CHAPTER VIII.

YOU will do as you want to do, Alphonse—I have no doubt of that; and with these words, Louisa made herself comfortable upon the sofa and lifted the novel she was reading.

This conversation took place in January, and many resembling it followed. Louisa was beginning to feel all hope long before her father had a fear. She knew that Alphonse could easily make opportunities for meeting his old love, and she had a conviction he was doing so. For though he was the faithful attendant of Bessie and herself to every festivity, though he seemed to regulate his whole time to their engagements and desires, she felt that his heart was very seldom with them.

Bessie felt it also. The visit began to drag. She was very weary of the perpetual dancing and riding, and she often found herself longing for her father and for New York. Even the thought of Amber and her state dinners was interesting, and she resolved to make her promise to remain until March mean as early in March as possible. For she felt that her visit had been in its main intent a failure. She had virtually been refused by both her cousins, and in her own eyes she was humiliated by the circumstance, and sometimes a little angry at it.

About the end of January, the engagement of James to Miss Davis was a public fact; and Azalia was much at the Madison place, where she was naturally a person of great importance. In fact James and Azalia seemed, in their effusive love making, to usurp the whole interest and sympathy of the house, and Bessie could not help feeling just a trifle in the way. Sometimes she fancied there was an air of suppressed pity and triumph in the lovers, which was extremely offensive to her; and yet she could not speak of it even to Louisa, for she knew that she would be told the fancy was entirely an imaginary one.

Bessie, she did not like Azalia, who affected an extreme exaggeration of all Southern peculiarities and an extreme astonishment at all Northern fashions and habits. Azalia was full of languors. Bessie's vivacity depressed and wearied her. Azalia played and sang very softly and sweetly, certain Lorena-like songs, steeped in mournfulness and pathos. Bessie's little fingers delighted in the tinkling measure of the comic operas or in some sparkling Hungarian ma-

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rockland, Maine.—"I was troubled for a long time with pains in my back and side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged, and I thought I should never get well. I read a testimonial about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and thought I would try it. After taking three bottles I was cured, and never felt so well in my life. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all my friends."—Mrs. WILL YOUNG, 6 Columbia Avenue, Rockland, Me.

Backache is a symptom of female weakness or derangement. If you have backache, don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Nothing we know of will do this so safely and surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Cure the cause of these distressing aches and pains and you will become well and strong. The great volume of unpolitic testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has restored health to thousands of women. Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge.

zurka full of quarter notes. If she sang, her voice had none but mournful tones. Her smart dresses, her old-fashioned boyish vests and collars and short jackets, were very unbecomingly in Azalia's eyes, and it every point Bessie and Azalia clashed in the same way.

It was indeed quite impossible for Louisa to avoid giving Azalia the first place when Azalia was present. James and Azalia together were too potent an influence to be resisted. But Bessie resented deeply the secondary position she was then obliged to take. For she was too good-natured and too polite to resist, since resistance meant covert disparagement in a house where she was only a visitor.

Even the glory of the advancing spring did not materially brighten her dissatisfaction. James's wedding was to be solemnized in May, and it was impossible to avoid the constant insistence of the affair in some way or other. At the beginning of March she wrote anxiously to Mrs. Gonzales about their return northward, and she was glad to be informed that they would leave two weeks earlier than the first intention. The day this news arrived was peculiarly welcome. It was a very wet day, and the house was lonely and dreary. The colonel had gone into Austin. James and Azalia had left the preceding night, after wearying everybody out with their claims for advice and attention and sympathy. Louisa was in bed, with a nervous headache, brought on, she averred, with her being Azalia and her lover to select from books full of patterns of dress and upholstery goods. Alphonse had disappeared after breakfast, and there was not a sound in the big house, but some faint exclamation or senseless grumble from the negroes in the kitchen.

Bessie sat down in the chill parlor and took herself seriously to task. "What am I staying here for?" she asked. "I did not want to marry Cousin James, and he takes a delight in making me observe that he is delighted I did not want to marry him. Cousin Alphonse is good and kind but I do not want to marry him, and I am sure he does not want to marry me. He is not the least like—the other. I wonder if I shall see him again. He really loved me. He loved me at once. He did not require to learn how to love me—he knew how! Whether he meets me or forgets me I will not marry any man until he loves me just in that kind of way."

As she sat musing after this fashion a little chill and very despondent Alphonse entered the room. He was full of apologies, but evidently so privately happy that he could not feel as if there was any necessity to offer an apology for anything in life. His appearance finally attracted Bessie's curiosity, and she said: "You look very happy, cousin?" "I am very happy. I am so happy, Bessie, I should like to tell you why."

"I wonder if I could guess?" "Try." "You are in love?" "Yes." "And the lady loves you?" "You are right. How did you guess so well?" "I had a lover before I came here." "And you loved him?" "Bessie nodded intelligently. "I should like to tell you about my Margaret."

