The Romance OF A Marriage.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

But for all his glory of raiment, his face flushes as he sees Paula, and he comes forward with a marked awkwardness. Her beauty dazzles and frightens him—the calm, steadfast gaze of her dark eyes sets him trembling, and he wishes that he had taken a nip of brandy before coming down, just to keep his courage up.

"Give your arm to Miss Paula, Stancy," says Mr. Palmer, and they go in to dinner.

Of course Mr. Palmer has brought the family plate with him. It is a question whether he could dine with comfort without the huge candelabra and epergne, and the massive salt-cellars and side dishes. The room is one blaze of light; the air is heavy and thick with the perfume of flowers, and the dinner is of its kind overdone.

But though her head seems to swim and her heart to have stood still, Paula neither faints nor goes into hysterics. She sits with the same set smile on her lips, the same cold, strained expression in her eyes. She can even reply to Stancy's remarks, which come from him with marked embarrassment and timidity at first; but presently, when the champagne has passed round several times, they grow more familiar and self-confident, and once, as he takes the bottle of the servant's hands to fill her glass, he ventures to lay his hand upon her arm. Paula does not snatch her arm away, though the touch of his hot and seems to have burnt her. She scarcely shudders, indeed, but looks straight before her with the same set, impassive look.

It is all a hideous nightmare to her, the gaudy rooms, the glaring light, Alice's continual ripple of sham laughter, Mr. Palmer's coarse, vulgar voice, and Stancy's hated presence. A hideous nightmare from which she will never, while life lasts, be free: for is she not going to be Stancy's wife; to sit out many and many such dinners? Then May gets up and leads the way to the drawing-room; Paula raises, with the same mechanical, mirthless smile, and Stancy, as he opens the door, looks at her with pointed admiration without causing her to move a muscle.

"Stancy, my boy," says Mr. Palmer, as the hope of the house swaggers back to the take and pours out for himself another glass of champagne. "Don't be too liberal with the liquor. You've got your work cut out for you to-night, and you'll want a clear brain. You're still set upon it, I suppose?" with a sigh.

"Set upon it? I'm keener than ever," responds Stancy, with an unsteady laugh.

"Well, well. You might do so much better, you know. You ought to try at higher game, my boy."

"So's high enough for me," retorts Stancy, his face flushed, his voice thick and tremulous. "We don't want money, and as for a title, and all that, I don't want my wife to be looking down upon me; perhaps if I married one of these swells, she'd think me a snob."

"Perhaps so," says Mr. Palmer, innocently.

"Very well, then, this one won't; though, mind you, she's a real lady, if ever there was one. Kean! I should think I was! Ain't she beautiful? Hang me if she hasn't grown lovelier than ever? I never saw her look so stunning as she does to-night."

"Yes, she's a beautiful girl," assents Mr. Palmer; "that ain't there something strange in the look of her here? A scared kind o' look?"

"I didn't notice it," says Stancy. "Perhaps she is a bit nervous. Didn't you say Alice had prepared her for what's coming?"

Mr. Palmer nodded.

"Yes, perhaps that's it. I wish you'd let the wine alone Stancy, you've had more than enough already."

"Oh, I'm all right," says Stancy, with a laugh. "Let's go in now."

Mr. Palmer rises.

"We'll give you a chance, Stancy," he says. "I'll take Alice and May to look at the sea from the balcony. Understand?"

Stancy nods and wipes his forehead with a shaky hand, and they pass into the drawing-room.

Alice is playing at the piano. May sits near Paula, at her feet almost, and is looking up at her with an admiring worship, and talking in low tones, which Paula seems scarcely to hear, though now and then she looks down at the pretty, eager face with a strange expression of pity and protection. Is it not for this gentle little creature as well as Bob that she is about to sacrifice herself?

Stancy comes up to them and hovers about, his eyes fitfully staring at Paula's face; but she does not appear to notice him: not even when Mr. Palmer's voice is heard inviting May and Alice to look at the sea from the balcony, and she knows that the moment has come, does she show any sign of the horror and loathing that fill her heart and benumb her.

They go out, and Alice, with a deft movement, swings the glass door behind her so that the two are left alone and out of hearing.

Stancy stands for a moment fingering his heavy watchguard and star-

Nature's Greatest Washers

The sea washes the world—Pears' Soap washes its inhabitants!

For over a century, Pears' has been making its way round the world. Ask for it in your local store; it is there! From the Cape to Cairo, in the bazaars of India, throughout Australia, Canada, the U.S., and South America Pears' has made its way with civilization,—on merits!

Pears' Soap is transparent because it is pure; it is the most economical soap because it wears but does not waste. It cleanses and purifies the skin and freshens up body and mind.

is not heavily scented. Its delicate perfume comes from pure natural ingredients; the difference is important,—it means again that Pears' soap is pure.

ing at the richly coloured carpet, then he comes up to her and leans over a chair in an awkwardly attempted attitude of easy carelessness.

"Paula," he says, and his voice is thick with agitation and champagne. She raises her eyes steadily.

"I—er—I've got something to say to you," he says, clearing his throat. "I hope it won't offend you. Last time—but perhaps I'd better not say anything about last time."

"Do not," says the low, icy voice.

"No," he says, "I—I was a bit too soon then, or—with a hideous grin—too late. But that affair with Sir Herrick is over, ain't it?"

eyes do not flinch.

"Yes, it is over," she says, still in the same passionless voice.

"Yes, so I heard," he says; "and that made me hope that there was a chance for me. I needn't tell you that—that I love you; that I haven't left off loving you, though you were hard upon me, and many a fellow would, Paula's face grows whiter, but her you know; but I haven't, I give you my word I'm fonder of you now than ever I was; and—and if you say you'll be my wife, I—you—we shall both be very happy, you know."

Paula looks straight before her for a moment. Has her heart quite stopped beating? There seems no life, no warmth, no feeling in all her being. "You wish me to marry you?" she says.

Stancy, staggered for a moment by the cold, expressionless voice, stammers an affirmative.

Paula looks up at him.

"You do not ask me if—if I love you?"

"I—hope you do," he says. "Of course any fellow would; but—quickly—"I don't much care; I mean"—still more hurriedly—"I'm sure you will."

"Are you?" she asks, with cold wonder.

"Oh, yes," he says, with the confidence of conceit and champagne nicely balanced, "that will come in time. I'm fond of you, and that is the principal thing."

"I suppose so," says the cold voice.

"I'm sure to make you happy, and all that," he says, beginning to feel that he is gaining ground. "You won't have such a bad time of it with me, I hope, that you'll repent it!"—with a self-assured laugh. "And the governor has promised to do the proper thing. I mean—of course I know you don't care about money"—reddening and fidgeting on the chair—"I've heard you say so often and often."

"Have you?" she breaks in, slowly, intently. "Then I have changed my opinion. I do care for money very much."

He laughs confidently.

"Well, though I say it that shouldn't, there'll be plenty. Perhaps Alice told you what the governor intends to do if—if you said 'yes!'"

"Yes," says Paula, as calmly as if she were talking about taxes or the price of coals.

