London, May 27 .- It seems pretty | imprisonment, owing to the easier conclear that Mr. William O'Brien will soon cease to be a member of Parliament for Cork. He has not paid Mr. Chance's costs, and the Healeyites are getting ready to seize his seat as soon as he is formally made a bankrupt. Those are the cold facts. Mr. O'Brien's friends put the matter more picturesquely, but still strictly within the limits of truth. He is, they say, "being sacrificed to the venom and bad feeling of men who should be his best friends. He is being ruined behind the nation's back by the scoundrels who are trying to strangle the national cause."

It is a bad business for Mr. O'Brien. He has in his possession quite a collection of writs from people who have had the bad taste to press him for payment, of course, at the instigation of the malign Healy, and nothing is left for him to do but to go through the bankruptcy court and trust his personal material future to the generosity of Mrs. O'Brien, who, happily, is well endowed with worldly goods. As for Mr. Chance, he is past praying for, because he is not only pressing Mr. O'Brien in this most brutal fashion, but is actually threatening the committee of the national party with writs and seeking to make certain members personally responsible for money spent there among the guests. for public purposes.

A ROYAL NUISANCE.

Prince Nasrulla, the second son of the Ameer of Afghanistan, has duly arrived here as a pledge of his father's love for England, and London society is preparing to make much of him. They will not find the work altogether easy and enjoyable. Nasrulla is a morose young man, and ill at ease in his gorgeous, tight-fitting uniform. He has a pair of eyes that are strangely suggestive of a frightened, ill-tempered horse about to kick and bolt. Prince Nasrulla has a strong objection to being hurried. He has already kept Queen Victoria waiting for him at Windsor when she was anxious to start for Scotland, and he will doubtless cause a great deal of trouble in the same way before he returns home. When the young prince arrived in London the other evening the English officers attached to his suite made him look like a fool by telling him in pantomime how he ought to inspect the guard of honor drawn up on the platform to salute him, and he let everybody see his irritation. His staff consists of several second-rate princes and a number of big-limbed officers. Each is held personally responsible by the Ameer for the safety and proper treatment of his son, and the responsibility appears to rest on them with crush-Some of them may not understand their sovereign's newfound love for Afghanistan's hereditary enemy. Suspicion is natural to an Afghan, and that feeling may have induced the prince and his staff to keep their hands on the hilts of their swords in and out of season.

Nervous people regard with apprehension this invasion of London by the wild Afghan chiefs and soldiers who form Nasrulla's escort. They are great, muscular fellows, infantry men in red jackets and white trousers, troopers in blue and gray, all carrying murderous looking Afghan arms. The prince's staff, escort and servants have, however, to be well treated, for reasons of State, and a programme of amusement and instruction has been arranged sufficient to send all home full of the glories and wonders of the west.

RUSSIA'S BRUTALITY. The universal horror caused by the virtually complete confirmation of the Kurdish atrocities in Armenia has wholly obscured the fact that the Sultan has other Christian subjects who have not been harried and tortured, and that in some respects his Majesty compares very favorably with the Czar of Russia, who has joined with great heartiness in the general outcry as though, in matters of religion, he were the most benign of rulers. The Evangelical Alliance has agents scattered all over the Turkish empire, and a local secretary, who has lived at peace with all men in Constantinople for 40 years. Mr. Arnold, general secretary of the alliance, believes in giving the devil his due. Of all the numerous Protestant clergymen in Armenia, he says, not one has been interfered with during the recent troublous times, presumably because they keep clear of politics. The alliance has always found the Sultan most approachable, and it had only to go to the Government at Constantinople to find them ready to take up its case. But it is very different in Russia. Religious persecution there rages unchecked. Men are sent into exile and to prison for such crimes as refusing to hang up saints' pictures in their own private rooms. Of the 300,000 Stundists, 3,000 are at present in prison or in Siberia, and the alliance has just spent £1,000 helping their wives and families to join the exiles. When, some time ago, Greek Christians in a Turkish town destroyed a Protestant place of worship and maltreated the converts, the alliance brought the facts to the notice of the Sultan, who promptly gave the Protestants a permit to build a new church, and made the Greek community contribute $750 toward the cost of rebuilding: but they were never able to get into direct communication with the late Czar, and memorials signed by such dignitaries as the Archbishop of Canterbury and leading men in England and America have remained unanswered. It is only fair to place these things on record when there is a disposition to beatify the young Czar and crucify the old Sultan.

THE MANITOBA MATTER.

Conferences and a Cabinet Meeting, But No Results Announced.

(Specially telegraphed by our own Representative.)

Ottawa, Ont., May 26.-Up to the time of the departure of Premier Greenway for Montreal yesterday any negotiations with Premier Greenway looking towards a settlement of the Manitoba school case had been left to his Excellency. In fact neither the Manitoba Premier nor his Attorney-General have seen Sir Mackenzie Bowell since their arrival at Ottawa.

The fact that Sir Charles Tupper was called home and that Premier Greenway is to return to Ottawa before he leaves for Winnipeg to meet his Legislature leads to the belief that as a result of the recent conferences between the Manitoba Ministers and the Governor-General negotiations, if not altogether satisfactory to the Canadian Government, have reached a point where his Excellency has a case to submit to his Ministerial advisers. A lengthy meeting of the Cabinet, at which Sir H. Tupper was present, was held yesterday, it is understood, to receive a communication from Lord Aberdeen of the result of his meetings with The report that the matter is still in abeyance and that no definite answer has yet been given by Greenway is mainly due to the fact that Premier Greenway returns to Ottawa this week, where he will hold a further interview with his Excellency before going back to Winnipeg.

BOTH DROWNED.

Father and Son Lose Their Lives in the Grand River.

Hamilton, Ont., May 26.—Robert Walker, a farmer living in Onandaga township, about ten miles from Hamilton, and his son, aged 25, were crossing the Grand River in a flat-bottomed boat on Friday, when the craft upset and both men were drowned.

The accident happened only about 40 feet from the shore, but the son was unable to swim, and Mr. Walker, in his efforts to save his son, went down with him. Walker leaves a widow and a large grown up family.

LETTERS TO THE "ADVERTISER."

If you have a grievance to ventilate, information to give, a subject of public interest to discuss, or a service to acknowledge, we will print it in this column, provided the name of the writer is attached to his or her communication for publication. Make it as brief as possible.

To the Editor of the "Advertiser": Will you please give space to the following statement in your paper in regard to the postponement of the Boys' Brigade entertainment last night:

The impression seems to have been shared by a great number of the citizens that the entertainment was gotten up by the same committee and was of the same nature as the entertainments given weekly in the News Boys' Hall. This we would like to correct, as the programme was contributed to by the Memorial Company of the Boys' Brigade, 150 strong, efficiently drilled in field marching by Capts. Hannah and Wilson; by the First London Company of the Congregational Church, thoroughly drilled under the competent instruction of Quartermaster-Sergt, Irwin, of the London Field Battery, in mounted sword exercise; by the Third London Company, of the Horton Street Congregational Church, under the command of Capt. Cordingly, who for some years was under the command of Gen. Gordon in Africa, and by the Ambulance Corps, under the able instruction of Dr. Wishart. It would more than repay any parent or boy for the time and money spent in witnessing the exhibi-

The boys, at much sacrifice to themselves, have undergone drill every night for some weeks in preparation for the entertainment, willingly yielding any proceeds that might be realized to aid in liquidating the few liabilities that rest on the News Boys' Hall after its winter work of philanthropy and humanity. The chairman, Rev. Mr. Stuart, of Knox Church, South London, and a member of the Dominion Executive of the Boys' Brigade, with those in charge, decided that the excellency of the programme deserved a much larger audience than greeted them last night. The entertainment has, therefore, been postponed for a week. If the committee do not find sufficient encouragement, then the well-earned appreciation of the boys' efforts will be reserved till the fall, when their president and patrons, Lord and Lady Aberdeen, have promised to visit them in this city. If this is decided upon, the money paid for tickets will be refunded, notice of which will appear in the press later. Respectfully yours, CAPT. A. B. JMRIE, Acting Secretary. London, May 25, 1895.

