The Count Was Rich.

London, Sept. 9 .- According to the Times the Count of Paris left property valued at £4,000,000.

French Railway Horror.

Paris, Sept. 9 .- The 12:40 express from Paris to Cologne was derailed today between Noyon and Onauny. The La Presse says that the dead and injured number 37. of freight cars. A late dispatch says that eight persons were killed and 30 seriously

The Socialists Win. .

LONDON, Sept. 8 .- The sittings of the Trades Union Congress at Norwich closed today. The Moderates made a strenuous protest against the election of two Socialists as members of the parliamentary committee, but a majority of delegates voted to retain both. The result was received by the Socialists with resounding cheers. After passing a resolution denouncing the action of the House of Lords in regard to the Employers' Liability Bill the Congress adjourned with the singing of "Auld Lang

An Appeal Against Lynching.

London, Sept. 9 .- The Rev. Price Hughes appeals to the Methodists of the United States to prevent further lynchings of negroes. In an appeal to this end he asks whole list is declining. The movement is what the bishops and ministers of churches most pronounced in Northern Pacific, what the bishops and ministers of churches north and south are doing to quicken the public conscience. The negroes, he contends, have immense claims upon the church because a majority of them are Methodists. Mr. Hughes notes that the facts before the British public are greatly one-sided; while the pro-lynching side is fully discussed, the opposing question receives little or no attention.

The Queen's Affliction.

LONDON, Sept. 9 .- Queen Victoria is now afflicted so constantly with rheumatism | The cotton market is firmer, with American that she has abandoned her proposed trip to Italy during the coming winter or The stock shows a decrease for the week at spring, and her present plan is to take a 57,000 bales. course of waters at Aix les Bains or Wiesbaden, where she will also undergo mas-Her trouble continues to be confined almost exclusively to the knees. It is of Paris' death the family and the old sera curious fact that the Princess of Wales is | vants of the family were all in attendance, a victim of the same painful complaint. She suffered so much from the fatigue of standing at drawing rooms last spring that next year a chair similar to the one which the Queen occupies will probably be provided for her at these functions.

Lillian Russell in England.

LONDON, Sept. 9. - At the Lyceum Theater last night was produced "The Queen of Brilliants," the new comic opera to appear in which Miss Lillian Russell was specially engaged to sing the leading part. There was a crowded and brilliant house. Many Americans were present. All the London first nighters were present. The opera was splendidly rendered. Miss Russel's attire was a miracle of the dressmaker's art. The American actress was given a gratifying reception. She was in excellent voice and justified the press predictions of her ability. She was given several cheers and many flowers were sent

A Shocking Scandal.

London, Sept. 8 .- It is well known that Infant mortality in the East End of London has always been heavy, but disclosure of how the dead of very poor families in that section are disposed of has brought to light a shocking scandal. The coroner brought out the fact at an inquest on Thursday that many poor people sent the bodies of their children to undertakers with $5 for the expenses of burial. No funerals were held and the disposition of the remains depended on the good faith of the undertaker. One undertaker admitted that it was the custom to allow bodies to accumulate for weeks and then give them a wholesale burial in a common grave.

The Princess Sold Cigars, LONDON, Sept 9 .- A bazar which the Queen has initiated at Crathie, Scotland, Cabinet yesterday. In any case, as already with the object of raising funds to build a stated, the remains will be buried at Wey church is attracting hosts of tourists to the locality. Among the features of the fair is a photographic studio presided over by Prince Henry of Battenburg, who takes pictures at 5 shillings each. Within an enormous shoe of the character in which the little old woman fived sat the diminutive Princess Victoria of Battenburg and man in the old cathedral of Laval, capital one of the daughters of the Duchess of Albany. These little ladies sold dolls, and Princess Margaret, daughter of the Duke of Connaught drove a good trade | ful homage.' and made sharp bargains in cigars. Other members of the royal family, large and small, sold baskets of flowers, sweet meats and toys. The Queen herself made up for the occasion three plaited chip baskets, which were raffled off at 5 shillings a chance, 100 tickets being sold on each. Princess Louise of Lorne presided at a stall for the sale of varisties, including groceries, teas, etc. The Queen was a frequent visitor to the bazar, being drawn there and back in a bath chair. Her Majesty hugely enjoyed the affair.

The Labor Congress Criticised. LONDON, Sept. 9 (Sun's cable). - Certain resolutions passed by the Trades Union Congress, which has been sitting at Norwich throughout the week, have placed British workingmen at a great disadvantage. In an article endeavoring to excuse them, the thorough going Radical Chronicle admits that it is staggered by the crude

The West minster Gazette excuses the congress for its acts as under a passing mood of spiritual exaltation it has nationalized everything, thinking obviously to benefit labor by imprisoning employers if they try to get their work done outside the local unions. The Spectator says: "The congress blew off great volumes of steam, but their deliberations practically amounted to very little. This crew which has been assembled at Norwich this week does not tally the opinion of the leaders of the Socialist Democratic Federation, who prepared the revised programme upon which was based the proceedings of the congress."

Scotch Miners in a Plight. LONDON, Sept. 9 .- The Scotch miners' strike seems as far as ever from its end. The vote of the miners to accept sixpence reduction remains without effect. No proposals had come from the owners. The sixpence reduction was the suggestion of well-meaning outsiders. The owners say they can no more afford the extra sixpence than the extra shilling. It is doubtful whether a still further reduction may not be necessary. The owners' losses have been enormous; they have lost their contracts and much of their other business. Whether they can get it back they do not know. Meantime many of the miners have gone to work at the reduction originally fixed by the owners, and the remainder see no prospects of doing better. The English Miners' Federation, in obedience to whose orders they struck, has left them in the lurch. The sums sent have The accident was caused by the shunting | not been small. The miners are in great distress. Not all of them will get work again at any price, and the Trade Union Congress at Norwich is regretting the bar-both notes and coin has expanded during the week, and the reserve in the bank of England is, in consequence, £500,000 less than last week, standing now at about £30,500,000. A pretty general relapse is in progress on the Stock Exchange. British Government stocks remain firm, but railways are flat, owing to the unsatisfactory situation in Scotland, consequent upon the great coal strikes, American securities have had a see-saw movement all the week with a heavy fall at close anticipation of settlement next week. After that is over it is probable that another rise will take place. At present the Milwaukee, Denver, Norfolk and Louisville. Canadian securities are also falling in sympathy.

Foreign trade returns for August are disappointing, showing a decrease in both nports and exports.

Harvest operations here are nearly completed. The quality of the home product is poor, and the price of English wheat has sustained a heavy fall. Foreign wheats including American, are also easier in price, both on spot and for future delivery. supply in better request at hardening rates.

A Touching Scene.

LONDON, Sopt. 9 .- Just before the Count and to each one the head of the royal house of France feebly said a few kind words of farewell, after which the family knelt at his bedside and offered up heartfelt prayers for the dying. He rarely, however, referred to his approaching death, always trying to soothe the sorrow of those around him. Now and then a deep sigh would escape from the sufferer and he would mutter the phrase often repeated during the past week, "C'est bien long," equivalent to saying that he was weary of waiting for death and that his dread majesty was very slow in coming to his relief.

He frequently and earnestly enjoined his family to love each other tenderly, reminding them that united families are always happy families. The utterances of the dying man were so gentle, loving and touching that it was no wonder that they brought forth heart-breaking sobs from all who heard them. The death scene was most touching. The Comtesse de Paris closed her husband's eyes, and all the princes and princesses in the order of their rank stepped forward and kissed the hand of the dead man.