"Three thousand a year settled on you, and a thousand down for—oh, for pins and needles," and he laughs at his choice wit. "If that isn't enough, I dare say you've only got to say so to have just what you want."

"It is quite enough," says Paula, slowly, deliberately.

"Then—then you consent?" he says, bending over her, his face flushed, his eyes fixed eagerly on her face.

"Yes, I consent," she says. "Wait!" for he has come off the chair and gone down on one knee as if to embrace her. He pauses with his arm outstretched. "Yes, I consent," she says; "but only on one condition."

"What is it?" he says, eagerly.

"That is"—for the first time her voice falters—"that I have this—this thousand pounds at once—to-morrow."

He stares and reddens with amazement.

"What—what do you want it for?" A flush crimsoned Paula's face for a moment, but leaves it paler and more strained.

"I cannot tell you. I have need of it—or I should not ask for it."

"All right," he says, confidently and with a nod. "I understand. I'm to ask no questions. Very well. Of course you shall have the money. Why"—with a grin and a leer meant to be expressive of his adoration—"you should have it if I had to sell every diamond I'd got," and he puts his arm round her and draws her to him.

And Paula, with a shudder running through her, feels his hot lips touch her cheek.

A MODEL VERY ATTRACTIVE FOR SLENDER FIGURES.

Pattern 3101, cut in 3 Sizes: 16, 18, and 20 years, is here depicted. Blue crepe de meteor was used for its development, with bead embroidery for decoration. This would be nice in brown satin or crepe, with embroidery in colors. The 16 year size will require 5 1/2 yards of 36 inches material, with 3 yards of ribbon or material 5 inches wide, for the sash. Width of skirt at lower edge is 1 1/2 yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A SMART GOWN.

Pattern 3107 here illustrated is cut in 6 Sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. Size 38 will require 5 1/2 yards of 44 inch material. Width of skirt at lower edge is about 1 1/2 yard. As here shown gray taffeta was used, braided with white soutache. One could have this in brown serge or satin, with worsted, bead or chenille embroidery. Black velvet with facings of ivory astin, or taupe duvetyne with old blue pipings would be very attractive for this design.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

Ex-Soldiers Demonstration in London.

Fifty Injured in Melee With Police -- Whole Family Burned to Death -- Four Lives Lost in Wreck of Bohemia -- Spanish Clergy May Strike for Higher Stipends -- Senate Stands by Monroe Doctrine.

DUKE NO BETTER.

OTTAWA, March 1. There is little change in the condition of His Excellency the Governor General who has been indisposed for several days. A party scheduled for Government House this evening has been cancelled.

DISCHARGED WORKMEN DEMONSTRATE.

LONDON, March 1. There was a wild melee in the neighborhood of the House of Commons yesterday afternoon between police and a procession of discharged workmen from the Woolwich Arsenal. Mounted police were obliged to make a baton charge when the demonstrators attempted to rush the cordon of food constables with the object of marching on Downing Street. Fifty people were injured, of whom twenty were taken to hospital, including a policeman who was cut on the head with a bottle. While the riot was progressing, a deputation of men who had reached the Premier's residence in Downing Street, were informed that discharges would be suspended until March 13th and this helped to still the disorder. The demonstrators numbered five thousand men, mostly ex-soldiers and they were headed by two wagon loads of cripples.

TO MEET ECONOMIC SITUATION.

PARIS, March 2. Joint buying and distribution, according to necessities and supervision of selling prices were provided for in a tentative plan agreed to at London yesterday by the Economic Section of the Supreme Allied Council, says the Petit Parisien, which today prints an outline of the programme. The plan will be submitted to Premier Millerand before becoming effective.

REPORT BORDEN IMPROVED IN HEALTH.

OTTAWA, March 1. Hon. J. A. Calder and Hon. Dr. J. A. Reid returned to Ottawa to-day from New York where they met Sir Robert Borden on his return to England. They stated that Sir Robert is much improved in health and will return to Ottawa before the end of this session of Parliament to resume the leadership of the Government.

FIRE TRAGEDY.

QUEBEC, March 2. The home of Gaudes Dupont, a farmer in the village of St. Fereol, fifteen miles from here, was destroyed by fire last night and four children, together with Mr. Dupont's mother and father, and Mr. and Mrs. Tremblay, were burned to death.

FOUR DROWNED WHEN BOHEMIA SUNK.

HALIFAX, March 2. At least four lives were lost when the Bohemia, astride of Sambro Ledges, broke in two this morning and shortly afterwards disappeared. At midnight everything was going well with the salvaging of the cargo in a calm sea. Later the wind sprang up and the sea increased and finally the ship went down. Twenty-eight of the crew got away in boats and were subsequently picked up. Most of the remainder were rescued by the tug Roebling, rushed from Halifax when the ship began to break up. The rescue was attended with great danger on account of the heavy sea and the lurching of the ship. Some were crushed between the ship and the tug and others fell into the sea and were drowned.

SPANISH CLERGY THREATEN TO STRIKE.

MADRID, March 2. It is proposed that if the Government does not meet the demands of the clergy for higher stipends, the Parish Priests will go out on strike.

SENATE ADOPTS MONROE DOCTRINE.

WASHINGTON, March 2. The Monroe Doctrine, which had been one of the storm centres of the Peace Treaty, was re-adopted in the Senate to-day in the same form as written by Republican leaders and approved by the Senate at last session. This vote was fifty-six to twenty-five.

DENIKINE'S ARMY TRAPPED.

LONDON, March 2. General Denikine's army has been trapped in Kuban Peninsula, southeast of the Sea of Azov, it is claimed in the Russian Soviet official statement dated Sunday and received to-day by wireless from Moscow.

ST. JOHN HAS SNOWFALL.

ST. JOHN, March 2. February this year hung up a new record for snowfall at St. John, and has not been exceeded for fifty-nine years, totalling for the month 51.3

inches. In addition to this 2.77 inches of rain fell. The previous high record for February in snowfall was in 1861, when 51.5 inches fell. The snowfall record for the whole winter was in the season 1881-82 when 147 inches fell. The thermometer this morning at 7 o'clock registered 8.5 degrees below the cipher.

RAILROADMEN TO TRY LAW.

WASHINGTON, March 2. Representatives of the Railroad Unions are understood to have voted today to give the new Railroad Law a trial in bringing about a settlement of their wage demands.

Enough 'Flu' to Make It Dangerous.

People Should Take Preventive Measures, States Dr. Boucher.

In an interview with the Medical Health Officer of Montreal, Dr. Boucher says: "I do not think we have to fear a big epidemic of 'Flu' if the people take precautions. Tell the people to be prudent. The situation is far from taking the had turn it assumed in 1918 as regards the number and severity of the cases."

In this connection it is well to remember the advice given when the former epidemic of Influenza raged throughout Canada.

"Personal cleanliness is all-important. Hands and face should be washed several times a day. Diet should be simple and nourishing. Sleep with the windows open. See that the digestion is sound. Keep the stomach in order and avoid constipation."

While there are so many cases of 'Flu', it would be well for everyone to take a gentle tonic-laxative like Abbey's Effervescent Salt, which will correct the faults of stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and put the entire system in the best possible condition to resist disease.

SPRING COMING.

