BACK AT OLD GAME.

Hon. Frank Oliver a Newspaperman Again.

When Sir Sam Hughes was in the West a little while ago he made an audacious call on Hon. Frank Oliver in Edmonton.

"Please tell him that a stranger in the city would like very much to see him, if possible," he said to the telephone girl in the Bulletin office. He said it meekly and diffidently, and some of the meekness must have got into the message that went upstairs; for an answer came booming back on the wire to the effect that if there was anybody down there who wanted to see him so much they were to send the poor thing up and be done with it.

And so it came about that presently there was a timid little knock at the sanctum upstairs, and the Hon. Frank stamped across the room to open the door. When he had opened it, Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, of wide renown, stood before him.

"Oh! and so you're the poor old thing, are you?" said the Hon. Frank by way of greeting. He was surprised, but he wasn't going to show it. If Sam Hughes wanted to fool an old friend that way, he would have to take chances on being called names.

Sir Sam, it seems, used in days gone by to be rather fond of playing jokes on Mr. Oliver, and he hasn't got quite over it yet though the years have brought sobering changes to them both.

The ex-Minister of the Interior is now a newspaper man again, as he was before he first went to Ottawa. He writes long editorials, in which there are often traces of that same fiery heat that used to characterize his speeches in the House of Commons and especially his campaign speeches at election-time. But he also turns his hand now and then to a bit of reporting and is not at all above interviewing a big man who may happen to come his way.

Mr. Oliver, it must be remembered, is one of the West's pioneer journalists, and though it is now a long time since he brought his first little printing press by ox-cart to Edmonton—forty years ago, to be exact—the lure of the same old writing and printing game is still upon him. As to that, are there not a lot of worse things an ex-statesman might do than to run a newspaper, in which every day he can say what he thinks about what the world is coming to?

It was in 1883, only three years after he began publishing the Bulletin, that Mr. Oliver entered political life as a member of the old Northwest Council. He went to the House of Commons in 1896, and was Minister of the Interior from 1905 to 1911. After the defeat of the Laurier Ministry he continued to be a member for Edmonton till 1917, when he was defeated by the overseas vote. Since then his political activities have been confined to making speeches of the old war-horse type at party rallies and conventions and to writing editorials.

Not all his old acquaintances of the Ottawa days have been as well able as Sir Sam Hughes to get away with a little fun-making at Mr. Oliver's expense. It is told of one of the erstwhile Opposition members, whose name isn't necessary at this point, that in a debate on the United States tariff question he characterized the attitude of the Government as "a sight that would make angels weep and jackasses laugh."

Mr. Oliver was quickly on his feet and observed, with his most deliberate calmness, that he had observed that the honorable gentleman himself had been one of those who laughed.

Hon. F. B. Carvell once got into a somewhat heated discussion with the Minister of the Interior during a consideration of Indian affairs and asked him what was the difference between one Indian and one white man. "The Indian is naturally a gentleman," answered the man from the West without hesitation.

It is this ability to hit back quick and strong, together with the two facts that he is an old-timer and that he has been always a bold champion of the West's rights and needs, that made Hon. Frank Oliver a people's favorite for so many years. Even yet there are many in Edmonton and in Alberta who like to see and hear him in his fighting moods, and as long as there are old-timers alive he will have a deservedly admiring clientele. But in these later days there has arisen a new generation that knew not the Hon. Frank, and that is why he has gone back to the pleasant but less spectacular work of writing editorials, with occasional calls from old-time friends, announced or otherwise, to break the office tedium.

Maj. E. S. Sawell, M. C To the Electors of Waterdown

Your vote and influence is respectfully solicited for Major E. Stanley Sawell as Councillor for the Village of Waterdown for the balance of 1920. Below is a short synopsis of Major Sawell's military record.

Enlisted as Lieutenant in December 1915 with the 129th Battalion, C. E. F. Recruited and trained with that unit until July 1916. Proceeded overseas with officers draft August 1916 and received further training in England. Drafted to 21st Batt. Can. Inf. October 1916. Saw continuous active service with that unit until August 1918, in the battles of Vimy Ridge, Hill 70, Paschendale and Amiens. Received Military Cross at Vimy Ridge. Promoted to Captain December 1917, and to acting rank of Major in April 1919. Gassed August 1918 and wounded October 1918.

Major Sawell has brought great honors to his parents, his country and to Waterdown. The ratepayers are asked to support this brave young hero on Monday, April 26th, 1920.

Local Sports

The Beaver Ball Club have organized for the season. The team as a whole certainly look a formidable bunch of ball trimmers, and liable to make many a senior team take to the tall timbers before the season is over. They are practicing daily and will play their games on the diamond on the new school grounds which will be put into shape.

On local Basket Ball team went down to defeat at the hands of the fast St. George team on Tuesday evening in Hamilton by a score of 49 to 17. The smallness of the floor was a serious handicap to our boys. The high score does not indicate the game, as our boys fought hard and kept the Saints going for the whole hour. The Waterdown line-up was W. Stewart, L. Henry, Jerry Burns, P. Palmer, V. Willis and R. Willis.

On Saturday evening St. George Basket Ball team will play the return match here at 8 o'clock. A Junior match will start followed by the Seniors. Both games will be interesting. The Seniors have their Tuesday defeat to overcome. A portion of the rink will be reserved for the ladies. The admission for men will be 15c. Secure your tickets on Friday evening.

Aerial Game Laws.

Modern inventions begot new manners and new laws to govern the changed customs. The man who acts in a wholesale sense about to be out-cast by the airplane operator who gathers in wild birds by means of a net. So apparently, think the sportsmen in one locality of Canada. As a consequence, an association of them are sponsoring a request to the Government to prohibit the flights of airplanes over marsh lands, and the use of flying machines in pursuit, shooting, or netting of wild fowl. When warned of anything approaching, these birds do not seek cover, but rise immediately into the air and obviously become open at once to the ingenious contrivances of airplane pilots. Rapid-firing guns, and nettings attached beneath the body of the machines, would seem to be easy means of possible extermination of the birds, and this it is sought to avoid.

Picture Dogs.

The little ground squirrels, or picture dogs, of the western plains have their homes 12 or 15 feet underground, with corridors and rooms. In some of these chambers the squirrel family lives, and in others food and various materials are stored.

