ALLIED POWERS TO DEBATE NEAR EAST PROBLEMS

Paris Conference May Revise Treaty of Sevres in Favor of the Turks.

HOLD INITIAL MEETING

British Point of View Will Be Presented to Delegates by Lord Curzon.

Paris, March 22.—The foreign ministers of the Allied Powers were in Paris today to confer on the near eastern situation. It was expected the first action would be the drafting of a plan for an armistice between Greece and the Turkish Nationalists. This would be presented forthwith to the belligerents in an effort to forestall the expected spring offensive on the Anatolia frontier.

The foreign ministers also are to consider revision of the Treaty of Sevres in favor of the Turks. All the allies are agreeable to a revision, but the French are represented as favoring rather more drastic changes than the others.

Representatives of both the Constantinople and Ankara, Nationalist, governments in Turkey are coming here to emphasize their desires in this respect. M. Schanzer, Italian foreign minister, and his advisers have been here since Monday night, and the Marquis Curzon, British foreign secretary, left for this city yesterday with a number of experts.

Lord Curzon had a talk with Premier Poincaré this morning, and the French premier, the Italian foreign minister, and the British foreign secretary met at 1:30 o'clock, unattended by aides, for an informal exchange of views on the Near East before beginning discussion of the different questions at issue.

With the opening of the conference proper the British point of view of the whole situation will be presented by Lord Curzon, while Signor Schanzer and M. Poincaré will follow with brief declarations of the attitude of their respective governments. Then the ministers will begin work on specific subjects. It is expected three or four days will be required to complete the discussions under the agenda.

FILM BIG PLAY IN HOLY LAND

Jerusalem, March 22.—Twenty stars of the American film world arrived in Jerusalem recently to prepare for the filming of the Old Testament story of King David.

The big scene in the play is to be the fight between David and Goliath, which will be staged a few miles north of this city. Biblical accuracy is not to be strictly adhered to, since the scenario provides a love scene after the battle.

About 5,000 persons are to be employed in the filming of the play. Five thousand sheep, 1,000 camels and 2,000 horses are also to be used. This will be the first time a production of this magnitude has been filmed in the Holy Land.

NAME CONDITIONS FOR MORATORIUM

Paris, March 22.—The conditions under which the German government will grant Germany a partial moratorium were announced this morning. They include perfect autonomy for the Reichsbank and new legislation to prevent evasion of German capital, the legislation to be ready for application upon a fixed date.

It is stipulated that if reparation payments in kind to the value of 1,450,000,000 gold marks yearly are not entirely delivered, the balance may be required in cash.

PREMIER MARTIN TO BE IN LONDON

Special to London Advertiser.

Winnipeg, March 21.—Premier Martin, accompanied by his brother, Dr. Beatrice Martin of Regina, went through Winnipeg today for London, to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. W. M. Martin, who died on Monday.

Premier Martin and his brother were joined here by Mrs. (Dr.) Gunn of Calgary, their sister.

UNUSUAL STORIES

ABOUT UNUSUAL PEOPLE

MEMPHIS, March 22.—V. E. Buchignani decided his land was too valuable to plant in cotton from which he realized "a mere" $200 to $300 an acre.

So he plowed up his cotton and planted peonies and dahlias in its place.

Now he is getting from $5,000 to $7,000 an acre from his flower crop.

The big tract planted in peonies is his greatest revenue producer, and there is as great a demand in the fall for his surplus

Buchignani, peony roots as there is in the summer for the thousands of blooms he harvests each morning.

FORCES THINK DAIL HAS BEEN FALSE TO OATH

Republican Troops To Hold Convention Sunday Despite Griffith's Stand.

CLAIMS LEADERS FAILED

Commandant O'Connor States Renewal of Allegiance to Republic Sought.

BULLETIN. London, March 22.—The British government may have to consider whether it will be possible to draw a cordon of imperial troops between the warring elements on the Ulster frontier, Winston Churchill, the colonial secretary, stated in the House of Commons today.

