PROGRESS OF THE WAR
[July 20 to July 26]

The news from the battlefronts was scarcely in the past week than at consequently there is very little to record here; but the week must have witnessed some of the fiercest fighting of the whole war, particularly in the eastern arena.

In the west no changes of any importance were reported, except in the Vosges, where the French achieved a notable success in the Ban-de-Sapt region. It would appear that not only in the Vosges, but at other points farther west, heavy fighting occurred throughout the week.

The greatest interest of the week centred in the drive of the Teutons on Wargaw. The Russians appear to have resisted stubbornly, but the Teutonic forces were believed, at the end of the week, to be almost in possession of the prize for which they were struggling so long. The fall of Warsaw would seem now to be inevitable.

Some progress on the part of the Allies in Gallipoli was reported, but the news judged was very scant. A British submarine was again said to have penetrated to Constantinople, to have sunk some Turkish vessels, and to have done other damage. Predictions were being made that the unobstructed passage of the Dardanelles would be effected within two weeks; but no authentic information has been divulged that would warrant such an assumption.

The hostilities between the Italians and Austrians seem to have resulted in substantial Italian gains. The fall of Gorizia would appear to be imminent, if it has not actually taken place. The little island of Palagosa, an important strategic position on the Adriatic, was reported to have been occupied by the Italians on July 26; and on the same day the French destroyed the Austrian submarine and aeroplane depot on Lampedusa Island, the southernmost of the Dalmatian Islands in the Adriatic.

It was reported that the Allies had again been bombarding Turkish ports in Asia Minor; and a further success of the British-Italians troops over the Turks on the River Euphrates was also recorded.
The German submarine "blockade," which had made victims for more than a week, was resumed vigorously at the week's close; one victim being a small American steamer, the "Lebanon," with a cargo of coal from Russia for Belfast. The crew were saved. Among the other victims were steamers, one each of British, French and Russian register, and four British trawlers, but without loss of life. Another British trawler was destroyed by a mine, and ten of her crew were killed.

The American reply to the last German note in the "Lastian" outrage, was transmitted last week, and the text has been published. As was to be expected, President Wilson remains firm in his interpretation of international law and the rights of American citizens. The dispatch is filled with approbation by the whole American Press, excepting only the German section. Speculation is rife as to what will be Germany's next declaration in the diplomatic parley; but not even the most sanguine pacifists venture to predict that Germany will modify in the least the atrocious conduct of her submarine war on unarmed merchantmen. Germany's reply is expected to be long delayed; and the stand which America has taken is believed to be unalterable. It is earnestly to be hoped that America will not be compelled to break off diplomatic relations with Germany, or to become a belligerent; but the power and influence which, as a strong neutral, she ought to exercise, seem to be contemned and utterly disregarded by Germany.

No developments in the attitude of the neutral Balkan States have been authoritatively published; and the reported Russian concessions made by Turkey to Bulgaria are said to be without political significance. These States seem all to be awaiting the result of the Dardanelles campaign.

RECRUITING
THERE seems to be less activity in recruiting, at least in this part of New Brunswick, than should prevail. It may be that the farmer folk are too busy with their harvest of the sea, the farmers too busy with having and other rural occupations, to give the matter the serious thought it requires. But no one should for a moment think that more recruits are not needed; and every man who can be spared, and who is capable of serving his country in any capacity at the front, should at once seek out the nearest recruiting officer and enlist. There is not the faintest sign anywhere on the horizon that the war is drawing to a close. On the contrary, the Teutonic drive on Warsaw, the long-protracted occupation by the enemy of Flanders and northern France, the difficult campaign in Gallipoli, and all the other features of the war, point to its long continuance. More men are needed, urgently needed; and more men are certainly available. Why are they holding back? It is not want of loyalty and patriotism. It may be that it is because, in this part of the Province, at least, the proper steps have not been taken to rally recruits, and to bring home to the minds of all the grave crisis in the Empire's existence.

We made a suggestion last week that a big recruiting rally should be held in St.
Andrews, and expressed the hope that the leading citizens would give the matter their attention. But we have not learned that the suggestion has produced any practical results. It may be that the inmate modesty of the people of St. Andrews prevents some from taking the initiative in the matter, and others are waiting to follow a lead. This is a time to put that kind of modesty to one side.

We have a mayor and aldermen, the member of parliament for Charlotte County is a resident of the Town, we have the trustees of the Town, we have the clergy, clergymen, doctors, lawyers, merchants, retired mariners, master mechanics, and many others who can well be called "leading citizens." Let them lead! Let us have the same kind of rally as has been held in many other parts of the Province, and of the Dominion, and the result will be that many more recruits will be furnishing to join their companions who have already gone to the front. Ex officio our M. P., might take the lead in organizing the rally; and if he will do this he will find himself with a more enthusiastic backing than he has ever had before in all his successful career. Let us get a big crowd together, and eloquent speakers to arouse their enthusiasm. Let us get the organizing matter and will stand behind the traditions of the Town and its Loyalist founders.