I respectfully solicit your support, vote and influence at the election on next Monday for Councillor, and if elected I will serve the village and every ratepayer to the best of my ability as I will enter the Council absolutely independent of any organization or party.

J. W. GRIFFIN.

Carlisle

Carlisle, April 21, 1920

The hearts of the citizens of this community are throbbing hard from the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Milton Eaton and family, our honored and respected friends, have left our locality and gone as missionaries to the heathen fields of Kee's Corners, an ant hill in the suburbs of Strabane.

Though grieved to have to part with so noble a family, the community appreciate to know Mr. Eaton acted manfully and according to the dictates of his conscience. Mr. Eaton is leaving a land flowing with milk and honey, and a goodly place to dwell. He is leaving a comfortable fireside and a people who scorn the thought of any person stopping so low as to ever let the intoxicating cup touch their lips or tobacco in any form tainting the breath. According to the manuscripts of the Kee's Corner's correspondent, Mr. Eaton is going to live among a people who glory in the amount of beer and liquor which they can consume and who would walk for miles after a hard days work for a plug of that cursed poison known as tobacco. It was this deplorable condition affairs that touched Mr. and Mrs. Eaton's hearts and led them from a comfortable home, community and warm hearted friends to live lives of sacrifice and if need be die as martyrs among the natives. Mr. Eaton was also one of our successful horticulturists and intends to superintend and demonstrate along these lines to a people who are so badly in need of outside help. Our whole community are pierced to think of losing our genial and true hearted friends but rejoice and forget their grief to know that they have answered so high a calling. We wish them every success in their new and honorably ministerial calling.

ARMENIANS IN GRAVE DANGER

25,000 in Baku Region Face a Massacre

If They Lose Battle With Turks.

Constantinople cable says: Fighting between Azerbaijanis and Armenians is continuing in the Karabagh region, and international observers report that 25,000 Armenians in Baku are in imminent danger of being massacred.

A portion of the Denekine fleet in the Caspian Sea has turned Bolshevik, moving northward to join the Red fleet, which is expected at the mouth of the Volga when the ice clears. The remainder of the Denekine vessels steamed southward from Petrovsk, and are reported proceeding to Persian ports.

At Batum, on the Black Sea side the British warships are sufficiently numerous to keep Batum quiet for the time being, but the Georgian Government is so weak and so hard pressed by its own radical elements that there seems to be little hope of successful resistance by the Georgians to the Bolshevik troops if they actually move against Georgia, as is threatened.

The Georgian situation is much complicated by the flood of Cossack soldiers and civilians fleeing across the mountains ahead of the Bolshevik advance. Thirty thousand armed Cossacks moving south from Novorossiisk, and to Tuapse, are concentrated at Sochi, with the Reds pursuing the Georgians in their front, the mountains on one side and the sea on the other. The Georgians refuse to admit the Cossacks into Georgia unless they disarm, which the Cossacks decline to do, although virtually starving. The British have provided a temporary flour supply to quiet the situation in the hope of effecting a settlement.

From the rail end at Vladikavkaz 4,000 civilian refugees have already poured into Tiflis, and 12,000 more are expected, as the volunteer army is retreating along the railway. The Georgians are treating the refugees considerably, removing them at the rate of thirty trains daily at Poti, where a camp has been established, and are providing them with flour.

Vice-Admiral Sir Sydney R. Fremantle, Commander of British naval forces in the Near East, left here yesterday for Batum on board the Dreadnought Revenge, accompanied by a second battleship. It is said that the Soviet forces near Batum are strong enough to cause considerable trouble if they are joined by the Georgians.

Danger that all of the Caucasus and Trans-Caucasus regions, including Armenia, may turn Bolshevik is causing more uneasiness here than the Syrian and Anatolian situations. The capture of Fuaise during the past week by the Soviets virtually opened the road to Poti, the next Black Sea port to the southward, and Batum.

Georgian forces advancing on Batum would welcome Bolshevik cooperation, it is said. In addition there is danger the Georgians will absolutely prohibit the passage of supplies over their railroads in the direction of Armenia, which is now at war with Azerbaijan. If this should occur, the situation would become seriously complicated.

Azerbaijani Tartars are fighting the Armenians on both the eastern and western frontiers, according to reports, and engagements have occurred in the vicinity of Derzon, thirty miles south of Erivan on the Tabriz Railroad, and near Choucha, about 150 miles south of Elizabetopol. Fighting, it is said, has been going on for three weeks, but so far the Armenians have been successful in repulsing all attacks.

A Corrector of Pulmonary Troubles—Many testimonials could be presented showing the great efficacy of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in curing disorders of the respiratory processes, but the best testimonial is experience and the Oil is recommended to all who suffer from these disorders with the certainty that they will find relief. It will allay inflammation in the bronchial tubes as no other preparation can.

"ALL WELL NOW," SAYS MILLERAND

Paris cable says: "Noble Belgium stood by us when our erstwhile friends were lacking."

Wild cheers greeted Premier Millerand when he made this statement in the Chamber of Deputies late to-day in the course of a speech on the Ruhr controversy.

The Premier's utterance was designed as an expression of gratitude to Belgium rather than a reproach to Britain and Italy, for he emphasized throughout his speech that the differences with those nations have been smoothed out and accord once more reigns in the councils of the Allies.

Mr. Millerand concluded by saying: "All is well now, and I will soon leave

GERMAN WHINE AGAINST FRANCE

Alleged Plot to Hold Line of the Rhine

And Break Germany Into Republics.

Berlin cable says: A semi-official statement, published here, quotes, from what purports to be a report of a conference of French officers of high rank, recently held at Mayence, at which it was said to have been agreed that the "line of the Rhine" was necessary for "the protection of France against the revenge ideas of German military circles."

It was considered, adds the report, that a buffer state must be created, which should include that part of the right bank of the Rhine comprising the Dusseldorf industrial district, the Ruhr region and Frankfurt and its neighborhood.

Every embarrassment of Germany should, the report says, be exploited to the best advantage. The statement continues:

"The conference also agreed that it would be best to divide Germany into five or six states or republics in alliance with Belgium. France could then, on the basis of the various paragraphs of the Peace Treaty, march into Germany and remain there. This definite and clever policy would put France within one or two years in possession of what Marshal Foch wants, namely, a military Rhine frontier, with strong bridgeheads, without any serious opposition on the part of the Allies or Germany."