The body of the Comte de Paris reposes on the bed on which he died. The tri-color flag over the triumphal arch at the entrance of the park at Stowe House was halfmasted shortly after the comte's death. A special train will convey the remains to Weybridge Wednesday or Thursday. It was at first reported that the remains would be interred in the mausoleum of the Orleans family, built by King Louis Philippe in the chapel attached to the ancient castle at Dreux, twenty miles from Chartres, in the department of Eure et Loire, France. But permission had first to be obtained from the French Government. and it is understood that the matter was discussed at a meeting of the French bridge, Surrey, and from this it is inferred that the French Government was unable to grant the necessary permission for the interment to take place at Dreux. Yesterday a telegraphic message was received from a number of French Royalists who met and prayed for the then dying of the Department of Mayenne, saying: "Present to Mgr. Le Duc d'Orleans and Mme. La Comtesse de Paris, our respect-

The wording of this message, putting the name of the Duc d'Orleans, eldest son of the Comte de Paris first, shows, it is claimed, that the Royalists of France already regard the Duc d'Orleans as king of France. There are, however, two other pretenders to the throne of France-Don Carlos, Duke of Madrid, and Gen. de Bourbon, who styles himself Duc d'Anjou, and who claims the throne. Their pretensions, it may be added, are ridiculed by the press and public of even Royalist France.

THE NEWS IN FRANCE. Paris, Sept. 8 .- Several of the newspapers of this city printed special editions containing the announcement of the death of the Count of Paris, but their sale was confined to a few thousands. Public interest in the event was apparently slight, presumably because the death had been expected for several days. The interest throughout the provinces, however, not been banished with the advent were heard on all sides.

spondents say that the German dailies speak of the Count of Paris as an amiable man who never expected and probably never wished to become king. The Vienna press makes a similar comment. The Spanish court has gone into mourning for eighteen days.

TRACEDY IN DETROIT.

A Rich Old Man is Bound, Gagged Mutilated and Murdered by Thieves.

DETROIT, Sept. 9 .- Charles B. Chauvin ived in a miserable house on his farm on the Grosse Point road, six miles from this barns belonging to Matthew Scott, Tuckercity, for 50 years. His wealth was variously estimated at from $100,000 to $1,000, and two years' hay and this season's crop, 000, but he always lived alone except when his two nieces visited him. Chanvin was known. last seen alive by the neighbors Saturday efternoon. His body was lying on the floor, his hands tied together, and his feet bound, while from a dozen cuts on the body blood had flowed and stained his clothing. His head was crushed to a jelly. Chauvin was probably largely interested in real estate and stocks, and as he kept very for $700. little money in the house it is not believed the robbers secured anything.

WINCHESTER, Ont., Sept. 8 .- D'Alton McCarthy addressed the electors of Dundas twice today. The first meeting at Winchester Springs was attended by 200 people. On McCarthy's return from the Springs to this village notice was given of another meeting, and in two hours 400 people assembled. Dr. Reddeck was called to the chair and Mr. McKeller to read an address of welcome to Mr. McCarthy, which was signed by Mr. Kennedy on behalf of the electors. Mr. McCarthy, in reply, thanked them. He dealt particularly with the tariff, and elicited hearty applause throughout. He incidentally referred to the Curran Bridge steal and the extravagance of the Government, and wound up his after-meeting by calling on electors to support him in his effort.

WANT HIM DECLARED DEAD. END OF THE CENTURY. A Unique Law Case at Hamilton-Where

HAMILTON, Sept. 9 .- An action was tried some months ago in the suit of Nelles vs. Nelles in which the courts were asked to declare Samuel H. Smith, formerly of Grimsby, to be a dead man. The suit is unique. Smith went out to the Western States ten years ago, and there disappeared completely from public ken. The last letter received from him was dated June 19, 1884, and since that no trace has been obtained, though every effort has been made by the detectives and newspapers. Smith had a life interest in several Canada permanent stocks valued at $10,000, and as the money divided. The action is a friendly one, but is necessary to protect the executors. J. D. O'Reilly, local master in chancery, has been authorized to make the order by the courts, all the necessary preliminaries having been complied with.

MRS. E. LYNN LINTON WRITES ON ITS MORALS AND WAYS

True Feminine Scolding-Are Old-Time Restrictions Dying Away, and Is Immor ality a Right of the Individual?-Demands of the Revolted Daughters.

In civilized countries, men have not generally gloried in their offenses against the moral law. When they tripped they did not call a crowd to witness to their fall, he is supposed to be dead, the heirs want nor vaunt it as a better way of going than upright walking. Still less, keeping themselves clean, did they induce others to besmear themselves with mud; nor did they endeavor to show that this mud was a beautiful and wholesome substance, and that to besmear with filth was much the same thing as to crown with roses and be diademed with rubies.

Respect for virtue has hitherto obtained even among the backsliders of those countries where society was founded on certain well-defined ethical principles. And if this has been true of the backsliders, how much more then of the practically innocent. It is different with us English folk Bros., 127 King street, opposite Market at the end of the nineteenth century—we of this self-laudatory fin-de-siecle, who openly advocate immorality as among the rights of the individual, and as openly deride those old-time restrictions by which social order and purity have hitherto been maintained. Turn where we will, not one of the former landmarks dividing the permissible from the forbidden, has been left in its place. In the home and in the streets, in the press and in Parliament, are preached doctrines which upset all existing arrangements and introduce a new rendering of the Decalogue. The virtues once made obligatory are now nowhere in the field. The mutual interdependence of the various members of the community and the disciplined interaction, which makes the general good of more account than individual desire, have given place to an unchecked egotism which destroys the very root-work of organiza-

The good of the community counts for nothing at all, and the desire of the individual sweeps the board. The due subordination of inferiority-the frightful influence of education and the authority of knowledge-the headship of man and the fitting functions of women-the grace of patience-the modesty of humility-the reticence of maidenhood-the courage of self-restraint-respect for the law-loyalty and patriotism-all forms of obedience in short, have vanished from our code. Instead of that self-respect in self-control which used to be the virtue practiced by pagans like Marcus Aurelius and Christians like Sidney and More and Melancthon, we hear only of the right of the individual to live such kind of life as he shall deem best for his own happiness. This upsetting of old principles gives a phantasmagoric aspect to life, at once bewildering and distressing. Is there really no such thing as elemental morality-no difference between right and wrong, for the simple reason that nothing is right but as we make it-nothing wrong if we desire it? Are the virtues which Christ taught mere scarecrows put up by age and authority the better to subdue youth and insubordination? or were they the expression of the Higher Law of life and the truer wisdom?

Filial obedience, for example, is there such an obligation, or are parents the enemies and tyrants of their children, who are therefore in the right to defy and oppose them? Is it true that the reason why grandfathers and grandsons are generally good friends is, because they have a common enemy in the son of the one and the father of the other? As for mothers and daughters we have it on the testimony of one who speaks with authority—the former are unsympathetic, restrictive, coercive beyond reason, and the latter are therefore justified in their rebelliousness - are in right when they demand the dangerous liberties embodied in the symbol of the latch key. The purity of maidenhood, bound up in its ignorance of certain forms and facts of life, which once all good men and motherly women regarded as a girl's most precious possession, of which only devils would rob her, that purity in ignorance has come to be a broken idol, open the flood-gates of moral filth to the young girl, hitherto guarded from defilement. Let her mind attune itself to those key-notes of impurity which the modern woman writes for the enlightment of the modern girl-let her dabble in the obscene wreckage which our young men elaborate out of the depths of their own diseased imagina-

Let the grand distinction between the sheltered maiden and the wastrel of the streets be broken down; and under the delusive plea of the "protective power of knowledge" let the lady-girl learn betimes all that the gutter-bred has mastered from the beginning. In the apotheosis of immorality now fashionable, this mental defloration has its own place of honor; and the premature initiation is one of the rays of the infernal aurecle about the head of the modern woman. Yet where does the balance of practical immorality lie?-with the conscious, free and instructed wastrel or with the sheltered and ignorant lady-girl? Ask a school-mistress what is the effect of a theoretically "knowing" girl on the minds of the ignorant-one academically instructed in certain things which some among us now say all the unmarried should understand. Her answer ought to settle that question; for there is not a capable and understanding woman in all England who has to deal with girls, who does not know the infinite evil of this theoretical initiation. Instead of protection it is incitement, filling the mind with thoughts and speculations destructive of all that it is most desirable to preserve. Meanwhile, things are disheartening enough for those who care for the good of their country, the honor of the English name, and the general well-being of society. For, summing up the situation, what do we find? The forces of disorder strong and bold, face to face with a government weak, timid, and truckling. An outbreak of feminine impatience of restraint which can but lead to general dissoluteness and a lowering of the moral standard in all that relates to purity of mind and modesty of manners. Together with this outbreak, in some sense intelligible enough in the girl, we have the open advocacy of older women, who, themselves mothers, should be the careful guardians of those maidenly characteristics which hitherto all ages have agreed to reverence and require.

