NO ONE HAS A word to say for the provincial exhibition. Even Kingston turns up her nose at it. Will the legislature step in and put the poor unfortunate out of misery? In the words of Sir John: "Its usefulness is gone."

THE INDEBTED, as far as it has gone, has determined that it was that ex-Mr. Smith remained in the street after passing his at school. But how he came down Church Street and left across the track has not yet been accounted for. Some persons are trying to make out a case of foul play.

WE ARE NOT to be annexed by the United States, for, according to Dr. Wild, bounds have been set to that country in the light of prophecy, and they cannot be exceeded.

NOW, on the same authority, can we ever become independent, for, out of all England's colonies, the United States, alias Manneha, was the only one that prophecy allowed to set up for itself.

BOSS KELLY of New York says Tammany has not will never die, and he predicts disaster to the democratic party if the hall is shut out from the convention.

Kelly's chief strength is in New York City, where he professes to have 60,000 followers. But the better element of the democracy has no respect for the boss, and Tammany hall may count on being excluded. There is no reason that usual to fear the result this year, owing to the fight going on between stalwart and half-bred republicans in the state.

These factions have been waging a bitter war upon each other at the primary meetings.

THE EAST YORK LIBERALS will need to make another choice. Hon. Samuel Blake declines to stand for the present on the ground that his circumstances will not allow him to do so.

But Mr. Blake does not conceal his ambition to enter political life, and he intimates that at the next ensuing general election he may be found ready. He would be a strong force in parliament and in the country. His services cannot be procured earlier. East York, however, need not go a-begging for a candidate. There are many good men in the Liberal ranks who would esteem it a great honor to lead the party in that constituency, and only a good man should be chosen.

THE CORNER IN OXTON in Liverpool has made one man's fortune. Report says that he has cleared $2,500,000. This is very good for one year's business, but the speculator is the only man who is the richer for it. Dealing in cotton "futures" is purely a gambling transaction, and what one man gains by it another loses. The cotton-spinners thought to break the corner by shutting down their mills; they tried and failed. This experiment, it is stated, cost themselves and their employees—but chiefly the latter—the large sum of $1,000,000. It is a serious matter, and a solution of the corner nuisance ought to be found. That it will be found some day is almost certain, though it is doubtful if legislation will be of any service. Forecasting the market has never been stopped by legislation, and dealing in "futures" is nothing else.

GRANT DUFF, who was recently appointed governor of Malacca, enjoys the reputation of being one of the most careful political thinkers in England. His extra-parliamentary speeches have for many years been read and studied only to Glasgow.

In the speech delivered three weeks ago, in the eve of his departure for Malacca, he is a close observer of home and foreign politics, and by a hard thinking he explains a whole chapter into a sentence. He explains the position of this faculty by saying that when ever a hand or an interesting subject engages his attention he writes upon it, and by applying himself in this way he has entered public life twenty-five years ago he has managed to write a number of valuable books. Why should not some of our Canadian politicians adopt the same plan? A look on some political subject or public question by Mr. Blake, for example, might prove to be of great service to the country. It would have more permanency than a speech, and find its way to the masses by a thousand mediums. The state papers prepared by him while in the government, both here and at Ottawa, show that he is an able and scholarly writer.

THE IGNORANCE OF EDUCATED MEN.

The ignorance of educated men is touched upon in a recent issue of the London World. Lawyers, doctors, members of parliament, actors and artists are spoken of as being in a large degree men without intellectual accomplishment.

The great majority of them, the World says, have not a single idea except such as is given them through the newspapers. There is a great deal of truth in this remark. It is also true that very few men who reach high places understand the simple art of framing a sentence correctly. They may be fluent and forcible speakers, but few among them will bear a verbatim report. Few among them, indeed, with time and material at hand, can write a good newspaper article, though this is an accomplishment every political hack in the country flatters himself he possesses.

Many college professors too are uneducated men, judged by the same standard. A speech delivered by one of this class not very long ago would be laughed at from one end of the country to the other if published, as it was spoken, without revision or backwashing of any kind at the hands of the reporter.

