Turn luck into certainty on baking day

Don't envy the housewife whose "good luck" in baking never seems to fail her.

We'll tell you one of her most precious secrets:

Her flour moistens evenly, ferments evenly and bakes evenly.

Rainbow Flour does all these things, because all of the particles are of even size and hardness. That's what enables it to give such uniformity of results.

One other thing: Rainbow Flour is made of the best hard wheat in the world—famed for its keeping qualities. And only the most nourishing parts of this wheat are allowed to enter into the making of this truly unusual flour.

Try some. It will turn your luck into certainty, too.

Your grocer has it in 7-lb., 14-lb., 24-lb., 49-lb. and 98-lb. bags and in barrels.

CHAPTER XV.

"Not a bit; no, that I didn't," said Vane. He was still holding her hands, and he patted them and smiled faintly at her. What should he do? Was there any one to whom he could take her? Who? No; there was no one. No lady friend could be got to understand that the girl had taken his jesting words seriously, and had followed him in simple, child like innocence. Besides, even if he could think of some woman who would befriend her, would Nora go? He knew enough of her nature and temper to answer in the negative and emphatically.

Then what should he do? He got up and poured out some more wine.

"You must drink it this time," he said, with a smile. "You look pale and tired. I'm dying to hear of your adventures; why don't you tell me how you got here, and—"

Lord Wally's voice—a boyish treble, almost as sweet as a woman's—floated to them, singing, "I arise from dreams of thee."

It almost drove Vane mad. Nora listened, with parted lips.

"How beautiful!" she murmured. "Is she a friend of yours?"

"She! It's a boy," said Vane. "They have been spending the evening with me. But it is time they went now. I'll get rid of them and come back to you."

Clear, Simple, No Chance of Mistake. TRY IT!

She looked at him in perfect trust and confidence.

"Do not, unless you want to," she said. "I can rest here. I can wait. I do not care for anything now I am here at last—at last!" and she drew a long breath, and let her lovely eyes dwell on him with an expression of perfect restfulness and security.

Vane passed his hand through his hair, and poured out a glass of wine for himself. He must get rid of this noisy crew, and then—and then think out some plan of saving her. Yes, he must save her.

"Lean back there in that chair," he said, drawing it up for her. "I won't be long. Take some more wine."

She lay back in the chair, a smile on her face, in her eyes. He went to the door and unlocked it, and looked back at her with a reassuring smile. Even in that moment he could scarcely realize that the slim, boyish figure, the close-cut black hair were those of Nora Trevanion.

As he paused, fighting hard to compose and presence of mind footsteps sounded outside, approach nearer, and the handle of the door was turned.

What should he do? Keep the door locked? If he did so, it was highly probable that the excited youngsters would push it open, or at any rate clamor outside until he let them in.

Even now they were calling him—"Vane—I say, Vane!" rose the baby's voice, a little thick now with wine. "We want you to come and sing."

"Where on earth have you got to?" came the deeper voice of the Junior Juggins. "Gone to bed?"

In despair Vane motioned to Nora, on whose face the color was coming and going.

"Don't speak! Mind—not a word! Don't open your lips!"

Then he opened the door, Lord Wally and the Junior Juggins nearly fell in face forward; the rest followed behind, laughing.

The laughter died away, and all stared at the figure in the chair.

"The baby was the first to speak."

"Oh! I say, I beg your pardon, Vane!" he stammered, in his girlish voice; "I thought you were alone."

Vane smiled with a ghastly attempt at perfect ease; and as he did so his eyes wandered over the group, and found and met the cold, cynical ones of Senley Tyers.

"It's all right," he said. "A young friend of mine has just turned up." He lowered his voice to a confidential tone. "Young Ernest Mortimer got into a row on board his ship—deserted, the young idiot—awfully tired and knocked up."

Lord Wally looked sympathetically at the pale face.

"Poor young beggar!" he said.

"I say, Vane, we'd better clear out. It's jolly late, and he'll be glad to be quiet. If there is anything I can do, you know," he went on in a whisper, "my uncle's in the Admiralty—"

"Thanks! thanks!" murmured Vane.

He motioned to Nora to sit down again—for she had risen and stood with an exquisite blush on her cheeks—and then he hustled the staring group outside, and with a sigh of relief closed the door on her.

CHAPTER XVI.

Vane got rid of his guests at last. The "boys" had trooped down the stairs in the best of spirits, and laughing and talking loudly, to the disgust of the eminent member of Parliament who lodged on the ground floor. In the hall Lord Wally had turned and called to Vane, leaning over the balustrade:

"Don't forget, Vane! If there is anything I can do for your young friend at the Admiralty—"

And Vane had nodded, and smiled and murmured:

"Thanks, baby, thanks!"

Then he went into the drawing room and stood in the midst of the card-tables, and looked vacantly at the candles and the decanters, the wine-glasses, the cards on the floor, the cigar ashes in the trays, as a man does who is too bewildered to is Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment—Scores of Cases for the Great Soothing, Healing Ointment.

Most people know Dr. Chase's Ointment best as a cure for eczema and itching piles. Now is this to be wondered at when you think of the remarkable record made in this class of cases.

But there are scores of other uses for this ointment, which are only discovered when it is kept constantly at hand.

Mrs. Martin, 13 Carroll street, Toronto, formerly of Bowmanville, Ont., writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years, and found it invaluable in treating skin irritations and all sorts of burns and wounds. In fact, we would not be without it in the house. It is a most excellent treatment for granulated eyelids, from which I suffered without finding anything to help me."

Wherever there is itching of the skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can use Dr. Chase's Ointment with full assurance that it will prove entirely satisfactory. 40 cents a box, all dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

see anything; and the momentous question, What should he do with her? rang in his ears and beat about his brain.

Vane was not a drinker, but he had had his full share of champagne. The evening had been a sufficiently exciting one; and in consequence his mind was not over-clear nor as active as it ordinarily was.

And the hour was such an awful one!

If it had been midday instead of four o'clock, he could have gone to Mrs. Porter and taken her into his confidence and confided Nora to her motherly care. But to go in search of Mrs. Porter—he had not the least idea where she reposed—to wake her up from her beauty sleep and tell her what must seem to her, even in broad daylight, a most improbable and far-fetched story, seemed to him impossible. That was the word—impossible!

