FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Ninety-nine thousand acres have been planted under the new arboriculture act in Kansas.

Keep the horse collars clean.

The dust and dirt which adheres to collars when they are wet with sweat works into lumps and ridges, and sore shoulders are the result.

Pieces of cotton batting dipped in hot water and kept applied to old sores or new cuts, bruises or sprains, is the treatment now generally adopted in hospitals.

A strained ankle may be cured in an hour by showering it with hot water, poured from a height of three feet.

The Utica Herald tells of a dairyman who was troubled with the smell of garlic or wild onions in the milk.

To obviate this he put the cows in the stable at about 2 o'clock each afternoon, and fed them on hay and gave grain as usual.

The result was all he anticipated. A rest of three hours allowed the scent to pass off in other excretions, though previously it flavored both milk and butter.

Somewhere has ciphered up the potato production of the world thus: Germany, 235,000,000; Russia, 110,000,000; Austria, 76,000,000; United States, 47,000,000; Ireland, 38,000,000; England, 26,000,000; Belgium, 23,000,000; Sweden, 10,000,000; Holland, 15,000,000; Italy, 14,000,000; Denmark, 5,000,000; Australia, 8,000,000; Portugal, 3,000,000; and Spain, 2,000,000. Canada appears to be left out of the count.

The following returns have been published of the Canadian Pacific Railway bolt, between the 5th of July, 1882, and 1st of January, 1884:

Ordinary sales, 8,513 cases, realizing in cash $26,462. Sales in lieu of homesteads and pre-emptions, 69,076 cases, realizing $75,358 in cash at time of sale. Land sales in June last year, 18,125 cases, for $47,057; one-fourth cash. Sales by public auction, 8,152 cases, realizing $21,575; one-fourth being cash. The total acreage disposed of amounts to 90,866 acres, and the amount realized, $147,056.

In an interesting article in the Live Stock Journal upon the Scotch Dairy Farmers' Association, Professor Sheldon makes some flattering references to the recent improvements in cheese-making in Canada.

He remarks that the Scotch farmers are now being driven to the northern markets to compete with the home-made Cheddars.

Mr. John Mitchell, of Meadowbrook farm, Newbury, owns two three-year-old Holstein heifers, both of which are wonderful milk producers.

They are named "Ethel" and "Ethelga," and about two months ago the former produced a little more than 112 pounds, or about 56 quarts of milk in one day, while Ethelga gave 101 pounds, and during thirty-one consecutive days gave an average of 56 pounds.

These records are not unaccompanied by the fact that the former produced a little more than 112 pounds, or about 56 quarts of milk in one day, while Ethelga gave 101 pounds, and during thirty-one consecutive days gave an average of 56 pounds.

For 171 days ending June 1, Jamaica yielded 12,340 pounds, an average of 75 pounds daily, while Ethelga gave 1,043 pounds, or an average of 63 pounds daily. They have to be milked three times daily to prevent the milk being wasted.

A recent copy of the Paris Figaro contained a report made to the French Academy of Medicine by Dr. Delteil. Dr. Delteil said that the vapors of tar and turpentine would dissolve the fibrinous exudations which choke up the throat in diphtheria.

Dr. Delteil pours equal parts of turpentine and tar into a pan or cup and sets fire to the mixture. A dense resinous smoke arises which obscures the patient's face. "The patient," Dr. Delteil says, "immediately seems to experience relief; the choking and rattle stop; the patient falls into a slumber and seems to inhale the smoke with pleasure. The fibrinous membrane is loosened, and the patient coughs up microbicides. These, when caught in a glass, may be seen to dissolve in the smoke. In the course of three days afterward the patient entirely recovers." This treatment was tried recently in New York with little Ruth Lockwood, who was ill with diphtheria. She was so weak that it was deemed dangerous to try tracheotomy, or cutting open the windpipe. She was lying gasping for breath when the physician visited her. First pouring out two table-spoonfuls of liquid tar into a pan, he poured as much turpentine over it and set it on fire. The rich resinous smoke which rose to the ceiling was by no means unpleasant. As it filled the room the child's breathing became natural, and as the smoke grew dense she fell asleep.

VOL. 15.-NO. 5.

SACKVILLE, N. B., THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1884.

WHOLE NO. 734.