THE QUALIFICATIONS OF JUDGES. In the supreme court of the United States there are practically two vacancies to be filled by President Arthur, and the newspapers are discussing the qualifications thereof. As put by the New York Tribune, many of them are applicable to non-judges for the bench in Canada:

"A model appointee to the supreme bench would be a man of about fifty, in robust health, accustomed to hard work, and with an excellent reputation for clearness, breadth, accuracy and judicial temper, gained by service upon the bench of one of the state or federal courts. We need not say that he should also be well grounded in the republican ideas of citizenship and of the relations of the nation to the states."

As for the age qualification we are inclined to look with favor on the idea of comparatively young men going on the bench. In our provincial courts, as a rule, the appointees should not be over forty, and in the federal supreme court not over fifty. It is out of such men that good hard work is to be expected.

The qualification of being well grounded in federal and provincial law is of even more importance to Canadians than to our neighbors. For many of the questions at issue between the states and the union have been settled; but we are only beginning to approach the issues between the provinces and the federal authority, and in the settlement of these only men thoroughly grounded in the relations of the local and the central powers should be entrusted therewith.

NEWSPAPER WASTE. Political economists frequently discuss on waste as a prolific source of poverty and of the unequal distribution of wealth—waste of time, of material, of energy. If the time that the world has mispent for a century were available, all now living might add a decade to their existence; if the material that has been wasted could be collected and distributed, all would be rich; if the energy that has been misdirected could be placed at their disposal, all the world's workers for the rest of their lives could have two Sabbaths a week and yet double their present productions.

The modern newspaper is a good exemplification of the prodigality of our resources. In many ways it represents an enormous amount of waste. Of course, in this day of rapidity of thought and motion, most people must have a daily newspaper; but instead of being the simple folio it was a few years ago, it has grown to be a huge volume of eight, twelve, sixteen, and sometimes twenty or thirty pages of closely-printed matter. The big Toronto dailies have been influenced somewhat by this tendency, but in Chicago, New York and other large cities, it appears in an intensified form. There is a disposition on the part of the editors of these newspapers to "date" everything. They completely retrace the hymnist's precept that

"Man wants but little here below, Now wants that little long."

They appear to think that the public value a paper according to its acreage, and measure the merit of an article by the column. During the recentness of President Garfield they reprinted two and sometimes three pages of some of the New York and Chicago papers to let the public know the patient had progressed for one day. A great deal, perhaps nearly one-half, of the windy stuff put in the big papers every day, nobody has either the time or disposition to read. Any person who set himself to read one of these papers adequately would have to make it his life's business; in fact, it would be physically impossible to get through some of them in twenty-four hours.

The sheer waste involved in these papers is amazing. There is the waste of paper, of type, of ink and of presses; there is the waste of the labor of extra editors, reporters, printers, telegraph operators, and many other classes which would otherwise be turned into productive pursuits; but, above all, there is the waste of the time of the reader. It is as difficult to get the news from such masses of rubbish that many people can with a sense of relief to the small and cheap papers which give the news in a concise form.

These small four-page papers, which exclude mere verbiage, and content them selves with giving the news of the day concisely yet fully, and which can be bought with the smallest coin we have, are rapidly establishing themselves in the leading cities as the papers for the people. They already give evidence of helping, both in circulation and influence, the larger sheets. They pay their publishers better, because they cost much less in production, while they heart to use his endeavors in hastening to consummate that change in his country's affairs which shall give impulse to the powers of self-reliance to the benighted within him.

SYDNEY SMITH. The thirteen trees planted by Alex. Hamilton in honor of his original title of the union, are still living.

EAST YORK LIBERALS

At a meeting held at the residence of Mr. Samuel Blake for the purpose of organizing the East York Liberal Association, a summary of his speech.

On Saturday a deputation from the East York Reform Association waited on Samuel Blake, Q.C., and requested him to stand for that riding in the next Dominion election. He declined the offer.

Among those in the deputation were: John Milne (president of the association), W. Breithwaite (secretary), G. V. Bond, M.P., Mr. P. H. Miller, S. Eckhardt, Wm. Aiken (warden of York), John Pike, Wm. Jackson, John East, Joseph Tait, J. G. Gibson (reeve of Yorkville), J. P. Wheeler, Wm. Rennie and S. Miller. The deputation waited on Mr. Blake at his house on Wellesley street in the afternoon.