And suppose if, after succeeding in finding, waking, and informing her, she declined to accept the charge of Nora? Women of Mrs. Porter's class are notoriously strait-laced and exacting in the matter of the proprieties. It was very likely that she would decline to afford Nora shelter and protection.

All this whirled through his mind as he stood and gazed round the disordered room; and at last he remembered that Nora was waiting for him, and in utter despair he drove the look of anxiety from his face, and forcing a smile, went back to the room in which he had left her.

She was still in the arm-chair. She had been leaning back with closed eyes, perfectly peaceful and serene and trustful. Why should she not be? She was here at last, under his roof, in his charge, and so protected, as free from any danger as if she had been surrounded by a corps of the Queen's Guards.

The room, with its tasteful decorations, its costly hangings and luxurious furniture, had amused her and filled her with pleasant surprise. She had never before seen such an apartment. But its beauty and luxury did not distress her with any sense of inferiority. She was perfectly at ease.

She opened her eyes, and greeted his re-entrance with a faint smile. He smiled back in response, and went and seated himself beside her.

The new baby had proved itself the possessor of extraordinary lung powers. One day baby's brother, little Johnny, said to his mother:

"Ma, little brother came from Heaven, didn't he?"

"Yes, dear," answer his mother. Johnny was silent for a minute, and then he went on: "I say ma!"

"What is it, Johnny?"

"I don't blame the angels for slinging him out, do you?"

More Sparkling Stones.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

It is always a pleasure to watch little children at play even if you only take a surface interest in them as you would in the gambols of a batch of kittens. It is a still greater pleasure if you care to study them and watch the moods and motives that govern adult life, making their appearance in this miniature world.

On the beach one pleasant morning this summer two youngsters somewhere about the mystic age of five were having a grand time in the sand, delightfully unconscious of my eaves dropping.

They had been picking up the shiny pebbles which the retreating tide had left sparkling in that flicker splendor which its damp touch transiently imparts.

Said Tow-head to Dutch-cut trotting towards him with his pail full of pebbles. "See my pail. I've got more sparkling that you have."

"Have you, though?" said Dutch-cut. "You look here at mine."

A comparison followed, after which both contestants having pugnaciously claimed the honor, each fell to work again, in a frantic endeavor to get the most.

Could there be a more accurate miniature of life?

The pleasure they had in the beautiful little pebbles themselves was small. The real joy came in having "more sparkling stones than you've got." When Mrs. Brown shows Mrs. White her new diamond ring and thereby dazzles poor Mrs. White, who only has two diamonds and a ruby with her tantalizing display of found diamonds, an emerald and a sapphire, she is really saying in antonomastical language, "I've got more sparkling stones than you have." And when Mrs. White goes home and teases her husband for a new ring for Christmas, she is just displaying the eternal trait that made Tow-head and Dutch-cut scramble after more sparkling stones.

And so it is everywhere. Tow-head's sparkling stones are symbols of all the bubbles we hold so dearly. The chief pleasure many people get out of life is in having more possessions, more money, more talent, more beauty, more power than someone else.

I sometimes wish the word "more" could be stricken from the English language. Comparisons are certainly odious. They give only a tainted and unreal happiness and an unhappiness that is just as keen as if it had a legitimate cause.

There are plenty of people who would enjoy sunsets and the grandeur of the ocean and the wine of an October day very much more if they could only buy them and have more of them than other folks.

It's a queer world, isn't it? Ninety-nine people out of one hundred would be lightheaded at the youngsters and their scramble to get more sparkling stones than each other. Not one in a hundred ever pauses to laugh at his own scramble for the same goal.

LONDON GOSSIP.

London, Sept. 11th, 1913.

Dress at the Royal Wedding.

It has been decided that Prince Arthur of Connaught shall wear his uniform as a captain of the Royal Scots Greys at the wedding next month, while the Prince of Wales will wear his uniform as a naval lieutenant. The other "supporter" of the bridegroom, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, will wear his picturesque dress as Colonel-in-Chief of the Seaforth Highlanders (Duke of Albany). The Duke of Connaught will be in Field-Marshal's uniform, but the King has not yet decided whether he will wear similar dress or his favourite uniform as Admiral of the Fleet. Probably, as the bridegroom is a military officer, His Majesty will likewise decide to appear as a Field Marshal. The ladies present will wear semi-evening toilettes with jewels, while all the gentlemen attending will wear either uniform or ordinary Court dress with orders. The scene is, therefore, likely to be a brilliant one, especially if the weather is at all favorable. Owing to the cramped accommodation of the Chapel Royal the ladies of the general company present will not wear trains.

Princess Mary at Buckingham Palace.

The rooms which are being made ready at Buckingham Palace for the use of Princess Mary, differ from those she has previously occupied in being in more intimate contact with the Queen's personal apartments. Her Royal Highness will in future use these rooms independently, and will be attended by her governess and her dressing-maid, who will have no other pre-occupations in the Royal Household. The suite is self-contained, and will permit of the serving of breakfast and lunch in privacy in case of need, while it also allows of personal hospitality being offered by the Princess to half a dozen friends for tea or otherwise. Her Royal Highness is having some cabinets introduced into her boudoir, to permit of the accumulation of possessions in which she is interested. These include a large number of picture-post-cards, photographs by Royal operators, curious gems, and other small objects of Oriental and savage origin, and the large number of books and knick-knacks which the Princess has received by gift and otherwise from her relatives and friends all over the world.

The Afflictions of the Court of Spain.

A lady well acquainted with the Court of Spain brings the very sad news that it is feared that the second daughter of the Queen of Spain will be like her second son, both deaf and dumb. It is feared that the little girl is totally deaf, which must entail dumbness unless she can be cured. The Queen is almost heartbroken. She goes with her children to the convents of the religious in or near Madrid to ask for prayers of intercession on their behalf, and particularly of late on behalf of the little Princess.

Another Balkan Quarrel.

