Sir,—When the old Banner tacked on the News, and got a new lease of life, we expected, at least for a time that it would sweep clean. I am very sorry to see that it is drifting already. We are as a people, or should be, in mourning, for our beloved Queen. What does it all amount to if one paper or the other got a start with the messages? Have we to have an all week's jangle between the papers to this solemn occasion.

this solemn occasion.

Has Journalism got down to such a low ebb to be compared to a Whitechapel waster, a mixture only known to the Banner-News, an unknown quantity for the survival of the fittest. As citizens we appreciate any public enterprise for our welfare.

It reminds me of an anecdote of Rowland Hill. A very confident young man undertook to preach a sermon in Rowland Hill. A very confident young man undertook to preach a sermon in Rowland's Hill's chapel, but when he had delivered his text, which was as follows: "He that ascended is the same also as he that descended." (Ephes. chap iv, vs. 10.) his self-possession entirely forsook him, and after repeating his text three times in the hope of recovering himself, he covered his face with his hands and actually ran down the pulpit stairs. 'At the foot of the stairs he was met by Mr. Hill, who thus addressed him, "Young man, if you had ascended the pulpit in the spirit in which you have descended you would have descended in the spirit in which you ascended."

MAKE IT A NATIONAL SABBATH

A despatch from Toronto to The Planet, received yesterday afternoon

"On the day of Victoria's funeral Toronto saloons will be shut as tight as the most strongly prohibitionist town, by decision of the liquor men themselves. It is expected that the example will be followed throughout Ontario."

It is to be hoped that it will be, and that the hotel men of the Maple City will be in the van of the movement The King himself has asked for suspension of all business throughout the Empire on that day, and the colonial and civic authorities have been more than ready to endorse the proclamation with their own edicts.

But it is not the loyal observance of this alone. Saturday's impressiva committing to the tomb of our late loved Sovereign furnishes the last opportunity to pay public tribute to her memory. Let it be a day set aparta Sabbath for the nation.

WEARING OF MOURNING.

By public proclamation the people of Great Britain have been requested to wear mourning until after the Queen's funeral. We do not suppose that the people of Chatham will be any more backward than those of other cities in testifying in this way to their esteem and affection for the nation's late lamented sovereign. We do not understand or believe that this mourning should be of an extensive or expensive character in the case of private individuals. (The extent and description of the mourning to be worn by military and civil officials is specifically laid down, but the mourning to be worn by ordinary subjects is left to the taste of the individual, As it does not follow that the wearing of much mourning is indicative of much grisef, neither does it follow that the reverse is the case. The smallest and least expensive emblem will, it seems to us, as fittingly indicate the feelings of every loyal subject and render all alike in their homage to the memory of a sovereign whom all classes revered and loved. It is the spontaneity and unanimity of the act of a people in wearing mourning for one who was very dearly beloved by her subject that lends a simple dignity and grandeur to the observance as a national tribute to her memory. This can be most easily rendered gen eral by the adoption of the simplest means to evince the sentiment that finds an echo in every heart at this * King Edward VII. is a pretty big man in his way, even if he does stand less than 5 feet 5 inches.

The Free Press declares its unwavering loyalty to His Majesty King Edward VII.—Winnipeg Free Press. Was the the F. P.'s loyalty in such grave doubt that it had to declare it?

Senator Cannon thinks the United States should spend $75,000,000 in building a war fleet. As Senator Cannon is a big gun at Washington, his advice may be taken.

It looks as if the boom at the So would continue. Mr. Clergue, the original ginator of it, is bringing 1000 persons out from England to work in his mines.

The cable despatches tell us that the Queen's remains were enclosed in a "co'fin." In this country we speak of a dead person as being interred in a "casket." The word coffin is too common.

If the decision of P. M. Jeffs, of Hamilton, to the effect that the Ontario Lord's Day Act is based on the English Act, and therefore to a great s extent follows it, be correct, then the publication of Sunday papers in this Province would be legal. There are Sunday papers in the old country.

The Chatham Planet objects to a decision made by the Police Magistrate of Hamilton because it was based on English | common law. The Planet says:"It is nothing to us what the Eng-"It is nothing to us what the English law either prohibits or permits. We have our own act and our own act should govern in this province."

This is based on an error. If there is any explicit statute of Ontario it is of course the law of the land, but in the absence of such the common law of England governs. Now the common law of England is not written. It is, as has been laid down by an eminent jurist, merely the common practice of a neighborhood mingled with common sense. What is common law in one section may not be so in another.—London Free Press.

All that does not affect the case, be-

All that does not affect the case, because we have a specific law of our own, which ought to settle the matter one way or the other. The Hamilton P. M., holds that there is nothing in the Ontario Lord's Day Act under which he can convict a barber. Then he calls in the English law to show that the barber has a right to shave customers on Sunday. Now the Ontario Act may have been bungled, like all the other Hardy-Ross statutes, but as long as it is in force, why even partially base a decision on the law of a foreign country? If it doesn't cover the case of a barber, dismiss the barber without further ado.

The English are declaring that the poet laureate, Alfred Austin, has even excelled his own poor efforts by the poem he turned out on the death the Queen-long, commonplace and of faulty meter. Alfred is poet faureate by Gladstone's decree, but we have yet to hear of anyone accusing him of writing poetry.

> THE FIRST SUGAR BEETS. London Free Press.

Now that the Ontario Government has resolved to bonus the growers of sugar beets, and a company for the manufacture of sugar has been organized at Chatham, it may be of interest to know that a Prussian chemist, Franz Carl Achardl by name, was the first to turn Morgraff's discovery of the presence of sugar in beet root to commercial account. He erected the first factory of the kind on an estate in Silesia, granted to him, by the King of Prussia, and produced there large quantities of sugar to meet the scarcity occasioned by the closing of the West Indian ports to continental traders.

