Suicide of a Cricketer.

LONDON, July 12.—Scotton, the famous Nottingham cricketer, committed suicide on Sunday by cutting his throat with a razor.

Deasy Withdraws.

LONDON, July 12.—In view of the verdict of the jury against him, Mr. Deasy has applied for the stewardship of the Chiltern Hundreds.

Gold Coming This Way.

SOUTHAMPTON, July 12.—The North German Lloyd steamer Trave from Bremen, which sailed hence this afternoon for New York, has on board gold to the amount of $335,000.

Cholera Calls Again.

VIENNA, July 12.—Cholera has reappeared in Moscow, Kieff and Northeast Hungary. In Moscow the outbreak is most serious. There have been 32 cases and 11 deaths in the convict forwarding prison.

Lord Coleridge's Health.

LONDON, July 12.—Lord Coleridge, Lord Chief Justice of England, whose sudden illness at the Newcastle Assizes yesterday necessitated the adjournment of the court, has entirely recovered. He was on the bench this morning.

Financial Failures.

LONDON, July 12—5 p.m.—Two stock brokers failed to-day—William Baker Moore and Frank Harold Boyer. The stock market closed very unsettled. It is feared that other brokers will fail to-morrow. American railroad securities were exceedingly depressed.

Newfoundland and France.

LONDON, July 12.—In the House of Commons to-day, Sir Edward Grey, Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, stated that the Government had received no news of the reported quarrel between Rear Admiral La Mornaix, of the French warship Naiad, and the Government of Newfoundland.

On the 12th of July, Too!

LONDON, July 12.—The Gazette this evening contains a notification that her Majesty has been pleased to direct letters patent to be passed under the great seal of the United Kingdom, granting the dignity of a baronet unto the Hon. Stuart Knell, Lord Mayor of London, who is a Roman Catholic.

The Khedive Causing Trouble.

LONDON, July 12.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Times telegraphs that the Khedive visited Ismael Pasha to-day, and he intends to call upon the foreign ambassadors. His visit is going to embarrass the Government. It is feared that he will insist that the Sultan shall take open antagonistic measures in Egypt, and will threaten to abdicate if the Sultan refuses. The report that a contingent of Egyptian notables is coming here increases the alarm lest a popular demonstration be created.

Mr. Gladstone Sticks to Midlothian.

LONDON, July 12.—Rumors have been current that Mr. Gladstone would not again stand for election in Modlothian district and that at the next general election he would stand for a Welsh district. Mr. Gladstone has written a letter which is made public to-day, settling all doubt as to his intentions. He says that he will again stand for election in Midlothian, as he believes that the constituency will continue to support him. He adds that he has no intention of seeking election in a Welsh constituency.

Suicide of a Beauty.

BRUSSELS, July 12.—Mlle. Wanda de Raszye has committed suicide here under romantic circumstances. She was a great beauty and lived with her stepfather, the Russian privy councilor Metchkowsky, who was also the financial agent of the Russian Treasury. She became enamored of Prince Victor Napoleon, who lived opposite her in the Avenue Louise, and wrote love letters to him, which he ignored. She thereupon shot herself through the head with a revolver after visiting and laying flowers upon the grave of Gen. Boulanger.

The Franco-Siamese Snarl.

BERLIN, July 12.—The Navy Department has sent a dispatch to the German-China station ordering the warship Wolf to proceed at once to Bangkok to protect German subjects and interests in the Siamese capital in the event of an outbreak of hostilities between the French and the Siamese.

A Singapore paper says French encroachments will precipitate what the English and Siamese prophets have long foreseen—the establishment of a British protectorate over Siam. It remains to be seen how France will receive the applications for a British protectorate over Siam. We have an uneasy feeling that if England were to address a general remonstrance to France for her conduct in Siam, and ask for explanations, France would withdraw all objection to British occupation of Egypt, if England would allow France a free hand in the far East, including the occupation of Siam.

Trades and Deals in the Reichstag.

BERLIN, July 12.—The present week is one of political trades and deals. Government agents are scurrying hither and thither to rally the Parliamentary forces. Members of all parties except the Social Democrats and Richter Radicals are in daily conference with the representatives of the Chancellor. All the customary appeals to patriotism, party and class interests, and individual ambitions are being made. To-morrow the vote on the second reading of the Army Bill will be taken. The size of the Government majority is still in doubt; in fact, a few members on the Extreme Left profess to doubt that there will be any Government majority. The strength of the Government coalition is undetermined, and must remain so until the results of the incessant lobbying of the next few days shall become known. A final attempt is making to win over the Clericals.

A la Ottawa.

ROME, July 12.—Out of the 420 members constituting the Senate, 120 are charged with complicity, either direct or indirect, in the bank scandal. About 100 members of the Chamber of Deputies are similarly implicated. As it is proposed that the Senate sit as a high court of justice, it is demanded that the accused senators resign.

Rembrandt Etchings for Sale.

LONDON, July 12.—The sale of the celebrated Holford collection of prints and drawings will extend for four days. Holford's collection of Rembrandt etchings is probably the finest in the world. It includes the first states of the famous hundred guilder print, "Christ Healing the Sick," of "Rembrandt with Saber," and of "Ephraim Bonus with Black Ring," which has lately been valued at $5,000. Of the hundred guilder print only seven first states exist, and the Holford impression is the only one that will ever be offered for sale. Of the others, one is in the British Museum, one in Amsterdam, one in Vienna, one (the late Duke of Buccleuch's) in Berlin, one in the National Library in Paris, and the other belongs to the city of Rouen. The Buccleuch impression, which is inferior to the Holford one, realized 1,300 guineas. There are only four copies of the "Rambrandt with Sabre," of which three are in public collections, and the "Bonus with Black Ring" is of equal rarity. The German and Italian prints are also very fine, indeed, and the "Adam and Eve," of Durer is sure to realize a large price. The drawings by old Dutch masters are a very remarkable lot, including some splendid examples.

Thomas Sexton's Grievance.

LONDON, July 12.—Mr. Thomas Sexton is still quite indignant at the action of Chairman Mellor in suspending him, and is determined, if possible, to be set right in the matter.

Mr. Sexton asked Speaker Peel to-day if Mr. Mellor had not violated the rules of procedure of the House in suspending him for disorderly conduct, and if he could not obtain the judgment of the House on the conduct of Mr. Mellor.

The Speaker said that Mr. Sexton had the right to give notice of a motion questioning the conduct of Mr. Mellor.

Mr. Sexton thereupon gave notice that he would move the adoption of a resolution declaring that the chairman of the committee of the whole had misused the powers of his office in suspending him.

Mr. Gavin B. Clark, Radical, supported Mr. Sexton in his attempt to get the House to pronounce Chairman Mellor's action arbitrary and in excess of his authority. Mr. Clark also gave notice that he would introduce a motion to reduce by £1,000 the amount of the salary paid to the chairman. In this motion Mr. Clark, it is said, will be supported by the other Radical members whose aim it is to compel Mr. Mellor to retire.

The House then went into committee of the whole on the Home Rule Bill.

Mr. Gladstone announced the withdrawal of the in-and-out subsection of clause 9. By the withdrawal of this subsection the 80 Irish members to be retained in the Imperial Parliament will have rights fully equal to those given to the British members.

IN DOUBT.

Report of More Bodies Found in the Warehouse Ruins Not Confirmed.

A Second Catastrophe Narrowly Averted —The Dead Number Fifteen.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, CHICAGO, July 12.—It is impossible to verify the statement made by a morning paper that ten more bodies had been found in the ruins of the cold storage warehouse fire. Men working in the ruins this morning declare that the statement has no foundation whatever.

The list of victims still increases. This afternoon another body was recovered from the ruins, swelling the death total to fifteen, with a large area of debris still unexplored. The remains recovered this afternoon were those of Ralph A. Drummond, constructing engineer of the Cold Storage Company. It is known that at least two, and possibly half a dozen more bodies must be yet in the ruins, as the Michigan brewer, the amateur elevator boy and a Columbian guard are still missing.

Up to this afternoon $12,825 had been subscribed for the families of the victims, and subscriptions are still rapidly coming in.

ALMOST ANOTHER CATASTROPHE.

While celebrating the arrival of the Viking ship to-day, an accident occurred that came near proving the second horror of the week. The small pleasure steamer Imperial, which plies between the pier and Lincoln Park, was at its dock, having just taken aboard some 40 or more people for a north-bound trip. Just as the Imperial was about to steam out the big steamboat Arthur Orr, which had participated in the lake parade, came rapidly in behind.

Either no signal was given to slow up or the engineer mistook his orders, for the big boat crashed full in on the little one, driving it into the landing for a distance of over 30 feet, with a force that made the crunching of the timbers audible a couple of blocks away. The pier at the time was crowded with people, and their escape was little short of a miracle.

One man, name unknown, was caught between the boat and the timbers and his lower limbs were crushed almost to a jelly. Several others received contusions. Heinrich Hanson, Mrs. A. Natal and W. Fredericson, all middle-aged people, were thrown into the water, but were rescued.

THE WORLD OF LONDON

Chronicled and Criticised by Mr. Edmund Yates.

Residence of the Duke of York—How Princess Beatrice Travels—Diplomatic Changes—Colonel Man —The Lord Mayor's Income.

LONDON, July 12.—Some very foolish and absurd statements in connection with the royal wedding have been going the round of the papers. One exceptionally silly fiction is the tale that the Queen has provided in a substantial manner for keeping up the household of the Duke and Duchess of York, who, moreover, will be free to use suites of rooms in various palaces. There is no truth in this story. It is no part of the Queen's business to provide for the Duke and Duchess of York, whose household will be sufficiently kept up on an income of £22,000 a year, which it is said they are to receive out of the annual Parliamentary grant of £36,000 a year for the children of the Prince and Princess of Wales. The Duke and Duchess are to live at St. James' Palace when in town, and the Villa Sandringham is to be their usual residence in the country. The paragraph, which originated with a romancing American journal, and which has been extensively copied by our papers, states that the Prince Consort's life was insured for £1,000,000, which the Queen has now in her possession, and her life again is insured very largely for the benefit of her younger children, notably Princess Beatrice. This is a farrago of nonsense. The Prince Consort's life was not insured for a farthing, nor is the Queen's, except so far as it is insured by persons who have put her Majesty's life in leases, and other outside speculators. It is also utterly untrue that Emperor Frederick's life was insured for £800,000.

