LABOR SELECTS MEN FOR COUNCIL

Four Named and Indorsed at Present Ones May Be Replaced Meeting Last Night

Unions Perfecting a Strong Organization, and Will Enter Campaign With Enthusiasm.

Four candidates were indorsed by the Trades and Labor Council at a eting held last night-Messrs. H. B. Archer, the president of the council; Archer, the president of the council; Burleigh Bennett, the well-known Pere Marquette conductor; James Donnelly, cight manufacturer, and J. D. Jacobs, molder whe ran against Major Beattle for the House of Commons on one occasion, being the quartette named. Another meeting will be held next Wednesday night, when it is likely that other names will be added likely that other names will be added.

Ald. Rose, who has been the labor representative in the council for three years, was not present, and his name was left over until Wednesday. "I will not be a candidate," Ald. Rose informed The Advertiser. "I have had enough of it, and I will retire and give somebody else an opportunity." "Ald. Rose was not indorsed last night because he was unavoidably absent from the meeting," said President Archer. "The council agreed to indors the four named, and another meeting will be held to take up other possible candidates and complete the slate. The meeting was most enthusiastic and most unanimous."

'Committees are being organized in every polling subdivision, and a thor-ough canvass of the city will be made on behalf of the candidates.

"It is time for a change," said one labor man. "We are getting tired of the kind of government we have been getting, and we think it is high time that the labor organizations of the city exerted their influence for better government. We will be strongly or ganized. Polling day coming on a holiday will work to our advantage, and we will be in a position to poll a very large vote. We will elect some of our slate, you may depend.'

THREE TRUNK LINES WILL SLASH RATES

Fare From Chicago to New York Will Be Cut to $8-London Will Not Prolit.

Case Will Go On Again on Tuesday, When Crown May Produce Some Very important Evidence.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Rodney, Nov. 30 .- Alex. Willis, who under arrest on a charge of housebreaking and attempted criminal assault, appeared before County Magistrate Hunt today. Nothing conclusive in the way of evidence was brought out, and Willis was released on bail had evicted Irish tenants and driven in the sum of $500 to appear again on Tuesday.

The story so far centres around the inding of a broken foot-rule under the window where the intruder gained entrance to Mrs. McLaren's home. No one was able to state that the rule elonged to Willis. No evidence whatever was given or even permitted in connection with past record, and the Lowery murder, of which he was tried and acquitted, was not even hinted at. Crown Attorney McCrimmon prose-uted, and A. Grant of St. Thomas, deended the accused.

Four witnesses were called-Mrs McLaren, Benjamin Harris (next-door neighbor of Mrs. McLaren), Thomas Pangborn and Lewis Miller.

Principal Witness. Mrs. McLaren's story was that her husband is now in British Columbia.

She had been sitting up late, and after partly undressing sat down before the warm fire and fell asleep. She was awakened by some man sitting upon ace, where they received congratulaher knee, and upon crying out to her that will provide suitable offices for ing. COMMITTEE FAVORS GUARANTEE BYLAW

Ratepayers Will Vote On North Midland's Request in January.

The citizens will vote on a bylaw at the coming municipal elections to guarantee bonds up to $200,000 of the North Midland Railway.

At the meeting of the finance committee, held yesterday afternoon, the question was again discussed. Messrs. A. E. Welch, F. G. Rumball, R. Southam, William Scarlett and T. H. Luscombe were present for the company. The route, style of construction, and other details were explained by the deputation, following which the com-mittee decided to recommend to the council that a bylaw to guarantee the bonds be submitted to the people. A communication was read from Mr. D. A. Stewart, stating that he would withdraw his application for a guarantee of the bonds of the London and Northwestern Railway to the extent of $150,000. It is understood that some of the firemen for more pay. In their time in 1911 he will ask that a vote be taken, the company bearing the ex-

NEW WAY TO LIFT DEBT

Christian Workers' Members Give Day's Wages for the Purpose.

