BOER BANDITS BOARD TRAIN

Murderers Shoot Indiscriminately
Among the Women and Children.

Negro Gave the Signal for the Attack—
Col. Handeulur Killed and Nurse Wounded.

London, Sept. 3.—The Pretoria correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, in a despatch describing the blowing up of a train between Waterval and Haman's Kraal on Saturday by Boers, when Lieut.-Col. Handeulur, of the Irish Guards, was killed, says:—"The train carried several passengers, among them two ladies, with babes and a nurse. As it tolled through a cutting a negro was seen to raise his hand. Instantly a Boer discharged two mines, derailed the train, while a body of Boers poured in a heavy rifle fire. Lieut.-Col. Handeulur shouted to the women to lie down under the seats, and ordered his men to return the fire. As he was proceeding along the corridor a Boer burst into the carriage and fired, killing him, after it is supposed, his refusal to surrender. Another Boer deliberately fired upon and wounded the nurse. Bullets were flying in all directions, although the Boers were aware that women and children were there."

DR. KRAUSE ARRESTED.
Dr. Krause, former Governor of Johannesburg, and a prominent official of the late Transvaal Government, was arrested in London last (Monday) night, on a charge of high treason. He will be arraigned to-day at Bow street police court. For the past four months Dr. Krause has been living in Great Britain. It is alleged that after signing his allegiance to the British Crown he secretly forwarded information to the Boers. It was Dr. Krause who handed to Lord Roberts the keys of Johannesburg on the occasion of the surrender.

DUCK SHOOTING

Several Local Sportsmen. Opened the Season auspiciously Yesterday.

The season for duck shooting opened yesterday, and many Maple City sportsmen availed themselves of the first opportunity to secure the luscious wild game.

The day was an ideal one, and the several parties were uniformly successful. They report that there is a better showing for a successful season this year than has been experienced for some time past.

Among the local sportsmen who participated in yesterday's shooting were:—
W. B. Wells, C. J. Moore, Mr. Eddy and Mr. Merridith at Big Point.
G. P. Schofield, O. L. Lewis, W. A. Thrasher, G. G. Taylor, S. Perrin, A. C. McKay, at St. Luke's.

S. Holmes, C. Hicklin, Pritchard, Cummings, at Joy Club.
Theo. Nelson, at Bay View.

ROMANCE OF THE RED MEN TERMINATES IN TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

Oneida Indian Chief Charged With the Murder of one of his Young Braves—A Dusky Maiden the Cause of Contention.

London, Ont., Sept. 3.—Chief John Henry, of the Oneida Indians in the county jail, charged with murder. His arrest was effected last evening on the reserve by High Constable McLeod and County Detective Ward.

Quite unexpectedly, William Dostater, a young brave, died yesterday as a result, it is alleged, of a bullet wound inflicted by the old chief. He was not thought to be in a serious condition until a short time before his death, and the news that he had passed away came as a great surprise to the Crown officers and a shock to the head of the Oneidas, who must now answer to the awful charge of murder. Late yesterday afternoon Crown Attorney Magee made out the warrant for Chief Henry's arrest.

The shooting, which has resulted fatally occurred on Tuesday of last week. A woman is in the case, as frequently happens. She is a buxom young squaw, the daughter of the accused man. Wm. Dostater appears to have wooed and won the dusky young Miss, to the extent of inducing her against the wishes of her father, to take up her residence with him. This was about a year ago. The young couple were never married.

Early in August one of Chief Henry's stalwart sons visited the Dostater wigwam, and in the absence of the pair, seized his sister's trunk and took it home. The trunk contained clothes belonging to both the young squaw and Dostater. When the latter learned of the whereabouts of the trunk he swore out an information against young Henry, alleging theft. The charge was heard by Squire Lockwood, and dismissed. The next and most serious turn in the case, was the shooting. Miss Henry did not at once follow her trunk home. She remained with Dostater until last Monday. Then she sought cover of the parental roof. Dostater was there the next evening, looking for his stolen clothing, he claims. According to the story he told, he was walking through one of the rooms in Chief Henry's house, when he heard a shot. Immediately he turned, and that instant another shot rang out. Dostater thought the ball merely grazed his forehead. He however, fell. A third shot followed, but, like the first, was supposed not to have taken effect. Dostater said that before he could get up, old man Henry sprang toward him with a club and struck him on the head. Then he made his escape.

A charge of shooting with intent to kill was preferred against Henry. He was arrested, and brought before Squire Lacey, who admitted him to bail in $800. The first story of the affair was that Dostater had been dangerously wounded. But a day or so following he drove into town and was apparently as well as ever. A scar across his forehead, showing how narrow had been his escape from instant death, was the only mark of the assault. He bore Chief Henry's character had previously had no mark against it, and the likelihood that no serious results would follow the shooting was particularly satisfactory to the old man's many friends.

The cause of Dostater's death is stated to have been the working up to the brain of a bullet which entered one of his nostrils. The fact that Dostater should have been able to drive into the city as he did subsequent to the shooting, seemingly none the worse and unaware of the presence of a bullet in his head is remarkable.

Three men are now under the charge of murder in Middlesex county.

FROM HOLIDAY HUNTS TO COLLEGIATE CORRIDORS

Maple City Schools Open for Season's Study—Preparations for Good Year's Work Reorganization of Public School System.

The long summer holidays are over. The sound of the bell from the public schools and Collegiate Institute at nine o'clock this morning, signalled the advent of the reign of the pedagogue once again, and the students trooped to their desks and books for another year's diligent work.

