CHAPTER XXVIII

"Really, that is strange!" said Mrs. Godwin, with a smile. "Speak of you remember the old proverb. There are the Lynnes' over there, near the large arch, where that fine shrub grows. Is she not lovely? Why, see, Mrs. Cadwell, they are crossing this way—and he looks quite smiling and excited. Do you know them?"

"No," cried the three ladies, with something like a pang at the denial. "They are coming to us!" cried Mrs. Godwin, in great excitement. "What can it mean?"

Words are feeble to depict the surprise, the mingled exultation and mortification of the assembled party, when they saw Lord Lynne with a beaming face and excited manner, hasten to the companion and clasp her hand in his own, saying, as he did so, "Lady Florence, I cannot express my delight at seeing you. Lady Lynne and myself have searched Rome to find you."

"Lady Florence!" cried the Misses Cadwell and Mrs. Godwin in one breath and in one key, while Mrs. Cadwell sat too dumfounded to speak.

Then a handsome lady, with an air of dignity, stepped forward, and clasping the young girl in her arms, kissed her warmly, uttering, in a sweet, musical voice, the kindest of greetings.

After that a younger lady, with a sweet, fair face and golden hair, whom Lord Lynne introduced as his sister, Miss Lynne, welcomed her just as kindly, while the lookers-on were petrified with amazement. The Lynnes—the best and most exclusive people in Rome—were positively in raptures at meeting with their companion—calling her Lady Florence, too! What could it mean? Like a flash of lightning the recollection of the magnificent dress ran through Maria's mind. What if, after all, she were mistaken, and the despised companion proved to be a "lady" instead of an adventuress! They heard every word of the dialogue.

"Where are you staying?" asked Lord Lynne.

"I am traveling companion to three ladies," answered Florence, with a smile. "We are staying in the Via Gregoriana.

"You must go home with us," cried Lady Lynne. "If you only knew how we have searched for you! We will not lose sight of you again."

"Why did you not write to me?" said Lord Lynne, reproachfully. "Was I not your father's friend? I can hardly forgive you."

"Come with us for the day, at least," said Lady Lynne, watching the sweet face as it alternately paled and flushed. "We can arrange for the future. I am not willing to part with you."

"You are very kind, Lady Lynne," replied Florence; "but I am engaged, my time is no longer my own. I will ask for the day, but I am not quite sure if I can be spared."

"Do not speak so, Lady Florence; you horrify me," cried Lord Lynne. "Introduce me to your friends, and I will arrange that."

He noted the half-reluctant expression that came over her face, and smiled as he did so.

"Am I to take the law into my own hands, and introduce myself?" he asked, with a smile.

"No," she cried, hastily. "But, Lord Lynne, I call myself Miss Wyverne to these people. It seemed so absurd for a Lady Florence to go out as a companion."

"It is absurd, indeed," he replied, dryly. "We must alter that. I will make it straight for you at once. Introduce me, if you please."

Then Lady Florence brought Lord and Lady Lynne up to the flutter and agitated group, and introduced them to each individual composing it. Mrs. Godwin went through the ceremony like a lady; the Cadwells were nervous. They had attained the end and aim of their existence at last; they were introduced to a real lord and his lady.

Lady Lynne was most gracious, and her smiles bewildered them. Lord Lynne spoke very pleasantly for a few minutes about Rome, and then turned to Mrs. Cadwell with a polite bow.

"Mrs. Cadwell," said he, "this young lady, I find, has been masquerading. You must allow me to introduce her as Lady Florence Wyverne, the daughter of my late dear friend, the Earl of Wyverne. Lady Lynne and myself," he continued, "have been seeking all over Rome for her. We heard she was here, and now that we have found her, I am sure you will allow us to monopolize her for the day."

"Certainly, my lord," replied the poor lady, whose ideas were all disarranged. "I hope Lady Florence will make no stranger of me, but do just as she likes."

"You are very kind," said Lady Lynne, replying for her husband. "If Lady Florence goes with us now, she will return this evening, and to-morrow—if you will allow us—we will call upon you and arrange for the future."

It was with feelings of envy and wonder that they saw the Lynnes disappear, taking with them the very companion whose respectability they had that morning doubted.

"An earl's daughter!" said Maria, as she watched them disappear. "Well, I always thought there was something very distinguished about her."

"I know she was an aristocrat the first moment I saw her," said Mrs. Godwin; "any one accustomed to good society would know that at once."

"I am sorry to lose her," sighed Mrs. Cadwell; "she is the most amiable girl I ever knew."

"It is a grand thing for you," said Mrs. Godwin; "you will be quite sought after when it becomes known that the Lynnes' friend, Lady Florence Wyverne, has visited you."

"Has been our companion, you mean," interrupted Maria.

"If you are wise, you will not allude to that," replied the woman of the world, "for people will know at once she was inco. If you have treated her kindly, she will repay you, and you will so gain a footing in the very best society. A more fortunate thing could not have happened."

Something like a pang of remorse went through the hearts of the Misses Cadwell as they remembered how they had treated their companion. What must she think of them after all they had said of her "clabs" and her "position"? Each red face became still more red as the remembrance of many such words flashed across them.

A PRETTY SUMMER FROCK.

4410 White voile embroidered in green and finished with bindings of green organdy, is here portrayed. This model is nice for the new summer silk; also for crepe, tissue gingham and linen.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 36 inch size requires 4 1/2 yards of 40 inch material. The width at the foot is 3 1/4 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A SMART SUIT STYLE.

4393-4418. This style owes its originality to the smart Eton packet and the equally attractive wrap skirt. The vest may be omitted. Sports crepe was used in this instance. Linen, pongee, ratine or tulle would also be attractive.

The Jacket Pattern 4393, is cut in 4 Sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. The Skirt 4418 in 7 Sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years for Misses, and 31, 33, 35 and 37 inches waist measure for Ladies. To make this suit for an 18 year size will require 4 1/2 yards of 40 inch material. To make vest and sleeve facings of contrasting material requires 1/2 yard. The width of the skirt at the foot is about 2 yards.

Two separate patterns mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps.

It is reported that ribbon will figure largely in the millinery world. The plaited apron front is seen on a great many new crepe dresses.

English voile dresses have plaited tucks and heavily embroidered borders.

Sports scarfs of loosely handwoven wool in pastel shades are delightful. A summer frock of black canton crepe is embroidered all over in flat silk braid.

Gloche shapes are prominent in millinery. The felt cloche is especially popular.

Artificial flowers make delightful graces, head-bands and side trimmings.

WOMEN IN NOVELS.

The women of the old romances, the blushing maids of modest glances, their little-lovelorn ditties crooning, on every other page were swooning. So sensitive were they, so tender, these critters of the female gender, a lover's eager way of spooning would break them up and set them swooning. Oh, often I have grown sarcastic, and sprung comments harsh and drastic when reading tales of frail Amandas who swooned all over the verandahs. The dame of the modern stories, though having all the charms and glories, have cut out swooning as a habit—the modern female is no rabbit. As she goes breeching through each chapter the smoke of stogies has enwrapped her; the borrowa matches from the hero, and strikes them on a plaster Nero, and keeps her cigarettes a-going, from cherry lips the smoke wreaths blowing. Beside the snapper she lingers, with nicotine she stains her fingers; by coffin-nails her breath is tainted—me, the good old girls who fainted, I'd rather see a maiden swooning while I my wooden lyre am tuning than gaze upon a virgin smoking fox-trot crew around her joint.

Some things seem wrong and out of season, though it be hard to give reasons; some things seem wrong and fierce and lery—a smoking woman makes me weary.

Flat ornaments of artificial flowers are edged with lace and carry lot streamers of ribbon. Attractive white lingerie or silk frocks.

