Tom Gilles will not be seen in His Favorite Haunts for Some Time -A Circus drunk Fined

There are not many Chathamites who would refuse a free trip to Toronto, just at this time while the fair is in progress, and yet when Judge Houston informed one man that he could leave Chatham for six months and have his fare paid to Toronto, where kind friends will be waiting to conduct him to a place all prepared for him, the man did not seem at all pleased and raised several objections to leaving Chatham with such little notice, but Judge Houston was firm.

The offender was Thomas Gilles, who has been drunk for several months. During that time he has been up in the police court several times, and Judge Houston has given him many opportunities to straight.

TRACKS SOON TO BE REMOVED

Railway Company May Deem it Wise to Tear up Head St. Spur

A Strong Effort Being Made by the Mayor to Take Advantage of Company's Difficulty to Force Their Hand

In the near future Chathamites may see a time honored nuisance removed. Reference is made to the railway switch on Head street. The news that there is a strong likelihood of this track being taken up by the railway company, will appeal especially to all who have to use the street or live in its vicin-

Head street west of Victoria avenue, is about to be paved. Of this work the railway company will have to pay a large share, probably four or five thousand dollars. In addition or five thousand dollars. In addition to this it will be necessary for them to lower their tracks about a foot as they will be that much above the grade of the payement. This, also, would be a costly undertaking. The same thing will happen when Head street, east of Victoria avenue, is paved, so that the railway company is face to face with an expensive task.

If they would receive any return

If they would receive any return for their outlay there would be some use in having their tracks there and footing the bill, but, as it is at present, the switch will be practically useless. This is by reason of the fact that the Wallaceburg and Lake Erie Electric road intends radiating to the Canada Flour Mills Co., and the other places served by the present switch. They would be able to handle the traffic more cheaply than the steam road and would, likely, get the business.

Confronting this proposition it is likely that the company will decide to remove their tracks. Their representative will be in the city soon to go over the situation. The Mayor, in his own energetic way, is taking If they would receive any return in his own energetic way, is taking the initiative, and will try to have this eyesore and cause of complaint removed. If the present plan fails he has what he believes a trump card to throw on the table to compel the removal.

A GREAT SIGHT

M. Houston says the William Gray & Sons' Exhibit at the Toronto Fair is Well Worth Seeing

Judge Houston has just returned from a trip to Toronto, where he has been attending the meeting of the Ontario Law Association and incidentally visiting the Toronto Fair. In speaking of the Fair this morning he said:—

"The exhibition is a grand one this year, and it is said to be more successful than it has ever been. There are many splendid exhibits, and among the best of them I noticed one right from our own town, that of the William Gray & Sons Co., Ltd. It is the best fair exhibit that I have ever seen, and it is acknowledged as such by everyone who sees it. It is arranged beautifully and with remarkable taste. It is made dark and red lights and Chimese lanterns are strewn everywhere in it. All around are signs advertising the firm, and flowers and palms and streamers are everywhere in evidence. A large picture of the Royal Family is placed in a conspicuous spot, and the display of carrisges etc. if arranged contact of the stream of a proposition of carrisges etc. if arranged contact of the stream of the arranged contact of the stream of the display of carrisges etc. if arranged contact of the stream of the of ture of the Royal Family is placed in a conspicuous spot, and the display of carriages, etc., is arranged so every part of it can be seen. The floor is richly carpeted and an aisle arranged so that visitors can walk all the way around the exhibit. This firm or no other firm could have made a more creditable showing. "I was talking to a Yankee who had visited all of the big Fairs in the States, and he said it was the finest exhibit he had ever seen. The people are in throngs around it all the time, and Chatham is becoming well advertised as a place where first-class huggies are made.

Ald. C. A. Austin has Pleasant Time with Party at Muskoka

Ald, Chas. Austin has returned reom a two weeks' outing spent at Sparrow Lake. Muskoka. Mr. Austin was one of a party of seventy-five who composed "Camp Moosey." The members of the party were largely, professional men, from Toronto and Hamilton, some of them from the United States; out for a jolly good time, which they were eminently successful in obtaining. Mr. Austin accompanied the Rev. G. H. Cobblediek, and has returned invigorated and browned. The newly gained strength will be useful in dealing with the business that has accumuated for the attention of the chairman of the Industrial committee in his absence.

"We had a splendid time," said Mr. Austin. "It is said that over 90,000 Americans visited Muskoka during the summer. A great number of these are from Pittsburg, the people of that place seeming to have a special predeliction for the resort. The new James Bay railway, now being surveyed, will make Muskoka more easily approachable. Instead of taking all day to reach Port Cockburn (at the head of the lakes) as at present, one will be enabled to make the trip in four hours, from Toronto. The Trent Valley Canal will, also, tap Muskoka, the Severn river being used for part of the course.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 1905. PEACE AND VICTORY.

The assurance of peace is welcome It means the return to habits of industry of a million men. It means a readjustment of conditions on a basis of ceratinty and stability in striking contrast to the policies that prevailed before the war begun. It means that the problem of the orient is settled, that Japan will assume the place among the nations to which her patriotism, her progress, her industry and her martial and naval strength entitle her. It means that Russia will be able to give undivided attention to the grievous domestic questions that have arisen to confront her statesmen, and that the losses or the war were the sacrifice that had to be made before there could be a governmental reorganization which will bring content to the people. It is too early to say that the profits of the war were in excess of the losses, but when the benight ness of the Russian people is contrasted with the mere promise of their advancement it becomes impossible to condemn the war as a total failure even from the Russian viewpoint.