Speculation Regarding Dissolution of the British Parliament-Oscar Wilde's Case

THE UNIONISTS.

London, May 26 .- The Unionist leaders have decided to postpone a decisive trial of the strength of the Government until Whitsuntide. The latest calculation is that the elections will take place in the third week in July.

STEAMER SUNK. Southampton, May 26 .- The steamer Arundo arrived here today with her bow damaged. She reports that she was in collision in the English Channel with the steamer Monton, injuring her so badly that she sank. Two of the Monton's crew were drowned.

THE ARMENIAN TROUBLE. London, May 26.-The Graphic will tomorrow publish a dispatch from Constantinople saying it is understood that a majority of the Sultan's advisers have urged his acceptance of the scheme for Armenian reforms submitted by the powers, but that the grand vizier opposes the plan.

THE ITALIAN ELECTIONS. Rome, May 26 .- Advices from the provinces show that great excitement over the results of the elections prevails everywhere. Today passed without disorder, excepting an affray in Naples, in which three persons were wounded. The returns thus far received show that all the members of the Cabinet have been re-elected. Signor Crispi has been returned.

IN BETTER SHAPE. The New York Tribune's cable says: The Government's position is better at the end of the week than it was at the beginning, in spite of the Unionist victory at Warwick Leamington, where Mr. has bowled out his Liberal opponent. Dress Cottons, has bowled out his Liberal opponent. Sir Wm. Harcourt is showing himself to be a worthy successor of the old Parliamentary hand.

DILLON DICTATES. Liverpool, May 28.—Speaking in this city today John Dillon, the well-known Irish leader, said that the Irish Parliamentary party had made unceasing efforts to secure the release of the Irish litical prisoners. He declared that Irishmen should not vote for the Liberal candidates at the next general election unless home rule was placed at the forefront of their programme. TWENTY-SIX SHOCKS!

Constantinople, May 26 .- A series of earthquakes today virtually razed the town of Paramythia, European Turkey. Fifty persons were killed and 150 seriously injured. The inhabitants are panic-stricken and will pass the night in open spaces. The total number of shocks was 26. The Greek Church, which was built 300 years ago, was moved several yards, but is still standing.

A "HOLY WAR." London, May 26 .- In the course of his sermon, delivered in the City Temple today, Rev. Joseph Parker, D.D., said that he had not attended the meetings in London to protest against the Armenian outrages for the reason that these meetings would not come to anything. It was time for action, he declared, and the only action to be taken was a war against Turkey. Such a war would be the most holy, humane and righteous one the world had ever known.

THE WIDLE CASE. London, May 26 .- The Marquis of Queensberry has applied to the treas ury to recoup him the $10,000 expended in the Wilde case. The treasury offered him $500. The marquis, in reply, says that unless he is reimbursed he will raise the question in Parliament. The jury in the Wilde case occupied two hours in consideration of the case. After their verdict had been rendered Sir Edward Clarke, on behalf of Wilde and counsel for Alfred Taylor, made application for a postponement of sentence. The judge peremptorily refused to grant the application. "DISTINGUISHED" VISITORS.

London, May 26.—Sirdir Nasruhrulla Khan, the second son of the Ameer of Afghanistan, who is now visiting England, will remain at Dorchester House, whither he went immediately upon arrival in London, for six weeks. His visit will cost the Government $33,-000, inclusive of the damage that will result from the habits of the 90 natives in his suite. The experience met with in the visit of his father to England debarred him from being lodged in a royal palace, as it was found ne cessary to cleanse and disinfect the palace the Ameer and his suite occupied after they returned to Afghanistan. The unique collection of works by the old masters in Chester House has been covered up to protect them from the distiguished visitors, and British officers are in charge of the temporary residence of the Prince of Afghanistan to keep it as far as possible from being damaged. The Prince of Wales visited the prince at 9 o'clock today. The officials will be glad when the sojourn in England of the Ameer's representative is ended and he returns home. CRISPI VICTORIOUS.

London, May 27 .- A dispatch from Rome says the latest returns show the election of 321 adherents of Crispi and 187 members of the Opposition.

ENGLAND AND AMERICA. Southampton, May 27.-The mayor and the members of the corporation of Southampton paid a visit today to the United States training ship Alliance, where they were entertained at lunch. A salute of thirteen guns was fired in honor of the visitors, and the ship's band played British and American

The following extract from an American paper will be of interest to fair cyclists in this city: There will be parades and meets and all sorts of functions in connection with wheeling; indeed, an important event is to take place in June. It is to be a bicycle flower parade along the banks of the Hudson, round about Rhinebeck, the home of so many wealthy summer visitors.

Among those who will take part in this auspicious event are the Misses Morton, Miss Julia Dent Grant, Mrs. Reginald De Koven, Mrs. Fred Gebhardt, Mrs. Harry Le Grand Cannon, Mrs. T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, Mrs. John Jacob Astor and so on through & familiar list, the procession to be about half a mile long, leaving a short wheeling distance between riders.

The wheels are to be trimmed with flowers and made as beautiful as possible, while the riders will wear costumes of dainty coloring to harmonize. One of the fair riders, whose pocketbook is a very long one, will have her wheel gilded for the occasion. She will then trim it from end to end, over spokes and all, with white roses, making the white and gold effect of the Empire styles, which she greatly plated wheel, which she will have trimmed with crimson roses. The Misses Rockefeller are the owners of silver-plated wheels, and they will cover them with laurel from the Catskills, and they will wear pink duck costumes and Panama hats.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor owns a nickel-

Two other wheels will be trimmed with purple stocks, and another will be crowded over with buttercups. At this parade there will be no bloomers nor knickerbockers. Many of the young ladies will have their grooms along on the edge of the parade. They will be dressed in ordinary livery, and their wheels will be decorated only with green boughs. At the head of the parade will be an amateur band, made up of the "small brothers" of those in the procession, including Cornelius Vanderbilt, jun., John D. Rockefeller, jun., young Mackay and

"Some are good, I suppose, but I prefer the medium course myself, that is, outside of one thing. For months I had indigestion, and if you'd seen me last August you'd have thought death had me marked. I got so I couldn't eat. I tried this meat business, and hot water, and I don't know what else. I fell off from 160 to 110 pounds, and was a wreck. A friend told me how he'd cured himself without a cent for a doctor. Eat nothing but crackers and milk or cream, and drink nothing but vichy or carbonic water. After the first meal you eat you'll be hungry in another hour. Repeat, but mind, nothing else. The crackers are flaky, and the gastric juice in the stomach easily digests them, the aerated water helps and milk tones it all. I tried it. It was tough at first, but in three weeks I had a new stomach; in six weeks I was well and

Good-Bye, Thirteenth I

Returned Home,

Leaving a Very Pleasing Memory of

In Which Good Music Reigns Paramount -The Sunday Morning Church Parade-March to the Train