Mother and Her Baby Are Relieved of Eczema

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Salt Burn, Sask., writes: "Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's, other medicines, the Nerve Food having frustrated my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

RAILWAY ACCIDENT IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 25. At least ten persons were killed and two score injured this afternoon as a Brooklyn-Manhattan rapid transit two car train plunged from a elevated structure at Fifth and Sixth Avenues and was smashed into a mass of trees. Five more at least, reported, will succumb to injuries sustained.

GROUND FOR PROTEST.

LONDON, June 25. Stanley Baldwin stated in the House of Commons to-day that there is ground for protest if the British Government seals were broken in United States territorial waters by officials of the United States service. The statement was made in response to a question whether Great Britain recognized that the United States possesses such rights.

TWELVE DROWNED.

DETROIT, June 25. Twelve bathers lost their lives in rivers and lakes of Michigan on Monday when the extreme heat drove thousands to seek coolness in the waters. Three were drowned at Grand Rapids and two at Detroit. The others were scattered throughout the State.

MAIL STEAMER ASHORE.

HAMILTON, June 25. The Royal Mail Steamship Caracquet, from Halifax to the West Indies, went on a reef twelve miles north of Bermuda at daylight to-day. It is believed to be breaking up as heavy seas are running. Ocean tugs are going out for the passengers and loss of life is expected.

TWENTY-FIVE FIRST CLASS PASSENGERS.

CAPTAIN REFUSES TO CONFIRM STORY.

HALIFAX, June 25. Captain Wilson of the British steamer Strandhill, which came into harbor Saturday and which was boarded by a guard of four Halifax policemen yesterday morning at the request of its commander who declared his life was in danger from a mutinous crew, came ashore this afternoon and entered through the custom reporting her "from sea in ballast." He refused to discuss the story he told the police of the Strandhill being a booze runner which had been forced to lay off American ports for three months before disposing of her cargo and of the incident mutiny off Halifax, when the seamen demanded pay for three months and full rations, which had been shortened. He said he did not know whether the police were still aboard or not but said the supercargo was expected to arrive any moment from New York and meantime everything was all right aboard. It was learned the police remain aboard.

Rev. Dr. Green

PRESENTED WITH ADDRESS AND HANDSOME CLOCK.

At the regular monthly meeting of N. F. Star of the Sea Association last evening, the Society presented an address and a very handsome clock to Rev. Dr. Green, the Rev. Spiritual Director of the Society on the occasion of his departure to his new field of labours in Whites Bay. The Rev. Dr. in reply spoke to the members and thanked them for their kind appreciation of his labours among them. He promised that he would at all times give of his best efforts to the grand old Association and he asked the members to continue on their duties in every way and by so doing they would help to the prosperity of their Association. After the Rev. Dr., the President Mr. J. T. Martin made a very touching address and he was followed by the Secretary Mr. Wm. P. Graham and Messrs. W. F. Linegar and Thos. Hickey all of whom spoke in glowing terms of the great work of the Doctor among us. Cheers were then given for the Rev. Dr. Green. Appended is the address:—

REV. DR. GREENE:

The members of the Nfd. Star of the Sea Association take this opportunity of presenting to you through this medium, our high appreciation of your work among us as Spiritual Director for the past nine years. In looking through all these years we see every milestone marked with something which winds our interests closer and closer. The relationship of a Spiritual Director with a Society such as ours is one that cannot be expressed by any form of words. It is in the heart that it is written and in the heart of our society is recorded the splendid service which you have given us. We see how ungrudgingly you always responded to every call made on you. You never failed us and from the highest to the lowest in our ranks we appreciate your every action.

We do not forget your chats to us on the current problems. You pointed out to us the shoals in the labor and social movements. You sounded to us the dangers of the age and you showed us the consequences that attended the following of the unwise movements and we members of this historic society heeded, and you will be pleased to hear that your words to us did not fall on barren ground.

Whilst we are aware that our Society has met with a most serious loss, through your departure from us, we are gratified in the knowledge that Whites Bay is the gainer in the change and we hope and pray to our Holy Mother, the Blessed Virgin Mary Patroness of our old society, that she will guide and direct you in your future labors and that you will be long spared to administer to the spiritual wants of your new charge.

We finalize this short and imperfect address by saying, Rev. Dr. Green, that we are most grateful to you for your work for us and we say that though time and territory separate us we will always feel that your interest in our organization is the same as of old.

The souvenir which we present to you accompanying this address will we hope, in the days to come, serve as a reminder of the pleasant associations which always marked the days we spent together.

Wishing you a future filled with bountiful success is the prayer of our old Association and assuring you that if the future demands any support to you we shall be ready to hear the call.

Will He?

Will Henry Ford be the next U. S. President? No very rich man has ever yet been President. Ford's great wealth is his most serious obstacle, but he is extremely popular, and every one of his 32,000 agents in the States will work for him politically. It is reported that Wall Street is inclined to favor his claims for the reason doubtless that the magnates think that if one rich man can enter the White House others may have a chance after him.—Ex.

Regatta Committee Meets.

POSITION OF BOAT CLUBS DISCUSSED.

Quite a lot of business in connection with the Annual Regatta was disposed of at a special meeting of the Committee held last night in the T.A. Armoury. After the adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting, the Hon. Secretary, C. J. Ellis, read communications from the Reid Co., C.L.B., and C.C.C. Boat Clubs. The Reid Co. intimated that their boats and equipment were at the disposal of the Committee as usual.

The C.L.B. Boat Club regretted their inability to participate in the Regatta owing to the Blue Peter being removed from the pond and the poor response by the general public to their appeal for funds to get a new racer. Mr. Chate, representing the C.L.B. Boat Club, informed the Committee that only $175 dollars were collected, but had even half the amount necessary been in sight they would have had a boat built.

The C.C.C. Boat Club in their communication stated a willingness to participate provided the Boat Clubs were given the exclusive right to operate wheels of fortune on the course. Over this matter quite a lot of discussion arose, particularly when communication was read asking that space be allocated on the course for a wheel of fortune in aid of Belvedere Orphanage. The Vice-President pointed out that although it would be an ideal condition were the Committee in a position to help all charitable institutions, yet, under the circumstances, this was impossible, and the Boat Clubs had to have first consideration. President Hiscock, intimating that Judge Morris would consider no applications for a wheel of fortune on the course unless the recommendation was made by the Committee. It was then moved by Mr. P. Moore and seconded by Mr. Williams that the Committee recommend to the Magistrate that the right of holding a wheel of fortune on the course be granted to the Boat Clubs. The motion was carried unanimously. On a suggestion from Mr. Brophy, Mr. W. J. Hegins proposed that the Boat Clubs should meet during the week and confer as to the possibility of one of the boats, such as the Mary, being recon-ditioned and placed at the disposal of the C.L.B. Club.

Secretary Harris of the Football League wrote that in the event of a Football Race being included in the programme that they would accept no responsibility and suggested that it be stricken off the list. The request will be acceded to.

In the matter of having a race on the programme for the Junior League Mr. J. Tobin stated that the C.C.C. Boat Club had received three applications from teams for a boat. The matter was left in abeyance.

Mr. A. G. Williams drew attention to the bridge at the head of the Lake and suggested that the Board of Works be asked to place a permanent structure there.

Mr. Chas Ryan again takes up the duties of appointing tent space on the course.

Messrs. J. P. Crotty, J. M. Tobin and A. G. Williams were appointed on the Medal Committee.

Before the meeting closed a resolution of condolence to Mr. N. J. Vinicombe, an active member of the Committee, on the death of his sister, which sad event occurred at Chicago, was passed.

After minor routine business had been disposed of the meeting adjourned till Friday evening next at 8.30, when collectors for the different wards will be appointed.

Football Sixes.

The preliminary Football Sixes for the C.L.B.C. Sports were run off last night. The game between the B.I.S. and Star was played prior to the League football game at St. George's Field, and resulted in a win for the Irishmen by 2 goals to a corner, after a rather useless exhibition. The second game saw the Guards and C.E.I. teams try conclusions at the former's grounds, the outcome being a victory for the M.G.C.A. by one goal to nil. The balance of the preliminaries will be played to-night.

