

ST. PIERRE WORRIED OVER BLOOD STAINS ON NIGHT OF THE STEVENS MURDER

Physician Gives Startling Evidence at Hearing in Edmundston in Tragic Case.

McGOON BOY STICKS TO PREVIOUS STORY

Doctor Declares Prisoner Bought Him About Alleged Blood on Face and Clothing

Special to The Standard. Edmundston, N. B., March 11.—The fourth day of the trial of William St. Pierre of this town against whom an indictment has been returned charging him with the murder of Minnie Stevens on the night of October 11 last contained some sensational, legal battles and evidence corroborating the testimony of little Charlie McGoon who has proved one of the main witnesses for the crown. The accused appeared in court today as a regular man. He looked as though he had stepped out of a fashion book. He was attired in a well grey suit of latest style that came in for much discussion before the day had ended.

Mr. LeBlanc, who is conducting the examination of witnesses in behalf of the defence, continued his cross examination of McGoon.

Boy Sticks to Story. He endeavored in every way to shake the story of the youthful witness but failed to make any material change in his story. This had held steadily to his story of meeting St. Pierre at about 9.30 in the evening of Oct. 11th sitting on the fence where the crime is supposed to have had its beginning and afterwards watching the prisoner being taken down the street looking over the water and then proceed along a path coming out on to Church Street in the vicinity of the hotel school house.

His Explanation. The defence endeavored to make much out of the admission of the witness that he had not told of the fence affair to Mr. Lawson of the crown's forces but that he was later viewed by Mr. Lawson, but had told on the second interview of the meeting at the fence, of his receiving a quarter from St. Pierre with the request from the accused not to tell of his having run or "what he had seen him there."

Not Expecting Money. The counsel for the accused endeavored to draw from Charlie an admission of having been informed that the witness was a person who could give the right kind of evidence against St. Pierre. He did not succeed. During his long examination of the witness the counsel became more and more convinced that the boy was a person who could give the right kind of evidence against St. Pierre.

Doctor's Story. Dr. Frederick Herbert, a close personal friend of the accused, was the man of the hour today. He keenly felt his position but with his fatherly love and the first thing he said to the witness was "I had a fight in Green River with three or four fellows." Then he told me he had been covered with blood. I looked at him, but could not see any blood on his clothing or face, and told him so. He said he had been home and changed his clothing which had been covered with blood as well as his face.

Feared the Talk. "Later on he showed me what he said was a spot of blood on the left sleeve of his shirt. I did not pay much attention to it and took his word for it. I met him again on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. Wednesday morning I went to the shop of the C. N. B. where he was employed. We passed the usual salutation and he immediately broke into the subject of Minnie Stevens' murder and said it was a terrible thing. I said yes, I felt kind of badly about it. He said: 'You do not tell me that I did it? I think I asked why. He said it was because his family felt so about it and he was nervous over his actions of Monday night.' I asked him to hurry up and prove his actions of that night, or it would be taken up and he might be brought into court. I said, 'All you have to do is to get these fellows from Port Kent you fought with that night.' He said he did not remember who they were. He said the only man who had been with him was a fellow from Port Kent but he did not know where to get him. I then asked him what he would say if they questioned him as to his story told at the dance but don't remember what he said.

I asked him if somebody else had seen him with blood on him as he had told me that he had blood of him. I said, 'If you do not know where you have been and cannot remember your

FATHER TO HANG FOR URGING HIS SON TO MURDER

Unique Case of Quebec is Finally Decided by the Supreme Court.

SLAYER SON GETS TERM IN PRISON

Father Had Advised Son to Kill Man Alleged to be Disturbing Home.

Ottawa, March 11.—Incited by his father to shoot another man, Romeo Hemmick escapes with a prison term for manslaughter, while his father, Joseph Hemmick, must expiate his crime on the gallows. A date for the hanging was not named. The case, which involved a most unusual point of law, was argued before the Supreme Court of Canada on February 24 and 25 last judgment, confirming the verdict from the Quebec courts, was handed down this morning.

Father the Adviser. Evidence in the earlier hearings told of the father, who suspected one Lucien Morisset of entertaining an illicit love affair with Romeo Hemmick's wife, counseled the young man to shoot the suspect. Judge Duggan, in his Quebec court last June, found the son guilty of manslaughter, while the father, who had no physical participation in the crime, was sentenced to death.

Appeal to the Supreme Court was based on two grounds: Whether the father could be guilty of murder when he merely counseled his son, who was of age, and whether Judge Duggan was not charging the jury that it might find the father guilty of manslaughter, as well as murder.

One Brother Hangs. Woodstock, Ont., March 11.—Norman Gaffield was sentenced to be hanged June 3 for the murder of Benjamin Johnston, confectioner on the night of January 20. Gaffield, a field, guilty of manslaughter, was sentenced to twenty years in penitentiary for the same crime.

PREMIER NORRIS FACES A CRISIS

Tax Measure Meets Heavy Opposition and Government May Be Defeated.

Winnipeg, Man., March 11.—What an evening! Premier Norris faces a political crisis in the Government of Manitoba has developed through the dissent of the Norris administration to increase income taxes on farm lands from six to seven per cent. Conservative and Labor groups, and some of the independent-farmer members, are determined to oppose the measure. The Premier is said to be determined to hold the view that defeat of the measure would involve the government's resignation. Opponents of the measure state the ground that the interest rates charged by the Manitoba Farm Loan Association tends to keep rates at a minimum.

What will you say about it? I did not say anything about it on your ship. He then said that was not blood but a cigarette burn. "He said, 'I guess I can fix it up somehow with the others.' I said: 'Do you think they will say it was not blood?' He said there was only one person, and I am not sure whether she would say it was blood or not and that is my mother. I told him we had better hurry up and find out where he had really been and get the matter cleaned up. He said: 'Do you really think they will suspect me of doing this thing?' I said 'I think they will.' He replied 'I might get twenty years or maybe hang.'

Met the Prisoner. I said you should not have done this. The next day I met him and told him things were looking bad for him. I said, 'If you have done this act you had better own up to it and prevent others from perjury themselves; but he said: 'I did not do it.' His cross examination comes tomorrow. William Picard and Mrs. Bellmance, testified to having been walking that evening on Church Street. When within twenty feet of the brick school house, several times referred to, they met the accused and spoke to him. Both witnesses testified to seeing the blood-stain on his

She had been missing since February 25, when she left the Y. W. C. A. at Brandon, leaving behind notes indicating her intention of taking her life. Despondency over love affairs is the cause assigned.

One Town Threatened With Annihilation Unless it Surrenders to Anti-Soviets.

Stockholm, March 11.—The fight for Petrograd has again flamed up. Kronstadt's bombardment which commenced last night, continuing throughout the day. In intensity the firing surpassed all previous efforts. At Terikoff, on the Russo-Finnish border and other Finnish places, the ground was shaken and windows were broken. Alleges Railways Cannot Cut Wages

Labor Men Declare Industrial Disputes Act Would Be Invoked to Solve Problem.

Toronto, March 11.—Labor men point out today that Canadian railways cannot impose wage reductions on employees at present without coming within the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act. Under the terms of the act, a Canadian railway company would have to notify the employees that a change of wages was contemplated. Thirty days' notice would have to be given under the law.

How It Would Act

In that time employees could apply for boards of conciliation under the Industrial Disputes Act and the railways would have to prove to a board the necessity of a reduction. On the other side the employees could ask for an increase in wages and fight for it before a board. Either this procedure would have to be followed, or else the parties would have to go to the railway adjustment board and a similar procedure followed.

ANTI-SOVIET LABOR REVOLT IS SPREADING

Workers in All Parts of Land Likely to Rise Against Petrograd.

TROTSKY PUTS A PRICE ON LEADERS

Offers 5,000,000 Rubles—Worth $250—for Body of Gen. Koslovsky.

London, March 11.—The leaders of the revolutionary movement now developing in Russia are entirely unknown in Russian political circles which indicate that the movement is non-political, and one of the broad masses of the Russian people, themselves according to Anatole Bakhaloff, president of a group of Russian Social Democrats in London.

M. Bakhaloff today communicated to British labor leaders important private information. He has filtered into Russian political and commercial circles in London from what he characterized as "most reliable" sources of information in Russia.

Workers' Revolt. "Statements of the Soviet Government that the movement is directed by a White counter-revolution and the Russians are entirely false," declared M. Bakhaloff in his communication. "The revolution is being carried on by workers, sailors, soldiers and peasants. The Socialist parties are not even indirectly responsible. The movement is concentrated in Petrograd, but already is spreading through the country."

Garrisons in Rebellion. "We have reliable information that the garrisons of Petrograd are revolting; that in Tsaritsyn, Serpukhoff and Kolomna (respectively 180 miles south, 57 miles south and 63 miles southwest of Moscow), the workers have expelled the commissars and proclaimed a general strike, and that the peasants of the Ukraine, Western Siberia and the Ural are in open revolt. Moscow, where the most reliable Soviet reports are concentrated, is quiet, but only by military force can the authorities prevent the Moscow workers from joining the revolutionaries."

SIR SAM HUGHES STARTS BATTLE ON PATRONAGES

Lively Debate on Appointments in the House of Commons.

LEADERS CLASH ON IMPROVEMENTS MADE

Day Ends up With Lavish Use of Biblical Quotations.

Ottawa, March 11.—Echoes of old battles over patronage rang through the House today. It was Sir Sam Hughes—Frank advocates of methods in vogue before the civil service commission was created—who raised the issue in a motion that the interests of Canada and its people would be served by a system of political patronage, "wherein appointments to and promotions in both the outside civil service and the inside civil service would be brought under the specific consideration and recommendation of the members of parliament, or the defeated candidates of the party in power."

Sir Sam, who had a warm welcome from both sides of the House, spoke but briefly. The effect of his recent illness was still apparent and, at the suggestion of Mr. Speaker, moved last night to the centre of the House that he might the better be heard.

Quote the Bible. The debate went on hour after hour. I. E. Pedlow, South Renfrew, lent it variety by delving into Scriptural authority. He compared Sir George with the Apostle Paul in that "the things that I do not, that I would." The House laughed. "Oh, Jerusalem," Mr. Pedlow mourned the House roaring.

"Oh, Jerusalem, Jerusalem, how often would I have gathered thy children together even as a hen gathereth her chickens and ye would not."

"What authority is the honorable gentleman citing?" queried H. H. Stevens, Vancouver Centre, in puzzled tones.

"The Bible," replied a Liberal member, and the House roared.

UNION LEADERS PREPARE BATTLE

Will Resist to Last Ditch All Attempts to Reduce Railway Wages.

Chicago, March 11.—Action looking toward the wholesale reductions of wages of railway employees of the nation, was assailed tonight by union leaders.

The railway executives were unanimous in declaring that the reductions were necessary to pave the way for lower freight and passenger rates, and said that the wage cuts would begin with the unskilled employees, but would finally reach the highest executive.

Charges Incompetence. In replying to this, J. G. Lahrman, president of the American dispatchers' Association, asserted that the train shippers would show that the railroads were not economically managed and in a letter to Senator A. B. Cummings, chairman of the senate inter-state commerce committee, he called for a senatorial investigation of the transportation situation "so as to avert serious strife over wage reductions."

NO BODY MARK IN SNOW NEAR DEATH SPRING

First Neighbor to Reach Ezekiel Berry's Home Tells His Story.

VICTIM'S CLOTHING NOT VERY WET

Marks on Body Were Visible But There Were No Footprints Beside Spring.

Special to The Standard. Moncton, N. B., Mar. 11.—The first evidence in the preliminary hearing of the case of Ezekiel Berry, of Port-Hill, Albert County, charged with the murder of his wife, Minnie Berry, was taken before Magistrate John W. Gaskin, in Fredericton, this afternoon. The accused was represented by James Friel, K. C., of Moncton, and the Crown by H. Lester Smith, Clerk of the Peace for Albert County and T. T. Goodwin of Moncton.

One Witness Heard. Only one witness was on the stand today George Prosser, who laid the information. His examination lasted the whole afternoon and was only concluded about 5.30 o'clock. Prosser's evidence tended to show the condition of the body of the deceased woman on the morning of the tragedy when he saw it in the house lying on three chairs. According to the witness there were discolorations on the neck, a swollen ear, a dark mark under the eye and a scratch underneath the right jaw from which blood was oozing. When the body was moved to another room a slight froth exuded from the mouth.

Ratepayers Convened. Prosser also told of the meetings of ratepayers of the district which decided to get in touch with the attorney general about the case. According to Prosser a letter received from the Attorney General the latter part of January stated he (the attorney general) had not heard of the case but that the clerk of the peace had been instructed to look into the matter. The inquest had been held on December 13th.

Mr. Prosser's Story. The first witness called by the Crown was George Prosser, who laid in part: "I know Ezekiel Berry, the accused in this case. Have known him about 25 years. He works out as ordinary labor for a living and farms a little. He lives about a mile from me. I know Minnie Berry. Had known her about 25 or 30 years since we went to school together. I have frequently seen Ezekiel Berry and his wife during the last five years. I remember Dec. 12th last. It was Sunday. I was at my own home on that morning. My wife, was with me. I went down to Ezekiel Berry's that morning between 7 and 8 o'clock. Ezekiel Berry had come after me with his horse and the pump."

What Berry Said. Berry said to me: "Come here, I want you." I walked over to the pump. "What authority is the honorable gentleman citing?" queried H. H. Stevens, Vancouver Centre, in puzzled tones.

"The Bible," replied a Liberal member, and the House roared.

SIR SAM HUGHES STARTS BATTLE ON PATRONAGES

Lively Debate on Appointments in the House of Commons.

LEADERS CLASH ON IMPROVEMENTS MADE

Day Ends up With Lavish Use of Biblical Quotations.

Favors Patronage System.
Sir Sam Hughes moved that the best interests of Canada would be maintained by restoring political patronage in appointments and promotions in both the inside and outside civil service. Sir Sam spoke of the various boards and commissions created during the war, remarking that the outside civil service had been brought into the inside and the inside service made as close a corporation as possible. The civil service commission now had the right to make appointments without consulting with any one responsible to the people.