"I should like to hear about her. Let us sit down and be confidential." She moved toward the sofa and motioned Alphonse to sit beside her. He was glad to do so. He wanted some human sympathy in his happiness, and he opened his heart to Bessie. He told her all about his betrothed—how good and lovely and self-denying she was; and, most of all, how long he had adored her.

"This morning she has promised to be my wife if I will make her a home, however humble. Now I must find something else to do than ride round the Madison course, unless father will pay me an over-seer's salary. Margaret and I can be happy on very little," he said. "I suppose James is going to live on the Davis place?" "Yes." "Then your father can hardly do without both of you. A great deal of riding seems necessary, and I heard uncle say that no one but Alphonse knew the stock thoroughly."

"If brother Jack was only here, I would join Tom Moffat in his horse business."

"Brother Jack? I never heard of brother Jack before."

"Nobody names poor Jack now, and yet a nobler, kinder, handsomer boy never lived. He is two years older than I am. I wish I knew something about him."

"Has he been long away?" "Nine years."

"And you have forgotten him. I suppose?"

"I think of him every day."

"Where is he?" "I wish I knew."

"What did he leave home for?" "Because, some way, he could not please father, whatever he did. Farther has a temper; so has Jack. One morning they had a quarrel about a mare Jack was riding, and father, in a passion, struck Jack. Jack bowed to him in silence and rode away. He never came back."

"But you knew where he went to?" "He went to the City of Mexico first. He wrote to father from there; but the letter came at a bad hour, and after set it back. Jack wrote no more."

"Poor Jack! Did you never try to find him?"

"Yes; but without any success. Moffat heard in Mexico that he went with a party to California. But Jack makes no sign, and we never name him."

"I feel a great interest in this unknown Cousin Jack. I believe I can find him. When I get back to New York, I will tell father about Jack, and he is sure to know how to reach the runaway. Alphonse, were you told that my father and your father wished to make a marriage between myself and one of my cousins?"

"I was told of no such compact, but I know that father is exceedingly anxious you and I should marry. James was out of consideration, long since."

"And you also, Alphonse?"

"If you had shown any love for me, Bessie, it would have been an easy thing to love you in return. But I saw from the first that you were indifferent both to James and myself."

"Thank you for the nice words, Alphonse. Is it not a comfortable thing to be quite honest with each other? Really, you are right. I did not wish to marry either you or James; and I did not believe in any case, that father would permit the old home to go out of the family. Father's plans never fail; because he can always find more ways than one to a desired end. When I go back home, I shall say: 'Father, I cannot marry either Cousin James or Cousin Alphonse, but there is Cousin Jack, whom neither of us has seen. Suppose a vagueness about Mexico and California? There are a largeness and a vagueness about Mexico and California that I should say would stimulate any professional seeker for the young man.'

Alphonse took the suggestion quite seriously. "I can write to Don Beauregard, who lives now in San Francisco. He likes me, and will put an advertisement in the California papers."

"That would be wasted energy. The New York Herald is quite sufficient. If Jack is in any of the four corners of the earth, the Herald will find him."

"I believe you think the Herald is omnipotent?"

"And I need not apologise for this assumption. The Herald is an adequate to hunting out the smallest, question as to dealing with the largest, and quite as cheerfully willing to find a stray child as to dictate the policy of the government."

"You talk as if the Herald governed the world?"

"We all know it does, or if we do not know it, we ought to. However, even the ubiquitous Herald will want a description of Jack. What is he like?"

"Nine years makes a difference, but I

And Alphonse found the picture in the leather case of his pocketbook, and put it into Bessie's hand.

She gazed at it curiously, with a constantly increasing interest. And Alphonse watched her with an equal interest. Never before had he seen Bessie's face so full of beauty; her cheeks were rosy red, her mouth smiling; her eyes sparkling; and a strange joy lighted up her whole countenance.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

The matter of fact lady and the girl with the heart that won't grow up, were talking about one of the girl's projects—the purchase of a horse. They had just seen a beautiful horse with a fine broad chest and a little head and a star on his forehead and perked up ears, go prancing by and the girl lady had instantly made up her mind that it must be a chestnut horse instead of a black one after all.

tried to discourage their children's imaginative tendencies. That seems to me like uselessly shutting the little ones out from a beautiful playground especially prepared for them. I have a little cousin seven years old who loves to have me come and see her because we have a beautiful game we play together. It's called "Let's pretend."

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Joseph Cassatto, an Italian, has voluntarily surrendered to the police and admitted that he had stabbed Ludwigo Longo on Friday night, but claimed that it was in self-defence.

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness than most people are aware of. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The contrasted dyspeptic is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils.

Mysterious Death.