Cadets Victorious.

SCOTCHMEN LOSE OUT BY TWO GOALS TO NIL.

Before a large gathering of fans, the Cadets defeated the Saints in last evening's game of the League, series by a score of 2 goals to nil. The Saints made their first appearance for the season, and made a good impression. They were somewhat slow on the goal, and had excellent chances of scoring which they were slow in availing of. The Cadets, although victorious, were in poor form and but for their defence division must have gone to defeat. The Cadets did their scoring in the first ten minutes of play, when on a nice pass from Flynn Young banged it in the net. A couple of minutes later, Walter Callahan, on a pass from "Billy" got a run through and was successful in dropping in the second tally. The Saints worked hard to improve their position, and Pike and Hopkins both grazed the bar, and Walsh was for a time kept busy. Flynn's well placed wing shots were features of the Cadet forward line, but Vavasour did good work, and saved many pretty shots. The Sawyer brothers played well for the Saints, but they were slack on their shooting. Maddigan and Cahnan and Brown and Kavanagh, the Cadet full backs also showed up well.

The second period was scoreless, and was mainly a game between the backs. At times dashes of combination were in evidence by both teams but not of long duration. Play was evenly divided, both teams missing good openings, and as in the first period the goalies gave a good display. Vavasour's butting the ball out was spectacular, whether it was intended or not. Hopkins, the Saints white-haired boy, did excellent work and worried his opponents considerably. During the closing minutes of the game the Cadets pressed their opponents, and for a time bombarded their goal, but without success and the final whistle saw no change in the standing, the Cadets winning by 2 to 0.

To-night the B.I.S. and C.E.I. will be seen in action, the later team making their first appearance for the season.

Girls' Guild Holds Musicales.

BELL ISLAND METHODIST LADIES' AID HAD PLEASANT SOCIAL.

The concert and social organized by the Methodist Girls' Guild, and held on Thursday evening, the 21st inst., brought a large and appreciative audience to the fine new Methodist School building recently erected at Davidson Avenue, Bell Island. MEMBER RESOLUTIONS DEBATED... LEADER OF OPPOSITION WILL OFFER SOME AMENDMENTS... MR. SULLIVAN ASKS THAT MORE MEN BE EMPLOYED ON THE PRELIMINARY WORK.

The Speaker took the chair at 3.15, when Messrs. Hunt, P. Cashin and Sir M. P. Cashin gave Notices of Question.

Mr. Higgins—To ask the Hon. the Prime Minister whether the Government in view of the present relations of cost of materials to the earning power of coasting vessels, propose to continue the bounty of Thirty Dollars per ton on locally-built vessels after the end of the present month.

To which the Premier replied that for the present the policy now in vogue will be continued.

Mr. Higgins—To ask the Hon. the Minister of Justice whether his department has received any reports since 1918 from the Justice of the Peace at North West River, Labrador, and if so to lay on the Table of the House copies of all such reports.

Hon. Mr. Warren replied that the report will be looked into and if his department has any reports they will be tabled.

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask the Minister of Finance and Customs to lay on the Table the Annual Report of the Auditor General for the fiscal year ended on June 30th, 1922, and also his Special Report under Section 23, B. of the Audit Act.

Hon. Mr. Cave, in reply said the report was the hands of the printers and when ready would be tabled.

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Prime Minister to table statement giving in detail the amount of abated relief supplied to individual persons by the Relieving Officers in the Districts of Harbor Grace, Bay de Verde, St. John's East, St. John's West, from 1921 to date, the names of the Relieving Officers, the names of the names of the parties to whom supplies were issued; and the amounts and value in each case.

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Prime Minister to lay on the Table a statement of all expenditures for relief purposes, such as stone-breaking, snow-shovelling, etc., in the Districts of St. John's East and West from the date of the closing of the last Session down to the present day.

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask Hon. the Prime Minister to lay on the Table a statement showing the amount allocated to each electoral district for relief works, road works, marine works, or for any other purpose from the 1st January, 1921, to date.

To the above three questions, the Premier said that it will take the officials of the department several days to prepare same.

Sir M. P. Cashin—To ask the Minister of Public Works (1) by whose orders a new road was opened from Grace's Lane to Freshwater Road; (2) who performed work on said road and the amount paid for same; and (3) full details to be given.

The Minister of Public Works will table the answers this afternoon.

The Speaker then announced the receipt of a communication from His Excellency the Governor, who was pleased to approve of the following resolution: Hon. J. D. Ryan, R. K. Bishop, Geo. Shea, the Speaker of the House of Assembly, Sir R. A. Squires, Hon. W. R. Warren and Sir W. F. Coaker.

The Prime Minister then moved the House into a Committee on the whole on the Humber Development Resolutions.

Mr. W. J. Higgins intimated the intention of the Opposition to approach same and view each resolution from a business standpoint and in that sense his remarks will be tendered to the House in the hope that the best possible arrangement on behalf of the country would result.

MISLED THE ELECTORATE.

The Premier's Manifesto told the country that the British Government and the Newfoundland Government were going hand in hand, or in other words were prepared to go in joint account, in an equal co-partnership.

“The British Government has no desire whatever to press this assistance on the people of Newfoundland if the people fear that this industrial development is not necessary or desirable. Nor does the British Government desire to press this offer upon the people of Newfoundland, if they do not believe in the possibilities of their own industrial resources and are not prepared to co-operate with the British Government to the extent of giving a guarantee of construction capital to the same amount as is given by the British taxpayers.”

Instead of the British Government going in on equal terms we find that the British Government takes a first mortgage on their share and the Newfoundland Government must be satisfied with a second mortgage.

The British Government made sure that their interest was protected and he did not blame them for that. His next point was to enquire as to who would be the operators of the plant.

It was evident now that the Armstrong Co. would not be actual operators; that their only obligation was to see that half a million dollars was secured for working capital. It does seem a great pity that the Government could not have got the British Government to go into the project jointly which would have been an accomplishment for which our Government would deserve credit.

He thought it was unseemly conduct on the part of the Prime Minister to ask that the Deal be considered a business proposition, after the Government had made a political football of it from January until May 3rd. The Contract was finished when the Prime Minister came back from the Old Country last December.

Why was not the House called together and the contract put through? Then it might have been treated as a business proposition, but it would not suit the ends of the Prime Minister if that were done. He disapproved of the idea that the Humber Deal was contingent upon the passing of the Railway Agreement. It was only a few days ago the people learned that the Reid's were to be paid two million dollars. All this was kept out of sight during the recent campaign.

FALSE PROPAGANDA. Mr. Higgins was very explicit in his denunciation of the Premier's methods to bluff the people and read to the House the following extract from his Manifesto:

“Just as the Bell Newfoundland Company are being removed from all control in connection with the Humber Proposition, so they are being removed from all control in fact being absolutely eliminated from the entire transportation system of the Colony, which will in future be handled by an enormously strong, wealthy and experienced group of English capitalists under an agreement which definitely ensures the Colony against all possible further responsibility for Railway deficits.”

The Premier told him at the last sitting that no person had been found to run the railway and the Government would have to operate it—a statement which fully contradicts the one contained in his manifesto. Returning to his remarks re the Humber Deal, he said the reports of the late Mr. Scott of Grand Falls and Mr. Powell of the R.N. Co. were not questioned but these men were connected with corporations and not servants of the Government and thought it only fair that before the Government committed itself to a guarantee, more authentic reports should be received. Here he made some comparisons concerning taxation. The Harnsworth mills at Grand Falls were only exempted from Municipal taxation, but this concern is exempted in perpetuity for Municipal, Income and Business Profits taxes. Why was that? The former Company did not ask for a guarantee, this Company has done so.