The attendance to-day was slimmer than usual. This is, perhaps, to be expected at the opening, but is nevertheless, unfortunate. However, the students were only detained for about an hour for re-organization. The schedule studies will commence to-morrow.

SOUTH CHATHAM.
At the Central school this morning the attendance was rather small for an opening day, owing, no doubt, to the Gentry Shows. The school looked very bright and cleanly.

Principal J. W. Plewes, when interviewed by The Planet as to the opening of school said, "The attendance was small for the opening day. The re-organization of the south Chatham schools under my management practically means that the same subjects will be taken up in the same way, in both schools; also that parallel classes will be kept abreast, and the discipline and studies will be exactly the same. It will be decided by the number of pupils where the boundary between the schools will be. All the teachers have returned from their vacations, and were in their places this morning. I don't think there will be any fault found with Queen street school, as a new janitor has been appointed, and everything is in proper shape. If any sickness resulted from the condition of the school last term, it was on account of the improper heating of the building, but it will be all right now."

"The children were just kept until ten o'clock to-day, but the work will begin to-morrow."
W. Spelt, janitor of the Central school, has his school looking very cleanly and in first class condition, he having labored hard for a "whole month at the work."

McKEOUGH SCHOOL.
The scholars at McKeough school have again resumed their studies, after a pleasant two months' vacation. There were a large number on hand this morning, showing that the scholars take an interest in their work and are glad to be back at school once more. The school presents a neat, clean appearance, the credit of which is due to the janitor, who has been working diligently during the holidays to prepare the rooms for the re-opening. Principal James Brackin, when interviewed by The Planet this morning said: "There are not many changes in the school. The classes are all well filled and the number of scholars in attendance compares very favorably with other years. The entrance class will number about 40, which, although not so large as last year, makes a very nice class. Quite a lot of new scholars are coming in."

"One thing we are going to enforce this year is that all scholars from South Chatham must attend the Central school. I sent a number back this morning with orders that they will have to attend the Central school. The same thing will be done with the North Chatham scholars. They will all have to attend the McKeough school."

The Kindergarten at McKeough school also started this morning with about forty of the little tots enrolled, about a dozen of which are new scholars. Miss V. Aylesworth has again resumed command of this department, assisted by Miss Vida Farquharson, Miss McTaggart having gone to Toronto to attend the Kindergarten Normal school.

The school was dismissed at ten o'clock to-day in order that the children might witness the Gentry parade.

GOOD APPOINTMENT.

The new County Board of Examiners is much strengthened by the appointment of Mr. Geo. A. Miller, of Dresden, as a member. Mr. Miller exercises great care in considering the questions that affect the educational affairs of the county and city, and his opinions show him to be possessed of sound judgment and independence of thought and action. Mr. Miller's appointment strengthens the Board very much and has proven highly satisfactory. He is very highly spoken of in his new capacity, by the other members of the board.

HOLIDAYS ARE OVER.

This morning the schools re-opened and hundreds of students within the Maple City resumed their studies, brighter and better from the long summer vacation.

The school year just commencing promises to be a helpful and successful one. Under the guidance of Inspector Robert Park, the Public School Board have made many wise amendments and changes of the organization of the local school system. These changes should afford opportunity of better work and greater progress.

The Planet believes that Chatham possesses an excellent teaching staff throughout. If the students return from the holidays with a zest and determination to do their best—as we doubt not they will—there is no reason why the ensuing year should not be the most successful in the scholastic annals of our city.

THE MUNICIPAL CONVENTION.

The municipal convention now being held in Toronto is a unique gathering, says the Ottawa Citizen. It is largely attended by the most representative men from all parts of Canada east of Winnipeg, but especially Ontario. They are gathered to protest against the non-representative character of the legislation which in recent years has been put through the Dominion and local legislatures. These elected representatives of the municipalities, who are more in touch with the people than the members of parliamentary constituencies, have met in a spirit of indignation at the manner in which the rights and interests of the people have been given away to corporations which have a pull with the governments. It is a significant movement and bodes ill for the governments here and in the provinces represented. A feature of the movement has been the spontaneity which has characterized the action and the large and enthusiastic response to the invitation extended calling the meeting. It is in the nature of an indignation meeting of the taxpayers to protest against the manner in which the rights of the people have been ignored in granting legislation favorable to the grasping corporations whose lobbyists throng the corridors of the legislative buildings and whose principals put up so handsomely to

LABOR'S HOLIDAY.

Yesterday was Labor Day, a holiday, a holiday, says the Toronto Star. One day in the calendar is marked off from its fellows, consecrated to labor, and given over to play. For one whole day the shops will be closed, the noise of the factories stilled, and the places of their toilers empty. For one day the hod will be left in its corner, the pick and spade in the tool-box, and the ashes will be cold in the forge. The workmen and the workwomen will come up from the heat-ridden jungle of toil, and for that one day they may give themselves over to play, because it is Labor Day.

There is something pathetic in this appointment of Labor Day. It is not for all workers, but only for those whose work is hand-work, not for those whose work is brain-work. It is as though by the observance of one day we would do honor to labor which on all other days we neglect or despise or oppress. It is as though by one day, withdrawn from toil and devoted to pleasure, we would take away that primal, elder curse, and redeem labor from its hardness and hurt. It is as though, if we are hand-workers, we would deceive ourselves, and if we are brain-workers we would deceive others, with the notion that we honor labor and believe in its dignity and worth. When we stand apart from the procession, and reflect on its meaning, as it winds through the streets with its noise as of music and its flying banners as of victory, there come to us strange thoughts of the pathos and the pity of it all. For through all the music of the bands that are paid for their playing there strikes, for those who will hear it, the shrill cry of those who have not been paid for their working, and the hoarse plaint of those whose work has worn away the heart to care for the playing.