Imported Holstein Bull Lord Byron, owned by Messrs. Lord, Cook & Son, Aultsville, Ont.

The Holsteins.

The accompanying cut is a good representation of Lord Byron, a fine specimen of the Holstein breed. As comparatively few of our readers are acquainted with this breed, we recently introduced into this country, a brief sketch of the Holsteins, and merits claimed for them, will be perhaps acceptable.

They are large, hardy, vigorous cattle, very symmetrical in form and color (which is distinct black and white) fine skinned, with soft, glossy hair. They are hearty feeders, attain early maturity, will withstand any climate, adapt themselves to circumstances, and are remarkable for their propensity and facility of character. The docility and quiet disposition of the Holsteins is a noted characteristic. Bred for centuries in Holland, the land of butter and cheese, it is any wonder that they should excel as dairy cattle?

In regard to milk yield, it is estimated that the yearly production of milk from an average Netherland cow is fully twice that of an average American cow. Indeed, yearly records of 12,000 to 15,000 lbs. are quite common, occasionally reaching up to 18,000 lbs. They are remarkable for their power of holding out and usually continue to give a large flow of milk to within a short time of calving.

Their cheese product is, to say the least, unexcelled, both in quantity and quality. The yield of butter, this breed is also distinguished, both in regard to yield and quality. Owing to the paucity of tests for butter, until recently, this fact has not been very strongly insisted upon. However, recent trials prove that as butter comes they stand on a par with any; in fact Mercedes has recently done marvelously in a thirty days' butter trial, and brought great honors to the Holstein camp.

Their breeding properties have long been known and recognized in the London market. The quality of the beef is always found to be of the best. The fat cattle are remarkable for their "satin like" skins, and their evenly fleshed bodies, and next year's fat show at Chicago will see Holsteins competing for the honors with Short-horns and Herefords.

Lord Byron is two years old, and was imported last season by Messrs. Lord, Cook & Son, along with 108 other head. He worthily stands at the head of his herd at Aultsville, Stormont Co., Ont., and is one of the finest bulls that has yet left Holland. He is of very graceful form and carriage, with very fine hind, covered with a remarkably glossy coat of hair; fine head and clean neck, well set on his shoulders, fine straight limbs, and a well-set tail, stout at his commencement, but very fine below. He shows a remarkable indication for milk in the extremely well marked milk veins. His breeding is excellent, his dam having a milk record of 36 lbs. in one day.

Messrs. Lord, Cook & Son were the first to introduce the Holsteins into Canada, and are seeking to make this breed as popular in this country as it has so deservedly become in the neighboring States, and this they hope to attain by importing only the very best, and especially members of deep milking families. We believe these gentlemen are conferring a great boon upon the country by the work in which they are engaged and hope that our dairymen will not be slow to profit by the advantage thus brought within their reach.

Several very fine Hereford and Devon cattle have been sold within the last few days out of the hands of the Queen's Shaw Farm at Windsor for exportation to Canada. A large stock raising firm has rented 40,000,000 acres of land from the Pawnee Indians in Indian Territory for five years at three cents per acre per year.

The Seal Fishery.

From 200,000 to 500,000 hair-seals are taken annually on the ice off the banks of Newfoundland, and although the work of destruction has been going on for more than a century, and is yearly increasing in extent, there does not appear to be any appreciable diminution in the number of these animals found in that part of the world each season. The total catch last year exceeded 450,000, and this season the indications are that it will be much larger. It is now somewhat over one hundred years since the first seals were taken off the Newfoundland banks for their oil and pelts. In 1763 a number of small boats, or sailing punts, were engaged in the business, and in 1783 the number was increased to twenty-five or thirty schooners. There has been a constant increase in the number and size of the vessels engaged in the industry, and in 1866 five steamers were first employed, in addition to 177 sailing vessels of various sizes. There are now between twenty-five and thirty large steamers, some of which take out as many as three hundred men. The crews divide among themselves one-third of the aggregate catch, the other two-thirds being the property of the vessel-owners. The masters of the steamers receive ten cents per seal and twenty cents per hundred pounds of fat. The annual slaughter commences about the fifteenth of April, the time of starting out being regulated by well-enforced laws; sailing vessels are permitted to leave St. John's on the first day of March, but the sealing steamers are not allowed to leave the port until the month of April. The hunters depart at an earlier date, the hunters would arrive at the field of carnage before the young seals were in a condition to kill, and both old and young would be slaughtered indiscriminately, to the detriment of future supplies. At the beginning of the season only young seals from ten to fifteen days old are taken. The seals are given various names by the hunters, the names usually indicating the age of the animals. These names are: white coats, very young seals; bodlamers; hoods; and dogheads. The latter is an old male seal, and receives its appellation in consequence of having a thick, hood-like skin on the head and neck.