The most intersting feature of the negotiations at Portsmouth was the divergent view taken by the envoys of the duties of the two governments to themselves, to each other and to the world. The Russia view was characteristic of the selfishness of an autocratic government. The obligation of chivalry was not recognized. The nation's debt to the world was never considered. To yield to anything but a demonstrated superior force was considered debasing. The czar and his ministers could see only the disgrace of an indemnity which became a tangible evidence of the national humiliation. They connived to put Japan in the position of making peace or continuing the war for the sake of mere money. They never considered that in doing this they were themselves assuming the position in which they sought to place Japan.

The Japonese, on the other hand, imposed original conditions which seemed well in harmony with the terms to which a nation that had won every battle on both land and sea might subscribe. Point by point they yielded, not under the compulsion of fear that Russia would finally win, but in the sincere desire to bring about a peace that would be

In poing of direct results Russian diplomacy stands as a victor in the game that has been played at Portsmouth. But in the magnanimity of her attitude and the chivalry of her conduct Japan has set a new standard which approximates ideality and comes closely in accord with the splendid concepts of international obligations which the Interparliamentary Union has now under consideration in Brussels. Japan has lost hundreds of millions of dollars but she has won the lasting regard and admiration of the world.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

Bobcaygeon Independent. Since it was stated that Premier Whitney was strongly disposed to cancel the grant of money and lands to the Grand Trunk Pacific for the branch from the main line to Port Arthur, leading lights of the railway are reported to be making frequent "friendly calls" upon the members of the local government. Certainly. These railway men never know how to put in their time, and they are tickled to death when they can break their ennui by a "friendly call" on a premier, or member of a government. Incidentally fit might be whispered in the ear of the honor-able premier that the ignominious kick out the province gave the last government was not so much that it cared for the Whitneyites, as that it was disgusted and provoked with the Rossites, through these constant "friendly calls" from railway, pulp and mining schemers. If Mr. Whitney is wise he will show these "friendly callers" to the door in such a way that they will not return.
There is only one construction that the public can place on these "friendly calls."

A NEW MINING POLICY

Ontario Government Withdraws Four Cobalt Townships.

loyalty to the Crown May Be Imposed Upon Mining Enterprises - May Be On Sliding Scale and May Not Be Calculated on First Returns-Prespectors As Well As the Province to Be Considered.

Toronto, Aug. 29.—By an order-in-council passed by the Ontario Govern-nent yesterday the rich cobalt mining district is withdrawn from sale lastrict is windrawn from sale of the class. The following statement was handed out by Hon, Mr. Cochrane:

"An order-in-Council was passed yesterday withdrawing the lands in the Pownships of Coleman, Bucke, Lorrain and Hudson-the scene of the recent liscoveries of rich silver-cobalt ores-from sale or lease under the Mines' Act, with the view of enabling the Government to take such steps as may be deemed advisable in the public in-terest regarding them. It is understood that the Government will at once consider the new terms under which mining rights will be given in the territory covered by the order-in-Council.

Protects the Prospector.

Protects the Prespector.

These terms will take into account that the prospector is entitled to faverable consideration, and the intention is not to stop prospecting. Prospecting is still to be encouraged as it should be. Up to the present the prospector are readingly that it it is not to be prospector. has received but little of the great ben-efit that has come from the discoveries in the neighborhood of Cobalt. They have sold their rights to others who make the large profits.

"The Government's intention is to make new terms more in harmony with the state of affairs that are now known to exist. For instance, instead of one man being entitled to 40 acres when he makes a discovery it will probably be provided that he will be entitled to a much smaller area. This will give more prospectors a chance in a given area.

Royalty to the Crown.
"It may also be a condition that the worker of a mine shall pay a percentage to the Crown on the profits that come from newly-discovered mines, and this percentage may be on a stiding scale, and may not be calculated on the first returns up to a stated amount. The whole question will be carefully considered and conclusions come to that will not interfere with prospectors, but rather encourage them and vet will give the Province some part of the enormous wealth that is now be-lieved to be in the territory affected by the order-in-Council. The result will be two-fold. First to encourage and protect the legitimate prospector, and secondly to safeguard the interests of the Province.

"The order-in-Council provides that it is not to interfere with the rights of anyone who has heretofore made application for mining lands in the territory mentioned.

Oppose the Royalty.

A. C. Boyce, M. P., for Sault Ste.
Marie, and Mr. Hay of the same town, were at the Parliament Buildings yesterday arranging for the reception of a deputation from Cobalt and Halley-bury, which will interview the Govern-ment to-day on mining matters. There is strong opposition in the mining re-gion to the proposed royalty on min-erals. Provincial assistance towards the establishment of a customs smelter will also be asked

ALLQUIET

A report was sent in to the police the other day that tramps were causing considerable annoyance to the residence of Park avenue and vicinity. Chief Holmes and officers Dezelia and Groves took a trip through that part of the city Monday night, but found everything quiet and orderly.

"We walked to the fair grounds, down Park Ave., Wellington street and over the creek and only saw one man during the whole trip. He was walking down Stanley avenue on his way home. Everything, as far as we could see was perfectly peaceful.