Sinister rumours are reaching London on the subject of the Serbo-Montenegrin frontier negotiations. It will be remembered that when the unfortunate war between the Allies broke out Montenegrin troops occupied Ipek and some other places in the neighborhood, thereby releasing the Serbian forces for the campaign against Bulgaria. By way of compensation, Montenegro was at that time promised a "rectification" of her frontier out of the territories conquered by Serbia during the war against Turkey. Accordingly Montenegro, after the conclusion of the treaty of Bucharest, received Ipek and Djakovo. Now, however, Montenegro is demanding also Prisrend, the sacred city of the Serbian race, which King Nicholas himself made the subject of a striking poem as far back as thirty years ago. This has caused profound indignation at Belgrade. Public opinion in Serbia is dead against any further concession to Montenegrin demands. Moreover a very unpleasant impression has been created in Belgrade by the refusal of King Nicholas to bestow the usual medal for gallantry on General Putnik, the Serbian Commander-in-Chief. The reason for this offensive refusal on the part of a friendly and allied monarch is not known. General Putnik, however, is the most popular figure in Serbia, and rightly so. The Skupshina is about to be asked to vote him £20,000 as a gift in recognition of his services and in consideration of his poverty and large family. Consequ-

An Operation For Appendicitis

Was Ordered by His Doctor, But Complete Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Almost anyone who has suffered from appendicitis will assure you that this trouble developed only after months or years of derangements of the liver and bowels. Appendicitis can almost invariably be prevented, and very frequently cured, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In the case described in this letter the doctors had ordered an operation, but through their care was brought about by this great medicine. Mrs. J. A. Ballantyne, Sturgeon Falls, Ont., writes: "My husband was treated for appendicitis, and the doctors ordered an operation. But he would not consent to an operation and began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Since doing so he has had no more pain or operation, and even of a doctor, as the trouble has completely left him. I cannot find words to speak our gratitude for his cure." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers. Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Recently King Nicholas's insult to their hero is deeply resented by the Serbian people, which is the less inclined to give way on the Prisrend question.

The Black-Listed Rifle.

There is really no need for anyone to be disturbed over the announcement that the new model army rifle under trial has proved unsatisfactory, as the rifle has never been issued except as an experimental weapon. A great deal of capital has been made out of the reputed military value of the new German rifle and the "Spitzer" bullet. In peace a great many advantages are claimed for the various engines of war. Experience shows that in actual use the majority of these advantages are discounted in an extraordinary degree. The two chief defects that condemn the experimental rifle are inability to find an explosive that when manufactured and stored in bulk will develop the advantages in flat trajectory that are claimed for the weapon and to mask the explosion made by the discharge. Added to these very vital disadvantages is the fact that the models of automatic mechanism are so rapidly approaching that level of perfection which will be practical for service requirements that it would be foolish to rearm with a non-automatic weapon. It must be remembered that by a certain school of thought too much stress may possibly have been laid upon the advantages of an increase in flat trajectory. Except on a dead flat plain, such as a desert, too flat a trajectory interferes with the modern conception of overhead fire support and reduces the margin in safety of direct support, which is said to have been one of the secrets of the Greek success over the Bulgarians in the recent struggle in Thrace.

Smoking Suits for Women.

Once upon a time not very long ago, men used to put on curious caps and strange velvet jackets when they wanted to smoke. That fashion has passed away among men, but of late it has been revived among women. Early in the present summer one might have seen in one or two Bond Street show-rooms severely-cut little coats, in soft bright material, labelled "Lady's smoking coat." It has been left, however, to the Welcome Club at Earl's Court Exhibition, London, to produce the first entire feminine smoking suit. On September 4th several of these costumes were displayed on the lawn of the club for the purpose of taking a cinematograph film of autumn fashions. Mannequins lounged upon divans puffing the "weed"-only cigarettes, of course—with nonchalant ease. The "suits" worn by them were extremely simple in cut and extremely dashing in colour. Straight short petticoat-like skirts were secured round the waist by a draw-string. The accompanying coat was in each case a tailor-cut and furnished with masculine-looking side pockets—one for the cigarette case, I suppose, and the other for the matches. In materials satin and crepe de chine, and in colours emerald, rose yellow, and a startling Oriental pattern had been chosen.

SIR R. BOND

AN ABLE AND HONEST STATESMAN.

One of the greatest advantages the Opposition Party has over the Morris Party is the personality of its leader, Sir Robert Bond. His character, experience and ability place him head and shoulders over the leader of the Plebeian Party.

Even his opponents recognize that he is a man of unshrinking honour, integrity and independence. It will be remembered that Mr. P. T. McGrath testified to these sterling features of his character in his famous Chicago letter. At that time a desperate attempt was being made to retain a Government in power which should be favourable to the 1898 contract. Just as to-day a desperate attempt is being made to retain a Government in power which shall be favourable to the Reid Railway Contract of 1910. At that time when the feelings of the country had been aroused against the Government, just as it is to-day, Mr. McGrath wrote the letter to which we have referred, and in it he set forth his opinion of Sir Robert Bond. These words should be read, marked and inwardly digested. They are well worth pondering over.

"The Hon. Robert Bond an able and honest Colonial Statesman, sufficiently independent in point of wealth to be able to resist the inducements of rich capitalists like Reid, has undertaken to do battle against this northern Goliath, and the young and patriotic elements in public life are rallying to Bond's standard for the battle of the ballots in November next, which will decide the destinies of the Island."

Just as in 1900 what the country wanted was an able and honest statesman and of an independent turn of mind. The country is indignant that so little ability has been displayed by those who have had charge of the affairs of the Colony during the past four years. What ability was displayed in calculating the cost of the branch lines at $4,000,000 and putting round the neck of the country a millstone of an $8,000,000 debt? What acumen was exercised in agreeing to pay the contractor in gold instead of bonds and saddling the people with an additional half million dollars of debt? What financial foresight was shown in floating these loans in instalments with the money market running steadily against us, and thus realizing much less cash than if the loan had all been floated at once? Instead of able administration, the country has been bled white by business incapacity and financial bungling.

As to the honesty of purpose in statesmanship we should like to know where it came in the grabbing of timber limits as shown in the Morrison Memorials. Where did it come in the writing of the Orange Bay letter in which Morrison stated that timber could be grabbed off certain Crown Lands. Where did honourable statesmanship come in in Morrison's defence of Morrison's actions in these matters? How can there possibly be honest administration when Ministers of the Crown, M. H. A.'s, and prominent supporters of the party are engaged in a game of grabbing up all they can with the assistance of the Executive Government. What independence can there be in men who are ever on the look out to gain personal advantages for themselves, their brothers and their relatives?

