permanent magnet. The magnetism thus created depends upon the quality and number of turns of wire in the coils.

While wireless telephones are usually rated in terms of their total resistance it is really the number of turns of wire rather than the resistance that determines the sensitivity obtained.

There is no direct electrical connection between the diaphragm and the rest of the telephone. But the additional magnetism created by the incoming signal increases the pull on the diaphragm and makes it vibrate.

These signals are intermittent. As the current stops or reverses its direction the pull on the diaphragm is lessened as the action is repeated ever so rapidly, the vibrations of the diaphragm are strong enough to cause sounds by their attraction and release from the coils.

A composition rubber cap with a small hole in the center is screwed over the top of the diaphragm to hold it in place when the magnetism is lessened and makes the phone fit easily over the ear.

Radio experts say, will always have a permanent place among man's utilities. Even though the years bring no improvement, radio will still perform a function that will soon come to be considered as indispensable as electricity.

Radio Editor: What is the extreme range of a bedspring antenna in miles?

Answer—With a crystal detector it might be expected to work perhaps one mile. With more sensitive apparatus this can be increased.

Radio Editor: What is meant by "local conditions favorable"? L. T. B.

Answer—By this is meant that the location of the station is such that it is free from surrounding woods, hills or mountains with ore deposits, large steel structures, such as bridges, steel buildings, etc. Power networks or wires, etc., also tend to shield radio receivers and create disturbances as well.

THE UNspoiled WILDERNESS

The lover of nature has to search farther and farther for the unspoiled wilderness as the years go by. Every year miles and miles of the "forest primeval" are being sacrificed to the onward march of civilization. Soon the majority of the great Northland's forest playgrounds will be things of the past and the sportsman and the wilderness lover will have to go farther afield to find the unbroken haunts of their furred, feathered, and furred friends. Resting in the midst of the green wilderness of the Timagami Forest Reserve (300 miles north of Toronto) like some gigantic octopus with its innumerable legs and arms and feelers, lies Lake Timagami.

There you must go if you really wish to enjoy nature. Imagine this lake with its 1,600 islands. The fishing is excellent. Lake trout tipping the scale up to 35 pounds, small-mouthed black bass, speckled trout and wall-eyed pike abound. Altitude of the district 1,000 feet above the sea level. Illustrated publication with good map, list of hotels and camps and all particulars has been issued by the Grand Trunk Railway and can be had free on application to any Grand Trunk ticket agent, or C. WILL LEVY FIVE PER CENT TAX ON RACE TRACK BET

Hon. Peter Smith Announces New Proposal by Ontario Government.

WOULD RAISE $2,500,000

Provincial Treasurer States $45,000,000 Necessary by Bond Issues.

TORONTO, April 28.—(Provincial Treasurer Hon. Peter Smith announced in the Legislature shortly after midnight this morning the proposal of the government to impose a tax of 5 per cent on the total amounts wagered on the race tracks. The government presumed, he said, that the resultant revenue would be $2,500,000.

"The money," he said, "will be easily collected without any expense. If a man wins he will pay a portion of the tax, but if he loses he will not have to pay anything."

The treasurer announced that during the year the government would find it necessary to raise approximately $45,000,000 by bond flotation. He concluded his budget remarks with a repetition of his appeal to members not to do an act of anything on platform appearances to injure the credit of the province.

In his address the treasurer pointed to the Dominion methods of book-keeping as a precedent for the use of the term "extraordinary" in his accounts. There were payments, he said, referring to Mr. McKinnon's criticism of the debate, which were neither ordinary nor capital.

The Kingston member pointed out that he had not objected to the use of the term "extraordinary," but to its inclusion with capital. According to Hon. Smith's statements, the sum paid for loan and superannuation had been treated as ordinary, and not capital, as had been stated. He did not agree that the loss on selling loans under par should be treated as ordinary expenditure. Ten millions of the $45,000,000 it was proposed to borrow, he said, would be for refunding loans. He said he would shortly bring in legislation for a $10,000,000 issue to take care of succession duty free bonds which the government was buying for sinking fund purposes.

The seriousness of the statements Mr. Lewis made was commented upon by the premier and other members, to which Mr. Lewis replied that no one appreciated more than he did the seriousness of the statements he had made.

Mr. Lewis said that when the body had been found lying in the snow Huston's revolver was found at his side with four cartridges exploded, although only one bullet had hit him. Papers from his pocket were scattered along the path leading to the hotel, although the wind was blowing in the opposite direction at that time. A woman had stated that she heard three shots, a cry for help, another shot, and then silence. He said Huston was left-handed, and yet he was shot through the heart, and the flesh of his left hand was lacerated. All this, he claimed to be contrary to the report that Huston had committed suicide.

The jury at the inquest brought in an open verdict. He accused the department with not using sufficient vigor in starting the investigation at once, claimed there had been no real investigation for six weeks, when Inspector James Jeffery was sent up. He later said that Mr. Jeffery had made an earlier visit to the scene. Mr. Raney interrupted to point out that an officer of the department on the ground started an investigation at once. Mr. Lewis said this officer, a Mr. Campbell, still thought Huston had been murdered.