Something About Binder Twine

Farmers who intend placing their orders for Binder Twine should not take any Twine unless they know some-, thing about its brand. There will be a great deal of cheap, rough Twine on the market this coming year, and farmers should bear in mind that they have no way of discovering this until they come to use it, when they are really too busy to have any mistakes rectified.

We are selling the well-known brand "Our Superior" that we have sold here for 3 years and which has given universal satisfaction. We guarantee that the twine will be the same this year as last, hence, tarmers will be perfectly safe in ordering it.

Last year some dealers sold a so-called Superior Twine, but it was not the genuine article, as Our Superior Twine is made by the Plymouth Cordage Co, and every ticket on the balls bears their trade-mark on the back, viz, a sheaf of grain, No twine that has not this trade mark on the back of the ticket ds genuine "Our Superior Twine." Farmers, remember this and do not allow yourselves to be Imposed on We are now taking orders for Binder Twine and are guaranteeing the price against any decline or advance up till the time you take your twine home. Our aim has always been to give the farmers a good working twine, and we think that considering the quantity we sell, there is no firm in Canada who receive fewer complaints.

THE CHILD'S FAITH.

O little one, O little one,
What joys belong to thee!
You bask contented in the sun;
Your shouts are shouts of glee!
You breathe the air, you see the sky,
You watch the clouds go floating by;
You count the stars nor question why
Ner how they came to be.

O little one, you kneel to pray, Believing you are blessed; Your faith you keep all through the day— The sweetest faith, the best!

The sweetest rath, the gloom,
For you no groping in the gloom,
No dread of ending at the tomb;
For you no doubting, only room
For gladness in your breast.

BY M. QUAD.

**** I was serving my first and only term of sheriff in an Indiana county when a smart looking, middle aged man, whe gave the name of Samples, arrived at the county seat and gave out that he was looking around for a site for a large factory. He was provided with letters of recommendation, had the air of a man of business and soon had the two bankers in the town and other business men interested in his project. His factory was to make a new kind of cloth out of what he called "Persian hemp." He had samples of the cloth to show, and it could be made and sold at 400 per cent profit. Samples himself would put $500,000 into the enterprise, but he wanted the town to subscribe $200,000 additional, so as to make it a home affair. That was a pretty large sum to raise in a town of 8,000 people, and after the first half of it had been subscribed the thing began to drag. Samples was coming and going, but making our town his headquarters, and it was remembered afterward that several tough looking men called to see him. On the second night of Samples' arrival in our town a fine horse was stolen from a citizen. During his first week's stay there were more run off. In three weeks' time 12 of the best horses in our township were taken. As sheriff I was not idle for an hour after the first horse was taken. Even if I was a little green myself as an officer I had two or three constables and deputies who were old hands at the business. Some of the horses we traced for a few miles, always headed for the Ohio river, but the thieves were slick fellows and covered their tracks so well that not a horse was recovered. My position was an uncomfortable one, as you may guess. I got redhot criticism from all sides, and, even though I offered large rewards out of my own pocket and went to the expense of employing a detective for three weeks, a share of the public still insisted that I ought to resign and open a kindergarten for children. One day while I was shivering in my boots and expecting to hear that the thirteenth horse had been stolen a flash of light came to me. Every horse taken had gone south by a certain road. At a certain point all trace had been lost. Ten miles to the south of us was a big huckleberry swamp of 2,000 acres. It was state land and had only been explored by hunters. It was a big tangle, full of snakes and wildcats, and berry pickers took good care not to penetrate too far. It flashed over me that the stolen horses instead of being run out of the state had been corralled in this swamp to wait until the hue and cry was over. Within two hours I had started for the swamp, accompanied by a constable. By pure good lack after a tramp of half a day we came upon a trail-showing the hoofprints of horses, and following it to the very center of the swamp we came upon the whole 12 stolen animals. Feed had been brought to them by an-

It was a fine "plant" we uncovered. There were two men to take care of the horses. One of them was a blacksmith, and he had a forge and dozens of horseshoes. As the animals were run out the plan was to shoe each one with the shoes reversed and thus deceive us in case we struck a trail. We made a cautious approach, but in spite of us the two men got away. scarcely regretted it, however, in view of the capture of the third one, who had just arrived. It was Mr. Samples, the flax cloth man, the factory man, man with letters of introduction! Yes, sir, he had arrived to give his mbordinates directions, and as he fled with the others he tripped and fell, and we were enabled to overhaul him. He didn't even bluff. We had got him so pat that he couldn't say anything. In his pockets were letters sufficient to convict him twice over, and his game You know what human nature is in a small town. I had been maligned and abused without stint for failing to capture the horse thieves. Now that I had got all the stolen horses in a bunch, and the boss thief in addition nothing was too good for me. I was called a hero and all that and got a serenade from the band and had bonfires galore in my honor. The arrest of Samples was a thunderclap, but the public soon got over its astonishment and demanded that he receive the maximum punishment of the law. He was examined, committed for trial, and I took care to give him the strongest cell in the county jail. The man gave me no trouble. After recovering his cheek a little he claimed that he would be able to prove his entire innocence before a jury, and he was so cheery and good natured that I came to like him. He had three months to wait for the circuit court, and he made no move in regard to lawyers or witnesses until half the time had expired. By that time the public had lost most that his sister would soon arrive to see about getting him a lawyer and so forth, and two days later she called at the jail. She was a rather quiet looking woman of about 25, spoke in a choked voice and wore a veil, and without questioning her much I led her to Samples' cell and left them alone. It so happened that I had to go into court directly after, and I left it to a turnkey to let her out. He did so, and it was three hours later when I made the discovery that the two had exchanged clothes and the woman had been left behind. The turnkey hadn't noticed anything out of the way as the

"woman" passed out.

I didn't faint away or have a fit or commit suicide. I simply tendered my resignation and went off on a vacation. I knew my public, and I knew that, although I had recovered the horses and broken up the gang of thieves, that "sister" business had taken me out of politics forever. She got 90 days in jail as a punishment, I believe, but Samples got clear off and no doubt worked his little game to advantage in other localities.