Old Party Benefits.
Under the old patronage system, said Sir Sam, the members of parliament were held responsible not only for appointments to the outside service, but they were also consulted on appointments to the inside service. This was the case when Sir John Macdonald was prime minister, and the civil service at that time was the best the country ever had. He advocated the creation of a parliamentary committee to look into the work of the civil service commission and the civil service generally, and to hear grievances of civil servants who considered themselves unfairly treated.

Policy of Trust.
There were, said Sir Sam, two forms of government. One of these was built on trust and the other on mistrust. During the war period up to the month of March, 1916, he had been in charge of the militia department which had raised an army of 375,000 men. He policy toward these men was to trust them, and he declared that there was not a single court case of any importance among the whole 375,000 during the six months they were in Canada. The same rule applied to members of parliament and appointments. He could not recall an improper appointment made under the old system while unsuitable appointments were made under the new. The member of parliament, being responsible to the people, was obviously the man to be consulted in making appointments to the civil service.

Charges Absolute Failure.
A. E. Fripp, Ottawa, charged the civil service commission with absolute failure, which he coupled with an annual cost of maintenance.

The growing maintenance cost of the commission, he argued, proved that a blunder had been made in placing the outside civil servants under its jurisdiction.

J. L. Chabot, Ottawa, said he was opposed to any return to patronage. He had contested the seat in the last election on the direct understanding that patronage would be abolished. There previously had been an army of applicants for government jobs and he said that had been kept up with these people. For one friend he secured by the job route there were scores of enemies.

Commission Doing Well.
Now the civil service commission was working at high pressure, and on a modern and efficient basis. Mistakes were made, but it would be a greater mistake to drop the work of progress and reform. If the commission was to be restored to its former position, it would be a great mistake to drop the work of progress and reform.

Home Besieged Even.
A return to patronage would mean that ministers of the crown would be unable to attend to their duties. When he was postmaster general his office was besieged from Monday until Saturday, and his home stormed by host of office seekers. No country could hope to have sound government if the hands of the ministers were absorbed by the host of office seekers.

Against Patronage.
Ernest Lapointe (Quebec East) joined Mr. Lemieux in opposing the restoration. He did not believe in political patronage which had been tried in many countries and found wanting. Mr. Lapointe blamed the government for not supporting the civil service commission in its effort to do away with patronage. He declared that the government was exercising the patronage in the appointment of those hands of census commissioners and enumerators throughout Canada, for the taking of the decennial census.

Sir George Foster.
Sir George Foster, who followed in leading the work of the civil service commission, in its appointment of those hands of efficiency experts, considered that the hundreds of dismissals of supernumerary servants testified to the wisdom of the survey. More than $600,000 is now being saved annually as a result of the staff reduction, he explained.

Sir George Foster declared that complete understanding existed in the departments under reorganization. Drunkenness and associates had no more power than Young and Company had. Their duty was simply to investigate and to recommend which positions were necessary and which could be done away with.

However, he was against any change in regard to either the outside or in the inside services, except in very exceptional circumstances. He hoped that Canada would evolve as efficient a system as the United Kingdom and the United States. Dealing with criticism of the appointments of the census officials, Sir George said he had consulted the Civil Service Commission, which body felt it would

Three Schooners In Newfoundland Floes

One is a Complete Wreck But Two Others Have Crews Aboard Yet.

St. John, Nfld., Mar. 11.—Three British schooners bound to this port are fast in the ice off Cape Race, two of them with crews aboard and one hung up on a reef, the department of marine and fisheries reported today. The Barbara Barr, from Moncton, was forced over a reef by the ice yesterday and began leaking. Her crew abandoned her and landed on a rocky inlet, but finding her still adrift early today rejoined her and now are awaiting rescue.

The Retraction from Cadix is stuck in the same ice but two miles away. Both vessels were reported liable to be crushed if the wind should shift and drive the ice packs in-shore.

The coastal steamer Fortia has been ordered to their assistance and may reach them tonight.

The Tipperary from Cadix, reported wrecked March 4, is on her beam ends with one spar standing, likely to go to pieces at any time, the department reported. She was abandoned by her crew last week.

PAY LICENSE FEE.
Retail vendors are now required under the prohibition law, to pay a license fee of $100 in cities and incorporated towns and $50 in smaller communities. The increase was passed by order-in-council. Formerly the fee was merely nominal.

Not to undertake the necessary 24,000 appointments.

Hon. Mr. Fielding.
That according to the admission of government members there was gross mismanagement of the civil service in Ottawa was the opening shot fired by Hon. Mr. Fielding. He declared that government had not abolished patronage.

Mr. Fielding claimed that under patronage, when he was in office, the civil service had been as efficient and capable a body as could be secured under the competitive system. Examination of candidates, however, was the proper method, and this system should be extended to all the larger cities and towns.

Hon. Mr. Fielding said that one of the meanest things was hypocrisy, yet Sir George Foster admitted that 24,000 men were going to be appointed under the old patronage system. He quoted Sir George Foster as stating that patronage was responsible for many evils, and declared that the appointment of the census officials indicated "what the old dry rot" was returning.

Hon. Mr. Doherty.
Hon. C. J. Doherty said he did not believe Mr. Fielding was serious in accusing Sir George Foster of scandal. He, Mr. Doherty, still believed in the principle underlying the civil service act and to make application of it successful there must be a sense of common sense. He would withdraw such charges as manual labor from the competitive clause.

Offers 5,000,000 Rubles—Worth $250—for Body of Gen. Koslovsky.

Warsaw, March 11.—Leon Trotsky, the Russian Soviet war minister, according to Russians here, who are in daily touch with their country has offered a reward of five million rubles for the body, dead or alive, of General Koslovsky, the revolutionary leader in the Petrograd region. General Koslovsky, in return, is reported to have offered ten rubles for Trotsky's body. It is pointed out here that a million rubles now is worth about $50.

Dozens of Centres.
A dozen or more instructions are in progress throughout Russia and the anti-Bolshevik movement daily is encouraging other uprisings, say the local Russians, who assert they are gaining confidence of the ultimate success of the counter revolutionary forces as they learn of fresh anti-Soviet forces appearing from Odessa northward.

Besides a dozen or more main insurrections many anti-Bolshevik bands are reported to be operating under stimulus of the Kronstadt movement. East of Kiev and the Volga River region there are five main bands, the most important of which is headed by General Makno, the Ukrainian anti-Bolshevik leader, who recently combined his forces with those of General Antonov. These bands are said to number from ten thousand to fifteen thousand men all mounted, and well equipped. The bands defeated the Bolshevik in several encounters east of Kiev, but the Bolsheviks have tightened their hold in Kiev and are preparing to defend it from within and without.

ONE BURNED TO DEATH IN OUTBREAK

Peel Was Arrested Later and Given Two Year Term on Arson and Manslaughter.

Amherst, N. S., Mar. 11.—The law firm of Logan, Mackenzie and Smiley received a despatch this afternoon stating that the minister of justice had granted the application for a new trial in the case of the King vs. Alva Peel. The grounds on which the new trial had been granted is that the evidence did not warrant the conviction. Following Peel's conviction on the charge of arson before the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, the case was appealed, and on being heard before the full bench at Halifax, two of the justices supported the decision of the court and the other two recommended that the decision be quashed.

Minister of Justice.
Immediately following this, the case was taken before the minister of justice at Ottawa, with the result that a new trial has been granted.

Following a fire at Oxford about a year ago in which Lewis King of Oxford was burned to death, and a large business block destroyed, Alva Peel was arrested and charged with negligence, arson and manslaughter. He was found guilty only on the charge of arson and sentenced to two years in Dorchester Penitentiary.

Big Wood Cut In Grand Manan

High Price of Coal Has Resulted in Unusually Large Amount of Wood on Market

Special to The Standard.
Grand Manan, March 11.—The religious interest in Grand Manan continues unabated. Although special meetings ceased at Grand Harbor and Seal Cove some weeks ago, the attendance at the regular services of the churches is that of revival times and the interest in the meetings is still strong.

The Rev. A. H. Traction held a series of meetings on Wood Island. During the past three weeks, the Rev. L. A. Tingley has been aiding. Delegates from Grand Harbor and from Seal Cove, and from Woolworth's Cove have attended these meetings and twelve candidates have been baptized to date.

The Rev. Ira DeWitt Lytle from Arcadia, Yarmouth County, N. S., has arrived at North Head and is holding Evangelistic services at North Head.

Great Wood Cut.
During the winter, the people of Grand Manan have been fortifying themselves against the high price of coal, by securing an unusual quantity of wood from the woods of their own island. Probably, never before was such a quantity of wood cut in a single season on Grand Manan. Large piles are to be found at most dockyards, while in one convenient place at Grand Harbor, about 300 cords were stacked awaiting opportunity to convey to the owners' premises. The very broken weather prevents as much being done with the wood as otherwise would be possible.

Mrs. Albert Webster, who had accompanied a friend to Chipman Hospital in St. Stephen, had the misfortune to fall on an icy street in that town and break her left arm near the shoulder. She is still confined to the hospital.

Mr. J. Warren Wooster of Seal Cove, who some weeks ago went to California for the winter, was in Mexico when last heard from. He has sent to friends at home some fine views of scenery in Mexico.

Miss Hilda Gupill of Grand Harbor, has taken charge of the public school on White Head, which had been closed until March 1. Miss Gupill is a teacher of superior ability.

NO BODY MARK IN SNOW NEAR DEATH SPRING

First Neighbor to Reach Ezekiel Berry's Home Tells His Story.

VICTIM'S CLOTHING NOT VERY WET

Marks on Body Were Visible But There Were No Footprints Beside Spring.

"We got ready and went down with him in the p.m. There was a bad snow storm on. While driving down the road Berry asked me about going after the coffin. I said: 'You did not remove the remains, did you?' He said: 'I did. I carried them to the house part way.' He said he had carried her up opposite the spring. Then he said he got his boy Winslow to get a hand sled and they hauled her up the rest of the way to the house. I told him he should not have taken the remains until the coroner was notified and he got a permit. Berry said he did not know that.

Went to the Pool

My wife went into the house and I went down to the water alone. The water is between eight and ten rods from the house. From the top of the culvert to the surface of the water would be, I judge, about three feet. The pool is about twelve or fifteen feet across at the top. The pool at that time was less than two feet deep. There was probably six inches of water at the outlets of the pool where the water runs out. On that morning I went down to the pool alone. As I walked down the road I noticed two separate moccasin tracks and from the pool of water on the easterly side of the pool, around the northerly side and then turned into the road again, a complete circle around the pool.

Tracks in Snow

The second set of tracks I noticed came down from Berry's house, was in forty or forty-five feet from the edge of the pool of water to where there was an old steam engine sitting. These tracks returned and went back towards Berry's house. I saw no evidence in the snow of any person or body having been pulled out of the water. I saw a print; it looked as if something wet had been laid down in the snow under the fence at the end of the engine. Witness said the imprint he saw in the snow was about five feet long. The snow was not broken down at the water's edge. There was no indication along the water's edge of anything having been drawn up the snow. The snow that morning was quite hard. When I went around the pool I stepped right in the tracks. I was observing closely. Berry came down to the pool with me later on. There were others with us. Elmore Stoves, George Geldart and Bliss Steeves were present.

Snow Not Broken

Berry showed us where he had found his wife on the northern side of the pool. The snow was down to the water's edge at this time. There was no evidence then of anybody having been dragged out of the water.

Berry told us his wife was lying on her side with her face westerly. At the spot where he told us she was lying, I should judge the water was from three to five inches deep. At the point where Berry said he found her there was no evidence of two feet having stopped as if someone had stopped to pull a body out of the water.

Traced Foot-Prints

Before returning to the house I noticed a set of foot tracks from the house to the road, and from the road to the culvert. I traced these tracks to within one rod of Berry's door. I could not tell the size of the track, or whether they were men's or women's size. Berry had on moccasins that morning. I did not notice whether his clothing was wet or dry.

Witness told of telephoning the coroner.

When I saw the body of Minnie Berry lying on three chairs. I noticed the lower part of right ear was badly swollen and was very badly discolored. The discoloration was on the front of the lower part of the ear. I noticed a cut on the throat under the right jaw, with the blood oozing from it. I also noticed a little discoloring under

Police May Follow New Perry Trail

Suspicion Deepening in Yarmouth That Officers Have Worked on Wrong Clue.

Yarmouth, N.S., Mar. 11.—There is a strong feeling, and growing steadily in this town that the police only are working on the Perry murder have up to this point been on the wrong trail, and that if the murderer is to be apprehended, they must hit out in an entirely new direction. It is a conviction which strengthens among a large section of the community, and there is a demand that the authorities go out on a new tack, since there is a feeling that every possible clue, must be exhausted, in order to bring to justice the perpetrator of the crime.

Guide Is Host At Karakul Dinner

W. Harry Allen, Owner of One of the Few Karakul Sheep Flocks in Dominion.

Fredericton, N. B., March 11.—W. Harry Allen of Penniac, president of the N. B. Guides' Association, was the host at a Karakul dinner at the City Club last evening at which twenty of Fredericton's business men were his guests. Mr. Allen, besides being a guide, booster extraordinary of New Brunswick as a tourist and sportsman's paradise, and several other things, is the owner of one of the few Karakul sheep ranches in Canada—the only one in Eastern Canada. Mr. Allen has lately returned from a tour of the eastern and middle states where he exhibited motion pictures of hunting and fishing scenes in New Brunswick before seventeen audiences, some of which numbered 2,000 people, while on other occasions there were smaller gatherings of members of sporting clubs and prominent writers of metropolitan newspapers.

KILLED BY EXPRESS.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., March 11.—Edmond Youker, aged 36, of Loyalist while walking along the railway track tonight about two miles from Charlottetown was struck by the incoming express train from Borden, and instantly killed. His skull being fractured. He was going in an opposite direction from the train and apparently became dazed.