The Christian Workers' Church have adopted a unique plan for lifting small floating debt. The method is that every wage-earner of the congreand gation gives his or her day's pay, and Mayor Beattie thought the matter had better go over until the next regular sitting of the committee that the committee of the committee that the committee of t ladies make pies, bread, cake, or little scrub or wash. SNOW FLURRIES there is much here that you missed seeing. Toy Town has grown so, both in area and population, that it is Every day there the rows are being broken, but filled from the reserve as quickly; but we would remind you that the reserve in many of the most popular toys will not last till Christmas, as they are being put aside by the dozens these days, with the boy's or girl's name and address, for Santa Claus to deliver Christmas Eve. We would also remind you that in the better and more expensive articles many are single pieces, which Santa Claus cannot divide, which will go to the first chooser. So you may as well make your

REGULAR $1.50, FOR 95¢ EACH.

These are Mercerized Knitted Motor Scarfs, very fine and closely knitted with fringed ends, two yards long, in navy blue, reseda, sky, green, rose, gray, brown; a small clearing line of about three dozen scarfs. Here are thirtysix acceptable and useful $1.50 Christmas gifts which, at the price, are all that you would expect. While they last,

A special sale of All-Silk Taffeta Ribbon, special width and very specially priced; 61/2-inch ribbon is a very useful width for making fancy articles for Christmas, and these are just the colors most needed-sky blue, pink white, tan, cream, reseda, old rose, Copenhagen, navy and brown. Seldom you get such an opportunity at the Christmas season in pretty plain colors, but this is an over-stock, and to clear them quickly we have sacrificed the entire range. Just the thing also for hair ribbons, which make an acceptable gift for the girls. Only a few pieces, so get your supply at once. Regular 35c Ribbons, while they last, per yard......25¢

While at Ribbon Counter see our assortment of Pretty Work Bags, Handkerchief Sachets and Coat Hangers, all reasonably priced. A great variety this week to choose from. Main Entrance.

Poplin

How our grandmothers did love a black silk poplin dress. And the women of today, young and old are asking for black silk poplin, in either wool or silk. There is no fabric that will make up as pretty, that is so serviceable and durable.

An Acceptable Christmas Gift

Carpenter

Many a skilled workman commenced with his toy tool chest, which encouraged him and developed his mind along the line of architecture as well as in the operative work of construction, as well as saving the edge on some of his father's fine tools, for most boys think nothing of sawing through a rusty nail or chiseling or planing an iron bar.

Many a boy who has visited Toy Town has expressed a strong desire for one of these chests, and many have already the name of their future owner placed on them.

Every set is completely packed in a varnished wood chest, with removable tray, and contains saws, hammer, plane, chisel, brace and bit, rule, tapeline, etc., in fact, almost every necessary tool to complete a carpenter's kit. Prices 50¢, 75¢, $1.25, $1.75 and $3.00

Trunk

If your doll has a wardrobe she should have a trunk, for many articles of wearing apparel, when not in use, should be packed away. She don't get a hat every season, and wears her summer dress more than one summer. One of these trunks would be a capital storehouse from season to season. Well made and strapped, complete with lock and key. Prices, each50¢, $1.00 and $2.00

THE LANDLESS BRITISH PEOPLE. Now that the ancient land question of Ireland has been virtually settled, the British people have leisure to consider the vastly larger and scarcely less difficult problem in the larger island. There also is now heard a voice crying that the land should belong to the men who work it, and that there should be millions more living and working on the soil.

The Government's budget steered a middle course between two extremes, raising the taxation on idle land, and on town property, but letting agricultural land alone. Mr. George Barnes, the Labor leader, protests against this exemption, declaring that "landlordism, based historically upon usurpation balance, and found wanting," and suggesting such a taxation as may tax at Glasgow the other day he reminded is audience that almost half the popof one and two rooms, while the whole eople of Dundee haven't as much perdown's walled estate just outside their city. It is very significant, at the same time, that the sales have been almost all in small parcels. In his "History of Modern Europe," Fyffe speaks of how the one stripped off the mediaevalism of their land tenure, leaving Britain far behind; but it seems at least that England has waked up, and is headed | for the goal of peasant proprietorship.