LAST SOVIET OFFER.

Confer With Poles in Paris or London.

Warsaw cable: In rejecting further discussions regarding Borisov, on the Beresina River, northeast of Minsk, as the place for the proposed negotiations of Poland and Russia, the Russian Soviet Government has sent a wireless message saying it considered the last note of the Poles in the nature of an ultimatum.

"We are now standing face to face with the sad eventuality of breaking with Poland owing to the failure to agree upon a locality," the message says. It reiterates that the Bolsheviks are ready to accept any neutral town, and suggests the possibility of holding the peace conference in Paris or London. The message concludes by saying that Russia's only alternative has been to address England, America and France.

It is expected here that the Entente note to Poland on the subject will be made public in a few days.

IRISH GENERAL STRIKE INCREASINGLY OMINOUS

Thousands Parading Dublin Streets, and Clash With Authorities Feared

One Constable Shot Dead—London Papers on the Hunger Strike

Dublin cable: The general strike declared yesterday in protest against the treatment of the Irish hunger strikers in Mountjoy Prison continued to-day with added tenseness, and increased fears of serious developments. Sixty thousand workers in Dublin alone are on strike, and a feeling of pronounced excitement prevailed throughout the capital.

The day was marked early by a fatality, Constable Harry Kells being shot dead while on plain clothes duty in Camden street this morning. The constable's assailant was an unidentified young man. He fired two shots from his revolver and ran away from the scene before he could be apprehended.

The shooting added to the general excitement. Thousands of people are parading the streets, and collisions between the populace and the military are feared.

There have been rapid developments in connection with the strike. Viscount French, the Viceroy, sent for the Lord Mayor to-day, and later the military was withdrawn from the vicinity of Mountjoy Prison. One of the prisoners among the hunger strikers was removed to the City Hospital in a state of collapse.

Another development was the arrival in Dublin of General Sir Nevill MacCreedy, the new commander of the forces in Ireland, who is expected to assume his duties at once.

The general expectation here with regard to the hunger strikers, based upon last night's debate in the House of Commons in London, is that the Government, although refusing to release the political prisoners, will make some concessions in their treatment to secure the termination of the hunger strike. The feeling appeared to be that some formula for a settlement which would not be held to constitute a backdown by either side, was being sought.

Reports were that the general strike was gaining ground meanwhile.

COMMENT RE HUNGER STRIKERS.

London, April 2.—Most of the morning newspapers do not comment on Andrew Bonar Law's address in the House of Commons, in which he announced that the Government would not alter its policy with regard to the hunger strike of Irish political prisoners held in Mountjoy Jail in Dublin. The Times, however, condemns the Government's policy, saying:

"It is based on a too narrow conception, and is consequently wrong. Whatever the cost of the prestige of the Irish Executive Department and the pride of Ministers, broader and more merciful considerations should be permitted to prevail."

Emphasis is laid by the Daily Mail on the fact that many of the hunger strikers have not been convicted in properly constituted courts of justice, and, therefore, should not be allowed to starve.

"On such exceptional and momentous occasions," the newspaper continues, "we look to the Government to take a broad and generous view."

Regret over the possible prospect of some of the strikers dying is expressed by the Chronicle, which is supporting the Government.

"But the alternative," the newspaper adds, "that the Government should capitulate to murder before the threat of suicide is worse still. If no way can be found, and suicide is permitted, the Government should make it clear to the public that the British case absolutely clear to the British Isles and America, so that no honest man would be able to entertain any honest doubt as to why the men were imprisoned, or as to the character of their treatment while in jail."

LAND FOR IRISH VOLUNTEERS.

Dublin cable: Government officials are negotiating for 2,000 acres of land which will be apportioned among Irishmen who volunteered for service at the front in 1918. Viscount Field Marshal French, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, promised in 1918 that land would be given to those who joined the colors, and in 1919 Parliament passed a bill carrying the Lord Lieutenant's promise into effect. Up to the present, however, only 71 men who took advantage of the offer have been provided with homes.

Four thousand applications for holdings have been filed, and nearly 6,000 soldiers have asked for cottages.

PLOT TO DISRUPT POLAND AND RESTORE RUSS IMPERIALISM

Russian Arrested in Paris Got Big Subsidies From Berlin.

Paris cable: Alois Osmoshkine, a Russian, was arrested here to-day charged with spying and intelligence with the enemy and conspiracy with the Germans to bring about civil war in Poland and restoration of imperialism in Russia.

The leaders in the alleged conspiracy are said to have received subsidies from Berlin. The sum of 30,000,000 francs is mentioned in this connection.

Osmoshkine returned to Paris from Berlin last Sunday. Before being locked up he protested friendly sentiments for France.

During the day several Russians, members of a group known as "Integral Russia" were questioned, but were left at large. Search is being made in a score of banks in which it is supposed the alleged conspirators rented strong boxes.

SHEEP KILLING

Raise the Fines On Sheep Killed By Dogs.

Toronto report says: Some rather drastic action must be taken against the increasing destruction of sheep by prowling dogs, according to discussion at the Agricultural Committee of the Legislature yesterday. The revenue from dog taxes in most townships, according to members, is away below the value of the sheep killed. Last year more sheep were killed than in any previous year.

J. W. McLeod, of Stormont, introduced the question to the committee. In his township the value of sheep killed was $2,200, while the dog tax revenue was $954. To get the benefit of the dog taxes to the townships in which the sheep are killed, Hon. Manning Doherty suggested that the law be changed to permit dog tax money to be paid into the county treasury, and the damages for sheep killed be paid out of that. The idea was favorably received and Mr. Doherty promised to bring an amendment before the committee at a later meeting.

Some strange incidents came to light. One member told of a farmer having sheep killed by his own dog, and yet he collected damages. It was suggested that all dogs be tagged, and Hon. Geo. Henry thought this should be optional with municipalities.

An amendment to the Noxious

Woods Act goes away with the serving of personal notice on owners of vacant lots in cities, towns and incorporated or police villages, but not townships. Notice published in the local paper is regarded as sufficient.