That is the pathos of Labor Day. Its tragedy is black in the shops and factories and homes in which so many sweeter and die at the heart. They are not in the procession—the man from the hell-mouth of the blast-furnace, the woman with the hollow chest and the wasted fingers, and their wretched offspring, who are old before their time. They have no heart for Labor Day's parade; because labor as they know it has the curse upon it, a vain and cruel thing that wastes the beauty of life without yielding the bread the sweat of their face has earned.

And yet it is good to have play and music on Labor Day. They have come, perhaps, before their time, but they foretell a day when labor shall be redeemed from the curse, when work shall have its play, when love shall wipe away all sweat from the face, and joy shall bring back music to the heart. That day is not yet, but it is brought nearer by every ray of kindness that is shot through life, by every hate that is dispelled and every fraud that is vanquished, and every unquenchable hope that is set on the best.

Labor's true holy day shall have come when every laborer does honest work for honest pay and to an honest purpose; when our bravest shall be trained and disciplined and captained for working as they now are for soldiering; when the service of men in the factory and workfield shall be as honorable and as highly praised as is now the killing of men on the kopje and the veldt-side; and when, following in the way of the Master of all true workmen and obedient to His spirit of brotherly love, the brain worker, shall serve the hand-worked, and each for man's sake, and for God's sake shall do justly and love mercy and walk life's ways in humbleness of heart, much remains to be done before the curse shall be lifted, and the true Labor Day come, but they do their part, be they captains of labor or labor's hands, who have learned that maxim in the spirit of it: "I must work the work of Him that sent me while it is day, for the night cometh when no man can work."

Bobbygon Independent.

The Canadian Press Association being away at the sea side, the goody-goody pastors might now with some degree of correctness, pile up the agony about the press of this unfortunate country being in the hands of "the devil."

TROUBLE IN THE GRIT CAMP.

London News, Anti-Tory.

Mr. Dryden says that he will not retire at the request of "any man like Mr. Pettypiece," and Hon. Mr. Stratton comes up to East Lambton to tell the Liberals there that Mr. Pettypiece is a wonderful man. Mr. Stratton says that Mr. Pettypiece is too independent for Mr. Dryden, but he does not say that he is too independent for Mr. Stratton.

In the inner political circles the rumors of dissension are almost past the rumor stage. Men who know tell of what they have heard cabinet ministers say of other cabinet ministers, or repeat what someone tells them that a cabinet minister had said of a colleague. These are rumors and need not be repeated, but the actions of cabinet ministers who "in their little nest should agree" are unusual just now. It is time that Hon. Mr. Ross returned to find out just how matters stand in the council room.

PROOF AT HAND.

Kingston Whig (Liberal).

The Whig has stated that Kingston was given a bad deal in the recent census and had evidence to sustain the complaint. In one family of three houses in this city nine persons were not enumerated, and they were not recorded elsewhere. The whole country has had a bad deal. The enumerators were bound down by instructions so that they passed over names which every argument of common sense would dictate the recording of. They acted like machines, not like men with intellects or regard for national interests. Some of those omitted were life-long residents of the city and had real estate property here, but were boarding at the time of the census. Because they were boarders enumerators refused to re-

COME JUST TOO LATE.

SOME PEOPLE ALWAYS LEFT BEHIND BY THE OCEAN LINERS.

They Are Known as Laggards Along the New York Steamship Pier, and They Generally Manage to Rise and Rumples on the Dock.

"There he comes," growled the old watchman at the entrance to the steamship pier, swishing his stick as a hansom clattered circuitously through the jam of wagons and trucks.

The warm looking man in the cab was wriggling around in the seat and bawling at the driver to make haste, and the Jehu in turn was howling at the truckmen under the shed to turn out and give him room. The "All aboard!" and "All aboard!" words had already been passed on the steamer and on the pier, and the unshipping of the gangways was in progress.

"I was waiting for him," went on the old pier watchman. "I knew he'd be along. I wouldn't have felt comfortable if he hadn't showed up. I don't think a ship could have any luck on her passage if there wasn't at least one of 'em. Sometimes there are several of 'em."

"Several what?"

"Laggards, we call 'em," replied the old watchman. "folks that stop on their way to a steamer to play marbles or jacks or get-up-the-ones that come scrambling along when the chief engineer's standing by to get his first bells from the bridge. I've been standing watch along the front of these docks since the days when the side wheel packets had the passenger trade of the western ocean, and not once have I seen a boat all ready to slide out without one or more of these laggards hanging up at the last minute."

"They're about equally divided between men and women. And when they're left they always carry on in a bughouse manner. If the lagger is a man, he'll as likely as not dance around on the end of the pier, and shake his fist at the ship out in the stream, and bawl about the thing being a put up job, and threaten to sue the company or burn down the pier, and keep up a 'cussin' like Horrible Bill, and abuse the agent and all the rest of the company employees on the dock, and act in general like a longshoreman with two quarts of the barrel house stuff under his belt strap."

"When the lagger that's left is a woman, she acts differently, of course, but she gives us a run for her money at that. She generally stands on the dock and after handing her bag and parasol and gear to her maid yanks out her handkerchief and weeps. Then when the first misery of it's over she goes mad and begins to say things. She always declares that the ship has got under way at least two hours ahead of its advertised schedule time, and the more she talks the hotter she gets. When she at length suddenly remembers that most of her clothes and jewelry are on the ship, that's about rounding Governors island at that time, she gets hysterical, and when a woman gets hysterical on a steamship dock you can bet that there's plenty doing for all hands and the cook."