Instead of this, it is they who formulate the demands of the Revolted Daughters. whe reof the right to be acquainted with vice is the chief item. -E. Lynn Linton, in Philadelphia Press.

CHINESE EDUCATION.

They Are All Students So Far as Their Light Goes.

In no country is education more highly esteemed than in China. The child of the workingman, as a rule, can not hope to get more than a mere smattering. But scattered through the country are numberless families, the members of which for generation after generation are always students, and from whom, as a rule, the officials come. They have no knowledge of any business or trade. They correspond very closely to what are, or used to be, called gentlemen in England, and preserve their position with great tenacity, even when hard pressed by poverty. Rich parvenues, as a matter of course, engage tutors for their children and in the humblest ranks of life occasionally parents will stint themselves to give an opportunity to some son who has shown marked intelligence at the village school. But neither of these classes compete on an equality with those to whom learning is an hereditary profession. The cultivation and intellectual discipline prevailing in such families give their members a marked advantage over those who get no help of the kind at home, and who must, therefore, depend entirely on what they learn from their paid teachers.

The orthodox scheme of education is entirely concerned with the ancient literature of China. The original works which occupy the student's attention were for the most part written before the literature of either Greece or Rome had reached its prime. But there are commentators belonging to later periods who must be perused with diligence. China has not seen an influx of new races such as have overrun Europe since the days of our classical authors, but, still, from mere lapse of time, the language of the country has greatly changed, and the child beginning his studies cannot without explanation understand a single sentence, even if he has learned to read the words of the lesson which he has before him. The student makes himself acquainted as thoroughly as possible with these classical works. The more he can quote of them the better, but he must master the matter contained in them as well. He must get to know the different readings and different interpretations of disputed passages, and, finally, he practices himself in prose and verse composition. In prose he carefully preserves the ancient phraseology, never admitting modern words, though there are certain technicalities of style which will prevent his productions from being an exact imitation of the ancient literature. His verses must be in close imitatihn of the old-time poets. They must follow elaborate rules as to rhythm, and the words must rhyme accordind to the classical sounds, which are very different from those of to-day. -Nineteenth Century. Here's a Youthful Prodigy.

A wonderful child, who, at the age of two years can read with fluency any writing or printing in German or Latin characters' pronouncing correctly the most difficult words, is described in the columns of the Magdeburg Zeitung. The boy learned to read in play. When about a year and a half old, while walking out with his grandmother, he showed the liveliest interest in all the signs, bills and placards, and was especially delighted with the display in bookseller' shops. At home he played with books and newspapers, and one day, finding his own name. "Otto," in print, he ran to show it with delight to his parents. The boy is mentally and physically perfectly healthy and normal. He has fair hair and very lively, intelligent brown eyes. Three "well-known and highly respected physicians" have decided that the boy possesses an immense wealth of pictures of memory, but can give no physiological explanation. His name is Otto Pohlert, and he is the son of a Brunswick butcher. One on the Book Agent, Not long ago Captain Charles King was traveling in a railway car with a number of friends. The news agent on the train worried the party a good deal by his persistent efforts to force his wares upon them. But the party kept him at bay by declaring that they had read all his books. "Well, I've got one book you haven't read," said he, "and he produced Captain King's leter novel. "Pshaw! that's not new," said King. "I got it only this morning," answered the agent. "It has only just been published, and I'll bet you $10 you haven't read it." "I'll take that bet," said Captain King, and the two put up their money. Then Captain King pulled out one of his visiting cards and handed it to the agent, saying: "I am Captain Charles King, the author of that book, and I read it in manuscript and in proof."

with a low, sad whistle, and he went off and didn't bother that party any more. "Robert Wilde, of Grenfell, says he thinks Gibbons' Toothache Gum is the best thing in the world for toothache. zxv

The Sidewalk Collapsed.

NASHVILLE, Mich., Sept. 9.—The worst Oats would average about 40 bushels. accident in the history of Nashville occurred here yesterday. The streets were crowded with people waiting to see an ex- Hodson, but the conclusion reached in rehibition of rope-walking when a twentyfoot section of sidewalk in front of W. H. Kleinhan's drygoods store gave way, precipating 31 people into an area under. The owner, no doubt, desires to make a neath, piling them up into a promiscuous model farm, and he the means of improvheap. The scene was an awful one. There ing agriculture in that district. Mr. was only one man in the accident, the rest being women and children. What Mr. F. W. Hodson Saw in Six

Some Heavy and Light Creps-Beautiful District Around Carberry-Drawbacks and Advantages of the Country-Mr. Hodson's Deductions.

Mr. Frederick W. Hodson, of this city, editor of the Farmers' Advocate, has just returned from a six weeks' tour of the Northwest. The trip was taken partly through business, but principally to learn more of the country and the progress being made by the settlers, An ADVERTISER reporter called on Mr. Hodson to get his opinion of the west. He was greatly pleased with the result of his trip, and exexpressed himself in part as follows:

"Immediately upon arriving I secured a team and camping outfit, and drove about 400 or 500 miles through the country, takin all the principal agricultural districts between Winnipeg and Brandon, going to Brandon through the district north of the C. P. R., and returning by the road south region in the Northwest is the Red River Valley, which includes land immediately surrounding Winnipeg. Among eastern people, and in fact among the people of Manitoba, it is generally believed that the land around Winnipeg is not good-first, because little of it is farmed, secondly because that which is farmed as a rule produces poor crops. The reason for the first condition is that the land is largely held by speculators, who ask a larger price than intending settlers will pay, but the chief reason is that that portion which is farmed is principally in the hands of old Selkirk settlers and descendants, or is owned by Metis and breeds, all of whom are bad farmers, and are a detriment to the country in every particular. Historic Kildonan is one of the finest parishes in the Northwest, but is so poorly farmed that it has received a bad name, which the land does not deserve. One reason why the land is not settled is because it is nearly all divided in long narrow farms, some of which will not be more than from four to six rods wide and from two to four miles long. No eastern man in his senses will buy a farm of such a "Proceeding east from Winnipeg north of the track the crops are from fair to good where the land is well farmed. About Rosser the oat crop is particularly good. Spring wheat is all harvested and threshed, and will average about fifteen bushels per acre. No. 1 hard. Westward from Rosser, through Poplar Point, on the Portage Plains, the crops gradually increase. Throughout the plains they are very good. Wheat will probably average 20 bushels to the acre and oats from 40 to 60. Leaving Portage Plains and continuing west for some distance the land is not so productive. Crops vary according to the condition of the soil. At Carberry and throughout the Carberry Plains and northward through the beautiful plains the crops are excellent. Wheat is very fine and oats exceedingly good. We saw sevtions of America I have never seen such yields of oats as those around Carberry.

"Leaving the fertile lands, we passed through a sandier district, which continued until near Brandon. In fact, much of the land around Brandon has a lighter subsoil than that at Carberry, Portage la Prairie or Winnipeg. About Brandon the wheat crop is lighter than in some of the other districts, and will probably average about fifteen bushels per acre.