Thief River Falls, Mich., Jan. 23.—Soon after the north bound Winnipeg 300 Line flyer left Erskine the conductor found a man dying in one of the coaches. Doctors were called at Thief River Falls, who pronounced the man dead as a result of strangulation although no marks of violence were visible on the body.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—In letter to Hall Caine who has been advocating Government measures with the object of stamping out consumption principally through the State taking charge of all consumptives, David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, makes the interesting announcement that he has already been considering the practicability of dealing with this problem in connection with his forthcoming scheme of invaliding insurance.

Watch and Wait.

The Reciprocity Convention between the States and Canada is entering upon troubled waters. It would appear that the fishing towns of the Eastern States are strenuous in their opposition to the provisions regarding the Free Entry of Canadian fish into the States. It should be remembered that these provisions go much further than any past proposals, and that the fisheries of the Dominion of Canada are very extensive. Their total value for 1909-10 is given in the Fisheries Report as $29,829,169.68. Of this only $3,753,820.00 is credited to the Dominion, so that the Dominion is in a position to throw a very large amount of fish in competition with that of the Eastern States, and in some respects the Canadians are more favourably situated to compete in the Western Markets than Gloucester. It should be remembered too that Canada has a very large herring industry. Its size may be judged from the fact that the fish for 1909-10 is given as $2,754,714. Newfoundland will watch with interest the fight that Gloucester put up, not unmindful of the story of the Gloucester fight against the Bond-Ho Convention of 1904. Our game is waiting game. If Canada fails, Newfoundland may succeed later. If Canada wins, Newfoundland can adjust its fishery policy to meet the situation.

The Pontopidan's Rough Voyage.

With her hull, masts, derricks, decks, bridge and bulwarks encased with ice, in some places about 6 inches thick, the s.s. Pontopidan, Capt. Hansen, steamed into port at 11.30 to-day after a run of 20 days from North Scotland, with a cargo of 1,760 tons of coal for A. J. Harvey & Co. The ice formed in the harbor is pretty tough and the Ingraham broke a way for her to her berth, where it took fully a half hour to tie her up, the hawsers and springs being so thickly covered with ice. Ever since she left the ship has experienced very stormy weather with gales of wind from the S. W. and west, accompanied by a high sea and repeated snow storms. The weather all through was intensely cold and the crew had hard and not infrequently dangerous in keeping the decks and looking after the ship. In the storms which prevailed part of the port side of the bridge was carried away and some other damage done, but nothing of a very serious import. The weather in coming in over the Grand Banks the past 4 days was excessively cold and stormy, and the glass registered 12 degrees below zero. To-day when she arrived it was impossible to work the winches, which were thickly coated with ice, and the men will have quite a job to beat it off the rigging and gear. The s.s. Newfoundland hauled over to the ship for her ice supply of coal.

Gloucester Organizing Opposition.

Special Evening Telegram.
GLOUCESTER, This morning. Special sessions of the City Council, the Board of Trade, and the Master Mariners' Association have been held at which steps were taken for making a united opposition to the parts of the Reciprocity Treaty dealing with the free entry of Canadian fish.

Petitioning the Legislature.

As an offset to the action of the dealers in tinware, who from the start of the trouble with the "TinSmiths' Union" said they would import their own tinware and get along with the boys in their shops only at work, the members of the "TinSmiths' Union" are getting ready a petition to be presented to the Legislature at the coming session. The petition will ask for an increase of duty on imported tinware and a reduction on the new material. The men say that the Government declares its policy is to encourage home industry, and if the prayer of the petition is granted, this will be an earnest of its sincerity in this respect. They have approached the other Unions on this subject and they are in sympathy with the demand of their brothers. They intend signing the petition, which when presented will contain the names of several thousand skilled and unskilled laborers.

Fire This Morning.

A fire broke out in a house belonging to Mr. A. W. O'Reilly, on Cooktown Road at 10.30 this morning. An alarm was sent from the box at the corner of Freshwater Road which brought the Central firemen to the spot. A large crowd of people residing in the vicinity gathered and by the use of buckets of water the fire was put out in a few minutes. The house is occupied by Mr. J. H. Bradford, who works for the Singer Sewing Machine Co., and had been sick in bed for the past week. He noticed smoke coming through the wall near the chimney into the bedroom and called the other inmates of the house. The fire was caused by a piece of board having been nailed over a disused hole in the chimney. The furniture in the bedroom was very much damaged by water, also the dining room below.

Bartlett-Rose Wedding.

Mr. Wm. Bartlett and M. Margaret Rose, relict of the late Wm. Rose, were married at Brigus Junction yesterday. Mrs. Morgan supported the bride, and Thomas Kehoe acted the part of best man. A party of friends walked in from Turk's Gut despite the zero weather, and the wedding was kept up in the good old fashioned style. Refreshments were served at 11 p.m. and 3 a.m. in the shape of hot "Goat Soup," which was much appreciated by the dancers. The great Plymouth Rock rooster in the back porch was announcing the coming of day when the dancers dispersed to their homes. All heartily agreed with John Thomas who said, in his inimitable high key, "Be gabs it's the Finest Time I've Seen this many a day."