THE LORD MAYOR'S INCOME.

People imagine that the Lord Mayor's allowance of £10,000 a year is very handsome, but it is notorious that every chief magistrate of modern times finds it only half sufficient for the numerous duties of hospitality in which he takes the place of the nation. The present Lord Mayor, for instance, has, so it is said expended close upon £1,000 out of his own pocket in decorating and illuminating the Mansion House and in the entertainment of rich and poor at the celebration of the royal wedding.

IMPENDING DIPLOMATIC CHANGES.

An unprecedentedly important reshuffling of cards in the British diplomatic corps is likely shortly to take place, and Lord Rosebery will have considerable difficulty in filling up all the vacant posts without appointing outsiders. Sir Clare Ford will not remain in Constantinople, as he has made a great strategic error about the Khedive's visit, which may occasion most serious complications in the near future. Lord Cromer is anxious to quit Cairo immediately. Sir John Walsham meditates a speedy retirement to private life. Sir Robert Morier is far too ill to remain much longer at St. Petersburg, and Lord Vivian will certainly leave Rome as soon as possible. It is possible, too, that both Sir Edmund Monson and Sir Francis Plunkett will be moved again. The former will be sworn into the Privy Council in the course of a few days.

RETURN OF COL. MAN.

Col. Man, of the Gordon Highlanders, who was Chinese Gordon's and Valentine Baker's trusted lieutenant, has just returned home from Trinidad, where he has been commanding the local forces for some time past. The Trinidad Government is pursuing a policy of rigid economy just now, and it is uncertain whether Col. Man will return to his post. Judging by the way in which he is spoken of by the local press, this able and distinguished soldier's loss to the colony would be irreparable; but the Colonial Office is not likely to allow him to remain long idle. For men of his stamp are not so common that they can be allowed to rust in idleness when there are so many capacities in which they can be employed to the advantage of the public service.

RATION MONEY IN THE NAVY.

Admiral of the Fleet Symonds has pointed out that by its own statement the Admiralty made clear £25,250 on ships' rations, which the men do not draw, but are paid for in cash instead. This sum represents the yearly difference between the value of food and the money technically known as "saving" paid for it to the men. It is legally the men's property, and neither the Treasury or the Admiralty have the slightest right to it. Sir Thomas says that during the 70 years he has been connected with the navy £1,767,500 has thus been misapplied. If this money were annually paid into the royal naval fund it would soon become strong enough to deal with such cases as the Victoria's widows and orphans without sending the hat round.

ROYAL TRAVELING ARRANGEMENTS.

An evening journal, in a blundering dissertation on the Queen's traveling arrangements, states that no special accommodations are ever provided for Princess Beatrice. As a matter of fact Princess Beatrice invariably travels in the same saloon with the Queen, and her Majesty's night carriage, which is fitted up in compartments as a bedroom and dressing-room, contains a second bed, which is always occupied by the princess. Several continental journals have lately announced that the Queen travels free over all the railways in Great Britain, while the expenses of the members of the royal family are paid by the Treasury. Of course this is all rubbish. The Queen pays her own expenses, which average £6,000 a year for home journeys alone, and the royal family pay their fares just like ordinary passengers.

FRANK SMITH, ET AL., VS. TORONTO

The Street Railway Case Decided by the Privy Council in Favor of the City.

TORONTO, July 12.—When Toronto took over the old street railway company's plant at a valuation, Senator Frank Smith and his partner put in a claim for the perpetual franchise they considered they held. The arbitrators decided that they only had a 30-years' concession, and refused to allow them a cent for the franchise, which at their calculation was worth from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000. The old company fought the case through every court in Canada and were beaten. They carried it to the Privy Council in England, and there the case came up before the law lords to-day. Hon. S. H. Blake cabled from London this afternoon: "Appeal virtually dismissed; will sail for home on 20th."

This decision settles the ownership of the streets, and the absurd contention, that although the city now paves the track allowances, the company, because of a payment of $300 per mile yearly, owns the pavements at the end of the lease.

For the city Hon. E. Blake, Christopher Robinson, Q.C., and Hon. S. H. Blake appeared, while the company was represented by Sir Horace Davey and D'Alton McCarthy, Q.C.

The Department of Justice has decided that the Government has no power to grant exemption from the operation of the law against the pollution of rivers. The question arose out of the petition of the salmon canners on the Fraser River, B. C., asking leave to discharge the offal from that works into the river.

After an illness of ten weeks, Mr. Peter S. Filman, one of the best known and most highly respected farmers of Barton township, Wednesday passed peacefully away at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. John H. Land, Hamilton. The Terre Haute car works, one of the largest of its class in the west and the largest in Indiana, has assigned. It employed 900 men and did an annual business of $3,000,000. Inability to realize upon gilt edge securities because of the extreme stringency of the money market is the cause of the assignment.

A Warm Welcome

Accorded Visiting Christian Endeavorers by the Local Union.

A Great Gathering in St. Andrew's Church.

Stirring Addresses by Bishop Fallows, of Chicago, and Dr. Rondthaler, of Indianapolis—The Visitors Heard From—In Love With London.

It was warm last night, and Christian Endeavor enthusiasm jerked the thermometer in St. Andrew's Church up several degrees. Atmospheric conditions, however, did not prevent the young people from packing the big edifice to welcome their visiting brothers and sisters from over the boarder. The 25 or 30 Endeavorers from Wisconsin, Arkansas, Indiana, and Minnesota, who were invited to stop over in London, en route home from the Montreal convention, will never regret accepting it, if what they say be true. They were royally treated by local members, and in the afternoon driven around the city in hacks. Their praises of the beauty and hospitality of the Forest City made their entertainers blush with pardonable pride. Last night they attended St. Andrew's in a body. On the platform sat Rev. J. A. Murray (chairman), Rev. M. P. Talling, ex-President Clarke, of the local union, Canon Richardson, Rev. Ira Smith, and two distinguished visitors, Bishop Fallows, of Chicago, and Rev. Dr. Rondthaler, of Indianapolis. The choir opened with several of those inspiring Endeavor hymns. Mr. Clarke followed with a scripture reading, and Ira Smith with prayer.

THE CHAIRMAN,

in his usual felicitous manner, introduced the speakers as two distinguished clergymen from the other side, while scattered among the audience were representatives from very strong and energetic societies in the great American Republic. In the name of the Christian Endeavorers of London he heartily welcomed them to this beautiful city in the British part of the country. "We are patriotic here as you are on the other side, but in Christian Endeavor we acknowledge no geographical lines." (Applause.) The first speaker would be Bishop Fallows, from the little village of Chicago. (Laughter.)

BISHOP FALLOWS.

Bishop Fallows was loudly applauded, said Chicago hoped one day to rival London—the other London. (Laughter.) If Chicago could rival the most valuable qualities of London on this side of the Atlantic, she would be a pretty fortunate city. (Applause.) Canada had been giving the Endeavorers a great reception. She was giving them a "warm" reception to-night. (Laughter.) Referring to the little trouble in Montreal, the bishop said that about ninety-nine and nine-ninths of the people there felt the way his friend Dr. Rondthaler said his baby felt when it cried—mortified, chagrined and ashamed. They had a royal time in Montreal, and he could respond cordially to the sentiments of the chairman. "Thank God," he said, "for the union which prevails between the two great nationalities—Britain and America. (Applause.) We are coming closer and closer together; we are realizing the divineness of the mission of the Anglo-Saxon race; we are realizing our providential position in human history, and God forbid that we should be unfaithful to the high trust reposed in us. (Applause.) Let us go forward in uniting this world under one Lord and Master, Jesus Christ."

"There was some talk in the convention," said the bishop, "of the division of the society into junior, intermediate and senior societies because of the rapid growth of the junior members, who now number scores of thousands; but, the speaker said, he would belong to nothing but the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society. He was never going to be a senior. (Applause.) He wanted to be young and perennial.

DR. RONDTHALER.

Dr. Rondthaler, of Indianapolis, is a young divine with a western breeziness of manner that quite captured his hearers. As one of the visiting delegates remarked, he is called the "Indiana Cyclone." The chairman explained that the word Rondthaler was German, and indicated a valuable piece of money, so that they might expect to hear something rich. The speaker, however, claimed to be only a poor parson, though, perhaps, rich in the glories of God. Dr. Rondthaler, in a humorous way, told how one day in the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, his attention was arrested by a gentleman enthusiastic enough in manner to be a Methodist, stately enough to be a Presbyterian, clean enough to be a Baptist and handsome enough to be a Presbyterian. He found out this was a canon—Canon Richardson, of London. (Laughter.) He finally managed to come into collision with the canon, and it was through his invitation that he and his friends were in London. (Applause.)

The doctor dealt eloquently on the blessings of Christian Endeavor work in broadening and liberalizing every denomination, and casually gave some humorous thrusts at doctrinal differences. "My Baptist friend," said he, "would not allow me to sit at his communion table, but I may go into the pulpit and proclaim the word of God. If I go into an Episcopalian church, the rector or canon or curate wouldn't let me go into the pulpit, but I may kneel down at the communion rail with him. (Laughter.) In the Congregational Church I am free to do what I please. In the Methodist Church they will let me do everything but take up the collection. (Laughter.) Then when I come back into the Presbyterian fold—well, be it ever so lowly, there's no place like home. And so the circle is complete and the gem that sets off this circle is Jesus Christ, the center of their love."

The speaker hoped the day would soon come when the ballot would be a powerful weapon in the hands of Endeavorers. Its first blows would be directed at the dread monster, the saloon. (Applause.) At Montreal 15,000 delegates had struck hands and vowed it would be so. "You are living in a favored spot in London. Only 40 saloons to between 30,000 and 35,000 population! It is a small number, and yet I notice you have two big breweries. (Laughter.) Don't be content that you have only 40, but determine to shut them up altogether. (Applause.) In Indianapolis with 122,000 population we have over 700 saloons, but we are going to work to close them, and if we do not finish the work our successors will." (Applause.)