Some slight amendments were suggested in the bill concerning community halls and athletic fields. The whole township does not necessarily have to go into the matter. One school section may take it up. No special vote of the people is required to have community halls, as a majority of voters must sign the petition before anything can be done.

FATAL CUP OF TEA.

London, April 2.—Everybody knows that their coffee and caffeine are stimulating. But here is a case where a very small dose of them, usually so gently exhilarating, proved fatal.

Emma Mary Tracee, 56 years old, who had a weak heart, took to her bed. Feeling the need of a "pick-me-up," she called for a cup of tea. A few minutes after she died.

Testifying at the inquest in Hackney, her physician said: "Mrs. Tracee had fatty degeneration of the heart. In the majority of such cases I have found that death was preceded immediately by the patient drinking either tea or coffee."

Thousands of mothers can testify to the virtue of Mother's Own Worm Expeller, because they know from experience how useful it is.

Was Tortured for Nearly Two Years

THEN MRS. McNEIL USED DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Nová Scotian Suffering from Rheumatism Tells of the Benefit She Got Through Using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Hillsborough, N.S., April 19th, (Special).—"For nearly two years I suffered the tortures of rheumatism and could get nothing to relieve me. At last I thought of Dodd's Kidney Pills and commenced to take them."

"Before I had used two boxes I felt better. I have been using them for nearly six months and feel ever so much better. I will continue to use them until my rheumatism is gone."

Mrs. James McNeil, who lives here, makes the above statement. She feels that she owes it to other sufferers from rheumatism to tell them how she found relief from her suffering. She is always ready to say a good word for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Other sufferers from rheumatism tell of pain relieved and health restored through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. They act directly on the kidneys. They strengthen the kidneys and put them in shape to strain the uric acid out of the blood. Uric acid crystallizing in the muscles causes the pains known as rheumatism. Ask your neighbors. Dodd's Kidney Pills do not heal and strengthen the kidneys.

"OVERALL" MOVE SPREADS IN U.S.

Southern Press Refuses Merchants' Request

To Suppress News of Spread of Idea.

Birmingham despatch says: Birmingham newspaper publishers have flatly denied the request of a committee of retail clothiers that news of the "overall" movement throughout the South be suppressed on the ground that it was damaging the retail clothing business.

The publishers informed the clothiers' committee that their papers would continue to report the overall movement, which they considered legitimate news.

The "tampa idea" of wearing overalls as a means of fighting the high cost of clothing, which originated in the city bearing that name, has spread to many cities throughout the South, where business and professional men, as well as other workers, are going about in blue. It was reported here Saturday that when the demand for overalls began some retailers had raised the prices from $2 to $6 a pair.

Mass meetings and public demonstrations are being held in connection with the movement in many places throughout the South. It was reported to-day that there were 4,000 members of the Overall Club in Birmingham alone, all pledged to wear blue.

The indications of worms are restlessness, grinding of the teeth, picking of the nose, extreme peevishness, often convulsions. Under these conditions the best remedy that can be got is Miller's Worm Powders. They will attack the worms as soon as administered and will grind them to atoms that pass away in the evacuations. The little sufferer will be immediately eased and a return of the attack will not be likely.

26 SHOT DEAD BY REICHSWEHR

German Troops Near Essen Got Out of Hand.

Heard Reds Had Mistreated Captives.

Essen cable: (By the Associated Press.)—Twenty-six persons were shot dead, and two seriously wounded, by members of the Reichswehr, who got beyond control of their officers last Wednesday in the triangular district between Bottrop, Essen and Mülheim, according to a statement made to the correspondent by Col. von Baumbach, commanding the Reichswehr. The troops were incensed, said von Baumbach, by reports that the Red army had mistreated prisoners, and also by the abolition of military tribunals by orders of the Berlin authorities. The Socialist Commission, Baumbach declared, stated that prisoners had been well treated.

Strangled with Asthma is the only expression that seems to convey what is endured from an attack of this trouble. The relief from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is beyond measure. Where all was suffering there comes comfort and rest. Breathing becomes normal and the bronchial tubes completely cleared. This unequalled remedy is worthy many times its price to all who use it.

Prosper Buchan, it is reported, corked himself on Saturday last trying to spring some huge joke heard at the movies a few nights ago. We would strongly recommend "never slips" to be worn when springing these traps as they are very dangerous to handle.

The services in Grace church on Sunday last were conducted by the Rev. Archdeacon Perry of St. Catharines and the Rev. H. J. Leake of Hamilton. The Rev. Mr. Perry preached morning and evening two able sermons on the Resurrection. Mrs. Bews-Baker sang a solo "Death Vanquished" very acceptable at the morning service. Both services were well attended.

Millgrove

Rev. J. M. McDonald of Dundas delivered two excellent sermons in the Millgrove Church to a very large congregation on Sunday last.

Rev. Mr. Albright is visiting at the home of his parents in Beamsville.

Miss Montz, our former school teacher visited at Ken Cummins on Sunday last.

Jacob and Mrs. Markle of Hamilton visited at Edgar Carey's last Sunday.

The men's class, which met in the basement of the church on Sunday afternoon last was largely attended. Dr. Sparling of Centenary Church, Hamilton was the speaker.

A Box Social will be held on Friday evening in the Public Hall.

Mr. Murel Ryckman is on the sick list.

Greenville

A new daughter arrived at Johnson Tew's last Friday morning.

Mrs. Sarah Bullock a life long resident of this place; age 83 passed away very suddenly on Monday morning. Funeral took place on Wednesday at 3 p. m. to Christ Church cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hopkins of Montreal were calling on friends here on Sunday.

NEGLECTED COLDS Lead to Consumption

Unless a complete cure is effected, the inflammation passes rapidly to the throat bronchial tubes, and then to the lungs.

You can't make new lungs any more than you can make new fingers or a new nose—hence consumption is practically incurable.

But Catarrh can be cured, except in its final and always fatal stage.

Catarrhazone Guaranteed to Cure

The purest balsams and the greatest antiseptics are sent to every spot where catarrhal troubles exist—germs are killed, foul secretions are destroyed, nature is given a chance and cure comes quickly.

Colds and throat troubles can't last if the pure healing vapor of Catarrhazone is breathed—sneezing and coughing cease at once, because irritation is removed.

Use Catarrhazone to prevent—use it to cure your winter cold—it's pleasant, safe, and guaranteed in every case.