Dublin, March 22.—It was officially announced today that the Irish Republican army convention, the holding of which was recently forbidden by Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann, will be held in Dublin Sunday.

This announcement is taken here to mean that a definite split in the Republican army has come. According to Commandant O'Connor, director of engineering of the headquarters staff of the Irish Republican army, 80 per cent of the army's members believe the army has been "let down," and that the Dail Eireann has been false to the Republican oath by agreeing to accept the inclusion of Ireland within the British Empire.

Discussing the army convention, the commandant today pointed out it had been originally summoned with the approval of Richard Mulcahy, minister of defence in the Dail cabinet. The delegates, he said, had been selected by companies and numbered about 600.

O'Connor said the intention was to restore to the army its old volunteer legislation, under which it elected its own executive. The constitution was abandoned when the Dail Eireann was established as the Republican government, and the army swore allegiance to its assembly.

Mulcahy declared O'Connor had pledged himself in the Dail to maintain the army as a Republican organization, but the pledge had been violated by the invitations given to the members of the army to form the nucleus of the army of the free state, which O'Connor declared, subverted the republic.

He said the army convention would be held Sunday, as there was no government in Ireland at present to which the army owed allegiance. A resolution would be submitted to the convention, said O'Connor, renewing allegiance to the Irish Republic, and establishing an executive entitled to issue orders to the Irish Republican army, which would then repudiate control by the Dail.

"You may, if you like, call us mutineers," said O'Connor, "but the rank and file is always right. It is the leaders who have failed."

OFFICERS MADE TARGETS. Belfast, March 22.—Desultory firing continued all day yesterday from the free state side of the border, along the frontier of counties Tyrone and Monaghan, between Aughnacloy and Caledon, mostly from snipers located in houses inside the boundary line, according to reports from the border received here today.

The Ulster border commissioners visited last evening the locality.

WILL NOT OBEY ORDER TO MOVE FERTILIZER

Board Answers Council's Resolution Regarding Plant's Removal.

FOUND THINGS FINE

Members Visited Plant On Bad Day and Found Conditions Improved.

The board of health will not order the fertilizer plant in the southeastern part of the city moved, according to Dr. Downham, medical officer of health.

This will be the answer of the board of health to have the plant closed up or moved.

The resolution was passed some time ago, but the board of health has taken no steps to act on it.

Ald. May has been pressing for action and on Monday night was at the point of proposing another resolution on the matter when the mayor told him that it would be dealt with by the board of health on Tuesday.

The board did not meet Tuesday, but on Monday members of the board paid a visit to the fertilizer plant. The conditions which the members found were such as to convince them that the drastic action demanded by the council was not warranted for the present at least.

"Just now the plant will not be ordered closed or moved by the board of health," states Dr. Downham, M. O. H.

He said that on Monday the board found that there had been a great improvement made in the plant. It was in the best condition he ever saw it. The day was also a bad one. He believed that if it was kept in that state much of the objection would be removed.

"It's a hard thing to prove that the odor from the plant is injurious to health. On the other hand, he said it might be conceded that the smell is such that it forces people to keep their windows closed.

Charles Mitchell, a member of the board, stated that he believed that most of the aroma came from the burning of scrap leather in the furnace. This is hauled from Hyman's tannery, and makes a splendid fire, but also a terrific smell.

OPPOSES MUCH MILITIA ECONOMY

Montreal, March 22.—Care in economizing in the militia department was urged by Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University, in discussing today the abolition of the posts held by Sir Henry Burstall and General Gwatkin as heads of the Canadian militia and air force. Economy might be justified, he said, by results of the Washington conference and the prospect of an end of the Irish grievances, but the government should not pander to the popular prejudice against staff officers, who were much harder to train than the fighting man, he thought. "No country," said Sir Arthur, "which has participated in a world conference can afford to do away with its militia organization."

PRINTERS' STRIKE PAY INCREASED

Ottawa, March 22.—R. S. Lee, president of the Ottawa Typographical Union, has received a telegram from international headquarters announcing that henceforth the striking printers will receive increased strike pay.