Dr. Rondthaler alluded to Dr. Douglass' remarkable address on personal purity at the convention. The Endeavorers in the large cities, had organized rescue societies for the rescue of Magdalens. The Endeavorers should stand firm in demanding personal purity from men as well as women. (Hear, hear.) Those who had been the cause of the Magdalens could still move in the best circles but the women were trodden down under foot. (Hear, hear.)

VISITORS HEARD FROM.

At the invitation of the doctor a number of the visiting delegates spoke briefly.

Mrs. Raymond Reid, a member of the press in Indiana, praised Canadian hospitality, and remarked that she had been a student at Hellmuth College here. The young people must have Christ in their hearts and look on him as a personal saviour.

A lady delegate from Milwaukee, representing the largest society in Wisconsin said that the thing that most impressed her at the convention was the necessity of personal work. They must lead people to Christ.

An Arkansas young man said they were civilized now in his part. They had Christian Endeavor and electric cars. (Laughter.) They had forsaken bowie knives and were now carrying the weapons of Christ. (Applause.) Little Rock, where he lived, was about the size of London, but had more than 40 saloons. They had churches, too, but some of the preachers were not worth picking up out of the street. The young people there hired a hall, paid for it, and wished to hold meetings during the winter, but not one of the clergy would preach for them—told them they were stepping beyond their limits. They had received a glorious welcome in Canada, especially in London. (Applause.) The local officers had showed them all over the city, and they did not have to walk or ride in the horse cars, either. (Applause and laughter.)

Seven delegates from St. Louis stood up and sang, "Blest be the tie that binds," the audience joining in.

Another Wisconsin delegate said they were surprised with Montreal's hospitality and delighted with beautiful Toronto, but London capped the climax. (Applause.) He paid high compliments to Ex-President Clark, Dr. Leonard, ex-U. S. consul, and his successor.

Dr. Rondthaler expressed gratitude at seeing so many Church of England societies in London. He was happy to see the church of his fathers coming into the broad circle of denominational liberality.

Short prayers were made by the American delegates, followed by hymns.

Mr. C. R. Sayer, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., in a neat speech, moved a vote of thanks to the visitors for their attendance, seconded by Mr. McDermid, and carried amid applause.

The singing of "God be with you till we meet again" and the Benediction closed this remarkable meeting.

TAXES!

RATEPAYERS OF THE CITY OF LONDON are requested to take notice that for 1893 they may, if desired, pay their taxes in two instalments, the first of which must be paid during the first 30 days of August, and the second during the first 30 days of October. Ratepayers paying the installments as they become due according to the above dates will not be charged interest, nor will discount be allowed. If either of the said installments is not paid during the time above specified, a 5 per cent. interest charge will be added thereto. Any ratepayer immediately paying the whole of his taxes during the first 30 days of August will be allowed a discount of 3 per cent. off the second installment, the payment of which he might have deferred till October. Rates amounting to less than $6 are not sub-divided. Special attention is directed to the fact that in order to enable the council to satisfactorily close its own financial year, the collectors have been directed by bylaw to return the rolls for 1893 to the city treasurer on the 15th day of December next, so that if the installments are not paid as above specified, they must be collected previous to Dec. 15, with the 5 per cent. added. When paying your taxes bring marked check or even change. Do not wait to pay your taxes till the 30 days have nearly expired; by so doing you will run the risk of being crowded out in consequence of the inability of the collectors to receive same. Pay as early in the month as you can. The 5 per cent. charge must be added after the expiration of the 30 days without considering the cause of or reason for non-payment. By order, C. A. KINGSTON, City Clerk. City Clerk's office, July 4, 1893. 14m tyw

SUNDAY STREET CAR CAMPAIGN.

Action of the Toronto Ministerial Association.

TORONTO, July 12.—The Ministerial Association held a special meeting this morning to decide on a course of action in regard to the agitation for running street cars on Sunday. An impression has been given that the clergymen of the city are not unanimously opposed to Sunday cars. The members of the association take exception to this contention, and intend to take steps to ascertain the views on the subject of every Protestant minister in the city. A resolution to that effect was passed.

Arnoldi's Punishment (?)

OTTAWA, July 12.—John R. Arnoldi has not yet paid the fine of $1,000 imposed by the court in addition to the six months' term of imprisonment. The imprisonment of the ex-chief mechanical engineer of the Department of Public Works is not so hard to bear as might be supposed. He is living better than two-thirds of the people of Ottawa. Under a medical certificate he is relieved of every prison rule and regulation, save the denial of liberty. His meals are cooked in his own house and brought to him every day. There is no restriction as to diet, so that he enjoys a breast of chicken, a roast of beef, plum pudding and sherry and ale just as well as if he were at home. He sleeps on his own bed, brought from his house, and has a specially furnished apartment. His term will expire about the end of September.

THE TURF.

Several entries have already been recorded for the trotting stake, 3-minute class, to be run at the Western Fair on Monday, Sept. 18. The race will be run in mile heats, best three in five. Horses foaled in Canada were eligible up till July 1 last. The entrance fee is $15, payable as follows: $5 July 15, $5 Aug. 1, $5 Aug. 15. On the latter date horses are to be named. This is expected to be an interesting and speedy event.

ATHLETICS.

CORBETT AND JACKSON MATCHED.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Last night James Corbett and Parson Davies, the latter acting for Peter Jackson, signed articles for a fight between Corbett and Jackson, to come off in June, 1894. The fight is to be for the largest purse obtainable and a side bet of $10,000, the winner to take everything. The men each put up $1,000 forfeit, and are to put up $1,500 additional in three months from date, $2,500 in six months from date, and the remaining $5,000 three months before the fight.

THE TRIGGER.

G. T. R. GUN CLUB.

The weekly shoot of the G. T. R. Gun Club took place yesterday at their range here. Following is the score out of a possible 25 birds: Stover, 14; Avey, 21; Rich, 15; White, 12; Evans, 14.

Hundreds of people write "It is impossible to describe the good Hood's Sarsaparilla has done me." It will be of equal help to you.

No, Maud, dear; you are mistaken in thinking that you can clear your vision by straining your eyes.

The camel is a clumsy brute. It never has to hump itself.

We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is without doubt the best medicine ever introduced for diarrhoea, cholera and all summer complaint, sea sickness, etc. It never fails to effect a positive cure when their children are cutting their teeth. Mothers should never be without it.

She (an artist)—What made you love me? I know my face is plain. He (with enthusiasm)—Perspective, dearest, but your figure is magnificent.

Among the many pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is rheumatism, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the rheumatic ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject.

Belle—What do you call Blanche a beauty? Jack—Not unless I thought she was likely to overhear me.

For a disordered liver, use BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Detective—Go on with the description of your cashier. You say he is stout. Is he short? Banker—Short? Of course he is—$50,000. Do you suppose I'd be here trying to have him arrested if he wasn't?

William of Orange.

Celebration of the Glorious Twelfth of July at Exeter.

Large Concourse of People and an Immense Procession.

Vandals Tear Down an Arch—Addresses by Rev. Mr. Jackson, Exeter; Mayor Essery, London; L. H. Dickson, Exeter, and Rev. William McDonagh, Exeter.

The 12th of July and the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne were celebrated at the good town of Exeter yesterday in a manner both satisfactory to the participants and pleasing to the business and hotel men of that place, who had the handling of an additional population of 5,000 people for the day. The crowds began to arrive early in the morning, and continued to do so until after noon. Two trains of eight or ten coaches each left London, and every stop that was made on the way considerably augmented the number. Two more trains came down from the north, and a surprisingly large number of Orangemen drove in from the surrounding country. Main street was liberally decorated with evergreen arches. One of these, in front of the Trivett Memorial Church was strewn along the sides of the street, the work of vandals the night before. A reward of $25 was offered for the conviction of the persons who demolished it. At the top of another arch a little way up the street was a pen, in which was a captive goat gaudily attired in yellow and blue. One South Huron farmer was not content that only his family should celebrate, so he brought in his farm dog with two ribbons around its neck, and two around each foot. Its tail was a moving barber's pole. This favored animal drove all the town dogs into the back yards with envy. The Trivott Memorial Church chimes kept up a continuous peal all day. Sacred music and patriotic songs were wafted on the breezes in pleasing melody, and a large crowd inspected the edifice, which was thrown open to the throng.

THE PROCESSION.

The procession was an imposing affair, and occupied 40 minutes in passing a given point. It was estimated that 2,000 Orange men and women were in line, and a large number of young Orangemen who had brought the indispensable young lady were strictly "in line" on the hotel piazzas as they held red and white and yellow and blue parasols to keep the scorching rays of the sun at a proper distance. A few drops of rain fell about 10 o'clock in the morning, but by 2 o'clock—the time the procession started—the road had had to be watered several times.

The procession formed on the market square and moved off down Main street to Huron, and down Huron to Snell's Grove, where the speeches were made. In the van came several 'busses containing ladies of the order; following these came the different lodges on foot—seventeen of them from East Middlesex alone. The marshals were: Messrs. John Scarlett, Goderich; Frank Davis, Biddulph; F. H. Logan, second district, Middlesex; F. H. Wright, No. 1 district, Middlesex. Following was the no time was lost in preliminaries. It was a hot day, there were few speakers, and it was soon over.