Blames Police Chief. Mr. Lewis continued that Inspector Jeffery had stated as soon as he arrived at Fort Francis that he had come to investigate "the suicide case." This, he claimed, indicated that this officer had made up his mind before he arrived that it was suicide. He blamed Chief of Police Wall of Fort Francis for sending out notification to Huston's relatives very soon after the body was found that Huston had taken his life.

Referring to an alleged agreement between Mr. Backus and Mr. Huston, Mr. Lewis claimed it was for 25,000 to 50,000 cords of pulp-wood to be shipped from Northern Manitoba to the Backus mills. Mr. Huston was to endeavour to get a lower freight rate for transporting this, and was able to do so. Mr. Backus later used this reduction as a precedent, and got the railway commission, Mr. Lewis claimed, to lower the rates on pulp-wood from the Backus limits to the mills. A dispute arose, Mr. Lewis continued, between Mr. Backus and Captain Huston, due to it was claimed, to the millowner's refusal to take more than 10,000 cords, which was said to have embarrassed Captain Huston, who had contracted with farmers in Northern Manitoba for the wood.

ORDERS NEW PROBE. TORONTO, April 27.—(Attorney-General Raney announced in the Legislature this afternoon that he would at once order another investigation into the death of Captain Orville Huston, whose body with a bullet through his heart was found in Fort Francis on Dec. 16 last. The attorney-general further stated that he intended having A. C. Lewis, M. L. A. for Southwest Toronto, summoned as a witness.

The announcement followed a startling speech by Mr. Lewis in the Legislature on the budget, in which he accused the attorney-general's department of "culpable negligence" in the conduct of the former probe, claiming there had been an effort on the part of certain persons in Fort Francis to spread the report that Captain Huston had committed suicide, gave a number of details

Montreal Anglican Synod Views With Alarm Increasing Appeals For Divorce

MONTREAL, April 27.—At today's session of the annual conference of the Anglican synod of Montreal, a motion was proposed for adoption as follows: "That the synod express its alarm at the increasing numbers of applications for divorce to the Senate of the Dominion and the increase of the evil of divorce generally; and that it instruct the committee on marriage and divorce to take any action possible on behalf of the synod which he claimed were grounds for strong suspicion that Huston had been murdered. He alleged that there had been an agreement between Huston and E. W. Backus for the purchase of pulp wood, and he claimed the man who was interested in gaining possession of certain papers which Mr. Huston was supposed to have in his possession was E. W. Backus."

Many Tense Situations. It was an afternoon featured by many tense situations, particularly when Attorney-General Raney asked Mr. Lewis, speaking under the protection of the house, was accusing any one of being guilty of bringing about the death of this young man. Mr. Lewis first said: "I am not responsible for the interpretation which the attorney-general places on my remarks."

Subsequently, however, he claimed he did not mean to make any such accusation.

VANDALS ENTER BEACH COTTAGES

Special to London Advertiser.

SOUTHAMPTON, April 27.—Some of the summer cottages on the beach here have been broken into recently, and in numerous cases windows have been broken. An effort is being made to discover the party or parties who have been guilty of vandalism.

in co-operation with other dioceses, and oppose the granting by the Parliament of Canada of grounds and facilities for divorce, and to maintain fully the indissolubility of marriage according to the teaching of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Addressing the synod, Rev. Canon C. W. Vernon, general secretary of the social service committee of the Church of England in Canada, declared that young people regarded marriage too lightly.

ACTION FARMER ENGAGED TO MARRY DISAPPEARS

Daniel McKinnon, Formerly of Cochrane, Missing Since April 5, After Purchasing Farm. ACTON, April 27.—Daniel McKinnon, who came here from Cochrane about six weeks ago and purchased a farm, has been missing since April 5. His absence from the district was not noticed until Rev. Peter Matheson of Sandfield wrote to Rev. A. C. Stewart here inquiring about McKinnon, and giving the information that he (the minister) had been engaged to marry McKinnon and a Miss McCrae of Sandfield on April 21, but the man had failed to keep the appointment.

It developed that McKinnon left home on April 5, intending to go to Ballinad to buy a wagon. He told a neighbor, Mr. Gordon, that he might go to Toronto. He has not been seen or heard of since. On April 4 McKinnon withdrew $250 from his account in the Bank of Nova Scotia here, leaving funds still on deposit.

The district attorney is inquiring into the mystery. The best insurance against unproductive property is Want Advertising.

MOVES SELECT INQUIRY BOARD

Hon. W. C. Kennedy Proposes Special Committee To Investigate Railway Costs.

Premier King Denies Commission Has Decided On Rate Reduction.

OTTAWA, April 27.—(By Canadian Press).—When the House of Commons opened today Hon. W. C. Kennedy, minister of railways, moved for the appointment of a select special committee to inquire into railway transportation costs and freight rates with particular regard to the effect of the rates established by the Crow's Nest Pass agreement upon the Canadian National Railways and other lines, as well as upon agricultural development and Canadian industry generally.

