"A series of charming Essays. . Each chapter branches out into innumerable topics of a secondary and collateral nature, giving to the work a boundless diversity, enriched with stores of ethical as well as of spiritual wisdom, evincing at once acute observation of social life and of human character, and containing the noblest lessons for practical guidance. Our author's style is remarkable for its free, unconstrained flow, almost colloquial at times, but invariably signalized by eleganoc, force, adaptation to the subject, and not seldom by originality of thought in combination with terseness and beauty of expression. There is about it a freshness, as well as a fullness of practical teaching, rarely to be met with in ordinary Biblical commentaries."—Londonderry Stundard, Feb. 15, 1871.

There is no ostentation of reading or learning, but there is everywhere the gleaming forth of light which cannot be hid. The style is simple, intelligible, graceful. It shows at once that Mr. Bennet is a man of literary culture, who can express his thoughts with scholarly chasteness and good taste. Even when dealing with trite ideas he imparts to them a novelty and interest by which they are lifted into an importance they scarcely deserve. The style throughout is lucid, pure, compact, forcible,—and it is his own—the garb of his own thinking. We have met in our perusal of the book with numerous paragraphs of finished and brilliant rhetoric—fine specimens of pulpit oratory. He is never tame nor tiresome. "This is a remarkably thoughtful, solid book Mr. Bennet is evidently at home in Metaphysics and Ethics, and he is a shrewd observer of human nature in its ordinary manifestations; consequently he ranges over the lessons of the Preacher with a power of illustration which shews his mastery of the subject. The style is close and direct, and yet so lucid, that any reader may understand every sentence in the volume.

Li will, we doubt not, take its place, as it ought to do, among our household expositions of this treatise of observation and Jowish wisdom."—The Presbyterian (Philadelphia), May 20, 1871.

"The lessons to be learned are drawn with a Jewish wisdom. — The Presylertan Transphalo, May 20, 1871.

"The lessons to be learned are drawn with a master's hand, and are expressed with a combined force and besuty that we have rarely seen surpassed in the production of any author. The ordinary reader will find noth ng that is above his comprehension, and yet it would be difficult to find a common-place thought or form of expression. A combination of these requisites we deem the highest merit a writer can Dossess.

"We will be much disappointed if the book do not command a wide circulation. Wherever a sound literature is felt to be a desidenatum, The WISDOM OF THE KING has but to be known to be prized as a work that the world will not willingly let die."—Saint John Telegraph and Journal.

There is a constant play of fancy about the thoughts, and often the very words, that is admirably suited to the Scripture book, of which this is an exposition, but which demands such constant attention on the reader's part that he gets tired, for he does not know where it is to end. The Latest Case of False Pretence

One of the most heartless pieces of political jugglery is now being enacted in our Province that ever disgraced the annals of any country boasting the possession civilized institutions. The Blood is the Life. One-halt of the County fund is to be apportioned and paid semi-antualty.

No public moneys will be received by Districts which fail to establish Schools under the Act. It will be observed that the amount of Provincial and County moneys to be expended in any District in aid of Schools will depend almost exclusively upon local exertion, or the direct efforts made by the people of the several Districts in maintaining their own Schools. The sum to be received by the Pracher from the Province is definite, but the exact amount that will be received by the Tractees from the County Fund on account of the average attendance of pupils, cannot be known at the time of the School meeting. The meeting should, therefore, be careful in voting its estimates to authorize a sum amply sufficient to enable the Trastees to meet the liabilities of the School year. Any balance remaining in the hands of the Trustees, is, of course, to be carried to the credit of the next School year, while any deficit arising from an authorized expenditure may be carried forward and provided for in the estimates of the following year.

The first disbursement of the County Fund will be apportioned on the School attendance made between January 15th and April 30th, inclusive.