Soon the farmers will be farming, plowing up the bosky dells, skies will soon be blue and charming, and the breezes wearing bells. Every day is bringing nearer Spring, the season we admire; and this precious thought grows clearer as I feed the furnace fire. When I'm shaking down the ashes, when I'm heaving in the coal, this reflection goes a-flashing through the fibre of my soul; and I wave the rusty poker and I slam the furnace door, for I will not need to stoke her, in the spring time anymore. Oh, the winter winds are chilling, and they jolt us when they strike, but the spring-time calmly drilling somewhere up the dusty pike; and she's bringing birds and roses and a swarm of bumble bees; we forget our frosted noses when we think such thoughts as these. Spring is coming, gentle reader, with that luscious smile of her's, and the farmer with his seeder will be sowing cockleburrs, and we'll get up picnic parties in the sylvan dells and glades, where the happy village smarties will escort the giggling maids; and we'll be knee deep in clover, and forget our every sore, for the winter will be over, and the spring will have the floor.

The Problem of the War Criminals

In addition to the demand of the Allies for the extradition of the ex-Kaiser of Germany from Holland, in which country he took refuge prior to the completion of the armistice in November, 1918, there was a further demand made on Germany for the surrender of all those guilty of criminal offences against the law of nations during the progress of the war, the list of names comprising these containing nearly nine hundred. But Germany was no more inclined to hand over these for trial by Allied courts any more than was Holland willing to extradite the arch-criminal, and so a compromise was arranged, Germany agreeing as a alternative to extradition that all persons accused by the Allies be tried at Leipzig, this being compatible with Article 228 of the Peace Treaty. The Allies have agreed to abstain from intervention during the trials.

During the conduct of the negotiations, ending in the above agreement, were being put through, the centre of the diplomatic stage was taken by the ex-Crown Prince, who offered his precious carcass as a substitute for the German murderers whose surrender was demanded. Such an offer from such a character was considered to be the most grotesque of all little Willie's grotesque performances, for Willie, if only he had the sense to know it, is one of the most insignificant and mean, if not the least criminal of the whole abominable gang. Hence his offer was rejected.

with derision and contempt, for had it been accepted there is no doubt that W. Hohenzollern, junior, would have made a hasty escape to some far off place of his own selection, without waiting for those who would have been sent to fetch him. William the younger may be considered outside the pale of negotiations. As an example of criminality he is but what birth made him. There are others more badly wanted than he, and their trials in Leipzig will be closely watched, the personnel of the court carefully noted, and the sentences—if any—scrupulously weighed against their crimes.

It is better for all concerned, perhaps, that the Powers have accepted the offer of the German Government, though regrets have been expressed that there should have been a suspension of more severe steps. The black listed military scoundrels were, and are, both prominent and powerful, and any attempt to round them up might have precipitated reactionary disorders in Germany, and the overthrow of the present form of administration, with the letting in of anarchy which would have caused serious injury not only to Europe, but to countries without its boundaries. The trials have to be conducted openly and in accordance with conditions specified by the Allies. The evidence has to be accurately reported and made universally public. The Powers reserve to themselves the right of overruling and declaring void any unfairness or impropriety and of rendering null the actions of the court in the event of any such occurring. The meaning of it all is that the Germans are being given both time and opportunity to show whether or not they are capable under changed conditions, of acting in good faith. Any untrustworthiness displayed will bring proceedings to an abrupt conclusion and the original terms of the treaty will be invoked and enforced. Should there be any miscarriage of justice or a departure from honorable dealing, the Powers will be at liberty to exercise their ample and original treaty rights and to insist on the handing over of the German war criminals for proper trial and punishment.

St. George's Coal Fields.

Recent advices from the scene of operations on the St. George's Coal Fields, Ltd., reports that tunnelling work now in progress on the Howley Seam, located on the Robinson River, is giving highly satisfactory results. As the work advances the quality and quantity of coal improves considerably, in fact the Company feels that when testing work is finished on this seam it will be in no way inferior, either in quantity or quality, to the now celebrated Jukes Seam, which was opened a year ago. This welcome news should offer great encouragement to the investing public, who are given an opportunity to aid in the development of a local enterprise, which not only promises ample returns to investors, but much to the economic future of the country. The coal we are receiving from outside sources to-day is not to be compared to that which is laying dormant in the vicinity of Barachois, Robinson's and Pichel's Rivers, and it is now an established fact that there is coal in these localities superior to anything that has been imported into this country for the past number of years.

Purim.
March 3, 4, 5, in the Jewish Calendar, mark the feasts of Esther, Purim and Shurban Purim, respectively, these being festivals of the late Jews celebrated in honor of the deliverance from the schemes of Haman, recorded in the Book of Esther. These feasts fall on the 13th, 14th and 15th of the month Adar, and are in accordance with Esther IX, 22 of a joyous character, but quite secular in tone, the only quasi-religious features being the reading in the Synagogue of the Book of Esther and the section about Amalek in Exodus XVII, 8 and following verses. The celebrations noted appear to have made way amongst the Jews but gradually, though according to Josephus, they were generally observed in his day in all parts of the Jewish world.

Personal.

Mr. I. C. Morris returned yesterday after an extended visit to the States. Mr. C. F. Bond, representing the National Cash Register Co., arrived in town yesterday.
Mr. W. Jocelyn returned from a business trip to the States yesterday.
Mr. P. Prunty and two daughters returned yesterday, after a visit to New York.
Mr. A. Ledingham was a passenger from New York by the Rosalind.
Capt. J. H. Snow returned yesterday by the Rosalind.
Mr. Percy Fearn, who had been on a business trip to the States, returned yesterday.
Sisters Phillipa, Bridget and Mercedes arrived by the Rosalind from New York.
Mr. W. J. Lawrence, chauffeur with Sir E. R. Bowring, arrived here yesterday by the Rosalind.
Mr. Rob Stick, who has been suffering from a severe attack of lagrippe, is now improving and is expected to be about in a few days.
Miss Flossie Rowe of the Cable Staff, Heart's Content, arrived in the city yesterday on a visit to her aunt, Mrs. L. Rose, of Lime Street.
Capt. and Mrs. J. F. Campbell are leaving by the Rosalind for Halifax and after spending a few days in Canada, will take passage for their home in the Old Country.
Mr. Charles Fox, son of Mr. John Fox, of H. M. Customs, and brother of Mr. C. J. Fox, M.H.A., has passed his third year medical exams at McGill University, with brilliant success. His many friends here will be glad to hear of his success.
Mr. T. T. Cartwright, manager for G. W. Gillett & Co., Ltd., who was suffering from an accident, received in Halifax and was confined to his hotel for several days, arrived by the Rosalind yesterday.
Capt. Christopher Riley, M.C., Coldstream Guards, who was A.D.C. to Sir Walter Davidson, and subsequently to Sir Geoffrey Feilding in France, intends visiting Newfoundland later in the year for some fishing and shooting.

Successful Repetition.

