As Sure as Shooting

But shooting is not always sure. It's mighty uncertain if the gun isn't right or if the ammunition is poor. Poor ammunition will keep the best gun from shooting, sure. Poor guns have the same effect upon good ammunition. You must have both of them right. Good guns, good ammunition, are what we want to sell you. Good revolvers, too, good powder and shot.

Catholic Poor in London.

A noteworthy article in a recent issue of the "Pall Mall Magazine," says the "Catholic Universe," is from the pen of the Dowager Duchess of Newcastle, a zealous Catholic lady whose life, since her widowhood, has been devoted to the uplifting of the Catholic poor of London. The Duchess' article is, in effect, a statement of her reasons for embarking upon this work and a description of the aims and accomplishments of the movement.

In 1893 Cardinal Vaughan founded an organization of ladies styled the Catholic Social Union, intended to provide means of co-operation amongst Catholic women of all classes for the common good. Ours is the title referred to has been dropped, and the system of work amongst the poor created by the Social Union is now carried on by its members in conjunction with and as a part of the women's branch of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. The objects which the Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster had in view in calling the Catholic Social Union into existence were to preserve the faith and to arrest the dangerous leakage which takes place when the Catholic children leaving school have to go to work in the factories and workshops. There they find themselves in an atmosphere of indifference and unbelief, and if left to themselves and no longer in touch with any Catholic element are easily led away to think lightly of the obligations imposed on them by their faith, and drift unconsciously into the easy-going ways of those around them.

"If," so thought the Cardinal, all these Catholic girls could be brought together at the end of their day's work under some Catholic influence, they would then form a Catholic social element in which the needed recreations would be offered to them, unattended by any danger to their faith."

The end aimed at was a high and holy one. In order the more effectually to compass it, the Duchess of Newcastle has made her home amongst the poor and forsaken all luxuries which wealth and rank confer in order to help them in all their needs.

She describes how she was asked to open a club or reading room for Catholic women in Whitechapel, that most forsaken portion of the slums of London, which at the time possessed a penitentiary unsavoury reputation, owing to the then recently perpetrated atrocities of Jack the Ripper. After brief practical experience of the difficulties of her self-appointed mission, the Duchess came to the conclusion that the only way in which she could fulfil them with satisfaction to herself or with benefit to those whom she desired to help was by taking up her residence in the heart of that district.

As might have been expected, Lady Newcastle finds that the exiles of Ireland constitute the majority of the Catholic population of Whitechapel and that these maintain nobly the olden reputation of their race for morality, religion and courtesy. She writes, for instance: "The surroundings of my new home in the Whitechapel district of London are not without interest. The Catholic Church in Great Prescott street was built some thirty years ago in honor of the English martyrs who gave their lives for the faith on Tower Hill. The very spot of their execution is marked by a stone, and is only a few minutes' walk from the church dedicated to their memory. The tower itself is included in the parish, and when the Irish Guards happen to be quartered there, they all come up with their band into the half-past ten o'clock Mass on Sunday, filling the church with a brilliant blaze of scarlet. Unfailing sympathy and curiosity greet them Sunday after Sunday, and the street is lined with men, woman and children eager to see the stalwart figures of their countrymen marching past as they return to the Tower."

"I am always glad to award school prizes, distribute gifts of clothing, and assist the sick, these being some of the charities which naturally arise in our settlement work. Amongst the treats which we sometimes give our mothers and girls, one of the most appreciated is a day in the country. To walk across the fields and to inhale the fresh, balmy air must indeed be a treat to those who live the whole year in the squalor of East London. We, therefore, take our mothers and girls down to Woodford, where I myself have a house, and where they spend the whole day. They dine and have tea on the lawn, and dance with great 'entrain' their Irish jigs to the sound of a barrel organ. Benediction and a short address in the Franciscan Church which adjoins the house close the day, to which those poor weary workers always look forward with great expectation.