Hon. A. Meighen did not believe that the government had any right to go on with the motion today. When the house adjourned yesterday the prime minister had stated that the estimates of the department of Indian affairs would be taken up.

Agrees To Proceed. Premier King agreed to proceed on Tuesday next. On the orders of the day Mr. Meighen declared newspapers recently contained reports of a speech by Premier Norris of Manitoba.

These reports attributed the statement to Mr. Norris that the argument of the provincial government of Manitoba before the board of railway commissioners for a reduction in freight rates had been successful, and that these rates would be in effect before the 1922 wheat crop began to move.

Mr. Meighen said that as there was a provincial election near at hand in Manitoba he presumed that the report was correct. He asked if Mr. Norris had any authority to announce a judgment of the railway commission, and if so, if the government believed in the tactics of the commission in announcing its judgment through a Liberal politician.

The prime minister replied that he was unable to say whether or not the report was correct. As far as the government was concerned, there had been no official communication with Premier Norris on the question of freight rates.

Denies Decision Made. Mr. Meighen retorted that this did not constitute an answer to his question, and asked if it was correct that the judgment had been made.

"I shall have to ask the railway commission before I can answer my honorable friend," the prime minister rejoined. There would be no announcement as to the policy of the government until the house had a full opportunity of discussing the motion to appoint a special committee, he added.

"Is the prime minister or the government aware of any decision whatever by the railway commission on the question?" Mr. Meighen again insisted. "There is no decision whatever," was the reply.

PRAISE I. O. D. E. CHAPTER WORK

London Honorably Mentioned in Child Welfare at Hamilton Convention.

Each Mentioned Gave $300, Report in Department Shows.

Hamilton, April 28.—Child welfare work and chapter reports occupied the attention of delegates this morning at the second session of the convention of the Provincial Chapter, I. O. D. E. Among those present today was one of the oldest members of the order, Miss Wilkinson, Brantford. Mrs. W. E. Baker of Toronto, convener of the I. O. D. E. provincial historical war records, is also a delegate.

Among the chapters mentioned for praiseworthy work in Mrs. A. N. Malcolmson's report on child welfare work were: Lady Astor Chapter, Ingersoll; the five Hamilton Chapters; Barton Chapter, Bartonville; Sir Isaac Brock Chapter, Welland; Princess Beatrice Chapter, Port Arthur; Mary Armstrong Chapter, Strathroy; Rumsey Chapter, St. Marys; Highland Light Infantry of Canada Chapter, St. Marys; John McIntyre Chapter, Port Welland; Major Bennett and Maple Leaf and Moira Chapters, Goderich; and Stratford, Ridgeway, Walkerville, Chatham, Hanover, Belleville, Port William, London and Toronto chapters.

The monetary value of the child welfare work of the I. O. D. E. in Ontario was given as about $390 a chapter. Mrs. Lucy Doyle made a plea for an extensive survey on this vital question. The following municipal reports were submitted this morning: Toronto, London, Hamilton, Chatham, Cornwall, Brantford, Sault Ste. Marie, St. Thomas and Windsor.

Among the officers elected were: Mrs. W. B. Hill, Ontario representative on the credentials committee at the national annual meeting at Vancouver in May; Miss Ethel T. Raymond, Brantford, third member of the war memorial committee; Mrs. M. F. Mulock, St. Catharines, Ontario representative on the recommendation committee at the Vancouver meeting.

Western Mine Owner Asks Protection Against Incendiaries

CALGARY, Alta., April 28.—Loss, approximating $125,000, was reported at Drumheller, when fire, last night, destroyed the power plant of the Drumheller Land Company and the power plant and tipple of the Callie Mine. The tipple was dynamited and the fire checked when within about one hundred feet of a cache containing 100 tons of high explosives.

W. M. Walker, manager of the Callie Mine, said last night over the telephone, that several days ago he had been threatened by miners and that he had been told that his mine would be blown up.

Mr. Walker says he believes the fire was of incendiary origin. He has applied to the attorney-general for protection.

CLAIMS ACTION OF CITY HAS RUINED BUSINESS

Mrs. Mathews Sheds Tears Over Lumber Yard Tangle.

Mrs. Mathews, the owner of the much-debated Simcoe street and Horton street lumber yards, will not accept the offer of the board of Works made Thursday night at the mayor's suggestion, that she re-establish her business on the Horton street site for thirty days.

"Thirty days is no good to me," she said and declared that she would not accept it. She charged that the action of the city fathers has practically ruined her business, because after having ordered her to move from Horton street, they approve of the Simcoe street site by giving her permission to locate her yard there, and mission to re-establish business on the original site.

Mrs. Mathews says that her Horton street property is worth $8,000. There are three houses and the purchase price of the Simcoe street property is $7,000. She declares that $7,000 is more than it is worth by a long shot, but she had to have a place to carry on business.

There were tears in her eyes as she told of the losses she has sustained through her inability to carry on business, due to the fact that she cannot secure a site suitable to the council.

FINDS PROGRESS OF PARLEY SLOW

Joseph Corbett, Carmen's Representative, Returns From Conference On Wage Issue.