Appreciation.

Just before the S. S. Carthaginian sailed this morning, Lieut. Arch Munn, on behalf of the Officers of the Nfld. Highlanders presented Misses Louise Anderson, Elsie Herder and Gertie Strang, with a bouquet each as a slight token of the Brigade's esteem. These talented young ladies have always given their valuable assistance when requested, and will therefore be greatly missed by all lovers of music. Misses Anderson and Herder are going to Germany to finish their studies in music and will be absent about two years. The "Telegram" wishes them success in their studies and a pleasant sojourn in the land of the Teuton. Miss Gertie Strang has gone on a visit to friends. A pleasant holiday to her.

Swearing on the Street

London, Ont. Magistrate, Imposes Fine of $5. or 15 days.
London, Ont. Jan. 13.—Two lads, members of respectable east end families, and both workers in an east end Sunday school, appeared in the police court yesterday charged with using profane language on Dundas Street. Both pleaded guilty to the charge. "There is too much of this going on altogether," said the police magistrate, Mr. Beattie, "and I intend to make an example of you. I have often heard swearing on the streets, and thought that the police were not strict enough in enforcing the law. It is not a nice thing to have women forced to listen to such language. Young men of your age ought to know better than set a bad example to smaller lads. I fine you five dollars, or fifteen days in jail."

Received Severe Strain

As Mr. James Nichols, Foreman of the Telegram Job Department was coming from the Nickel Theatre last night he slipped on the ice on Father Walsh's Hill, turning his left leg under him, receiving a severe sprain near the ankle. He suffered intense pain, a lady and gent passing helped him over the hill when he managed to limp to his home in Hoylestown. To-day the limb is swollen and very painful. He was attended by Dr. Cowperthwaite, and is laid off from work.

The E. M. F.

E. M. F. is the name of the great American Automobile which has revolutionized the motor car industry, and given to the world the long looked for "right" motor car at a price practically within the reach of everybody. Four years ago the Studebaker Company, one of the oldest, largest, and most reliable carriage builders in the United States engaged three renowned automobile engineers who were designers for three of the leading car manufacturers to build for them the most up to date car in existence. The names of these expert car designers being Everitt, Metzger, and Flanders, the new car was given their initials for its name, as a guarantee of it being built by men who knew their business, and whose names stand for quality, reliability, and up to date in every respect.

This car was first marketed by the Studebaker Company at $2,000.00; in 1909 The E-M-F. Company was organized by J. Pierpont Morgan with a paid up capital of $7,000,000 to take over from The Studebaker Company their automobile department, patents, etc. Mr. Morgan was looking for an opening in this great and growing new industry, and was not slow to recognize in the creation of Everitt, Metzger & Flanders the car soon to lead the world. To-day they employ 12,500 hands, and last year reduced the price of the car from $1,500.00, the 1909 price, to $1,250.00. O. B. Detroit, "The Maximum or the Minimum, Which?" Rev. J. K. Curtis has recovered from his cold, and no doubt a large number will be present.

Fire at Custom House.

Just before 12 o'clock to-day the flames of burning wood and other material permeated the lower flat of the Custom House and on the officials investigating they discovered a lot of paper, etc. behind the radiator in the lower hallway blazing. The paper was close to the skirting board and had not the discovery been made so quickly a serious fire might have resulted. A few buckets of water quenched the blaze and no damage was done. Boys were seen there loitering in the hall and smoking cigarettes, and it is thought one of them threw the lighted end of a cigarette blaze. In future loaters will be excluded from the Customs building.

"First Aiders"

When the "First Aid" class now in session went to the rooms of the Supreme Court, where they have always held their sessions, last night, they were surprised and chagrined to find that they had been locked out and could not obtain access to the place. Through the kindness of Mr. G. C. Beaman they were permitted to hold their meeting in the Board of Trade rooms. They, however, held it under difficulties, as all the paraphernalia used to demonstrate the art was locked up in the building. These people consider it strange that they should be thus treated when the Historical Society is permitted to meet in the Supreme Court.

Good Trouting Record.

The people of the Goulds since the inland fishing season opened on the 15th inst., have been doing well with the trout and earning good money. There is a ready market for the fish in the city. One man residing near Big Pond has taken 100 dozen to-date and has stocked his house with provisions, etc., which he badly needed.

City Council.

Present at last night's meeting, the Mayor and full Board.

The complaint made by A. H. Murray re delay in watering vessels will be investigated.

Inspector General Sullivan wrote the Council to say that the hydrant at the corner of Cochrane and Duckworth Streets was defective. The Engineer said that this was not so, and that the key used by the firemen did not fit. A long discussion followed on the subject. Finally the Council was made to understand that the strap of the hydrant had got out, of position on account of the frost and as the firemen were not familiar with this as the Council men are, the former could not use the key with success.