"One of the most lovable traits of the Irish Catholics is their untiring devotion to the Church. To them the Church is the highest interest in life. Their homes may be squalid, but to the Church they will give their last penny, and in it they feel at home, for all can point to some part—pulpit, statue or altar—which was given by them and paid for by their hard-earned and badly-needed pennies. I know a poor widow who used to go without her breakfast in order to be able to give a penny to the collectors (chosen men among the very best in the parish) who go around every Sunday to collect for the Church and school. Many a shilling have I given toward building that church! another will say; or sometimes, I have given many a brick for that church! Moreover, they never forget to bless the hand that gives to them in time of need. 'May the Almighty reward you!' or 'May God love you!' are phrases that follow you everywhere on your errands of mercy."

No thoughtful reader of the Duchess of Newcastle's article will fail to be impressed with the idea that she had discovered the only true solution of the social problems which vex the souls of reformers and statesmen. She had studied the poor, and especially the Irish poor of London, and she records the same opinion which has often been expressed before by such capable observers, when she asserts that amongst them "there are real saints; men and women who endure the hardships of daily life, or perhaps some terrible disease, or heart rendering bereavement, with words of praise and perfect submission to God's holy will on their lips; others who go through the drudgery of work, work, and hardly any recreation, with the heroic patience of the martyrs, ever ready to help each other, to give without expecting anything in return. How often do such examples shame those whose lot is cast in pleasant paths? The East can learn from the West; yet I say again, the West can learn from the East a daily lesson of courage and confidence in God. —True Witness

Putting of Payment of Debts.

Whether or not it be true that, as Pope asserts, "an honest man's the noblest work of God," it is an undeniable fact that a perfectly honest man is a much rarer character in modern life than the world at large is disposed to admit. That the average citizen, and more especially the citizen of good repute and acknowledged standing, will resent the imputation of dishonesty in any form, goes of course without saying; but such resentment is quite compatible with a guilty consciousness of having in some one of a score of different ways invaded or violated the property rights of others. Even the absence of such consciousness, however, is no guarantee of one's thorough uprightness, for an honest conscience as to the relation between others' rights and our duties is not only easily formed, but all too generally is actually formed.

Should this somewhat bald statement impress the reader as an exaggeration, let him consider for a moment one specific form of dishonesty and the flippant ease with which it is popularly condoned. What is more common in every-day life than putting off the payment of legitimate debts, yet what more rare than the debtor's accusing himself of such delay as a venial sin? The subject is so practical, as well as so important, that it will probably be worth while for even the best living reader to review the first principles of the matter and to do so there is no better plan than to hark back to the little catechism, the excellent text book from which most Catholics in these provinces received their primary lessons in ethics.

"Discussing the seventh commandment (the eighth according to the division of our non-Catholic neighbors), Butler asks what is commanded by it, and answers: "To pay our lawful debts, and give every one his own." Among the things forbidden by it is mentioned, not only all unjust taking, but all unjust "keeping" what belongs to another. To the question: "What are they obliged to do who . . . have unjustly what belongs to another?" The uncompromising answer is: "To restore it as soon as possible, and as far as they are able, otherwise the sin will not be forgiven them." This last sentence merits particular attention both because the expressions "as soon as possible" and "as far as they are able" are apt to be interpreted (by the debtor) in a sense utterly at variance with their evident meaning, and because the final clause, "otherwise the sin will not be forgiven them," contains a truth which in practice, it is to be feared, too many Catholics altogether lose sight of.

There is no question here, it will be understood, of debtors who are really so poor that they cannot satisfy their creditors. Towards them generous charity, not severe justice, should be exercised. But there emphatically is question of those who, having where with to pay their debts, are unwilling to do so, and put off their creditors with a hundred and one lying pretext. There is no question of those who, not having wherewith to pay at once, do not do all in their power to put themselves as soon as may be in a position to acquire themselves of their obligation. There is no question of those who continue to contract new debts while they foresee their inability to pay those already contracted. There is question, in fine, of those who employ iniquitous means, iniquitous even though legal, to defraud their creditors, in whole or in part, of the amount justly due them.