The former Company only got 20 year exemption from paying duty on imported material; this Company is granted that concession forever. An amendment on that would do no harm. This Company is getting concessions that other people did not dream of asking for. The tourist traffic was a very important item for the West Coast and he saw no chance which protected that industry the same as in the Harnsworth Agreement. An amendment would also be sought after under that head. He alluded to that out of the 240,000 h.p. it was only proposed to use 30,000 and he asked that the other 150,000 be conserved. It may be that some time the Railway would have to be electrified, it would be well then to have the use of that great amount of driving power. He did not see why the Humber Company should be specifically exempt from profit, income and other taxes which were enforced

The Annual Regatta.

In looking over the list of the Committee it is refreshing to see thereon the names of several sports citizens who have long been identified with the successful preparation and the running off of the races. These are Councillor Charley Ryan, Philip Hanley, Philip F. Moore, M.H.A., and Jas. P. Crotty.

Their names link up the Regattas of the closing years of the century that has passed with the year in which we are now living and so tend to remind us all the more of the races of the days gone by, the boats and crews that figured therein and the many events of striking interest connected therewith which have left an impression on our memories.

They one and all contributed by their energetic labours towards the enthusiasm necessary to be developed amongst Committee members in order that all matters should run smoothly on Regatta Day, and the good work they thus accomplished, in the past, should be an inspiration to the younger members of the Committee to-day to arouse the necessary enthusiasm to make this year's Regatta no less successful than the best we ever had before.

In other years, when the greasy pole with the ham and the pair of three-quarter boots were set up at the top as prizes, Phil Moore was always selected by the Committee as its representative in charge of this amusing feature. Being gifted with a high sense of humour, owing to his theatrical experiences in the comedy role, it required no great effort from the humorous Philip to stage this diversion in order that the public on the course should get the most enjoyment possible from it.

The greasy pole which ran up vertically into the air was the first form of this diversion, then after an interlude of several years, the pole was run out horizontally from the bank over the waters of the lake in such a manner that when the venturesome competitors moved along in their stockpots to reach the coveted prize at the end, a slip from the pole would give them a splendid and amusing dip in the lake.

Of course ashore but the quaint characters of the town lent themselves to that sort of diversion and as it was not considered an absolutely necessary adjunct for a successful Regatta it was very properly abandoned altogether. Nevertheless it tended whilst it lasted to excite the humorous emotions of many citizens, especially the small boy, whilst not a few there were who resented in the double enjoyment of witnessing the contortions of the quaint competitors and the amusing cheerful and inspiring comments of the genial Philip to stimulate them in their efforts.

Writing of the Academia race boat Lily in our last notes reminded us that this favorite gig was built by our well known fellow townsman “Professor” John Ryan, as his intimate friends distinguish him. He was then an active member of the Academia Institute, and a most zealous participator in all that concerned the races. His designing and construction of the Lily gave to the Academia a boat that was equal to the best of any of her day which was a tribute to his inventive genius as he was obliged to compete with the splendid workmanship of Phil Mahoney, who had had years of experience in turning out the racers of that period.

The Lily in her racing exploits was brought first to the winning post in many of the spirited contests but her career on the pond was a short one as her structure was slight and therefore not of such a nature as would intend to have her career a more lengthy one.

The club that tended as much as any other to keep the races alive for very many years was that connected with the Total Abstinence and Benefit Society. Some of the most prominent amongst them have passed away such as the late Jas. J. Bates, storekeeper at Bairds and James O'Neill, ever enrolled on the Committees than Messrs. Bates and O'Neill, hence their intimate friends who still survive sadly miss their presence now upon the race course.

One of the smartest boats and long the most popular one that the T. A. Boat Club placed upon the lake was the Myrtle. Her record for any other boat except, we think, the Blue Peter. The first year of her existence was an unfortunate one, however, when the accident happened just after the turning of the buoy at the foot of the lake when the four Torbay boys were upset in the water, and lost their lives through over exertion in pulling against a heavy wind and lap.

She was built by the genius in boat building of that period the well known Philip Mahoney and in that first year of her existence 1884 was called the Terra Nova. Owing to the accident her name was next year changed to the Myrtle under which name she had a most successful record until Bob Sexton came upon the scene as a builder and turned out the new style racing gig that we have to-day.

Two expert amateur oarsmen in their day were Garrett Byrne, the well known bookseller of Water St. and William Carnell of the Marine and Fisheries Office. They are the only survivors of a successful crew that rowed in the Rosetta and both to this day are just as keen an all matters connected with the races as when they were active participators therein.

It is very seldom now that more than four or five boats participated in a race, the long ago it was not uncommon to see six, or seven, or eight boats take part, particularly in a juvenile contest. In the Jubilee year of 1887, there were eight boats figured in this race so that in turning the buoys the coxwains ingeniously exercised quite a lot in trying to turn their respective boats around the buoys so as to prevent any mishap.

The Native was the winner in that race, with the Dora second and Buttercup third. The Southside boys rowed in the first named, Ned Richardson stroked the crew who were in the Dora and brought her in a good second, whilst Jim English, “Treasurer of the Longshoremen's Union” directed the crew that brought the Buttercup in third.

George Nicholle and Caleb Tibbo figured in a historic race between two four-oared outriggers, the Belle, owned by N. Stabb & Son and the Jessie, owned by Monroe. The contest was all the more interesting because there were no coxwains to steer the boats, hence it required great skill on the part of the rowers to keep their grip from sagging too much going up and down.

It looks from last night's meeting of the Regatta Committee that the members are all working in harmony and so this gives us great promise of a very good Regatta.

Obituary.

It is my sad duty to ask that you record in the Evening Telegram the death of the venerable age of 78 years, of an old, true, tried and trusty friend, a fisherman of repute, a schooner master of skill and daring, a friend to all men, Peter Trimlett, of Salmonier. He was pretty well the last link that binds memory with the past; with that grand old chain of mighty men, who in the nineteenth century made the name of St. Mary's Bay famous, who knew no obstacles when duty called, feared no man, where they knew their path lay in the cause of righteousness. The subject of this sketch was a man of extraordinary experience in relation to the fisheries, the country and the people. A hustling fisherman, a typical seaman, a firm friend. Now that "labor's day is o'er" he is gone to take that rest—the aftermath of a well spent life. He is survived by a widow, one daughter and three sons, who can enjoy the consolation of knowing that a loving husband and a good father is now in the keeping of his God. Eternal light shine upon him. —E.M.W.

Public Rehearsal.

On Thursday evening at 7.45 o'clock a collective rehearsal of the School Children from all the City Schools, assisted by the City Chorus, will be held at Bannerman Park for the purpose of rehearsing the hymn: "O! God Our Help in Ages Past." This hymn will be sung at the Memorial Day Services, Sunday, July 1st. Mr. Charles Hutton has kindly consented to act as Musical Director while the Methodist Guards Band will be the accompanists. The purpose of this rehearsal is to aim at an impressive rendering of this hymn by congregational singing at the Memorial Ceremonies.

The public are heartily invited to be present and join in the singing during the rehearsal at Bannerman Park on Thursday as well as at the Services on Sunday. It is therefore hoped that as many as possible will attend the rehearsal. Space should be left for the School Children and Guardians to form a circle around the Bandstand where the Band and Conductor will be situated. The rehearsals of the School Children which have already been held, have been exceptionally pleasing. The words of the hymn are given here and it is suggested that they be cut out for reference:

O God our Help in ages past,
Our Hope for years to come,
Our Shelter from the stormy blast,
And Our Eternal Home!

Under the shadow of Thy Throne
Thy Saints have dwelt secure;
Sufficient is Thine arm alone,
And our defence is sure.

Before the hills in order stood,
Or earth received her frame,
From everlasting Thou art God,
To endless years the same.

A thousand ages in Thy sight
Are like an evening gown;
Short as the watch that ends the night
Before the rising sun.