The young man had returned from his wedding trip and was again at his desk in the office. It was the day after his return that the junior partner called him to his desk and said: "Now that you're married, Mr. Quills, I trust you will be considerate in your treatment of me." "I don't quite understand you, sir," exclaimed the young man in surprise. "Oh, it's a little early, I know," admitted the junior partner, "but there's nothing like taking time by the forelock. I suppose you haven't been out late at night yet."

"Certainly not, sir." "And it's none of my business if you have. But when you do stay out some night be considerate. Remember that I have a reputation for fairness and humane treatment of everybody in this office that I would like to retain. Don't tell your wife that you're sorry you're late, but that that slave driver at the office piled work upon you to such an extent that you had to work right into the night. Don't tell her that the tyrant you work under gave you is. 6d. for dinner and told you that you would have to post all the books in the office before leaving for the night. Just invent some other excuse, you know." The young man thought the matter over for a minute or two and then asked anxiously:

Grewsome Displays

"Apropos of funerals," writes a London correspondent of the Boston Transcript, "I noticed in Holborn a showcase full of strange looking pictures. Upon inspection they proved to be pho tographs of cadavers laid out in full mortuary splendor! Underneath ran the legend: 'Economy in funerals. Try our 3 guinea respectable interment. One trial only asked.'

"Scarcely less grewsome was the display of Mr. Smith, surgeon dentist, a few doors beyond. A small showcase inclosed a complacent skull, grinning perhaps to think his dental trials were over, set with an imposing array of pink gummed artificial teeth, at 15 shillings the set. Over the top of the case were painted these alluring words: 'Discolored and decayed teeth made white and stopped."

writer in Ainslee's Magazine thus describes Emperor Kwang Su, about whom the civilized world appears to know very little except through the edicts: "The Chinese Emperor is now about thirty years of age. He is under the medium height, sallow and apparently of a weak constitution. He has received a good training in Chinese and Manchu. He knows some English. It may be remembered that five of the Berlin Secret Police were ordered to Cadinen during His Majesty's recent stay. One these officials went about as a carpenter with a rule in his hand, second lay by the side of the roads disguised as a tramp, and partook freely of the contents of a gin bottle filled with tea. The third wandered about the country as a journeyman. ports to the War Office under date of Pretoria, Jan. 29: Gen. De Wet has been engaged by Knox 40 miles north of Thabanchu. No details. De Wet intends again at-tempting an invasion of Cape Colony. Smith-Dorrien has returned from Carolina, having dispersed the Boers.

A force of Boers this morning en-tered Boysburg and damaged two mines. Commandant Marais is among the prisoners taken.

TRAITOROUS TROOPS, Special to The Planet.

Matjesfontein, Jan. 29-As a seque to the recent brief occupation of Sutherland, Matjesfontein is now filled with prisoners awaiting trial by a military court. Major Campbell, chief constable of Sutherland, made whole-sale arrests. The most serious charge is that against Troopers Viser and Cloate, of the District Police, of opening government despatches addressed to the magistrate, with the object of furnishing information to the enemy.

NEW YORK FIRE. Special to The Planet.

New York, Jan. 30.-Two lives were lost at the burning of Hotel Jefferson, a seven-storey building, 102-106 Eist Fifteenth street, early to-day. The damage by fire is estimated at $50,000. The dead are:
ELENORA DOWLING, 25 years old,

nurse, and ELIZABETH REYNOLDS, 30 years dd, a waitress

The first was killed by jumping from window on the sixth floor and the the contest says :-The closest game of the day was between Chatham and Windsor. On both rinks the score was up and down, and when the last ends were to be played the two rinks were tied. The last end did not break the tie and Umprie Stevenson decided that another end should be played. In this the Chatham players fell down hard and Windsor scored two stones on one rink and one point on the other. The credit of winning the game is given to J. A. Mc-Kay, who placed his stones in such a position that both were lying shot when the last stone of the opposing team was curled. After the final game between the Windsor and Detroit teams to-day the primaries for the Ontario Tankard will take place.

Ex-County Commissioner Wm. Hickey Deals With Objections to the Proposed Long

Explains That it Will Prove of Mutual Benefit to the City and County-

Mr. McFarlane writes from ion that the proposed southern route would injure the city of Chatham. Now, I think Mr. Rankin spoke with-

This proposed road from Windsor to Chatham, would run along the middle road through Tilbury East and Raleigh, that is about 22 miles, thence to Chatham, 7 miles, with a branch from Charing Cross to Cedar Springs, 4 miles, thence to Blenheim, 6 miles; a distance of about 39 miles of thick-Are what you want for all forms of female troubles; an infallible remedy discovered by a foremost female specialist; guaranteed as a positive cure; will positively establish the normal functions; used monthly by over 50,000 ladies; for sale at drugent on receipt of price $1.00.

a distance of about 39 miles of thickly settled country in the county of Kent. The local travel will divide at the line between Essex and Kent. The Essex people's business will naturally take them to their county seat, and the Kent people along their 39 miles within the county of Kent will be drawn by their business to their county seat, Chatham.

Now the people of the city of Chatham have been for years trying to get electric railways to come to the city. Now, when there is a good prospect of having one enter the city after running through 39 miles of the county, I think they should do all in their power to encourage it. USES AND LOTS FOR SALE.

WANTS HIS NAME.

Editor Planet,

Sir,-I see by your issue of yesterday that the barber shops of Chatham were likely to remain open on Satur-day, owing to the refusal of one of their number to close his establish-ment. I think the citizens should be entitled to this man's name

All over our country, and Empire, too, tradesmen, mechanics, merchants and professional men are laying aside their ordinary vocations at the re-quest of our King to do honor to the memory of our late beloved Queen. It is but a fitting and appropriate tribute from a loyal, grateful and lov-ing people. I think Chatham citizens are entitled to the name of the trades-man within their town, who refuses to honor their Queen's memory by al-lowing the doors of his establishment to be closed for one day in accordance with all others throughout our Do-minion and the Empire. Let us have his name, Mr. Planet. LOYALIST, Chatham, Jan. 30.