Sweeping Probe Made Investigating of G. T. R. Working Conditions To Be Resumed Next Week.

That but slow progress is being accomplished, and a final report may not be available for several days yet, is the message brought back by Joseph Corbett, chief representative for the Grand Trunk carshop men, who returned to London Friday from Montreal, where he has been attending the joint conference between the company and union representatives, relative to wages and working conditions.

Mr. Corbett is unable to submit any report of the proceedings, except that investigation of a sweeping nature is in progress and the situation is being thoroughly considered from every conceivable angle. He returns again Monday morning to resume negotiations.

Through the Railway Association of Canada the Grand Trunk has proposed to amend Wage Agreement No. 4 in many instances, stressing principally the elimination of time and one-half for Sundays and legal holidays, thereby meaning a loss to the men of a considerable amount.

The company bases its claim upon the fact that engineers and trainmen are compelled to operate trains upon these days without additional remuneration.

The carmen state that they received much overtime prior to the institution of their present agreement, and have already announced their intention to fight its discontinuance.

UNVEIL MEMORIAL TO C. P. R. FALLEN

Montreal, April 28.—Imposing ceremonies marked the double unveiling at the Windsor street station of the Canadian Pacific Railway this afternoon, when His Excellency, Lord Byng of Vimy, officiated at the dedication of a memorial statue in the concourse and the bronze memorial tablet on Osborne street to the memory of the Canadian Pacific men who fell during the Great War and in honor of those who served. Many of the leading citizens of Canada and of Montreal were invited to attend the ceremony, which was fittingly non-sectarian. Representatives of both the Roman Catholic and Protestant churches being present.

CLAIM BICYCLE INDUSTRY MAKES GREAT HEADWAY

Prominent Speakers Address Meeting of Local Dealers At Tecumseh House.

The great headway that is being made by the bicycle industry in Canada was exemplified by two of the leaders of the industry, J. W. Gibson of the Canadian Cycle Motor, Toronto, and E. Rogerson of the Dunlop Rubber Company, Toronto, at a meeting of the bicycle dealers in the Tecumseh House Thursday evening.

Both dealers declared that the prospects for the bicycle industry in Canada were never brighter, and that more bicycles were being manufactured in 1922 than in any former boom years.

Mr. Gibson stated that the prices of bicycles had been reduced 25 per cent to conform with the general principle of Canadian manufacturers of getting prices down to rock-bottom.

Mr. Rogerson declared that the Canadian Wheelman's Association had revised the cycling racing game in Canada, and during the summer season many special cycling features have been arranged. The annual meet of the C. W. A. is to be held in Waterloo on July 1.

John Barnard, president of the local bicycle dealers, acted as chairman.

FIND IF FATHER GAVE ASSENT

Mrs. Thompson Writes Regarding O'Dell Children.

Mr. Lowman Out of Town, But Letter Shows He Saw Mr. O'Dell.

Matters are at a standstill in regard to the removal of the O'Dell children from a local home to one of the Soldiers' Aid Commission hostels in Toronto, until such time as relatives here get in touch with the father to see if he gave permission for the removal of the children. At the Soldiers' Aid offices Friday morning, it was stated that the matter comes under the supervision of W. E. Lowman, the child welfare inspector, and that he is out of the city. It was thus impossible to learn whether such authority for the removal of the children was secured. It is known that Mr. Lowman had an interview with the father recently, as the latter stated in a letter from Windsor to Mrs. J. F. Thompson, of this city, that Lowman had been to see him.

"I have written to the father and expect an answer almost immediately," said Mrs. Thompson, "and I don't see that we can do much about the matter until I hear from him. His sister has also written."

Mrs. Thompson says that the matron at the Protestant Orphans Home promised to notify her before the children were moved, but did not get in touch with her until shortly after the children left on Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Thompson does not quarrel with the stand of the soldiers' aid, that it is maintaining the hostels in Toronto and therefore questions the policy of paying board for children in a home here. What Mrs. Thompson along with others, does contend, is that there should be a hostel in London that London children might be kept in this city.

Mrs. Chambers, matron at the Protestant Orphans Home after pointing out that the Soldiers' Aid officer brought the children to the home and therefore had a right to take them away, says that it is very untrue to state that she had told the nurse to call the children's aunt and tell that the children had gone.

She also declared that owing to the children's aunts were visiting them. She said the visit was care-

Bird Bulletin

Issued by the Macleworth Ornithological Club.

On Wednesday, April 26, the little Blue-Wing Teal was still at the pond and getting tame. He feeds exclusively on the south side, and almost ignores farm workers, but is very suspicious of people looking at him. He was joined by another little duck on Tuesday, but apparently not a mate. The Coots are getting tamer all the time, and hopes are high that they will be a new breeder there this year. Last year the changed conditions added the Henslow's Sparrow to the breeding birds of Middlesex, and the Coot may be the next.

The Sora Rail, with its yellow bill, was a newcomer on Wednesday, and was just as unsuspicious as usual. These birds do not have a fair chance to acquire the customary suspicion of humans, and its aversion to flight makes it seem almost domestic. I once had a bird of this species fly into a little clump of reeds surrounding the pond, and though the clump of reeds was only seven or eight feet in diameter, and three of us went down on our hands and knees, we never found him. A Rail is not difficult to flush once, but it is almost impossible to get it up a second time.