Time like an ever-rolling stream,
Bears all its sons away;
They fly, forgotten, as a dream
Dies at the opening day.

O God, our Help in ages past,
Our Hope for years to come;
Be Thou our Guard while troubles last,
And our Eternal Home! Amen.

Nascopie for Hudson Bay

The S. S. Nascopie (of the Hudson Bay Co.) has arrived at Bay Roberts from Cardiff, Wales, with a full load of supplies for the company's posts in the far north. The ship called to take on board a number of boats that were built there during the winter months, which will be used in connection with the Company's operations.

Col. and Mrs. Martin Bid Farewell to Nfld.

Col. and Mrs. Martin, who are leaving by express to-day to take charge of the Montreal Division of the Canadian Railway, said a final word of farewell at a united meeting of the city Salvationists and friends held in the No. 1 Citadel last evening. A large crowd was present and a feeling of sincere regret at the departure of the Colonel and his wife was manifested throughout the entire proceeding. Words of farewell were spoken by Mrs. Adjutant Woodland, Commandant Sainsbury, Sgt. Majors Barter, Cummings, and Pike, Capt. W. Jennings, Adj. French and Staff Capt. R. Sainsbury. All paid glowing tributes to the splendid work accomplished by the Colonel and his wife since coming to Newfoundland and expressed sincere regret that the time for parting had come.

Staff Capt. Tiley, General Secretary, who will have charge of affairs until the new Territorial Commander arrives, voiced the feelings of the Headquarters staff regarding the farewell of Col. and Mrs. Martin. They had, he said, proven themselves true friends and wise counsellors and Newfoundland would be the better for their labours. Mrs. Martin spoke of the joy she had experienced in visiting the homes of the sick and infirm, especially in the outports. During the past winter she had been deprived of this pleasure owing to the condition of her health and she regretted this very much. She admired Newfoundlanders for their absence of pretence and guile and the strength and simplicity of their faith. She paid a high tribute to the members of the home league for their untiring efforts in pushing forward every good work and wished them much success in the future. She was pleased to count among her friends many who were not Salvationists and she wished to thank them also for the many acts of kindness shown to herself and the Colonel during their stay here. While the Colonel was confined to his home through illness she received many kind inquiries and expressions of sympathy by telephone and otherwise and she assured one and all that every kindness was appreciated to the fullest extent.

Before proceeding to address the gathering, the Colonel announced the promotion of Cadets Ivany, Hewitt, Little, Peters, and Fitzgerald to the rank of Probationary. These young people had been highly recommended by the training college principal and he had much pleasure in awarding them the new rank.

Referring to his work here the Colonel stated that he was able to report substantial advances in almost every branch of the work. Fourteen new halls had been opened, ten new day schools, the number of officers increased in spite of the fact that some twenty-eight had been transferred to Canada and the United States, and although we are passing through a period of depression and money is unusually scarce the total amount raised in connection with this year's Self Denial effort exceeds all previous amounts by several hundred dollars. He felt that all this was due in a large measure to the faithfulness and devoted work done by Salvationists of all ranks and he expressed hearty thanks and appreciation to all who helped to bring about such good results. He had much pleasure in announcing that Colonel and Mrs. Cloud would be the new leaders for Newfoundland, and he commended them to the love and affection of all Salvationists. Col. Cloud is an officer of thirty-seven years standing, and has filled many important positions in the old country. He is at present in charge of the S. A. Forces in the Welsh sub-territory. In conclusion the Colonel assured those present of his warm appreciation of the devoted service rendered him since coming here and his sincere wishes for their future happiness.

Before closing the congregation sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and the Colonel pronounced the benediction.

IT COSTS A LITTLE EXTRA.

Three Flowers Face Powder costs a little extra, but you expect to pay extra for an extra fine perfume—an extra fragrant odor—an extra smooth powder, don't you. If Three Flowers Face Powder was not better, or more carefully prepared than other powders, it would be no higher in price. But if you wish to have the beautiful, luxurious and aristocratic quality in anything you must expect to pay more. Once you experience the joys of using this delightful toilet preparation, price will not occur to you. You will realize that you have more than the worth of the extra money, in extraordinary beauty and charm, for there is a fascination and charm about the Three Flowers Face Powder that captivates in a most pleasing manner. You are denying yourself pleasure and luxury by not using the THREE FLOWERS toilet goods. At drug and department stores now.

Why So Pretty?

Analyze a beauty's beauty
Note how white teeth count

If you own envy pretty teeth, let us show you how folks get them. You see them everywhere today. They have brought to millions new charm and new beauty.

It is so the world over, for people are using a new cleaning method now. And largely by dental advice.

They fight film
Film makes teeth dingy—that vicious film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film. That's why beautiful teeth were seen less often than now.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. That's why tooth troubles came to nearly all. Germs breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea, now so alarmingly common.

Old ways inadequate
No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats film. So nearly everybody suffered more or less. Then dental science, after long research, found two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. These two great film destroyers were embodied in it.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. It is daily used by careful people of some 50 nations now.

Minerals in Canada.

Mineral production in Canada during 1922 is estimated to be worth $180,622,000, an increase of practically $6,000,000 over the production of the previous year, according to a preliminary report of the Bureau of Statistics. The value of the metals produced was $61,731,000 as compared with $49,243,232 in the preceding year; fuels and other non-metals dropped $1,000,000 to a total of $33,891,000, and the production of structural materials and clay products has been estimated at the same valuation as last year, namely, $35,000,000.

Avoid Harmful Grit
Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combant which contains harsh grit.

These things also
Dental research proved other things essential. So Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids. Thus Pepsodent gives manifold power to Nature's great tooth-protecting agents.

London Doctors Announces a Palliative for Tuberculosis.

More Effective Inoculation System Calculated to Ease and in Some Cases Cure Disease. Vaccine has Remarkable Effect on Animals, Dr. Dreyer says in Explaining New Discovery.

LONDON, June 16.—Humanity is offered a palliative, if not a cure for tuberculosis by Professor Georges Dreyer, distinguished doctor of Oxford University, the basis of his treatment is described as a more effective system of inoculation than has hitherto been known. In explaining his discovery at the Institute of Pathology and Research of St. Mary's hospital, Professor Dreyer declared that remarkable cures had been effected with the new vaccine on guinea pigs and other animals, and that great improvement had been effected in the cases of persons suffering from tuberculosis, blood poisoning, anthrax and other diseases. He pointed out that in the inoculation of human beings, dead bacteria were used. In order to be successful the microbes must be digested and destroyed by the tissues of the patient, but a coating of fat which covered some microbes prevented the juices of the body from getting at them. He explained that his new system was to destroy the fat surrounding these germs thus making them more easily destroyed by vaccine injections.

London physicians who have used the new treatment declared the benefit derived from tuberculosis inoculations as much greater than from the other

Angina Pectoris Cure.

REPORTED FROM VIENNA.

LONDON.—General interest was created at a meeting of the Medical Congress in Vienna, says a London Daily Mail Exchange message, by a statement of Professor Wenckelbach on the treatment of angina pectoris. By an operation, he said, total relief could be obtained from his pains.

"Attempts have been made before to cure this agonizing disease, which may be described as cramp of the heart, by operation, and with some success," said a doctor to a Daily Mail reporter. "Dr. Jennessé, a French surgeon by excising a small portion of a nerve (the left cervical sympathetic nerve) completely cured a man who for years had been suffering from severe pain."

"The report does not indicate the nature of Professor Wenckelbach's operation. Although there are many theories we are quite in the dark as to what causes angina pectoris, from which women rarely suffer. It is mostly a disease of men of the better classes, and is particularly common among doctors and among Jews. Mental strain and worry predispose to it. Over 700 people die in England every year from it, as it is not at all uncommon."

Always have another bottle handy

It's a wise housewife who keeps an extra bottle of Bovril in reserve—in case of emergencies.