"One thing we did notice was that the streets were very dark, and if we had found anyone it would have been difficult to eatch them."

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR A HAPPY MAN

If so Find One Who Has Used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and Can Eat and Enjoy Three Square Meals a Day.

Meals a Day.

Thrice happy is the man who can take three square meals a day and enjoy every one of them. But in these days of bad teeth and quick lunches, how many people can do this? Can you? If you can't it's your own fault.

Modern science has overcome the handicaps of bad teeth, quick eating and scanty saliva. It has provided Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, the greatest help to the Stomach ever discovered. They contain the necessary ingredients for digestion; to put it in brief they digest the food while the Stomach rests and recuperates. That they are an easy and natural cure for all Stomach alments anybody who has used them will tell you. Louis M. Boudreau, of St. Louise, N. B., says:

"I recommend anyone who suffers

"I recommend anyone who suffers recommend anyone who suffers from Dyspepsia to use Dodd's lyspepsia Tablets. I had it badly, and the doctors I consulted did me no good. Three boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured me completely."

"The microscope teaches us," says a scientist, "that there are animals so wonderfully minute that if a thousand of them were ranked abreast they could easily swim, without being thrown out of order, through the eye of the finest cambric needle ever made. Yet each of the minute creatures is a highly organized number of particles, capable of moving about, of finding and devouring food and of behaving in all respects as becomes an animal as distinguished from a fragment of un-organized matter." The human mind is utterly incapable of realizing the structure of these little creatures and of fully appreciating their marvelous adaptation to the life they are destined to lead.

It is the things that we want the least that we cry the least for.

it. Spenser, for instance, has the line "Then came hot July boyling like to fire," and even so late as Johnson' time the accent was still on the "Ju." It is one of many words which would startle those ancestors of ours, spoker as we speak them now.-London Chronicle

WEALTH IN THE YUKON Our Fellow-Citizens There Ara Contributing $10,000,000 Per Annum to Canada's Wealth.

While wealth in the form of wheat is being produced on the prairies to the tune of $100,000,000 in a year, our fellow-citizens in the Yukon are contributing $10,000,000 per annum in gold to the financial strength of the Dominion. This is a large output for so small a community. But the region has done better. When the rush was on the quantity of gold obtained was as high as $20,000,000 a year in value. The change is the result, not of any failure in the crop, but of the movement of population. It is estimated by a mining authority who has reported upon the territory that it will take 145 years to wash out the gold-yielding gravel now in sight.

The gold, as related by Dr. Thompson, M. P., in his recent speech in Parliament, is found along the creeks. The Yukon is a net work of small streams, running among the hills, and making for the larger bodies of water. These streams, in the course of centuries, have carried down from the hills vast quantities of gravel, along with which gold is mixed. The gravel has formed a bed or bench along the side of the creek, and here the miner operates. At the present time placer mining, or the washing of the gravel, is the chief industry. But it is clear that the gold thus sequred must have come from some central source. It was in the rock before it was forced down the creek to its present resting-place. Therefore, it is certain that there are quartz deposits in various parts of the district. These will be found some day, and then operations such as those in the Kootenays will be entered upon, with rich results.

The labor of the miner is not altogether what the far away observer would expect it to be. Many of us suppose that, with the gold lying in the bed of the creek, all that the miner has to do is to run down to the shore in the morning and wash out a few hundred dollars' worth of nuggets before breakfast, the operation being repeated whenever our friend experiences a desire to be active. But this is a total misapprehension. The business is not so easy as that. Dr. Thompson, selected his claim he is confronted with the fact that there is upon it a bed of loam which has to be removed in order that the gravel, in which the gold is found, may be reached. For a considerable depth, then, the miner has to dig. If it is winter time, the earth has to be thawed, and this process is accomplished through the building of large wood fires. When the loam is out of the way the gravel appears. Here, again, heat has to be applied in order to move the material.

In some cases the miner uses the wood fires on the gravel. He will thaw as far as he can, and then haul the gravel thus loosened to the surface, and dump it while it awaits the next operation. Men who are in better circumstances employ steam. The steam is generated, and is conducted by pipe to the gravel, into which the end of the pipe is sunk, with the aid of a drill. The escaping steam soon drives out the frost, and the gravel is removable. Where an operator is particularly well off he will add a steam shovel to his plant, and thus haul out the material by wholesale. After the bed-rock has been reached—and the gravel is richer as it gets nearer the rock—the miner has to undertake engineering operations. He must follow the gravel under the unremoved earth, thus tunneling as far as he can.

All the gravel is brought to the sur-has to undertake engineering operations. He must follow the gravel under the unremoved earth, thus tunneling as far as he can.

All the gravel is brought to the surface and dumped seady for the next move. It takes the shape of huge conical mounds, of considerable height. Along a goldyleiding creek there will be a series of mounds awaiting treatment. The next process is the washing or sorting. For this business long flumes, a foot square, are provided. At the bottom of the flumes are nailed what are termed riffles, or cleatspieces of wood or of iron—which catch the gold as it falls. Water is turned into the flumes, and as it courses down from end to end the gravel is thrown in. Seeing that the gold is heavier than the other material, it falls, and is caught in the cleats, while the gravel is carried away. When the water is turned off the miner learns what his luck has been. There may be a good deal of gold in the flume. On the other hand, the yield may be small. If gold has been exhumed it will be found to be in grains like flour, increasing in size to nuggets of the size of a pea.