The new pay will raise the unmarried men from $17 per week to $20, and the married men from $22 to $25.

Believe They've Found Life Portraits of St. Peter and St. Paul

ROME, March 22.—What are believed to be contemporary portraits of St. Peter and St. Paul have been discovered in a hypogeum or underground structure of the Roman epoch. The belief in their authenticity is shared by the well-known archaeologist, Prof. Lanitani. The hypogeum was found in the course of excavations for the building of a large garage. It comprises a number of rooms and galleries, a crypt and a Christian church, with marvelous frescoes of a very early date. The professor believes the portraits were painted from life.

ARMY'S SUCCESS DUE TO WORKERS

Commissioner Sowton Declares Splendid Spirit Is Always Manifested.

USE EVERYDAY LANGUAGE

Points Out There Are Only 1,000 Paid Officials East of Great Lakes.

"The Salvation Army as a community asset," was the subject of an address given by Commissioner Charles Sowton at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday.

The commissioner is in London for the purpose of opening the Ronald-Roy Gray Memorial Home.

"Everybody is agreed that the Salvation Army is doing good work, but if you try to tie them down to some straight facts you will find that they cannot tell you anything definite about that work," said the speaker.

"During my 38 years of experience as Salvation Army officer, I find that much of the success of the organization is due to the fact that all the workers have a splendid spirit and are willing to work for the love of the cause, and because we are absolutely non-political.

Use Everyday Language. "The workers of the Salvation Army are successful because they are of the people and speak to the people in their own everyday language.

"There are only 3,000 paid workers in the organization east of the Great Lakes to the Atlantic seaboard, including the island of Newfoundland, but there are many thousands of voluntary workers who are dead in earnest about the work and go wholeheartedly into it.

"The street meetings that are held in every town and city in which the Salvation Army is established are the only religious touches that some people obtain and by checking up the results of these meetings it is thought well worth all the effort put forth."

Use Waste Material. Turning to the social end of the work done by the Salvation Army the commissioner said that they endeavored to get hold of as much waste material and waste land as possible, and then put the waste labor to work on it, and so turn three wastes into something useful.

The work of the Salvation Army is now being carried on in 73 different countries and in 44 different languages.

At the end of his address the speaker said that he had just received the news that Lieut.-Col. J. Rawlings, who was formerly a prominent worker in the city, had died Wednesday morning.

SEEKS VERDICT OF VOTERS ON TAX PROBLEMS

Alderman Will Toss "Hat in Ring" On Mayor's Cue.

MAKE ANNEX RATE ISSUE

Ashplant Thinks This and Other Problems Provides Plenty of Ammunition.

Alderman Henry B. Ashplant, who to date has unsuccessfully endeavored to induce members of the city council to collect additional school taxes from factories which have located in the annexed districts since 1911, unconditionally "tossed his hat in the ring" Wednesday morning, and is ready, he declares, to abide by the wish of the electors.

"The point is this," asserted Ald. Ashplant, "I understand that Mayor Wilson has signified his willingness to resign and face another election. If he is anxious to find out where he stands with the people, he need not hesitate a minute in handing in his resignation."

"Ald. Ashplant is quite prepared to tender his resignation the next minute and go to the mat with him. We can take several issues before the people at this time, not only the 'annexed school tax' problem, but also the others as well. Yes, I am quite willing to give him a 'run' if he wants a 'try-out.'"

On two successive occasions, Ald. Ashplant, one of Labor's three representatives on the city council, has introduced his motion respecting annexed school taxes at the council table.

On both occasions, however, he received but trifling sympathy. He was supported at the last gathering by Ald. Dr. Douglass. Neither of his Labor colleagues, Ald. Ashton or Watkinson, aligned themselves with him, despite the fact that at a preceding meeting of the London Labor Party, a resolution was passed unanimously endorsing Ald. Ashplant and exhorting his colleagues to render him wholehearted support.