J. M. Todd, county master, of South Huron, called the gathering to order, and asked that the same peaceable and friendly spirit that had hitherto marked such gatherings, should once more prevail. He read letters of regret from Clarke Wallace, G.M., A. F. Campbell, M.P.P., and Prof. Austin, St. Thomas. In conclusion he called upon

REV. MR. JACKSON,

pastor of the Main Street Methodist Church, Exeter. Mr. Jackson was greeted with applause. He spoke of the different classes of Orangemen. Those who were Orangemen in heart and did not show it, and those who were Orangemen both inwardly and outwardly, and he did not doubt that should a struggle come again in defense of the truth, the man who were only Orange in heart would be found standing shoulder to shoulder in defense of truth and rightousness. (Applause.) He had often been asked what Orangeism was, and he was proud to say that Orangeism principally represented Ireland. (Here, here and applause.) The principles further represented were liberty, fidelity, courage and love of right. "We expect," said the speaker, "that the battles of the past will never have to be fought again in the future. There are now powerful educative influences and forces at work that are lifting man up to that state in which they are capable of prizing the price of their manhood, and not only prizing it but maintaining it by milder, yet more potent, measures than physical force. But, remember, if the day ever comes when physical force shall have to be resorted to, I see in the gathering of to-day promise of the fact that swords will be drawn as freely, rifles shouldered as freely and lives sacrificed as freely as ever they were in the defense of truth and rightousness." (Applause.)

was received with applause and cries of "No Popery." He started in by praising the magnitude of Canada, its physical beauty and its history. He paid compliment to its manhood and its womanhood. "There is a time coming in Canada," said the mayor, "when there shall be one country and one flag, one people and one government, one school and one religion. In the city of London I attended the last celebration of the "Hoisting of the Flag" and there was a speaker there who stood on the platform and said that there should be no dissention among the people of Canada. He wanted them to rally round one flag and he told them that if they did so the future of this country would be a glorious one. And the very fact that he was introduced to the citizens of London as the chairman of the Separate School Board of that city, showed that he was there as the representative of a faction who are attempting to divide this country in the future as they always have attempted to divide it in the past." (Applause.) The separate school question next occupied the speaker's attention, and after that he passed on to speak of Clarke Wallace, grand master. He regretted that Mr. Wallace was unable to be present. There were members of the order who stated that that gentleman ought not to have taken office under the Queen, simply because he did not get a place in the Government. But Mayor Essery advised all that it was the duty of the people, whenever they were called to office, to accept the call, because if they didn't some man with a cross on his back would not only get the office but the emoluments as well. He closed, amidst applause, with the statement that had he been in the Government when the Jesuit question was voted on he would have made the "devil's thirteen" fourteen, and said that whenever a regiment was required to back up the principles of truth and liberty, East Middlesex would furnish 1,200 men, with a man at the head of the regiment who had qualified in a British military school.

L. H. DICKSON,

master of Exeter Lodge, 924, was the next speaker. He thanked the assembled concourse for their attendance and enthusiasm. They had been disappointed in the matter of speakers, but he could introduce the next one with a clear conscience as a man who was an Orangeman before he was born, of Exeter, formerly of London, was the person referred to by the previous speaker, and he did not deny the accusation. His parents and ancestors had been Orangemen, and it must have been so. Mr. McDonagh made a forcible speech of over half an hour. He said the priests of the Roman Catholic Church were the faction to be contended against, and not the laity. He welcomed the 12th of July because it reminded rotten and ignorant Protestants, and Protestants who talked about Orangeism being sectarian, that long before they had been born the Prince of Orange secured all the liberty that they now enjoyed. In conclusion he counseled all to refuse to vote for a Roman Catholic as a member of Parliament.

After the addresses most of the crowd took the short cut up the track to the station instead of going back to town. No accidents were noted, and the best of good feeling and good conduct characterized the celebration.

A Sad Awakening!

"When in the dark, on thy soft hand I hung,
And heard the tempting syren of thy tongue—
What flames—what darts—what anguish I endured.
But when the candle entered—I was cured!'

Such complexions as so many of our young ladies possess—dull, pimply, and covered with sores and blackheads, is enough to cool the ardor of the warmest lover. To such young ladies we would say, that you can never have a soft, fair, smooth, attractive, kissable complexion, unless your blood is healthy and pure, for the condition of the blood decides the complexion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will purify your blood, tone up your system, and drive away those distressing headaches and backache, from which you suffer periodically, and give you a complexion a lily or rose-leaf might envy.

Variety is the spice of life, but it will never provide an acceptable substitute for cloves at the theater.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

Reveling in Space—A lady's arm in a fashionable sleeve.

As to horse shows, the best of them won't get any unless the jockey is straight.

Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

Queen Victoria is now sovereign over one continent, 100 peninsulas, 500 promontories, 1,000 lakes, 2,000 rivers and 10,000 islands.

A Man Made Happy.—GENTLEMEN,—For five years I have been a great sufferer with Dyspepsia; the pain in the pit of my stomach was almost unbearable and life only seemed a drag to me. When I would go to sleep I would have horrible dreams, and my life became very miserable, as there was no rest either day or night. But with the use of only two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY this unhappy state has all been changed and I am a well man. I can assure you, my case was a bad one, and I send you this that it may be the means of convincing others of the wonderful curative qualities possessed by this medicine, that are specially adapted for the cure of Dyspepsia. A lady customer of mine had the Dyspepsia very bad, she could scarcely eat anything, and was troubled with pains similar to those I suffered with; and she cured herself with two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY. I wish you success with your medicine, as I am fully convinced that it will do all you claim for it.

—[BROWNING.

London, Thursday, July 13.

THE inhabitants of Eap Island, in the Pacific, have pink hair, and it is not produced by dye.

HON. MR. LAURIER had a splendid reception when he spoke at St. Anne, Quebec, Tuesday. He was the guest of Mayor St. Martin.

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT is an expert yachtsman. No matter how rough the weather is, he sails daily to and from Kingston and his summer home in the River St. Lawrence.

CHEAP railway fares have come—on a certain class of trains. The traveler who will be contented with a day coach, and does not pine for the dining car or the sleeper, can go to the Chicago Exhibition for one fare for both journeys, at least on three days of the week. This is all right for us in the west, who can leave by the morning express, and reach Chicago in the afternoon, but it will not be so pleasant for those who are compelled to travel all night. The outcome of the decision of the railway managers will be a decided increase in travel Chicagoward.

AN IMPORTANT announcement is sent us by Mr. W. Patterson, of Montreal, secretary of the Dominion history committee. The intention is to hold a competition for the production of a new text book of Canadian history, and intending competitors are requested to write to the committee for permission to compete, as well as for conditions. The author of the best book will be awarded a royalty of 10 per cent. of its retail price. As there are over 16,000 public schools to use the work, the prize will be one of great value. Authors of the next four manuscripts of merit will receive $200 each. Manuscripts will be received up to Jan. 1, 1895. The promoters of this movement, to have the history of Canada written from a Dominion instead of a Provincial standpoint as at present, and suitable for general use in all Canadian schools, irrespective of creed or nationality, are actuated by a wish to inspire the boys and girls of the Dominion with a true sense of the nobility and grandeur of the heritage of Canadians and so to help to create and maintain a unity of patriotic sentiment. Their efforts deserve success.

ELECTRIC STREET RAILWAY OFFERS.

The London City Council continues to wrestle with the question of an electric street railway. This may be a pleasant enough undertaking for the aldermen, but the average citizen finds it a hard job to intelligently follow the negotiations that have now extended over many months. The ADVERTISER therefore proposes, in as concise a shape as is possible, to review the four offers that have been before the council from time to time.

Last fall Messrs. C. H. Ivey, R. W. Puddicombe, A. M. Smart, J. R. Shuttleworth and Thomas S. Hobbs sent a proposal to the corporation, offering to build an electric railway on certain conditions. Briefly stated, those were:

The company shall lay an electric railway on the streets named and will keep the track and eighteen inches outside of each rail in good condition, the material to be supplied by the corporation.

The construction of the railway to be begun within 60 days after the ratification of the agreement by the corporation. At least seven miles of the railway to be completed and the cars running thereon within one year after the passing of the bylaw granting the franchise, and the remainder of the road to be completed within two years from the last-mentioned date. The cars to be fitted up with all modern improvements, including lighting and heating, and to be run as the council shall prescribe. The privileges to be enjoyed by the company for twenty years, the council, if it then sees fit, to give six months' notice to the company, and take over the line on payment of an arbitration value, or the bargain may be extended for another five years. The company binds itself to remove all snow from its tracks.

It is further agreed that the council may require the cars to run from 6 a.m. till 11 p.m. The ordinary fare to be 5 cents a trip, including transfer when required. Workmen's tickets, eight for 25 cents, to be good during the following hours: 6 a.m. to 8 a.m., 11:50 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., 5:15 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Children between 5 and 12, a cash fare of 3 cents; ten tickets for 25 cents. All firemen, constables in uniform, the city engineer and street commissioner and all detectives, free. Not less than two men in charge of each car.

The proposers agreed to deposit $5,000 with the city treasurer, to be forfeited if they fail to carry out their agreement, which further stipulated that they would pay the city $100 a year per mile for single track, and $200 per mile for double track, provided the gross receipts of the company are $60,000 a year. The company also agreed to pay to the city on all gross receipts over $100,000, 5 per cent.; between $100,000 and $125,000, 5½ per cent.; between $125,000 and $150,000, 6 per cent.; between $150,000 and $175,000, 6½ per cent.; between $175,000 and $200,000, 7 per cent.; over $200,000, 8 per cent.

The proposers stipulated that in return they should have the exclusive right to run an electric railway on the streets of London, with exemption from taxation other than that here set forth.

When the offer of the Ivey syndicate was taken up, the London Street Railway Company came before the council and made certain propositions, which are embodied in a bylaw, of which the following is a synopsis:

The company offered to much extend its present system and to operate the entire railway by electricity, either with or without the trolley, at the option of the company. It was provided that the company should have the exclusive right, so far as the council had power to grant it, to operate cars by electricity within the city limits, but nothing in the bylaw prevents the corporation from granting the use of any of the streets to railways that may be built from any point outside the city limits, provided the local street traffic shall not be interfered with by these outsiders.

The construction of the railway to be begun within six months from the passing of the bylaw, and all the lines to be open and operated by electricity within three years thereof. The usual precautions with regard to the laying of the tracks are included in this bylaw, as are also provisions for the safety of life on the cars and on the streets traversed by them. The council to provide the material for repairing the streets and the company to keep them in repair between the rails and two feet beyond on each side.

The bylaw provided that the privileges granted the company should extend till March 8, 1995. That is the date upon which the charter of the present "horse or mule traction" charter expires. Then the city may obtain control of the line by arbitration in the usual way.