It is clear that the Yukon miner has no sinecure. He works during the winter, except when the cold is exceptionally severe; and the summer, when the water is free, is naturally his busy time. There is a good deal of chance in his operations. He may make a big haul, and it is possible that his work may yield him little.

So far the Yukon has turned out $120,000,000 worth of gold. This year's output will bring the figure up to $130,000,000 to the people engaged in the industry the production means me acy. To Canada it means business. W. do not furnish all the supplies for the Yukon, but we send a large proportiun—probably half, and this trade is not to be regarded with indifference. In fact, it should be the task of the Government to enlarge it, and to give the people of the north every encouragement possible to prosecute, and, indeed, to increase their operations. The imposts upon the mining business should be reduced to the minimum,

"Bedad, yer honor," came the reply, "he's worse than poor; he's the unluckiest horse iver was."

"Indeed," replied the Englishman, "and may I ask why?"

"Indeed," replied the Englishman,
"and may I ask why?"
"Well, now, Oi'll tell yer honor.
For the last four mornin's Oi've tossed him whether he'd have his breakfast or Oi'd hav' a drink, and, bedad, Oi've won every toime!"—The Tatler.

LAW ASSOCIATION

* 1 1 1 1 1 Judge Houston reports a very suc essful meeting of the Ontario Law Association in Toronto. The object of the meeting was to try to arrange a meeting with J. J. Foy, to discuss the amendments to the statutes which are contemplated by the Government. In this respect the Association was unsuccessful, but other matters of importance were discussed. One complaint made by the bar is that the disbursements in suits are too large and that lawyers are, un-der the existing circumstances, prac-tically made collecting agents for the Government.

M. Wilson, K. C., of this city, presided over the meeting. M. Houston was appointed on the committee of arrangement for next year. Mr. Wilson has not yet returned to the city, He being seriously indisp when Mr. Houston left Toronto.

Cupid, the marksman of the tiny shafts which, all unnoticed at the time, lodge in the victim's heart, and after a time render him or her powerless to withstand the gentle bove God's wiles, yesterday saw the culmination of a shaft launched som time ago when Grace Ethel Jones became the wedded wife of Thomas R. Morgan. The bride, who is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Jones, is popularly known as one as one of Chatham's fairest daughas one of Chatham's fairest daughters. The groom, formerly of Palmston, came to this city about three years ago to assume charge of the finishing department of the large Gray & Son's factory, where he is still empolyed.

The nuptial ceremony was performed yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents, 43 Kirk street, by the Rev. F. E. Malott, in the presence of over eighty guests.

The bride was gowned for the ceremony in a cream voile, made over Children's Day at the Canada National Exhibition, and the attendance was greater than on any similar day in the history of the association. The children enjoyed themselves as only children ean, and the exhibitors had to get extra advertising literature sent up from the city so great was the demand by the youngsters. At the directors' luncheon the leading educational lights of the city and Province made short speeches in the line of their work.

To-day is Manufacturers' Day at the mony in a cream voile, made over taffeta, with chiffon trimmings in which creation she looked charming-ly sweet. Both were unattended when they entered the drawing room to the inspiring strains of the wed-ding march played by the bride's brother. Under a canopy of flowers and foliage in one corner of the room, the knot was firmly tied, and the bride emerged, with her identity changed to that she will in future

The interior of the house looked very pretty, indeed, in its garb of smilax and pink and white china astors, from which peeped forth glowing eelctric bulbs.

After the ceremony, the wedding repast was partaken of, Rev. F. E. Malott proposing the bride's health, the toast being replied to felicitously by the groom. The happy young couple left on the five o'clock G. T. R. train for a two weeks' honey-R. train for a two weeks' honey-moon tour to Toronto and Montreal. The bride's going away gown was of brown, with ,a hat to match. The popularity and esteem of the young couple was attested by the concourse of friends at the station to bid them good bye.

Presents were received from Presents were received from St. Catharines, Exeter, Bay City, Kingston and Vancouver, in addition to the great number received from this city. One room was filled with the gifts—all handsome and useful—a tabulation of which would require too much space. A unique contribution was from an uncle of the groom, in Vancouver, B. C., and consisted of an ornate Chinese iewel case of costan ornate Chinese jewel case of cost-ly wood, with drawers of varying sizes. The groom's gift to the bride was a sunburst of pearls. Mrs. McDonald is 90 years of age and was one of the pigner settlers in Kent County. Notwithstanding her great age, she enjoys comparatively good health. Her mind is exceptionally bright and her memory is wonderfully good. About a year ago, it will be remembered, she gave a very interesting interview to The Planet on olden times. She is a very interesting conversationalist. She came into town yesterday to have her photo taken with her grand-daughter. Miss Irene Charrest, of Winnipeg. Mrs. D. McDonald, who resides with "One of the darkest spots in the city," remarked a citizen this morning, "is between the Library and St. Joseph's Hall on Cross St. and on Queen St. near the Library. If any cut-throat should attempt to hold anyone up in the city it is likely he would resort to this spot. It is a much travelled locality and entertainments are constantly being given in St. Joseph's Hall. This part yields as much in taxes as any other part of the city and should receive some consideration."