Councillor Myrick moved the following resolutions as amendments to the Municipal Act:

1. That the lessee or house owner shall be liable to the Council for the occupier's or tenant's tax.

2. For any lease or term in existence before the passing of said amendment, the tenant will be responsible to the Council till the expiration of said lease.

3. In case of a monthly tenant the Council will not collect from said landlord before the expiration of six months.

He spoke about the good that would accrue from this. The Council would be able to get a larger revenue in water taxes. Many tenants paid no taxes at all under the present system. They kept on moving from house to house and the collectors were unable to get the taxes from them. The landlord would now be responsible for the water rates. No hardship would be inflicted on him, as he could regulate his rent accordingly.

It was decided to postpone discussion till a special meeting.

In answer to Councillor Mullaly's question the Secretary read all correspondence relating to the appointment of Dr. Brehm, also re duties in connection with the City Council, and an account of the work performed by him in special cases.

The pay rolls were then passed and the meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock.

Men Cutting Ties.

Yesterday a crew of men under Mr. William Miller left for Benton to engage in cutting ties for the Reid Nfld. Co. Other gangs of men are at work in the woods west of Benton. The Company are having about 300,000 ties cut, and the men make good wages working on contract.

Remarkable Cure.

Noted Archaeologist Gains His Sight After Four Years.

Boston, Jan. 23.—For the first time in four years, Dr. Wm. Copley Winslow, noted archaeologist, historical writer and former Episcopal minister, is able to look upon the world.

He has been cured of blindness, surgeons have substituted a glass for the dead and useless lens of the human eye. When Dr. Winslow does not wear the lens nothing but a little white glare flashes through the hollow pupil of the eye. The fibres of the brain portray nothing. But when the lens are adjusted the wide world instantly arises before Dr. Winslow like magic. Science has accomplished one of the most remarkable cures ever heard of.

Dr. Winslow is past seventy-one years of age.

STOLEN LOT OF GOODS.

Mr. C. H. Hutchings, Deputy Minister of Justice, had a wife yesterday from Grand Bank stating that the store of S. Harris there had been broken into and a considerable quantity of dry goods, groceries, etc., were stolen. Joseph King, a Portuguese, was arrested for the theft, but broke jail and was arrested next day. He belongs to a vessel there loading fish, and is strongly suspected of the theft.

BOYS SUMMONED.—There are 16 boys summoned to court for sliding on the city streets. They will be before the court on Monday.

RECEPTION OF THE RECIPROcity NEWS AT HOME.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, This Morning. The scope of the Reciprocity Agreement coming a surprise to the British public. No one had expected so many additions to the list of such important reductions in the tariff. The general opinion was that the United States was so strongly wedded to High Protection that the American Government would not offer Canada much. The reception of the agreement here is generally favourable. The Liberal party is distinctly favourable to the proposed measure. Viscount Milner said: "Nothing one may say can make things any better. It is idle to shut our eyes to the fact that the proposed Treaty, like that already concluded with France, must tend to diminish British preference, and to that extent it is detrimental to closer union." The Protectionist journals consider that if the Agreement is ratified it will deal a serious blow to British Trade and increase the cost of food in Great Britain through the diversion of Canadian supplies to the United States. The Standard urges that a Preference Propaganda

Wreck of the Schooner Jeanie.

The Stories of Capt. Harold Bartlett and Jas. Way--The Wreck at Wager Inlet, H. B., and the 800 Miles March to Gimli.

An Epic of the North.

The captain started at the beginning and told the story, but he refused to divulge a piece of verse which he wrote in the northland describing the wreck of which Prof. Macoun said: "It's real verse and no doggerel, but the poet declined publicity. He said: "We left Sydney on July 17, expecting to return by October. It was quite easy to navigate to Churchill. Coming through the narrows we discovered no end of errors in the chart of the straits. We sailed right over islands that appeared on the map and we had to go around islands that were not charted. But Churchill was reached on August 12, and we were ready to leave for the north a day later, but the start was delayed until August 24.

Delay Responsible.

"If it hadn't been for that delay we never would have been wrecked, for we would have been back and out in open water where the storm would not have hurt us. But the governor-general was coming up, and Major Starnes could not come north with us until he was shipped homeward on the steamer 'Elen Grey.' That tied us up for eleven days. We reached Rankin Inlet on August 31, and that night our boat ran aground in a heavy gale. We hauled her off by morning and left in the height of the gale to run through to the Rankin Strait September 7, at night, we reached Wager Inlet and we put up at one of the travellers' houses. Before we finished a squall blew up and in a few hours it had changed to a terrific gale. The boat rose and broke in awful billows, tossing the Jeanie about until her chains groaned. On board there were the crew, Prof. Macoun, Constable Jones and three Huskies. It was about zero weather, but the intensity of the storm made it appear much colder. All during the day of the eighth there was no abatement. We stayed by the ship, but she tossed and creaked until we knew that our only hope of saving the ship and perhaps our lives was the chance that the storm would cease."

Last Chain Broke.