How then is it possible that the Morris Party can give the next four years what they have failed to give the past four years? The country insists that a period shall be put to the carnival of gross extravagance, and that fair, proper and economical administration shall take its place. The statesman who can give the country what it wants and what it needs most is that able, honest and independent statesman, Sir Robert Bond.

The Government's Policy of Ruin.

Thoughtful people in Newfoundland to-day consider that the most serious problem that presents itself to the electorate is the question of finance. During the term the Morris-Morison Government has controlled the affairs of the Colony finance has been a continual subject of anxiety. Not only has the revenue of the Colony been squandered for useless and corrupt purposes but its permanent obligations have been growing year after year at a rate far in excess of the increase in population and of the economic condition of the Colony. The cost of the Civil Service has been increased, not by paying useful public servants, such as the police and firemen,

A LIVING WAGE

but by sops to political favourites and party heeled. The interest on the public debt has been increased not for the benefit of the public, but in order to carry out contracts made more for the advantage of the Reids. The cost of the mail service has been increased not to promote efficiency in the conveyance and delivery of the public mail but to provide subsidies to companies in which Messrs. Crosbie, Morrison and Reid are directors and largely interested. It cannot be truthfully claimed that any part of the public service has been improved by the vast and increasing expenditure. Let any impartial man ask himself has the Agricultural Industry of the country been improved by the large amounts expended upon it during the past four or five years? Has the Marine and Fisheries Department or the position of the fisheries improved? Have the roads, bridges or marine works been improved since the present Government assumed power? The answer to these questions must be

NO! DECIDEDLY NO!

The expenditure in these directions has been wantonly and absolutely wasted. No benefit has accrued to the public no one has been benefited by these expenditures except a few political favourites in each district. Notwithstanding these increased expenditures, the public is in a far worse position than it was in four years ago. Permanent obligations have been incurred for which money must be provided year after year and the people, the labourers and the fishermen, the men who work for a living must find the money out of their hard earned wages—money needed to meet debts incurred by Government that has run a career of wreck and ruin during its whole term of office. How are we to meet the obligations involved in the railway contracts? Next spring the two loans raised by Morris to meet the cost of railway construction will be exhausted but the cost of construction will go on and the money must be found. This will

in London. What will be the position of the Colony? If you turn up the Herald any evening for the past year or so, you will find the Minister of Finance advertising for money which he cannot raise right here in the Colony. If he cannot get money here at four per cent, how can he expect to get money in London at three and one-half per cent? He will require several millions of dollars in addition to the loans already raised to meet the cost of constructing and equipping the five lines already contracted for. Can he raise this money if no further railway lines are agreed to? Most experienced people say no. But this is not the position as it will be presented if Morris is returned to power. The obligations will not be limited to those incurred by the railway construction contracts of 1910. Provision will also have to be made for the other railways which it is said Morris will promise as political bait in his forthcoming Manifesto. Remember there are less than a quarter of a million people in this Colony and the public debt at present is

NEARLY THIRTY MILLION.

Can we afford to add eight or ten more millions of dollars to the debt of our people in order to provide further railway contracts for Reid and more power for Morris? These are serious questions which it behoves the people of this country to consider before they cast their vote in November. It seems that the only salvation for the Colony is in removing the irresponsible spendthrifts who at present rule and replacing them by a true statesman like Sir Robert Bond who has shown throughout his career wide and wise knowledge of the needs and requirements of the people, their trade, commerce and happiness. They know these facts and have reached the conclusion that

Hr. Grace Notes.

Rev. Mr. Frazer, of Wabana, occupied the pulpit of St. Andrew's Church here at both services yesterday.

The K. E. Brigade attended service at St. Paul's yesterday forenoon. They were attended by their wife and drum band.

The many friends of Dr. W. H. Parsons are pleased to see him home again. The genial doctor thoroughly enjoyed his extended visit abroad.

Birds were found very scarce by most of the local sportsmen on Saturday, the opening day of the season. One man after a tramp of fully 40 miles, brought home only one bird. He had no idea that birds could be so scarce.

The case against Mr. Joseph Ross for selling the tonic known as Best Iron and Wine, was concluded on Friday, the judge dismissing the case. It seemed a rather unfair procedure to summon a man of Mr. Ross's reputation for a breach of the 15th section of the Temperance Act, simply for selling a tonic that is on sale by nearly all the grocers—large and small—in St. John's and other towns. If this tonic is to be put on the intoxicating beverage list, then in justice to all, would it not be wise to legislate on it, and after sufficient notice had been given the dealers, to punish them if they break the law, but to make a target of one man in this way, seems to us rather unfair. We are glad to be able to report that the case has been dismissed.

If reports are correct the Placencia Exhibition to take place this fall, will beat everything in the way of big prizes, ever held in this country or any other it seems to us. It would be nice to have the prize list widely circulated so as all the people in the bay could participate in this grand prize-giving. In some cases at least the prizes are 400 per cent higher than that given for the same articles at a Parrsboro, N.S. exhibition, held there a few weeks ago. Oh, this is truly a prosperous country for some people.

A large number of passengers arrived by the s.s. Inverness at 9:30 last night. The season has been a very poor one for the great majority of our people.

The steamers Mary and Hawk arrived from Bell Island on Saturday with a large number of passengers who spent Sunday here and returned to the island in the afternoon. We hear that seven steamer loads of men left the island on Saturday for different parts of the bay, to spend the day with their friends.

Your Duty.

Nothing to do with the Custom House, good friend. Its only return-ance just now is to yourself. Let us suppose that you are a man of family with sufficient of the world's goods to keep them in comfort. Very well. You did not reach this satisfactory state of affairs without care and labour—few men do. Suppose you are awakened some night with shouts of alarm ringing in your ears. Too late then to talk of prudence; too late then to say: "If I had only, etc., etc." That "if" means too much to many forgetful people. Is it not always the duty of a self-respecting citizen to protect his home and thus provide for those within it. Is it any more then his duty to those depending on him to protect them as far as possible? Can you call your property your own when it is not insured? The answer to this argument is to carry insurance with Percia Johnson's agency, the most popular office in Newfoundland and the least expensive.

Come Home to Newfoundland.

(An Appeal to the Exile.)
By Thos. R. DeLaney.
O ye who love your country,
So beautiful, fair and grand,
Return once more from your alien shore
Where everything is glorious,
And the sky in heavenly hues,
In Summer, Spring or Autumn,
And at every step your muse.