The Grocer isn't always handy, or isn't open if he is handy—and if there's need for Bovril, not infrequently it's a sudden need.

Bovril has, in addition, a score of uses in the kitchen for putting flavour and goodness into the dishes the housewife prepares.

There's no need to run out for Bovril if you never allow yourself to run out of it.

Fishing Gear Destroyed On Banks.

Ottawa, June 19.—There have been complaints from the Nova Scotia banking fleet of destruction to gear and nets on the Grand Banks by the trawlers. The Department of Marine and Fisheries has accordingly arranged to send one of the fishery protection cruisers from Halifax to the Banks with the fleet to watch the operations of the trawlers and find out definitely the extent to which the alleged destruction is due to the trawlers.

If it is ascertained that there is any serious amount of destruction by the trawlers, the matter will have to be taken up internationally and ways and means devised to put an end to it. There are many French and Portuguese trawlers on the Grand Banks, and the French ships are said to be particularly negligent in their operations.

How a Coal Pit is Sunk.

The announcement that Lord Londonderry intends to sink a new coal pit on the coast of Durham has created considerable excitement among the miners of England. The miner's first thought on hearing such good news is that he may find himself working in the new pit some day. The prospect excites him, writes Theobald Thorne in a London paper.

New pits mean good wages, for the coal lies near the shaft, and the miner does not have to spend an hour or more in walking to and from the coal "face." But it takes about two years—sometimes much more—to sink a shaft. Although the preliminary boring may have enabled the highly qualified mining engineer to draw up a fascinating chart, showing all the kinds of strata to be "sunk" through, there be unforeseen troubles.

In sinking some of the shafts not far from the place where Lord Londonderry proposes to sink, great difficulty was caused by shifting sand. In the end this sand had to be frozen into rock and blasted. Water is dammed back by heavy metal "tubbing" and huge quantities of cement.

Sinking is usually done by specialist firms. The most successful sinkers in the north have been men who have themselves yielded the pick and shovel. They have frequently made fortune and fame in the mining areas of British and foreign countries.

The big job of erecting surface engine-houses, screening-plant, heapstead, workshops, offices, and the laying down of railway sidings, proceeds concurrently with the shaft sinking. There are also cottages to build for the hundreds of miners who will flock to the new colliery.

When the first coal comes to bank there is much local rejoicing. It may not be loudly demonstrative, but it is none the less sincere. A local legend of the miners' union is soon formed, and if the lodge officials and the management of the new colliery cannot agree upon working prices for the pieceworkers, the country arbitration committee of the two sides shoulders the task, and the prices are ultimately fixed on the lines of the prices already being paid for similar work in similar seams at neighbouring collieries.

It may be that some ten million dollars have been sunk in the shaft and its surrounding plant before a bucket of coal is sent out to the homes of England.

Keeping London Clean.

Keeping London clean is an expensive undertaking. Few people know, for example, that every hundredweight of refuse removed from dustbins costs the local authorities a traction under sixpence. Every day 5,000 tons of dirt and dust are collected, by means of 1,500 vehicles.

Some of the tasks that now confront London's army of spring-cleaners are gigantic. Take Victoria Station. Cleaning the Station, which has a bigger area of glass roof than any other station—Waterloo alone excepted—occupies the best part of six months.

Over forty-five tons of paint, made up of thirty-four tons of white lead, and eleven tons of linseed oil, are used, at a cost of approximately £40 a ton.

One of the biggest spring-cleaning jobs ever undertaken was the dusting and renovating of the British Museum Library. Two hundred and fifty men were kept busy for fourteen months. Re-decorating the dome and walls of the great reading-room took 250,000 leaves of beaten gold.

Another big renovating job carried out periodically is spring-cleaning Tower Bridge. Twenty tons of paint are used in the process, which occupies roughly five months.

Big hotels like the Savoy and the Carlton are thoroughly spring-cleaned every year, although the work is so well organized that few visitors to the hotels know that it is going on.

Local Fishermen Caught Three Salmon in Nfld.

D. J. Buckley, F. W. Bishop, A. McIntyre and John Middledy, returned on Tuesday morning from Robinson's River, Newfoundland, where they spent the past week fishing salmon. The party secured eight fine salmon, which considering the present backward fishing season in the Ancient Colony, is considered very favorable.

The members of the party state that an unusually large number of English and American fishermen are in Newfoundland this year whipping the pools. Mr. Buckley and his party spent the week at his bungalow on Robinson's River.—Sydney Record, June 20th.

Had Gold Door Knobs.

The penniless son of Joliet's (Ill.) official dog catcher, was L. Crowley, when prohibition began. A year ago Federal officials say he ordered door knobs of solid gold put throughout a fantastic mansion he was building. To-day he is under investigation by the Federal Grand Jury as a "man higher up" in the beer traffic of Illinois.

The 18-karat door knobs and other princely furnishings were the Government's first clues. Crowley bought up the home of Joliet's conservative Commercial Club, for one thing, and evicted the club because it had blackballed his application for membership. A little later he dazed Joliet's leading house furniture by ordering a $2,000 clock for his mansion and more Oriental rugs than any one home could hold. Crowley hired a butler with an English accent, a couple of house maids and a chef. He bought himself a marvellous automobile. It was his revenge on the Commercial Club that caused the real stir. He applied for membership and was promptly blackballed. It was a conservative organization of old business men with the highest social connections. Crowley bought the building which housed the club, and as a new lease was under negotiation he evicted the club.

City Councils

Are Much the Same the World Over, Except that Some Handle Thousands, Others Millions.

NEW YORK. (Can. Press) June 20.—Comptroller Craig on Monday challenged Mayor Hylan to a test duel, but failed to get an acceptance.

The challenge was hurled at the weekly meeting of the Committee of the Whole of the Board of Estimates, which almost invariably is the scene for caustic debates between the two officials.

Monday's clash, however, was even more heated than usual, the Mayor and the comptroller calling each other liars.

The trouble started during a discussion of sewer assessments, the Mayor, referring to a remark made by the comptroller, saying: "Your statement shows what kind of a liar you are."

"You can't call me a liar," shouted the comptroller.

"You are a liar," the Mayor insisted.

"Now I ask you to step outside," yelled Mr. Craig, leaping to his feet. "We can settle it in the hall."

Hauled back into his seat by other board members, Mr. Craig cried: "I say you are a dirty liar when you say what you do."

The gist of a remark about the Mayor's "friends down in Wall St." was lost in the ensuing uproar.

After the Mayor had called the comptroller a liar once more and the comptroller had failed to get action on a motion to adjourn "to give me a chance to make good," presumably with his fists, the excitement simmered down and business was resumed.

Wheat Yield for 1922.

Canada's wheat yield for 1922 is provisionally estimated at 391,425,000 bushels, according to a statement issued by the Federal Bureau of Statistics. This is the highest of any yield since 1915, when the yield from the smaller acreage of 15,109,415 was 393,542,000 bushels. The area sown to wheat in 1922 is estimated at 22,542,845. The yield per acre is also higher than in any year since 1915, being 17 1-2 bushels as compared with 26 bushels in 1915.

Things to Remember.

Varnished wallpaper is best cleaned with warm, soapy water applied with a flannel. Wipe after with a chamomile leather wrung out of cold water.

Clean valuable China with a sponge dipped in warm water; do not use soda if the China is gilded.

Grease rubbed on a thick nail before it is hammered, prevents the wood from splitting.

Old towels and tea-cloths make very good floor-cloths.

A little salt sprinkled on the bottom of the frying pan will prevent fat from splashing on the stove.

Cane-seated chairs can be tightened by washing with a strong solution of soda and water; allow it to dry, and the cane will be tightened.

A teaspoon of paraffin in a tubful of clothes for washing lightens the labor very much.

A patent fastener sewn next to the top of the lining of your bag will make it quite secure if the original clasp has become unsafe.