"Funny thing about the woman lagger who's left and whose clothes are aboard the steamer that's gone off without her is that she wants to send about a dozen cable dispatches right from the dock before the ship's got as far as the Battery about what's to be done with her trunk when the steamer reaches the other side. There is no use trying to tell her that she's got plenty of time for that and that she would do better to think it over during the five or six days that it takes the steamer to cross. She seems to have the idea firmly fixed in her mind that the company's going to try to rob her of her gear and that the ship's due in Europe some time before lunch and if she doesn't do a lot of cabling before she quits the dock she's due to lose her wardrobe and sewings."

"Some of the women laggards that get left, though, don't get weepy a little bit, but the conversation that they work off when they see the ship belching black smoke out in the channel is some sultry and no mistake. One of these women that sing in grand opera, a foreign woman of some kind she was, French or giney or something like that, came racing down in an automobile about three months ago, only ten minutes after the ship had set her nose down the bay. Well, say, I was glad then that I didn't know what she was saying. I'll bet a hat I'd have been shriveled up. She just stood on the end of the dock and talked at the state of New Jersey over the way."

"She was a fine, handsome, big woman, and they tell me that on the stage she sings like a bird on an apple limb, but there wasn't any sing in her voice that morning. You'd have thought she was tearing up the old man for coming home on a Saturday night with a bun on and breaking the crockery in the cupboard. I'm telling you straight that she swept up and down that pier for 20 minutes talking without a break, and I saw all the giney truckmen on the dock crossing themselves and sticking their fingers in their ears, so that she must have been whooping it up a plenty."

"She tossed her head around so much that all of the combs and hairpins came out of her hair, and the fine, glossy black bunch tumbled down below her waist without her knowing anything about it. She certainly made a fine picture, but her maid didn't appear to be enjoying herself a little bit. The maid was dead careful to circle around the singing woman at an average distance of about 14 feet. I guess the maid was thinking about her own hair. There was enough excitement that morning on this dock to last for quite a bit."

Just then a sleepy looking messenger girl plodded up to the pier entrance, carrying a splendid basket of choice fruits.

"She gone yet?" inquired the sleepy looking messenger of the old watchman.

"Nope, son," said the watchman—the ship had departed about half an hour before. "Hand it over, and I'll get it aboard."

The messenger passed the ornate basket of fruit over to the old watchman and shuffled away.

"If there's any one thing that me and my old wife like," remarked the old watchman, holding up the basket and gazing admiringly at its contents, "it's fruit."

I WEIGH 175 lbs.

Former Weight 135

Gain 40 lbs.

There are people who say that the benefit derived from the use of put-up medicines is imaginary. It is not the case with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which makes weak women strong and sick women well. A woman may imagine she's weak, or may fancy she's sick, but her imagination can't add forty pounds to her weight. The positive proof of the curative power of "Favorite Prescription" is found in the restoration of health which is recorded in face and form, of strength which can be tested, and weight which can be registered in pounds and ounces.

The general health of women is so intimately connected with the local health of the womanly organs that when these are diseased the whole body suffers loss. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, stops weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I am very glad to let other poor sufferers know what Dr. Pierce's medicine has done for me," writes Mrs. Edwin H. Gardner, of Beechwood, Norfolk Co., Mass. (Box 70). "You know I wrote to you last summer. I read what your medicine had done for other people, so I thought I would try it, and found it was a blessing to me and my family. I began in June and took six bottles of your medicine, and three of 'Pellets.' I took your medicine when I had a ten-pound girl. I had the easiest time I ever had with any of my three children. I have been very well since I took your medicine. I took three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' three of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and three of 'Pellets.' I had no appetite and could not eat much without it distressing me before I took your 'Favorite Prescription,' and I only weighed 135 pounds. Now I weigh 175."

TRULY A QUEEN.

A very vivid and charming picture of Queen Alexandra among the Sandringham people is presented by Miss Mary Spencer Warren in the current number of The Lady's Magazine. "It is somewhat unique for royalty to be kept waiting," says Miss Spencer Warren, in the course of the article, "but it certainly happened on one occasion, and the laggard was not the bride, but the bridegroom. How bad for Mary! remarked Her Royal Highness, as Mary—the bride—stood pale and anxious, the observed of all observers. And it was bad, but Lady appeared at last, truth to tell, in a bad temper. The graceful fellow had actually been sulking at home, and would not start to the church for the simple reason that a carriage had been sent for the bride, but none for him. No royal warrant to move him, and one of his friends was obliged to go off, post haste, for the conveyance, the entire company meanwhile waiting in the church with what patience they could."

One more little anecdote of Sandringham life. It occurred some time after the death of the Duke of Clarence. As all know, the princess tried to hide her grief, which was shown only in her fading health and tender consideration for others. One day while walking with one of her ladies in the lanes, she met an old woman weeping bitterly and tottering under a load of packages. On inquiry it appeared she was a carrier, and made her living by shopping and doing errands in the market town for the country people.

"But the weight is too heavy at your age," said the princess.

"Yes, you're right, ma'am; I'll have to give it up, and if I give it up I'll starve. Jack carried them for me—my boy, ma'am."

"Jack? where is he now?"

"Jack? He's dead. Oh, he's dead!" the old woman cried wildly.