Two months' treatment, large size, guaranteed to cure, price $1; small size, 50c; sample size, 25c; sold everywhere.

LESSON IV. April 25, 1920.

Ruth's Wise Choice. 1; 14-22.

COMMENTARY. — 1. A Hebrew family in Moab (vs. 1-5). We are not told at what time during the period of the Judges Elimelech and his family left Canaan for Moab. It has been thought by many that it might have been during the years in which the Midianites were overrunning the land of Israel and robbing the people of their produce. There may have been a famine because of long-continued drought. It is clear, however, that scarcity of food led this family, consisting of Elimelech, Naomi, his wife, and their sons, Mahlon and Chilion, to seek better conditions in the land of Moab. The ten years spent by Naomi there were full of distressing experiences. Her husband died. Her sons married women of Moab. Later the sons died, leaving her alone with her two daughters-in-law, Orpah and Ruth. Jews are disposed to consider the affliction that came to this family in the light of punishment, inflicted upon them for leaving the land of Israel and going into a heathen country, and for intermarrying with people of another race and religion. However this may be, we have the assurance that the Lord, by a peculiar train of providences, brought high honor to Ruth because of her choosing to live and die among God's people.

II. Preparing to return to Judah (vs. 6-9). After living in Moab ten years, Naomi decided to return to the land of her fathers. She had heard that there was food in Judah, and her attachment to her own country was strong enough to lead her to make arrangements to go back there. Moab was a country forty or fifty miles from north to south and about twenty-five miles from east to west, and about twenty-five miles from the Jordan River and the Dead Sea, and the journey from there to Bethlehem in Judah was not long. As news spread slowly abites was Cnemosh (Num. 21:29; Judges 11:24). Ruth gave up her country, and she was not yet convinced that it was best for her to return, nor was she persuaded to do so. 15. Return thou—Naomi tried to use to advantage the argument that Orpah had gone back.

16. Intreat me not.—Ruth's mind was made up. She had chosen to go with Naomi. Orpah might choose to return, but she was determined to go to the land of Israel. Whichever thou goest, I will go.—There was no hesitancy on Ruth's part. She knew she was going among a strange people, but she also knew the course she had chosen was the right one. Thy people shall be my people.—Ruth severed forever her connection with her country and people, for she had found a better people and a better country. Thy God my God.—This was an expression of her determination to love and serve the true God alone. 17. There will I be buried.—The choice Ruth made was to be in force to the end of life. It meant everything to her to make the choice and she would never go back from what she had decided. 18. Stedfastly minded.—Naomi was convinced that Ruth's choice was fully made and further argument and entreaty were useless, therefore she said no more against her going with her.

IV. Naomi and Ruth in Bethlehem (vs. 19-22). 19. To Bethlehem—Bethlehem is five miles south of Jerusalem and a very ancient city. The journey of Naomi and Ruth may have been seventy-five miles in extent, but probably less. All the city was moved.—The return of a former resident after an absence of ten years would naturally arouse a considerable interest, and for her to come back alone, her husband and two sons having died in Moab, would excite the pity of her friends. 20. Call me not Naomi.—This name means pleasantness. The sorrow of Naomi had been many and heavy, and when the people of Bethlehem said, "Is this Naomi?" she was unwilling to have that name applied to her. Call me Mara.—She thought the name, meaning bitterness, would be more applicable to her. Ruth dealt very bitterly with her—her mind was taken up at this time with a comparison of her surroundings and prospects as she went forth with her family from Bethlehem, with her surroundings as she returned ten years later. 21. I went out full.—She had her husband and her two sons, and she was satisfied, even though they were moved by famine to seek another country. The Lord hath brought me home again empty.—Evidently she recognized the hand of the Lord in the bereavement that came to her. The Lord made use of the situation to work out His great plan in arranging the ancestry of our Savior. Naomi did not realize the place and value of then, it was doubtless some length of time after there came to be plenty in Judah that Naomi knew that the Lord had given bread to her people. When she started on her way, Orpah and Ruth, her daughters-in-law, accompanied her for some distance because of their affection for her. When Naomi thought the time had come for them to go back, she tried to prevail on them to go to the homes of their respective mothers, praying the Lord to grant them mercy, as they had dealt kindly with their husbands, her sons. She thought they would be better off to remain in their own land and among their own people than to go into the land of Israel, for she must have known well the attitude of her people toward other nations. She prayed that each of them might "find rest." To find rest is in Oriental expression for entering the marriage state. This is in general the divine order for men and women and they who are happily married are restful. Naomi thus made for Orpah and Ruth the best wish and prayer possible. The time had come, as she thought, for them to part. She was leaving the place where her loved ones had died, and therefore, in a sense, sacred to her, and she must bid her daughters-in-law farewell to continue her journey alone. The leave-taking was affecting; "they lifted up their voice, and wept."

III. Choices made (vs. 10-18). 10-13. Naomi's attempt to send her daughters-in-law back to their people was not wholly successful. She had so conducted herself that she had won their affection and her influence over them was strong and good. So greatly were they taken up with her that they would bid farewell to country and kindred rather than say good-bye to her. She told them that she had no more sons, and it was useless to go with her with any expectation of their having sons of hers for husbands. If she should be married again and have sons, Orpah and Ruth would not wait for them to become grown to marry them. Naomi used her strongest arguments and the utmost of her influence to her efforts to return, but still they clung to her. 14. They lifted up their voice and wept again.—The Orientals are demonstrative in their grief. They wept aloud. Orpah kissed her mother-in-law.—The last sad kiss of a tearful separation; after which she, unlike Ruth, turned back to her people and her gods. The great deity of the Mo-

Ruth in the plan. She little expected that through Ruth's energy and faithfulness as a gleaner and by her amiability she would become the wife of Boaz and thus have a place in the family from which would come a line of kings and from which the Messiah would appear. She esteemed the affection and character of Ruth, but she did not know her important place in God's dealings with men. 22. In the beginning of barley harvest, in the harvest is in April in the region of Bethlehem. As the harvest season was on, Ruth had come there in time to take part in the gleanings.