Mr. Milne was the first speaker, and formally made known the object of their visit. He said that the deputation had been formed to the fact that Mr. Blake's father had represented the riding in his day, and the Reformers would be pleased to see the latter's son occupy the same position.

Mr. Blake thanked them for the offer. They had used every argument that would be likely to induce him to accept. He would have liked to represent his father's constituency—though not so able or so vigorous. But he thought he could give them some reasons for declining. He thought that had made that would impress them with their sufficiency. When he went on the bench he was a poor man, and he left it poorer than when he entered it. He felt that no man should enter the house of commons without having the means that would make him mentally independent, and place him beyond the possibility of manipulation. He was not in that position, and therefore would have to decline the offer they had made until such time as he should be in a position to accept. There was no constituency he would so much prefer as East York, and if at the end of five years he should be able to do so, he would be glad to do so, and they then made him such an offer as they made on Saturday, then he would be happy to accept it. (Cheers.) He had no objection to the offer, but he would like to see the constitution which he offered. He would himself prefer a contest in the riding in which he entered. At the end of five years, whether the Liberals were a successful party or not, he would like to take a hand and help his brother to fight the beasts at Ephesus.

He then read the following resolution: That the deputation be thanked for their kind and generous offer, and that the deputation be requested to meet again at the residence of Mr. Blake on Saturday next, to consider the offer.

Mr. Bond then moved that the deputation be thanked for their kind and generous offer, and that the deputation be requested to meet again at the residence of Mr. Blake on Saturday next, to consider the offer.

Mr. Miller then moved that the deputation be thanked for their kind and generous offer, and that the deputation be requested to meet again at the residence of Mr. Blake on Saturday next, to consider the offer.

INAUGURAL SERVICES

At the New Beverly Street Baptist Church yesterday.

The inaugural services of the new Baptist church on Beverly street were held yesterday evening. Dr. Castle presiding in the morning and Rev. Alexander Grant of London in the evening.

Dr. Castle took for his text John xv. 16: "I have not chosen you, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that whatsoever you shall ask of the Father in my name he may give it you." These words were the declaration of the Saviour that he would give to his disciples the power to impart life to the world. He now reminds them that this relationship arose entirely from his own sacred act. It is to keep them humbly to the Father in my name he may give it you." THE LABOR WORLD.

Meeting of the Trades Council—The Shoemakers' Strike—Preamble, Principles and Constitution.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Trades and Labor council was held at Dufferin hall Saturday night. President Todd called the meeting to order at 8.30.

THE SHOEMAKERS' STRIKE. The president asked if any of the delegates had any reports to make. Mr. Duncan, delegate from the knights of St. Crispin, stated that the hand-sewed shoemakers had entered on a strike for an increase of ten per cent, as they had not had an increase for the last two years.

The principal reason for their strike was that the union could meet and talk over this subject, and let their employers know that they were in earnest about the matter. The union expected that a settlement would be made to-day. Mr. Duncan further stated that the union had enough to carry them through for about three months, and that they would call upon the other unions until that time.

The council decided that the different unions should subscribe five cents per week per man to help the knights of St. Crispin during their troubles. The resolution was carried by a large majority.

The meeting then proceeded with the consideration of the draft preamble, principles and constitution, printed copies of which were distributed.

The preamble starts out with the need of organizing labor to protect labor from the power and enthrallment of the concentrated capital, and approves of the formation of a trades and labor council.

As to principles, while opposing to entering any political party as a body, the council declares it to be its duty to use its influence with the law-making powers to secure the following objects: The regulation of the employment of children; the adoption of proper laws regulating the hours constituting a day's work; employers' liability; a proper system of inspection of workshops and factories; reforms in prison law, so as to prevent the product of convict labor coming into competition with honest industry; and such other laws as may be deemed beneficial. The delegates further pledged themselves to assist each other in securing fair wages by honorable means; and they shall withdraw, and use their influence to have others withdraw, all patronage from any and every employer, let his calling be what it may. They are in favor of arbitration whenever differences exist between employers and employees.

The constitution contains the name and objects of the organization, rules as to its composition, meetings, expenses, and the duties of its members. The council made considerable progress with the above, and adjourned for another fortnight.

