In a very low, clear voice, she asked: "If you loved me, why didn't you tell me so?"

Jack ruffled his hair and stared at

"Why? Don't you see? Why, there was I, a good-for-nothing chap, of no account, with his living to get, and there were you with Chertson, and all Chalfont's money in your pocket-one of the wealthiest women in England! Jiggles always says I've got more cheek than ten men and a boy, but I hadn't got cheek enough for that. I'd make a mess of the Law, and I was just your servant. Why, how the deuce could I ask you? But never mind all that; that's past," he went on quickly, with a wave of the hand, as if that past were not worth considering now. "I've told you, and I want you to give me my answer. Oh, Nora, dear-oh, Nora, my dear love-do let it be 'Yes,' there's a good girl." "But it's 'No,' said Nora, in whisper, after a pause. Jack's jaw fell, and, from the other side of the table, he stared at her as if he had just received sentence of, say, seven years' penal servitude.

"Oh. is it 'No'?" he said huskily. "You don't care for me? I'm-I'm sorry! I know I'd no right to think you did, or could; but, somehow-Well, those novel chaps all say that love breeds love, or something of that kind: and I hoped-"

"Besides," said Nora pensively, "look at the difference between us." Conscientiously or unconscientiously, there was almost an echo of his tones in her voice. "Here am I, a poor girl of no account, with my living to get; and here are you, with Chertson, and Mr. Chalfont's money in your pocket to say nothing of being the heir to an earldom, or whatever it is."

Jack was something of a fool, as, alas! doubtless my readers have discovered long before this; but he was not such a fool as not to go round that table with a bound and get his girl in Messages from high sources in Europe are reaching President Wilson urging that he personally attend the great peace conference that will finally settle the issues growing out of the war. The President, it was said to-day, had given no indication of how he regards the suggestion, though some of those usually well informed believe he has an open mind on the subject and may give it consideration.

> THE DAY OF GLORY. PARIS, Nov. 12.

"The day of glory has arrived," line from the Marsellaise—is the text of editorial comment in the morning newspapers. Former Premier Vivani in the Petit Journal, says France during four years has showed an example unique in the annals of the human race. Her calm has been magnificent. Who could have expected the apparent impassiveness of a nation known for the spontaneity of its enthusiasm. The people of France knew from the first that on the war was staked the end of the world of the Teutons or the end of the Latin world. M. Capus, in the Figaro, says, as to vanquished Germany the future relations of the civilized world with her will depend on the manner in which she accepts defeat and punishment. To-day, says the Matin, the civilized world gives fixelf up unrestraintedly to superhuman joy at the triumph over the forces of barbarism. Tomorrow we must get to work and build a lasting edifice of a free and just humanity.

The source of trouble is in the condition of the blood, which has become thin and watery, and utterly lacking in nutri-tive qualities.

The anaemic condition is shown in the pallor of the lips, the gums and the eyelids, as well as in the pale face and angulator.

Nature has provided for the purifying of the blood by having it sent to the lung periodically to come in contact with the fresh air and take up new oxygen.

Unfortunately this plan of nature has been defeated by human beings living too much indoors and breathing over and over again the vitiated air of ill-ventilated rooms. This is the usual cause of anaemia, at well as a reason for its continuation.

" MAKING MONEY MAKE MONEY."

Everyone who has a few hundred dollars isn't able to go into the world and make that money earn as much as it should. All men have their own business to attend to, and probably haven't the time to look around for a safe investment. Besides that, there are hundreds of opportunities to put $100,000 to work where a bare $100 or $500 wouldn't get a look in.

Our system takes your $100 and your friend's $200 and someone else's $500, and so on, and adds them together with the hundreds of other investors in other cities, making a grand total of hundreds of thousands. Thus, and only thus, are really big profits possible. That is why we can offer you 15 per cent. on your money. How much do YOU want to invest at 15 per cent.

Selected An Interesting Messenger.