All such persons are unjustly keeping what belongs to others; they are habitually transgressing the seventh commandment, and most frequently transgressing it grievously; and are without any possible question bound forthwith to make restitution, or at the very least, to take effective measures to render restitution possible. It will not do to say that one is free from sin in this matter if he has the general, vague, illusory intention of paying his debt in some indefinite by-and-by; the delay itself is a sin if it incommodes the creditor and is contrary to his wishes. Nor will it do to plead that your creditor has not yet dunned you for your debt; he is not obliged to dun you, but you are certainly obliged to pay him even without his asking you to do so.

What of the reason most frequently given for the non-payment of debts, or for the continued postponement of their payment, i.e., actual inability to discharge them? Is it always, or generally urged with truth? There is a proverb which tells us to be just before we are generous; christian morality goes further and enjoins that we be just to our creditors before being generous to ourselves. How many who allege that they "haven't a cent" to pay, as an instalment even, on a long standing bill, readily find dollars to expend in the varieties of dress, in the luxuries of the table, in the gratification of caprices and passions, in patronizing the theatre, or dabbling in speculation? "I cannot pay" becomes available as a legitimate excuse for delay in discharging debts, only when he who pleads it has cut down his expenses and practiced genuine economy with a view to making the restitution to which his creditors have an undeniable right.

That the more speedily we pay our debts the less onerous we find the obligation, is a truism. The longer we put off their payment, that payment being in our power, the harder we find it to pay at all. It is to be borne in mind, too, that though we delay payment until our debts are outlawed before the civil courts, we are still bound in conscience and before God to respect our creditors' rights and pay them what we owe them.

Rev. A. E. O'Neill, C.S.C. in New Freeman.

Religious Events Briefly Recorded.

Now that lists have been compiled of the men of the French congregations to be dispersed, it appears that they include a total membership of about 14,700.

The Bishop of Orleans publishes a letter to the mothers superior of the French religious orders engaged in educational or charitable work, counselling them not to rely upon passive resistance, which now is fruitless, but to put themselves right by secularizing the aims of their respective orders.

The Bishop of Quimper has not been intimidated by the suppression of the stipends of twenty-eight priests for having used the Breton language in teaching the catechism. The priests of the Diocese of Quimper are, by the Bishop's direction, to continue to preach and teach in French when the hearers are French in French and Breton when they are mixed and in Breton alone when the auditory is exclusively Breton.

On Easter Sunday the death took place in Dublin of the Very Rev. William J. Mahoney, S.M., dean of the Archdiocese of Wellington, New Zealand.

Many visitors to the Grande Chartreuse, from which the community have been banished, must have come into contact with the curiously brother Patrios, a grand-nephew of O'Connell. He had been on the point of entering the British Diplomatic Service, when at the last moment a sudden change of heart sent him to the Grande Chartreuse petitioning for admission. After three years in the novitiate he was passed for ordination, but he prayed so hard to be excused that he has been allowed ever since to remain simple Brother Patrios. His duties have always been in the guest house.

The Cologne "Volks-Saitung" today prints a letter from a Catholic missionary in Shan-Tung province, China, saying that a new sect similar to the Boxers has assumed enormous proportions in Kian-Nan (Kiang-Ning?). Eighty per cent. of the population are already members, including many soldiers and officials. The writer adds that he expects a wholesale rising of the population against foreigners, and asserts that the Mandarins are using their influence thereto.

When the French Assumptionists were dissolved after the passing of the Law of the Associations they sold their paper, "La Croix," to M. Paul Furon-Vrau, a wealthy gentleman, who appointed as editor M. Bouvatier, formerly a Deputy, and a man well known in Parisian journalistic circles. These gentlemen have now been carrying on the paper for the last two years. M. Ombes has now taken it into his head that the dissolved Assumptionists are still the real owners of "La Croix," and that the paper must accordingly be smashed. So a "Juge d'Instruction" was intrusted with inquiring into the state of affairs. He summoned nine police commissioners to his office and gave them search warrants ordering them to search the offices of "La Croix," the private residences of the proprietor, editor and manager and of the members of the ex-Assumptionist congregation known to reside in Paris. All books and papers were seized and seals were placed upon the premises which could not be searched, and the search will be continued later.

Ottawa Weekly Letter.