Chorus:
Come home to Newfoundland,
We'll meet you, we'll greet you,
With rich fragrance and with longing hand;
Come home, come home,
Come home to Newfoundland.

Nature, too, invites you.
Can ye not hear her mystic voice?
And the birds around entice you
To sing with them and rejoice;
The flowers e'en bid you welcome,
With rich fragrance they abound;
And roses rare and roses fair
In every vale are found.

Thy visit her shores once more;
Bring peace to the lonely mother
And rest to hearts made sore
With waiting and with longing.
For those loved ones o'er the sea,
Dear land, we hear thee calling
Oh! will they come to thee?

Return, ye sons and daughters,
Exiled so many leagues away;
Across the lands and waters
O come ye home to-day.

Chorus:—Come home, etc.
St. John's, September 12th, 1913.

Minimise The Loss.

Practically farmers may easily minimise the loss, due to a backward and cold season, by the judicious use of Sulphate of Ammonia as a fertilizer. Sulphate of Ammonia contains over 26 per cent of nitrogen as against 15 per cent in Nitrate of Soda, and is therefore more than 25 per cent better than nitrate of soda as a means of quickening and increasing the growth of crops. The use of Sulphate of Ammonia has increased enormously of late years and it is recognized to be the most valuable fertilizer obtainable. By its judicious use the production of root crops per acre may be doubled, and the growth of late crops stimulated. We invite the attention of Farmers to our special pamphlet on the best methods of using Sulphate, copies of which will be forwarded free to any address on application. The price of Sulphate is moderate, and our terms are accommodating. ST. JOHN'S GAS LIGHT COMPANY, Board of Trade Building, St. John's, July 22.

Only One Bed.

Pa, ma, and the six children stood in a row on the pavement beaming on the landlady who had appeared at the front door, when the head of the family addressed her:

"We have come to spend a month by the sea, madam, and I should be glad if you would give me particulars of the 'furnished apartments' that I understand you have vacant."
"Certainly sir, — certainly! The rooms are all ready if you care to see them. But your party is rather a large one, and I think it only fair to tell you that there is only one bed!"

The family, with the exception of father, ceased to smile; but father was of sterner stuff.

"Only one bed? Well, well, it can't be helped!" he cried cheerfully. "One must expect to put up with such little inconveniences on a holiday. Besides, we're all quite used to roughing it, and the wife and kids won't in the least mind sleeping on the floor."

Dedication of Connaught Hall, Botwood.

On Wednesday last, the following Masonic Brethren, J. A. Clift, K.C., C. R. Duder, C. S. Pinston, Rev. Canon Bolt, W. N. Gray, R. G. Ash, W. J. Nunns, A. Rodger, W. J. Edgar, R. W. Lyon, R. W. Spry, G. Langmead, Dr. R. A. Brehm, G. Rabbits, W. C. Pearce, John Windsor, J. W. Taylor, J. B. Mitchell, A. H. Salter, S. J. Tucker, R. W. Jeans and D. Bottom left by the express for Botwood to be present at the Dedication of the Connaught Hall, and Installation of the Worshipful Master of Botwood Lodge, No. 3542.

At noon on Thursday, the beautiful Hall, erected by the Brethren of Botwood, was dedicated by the District Grand Master, Bro. J. A. Clift, K.C., who was assisted by Bros. C. S. Pinston, W. N. Gray, Rev. Canon Bolt, W. J. Edgar and W. Barker. Bro. J. Nunns acted as organist. Representatives were present from St. John's, Avalon, Tasker, Twillingate, and a large contingent from Northcliffe Lodge at Grand Falls. Over one hundred Brethren were present at the Dedication which was most impressively conducted, and during the course of the ceremony an oration was delivered by the District Grand Chaplain, Rev. Canon Bolt.

The Hall is built on a splendid site, is a most imposing structure, a credit to the Freemasons of Botwood and an ornament to the town.

By gracious permission of the M. W. Grand Master, His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, the building will henceforth be known as "Connaught Hall." A cable was received from the Grand Secretary, Sir Edward Letchworth, conveying the hearty congratulations of the Grand Lodge on the occasion of the dedication.

At 5 o'clock the Worshipful Master and his officers were installed by the District Grand Master. The officers are: J. W. Aitken, W.M.; Thomas Arkle, S.W.; W. H. Baird, J.W.; W. Evans, Chaplain; P. D. Park, Treas.: W. Hopkins, Secy.: F. Churchill, S.D.; E. Peyton, J.D.; C. W. Storm, D. of C.; P. Grouchy, I.G.; J. Wentzell and T. Antle, Stewards, and E. L. Oke, Tyler.

Following the installation, the retiring W.M., Bro. N. Gray, who has done so much during the first two years of the existence of the Lodge was presented by the Brethren of his Lodge with a handsome Past Master's Jewel, and as a further recognition of his valued services to the craft, the District Grand Master conferred upon him the distinction of a Past District Grand Deacon.

Letters regretting their inability to be present were received from Bros. James Stott, John Cowan, and Lord Northcliffe.

A sumptuous Banquet had been prepared by the good ladies of Botwood, to which the visitors and their hosts sat down at 8.30 and at which the following toasts were honoured: "The King and the Craft," "The M. W. the Grand Master, H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, K.G.," "The D. G.M., Bro. J. A. Clift, K.C.," "The D. G.M., S.C., Bro. C. R. Duder," "Botwood Lodge," "Sister Lodges," "The Visitors," "The Town of Botwood," "The Tyler's Toast."

On Friday, the visitors were taken for a motor boat trip which was heartily enjoyed by all, and on Friday evening a concert and dance was held in the hall, at which upwards of one hundred and fifty ladies and Brethren were present.

Saturday, Bro. P. D. and Mrs. Park celebrated their silver wedding, and at 11.20 a deputation headed by the District Grand Master, called at their beautiful home and tendered on behalf of the Botwood Brethren and visitors an address of congratulation to which Bro. Park replied, after which refreshments were served.

At 2 o'clock the following Brethren, J. A. Clift, W. J. Edgar, R. G. Ash, R. Rodger, C. W. Storm, A. H. Salter, W. Barker, Capt. R. C. Brown, P. D. Park, J. Nunns, Dr. R. A. Brehm, Walter Hopkins, W. J. Herder, J. W. Aitken, were entertained at luncheon on board the s.s. Tritonia. Capt. G. B. Murray, of the Tritonia, a member of Gale Lodge, No. 609, S.C., occupied the chair and Capt. R. C. Brown, of the Orithia, a member of Navigator Lodge, No. 56, S.C., acted as Vice-Chairman. The following toast list was honored: "The King," "J. A.