Both Ald. Ashplant and Ashton attended this meeting, and the former delivered an exhaustive address, touching upon the issue from every angle, following which Ald. Ashton declared: "Ald. Ashplant has given such an explanation before the city council as you have done tonight. I feel confident that you would have experienced no difficulty in finding a 'secondor.'"

At the subsequent council meeting, however, Ald. Ashplant was not supported by his Labor confreres.

TORONTO CAR MEN ACCEPT SCALE

Toronto, March 22.—The members of the Toronto Railway Employees' Union ratified the proposed scale of wages for the year at a mass meeting held here at midnight.

The new scale, which was arranged by a committee appointed by the union and the management of the Toronto transportation commission contains only slight changes from the existing agreement which expires on March 31. The new agreement is to remain effective for twelve months from that date.

MENNONITES WILL HELP. London, March 22.—Provisions worth 18,000,000,000 rubles will be sent into the drought-stricken provinces of the Ukraine by the American Mennonite's famine Relief Organization under an agreement just concluded, says a Moscow dispatch to the Russian trade delegation here.

Signs "O, What Luck!" to Worthless Check and Bank Pays

DENVER, Col., March 22.—

A worthless check for $275 drawn on the defunct Denver State Bank, and signed, "O, What Luck," was accepted in Kansas City, Mo., March 3, in payment for an automobile, passed through the Kansas City clearing house banks, and was discovered to be worthless only yesterday, when it reached Homer S. McMillan, executive officer for the affairs of the defunct bank.

Police Rush Him to Windsor Hospital and Hunt Comrade.

Windsor, March 22.—Driving through city streets at 60 miles an hour to escape being halted by provincial police, a large, dark-colored automobile, driven by Ambrose McLean, Walkerville, crashed into the curb at Cataract street and Glenarry avenue at 3:45 o'clock this morning, causing injuries to McLean that will cause his death, authorities at Hotel Dieu state. McLean was picked from beneath the wreckage by Windsor patrolmen a short time later and rushed to hospital. His companion, whose name the police are withholding, fled and had not been detained at a late hour today.

Twenty-three cases of Seagram's whiskey were located in the back of the demolished car. With the exception of one case, the wet goods was undamaged and is now at police headquarters.

McLean, so far as hospital authorities were able to determine today, sustained a fractured leg, three fractured ribs and severe internal injuries.

His condition is very grave, and death may result at any hour.

SAYS WHEAT POOL LIKELY FOR WEST

Calgary, March 22.—"If the sixty-five farmer members stand solidly behind the wheat pool, it is my opinion they will get it," said H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, on his return to Calgary last night from Ottawa.

"Do you think they will stand solidly behind it?" he was asked. "The assumption is that they will. I know personally that the Alberta delegation is solid and enthusiastic for it," he replied, but would not enlarge on this statement.

NFLD. MAIL PLANE FORCED TO LAND

St. John's, Nfld., March 22.—Canadian Press.—The air mail in charge of Pilot V. S. Bennet, and carrying one passenger, made a successful trip Monday from Botwood to the Twillingate and Foggits, and on the return journey left Exploits in plenty of time to make his hangar before dark.

As it did not arrive considerable uneasiness was felt, but when Major Cotton started out in search yesterday morning he located the machine at Charlesbrook, twelve miles from Botwood. Bennet had the plane landed through the failure of the force feed apparatus.

OPEN DOORS OF NEW MEMORIAL ORPHANS' HOME

Commissioner Sowton of Salvation Army Presides At Ceremony.

MANY WITNESS EVENT

Speakers Pay Tribute to Splendid and Useful Aim of Institution.

Commissioner Charles Sowton of the Salvation Army, turned the key of the Ronald-Roy Gray Memorial Home at three-thirty Wednesday afternoon, thereby declaring open one of the finest homes for neglected or orphaned children in the province.

Practically all those to whom invitations had been issued were present and a number of others also who were anxious to witness the formal opening of the handsome residence.