The Yellow-Legs was the other new arrival for Wednesday, presumably the Greater Yellow-Legs, but the identification was uncertain. Even in the city one may hear these loud-voiced birds flying over calling every few seconds. They are the longest-legged of our Sandpipers, and swim as easily as they walk and as readily. It is a pretty sight to see a few of these handsome fellows hunting on the edge of a shallow pool and one that lingers long in the memory.

ried out without her permission, which should have been obtained. She also declared that owing to a misunderstanding she did not know that the children were leaving on Wednesday, and it was quite a surprise to her when the Soldiers' Aid official appeared and told her that the children were to be taken to Toronto. Her impression was that they would not be going until next week. She said the misunderstanding was on her part.

Mrs. Ashley, one of the O'Dell children's aunts, states that she had not heard from her brother as yet.

WILL DO MORE FOR UNPRIVILEGED GIRL

Welfare Work Organizations To Sift Problem at Convention in Brantford.

McCULLOUGH GIVES VIEW

Thinks Old-Fashioned Parents and Orderly Home Life Needed.

Growing emphasis on the work among under-privileged girls is expected to be one of many far-reaching influences of the annual conference of the Ontario Social Service Council, which is to be held in Brantford, commencing May 8. Need of work along these lines was made evident at the recent meeting of representatives of various bodies engaged in welfare work in the city, at which Miss Helen d'Avignon spoke of the great necessity for more extensive work among girls who have very few, and in some cases none, of the privileges of home life.

"While every effort has been made in behalf of the under-privileged boy," stated Rev. T. D. McCullough, district secretary of the Social Service Council, Friday morning, in discussing the aims of the Brantford Council, "work amongst girls has not received a proportionate amount of attention in the manner of friendly social communication such as is afforded by the various clubs and organizations which have undertaken to interest themselves in the careers of boys who are not in the most fortunate circumstances."

"We need some of the old-fashioned parents, and an orderly, interesting home life for, after all, in caring for the under-privileged girl, we also do a vast amount for the underprivileged boy."

The department of child welfare work amongst underprivileged boys and girls will receive a very large proportion of the time of the Brantford Council.

GIVES MEANS TO OBTAIN WHEAT BOARD IN CANADA

Western Agrarian Leader States Imperial Government Can Give Relief.

Calgary, April 28.—That an enabling act could be obtained from the Imperial government in time to permit the constitutional establishment of a wheat board, is one of the statements made in an article by H. W. Wood, president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture and of the United Farmers of Alberta, in the official organ of the Alberta Farmers' organization. With reference to the opinion of government, legal advisers as stated in the house, Mr. Wood says: "It is a clear case of sacrificing the welfare of the country to inflexible technicalities. Figuratively, it is a case of using a pitchfork—a useful tool—to stab your neighbor." Continuing, he said: "If it is a crime to permit operation of a law that might be questioned on constitutional grounds, the government is committing a criminal offence in permitting the Canada grain act to continue in operation." Further, he says an opinion, and not a decision, has been made.

LAUDS LABORS' WAR SERVICE

Senator Robertson Urges Claims To Participate in Peace Decisions.

Declares Workers Not Receiving Representation At Present Time.

OTTAWA, April 27.—(By Canadian Press)—Continuing in the Senate today the debate on Sir George Foster's resolution on the League of Nations, Senator Robertson, who had previously to the war, organized labor had worked strongly for peace, and many members of the labor party believed that war was impossible. The part labor had played in the war merited consideration of labor's claims to participate in peace decisions and in action taken to secure permanent peace.

Referring to labor in Canada, Senator Robertson claimed that under the government of 1917, labor had been adequately represented on all important boards and commissions. During the last few months, he felt that labor had not received due consideration. A member of the government must get together and his actions had produced a breach between labor and capital. The same member of the government had condemned the representative to the conference as an arch-profligate.

Senator Robertson believed that the representative selected was a good choice. But it showed the insincerity of those who had previously criticized him and afterwards appointed him to a responsible position.

He regretted very much that associated with this representative had not been a colleague familiar with labor's national and economic ideals.

JURY VISITS HOME OF PETER EGOPIAN

Inquest Adjourned Pending Further Investigation of Brantford Murder Case.

BLOODSTAINS ARE FOUND

Police Now Believe Armenian Was Slain in Kitchen of Own Dwelling.

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, April 27.—Startling developments which are expected in the case of Peter Egojian, Armenian, who was killed and his body cut up into pieces, caused an adjournment of the inquest this evening. No evidence was taken, though the jurors paid a visit to the home.

The police now believe that the murder took place in the kitchen of the deceased's home. Red color in the linoleum covered for a time bloodstains there, but these show up under magnification, and from there the trail was followed to the head of the stairway, where the blood was in clots on a sewer pipe leading from above.