Questions.—Where is Moab? What family went from Bethlehem to Moab? What led them to go? Who were Orpah and Ruth? How long was Naomi in Moab? What change came to the family in Moab? Why did Naomi decide to return to Bethlehem? What choice did Orpah and Ruth make with regard to going with Naomi? What arguments did Naomi use to persuade her daughters-in-law to return to their mothers' houses? How did Ruth express her decision?

PRACTICAL SURVEY.

Topic.—The power of personal influence.

I. Ruth's wise choice.

II. Its reward.

III. The Book of Judges, which we have been studying, covers historically the period from the conquest of Palestine and the death of Joshua to the judgeship of Samuel and the introduction of the monarchy. It is a record of declensions and deliverances,—three succeeding that of Gideon. The book which forms our present study is in striking contrast, but closely connected in the ancient Hebrew canon it formed a part of the Book of Judges. It forms a connecting link between the book of Judges and Samuel, carries the history and the gentle histories. The simple story is replete with great truths and forcibly illustrates the important fact that God has never left himself without witness.

I. Ruth's wise choice. The real narrative, as it concerns the true history of Ruth, commences with Naomi's decision to return to the land of Judah. Ten years sojourn in Moab had brought both bereavement and poverty. The commendation and benediction of Naomi and her solicitude for the well-being of her daughters-in-law afford a picture of a loving, harmonious household, as rare as it is beautiful. She would neither deceive them nor permit them to deceive themselves in their decision. She could make them no offer of temporal good. She knew that they had friends in Moab, none in Judah. The decision embraced the deepest and most solemn issues. In reality it was a choice between Jehovah and Chemosh. So Orpah understood it, and though with tears returned to her people and her gods (vs. 16, 17), so Ruth understood it, and in her decision intelligently embracing all it involved, she went forward in resolute self-surrender to her highest convictions with a heroism she seldom unequalled, though from the human side, without hope.

II. Its reward. Ruth's choice was made without promise or outlook. So was that of Moses (Heb. 11:24, 25) and of the Hebrew children (Dan. 3: 16-18). The paths of righteousness are the ways of providing. In her deep necessity Ruth pursued her humble and lonely task, a stranger in a strange land. What appeared an accident in her choice of fields was with God a providence. Her purpose was to glean for food, but God's purpose was to direct her way to the meeting with Boaz. "Providences to the righteous are but the fulfillment of the promises." Boaz is presented to us in the beautiful story, as a forefather and type of Christ, the Kinsman and bridegroom Redeemer. The short-sighted policy of the nearest kinsman (Ruth 4: 6) doomed him to oblivion and afforded opportunity for the execution of the gracious and benevolent purpose of Boaz, the next of kin (Ruth 4: 9, 10). To him succeeded the right of redemption, and the purchase included the marital relation with Ruth (Ruth 4: 10). Christ has redeemed the forfeited inheritance and with it purchased his redeemed bride. In becoming the wife of Boaz, Ruth was lifted from poverty to affluence, from oblivion to everlasting honor in the ancestry of the world's Redeemer; and directly connected the Gentile world with the visible processes or redemption. W. H. C.

When the food value of honey is reduced of figures we are surprised to find that a pound section of honey (about 14 ounces net) contains as many calories as 20 eggs. Honey is classed among the carbohydrate foods, and is a source of heat and energy. When it is known that honey contains very little cane sugar and consists mainly of grape sugar and fruit sugar, it will be realized that honey is a predigested food directly available for the production of heat and energy. This explains why honey is unsurpassed for the relief of fatigue and enables us to understand why Jonathan, wearied in the long pursuit of the Philistines, was so immediately refreshed by a little honey. Nitrogenous matter occurs in the form of pollen grains always present as an accidental mixture, and there is nitrogen also in the albumen supplied by the bees in the elaboration of the honey. It has recently been shown that honey also contains those mysterious substances known as vitamins, in the absence of which an animal will lose weight, although supplied with a food ration that is otherwise adequate.

SAFE AND EFFICIENT HOME TREATMENT

MANY WEAK AND AILING PEOPLE WHO HAVE BEEN HELPED STRONGLY RECOMMEND DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS

There is only one way to build up a run down system if the blood is pale and thin. Many diseases are caused by thin blood. Other diseases such as influenza and rheumatism cause the blood to become thin and the wasting effect of these disorders cannot be combated successfully until the blood is restored to its normal condition.

Pallor, nervousness, indigestion, sleeplessness, headaches, dizzy spells, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart, these are a few of the symptoms of an anemic bloodless condition. Some of them are not naturally associated with thin blood, but the quickest way to overcome them is to make the blood rich and red.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do one thing and do it well. They build up the blood increasing the number of red corpuscles. As this is done the blood becomes a richer red and is able to carry more oxygen, the great supporter of human life. As the blood improves in quality the tissues of the body are better nourished and the functions of the body are better performed. The glands of the stomach are stimulated and the first sign of improvement is usually a better appetite and better digestion.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been used for years as a bloodmaking tonic and system builder with such good results that in every community there are many people who are recommending this remedy to their friends and to others who are afflicted.

Here is the statement of one person among thousands who have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to their own great advantage. Mrs. A. Venot, Hemford, N. S., says: "For about two years I was a great sufferer from indigestion, which seemed to carry with it a complication of other troubles. Every meal I took brought with it misery, as it was followed by pain and sometimes nausea and vomiting. At other times gas would form in the stomach to such an extent that my heart would palpitate at an alarming rate. These conditions brought on extreme nervousness and irritability, and I found my general health so much affected, that the least exertion would tire me and I slept but poorly. I had been doctoring for several months, with no result beyond slight temporary relief, when I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I decided to follow this advice and got a half a dozen boxes. Good results soon began to show from this treatment, and the further continued use of the pills have made me a well woman. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to similar sufferers."

The purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is to build up the blood. They do this one thing and they do it well. They are an invaluable remedy in diseases arising from bad or deficient blood, as rheumatism, neuralgia, after effects of the grip and fevers. The pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drug and cannot injure the most delicate system.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"What am I missing?" she asked sharply. "What do you mean, Una?" But Una did not immediately answer and when she did it was only an indirect reply to Moya's question. "Is Barry satisfied with that?" she said. "Does he not want anything more? Somehow I should have thought he would. Oh, Moya, I'm so disappointed."

right had Una to say that? She spoke bitterly.