Clothes Were Wet

When we put on the sheet I did not observe whether the clothing was wet or not. At that time there was a little damp spot on the floor, about as much as you would wipe up with your pocket handkerchief. Elmore Steeves, Ezekiel Berry and myself removed the remains to another room. I noticed then that the clothing on the right side of the body was wet. They were not very wet at that particular time, but wet enough to wet your hand. You could feel the dampness.

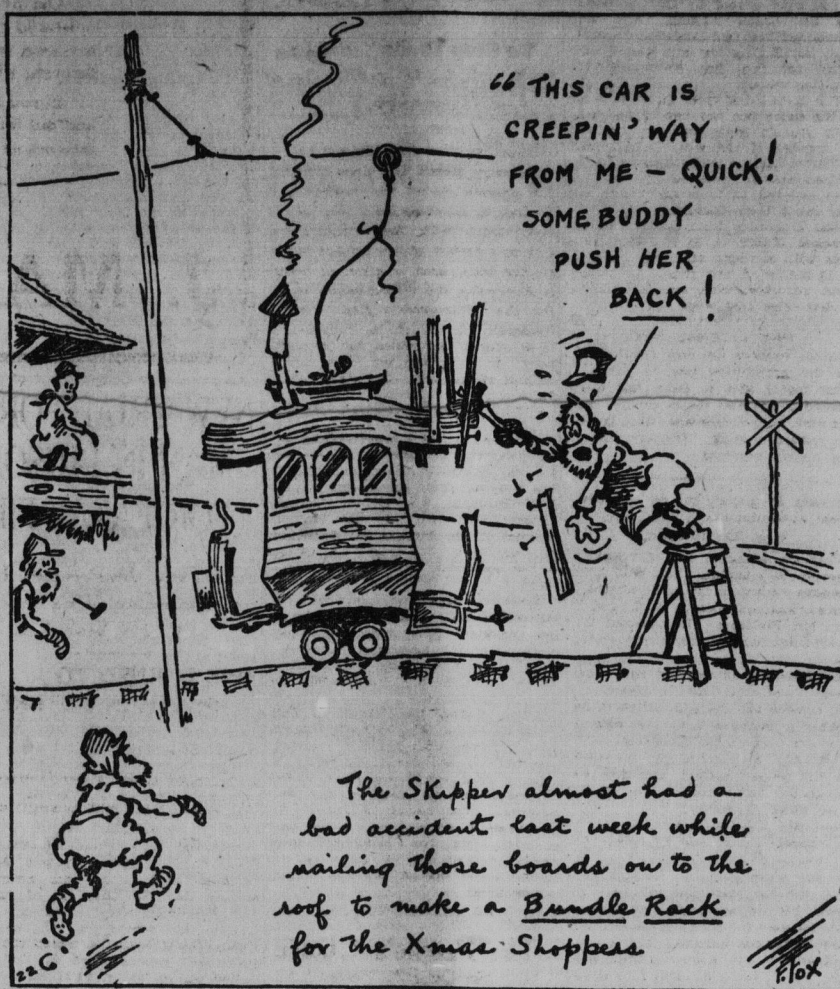

Admits Drinking

Witness had conversations with the accused that day. I asked him in the barn what was the trouble between him and his wife. He said he came home at noon on the Saturday week previous to her death and he was very wet when he came home. I asked him if he was drinking when he came home. He said he was not drunk but he had drained a quart bottle between Petticoat and home, and I had other conversations the second day after the funeral. I took account to Petticoat and back again. On our way home I said to accused "Ezekiel, I am going to ask you some pretty sharp questions." I said, "You made it appear that your wife was jealous of you but there was nothing said about you being jealous of her" and I said, "weren't you jealous of every man that passed your door and looked in towards your house?"

Jealousy Questions.

He replied, "I used to be." I said, "I'm going to ask you a plainer question yet." I said, "weren't you jealous of your wife and me?" He said, "I used to be." I says, "Ezekiel, I hope to God you are as innocent of her death as she is clear of me."

The hearing will be continued to-morrow morning at ten.

Sergt. Wm. Parry Dead At Gagetown

Veteran of Great War and One of the Best Guides in New Brunswick.

Gagetown, N. B., March 11.—William Parry, veteran of two wars, and well-known as a hunter and woodsman has passed away at his home in Lower Gagetown, after a long and painful illness of several months, resulting from injuries received overseas.

Sergt. Parry was born in Wales, in 1878, and when a young man came out to Canada, with his widowed mother and several sisters and brothers. They settled on a small farm in Lawfield, moving later to a farm at Lower Gagetown. When the Boer War broke out, he was one of the first to volunteer, going to South Africa with the First Contingent. Here, he served with distinction, winning high commendation for bravery on more than one occasion. He took part in many of the most notable battles of the South African War, and was one of the little band of Canadians who held up the Boers at Haart's Drift. On another occasion he carried a wounded officer to a place of safety under fire. Returning to Canada, he took up farm life, and was also widely known for his knowledge of wood craft, and skill as a hunter of big game. Only last autumn, while suffering from mortal illness, he succeeded in bringing down one of his best moose. The outbreak of the Great War found Sergt. Parry eager to serve his country. He received his commission in Nov. 1914, with the 6th, C. M. R., and trained at Amherst, and Sussex, going with a volunteer draft from the 6th C. M. R. to England, where owing to his age, he was obliged to remain during the greater part of the war. While on duty at Sandgate, he was thrown from his horse, receiving injuries which developed into internal cancer, and he was invalided home.

The Funeral.

The funeral took place from his late home to St. John's Church, where the service was conducted by the rector, Rev. H. T. Buckland. The Gagetown veterans, in uniform, preceded the casket, which was draped with the Union Jack, and upon which was placed a handsome wreath. "A tribute to a loyal and gallant veteran of two wars and a good comrade in the 6th C. M. R." The rector's address was on "Sacrifice," which did not end with the signing of the armistice, but was still being bade by the men who had returned home. Three familiar hymns were feelingly sung by choir and congregation. The pallbearers were Sergt. Major E. P. Babbitt, M. M. Sergt. Alfred Ashburne, M. S. M. Sergt. J. J. Graham, C. R. P. Secov, and Privates George McKay and Fred Pearce in the solemn hymn which followed the closing prayer. Bugler Allen of Fredericton, played the "Last Post."

Sergt. Parry is survived by one brother, Thomas of Lower Gagetown, two sisters, Kate and Sarah, also at home, and one sister, Emily in the West.

Three Years For Jewellery Theft

Prince Edward Island Boy Got Valuables Belonging to Fredericton Alderman.

Fredericton, N. B., March 11.—Gerard Roy Craig, of Summerside, P. E. I., was sentenced to three years in the Maritime Penitentiary at Dorchester, for the theft of jewellery and other articles to the value of about $600 from the residence of Alderman Camp, on the night of Feb. 8. The evidence in the case was heard in the police court yesterday afternoon, and this morning Police Magistrate found the prisoner guilty and passed sentence.

Craig, who is only 19 years of age, has already served a term at Dorchester, having been sentenced to two years at Halifax on Nov. 21, 1918, for theft. Two months of each year of that sentence was remitted for good conduct, and he was released last July.

left cheek and that it was quite large. They said it was about 9.25 or 9.30 in the evening. The time testified to by these witnesses corroborates the evidence of Charles McGoon that he saw the accused going along the river path towards the school house at about 9.30, or 9.35. At the time he was passing by the young couple he was wearing a blue suit.

Changed Suit

About an hour later they testified to having seen the accused at the dance hall with the blood stains removed from his face and wearing a grey suit of clothes. At the dance hall Mrs. Ballman said she danced with accused and she asked him about the blood stains on his face when she passed him on Church street. He told witness it was the result of a fight he had with some men from Fort Kent.

On cross-examination of Mrs. Ballman, Mr. LeBlanc put her through a hard course. He referred frequently to her deposition made at the preliminary hearing, questioning some statements in variance with her testimony today in an effort to discredit her credibility. She clung to the story of today. I was brought out on direct examination that Attorney LeBlanc had called on the witness. She said that it was in his presence that the first suggestion was made that the stain on St. Pierre's face might have been iodine.

Lawyer Makes Protest

Mr. LeBlanc jumped to his feet in protest that he had suggested such a thing. The witness did claim he had suggested it, but that it had been suggested in his presence.

Mr. Johnson, manager of the dance hall and theatre, testified to the arrival of St. Pierre at the theatre of his wearing a grey suit and of his recital of having had a fight that night with three or four men from Fort Kent.

Asked About His Looks

He asked Johnson if he looked all right to go to the dance. He pushed his hat back and enquired of Johnson if there were any scratches on his face. Johnson said the accused had been drinking and appeared nervous and worked up.

Leon Gagnon also testified to fight story as told to him by St. Pierre. The witness was asked to examine the grey suit the prisoner was wearing today. He did so and said it was similar to the suit St. Pierre wore at the dance only looked better pressed.

The Crown intimates the grey suit of today is a new suit, made of the same pattern of cloth as the suit worn on October 11.

Mr. Bourgon, bank clerk, testified to having been at the home of W. C. Albert on the evening of October 11 when Charlie McGoon delivered a telegram there. It was 9.25 when Charlie called there. This evidence was to corroborate the time Charlie said he saw St. Pierre at the fence as it is only a short walk from the fence to the Albert home.

There are four more witnesses for the Crown who will probably finish tomorrow. It is expected the defence will endeavor to set up an alibi and endeavor to account for St. Pierre's movements from 8.45 till 9.30 on the night of October 11.

DIVIDEND CUTS BRING HARDSHIP TO STOCK OWNER

Widows Hit Very Hard When Supposedly Good Securities
Pass Dividends.

WAGE REDUCTIONS WELL RECEIVED

Rubber and Sugar Securities
Hold Prominent Place on Deferred List.

(Copyright 1921, By Public Ledger.)
Chicago, March 11.—The matter of course way in which the corporations are dropping losses and deficits into the laps of their stockholders and the pleased air of welcome with which those arrivals are received constitute the most notable picture of the present day in business. The stockholders just love these new children; they are so fresh and so different from the fat and lumpy surpluses of the war days that were so hard to carry on the arm and so exhausting to nurse. The reception perhaps argues a new stoicism in the American makeup but that is a good thing and a corrective of our too sanguine and thoughtless spirit.

When one hears "sweet" are the words of adversity" the stockholder or the merchant replies "there is no adversity. Have not commodities and securities gone down to points where buyers are sure of great profits on them some time?"

Dividends Are Cut.

But while so many stockholders are taking a nap on these baubles of surpluses and enjoying life, there is a class of people who have a great grievance. It is those who depend on dividends for their income, largely retired men, widows and in some cases public institutions, with their emoluments in the form of stocks. Such incomes have been severely cut down.

An interesting chart has been compiled by John Burnham & Co. of this city showing the dividend record of 161 securities during the seven months to February 1. It discloses eighty-three dividends passed and thirty-one cases of reduction in dividends or payments in other than cash. The dividends designated by Burnham & Co. as "deferred" are included in the eighty-three just mentioned, for the difference between deferring and passing is not considered very wide by the ordinary stockholder.

How They Are Classified.

The securities are classified in eighteen groups according to character of business and representation. Essentially all of those made traditio- nally. The worst, showing is made by the copper, leather and shoe stocks, motor and motor accessories and merchandising concerns but the rubber and sugar stocks hold a rather prominent position in the list of delinquents. If the record for February 1 were added it would make the exhibit still more striking, for dividends have been dropping off in large numbers of late.

The progress of the corrective to extravagance which is now the distinctive characteristic of American trade will receive a strong impetus from the sweeping reduction of wages by the packing companies. This is the first big movement of that sort in the West and is comparable with the 25% per cent cut in cotton mill wages in the East.

Wage Reductions.

Thus far wage reductions everywhere in this country have been received by the community with a grace- fully less than in former years and with less trouble than had been ex- pected. On the railroads it may differ. Predictions are made by well informed men that any movement against the wages of railroad em- ployees will be met with a general strike.

But reductions must come in all lines of business. The merchants are taking their medicine, manufacturers of fabrics are making small profits where they make any at all, and the same statement applies to wholesalers and jobbers, who fully understand that they cannot expect anything like the old gains, and even retailers are known to yield somewhat to the logic of the situation.

New Zealand Is Short of Buildings

Supplies Are Difficult to Obtain and Prices Are Enormous Too.

Auckland, New Zealand, March 11.—A shortage of building material is seriously affecting living conditions in New Zealand. Lack of adequate sup- plies of lumber, cement, and builders' hardware is reported to be restricting construction of work in general, and especially the erection of suitable homes.

The result is a great scarcity of dwellings and consequent high rents. There appears to be no immediate prospect of relieving the situation. Owing to the scarcity of supplies, contractors in general decline to offer bids for construction work on any other basis than that the owners should pay the cost price plus 10 per cent as contractors' commissions. This has been found unsatisfactory for the reason that it is the interest of the contractor to make the building cost as much as possible and in view of the uncertainty regarding the probable total cost, a fair return on the investment doubtful.

At a recent session of the New Zealand Congress a resolution was passed and sent to the government urging contractors to make the building cost as much as possible and in view of the uncertainty regarding the probable total cost, a fair return on the investment doubtful.

American Senator Recognizes
What Germans Would Have Done if Victorious.

SYMPATHY IS WITH THE ALLIES

Although Nation Will Not Invade It Appreciates Position of Entente.

(Copyright 1921, By Public Ledger.)
Washington, March 11.—America is a disinterested bystander in regard to the new Allied "invasion" of Germany. The United States army of occupation at Cologne bridgeheads remain where it is until unless the terms of the armistice, by reason of which it is there, are violated. The State and War Departments reiterate that America is on the Rhine by virtue of an armistice and not because of peace terms. The Allied forces are moving further into Germany because the terms of a peace with Germany are not being kept. America having made no peace treaty with Germany, there are no terms, as far as we are concerned, which have been violated or call for punitive measures on our part.