Other Roads Will Follow.

Sir,-I notice several writers in the Planet and Banner-News give their views on electric railways. I thought I might be allowed space in your paper to give mine.

Dover telling the people of Chatham' that the proposed railway from Windsor to Chatham would injure their city and build up Charing Cross and other villages on the route, while the people of those villages are afraid that it will take trade from them to Chatham. Now, how are we to reconcile their views? If I wrote against an electric road through Dover, and stated that such a road would build up Dover Centre, Dover South, Mitchell's Bay, and other vilages on the route, I would be afraid ages on the route, I would be afraid I would be laughed at. Does Mr. McFarlane think that the mayor and aldermen of the City of Chatham, are not capable of looking after the interests of their city. If Mr. A. McKay's scheme of electric road in Kent is all right, but, if we wait until all these branches are built at one time, I fear it will be a good many years hence.

Lieut.-Col. Rankin gives his opinion that the proposed southern route

This proposed road is certainly a good beginning.

P. S.—I believe a system of street railways within the city of Chatham could be established in connection with the proposed road, at a great deal less cost them by having it

TURN ON YOUR BACK.

When Exhausted Swimming, Face A guest at my summer place a few miles from Pablo while bathing was carried out to sea, and when almost out of sight and all hope had fied, to our surprise, we suddenly saw his body impelled forcibly toward us. Then we saw it recede a few feet, and then again, as it were, shoot 20 feet toward the shore. This continued until my son and myself, at last able to reach him, bore him insensible to the

After recovery his story was that after losing all hope, guided by some mysterious impulse, he had turned upon his back, when he felt himself carried rapidly forward. He had then turned over upon his face to get his bearings, when he was carried out farther from the land, and on again plac-ing himself upon his back the surface waves brought him rapidly to the shore, a rescued man. It is an error that the drowning man is attacked by cramp except in very cold weather. He drowns from heart failure, induced by the violent exertion and the upward pressure of the water upon the abdomen diminishing the space and impeding the action of the heart. By turning over on the back this pressure is removed, the back being almost entirely a strong wall of bone and muscle; also when on the back the entire body is nearer the surface, and the surface waves tend toward the shore, the undercurrent out to sea, even the legs when upon the back being less exposed to the current that tends toward the sea. By floating gently upon the back the heart, relieved of its pressure, becomes calm and quiet, and the swimmer can regain his strength and float for hours. The bather whose heart is weak should always present, when standing erect, the right side of the body to the waves and thus avoid the Sullivanlike blows of the incoming waves upon a crippled heart. In every bathhouse should be posted the injunction, "In case of exhaustion or accident turn upon the

CHINESE MECHANICAL SKILL A Wonderful Example of Imitative

Whatever may be his lack of moral perception and originality of idea, the heathen Chinee certainly excels in imitative power, and is often very much alive to the excellence of mechanical devices that he never saw before. In The American Machinist Oberlin Smith affords an illustration of this fact.

Some years ago Mr. Smith sent Henry A. Janvier to China to assist in the erection and operation of coining plants for brass and silver currency. One of the tools which Mr. Janvier took with him was a micrometer caliper, made by a well known firm in the United States, and capable of detecting differences of a thousandth of an inch in the thickness of a piece of metal. The superintendent of one of the shops which Mr. Janvier established was named Wai, and he proved a very intelligent fellow. During an interval of about six weeks he borrowed the callper almost daily, and in returning it. Finally he exhibited to the American a reproduction of the instrument which was perfect except in one respect. Certain tables of figures stamped into the steel by the Yankee maker of the original were omitted from the copy, and in their place were several Chinese characters. The imitation had been made with the rudest of tools, but was a marvel of accuracy. Mr. Wai proposed an exchange to Mr. Janvier, and the latter agreed to the proposition.

The Correct Stroke In Swimming. The correct stroke of the legs is exactly like that of a frog's hind legs. Watch one of these frogs and copy his style. You cannot do better. The legs are drawn up together slowly, not with a jerk, until they are gathered in close under the body. Then with a sudden, quick spring they are shot out behind, the ankles being turned so that the soles of the fee present as flat a surface as possible to the water and so offer more resistance from which to make progress. As the kick is made the legs should be spread out in the shape of a letter V, but not allowed to sink far down under the surface of the water. If they kick downward at an angle instead of out straight be hind much of their energy is wasted in unnecessarily forcing the body out of the water instead of forward through it.-Harper's Bazar.

Absorbs All Knowledge. Farming has this peculiarity, that it can absorb and supply all knowledge. Not one of the sciences but is related, or may be related, to agriculture. Botany, rightly understood, is the art of growing better potatoes, beans and corn. Entomology is that economic science that discusses what bugs are of use to man and what are injurious. Geology is an analysis of the soils and rocks that underlie the soils for the purpose of making them more available for human warfare.

Didn't Need Credit. "You've sent your boy to college, I hear." remarked the neighbor. "Well. I hope he will acquit himself with

"He won't need to, begosh!" said Mr. Gaswell, somewhat irritated. "I'm able to supply him with the cash right straight along."

Regretted. "I might have known better than to trust my money to that broker." "Why so? Are appearances against

GOOD PROSPECTS.

"The enterprise of organizing a binder twine factory in Chatham is progressing excellently," said Provisional Director Alister McKay to The Planet, "and I believe it is safe to prophesy that it will be formally organized and have its charter by the latter part of February. Stock is being fiberally; subscribed and we expect to be able to build this spring."