"From Brandon we went southward and traversed the section of the country south of the track, visiting Wawansea, Carman, Manitou, Morden and other important wheat sections. Judging the country from this year's crops and present indications, Southern Manitoba is the most desirable section of the Province. The crops were universally heavier and much cleaner, and generally the homes of the people were more inviting. At Wawansea, Thornhill and adjoining districts many very heavy fields of wheat were seen, some of which would average from 40 to 50 bushels per acre. All through Red River valley and as far west as Austin on the main line to the north of the track, Canada thistles are more or less plentiful. Throughout Winnipeg district they fairly own the country. French weed, known sometimes as stink weed, is thick on the land owned by the half-breeds and Selkirk settlers. Wild oats are also very plentiful and were found as far west as Portage Plains. In Southern Manitoba weeds are less plentiful. Here and there along the line of the Northern Pacific were to be seen a few wild oats. The Russian thistle, to extirminate which the American authorities propose spending several millions of dollars, has made its appearance, and the Department of Agriculture at Winnipeg is leaving no stone unturned in its efforts to kill this plant where it exists in Manitoba." Mr. Hodson had gone on a similar trip six years ago. This time he noticed a very marked improvement. The homes of the settlers, as a rule, were better, the appearance of the farms and steadings more inviting; altogether an air of prosperity pervades many of the settlements. Fine substantial farm houses were to be seen in every direction, and not a few good outbuildings. Without a doubt where men have settled in Manitoba with the determination to make it their home, and have not overreached themselves, they have done exceedingly well. The average wheat yield this year was estimated at sixteen bushels per acre. This, of course, includes the large acreage put in by men who know little or nothing about farming, also a large acreage put in by men who try to accomplish far too much work with insufficent help, and an acreage put in by the breeds and old Selkirk settlers, who as he above list are requested to send in they work too poorly to expect an average crop. Where the land was well and intelligently farmed the probable average wheat yield would reach about twenty bushels. Some farms ranged as high as 35 bushels.

"Sir Donald Smith's farm, about seven miles from Winnipeg, was visited by Mr. gard to the Montreal millionaire's 'model' farm was not very favorable. Mr. Hodson said: 'It is situated at Silver Heights. Trail is manager. A herd of buffalo is of Hereford cattle. Naturally, the farm was a very good one, but its management and the condition of the crop, live stock and farm implements are a disgrace to the Province.

"Wheat drawbacks to the territory at present exist? was asked. The reply was: "I think, on the whole, the climate is as good as that of Ontario. Prechitis, The winter is more severe but not much longer, if any, than Ontario's. There are few running streams, and in some sections, difficulty is experienced in getting water. This is being overcome by the Government, who have purchased some well-drilling machinery and prepose to send out men to drill wells for settlers where needed. In most sections water can be found at a moderate depth. Ever since the establishment of the experimental farm (and by some of the settlers for years before) attempts have been made to grow apples. As yet these efforts have been unsuccessful, and, in my opinion, always will be so. I do not think that apples can be generally grown-in fact, I do not believe they will be grown at

"I suppose the country has its advantages?" asked the reporter. "Very many," was the answer. "A man can settle in Manitoba and either establish a business or purchase and farm land with far less capital than he could in Eastern Canada. If the men who do go there would be satisfied with acquiring a good home and plenty of food and clothing and the possibility of giving their children a chance in life, Manitoba will satisfy them. School and church privileges are as good there as

"How is the population?" "Gradually increasing," said Mr. Hodson. "The Province may be losing a lot of its spoculators, but none of its good men and women. There were a class who went of the track. Probably the best farming there with the expectation of picking up dollars without earning them. They have found their mistake and those who do not believe in working are leaving the country, while the balance are being converted into good citizens. Conversion is no easy mattea."

Cattle was also proportionally high, and the crops were exceptionally good in every place Mr. Scott visited. The grain was of very superior quality, and the prospects looked bright for the farmers. THE LONDON ADVERTISER, with its morning and evening editions, covers the ground. With one exception, it is THE ONLY EARLY MORNING DAILY IN ONTARIO, outside of To-

London, Monday, Sept. 10.

-London is a great city for conventions. The Dominion Trades and Labor Congress comes here next year.

-It seems that even the Queen finds it impossible to shake off the plebeian affliction, rheumatism! There is one point at least upon which the human race are on an equality. They all suffer.

-It is to be expected that Rev. Dr. Burns, who has spent the greater portion of his life in teaching the young idea how to shoot, should be able to report to the General Conference that he has growing by his college walls the biggest grape vine in Hamilton city. The genial doctor does nothing by halves.

-In Great Britain, after a seven years' agitation, it is now provided that a person may take any plain card of the proper size, write a letter upon it, affix a halfpenny adhesive stamp and have it transmitted through the post. Common sense prevails sooner or later. A stamp should cost the Government less than a post-card, but it has been hard work to convince the authorities of that fact.

-The grant of $500 by the Ontario Government will be welcomed as most timely by the Rainy River authorities, who are called upon to immediately relieve the victims of the forest fires. As many people have practically lost their all, they cannot face the winter without much additional aid. This promising district of Western Ontario should have the consideration and aid of every municipality more favorably

-Mrs. Margaret L. Shepherd, the anti-Catholic agitator, announces that she will now proceed to elevate the stage, as she has "elevated" the lecture platform. Like Miss Pollard, Mr. Breckenridge's former associate, Mrs. Shepherd will turn actress. After the Ontario elections were over the Conservative managers gave her little encouragement to continue as a lecturer, and she now adopts the new roll on the plea that it will benefit her health.

-The Trade Bulletin reports good prospects for the egg trade. Within the last few days large shipments have been sent from Western Ontario to Boston and New York. Thus, as pointed out by our trade contemporary, the reduction in the United States tax on eggs has already been felt, and as soon as prices advance on the other side of the line a much larger business is looked for. There is nothing like low tariffs, or no tariffs at all, to promote profitable business between nations.

THE BOOM IN CHEESE.

The latest deals in cheese in most parts of Ontario have been at an advance of 1 cent in the price of September and October contracts. About 40,000 boxes were contracted in Brockville during the latter part of last week at 101 cents to 103 cents for August, September and October; but nothing can be had in the Belleville and Brockville districts now under 11 cents for balance of season, as the bulk of the factories have placed the make to the end of season, In this district, makers look for 11 cents or over and are not inclined to sell for playing "The Maple Leaf for Ever" as the less, though whether they are wise in adopting this course remanis to be seen. The cause of the continuous rise in values is due to the drought in the West, which it is now claimed has partaken of a more serious aspect, as it is said that the make for the last half of August has fallen off about 40 per cent, and that in some sections, owing to dryness of pastures, factories have been obliged to close. On the other hand, farmers are not trusting entirely to their pastures; but are utilizing their green corn, buying bran and using other feed, as it will never do to abandon cheese making in these times when prices are 108 cents to 11 cents per pound.

Exports of cheese from Montreal, acsording to the most recent report supplied by the Trade Bulletin, amount to 936,409 boxes, against 854,006 boxes for the same period last year, and there is a much larger quantity in store than a year ago. As to the shortage in the fall make, it is claimed by some that the yield all over will not be short of that of last year, but the majority of buyers have believed otherwise. In any case, the season has them, discriminating against them in favor been a good paying one so far, and is of the manufacturer. The Patrons of Inlikely to remain so to the end.

MR. LAURIER IN BRITISH

COLUMBIA. Hon. Wilfrid Laurier arrived at Victoria, B. C., yesterday, and was most heartily welcomed. At every stopping place, all through the country, intervening between Regina and the Pacific coast, the Liberal leader found many friends to greet him, At Agassiz Dr. Farwell, brother of the newly-elected local representative of East Algoma, accompanied by other prominent citizens, met the party and handed to Madame Laurier a large basket of beautiful flowers and another of luscious fruit, the product of the place. Hon. A. N. Richards, ex-Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, here boarded the train, and accompanied the leader to his destination. Senator McInnis and Mr. McLagan, editor of the Vancouver World, joined the leader at Westminster junction. When the train arrived at Vancouver, an immense crowd awaited the party, including Mr. Barnard, M.P. Here twenty leading citizens of Victoria met Mr. Laurier and party and escorted them down the gulf to the capital of the Pacific Province, which was reached at 7 p.m. Another great crowd awaited the steamer at its landing place, the brass band party stepped on shore. The streets leading to the Driard House were packed and many pretty mottoes were displayed. The crowd insisted on Mr. Laurier speaking, and he made a few graceful remarks. His welcome everywhere has been remarkable for its cordiality.