The princess, without a word, hurried on, drawing her veil over her face to hide her tears. A few days later a neat little cart and stout donkey were brought to the old carrier's door. She now travels with them to and fro, making a comfortable living, and has never been told the rank of the friend who has tried to make her life easier for the sake of her dead boy.

May I add one little fact, continues Miss Spencer Warren, but speaking volumes for the gentle nature of the Queen? She was shown through a criminal museum, and countless methods—scientific and legal—were explained for detection and punishment of crime. "It is very clever," said the kindly royal lady, "but if the world was as anxious to discover and reward the good men as it is to punish the bad, what a pleasant place it would be!"

A Lovely Nursery.

Quite unique in the women's section of the Glasgow Exhibition is the model nursery shown by the Society of Artisans. The furniture and fittings in it have been entirely designed by women. Beneath a colored frieze illustrating the story of Cinderella run the following lines:

A little work, a little play,
A lot of love, and that's a day;
A little crib, a little light,
A loving kiss, and then 'tis night.

The children's toy cupboard is all made of natural unpainted white wood, with panels upon which are carved branches painted in rich green. The high safety fender is of wrought iron, and another novelty is a first aid cupboard wherein are stored all the appliances necessary in case of some mishap. A high dresser furnished with green and cream colored pottery for children, decorated with amusing mottoes, completes the furniture. The chairs and tables are all made small and low, with exclusive regard to their small occupants.

Hard on Stairways.

The Duchess of Cleveland, the mother of Lord Rosebery whose "Roll of Battle Abbey," published in three volumes, occupied her for many years, was very fond of the historic pile. The story is told that she was one day at the house of an American millionaire, who, pointing to his palatial staircase, remarked: "I venture to think, your Grace, that even Battle Abbey cannot show a finer staircase than this." "Oh, no," answered the Duchess of Cleveland, "the Battle Abbey stairs are very shabby. You see, those old Crusaders were them out so dreadfully."

Lady Suffolk's Story.

A friend of mine, who lives not very far from Malmesbury, writes Lady Suffolk in Vanity Fair, visiting the inmates of the work-house, was asked to break the news to an old woman of ninety-two of the death of her daughter, aged sixty-two. The old woman took the information very philosophically, and only shook her head, saying: "Ah, I knew I should never rear poor Anne!"

A Curious Coincidence.

"It is," says The World of London, England, "a curious coincidence, that Major-General Kitchener and Smith-Barrow, who were promoted the other day in recognition of their services at the Cape, were born on the same day, May 26th, 1858. They both became brevet colonels on November 16th, 1898, in recognition of their services in the Khartoum expedition, and have been promoted to general's rank in the same Gazette."

Sir Walter Besant's Monument.

Sir Walter Besant was not a man of commanding genius, but he was a thoroughly good literary workman, and the tone of all his work was wholesome and hearty. ## RAZORS WERE WILDLY FLASHED

An Ugly Row Occurred at the Idlewild Hotel Last Evening.

Three Colored Men in the Cells as a Result—White Man Struck Down.

A wild and exciting time was experienced at the Idlewild Hotel last night about eleven o'clock.

A colored youth named Fred Harbert, son of the city scavenger, who evidently the worse of liquor and looking for trouble, stepped boldly in the hotel about ten minutes to eleven o'clock, just as Mr. O'Mara, the proprietor of the hotel, was preparing to close up the bar and the bar and in a loud, commanding voice demanded a drink of whiskey.

Mr. O'Mara has made a rule that no colored man can get a drink over his bar, and has repeatedly refused drinks to such that are not acquainted with the rules of the house. Harbert knew this and apparently asked for the drink simply to have a row with Mr. O'Mara.

Mr. O'Mara refused to give him drink, and ordered him to get out of the house. At this, Harbert became abusive and seemed prepared to fight. One of the bystanders approached him kindly and told him quietly that it was contrary to the rules of the establishment to give him a drink, and advised him to keep quiet, whereat Harbert struck him in the face and landed him on the floor.

At this juncture, a number of other colored men, who were standing in front of the hotel, loudly demonstrating to a number of his friends how he had bullied the proprietor of the Idlewild. He was considerably surprised when Harbert was seized by the collar, saying at the same time, "You are my prisoner."

Harbert was not to be caught so easily and made a desperate struggle, but he was overpowered and was thrown on the floor, and the police were called.

Officers Dezelial and Groves set out in search of them. They found Harbert at the Rutley House about half past 11 o'clock. He was standing in front of the hotel, loudly demonstrating to a number of his friends how he had bullied the proprietor of the Idlewild. He was considerably surprised when Harbert was seized by the collar, saying at the same time, "You are my prisoner."

ELOPERS CAUGHT

A Lambton Farmer Found Wife and Wied Man in Michigan.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Aug. 31.—Six weeks ago C. L. Ryckman, a farmer living at Mandanville, Ont., near Peterborough, arose one morning to find that his wife had left him, taking with her their youngest daughter, aged 13. Investigation revealed the fact that Peter Bradow, a barley farm hand, was also missing. For weeks he searched, but without avail. Two weeks ago the little daughter returned alone, destitute and hungry. She told her father that her mother was in Michigan with Bradow, under the name of James Moore. Ryckman arrived yesterday, and found the couple on a farm three miles north. When the erring wife was first confronted by her husband, she denied all knowledge of him, maintaining that she was the wife of Moore, but the husband's tears and several entreaties from her daughter at home broke her down, and she consented to return. Bradow was allowed to go upon promise to keep away from Mandanville.