It is further provided that the council may provide that the cars shall run as early as 6:30 a.m., Sunday excepted, and continue to run for twelve hours thereafter, but the company may at its own option run cars for a longer period. The company shall use passenger cars only. The fares for each person, except children in arms, in the continuous route to be 3 cents, or ten tickets for 25 cents, including transfer tickets; and when the gross receipts reach $100,000 and upwards, the following percentage to be paid by the company to the city: $100,000 to $125,000, 5 per cent.; $125,000 to $150,000, 5½ per cent.; $150,000 to $175,000, 6 per cent.; $175,000 to $200,000, 6½ per cent.; $200,000 and upwards, 7 per cent.; and after two years, if this be found not to pay, the Ivey proposition may be reverted to—that is, a percentage and eight tickets for 25 cents up to certain hours. The company's workmen to be employed only ten hours a day.

These two offers were before the council when the new board of aldermen met in January last. The new aldermen resolved that the offers should be filed for future reference and that new tenders be called for. This arrangement did not meet with the approval of the Ivey syndicate, which decided not to present a new offer. The old directorate of the street railway company also declined to do their work over again, and the Everett syndicate bought out a controlling interest in the stock. For several months no move was made, and then Mr. Everett took action. His proposition is now before the aldermen, and is summarized below:

The company agree to adopt electricity as a motor power.

The following fares are offered: Ordinary cash fare, 5 cents, or 6 tickets for 25 cents, or 25 tickets for $1; children's cash fares, 3 cents each, or 10 tickets for 25 cents; workingmen's tickets, 8 for 25 cents, good from 6:30 a.m. to 8 a.m., and from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Transfers to be allowed at these rates except during the Western Fair, when through cars will be run from all terminal points.

New streets traversed to be left in as good a condition by the company as before.

All future street repairs to be made by the company, the city to furnish material as per the original franchise.

No sooner had the new controller of the street railway formulated an offer than Col. James Clark, of Windsor, appeared on the scene and offered to construct an electric railway, the route, in great measure, to parallel on neighboring streets the lines of the present company and its contemplated extensions. Col. Clark's company undertakes to keep in repair the street between the track and for eighteen inches on either side. Ten miles must be completed by Nov. 1, 1894. The privileges asked for extend for twenty years. The cars are to run from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. Five cents is the ordinary fare, but children under 5 not occupying seats will be carried free. Six tickets will be sold for 25 cents as now. Eight tickets for 25 cents will be given to school children. All transfer tickets must be used within fifteen minutes. From 6 a.m. to 7 a.m., and from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m., the company will accept cash fares of 3 cents each. A day's work for employes will be ten hours. This offer is made on the understanding that the council will grant the company the exclusive right to operate cars by electricity for the space of twenty years.

The two first offers having been laid aside by the council of 1893, and the capitalists who made them refusing to put in new tenders, the only remaining propositions are those made by the present London street railway manager and by the company represented by Col. Clark. We have thought it best to give a summary of the salient points in each of the four, as there has recently been much demand for information on the subject.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN.

I see that the Michigan State military authorities have abolished the canteen at the annual encampment of State troops. They are in advance of us in this respect. I understand that the majority of the men would rather not have intoxicating liquors sold on the camp grounds, but the Ottawa authorities insist that the canteen must remain.

The Chinaman appears to prefer the cool of the night in which to pursue his pleasant avocation of making linen (if possible) whiter than snow. When work is slack the same coolness appears to do just as well to play cards in and smoke cigarettes. I saw a Dundas street Celestial washerman's shop in full blast early the other morning. Each "John" was hard at work and the front door was wide open to permit of the free circulation of the aforementioned coolness. The saloons had turned out their last quota of topers a couple of hours before, but all had not found their way home as yet. One had wandered into the laundry.

His clothes were well made and stylish, and as the light fell full on his face, I recognized the well known features of a prominent West End citizen. The sight was ludicrous in the extreme. He was hardly able to keep his feet. In one hand he held a pop bottle filled with whisky, and he appeared to be pleading hard with the Mongolians to join him in a dram. The Chinamen had their most serious "no-checkee-no-washee" expression on their faces, and tried hard to take no notice of their nocturnal visitant. At last the tippling citizen became tired of moral suasion, and, taking hold of the pigtail of one of the slant-eyed heathen, he attempted to force the apparently unwelcome liquor on him. A few unintelligible words passed around the laundry. The Chinamen with one accord left their work, and the next instant the visitor was sitting on the lawn where they had dropped him and the door was quickly shut and bolted against further interruptions. A big-hearted policemen shortly after this succeeded in inducing the bibulous man to go home, or at least to start in that direction.

Another night I was passing along the same block when "Sh!" "Sh!" came from a dark doorway. Investigation disclosed a policeman, who beckoned me to him. The cause of his retreat was soon explained. Up the street a little way was a man. He was down on his hands and knees, and, in the distance, had the appearance of being busily engaged trying to make an entrance into the store through the basement window. The policeman, with visions of promotion that must surely follow the clever single handed capture of a bold bad burglar, remained quiet, in breathless suspense, while I dreamt of the "scoop" I was surely getting on the "other fellow." But it didn't materialize. The object of our earnest gaze got up after a while from his stooping position and went on in the other direction, while we wandered down to see what had occupied his attention. The policeman's lantern revealed it all. We stopped in front of an Italian banana dealer's store, and in the open basement window we found what had been the man's temporary temptation. It was nothing more than a bunch of very green bananas that were hanging there to ripen. But yellow, red or green bananas look the same in the blackness of night.

While a large party of foreigners, carrying baggage checked from Rotterdam, were being transferred from one train to another at the G. T. R. station the other day, I observed one petite damsel smoking a cigar. It seems to be a common habit for women in some parts of the continent to ape men in this respect, for by a recent Russian cablegram I observe that the Czar's Ministry had just issued orders that smoking compartments for ladies be provided on all trains. A friend of mine, who smokes, expressed his disgust when the black-eyed daughter of the north marched along the platform cigar in mouth. Why? If smoking is good for a man, should it not be equally efficacious for his wife or daughter?

Both Had Eczema

In Its Worst Form

Great mental agony is endured by parents who see their children suffering from diseases caused by impure blood, and for which there seems no cure. This is turned to joy when Hood's Sarsaparilla is resorted to, for it expels the foul humors from the blood, and restores the diseased skin to fresh, healthy brightness. Read the following from grateful parents:

"To C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"We think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most valuable medicine on the market for blood and skin diseases. Our two children suffered terribly with the for two years. We had three physicians in that time, but neither of them succeeded in curing them or even in giving them a little relief. At last we tried Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a month both children were perfectly cured. We recommend as a standard family medicine, and would not be without it." MR. and MRS. M. M. SOLLER, 1412 2nd Avenue, Altoona, Pa.

City Parade of the London Bicycle Club.

London's Lawyers and Doctors Face Each Other To-Day on the Cricket Crease.

First Day of Chatham's Summer Race Meetings—Various Sporting Events.

THE WHEEL.

A GREAT TURNOUT.

The city parade of the London Bicycle Club last evening was one of the greatest 'cycling turnouts London has ever witnessed. Over 40 members left the club house at 7:30, wheeling through the principal streets, thence to South London, where they spent an enjoyable hour at the garden party, returning to the club house at 9:30, all feeling greatly benefited by the night's outing. Several members displayed banners on their wheels intimating the fact that they are going to hold a race meet on Aug. 16, which will doubtless be "the" meet of the season. A pleasant feature was the presence of two of the fair sex—Mrs. McCormick and Miss Clark—at the head of the procession. An increasing number of ladies are riding in the city, which cannot fail to have refining influence on the sport.

CRICKET.

DOCTORS VS. LAWYERS.

The Doctors and Lawyers of the city met on the asylum grounds at 10 a.m. today to engage in a game of cricket. Judging by past experiences it will be a great exhibition of the sport. The Lawyers are: Messrs. Bayly, Blackburn, Cronyn, Cox, Gibbons, Love, Marsh, Purdom, Proudfoot, Sayers and Scandrett. The medicine men are: Doctors Balfour, Bayly, Beemer, Butler, Hobbs, Macklin, McLellan, Moore, Reed, Weld and Williams.

SARNIA, July 12.—The London and Sarnia cricket clubs were to have met in a cricket match here to-day, but the grounds were not in condition and the game therefore had to be postponed.

AQUATIC.

The cheaper and improved manufacture of aluminum has already been utilized in manufactures where lightness and strength are essential. It has remained, however, for France to take the lead in constructing a ship of this important material—a yacht of ten tons by the "Societe des Chantiers de la Loire," for the Comte Chavannes la Palice. The vessel is built after his own design, and will, of course, be very much lighter than vessels of her rating. It is proposed by the owner to invite members of different sailing clubs in England and on the continent to be present at a trial trip at sea in July, or it may be during the Cowes week, when the whole of the yacht-racing world will be gathered at one center.

THE CUE.

ROBERTS WON'T PLAY IVES.

LONDON, July 12.—The correspondent of the Associated Press interviewed Frank C. Ives, the American billiard champion, who recently defeated John Roberts, jun., the English champion. Ives said that he had done everything possible to have another game. He had conceded every point that Roberts had asked, but to all his offers Roberts had made no reply.

ATHLETICS.

MATCH FOR $40,000.

NEW YORK, July 12.—At the Coleman House this afternoon Judge Newton, of the Coney Island Athletic Club, and W. A. Brady, James J. Corbett's manager, met and signed articles calling for a scientific glove contest at Coney Island in December of twenty rounds or more for a purse of $40,000 on a day to be hereafter agreed upon, the winner to receive the full purse of $40,000. The articles will be delivered to Mitchell for signature, which must be obtained on or before Aug. 5.

IN LABOR'S FIELD.

Thousands of Pennsylvania Iron Workers to Resume Work at a Reduced Scale.

PITTSBURG, July 12.—Jones & Laughlin signed the Amalgamated scale yesterday, the workmen conceding a reduction of from 8 to 15 per cent. The iron scale was signed last week, and the company's extensive plant, employing 5,000 men, will resume in a few days. The iron scale was also signed yesterday by the Findlay, Ohio, Rolling Mill Company, employing 500 men. So far thirteen western firms have signed the scale.