THE BROWNING LARCENY CASE

Geo. G. Martin, counsel for Mr. and Geo. G. Martin, counsel for Mr. and.
Mrs. Browning, states that there was a gross miscarriage of justice in the conviction of Constable Browning and his wife for the alleged stealing of wood last November from Mrs. Aldis, and that Judge Houston is now convinced of the fact, and will do all he can to have the conviction removed.
Mr. Martin represented the facts to the Minister of Justice, asking that Judge Houston be instructed to order Mr. Martin represented the facts to the Minister of Justice, asking that Judge Houston be instructed to order a new trial, and have the case reopened. The Minister has replied when he receives the report of the Magistrate no doubt a new trial will be ordered. Judge Houston could scarcely do otherwise than convict on the evidence for the prosecution at the trial, but this evidence will be shown to be untrustwarthy. There is now, ample proof that Browning and his wife were many miles out in Chutham township at a wedding the whole of the night the alleged stealing took place, and the evidence for the prosecution will be badly shattered otherwise. Mr. Martin says that an information for perjury and an action for damages for malicious prosecution will probably follow the vindication of Constable Browning and wrife.

ONE OF NATURE'S ODDITIES.

Phenomenon That Follows Digging In Trinidad's Asphalt Lake.

Few people who travel over the asphalted streets of New York are aware of the origin of the black, pitchy mass that goes to make up the basis of the smooth roadway under their feet. Eighteen hundred miles, almost due south from New York, lies the little tropical island of Trinidad. a British possession off the coast of northern South America. At the southwestern extremity of this colony the famous Pitch lake is located on the summit of a small hill less than 200 feet above the level of the sea. In appearance there is nothing phenomenal about this wonder of the tropics, but a visit to the lake, as it is familiarly called, reveals one of the most unaccountabl oddities of nature in the annals of travel.

The tourist may take passage to the "land of the humming bird," as Trinidad people like their community to be called, and after securing accommodation at the only decent hotel in the colony proceed to the lake by one of the small government steamers plying coastwise three times weekly, disembark at the Brighton pier and proceed to the scene of the "dig-ging." Of all the crude, rough and ready means of extracting wealth from Mother Earth the Trinidad lake asphalt opera-tions are the most striking. The visitor arrives on a fairly level plateau, spotted here and there with tiny peols of water, beneath which the soft, shiny substance known as asphalt glitters in the reflections of a fierce tropical sun. Scattered over the surface of the lake dozens of swarthy negroes are plying pick and hoe, extracting the tar coaly looking stuff from the earth.

One may sit in the shade of a nearby shrub or under the protecting shade of an umbrella and watch the negroes pile heap after heap of the asphalt into the endless chain of tubs that hurry along to the pier from which one has but recently landed until a yawning excavation of 20 or more feet suggests to the supervising darky that the time has come to move a bit farther on. In the course of a few hours the excavation resulting from the morning's digging begins to look less deep, and eventide the spot from which more that five or ten tons have been dug is again level with the surrounding earth and ready to be dug over by the gang of noisy blacks. From the point of digging noisy blacks. From the point of digging to the pier is but a mile or less of endless chain descent. Moored to the pier are big sailing vessels and sometimes steamers, into whose capacious holds the tubs discharge the pitch at the rate of 200 or 300 tons per day.

On the voyage to Trinidad, West Indies, and during the traveler's stay there many other objects of interest may be "taken in." Within a few miles of the city of Port of Spain is the Blue basin, a lofty waterfall culminating in a valley opposite direction are the Mar falls, of equal beauty and novelty, while all around the city and suburbs are villages of Indians in their primitive gatherings of tribes and castes, but quite alert in their readiness to make money by the sale of queer relics of their craft.

There is but one direct line of steamers to Trinidad and one to the neighboring islands of the Antilles. The rates of passage are reasonable enough, although modation leaves something to be desired. The voyage requires anywhere from 9 to 12 days, according to the point of disembarking, and the cost of a round trip of five or six weeks may be covered by the prudent tourist for an expenditure of $300.

He Kept the Watch. On one occasion Jose Maria, a Spanish brigand, robbed an English gentleman and his servant of their horses and everything they possessed save their clothes. The Englishman was a pleasant, attractive youth and submitted to the robbery with great good humor. THE BREAD WAS AN EXTRA. an English Cafe Charge That Surprised an American. "One of the strangest things about the management of English restaurants," remarked a gentleman who has recently returned from a visit to London to the writer, "is the custom of charging diners for every slice of bread which they eat. For instance, a day or two before my departure from the British capital I, as a mark of esteem, invited several English friends to dine with me at one of the most celebrated of the fashionable west end restaurants. Well, the repast was served in a private room, and everything went off spiendidly until the coffee and cigar stage was reached and I asked that my bill be brought to me. There, to my utter astonishment, the head waiter, in the hearing of the assembled company, approached me and in a loud voice asked, 'And how many breads 'ave you 'ad, sir?' "This question I could not answer, as I had not been engaged in counting the number of slices consumed, but one of my guests, who had evidently kept track of the bread, noticing my embarrassment, said in my behalf, 'Four plates.'

"'Ah,' muttered the walter, 'that's 1 shillin bextra.' And after adding the amount to my bill he handed it to me for inspection

> Apcient Origin of Military Salute. When did the military salute come into use? It certainly dates from the earlier half of the fifteenth century, says the London Chronicle. In the "Speculum Humanæ Salvationis," which was issued before the invention of printing by movable types, there is an exceedingly quaint illustration in which Abraham is represented as saluting Melchisedec. The patriarch is in mediæval armor and apparently on guard, and it would seem that Melchisedec is bringing him refreshments of water, and the salute is distinctly the military one still in use.

Before Mrs. Wimbley's friends, the Parkers, came from the east on their long expected visit, she took an afternoon off and gave her little son a series of instructions calculated to improve his behavior at the table. Egbert had been in the habit of resting on his elbows while eating. This, his mother told him, was one of the worst offenses against good manners that people could commit.

"You must hever put your elbows on the table when we have company," the boy's mother said, "bat if you do I will wink at you. That will mean that you must take them down. THE COSTLIEST OF SAUSAGES.