OSGOODE LIBRARY SOCIETY. The first meeting for the season of the Osgoode library and legal society was held in the city on Saturday night, October 1st. The president, Mr. Ewart, occupied the chair, and introduced the question concerning the name of the society. The discussion which took place some doubt was expressed as to the expediency of this step, owing to the fact that the name of the society contemplated the establishment of a law school, and that in fact a report had been submitted to them from the committee, and submitting a scheme of its foundation.

It was thought by some that the arrangement of an independent set of lectures might be better than the one now being made in establishing the school. On the other hand, the next meeting of convocation will not take place until the middle of November, and, if it is decided to carry out their decision, and that decision should be unfavorable, the students would be left without provision for lectures. With a view to meeting both these difficulties, it was moved by Mr. Brook and seconded by Mr. Gault, that Messrs. Wilson, Nelson and Hewa be constituted a committee to confer with such of the legal profession of Toronto as they may think fit, and arrange for a course of lectures to last until a definite decision is obtained from the law society relative to the re-establishment of the law school.

Mr. W. A. Taylor moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Washington, that the matter be adjourned until after some decision had been come to by the law society. The original resolution was carried. In the course of any regularly arranged programme, readings and recitations were given by Messrs. Gault, Brook, Lewis and Nelson, after which the meeting adjourned.

THE BRANCH FROM BRADFORD. The master in chambers granted on Saturday for leave to examine G. T. Braden, in goal awaiting extradition to Bradford, Pa., on a charge of embezzling the funds of the American transfer company. Mr. Braden, who applied for the order, was granted $25 of the judiciary act, stated that some of the parties in the city who had received money from Braden had been examined and acknowledged having possession of about $5,000, and on examination Braden might have been a still larger amount was invested.

The American transfer company being a joint corporation, and out of the jurisdiction of Ontario, an order has been made in behalf of the bank of Montreal and the other defendants to the suit for an order for the seizure of their assets in the case of an issue being tried in their favor.

FUNERAL OF MR. JOHN SMITH. A very large number of people paid their last respects to the memory of their late fellow-citizen Saturday afternoon, the funeral being performed by the Rev. J. H. Egan. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Capt. McMaster, Thomas Ogilvy, Robert B. Baker and H. R. Forbes. Delegates from the Board of Trade, the property holders' association and the city council were in attendance. A large funeral cortege followed the remains to their resting place in Woodbine cemetery.

THE FEMALE BAIN. A young woman living alone on Beverton street, Yorkville, who was awakened from her sleep at 1.30 yesterday morning by the cries of a child, got up and opening her door found a small child, who was very much distressed, lying on the steps. As she was about to go down to see what was the matter, she saw two men running away from the house. She called out to them, and they turned back, and she saw them enter the house. DR. WILD ON GARFIELD.

GRANT TO BE DICTATOR, WITH NO MORE PRESIDENTS.

Blaine to be Oast Down—Garfield Martyred to save the nation—Why We Cannot be Friends of the Great Federation—Arthur's Dictation.

The girls in the Bond street choir were all dressed in black last night—The World furnished in keeping with the Garfield memorial service. As usual, the church was crowded to the doors a quarter to seven.

The prophetic preacher has such difficulty in climbing over people into his pulpit that The World would block and tackle so as to host him. Dr. Wild gave utterance to some of the strangest yet of his strange utterances.

The collection in the morning realized $350, and a large amount was collected in the evening. Miss Corlett sang a solo, "Abide with me," while the collection was being taken up. When it was gathered in, the choir sang "The Lord is my Shepherd," and another was dying. The latter did not know of her sister's death, yet when she was passing away she called to another sister, and said, "I am a great and beautiful company becoming her to them, and then suddenly exclaimed, "And my sister is among them, and you never told me she was dead."

Should an atheist's oath be taken in court?

He thanked the correspondent for sending him another instance of the recognition of friends in the next world. The preacher knew the case himself. In a minister's family of the first grade of forty and another was dying. The latter did not know of her sister's death, yet when she was passing away she called to another sister, and said, "I am a great and beautiful company becoming her to them, and then suddenly exclaimed, "And my sister is among them, and you never told me she was dead."