Thence it led down the stairs, as shown by blood underneath the bricks and stair boards. Then, apparently, the body had been taken down cellar for the actual cutting up, as some pieces of the body had been found there. Search will be resumed tomorrow for the remaining pieces, which Dent, the accused, is alleged to have stated he had thrown from Victoria Bridge.

A. H. Boddy acted for Crown Attorney W. M. Charlton, in whose family there was a death today, and J. A. D. Simlin for the defence.

$100 Twenty Years Ago Was Equal to $300 Today.

False thrift—$100 banked twenty years ago, with ordinary bank interest, would amount to $200 today, really a loss of $100 purchasing power. A perfect blue white diamond kept for some period would net you over $300 profit, and the joy of wearing it thrown in. Safety first. Buy perfect diamonds from John A. Nash, My Jeweler, 182 Dundas St., "Where You Will Eventually Buy."

DECIDE TO EXTEND WATER SERVICE

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, April 27.—The work of extending the water service to the residents of Yarmouth Heights will be started by the water commission in a few days.

Property owners in that district were recently visited by an official, and about 50 more contracts have been signed. The commission expects to receive between 75 and 100 contracts, and regard that number as sufficient to authorize them to start laying the mains. The Yarmouth residents will pay larger rates than those within the city limits.

The dry goods stores have determined to remain open all day Wednesday until June. The other stores are starting the holiday in May.

SUGGESTS SOLUTION TO IMMIGRATION QUESTION

Hon. L. A. Taschereau Gives Interesting Address To Women's Canadian Club At Toronto.

TORONTO, April 27.—Hon. L. A. Taschereau, premier of the Province of Quebec, offered what he considered to be a reasonable solution of the question of immigration to the members of the Women's Canadian Club this afternoon at Convocation Hall.

"The first Taschereau who came to Canada had fourteen children, his son, the Hon. Gabriel-Eliot, had eleven, and his grandson, Hon. Thomas Jean, had ten. The father of Cardinal Taschereau had ten children, and my own father had twelve. There is a little sum in multiplication which will interest and show you how we fulfill the duty transmitted by our ancestors of peopling the land with our own sons and daughters, and not with the emigrants of Southern Europe, who only serve to raise in our cities a problem of unemployment so hard to solve," he said.

It had been said by some Anglo-Canadian journalists that under the French regime large families were confined to common people, but the noble Seigneurial families had done their duty in this respect just as well as the masses of people.

PRINCETON WIN AT LACROSSE.

PRINCETON, N.J., April 27.—Princeton's lacrosse team today defeated the Oxford-Cambridge players by a score of 6 to 4. Held to a 3-to-2 tie in the first half, the Tigers, by superb offensive work in the early part of the final period, scored three additional goals. The English team rallied later, but was checked after scoring one tally.

MACAROW WILL FACE CHARGES

Former General Manager of Merchants Bank To Receive Hearing.

Case Will Come Before Judge Cusson in Montreal Court.

MONTREAL, April 27.—The prosecution, representing the minister of finance, announces that the case against D. C. Macarow, former general manager of the Merchants Bank of Canada, for wilfully making false returns on the bank's condition to Ottawa, will proceed to the police court tomorrow morning.

As the charge against Sir H. Montagu Allan, former president of the now absorbed bank, cannot proceed at the same time, a day will be set for the hearing in the case tomorrow.

Officials of the bank will be the only witnesses which the crown, represented by Charles A. Wilson, K.C., will be present with books and papers concerning the condition of the bank, showing its reserve and rest funds in October, 1921, the date which the charges mention and which constitute the basis for the allegations made by the complainant, an official of the finance department, Ottawa.

The private records of the bank will be examined during this period and will be placed before Judge Cusson.

DECLARE FAVORITISM BY WARDENS CAUSED REVOLT

Trouble in Calcutta Jail Was Subdued Only by Action of Militia.

CALCUTTA, April 27.—Discontent over alleged favored treatment of political prisoners is believed to have been at the bottom of yesterday's convict revolt in the jail here, several of whom were killed when fired upon by guards. A few of the prisoners succeeded in escaping over the walls.

The discontent came to a head when one of the wardens, it is alleged, struck a Mohammedan prisoner for insubordination. The other convicts refused to attend meals and ultimately armed themselves with sticks and sledge hammers and attacked the wardens. One crowd attempted to rush the gates, while others set fire to the jute sheds and oil tanks. The wardens opened fire, but the mutineers were not completely subdued and dispersed until the military arrived.

Several of the prisoners and some of the wardens were injured.

Dominion Tires

the standard by which all tires are judged

When Caruso died, the director of the Metropolitan Opera was asked if he would make a certain tenor Caruso's successor. He replied, "I cannot make anyone his successor. The public only can do that."

The car owners of Canada made DOMINION TIRES the tires by which all tires are judged.

When automobiles were a novelty, motorists had no standards. Tires, as well as cars, were taken on trust.

But to-day, values are based on performance. Tires have been tried out; mileage records have been kept; tire troubles have been checked; and motorists know—ABSOLUTELY KNOW—that DOMINION TIRES set the standard of mileage, service, comfort and economy.

Dominion Tires to-day are better than ever and prices average one-third less than pre-war prices.