Another capacity house greeted the second performance of "The Wrong Mr. Wright" at the Casino last night and judging from the applause given was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The presentation is without doubt one of the best ever staged by our local amateurs. The acting of the different members of the cast was, if anything, better than on the first night. The play will be repeated to-night and to-morrow night and we would advise those who have not seen this excellent production to secure their tickets as quickly as possible. The curtain will rise to-night at 8.45 but on to-morrow night at the usual time 8.15. A special feature of to-night's performance will be a dance by the Mount Cashel boys.

To-Night's Reception to S. A. Officers.

A public welcome will be extended Colonel and Mrs. Martin, the new Salvation Army Territorial Commanders of Newfoundland, who arrived yesterday from England via Halifax by the Rosalind. At 8 o'clock the Governor will take the chair and on the platform will be prominent citizens of Church and State.

Missionary Society Meeting.

The St. Thomas's Women's Home Missionary Society held its weekly Intercession Service at 10.30 this morning. This afternoon at 3 o'clock the regular monthly meeting will be held when Mrs. Eugene Lindsay will address the meeting on the work and aims of the Society.

English Church Notes.

The Rev. S. S. Skene, who recently resigned the vicarage of Langham, Bedford, has no less than eight sons in the ministry of the Church.
The Lower House of the Convocation of Canterbury decided not to allow women to take a more active part in the public services of the Church.
The Vicar of St. Mark's, Lewisham, the Rev. E. Noel Mellish, V.C., who was the first clergyman to win the V.C. in the war, has been awarded the Military Cross in addition to his V.C.
"L'Archeveque Canterbury Londres," eventually reached the Archbishop of Canterbury with the words inscribed on it, "Not known at the Canterbury Music Hall."
The Bishop of Gloucester has appointed the Rev. C. H. Riddale, Canon Missioner of the Diocese from 1909 to 1916, to be Archdeacon of Gloucester in the place of Ven. W. Hobhouse, who has resigned.

The Very Rev. Dean Swayne was consecrated Bishop of Lincoln in Westminster Abbey on the Feast of the Epiphany. The Archbishop of Canterbury was assisted by eleven Bishops. Prebendary Cronshaw, Rector of St. James', Piccadilly, preached the sermon.
The Rev. Prebendary F. S. Webster, Rector of All Souls', Langham Place, London, was recently knocked down by a motor car and killed in the streets of London. At the funeral service the Rev. S. A. Selwyn, late Rector of the Church of the Messiah, Toronto, gave a brief address.

WEDNESDAY, March 3, 1920.
Does your scalp begin to be "wear-in" thin and bare? In that case 'tis well worth while to procure a bottle of McMurdo's Quinine Hair Tonic, and try what that will do for you. Unless the hair follicles are destroyed this tonic will stimulate the growth of new hair, revitalize it, and make it smooth and shiny. For this hair tonic is a good dressing as well. Price 60c. a bottle.
We have a few dainty little mirrors with celluloid or French Ivory backs, that make an attractive gift for a lady friend. Many people prefer these mirrors to any other kind of hand or toilet mirrors. Reasonable prices.

Inter-Collegiate Game Postponed.

The management of the Rink decided yesterday that it would be best not to have any game played until the City vs. Visitor games should take place, consequently the inter-collegiate game between the St. Bon's and Collegians, which was scheduled for yesterday morning, was postponed.

NOTE OF THANKS.—The Managing Committee of the C. C. C. wish to express their thanks publicly to the Ladies' Committee, the performers at the Concert and to the generous donors of Cake, Ice Cream, etc., all of whom contributed so materially to make the "At Home" of 1920 such a financial as well as a social success.—mar3,11

Haligonians Arrived Yesterday.

Haligonian Hockeyists Came by Rosalind. Had Practice at Prince's Rink This Morning.

BIG CLASH TO-NIGHT.

The Haligonian visiting hockeyists "made port" yesterday afternoon by the Rosalind. Jack Tobin, Secretary of the League, and Gus Herder and Carroll Munn, manager and captain of the City Stars, welcomed the All-Veterans on arrival and at once escorted them to the Crosbie, where they stayed while here. The members of the team were at Prince's last evening and had some skating.

At 11 o'clock this morning they had practice, which had the effect of separating them up for to-night's clash, which takes place at 9 o'clock, the doors opening at 7.45. Smoking will not be permitted.

The line-up will be—

Regarding the wire received from the G.W.V.A. at Halifax, the visitors feel out and consider it means an important part of the result of the message was the result of some little feud between the All-Veterans and the G.W.V.A. and was meant with the purpose of discrediting the former in the eyes of St. John's people. The All-Veterans team is comprised of soldiers and, with our exception, veterans. Wilkie, although a soldier, was not in France, and therefore is not a veteran. In the Halifax League hockey games this team played for the G.W.V.A. and up to the time of leaving was in the lead, but had been defeated but once and the team which defeated them had itself been licked twice. However, the All-Veterans are not playing any more in the Halifax League games—at least not this year. The All-Veterans did not come here representing themselves as the G.W.V.A. team. The G.W.V.A. Branch there would agree with them coming as such only on condition that, in addition to having all their expenses paid by Newfoundland, an additional $500 would be given the Branch. Needless to state the boys of the visiting team would not agree to such a proposal. On the advice of Geo. Ahearn, the Sporting Editor of the Halifax Herald, they came down.—First breaking from the G.W.V.A. Branch.

Body Came by Rosalind.

The remains of Mr. Clyde Riggs, who died at Halifax, arrived by the Rosalind yesterday. Deceased was a son of Mr. John Riggs, agent for Buffett & Co., Marytown, and was an ex-pupil of the Methodist College. His many school mates will be sorry to learn of his demise. The body will be sent by steamer to Marytown for interment.

St. John's Man Gains 20 Pounds in Few Weeks

John Ash Regained Health and Strength After Flu by Taking Tanlac.

According to the testimony of the multiplied thousands who have used it there is nothing more invigorating than Tanlac to persons suffering from the after effects of grippe, influenza, bronchial troubles, typhoid and pneumonia, or who are in a run-down condition from any cause.

Another striking instance in connection with this fact is evidenced by the experience of John Ash, a well known fisherman, living at 48 Carter's Hill, St. John's, Newfoundland.

Mr. Ash states that during, and following, an attack of influenza nearly a year ago, he lost fifteen pounds in weight, but that Tanlac has put him in shape to where he has regained all that back and five pounds besides, making an actual gain of twenty pounds in just a few weeks' time. But let Mr. Ash tell his own story; here is his statement:

"For anyone who is suffering from the effects of 'Flu' and wanting something to build them up I want to tell of the wonderful results I have gotten from Tanlac. About ten months ago I had an attack of 'Flu' myself, was down in bed for a month, and it was thought I could not get well. When I did finally get up I was as weak as a baby. I had absolutely no appetite and my stomach was so weak and upset that I could not eat much of anything. My nerves were left in a awfully torn up condition and I could hardly get any sleep at all. What little sleep I did get seemed to me no good and I invariably woke up with a mean, nagging headache, kept rocking along, taking this and that and the other medicine, but got no better and became very despondent for it seemed that nothing could help me.