The Thirteenth have come and gone, and nearly all that remains is a refreshing memory of sweet music and of a volunteer regiment the possession of which should make any city justly proud. It is not likely that the visitors went away with any bitterness in their hearts. The stay was apparently enjoyed by everyone, and the Thirteenth's remembrance of the days spent in the We are going to give them | Forest City cannot help but be pleasant. They can now dream of shady avenues, pure water, pretty girls and horse cars to their hearts' content, taking care, however, in dreaming about the latter not to have the night-

After the sham fight of Saturday morning the day was given up to sport. In the afternoon the large open cars were placed at the disposal of the men, and a trip was made down town. There must have been 150 singing, shouting and dancing soldiers on the three cars. The dancing took place on the roof, where not a few were content to ride and display to the best advantage their native loveliness and leather lungs. Some were dressed in negro minstrel fashion, and all made themselves heard. Coming back the cars were not so well filled, and a crowd of soldiers locked arms on Dundas street and formed a line which extended from sidewalk to sidewalk. In this manner they walked down the business portion of the town, and caused no end of merriment. Even the officers were out for a good time, and during the afternoon Children's Muslin Embroid- a number of them were driven through the town in a coach and four by Major Beattie. The single coachman's seat in rear was divided between a flunkey and a bugler, and every time the lat-ter had to bugle, the former lovingly held him on, as the coach rocked and pitched on London's excellent (?) block pavement. Soldiers who had friends in town looked them up. Others spent the day in busy flirtation with London girls, while a few more cranky, crusty and probably married men went to the baseball match.

In the evening the city was overrun again with redcoats. By this time the numbers were largely augmented by the Seventh, the Hussars and the artillerymen. A couple of thousand citizens made their way to Queen's Park and In Ladies' and Children's listened to a superb concert by the Thirteenth and Seventh Bands. The Concert began by the Thirteenth play-White Underwear, we have ing the overture, "L'Puritani" (Basquith), at the conclusion of which they were liberally applauded. A fantasia, backs, back for the station. The rain moderated as the regiment reached the main portion of the town, and as were liberally applauded. This was encored. "Herzenslust" (L. V. Keller), a waltz, was then given by the Seventh, and Masters Hugh Galbraith and Thomas May danced the Highland fling and the sword dance in a very creditable man-ner. "Nearer, My God, to Thee" by the combined bands was one of the finest selections of the evening, and was heartily encored. The music of the Thirteenth Band was both grand and sweet, and of such quality as will be long remembered by Londoners. The only drawback to the enjoyment of it was the small army of peddlers of peanuts, bananas, cigars and soft drinks that swarmed over the stand, shouting their wares just at the time the music was at its best. In fact, they seemed to take advantage of the times when the music was low and sweet, as then they could be best heard. This drawback does not ap-The same trouble is experienced when-ever there is a crowd on the stands, no matter what the occasion. One lady complained severely because a boy, in passing in front, had spilled a lot of red orangeade into the lap of her light gray dress. The music of the Seventh lacked the power and volume of the Thirteenth. This is not to be wondered at when the size of the two bands is taken into consideration. Besides, the Seventh is practically a new band, while the Thirteenth is composed of old and skilled musicians. During the rendition of the programme a company of the Thirteenth executed the various movements of physical drill with the rifle in such a trained and regular manner as to win a tumult of applause. This was repeated when the same company gave the bayonet exercise.

The sham battle was pretty and realistic. The stage fort was defended by about 100 Turks (?), who could be plainly discerned in their picturesque garb when the rays of a powerful electric searchlight was turned upon them. The proceedings are opened by a shot from the fort. A soldier who is reconnoitering drops. Two cavalrymen gallop up, his form is thrown over one of the horses, and a very restless dead man is trotted off. A line of infantry takes position directly in front of the fort and commence a fusillade. The Turks return the fire, and one big gun on either side bellow and puff smoke at one another, while the concussion is almost strong enough to take your hat off. Finally the fort is seen to be on fire. The redcoats get up from the ground and advance in double-quick. The officers run on ahead flourishing their swords, and the Turks retire behind the fort. Over the breastworks leap the gallant officers, their swords pointing the way to victory. Several dead (?) Turks are gathered up by the ambulance corps. The rest are dis-armed and are marched around the ring between two rows of redcoats to the air of "See the Conquering Hero Comes." Shortly afterwards the same Turks could be seen sneaking back the rear way to secure the guns they had stacked when they capitulated. Then a very creditable display of fireworks, with questions about "enemies,"
"Turks" and "cannons," clasps his hands and gleefully tells his mother

THE CHURCH SERVICE.

Very few of the regular attendants at St. Paul's Church secured seats yesterday morning. Over three-quarters of the available room was taken up by the troops. The rendezvous was at the led by Louis Riel. Concluding, refercorner of Queen's avenue and Colborne ence was made by Mr. Taylor to the street, and here about 10:30 the garripraiseworthy objects of the order.

Son of London met the Thirteenth. The procession reformed, and on re-

M.P.P., bringing up the rear. The Thirteenth, Seventh and No. 1 Company, R. R. C. I., followed, each accompanied by its band.

It was impossible to get near the doors of the church after the troops had en-tered. The sermon was preached by the chaplain of the Thirteenth, Rev. George Forneret. He chose as his text, St. Matthew, xi., 12: "The kingdom of heaven suffereth violence, and the vio-lent take it by force." It was sometimes best, the preacher said, to carry the enemy's position at the point of the bayonet. So it was with the kingdom of heaven. It is to be won, it is to be had, by those who are in earnest, by those who make the effort. The kingdom of God is free; the old gospel of force has passed away, and the new system of love has taken its place. There is now a possibility for all to enter the kingdom of God, Jew or Gentile, no matter in what part of the earth. The lesson of the text was one of intense earnestness. Every effort must be put forth, and then the kingdom of God would be attained. God had given them a will with regard to spiritual life, and a sailor might just as well furl sail, throw away compass and expect to drift into the kingdom of heaven as to expect to attain that without exercising the will. The three main obstacles to a Christian life were the world, the flesh and the devil. But God is a helper. He loves the worst of sinners, and says: "Return ye unto me, for I am the redeemer." If they were in earnest they must make an earnest effort, and they had the promise of success. "Seek and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.' This promise is for those who seek honestly and for those who seek in time. Many, the preacher said, remained out of the kingdom of heaven because the matter was not placed before them in the right light. The judgments of God were dwelt on too largely, instead of the love of God. He advised them to think less of the judgment of God and more of the love of God. Lastly, they should carefully follow a course of prayer. In conclusion, the reverend gentleman said that in looking over such a large body of young men and strong he could not help thinking of the tremendous power of such a body for good or for evil. He advised them to put forth every physical effort to support the law and the government, and to do their duty by the country, but also to see to it that all of their strength mate channels for certain times and also for certain things, but they should see to it that their energies

the National Anthem, and then the troops reformed and marched back quarters.

When it came to parting with the gallant Thirteenth, even nature wept. In other words, it rained. It not only rained, but it poured. And in the midst of the drenching rain, which looked as though it would continue for several days, the boys from Hamilton, in their great coats, with their packs on their backs, bade farewell to Queen's Park, soon as instruments could be without becoming filled with water, the band played "Auld Lang Syne." A couple of thousands braved the rain to see the boys off, and as the train pulled out of the M. C. R. depot, a little before five o'clock, cheers and counter cheers were given that could be heard out in East London.