We understand that, last year, an arrangement was made with the Gas Company to light the large lamp in front of the Library, but the rate being too high the service was discontinued. Another effort should be made to restore this service or have an are lamp put in nearby-. "One of the darkest spots in the Toronto, Aug. 30.—In the presence of His Seigne Highness, Prince Louis of Battenberg, and three hundred of his Jack Tars, and of Lord de Vesci, with the Irlsh Guards band, Hon. J. P. Whitne trish quarus band, Hon. J. P. Watt-ney, Premier of Ontario, formally open-ed the Canadian National Exhibition at 2 o'clock yesterday. Several thousand citizens witnessed the ceremony. The Premier's Address. One day a doctor was summoned to a farm house where he found at woman in a high fever and evidently exceedingly ill. He said to her husband, who was the only other person in the house:

"Your wife is very sick, and must have nothing to eat except milk and beef tea, but I want you to give her a cup of one or the other every two hours."

The Premier's Address, and replied appropriately: The exhibition was part of the agricultural, industrial and educational life of the Province.

PREMIER WHITNEY.

It was being recognized more and more It was being recognized more and more that knowledge must control in the two great occupations of the world, while the educational value could hardly be appraised in words. It became their duty to direct all possible effort towards the working out of these problems for the public benefit. The Prelems for the public behelft. He from ler's language was flowery as he touched upon the resources of Province. Ontario had attained the proud position of leading Province, and he was sure the visitors would carry away whose npressions of the industries wh impressions of the industries whose operation they had seen, and appreciation of the loyal feeling. He would not conceive of a time coming when a different flag would be flying over Canada. The people had grown in the belief that they were part and parcel of the Empire, and the day was far past when Canadians would tamely submit to being spoken of as colonials. "I will ask the admiral if it would not now be the proper thing for me to

"I would now desire to raise my glass to the health and greater prosperity of Toronto," said Prince Louis, calling upon the officers of his squadron to honor the toast. They rose and, led by Commander Ellerby, responded with three ringing cheers of the sort that fairly lived up to the popular idea of sailorly heartness.

The attraction in the grand stand in the afternoon was the presence of His Serene Highness Prince Louis, and the Serene Highness Prince Louis, and the distinguished party which occupied a box in the centre of the stand. There was a vast assemblage, which sand-wiched its attention between royalty and the specialty performance. His Serene Highness was apparently much pleased with what he saw, particularly the musical ride of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, and repeatedly he led the applause. The Civic Banquet.

A pleasant and graceful function was the civic banquet given Prince Louis last evening at the exhibition grounds.

"He's a Jolly Good Fellow" was the sentiment voiced in rousing, if not rhythmic, chorus by the banqueters.

Prince Louis' words came as a response to the Mayor's imperialistic allusion. He spoke of the naval commis-sponse to the mayors imperalistic al-lusion. He spoke of the naval commis-sion formed some years ago at a time when there was "a very strong feel-ing as to the perllous position of the British Isles in case of war," when he had been asked by the Admirally to give confidential evidence before the

The Prince gave warm thanks for the hospitality extended. What had touched him particularly was the way in which little children on the street had smiled him a welcome.

After President McNaught had said a few words as to the disinterestedness of the fair management, in a work that was for the country's good alone, there was prompt adjournment to witness the evening performance before the grand stand.

River Gangnon, Que., Aug. 28.—
(Special).—No complaint is so common among women a ain-in-the-Back. It is a safe estimate that fully half the women in Canada are afflicted with it. For that reason every evidence that there is a sure and complete cure in existence is thankfully received. And there is abundant evidence that Dodd's Kidney Pills is just such a cure. This district could furnish a dozen cures, but one is enough for an example. The one is that of Mrs. Jas. Murphy. She says:

The one is that of Mrs. Jas. Murphy. She says:

"I suffered for thirty-eight months with a pain in my back. I took just one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and I have never been troubled with the pain since. I also recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to other people, who complained as I did, and in every case the Pills did their duty and brought relief."

The English Village of Today. This indictment of the English vil-lage as it exists today appeared in a prominent London newspaper: "The English village is remarkable for its imperfect drainage, contaminated wells and bad lighting, the unpractical teaching of its children, the vice connected with its public houses and the more or less entire absence of cottage hospital, reading rooms, clubs, bath or wash-house, flower show, telephone, oftentimes its telegraph, and all that makes life enjoyable and healthy.

No kind fate intervened to warn her as he came into the room, quick and eager, and she went to meet him with ched hands and shining eyes.

"I am so glad for you," she said impulsively, giving him her hands. "Don't try to pretend you are not proud of yourself, for of course you are. We bought every one of the evening papers and pored over them until I, for one, am positively overcome with awe when I consider 'that rising young architect, Richard C. Doane.' And the event him a low bourters. she swept him a low courtesy. "'And fame sat lightly on his brow,'" she quoted teasingly.

"But she isn't sitting there yet," he laughed, retaining the slender fingers and holding them tightly in his own.

"This is only the beginning. There's plenty of hard work ahead."

"You are sure to succeed," she interrupted softly.
"I can only hope so," he returned

"I have worked hard for it and I feel that it is in line with my other work. Yes," he went on thoughtfully, "I think we shall succeed."
"And then?" she asked.