"I had been reading about Tanlac and was so impressed with what others said it had done for them that I decided there must be something to it and began taking it myself. Well, the results were completely surprising. I had lost fifteen pounds, on account of the 'Flu' and have gotten all that back and five pounds besides, making an actual gain of twenty pounds in just a few weeks' time. My appetite is fine now, my stomach is also in good shape, and I am getting back my strength rapidly. I sleep good and sound every night for I am no longer nervous. That tired feeling has left me and, in fact, I am just like a different man. I am now convinced that Tanlac is every bit as good as they say it is, if not better. I certainly feel very grateful for what it has done, and is still doing for me, and I will always speak a good word for it."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, and by the leading Druggists in every town.—adv.

C. C. C. Notes.

Under command of Major Leo Murphy, some 187 lads of the C. C. C. paraded at Headquarters last night. After the usual inspection and company drill the lads were presented with tickets for the entertainment which will be given by the Old Comrades at Patrick's Night. The programme will be a moving picture show followed by refreshments, which will be served at the Armoury.

On Sunday morning, after Last Mass, the Committee of Management of the Corps held a special meeting. Lieut.-Col. Conroy, Rev. J. Ryan and the full board being present. Chairman Parker submitted the reports from the Ladies' Committee in charge of the annual "At Home" and the production of "The Shaughraun." In each case brilliant successes were announced and the financial results were well up to expectation. Hearty votes of thanks were passed to those responsible for the affairs.

Arrangements have now been made for the new uniforms for the lads, all of whom are now being measured to ensure correct fit. The addition of the service cap and tunic will make a great improvement in the appearance of the Corps, and with the advent of the Old Comrades in uniform, their first turn-out will be an interesting event.

HEARING CONTINUED.—The hearing of the Hickman election petition is being continued in the Supreme Court to-day. Quite a number of witnesses remain to be examined.

To-Day's Horse Races.

The Newfoundland Horsemen Association offers a real live afternoon to citizens.

M. Kelly, Though Injured, Will Drive.

While driving at a wedding yesterday afternoon, Mr. Matt Kelly, owner of Finisterre, sustained injuries to his leg which were at first thought to be serious enough to prevent him from competing in the championship Nfd. trotting race this afternoon. His sleigh, sheering, overturned and Mr. Kelly was thrown out. Dr. MacDonald was consulted and this morning did everything possible to reduce the swelling sufficiently to allow Mr. Kelly to drive, so that, in spite of his injuries, he will take part in the sports. The trotting race, which had been set for the first event, will not now come off until third.

THE LOST DAUGHTER.

extent lose her daughter when she is around 16."

"But when shall I get her back again?" pleaded the mother.

"When she is married," suggested a third person who had been listening with interest to the conversation. "When She Will Really Get Her Back."

"Not wholly," said the very wise woman. "A little then perhaps, and a little more when she has babies of her own—though even then she will think that you are old-fashioned in your ideas about them and, though she will let you help her, she will resent it if you try to show her too much of what you have learned. No, my dear, you'll never get her back thoroughly until she, too, has a daughter of 15 or 16, who has begun to look upon her mother as old-fashioned. Then, she will understand, and not until then."

"That conversation took place some years ago, but I thought of it the other day when another one of my friends showed me her little girl's party frock. It was to be a dainty pink chiffon affair with a little V neck and sleeves to the elbow—quite wonderful, I thought, and so did her aunt, who said her first party frock was only dimity and she had never had a silk one until she was 21 and a bridesmaid."

Her mother sighed, a little. "Mary isn't satisfied," she said, "because I won't let her have it with a deep low neck in front and in back and little puff sleeves. One of the other girls who is only a year older, has one with shoulder straps and no sleeves at all."

She thought HER Mother Danced Queerly.

She sighed again and then she smiled. "I find myself thinking so often of Mother these days," she said. "Mary has been showing me the way they dance the new dances, and if I didn't know that her dancing teacher was all right I would be quite shocked at some of them just as Mother used to be when the two-step was new. Then Mary says they've gone back to the old waltz, but when I try to dance it with her we can't get along together. And it was just that way with Mother and me when I was a girl. I thought Mother danced so queerly, though Father said she had always been called a lovely dancer when she was a girl. And now Mary thinks I dance queerly!"

"I wonder," she laughed outright at the thought, "if some day Mary's little girl will think she dances so queerly? I suppose she will."

And unless human nature entirely changes in the next 20 years, I suppose so, too.

Sends a Message of Cheer to the Thousands of Canadian Women Who Carry a Load of Pain and Weariness Through Their Daily Work.

Pre. Ste. Marie, Sask., March 2nd. (Special.)—"I have used three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and one of Diamond Dinner Pills for backache. They cured me."

This short message that goes direct to the point comes from Mrs. M. Lafont, a well-known and highly respected resident here. It must bring cheer to that great army of Canadian women who daily go about their household duties weighed down by that curse of womanhood, dreary dragging pain in the back.

The relief that Mrs. Lafont found has come to thousands of other Canadian women through the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. That shows that the ache is caused by the kidneys.

For Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. For more than a quarter of a century Dodd's Kidney Pills have been a household remedy in thousands of Canadian homes. They have earned their place in the family medicine chest by the good work they have done. Ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Pastry always shrinks in cooking. Poor pastry is very hard to digest. Heavy watermelons are always the best.

Cold cereal makes an excellent fried mush.

Better pastry can be made with pastry flour.

One cupful of anything is equal to a half pint.

Mock cherry pie can be made with cranberries.

Hot food should not be put into the refrigerator.

Water will make omelet more tender than milk.

Pastry requires a hotter oven than any other food.

Silk, not cotton, should be used when basting velvet.

Tea water is a good cleanser for varnished woodwork.

Keep your eyes on the ice box and the garbage pail.

Mushrooms and tomatoes stewed together are delicious.

Mouldy bread is the result of careless housekeeping.

All dried vegetables should be soaked before cooking.

A little cold cereal can be added to soups to thicken them.

To make a bread pudding light add a little baking powder.

Have shortening very cold before it is put into the flour.

Scrambled eggs should be served immediately to be at their best.

W. P. A.

The adjourned general meeting of the Women's Patriotic Association was held Monday afternoon at Canon Wood Hall and fairly well attended. Lady Harris, who presided, spoke as follows:

LADIES:—

I am glad to meet you here this afternoon. If there are difficulties to be faced, matters to be explained, criticisms to be answered, it is right to stand face to face, and I welcome the opportunity.

The first item on the Agenda is the question of the disposal of accumulated funds.

As you are all aware, at the termination of the War there remained in the hands of the Women's Patriotic Association a considerable sum of money contributed by the people of this Colony for comforts for their men across the seas. The sum amounted to a little over $27,000. We propose to place this sum of money in the hands of the trustees. It is clear, in the legal opinion, that this money cannot be touched without proper legal authority now that the war is over. This may puzzle some members, but the reason is this.—The money was contributed during the war time for definite objects, viz., comforts for your men: at the cessation of fighting the need of those comforts came to an end; it is practically impossible to return these monies. They therefore become a trust which has to be assigned for some suitable purpose, that purpose approaching as near as possible the original intention of the givers. The Red Cross Fund in the United Kingdom has had to do the same by Act of Parliament.

I may here mention that $1,000 has been already given to the Great War Veterans' Association before we were aware of legal restrictions. We intend to get this legalised.