SOLD HIS WIFE FOR 45 CENTS,

And Now the Wretch Wants to Get Her Back.

KINGSTON, N. Y., July 12.—A man named Thompson, who lives near West Hurley, at the foothills of the Catskills, was in town to-day and told a remarkable story of the sale of a wife. He said that last fall his son married a young woman named Plinley. Three weeks ago his wife did something which displeased him, and in speaking of the matter to a friend named Charles Lewis the latter stated that if Thompson was not satisfied he would buy his wife.

A bargain was at once made, and Lewis, who resides at Sawkill, paid over the purchase money, which was 45 cents, and then Thompson and Lewis took a drink of hard cider at the village inn over the deal. The woman was to be delivered on the following Sunday. When Thompson returned home and informed his wife of what he had done, she made no objection, but, on the contrary, seemed rather pleased.

Last Saturday young Thompson began to get lonesome and regretted the sale. He went to see his wife for the purpose of inducing her to return to him. This she refused to do, saying she was satisfied with the change, and reproaching him for his lack of honesty in trying to back out of a fair bargain.

"You have got your 45 cents, and I ain't a-goin' back," was her ultimatum.

The deserted and forlorn husband proceeded to his home and informed his father that she would not come back. The old man's mission in Kingston to-day was to consult a lawyer and see if legal steps could be taken to compel his daughter-in-law to return.

THE TWELFTH OF JULY.

Celebrated in the Wonted Enthusiastic Way With Parades, Music, Speeches and Sports.

TORONTO, July 12.—The principal streets were crowded all morning with citizens waiting to see the Orangemen's procession.

One or two short showers of rain somewhat disorganized the ranks of the procession and there were several long halts, but generally speaking it was all that the most enthusiastic Orangeman could desire. There were several thousand Orangemen in line and any number of bands. It took the procession about 45 minutes to pass a given point.

The afternoon was devoted to a few speeches and a programme of games.

DRESDEN—The Orangemen had a successful celebration at Dresden. Thirty odd Orange lodges arrived during the forenoon, and fully 5,000 people were parading the streets at noon. There were seven brass bands, in addition to the several fife and drum bands. After dinner they marched to the grove, where several speakers addressed them.

PRESCOTT—Rain interfered with the proceedings somewhat until 3 p.m., when it cleared away and the procession started, 3,000 strong. It covered nearly a mile, and was witnessed by over 5,000 people.

BLYTH—The anniversary of the battle of the Boyne was celebrated here to-day. There were over 25 lodges represented from North Huron and Bruce, and over 1,000 people took part in the procession, together with four brass bands and two fife and drum bands.

WATFORD—One of the most successful Orange demonstrations held in Western Ontario was observed here to-day. The procession included sixteen stands of colors, and over 700 members of the order were in line. Fully 5,000 people witnessed the procession.

STRATFORD—The anniversary of the battle of the Boyne was celebrated here to-day with the customary enthusiasm. Lodges representing North and South Perth, East Middlesex, East Elgin, and South and East Huron took part in the procession. Mr. Clarke Wallace, grand master, was the principal speaker. Messrs. J. A. Hunt, of Palmerston, Thos. Magwood, M.P.P., Dr. Ellis, of Stratford, and Major White, of St. Marys, also gave addresses.

MONTREAL—Montreal Orangemen did not celebrate the 12th in the city. Three hundred of them, including the Provincial grand master, Mr. Wm. Galbraith, went to Prescott to participate in the celebration there.

At numerous points throughout the country the day was celebrated in the usual manner.

Meeting of the Stratford Presbytery—$15,000 Subscribed for a New Opera House at Guelph.

BRANT.

It is expected that $18,000 or $20,000 will be spent in improving the Holmedale water power, and in the case of the cotton mill at Brantford, the company intend to introduce new water wheels and to construct a fresh flume.

On Friday morning last a sad accident occurred in Caledonia. Thomas Elvin, second son of Mr. Gideon Nicholas, aged 5 years and 10 months, was drowned close to the shore, opposite his father's residence.

Mary Ann Johnston, formerly of Brantford, and wife of O. M. Johnston, who was at one time a resident of Woodstock, through a firm of Hamilton solicitors wants $2,000 from the Woodstock Sentinel-Review. A news item from a Brantford paper stated that Mrs. Johnston had been divorced from her husband. It appears that this was incorrect.

The North Brantford and Onondaga Sabbath School Association holds its annual convention at the Methodist Church, Langford, on July 25. Addresses will be delivered by Messrs. Tapscott, Dr. Nichol, Hossie and others. Visitors attending the convention will be entertained by the ladies of Langford.

ESSEX.

Mr. J. A. Freeman, of Glencoe, was not present at the banquet in his honor at the Crawford House, Windsor, on Monday night owing to illness. His marriage to Miss Treble, which was announced to have taken place Tuesday night, has been postponed.

The raspberry crop of Essex county is reported to be a very large one, and the fruit of an unusually good quality.

Dennis St. Pierre, a farmer living in Sandwich East, had his right hand badly lacerated by a mowing machine Tuesday. St. Pierre had stopped to fix the knife, when the horses started, setting the knife in motion. Dr. Fournier, of Tecumseh, dressed the wound.

The priests of L'Assumption College staff will join those of the Bascillian order in their annual retreat at Toronto in the first week in August. Nearly 100 priests are in retreat at the college at Sandwich during the present week.

Marshall Chambers, of Essex, jumped from a moving train in the Michigan Central yards, Windsor, on Tuesday, and was picked up unconscious.

John McKenna, one of the three men charged with attempting to rob Dykes Grant, and with whom Officer Mahoney had a skirmish, was given five months in the Central Prison.

A young son of Alex. Moyer fell into the river near the lower Grand Trunk Railroad slip at Windsor on Tuesday, and would have been drowned had not John Hill, a porter at the Crawford House, jumped in and rescued him.

KENT.

The Salvation Army had a good time at Dresden on Wednesday. The two districts—Dresden, under Ensign Goodwin, and Chatham, under Ensign Aikenhead, had sent representatives from Wallaceburg, Essex Center, Bothwell, Thamesville, Tilbury Center and Moraviantown. They had an eye to business, taking advantage of the large number of people in town, so they set lunch tables and raised sufficient money to pay for the recent repairs which the barracks had been undergoing. They had a big meeting in the evening, their building, which is very large, being filled.

MIDDLESEX.

The death of James Munroe on July 7, at the ripe age of 91 years, removes one of the oldest residents of Brook township.

OXFORD.

The 4-year-old son of George Rice, of Currie's Crossing, was accidentally killed Tuesday afternoon. When some men were engaged drawing hay, the little fellow in some way got caught in a wagon wheel, and was drawn in and crushed between the boulster and the wheel. His arm and several ribs were broken. He died in three hours.

PERTH.

The Presbytery of Stratford met in Knox Church, Stratford, on the 11th inst. Rev. J. Kay, of Milverton, was appointed moderator for the next six months. Robt. Ross, of Burns' Church, Zora, was introduced by Rev. W. Fergusson, and upon examination it was agreed to receive him as a student with a view to the ministry under the care of the Presbytery. Rev. Mr. Grant reported upon the contributions to the schemes of the church, and showed that North Easthope headed the list. Standing committees for the year were appointed, with the following as conveners: Statistics, Mr. Grant; foreign missions, Mr. Henderson; home missions, Mr. Hamilton; French evangelization, Mr. Panton; Sunday schools, Mr. McKibbin; Sabbath observance, Mr. Cameron; temperance, Mr. Fergusson; A. and I. Hit His Brother With a Brick.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., July 12.—John Jones, catcher of the Duncansville Baseball Club, while engaged in a game at that town, was struck on the head by a brick thrown by his younger brother. His injuries are fatal. The player had cuffed his brother for interfering with the game, and the missile was thrown in revenge.

Poison in the Cheese.

MANSFIELD, O., July 12.—The wholesale case of poisoning by the eating of cheese in this city is much worse than was at first supposed. Nearly every person in 25 families who purchased and ate of the cheese are now afflicted, and for twelve persons there is slight hope of recovery. One hundred and ten persons sampled the cheese, which was manufactured near the city. Nine doctors, together with the coroner, are in charge of the afflicted, and although no deaths are yet reported several persons are expected to die hourly

Fright Froze Her Words.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—Miss Mary Warner, of this city, became speechless from fright when she saw her mother carried into the house unconscious and bleeding from wounds received in the street during a storm on Wednesday. Medical aid was summoned, but all efforts to make the girl speak proved unavailing. At first she did not seem to comprehend what was said to her, but in a few hours she could apparently understand when spoken to, but was utterly unable to make a sound in reply. Since then her senses have gradually become clearer, but the power of speech has not returned.

Local Market Quotations.

Reported by A. M. Hamilton & Son.

LONDON, Wednesday, July 12.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

There have been only a few changes in values on the market this week. General receipts were small, but not less than is usual at this time of the year. There were only a few loads of oats came in. The inquiry for local consumption was steady and better than the supply, consequently prices advanced about 5c per 100 lbs since last week's report. The close was $1 15 per 100 lbs.

Wheat sold steady at $1 04 to $1 08; demand and supply both steady.

Nothing was done in any other kinds of grain, owing to no deliveries.

Butter opened at 14c to 17c, according to quality and quantity, and closed at 15c to 19c, an advance of 1c to 2c per lb.

Eggs were steady at 11c by the basket and 12c to 13c retail.

Beef steady at 6c to 7c; supply good. Other kinds of meat quiet and unchanged.

Wool receipts fell off considerable; sales steady at 18½c to 19c

New potatoes came in freely and sold well at 40c to 50c per peck.

Raspberries brought 10c per quart for tame and $1 to $1 10 per pail for wild. Other kinds of fruit steady.