Although General Allen's forces at Cologne are not marching with their Allied comrades, the United States government undoubtedly views the measures taken by France and Great Britain with sympathetic eyes. The recognition that Germany has been "stalling" and quibbling on reparations, is as thorough in Washington as it is in Paris or London. It is an open secret in diplomatic quarters that the German government hoped to the last the moral influence of the United States would be exercised in the direction of "restraining" the Allied Powers from enforcing reparation de- mands. Our failure to do so may be interpreted as an indication of America's attitude toward the scope the French and British governments at length have found it necessary to take. The initiative propaganda waged by the Germans in this country to win American public sentiment for "down- ward revision" of the reparation terms has been a failure.

What Senator Thinks.
Senator Bacon's committee of the Senate, discussed the German whittas recently with the Public Ledger correspondent. The senator was asked what he thought of the Allied demands for 200 million gold marks. "Well," replied Mr. Bacon, "in his sentimental fashion, 'we all know the Germans would 'make good' as they say, if they could, had they won, and I'm in favor of making them take their medicine.' There is every reason to believe the German view is the view prevalent in the highest quarters at Washington at this hour.

Von Hindenburg Has Very Sore Heart!

(Copyright 1921, By Public Ledger.)
Berlin, March 11.—"Although my heart is with you tonight, I feel I cannot get foot into Berlin as it stands today," ran the message Field Marshal Hindenburg sent to General Von Wengenheis, President of the German Farmers' Union at the annual banquet of that society here. Hindenburg's intimation that Berlin is unworthy of his presence called forth outburst of approval from the junkers that increased into loud cheers when Von Wengenheis announced that he believed in a great future for Germany "not a democratic Germany" nor in a republic Germany, but in a thriving German monarchy.

BACK IN OLD OFFICE
Ottawa, March 11.—Alexander Johnson, recently re-appointed deputy minister of marine, is back in his office at the marine department again. When asked today with regard to the British Empire Steel Corporation, which he had a brief association, Mr. Johnson expressed the opinion that the scheme as at present proposed, would almost certainly be successful.

Geneva, March 11.—There is no bet- ter argument for the urgent need of a League of Nations in Europe, and no more striking illustration of the im- mentable importance of the present league to achieve practical results than a trip in the Orient Express, the famous "train de luxe" that runs be- tween Constantinople and Paris, in which your correspondent recently traveled as far as Geneva, the new capital of international brotherhood. It is a disheartening experience to be forced to realize that in this age of "perpetual peace and disarmament" it is even possible to run one train through five European countries on a real international basis.

SEVRES TREATY REVISION LIKELY

Father Robinson to be the Pope's Adviser on All Palestine Matters.

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
(Copyright 1921, By Public Ledger.)
Rome, March 11.—Revision of the Sevres treaty will offer the Vatican opportunity to discuss with the powers the final settlement of religious interests in the Holy Land. In view of the provisory character of the present British arrangements in Pal- estine and because of important French, Italian and Greek interests it was necessary for the Vatican to obtain a direct, impartial and authoritative report of the situation. Thus the Pope sent three months ago on a special mission of investigation an American monk, Father Robinson, on whose faithfulness and special compe- tence on Eastern Christian problems the Pope attaches great value.

Sent By Pope.

Father Robinson was among the experts who prepared the San Remo decisions regarding revision in Pal- estine of the deeds of possession of churches. He also figured in the settlement of various quarrels origi- nating from disputes in Greek, In- dian and other religious communities. Father Robinson who has just returned to Rome has presented his report to the Pope through Cardinal Gas- parri, papal secretary of state. It would appear his conclusions are that greater quiet reveals now in the Holy Land where the British Governor Sarnaud has expressed wide political action that has contributed greatly to pacification, and that the Zionist movement is declining.

Suggestions made by Father Rob- inson as to the final settlements of religious interests in Palestine are kept reserved as on them are founded the object of diplomatic negotiations between the Holy See and the inter- ested powers.

RAILWAY CUT WAGES

Chicago, March 11.—Virtually all of the larger western railroads of the United States today had swung into line in the policy of cutting wages before I had used several hundred of taking steps to bring about reductions in the war time wage scale of un- skilled employees.

The reductions will be used, rail- road officials said, to keep the roads out of bankruptcy and enable them eventually to reduce traffic rates, which now are "higher than the public can bear."

STOP THAT TICKLING IN THE THROAT

by Using
Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

That tickling in the throat sensation is most distressing and causes a nasty, irritating, dry cough that not only keeps you in misery all day long, but also prevents you enjoying a good night's rest.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 35c. and 60c. a bottle at all dealers; manufac- tured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

How to Make Pine
Cough Syrup at Home

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remark- able effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

Pine cough syrup are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pine in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is a new, good, very pleasant— children take it eagerly.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a day, or even in a few hours. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same— inflamed membranes and this Pine and Syrup combination will stop it— usually in 24 hours or less. Sufferers from bronchial asthma, hayfever, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pine is a holy cure for all pur- poses of genuine Norway pine extract, and is money saving over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for 2 1/2 ounces of Pine, with directions, and don't accept anything less. Guaranteed to give absolute satis- faction. Money refunded if not.

Y. M. C. A. Taking Interest in Provincial Bouts to be Held Next Wednesday.

The Provincial Boxing Championships which are being held next Wednesday night in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and under the auspices of that Association, mark a new departure in the programme of that institution. Elbert the mauler art has not been given the attention and promotion it should, and the Y. M. C. A. intend to see that it does get it in the future. Believing as they do that boxing is truly the manly art, and feeling that they are under a moral obligation to promote this branch of physical activity which has been maligned in the past because of the fact that it was being promoted and handled by those who had other objects in view than sport, and clean sport alone, the Y. M. C. A. intend to do all they can to establish the boxing on the high and clean standard to which it rightly belongs.

It is with this object in view that the Provincial Championships will be held under their auspices this year.

Y. M. C. A. Trimmed
University Team

Score of 31 to 19 Was Result of Basketball Game at Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

The Y. M. C. A. Seniors worthily maintained their title as "The Old Invincibles," when they defeated the U. N. B. basketball team by a score of 31 to 19 in a hard fought game in the Y. M. C. A. gym last evening.

In a preliminary game the High School defeated the Orioles by a score of 24 to 11. The nature of the game is illustrated by the score. Both games were viewed by a large crowd.

Hard Checking.
Close and hard checking marked the Senior game from the very outset of play, and although game was fast, very little finished basketball was at evidence at any time. All combination was broken up, and tactics that closely bordered on football were adopted by both teams.

Evans scored the first goal of the evening one minute after the opening of the game. His score was almost instantly duplicated by Willet, who found the net for U. N. B.'s initial tally.

U. N. B. scored again within the minute. Play waged up and down the floor for some time when Smith converted and then scored again shortly afterwards for the Seniors. His play was duplicated by Willet for the Red and Black. Nixon then scored for the Seniors. After a pretty rush, one of the few exhibitions of combination seen during the game, Drummer scored for U. N. B. The Seniors came back strong. Evans scored, and Smith and Willet following up almost instantly with two more baskets for the Seniors. Drummer was the next man to score. Willet converted on a foul, and Nixon added the last tally of the period. Half ending 16 to 11 in favor of the local team.

Second Period.
The second period opened with considerable aggressive checking, but no scores resulted until five minutes had gone, when Evans took the ball through for the first basket. MacKenzie was the first man to score for U. N. B. in this period.

While play was close the Seniors had more of an edge on their opponents in this half. Willet scored two baskets, Smith three, Evans converted and once and scored twice, and Nixon scored twice.

For the visitors Willet scored two baskets, Drummer one, and Cairns one.

The Line-ups.

Informal Talk On
Art In General

Lewis Smith Gave Students of Art Club Delightful Address Last Evening.

Lewis Smith, artist etcher, gave the students at the St. John Art Club and others who attended a very informal talk last evening in Art in general, speaking of the changes in painting from the old classic days to the modern days. Impressionism, Cubism and other fads are, he said, only symptoms of a breaking away of the younger students. The outlook today is better for a development of sane natural lines of painting.

Mr. Smith gave an even fuller description of the different processes of etching than on Thursday evening, explaining Aquatint, Mezzotint, in a very simple way, and showing examples of the different points.

Thrown on the screen was a series of views of the mural paintings of Paul de Chomvans with their relative beauties pointed out.

STANDARD CONTEST NOTES

Tonight at 8 p.m. two important Contest vote offers end. One of them is an EXTRA vote offer; the other a decline of almost 10 per cent. in the regular vote schedule.

It will take votes to win the big Seven-passenger Studebaker, the Gray-Dort Touring Car, the regular prize Ford, the Movie Star prize and the other regular prizes.

The York Co. Grocery Store in Woodstock, N. B. has stocked up a big supply of Canada's peanut butter. Standard subscribers in the vicinity of Woodstock who are participating in the Big Seven-passenger Studebaker Contest, can obtain a jar similar to the Official Bait jar by calling on the York Co. Grocery Store.

An EXTRA vote ballot is being given for each and every $33 worth of subscriptions secured by 8 p.m. tonight.

There is no limit to the number of extra votes, but lots that a contestant can secure this week, one of them will be given for each $33 worth of subscriptions on the vote offer.

Out of town contestants can work up to the last minute of the extra vote offer ending tonight, and then mail their returns to the contest department.

Always tell new subscribers that it will be a week or ten days before their papers will start after their subscriptions are received by the Automobile and Movie Star Department.

When sending in complaints about non-delivery always give as the receipt numbers held by the subscribers as well as their names and addresses.

The regular vote schedule declines almost 10 per cent. after tonight. There will be another decline of almost 10 per cent. at the end of next week. Those who obtain their promised subscriptions this week will therefore be nearly 50 per cent. "in the good" in their vote scores. And REMEMBER: It will take VOTES to win the big free prizes in the regular prize list.

One prize that will not be won by votes will be the special prize Ford. Votes will have nothing to do with the winning of this special prize. It will be given to the contestant who turns in the greatest amount of subscription money during a three week period which terminates Saturday night of next week.

It will pay every contestant to work his or her hardest for the Ford. If you win the special Ford you will find when the Final Count of votes comes that your name will be considerably higher in the prize-winners list because of the effort you made for the special auto.

You have everything to gain and nothing to lose by competing in the Standard's big Automobile and Movie Star Contest.

hile a Movie Star Contest. Even those who do not win one of the regularly advertised prizes will get something for their efforts. Cash commission prizes of 10 per cent. are in store for those who work actively up to the end of the contest, personally turn in at least $25 worth of subscriptions and do not win one of the prizes.

New contesters have been making some splendid records lately. Mr. B. M. MacLachlan of Juniper is the latest one to create a record. His entry blank and subscriptions arrived too late for publication in the last list, but will appear in the next list.

There is plenty of room for more active workers. The special Ford is not won yet. All contestants started out with a "clean slate" for the special Ford therefore new contestants or those low in the list have an equal chance with those topping the list to win this desirable special.

Deals In Junk Not In Liquor

Hyman Tazur Defendant in Liquor Charge—Crucial to Horse Case Also Heard.

"Your Honor, I bought the liquor for my own use. I'm not in the liquor business. I'm not in the liquor business. I make lots of money at that, not at the liquor business. I never sold a man a drink in my life," stated Hyman Tazur of 50 Bond street when a case against him was resumed in the police court yesterday.

Purchased in Montreal.

Tazur stated that he was in Montreal on the 16th of February in connection with his business and that while there he bought ten cases of gin which cost him $170. His brother-in-law told him he should buy more as it would cost twice as much after the first of May. As he only had $30 left, his brother-in-law loaned him some more money and he purchased five cases of brandy and one of Scotch.

On his return to St. John he received a bill of lading from the railway and went to the station to get his goods. The bill called for the 16 cases he had ordered, but there were only 14 cases in the shipment, two had disappeared enroute. He had notice taken of this by the railway before accepting delivery.

Inspectors Take Charge. The defendant stated he transported the liquor to his own residence and had unloaded 10 of the cases and left them in the hallway of his home when Officer McNamee came along and told him to leave the rest in the care of him until he communicated with the liquor inspectors, witness did so.

When the inspectors arrived they saw the cases in the car and asked witness if there were any more and he told them there were 10 more upstairs in the hall. They took them all from him.

Considerable argument took place between W. M. Ryan for the prosecution and J. A. Barry for the defense.

Door Nailed Up.

Tazur stated that there was a door in the hallway leading into the junk shop but that it had never been used since he occupied the house. It was strongly nailed up when he took possession, and he had placed some more nails in it.

C. Fennell was called to the stand and stated that he had lived in the house 12 years ago. The door was nailed then and was still, as far as he knew.

The case was postponed to Tuesday afternoon for judgment.

S. P. C. Case.

The S. P. C. case against L. O'Brien, charged with using a horse unfit for work, was resumed. The defendant stated he had bought the horse at a sale advertising the sale of five city horses and conducted by Auctioneer Potts. Five horses were sold, and defendant bought the one in question, believing it to be as advertised, a city horse.

Commissioner Thornton stated that five horses belonging to the city had been sold, but only three of them at the sale attended by the defendant. The horse bought by the defendant was one of them.

Dr. A. L. Donovan, veterinary surgeon, stated that he had examined the horse involved in the case. It was suffering from heaves and not fit for work.

Auctioneer F. L. Potts was called by the court order, but did not appear. A subpoena will be issued to ensure his presence when the case is resumed on Tuesday afternoon. J. King Kelly represented the S. P. C. and J. A. Barry the defendant.

George M. McDade of Chatham, is in the city visiting relatives.

Mrs. Slater was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rigby, of Bayville, by whom she is survived, also two brothers, Foster of Bayville and Roy of Hardland. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Get rid of Indigestion and Stomach Worries with "Pape's Diapiesin"

"Really does" put weak, disordered stomachs in order. "Really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness due to acid fermentation—that just makes Pape's Diapiesin the largest selling stomach antacid and regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments and turns sour, you belch gas and eructate undigested food or water; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated, remember the moment "Pape's Diapiesin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness. A box of Pape's Diapiesin tablets costs so little at drug stores too.