THE WEEK IN PARLIAMENT.

The business of Parliament during the past week was almost exclusively confined to government bills and private motions. Little time was given to supply. Mr. Tarte called attention to the introduction of political methods at the Sorel shipbuilding works.

A long discussion took place in regard to freight congestion in the west. It was pointed out by eastern members that the west was no worse off in this respect than the east.

The government's bill to provide for the appointment of a railway commission was considered. The bill to aid in the settlement of railway strikes was also advanced to the committee stage.

At Sorel extensive improvements have been made at a cost of over $250,000, and the two railways the works were to serve are bankrupt.

In the St. Francis River, the government has taken upon itself the completion of ice piers which are purely municipal.

Hon. James Sutherland pledged himself to expend all moneys voted for public works, and contradicted Hon. Mr. Prefontaine's claim that the Department of Marine and Fisheries will administer the Quebec end of the Public Works branch.

CONSERVATIVES PROUD OF THEIR LEADER.

Conservatives may well feel proud of their leader, Mr. R. L. Borden. The quiet, unassuming person, who, two years ago, took upon himself the direction of the policy of the opposition, has justified the fondest hopes of his friends.

Hon. James Sutherland pledged himself to expend all moneys voted for public works, and contradicted Hon. Mr. Prefontaine's claim that the Department of Marine and Fisheries will administer the Quebec end of the Public Works branch.

HARD ON SIR WILFRID.

Hon. J. Israel Tarte again calls attention to the insincerity of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in dealing with questions of great public interest.

On the character of the First Minister. The latter met defeat at the hands of the ex-Minister of Public Works in 1878. On that occasion Mr. Tarte used very strong language in referring to Sir Wilfrid and the attitude of the government towards the tariff has caused him to return to the attack.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier entered public life as a protectionist, and later on became a member of a government which professed to maintain a very low tariff and died in the attempt. The Prime Minister has no very strong opinion on matters of this kind."

ANOTHER PLAN FOR SPENDING CASH.

The government has varied its program in wasting public funds. The construction of public works for members of parliament and friends of the administration has been a favorite pastime.

In every section of the Dominion it is a recognized principle that relief in such cases should be had from the responsible municipal bodies. However, the town of Richmond saw an opportunity to unload its burdens on Canadians.

INCREASE IN TARIFFS AND PRICES.

Liberal orators can no longer hope to deceive the electorate with the specious argument that an increase in duty means an increase in price to the consumer.

ANOTHER MINISTER HAS A PULL.

For some years past the government has been building extensive works at Sorel, Quebec, and up to date it has spent over a quarter of a million. The estimated cost is $275,000 but this does not include prospective extras.

Redistribution.

The joint redistribution committee held a private session at Ottawa on Monday, re-proposing for rearrangement of seats in Nova Scotia, Pictou, will lose one and Victoria and Richmond will be united.

Omission Supplied.

In the report of the Liberal-Conservative Convention for the second district of King's County, which appeared in the Herald last week, the following paragraph, through some misprinting of the type was inadvertently left out:

At a meeting of the Executive committee of the St. Dunstan's College Alumni Association held at the Bishop's palace on Friday evening last, it was decided to hold the annual reunion and banquet at the College on the evening of June 9th—commencement day.

His Lordship Bishop McDonald left here for Quebec on Monday morning. At Summerside he was joined by Rev. John A. McDonald of Miscouche. He will attend the meeting of the governors of Laval University with which St. Dunstan's College is affiliated.

It is pretty well understood that H. M. Whitney and perhaps Mr. Dimock will retire from the directorate of the Dominion Coal and Steel Companies, same to be announced at the annual meeting of these companies. The Company will then be Canadian in every particular.

Mr. Hector McKinnon of Burnt Point near Georgetown, while driving a seedling into his field on Thursday evening last was knocked from his seat by the wheel striking the gate post and received injuries about the neck and spine from the effects of which he died Friday afternoon. He leaves a daughter and four sons to mourn.