Clift," "C. R. Duder," "Botwood Lodge," "Newfoundland Lodges," "The Chairman." The luncheon was splendidly served and thoroughly enjoyed by all present, and Capt. Murray's courtesy will long be remembered.

Others of the visitors on Saturday visited Bishop's Falls and Grand Falls, where they were shown over the huge works, and at the latter place was entertained by Mr. Beaton at the "Log Cabin." Bro. C. S. Pinston, on behalf of the visitors tendered to Mr. Beaton the thanks of the Brethren.

Return was made to the city by Sunday's express, and thus ended a Masonic outing, the memory of which will be ever green in the hearts of all who were privileged to be present.

The record of the Botwood Lodge is unique, starting in 1911 with only seven members, the membership has now increased to forty, and they are the possessors of a beautiful hall, costing upwards of four thousand dollars. Their kindly courtesy and hospitality is proverbial and on this last occasion they have excelled themselves.

St. Clare's Home.

On Monday next, 29th inst., the festival of St. Michael, the new institute.

The "Home for Girls, Etc." will be solemnly opened by His Grace the Archbishop. His Grace has purchased and fitted out at considerable expense that beautiful house lately occupied by E. M. Jackman, Esq., situated at "Waldron Place," LeMarchant Road, head of P. Casey's Street, and hitherto known as "The White House." In future it will be known as "St. Clare's Home." A community of the Sisters of Mercy has already been installed to take charge of the establishment.

The Archbishop will celebrate Mass in the Oratory of the Institute at 9 a.m. on Monday, 29th inst., when he will state fully the objects of the new convent. It will be principally intended as a boarding house for young girls in stores, etc., where they will have all the essentials of a refined and a religious home. There will also be accommodation for a few elderly ladies where they will have all the comforts of "home" with the addition of a Chapel, where the Blessed Sacrament will be preserved, and where they can quietly fulfill all their religious duties. It is hoped that in time the Institute may develop and include other branches such as a hospital, a laundry, a ward for poor and suffering women, etc., etc. At present it will be commenced only on a small scale.

There will be room for any friends of the good work to attend at the Mass on Monday next and they will be gladly welcomed, and thus to show their interest in the work which it is confidently hoped will meet a long-felt want in the Catholic community.—Com.

At the Nickel Theatre.

The Nickel Theatre was very largely attended yesterday afternoon and last evening. The programme was an exceptionally good one and everybody was charmed with it. The Nickel Theatre of late has been showing excellent pictures, better than ever before and Manager Kieley is nightly complimented on the excellence of the show. The comic singer, Mr. Cameron, is a host in himself and has made hosts of friends, while Mr. Fleming, in his popular style, has made a wonderful impression. No one should miss to-night's show.

SENSATIONAL REPORT.—It was reported around town last evening that a seaman was stabbed. Enquiries made by the police elicited the fact that a big row which occurred in Goodridge's Cove, and in which two seamen were engaged, gave rise to the unfounded report.

Pointers.

The Graballs will have to take their bundles and go in November. "They can't fool all the people all the time."

The Picnic leader is very dismal looking these days. He is evidently brooding over his defeat in the West End.

That Bond can't lose is now a certainty in view of what one of Morris's right hand men said openly. A few days ago while canvassing Torbay a Tory supporter admitted to a prominent resident of the district that he knew the Liberals cannot be beaten.

The Tory candidates won't know their way home by the time Kent and his colleagues are finished with them.

Schooner Total Wreck.

By the Invermore we learn that on Wednesday morning last while returning home from the Labrador the schr. Marconi Capt. E. Keane, of Wesleyville, B.B., ran upon a rock near Iron Bound Island and became a total wreck. The captain's wife and a servant girl were on board and all three had a narrow escape with their lives as the vessel filled with water quickly and sank. Mrs. Keane became ill after her experience and on being taken aboard the Invermore was carefully attended to by Dr. Strong, of New York, who was a passenger. The ill-fated schooner is a big loss to Capt. Keane, the owner. Besides 1,000 quintals of fish she had a motor boat on deck. Neither the vessel nor cargo were insured.

A Brave Act.

What came near being a drowning accident occurred at Steer's wharf on Sunday last, and which ended in a shock which it will take the lad several days to get over. A young lad of the higher levels while trying to board a schooner from his boat, slipped and fell between the schooner and the boat. His cries were heard by Mr. William Keats (Bill), a popular young lad of the C. L. B., who fished the lad out of the water and rushed him home. This is not the first time that "Bill" has proved himself worth recognition.

Dear "Sirs,"—While in the country last summer I was badly bitten by mosquitoes, so badly that I thought I would be disgraced for a couple of weeks. I was advised to try your Liniment to allay the irritation, and did so. The effect was more than I expected, a few applications completely cured the irritation, and preventing the bites from becoming sore. MINARD'S LINIMENT is also a good article to keep off the mosquitoes.

Yours truly,

A Suggestion for Digestion

Many persons suffer more or less from headache, dizziness, biliousness, and symptoms common to indigestion. There are various causes, such as over-starchy or greasy foods, improper mastication, or bad cooking.

Grape-Nuts

Solves the digestion problem.

This food, made from prime whole wheat and barley, is perfectly baked until the starch cells are either converted into easily digested grape-sugar, or thoroughly broken down for quick digestion—generally in about one hour.

There is no animal fat in Grape-Nuts.

The crisp granules of Grape-Nuts come to your table ready-to-eat direct from package, invite thorough mastication and have a peculiarly sweet, nut-like flavor.

Grape-Nuts, containing all the rich elements of wheat and barley, including the vital mineral salts, is a perfectly balanced food for building muscle, bone, brain and nerve.

Grape-Nuts is probably the longest baked, the best balanced, and the most easily digested of all cereal foods. Wonderfully appetizing with cream and sugar.

A Chorus of Optimism

The keynote of the market reviews in the leading financial reviews now is that of cheerful optimism.

The remarkable upward trend of prices in the world's exchanges indicate that the present low prices of all investment securities (depressed sympathetically with the recent monetary stringency) now offer unusual opportunities for discerning investors.