REPEAL'S DAYLIGHT SAVING. Albany, N. Y., March 11.—Governor Miller today signed the bill repealing the state daylight saving law. Municipalities will be allowed to operate under daylight saving by local ordinance under the new law, if they so desire.

COLLISION BEFORE COURT

An echo of the collision between the steamers D. J. Purdy and Premier, which occurred some two years and a half ago, was heard this morning before Chief Justice Hazen in the matter of R. C. Ritchie of Chipman against the steamer D. J. Purdy. It will be remembered that the Supreme Court at Ottawa decided that the Purdy was responsible for the collision. Today's action was to settle the point as to whether certain goods for whose payment the plaintiff was claiming was lost as a result of the collision or not. It was the contention that they were lost on this account.

The amount of the goods claimed was $333.47. His Honor the Chief Justice found that the goods were lost as a result of the collision and ruled against the defendant steamer. Dr. F. R. Taylor, K. C., appeared for the plaintiff, and Dr. J. B. M. Baxter, K. C. for the defendant.

What To Do For Stomach Trouble

Good Advice from One Who Had Suffered Much.

Nine-tenths of all forms of indigestion or so-called stomach troubles are due to the condition of the stomach at all, but are caused by other influences. The great contributing cause of indigestion is thin blood. Good blood and plenty of it is required by the stomach to take care of the food. If the blood is thin the stomach functions sluggish, food lies undigested, gas forms and causes pain in various parts of the body. Instead of getting nourishment from the blood the system gets poison.

Relief from the condition can be obtained by the tonic treatment which Mr. D. Shaw, Mr. Stewart, P. E. L., tried and now warmly recommends to others. Mr. Shaw says: "I suffered from indigestion for over four years, and have tried many of the well-known remedies for such troubles, but never obtained more than temporary relief. The trouble was aggravated by cold exposure setting in owing to the stomach failing to do its work, and laxatives only gave relief to the bowels and left the stomach in worse condition. The result was my blood was growing more and more anemic, I did not sleep well at night and was growing despondent. I was in this wretched condition when a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got three boxes and by the time they were finished there was some change for the better. This greatly encouraged me and I continued taking the pills for some three months, by which time my stomach was all right again, my blood good, nerves strong and life was again worth living. My advice to all who suffer from stomach trouble is to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial!"

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Doing Good Work

Important Matters at Provincial Red Cross Meeting Yesterday.

Hon. Dr. Roberts was a speaker at the regular meeting of the Provincial Red Cross held yesterday afternoon at the Depot, Prince William street.

Wants Co-operation.
The Minister of Health asked for the co-operation of the Red Cross in a health week to be held in April, and pointed out how Health Department would co-operate with the Red Cross in their membership campaign by spreading publicity regarding the fight against disease being waged by both organizations.

Dr. Roberts said he had been successful in having "Placement of the Rockefeller Foundation," Dr. Charles J. Hastings, of Toronto, promise to speak on Sunday, April 24th.

On motion co-operation with the Health department was promised, the matter being left to the progress and activities committee.

Secretary's Report

Miss Ethel Hazen Jarvis, the secretary, reported as follows:—All through the province signs of renewed activity are seen. The Bulletin is a message that penetrates to all parts of the province; the work of the post discharge committee which are sending letters to the various centres asking for interest in the men recently discharged from the hospitals. Our new sewing committee is busily engaged in sending out work to the branches. Letters from Middle Sackville, Fredericton, St. George, Riverdale, Albert, Newcast, Chatham and St. Stephen show all to be busily engaged in the good work.

We have received two splendid parcels of work from Middle Sackville, one from Milltown, from Chipman, and a generous donation of money from Mr. Barnham.

A letter of thanks was received by the convener of our packing committee from a family who had lost all through a conflagration, and to whom we sent relief.

The St. John Ambulance Association now hold its classes for First Aid and Home Nursing in the depot.

The post committee have had a most busy month. We have received a letter from Alberta with many thanks conveyed for the care received at the port for the relatives of the men stranded at the port, your secretary has rendered what assistance was in her power in the way of sending telegrams, etc., to the families who might relieve their distress. Matters have been now adjusted that the men may receive their transportation. We were pleased to have the visit from Dr. Abbott.

Correspondence has been carried on in connection with the promised visit of Dr. McCreedy to our province in the interest of Junior Red Cross work.

The present arrangement now is that he will be able to visit with us the first week in April, when he will address the Board of Education at Fredericton, he is to be followed by Mr. Will also be able to visit St. John.

From head office we have received pamphlets on Child Hygiene. At Dr. Abbott's request, your secretary will send an account of the activities of our division for the Campaign Bulletin. This was taken to Toronto by C. B. Allan.

We regret very much that we had no report of the splendid work done by the Fredericton Juniors for our last copy of the Bulletin.

Miss Rudick has been giving most successful lectures in connection with the Soldiers' Settlement work in the various selected places.

Letters Received.

A letter was read from Miss Mayven, of the Soldiers' Settlement Board, thanking the society for the services of Miss Rudick as lecturer, and for socks provided to returned soldiers. A letter was read from Hon. Mr. Calder, minister of immigration and colonization, explaining gratification at the splendid work done by the Red Cross at the port. He praised especially the card of advice given to mothers arriving at St. John. From headquarters, word was received that S. B. McCredy, Junior Red Cross Superintendent will be in Fredericton in April to appear before the Board of Education, and will be in St. John also.

Hospital Committee.

Mrs. J. V. Anglin, for the hospital committee, stated that soldiers are cared for as follows:—42 at River Glade; 76 at Lancaster; 40 at East St. John. Follow up cases to the number of 27 have been looked after in Northumberland, Westmorland, Kings and York.

Port Committee.

For the port committee Mrs. Lawrence stated that the arrangement made to provide transportation for deported men was solving a problem. Red Cross has cared for a number of these men and still provide meals for them.

Sewing Committee.

Miss Frances Allison gave an excellent report of the sewing committee, telling of work sent to Chipman, Chatham, Milltown, Newcastle, Rexton St. Stephen, St. George.

Activities.

For the progress and activities committee Mrs. Kuhring suggested co-operation with a provision of letters and pamphlets and that representatives of the Women's Institute, I. O. O. F., and the Local Council of Women should be appointed on the provincial executive. On motion this will be carried out.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS:

By HELEN ROWLAND

(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Being the Confessions of the Seventh-Hundredth Wife.

My daughter, consider the self-complacency of Man. For it is more importunate than a malinee idol's vanity and harder to rattle than a good lawyer's temper.

Lo, he saith in his heart:
"How the women of the world HAVE over me!"

"For behold, half of them are afflicted with MAN-OMANIA, and are mad about me."

"And the other half are afflicted with MAN-PHOBIA, and are mad AT ME!"

"Half of them torture their hair with dyes and stains and hot cutting-tongs—for my delocation and approval—and the other half cut off their locks in imitation of me."

"Lo, the Man-omanics stain their lips with pomegranates and with camellias, and disguise their faces with rice-powder and Chinese white, that they may be beautiful in my sight."

"Yes, they shorten their skirts and their sleeves and endure torments of exposure that I may behold the dimples and their knees and their elbows, to find them pleasing. They uncover their backs to the icy night wind for my admiration. They dance upon three-inch heels, that they may seem limber in mine eyes."

"At my approach, they flutter and bite their lips and are covered with smiles of welcome; and at my departure their lives are filled with emptiness. For, unless there be a MAN present, life hath no charm for a Man-omanic. And all their days they battle, one with another, for my favor and my smiles."

"But the Man-phobics are more flatterers, still."

"For, although they pretend to hold me in scorn, and call me 'Tyrant!' and 'Oppressor!' and 'Woman's enemy!' yet do they imitate me in all things! Yes, in the bobbing of their hair and the smoking of their cigarettes, they flatter me, and follow after me."

"And, when they search out my follies and weaknesses and hold me up to ridicule in their clubs, I greet their contumacy with ha-ha. For it is all free ADVERTISING for me!"

"They have stolen my privileges, and filched my jobs, and broken into my professions; yet in their secret meetings, all their talk is of ME, and how to encompass me, and what to feed me for breakfast."

"Lo, when a Man-phobic weddeth, she apologizeth to her friends, and seemeth to take her husband's name; and her spouse is known in the temple as a new member of the 'Only Their Husbands' Club.'"

"Yet, in his own house, his taste and his moods are consulted, and his slippers are laid out; and when he returneth from his labors, he findeth his wife proffering her nose!"

"Verily, verily, WE are the irresistible sex!"

"For to be worshipped is popularity, and to be denounced is notoriety."

"And, until the women cease to love us or to hate us; until wives cease to cater to us, and widows to flirt with us, and damsels to pursue us, and rampers to vamp us; yea until ALL women become INDIFFERENT to all men, we shall continue to shine and rejoice in the spotlight!"

"Yes, until they find something better to THINK about, we shall continue to be 'IT'!"

"Verily, until they cease to take us seriously, and begin to take us for granted—we shall worry!"

Some goods pay more profit than others. Usually, the poorer the quality the greater the profit.

The grocer pays more for Red Rose than for other teas—and he sells it at a less profit.

When you buy Red Rose you buy the best.

Splendid report of a Junior Red Cross established at Fredericton with forty members who have already provided for the new Maternity Hospital and contributed $15 to River Glade, $10 to the Victorian Order of Nurses, and $5 to a needy soldier's family.

Mrs. Ferguson stated that Moncton hopes to support a Public Health Nurse and are co-operating with the Victorian Order.

C. B. Allan read a detailed report of the Central Council meeting held recently at Toronto. New Brunswick will get a grant of $50,000. Dr. Craig, Red Cross Commissioner for Nova Scotia, has promised to speak in this province.

The next session may be held in the Maritime Provinces. Lady Tilley, R. T. Hayes and C. B. Allan were appointed on the executive.

Lady Tilley sent greetings and assurance of continued interest in Red Cross matters. Congratulations on her appointment will be sent Lady Tilley.

No Trade Commissioner Has Been Sent Into the United States Yet.

New York, March 11.—The proposal to establish a Canadian Minister at Washington, which has been approved but not yet acted upon, has been a subject of much discussion in the United States and Canada. The Canadian Government has been reluctant to send a Minister to the United States, but the Canadian business community in New York is anxious to see a Canadian Minister sent to the United States to look after Canadian business interests.

Watch Canada's Interests. Trade between Canada and the United States has flourished without very much governmental assistance at the Canadian end, it is pointed out, while the interests in Canada of business men of the United States have been carefully fostered by a numerous and efficient consular staff.

The principle of sending trade commissioners abroad has been recognized by Canada, there being at present twenty such commissioners, ten in various countries within the British Empire, and ten in foreign countries. Up to the present time, however, no trade commissioner has been sent from Canada to the United States, the Dominion depending upon the British consular service to safeguard her interests there, as elsewhere.

Home Needs Help Wheeling Plants

Those Making Tubs, Pails, Pans, Glassware, Clay Products and Pottery Active.

(Copyright 1921, By Public Ledger.) Wheeling, March 11.—Those factories here which are able to maintain production in a fairly satisfactory manner are the ones which contribute to the home life of the people, namely, in the steel, glass, clay products, pottery industries and the meat-packing plants.

The one independent steel fabricating concern which is operating to any extent is the Wheeling Steel Corporation. Other subsidiaries of the new combination are either shut down or nearly so. The outstanding works is enabled to keep running because it makes pans, tubs, pails, coal hods, oilcans and similar stamped ware which are in daily use everywhere.

The Wheeling Steel Corporation last week started the Wheeling Steel Products Co., which acts as the sales organization of the Wheeling-Gleason Co., the Laclede Iron Works and the Wheeling Steel and Iron Co.

Auto Concern Place Orders. The Portsmouth plant of the Wheeling-Gleason will be operated to a greater extent next week. Some tonnage is understood to have been released by important Detroit automobile interests.

The United States Steel Corporation mills are operating full or virtually so. The big Mingo plant has all four blast furnaces, the Bessemer and the bar mills operating. Two furnaces and the mill of the Carnegie of Baltimore are running. So are the furnaces of the National Tube Co. at Wheeling. American Steel and Wire mills at Marlin's Ferry and American Sheet and Tinplate mills at Wellsville are also running full.

The meat packing plants of Paul O. Reymann Co., subsidiary of Wilson & Co., and F. Schenk & Sons Co., in Wheeling are operating to capacity. Sales forces are working hard, and are getting the business in better shape than had been expected, officials of the Reymann Co. say.

Fruit Jar Orders Increase. The largest glassware plants have noted within the last ten days a slight improvement in orders for household glassware, especially for fruit jars. Nearly all glass factories are running, with some of them cutting into back orders.

Officials of the Central Glass Works report amount of new business coming in will keep them going indefinitely on present scale. One of the largest general glassware concerns in this district, the Hazel-Atlas Glass Co., has experienced like the others a seasonal slump worse this winter than for several years, but is finding the business gradually improving, and according to A. B. Paxton, president, operations are on a scale of about 50 per cent.

SOME MOVIE NEWS.

Catherine Calvert of "Dead Men Tell No Tales," is breaking into the limelight in New York City as the lightest of what newspaper special writers have styled "the luxury cult." Miss Calvert, who is interested in motion pictures from an artistic and not a financial viewpoint, owns a fleet of limousines of a make which is said to be the favorite of British nobility; she travels thousands of miles between pictures, and enjoys winter sports in Quebec and in Alaska; she is one of the best known women on stage or screen. She is interested in the drama, and devotes this interest with her charity work. Many New York kiddies have seen the proper kind of stage plays in New York this season, as a result of her interest in children and the stage. Miss Calvert's next special production will be "The Heart of Maryland," from David Belasco's stage success.

A feature of visiting invoices, such a vice not being required by the British customs authorities.

A Trade Handicap.