A collision at sea that cost the lives of twenty or more persons and the sinking of the Clyde steamship Saginaw by the Old Dominion Steamship Company's liner Hamilton, occurred between the winter quarter last and the arrival of the Light Ship on the Virginia coast at 4.30 o'clock last Tuesday morning during a fog.

CONSERVATIVES of Richmond County, O. B., had a convention at St. Peter's, C. B., on Wednesday last, at which J. A. Gillies of M. P. of Sydney, was unanimously nominated to contest the County at the federal election. Mr. Gillies was not present, but after the nomination was made he was communicated with by telegraph and he signified his willingness to accept.

Mr. C. B. Foster, District Passenger Agent of the C. P. R., John, and Mr. James McKenna, traveling Passenger Agent of the same road, came to Charlottetown Wednesday evening last and returned to the Mainland via Plover, on Friday morning. While here Mr. J. E. Matthews was appointed local soliciting agent for the road in place of W. C. Kennedy, deceased.

In the New Brunswick Legislature on Friday evening last, a resolution moved by Mr. George Robertson and seconded by Mr. J. D. Hagen, was unanimously adopted, declaring that a Charter for the Trans-Pacific Railway should not be granted, which does not provide that the Line shall make its winter terminus at a Maritime Province port. The resolution also affirms that such terminal road should be an all-Canadian line.

In the House of Commons, Ottawa, on Friday last, Mr. LeFevre, who the master of telegraph lines was under discussion again called attention to the bad telegraph system inflicted on this Province. He read resolutions protesting against the monopoly controlling the lines. He was backed up by Mr. Hackett. It was stated that a delegation had arrived to present facts to the Minister of Public Works. Hon. Mr. Sutherland expressed himself as willing to give full consideration to the demands of the delegates.

The B. I. S. Hall was well-filled on Tuesday evening of last week, on the occasion of the lecture on "Hon. Edward Whelan" by Mr. P. J. Trainor. Rev. Dr. Morrison occupied the chair and introduced the lecturer. The lecture was prefaced by a short musical programme. For an hour and a half, the lecturer held the undivided attention of his audience while in eloquent language he described the condition of public affairs when Mr. Whelan entered upon his public career. The various important public questions with which the young tribune of the people grappled in statesmanlike fashion were graphically passed in review. The many great reforms successfully brought about by the joint achievements of Whelan and Whelan were dealt with in concise and eloquent language. The discourse was frequently interrupted with outbursts of applause. At the close a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. D. O'M. Reddin, seconded by Mr. C. G. Duffy, and supported by Mr. Peter McCourt and Dr. R. McNeill, and tendered to the lecturer, which he responded in appropriate terms.

Hon. DAVID MILLS, Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, died suddenly at his residence on Friday evening last. He was sitting on a chair in his room with his family when he became ill and before medical aid reached him he was dead. Judge Mills was a native of Ontario, and was 72 years of age at the time of his death. His early life he taught school, subsequently became Superintendent of Schools for the County of Kent. He was elected to the House of Commons for Bothwell in 1887 and continued to represent that constituency, with exception of one session, up to 1896, when he was defeated by Mr. Clancy, Conservative. He was Minister of the Interior in the McKenna Government from 1878 to 1878, succeeding Hon. David Laird, who had been appointed Lieutenant Governor of the Northwest. He was called to the Senate in 1896 and entered the Laurier Cabinet, as Minister of Justice in 1897, in succession to Sir Oliver Mowat, and was appointed a judge of the Supreme Court of Canada in 1902.

MR. WILLIAM MOLTYRE of Millville, met with a serious accident on Sunday last which nearly cost him his life. He and his wife were driving to church in a single wagon. Their two children a boy and a girl, also on their way to the church, were coming a little way behind them in a road cart. The horse driven by the children started to run away, and the father jumped out of his wagon to stop the horse. In his attempt to catch the horse he fell under the latter's feet, and a little later was picked up unconscious. The children were thrown from the road cart, and Mrs. Moltyre was thrown from the wagon, but none of them were seriously hurt. Both vehicles were badly damaged. Mr. Moltyre was picked up, apparently dead and taken to the house of Mr. Harry Court, Donaldson, close by. Father Moltyre and Dr. McDonald of Mount Stewart were sent for. During the evening he began to improve and was taken to his home. At latest accounts he was making fair progress.