Some of the more ancient landowners will find it hard to sell even if taxation be increased. As a poor man can afford his front lawn or a miniature flower garden, so the great squire may Especially if he is also the happy owner of town or mining lands, he can ised for years, but has not yet apwell afford to keep up a great manor. In a recent speech the Duke of Northumberland said that while he might dismiss servants, to reduce expenditure, he would think a long time before parting with any of his land. His tenancy could be traced back to Queen Elizabeth's time, and "a certain amount of confidence and trust which had existed between landlord and tenant could not be replaced if the land got into other hands." The duke is indeed actuated by a sentiment largely laudable. He loves his land and its history better than money. No doubt he means well by his tenants, and wishes their welfare in an intimate, personal way, a Christmas tree. like a good, old-fashioned genial lord of the manor. At bottom, however, his sentiment is a selfish one, resting on an absurd notion that there must be a permanent division of men into classes, privileged and unprivileged. Such a notion may have passed muster in the days of Pope's "Essay on Man," but it won't do in the days of democracy. It is noticeable that the Northumberland sald nothing about raising rents. That bogey will not terrify tenants who can emi grate to the colonies or buy land on the market more cheaply than go on Dispute in the House at Ottawa Over "Le Devoir" Charges.

DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS

Opposition Succeed in Getting Changes in Hansard-An Opium Bill.

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—The House of Commons again exhibited itself today in a light not in consonance with the traditions of dignity and businesslike purpose that are supposed to govern which they should have devoted to protracted beyond reasonable bounds in discussing points of order and exchanging ill-natured remarks, each succeeding attempt to end the disorder only making the confusion worse confounded.

Le Devoir's Charge.

The trouble arose from an article ouched in offensive terms in Le Devoir, Mr. Bourassa's organ, charging the Minister of Marine, Mr. Brodeur. with having purposely deceived the House in wrongly attributing to that paper articles which he had quoted in discussing the Drummond and Arthabaska election. The quotations Mr. Blondin, one of the Conservative-Nationalist group of members, expressing disloyal sentiments, Mr. Brodeur, in calling attention to the article, explained that while three of the extracts which he had quoted in his speech had been taken from Le Devoir, two were from Le Soleil and La Vigie. He frankly admitted that in attributing these two to Le Devoir he had made a mistake, although it did not affect the argument he had attempted to enforce.

Tried to Read the Article. This acknowledgment, however, did not suit Mr. Blondin and his Conservative friends. The member for Champlain at once rose and essayed bill would also make opium-smoking read the article complained of by Mr. Brodeur, with the view apparently of placing on Hansard the scurrilous statements therein and then the wrangle started. The Speaker ruled that Mr. Blon-

Many Points of Order. Bouringt and other authorities were freely cited, and one point of order followed by was raised only to be another, until the proceedings assumed the form of a tangle, from which there seemed no satisfactory way of escape. Here's a letter from a girl who signs herself "Broken-hearted:" young man five years. He has a boy attend a party together, he acts as if girl in the world like me. He asks me not to go out with other boys, and he floes not pay attention to other girls am very unhappy—what shall I do?"

Since you do not say that you are engaged to this young man, I take it for granted that you're not. I think he must be a typical "dog-in-the-manger." He's not sure that he wants you himself, neither does he want anyone else to have you. If he really loved you, the friend dislikes you would to have you. If he really loved you, the fact that his friend dislikes you would make no difference in his treatment of you, and he would have proven his love to you by asking you to marry him.

But perhaps you really love him, and the poor are not worth troubling about."

Still want to win him despite his treatment. If so, my criticism of him will not heal the hurt. I want to help you, but I hardly know where to begin. Sometimes the girls are at fault, you know, and your case may be one of the times. Some girls show so much affection for their sweethearts before others that it is also with the sweethearts of the sweethearts. disgusting to observers and the tweet-hearts alike. Most men hate a soft, mushy girl, and above all, they hate public exhibitions of affection. Men like make the advances themselves. Many a girl is careless about her personal appearance. Buttons are off her shoes, gloves are ripped, her belt does solial appears are ripped, her ben does not hide an unsightly safety-pin in the back, her hair looks sadly disheveled, and occasionally looks—and smells—unable are wrinkled and and occasionally looks—and smells—unwashed; her skirts are wrinkled and frayed, her waists are sometimes stained and odorous with perspiration—all of which could be so easily remedied. Even when men are themselves careless, they always admire the well-groomed girl.