Church Parade of the Sons England.

Continuation of the United Methodist Revival Services-Another Busy Day for Evangelist Yatman.

The seven London lodges of the Sons of England, accompanied by St. George's Society, attended divine service in St. James' church, South London, yesterday afternoon. About the hour appointed for leaving the hall, corner of Richmond and Carling streets, rain began to fall in torrents, but when the storm ceased about 150 brethren fell in, and headed by the Cavalry band, proceeded to the church by way of Richmond, Horton and Ridout streets. British Lion Lodge No. 53 headed the line, and was followed in order by Beresford, British Oak, Chelsea, Piccadilly, Trafalgar and Kensington Lodges, and St. George's, with Messrs. Walton and Minhinnick as marshals.

Rev. R. T. Taylor, of Montreal, Dominion Deputy of the Sons of England. preached the sermon. He chose for his text I Samuel, xvii., 45. "Then said David to the Philistines: Thou comest to me with a sword and a spear, and with a shield; but I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Isreal, whom thou hast defied." After speaking of the contest between the youthful David and the Philistine, Rev. Mr. Taylor said: "Sons of England, I speak to you in fraternal love. What is it that exalteth a nation; makes us kind to one another; teaches us to carry out charity? It is righteousness in the Lord of Hosts. Righteousness exalteth a nation and nothing else. Ships on the sea, armies or material wealth do not exalt They may be the means to an end, but they are too often confounded with the end. It is adherence to principle-that principle which should be characteristic of every son of England as he walks from day to day the streets of this city-that we are for God and God for us. That is what makes a nation strong and your page of history luminous with glorious deeds. That is what has made the mother country what she is today. England has been called a nation of shopkeepers, but see what she has done for the world. See what she has given to the world. She has given Sheakespeare, Newton, Gordon, Nelson—these and hundreds of others; and what is the one word written above that flag that we all honor? Freedom! Freedom has made England her home. And where is justice so fairly administered? Where is truth so fearlessly proclaimed? If we speak of the achievements of her soldiers and seamen, the world has never seen a braver lot." The preacher dwelt on the bravery of Nelson and his seamen, Wellington at Waterloo, the Britishers in Zululand. The hearts of England's sons were the hearts of men strong in their cause, and today the noblest names on the roll of the martyred dead were those of sons of Engand. To be seen in the recent history of the Northwest were manifestations that English blood flowed in the Canadian veins, when boys and

> THE EVANGELISTIC SERVICES. Yesterday was a red letter day in Mr. Yatman's special evangelistic meetings. Beginning in the early morning, he conducted a sunrise prayer meeting. From 10 a.m. till church time a union Methodist love feast was held in the City Hall. At 11 o'clock he conducted services in the Opera House, and in the afternoon three meetings were held in the rink— one for young folks, another for the young ladies and the other for men. At 6:30 p.m. a mass meeting for boys was held in the rink, and at 8:15 the final meeting of the day. The young ladies' meeting was in progress when the rain storm came on, and a large amount of water came in through the windows and pipes into the floor, which slightly inconvenienced those in that vicinity.

The grand meeting for the unconverted was timed for 8:15, but at 8 o'clock all the available seats were filled, and the 1,500 more who came in after that time had to stand on the surrounding platform or in the space at the rear. Mr. Yatman's subject was, as announced, "The Story of Little Jim." Before beginning this story he told of his own conversion. "I was converted by two words," said Mr. Yatman. "I had tried to be a Christian, and had utterly and absolutely failed three times. I said 'there was no God,' and argued so with the minister and everybody; but I knew in my heart that I lied. My mother was the only one I would listen to, and she was always wanting me to try again. I had risen from a position as boy in a large business house to chief clerk, and my employer would sometimes speak to me on religious matters. I would ask him to shut up. and he would promise me he would till the next time. One night I happened to be going over the ledger with the book-keeper, and had no more thought of turning a new leaf than those chairs have. Well, my employer came along and pulled out his pencil, and I thought that he was going to help me, but instead he just said to me quietly: 'Henry, will you be a Christian?' I just look-ed into his face; my heart was hungry to get away from sin, from self and from wickedness. I looked into his face and then away, and I said: I will. Mr. Yatman then read some Scripture pertaining to this sentence, and proceeded with the story of Little Jim.

Jim was a ragamuffin and a bootblack in a large city. A rich lady, who had no friends of her own, wished to adopt someone, and met this boy. Mr. Yatman told in graphic language how the lad was cared for and reared in this woman's lovely home, and adapted the story to every person's own "We are all ragamuffins in God's sight, and he wants us to be his chil-

All those who were professed Christians were asked to rise, and a vast part of the concourse did so. After that the choir sang in a subdued and impressive manner "Almost Persuaded," and the unconverted were called on to rise. Notwithstanding that Mr. Yatman had seven or eight meetings, he conducted an after-meeting, which was productive of good results. NOTES.

THE FAMOUS HYAMS TWINS MURDER TRIAL.

The Hyams murder trial, which closed on Friday night with a disagreement of the jury, after fourteen days of evidence-taking, was the most sensational criminal prosecution which has taken place in Canada since the days of the Birchall murder inquiry. It was rendered so from the mystery that surrounded the death of the victim, from the fact that the wife of one of the accused men was a principal witness for the prosecution, and from the further fact that other mysterious tragedies, connected with life insurance policies, have recently been investigated, and have resulted in the discovery and punishment of atrocious crimes because of greed.

A brief summary of the events leading to the death of William Wells and to the arrest, two years and more afterwards, of the twin brothers, Dallas and Harry Hyams, as detailed by crown counsel, must be given, in order that a thorough comprehension of the case may be possible. On Jan. 16, 1893, the Hyams came into the Wells family. The Hyams went to Toronto from New York, and through an advertisement were directed to the Wells, the three girls and one young man in the last named family being orphans. The Wells had money coming from an estate in the old country, and the Hyams induced them to pay over a very conavowedly for investwho subsequently married one upon to loan the Hyams money. These given employment, at small salaries, and when they asked for a return of their money were told that they would get it on condition of losing their employment. In this way $3,000 was absorbed. Then Harry Hyams made love to Martha Wells, and was accepted, with the proviso on his part that the marriage was not to take place while his mother lived. Meanwhile the life of William Wells had been insured for a small sum in favor of his sister. Then the twins began to talk of the great benefit there was in life insurance, especially on the enasserted, said he was carrying $50,000was absolutely untrue-he being insured for but a tenth of the sum. Aylesworth declined to be insured, but William Wells consented on the condition that he was to be paid $2,500 at the end of five years. There would have been nothing for this young man, with 42 years of expectation of life, in a straight life policy, but this prospective payment captured him. A policy for $30,000 was taken out. No money was paid. A note was given by young Wells, and the extraordinary spectacle is presented of a young man with only $600 a year undertaking an obligation of $1,536 per year for twenty years, Harry Hyams agreeing to pay the premium on condition that in five years the policy is conveyed to him. When the note fell due, Harry Hyams paid the premium. The second premium was overdue, the 30 days of grace were almost past, and another $384 would have been payable in a few days, when the killing occurred.

