God's Will.

The following aweet hymn of Julius Sturm, in Eng-Pain's furnace-heat within me quiv God's breath upon the flame doth blow; And all my heart is anguish shivere.

And trembles at the flery glow:

And yet I whisper: de God will!

And in his hottest fire hold still.

He comes, and lays my heart, all heated, On the hard anvil, minded so. Into his own fair shape to beats it
With his great hammer, blow on blow And yet I whisper: As God will!
And at his heaviest blow hold still.

He takes my softened heart and beats it, The sparks fly off at every blow; He turns it o'er and o'er and heats it, And lets it cool, and makes it glow And yet I whisper: As God will! And in his mighty hand hold still.

Why should I murmur? for the sorrow Thus only longer-lived would be; Its end may come, and will to-morrow, When God has done his work in me, So I say true ing: As God will! And trusting to the end, hold still.

He kindles, for my profit purely, Affliction's glowing, flery brand; And all his heaviest blows are surely Inflicted by a master-hand; So I say praising: As GOD WILL And hope in him, and suffer still.

From what did it receive its name? From the place where it was first publishe Douay, a town in France.

When was it published?

Why does it differ so much from our English Hebrew, but from the Vulgate, which was from the Septuagint, and very imperfect. It could not be as correct as a translation made directly from the Hebrew.

James' Bible ?" James L. King of England.

When was it begun and when completed? lished in 1611.

By whom was this translation made? did not serve, leaving forty-seven as the number who were actually engaged in the work. How was the labor apportioned among this with other versions of the Rible?