His face was very bright and eager, and she found, to her consternation that the color flooded her cheeks as her eyes met his. Embarrassed, she picked up a spray of apple blossoms lying on the table. She waiked over to the fireplace, drawing the pink and white petals nervously through her fingers. He followed her and stood with one arm resting on the mantel. "I wonder," he said in a voice he tried in vain to steady, "if I dare to unfold the rest of my aspirations!"

"Why not?" she replied, trying to speak easily. "You know I care very much for whatever concerns you." Under the circumstances this was about as unfortunate a remark as she could well have made. Reassured, he came closer. "Like all well regulated aspirations," he said, with embarrassed hesitancy, "they are inspired by one governing idea"— He broke off abruptly and, with a quick step toward her, took her hands in His embarrassment had gone and his eyes were very tender. "Surely you know. Catherine, sweetheart," he whispered unsteadily; "surely you know. For a moment her heart seemed to stop, then with all her strength of will she pushed him from her. "No, no, Richard, I cannot," she whispered bro-"I have promised. I cannot."

"Promised what, sweetheart?" he asked, puzzled by this sudden change. "You know, we have seen a great deal of Mr. Channing lately," she went on unsteadily. "He is often here and is always sending us things—books, game, flowers. Every day something comes either for mother or me. Usually for mother, though—so I never dreamed—he is so much older"—

"Today," she went on, a mournful little catch in her voice, 'his man brought those." She nodded toward a curiously wrought bowl on the table, where, massed in sweet profusion, a wealth of apple blossoms overflowed, pink and white and fragrant with faint perfume. "And this." She walked to the desk, and, picking up a note, held

Mechanically he took it. "Dearest of all women," it began-and he read it to the end.

His face went suddenly white.
"Catherine, surely you will not mar ry this man?" he demanded hoarsely.
She covered her face with her hands.

"I have promised," she mouned.
"Promised! He doesn't even ask for "I have promised mother," she explained, with gentle dignity. "There are business reasons I cannot explain. He was very kind three years ago to do anything we can." "It is absurd! Quixotic! The man is three times your age." he returned hotly. Then his voice changed and he took the slender hands in his. "Surely you will not do this thing-let me talk to your mother," he pleaded gently. "Had you seen the distress in moth er's face you would know I must do it," she continued. "Don't you understand?" she ended plaintively.

"No. I don't," he answered grimly, "but I do understand that John Channing is worth a couple of millions. Women are all alike," he went on, with sudden bitterness. "It's never what a man is, but what he has that tips the scale. Love cannot compete Bradstreet. I've been the usual kind of a fool, I suppose," he ended, with a bitter little laugh.

If he had taken her in his arms then and there, it would have ended differently, but he was very young and very proud and very unhappy and thought it was a manly thing not to show how, much he eared. Or if she had let him see that he was dearer than any other man, millions or no millions, he would not have gone, but she, too, was young and proud.

So, hurt and angry, he had gone, and she stood where he had left her. She wanted him to go, of course but it was hard to have him leave like that. She meant to be very brave and cheerful; she kept her heartache to herself; her mother or her husband (here a little wave of self pity shook her) should never know. She sank into a chair and leaned her soft, bare arms on the table The bright, fair head drooped slewly until it rested against them, and the quivered fantastically on the mass of fragrant blossoms over her bowed

The dance at the Ventnor Country club was in full swing. Lights were blazing; the sound of violins came through the open window. Inside, the fifth dance was well under way, and a distracted, disheveled young man sought frantically for a tall, golden haired girl in a thin white gown.

Meanwhile the owner of the white gown and golden hair had slipped away-away from the lights and music and confusion-away from the vision of a stern, gray haired man which had suddenly confronted her—and stood on the wide, moonlit porch outside, alone in the sweet scented dusk.

"You are so silly to act like this," she argued with herself. "He isn't going to hurt you, is he? It doesn't help it any to stay out here and be a coward. Go back. You said you'd do it. Go back." Then she drew closer into the friendly shadows and laid her hot cheek against the cool, young leaves. "Richard, Richard, dear," she repeatedly softly.

Inside, the dance had ended. The music stopped with a crash; the dancers scattered in little groups, and the erstwhile distracted young man found evident consolation in the society of a plump little brunette, who showed no inclination to clude him.

Two persons who had been watching the dancers detached themselves from the crowd and came toward her along the moonlit porch; her mother, pretty, graceful, looking singularly young as the moonlight touched her flushed and yes—laughing face. There was no doubt about John Channing's mirth; he was laughing heartily.
"He certainly said 'For Miss Page.'"

"How could I know?" she heard her mother smilingly protest. And then, "He probably lost the card-my stupid ity! Served me right for being afraid to speak," in John Channing's lower amused voice. As they neared the shadow in which Catherine stood he turned and, taking her mother's hand in his, lifted it to his lips. His stern face softened as she had not dreamed John Channing's face could soften, and there was a newly tender note in his voice. "As though," he said softly "there could be any other woman in the world for me but you."