Hay steady and sold well at $7 50 to $8.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, July 12.—Trade at the Western cattle markets was even worse, so far as prices were concerned, than it has been yet. The only animals showing any real value were calves, everything else was dead. There would have been hardly any trade in exporters at all only for about a dozen carloads being taken to fill space contracted for on shipboard at Montreal. There were 27 carloads of stuff came in Tuesday, 6 on Sunday, and there were 22 carloads of stuff on the market beside, which had been held over from last Friday. Tuesday there were 307 sheep and lambs and 173 hogs, with about 60 calves. Receipts for the week ended Saturday, July 8, were: Cattle, 1,782; sheep and lambs, 1,356; hogs, 1,275; weigh fees, $47 91. A good deal of stuff was held over for next market day. Some dealers have ceased buying altogether.

A NEW HORROR!

Ten or Eleven More Victims of the Chicago Holocaust Found.

An Unexpected Find at the Bottom of the Ruins—One a Woman.

CHICAGO, July 12.—The Herald this morning has the following: Early this morning it was learned that ten more bodies had been found in the ruins of the cold storage warehouse.

The men who made this discovery tried to keep the knowledge from reaching the public, but it came out in some way. Nine of these bodies are of men and one of a woman. The corpses of the dead lay piled all in a heap near the foot of the elevator shaft. When the searching party discovered the remains a large crowd of morbid spectators surrounded the ruins. The enormity of the unexpected find staggered the firemen who made

THE FEARFUL DISCOVERY.

After a hasty consultation it was decided not to take the bodies out in the presence of the watching thousands. Orders were given to exclude the reporters from the fire lines. Only a small number of firemen belonging to truck 16, assisted by a dozen guards, worked over the ruins of the burned building all day yesterday.

Four bodies were discovered up to 5 o'clock, when a fifth was found. Up to that time no more victims were uncovered until about 7:30 o'clock. For an hour before a sickening odor issued from the east side of the ruins, to the left of the doorway. Three men were set to work in this place, and just before the order was given to stop work for the day a heavy beam was lifted, and right between the interstices of half a dozen of crossed and broken timbers and bent rods of iron could be seen

A HEAP OF BODIES.

This was the source of the foul smell. The bodies are quite badly burned, but they lay at the very bottom of the ruins, and had been partially protected from the fire by water. It is impossible to tell just how many bodies lie in this terrible pot.

Adjt. Smith said the Columbian guards were all accounted for, but when questioned with regard to the employes of the building, he replied that there were undoubtedly the remains of some in the ruins. He stated that the department had reports of a number of persons being missing, but he declined to give their names.

HIS REPENTANCE.

And her pulses suddenly quickened. Even from that height she could discern—or fancied she could discern—that the letter was from Mr. Wheatley. That gentleman always used large blue envelopes, and it was certainly one such that the man had singled out from his bundle of letters. Had it come at last? Had the joyful news of the money come?

She closed the window, and ran swiftly down the stairs, and met Neal turning from the door with a letter. That gentleman was probably not at all obliged to her for demanding the letter from him so summarily. But he had no resourse but to give it up.

It was from Mr. Wheatley, and Sara carried it to her room, a bright flush of hope upon her cheeks, an eager trembling in her happy fingers. Mr. Wheatly did not like letter-writing, and she knew quite well that he would not have written uselessly. Opening the envelope, she found it a blank; a blank entirely; nothing even written inside in it had but inclosed a letter for herself which had apparently been sent to Hallingham. Oh, the bitter, bitter disappointment! there was not a line, and there was not a word from Mr. Wheatley!

A conviction arose that she had seen the other handwriting before; it seemed to be made up of flourishes. Whose was it? Suddenly the truth flashed over her—Mr. Alfred King's! Her heart stood still in its fear, and seemed as if it would never go on again. The contents ran as follows:

Essex Street, June 1.

"Madam—I am sorry to have to give you notice that unless the money owing to me, and which I have been vainly expecting these last few weeks, is immediately paid, I shall be under the painful necessity of taking public steps in the matter; and they might not prove agreeable to Captain Davenal. I am, madam, your obedient servant, "ALFRED KING."

"Miss Sara Davenal."

So the first cloud of the haunting shadow of the past weeks had come! Sara sat with the letter in her hand. She asked herself what was to be done—and she wished now in a fit of repentance that she had written long ago to Mr. Alfred King, as it had been in her mind to do.

She must write now. She must write a note of regret and apology, telling him the exact truth—that the sale of the different effects at Hallingham and the realization of the proceeds had taken more time than was anticipated, but that she expected the money daily—and beg of him to wait. In her feverish impatience it seemed as if every moment that elapsed until this explanation should be delivered to Mr. Alfred King was fraught with danger, and she hastened to the room below the drawing-room.

Her desk was there. It was generally kept in her own chamber, but she had had it down the previous evening. Neal was quitting the room as he entered; he had been putting it in order for the day. Sara did not fear interruption from her aunt, for Miss Davenal remained in the parlor below for an hour or two after breakfast; she sat down to write.

The letter—Mr. Alfred King's letter—was spread open before her, and she sat pen in hand, deliberating how she should answer it, when her aunt's voice started her. It sounded on the stairs. Was she coming up? Sara hastily placed the open letter in the desk, closed and locked it, and opened the drawing-room door. But in her flurry she left the key in the desk.

Miss Davenal was standing on the mat at the foot of the stairs. "Can't you hear me call?" she asked.

"I didn't hear, aunt: What is it?"

"Then you ought to have heard!" was the retort of Miss Davenal, at cross purposes as usual. "You are not turning deaf, I suppose?"

"What is it, aunt?" repeated Sara, going half-way down the stairs.

Instead of answering, Miss Davenal turned and went into the breakfast-room again. Sara could only follow her. Her aunt's manners had never relaxed to her from the firmness assumed at the time of Dr. Davena's death; cold and severe she had remained ever since; but she looked unusually cold and severe now.

"Shut the door," said Miss Davenal.

Sara hesitated a moment, more in mind than action, and then she obeyed. She had left her desk and wanted to get back to it.

"Hold this," said Miss Davenal.

She had taken her seat in her own chair and was cutting out some article of linen something that looked as long as the room. Her income was a very moderate one now, and she did a great deal of sewing instead of putting it out. Sara took the stuff in her hand, and held it while her aunt cut; an interminable proceeding to an impatient heiress, for Miss Davenal cut only about an inch at a time, and then drew a short thread and cut again.

"Won't it tear?" asked Sara.

"It will wear. Did you ever know me buy linen that wouldn't wear? I have too good an eye for linen to buy what won't wear."

"I asked, aunt, would it not tear."

"Tear?" repeated Miss Davenal, offended at the word—at the ignorance it betrayed "No, it will not tear; and I should think there's hardly a parish school child in the kingdom but would know that without asking."

Sara, rebuked, held her part in silence. Presently Miss Davenal lifted her eyes and looked her full in the face.

"Who was that letter from this morning?"

Had it been to save Sara's life she could not help the change that came over her countenance. Miss Davenal's quick penetration took in everything; the dismayed look, the hesitating answer.

"It was a private letter to me, aunt."

"A what?" snapped Miss Davenal.

Sara let fall the work, and stood fearlessly before Miss Davenal. The most gentle spirit can be aroused at times. "The letter was from a gentleman, aunt. It was a private letter to myself. Surely I am not so much of a child that I may not be trusted to receive one!"

Miss Davenal flung away Sara's hand in anger. The words had borne to her ear but one interpretation. "A pri-vate let-ter!—A gentleman!" she slowly uttered in her dismay. "I might have believed this of Caroline had she been single, but never of you. A sweetheart in secret! And your father not yet four months in his grave!"

The bare mention of the word, unconnected with Oswald Cray, the idea altogether as thus put, was repulsive to Sara Davenal. She stood quite still for a moment, while the faint flush that was called up died away on her cheeks, and then she bent close to her aunt's ear, her low voice unmistakably clear and distinct.

"Aunt Bettina, you know there was some unhappy business that papa was obliged to meet—and bear—just before he died. The letter I have received this morning bears reference to it. It is from a Mr. King, but I don't know him. I should be thankful if you would not force me to these explanations; they are very painful."

Miss Bettina picked up the work, and drew at a thread until it broke. "Who is Mr. King?" she asked.

"I do not indeed know. He had to write to me just a word about the business, and I must answer him. In telling you this much, Aunt Bettina, I have told you all I can tell. Pray, for papa's sake, do not ask me further."

Miss Bettina was a little vexed with herself. She was one of those good people who believe they can never be in the wrong; but now that the heat of her anger was over, she was feeling that the allusion to the "sweetheart" had been somewhat unladylike. Sara's passing it over was a tacit reproof.

"Is he a young man, this Mr. King?"

"I never saw him in my life," replied Sara. "I do not know anything of him whatever, who he is or what he is. Do you wish me to hold this for you again?"

"Well, this is a pretty state of things for the enlightened nineteenth century!" grunted Miss Bettina. "We have read of conspiracies and Rye House plots, and the rest of; this seems a plot, I think! Have you nothing more to say?"

"No, aunt," was the low, firm answer.

"Then you may go," said Miss Bettina, twitching the work out of Sara's hand. "I can do this myself."

And Sara knew that no amount of entreaty would induce her aunt to admit of help in her cutting, after that. Glad to be released, but sick at heart, she went upstairs, and met Neal coming out of the drawing-room.

"I thought you had finished the room, Neal," she said, a sudden fear stealing over her as she remembered that her desk was left with the key in it.

"So I had, miss. I came up now for this vase. My mistress said it was to be washed."

She stood for a moment before her desk; it looked exactly as she had left it. She turned the key and raised the lid, and saw that had anybody else done the same Mr. Alfred King's letter was lying face upwards and might have been read without the slightest trouble in an instant of time. Had Neal seen the letter? Would he be likely to do such a thing as raise her desk surreptitiously? Many a servant would be in a room with an unlocked desk time and again, and never attempt to peer inside it. Was it probable that Neal had any propensity for prying into affairs that did not concern him? It all lay in that.

MR. LAURIER IN QUEBEC.

Splendid Reception to the Liberal Leader at St. Anne.