Tonight he addresses a mass meeting.

MR. M'CARTHY'S EXPECTATIONS. Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, who has returned from a visit to the Maritime Provinces, where he addressed a number of public meetings, has been interviewed on the political situation. Among other things, he assumes the role of prophet regarding the near future, as follows: "The independents, either members of my own party or of the Parons of Industry, will have the majority in the House of Commons after the next election, beyond a ship, be recognized and preserved." doubt. No one who travels through Ontario can shut his eyes to the fact that there is a great revulsion of feeling against the Government. The farmers now appear to realize more fully that the trade policy of the Government operates directly against dustry, which is a result of this Pevul classes on record. "When you concede a majority in Onyour own party ?"

"Well, whatever you do, do not connect me with the P. P. A., as I know nothing about them. I have a party of my own, and we expect to make a creditable showing in the elections. We have candiother men out as soon as possible.

"In quite a number of counties we shall not bring out candidates on account of the Patrons of Industry being in the field. Their views on the trade policy accord largely with curs, and in cases where the nomination of a candidate by us would assure the return of a Government candidate, we shall, of course, abstain from putting a candidate in the field. I consequently expect that a large majority of the Ontario constituencies at the next general elections will be carried by nominees of my party or of the Patrons

'What about the Maritime Provinces ?" Well, as you know, I have just been in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and have addressed several meetings there. I found the people there just about the same as we are in Ontario, pretty thoroughly dissatisfied with the present Ad-ministration. This feeling is particularly marked in Nova Scotia, where a gen-eral Tory rout is predicted. Mr. Longley may enter Dominion politics, and so may their Provincial Premier, Mr. Fielding, who is by long odds the most popular and in every way the strongest man in the Province. If these two men enter the contest they can easily carry Nova Scotia against the Dominion Government."

"And in New Brunswick ?" "There those opposed to the Government are not quite so sanguine, but there will be some surprising changes. It is a foregone conclusion that the Hon. Peter Mitchell will carry Northumberland, while everybody expects Colonel Domville to comfortably defeat Hon. George E. Foster in Queens. There will be a close and interesting contest in the St. John city divisions, with prospects, if anything, very dark for the Government candidates. Ail of which is respectfully submitted.

UNION IS STRENGTH.

A Great Movement and the Objects It Works For.

Important Question to be Brought Be ore the General Conference,

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER: Among the most important problems coming before the General Conference of for specific work, representing a definite and Canadian Methodism, now in session universal idea, and is distinguished in each in London, is that of the young church by a denominational title as Methopeople's work. Gleaning from the questions before the Epworth League com- ary Society, Baptist prayer meeting, etc. mittees of the annual conferences, there This is all that is claimed by the Y. P. S. will be a move for better organization. The C. E., that for the sake of Christian unifelt needs are: Complete and entire control formity, and the promotion of Christian authorities of the church, systematic hold of by the churches, it be distinguished to the promotion of the interests of this important department. Another equally live problem is the settlement of the relation of our Methodist young people to that of other denominations. The question at issue is, whether the official society Equal rights for women, whether as of the Methodist Church in Canada shall be strictly denominational and sectarian, or interdenominational and fraternal. Methodism has ever stood for the broadest Christian fellowship, and Canadian Methodism for Christian unity, and it is to be hoped that there will be no "backsliding" in the present issue. Much of the opposition to affiliation with the world-wide interdenominational movement among the young people known as "Christian Endeavor" I am persuaded arises from a misunderstanding of the principles and working of that society. My object in writing is to set before the Methodist public the attitude of the Y. P. S. C. E. and the present position of the Epworth League in Canada. Christian Endeavor is not a rival denomination, but, like the Sunday school, s society in the local church, and in no sense outside. It "exists to train young people for the duties of their own church and denomination and make them loyal and efficient members of the Church of Christ." It is strictly a religious society, and aims solely at the promotion of spiritual life; it cannot be a social, literary, or money-making club. All its members have taken a consecration pledge, which is renewed at every monthly roll call. This pledge is essential to a society of Christian Endeavor, and only societies connected with evangelical chures are enrolled and recognized, "meaning by 'evangelical', personal faith in the divine-human person and atoning work of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, as the only and sufficient source of salva-

At the International Convention at Minneapolis, the following platform of Christian Endeavor principles was adopted, and reaffimed at Montreal:

"First and foremost, personal devotion to our divine Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. "2. Utmost loyalty to their respective denominations on the part of all Christian Endeavor Societies. "3. Steadiest personal love and service for the local church in which a society of Christian Endeavor exists. The church for each local society is the local church with which it is connected. "4. Interdenominational spiritual fellowship among evangelical denominations, setting forth their spiritual unity in Jesus

"5. Inasmuch as the name 'Christian Endeavor' by a marvelous and triumphant trial and history of ten years, has come to mean the definite pledge for the weekly prayer meeting, the monthly consecration service, and the work of the lookout committee, we earnestly urge that, in all Christrian fairness, societies which adopt substantially these methods adopt also the name 'Christian Endeavor, and that this name be not applied to other methods of work. believe that the Christian Endeavor Society has earned the exclusive right to its own name and its principles and

"6. Christian Endeavor interposes no barriers to the denominational control of the young people, and rejoices when denominations suggest special lines of scriptural study, of denominational indoctrination, of denominational missionary activity, local, home, and foreign.

.7. Christian Endeavor only desires that its fidelity to Christ and the local church, and its opportunity for deligh ful fellow-The following also was unanimously and enthusiastically adopted at Minneapolis: "In order that the attitude of this society on the great questions of Christian union and fellowship be understood; therefore, "Resolved, that the Christian Endeavor

ions; that it deprecates as entirely outside

PLATFORM OF THE "ADVERTISER." of feeling, is one of the most remarkable of its province and contrary to its spirit all cases of an awakening by the agricultural criticism or disparagement of the great ideas for which the several denomina-tions stand. The fellowship that it tario to the Independents, do you mean seek is that of common methods of work the Patrons of Industry, the P. P. A., or under a common name for a common Lord; a fellowship upon the allegiance of every member of his own church; a fellowship which we believe will make larger and more efficient every church of every denomination that enters into it, and which shall hasten the day when all shall be the dates in the field already, and we shall get Lord's, and the whole world be united in unswerving hostility to sin and unswerving loyalty to Christ." In addition to this Rev. Prof. W. W. Andrews, B.A., of Sackville, N. B., proposed the following resolution, which was also adopted: "As neither the United Society of Christian Endeavor nor its conventions exert any control over the local societies, and as the only Christian Endeavor bonds age those of a common love for the Master and the fellowship of like aims, principles, and methods of work, and as we wish to range the young manhood and womanhood of the world under the motto 'For Christ and the Church," therefore be it resolved that we welcome to the fellowship of our unions and conventions any denominational society, which, as a guarantee of the adoption of our pledge and working methods, adopts our name in connection with any denominational name they may choose."

At Montreal the following resolutions were adopted: "That we reaffirm our adherence to the principles which we believe, under God's blessing, have made the Christian Endeavor movement what it is

"1. Personal devotion to our divine Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. "2. The covenant obligation embedied in the prayer meeting pledge, without which there can be no true Society of Christian Endeavor. "3. Constant religious training for all kinds of religious service involved in the various committees, which, so many of them as are needed, are equally with the prayer meeting essential to the Society of Christian Endeavor.

"4. Strenuous loyalty to the local church and denomination with which each society is

"5. We reaffirm our increasing confidence in the interdenominational spiritual fellowship, through which we hope, not for organic unity, but to fulfill our Lord's prayer for spiritual unity, That they all may be one.