CANADA has the World's best MATCH

In the new Maple Leaf Match—the match that is different—Canada has something that cannot be bought elsewhere in the world.

Your grocer likes to sell you quality goods. Ask him.

In Britain, they have matches made by Bryant & May Ltd., the largest makers in the Empire, and Maguire, Paterson & Palmer Ltd., the second largest.

In the United States, they have the product of the biggest manufacturers in the world—The Diamond Match Company—inventors of the non-poisonous and non-glowing match.

But, in Canada, we have

MAPLE LEAF MATCHES

the product of the new factory, the latest match plant built, and the combined knowledge and experience of all three organizations, who have joined forces and formed the Canadian Match Company, Limited, to give Canada the match that is DIFFERENT AND BETTER.

Different and Better

Cost
No More

The new Maple Leaf Matches are different even in appearance—longer and stronger than anything Canada has known—and very much different in action. They are non-poisonous, the heads do not fly off, no live sparks when the flame is out, they light every time, they withstand more moisture and wind,—every match is a perfect match.

Take any one from any Maple Leaf box. Examine and test it against any ordinary match that you can buy.

ESTIMATES FOR ONTARIO WORKS CAUSE DEBATE

Members Question Dr. King On Vote of $349,200 For Province.

DISCUSS INDIAN AFFAIRS

Item of $1,226,642 Provided For Education On Reserves.

OTTAWA, April 27.—(By Canadian Press).—Estimates for public buildings, mainly postoffices and custom-houses for Ontario and Quebec, gave rise to questions in the Commons tonight. While the total of $127,299 went through for Quebec without a single query, there were many questions from Ontario members when Dr. King, minister of public works, asked the house to vote $349,200 for that province.

Ex-Mayor Church of Toronto North led off with a condemnation of the treatment of Toronto. He was followed by General S. C. McBurn, who put forward Hamilton's claims.

William Elliott (Progressive, Waterloo South) pressed the claims of Galt, and asked what had become of a vote of $15,000.

J. D. Chaplin (Conservative, Lincoln) asked what was being done for St. Catharines.

Started At Cry.

Hon. D. D. McKenzie, solicitor-general, agreed that all public buildings should be kept in a good state of repair, but he was rather startled at the general hue and cry now being raised from the province of Ontario, seeing that Tory rule had held sway for the past ten years, and during that time he had not heard any complaints made on the floor of the house from these several places.

Mr. Meighen said there had been lots of them, and from the floor of the house, too.

Votes for the department of Indian affairs were passed by the house today.

The Ontario and Quebec vote, amounting to $183,115, prompted Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen to ask what proportion of the appropriation last year had been spent. He noted that there was an increase of $26,939 in the amount of the estimate for Ontario and Quebec. There were substantial increases in the amounts asked for the Prairie Provinces and British Columbia.

Same Amount Asked.

On the other hand, the minister seemed to be taking this out of the vote for Indian education, which was $101,162 less than last year. The total amount asked for Indians was the same as last year, and in view of the reduction of prices, a reduction was to have been expected.

Dealing with an item of $183,115 for Ontario and Quebec, Mr. Stewart said there was an increase due to the fact that some road and bridge repairs must be made. He informed the house that it had been found necessary to provide the same sum for Indian education as last year, and that consequently an amount would appear in supplementary estimates for that purpose. The item carried.

W. C. Wood of Brant called the minister's attention to a pamphlet which had been distributed to the members through the mail. It charged that there was "a national crime" in the administration of Indian affairs. He said that if the charges made in the pamphlet were anywhere near correct, it was time that the minister looked into them.

Mr. Stewart replied that the trouble on the Six Nations Reserve was of long standing, and was due chiefly to Lloyd George Intends To Demand Showdown.

GENOA, April 27.—A call by Premier Lloyd George for a meeting of the allies to consider what action shall be taken towards Germany if reparations payments are not forthcoming momentarily overshadowed the economic conference today.

The British premier intends to ask France what she means by her threat of independent action if the Germans have not met the reparations demands by May 31.

the fact that they did not consider themselves wards of the government but allies of Great Britain.

Could Not Make Grant.

Further, there had been considerable distress on the reserve, and they asked the government to make a grant out of hand funds. This the government had been unable to do, as the money was concerned with the trust.

The chiefs of the bands were not desirous of having the soldier settlement act operate with respect to the reserves.

Mr. Meighen said the soldiers' settlement board did not invade the reserves, but the deputy minister of Indian affairs operated the act as far as the Indian returned soldiers were concerned.

From personal experience while at the head of the department of the interior, Mr. Meighen was of the opinion that Indians were often the victims of unscrupulous whites, and from personal investigation he had decided that Indians often suffered at the hands of those who were looking for something for themselves.

The item of $681,092 for Indians of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and the Northwest Territories, carried. The British Columbia item adopted was one of $264,240. The item of $15,000 for the Yukon was also passed. An item of $1,226,642 for Indian education was carried after some discussion.