The fire was not seen by the inmates of the house and the dwelling might have been burned to the ground but for the presence of mind and exertions of Mr. Martin McKinnon of Montague Bridge. Mr. McKinnon was driving towards Charlottetown, saw the roof in flames and hastened to the rescue. Mr. Cunningham is an invalid, and could render no assistance; two other members of the family were also ill. There was no way of reaching the blaze, except by means of a long plank which Mr. McKinnon placed against the roof and climbed up on, and with the reins from his harness he hauled up buckets of water carried to him by Mrs. Cunningham and the children. By this means the fire was kept in check till assistance arrived. Mr. Cunningham desires to return his sincere thanks to Mr. McKinnon who by his energy and presence of mind prevented the loss of his dwelling.

In this issue will be found the legal card of Morson and Duffy, Barristers and Attorneys. W. A. Morson, R. C. M. L. A., one of the leading members of the Island bar, needs no introduction to the public of this Province. Mr. Charles Gavan Duffy, his partner is a young man of talent and ability, who has just completed his legal studies in Mr. Morson's office and was admitted a Barrister of the Supreme Court at the term just closed. Mr. Duffy took the scholarship for Prince County in entering the law office of Mr. Morson, and after two years spent in that institution he attended St. Dunstan's College for a year. Subsequently he taught school for three years, and four years ago began his legal studies in Mr. Morson's office. We wish the firm of Morson and Duffy every success.

CARWELL BROS. have received intelligence of the arrival at Caribou Cove, C. B., of the schooner James W. Murhison with rudder broken. The James W. left Caribou on the 8th of April, and when 500 miles from Caribou the rudder was carried away, the ship had therefore to be steered by means of sculls. At one time during a severe storm preparations were made to abandon the vessel and the boats were made ready. Great credit is due Capt. Murhison for the skillful seamanship displayed in bringing the ship and cargo safely to port under such adverse circumstances. The tug William Atken left here to tow the schooner to Charlottetown where she will discharge her cargo of molasses, and then proceed to Plover for repairs.

The Miss Cary concert was a musical event that had been anticipated with much interest and high expectations by the people of Charlottetown, and these expectations were fully realized on Thursday evening last in Opera House. Miss Mary Louise Cary is an artist of great power and ability. She has a Contralto voice the equal and power of which has certainly never been heard in this Province. In the "Lost Chord," and "Hosanna," her remarkable vocal powers were displayed with extraordinary effect. The singing of Mrs. F. C. Spencer was of a very high order and her soprano voice was heard to splendid advantage in the several numbers which she rendered. Mr. J. A. Kelly, as tenor, admirably pleased his hearers and grew in popularity with each number in which he participated. Rapturous applause greeted each number, and everyone was enraptured, several of them repeatedly encores. Miss Olga Smith performed the difficult and delicate office of accompanist with admirable ability and taste. Miss Cary and her associates may count on a hearty reception should they repeat their visit to Charlottetown.

Ave Maris Stella.

(His Holiness Pope Leo XIII. grants to the faithful who shall recite this hymn an indulgence of 300 days once a day.)

Hail, thou Star of Ocean, Portal of the sky, Ever virgin Mother Of the Lord most high!

Ob, by Gabriel's Ave, Uttered long ago, Eva's name reversing, Stablish peace below.

Break the captive's fetters, Break on blindness pour; All our ills dispelling, Every bliss implore.

Show thyself a mother; Offer him our sighs, Who for us incarnate Did not These despise.

Virgin of all virgins, To thy shelter take us; Gentlest of the gentle, Chaste and gentle make us.

Still as on we journey, Help our weak endeavor, Till with thee and Jesus We rejoice forever.

Glory in the highest, To the Father be, With the Son and Spirit, One sole Trinity!

Pastoral Letter of Archbishop Bruchesi.

On the Labor Question.

Paul Bruchesi, by the Grace of God, and favor of the Apostolic See, Archbishop of Montreal.