I have quoted thus largely from the pro-ceedings of Christian Endeavor conventions, that the society might speak for itse f. From there it will be seen that it is not un or non, but interdenominational, and that the term "Christian Endeavor" stands for a particular form of Christian work in all the churches, just as the terms Sunday school, missionary, prayer-meeting do. Each of these latter is a generic term of the movement through the constituted unity wherever this form of work is taken organization along connexional lines, by the name "Christian Endeavor," which an organ devoted to the work, and an editor and secretary given up exclusively tian Endeavor, or the Epworth League of Christian Endeavor. Christian Endeavor is the complement of the Sunday school, and the two movements in relation to the churches are analogous in every respect. It exalts "Church autonomy in controlling the societies;" it seeks not "absolute uniformity nor absorption," but "unity in spirit and federation in form of organization." It simply claims that the Christian Endeavor name should go along with adoption of its principles and methods, and assumes no authority over any local society or denominational organization. Any denomination, therefore, could, as many have done, make Christian Endeavor the FLANNELETTE SHIRTS SOCKS AND BRACES nomination, therefore, could, as many general and official young people's society.

The position in the Methodist Church is that the General Conference at Montreal 'adopted the system known as the Epworth League, and for the purpose of promoting co-operation with the Society of Christian Endeavor, has incorporated the principal features of that organization, and has provided that the department of Christian Endeavor shall always be essential and fundamental in the organization and working of an Epworth League." And also that 'any league that adopts the title 'Christian Endeavor' as a distinguishing name for the local branch, will be entitled to fellowship in the unions and conventions of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor; also any Christian Endeavor Society using the term 'Epworth League,' similarly as a title, term 'Epworth League, 'similarly as a title, may be affiliated with the Epworth 132c, 15c, 18c, 20c, 25c, 30c.

Every Epworth League is therefore really and truly a Society of Christian Endeavor. The affiliated name that was adopted is "Epworth League of Christian Endeavor," and 812 of the Methodist Young People's Societies in Canada have voluntarily adopted the title. Besides these there are 259 unaffiliated "Christian Endeavor" Societies and 220 "Epworth Leagues." From this it will be seen that the overwhelming verdict of the young people of Methodism is in favor of interdenominational fellowship. They want to have practical Christian communion and working intercourse with the young people of other churches. When the societies of Ontario were asked to express themselves on the desirability of uniting all under the one title of E. L. of C. E. and petitioning General Conference to that effect, of those voting 513 were for, to 37 against. At the Methodist rally in connection with the C. E. conventions at Montreal and St. Catharines, strong resolutions were adopted in favor of making E. L. of C. E. the general and official title of the Young People's Societies of the Methodist Church Most of the annual conferences approved of E. L. of C. E. as a local title and many as general, and the Young People's Association of Ontario ask to facilitate and make easy affiliation with the Y. P. S. C. E. It is to be hoped that, in the interests of Methodism, as well as for our common Christianity, the General Conference will so move and adopt the united title. G. F. JOHNSTON. Montreal, Sept. 7, 1894.

RADWAY'S TRIAL TODAY. The Canadian Wheelman says: "Considerable interest is manifested in Radway, the London's long distance crack's effect on Sept. 10 to reduce the 100 mile Canadian record now held by Dave Nasmith in 5 hours 22 minutes 9 seconds. Radway is looked upon by those who know him as one of the best men in America at this distance and he himself is confident that with good pacing he will bring it under the 5 mark. Until Michel's recent performance on the Herne Hill track the world's record was held by Linton in 4 hours 29 minutes, but of course it was out of the question to invite comparison with the English riders, their tracks and pacing arrangements being perfection. Two years ago Radway came within nine miles of Shorland's 12 hours road record, covering 185 miles and being unpaced half the time, and had he remained in England this year he would have been one of the starters for the 24 hours Cuca Cup which Shorland has just made his own. It is to be hoped that the speedy Torontonians will enter like true sportsmen into this contest and render every assistance possible to the Londoner. From what we have seen and heard of Mr. Radway, we are sure he would be one of the first to proffer his aid to others under similar circumstances.' ZIMMERMAN'S LATEST. GENEVA, Sept. 9 .- Arthur Zimmerman won the international five kilometre race today. Time, 8:35 1-5. In a preliminary heat Zimmerman covered the distance in 8:31 2-5. The track was very damp.

B. Krinski, aged 55, a Russian Jew picture peddler, hanged himself in a bush east of Yonge street, Toronto, on Saturday. He was wretchedly poor. It is reported in Winnipeg that Mr. W.

B. Scarth, ex-M.P., will be appointed collector of customs at that port, and that Col. Scott will be superannuated. The G. T. R. station at Brussels was entered on Saturday night and $12 taken. G. Cardiff's house was also entered by a window and a lady's watch and some money At Port Glasgow on Saturday a man's body was found on the beach of Lake Erie. From papers found in the clothing it is supposed that it is Joseph Hartgrove, of The Dominion steamship Labrador has arrived, beating the record for the St. Lawrence route 3 hours and 17 minutes.

Her time from Moville to Rimouski was 6 days, 8 hours and 13 minutes. The body of Steele Hughes, killed at a barn-raising near Hollen, Guelph county, was exhumed and an inquest held on it Saturday because of a charge of negligence.

There was no evidence to justify the accusation. It is definitely stated that Walker, accused of complicity in the Williams murder. will not be tried till spring, in case more evidence turns up. MacWherral, who got a respite until after Walker's trial, will likely spend the winter in Simcoe jail. A man named Bollman, a fugitive from justice, was arrested on the arrival of the Australian steamer Warrimoo at Victoria, B. C., Saturday, charged with embezzling £1,2000 from his employers in Sydney. He offered a large sum of money to be let go.

George Johnson, Dominion statistician, will issue shortly 25,000 copies of a pamphlet, "Butter and Cheese." He sent out to the different creameries 500 circulars asking for information and received 451 in reply, so that the information in the book is very complete.

HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE.

A RAILWAY which the Germans have built in Asia Minor, extending from Ismid, a harbor about 60 miles east of Constantinople, east by south to Angora, has as little wood in it, perhaps, as any in the world. Not only the rails and bridges, but the ties and telegraph poles are of iron.

A NOVEL shaving record has been established by a Hungarian barber. He made a PRAND, N. Y., Sept. 8.—On account Pekin, which is feared. The Chinese bet of 100 florins that he would on a rail-train storm here this afternoon menace the lives of all Japanese. They try road journey of 29 minutes, from Pistyan mper as in a sloppy condition and a to prevent neutrals from loading cargoes to Neustadt, shave fifteen men without cutting them. The bet was more than won, for he actually shaved three more than the stipulated number.

It is generally supposed that when a man's heart pulsations go down to 40 a minute death will follow unless restoratives are administered. Parisian doctors are now, it is said, puzzled over a man in one of the hospitals, whose pulsations have sunk as low as eighteen a minute, although to all appearances he is well and strong.

CARDINAL LAVIGERIE'S plan for the civilization of Africa is to be tested. The first caravan of 100 African pioneers reared on the Algerian and Tunisian farms of the confraternities founded by him have just left Marseilles for Madagascar, where they are to settle as agricultural colonists. Another 100 will be sent as soon as these are established, and other companies are under orders to go to the Soudan, the Touareg country, the Tchad region, and the Congo, where they will spread the Catholic faith and French civilization.

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

LONDON, Saturday, Sept. 8.—The offerings at the cheese board today exceeded those of any previous meeting by upwards of 500 boxes. Factorymen are boarding their make, but are not inclined to accept the prices bid by the buyers. Of the 9,246 boxes boarded today by 33 factories only one lot—Union Hill—was sold, the price paid being 10½c. The bidding was brisk. The lowest figure was 10½c, while several factories could easily have got 10 9-16c. One year ago the offerings were not nearly as heavy, and trices were fully 1c lower. -Whitney Bullied, the Cheapside street laborer, was before Judge Edward Elliott again this morning. He has been in jail for some time, and will remain there until he can furnish sureties of $400 to keep the peace-himself in $200 and two sureties of $100 each. Mrs. Bullied is the complainant, and she objected very strongly to her husband being discharged unless under bonds.

-The first anniversary sermon of Invincible Council, Royal Arcanum, Ilderton, was preached on Sunday afternoon by Rev. Canon Davis, of London. The members of the order and their friends were present in large numbers, the church being far too small to contain all who came out to hear this popular minister. Rev. Mr. Rhodes, of Hyde Park, assisted at the service, which was a most impressive one. The chancel was beautifully decorated with flowers. The Royal Arcanum is very popular in and around Ilderton, and is rapidly increasing in numbers.