We shall be glad to submit specimen investments illustrating this attractiveness for your consideration, if you will specify which class will interest you—municipal—public service—or corporation securities.

Any of these may be purchased outright, or on our convenient Partial Payment Plan, particulars of which we will gladly send you on request. Command us for prompt and efficient investment counsel.

Big Salaries.

What is the Limit to a Man's Worth? What is the limit to anyone's worth in salary? Is it £2,000, £10,000, or £50,000?

Those questions arise from the announcement that Mr. Howard Elliott's remarkable career "from clerk to railway president" has now reached its zenith by his appointment, at a salary of £20,000 a year, to succeed Mr. Charles Wellen as president of the late Mr. Pierpont Morgan's favorite enterprise, the New York, New Haven, and Hartford Railway.

Thirty thousand a year as salary? Just think of it! Is a man really worth such a sum annually? Can he possibly earn it on his abilities?

Apparently, Mr. Pierpont Morgan considered Mr. Elliott to be well worth the £20,000 a year which is now to be paid him. Shortly before the death of Mr. Morgan Mr. Elliott was offered a salary of £20,000 a year to transfer his services to a rival system; but on the advice of the great banker, who was reserving him for greater tasks, he refused the offer.

City Men's Views.

Here are interesting opinions on the question given by two City magnates, each a member of the governing circle of a huge financial concern with very extensive industrial connections.

"American methods, and our own differ greatly," said the first magnate, "but speaking generally, I don't think £10,000 or £20,000, or even Mr. Elliott's £20,000, is the limit which might justly be put upon the services of an organizer and controller who has to direct the operations and secure the profits in a business where probably millions of capital are involved. Naturally, however, each case must be judged on its merits, because the ability and foresight demanded vary very much in different circumstances."

Quite a different view was taken by the other City man who gave his opinion. "In present conditions," he said, "I think £5,000 or £6,000 is a reasonable limit to a man's earnings in the shape of salary. When his skill and efforts become worth more than that they should be remunerated—and in practice they very often are—by a percentage in some way or another on the profits of the business."

Large Salaries Increasing.

Huge as is to be the salary of Mr. Howard Elliott, however, that which was earned by Mr. Charles M. Schwab was more than five times greater. Mr. Schwab, as manager of the great Carnegie Steel Trust, received no less a sum than £150,000 a year!

It has been stated by Mr. Brisbane, the eminent American journalist, that the value of a man half as able as the late Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, the proprietor of the "New York World," would be £20,000 a year to one newspaper and £50,000 a year to two newspapers.

But here in England we are much behind America in the matter of enormous salaries—this despite the fact that great business enterprises are increasing every day. But large salaries are certainly increasing. According to the last investigations for income-tax purposes the number of employees with salaries over £5-

As distinct from being employees, however, there are twenty persons in this country who each draw incomes of over £50,000 a year from their respective businesses.

The salaries of some of the organizers of some of our great shipping interests range between £5,000 and £10,000 a year.

Nine Cabinet Ministers receive £5,000 a year, but some Ministers receive more. The salary of the Lord Chancellor—Viscount Haldane—is £10,000, the Attorney-General has £7,000 a year and the Solicitor-General £6,000, but both receive fees which augment these amounts very considerably.

The highest salary paid to anyone occupying an official position under the Government is received by the Earl of Aberdeen, the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, who gets £20,000 a year.—Tit-Bits.

Silent Lawyer. Sir W. Grant, Master of the Rolls was a very silent man in society, and yet one of the most patient of judges. The story is well known of his hearing an elaborate and lengthened argument for two days, on the meaning of an Act of Parliament, and when the counsel finished simply saying, "Gentlemen, the Act on which the pleading has been founded is repealed."

On one of his visits to Banff he rode out a few miles into the country, accompanied by some friends. The only observation that escaped from him was in passing a field of peas. "Very fine peas."

Next day he rode out with the same friends and was equally silent, but on passing the same spot he muttered, "And very finely podded, too."

A Disgraceful Scene.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Sir.—At about 5.30 yesterday afternoon a scene was enacted in that enclosure known as Buckmaster's field which must bring the blush of shame to the face of every man who has the moral welfare of this city at heart. Six or seven young men had gathered there, and part of their outfit was a bottle of liquor, which each helped to dispose of in turn, until the whole seven were in fighting trim. Then the most brutal and demoralizing scene ever witnessed in this field took place (and there have been very many degrading scenes in that same field). Crazed with the liquor they had partaken of, the men started fighting and in a few moments the whole seven were pounding and pummeling each other—neither being particular whom he struck—until blood began to flow freely, while the language used was of the vilest description. Many persons of tender years in the field were attracted to the scene, and the effect on their young minds could not be otherwise than degrading. For nearly an hour the melee lasted until men passing interfered and managed to separate the participants, but not before one or two of the fighters received injuries which they will remember for a time. The police arrived when the fight was over, but whether they made any arrests or not the writer cannot say.

Surely, Mr. Editor, such scenes as these ought to bring home to the Inspector General the need of having one or two policemen stationed near this locality. The streets in the lower part of the city are well patrolled, and rightly so; but one or two men detailed to watch the proceedings in the above-named field would have a much desired effect in maintaining order and decency, and the people who live in the neighbourhood saved a good deal of annoyance and anxiety. With thanks for space.

Yours truly,

Sept. 23, 1913. CITIZEN.

September

September, calm September, with smiling skies of blue; I really don't remember a smoother month than you. You help us in forgetting the summer's care and fretting, the sweetering and sweating—you made us good as new! There is a relaxation from every yoke we wear; there is a compensation for every grief we bear; and you're the princely payment for heat that soaked our raiment, for times when every day meant a new excuse to swear.

September, sweet September, you usher Autumn in, the blizzards of December full soon will rave like sin; but we have been so roasted, so baked and broiled and toasted, that we can face the blasted old tempest with a grin. If any man should ever complain of cold, by heck, the people ought to sever his headpiece from his neck; ah, since last summer's straining, let's hear no more complaining.

When Boreas is reigning, when Winter is on deck, September, mild September, you hint of many joys; the fireside and the ember, the laughing girls and boys; and mother with her knitting, and dad serenely sitting, with skillful fingers fitting the beads on baby's toys.