"The little schooner stood fast that day, but at ten o'clock of the following night her last chain broke and she dashed on the rocks and was stove in. We put to sea in two tiny boats that were battered and damaged, taking nothing but provisions and the log with us, excepting Prof. Macoun's specimens. We knew that in case we ever reached Fullerton we would have to have supplies for the winter, hence had to sacrifice everything else, but that wasn't hard, as we were not at all sure of getting to Fullerton. Some few pieces of nautical armament went with us, but the compass was no use in the territory, the needle becoming polarized and refusing to work accurately. Shovel water along the coast line took us at times out of sight of land, and the poor old boat was so badly battered with ice that three men were busy with buckets all the time bailing out water. To ride the upward weather and needless cruising, the party reached Fullerton, 200 miles away, in less than three days."

Ten's of Sails.

"During the travel our boat sails served at night to make tents. We got out all right and are thankful, but lost everything we had. If we had carried another day at Wager Inlet the bay would have been full of ice and our boats, which were already heavily damaged, would never have carried us back to Fullerton, where the Gifford took us aboard and brought us into Churchill. It was a wild wild plight but we pulled out with our lives, and we're lucky. To our boys I guess the march from Churchill was worse than the storm, because they're used to rough weather but not to snow-shoes."

"That Man Macoun."

"That man Macoun was the boy. He helped us till we were grateful from the bottom of our hearts. With Corporal Walker he brought us out over the first long mush from Churchill to Split Lake. They taught us to handle snowshoes, to walk and run on them, and they gave us courage by watching their own example. Unless it is Corporal Walker, I don't think there's a man up there who can handle the shoes and show as much endurance as Prof. Macoun. He was always with us, brimming with what was at least superficial confidence and he inspired us to do the work. He was years older than we were, but he could run from morning until night over the snow on his improvised feet. A man like Macoun is the kind of a

The Mounted Police.

"But we have gratitude for more than him. The mounted police, the Hudson's Bay men and the Equinox treated us as white as any man could ask. We were broke and up against it, but we were among the right kind of people."

"Jim Way, the man who served with Feary for four years, going north with him for 15 months on the last trip, was the principal narrator. "None of us had ever been in the bay before," he said, "but our captain had no difficulty in navigating, although I never saw such a dangerous coast. There were shoals for ten or fifteen miles out from the shore. Our schooner was operating with gasoline, and we made pretty good time. We had just about finished our work about 100 miles north of Fullerton when we saw the storm coming up, and put for the likeliest cove we could see. We anchored about a mile off shore, for the water was not very deep, and pretty soon the waves began to roll and the storm struck us. It began to snow hard and the decks became covered with the ice. It was about the thirteenth of the month when the schooner rolled and pitched so hard that we thought every minute that the anchor chains would break. As the day wore on it began to look very serious, and some of the men prayed that the cable would break before darkness struck us. It was about 10.30 at night when the storm was at its height, that the chain to the starboard anchor parted. We then got out the kedgie and payed about 40 fathoms. After the port chain slackened we payed away on the kedgie and lost the end of it. The tide was running high, and to keep from drifting on shore we hoisted the jib-bo to bear her off, and then we hoisted the foresail. All of this was done with the water breaking over the decks, a snowstorm blowing and a right so snow that you could hardly see your hand before your face. We had no light, for the wind was so great, you could not keep a lantern lit."

Vessel Strikes.

"Then we struck. It was a sound to make you sick at your stomach, and he thought it was all up with us. The shore was strewn with big boulders, and I guess these were under the water, too, for we bumped two or three times, and the boat shivered as though she was going to pieces. Before she was lost our small launch and our whale boat, and had nothing with which to get ashore. All night long we stayed on deck, numbed through and through with the cold, expecting the boat to go to pieces at any moment. She was badly listed at one side, and partly filled with water. The waves dashed over and drenched us."

Saved Little.

"We got off the boat with only what we had on for the boots were too small to take anything but ourselves and sufficient grub to maintain us. We found the whale boat and the launch on shore and mended them with canvas, and then we started for Fullerton, 100 miles away. It took us three days to make it, and this was the most exciting part of all our adventures. Some of the time we were out of sight of land with a heavy sea running, and we were obliged to keep three men bailing all the time in each boat. There were 15 of us.—Mantoloha Free Press."

League Hockey.

CRESCENTS, 4; FELDIAANS, 2.

The second hockey match in the League fixtures took place at the Prince's Rink last night at 7.30, a large number of spectators being present. The game was fast and exciting, but could hardly be called a good exhibition of hockey. The race was set at a hard clip right from the start, and both sides put forth their best efforts, and to end rushes being a feature of the first half, but very little combined work was done, most of the players were very wild in their efforts at giving and receiving passes. The first goal was scored by Stick, of the Crescents, from a pass by G. Herder, and a few minutes later, after a bit of fast play, White equalized for the Feldiaans. Piusant then got possession and ran up the ice passing to Martin off whose knee it cannoned into the goal, making the second goal for the Feldiaans. The last few minutes of this half saw some fast play, and a couple of penalties were imposed for infractions.