MACHINE GUNS

WE print elsewhere in this issue an appeal for Machine Guns, signed by Col. Kirkpatrick, which has been appearing in the daily and weekly newspapers of New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island for over a week. The response to the appeal has already been great, and many municipalities, towns, societies, firms and individuals have already contributed one or more guns each. We understand that our Mayor is taking the matter up in connection with the council, the St. Stephen Town Council, and the Municipal Council of Charlotte County.
We do not know exactly what is accomplished or what is proposed; but we do know that the people of St. Andrews will represent any cheese-paring in this important matter, and will stand behind the Mayor and Council in making a generous contribution. If other people and communities are giving according to their means, let it never be said of us that we give according to our means. A special meeting of the Town Council is to be held this evening to consider the question.

COMMISSION TO LOOK AFTER ONTARIO NICKEL

Toronto, July 21. - Following a prolonged controversy arising out of certain charges that nickel from Ontario mines was finding its way through various channels to Germany since the outbreak of hostilities in Europe, the Ontario Government, through the Hon. Howard Fleming, minister of lands, forests and mines, announced the appointment of the following commission to investigate the matter:
Mr. C. J. Holloway, London, Eng., chairman; Mr. W. G. Miller, provincial geologist, Toronto; Mr. McGregor Young, C. E., Toronto; Mr. Thomas W. Gibson, deputy-minister of mines, Toronto, secretary.
The commission is empowered to inquire into the whole nickel situation in Ontario, with a view to establishing in the province an industry that will be observed from the time it leaves the mines to the time it is marketed. While assurances have been given to the imperial authorities and the Dominion and Provincial governments, that not an ounce of Ontario nickel is finding its way into the hands of the enemy, the Government has instructed the new commission to ascertain whether it is not possible to complete the refining of nickel ore from the mines of Ontario entirely within the province, without having to ship it to Ontario refineries. The question of the province receiving an adequate return from its nickel deposits is regarded as of much importance, and on this point the commission will also advise the Government.
Mr. Holloway, the chairman, is an assistant of the Royal College of Chemists of London, metallurgist and chemist, examiner in metallurgy in the Institute of Chemistry and University of Birmingham, and vice-president of the Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, London. In addition to holding several fellowships, he is also a member of the Chemical, Metallurgical and Mining Society of South Africa, further to the Franco-British and other exhibition and is adviser to the Egyptian Government.

OUR AIM LAIDS

WHAT war brings death and dule, But it didna gup us at the heart,
The way it grups us no
For war was far awa', But now we feel his ha'
It's our ain laids, our ain laids His bloody scythe has maw'd.
We praised the brave that de'd But the honour-roll has a wa'er'soun' We name frae our ain town-ers, And pride maun wha'st we've,
The sorrow has had her say;
It's our ain laids, our ain laids
That daurken the news the day!
We'll think we hear their feet And lang the pain o' the wonderin' dream Will come wi' a weary ston.
But time's the healer o',
On this we'll rest our heart—
That our ain laids, our ain laids Were men, and played their part.

A RUSSIAN INCIDENT

I HAVE yet to find a single American who saw in any American newspaper at the time, the fine action of the Emperor of Russia when the Russian flag sank. Among all the nations of the earth, the action of this ruler was unique. If I am correctly informed, not a single Russian subject lost his life in that terrible event, yet it was the Emperor of Russia alone among the sovereigns who ordered a special high mass for the repose of the souls, regardless of race or religion, of those who went down in the depths.
Special patrons of the gathering were the Minister of the Russian Navy and the owners of every merchantman that carried the Russian flag. The ceremony was in the Cathedral of the Admiralty, the most beautiful church in Petrograd. Special invitations were sent to the representatives of the two nations most acutely interested, England and the United States.
The Archbishop of Petrograd officiated at the altar with high dignitaries of the Russian Church, calling upon Russians to remember that the prayers and admiration of all humanity should be given for those who, facing death, in their last moments displayed no terror, but adoration in song for the common God of all. Even more impressive than the crowded cathedral, the prayers, and the chanting were the massed thousands of the common people who, unable to enter the church, packed every street and square in the neighbourhood, uncovered on that raw spring morning, seeking to do reverence, at their Emperor's bidding, to the men and women regardless of race or faith, whose brave death at sea had given such a lesson to humanity. Why publicity at the time was not given to an event like this in the American press I have never been able satisfactorily to ascertain, though perhaps I could guess—Curtis Guild, in the Yale