"Disappointed, are you? Well, so is the mater. Perhaps you and she would agree, though you take so romantic a view of things. She does not, you know. She looks at things from the angle of pounds, shillings and pence. Her principal objection is that Barry is a mere boy still, and has not so much money as—as other people have, perhaps. I knew there would be opposition to this, Una. But I did not expect it to come from you."

"Oh, Moya, I did not mean that. You know it. If Barry is young and has not much money—oh, there's something splendid in making one's future together, in working for it, in starting out on life and meaning to conquer it. Oh, it isn't that, you know. It's just—just—Words failed her, she faltered on. "I'm so disappointed," she cried, and there were hidden tears in her voice.

She turned away and left Moya. It was the nearest the two sisters had ever been to open quarrel. Una quarrelled with no one. Her temper was the reverse of Moya's fiery and quick. The girl was conscious of surprise now. Una so seldom took a definite stand like this. "I'm so disappointed—so disappointed!" That cry echoed to Moya.

She hurried out into the cottage garden. All was peace out there. "First the mater, and now Una," thought Moya with a newborn cynicism. "Who next? Hardly Guy Berkeley." He would not dare to interfere, to scold, or threaten, and say he was so disappointed, surely. "It is I who am disappointed," felt Moya. "Disappointed in Una." She swallowed down her chagrin, while an uncomfortable memory came of how Barry had indignantly asked her if he had got her out of one hole into another, and worse one. She hushed it, while still the thought of Una's words Una's eyes, stirred her in a troubled way.

"I wish I did not feel so mean and paltry and false," owned Moya honestly. But would not own it was just Una's words that made her feel so. The girl had held up an ideal of love—it shone too brightly on Moya's own thoughts.

"I had to do it," Moya endeavored to reassure herself. "And as to being mean and paltry—marrying Guy Berkeley would be that. Anyway, his coming would have brought discord into the home. It all had to be. It's no use regretting it."

She walked about the narrow garden paths, frowning down at the flowers. "It's all Una's ridiculous romance," she told herself fiercely. "She's full of story-book ideas—notions that would never work out properly in ordinary life. It would be hopeless telling her the truth about this. She would just think it wrong—would refuse to see the necessity for it. Oh, dear. I do think people with high ideals and ideas of duty are the most trying folk in the world."

She did not follow that thought further—that Una's disappointment and gentle censure were echoing in a little restless voice through her heart, a voice which could not be silenced. She bent down and plucked the flowers carelessly, and dropped them from her hands as heedlessly. But just then the little garden-gate clicked, there was a crunching sound of footsteps on the shell path. Moya looked up with a start.

Yes, her apprehensions were right. She had entirely forgotten for a moment—forgotten that a visitor must be on his way to the cottage. She guessed who the approaching tall man must be, and she gave a little laugh, half-amused, half-angry.

Why must Una be out of the way at this particular moment? Could she not appear and play hostess? Well, he must have seen her—Moya—anyway. It was no use beating a retreat. The best thing was to put a good face on it. Of course she did not wish to be the first to welcome him; but in the circumstance, with the independence she could now flourish in his face, it surely did not matter much. Moya advanced down the garden path. "Mr. Berkeley?" she asked. "We were expecting you. The mater had a wire this afternoon. I'm Moya Raleigh. The mater meant to come and meet you. But—but she had a headache—and—and is resting now."

That last was strictly accurate. No doubt Mrs. Raleigh was suffering from a headache. No doubt she would appear presently, with recovered composure and ice-like serenity. Moya knew her mother.

The tall man glanced at her, then at the flowers in her hands, and then at an unheeded blossom or two, falling to her feet. She had not offered to shake hands with him, though the sufficient excuse, seeing how heedlessly she was dropping them. He smiled.

"So you're Moya." His manner was simple, direct, that of an old friend. "I should have known that without being told. I've seen photographs of you, you see. Well, I'm even earlier than I intended. I caught the train before the one I said on the telegram. Am I too early? Like a child at a party?"

His smile was whimsical. Moya felt herself involuntarily flushing. Had he noticed her lack of welcome? Well, she need not be rude. She had meant to be once, perhaps. But now, independent of him, there was no need for that.

"You see," he went on, "London is so stifling. And I pined for a breath of sea air. What your mother wrote and told me of this place fired me with longing to see it." He was too long about him with unaffected pleasure. Moya drew a breath. At least, he did not say he had been pining to see her! Or even that his object in coming was to meet her! If she felt a little taken back, she did not show it.

"You'll come in," she said. "Tea is over some time ago. But you'll have some. Oh, yes, you must, after that long journey. And Una is indoors somewhere. . . . Later, you know. You must see her. The boys are out just now. They went fishing with an old fisherman who lives here. Mother does not mind them going with him. Though she's nervous of them going by themselves—can always imagine them falling overboard in an endeavor to land a whale!"

She was talking quite naturally. In the bottom of her mind was a secret pleasure. She could talk to this man as she pleased. No one now could read false ideas into what she said or did. No horrible insinuations would haunt every look or word.

"I'm not a bit tired," he said. "Nor do I want any tea. I had some on the train. But what I do want is to explore this place. I have one or two aggravating glimpses of the sea through the trees—no more. If you're mothe, is resting, don't disturb her yet. Won't you take me to a

When a man has lost ambition to "dig in" and stay at things—when he complains of headache, fullness in the right side, pain in the shoulder blade—it's purely a case of liver.

These symptoms invariably indicate a clogged, inactive liver. The body can't get rid of its wastes, and the whole system is half paralyzed. Dr. Hamilton's Pills stimulate the liver into activity in one night. Being a mild vegetable laxative they produce results in a few hours. The bilious headache and constipation are cured, spirits rise, complexion clears, animation returns. Nothing in the calendar so efficient for that tired, lazy feeling as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. the shore and show me round a bit?" Moya heaved a sigh. She had turned toward the cottage. She wanted still more to turn the newly-arrived man over to Una's hospitality. She had an idea, and this man would get on well together. As for herself, she meant to be friendly—yes. Carelessly companionable. But she wanted no talks and walks, such as seemed in prospect now. But she caught a quick, questioning look in his grey eyes. It decided her. She opened the garden-gate.

"Oh, yes," she said, off-handedly. "It's just right for a walk now. A cool breeze is springing up across the water. It was awfully hot this afternoon when Barry and I went for a long tramp over the cliffs."