The Intelligent Comp.

The type-setter in a newspaper office is known as the "intelligent comp." and as a rule all errors of editors and reporters are laid at his door. But the "intelligent comp." occasionally takes a hand at blundering himself, and when he does so he can knock an editor or reporter out in one round. Here is an illustration of how an "intelligent comp." in a Harrisburg (Pa.) newspaper office played havoc with the copy of the commercial reporter. The reporter was giving the number of barrels of petroleum, 900 tonnes of land and other merchandise which had been received in Harrisburg during the week, and included in the lot were 400 gunny bags, and made the line read: "700 barrels of petroleum, 900 tonnes of land and 40,000 bung-holes."—Ez.

PALMER, Philadelphia, Pa., Sold by all druggists.

Kissed the Wrong Girl.

On one of the seats in a railway train was a married lady with a little daughter; opposite, facing them, was another child, a son, and a colored nurse and a baby. The mother of these children was a beautiful matron, with sparkling eyes, exuberant health, and vivacious spirits. Near her sat a young lieutenant, dressed to kill, and seeking a victim. By and by the train approached a tunnel. The lieutenant leaned over and whispered something in the lady's ear. For the understanding property of this narrative we must tell the reader what was whispered and what was the reply: "I mean to kiss you when we get into the tunnel," whispered the lieutenant.

"I will be dark—who will see it?" replied the lady. Into the tunnel the train, lady and colored nurse quickly changed seats; gay lieutenant threw his arms around the lady, pressed her cheek to his, and fast and furiously raised kisses on her lips. In a few moments the train came out into broad daylight. White lady looked amazed; colored lady bashful, blushing; gay lieutenant befogged.

"Jane," said the white lady, "what have you been doing?" "Nothing," responded the colored lady. "Yes you have," said the white lady, not in an undertone, but in a voice that attracted the attention of all in the car: "See how your collar is rumpled and bonnet smashed." Jane, poor colored beauty, hung her head a moment, the observed of all observers, and then turning round to the lieutenant, replied: "This man kissed me in the tunnel!"

Wanted to be Kicked.

"Yes, yes," smiled the old countryman as he stood talking to a city man, who seemed to know him. "That's a heap of tricks played on the kentrymen; they gets sucked in lots o' times. But I kinder figger that the sharper what tries to draw wool over my eyes 'll get lef' partly bad." "I'll bet you're a good one," answered the stranger, patronizingly, "I can tell a man when he's green." The rustic poked him in the side, and pulling down his eye, laughed. "I've seen anything green there?" "Not a bit of it," merrily replied the other; then in an advising tone he continued: "I've seen more of the world than you have, and would like to say that the most important action is concealing the money." "Oh, I've got that down fine," broke in the countryman, pointing to his left sleeve; "d'ye see that ar little lump? Well, that's the cash, inside o' the linen, and nobody can take it out 'thout me knowin' it." A few moments after he had parted, the countryman went into a clothing store to do some buying. He had made his purchase and was waiting for the bill, when one of the salesmen approached him and said: "Can't I sell you a nice chair?" "Not me," answered the rustic. "But I see the sleeve of the one you have on has been torn or cut, and if you wish, one of the ladies will mend it for you." With a ghastly look the farmer jerked off his coat and viewed the wrecked sleeve. Then, turning to the clerk, he told sorrowfully: "Mister, kin ye tell me whar I kin get a rale stout man to kick a dinged fool outin town?"

The Smelling-Bottle Craze.

The smelling-bottle craze, says Harper's Bazar, has been a very fashionable one with young girls in Washington for the past few months. One belle now has her second bottle presented within three months, each of which cost $60. This first was crushed under her carriage wheels in coming from a party one night, and its gold top carried on at least a foot in length, and being of very thick cut glass it is particularly ponderous. A bottle of this kind, even of moderate size, costs $40.