Swiftly, noiselessly, Catherine turned and fled; around the clubhouse, across the porch, down the steps, into the moonlit garden, conscious only of divine relief. Then as the absurdity of the thing came over her there came with it an uncontrollable desire to laugh. On and on she ran, struggling with subdued laughter, down the path, away from the lights and noise and peopleand almost into the arms of a young man who turned sharply around a cor-

Fooling Mother. Most boys and girls think they are fooling mother. I used to think that way. It is the same way with all mothers. It is a good deal easier to fool father than mother. Mother doesn't say as much as father, but she sees twice as far. Just because mother doesn't jump on to you every time you have done something wrong it is no sign that you have her fooled. She is just giving you enough rope so you will hang yourself. Mother is a whole lot wiser than she gets credit for being. That you when you are putting up some fairy tale would make you feel like a three cent piece with a hole in it if you could only see what was behind it. Mother fools you every day in the week, and it's a glorious thing for you that she does. She not only fools you, but she fools father too. Father is always wise and throwing out the impression that he knows something. Mother just goes about her business and says nothing, but she is thinking a whole lot all the time. The next time you attempt to fool mother stop and think a couple of times before cetting on the ice. It may save poor nother the humiliation of thinking whata triple plated chump she has for

An Endless Journey,

Mest of us have probably speculated, at one time or another, what would happen if a hole were bored right through the earth and one were to droj a stone into it, and a scientific man gives his views on this puzzling question. "The stone," he says, "would fall with increasing speed to the center of the earth, where it would have attained a rate of panels 200 modes. attained a rate of nearly 300 mires a minite. Its momentum would carry it at a constantly reducing speed through the remaining half of its jour-ney, until by the time it appeared at the antipodean end of the hole it would have come to a standstill. would then begin to drop again and world perform exactly the same journey on its return to the starting point. Thus it would continue to travel backward and forward from one end of the earth to the other practically for-

PEACE IN WORLD HEART

President Roosevelt Gets Flood of Congratulations.

King Edward VII., the Peacemaker ong the First to Express His Joy Over the Russo-Japanese Agreement Emperor Wilhelm of Germany, Too The Workingmen of Great Britain Unite In Glerifying the Settlement.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 31.—Crowned heads of the world unite with distinguished statesmen of Europe and America in according the glory of peace between Russia and Japan to President Roosevelt. Telegrams of congratulation poured in upon the President in great flood. Among the first received was one from King Edward, as follows:

"Let me be one of the first to congratulate you on the successful issue

EDWARD THE PEACEMAKER, EDWARD THE PEACEMAKER, of the peace conference to which you have so greatly contributed."
Soon afterward a notably cordial cablegram was fecelved from Emperor William of Germany. It read. "Just received cable from America announcing agreement of peace conference on preliminaries of peace. I am overjoyed, express most sincere congratulations at the great success due to your untiring efforts. The whole of mankind must unite and will do so in thanking you for the great boon you have given it."

Wm. J. Bryan of Nebraska sent a message as follows:

"Accept congratulations Your suc-cessful efforts to procure peace between Russian and Japan reflects credit on the nation.

In a letter to Baron Komura, President Roosevelt extended his congratu-lations upon the wisdom and mag-nanimity manifested by Japan in the negotiations.

President Loubet of France extended "Four excellence has just rendered to humanity an eminent service. The French republic rejoices in the role that her sister America has played in this historic event."

British Workmen Glad.

London, Aug. 31.—The conclusion of peace was celebrated at Southampton by the ringing of bells and the display of flags on the public buildings. The Mayor sent a despatch of congratulation to President Roosevelt and the Parliamentary Committee of the Trades Congress, (representing two million workmen in Great Britain), has passed the following resolution:

"We heartly congratulate President Roosevelt upon the success of his strennous and persistent efforts to bring about peace, and sope this will insurgurant permarient peace between all nations."

"Parliamentarians Congratulate.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 31.—The International Congress of Reformed Religions, in the course of vesteriday's slitting despatched the following message to President Roosevelt.

"Assembled in solemn congress at Geneva, we congratulate you on the great part you have taken in the conclusion of peace. We implore God's blessing for you and the United States."

LABOR MEN TO END ALL WARS.

Why British Delegates Are Coming to See Colonial Comrades.
London, Ang. 21—(C. A. P.)—For service on the Canadian lakes, there has just been launched at Dundee a screw steamer named the Glenellah. She has a length of 257 feet, breath 42 feet, 3 inches, depth 26 feet, 8 inches, gross tonings 2,206 tons.

4. Ramsay Macdonald, secretary of the Labor Representation Committee, interviewed by the representative of a London newspaper in reference to proposed labor conferences in the colonies, said. "The success of the labor party in Germany, France and England is go-Ing to make a European war impossible. This country may become embroiled in war, not because we want it, but because some colonial interest has been threatened. Take, for instance, Alaska boundary, difficulty—that might easily have produced a rupture between ourselves and the United States. Before we can feel that our friendship with continental countries is going to be an effective guarantee for peace, we must have a very strong hold on the political opinions of our colonial workingmen so that in the colonies there may also be a peace sentiment."

THE MUNICIPALITIES.

A Hundred of Them Represented at Ontario Municipal Convention.

Toronto, Aug. 31.—A hundred municipalities are represented at Ontario Municipal Association convention in session at the city hall. It is the largest attendance in its history.