Those who favor an extension of Canada's consular activities here claim that Canadian business men are carrying on trade relations with the United States under a distinct handicap, in view of the elaborate machinery maintained in Canada by the United States government, which has no Canadian counterpart here. The United States has a consular service throughout the world, including Canada, maintained at a total salary cost of $2,000,000 a year. The fee for passport and visas is fixed at $10, while the usual fee for visiting invoices is $2.50. In Canada there are 93 U. S. consular offices, five of which—Montreal, Halifax, Ottawa, Winnipeg and Vancouver—are Consulate-Generals. It is understood that the expenses of all these offices are met by the fees collected, and that in some cases a credit is shown at the end of the year.

COOLIDGE THE SUNNY JIM OF HARDING HOUSE

At First Meeting President Outlines Necessity of Firm Co-operation.

"GET-TOGETHER" MEETING ENTIRELY

Every Cabinet Minister Required to Give All Suggestions for Good Rule.

(Copyright 1921, By Public Ledger.) Washington, March 11.—A government of decision and firmness, one which will stand up straight for the next four years under the weight of many vexing problems was forecast by President Harding and the members of his cabinet when the official family of the new administration met for the first time.

A determination to do things in a decisive way was the keynote of the two-hour general discussion between the President and the Cabinet members, their number augmented by Vice-President Coolidge, called in in accordance with the President's plan to give the Vice-President a real part in the work of the administration.

Recalls "Sunny Jim." The advent of Mr. Coolidge in the cabinet room recalled former President days when "Sunny Jim" Sherman sat in with the Cabinet and advised with the President and his immediate advisers on the best method of obtaining co-operation among the various branches of the government.

Mr. Coolidge sat at the end of the big cabinet table opposite President Harding and took an active part in the discussion which ranged from consideration of changes in the administration of the executive departments of the government to America's foreign relations. The Vice President spoke at the request of the President and Mr. Coolidge's views were received by the members of the cabinet as if he were one of them.

Get-together Affair. The first cabinet meeting of the Harding administration, therefore was more or less of an innovation and before it ended, became a get-together meeting in the real sense of the term. President Harding opened the meeting with a long talk, in which he re-stated his familiar position regarding the importance of the executive departments co-operating with the legislative branch of the government and he also outlined his views on changes which might be effective in the make-up and methods of the departments. When he finished he called upon the cabinet members to air their views. Beginning with Secretary Hughes, all the members talked at length, the Vice-President finishing the discussion. Altogether the discussion of departmental changes, it is understood, occupied more than an hour.

Mme. Jenny Says Taffeta For Suits

Always Wears Brown Cost—Green and Henna Featured—Straight Lines.

Nice, Mar. 11.—Mme. Jenny foretells a season of straight lines and simplicity of effect. "Certainly we must prepare models for all figures," was the way she expressed herself, "and all types, yet the general effect to work for is one of simplicity, and while suits will be short of coat as well as skirts, we must have models in our collection which will be suitable and graceful for the more mature figure. The woman who is inclined to be heavy, especially of hip, cannot wear the youthful short coats which will be the fashion we expect to bring out strongly in our suits, therefore there will be others which will meet their requirements, just as graceful and just as elegant as the more youthful models.

"It requires a great deal more attention as to line and material in dressing a woman of this age becomingly, and knowing this we do our utmost to produce models which will fit their requirements.

"Taffeta," she contends "will be very smart and very good with us as it is always youthful and fresh. Suits of taffeta will be a good feature with us, and also three-piece suits of crepe-de-chine in the heavy crepes which are to be a good feature of our collection.

Evening Wear. "For evening wear we expect to do a great deal with lace and tulle. The crepe de chine frocks will also be good, and crepe de chine for simple dancing frocks will hold its popularity of the past season. There have been some beautiful broadened tulle frocks brought out within the past month, and of these there may be some successful picture dresses, but while

Suffered For Ten Years of Backache

NOW SINGS THE PRAISES OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

S. Pawlitzak One More Added to the Great Chorus Who Shout "Dodd's Kidney Pills Are Good."

St. Paul, Minn., March 11.—(Special.) "I have found that Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me a lot of good," says S. Pawlitzak, a well-known resident here. "I suffered from backache for ten years. Now I am well, but I always keep Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house."

It is from statements such as the above that Canadians have learned to know Dodd's Kidney Pills. For the last thirty-three years they have been used for kidney troubles in all parts of Canada. Now from all parts of Canada comes the testimony of people who have found them good.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have been used for all sorts of kidney ills, from backache and urinary troubles to rheumatism and heart disease. The chorus, Dodd's Kidney Pills are good," comes from those who have used them. If you haven't tried them yourself, ask your neighbors about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Recalls "Sunny Jim." The advent of Mr. Coolidge in the cabinet room recalled former President days when "Sunny Jim" Sherman sat in with the Cabinet and advised with the President and his immediate advisers on the best method of obtaining co-operation among the various branches of the government.

Mr. Coolidge sat at the end of the big cabinet table opposite President Harding and took an active part in the discussion which ranged from consideration of changes in the administration of the executive departments of the government to America's foreign relations. The Vice President spoke at the request of the President and Mr. Coolidge's views were received by the members of the cabinet as if he were one of them.

Get-together Affair. The first cabinet meeting of the Harding administration, therefore was more or less of an innovation and before it ended, became a get-together meeting in the real sense of the term. President Harding opened the meeting with a long talk, in which he re-stated his familiar position regarding the importance of the executive departments co-operating with the legislative branch of the government and he also outlined his views on changes which might be effective in the make-up and methods of the departments. When he finished he called upon the cabinet members to air their views. Beginning with Secretary Hughes, all the members talked at length, the Vice-President finishing the discussion. Altogether the discussion of departmental changes, it is understood, occupied more than an hour.

AN INTERVAL.

I see them from my window—Three trees against the sky: Their trunks stand all unshaded, Their branches bare and high; Deep blue sets forth their tracery, And snow-white clouds float by.

Aglow with life and beauty Through every Summer day, Gay in their green-leaved grandeur They held the sunbeam's ray; Still shading off the grasses That grew along the way.

They fed the winds with music—A thousand rustling leaves; They made a mottled flooring—The mosaic Nature weaves; From every shifting pattern She eagerly receives.

But now they stand all silent And idle. Do they deem Their labors all are ended? Activity a dream? So cold they look, and lifeless, Is all the Wintry gleam.

Ah, no! They rest, believing That once again, in Spring, Each task laid by in Autumn Will greet them. Birds will sing And nest amongst their branches, 'Neath green leaves fluttering.

I watch them from my window—Three trees against the blue; So brave they seem, and tranquil, Cannot we live as true, If there shall come a rest-time Before our task is through?

these, like many other fantasies, are beautiful to look at, they are very difficult to handle artistically and make wearables. Serges for suits and dresses will continue good with us and the popularity of poplin will also hold its place for spring dresses for the street and light suits. Green and henna shades will be good, but first of all the straight lines are to be worked upon, after which we work out our ideas as they grow."

For the morning and afternoon she wears a closely fitting plain tailored suit of brown cloth with fox fur, and a close fitting turban of henna hackle. For the gala dinner held in the hall of the Negresco she wore a brown chiffon, simple chemise with a touch of embroidery in brown to finish the neck and sleeve, and a girle of cords twisted and tied at the side.

NAVAL HEAD TO TAKE CRUISE ON U. S. BATTLESHIP

Not Anxious to Enter Arms—Race But Desires a Fighting Fleet.

(Copyright 1921, By Public Ledger.) Washington, March 11.—Naval men affect no less than the officers on duty in Washington are to become acquainted with Edwin Denby, Secretary of the Navy. The Secretary announced today that he anticipated with great pleasure a trip to sea as soon as he could get the swing of his job as executive head of Uncle Sam's sea fighters.

When he will be able to carry out the idea remains to be seen. Mr. Denby has some very definite ideas of getting down to work and he will not sail away until he has the department in good shape.

In addition to the routine of the department which Mr. Denby intends to master he will begin very shortly to hold a series of conferences with members of the House and Senate Naval Affairs Committee to see what can be done in the way of naval appropriation legislation at the extraordinary session of Congress.

Until he has had these conferences Mr. Denby has only one fixed idea about the naval matters and that is that the United States should have a fighting navy. He amplified his recent statements today, however, by explaining that he did not wish to set the pace in a race for sea armament but merely to have a navy of the "minimum strength" sufficient for the defense of our coastline.

FOR THE FARMER IN THE COUNTRY

COSTS MONEY TO NEGLECT PRUNING THE FRUIT TREE

With Approach of Spring Work Should be Begun in Slack Period.

CUT OLD CANES FROM BERRY PATCH

Currants and Gooseberries Should be Left Clean in the Centre

If there are any trees on the place that need to be pruned, the work should be attended to now, not because it would be unsafe in all cases to do the cutting later, but because if left until later the chances are that it will not be done at all. Where there are many trees, shrubs, etc., to be attended to, an expert should be employed, but if there are only a few then the householder may try his hand at it. There is little danger of the amateur doing too much cutting; as a matter of fact, the trouble usually is that they will do too little, because of natural timidity. However, if dead or injured wood, limbs that cross or interfere with one another or tend to clog the centre of the tree are properly taken out, together with any growth that tends to unbalance the tree by stretching too far in any direction, good will be done and no injury can possibly happen. Some fruit trees—pear trees, for example—have a tendency to shoot so high into the air that they carry much of their fruit entirely out of reach. When this happens, it is likely to happen, they should be shortened, or, in other words, the tops should be cut back sufficiently to bring the fruit within reach.

Keep Within Reach.
So far as shrub trees are concerned, pruning is done chiefly for the purpose of preserving the shape of the tree and to prevent the centre from becoming too dense at any place, and thus useless growth. In the case of fruit trees, pruning must be done so that the main object should be to keep the fruit as near the ground as possible in order to facilitate spraying and picking. It is also to be remembered that the growth should be prevented from becoming too dense at any place, and that the centre of the tree should be kept clear of cross limbs, sap suckers and the like. Nips, clean limbs, leaving from the centre with a reasonable amount of healthy growth towards the outside of the tree, where the fruit borne will get plenty of sun and air, is the ideal condition.

Tools You Need.
A pruning knife and a sharp axe are the tools you need. A good strong sharp knife will be handy. All limbs cut from the parent stock must be cut off as close as possible to the trunk. If limbs are left, the new growth will follow and continue right into the heart of the tree. Where any limbs, small branches or even twigs are to be taken off, cut close, and leave no stub. Where any cuts of considerable size have been made, it has been the practice to paint over the raw wood with some quick-drying paint. In recent years, however, it has been found that this practice is declared to be all wrong. However, it has been the practice, and the results have been good.

Grape Vines Now.
Pruning grape vines must be done before the sap is up; otherwise injury is likely to result. If the sap is running when cuts are made they will bleed profusely, and all larger limbs will need to be caulked with grafting wax. To get the best results grape vines should be cut back severely. The fruit comes on new wood grown from buds on the main branches. Only a few buds are necessary to produce a considerable vine. The few limbs that are left the healthier the vines will be, and the quality of the fruit will be much better. Cut away all of last year's growth down to the original branches, leaving only a few limbs on each of the main branches that spread out like a fan from the trunk, and do it now.

Leave Until Later On.
Let the rose and azalea until it can be seen to what extent the frost has done the pruning for you. Pruning of these bushes will be dealt with later in the season. Lilacs, spiraea and other flowering shrubs that produce their bloom from buds that were formed last fall should not be pruned until after they have bloomed. To do so now might destroy their main buds for the season. Hydrangeas should be cut back severely. A few limbs on the main branches only should be left.

Cane and Such.
Cane fruit, such as raspberries and blackberries, should be severely thinned. The canes that bore fruit last year should be all removed. This year's fruit will be borne on canes produced last year. Where necessary, the new canes should be shortened back slightly. Select the choicest canes of last year's growth and see that they are given plenty of room in the bush. Cut off the weak ones and canes that are heavily laden. Currants and gooseberry bushes need to be thinned out, especially in the old bushes. These bear their fruit on old canes, and will continue to do so for years. Do not cut them out until they are old and unproductive.

Will Return To Their Old Love

Coming Season Likely to See Old Hands Back on the Farm.

It seems probable that the term "savage hired help" will mean just what it says, instead of what it is now generally taken to mean. For a good many years past, much effort has been devoted by farmers in an endeavor to solve the help problem, and the partial solution arrived at by many has taken the form of dispensing with hired manual labor as largely as possible. Every merchant of losing farm help lay in the way of wages, there is every likelihood that many workers who left the farm within the past seven years will begin to show up again. The weather begins to be permanently pleasant, and they will, in many cases, be accompanied by one or more green hands who will be willing to tackle a farm job, for once anyway.

BEST BAITS TO USE IN KILLING OFF FARM RATS

Experts Recommend Variety of Meats, Vegetables and Cereals.

POISONING AGENT IS A SUCCESS

Barium Carbonate is Tasteless, Odorless and Very Deadly.

So great has been the increase in amount of damage done by rats in the United States in recent years that the specialists of the Biological Service of the Department of Agriculture are urging a rat-control campaign for the entire country. It is more than probable that damage by rats in Canada is as extensive as in the United States, and doubtless farmers are the greatest sufferers from the depredations of the rodents.

It is pointed out that attempts to poison rats in a wholesale way often fail, because no enough attention is given to providing a variety of baits. Usually one of the three baits appeals to him, and the rat population is reduced by one. Poisoned rats, and unclean baits replaced by others of the same class on the following evening. In this way a wide selection of foods may be used without departing from the basic combination. All baits must be kept fresh and tempting if they are to be successful. Very old and decayed baits should be removed entirely; so should any weak new growth. The centre of the bushes must be cleaned out in order that there will be a free circulation of air right through. Only sufficient of the new growth to replace any old branches that are removed should be allowed to remain, and these should be well selected as to their sturdiness and their natural direction of growth.