SOREL, Que., July 12.—The leader of the Opposition arrived here Monday evening by the Richelieu and Ontario steamer, and was received at the wharf by hundreds of citizens, happy to welcome the distinguished orator to the town. He was escorted to his hotel by a torchlight procession, headed by a band of music, the crowd cheering over and over again. An address was presented to him, and he replied with his usual eloquence. Mr. Monette, M. P. for Napierville, and Mr. Bruneau, M. P. for Richelieu, also made speeches.

Yesterday morning Mr. Laurier and a large party of electors started at 8 o'clock for St. Anne by the steamer Arthur. They were soon accompanied by the steam yacht St. Anne, which brought the Berthier contingent, including Hon. L. Sylvester, Mr. Beausoleil, M.P., Mr. Tarte, M.P., Mr. Chenevert, ex-M.P.P., and others. At Yamaska Dr. Migneault's yacht was waiting for the party.

The gay little flotilla arrived at St. Anne at 12 o'clock, and was met by a big crowd of electors from all parts of the counties of Yamaska and Richelieu. Mr. Dorlet, Mr. St. Martin, warden of the county, Mr. Methot, mayor of the parish, were on the wharf and escorted Mr. Laurier and his friends to the seignorial mansion, where dinner was served.

The meeting began at 2 o'clock. Mr. St. Martin, warden of the county, opened it by a few appropriate remarks. Mr. Bruneau was the first speaker, and dealt with the political questions of the day. He was very cordially received.

Mr. G. A. Drolet then presented Mr. Laurier with an elaborate address, which is in itself an eloquent vindication of Mr. Laurier's policy.

The leader's reply was a magnificent effort. Mr. Laurier was in his best form, and probably never spoke with greater effect before a popular audience.

He was succeeded by Mr. Monette, M.P.P., whose short and pointed speech was loudly cheered.

Mr. Wilfrid Larose, advocate, delivered a short, eloquent address, and Mr. Tarte closed the meeting with a review of the school question.

DREW ELEVEN SALARIES!

How a Buffalo Civic Official Scooped in the Shekels.

BUFFALO, July 12.—Erie Ontario Van Brocklin, secretary of the Board of Fire Commissioners, has been arrested, charged with embezzling, and has confessed his crime. Van Brocklin added fictitious names to the fire department pay roll, and, it is said, mulcted the city for $50,000. The commissioners went to the controller's office and got the pay rolls for the time over which the embezzlement has been going on. There were ten names on which Van Brocklin had been drawing salaries. The names are fictitious.

The commissioners went before Judge King and secured a warrant, and Officer Puls, of the district attorney's office, went for Van Brocklin.

When the secretary reached the mayor's office he was told he was under arrest and what the charge was. "Mr. Van Brocklin," said Commissioner Hutchison, "we have undisputed evidence that you are an embezzler, and we shall give you into the custody of the police. The best thing you can do is to make a clean breast of the whole affair."

Van Brocklin was too astonished to speak for several minutes. He had no idea the commissioners suspected his crookedness. He had covered up his tracks so cleverly for five years that he did not believe he could be detected.

He broke down completely and made a full confession. He admitted stealing, adding the ten fictitious names to the pay roll twice a month and drawing $666 80 every month. This money, he said, he had lost in land speculations.

He could not tell how much he had stolen, but the pilfering had been going on more than six years.

Van Brocklin was locked up. An employe of the controller's office is said to be implicated in the steal, and will be arrested.

Suspicion was directed to Van Brocklin by his high living, as his salary has been only $1,200 a year.

A GIRL BURGLAR CONFESSES.

Minnie Not Only Robbed Stores, But Held Up Children.

BOSTON, July 12.—The Dorchester police have in custody a female burglar in the person of Minnie Schneider, 12 years old. It is alleged that on July 4 Minnie entered the provision store of Wm. Hunt, in Dorchester avenue, and stole $14 in money from the cash drawer; and that on Sunday she entered the store of Patrick W. Fallon, in the same avenue, and got away with $13.

The girl began to spend money a great deal more freely than children of her age are generally allowed to, and this excited the suspicions of some of the dealers of the district. Besides, purchases were made without the supervision of her mother. When, therefore, she appeared at a millinery store and selected an expensive bonnet the police were notified, and, with the two burglaries fresh in their minds, they took her to the station house.

When Minnie was accused she at first denied any knowledge of the burglaries, but her brother Otto, a lad of 7, broke down and confessed the whole affair. He said his sister had placed him on the watch outside of the store while she forced an entrance. Thereupon Minnie also gave way to tears and corroborated Otto's story.

While at the station the girl was further questioned, and it was brought out that she has been in the habit of holding up little children on their way to the store to make purchases for their parents.

Paul Schneider, her father, appeared before Judge Churchill and asked that she be sent away, as he had no control over her. The court continued the case.

When it comes to the art of boxing, the dainty-looking strawberry is about as near the top as anything.

A mans' wife should always be the same especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too.

—Lieut. Cartwright, who has been shooting at Bisley, England, made a good showing in the pavilion match, the range being 800 yards, seven shots. His score was 31.

—The usual enormous throng attended the band concert in Victoria Park Tuesday night. The park is a veritable oasis in the desert of summer existence on these occasions.

—Bishop Fallows, of Chicago, and Dr. Rondthaler arrived in the city yesterday. The local Endeavorers gave them a drive around in the afternoon to show them a model Canadian city.

—Messrs. Oakley & Holmes, of Toronto, have secured the brick and stone work contract for the General Electric Company's power house on York street west, and Messrs. Tambling & Jones the carpentry. The London bricklayers were almost $1,000 ahead of the Toronto firm for the work.

—The trustees of the Protestant Orphans' Home return sincere thanks to the Orangemen for their kind gift of $13 76, being half of the proceeds from the annual collection taken up in Colborne Street Methodist Church, and presented by John Macdonald, John Walker and Sam Clare, the committee.

—The children of the Protestant and Mount Hope orphanages were entertained with a trip to Springbank by Mr. and Mrs. George C. Gibbons Tuesday afternoon. The little ones were conveyed there in 'busses and spent a delightful time at the beautiful resort. Their cup of joy was filled to the brim by a plenteous supply of refreshments.

—Mr. John Warner, South London, was surprised upon arriving home from Stratford Tuesday to find his house in possession of 75 friends, who made themselves thoroughly "at home." It was a demonstration of their esteem for Mr. Warner, who has been a clerk for Mr. W. S. B. Barkwell, and is leaving for Rat Portage, Man. Mr. J. W. McIntyre read an address containing sentiments of regard and regret. Speeches were delivered by W. S. B. Barkwell, Walter Armstrong, Sid Armitage and others; vocal music by Messrs. Vance and Hessel, and instrumental by Misses Wilson and Dewar, and recitations by Miss Hillyer and Lou Hessel. Refreshments were served and a pleasant evening brought to a close with the hymn, "God be with you till we meet again."

—There was a good attendance at the regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. Tuesday. In the absence of Mrs. Thornley Mrs. Robertson presided. Two new members were received. The first half hour was devoted to a Bible reading on "Prayer" by Mrs. Evans. Special prayer was requested for "The Fall Campaign," "The Plebiscite," and all "The Workers" after the business for the day was transacted. Miss Pitcher gave a pleasing recitation. Mrs. C. B. Armstrong delighted the audience with a solo, and a paper on "Press Work" was read by Mrs. W. J. Saunby, superintendent of that department. Also a number of clippings on the evil effects of bar drinking were read. As the recording secretary will be out of town for some weeks Mrs. Carson kindly accepted the position pro. tem. The meeting adjourned to meet again on July 22, when an interesting programme may be expected.

—Two young boys, Harry Freeman and Willie Armitage, went rowing on the river a few evenings since. Seeing a boat moored to the bank opposite Wonderland Cemetery, they disengaged it and tied it behind their own. After they had proceeded a short distance Fred Fortner, a river constable, to whom the newly acquired craft belonged, gave chase. He captured the boys, and rowed up to Milne's boat house with them. Here he was met by George W. Freeman, father of one of the youths mentioned. "What are you going to do with those boys?" asked that gentleman. "I am going to bring them before a magistrate," replied the constable. "Not if I know it," rejoined Freeman. A scuffle, in which several by-standers took part, ensued. The boys were released. Village Constable Ward subsequently arrested both on a charge of larceny. They were bailed to appear before Squire Lacey on Saturday. Fortner has sworn out an information against George Freeman for interfering with a constable in discharge of his duty.

The Scottish Gathering.

John G. Laven, Canadian passenger agent of the M. C. R., was in the city yesterday making arrangements for the great Scottish gathering and Highland games at Port Stanley on Wednesday next. There will be three special trains in addition to the regulars. The first will leave London at 9:45 a.m., the second at 10 a.m. and the third at 10.30 a.m. This will enable the large crowd to be taken comfortably to the Port without crowding. The return special trains will start at 5:45 p.m., 7 p.m. and 9:15 p.m. All will start on time, Mr. Laven says.

Police Court Doings.

Joseph Hennessy, who has been connected with the barracks for some time, drank more than his equilibrium could stand last week. While in a stupefied condition—"bordering dangerously," as the magistrate observed in the Police Court yesterday, "upon the irresponsible mark"—he stole a clock from the East End station of the Grand Trunk Railway. Mr. Love said that the prisoner had hitherto borne an unblemished character, and that if the "oil of joy" had not taken exclusive possession of his senses he never would have committed the act in question. In view of these extenuating circumstances he was only given a week in jail. Margaret Murray, a destitute old lady, had given herself up to the authorities. She was tired of life. The magistrate committed her for two months.

A Trip Through London.

The street railway company has been making commendable efforts to meet the wants of the people in the city. Some time ago two excursion cars were put on the road, starting at Egerton street at 7:30 p.m., one proceeding to South London and the other to Mount Hope, returning to the place of starting for a round trip fare of 5 cents. These cars will still be continued, but to accommodate the people in other sections of the city a car will leave daily, commencing last night, from Mount Hope at 7:54, and from South London at 7:59, making the round trip to and from Egerton street for a 5-cent fare. This announcement will be hailed with pleasure by many who desire to take an outing in the cooler hours of the summer evenings.