It was agreed, before I came out, at a General Meeting, that $7,000 should be given towards a recreation hut for the soldiers and sailors accommodated at the Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Bowcock's Farm. This has not yet been paid over, but as our faith is pledged in the matter, arrangements will be made to legalise this payment.

The proposal for dealing with the Funds which seems most satisfactory, is as follows:—To place the accumulated funds in the hands of trustees for the purpose of aiding promising children of soldiers and sailors who have served in the Great War in their education and in their start in life.

There seems no better way of helping deserving soldiers and sailors than giving help of this kind to their children. On this point I will read a letter just received from Major Parsons, of the Pensions Board. (Letter read).

A further proposal has been suggested in a letter I would like now to read to you from Colonel Bernard, President of the Great War Veterans' Association. (Letter read). There is this to be said regarding the Patriotic Fund for this purpose; there are already Government arrangements for Pensions and Allowances, but if a decided majority of members are in favor of the Colonel's proposal it would, I think, be best to arrange that a certain sum be handed over to the Patriotic Fund for that purpose, which would also have to be legalised. Letters from some of the outposts are in favor of applying some of the funds to Child Welfare will be provided for separately. I have a few copies here of the bill providing for the Trust which I have now just described. These will be available for perusal.

Now the next item on the Agenda is the Constitution. At the general meeting held in February 1919, it was definitely decided to continue the Women's Patriotic Association, and it is now considered desirable and right to give it a proper constitution. This means that the Association will firmly stand on a legal basis and it at once gives it solidity and position—and here I should like to say we may feel proud and satisfied that the Women's Patriotic Association has earned for itself this recognition—it is indeed wholly deserved. I have been profoundly impressed since I came out here with the unbounded belief and trust accorded this Association by the men of the Colony; it speaks much for the self-sacrifice, sound judgement, hard work and high integrity of the workers. A bill for the constitution has been prepared by the kindness of Mr. Emerson and a few copies of that are available for distribution (Read Constitution). It will now be seen that it is proposed that the President should be, ex-officio, the wife of the Governor; that there should be two ex-officio Vice-Presidents—one the wife of the Chief Justice, the other the wife of the Prime Minister for the time being—and that there should be two Vice-Presidents elected annually; a Secretary, elected annually; a Treasurer, elected annually, and two members of the executive, elected annually.

I may say that if the meeting approves this constitution we shall act upon it to-day without waiting for the Bill.

Lady Harris in closing, paid a tribute to the outgoing officers, particularly the Secretary, Mrs. Gosling, and the Treasurer, Mrs. Emerson. It was decided to place the funds in the hands of trustees for the purpose of educating veterans' children, as outlined above. The constitution was approved and the officers elected for the ensuing term as follows:—

Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Pitts and Mrs. Gosling.

Treasurer—Mrs. V. P. Burke.

Secretary—Miss Mary McKay.

Messdames T. Bradshaw and T. Co. were elected to the executive.

An interesting paper on Child Welfare was read by Mrs. Gosling, at which the meeting closed.

Household Notes.

Fruit has far more nutritive value than is generally supposed.

A roast should not be put into the oven unless the oven is very hot.

When vegetables are baked all the nutritive properties are retained.

Green peppers, stuffed with corn and baked, make a good winter dish.

When drying blankets brush them frequently to make them fluffy.

Candy tuff is one of the most beautiful plants for the small garden.

One starch and one green vegetable should be served with meat or fish.

Lingerie ribbons should not be ironed while wet or they will become stiff.

Choose a perforated tin pie plate if you like the undercrust perfectly cooked.

Never let a thermos bottle lie on the dishwasher—wash it as quickly as possible.

Notes From Brigus.

On Tuesday, the 24th ult., the meeting for the purpose of electing a Road Board was held. About seventy were in attendance of whom 20 p.c. were "juniors." The meeting was called to order by J. P. Thompson, Esq., J.P., who occupied the chair. Mr. Hall, of the Bank of Nova Scotia, acted as Secretary. Thirteen candidates were nominated for membership, of whom the following were elected: Messrs. Thos. Roberts, Joseph Bartlett, Munden Clarke, Robert Gushue, Edward French and George Meaden.

Owing to the rise in the doctor's fees, it is whispered that we are to have a new "Medico," also a new Drug Store. Although there may be room for improvement in both services, we are of the opinion that one of each would suffice to attend to the wants of a small locality like ours. We have a sufficient amount of ailments at present. Heaven help us if we are to have two druggists and two "Docs."

Miss Ellen Sheehan left for Avondale by Thursday evening's train on a visit to some friends.

Workmen have been busy during the past week, ice-cutting in Beaver Pond. Several citizens who have ice houses are getting in an adequate supply.

There have been three funerals at the Roman Catholic Church since Wednesday, the 24th ult., namely, Mr. William Fowler, Mrs. Bridget Gordon, of Cupids, and Mrs. Margaret Fowler, of the Goulds Road, all having passed the three-score and ten limit.

Captain Harold Bartlett is already making preparations for his summer's trading. For some time past he has had a sail-maker engaged in making extensive repairs to his ship's canvas.

Miss Mildred Rabbits left for Heart's Content by Saturday morning's train to resume her duties at the Cable Office at that town.

Mr. James Burke, of the Western Union Cable Staff, at Bay Roberts, arrived home by Saturday evening's train to spend his holidays.

Mr. Thomas Brien, who had been spending a holiday both here and in the city, returned to the Bay Roberts Staff House by to-day's train.

Though March, 1920, did not make its "debut" until to-day, we had a foretaste of the atmospheric conditions which usually accompany that month yesterday. The wind was remarkably keen.

Mr. James P. Hearn, who left here some time ago to carry out some surveying in Placentia Bay, returned by Saturday's train, having failed owing to weather conditions to reach his destination. He leaves again shortly to make another attempt, in which we hope he will meet with success.

We understand that Capt. Stewart Gushue has purchased the house formerly owned by the late John Spracklin.

Mr. Fred Bartlett, of the Heart's Content Cable Staff, returned to his work by this morning's train, having spent an enjoyable holiday.

Despite the fact that your correspondent has taken the humblest of pen-names, he is blamed for being anywhere from a magistrate to a retired gentleman.

The Quick Way to Stop a Cough

This home-made syrup does the work in a hurry. Ready prepared and always on hand.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good. Four 2½ ounces of Pinex (30 cents worth) in a 16-oz bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup. And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly breaks the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying, throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for 2½ ounces of Pinex, with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. MAKING YOUR OWN WORLD.

The liar said: "It's a bitter world and it's hard to get along. Men don't play fair with their fellow men and they're cruel when they are strong."
They sneer and jeer in a vicious way and they hinder you all they can. And there's no such thing as fellowship in the selfish heart of man."
Then I thought to myself—it is no doubt true that rough is the world, and cold.
To the men who have bartered the truth for gain, and are known by the lies they've told.

The cheat exclaimed: "It's a vicious world and nobody cares at all whether you live or whether you die or whether you rise or fall; Let poets and sages write fine words and sing of the joy of life—I tell you the days on earth are filled with hatred and scorn and strife." And I thought to myself—it is no doubt true that little of joy you'll meet.
If your path is strewn with your broken faith, and you've played the game as a cheat.