The teachers and scholars of a school near Blenheim received a shock they are not likely to forget in the thunder-storm which passed over that locality recently. Miss Beatrice White is the teacher of the school on the 10th concession. When the storm was at its height the building was struck. The Paris Review gives an account of what happened. The chimney was dashed to the ground. One of the stones on the inside flew past the teacher's head. The current passed down the pipe, the stones, which stood in the centre of the room. Here it seemed to have bounded aside, for the bolt struck a seat on which were seated two small scholars. The little girls were hurled to the floor unconscious. Miss White, who was herself half dazed and stunned, on recovering, carried the two little girls out into the open air. It was a quarter of a mile to the nearest house, but she bravely set out with her heavy burden, the rain meanwhile coming down in torrents. Restoratives were applied, and the children recovered consciousness. On examination it was found that the body of one was seared with many long lines. The seat where the children had sat had a piece of wood taken out about eighteen inches long and three inches wide. This was twisted into shreds. Both children are now nearly recovered.

Dear Sirs,—For some years I have had only partial use of my arm, caused by a sudden strain. I have used every remedy without effect, until I got a sample bottle of RICHARDS' LINIMENT. The benefit I received from it caused me to continue its use, and now I am happy to say my arm is completely restored.

RECUPERATIVE EFFECT.
Considered with reference to its recuperative effect, there is not so much good in the ordinary vacation as there is in a single bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. The latter costs $1; the former, well, that depends; how much did yours cost last year?

Hood's Sarsaparilla refreshes the tired blood, sharpens the dulled appetite restores lost courage.

—Hood's Sarsaparilla cures radically—that is, it removes the roots of disease. That's better than lopping the branches.

WORDS WE SWALLOW

ON THE TIP OF THE TONGUE, YET WE CAN'T GET THEM OUT.

This Hitch in the Working of the Brain is Called Aphasia in the Medical Profession—A Trick the Chinaman Uses For the Emergency.

Everybody knows what it is to have a word on the tip of the tongue and yet not be able to speak it. The word is known perfectly well, and yet we cannot get it out of our mouths. It is a common word in everyday use. But it will not be spoken when wanted. What is the secret of this "word forgetfulness?"

Doctors call it aphasia. They cannot explain it, but say it is a little hitch in the working of the brain or intellect. The Chinese, who have done so many quaint and clever things, recognized the difficulty thousands of years ago and invented a very ingenious way of making the best of things.

They manufactured a number of words and sentences that meant absolutely nothing, mere sound without sense. When a Chinaman in the course of conversation comes to a word that he has on the tip of his tongue, but cannot speak, he just makes use of the meaningless phrases invented for that purpose until he recalls the word he wants and goes on with the conversation.

The trick, for trick it is, is much in use in public speaking and certainly is an improvement on the "er—er—ers," coughings and throat clearings that so plentifully besprinkle our own after dinner orations. The speaker preserves his dignity and gives himself time for thought.

Very often the greater the desire to speak the missing word the greater the difficulty or sheer impossibility. The man in the Arabian story could not remember the words "Open sesame," although he was in danger of his life. There are many cases on record of soldiers, even officers, forgetting the password and being shot down by their own sentries. At the critical moment the all important word, that they thought they knew as well as their own names escapes them. They struggle to recall it, but the very effort makes it more difficult, and they pay with their lives.

A man may sometimes be tortured and yet be unable to speak the word he most desires to utter. Spies have been captured and have gone to their death in silence not because they have not been eager to betray their comrades, but because under the stress and excitement of the situation they have totally forgotten the information they would convey. A celebrated case of this kind was made the subject of a play produced in London some years ago, called "A Question of Memory."

No doubt every reader will be able to recall instances in which he has suffered from this "word forgetfulness." One can often remember the initial letter of the word, but not the word itself. It is still on the tip of the tongue, even after one has given up the struggle to recall it.

Actors sometimes forget a word or two in their parts but do not effort of their own can give back to them at the moment. But the wings reached and the strain removed they are again immediately word perfect and at a loss to explain their forgetfulness. A whole part is sometimes forgotten. This usually happens after a very long run. During the run of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" Mrs. Patrick Campbell one night found herself on the stage as innocent of any knowledge of her part as any member of the audience. She made desperate efforts to "find herself," but it was no good. That performance she had to read the part through from beginning to end.

Names of people are the words that slip our memories most frequently. We see a face we know, and yet we cannot fit a name to it. We are shaken by the hand or slapped on the back, and all the while we are hard at work trying to think of the name of the person who is doing it. Kings are credited with royal memories, and it is rare to find a sovereign who has not a wonderful memory for faces. But he usually has some one at his elbow who can jog his memory for names.

It is not always safe to fish for a name wanted. When Ellen Terry and Henry Irving were in America one year, they met a gentleman who, they knew, had reason to expect that they could remember his name. But this they failed to do. So Miss Terry approached him and said: "Sir Henry and I cannot agree as to the exact spelling of your name. Will you please put us right?" "Certainly," was the reply. "It is J-o-n-e-s."

Aphasia is divided by those who have studied the subject into "word blindness" and "word deafness." A man who is "word blind" may be able to pronounce the name of letters, but cannot understand the meanings of the words they form. A man who is "word deaf" can understand ordinary sounds and music, but cannot understand spoken words. His speech is often mere senseless jargon.

But the passing forgetfulness of a word has little to do with these more serious forms of the complaint. We swallow words under the influence of excitement or more often of fatigue. People getting better from a serious illness are tormented by the loss of common words. This is particularly the case after influenza. One of our leading statesmen after an attack of this malady suddenly lost the thread of his speech in the midst of a public discourse.