The crown asserted that the twin brothers conspired to insure the life of William Wells, and to kill him in ordear to realize on the policy-that they fitted up a warehouse as a blind, contracting to pay $50 a month for it. Their expenses were $100 a month; they bought $50 worth of groceries and $5 worth of furniture, and only used the ramshackle elevator five or six times. They employed clerks, but it was reasoned that their business pretensions were all sham, and that their intention from the first was to get at the insurance money. The crown reasoned that on the morning of the tragedy the prisoners conspired to keep their woman clerk and the man Aylesworth out of the warehouse, upon uncalled for errands, so that they might be able to complete the killing without interruption, and for this reason, too, it was urged that William Wells was made to come earlier than usual on the morning in question. The crown asserted that the motive for the alleged crime was the needy condition of the two brothers. Immediately prior to the insurance transaction they had been borrowing money at 5 and 3 per cent per month; they had a chattel mortgage on their household belongings, and they had applied for more money on it and were refused. Finally, in the December prior to the death of young Wells, they mortgaged the office and in less than a month afterwards, or on the Monday following the tragedy, they had pledged themselves to pay to William Wells $1,000 of the money borrowed from him, so as to enable him to buy land.

William Wells was found with the big weight of the elevator on his head, and dead, the first person to reach the place after the twin brothers being the family doctor. The coroner investigated a little, so did the police, but both asserted at the trial that they did not suspect there was any foul play, and the victim was buried without further inquiry. Soon afterwards Harry Hyams prevailed upon Martha Wells to give him for investment several thousand dollars of the insurance money. Then, as she asserted at the trial, though she was engaged to him at the time, and subsequently married him, Martha Wells began to suspect that Harry Hyams had something to do with the death of her brother; she feared him, and to get out of his reach she went to live at a church school. Meanwhile, it was urged, Dallas Hyams shared the money, and had an interest in William Wells' taking-off in common with his brother.

It is interesting to note the differences in the two theories as to how the victim came to his untimely end. The medical experts for the crown believed there were two blows, one given before the weight fell, the defense experts claim both blows came from the weight; that the first rendered him insensible, and the second crushed his skull. The crown contended that the weight was deliberately used to kill the boy; the theory of the defense was that the boy was raising the elevator, and the weight stuck; that the boy relieved it, and in falling it struck his head, knocking him first insensible, and then falling on his head as he lay on

The evidence for the prosecution was ably conducted by Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., a counsel who has rarely failed to secure a verdict. For the defense the chief counsel was Mr. Lount, who left no stone unturned to secure the acquittal of his clients. He made much of the fact that neither the police nor the coroner, who investigated the tragedy at the time of its occurrence saw anything to lead them to believe that the young man lost his life by foul play. Then no two of those who saw the body before it was removed made the same statement with regard to the position in which it lay. The prisoners, it was shown, had been receiving money from a brother in the Southern States, so they were not absolutely poverty stricken, as the Crown made out. The alibi made out for Dallas Hyams was dwelt. on, and the evidence of Mrs. Henry Hyams was condemned as despicable, while that of Aylesworth was not to

On all hands, the charge of Mr. Justice Street has been commended as most impartial. Not an objection was raised to it by either side. The generous treatment which he gave to points of evidence adduced in favor of the prisoners must have gone a long way to reconcile our judicial methods to Mr. States counsel, who watched the case on behalf of his fellow countrymen. Belivered. Mr. Wellman confessed that he court; but he added that he feared the effect of Mr. Osler's magnetism on the jury and the wide latitude allowed the Crown in summing up. Judge Street. there were at least some points in the oners, and the failure of the jury to were not ready to find the prisoners guilty on the evidence given. It may be that the accused will be put on trial at a future court. What effect on their relating to other insurance transactions undertaken by them would have, if admitted, remains to be seen. It was ruled out by Judge Street, but a higher court may find that it is admissible. Still, it is doubtful if, under all the circumstances, a conviction could now be Among those recently knighted is Mr. Schultz, ex-Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba? Why Schultz?

Let us congratulate Mr. McGregor, M. P. for North Essex, and Mr. Allan, M.P. for South Essex, on the success of their efforts to have fishermen on the St. Clair River, Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River placed on the same footing as their brethren on the United States side of those waters. For years the Canadian fishermen have been deprived of the right to fish in their own waters, while exactly opposite them the United States fishermen have been plying their calling. Canadian fishermen could not be brought to believe that it was wrong for them to earn an honest penny in the same way as their neighors. At last the Dominion Government has been induced, by the importunities of the people's representatives, to remove the restriction. The only fair fishery regulations are those to which the fishermen of both Canada and the United States are made subject. As regards international streams and lakes, the regulations should be international.

Mr. Butcher, a former Londoner, was the official stenographer at the fourteen days' trial of the Hyams, over which Mr. Justice Street, also a Londoner, presided with marked ability. It was the longest murder trial on record, and furniture for 3 per cent per month, lasted fourteen days, during which upwards of 720,000 words were recorded. That it was closed so early was due entirely to the use of shorthand in taking the evidence. Before the days of shorthand, a similar trial would not have been completed in less than four or five weeks. The shorthand writer is the great time-saver in courts of justice.

Montrealers failed to get a Dominion Government subsidy for their proposed World's Fair. The Montrealers surely did not take the course necessary to secure attention at Ottawa, or they would have obtained the money. The Curran bridge, Quebec harbor and other scandals, by means of which the taxpayers of the country have been robbed of millions of dollars, were carried through with ease. All the promoters had to do was to show that they were willing to hand over for election funds a very considerable portion of the money thus

ST. THOMAS METHODISTS.

Meeting. The district meeting of the St. Thomas district of the Methodist Church was held at Grace Church, St. Thomas, on May 21 and 22. The first day was occupied by the ministerial session, Rev. W. W. Shepherd, president of the conference and chairman of the district, presiding. Rev. J. E. Moore, of Dutton, was elected secretary, and Revs. J. P. Rice and C. W. Vollick assistant secre-

The first business taken up was the examination of ministerial character, and all passed satisfactorily. Two young men were received on trial-E. J. Millyard and F. Alfred Raven. Revs. F Clark, J. J. Sinclair, F. E. Malott and L. N. Reid were recommended to be continued on trial. Three aged ministers, A. E. Griffith, J. R. Phillips and Hugh McLean were continued in a superannuated relation, Rev. John Hill being supernumerary.

The next day at 9 a.m. the lay delegates took their places with the ministers. The schedules from the various circuits were carefully considered and evidences of gratifying success brought

Rev. C. Barltrop, of Shedden, was elected representative on the stationing committee, Rev. R. D. Hamilton and Josiah Long elected for Sabbath school committee, and Rev. W. Hayhurst and W. B. Whiting elected on the sustentacommittee. Rev. T. E. Harrison and Dr. Teskay were chosen on the Epworth League committee, and Mr. J. E. Hatch was elected on the annual conference missionary committee.

The following were elected to represent the circuits at conference: Dr. Teskay, J. McCausland, T. Stacey, Wm. Risdon, J. E. Hatch, Walter Jordan, E. W. Hunsburger, Samuel Davies, W. B. Whiting, T. Old, J. Coulter, H. Daugherty, J. Rodgers, J. McLaughlin, R. Mc-Phale, J. McKay, John Gage, Alex. Douglas, E. Richards, Samson John and Wm. Cornelius.

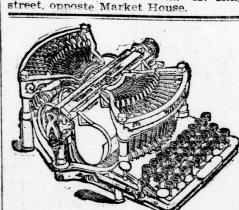

It was ascertained that St. Thomas First Church had sustained a loss of $10.000 by the burning of their beautiful building.

Warning to Young Men.