But the honest man, with his head erect, will tell you that men are fair.
That the world is peopled with honest friends who love him and really care.
That smiles await him wherever he goes, and never there comes a day.
But someone offers a friendly hand to help him along his way.
Oh, the world is hard if you lie or cheat, but it's gentle and kind and true.
If only you're lived as an honest man, and do what a man should do.

Turkish Control Denounced.

Boston, Feb. 21.—A letter sent to Acting Secretary of State Polk, by 114 Episcopal clergymen of this state, urged: "That all true influence be used to end Turkish rule in Europe forever, and to secure the great church of the Holy Wisdom to its rightful Christian uses."
"We feel," the letter adds, "That it is both immoral and dangerous to allow the Sultan even nominal authority in Constantinople, or over Christian peoples everywhere, and mindful of the millions of eastern Christians martyred by order of the Turkish power we appeal for justice against these murderers."

"BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN"

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Ohio Woman.

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularities, pains in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around. I assumed to do my own work, and as I had four in my family and three boarders it made it very hard for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. It is certainly the best medicine for women's ailments I ever saw."—Mrs. SARA SHAW, R. No. 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.
Mrs. Shaw proved the merit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order that other suffering women may find relief as she did.

Women who are suffering as she was should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice in regard to such ailments write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its fifty years experience is at your service.

Thumbnail Sketch of Col. Martin.

Salvation Army New Territorial Leader For Newfoundland.

The life-story of Colonel Thomas Martin, Newfoundland's Territorial Commander, affords an example of persistence in a right cause that is worthy of careful study by young men—and young women too—who are just starting out on a Salvation Army career. In the past, no sphere has demanded the exercise of this quality to a greater extent than has the Salvation Army; and no one, we believe, would be rash enough to guarantee that in future days the grit of our manhood and womanhood may not once more be put to the strongest tests. So that young men of Thomas Martin's stamp—and better—are wanted for the Army. On one certainty they may rely. In the fighting line, as Colonel Martin has lived to prove, conflicts with the enemy are fierce and frequent, and the finest and sturdiest qualities of character are by that means rapidly developed.

The Colonel has completed thirty-two years of Officership, and his verdict deserves to be noted down. He came into the Army, to use his own words, "because I could see no such field for soul-saving anywhere else, and I have never had the slightest doubt about having done the right thing." His call to Officership was romantic. Converted as a lad of 13 in a Devonshire Revival, he began to preach before he was out of his teens. "The realities of God, Calvary, Heaven and Hell," he says, "operated upon my mind and heart so powerfully in the days of my boyhood that no after-influences have been able to efface them." Thomas Martin knew, even in those days, that he was called to be a soul-winner; and not having met the Army, he entered, in due course, the Methodist ministry. Having passed through College, afterwards served his four years' probation, and passed the four necessary examinations, he should have come up for ordination. In the meantime he had read "The War Cry" and got to know the Army. He had also read Mrs. General Booth's powerful analysis of "Popular Christianity" and her stirring paper "Compel them to Come In," and he was never quite the same afterwards. From the day he memorized and preached his first sermon on the words, "Watch and Pray, that ye enter not into temptation," he had gone as straight as he knew how for the salvation of souls, and souls had been saved. While assisting minister in the Taunton circuit he had even preached at the street corners—somewhat to the mental discomfort of his friends, who thought he was "letting the thing down"—but the results were small compared with those he constantly read of in "The War Cry." He felt dissatisfied. This was a happy augury for the future; for as soon as a man becomes satisfied he raises a barrier to his own progress. This want of satisfaction led Thomas Martin to write to Mrs. General Booth for advice, and some of his greatest treasures to-day are the two or three letters The Army Mother sent him in reply. The matter for him was really settled in these memorable "Two days with God" conducted by The General and Mrs. Booth in the Colston Hall, Bristol.

In the course of those powerful assemblies Mrs. Booth said, "If God is calling you to be a Salvationist, you will never be satisfied until you become one." Many were pricked to the heart by that piercing utterance. Thomas Martin was one, and the words to-day are not only a memory, but a lodestone to hold him to duty. He sent in his application at once, and was rejected! At any rate, he was told plainly enough that it would be better for him to remain where he was and work for God. But, sure of his call, he persisted. "I feel I must come," he said. And so, with tears and prayers, he eventually tore himself away from his friends; and instead of going up for ordination went to Clapton as a Cadet from Wellington, Somerset. After a few months at Clapton and in Chalk Farm Garrison, he served first as Lieutenant at the old Grecian Theatre, Hoxton, which was then a training Garrison, then for a while held an appointment in the Educational Department at the International Training Homes, and finished his experience in the British Field, with a seven months' command of Brighton I. Corps. After Brighton, by which time he had attained to the rank of Adjutant, he was sent to take charge of the Training Home in Switzerland, and for nineteen years he remained on the Continent.

Salvation fighting in Switzerland was no easy progress in those early days, and Colonel Martin has vivid recollections of desperate encounters with police authorities and furious mobs in Geneva and other cities, when Divisional Officer at Basle, six of his officers were imprisoned, and he himself was sentenced to three days. But he was hailed out by an army friend after only a few hours' incarceration. Passing from Switzerland, Colonel and Mrs. Martin's next field was Sweden, where they served in training and divisional work for nine happy years. One of the Colonel's divisions stretched away to the regions of the midnight sun. He had some lovely experiences among the men were better known or famous than Capt. Az. Munden, who sprang from a race of men—his father being the famous William Munden, who, it is said, in the old days, taught them the business. A good story is told of Capt. Az. in the steamship Commerce in 1872. He ran the steamer White Bay, as far as he could, then sent one of his masters-of-watch with a crew of men to look after the seals. They came back in the night, and reported the seals were in the Bay and no use wasting there. He sent off his other master-watch next morning with the men, and gave them instructions that they were not to return until they brought him green boughs from the spruce trees on the land. The men were back before night, but all had a tow of whitecoats, not spruce boughs.

Says Ulster Must Arm.

London, Feb. 17.—A despatch to the Manchester Guardian from Belfast quotes a speech made by Viscountess Massereene in a Unionist meeting in Antrim, in which she declared that Ulster was determined never to surrender its rights and that if any attempt is made to sever her from the British Empire men will swarm over from England and Scotland to assist against "the common enemy."

"The enemy is at our gates and must be fought," she concluded. "Let us arm ourselves with a clear consciousness that Ulster will never surrender an inch of her soil or title of right to the insidious, bloody foe. And when the time comes let us be ready as one man to strike for the Protestant faith, liberty, King and Country, and the land of Ulster will deliver such a buffet to our enemies that these people will carry its mark to the scaffold and the grave."

STORIES FROM BURIN.