The ceremonies opened with the singing of "O God Our Help in Ages Past," after which prayer was led by Rev. James McKay of New St. James Presbyterian Church.

Following the turning of the key, the ceremonies were continued in the reception hall of the home, when Brigadier Crichton presented Mayor Cameron Wilson, who, in a short address, expressed the gratitude of the city for the splendid memorial Mr. Gray had erected to his sons, thereby making possible so much happiness for the children who were to be its occupants.

Following Mayor Wilson's speech, short addresses were given by Brigadier Crichton, Lieut.-Col. Miller, Mr. George Reid and Mr. Jas. Gray. Commissioner Sowton addressed the gathering, commenting on the splendid work of the Army in London, and expressed its deep appreciation of the generous gift which would enable them to carry on their work with even greater success.

All present remarked on the superiority of the Memorial Home to the old quarters on Evergreen avenue, which while providing a shelter for the children has allowed them very few of the privileges of a real home.

HOURLY LIMIT IS PUT ON SPEECHES

Washington, March 22.—An hour limit on speeches went into effect today when the senate proceeded with the debate on the Four Power Pact, under the unanimous consent agreement which calls for a vote on ratification next Friday.

Of the pending amendments and reservations to the treaty, it was said that at least one might be voted on today, disposition of these having been in order yesterday under the terms of the unanimous consent agreement, although none was pressed then to a roll call.

SEEK MEETING ON CANADIAN CATTLE

London, March 22.—Canadian Press Cable.—Representatives on the subject of the importation of Canadian store cattle have been addressed to the city of London by the Aberdeen County Council, Edinburgh and Glasgow city councils, and the parliamentary committee of the Co-operative Congress, as well as other bodies, in favor of a further national conference being called by the lord mayor at the Guildhall. The cattle markets committee of the corporation of the city of London has now communicated with all the cities and boroughs in Great Britain, with a population upwards of 25,000, inviting their views on the matter.

Commissioner Roy Makes a Special Report On French Wine Growers' Dilemma.

Ottawa, March 22.—A delegation representing the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Canada waited on Hon. W. S. Fielding, acting premier, this morning to request that Mrs. Emily F. Murphy, judge of the juvenile court and police magistrate of Edmonton, Alb., be appointed to the first vacancy in the senate.

Trade Commissioner Reports. "Prohibition in the majority of the provinces of Canada and in the States, the closing of the Russian market, and high import duties on wine into Great Britain, have all combined caused untold hardships among the peasants and wine-growers of France," remarked Philippe Roy, commissioner-general for Canada in France, who arrived in Ottawa yesterday to make a persona report to the premier.

Those connected with the great French wine industry can understand why people in other countries should deprive themselves of alcohol, but it is beyond their comprehension why anyone should want to do without wine, stated Mr. Roy.

Mr. Roy says the French people and government are anxious to enter into a new trade agreement with Canada.

Besides reporting progress to the government, Mr. Roy will endeavor to establish in Paris a Canadian home for students from this country attending the several universities there. He estimates that there are at present 150 students from Canada taking courses in Paris.

AUSTRALIA FACES STRIKE THREAT

London, March 22.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—According to a Reuters cable from Melbourne, Australia, a Sydney report announces that the seamen's and miners' unions propose to declare a strike rivaling the upheaval of 1917, as a measure of resistance against the attempt to reduce wages.

The ship and mine owners have already announced their intention to decrease wages in proportion to the drop in the cost of living. The miners' union officials declares that whatever happens there will be no reduction of wages.

STRONG TO TURN EVANGELIST WHEN IRON GATES OF KINGSTON OPEN!

VINCENT STRONG, the youthful desperado, who threw London householders into a fury in November, 1920, by a series of daring burglaries, and who after being captured gained more fame by escaping from the county jail, only to be captured again in a bedroom of a local hotel, is going to turn evangelist when the iron gates of Kingston penitentiary clang behind him five years hence, according to a letter from Strong received by Jos. Brown, local auctioneer.