"Word forgetfulness" is, however, mainly the result of careless observation or of want of training. What we never knew well we very easily forget. An experienced police detective never forgets a face or name.

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets The Most Successful Treatment For the Kidney Weakness of Children.

Mothers know what distress and anxiety they have when the little ones cannot retain their water properly, or have any trouble with their kidneys.

For any weakness of the kidneys, bladder or urinary organs of children, Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, which are the prescription of the eminent specialist, Dr. Zina Pitcher, are the most effective remedy known to science.

Mrs. W. M. Glover, Pearl street, Brockville, Ont., says: "One of my children that had been suffering from sluggish kidneys read about Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, and procured a bottle. They removed the whole difficulty promptly. That depressing pain over the kidneys stopped, dizziness and headaches ceased, and there was a general invigorating of the system. There is no question regarding the merits of those Tablets for the back and kidneys. We have great confidence in them and recommend them highly."

OUR WAY TO RIDE.

England Laughed at Our Jockeys First. Now Imitates Them.

"When Tod Sloan first appeared on the English tracks, people saw a mite of humanity perched in 'scorching' position, with knees clamped to the horse's withers," says Allen Sanger in Almanac's. "His stirrups were so short that his chin almost brushed his knees, and he had neither whip nor spurs. The English school and the old American school of jockeys sat straight in the saddle with long stirrups and punished the horse severely. The effect of Sloan's method was ludicrous, and all England laughed. Now the jockeys over here try to imitate him."

"There is sound logic in Sloan's monkeylike riding. He takes all weight away from the horse's kidneys, so that the hind or driving part of the animal is left free to impart rapid motion; also by clinging to the shoulders instead of bouncing up and down, thus racking the horse at every leap, he diminishes the atmospheric resistance by more than a third. The Reiff brothers, Danny Maher, Martin and all the younger American jockeys here and abroad now ride in this fashion. Its value has been demonstrated in England, where the first three named, together with Sloan, carried off all racing honors for two seasons."

The Reiff boys are sons of an Ohio blacksmith. They have made $250,000 in a few years. They are notable among jockeys, not for having earned so much money, but for having saved it, because the jockey is seldom frugal. His average pay in one season, counting $25 for winning mounts and $19 for losing ones, reaches a total of about $5,000. Against this sum must be charged fines and valet expenses. This is a minimum salary. Nowadays all good jockeys receive large retainings from their owners and in addition win a good deal through betting.

"When a jockey retires from the saddle without having saved any money, his future is dismal. As a reaction from abnormal training he usually becomes very fat and sluggish and, with no education, seems unable to make a good living. Gad Ural, made famous in painting when he won the memorable Metropolitan Derby in 1880, now takes in washing with his wife at Coney Island. The man who was Ural's attendant in those faraway days of triumph now receives $500 a week as a burlesque comedian. He is Charles Ross."

"Mike Bergen tended bar for a long time, and Pettie Dunn, one of the best jockeys this country has produced, has a milk route in upper New York. A few, like Jimmy McLaughlin, are doing well as trainers and owners, but the majority of these old time celebrities have slipped out of ken like the horses they rode."

The Ten Great Cities of the World.
The population of the largest cities in the world, according to the latest figures, are as follows:

1901—London	4,538,084
1900—New York	3,437,302
1898—Paris	2,536,834
1900—Berlin	1,884,151
1900—Chicago	1,908,578
1900—Canton, China	1,600,000
1900—Tokyo	1,482,564
1901—Yokohama	1,264,548
1900—Philadelphia	1,293,697
1897—St. Petersburg	1,267,082

It will thus be seen that of the ten leading cities the United States has three, while no other country has more than one.

Keeps Out Mosquitoes.
A railroad man who works in one of the switch towers on the line to Atlantic City, surrounded by a mosquito infested swamp, has a plan of his own for keeping them out of the tower.

When the lamps are lighted and the insects swarm around the windows, the switchman makes a ball out of his morning newspaper and soaks it in coal oil just enough so that it will not drip. He hangs this midway between two windows and keeps it swinging all the time. He says that no matter how thick the mosquitoes may be outside they never care to pass it.

Darkest New Jersey.
There are parts of New Jersey, within a very short distance of Philadelphia, too, which, strange as it may seem, are but little more known today than they were 200 years ago. In fact they are portions of the "Pine Barrens" which have never known the tread of a white man. It is this wilderness that a party of naturalists, Mr. Stone as chief and Messrs. Rohn and Coggins as assistants, are starting out to explore.

Costly Harness.
The young Egyptian khedive is said to possess the most costly set of harness in the world. It is made of black leather, with chased gold buckles and collars, ornamented with the same costly metal. The pad with the same embroidery with gold, and the set is said to have cost $2,000. It is for four horses and is used on all state occasions.

Backyard Calcutta.
The American consul at Calcutta thinks that capital might find a profitable investment in that city, where the demand for first class apartment houses is far in excess of the supply, while the natives are too conservative to build. The hotels are so overcrowded that tents have to be erected on the roofs.

Pin in Candle.
A curious old custom was revived at Great Oakley, England, where parish lands were let by "pin in candle." The local clergyman presided. A pin is inserted in a burning candle, and so long as it remains in its tallow resting place bids are taken. The last bidder before the pin drops is declared the tenant.

KEEN CONTEST

Peter McAuley's Baseballers Again Win out in Ninth Inning Rally.

Keen of eye and light of foot was the red man proven to be yesterday in the baseball game between the C. M. C. and the Walpole Island Indians.