Then there is the girl who is really not bad at heart, but who persists in swing spiteful things about other girls, or stirring up trouble about something or other. And the over-sensitive, chipon-the-shoulder girl, and the would-be sarcastic girl—all these girls may be most lovable and attractive, but for one sarcastic girl—all these girls may be most lovable and attractive, but for one of these traits, any of which would make a mere man feel most uncomfortable. And men like to be comfortable, I know, for I have their own word for it. "Broken-hearted," I hope I have reached the source of the trouble. If you are "mushy," hide your feelings. If you are slovenly, spruce up. Don't gossip, don't be too sensitive, don't be hateful or sarcastic, and don't wear a chip on your shoulder. This is to you too, "Worried," "Irene," "Reader," "Blue Eyes" and "Janie."

Cretonne Lampshades. The very newest and prettiest thing in home decoration is the lampshade of shirred cretonne or flowered silk. For these, heavy wire frames are purchased, to it. A narrow border of furniture gimp conceals the joining place. In tapestry this variety of lampshade becomes really gorgeous. The idea, of course, can be applied in any of these materials to candleshades as well.

Fine Soft Pillows.

Most of us have sofa pillows so pretty, of such delicate fabric and hue, that we hate to put them "on public view" at all, and yet there is no sense in keeping them always packed away in camphor. The proper solution is the net covering-net of the very finest quality, such as is used for neckear. Two or three thicknesses, if necessary (though one is preferable) abould be sewed over the pillow. They will not at all obscure the lines and color pillow, and at the same time will protect it from dust and grease. As the white net grows dirty remove it and fresh. For a very dark pillow, brown or even black might be

The morning post brought a letter from the vicar. Vera read it with an amount of irritability surprising even to herself. Was this well-meaning man to be continually reminding her of the past. She wrote a blunt, ungracious reply:

"Dear Mr Varden,—You really haven't given me time to settle down, and, in future, please do not address me by the old name—not even under seal. largely in the fall fashions, and it really seems to have taken a greater hold than for some seasons past. The plaids used are extremely dark, and separate blouses, and foundations, appearing under sheer tunics.

The illuminating shades in these plaids are frequently dyed the same tone as plain satins, thus facilitating the matching for trimmings.

No other daily paper in Canada has ever approached La Presse in point of circulation. It is so much greater than that of other French-Canadian papers that there is absolutely no comparison. The total daily circulation of La Presse is greater than the combined circulation—of all the other French daily papers published in the Province of Quebec. The Montreal circulation is more than three times as great as that of the next largest French paper. La Presse is the only Montreal paper that issued detailed sworn statements, each month, showing distribution by localities. Circulation audited October 1910, by the Association of American Advertisers.

La Presse is always quoted by other Canadian and fereign newspapers, and by politicians and other public speakers, as the national organ of the French-Canadian people. It is closer to the people, in greater sympathy with their alms and objects, and is more nearly their ideal than any other newspaper. It has led the way to many popular and political reforms, that could be produced only by a paper having the strongest influence with all classes of the people.

Montreal, Quebec Province, and parts of Eastern Ontario and the Maritime Provinces—the French-speaking portions of Canada—are covered thoroughly by the great circulation of La Presse. A careful investigation recently made shows that in some sections of Montreal, the circulation of La Presse is greater than the total number of French-speaking families. In all the other cities and large towns of the above localities—including Quebec. Ottawa, Hull, St. Hyacinthe, St. Johns, Sherbrooke, Three Rivers, Sorel, Valleyfield, etc.—La Presse is read by all the well-informed, prosperous French-speaking people.

La Presse considers it a duty not only to supply advertisers with all facts about its circulation, but to co-operate with them in every way to increase the value of their advertising. An experienced staff of copy-writers is maintained, capable of designing strong, effective advertisements, writing the copy in English, if desired, for approval, and with the co-operation of the translating staff render-

There are on file in the office of La Presse, letters from the leading advertisers of Montreal and elsewhere, expressing the highest opinions of the value of La Presse for all lines of advertising. More conclusive still is the testimony of hundreds of the best-informed, leading advertisers in Montreal, throughout Canada, and in the United States, who advertise in La Presse continually, many of them increasing their space from year to year. They have only one object in advertising—Results—and the fact that they not only continue to use space, but to

A Dorchester Township Pioneer Tells of the Early Days.