How many young men bankrupt their onstitutions, squander their vitality and ruin their health by pernicious practices, generally contracted through ignorance. Nervous exhaustion, debility, dullness of mental faculties, impaired memory, low spirits, morose or irritable temper, fear of impending calamity, a thousand and one are the derangements of mind and body which result from such indiscretions. Epilepsy, paralysis, softening of the brain and dread insanity are not unfrequently the result of unnatural habits contracted in youth through ignorance of their destructive character, and persisted in until the constitution is wrecked. Such unfortunates are surely entitled to the tender sympathy, the noblest efforts and the best skill of the medical profession. To reach, reclaim and restore such unfortunates to health and happiness is the aim of an association of medical gentlemen, who, having had a vast experience in the cure of the class of maladies herein hinted at, have prepared a comprehensive, scientific treatise, written in plain but chaste language on the nature, symptoms and curability, by home treatment, of such diseases. The World's Dispensary Medical Association, of 663 Main street, Buffalo, N. Y., will on receipt of this notice, inclosed with 10 cents (for postage), mail, secure from observation, in plain. sealed envelope, a copy of this useful work, which should be read by not only every young man in the land, but also by every parent, guardian and teacher having care of the young. Have you seen Keene Bros.' bedroom ets with bevel plate mirrors for $9, $11 and $12? They are the delight of everyone that sees them. 127 King

DIGESTION

Will be accomplished by taking Radway's Pills. By their ANTI-BILIOUS properties they stimulate the liver in the secretion of the bile and its discharge through the biliary ducts. These Pills in doses of from two to four will quickly regulate the action of the liver and free the patient from these disorders. One or two of Radway's Pills taken daily by those subject to bilious pains and torpidity of the liver, will keep the system regular and secure healthy digestion.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 7, '95. Dr. Radway & Co., New York:

Dear Sirs—I have been sick nearly two years and have been doctoring with some of the most expert doctors of the United States. I have been bathing and drinking hot water at the Hot Springs, Ark., but it seemed eyerything failed to do me good. After I saw your advertisement I thought I would try your pills, and have nearly used two boxes; been taking two at bedtime and one after breakfast, and they have done me more good than anything else I had used. My trouble has been with the liver. My skin and eyes were all yellow; I had sleepy, drowsy feelings; felt like a drunken man. Pain right above the navel, like as if it was bile on top of the stomach. My bowels were very costive. My mouth and tongue sore most of the time. Appetite fair, but food would not digest, but settle heavy on my stomach and some few mouthfuls of food come up again. I could only eat light food that digests easily. Please send "Book of Advice." Respectfully, Dr. Radway & Co., New York:

BASEBAL ... ALERTS WIN FROM 'VARSITY. The Alerts gave their new pitcher, Turner, a trial on Saturday afternoon, but in the fourth and sixth innings 'Varsity "got onto" his curves and hit him for something like ten runs. Then Carney was placed in the box for the last three innings and was only hit for a few scattered balls. However, Turner is all right and outside of the two innings when he got nervous he pitched in great form. The Alerts scored four runs in the first innings, added another in the second, batted McMillan for six in the fourth, one in the fifth, two in the sixth, one in the eighth and four in the ninth-a total of nineteen. 'Varsity failed to score until the third innings, when one run was tallied. They scored five in the fourth, another five in the fifth, and one in the eighth a total of twelve runs. For the Alerts Burton played the game of the day. His record for seven times at bat was three runs, five base hits, ten put-outs, one assist and no errors. Ball fielded badly, dropping several flys. He is credited with four of the five errors made by the Alerts. He batted well, however, and made the circuit of the diamond three times. Hiscott got his base on balls four times and scored every time. He stole three bases, scoring in all six runs. Bert Sheere piled up four runs and made three base hits. Sharp caught Turner without an error, while his throwing to second was rapid and accurate, as several of 'Varsity's nine learned during the game. Sharp was not allowed to catch Carney and Thorpe was put in instead. The latter improved the three innings in which he played making four put-outs and three assists. He was once at bat, made a hit and tallied a

Fitzgerald, 'Varsity's catcher, was slow in getting the ball down to the bases and Boyle, the shortstop, was not much of a success as a stopper. Roach, in left field, took everything that came his way, while Leech in right field dropped a couple of flies at critical periods. McMillan, pitcher, is 'Varsity's best man. He is a safe hitter, a good pitcher and a quick runner. The Alerts hit him for three two base hits and sixteen base hits, while 'Varsity hit the Alert pitchers for the same number of two baggers and one more base hit.

The attendance was about 1.500.

LONDON TO LOW THE

LONDON VS. ASYLUM JUNIORS. On Thursday the London junior eleven and the Asylum junior eleven for the second time this season met on the grounds of the latter, and for the second time victory rewarded the efforts of the Asylum heavyweights. Both teams play excellent cricket, and the game was very interesting from the start to the pulling of stumps. By good bowling and lively fielding individual scores were kept low on both sides, 20 runs being the highest number made, which were secured by Andreas, of London. Only three batsmen succeeded in getting double figures. Despite this second defeat the London boys have by no means given up the ghost, and, according to Capt. Fisher, they intend to take the Asylumites into camp ere long if it takes the whole of the city junior talent to do so. The umpires were Rev. F. W. Terry and Prof. Andreas, and

THE WHEEL. ST. THOMAS' BIG DAY.

St. Thomas, May 25.—St. Thomas had the biggest bicycle meet in its history yesterday. There were fully 4,000 spectators, which was far beyond the grand stand capacity. Nearly all the officers of the C. W. A. meet were present. A big delegation of the Wanderers also made things lively and night hideous in a good-natured way. The meet was a big success, and the new track proved to be an excellent one. Angus McLeod and T. B. McCarthy carried off the honors. A. F. Little, a former London rider, also did well. HOUSE AND LOSBY.

A False Report Set on Foot for a Purpose. (Specially Telegraphed by Our Own Representative.) Ottawa, May 27.-The Citizen (Conservative organ) says this morning that as the result of Premier Greenway's interviews with the Liberal party here he has declined to go further than promise to introduce an act in the Legisla. ture providing for the complete secularization of schools, and further that Hon. David Mills has strongly urged Premier Greenway to withstand any effort to effect a compromise. There is not a word of truth in the above statement, which is now being circulated by the Government press. Premier Greenway had no interviews while here either with members of the Government or with the Liberal leaders. The false statement sent out by the Government press regarding Premier Greenway's visit here shows the means that will be resorted to to prejudice a settlement of the case one way or another. The Government is evidently afraid to face the responsibility that

THIS WAS IN CHURCH. Attempt to Settle a Breach of Promise

Case With a Pistol. Orange, N. J., May 27.-The morning services in the Oakwood Colored Baptist Church yesterday were proceeding decorously, and the pastor, Rev. Paton H. Matthews, had just announced his text when the front door was burst open and a wild-looking colored woman entered and walked swiftly up the center aisle toward the organ. As she advanced several of the worshipers noticed that she kept something tightly clutched in her right hand, which was partially hidden under her cloak.

Near the altar rail and just in front of the organ sat Andrew Brokenbow, a member of the choir. As soon as he saw the woman he jumped from his seat with a startled exclamation, but before he could make a second movement she had drawn a pistol and fired two shots point blank at him, one of which passed through his coat sleeve, grazing the

The congregation became panicstricken, and men and women jumped through the windows, carrying glass and sashes with them. The preacher rushed toward the woman, who turned and ran from the church. When captured she was arraigned before Justice Davis.