-A son of Mr. John Connors, 389 Grey street, ran into the house last night, say. ing that he had killed nothing less than a small alligator in the yard. Mr. Connor was somewhat doubtful at first, believing that such an animal would never infest this part of the globe. He found, however, what was apparently a member of the alligator family. It was about a foot in length. The body was shaped similar to a crocodile, while the tail was flat and gradually tapered to the point. Across the back at intervals of haf an inch were dark yellow stripes. Mr. John M. Denton looked up his natural history, and found that the animal was blessed with four names-Tweeg, of the Indians, Helbender Mud Devil, Ground Puppy, and Young Alligator, of the Anglo-Americans. It is the only known representative of the genus, and is a native of the Ohio and Allegheny Rivers. The head is flat and broad, and in the upper jaw are two concentric rows of teeth, the inner row being palatine. The limbs are short and thick. The fore feet are possessed of four toes each, with five on the hind feet. The animal is pronounced very fierce and ferocious in its habits, sparing nothing it can ever get and devour. It is believed by some to be poisonous. Mr. Deuton thinks it must have been brought this far in a storm.

Nearly Four Score and Ten. There died Sunday morning at Melbourne, Middlesex county, one of the oldest of the pioneers of this section in the person of Mrs. Ann Beaumont, mother of Mr. W. A. Beaumont, of Colborne street north, city. Deceased came from Hull, Yorkshire, England, about 1825 and settled for a time in New Brunswick, where she married. After a few years again spent in her native land, she returned to this country and scon found her way to London along with her husband and young family in the year 1848. After a brief residence here the family removed to Melbourne, where they have since continuously resided. Mr. Beaumont died seventeen years ago, and since then the aged widow has resided with her son Robert, of the same place. Mrs. Beaumont was 88 years of age at the time of her death, and had enjoyed good health up to within a short time, her only trouble being a tendency to deafness, but during the last few months she has been quite feeble. "Who told you that?" he asked, a sharper accent discernible in his tone.

'Captain Bohun. He came in this mornto tell me of the death. Considering that I have no claim upon him, that a year ago I had never spoken to him. I must say that Arthur Bohun is very kind and attentive to me. He is one in a thousand,"

Perhaps the temptation to say, "it's not for your take he is so attentive," momentarily assailed Oliver Rane. But he was good natured in the main, and he knew when to be silent, and when to speak; no man better. Besides it was no business of

"I entertain a different opinion," he observed, referring to the point in discussion. "Of course it is all guess work as to the writer's motive; there can be no profit in discussing it, mother; and I must be going, for my dinner's waiting. Thank you for send-

"A moment yet, Oliver," she interposed, as he was moving away. "Have you heard that Alexander is going to leave?" "Yes; he was talking to me about it this

Phillis had it chiefly to her-

He smiled as he shook hands with her: partly in affection, partly at her unusual vehemence. In passing the drawing room, Even Adair happened to be coming out of it, but he went on. She supposed he had not observed her, and spoke.

"Ah! how do you do, Miss Adair?" he said, turning back, and offering his hand. "Forgive my haste; I am busy today."

And before she had time to make a reply, he was gone; leaving an impression on her mind, she could not well have told why or wherefore, that he was ill at ease; that he had hastened away, not from pressure of work, but because he did not care to talk to

It that feeling was possessing Dr. Rane, and had reference to the world in general, and not to the young lady in particular, it might not have been agreeable to him to encounter an acquaintance as he turned out of his mother's house. Mr. Alexander was swiftly passing on his way towards home from the lower part of the Ham, and "I wish I had never said a syllable about going away until I was off," cried he in his 'test it." off hand manner—a pleasanter and more sociable manner than Dr. Rane's. news has been noised broad, and the whole place is upon me; asking this, that and the other. One man comes and wants to know if I'll sell my furniture; another thinks he'd like the house as it stands. My patients are up in arms; -say I'm doing it to kill them. I shall have some of them in a fever before the day's over."

"Perhaps you won't go, after all," observed Dr. Rane. "Not go! How can I help going? I'm elected to the post. Why, it's what I've been coking for ever so long—a most ever since I came here. No, no Rane; a short time, and Dallory Ham will have seen the

He hastened across the road to his house, like a man who has the world's work on his busy shoulders. Dr. Rane's thoughts, as he glanced after him, reverted to the mental argument he had held in his chamber, and he unconsciously resumed it, putting himself in the place of the unknown, unhappy

'It's almost keener than the death itselfif the motive was to injure Alexander in his profession, or drive him from the place-to know that he, or she-Mrs. North-might have spared her pains! Heavens! what remorse it must be!-to commit a crime, and then find there was no necessity for doing

Dr. Rane passed his white handkerchief over his brow-the day was very warm-and turned into his house. Phillis once more placed the dinner on the table, and he sat down to it.

But not a mouthful could he swallow; his throat felt like so much dried chip, and the food would not go down. Phillis who was coming in for something or other, saw him leave his plate and rise from the table. 'Is the fowl tender, sir?"

"Tender?" he responded, as though the sense of the question had not reached him. and paused. "Oh, it's tender enough; but I must gooff to a patient. Get your own din-

"Surely you'll come back to yours, sir?"
"I've had as much as I want. Take the things away."

"I wonder what's come to him?" mused the woman as his quick steps receded from the house, and she was left with the rejected dishes. A consciousness came dimly penetrating to her lazy brain that there was some change upon him. What it was, or where it lay, she did not define. It was unusual for his strong firm fingers to drop a glass; it was still more unusual for him to exp ain cause and effect. "The jar slipped from my fingers." "I've had as much as I want. I must go off to a patient." It was quite out of the order of routine for Dr. Rane to be explanatory to his servant on any subject whatever; and perhaps it was his having been soin these two instances that impressed Phillis.

"How quick he must have eaten his din-Phillis nearly dropped the dish. The words were spoken close behind her, and she had be leved herself alone in the house. Turning, she saw Jelly, standing half in, and half out of the window.

"Well, I'm sure!" cried Phillis, in wrath. "You needn't come startling a body in that way, Mrs. Jelly. How did you know but the doctor might be at table?"

"I've just seen him go down the lane," returned Jelly, who had plenty of time for gossiping with her neighbors, and had come strolling over the fence now with no other object. "Has he had his dinner? It's but the other minute he was at our house." "He has had as much as he means to have," answered Phillis, her anger evaporating, for she liked a gossip also. "I'm sure it's not worth the trouble of serving meals, if they are to be left in this fash-

It was the same thing at breakfast.' Jelly recollected the scene at breakfast; the startled pallor on Dr. Rane's face, when told that Edmund North was dead; she supposed that had spoiled his appetite. Her inquisitive eyes turned unceremoniously to the fowl, and she saw that the merest slice off the wing was alone eaten. "Perhaps he is not well today," said

"I don't know about his being well; he's odder than I ever saw him," answered Phillis. "I shouldn't wonder but he has had his stomach turned over them two half drowned men."

She carried the dinner things across to the kitchen. Jelly, who assisted at the ceremony, as far as watching and talking went, was standing in the passage, when her quick eyes caught sight of two small pieces of glass. She stooped to pick them

"Look, Phillis! You have been breaking something. It's uncommonly careless to leave the bits about."

"Is it!" retorted Phillis. "Your eyes are in everything. I thought I took 'em all up," she added, looking on the ground.

"What did you break?"
"Nothing. It was the doctor. He dropped one of them dusty glass jars down the stairs. It did give me a start. You should have heard the smash."

heard the smasn.
"What made him drop it?" a ked Jelly.
"Goodness knows," returned the old woman. He's not a bit like himself today; it's just as if something had come to him." She began her dinner as she spoke, standing, her usual mode of taking it. Jelly, following her free and easy habits, stood against the door post, apparently interested in the progress of the meal. They presented a contrast, these two women, the one a thin, upright giantess, the other a dwarf stooping forward. Jelly, a lady's maid, held herself of course altogether above Phillis, an ignorant (as Jelly would have described her) servant of all work, though condescending to drop in for the sake of gossip.