Mrs. Ebenezer Thompson, 80 years young, who resides at the home of her nephew, Mr. Frank A. S. Pickell, of 23 Wharncliffe road north, West London, remembers crossing the fields in Dorchester Township to obtain a glimpse of the first train coming into London in 1852. At that time Mrs. Thompson was living with her husband on the farm of Mr. Holmes, who was then mayor of London. Mrs. Thompson, whose maiden name was Miss Mary Turner, was born in 1830, at Bourntisland, Fifeshire, Scotland, seven miles from Edinburgh, and just across the Firth of Forth. She was married in 1850 and came to Canada in 1852, where Mr. Thompson's brother had already settled in Dorchester. The ocean voyage was made in a sailing vessel, and the trip from Quebec to Hamilton by lake steamer. From Hamilton Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, in company with another family named Grey, drove in a wagon to Dorchester, some four days being required for the latter journey. The old Holmes farm, which was subsequently sold by Mayor Holmes to a Mr. Lawson, is situated four miles from London on the Hamilton road. Only the river divided the farm from the railroad over which the first train came into London, When Mr. Lawson took possession of the Holmes homestead, Mr. Thompson removed with his family to Warwick Township back in the fifties, and literally hewed out a home from the unbroken forest about two and a half miles from where the village of Warwick stands today. It will be perfectly possible for passengers to endure any speed, because they will be encased in an air-tight chamber, just as they are in a vestibuled train.

"America isn't so much interested in aviation as Europe. There is no continuous interest here. The people go to the big meets, just as they would go to acrobatic exhibitions, and forget that there is such a thing as the science of aviation." Mr. Grahame-White thinks that with the aeroplane's future development it will make battleships useless, open the secrets of all fortifications, no matter how cleverly masked and put an end to war. The possibilities of war in the air, he believes, are too horrible for civilization to contemplate.

"But the peaceful possibilities," continued the enthusiast, "are endless. I see no reason why we should not es-tablish transatlantic air lines. We need only two things—safety and speed—

Be Solved by Government Shortly.

Cape Town, Nov. 30 .- Although it played no conspicuous part in the recent election campaign the native problem will demand an increasing amount of attention from the union government and parliament in the near future. In addition to the vexed question of the fran-chise, various matters affecting relationships in general between whites and blacks are certain to call for serious consideration. Probably few South Africans are able to treat seriously the views re-Whites Outnumbered.

Even if their numbers remained stationary, under the guidance of an intelligent chief the natives would be a menace to the white population. But they were into a great extent.

Nearly every native boy and girl was taught to read and write. He wished he could say the same of the white people. The school returns of the colony showed that 120,000 natives and 80,000 white children had received education. More and more black labor was being employed in the colony. In a very short time the native would have a large number of trades in his own hands. In skilled work he was steadily displacing white labor. Ultimately he would displace the farmer as well. If they gave the native political equality, as some politicians had advocated, social equality was bound to

BALFOUR IS SLIPPERY

Liberals Say He Is an Adroit Opportunist-The British Campaign.

[Associated Press.]

London Dec, 1.-The present election campaign is one of amazing changes. Lord Lansdowne's unexpected presentation of a scheme for the reform of the House of Lords was surpassed in suddenness by Mr. Balfour's throwing over of tariff reform as an issue of the elections. Then yesterday Lord Rosebery threw over his former Liberal allies and virtually lined up for good and all with the Lord Rosebery, in the course speech, said:

"The House of Lords has ceased to exist; it has surrendered its powers to the nation. This is a fact of enormous importance.'

Lord Rosebery admitted that it was death-bed repentance, but he contended that death-bed repentance, if sincere, was valid and valuable. Pitches Into Former Friends.

Although disclaiming all political bias, he roundly trounced his former Liberal allies, who he declared were harassing the land, constantly encroaching upon and prejudicing the personal liberties of the country a way to which their ancestors would never have submitted. The Home Secretary, Mr. Churchill, addressed two meetings at Shefifeld last night. He said that no day passed without some Tory leader overthrowing some ancient principle of the Tory party. Nothing was more astonishing in this wonderful election than the panic which had overtaken that once proud and powerful party.