The woman gave her name as Bella White, and said she lived next door to where Brokenbow occupied rooms. She said Brokenbow had repeatedly promised to marry her. On Friday he told her he did not intend to fulfill his promise, and she determined to kill him. A charge was made against her.

She will be commanded by that experienced and careful officer, Capt. J. H. Scott, her old commander. The trip down the noble St. Lawrence has only to be taken once and you will repeat it. The grandeur of its scenery cannot be described by pen and ink. The agents in London are Mr. Frank B. Clarke, 416 Richmond street, next door to "Advertiser, and G. M. Gunn & Son, 414 Richmond street. John J. H. Hagarty is the managing director.

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is earache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject.

Coal- Wood. Messrs. Bowman & Co. beg to inform their customers and the public that they have appointed Frank B. Clarke, 416 Richmond, as their agent. He will continue to take orders for coal and wood. Best beech and maple blocks, $4 50; half cord, $2 25; quarter cord, $1 15. Mr. Clarke will also continue the ticket and exchange business at the old stand.

How to Handle Them After They Have Been Properly Dug About.

From the fact that so many transplanted trees either die outright or drag along a miserable existence for a year or two, it would appear that there is a widespread misconception as to the proper care to be exercised in transplanting. It is a common practice to tear a tree up somewhat roughly, breaking off the fine roots that are the most needed by the tree, and cutting off the big roots, because it is too much work to follow them out to their tips-and then to attempt to equalize matters by savagely cutting off the branches, leaving little but the stem of the tree, and even that usually has its top cut off! This seems to me considerably like taking out one of a man's lungs because his supply of air is to be cut off presently! A judicious pruning of a transplanted tree is all right and proper, but such slaughter as is usually made of limbs and the top of the trunk is, to my mind, a very foolish proceeding. A much better plan is to exercise more care and effort in taking up the tree, taking up a big bunch of the earth with the fine roots undisturbed. It is the fine rootlets that feed the tree, and it is the loss of these that so often causes the tree to die after transplanting. The forcible removal of a tree from the ground is almost sure to tear off all these rootlets. It is best to begin some distance out from the tree, and to cut the turf carefully around it, digging down with caution so as not to cut off any important roots. When these are found they should be carefully followed out for a considerable distance and loosened from the soil. The most important care, however, is in getting up a big ball of earth with the tree, and this is accomplished by digging down about and under the tree. This requires some work, but if a tree is worth transplanting it is worth while to make some effort to give it a good start in its new location. The accompanying illustration shows a most convenient way to handle a tree after it has been properly dug about. A pair of wheels, with a "tongue," has a piece of joist lashed beneath it. The end of the tongue, or pole, is then raised high in the days.] air and the end of the joist attached to a chain that has been passed beneath the tree in two or more directions. When the pole is brought down, the tree is raised from its position and can be gently bent forward to the axle, secured there, and carried off to its new location. Before being taken away, however, it will be well to wrap the ball of earth in old burlap to keep the earth from shaking off and disturbing the small roots. Carried away with wheels after this fashion, the tree can be carefully dropped into the cavity provided for it with the least possible jarring. After the loose earth has been carefully packed in about all the exposed roots, a generous coat of mulch should be applied, and some pruning of the top made, but not a severe pruning, by any means. Whatever wood is removed should be in the line of giving the tree a well proportioned head. Transplanted in this way trees ought to live and grow thriftily, and my experience has been that they will do so. -Webb Donnell, in N. Y. Tribune.

LONDON.
LONDON. Saturday, May 25.—At last Saturday's cheese board buyers were bidding on everything offered, but holders were slow to everything offered, but holders were slow to sell. Today factory men were more willing to rid themselves of their makes. Bids ranged from 6c to 6c, the former only in one or two instances. The ruling price was 65-16, most of the sales being at that figure. Transactions amounted to 1,760 boxes as follows: Devizes at 6c; Bryanston, Evelyn. Murray's, Blanshard, Oliver, North Street, White Oak, Proof Line and Birr, Glanworth, Delaware, Appin and Maytair, Sifton's, Gladstone, and Geary's, at 65-16c; Blanshard and Nissouri, West Nissouri, Union Hill, North Branch, and Pond Mills, at 66c. Farmers residing on con. 3, North Dorchester township, had a taste of fire fighting early yesterday morning. About 7 o'clock the two story brick residence of Mr. James Shields, lot 23, con. 3, was discovered to be on fire. Neighbors by the dozen readily responded, and by hard work and with an abundant supply of water succeeded in extinguishing the flames. The roof and upper portion of the dwelling were destroyed, but the lower floor was only slightly damaged. All the contents were saved. The fire is supposed to have started from a defective stovepipe in the kitchen. Loss is covered by insurance in the North Dorchester Mutual. A Young Girl's Body Badly Mutilated-A Woman Suspected.

Maniwaki, Que., May 27.-Miss Jones, who was murdered at the Baskalong on Friday morning last, was a quiet and inoffensive girl, 24 years of age. Her body was terribly mutilated. She was alone in the house at the time of the tragedy. Suspicion points strongly to a married woman living in the vicinity, who had been a neighbor of Miss Jones' for a number of years. Full particulars have not yet been received here, but jealousy is the alleged motive.

MARK IT WELL.

Present Generation Dangerous and Often Fatal.

As each generation comes and goes it is marked by changes, developments and discoveries unknown to its cessors. From a physical standpoint, one of the most to be dreaded conditions, and peculiar for its rapid increase during the present generation, is when the mind labors under the delusion of persecution, continual restlessness, pain in the back and head, twitching of the muscles of the face and hands, furred tongue, breath foul and heavy, nausea and further indications of stomach trouble. There may be delirium, convulsions, or sinking spells. Medical authorities apply different names to the conditions that are unintelligible to the average reader. The actual facts are the demoralized and dangerous state of the system is due to the accumulation of "Body Poison" in the blood that should and would be thrown off by the Kidneys if in a healthy condition. In order to restore health, strike at the root of the disease with Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the only medicine known that will control the changes going on in the Kidneys, enabling them to furnish for the whole system blood free from disease-breeding poison, building up the shattered condition of the nerves and relieving mental depression.

CHAPTER XXXIII. "Why shoud I go to see your new little friend?" said Lady Val, idly. "I'm not philanthropic, Charlie.' She was sitting in a low chair beside a little scarlet tea-table, in a pleasant, luxuriously-furnished room overlooking the park. Through the high windows one could catch glimpses of soft blue sky and pale green foliage that showed the approach of summer days. Every table in Lady Val's drawingroom was crowded with pots and vases of flowers; they were her one extravagance, she used to declare. Other people thought that she had considerably

Opposite Lady Val, on another low chair, sat Charlie Rutherford. He was stooping forward to play with the silky ears of a dainty little dog-Lady Val's latest favorite-but the attitude was evidently assumed to conceal some trace of nervousness or embarrassment, and his hostess' quick eye noted the reason without loss of time.

'Don't tease Chico," she said. "but sit up and tell me about your protege oh, that isn't the right word, I see Never mind. Who is she, and why should I take an interest in her?" "She comes from your part of the country, Lady Val," said the young man solemnly, "and she is very unhappy and in want of friends." "Yes, but my dear boy, I can't go and see everybody who is in want of friends! Why is she in want of friends? Isn't she in our set? I will have nothing to do with any Quixotism, remember; it is not in my line." 'You have changed, Lady Valencia,' said Captain Rutherford, reproachfully. "You used to be always so ready to

"That was in the days when I was a nobody," said Lady Val, composedly. 'It did not matter much then what I did or where I went. Times are changed, Charlie, and I have changed with them-perhaps.'