New bushes may be started by inserting green cuttings in the soil in a suitable place. While going over the trees and bushes keep a sharp lookout for any mice and cats and cats of cats or insect pests. Destroy any found by burning.

POULTRY OWNERS' PROBLEMS OF THE FARM

LOOKS FORWARD TO LAMB CROP FOR HIS PROFIT

Special Care of the Ewe is Important at This Time of Year.

TOO HEAVY FEEDING FATAL

Little Trouble Experienced Where Lambing Pens Are Used.

In some of our pure-bred flocks, and especially where the breeder makes a specialty of supplying ram lambs, the flock-heads in the fall, the lambing season is close at hand or has already commenced; also, where the production of early lambs for the open market is given special consideration, flock owners are preparing to take care of the new crop. However, in the case of the average commercial flock, lambing time is almost a month away, but it is full time, even in the last mentioned case, that the lamb ewes were receiving special attention.

The ewe should have a quiet, dry, sufficiently warm place in which to bring forth her young, should be insured against molestation by other sheep, and should be guarded against possible mishap. Care should be taken before lambing time, to see that the ewe is not fed too heavily, as heavy feeding is likely to cause other trouble. The wool should be clipped from around the teats to enable the lamb to find them readily.

Just before lambing time, the ewe will become restless and show signs of places in front of the hips. She should be placed in a separate pen, which can be made of two panels of board fencing about four feet high, hinged together at a right angle and hooked or otherwise fastened to the walls of the sheep shed.

The lamb that is born strong and vigorous will need little care. If conditions are not so favorable, first-aid measures will be necessary. In cold weather, lambs become chilled and die, unless prompt remedies are used. Wrapping the lamb in dry straw or cloth, which are renewed as often as necessary, is an excellent method of warming. Another method is to place the lamb for a few minutes in water as hot as the hand will bear; then dry with cloths and wrap for an hour or two in fresh clothes, or a sheepskin. The lamb should be kept dry and the lamb returned to the pen and allowed to suckle as quickly as possible.

Little trouble is experienced with downed lambs when the ewes are used. With a ewe that refuses to own her lamb it is sometimes sufficient to draw some milk and rub it upon her nose, and also upon the rump of the lamb. A heavy milking ewe with only one lamb sometimes can be persuaded to adopt an orphan or a discarded lamb of a lighter milking ewe.

After lambing, the ewes should be watched to see that their udders are in good condition. Ewes should be kept in lambing pens for about three days after lambing and then turned into a pen by themselves, where they can have special feed and care. After lambing they should be fed lightly at first, being put on full feed about the third or fourth day.

KEEPING THE CALF.
Most calf ailments are due to improper feeding or unsanitary conditions. In the winter, as much as possible, and provide a dry, well-bedded stall at night. Provide natural tones—exercise, drowsy, feverish, etc.—or fresh water, and a variety of feeds and there will be little need for medical attention. It is not for the purpose of curing diseases that these suggestions are offered, but to prevent their occurrence. Observe the calf closely at all times. If it should appear droopy, reduce feed, and if it acts quickly. Reduce feed at once and the disorder may be in a large measure prevented. Keep salt before the calf at all times. An abundant supply of fresh water should be available always. In case of serious illness consult a competent veterinarian at once.

SPRING FEEDING OF COWS.

It is always a perplexing problem to get cows to grass without checking their milk yields and at the same time without cutting down the yield of the pastures for the summer. This problem is greatly simplified if we have an abundance of well-prepared silage at hand. This furnishes the succulence that grass does, and makes the change less abrupt. With plenty of silage one can afford to keep the cows in the barn until the grass contains sufficient nutriment to produce a maximum flow of milk. Nor is it much of a problem to the man who has plenty of hay and grain. He can simply refuse to injure his pastures, and he will be wise in so doing.

Many dairymen are not in a position to do what they know is best. If hay is scarce the temptation is great to turn the cows out before the grass is fit. In some cases this must be done. Possibly no roughage can be bought in the neighborhood at any price. The cows are turned out and the grass pasture so close that it can not furnish good grazing during June and July.

However, the latter grow on soil in better fertility than where the pastures were grown, the soil having previously been in clover for several years.

The lamb should be kept dry and the lamb returned to the pen and allowed to suckle as quickly as possible.

Little trouble is experienced with downed lambs when the ewes are used. With a ewe that refuses to own her lamb it is sometimes sufficient to draw some milk and rub it upon her nose, and also upon the rump of the lamb. A heavy milking ewe with only one lamb sometimes can be persuaded to adopt an orphan or a discarded lamb of a lighter milking ewe.

After lambing, the ewes should be watched to see that their udders are in good condition. Ewes should be kept in lambing pens for about three days after lambing and then turned into a pen by themselves, where they can have special feed and care. After lambing they should be fed lightly at first, being put on full feed about the third or fourth day.

KEEPING THE CALF.
Most calf ailments are due to improper feeding or unsanitary conditions. In the winter, as much as possible, and provide a dry, well-bedded stall at night. Provide natural tones—exercise, drowsy, feverish, etc.—or fresh water, and a variety of feeds and there will be little need for medical attention. It is not for the purpose of curing diseases that these suggestions are offered, but to prevent their occurrence. Observe the calf closely at all times. If it should appear droopy, reduce feed, and if it acts quickly. Reduce feed at once and the disorder may be in a large measure prevented. Keep salt before the calf at all times. An abundant supply of fresh water should be available always. In case of serious illness consult a competent veterinarian at once.

SPRING FEEDING OF COWS.

It is always a perplexing problem to get cows to grass without checking their milk yields and at the same time without cutting down the yield of the pastures for the summer. This problem is greatly simplified if we have an abundance of well-prepared silage at hand. This furnishes the succulence that grass does, and makes the change less abrupt. With plenty of silage one can afford to keep the cows in the barn until the grass contains sufficient nutriment to produce a maximum flow of milk. Nor is it much of a problem to the man who has plenty of hay and grain. He can simply refuse to injure his pastures, and he will be wise in so doing.

Many dairymen are not in a position to do what they know is best. If hay is scarce the temptation is great to turn the cows out before the grass is fit. In some cases this must be done. Possibly no roughage can be bought in the neighborhood at any price. The cows are turned out and the grass pasture so close that it can not furnish good grazing during June and July.

However, the latter grow on soil in better fertility than where the pastures were grown, the soil having previously been in clover for several years.

THE TRAITOR AT THE TABLE

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

The International Sunday School Lesson For March 12, 1st. "The Lord's Supper."—Matt. 26:26-30.

Soldier-servant taught chaplains many things; not all of which the stay-at-home Church is heeding. There is a consensus of opinion among religious observers of both the American and the British armies that the men, especially before action, sought the strength of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Most ministers were amazed at the eagerness of the soldiers for the communion. Many chaplains, who had scant opportunity for preaching provided often the sacrament for their flock in khaki—and in France there were no questions asked as to which branch of the Church of Christ a man belonged.

During the war one of the foremost of the Scottish clergy told me that the lessons learned in France would vitally revolutionize the attitude of the churches of Scotland towards the Lord's Supper. Instead of annual or semi-annual communions, they would henceforth provide this "means of grace" more frequently. A fresh understanding had come out of the meaning and value of this sacrament to the average man. The churches which offer frequent opportunity to Christians to partake of the Lord's Supper, said my friend, have better understood the deep need of the human heart.

That Upper Room.

This Lesson, like the last, links up to a home. It was in the upper room of the house of some unnamed friend of Jesus in Jerusalem that the Last Supper was held. The room had been circumcisedly prepared for the Passover, according to the Jewish law. It was the great desire of the soldiers about to go over the top that the Lord desired to keep this feast with His friends.

For centuries great controversy has raged among the theologians over the significance of the sacrament: and views have been championed as different from each other as those of the Quakers, who contend that communion is wholly spiritual, and so disregard the use of bread and wine, to the Catholics, who maintain the doctrine of "transubstantiation," which is that every time the bread and wine is administered by the priest it is actually and literally changed into the physical body and blood of the Saviour.

With these points we are not here concerned. Whatever else it was, we are sure that the Last Supper was a feast of fellowship and memory for a heart-hungry man who craved the sympathy and remembrance of the comrades with whom He had accompanied over the flower-decked fields of Galilee, and on the Lake and amid the cities and towns of Israel. It was in verity a "last supper" together of friends holding a precious, final reunion, beneath the shadow of a great separation.

All the intimacy of friendship was there. Jesus, the leader of the group, was pouring out His heart in self-revelation to those whose understanding and loyalty He coveted. He was reaching forth to that sympathy which even the stoutest soul craves in the darkest hours. Let us not be so overwhelmed by the majesty and mystery of the Eucharist that we shall miss the present truth that the divine Redeemer of the world prized the ties which knit His life to His human comrades. Christ craved closeness with His flesh-and-blood disciples even as He does today. One even dares to wonder what memories the estranged Christ cherishes today of that sacred supper room.

As The Story Stands.

To recall the familiar story, in modern phrase, let us quote the Weymouth translation of the Lesson: "When evening came, He was at table with the twelve disciples, and the meal was proceeding, when Jesus said, 'In solemn truth I tell that one of you will betray me.' 'Instantly grieved, they began one after another to ask Him, 'Can it be I, Master?'

"The one who has dipped his fingers in the bowl with Me," He answered, 'is the man who will betray Me. The Son of Man is indeed going as is written concerning Him; but alas for that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It had been a happy thing for that man if he had never been born.'

"Then Judas, the disciple who was betraying Him, asked, 'Can it be I, Rabbi?' 'It is you,' He replied. 'During the meal Jesus took a Passover biscuit, blessed it and broke it. He then gave it to the disciples, saying, 'Take this and eat: it is My body.' 'And He took the cup and gave thanks, and gave it to them saying, 'Drink from it, all of you; for this is My blood which is to be poured out for many for the remission of sin—the blood of the new covenant. I tell you that I will never again take the produce of the vine till that day when I shall drink the new wine with you in My Father's Kingdom.'

"So they sang the hymn and went out to the Mount of Olives." The Traitor at the Table.

All people seem to have a knack of magnifying the hypocrite out of all proportion to his real importance. We sometimes talk about sun-spots as if they really were the sun, and not merely ineffective blemishes upon it. An astronomer told me, the other day, that the chances of our earth's coming into collision with the newly-discovered and incredibly-speeding star-bodies were "as one to infinity"—yet some minds are dwelling on the one chance! We have always attached too great importance to the hypocrite in the Church, even as to Judas in the picture of the Last Supper. Judas was at the feast; but he was not the feast. The real meaning of the great night was not the presence of the traitor. Eliminate all allusion to the money-making renegade whose cupidity had broken down all the finer qualities of his manhood, and we still have one of the high hours of Christ's life, and one of His greatest bequests to the world. All through treason, and other baser passions were present at the holy place, we prefer to dwell upon the love and loyalty that were also there, in far greater force. Judas was there, but eleven true friends were there, too.

Chiefly valuable to us, as we behold Judas, is the question which he forces us to ask ourselves, "Is it I?" Every Christian is a possible traitor to His Lord. The best of saints may fall into the offense of this worst of sinners. Everybody who deals frankly with his capacity to deny Christ, both by word and by deed. Daily we must ask ourselves, as the tag of things draws us away from close fellowship with "Him Whom having not seen we love," whether we are disloyal to the Master who died for us and to whose glory our life is pledged. Ponder with me for an instant, and ask the Judas question, "Lord, is it I?"

The Symbolism of the Sacrifice.

The things that men live by are not the things that are traded in on Wall Street. Unrequited love, domestic unhappiness, the illness of a dear one, spiritual concern or intellectual fortune. Everybody's real life is lived in the spirit. More or less consciously, according to spiritual development, man's well-being is a thing within himself, and measurably independent of circumstances. It is easy to deceive ourselves into believing that our world is engrossed in follies and fashions and in the things of sense. Nevertheless, the quest for spiritual satisfaction, the hunger for God, is deep and universal today.

To feed this yearning was one of the reasons why Jesus established the Lord's Supper. He gave Himself to a world that could finally be content with nothing less. It has been the experience of rich and poor, learned and unlearned, in all the Christian centuries, that they have counted all as nothing if only they might feed upon Christ. As sang an unknown poet of the eleventh century,

"From the best bliss that earth imparts, We turn unfilled to Thee again."

"We taste Thee, O Thou Living Bread, And long to feast upon Thee still; We drink of Thee, the Fountain-head, And thirst our souls from Thee to fill."

We bow in the presence of a Mystery, as we look upon the scene in the Upper Room. We cannot understand why or how; but we know that, as He promised, Christ Himself is the strength and sustenance of His friends. His very life, as He symbolized, is imparted to all who would feast on Him. The Quaker mystic and the Catholic monk, and countless types of Christians between, find the same living Christ to be the bread and wine of their spirits' life. The mystery remains a mystery—but none the less a present reality. Bishop

Heber gathered the significance of the sacrament into a few pregnant words: "Bread of the world in memory broken, Wine of joy and in memory shed, By whom the world's life was spoken, And in whose death our sins are dead;

"Look on the heart by sorrow broken, Look on the tears by sinners shed; And be Thy feast to us the token That by Thy grace our souls are fed."

A Three-Way Fingerprint.

This supper in the Jerusalem Upper Room, where the Jewish Passover developed into a greater feast, of fuller symbolism, is one which art and literature and philosophy have long tried in vain to express. It is a three-way fingerprint, pointing backward to the historical Jesus seeking to be held in remembrance by His friends; inward to the self-examination and new life of the spirit; and forward to the kingdom wherein the Lord will drink the "new wine" with His friends—so new that "we hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him."

That triumphant forward look may not be omitted from any consideration, however superficial, of the Last Supper. This was no mere farewell reunion of a group of comrades, beaten by fate, who were to separate, never to be reunited. The Master's words were no requiem of a lost cause. Far from it. The feast ended in a song. (We commonly forget the singing Christ, singing in the shadow of Gethsemane and Calvary). It looked forward to a triumphant reunion. The Supper was a token of the trust that was to come. Every time we fulfill the Master's commandment to partake of the communion we give pledge of the sure day when we shall feast with Him in a victorious kingdom.