BLAST PREVENTS DISASTROUS FIRE

SASKATOON, April 27.—Fire which destroyed the tipple of the Callie Mine at Drumheller today was prevented from entering the mine by blasting, says a dispatch received here. The flames wrecked the mine's plant adjoining. Safety valves blew out and prevented a disaster from boiler explosions. The origin of the fire is unknown.

BELIEVE 10 LIVES TO BE FLOOD TOLL

FORTH WORTH, Texas, April 27.—With the list of missing reduced to 32, relief workers tonight expressed the belief that the death toll from the flood which swept this city early on Tuesday probably would be less than ten.

No additional bodies were found today. The latest estimates on the property damage put the figure at $2,000,000. Refugees are being cared for at relief stations tonight. They number 2,500.

WALTERS FALLS PIONEER PASSES AT AGE OF 93

Mrs. David Squires Dies at Home After Illness of One Month.

WALTERS FALLS, April 27.—Mrs. David Squires, one of the oldest settlers of Walters Falls district, passed away at the home of her son, David Squires, aged 93 years and 11 months.

The late Mrs. Squires was born in Wexford County, Ireland, on May 16, 1829, and came to Canada in 1857, the family settling here. Her husband died in 1889. The deceased kept quite active up to about a month ago, when her health failed, and it became quite evident that the end was near. One son and two daughters survive, David and Mrs. Halbert on the homestead, and Mrs. Duncan Watson of Owen Sound.

REPORTS SLAYING OF VETERAN.

HAMILTON, April 27.—Word was received here today that James Coates, a returned soldier, who served in the 19th Battalion in France, was shot and killed in North Carolina. The name of the place in which he was shot and particulars of the shooting are lacking. Coates, while in the city, was a clerk in the office of the Soldiers' Aid Commission.

GODERICH MAGISTRATE HOLDS COURT AT BLYTH

Fines Two For Unseemly Language and One For Assault.

BLYTH, April 27.—Police Magistrate Reid of Goderich held court here today, disposing of two cases, one against George Doherty of Walton, and William Nesbitt of Blyth, for using unseemly language on the streets here.

The crown's case was looked after by County Crown Attorney Seager.
The magistrate inflicted a fine of $1 and $8.50 costs, on each of the defendants.

The other case was that of James Cartwright vs. Victor Roy of Hultbait, a case of assault, in which the defendant, Roy, was fined $10 and costs of $17.60.

GUELPH FACTORY BURNS

Crowe's Iron Works Partially Destroyed by Fire, But Fully Covered by Insurance.

Special to London Advertiser.
GUELPH, April 27.—Fire which broke out at an early hour this morning caused considerable damage to the rooming at Crowe's Iron Works, as well as wrecking the interior of one section of the main foundry building. The blaze was discovered about 5:30 o'clock by the night watchman. The firemen battled with the flames for over an hour before getting the fire under control.
The damage caused will amount to a considerable sum, but the fire will not cripple the works, as the other departments will be in full operation tomorrow. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

SPEAKS AT ANNIVERSARY HELD IN CARMEL CHURCH

Dr. Paterson Delivers Address on Interesting Prophecies Contained in Bible.

Special to London Advertiser.
HENSALL, April 27.—The anniversary services held in Carmel Presbyterian Church on Sunday last were very largely attended. Rev. Dr. Paterson of Cook's Church, Toronto, preached both morning and evening.
Dr. Paterson, although not as strong and as young as he once was, has lost very little of his old-time vigor and eloquence, and gave splendid discourses.

On Monday evening he delivered a lecture entitled "The Origin and Destiny of the British Empire." The lector dwelt largely on the Bible prophecies. He showed how they fitted into the part which the British nation has filled so admirably in connection with Christ's kingdom here on earth; what golden promises were assured to a nation like the British Empire, who are and have been the foremost in carrying on gospel and missionary enterprises.

The lecture was of an interesting nature, and was greatly appreciated by those present.

Rev. Mr. River gave a short address, expressing his pleasure and delight as a listener, and that if in order he would be pleased to move a most hearty vote of thanks to the lecturer. This was seconded by G. J.
Sutherland, and carried heartily by the large audience.

A feature of the anniversary services was the splendid anthem given by the church choir, a solo by Ole Cook at the morning service, and a duet at the evening service, by Mrs.
W. A. McLaren and Ole Cook. The anniversary services on Sunday last will long be remembered as being both pleasant and inspiring.

PAY GROWERS LOWER PRICES

Montreal Buyers Offer 15 to 17 Cents Per Pound
For Tobacco.

Kent Farmers Petition For
New Rural Hydro Power Line.

CHATHAM, April 27.—The first big shipments of tobacco for the year were made from the Pere Marquette freight yards this morning when 20 loads of tobacco, averaging 13 tons to the load, were purchased by buyers from Montreal.

From prices paid by the buyers it looks as if "smokes" will take a drop in price. The price varied from 15 to 17 cents per pound.

Another rural hydro line may be constructed in Kent county in the near future, according to a statement by Hydro Manager Jackson this morning. A largely signed petition is being circulated near Louisville in Chatham township on the provincial highway, and as soon as the number of necessary contracts have been asked for, line construction will commence.