Lyons, Which May Sell For as Much as $1 a Pound. "The costliest of all sausages," said man familiar with the trade, "is Lyons sausages, imported from France. Lyons sausage sells in Paris at 2 francs and more a pound. Here it is sold at 80 cents to $1 a pound. Lyons sausage is also produced in this country. That made here is even finer than the imported, but sells here, however, for somewhat less.

"Lyons is rather a large sausage. It i put up in the largest size hog casings, and it is made of beef and pork. The meats used in making it are of the very best and they are prepared with the greatest care. From the beef all the sinews and veins are removed, and there is left only the selected parts of the meat. The beef is chopped very fine, so fine as to make of it practically a paste. The pork used is from the back fat of hogs. This is not chopped fine, as the beef is, but is cut in to irregular shaped pieces which show in the sausage when it is cut. The spices used in the seasoning are of course of the choicest. The Lyons sausage is hard

"The art of sausage making has so improved in this country that now, as you can say without reservation, the finest in the United States. This is true without exception. The American Lyons sausage, for example, is better than the imported. Some American Lyons is exne of that thus exported is reimperted and sold here as imported Lyons.

"Lyons sausage is served in the very finest of hotels and restaurants, and it may be found on bills of fare before the soup, served as an appetizer. For that purpose it is very excellent. I fancy that its increasing use in this manner in New York in recent years is due in great measure to calls for it from Russian visitors. The Russians have always been fond of Lyons sausage, as they are also of caviare.

"In a Chicago sausage factory making fine sausages the owner, who was show-ing us over the establishment, said when it came noon:

"'Now we will have luncheon.' "What he gave us was Lyons sausage of his own make, pumpernickel, fresh butter and burgundy, and an admirable luncheon it was."

These letters are an abbreviation of the words "I owe unto." Thus in West's "Symboleographie," 1647, Sec. 101, the following precedent is given: "I, A. B., owe unto D. B. xli of lawfull English money, for the payment whereof I bind me to my heires. In witnesse, etc., I have put my hand and seale the xx. day of, etc." There were earlier editions of this book. Other short forms, known as "bills obligatory," which also contain the words "I owe unto," are given in "A Booke of Presidents," 1572, f. 144. It appears from these precedents that an I O U was formerly of the nature of an obligation or bond under seal. At the present day it is a mere admission of debt on which the defendant can be sued, and it requires neither seal nor stamp.-Notes and Queries.

ATTRACTIVE TITLES.

CLEVERNESS OF AUTHORS IN NAMING THEIR BOOKS.

How and Why Some Famous Author Evolved Titles For Their Works Some Quaint Titles of Ancient Studies and Romances.

The effect which a taking title may or may not have on the fortunes of a book is an open question. When books are spoken of in this connection, it is usually iction that is in the speaker's thoughts There is little need or excuse in the fields of history and biography, topography, theology and science for the use of other than perfectly plain, straightforward titles. In the domain of the essay fancy has more scope, and here some writers have been happily inspired.

But, after all, it is in regard to fiction that the question of titles become that the question of titles becomes of most importance. Some great novelists have taken but little frouble in the matter. "Waverley," "Jane Eyre," "Nicholas Nickleby," "Middlemarch," "Tom Jones"—to name a few examples at random offer no registal attraction. dom-offer no special attraction to catch the attention of possible readers. None of Thackeray's or Dickens' titles are of an alluring or particularly suggestive turn, save perhaps "Vanity Fair," "The Mystery of Edwin Drood" and "A Tale of Two Cities." Some other novelists have devoted special care and thought to the invention of attractive titles. Wilkie Collins was much exercised about the naming of the book known to fame as "The Woman In White." The story was finished and part of it was already in type for serial publication in All the Year Round before a name had been found. "Literally at the eleventh hour," said Collins himself long afterward, "I thought of 'The Woman In White.' In various quarters this was declared to be a vile melodramatic title that would ruin a vile melodramatic title that would run the book. Among the very few friends who encouraged me the first and fore-most was Charles Dickens. 'Are you, too, disappointed?' I said to him. 'Noth-ing of the sort, Wilkie! A better title there cannot be' "—a verdict which the reading public was not slow to indorse. "No Thoroughfare," the title of the story written in collaboration by Dickens and Collins, was another happy inspiration. Collins carefully studied effectiveness in most of the titles of his novels. "No Name," "After Dark," "Miss or Mrs.?" "The Haunted Hotel" and the like have all proved alluring enough to hesitating

George Eliot's titles are mostly of the straightforward, pedestrian order, but she is said to have had great trouble in fixing on one for the book which tells the history of Maggie Tulliver, Stephen Guest and Philip Waken. "The Tullivers" and various others were suggested before it was finally decided to call the before it was finally decided to call the book by the not very happy title of "The Mill on the Floss." Hawthorne, with his natural Instinct for the picturesque and the suggestive, found titles which were not only attractive, but full of sug-gestion. What could be better than "The Scarlet Letter," "The House of the Son Scarlet Letter," "The House of the Seven Gables" and "The Marble Faun?"

Of recent years novelists have vied with one another in the invention of farfetched names, intended to be arresting and enticing, but which are often merely "conceited," in the old sense of word, and strained. But for titles which are full of quaint conceits we must go back to the earlier days of our literature. Grammar is not precisely an inviting ley" it became almost attractive; but Horne Tooke's absurd title is altogether study, though in the "Divers put in the shade by a sixteenth century Latin grammar, which had for a subtitle the following honeyed description:
"A delysious Syrupe newly Claryfied for Younge Scholars yt thurste for the Swete Lycore of Latin Speche." We wonder whether this highly sugared pill deceived a single one of the urchins for whom it was so carefully prepared.