"But not in that way!" said Charlie. with the warm-hearted simplicity which was characteristic of him. "You cannot have grown less kind, less sympathetic than you used to be, although you are so much richer and grande Lady Val! If I thought that I should regret the change, indeed. But everybody knows that you are one of the most generous women in London." "Does your young friend want a five-pound note?" said Lady Val, with a pleased but mocking light in her fine dark eyes. "I am quite open to flattery, I acknowledge; but the sooner you let me know what is required of me, the better, Charlie!"

"She is not in want of money so far as I know," answered Charlie-far too much in earnest to respond in a suitably light-hearted manner to Lady Valencia's jesting; "but she wants friendly counsel and advice. She is a mere child, although a married woman; and she has married against the wish of her friends-they are not taking any no-

Lady Val had taken up a great scarlet and black fan which lay on a painted milking-stool beside her, and she was swaying it slowly backwards and forwards. She now let it rest against her lips, and listened more intently, a slight frown making itself visible on her curved black brows

"And she is awfully grieved about it; she seems to be so fond of her father, and it is so sad for her to be all alone in London without a friend. Her husband—well, I suppose she's fond of him, but a man can't always be at home, you know, and she sits alone and —and—cries her eyes out." And then Charlie leaned back in his chair looking quite overcome by the picture that he had drawn.

"It cannot be," said Lady Valencia, with more than her usual crispiness of enunciation, "that you are trying to enlist my sympathies on behalf of Alan Moncrieff's runaway daughter " Charlie looked at her. "I never heard that it was a crime for a girl to marry the man she loved, even if it were

"Against her father's will! Her father never was asked," said Lady Val. dryly. She laid down her fan; the hot color had leaped into her face, and her eyes were unnaturally bright. "Excuse me, Charlie, I know the circumstances, and I know Molly Moncrieff-that is to say, I used to know her. She behaved very badly to her father—who is one of the most upright, honorable, kindhearted men in Scotland-and I cannot say that I am altogether sorry if she now finds her position disagreeable." Charlie rose from his chair. "If that is the view you take of it I won't trouble you any longer, Lady Val," he said, with a fine dignity, which was perhaps a little bit impaired by something of boyish tremor in his voice. "My father and Mr. Moncrieff were friends so long that I can't help thinking of Mrs. Hannington as a friend, too, and I don't like to hear her conduct put in what seems to me an unjust light. I think I must be going now, and I'll—I'll—wish you good afternoon, Lady Valencia."

He bowed and made his way to the door, quite forgetting to shake hands with his hostess. Lady Val let him proceed down the long drawing-room without a word of reply; but she watched him with a very inscrutible look in her eyes, and when he was fumbling with the door-handle she broke into a little laugh and called him back to younger brothers, and I take the privilege of speaking my mind. Come back and tell me about Molly; I'm really sorry for the poor child, although she did make such a such a fool of herself! Perhaps it was not altogether her fault, however; she is certainly a child—a mere child!"—and a quick sigh followed the words. "Yes, indeed, Lady Val, and so inno-cent-minded, and candid," said Charlie, much relieved by his hostess's change of front, and eager to seat himself again and talk of Molly's many perfec-"Of course it was not her fault; tions. it was all that fellow, John Hannington's, no doubt. I hope he knows what a prize he has got, that's all. "I hope he does," said Lady Val. "Molly has no harm in her, I am sure of that; and a pure-minded, affection-ate girl, even if she has been a little silly to begin with, might still make him an admirabe wife." 'Far better than he deserves!" growled Captain Rutherford. "Well, Jack Hannington used to be rather a great friend of mine," avowed Lady Val, courageously, "and I'm not going to hear him abused by you, Master Charlie. I must say I think the two have made a great mistake. But it may turn out well in the end." "You don't take the romantic view some people say 'all for love and the world well lost;' don't they?" said Charlie, akwardly. "They do. And I'm not sure whether I dont' agree with them. But 'the world well lost' where John Hannington is concerned "-she spoke bitterly--"can you imagine that he was so simple-minded?" "You don't mean that he did not care for her?" said Charlie, turning red.

"No, of course not," she answered hastily. "What was I saying? I only made a general remark, and you need not ruffle up your feathers over it that way, Charlie. I hope, by the by, that you are not going to pose as poor Molly's defended and preux chevalier? That is of the way to do her any good. A young pretty married woman wants friends of her own sex, not men of your age. Don't go round championing

Mr. Tisdale's property, Adelaide street, Mr. John Jackson's, "Riverview," and Mr. T. D. Hodgens' stock farm were left behind in turn and the run was concluded at John Geary's cheese factory. The hounds were followed by the officers of the Thirteenth in hacks, and Lieut. Col. Gibson and staff were subsequently entertained at Glenmore by the Hunt. They expressed delight at the run. -On Saturday, the funeral of the late John H. Baillie, who died on Thursday, took place from the family residence No. 622 King street. A number of relatives and friends were present, among the former being Mr. Wm. S. Smith, of Toronto, traveler for the American Rattan Company, and a per yard. half brother of the deceased young man. Rev. W. J. Clark, of the First Presbyterian Church conducted the simple but impressive services, and the remains were interred in the Scotch cemetery, being borne to the grave by the following young men, companions or friends of the deceased youth: Messrs. Caleb Fletcher, Charles Young, Edward Hardy, James Green, Samuel Paterson, and Harry Proctor. Deceased who Bargain Day 20c per yard. rown Attorney Magee, has returned to had not yet reached 19 years of age was the suffalo, where he will resume his studies at youngest son of the late Thomas Baillie, who with his grandfather, John Baillie, were railway men well known in London, where the deceased was born, Young Baillie was a lad of great premise, a favorite with his associates and the hope of his widowed mother. Anoth half a year ago he was attacked with what was then pronounced by the doctors a simple affection of the throat, but which ultimately proved to be a cancerous growth, and in spite of the most careful nursing and kind attention, after undergoing a serious operation and bearing months of untold pain with marvelous patience, he was forced to succumb, and death ended his sufferings. The widowed mother and the other members of the family have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of acquaintances in this the hour of their affliction.

LONDON WEST SCHOOL PICNIC. The first picnic of the London West public schools was held Friday afternoon at Mr. Peters' grove, just east of Mount Pleasant, and was a great success. At 1:30 about 350 children assembled at the school house, and with banners flying made a parade to the picnic grounds. Among the mottoes were noticed: "Sons of Canada Are We," "England's Pride and Beauty," "Canada for Ever," and "God Save the Queen." Upon arriving at the grounds Rev. G. B. Sage gave a short, rousing address, encouraging the love of Queen and country, and thanking the school board for bringing the picnic to a reality. The crowd, which had increased by parents and friends to about 600, responded by singing the National Anthem. This was followed by an almost endless programme of girls', boys', married men's, married women's, wheel-barrow, sack, candle, shoe and hopping races, etc., during which 500 prizes were distributed among the children. After a most enjoyable afternoon the school sang "My Own Canadian Home" and "God Save Our Queen," gave ringing chers for the Queen, Principal Liddicoatt and the teachers, and the school board picnic committee, Messrs. Dell, Crockett, F. Jones (treasurer), and Pudney (chairman), and went home thoroughly grati-