I have several notes of historical events which occurred at Burin, and related by an old lady who was born there in 1814, and who died in 1896. She related that in 1820, H.M.S. Pelican, Capt. Menchin, lay up all that winter in Burin Harbor, and that the seamen built a house over the ship's deck to keep them from snow and frost. In 1821, H.M.S. Clinker, Capt. Firth, laid up in Burin. Some of the officers had their wives with them, and that winter Lieut. Bonnard, of the Clinker, was married to Miss Butler of that town. Her father was Justice Butler. He was an Englishman by birth, and a blacksmith by trade. His residence at that time was called "Shandy Hall." During the summer of 1822, H.M.S. Pandora remained in Burin all the summer. These ships were sent to protect the large fishing establishments then carrying on business, notably Spurrer's, P. Kelly & Sons, of Stepaside; Darby, of Great Burin, and Geoffrey Morris. Those firms carried on very extensive business; 300 shoremen, Irish and English youngsters, were employed at Spurrer's alone, besides the large fleet of fishing boats to Cape St. Mary's out of their employ. Kelly sent forty four-handed boats to Cape St. Mary's every summer, as also did Darby, and the other employs in about equal numbers. No Sunday was kept in those days, the shoremen being employed in spreading fish or catching bait. A signal staff and an old man were kept on Dodding Head to warn the ships and different employes of the approach of privateers, several of which kept hovering about the Western Coast, and often entered the harbors, stealing the fish and gear from the fishermen, even taking household utensils, and sometimes those privateers, mostly Americans, would board passenger ships, bound to Newfoundland, and take away the "youngsters." In 1800 or 1805 a company of soldiers were stationed at Burin. They erected several batteries round the Harbor—three at Ship Cove, one at Troke's Point, one at Parsons' Point and one on the top of Man-of-War Hill, which overlooked the whole Harbor. The old lady stated that she often, when a little girl, with other children, picked up cannon balls and shells on the top of that hill, and where the cannon were mounted.

The first winter the soldiers lived in the house called Shandy Hall. It was built in 1790 or thereabout by a merchant named Brown, who did business in Burin and had a large establishment also at Mortier Bay (now Marystown), about eight miles from Burin. The second winter the soldiers lived in a cooper-shop near Parsons' Point, afterwards called the Barracks. Mr. Butler, previously mentioned, went to live in Shandy Hall after the soldiers had left. The pilots serving on the men-o-war, in 1800 and after were paid £10 for the summer.

MURDERED BY INDIANS.

In about the year 1800 two men named Pardy of Stepaside, Burin, were murdered by Indians in Bay D'Espoir. During the summer of that year a man named Pardy, a foreign captain, came in his vessel, trading along the West Coast. He visited the Indian campment at Bay D'Espoir and found no person home, except one old woman, the rest of the Indians having gone on a hunting trip up the country. It is said Pardy and his men took all the furs, which they found ready cured, in spite of the old squaw, who tried to prevent them, and was ill-used. When the Indians returned they found all their furs gone and the old squaw in a dying condition, and hearing that Pardy committed the outrage, they swore eternal enmity to any person bearing that name. The next year the Pardys of Burin went to Bay D'Espoir to do a winter's work, as it was called; and one day two brothers with another man, went in the country hunting. They met a party of Indians, who, on finding their names to be Pardy, shot at once, but did not harm the third man. Their bodies were brought home and buried on Tite's Island, a small island in Burin Harbor, which, at that time, was used as a burial place for people of all denominations who died there.

ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY.

About the year 1815, the first resident priest (Father Hearn), went to live in Burin. Before him Father Cleary went often to Burin from Placentia, and previous to him Father Fitzsimmons visited the place, and he was noted for having erected crosses on the hills near the coast, as he went from one harbor to the other. Previous to him Father Burke passed through Burin, and went to all the harbors on the Western Shore, and then went to the United States. Father Hearn built the first chapel in Burin—the frame of it being cut and fitted in Nova Scotia before its arrival. A man named Marshall came to erect the church. He was a carpenter and a soldier. Afterwards Marshall settled in Burin, went into business, and became one of the leading merchants; owned two waterside premises, and sent a vessel to the sealfishery for three Springs. She was commanded by Capt. O'Driscoll, of Bay Bulls. Father Hearn had to travel on his mission to Fortune Bay, Bay D'Espoir, and went to Bay St. George crossing the country by paths and swimming the rivers. He died in Placentia. The Court House at Burin was built between 1790 and 1800, as the old lady stated. When she was five years old she often played with the gaolers' children. He was a Mr. Rogers, and that would be in 1819, and even then she said the house was called—old. After him Mr. Glen took charge.

PIONEERS OF COMMERCE.

Patrick Kelly was an Irishman and his wife an Irishwoman. They had three sons and two daughters. One of his daughters was married to a Mr. Darby, of Burin, who was also an Irishman. In 1800 Doctor Walsh, who resided in Burin, was a retired navy surgeon. One of his daughters was married to Mr. Kelly's son, Patrick. About the year 1820 large numbers of schooners and boats were built in Burin. Mr. Morris, the merchant, had two large brigs built there in the winter of the above year. They were called respectively the St. Patrick and Shamrock. About 1822, other men went into business, notably amongst them being John O'Neill, Thomas and William Gorman, Richard Marshall and John'Brien—all of whom amassed fortunes. Clement Benning also carried on a large business. In 1800 Daniel Bishop, an Englishman, was what was called a Surrogate Magistrate. He also carried on a large business. One of his daughters married a Mr. Hooper, an English book-keeper, who died in Placentia in 1901, aged 92 years.

A VERY OLD SETTLEMENT.

Tilton Harbor (Tilting), Fogo, is a very prosperous little settlement, and must have been inhabited at a very early date in our history. As far back as 1785 a priest was there. His name was Father Lundrigan, and he died on the 25th October, 1785, aged 58 years, and was buried in the old cemetery at Fogo; a wooden cross marks the place of his interment. He was indeed one of the old pioneers. The first person buried at Fogo Island was Miss Jackson, about 160 years ago. She was a daughter of Surrogate Jackson. She died at Seldom-Come-By, but was taken to Tilton Harbor for burial. The Burkes and Bryans are very old families in that settlement, and by their enterprise and business ability did much to build up our country.

How to Stop a Cough

A constitutional remedy that removes the cause by building up the system will stop a cough and break up a cold. These elements contained in Vinol—Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Wild Cherry, Iron and Hypophosphites—soon create an energy that throws off the cold and prevents its recurrence.

Here is Proof that Vinol is a Great Remedy for Coughs and Colds

"I had a severe cold and cough, no appetite and headaches, and was tired all the time. I read about Vinol and decided to try it, and the result was most satisfactory as I was soon as well as ever and my cold and cough had disappeared."—L. Sage, 189 Elgin St., Brantford, Ont.

For all run-down, nervous, anemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

Your money will be returned if Vinol fails—Leading Druggists.

A MIRROR

reflects only your features, whereas the decoration of a room reflects your personality.

If you feel the rooms of your home do not have that touch of intimacy and fellowship—the YOU made visible—come in and let us help you develop your REAL self—the PERSONALITY with which you will be entirely satisfied.

Our papers possess those distinctive qualities which distinguish them from the many.

Zane Grey

The Man of The Forest.

A story of love and life, of the glory of the mountains, of danger, daring and adventure, and finally of a great joy. Told as only Zane Grey could tell it.

PRICE $2.25.