To the Clergy, secular and regular, to the religious communities, and to all the faithful of our diocese, health, peace and benediction in Our Lord Jesus Christ.

Dear beloved brethren,—The many strikes which have occurred of late compel us to give the Labor Question and its alarming problems our most earnest consideration.

Our own city seems to be on the verge of fresh labor conflicts. Employers and their men defiantly mistrust each other and at any moment the most serious incidents may take place.

The Church is the Mother of all Christians. The rich and the poor are her children. She loves all men.

Likewise would it be wrong to prolong the hours of daily labor beyond the limits fixed by nature, the law of God and the exigencies of their health.

Submissive sons of Holy Mother Church! be generous and accept the lot assigned you by Divine Providence.

Send for free sample. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, Toronto, Ontario, 50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Let not our laboring classes be led their suggestions. They have absolutely nothing to gain. Deceived by those false friends and urged on by them to commit the most lamentable acts they will on the contrary forfeit public sympathy with which they cannot dispense and which this country of ours has never refused them.

The workingman as well as the capitalist has assuredly their imprescriptible rights. The Church recognizes them and sanctions them with all her authority.

In the first place the Sovereign Pontiff recommends the rich to refrain from all acts of provocation. Consequently they should shun all intrigue and other dishonest means which might be detrimental to the best interests of the poor.

With the greatest anxiety do we see the labor organizations of our city seeking for affiliation with foreign associations.

Would it be prudent in the hour of labor conflict to place in the hands of strangers the gravest interest that might be at stake?

Demand only what is just and reasonable. Beware of fomentors of discord. Do not become the prey of demagogues.

For women Scott's Emulsion does this and more. It is a most sustaining food and tonic for the special trials that women have to bear.

To children Scott's Emulsion gives food and strength for growth of flesh and bone and blood.

Our pastoral solicitude, dearly beloved brethren, obliges us to condemn most energetically the tumult and violence that usually follow in the wake of strikes. They violate the first laws of justice, private property, individual and social liberty.

They are bound in conscience to sever all connection with leaders or unions which would urge them to adopt that plan.

To remedy those evils and to prevent them, once more do we advise employees to accept their condition in life with patience, to raise their eyes to heaven, their future home, and to their Saviour, their Brother, and Model.

Let everybody do his share, writes the Holy Father, and that at once best, by delaying the application of the remedy, so grievous an evil should become incurable.

Given at Montreal, under our hand and seal and the counter-sign of our Chancellor, the 23rd April, 1903.

Loaded up with impurities. In the spring the system is loaded up with impurities.

After the hard work of the winter, the eating of rich and heavy foods, the system becomes clogged up with waste and poisonous matter, and the blood becomes thick and sluggish.

This causes Loss of Appetite, Biliousness, Lack of Energy and that tired, weary, listless feeling so prevalent in the spring.

The cleansing, blood-purifying action of BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS, eliminates all the pent-up poison from the system, starts the sluggish liver working, acts on the Kidneys and Bowels, and restores it, without exception.

JUST A COLD SETTLED IN THE KIDNEYS, BUT IT TURNED TO DROPSY.

IT WAS CURED BY DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Read This Wonderful Cure. It May Do You or Your Friends Some Good to Know About It. Miss Agnes Creelman, Upper Smithfield, N.S., writes—About 18 months ago I caught cold. It settled in my kidneys, and finally turned into Dropsy.

No human power on earth can lawfully prevent you from organizing separate unions. Still this liberty does not give you the right to contend for ends which are in flagrant opposition with public weal, justice and charity.

They are bound in conscience to sever all connection with leaders or unions which would urge them to adopt that plan.

To remedy those evils and to prevent them, once more do we advise employees to accept their condition in life with patience, to raise their eyes to heaven, their future home, and to their Saviour, their Brother, and Model.

Strike while the iron is hot

Just now the hottest thing in hardware is the demand for our stock. This brisk demand comes from our taking combination, large values and little prices.

Figures that have been put on the anvil of reduction can't be beat. That's our case, and your case will be one of practical economy if you jump in and buy the bargains which we are offering in every kind of hardware.