Shabby, wash-leather gloves can be dyed brown with a little permanganate of potash to a cup of hot water. Leave the gloves in the liquid for half an hour then treat as after washing.

In distemping the walls of a room don't stop in the middle of the work, but keep on until it is done, so as to have an even effect. Open the windows to help quick drying.

Don't blacklead a gas cooker, as it clogs the burners. Keep clean by washing with hot water and soda, and rub when dry with a velvet pad.

Remember that when an infant is asleep, it should be laid on its right side.

Batter puddings can be made lighter and nicer by adding two teaspoonfuls of ground rice to the flour before mixing.

Swimming is a splendid exercise for children, but take care not to frighten the child at first by forcing it into the water.

For very small personages, hulled bread pudding is wholesome and nutritious, made with stale bread, hot milk, an egg, and just a little sugar.

There was held at Atlantic City recently the annual convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs. One of their meetings the members unanimously a resolution for strict enforcement of the Volstead Act. The day following, the convention was addressed by Governor George S. Sizler, of New Jersey. To the close of his address some members asked him to speak on Prohibition.

"It might be interesting," remarked the Governor, "to apply a test to this audience, as he glanced over the audience of some nine hundred women in the hall."

"How many in this audience," asked the Governor, "have not violated the Volstead Act, or had some member of their immediate family violate when it came into effect?" And the speaker glanced searchingly through the audience. For a moment, says the account of the proceedings, one could hear a pin drop. Then here and there among the audience women began to rise to their feet, until about forty per cent. stood up, while the remaining sixty clung to their seats with dismay on their countenances.

Youthful Rancher Visits His Vast Hawaiian Estate.

Honolulu.—(A.P.)—The high cost of living is one thing that need not cause much worry for the next year, says ten-year-old Richard Smart, who is now on his annual visit to his domain, the great Parker ranch of almost 200,000 acres on the island of Hawaii.

On the petition of his grandmother and guardian, Mrs. Elizabeth Knight, who was Mrs. John Parker before her second marriage, Judge John Desha, of Honolulu has just increased the youngster's annual allowance from $9,000 to $15,000. This sum is divided as follows—general maintenance, education, upkeep of automobile and employment of nurse, governess and chauffeur, $12,000; provision for annual gifts to employees of the Parker ranch, $1,800; special fund for his annual vacation in Hawaii, $2,500.

Few American boys attaining their majority will control the wealth that lies in store and is piling up for young Smart. He will be a multi-millionaire, with an annual income of more than $200,000, and the ownership of the ranch, one of the largest and finest in the world, which is estimated to be worth between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

The ranch has played a prominent part in island history and was one of the few places in the territory which did not pay homage to "king sugar." In the early days of the huge estate, life was as wild and care-free as on any cattle ranch in the mainland West. The Hawaiian cowboys were considered of the finest in the world and took many trophies and prizes at mainland rodeos.

Most of Richard's time is spent upon the mainland, chiefly on the Pacific coast, but his annual visit to the ranch is marked by a huge celebration, rodeo and barbecue in which the countryside participates. It is at this time that his gifts to his employees are distributed.

CELEBRITIES WHO HATED EARLY RISING.

Many years ago a man named Buckland wrote a book entitled "Letters on the Importance, Duty, and Advantages of Early Rising, addressed to the Heads of Families, the Lover of Nature, the Man of Business, the Student, and the Christian."

The book ran into a first edition. But by the time that edition had appeared its author was dead. He died at the age of twenty-five. Poor Buckland! He had performed the "duty" of early rising, but had failed to reap any of its "advantages."

It seems certain that success in letters is by no means the invariable reward of application to work in the early hours of the morning. Most great authors have cherished a pardonable fondness for their beds. We find, for instance, Alfred de Musset writing to a friend: "I generally sleep till two, and sometimes till five in the afternoon, when I have boxed the ears of the night."

Broken Resolutions.

Dr. Johnson, too, made short work of this "early to bed, early to rise" fetish. "Whoever thinks of going to bed before twelve is a scoundrel," he said on one occasion.

Johnson, however, had qualms. He was always intending to get up early in the morning, but never, apparently, succeeded in carrying his intentions into effect.

On March 28th, 1762, he enters in his journal a resolution "to rise early." The same resolution is repeated on the Easter Eve of 1764. Later in the year the following pathetic entry occurs: "To rise early; not later than six, if I can; I hope sooner, but as soon as I can." But the ingrained habits of years proved too strong.

James Thomson, the poet of "The Seasons," was a notoriously late riser. It is true that he was often up at dawn; but this, as his friend Robertson has pointed out, was because he had not been to bed. D'Annunzio, too, is one of those writers who find a morning a bed a source of inspiration.

The advocates of early rising can claim John Wesley as one of their adherents. Wesley generally began his day's work at about five o'clock, and once he preached a sermon on "The Duty and Advantage of Early Rising"—thereby anticipating the unfortunate Mr. Buckland.

But in the case of Wesley there may have been domestic reasons for the exercise of this unattractive virtue. "If I had been married to Mrs. John Wesley," said the Rev. W. L. Watkinson, "I should have been in my study by four o'clock in the mornings."

Napoleon was at one time a consistently early riser, but towards the end of his life he repented of his folly.

On the other hand, it has to be admitted that many men of genius have been addicted to the early-rising habit. Maeterlinck is an early riser, so, too, were Goethe, Tolstoy, Victor Hugo, Anthony Trollope, the Duke of Wellington, and the late Lord Northcliffe.

Wise Tongues.

Upon the principle that few things are wholly bad when used intelligently, much may be said in praise of flattery. Rigid moralists are too prone to condemn all those pretty speeches and graceful compliments which may be classed as "unnecessary."

In the first place, who shall decide what praise is justly merited and how much? One does not pause to measure, drop by drop, the oil which one puts upon a machine to ensure smooth running; and politeness has been wisely called the machine oil of every-day life.

Strictly speaking, the finished politeness with which well-bred people avoid the open expression of their likes and dislikes out of consideration for the feelings of others is flattery judiciously applied.

The person who never misses an opportunity to say pleasant things, to pay little attentions, who devotes some brains, much good will, and yet more patience to the business of making other people satisfied with themselves, always gets along in life.

Of course one may overdo it. Fulsome flattery overreaches itself and disgusts sensible people, but this does not alter the fact that those who think the best and see only the good and proclaim it are they who make life pleasant for themselves and others.

Demand for Wheat Greater Than Supply.

The world demand for wheat is outpacing the supply, according to a preliminary report on world consumption issued by the International Institute of Agriculture. The report indicates that even if Russia re-enters the grain market this year, Canadian wheat growers may look with confidence to the future. The report's consumption statistics cover only European countries, but the conclusions are reinforced by the general law of diminishing returns which is in operation in Canada, United States, and Argentina, the great wheat-producing countries. Twenty European countries are shown to have a present yield of 23,000,000 tons and to be eating 45,000,000 tons. This is an increased deficiency of about 7,000,000 tons since the pre-war years, or more than Canada's surplus. There is the additional fact that some countries like Poland, which have been forced to rely on home-grown

I know that some people call luck a mere result of hard work and intelligence. But, on the other hand, there are certain things that happen to one absolutely at random, or any virtue or quality of character or any results of cause and effect. In such circumstances, a friend of mine, who was driving his car up a hill, suddenly saw a car smash into the side of his car, breaking it and breaking the telephone wires. Just then, a car was coming down the hill, and stung him.

How surely one can find family anyone's fault, and good luck may be yours.

Mrs. A. has some such luck. She cannot use. She had just gone on an errand. Then she had come back, and something she was doing delayed her just as the telephone wires were broken. Her luck for her

DOES LUCK EXIST?

I hate to hear anyone say, "I am unlucky." Not because I am one of those people who insist that there is no such thing as luck.