Mayor Urquhart welcomed the delegates, saying there never was a time when the rights of municipalities were being so keenly attacked as now by individuals and corporations. He held that the Ontario Government, in the matter of electrical power, should have control of the distribution throughout the Province. Transmission was a directly matter for a municipality to handly single-handed. The Mayor suggested a closer alliance in this instance between all the Provincial bodies and the Dominion organization.

President Boys suggested that a permanent resident officer in Toronto should be appointed to look after municipal matters in the Legislature.

Better Basis Claimed.

Ald. Biack of Ottawa introduced a motion, that the Legislature he asked.

Better Sasia Claimed.
Ald Black of Ottawa introduced a motion that the Legislature he asked to repeal the Comme Act. He also has apother motion asking the Legislature to mend the Municipal Act so as to make it clear that municipalities have the right to contract with any produce of or power for the supply of electricity for the municipality's legitimate purposes. Mayor Ellis, Ottawa, moved that the Legislature be asked to extend the term of office of all members of municipal councils (Including mayors) to two years, half of the council to be elected each year. The resolution committee will handle these and report Thursday morning.

committee will handle these and report. Thursday morning.

Mayor Foy of Perth opened a discussion on the Counse Act, observing it was "the most iniquitous piece of legislation ever passed." The Perth and Oitawa cases were good examples.

The afternoon session was taken up by the consideration of two papers dealing with the practical working out of the new Assessment Act, read by James C. Forman, assessment commis-sioner, Toronto, and F. R. Hutton, assessment commissioner of Hamilton, D. M. McIntyre, city solicitor of King-ston, opened up the question of civic liability regarding accidents on public Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 31.—Actual work of drafting the "Treaty of Portsmouth," began yesterday. It is being done by Dr. de Maartens, and Mr. Dennison, acting as legal advisers for the respective sides. While the "basis" of peace has been accepted by the plenipotentiaries, it still remains to be worked out in elaboration of the articles of the treaty. This is especially due in regard to the articles dealing with the Chinese-Eastern Railway and the surrender of the leases of the Liasetung Peninsula and Port Arthur and Talien Wan (Dalny). Mr. Pokotlioff, the Russian Minister to Pekin, who was formally manager of the Russo-Chinese Bank at Pekin and who has intimate knowledge of all the details relating to those matters, is assisting Mr. de Maartens.

An anomalous situation exists as to

An anomalous situation exists as to the impression created by the conclu-sion of peace. While the outside world applauds, in Japan there is evidently applands, in Japan there is evidently great disappointment in the terms, and in Russia where it would seem that there would be universal rejoicing over the great diplomatic victory M. Witte has won, the Government seems to have received it coldly. With the people it will make M. Witte a great and popular figure and add to his laurels; but at court evidently the very victory M. Wite has achieved makes it all the more bitterly resented.

Bomb Fell Into War Party. It is an open secret that the military party hates and fears Witte and that when the Emperor appointed him chief plenipotentiary they expected him fail. They did not want peace and it was freely predicted in St. Petersburg when M. Witte left that he had been given an impossible mission and sent to America to "break his neck." They to America to "break his neck." They expected him to fail in the negotiations or to make a "bad peace," and either would have spelled political ruin. Since Japan is in a conciliatory mood they now say he made a mistake in surrendering half of Sakhalin. Yet he did so by the Czar's orders and himself insists that personally he would have stuck to the end to his original declaration not to cede territory or give indemnity. demnity.

Czar Congratulates Witte.

Czar Congratulates Witte.

M. Witte has received a telegram of congratulation from Emperor Nicholas. The official world at St. Petersburg is not joining in the praise that is pour ing in upon him from other countries.

Not a word or line about the receipt of the news comes out of Japan. In view of the situation both, at Tokio and St. Petersburg, alarmists are instanced to the property of the facts that and St. Petersburg, alarmists are in-clined to make much of the facts that the minutes of Tuesday's fateful meet-ing have not been signed by the pleni-potentiaries of the two powers. It is pointed out that either side could still repudiate the agreement but all repudiate the agreement, but both plenipotentiaries refuse to admit even the possibility of such a thing happen the possibility of such a thing happening.

An additional and interesting as wellas important detail in regard to the conditions of peace is the fact that the formal recognition of Japan's possession of the Chinese-Eastern Rallway below Kuenchentse, the junction of the branch to Kirin, involves a payment by Russia to China of a sum estimated at $75,000,000. This is the Chinese interest in the read, and for it China must be rethe road, and for it China must be remunerated.

Ultimate Pessession,

The question of the ultimate possession of the road is a matter to be settied between Japan and China. Japan can keep the road or surrender it to China, demanding in return the mone paid by Russia to China. It she elected the latter course Japan will, therefore obtain as an indirect "spoil of war, from Russia, the above-mentioned sum in addition to reimbursement for the cost af maintaining the Russian pris-oners of war, for which Japan will present an itemized bill. Japan is known to have given her word to China not to retain the railroad, which was really built for strategic purposes. But-if China prefers the money to the rail-road Japan could not be acquised of bladroad, Japan could not be accused of bad faith

China Has the Say.

Another important provision is that Japan's succession to Port Arthur and Liactung leases which Russia survenders is conditional upon China's assent. The armistice was not arranged yesterday. The War Departments at St. Petersburg and Tokio are consulting theytick and Oyama respectively, and Linevitch and Oyama, respectively, and it is not improbable that the armistic will be concluded directly by the gen-erals on the field of battle.