"Did you happen to hear how the doctor found Ketler?" "As if I should be likely to hear!" was

A silence ensued. The gossip apparently now. New houses are to be built, they say, at the other end of the Ham, and the practice will be worth a great deal. I shall sleep come to Dr. Rane.

MARS COMING NEARER.

SOME STRANGE THINGS GOING ON UP IN THE PLANET.

The Astronomers Are Now on the Lookout-Mysterious Flash Lights and Shadows Which May Be Part of an Inter-Planetary Signal Code-A Marsian View.

Mars is coming this way at a rapid rate. and making signals to all smaller planets to look out. Mars will be close to the earth now in a few weeks, and every night that goes by brings the red orb clearer and clearer into the field of vision of the big telescopes which are pointed at him. The astronomers are telegraphing to each other from eligible points about the discoveries they are making, and scientists are wagging their heads wisely, big with thought. They say that we are upon the eve of astounding discoveries, but they are reluctant to say what these discoveries may be.

One man has said within a few weeks that he has found that Mars has no atmos. phere. Another scientist asserts that the atmosphere of Mars is so heavy that it falls to the ground with a loud thud, and that the people who live there have lungs of an entirely different make from those used on earth. Prof. Holden, of the Lick Observatory, proceeds to say that "If Mars has an atmosphere," thereby proving that he is taking a conservative course, and prepared to win either way when the point is finally settled.

But it is no longer to be denied that some very strange and mysterious things are going on on Mars, and that things are appearing there which are to be found in none other of the heavenly bodies. It is these things which, taken together, form the basis for the assertion that Mars is inhabited by a highly civilized race of people who are making every effort to open up communication with the residents of Earth, The phenomena are to be accounted for in no other way. Astronomers, however, are loath to admit that the scientists are right in saying that Mars is inhabited by a highly civilized race of beings. Although their own discoveries have afforded the proof upon which this belief is based, yet they hesitate to carry the subject to its logical however, do not thus evade the conclusion to which all their work points. Flammaon the other side, that it must be shown that Mars is not inhabited by a highly civilized race. All of the proof and all of the innumerable observations and discoveries made during the past two years go to show that Mars is inhabited.

There has not been anything adduced to show that Mars is like the moon, a dead, dry ghost of a planet. This answers to the description of the two moons of Mars, one of which was discovered by Prof. Hall, of Washington. They are dead and dry like our own single moon, and strange to say, they swing about the planet in different directions. They are as different from Mars as our moon is different from the earth. If Mars had no atmosphere and was existing under physical conditions, which would make animal and vegetable life there impossible, then Mars and its two moons would be of the same nature. But Mars is like the earth and its moons are like our moon. Mars is warm in color and warm in fact, with a rich red soil capable of producing much and sustaining a vigorous animal life. It throws off heat of its own, unlike its moons, which are white and ghostly and dead. Given heat and life must result. This is an axiom of science. Given certain conditions of heat with earth and air, and trees must grow, grass sprout, insects breed, animals wander about, and man himself be pre-

Here are a few of the strange things seen on Mars:

Canals. Three lights in a triangle. A nick in the rim. A luminous projection. Black, shifting marks on polar cap. A pyramid.

Disappearance of lights. A flashlight in a dark place.

From Australia come reports of recent observations showing what looked like hieroglyphics on the south polar cap. These closely resemble the shifting black marks observed by Prof. Barnard at the Lick Observatory, and are apparently part of the same single system.

Mars has been especially observed during the past few months by Prof. Maunder, of the Greenwich Observatory in England. He flatly contradicts the assertion that the red planet has little, if any, atmosphere. Prof. Mannder says in a recent article in the Westminster Budget: "The spectrum gives evidence of watery vapor." He also finds water, snow and ice on Mars, which could not exist without an at-

Early in October Mars will reach a nearer point to Earth than for many years to come. Unfortunately the great Yerkes telescope, the object glass of which is four inches larger than that of the Lick, will not then be in operation. Prof. Lowell, however, took with him to Flagstaff several very powerful instruments, especially prepared for observation of Mars by correction of the lenses for the color red, and at the Lick Observatory the big telescope is nightly trained on the planet. Besides this, astronomers all over the world have dropped all other work, and for the next few weeks will confine their attention altogether to watching for signals and interpreting their meaning.—New York for Infants and Children.

OTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine? Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Casteria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense? Do You Knew that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless? De You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 36 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

At 10h 32m the eclipse will be at its maximum. After that there will be only the faint penumbral shading on the west side of the disk.

At Queen's Avenue Church yesterday norning the sermon was preached by Rev. H. J. Pope, the English representative of Wesleyan Methodism. The church had been tastefully decorated with flowers, and the musical service was grand. A number of visiting clergymen occupied seats on the platform, among whom were: Rev. Dr. Carman, Rev. Dr. Shaw, Dr. Rev. Potts (Toronto), Rev. Dr. Sutherland, Rev. Dr. McDonald, Rev. Dr. Dewart, Rev. Dr. Hunter, Rev. Dr. Burwash, Rev. Dr. Milligan and Rev. Dr. Sanderson and the pastor, Rev. J. W. Annis. The text was taken from the 23rd verse of the first chapter of Paul's Epistles to the Philippians, and the subject of Mr. Pope's remarks was "Converson." He argued that it was of more importance to be sure one was converted than to be able to be precise as to the moment the conversion occurred. Mr. J. W. Fetherston opened the musical service with an andante from "G" symphony (Haydn). The anthem was from Haydn's "Messiah," in which the solo part was taken by Miss Tillie Barnard in a beautiful contralto voice. A quartette rendered "Rock of Ages" (Budley Bucke) in a very impressive manner. The singers were Miss Birdie Land, Miss Laurina Hartson, Mr. Thomas Norman, and Mr. A. T. Stockwell. Mr. l'etherston's closing overture was from Verdi's "Nebuchadnezzer." The organist was assisted by Mr. Thomas McCormick, cornet, and Mr. Fred Howell, bass horn.

In the evening the platform was again filled with visitors, and Rev. J. H. Potts, discourse. The attendance was very large, was a special feature. The sermon was an appropriate Methodist one on the life of Christ. The text was taken from Colossians, i., 28. The anthem was from Gaul's "Holy City." Miss Laurina Hartson in a very charming manner sang a singularly difficult solo, "Hear Ye, Israel." The closing selection was Costa's "Triumphal

Valentine Fisher is Cured of His Troubles to Have No Return-He is Doing a Flourishing Fruit Tree Business,

Colling wood, Sept 10 .- About a year ago a telegraphic dispatch from here told years from Sciatica, and who was so crippled by the disease as to be unable to work and was generally thought at death's door, was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. That the story was no fiction was known by all citizens of this place. That the cure is a permanent one is now just as generally known, for since his recovery, Mr. Fisher has been hard at work selling fruit trees for Chase Bros., of Rochester, N. Y., and has traveled the whole of this section for this firm with most gratifying success.

"You Must Not Play on Sunday." WALTHAM, Mass., Sept. 9.-E. S. Wilkie and Sumner Paine, members of the Boston Athletic Association, charged with violation of the statute in playing golf on Sunday, were today in the District Court adjudged guilty and fined $10 each.

Important to Fishermen. WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 8 .- Secretary Carlisle today settled the disputed fish sections of the tariff bill by deciding that all fish imported into the United States unless the product of American fisheries and unless packed in ice and frozen are dutiable at the rate of 10 per cont ad val-

DURING a continued dry spell in South Florida, reptiles often are obliged to resort to unique methods for obtaining fresh water. One need not be surprised while pumping water to see little brown frogs issue from the pump and one man was rather startled while pumping to see a snake two feet long issue from the spout, and upon striking the ground quickly crawl under a house. The reptiles crawl into the pump to enjoy the water held up by the valves.