For titles of the fanciful kind the Puri-For titles of the fanciful kind the Puritan writers distance all competitors. In their hands allusion and metaphor often become simply grotesque. Here are a few titles of theological pamphlets and books: "A Most Delectable Sweet Perfumed Nosegay For God's Saints to Smell At," a pamphlet issued in 1636; "The Snuffers of Divine Love," "Heel Pieces For Limping Sinners," "The Spiritual Mustard Pot to Make the Soul Sneeze With Devotion," and so forth. Sneeze With Devotion," and so forth. Devotion is hardly the feeling which seems most likely to be inspired by the perusal of such absurdities. But the Puritans in the adoption of these high flown and g tesque phrases simply aped the ways of more secular writers of the

The romancers of Elizabethan days reveled in fantastic titles, which were doubtless enticing enough to the limited reading public of that day. Painter's "Palace of Pleasure" is a type of many book titles similarly constructed. The euphuisschool of course let their fancy run riot in the invention of strange names for the tedious romances in which they dis-coursed of strange birds and beasts and plants. Greene's "Philomela: the Lady FitzWater's Nightingale," and "Morando: or, The Tritameron of Love," sound much more attractive than any modern reader could possibly find them to be. Fashions in names have changed, but the object aimed at remains the same. The modern novelist invents a farfetched The modern novelist invents a farfetched or a startling title in the hope of stimulating curiosity and alluring readers and buyers, just in the same way that his predecessors of three centuries ago strove to hoodwink the reading public of that day.—London Globe.

FREAKS OF THE WIND.

Strange Things Done by Sea Breeze That Puzzle Old Sailors. Those persons whose lives are passed on the sea witness many strange pranks of the wind, and sometimes it seems as though it goes perfectly mad.

As a rule, a breeze is steady, but often in the sea you will in summer weather by the sea you will notice ruffling the water two strips of wind within a few yards of each other running in opposite directions. Then, again, a breeze will tear along, cutting the water up till it runs full tilt into a stronger breeze coming the other way and will be overthrown by it. Then the two join and tear back over the path of the first one.

When this happens on a strong, windy day as it sometimes does in summer the day, as it sometimes does in summer, the damage to shipping is terrific.

Two years ago it was blowing a fresh summer gale on the Maine coast. Sud-denly a brig, which was running free, with the wind right behind her, came up-on a wall of white water ahead, and the crew saw that a sudden shirt of wind had brought the gale right on top of them. The new wind, sweeping the other back, struck the ship full in the face, so to speak, and as she was lightly laden—"in ballast," as it is called—she was turned head over heels and made a back somersault. Then the masts gave way, and the brig filled and sank. Four of the crev were rescued by a steamer which, though she had been traveling at 11 miles an hour, was stopped almost dead by the change of wind. The gale had been blowing from the southwest when it ran into the other gale coming from the northeast. That freak of wind dismasted 12 ships and sank five, besides one or two pleasure boats full of excursionists.

A rare and strange occurrence is the "ground wind" that blows hard along the surface, but fails altogether a little way ently a large public sailing craft on the Pacific coast was tearing along with as much wind as she could stand while a sailor 30 feet up the mast showed there was not enough wind there to blow out a little flag he was holding, though the wondering passengers on deck had hard work to keep their hats on. One or two of them, refusing to believe in the "freak," were allowed to climb up and see for themselves, and they, too, found see for themselves, and they, too, found there was hardly a breath of wind a few yards up the mast. It only happens in the height of summer, when winds are much more changeable and shifty than at any other time.

You have heard perhaps of an "Irishman's hurricane," straight up and down the mast. This is slang for a dead calm; but there really are such things-especially in hot weather and a cloudy sky-as strong squalls blowing straight down from the heavens strike the sea or earth like a falling board. This happeded on the Atantic not very long ago, a squall suddenly descending from a cloud—clouds al-ways bring puffs of wind with them and struck the sea like a smack from an an open hand. It astonished everybody considerably, for this is a "freak" generally confined to the tropics and very rare. But the downward squall was un-mistakable, for it forced two very deep loaded boats bodily under water and nearly capsized a good many more. The same thing occurred near Llandudno, where several bathing tents were flattened out on the sand.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has een able to cure in all its stages, and hat is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a con-stitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting di-rectly upon the blood and mucous sur-faces of the system, thereby destroy-ing the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by build-ing up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprie nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Making Dairy Cows

************** The average dairyman, by instinct or education, has come to realize that a cow is not merely an animal with a leg on each corner, writes W. F. McSparran in The National Stockman. Many a farmer knows pretty well when he sees a good cow, not because he has studied or perhaps even seen a scale of points, but because he does. He knows there are cows and cows, and the more he knows that the more difficult it becomes for him to acquire by purchas such cows as he knows he wants. He wants the bag and teats and body and back and head and heart and hide of a cow, and when he drives around and finds this combination in one cow organism he finds her owner does not

FAVORITE DAIRY TYPE. want to sell her. If he goes to the pub lic sale or auction, where a great many kinds, but very few of the one kind, go, and he picks out that one kind as meet ing the specifications, he finds a number of other men also who want her, and the man who is willing to back his judgment with the most cash or the biggest note gets her.

Numerous experiences along the line of trying to buy such cows as he wants finally teach him what he should have known in the beginning of his business as a dairyman, that he must produce what he wants. And just here is where he is apt to make the gravest and most lasting mistake of the breed er-trying to breed up and buying the sire of his herd "way down."

It is past the day of trying to serve many masters in any line of business. The tendency is all toward specialties and intensification. If a man is in the dairy business, he is in error when he tries to serve butter and beef from the same dairy. He needs cows for milk, cream and butter. As he branches toward beef he grows away from these. He must select his butter breed and hunt a sire with individual merit enough to make him conspicuous and an ancestral tendency that carries a guarantee that he will produce after his kind. Then buy him. He may cost three or four cows, but buy him. If he is a calf, clearly defined to the buyer's mind should be the bull he wants to make him and then make him that. He must not be used until old enough and only then according to his age and strength. When his helfer calves come with a royal right to be better than their dams, it must be seen to that heir rights are recognized by being fed and cared for toward their useful cow

There has been so much said and written in warning lest the future cow be fed so as to lay on fat and grow into a beef animal instead of a desirable member of the dairy that the starvation plan is too often followed to the permanent burt of the subject, and careful investigation of feeding young stock intended for the dairy will show more spoiled by timid underfeeding than by judicious full feeding. A mere matter of good feeding can scarcely change the tendency of heredity, and if you fill the calf's belly and its back gets fat send it to the butcher before you lose a lot of feed and care trying to make a cow of it. If fed at all intelligently, there will be no trouble with the young thing that is to make a profitable cow getting fat. That is heresy, but it is the truth. Being well fed, she will be big enough when old enough to make her start toward cowhood. Let her mate be better than she is. Try to have her a cow when 20 to 24 months old. Having always treated her as a lady, treat her now as a mother as well. Keep her clean and give her plen-ty of good feed and pure water. If she shows a physical defect, breed it away in her offspring. If up to your ideas of what a cow should be, breed her offspring to its sire and take a seat among the public benefactors.