SECOND HALF.

The second half started quite as briskly as the first, and about one minute from the whistle Woods, of the Crescents, sent in one which beat Lilly. Another run by the Crescents resulted in Stick finding the net, but the goal was not allowed, as it was scored from off-side play. About ten minutes from the start of this half Collier scored No. 3 for the Feldiaans, shortly after this Hubert Herder, with a splendid shot, evaded up matters. With the score standing at 2 goals all, play became very fast and both sides made determined efforts to score, but the shooting of both, though it had plenty of speed, was very erratic. The game closed with the score as above, necessitating a play-off for first score to decide the winner. After playing for ten minutes without scoring the teams changed ends, and shortly afterwards Stick scored the goal which gave the victory to the Crescents. The ice last night was very much faster than that on which the teams have been practising to date, and this may account to some extent for the wildness of the passes, several of the players seeming to be unable to avoid over-running the puck.

The following was the line-up:

WHY HE PINS HIS FAITH TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Doctors failed to cure his Bright's Disease, he found relief in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Clam Point, Shelburne Co., N. S., Jan. 27, (Special).—Justin Nickerson, postmaster here, is among the many in this neighborhood who tell of pains relieved and disease banished by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I am sixty-two years old," says the postmaster, "and I tell you what I think so highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Owing to a bad cold my kidneys commenced to bother me, and the trouble developed into backache, stiffness of the joints, and finally Bright's Disease."

"I was treated by a doctor, but that did not help me much, and it was six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills that brought me relief."

Everywhere you go in Canada people tell you of the great work of Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing, and everyone who tells you can give the reason why. That reason simply is that there is no case of kidney disease Dodd's Kidney Pills cannot cure. These people have tried them and proved this true. Backache, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Diabetes, Lumbago, Heart Disease, and Bright's Disease are some of the more serious troubles that Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure, simply because these are all either kidney diseases or are caused by diseased kidneys.

STILL ANOTHER POSTMASTER TELLS WHY HE PINS HIS FAITH TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Doctors failed to cure his Bright's Disease, he found relief in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Clam Point, Shelburne Co., N. S., Jan. 27. (Special).—Joshua Nickerson, postmaster here, is among the many in this neighborhood who tell of pains relieved and disease banished by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I am sixty-two years old," says the postmaster, "and I tell you why I think so highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Owing to a bad cold my Kidneys commenced to bother me, and the trouble developed into Backache, stiffness of the joints, and finally Bright's Disease."

"I was treated by a doctor, but that did not help me much, and it was six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills that brought me relief."

Everywhere you go in Canada people tell you of the great work of Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing, and everyone who tells you can give the reason why. That reason simply is that there is no case of Kidney Disease Dodd's Kidney Pills cannot cure. These people have tried them and proved this true. Backache, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Diabetes, Lumbago, Heart Disease and Bright's Disease are some of the more serious troubles that Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure, simply because these are all other Kidney diseases or are caused by diseased Kidneys.

WITH THE ADVENTISTS.—Elder C. H. Keslake, Adventist Church, Cookstown Road, will on to-morrow night deliver the fourth of the series of discourses upon prominent Bible characters. Subject: "Abraham, or The Obedience of Faith."

Fiercely Attacks Man.

Yesterday afternoon a seaman named Antle on the schr. St. Clair, which is at A. H. Murray's wharf, went on board intoxicated and started a row, when one of his shipmates who went to pacify him was fiercely attacked. Antle seized a belaying pin and followed the other, who had to leap ashore to escape him. Antle followed and chasing the other up Bowring's Cove caught him. He had the weapon uplifted to strike the seaman on the head when a man named Byrne seized him and with a well directed blow felled him and wrested the belaying pin from him. The police were telephoned for and Supt. Grimes and Head Sparrow were quickly on the scene and arrested the sailor, who with the assistance of other officers was handcuffed and conveyed to the lockup.

Typhus is Spreading.

Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Wakeham, who resides in Finn's Lane, running east to Cuddihy Street, and who is a daughter of Mrs. Stamp, was taken to the hospital in the ambulance suffering from typhus fever. Mrs. Stamp, we learn, has fully developed the disease, and being so very old—she is in her 69th year—is very ill and it is feared that she will have a difficult time of it, if indeed she ever recovers. Miss Beattie Ellis, the trained nurse, who has been attending Mr. Wm. Fanning, was stricken early in the week with the disease and is very ill at the hospital. Miss Ellis is an excellent nurse and last summer and fall attended the typhoid patients at Grand and Bishop's Falls. The people about Barter's Hill and Cuddihy Street are greatly alarmed, fearing a spread of the disease, as the friends of the people who recently contracted the disease had been visiting them after they complained of being ill.

Mr. Moore Improving.