The game started at 4:15 and was won at 5:45, making it an hour and a half game. At first it looked as though the locals would have a walk-away, but when Penance, the Indian's crack pitcher, got settled down things looked altogether different. Penance struck out 14 men and only allowed nine safe hits, Miller for the locals also pitched an excellent game, striking out 10 men and only allowing five safe connections with his delivery, and, in fact, it was a pitcher's battle from start to finish with honors about even.

The support on both sides was very good, three errors being registered against the red men and one against the wagon makers. The umpire, although erratic by some points, did his best, several discussions arose on decisions but were all amicably settled. The largest crowd that has been on the park this season came out to witness this game. The score was as follows:

NOT ON GOOD TERMS.

M. Bapst, councillor of the French Embassy, and the other members of the Embassy staff took the guardship Vautour on an excursion upon the Sea of Marmora in order to avoid dressing the vessel, as the other warships in the harbor were dressed, in recognition of the anniversary of the Sultan's accession to the throne, which was celebrated yesterday. The members of the Embassy did not participate in the congratulations of the diplomatic corps, nor was the Embassy illuminated. Turkish officials received forty to sixty per cent. of the salaries in the anniversary of the Sultan's accession.

WILL NOT REPLY.

London, Sept. 2.—The Paris correspondent of the Times says no reply will be made to the Sultan's appeal to France to negotiate on the questions of the sums due from Turkey to the French bankers, save that it is expected that Turkey will pay its debts.

TURKEY AND GREECE.

Berlin, Sept. 2.—Abdul Hamid is executing another unexpected manoeuvre. Just at the moment when relations between the Ottoman Government and some of the great powers are distributed, those between Turkey and Greece are growing friendly. It is more than possible that King George will visit the Sultan in Constantinople in the not far distant future. Prince Maurocordato, the Greek minister at the Turkish capital, has been for some time making preliminary arrangements for such a meeting. More than this, M. Theodorakis, the Greek Premier, according to advices to the Berlin papers, will soon go to Constantinople, as it is his wish to enter into personal communication with the Sultan in order to promote the wishes and intentions of Greece regarding her relations with Turkey.

Should these visits take place—first that of the Premier and then that of King George—it is expected they will assist in the final settlement of the Cretan question, the only open question between Constantinople and Athens. Greece would be prepared to make valuable concessions to the Sultan if he would waive his objections to the annexation of the island to Greece. At the closing of the Cretan chamber the other day the president, amid loud cheering, expressed a hope that the deputies when they reassembled would meet in Athens.

THE SULTAN WON'T YIELD.

Paris, Sept. 3.—The Matin announces that it has received from a source alleged to be authoritative in Constantinople information to the effect that the Sultan, relying upon the assurance of a great power that France will not proceed to force, will refuse any concession in the Constantinian affair.

FRANCE MEANS BUSINESS.

Paris, Sept. 2.—It is rumored to-night that a naval division will be ordered to Turkish waters to-morrow. Manir Bey will only return to Paris against the wishes of the French Government, unless the dispute is settled.

AGONIES OF RHEUMATISM BANISHED BY Paine's Celery Compound

THE ONLY MEDICINE THAT CAN SAVE PAIN RACKED SUFFERERS.

A Marvellous Cure After Use of Seven Bottles of the Great Compound.

Paine's Celery Compound has absolute proof that it has effected complete cures in 97 per cent of the cases of rheumatism in which it has been used. The worst sufferer is healed, crutches thrown away, and the poor cripple of yesterday becomes the vigorous man or woman of to-day! Mr. William Morissette, of Roxton Pond, Que., writes thus: "Having been given up to die some time ago, by some of the best doctors in the United States, I came to Canada last autumn, terribly ill, and had lost all hope. Suffering agonies from inflammatory rheumatism, I was strongly urged to use Paine's Celery Compound. I gave it a trial as recommended, and the first bottle did me so much good I continued with the medicine until I had used seven bottles, when I found myself perfectly cured; indeed, I never felt better in my life than at present. I use every possible means to relieve others of Paine's Celery Compound, and will always recommend it to those troubled with rheumatism."

The excursion steamer Alert, and the steamer Sunbeam collided in Clear Lake, near Peterboro'. The Alert was sunk, but all on board were saved.

The Boy and His Clothes

The schoolboy! We can none of us afford to forget him. Big things are ahead of him. Work and honors and money and fun and fame—the best of life is waiting for the vigorous youngster that has worn out the knees of all his school pants during the holidays.

At present what he wants is a new suit for school. It ought to be strong everywhere and extra strong in the pockets—and next to being strong it wants to be smart looking, because neat clothes react on a boy's habits and help to make a gentleman of him.

These 3-piece suits mostly range up to 16 years size, and we've been careful to get them proportioned just right. Good serviceable colors, natty finish, black Italian or farmer's satin linings—plenty of pockets.

$3.00 Dressy suit of dark blue serge, single breasted coat, plain vest, short pantaloons, nine stout pockets. A gem.
$3.25 Suit of mixed tweed in a lasting shade of bronze, single breasted coat, plain vest, most careful making all through.
$4.50 Suit of blue and black checked tweed, single breasted coat with vent in sleeve, vest has collar. Full of workmanship and wear.

MARRIED TO NURSE HIM.

Miss Mary Reaume, of Chatham, Ont., came to Delray Wednesday and was married to George H. Deering, who is suffering from scarlet fever. His father and mother were both ill in the house and there was no one to care for them, so Miss Reaume, braving the dangers of infection, was married to her sweetheart in order that she might nurse him. The ceremony was performed by Fr. Champion. At the same hour the groom's mother lay cold in death, a victim of the fever.—Detroit Tribune.