The Dirty Patron.

All clean, intelligent patrons of creamery or cheese factory whose property every day is endangered by the actions of a dirty patron will agree with the vigorous manner in which a writer in an Illinois paper goes for him in the following:
The dirty patron is the bane of the creamery and of every attempt at cooperative butter making. Some folks, the many, are instinctively cleanly; others, the few, are constitutionally and instinctively dirty. Paraphrasing the commandment, "The dirty sins of the one dirty patron are visited continnously upon the ninety and nine clean-ly ones." The dirty patron as he runs his dirty hand into the pail of foaming milk to get a material to still further lubricate the dirty teats of the cow he is milking and lets the pasty and odor-ous product of the effect drip into the pail can paralyze the effects of the best butter maker in America. This consti tutionally dirty patron is proof against remonstrance, entreaty or threat, and there is really only one thing to be done with him, and that is to fire him. The tainted product of the one dirty patron will lower the grade of the entire product of the creamery with which he is connected, and it may real-ly be said that he is the worst leak connected with the management of nearly all creameries. Fire him, gently if you can, but fire anyway!

THE ROOT OF THE MATTER.

He Cured Himself of Serious Stomacl Trouble Down to First Principles

A man of large affairs in one of our prominent eastern cities by too close attention to business, too little exer-cise and too many club dinners, finally began to pay nature's tax, levied failure of his digestion brought about a nervous irritability, making it im-possible to apply himself to his daily business and finally deranging the kidneys and heart.

In his own words he says: "I con-fullted one physician after another and each one seemed to understand my case, but all the same they each failed to bring about the return of my mer digestion, appetite and vigor. For two years I went from pillar to post from one sanitarium to another, gave up smoking, I quit coffee and even renounced my daily glass or two of beer, but without any marked im-

Friends had often advised me to try a well-known proprietary medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I had often perused the newspaper advertisements of the remedy, but never took any stock in advertised medicines mor could believe a fifty-cent patent medicine would touch my case.

To make a long story short, I finall bought a couple of packages at the nearest drug store and took two or three tablets after each meal and occasionally a tablet between meals when I felt any feeling of nausea of discomfort.
"I was surprised at the end of the first week to note a marked improve-ment in my appetite and general health and before the two packages were gone I was certain that Stuart's Dyspepsia Taplets were going to cure Dyspepsia Taplets were going to care completely and they did not disappoint me. I can eat and sleep and enjoy my coffee and cigar, and no one would suppose I had ever known the horrors of dyspepsia.

"Out of friendly curiosity, I wrote the remedy ask-to the proprietors of the remedy ask-ing for information as to what the tablets contained, and they replied that the principal ingredients were asspice pepsin (government test) malt diastase and other natural digestives which digest food regardless of the condition of the stomach."

The root of the matter is this: the digestive alemants contained in Stu

digestive elements contained in Stu-art's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food, give the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate and the nerves and whole system receive the nourishchance to recuperate and the herves and whole system receive the nourishment which can only come from food; stimulants and nerve tonics never give real strength, they give a fictitious strength, invariably followed by reaction. Every drop of blood, every nerve and tissue is manufactured from our daily food, and if you can insurgits prompt action and complete digestion by the regular use of so good and wholesome a remedy as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, you will have no need of nerve tonics and sanitariums. Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been in the market only a few years, yet probably every druggist in the United States, Canada and Great Britain now sells them and consider them the most popular and successful of any preparation for stomach troubles.

ENDORSES PROPOSAL.

"It would be an excellent thing to have aldermen elected as proposed, half of the number every year," said N. H. Stevens to The Planet this morning. "After a man has served two years as alderman the rate-payers ought to know whether he is capable of performing the duties required of him or not.

"The proposition to have the trustees elected from the whole city is also a move in the right direction and I am glad to see the city progressive."

APPOINTMENTS.

NEW YORK TELEGRAPH.

"There is certainly no public that attracts readers more easily than The New York Sunday Telegraph, and this agreeable state of affairs is due to its clever knack of giving the reader just the kind of news he wants and presenting it in just the manner ner he likes to read it. The Sunday Telegraph's popularity is enhanced by special features not to be found in(any other newspaper, and by a suppleother newspaper, and by a supple-ment printed in colors on fine book pathe illustrations of which are per, the illustrations of which are equal to those of the best magasines. Such is the opinion of the Cleveland Plaindealer, and of every right thin Plaindealer, and of every right thirding person, capable of discerning the merits of a publication, who has every subscribed to the Telegraph. Fulsome commendation is all right in its way, and perfectly justifiable in cases of magazines, successful books and high literary efforts, but when a contemporary will of the count according. porary will, of its own accord, give such a flattering testimonial to a rival sheet, then that paper, both in point of its literature and in the quality of the news it presents, must be above the ordinary daily journal. The Morning and Sunday Telegraph will be sent to any one desiring a spe-cimen copy, by addressing The Mornium Telegraph, 140 West Forty-second in New York City. Newsdealers, if they wish a saleable commodity, should in-clude the Telegraph in their stock in clude the Telegraph in their stock in trade, and if the paper is given a good display and brought to the the attention of their patrons, they will find the investment a profitable one.