He might as well hear Barry's name at once. It came to her lips with an odd pleasure, and a renewed flourish of independence. If it was not for Barry, and all Barry represented at this moment, she would not be talking to Guy Berkeley with perfect ease. Something of her first exhilaration came back, before it had been damped by Una's words. Her eyes sparkled. She held up her face to the salt breeze.

"Isn't it glorious?" she asked. "Now, what of London? Isn't it queer to think that far away, over those hills, there are crows and noise and bustle? A surging, pushing world, tumbling over each in their haste to make money. It's difficult to think of London here, isn't it?"

Gu, smiled. Perhaps it was. He had passed a worrying, toiling day in town. Money brought its responsibilities, he found. But it was certainly very difficult to think of London here. The sun was sinking into the sea—into a soft mist that promised a fine to-morrow. There was a pearly, vague look over the sea, an indefinite pure color under a deepening sky. Just a quiet swell, waveless and serene, like the peaceful rise and fall of the breast of a sleeping child. Guy looked at it long. He did not offer an answer to Moya's remark. The two stood silent, and then, as if by common consent, turned and walked along the edge of the firm sand, ribbed and decked with red and green seaweed.

Moya was not unaccustomed to the silent with strangers. Usually, she chattered gaily enough to them, found it easy to make small talk. But now the silence was not one of inability of speech. It was not an awkward silence at all. Rather, Moya found it full of interest, thoughts, as if in the silence she and Guy had found a great deal to say.

He turned rather suddenly at last and spoke. He had deep grey eyes, with wrinkles at the corners—wrinkles that could indicate fun and laughter, and occasionally anger. She noticed them for the first time as he spoke now.

"I'm glad we've met at last. We seemed fated not to meet. And I think we ought to meet and be good friends—or enemies."

It was such an unexpected challenge that she found herself staring surprisedly at him. And his smile shone out on her.

"Enemies? Is it that? Well, I can't wonder. I've got the money you expected. And, what's more, I'm afraid I must say that I want to keep the money. In fact, I'm very glad it was left to me."

Still Moya only stared surprisedly. She was astonished at his courage in coming thus straight to the point. For this he had suggested the talk, no doubt. She saw that now. But still more she was surprised at his straightforwardness. He was not afraid to say he wanted the money. That at least was honest. Moya had at times wondered whether he would offer her any of the money. She had known her pride would not tolerate that. But now her interest was aroused.

He took off his straw hat, and let the breeze ruffle his dark hair. It was tipped grey. Moya saw it. Yet he was not an old man. What had brought the grey hairs? She wondered. She soon learned. "Yes, I wanted the money," he said, and he spoke more to the sea than to her. His face was turned, thoughtful, yondering, to that pearly distance of haze and horizon. "Needed it, too. Longed for it, perhaps. And worked away some valuable years of my life in the vain effort to amass it."

Was he so mercenary, then? Moya had suspected it, certainly. A miser, perhaps, with a mania for money? He caught some of that thought on her

YOUNG WOMEN AVOID PAIN

This One Tells How She Was Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Regina, Sask.—"For two years I suffered from periodic pains and nausea so I was unable to get around. My mother had me take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am much better and able to go about all the time, which I could not do before. I recommend Vegetable Compound to my friends if I know they suffer the same way, and you may publish my letter if it will help any one, as I hope it will."—Miss Z. G. BLACKWELL, 2073 Osler Place, Regina, Sask.

If every girl who suffers as Miss Blackwell did, from irregularities, painful periods, backache, sideache, dragging down pains, inflammation or ulceration would only give this famous root and herb remedy a trial they would soon find relief from such suffering. It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world. For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.

face as he turned his eyes for a brief second from the sea, and he laughed. "No, not that. I didn't want to make a pile up some chimney—or buried treasure in a garden. I just wanted it to spend it. Heavens!—what I felt I could do with money when I saw all this poverty around me."

His eyes flashed and deepened. "I've got plans. Some of them are already at work. Yes, work—not charity. I must tell you all about them some time. I don't believe you'll be sorry when you see all the spending that money means."

Moya was silent. Her heart was beating fast. She remembered her old aunt, how stingy and ungenerous was that household where money abounded. Frugality—the old lady had called it. Had she perchance left her money to Guy Berkeley as a kind of reparation for those mean, grudging years—and for no other reason that Moya might have imagined? A sudden flood of new ideas were pouring into the girl's mind. And all at once she felt her own ideas narrow and paltry beside them.

Was that why Guy Berkeley was glad that he had the money, that no unthinking, heedless girl had inherited it? That he, a man who had passed through much in life of sorrow and battling, could do so much more good with it than she herself could? Moya felt shaken and perplexed.

Healthy Children Always Sleep Well

The healthy child sleeps well and during its waking hours is never cross but always happy and laughing. It is only the sickly child that is cross and peevish. Mothers of your children do not sleep well; if they are cross and cry a great deal they will soon be well and happy again. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, banish constipation, colic and indigestion and promote healthful sleep. They are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates and may be given to the newborn babe with perfect safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Blocked by Caterpillars.

A bug may hold up a locomotive. If that is to say, there are occasions when caterpillars will sometimes swarm on railway tracks in such enormous numbers as to prevent the car wheels from going round. They just "chill" and the train is brought to a standstill. The insects involved in this sort of mischief are more often the army worm, the cotton worm, the tent caterpillar and migratory locusts. Swarms of huge water beetles have been known to halt trains in this way.

DO NOT NEGLECT YOUR BUILDINGS

Building material is high and likely to higher. Protect the buildings you have,
PAINT.

Probably not more than twenty-five per cent of paintable surfaces in this district are painted frequently enough to keep them in proper condition. In no other way can a property owner expend an equal amount of money and secure greater returns on his investment than by renewing the surface of his buildings when they commence to show wear. Unprotected surfaces soon reveal the action of the elements. And with the curtailment of building operations it naturally develops on the property owner to maintain his present buildings in a high state of repair. The most important consideration by all means is to PAINT.

CANADA PAINT IS GOOD PAINT

And has been on the market in the Dominion of Canada for great many years. There is a special line manufactured by the Canada Paint Co. for each and every one of your requirements. All the products are manufactured of the best raw materials. Are made for durability and for proper results.