Four things a man must learn to do

Poisoned by Uric Acid

It was the discovery by Sir Arthur Garrod, in 1948, that the blood of gouty patients contained uric acid in an excessively large amount. Later scientists have learned that in gout, (also true in rheumatism), the kidneys do not work properly to throw off the uric acid poison; consequently uric acid crystals are deposited in and about the joints, where an inflammation is set up in the nearby tissues. When for any reason the circulation is sluggish, as in the joints of the toes, crystals formed from uric acid are deposited there, and one suffers from gout; or, when deposited in the tissues or muscles, one suffers from backache, muscular rheumatism or articular rheumatism. To counteract the uric acid and to throw it out of system take tablets of An-uric (anti-uric acid), three times a day. "An-uric" was first discovered by Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y. BRITAIN WOULD BE U. S. FRIEND IN JAPANESE WAR

Such is the View of Big French Paper in Discussing Eastern Issues.

JAP VICTORY TO THREATEN INDIA

Australia Too Would be in Danger if Americans Were Defeated.

(Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger.)

Paris, March 11.—The important Paris newspaper Edouard today gives the leading position, even ahead of the Edouard occupation story, to an editorial warning of the "clouds in the Far East." Commenting on the simultaneous rejection of both Japan and the United States of bills limiting armaments, it says: "Thus it seems that grave events are preparing in the Pacific."

The editorial picks up a theme from Japanese newspaper, the Ozaka Asahi reflecting the opinion that war is inevitable between the United States and England, because of naval rivalry and oil concessions in Mesopotamia, says:

War a Probability. "In spite of appearances such a conflict between England and its ally Japan against America is considered by those who know of things in the Far East outside of probability. If war cannot be avoided between Japan and the United States, England would be more disturbed if Japan were victorious than if the victory were to go to the United States, for an American victory would be in England's favor as preventing the Japanese from realizing their programme as liberators of Asia. Another reason which would prevent England from becoming an ally of Japan against the United States is that Australia, New Zealand and Canada, who have strong interests in the Pacific, have taken an attitude already hostile to the Empire of the Rising Sun, and according to the latest information would even place their fleets under the control of the American republic."

Kimono sleeves are again having great vogue in Paris.

Strength and Weakness of the Harding Cabinet

President Harding's backbone, his refusal to be dictated to by any clique or faction within his party, is demonstrated to the satisfaction of many journalistic observers by his first official act, the selection of his Cabinet. Noting that three outstanding figures, Mr. Hughes as Secretary of State, Mr. Hoover as Secretary of Commerce, and Mr. Wallace as Secretary of Agriculture, were chosen in the face of formidable opposition, the independent New York Weekly Review thinks that "the time has come when one may regard the charge that Mr. Harding was a mere puppet in the hands of the 'Senatorial clique' as definitely disproved." The New York Evening Mail (Ind.) thinks that it is "a Cabinet that spells America about as accurately as any other group of men likely to be gathered around a President's council-table." On the other hand, the Omaha World-Herald (Ind.) says that the Harding Cabinet announcements "dilute, to the Volsteadian measure of one-half of one per cent., the lively hopes that were aroused when we were assured that a Republican Administration would rally the best minds of the country to the public service." The Philadelphia North American (Progressive) says that "It would be an extravagance to call the new Cabinet great, but no less absurd to assume that it is not capable of good service."

THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, March 12th, in its leading article presents all angles of public opinion upon the strength and weakness of the Harding Cabinet, and gives a brief biography of each member of it, with his photograph.

New York, March 11.—The stock market was swept by a succession of irresistible selling movements today, many favorite issues suffering further losses of two to twelve points, while shares of less prominence but recognized value reacted to the same degree. Dealings totalled 1,100,000 shares, the turnover being almost the most extensive of any session so far this year. The number of issues traded in was in keeping with this unusually large volume of operations, including more obscure stocks. The insistent character of the offerings left little doubt that liquidation had entered upon a more acute phase, but it also was evident that the decline derived much of its force from an extension of a very confident short interest.

Disabling industrial conditions, as indicated by the comprehensive movement of the railroad companies in the United States to cut wages and reduce working forces as an offset to current and prospective deficits occasioned further outpourings of the entire transportation list.

Steel and various equipments which are directly dependent upon the railroads were engulfed in the setback. Oils, motors, shippings, coppers and some two-score specialties of every description contributed their quota.

Minimum quotations were made in the final hour, shorts then concentrating their attacks upon oils. Mexican Petroleum was the chief center of activity, all but a fraction of twelve points and recovering little more than a point. Crucible steel, General Asphalt, Pan American Petroleum, Baldwin Locomotive and Studebaker were among the other weak issues.

Every branch of the bond market reflected in the unsettlement in stocks, particularly high-grade rails, including Pennsylvania five's which lost 1 1/2 points. Liberty 3 1/2's consistently followed their recent decline to the new low for the year of ninety.

Total sales (par value), were $7,375,000.

Argentine Wheats Start Collapse On Winnipeg Market

Excellent Demand for Cash Wheat Continues But Offerings Are Very Scarce.

Winnipeg, Mar. 11.—A sharp break occurred on the local wheat market today, prices declining from two to three cents during the session. This was attributed to the Argentine Government's decision not to place a surtax on wheat exports, making it possible for European buyers to obtain wheat at a considerably lower price than futures closed 2 7/8 to 2 3/4 cents lower.

An excellent demand for cash wheat continued, but offerings were scarce and premiums hardened by another half cent, being eight cents over for No. 1 Northern. Coarse grades were all lower in sympathy with wheat.

New York Company to Run Vessels from St. John to Vancouver via the Panama.

Montreal, March 11.—The Williams Steamship Co., incorporated of New York, is favorably considering a project to establish a line of steamers operating from Eastern Canada to Western Canada to make its summer headquarters in Montreal, and its winter port St. John, N. B., and to run its freighters from these ports to Vancouver, B. C., via the Panama Canal.

It was pointed out by a high official of one of the local steamship companies that the two largest ocean navigation companies in Canada (the Canadian Government Merchant Marine and the C.P.C.) are practically precluded from operating services such as the Williams Company proposes doing, owing to the fact that they would be competing with their own railways.

The idea at the back of the new project is of course, that high rate freight rates at present and in prospect furnish the ideal opportunity to enterprising steamship lines.

The Williams Steamship Co. has one set of steamers running from New York to Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and Vancouver and others plying between New York and Liverpool and London.

Yachtsmen's Ball

Greatly Enjoyed

St. John Power Boat Club Affair in Pythian Castle Proved a Success.

The St. John Power Boat Club novelty dance, "A Cruise on the St. John River," was a decided success in Pythian Castle, Union street, last night.

The committee in charge was highly complimented by the very large number present and "Success" was the word given by all.

Black's Orchestra furnished the music for a programme of fifteen dances not including the extras, and with the large ballroom beautifully decorated for the occasion, the gentlemen and ladies attired in yachting costumes, it was surely a yachting ball that will not be forgotten by those present in a long time to come.

On the platform was a miniature motor boat with a spot light thrown on it, and it looked real to the assembly. All about the large room were decorations that took the eye of the yachtsmen, let alone the young ladies who enjoy the summer pleasure of motor yachting.

Previous to every dance there was a picture thrown on the canvas of some place along the river which is most familiar to the yachtsmen and the programme, with its comments and each dance number, was certainly well arranged and the sentences used were not only amusing but made all yachtsmen and lady friends think of the pleasure that motor boating has given them and in addition to memories of past years caused them to think of what next summer is to bring while cruising along the "Rink of America."

It might be said that following each dance number or instructions to the owners or others in charge of motor boats. It was a well worked out night of enjoyment and will be remembered.

At the conclusion of the ceremonial a banquet was served in the Temple Club and the visiting Hallionians left on the midnight express enroute home.

SERVICE IN MAIN

ST. BAPTIST CHURCH

In the Main street Baptist church last evening a large congregation listened to Rev. Dr. Bowley Green, of Montreal, who took for his subject "The Return of the Prodigal from the Far Country." His sermon was delivered with much earnestness and was set forth by a number of striking illustrations. During the service Miss Verta Wilson sang a few beautiful solos.

In response to Dr. Green's appeal, quite a number signified their intention of entering the Christian life. The services all through the week have been growing with interest.

Dr. Green will conduct the services in Main street church, the pastor, Rev. Dr. Hutchinson, going to Moncton to preach in Dr. Green's church.

Hospital Board Were In Session

Discussion Regarding Suites in New Nurses' Home Continued at Length.

Discussion regarding the suites in the new Nurses' Home occupied the attention of members of the Board of Health, and there was a full meeting held last evening. M. R. Agar, president, and there was a full meeting at the Board.

Motions and Amendments

Two motions and an amendment came before the meeting, the first one moved by J. King Kelley, and seconded by Colonel McMillan, being that the suites should be housed in the hospital, suitable quarters being provided for lay, and that the dietitian be given the suite opposite that occupied by the superintendents of nurses, the staffing of the building to be laid on the table. This motion was lost, only the second and second being for it. The second motion was made by Mrs. J. Vermer McMillan and was as follows:—"That the three heads of departments be given the suites in the Nurses' Home as marked on the plans, 'Superintendent of Nurses, Matron, and that the finance committee be asked to recommend the Dietitian's suite to be made up of a suite of three with a hardwood floor, as tendered by B. Mooney & Sons."

The Amendment

An amendment to this motion was moved by J. T. O'Brien, seconded by J. King Kelley to the effect that all the working staff to be housed in the hospital and that no suites be assigned in the Nurses' Home. This amendment was lost, the mover and seconder only being for it. Mrs. McMillan's motion was then put and carried, the vote standing as follows: For—Mrs. McMillan, W. E. Emerson, P. F. Fawcett, Alexander McMillan, Hon. Dr. Roberts, Dr. G. R. J. Crawford, Against—J. T. O'Brien, J. King Kelley.

Working Housekeeper

In the discussion it was pointed out that a working housekeeper will have to be appointed, or some way arranged at night. It was decided that nurses shall care for their own rooms with the assistance of the maids.

Long Service Recognized

The long service given to the hospital by Miss Mitchell was recognized by the committee of which she felt that she should have the suites in the Nurses' Home which had marked on the plans for the matron. The restaurant's suite was presented with two alternative plans, one costing $900 and one $600. The less expensive plan was decided upon, and it was pointed out that the rooms could at a future date be made separate, if needed for nurses.

Into Committee

By appointment the staff met with the board, which went into committee to discuss matters concerning an amendment of the X-ray Department to the best advantage of all.

There were present M. R. Agar, chairman; Hon. Dr. Roberts, J. King Kelley, Mrs. J. Vermer McMillan, John T. O'Brien, W. E. Emerson, Alexander McMillan, Frank Fawcett and Dr. Henry Hedden, secretary.

Daylight Break

On Orange Street

John White's Residence Entered and Hundred Dollars Stolen.

Yesterday afternoon in broad daylight a most daring break and robbery occurred in a residence at 100 Orange Street. Some person took the chance while John White and others of his household at 100 Orange Street were away and by removing a pane of glass gained an entrance. It is said that after the thief managed to enter the house he opened a desk and stole one hundred dollars which is said to be long to a society of which Mr. White is the treasurer. As soon as the robbery was learned the Detective department was notified and are working on the case.

From all appearances the thief had a good idea that there was some money in the desk as it is said that nothing else but the money was stolen. There has been hold-ups with guns in the city along with many other robberies but this Orange Street break is something out of the ordinary in the heart of the city. The thief must have been daring to break a window, make an entrance and get away with the goods. It is possible that the detectives may work successfully if they have, as far as can be learned, little or no clue to work on.

VIEWS OF ENGLAND SHOWN AT ORPHANAGE

Over one hundred and twenty fine views of scenes taken in England were shown in a lantern talk given by D. O. Clark, president of the Board of Directors of the Protestant Orphan Asylum at the British Street Home last evening. The Board of Directors were present and with the children enjoyed the pictures and listened with interest to the description given by Mr. Clark.

A number of the views showed homes for orphans established by the Masonic order. Two institutions were shown and it was pointed out that these very fine establishments are kept up by voluntary subscription. This was held out to the St. John Board as an encouragement to their work. Pictures of famous English buildings were exhibited.

At the close of the address Mrs. F. W. Murray President of the Ladies' Association moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Clark which was seconded by Miss Mabel Sydney Smith. Ice cream and cake were then served to those present.

Grand Career of Two Engineers

Late Herman Allen and W. J. Barton Were Engaged on River Boats for Many Years

Herman Allen, who died a few days ago, worked for a number of years as fireman on the river steamers. After raising to the position of engineer he was employed by the firm of Tapley Bros. and later by the Star Line S.S. Co. While working for the latter company he was engineer on the steamer Olivette and David Weston. For a number of years he was in charge of a dredge, and later acted as engineer on the steamer May Queen and D. J. Parry.

When a Fireman.

It is worthy of note that as a fireman he was the first to start in the furnace of the steamer David Weston, August 1st, 1885, and it was he who closed the throttle of the same steamer when she burned at Cranes Point, in September, 1893.

W. J. Barton.

W. J. Barton, who passed away a few months ago, was head fireman on the steamer Rotherham when she first came on the river in 1857. For quite a number of years he was employed by the Union Line as chief engineer on the steamers David Weston, May Queen and Pawa. Sometime later he joined the steamer City of Monticello, running on the St. John-Digby route. When the steamer Victoria was built for the river, Mr. Barton superintended the work of installing her machinery. He held the position of engineer for about fourteen years. After leaving the Victoria he became manager of the Barton Electric Welding Co., which proved a great success under his direction.

It is worthy of note that Mr. Allen and Mr. Barton were about the same age; lived in the same city and died within a year of each other. When young men, they were at the same time firemen on what were then considered the best river steamers in the world. In later years both Mr. Allen and Mr. Barton were said to be two of the best engineers on the river.