I'm not. I know that some of the things that people call luck aren't luck, but the results of hard work, patience, intelligence.

On the other hand, I believe there are certain things that happen to one absolutely without any of our virtues on one's own part, the results of casual combinations of circumstances that might just as well have turned out some other way. For instance, a friend of mine who was her car suddenly made a dash toward her, smashed into her car and she it and broke her leg. The car in the other car had lost control of his car because a bee had got inside the car, buzzed around his head and stung him in the face.

Just Chance. I am sure one could not call that anyone's fault. It was simply bad luck.

Mr. A. has some opera tickets which she finds, at the last minute, cannot use. She calls up Mrs. M. who had just gone down street to an errand. Then she calls Mrs. C. who had come back to go out and do something she was going to do. She delayed her just long enough to get the telephone call and accept the tickets with delight.

Bad luck for her and bad luck for

Mrs. B. No virtue or blame on either part. Now for the reason why I hate to hear anyone say, "I am unlucky." Because, while I believe in good luck and bad luck, I don't believe anyone is consistently lucky or unlucky.

A Bad Picture.

And I think it is a very bad thing to get an obsession on the idea of bad luck into one's mind. It suggests the wrong picture to the subconscious, and weakens one's courage.

You may have bad luck in one line and good luck in another. You may have good luck that you don't even know you are having. If a man changes his mind at the last minute and does not take a train which afterwards wrecked he knows he has been lucky. But it must be that many similar lucky escapes come to us without our even knowing about them.

On the subject of chance Martin Luther once said: "You say you have a pair of dice that constantly throws twice six. You throw two, three, four, five, six and you take no notice of it. Then twice six times turns up twice and you think it proves your case."

His Star.

It is the same way with the man who has got it into his head that he is unlucky. He thinks every piece of bad luck proves his case, and he takes no notice of the good luck that comes his way.

I know a man who is convinced that he is born under an unlucky star, because he has had some bad luck. He's under a star of bad omen all right, but he wasn't born there. He has put himself there by his own state of mind, which has come to be: "What's the use of trying? I'm born to be unlucky."

To anyone who believes in bad stars

I call attention to the well-known case of Jacob and Esau, who presumably were born under the same star, and, because of their different characters, had very different careers. If you want to get any obsession on the subject, get a good luck obsession. That can't do you any harm (unless you trust to luck to take the place of effort) and by the encouragement it gives your subconscious it may do you some good.

Feat in Electrical Experiments.

PITTSFIELD, Mass.—From manufactured clouds over a miniature village, artificial lightning of two million volts was produced to-day in the high voltage engineering laboratory of the General Electric Company's plant here. In September, 1921, a demonstration of the working of 1,000,000 volts was given, but to-day's feat is said to surpass any previous accomplishment, in high voltage.

Sputtering, roaring arcs of purple and white light, marking the passage of 2,000,000 volts of electric current, flamed through the testing laboratory when new apparatus for experimenting with lightning and high power transmission was publicly shown for the first time. It was an awesome spectacle, made possible only by recent tremendous strides in harnessing almost inconceivably large units of power.

Art combined with science to stage one of the settings of the performance. Bolts hurtled down on a miniature village from make-believe clouds. The village church steeple first was struck; then the village store. Or again, the unleashed terror of lightning crashed upon both the same time. The display was accompanied by the roar of thunder. Even rain was produced.

Most of the tests were made in the dark, and as Frank W. Peek, Jr., consulting engineer of the transformer department, juggled his spitting tongues of purple flame, making them glow along the wires and leaping in waving bands of white between contracts, the impression of the most terrific force in nature was startling. Indeed, at the moment of greatest discharge, Mr. Peek said, more power was released than was generated in all the electrical plants in the country.

AWESOME PERFORMANCE.

Playing with great volleys is now a daily task at this testing station, for it is by these awesome performances only that the more prosaic work of development in high power electrical transmission can progress.

Theoretical as they seem, they form the basis for experimentation by which the laws governing the control of heavy currents become known and through which, eventually, engineers hope to solve the mystery of lightning, and protect both humanity and their power lines from its effect.

Another field of speculation is opened by the lightning experiments. It was briefly touched upon by Giuseppe Fascioli, electrical genius of the plant, who ranks with Steinmetz and Edison as experimenter. There is a possibility that by the application of terrific energy in a given instant, transmutation of matter may be effected and certain changes accomplished in a second for which millions of years of slow evolution of the earth would be needed. What may be done in that way Mr. Fascioli dwelt upon only as one of the dreams of the electrical engineer now that he has such power at his disposal.

"We do not know yet, but if the transmutation of matter is accomplished it will probably be in this way," he said. "We have the power and it is for the future to decide what will come of it."

"We may be able to create that which it took ages to create through evolution. Coal? Possibly, nobody knows. Diamonds, it would be nice if I had my own little plant for making them, eh?" he said with a smile. "But it is a great speculative field, and much may come of it."

German Police

LIFT BAN ON OPEN AIR GATHERINGS.

BERLIN.—Once more after a ban of nearly six months, the Germans are permitted to hold open air demonstrations in Berlin without special permission.

The chief of police issued an order early this month lifting the prohibition he instituted late last November. It was then decided to forbid outdoor meetings and processions because plundering of shops was regarded as a likely result of the hard times facing the populace during the winter.

A few open-air meetings have since been specially authorized, such as a demonstration against the occupation of the Ruhr district and the labor assemblies staged in celebration of May Day.

Train Supplies

Own Power.

An electric train which supplies its own power and is quite self-contained has been invented by an engineer of the South African railways. He has built a wagon which is equipped with a gas-generating plant and an internal combustion engine, which drives a dynamo and so produces electric current. The current in turn drives motors which provide adequate power for haulage requirements. An important feature of the gas-producing plant is that it requires as fuel only the waste char, or ash, thrown out from the fire-box of steam locomotives. Thus the little train can run along on rails under its own power, with no overhead wires or live rails, and can travel 150 miles on five or six bags of waste char and ten gallons of water.

London Banishes Old Custom.

LONDON.—(A.P.)—In view of the terms of the Sex Disqualification Removals Act the staid City of London Corporation has departed from its old time custom of refusing the honor of the Freedom of the City of London to married women.

The first married woman to receive this honor is Mrs. F. G. Bristow, the wife of a barrister-at-law, who was admitted to the freedom of the city at a recent meeting of the Corporation.

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Branchton, Ont.—"When I wrote to you for help my action was mostly prompted by curiosity. I wondered if I, too, would benefit by your medicine. It was the most profitable action I have ever taken, I heartily assure you, for through its results I am relieved of most of my sufferings. I have taken six boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and I can honestly say I have never been so well before. I had suffered from pains and other troubles since I was fifteen years old, and during the 'Great War' period I worked on munitions for two years, and in the heavy lifting which my work called for, I strained myself, causing pelvic inflammation from which I have suffered untold agony, and I often had to give up and go to bed. I had doctored for several years without getting permanent relief, when I started to take your medicines."—Mrs. GOLDWIN MISENER, Branchton, Ont.

ADVISING A BOY.

This is all that I would say As you face the world to-day: Life, with all its care and doubt And the dangers strewn about, All its hardships and its griefs And its many strange beliefs, Has uncounted joys to give. If in honor you will live.

You'll discover many creeds Satisfying human needs, Many ways for men to take For the fortunes they would make; You will see men dwelling high On the mountain of a lie, But the hand that fishes fame Is forever soiled with shame.

Do the thing you know is right, Though you win or lose the fight; Take the loss in cold or fame, Not in self respect or shame; Never leave a dead behind That you fear the world to find, For the bitterest cares men meet are the children of deceit.

Play the friend and play the man, Lend and give where'er you can; And when doubts of right and wrong Rise to fret you, then be strong; Howsoever large the gain, Keep your conscience free from stain. If but this, my boy, you do, All the world will honor you.