Mr. Churchill was again subjected to suffragist disturbances, several unruly persons being ejected from the hall. The flood of election oratory is unabated, but it consists mainly of a repetition of well-worn arguments.

This morning they took a jump of 50c per cwt on Tuesday's price. The supply was a little scarce and some hogs sold at $10 per cwt, while the others went at $9.50 per cwt. The strong demand, which overbalances the supply, is the only reason for the high price.

Vegetables are thinning out, and there was little of any kind on the square today. Even potatoes were absent, the roads being too heavy for large loads. The prices are unchanged.

The test completed 181 miles of line connection, the longest transmission line in the world at the present time.

All over the city the citizens were out to examine the new lighting system. On its first test it cannot be voted a great success. The sixtycandle power Tungsten lamps are manifestly inadequate to properly light the city. Engineer Sothman recommended that the lights be changed to 100-candle power lamps, and it is likely that the change will be made at an early date. Chairman Pocock also stated that the lamps were too small, and would have to be changed. Those in use did not appear to good advantage as compared with the big arc lights of the London Electric "It's a good thing that the London Electric lights are lit," said a local "else we might not be able to

TWENTY EXTRA CLERKS FOR THE BIG BALLOT

Necessitated by the Many Bylaws To Be Votes On in January.

Twenty extra poll clerks will be necessary to handle the big ballot on which the citizens will express opinions in the coming municipal elections. A request has been made for that num. ber, and the finance committee at its next session will discuss the appoint-This is made necessary because of the number of bylaws that will be voted on. Eight or ten already have been passed

In addition there will be contests for many offices-in fact, all, with the possible exception of the mayoralty.

The extra clerks will be used in the polling places where the vote is unusually heavy. Many have more than 300 voters on the list, and one clerk will not be able to handle the count in a reasonable time. Others have almost as many, and in these too extra clerks will be required.

Six Cases Altogether, Several Being of Unusual Interest.

Six cases were entered today for trial at the county court sittings, which commence at the court house on Tuesday next before Judge Macbeth. Two of these are non-jury.

The cases are as follows:
Patrick Walsh, a real estate agent of this city, sues James McDonald, also of this city for $131 25, commission on sale of property at 831 Dundas street, in 1906. J. W. Metherall was the purchaser, and, according to the plaintiff, he paid $52 50. J. D. O'Neil is acting for the plaintiff, and Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons for the de-

George eHdley, a London Township farmer, brings action against Alex. McNeil, a Melbourne hotelkeeper, for the return of $155 paid for a horse, or for damages of that amount. On Aug. 2, 1910, according to the statement of claim, the plaintiff purchased from the defendant a horse, being told that on the same evening he could drive from Melbourne to his home in Ilderton. The plaintiff alleges that the horse was defective, and that for this reason he was returned to McNeil on the same night. Hedley wants his money back. Meredith, Judd & Meredith for the plaintiff; J. M. McEvoy for the defendant. Jury Cases. Shields Bros., lumber dealers, of Mosa, sue for $210 and interest on that amount at 5 per cent since April, 1909. John McLoughlin, a brick manufacturer of this city, the defendant, enters a caunter claim for $274 75 and damages, claiming that a certain contract relating to the delivery of cord wood was not carried out. The statement of claim asserts that in April, 1909, Shield rBos. agreed to deliver about 250 cords of wood to Mc-Loughlin. They contend that they were not paid the full amount. defendant alleges that the agreement was that about 1,000 cords of standing timber was to have been cut and delivered, and that as a matter of fact but 255½ cords of culled stuff arrived in London. J. C. Elliott, of Glencoe, is acting for the plaintiff, and Gibbons, Harper & Gibbons for the defendant. Hugh McLean, an Ekfrid farmer, alleges that his next neighbor, Hector McKellar, on Sept. 22, 1910, owned a vicious mare, and knew the animal's disposition, but negligently allowed the mare to run at large in a field. On that day the mare jumped the line fence, which the defendant claims the plaintiff should have maintained in