Mr. Phil Moore, the popular mail clerk on the shore line train, who has been seriously ill of typhoid fever at his home in Carbonar since New Year, has passed the danger mark and is now on the mending hand. Dr. Boyle, his physician, deserves to be congratulated on the outcome of such a critical case of typhoid. All Phil's friends, and they are legion, hope to see his genial face on the shore train again in a few weeks, or better still, hope to see him installed in the city Post Office. He has done long and faithful service and deserves to be given promotion.

Special Evening Telegram.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.
There will be no reciprocity with Canada, at any rate not this session of Congress, and probably never under the terms of the proposed agreement.

This statement is made on the best authority. Powerful interests are arrayed against the ratification of the agreement entered into.

The Agricultural interests in the West, the Fishing interests in the East, with a host of other interests not immediately in evidence, will fight with bitterness against the ratification of the treaty.

In the meantime, the present duties on pulp and paper imported from the United States into Canada will remain in force. Whenever pulp and paper enter the States from all parts of Canada free of duty, then similar articles will be admitted into Canada from the States free of duty. This is as remote as ever it was.

To be successful the agreement must be ratified in its present form. No changes or modifications can be made. Congress must take it or leave it. If objected because of objections against one or two schedules, diplomatic procedure will stop.

Special Evening Telegram.
OTTAWA, Jan. 27.
Owing to many matters on the order paper for next week and Private Members' day, the question of reciprocity will not be discussed until the week after next.

Special Evening Telegram.
OTTAWA, Jan. 27.
President Rowley, of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, stated tonight: "Reciprocity of any kind at the present time is a mistake. We were beguiled into this thing. There is absolutely no necessity for any change at the present time."

Port de Grave Notes.
On Friday last the grim reaper called away two of our oldest inhabitants. The first death, which occurred on Friday morning, was that of Joseph Morgan. For the past eight or ten months he had been suffering from the very distressing disease known as malignant cancer. His death was not unexpected, for a long time he had been very weak and, as it were, hovering between life and death. He had reached the ripe age of 79.

The funeral of the former took place on Saturday afternoon; that of the latter on Monday morning. Both services were conducted by the Rev. F. Severn.

The schr. Constance Morgan, master, returned to-day from Hr. Grace with a cargo of coal for Mr. Harold Andrews.

Mr. Andrews went to town on Monday morning. He returned again on the evening train.

Messrs. S. Strange and W. J. Hussey returned by the express to-day from the north, where they had been working for the past two months in the lumber woods.

Smallpox at Curling.
Yesterday a gentleman in the city received a letter from a friend at Curling saying that smallpox had developed in the Riverhead there, near Fisher's Mill, and that two persons were stricken with it on Wednesday and are very ill. A policeman has gone to the place from Bay of Islands and will look after the quarantining of the houses in which the patients live. It is believed that the disease is of a virulent type, and it is also suspected that the disease was imported from Nova Scotia where it was prevalent some time ago.

A Nun's Golden Jubilee Celebration at Brigus.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the R. C. school, Brigus, last Monday. The occasion was the 50th anniversary of the profession of the Rev. Mother. The religious ceremony appertaining to the Golden Jubilee did not take place, as the good Mother in her humility expressed a wish to the sisters of the community that there be no celebration. However, not to let so eventful an occasion go altogether unnoticed, the ex-pupils of the school during the week previous resolved to do something to show their love and veneration for the good Nun, who has spent practically her whole religious life in Brigus teaching and guiding in the path of virtue and knowledge their mothers and themselves. But what could be done in so short a time? Only five days remained and the weather was in its fiercest mood. However, taking "Where there's a will there's a way," the ex-pupils got to work. Mrs. Cantwell, Mrs. Meaney and Miss Maggie Whelan prepared a musical entertainment and requested the Rev. Mother to meet them and, as many of the ex-pupils as they could bring together on such a short notice in the schoolroom on Monday afternoon. Saturday the three ladies mentioned above took charge of the school and decorated it for the occasion. A temporary stage was erected and at 4 p.m. Monday the venerable jubilarian entered the school to meet in one class all her former pupils, whose ages ranged from that of a tiny mite of three summers to the gray haired matron of 65.

Men Fight.

At 7 o'clock last evening two men who were under the influence of drink had a furious set to on New Gower Street. They punished each other severely, and eventually were carried by passers by. Both were badly cut about the face. The police have their names and will summon them.

Inspector O'Brien Ill.

The many friends of Health Inspector O'Brien will be pleased to hear that although he is ill he is not suffering from typhus fever. That he is down with the fever is a report that may get abroad. We have it on the authority of Dr. Brehm, the Medical Health Officer, who saw the Inspector yesterday. He is merely suffering from an attack of bronchitis, the result of a cold contracted while on duty in the country Monday last. Dr. Macpherson is attending to him. We hope, in common with his many friends in the city, that the genial Inspector will be around again in a few days.