East End Tories' Meeting a Complete Failure --- Cheers for Kent, Shea and Dwyer.

For some weeks past the touters, camp-followers, hangers-on, satellites and beilers of the Tory Party have been busy endeavoring to rope in a bunch to attend a meeting last night of the three pawns who will represent them in the East End—Howley, Higgins and Bartlett. Precisely at 8 o'clock these three beauties entered the British Hall, and lo and behold instead of the anticipated crowds of voters they were greeted with faces occupying four rows of chairs—about 80 persons in all. Most of these were headless voters armed with the usual cigarettes and chewing gum, "who knew all about it." Some desultory conversation then took place on matter of fact topics anything and everything but politics. Billy Higgins was putting forth specious arguments how the Scotias lost the football cup on Bell Island and how much it cost him to go to Bell Island to referee the games every Saturday, and how inconvenient it was for him to go but he couldn't very well get out of it. The Pullet had another hunch in a dark corner telling how he had the voters of Pouch Cove, the Sullivans, Ryans and Granchys, in his vest pocket, while Harry Bartlett didn't see how Mr. Harter, the President of the Truckmen's Union, could blame him for the part he played in having a barge built to carry freight from the merchants' premises to the steamers. After the first show of the Nickel a crowd of about 70 more struck in out of curiosity just to see what was doing. Eventually Arthur Hiscock appeared nicely spruced up, and as he was the only one in sight, was speedily moved to the chair. Mr. Hiscock was ever remarkable for his reticence in coming before the spot-light and did not have to be asked a second time. He began by regretting that there were not more stalwart voters in the Hall, men from down the shore; go up, hemmed and hawed, pulled his necktie, hauled down his vest, and mopped his brow with his handkerchief. He started to explain why he rattled from the Liberal Party but got swelled and eventually got stuck. Then he said he wasn't altogether to blame for building the barge which was affecting so much the Truckmen's Union, and further said, yes, actually gave his audience to understand that this was his first speech but he would, no doubt, do better later on. The Chairman then announced that he would like everybody to sign the roll as being active members of committees which they hoped to form. At this juncture over half the very small audience left calling out "Bond Can't Lose" and cheering for Kent, Shea and Dwyer. Sixty-four had the courage, however, to sign their names, among whom were the following "stalwarts": Messrs. Jack King, Billy Boyles, Mickey Chafe, Luke Walsh, Philly Hanley, of firecracker fame, Ned Earles, Jack Cahill, Tom White, Bob Cole, A. Harris O'Keefe, W. H. Tehin, Abbie S a l t e r, Mr. Duffy, Jimmie Hudson and John T. Meaney (de man dat knows everything). Councillor Mullaly made a short speech, but was so disgusted at the large and representative (?) audience present that after finishing, he immediately grabbed his hat and slipped out without waiting for the meeting to close. To illustrate what the meeting was like, Messrs. E. J. Howwood the grocer, and P. J. Walsh, manager of Kesner's Boot and Shoe store, peeped in through the door, but also were disgusted and did not enter but crept down stairs again for fear of being called in. Truly, "a straw shows how the wind blows," and no one need have the slightest worry but that the true and loyal East End will once more return with flying colors Kent, Shea and Dwyer, for

Andrew Jackson

One hundred and forty-six years ago to-day Andrew Jackson, a human fire-brand with insurgent leanings, was born on the border line between North and South Carolina, which has caused both states to claim him for advertising purposes. Andrew did not amount to much until he got married to a grass widow with great charm of manner and a large reservoir of will power, as his earlier days were spent in trying to locate the winner of the county trot. One of his principal pastimes was to challenge somebody to a duel and then pick bird shot out of his shoulderblades. He is commonly supposed to have been the person who put the pug in pugnaeous.

Up to the time that he became President, Jackson's time was principally employed in fighting the Indians and the English, in both of which pursuits he was highly successful. It was nothing uncommon for him to take a handful of men and go out and kill a whole herd of unwashed red brethren, getting back home in time to milk the cow. When the war of 1812 broke out, Andrew broke out with it and roamed all over the south looking for trouble. He found it at New Orleans, where he stood off a British army of 14,000 men with an animated cluster of pigeon-toed militia and a well-spring of hope.

Andrew's chief competitor for the presidency was Henry Clay, who was a poor politician and got nosed out several times in succession. As President Jackson made a great hit with a large number of emancipated office seekers by removing 2,000 republican postmasters and filling their places with party workers who would stand without hitching. He also landed on the United States bank and caused it to expire with a loud plunk.

General Jackson was called "Old Hickory," on account of his great powers of endurance and because of appearing at the inaugural ball in a hickory shirt. He had the disagreeable habit of taking the people into his confidence, which was very irritating to the old school politicians and caused them to comment on his table manners. He died June 8, 1845, having given the insurgent movement a start from which it has never recovered.

The Human Steamboat.

Two negro roustabouts at New Orleans were continually bragging about their ability as long-distance swimmers, and a steamboat man got up a match. The man who swam the longest distance, was to receive five dollars.

The Alabama Whale immediately stripped on the dock, but the Human Steamboat said he had some business and would return in a few minutes. The whale swam the river four or five times for exercise, and by that time the Human Steamboat returned. He wore a pair of swimming trunks and had a sheet-iron cook-stove strapped on his back. Tied round his neck were a dozen packages, containing bread, flour, bacon, and other eatables. The Whale gazed at his opponent in amazement.

"What yo' vittles?" demanded the Human Steamboat.

"Vittles fo' what?" asked the Whale.

"Don't yo' ask me fo' nothin' on the way ovah," warned the Steamboat. "Meh fust stop is New York an' mah next stop is London."

Complaint From "Box Holder."

Editor The Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I will crave space in your valuable paper to ask why is it that Post Office Box Holders are unable to obtain their mails within a reasonable time of their arrival in the city. To-day, for instance, the Carthaginian got in about daylight, and we are kept without our mail until after midnight to-night! It is scandalous! One is anxiously waiting for letters from home, and there they are locked up in the Post Office. We have to wait long enough as it is for letters from England, and then the Post Office people take it upon themselves to keep our mail back nearly 24 hours longer than they need. One does not want anyone to work more than absolutely necessary, particularly on Sundays, but surely Box Holders should be accommodated!

One is politely told they can get their letters after midnight, but who is going to get up at 1 o'clock in the morning to go to the Post Office for mail?