(From the New York Times.) As curious as any incident in th whole war was the action of the Turkish Government in choosing Gen eral Townshend, who had been its prisoner ever since the fall of Kutel-Amara, to carry its offer of surrender and plea for mercy to the British Admiral commanding in the Aegean Sea. Captives have been sen before, of course, to carry message to the forces to which they had themselves belonged, but there does not ome to mind any previous instance in which an officer of this rank was thus used. Realizing that their situation was desperate, the Turks may have seen the possibility of deriving some advantage from a kindly and generous act sure to create some thing of much-needed goodwill in the minds of both the British General and his friends at home. They may have felt, again, the desirability of messenger whose trustworthiness

He has risen to his present position from the ranks, and in his young soldierhood, before advancement came there had been moments when he wondered why he had ever been born. He knew now, as he manipulated the gun and played the stream of lead upon the surging sea of blood-lusty faces, that he had been born to live for these few moments of triumph. The Huns were very close now, and some were already hurling bombs in an effort to stay the murderous fire. The colonel swung his gaze round for an instant, and perceived that at last the guns were being limbered up. Germans Hastening Retreat.

BELGIAN HATE.

BELGIAN HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 11. (By the A.P.)—"The war is over." was the expression heard everywhere in re-occupied Belgium to-day. The abdication and subsequent flight of the German emperor was received without elation or enthusiasm, but the news of the unconditional acceptance of Marshal Foch's conditions was greeted by the people and the soldiers with relief and satisfaction. The civilian population is more hitter towards the Germans than are the soldiers who fought the enemy to a standstill. Terms of bitter hate and execration are heard among the civilians while the soldiers grin soberly saying the

WILL BUILD SHIPS.

LONDON, Nov. 12. Bonar Law said that everything available in connection with the manufacture of instrumentalities of war would be turned to the production of merchant ships, so that there would probably be an increased expenditure under this head.

HOLLAND WILL LOOK AFTER PRISONERS.

PARIS, Nov. 12. (Havas)-Holland has consented to carry on the work of repatriation of Allied prisoners of war now held in Germany.

EVACUATING BRUSSELS.

The Germans have begun the evacuation of Brussels, a Dunkirk despatch to the Paris edition of the New York Herald says. The despatch adds that King Albert and his family probably will re-enter Brussels next Fri-

HOLLAND'S PREDICAMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 12. Holland's hesitancy in dealing with William Hohenzollern is ascribed to the extremely indefinite state of public opinion in Holland by the Amsterdam correspondent of the Mail. He says that German revolutionary soldiers along the Dutch front say that they were strictly ordered to prevent the former emperor and his family from escaping into Holland. Late Saturday night and shortly after six o'clock on Sunday morning, he says ne sound of cannon could be heard from German territory. It was reported that a fight had taken place between revolutionists and royalists troops and that both sides had used artillery. According to neutrals reaching the British lines from Brussels several of the officers were killed.

WANTS BUTCHERS ARRESTED.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 13. The Independent Social Democrats in the new German Government have demanded the arrst of Admiral Von Tirpitz, former Minister of the Navy, Major General Keim, President of the German Army League, Dr. Wolfgang Kapp, President of the Fatherland Party, Admiral Von Holtzendorff. former chief of the navy general staff. and others and the establishment of a tribunal to try all persons primarily responsible for the continuation of the war and hindering peace. This information is contained in a Berlin despatch to the Telegraph.

PEKIN JOINS IN REJOICING.

PEKIN, Nov. 12. (By the A. P.)-The news of the signing of the armistice was enthusiastically received in Pekin. Allied troops paraded through the legation quarters. Flags of the Allies were seen everywhere. Bells wer rung and celebrations were held in the various churches. The statute of the former German Emperor at Tientsin, known locally as Tin Wilie, was pulled down yesterday evening. Three holidays have been proclaimed in Pekin.

THE FOOD SITUATION.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 13. Food has almost literally won the war. It is growing plainer and plainer that that is the final factor which brought about the submission in turn of Bulgaria, Turkey, Austria-Hungary and Germany, says the Chairman of the Canada Food Board. Four statements from the best sources in to-day's news bring the facts out in sudden brightness. The German Foreign Secretary Solf pleads that peace negotia tions should start at once, and informs the Secretary of State of the Unied States that here is a pressing danger of famine among the people An Associated Press message from New York says starvation faces the worn-out empire. Germany to-day is begging not only for peace, but for bread. Mr. Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, asking the House of Commons for a vote of credit of $3,500,000,000, says it might be necessary for the Allies to make an effort to bring food supplies to Europe, in which case the expenditure will be great and it will be vital that the close international unity which the war has produced shall prevail while the ravages of war are being