Strong lived up to his name, and was the picture of health when Detective Harry Down arrested him in November, 1920.

On November 16, 1920, he was sent out for a scuttles of coal at the county jail, but failed to return. He entered several houses before being captured three days later at 1:30 a.m. in the Harrison House, by Detectives Harry Down, Robert Eggleton and Sergeants Wm. Middaugh and the late Thomas Noonan.

That Strong must have had a wonderful change of heart since commencing his seven-year term at Kingston, is evinced by the fact that when he appeared in it, he amused himself by winking and smiling at the spectators.

The letter received by Mr. Brown from Strong is as follows:

"Things have not been going any too good for me. I haven't heard from home for nearly two months and it is starting to get on my nerves. They think because I don't write oftener that I don't care to hear from them. I write as often as I can, but I am only allowed one letter a month.

"This letter that I am writing to you is the only one that I shall write until sometime about the middle of next month, so if this letter fails to reach its destination, I am as the saying is, 'out of luck.'"

"Tell those people that I met in London, that I will never forget them, for they are a part of my life that I can't forget, and I don't want to forget it neither, for I think that God had a hand in it, bringing me to a stop before I went too far and making me see just what I was headed for."

"I was reading an article in a magazine the other day, about young fellows turning their wild oats. The author of it thinks that young men are all the better for it, but I don't agree with him, because seven chances out of ten the fellow will carry it too far.

"Take myself, for instance, see what it is costing me, costing the best part of my life in jail. Nobody took interest enough in me to warn me that if I kept on in my crooked path instead of the straight one, that crooked path would lead to a prison. I was too young then to see things clearly and from all sides like I do now.

"I am not like some fellows, who care for nobody but themselves. When those kind come here they say they don't care, the government cannot keep them forever; that this is just a vacation, a chance to lay new plots and figure out where they blundered the last time. I have heard that a lot of times since I have been here.

"Then again, there is always a lot of fellows here that if given a chance and somebody to help them along would turn out to be real upright men.

"After my release from here, I am going to try to help and be a friend to such fellows. I am going round to different jails and prisons, and I think that there will be a good many listen to me and follow me when they learn that I have had my experience in such things, and that what I speak is the truth.

"I know a lot of people will wonder what has come over me. I know a fellow that joined the Salvation Army and had all his friends thought he was a 'little off,' but he wasn't. I used to think the same of him too, and to make fun of the Salvation Army. But now I have found out why a fellow does these things, and will never again say such things about them.

"Really, if it hadn't been for one that I love (her death, I mean) I should have been a very different

THE WEEK IN THE WORLD

TARIFF - MAKING MANIAS

Exclusive Advertiser Review.

LONDON, March 21.—Ever since the end of the world war the countries of Europe have been tremendously busy framing new customs tariffs, or devising means for strengthening those already in operation against international trade.

The new nations have joined merely in the game, and countries like Poland, which yesterday was no more than a name, have suddenly blossomed into highly "protected" states in the possession of tariffs drawn up by mysterious experts, who are apparently more concerned to let nothing escape their net than to land in it fish worth the trying.

The smaller the country the more elaborate its tariff is almost certain to be.

The truth is that after the war every nation was compelled to cast around for ways and means to make ends meet, and the least disturbing process appeared to be the devising of tariffs which the foreigner was popularly supposed to pay.

This is, of course, an illusion. It is the consumer who ultimately pays both for the goods and the duties on these goods.

The public memory is proverbially short, else it would recall in Europe that all this intricate network of customs tariffs collapsed soon after the outbreak of war, and the only consistent revenue-producer during the war remained free trade England.

Germany was quick to understand the new order of things, and by inviting people to send to her goods of every description, became, between 1914 and 1918, virtually a free trade country.

Fortunately, the British Navy was there to see that the pre-war protectionist aspirations of the Fatherland were maintained in all their purity.

New tariffs are in the making in London and elsewhere.

In Britain the safeguarding of industries act of last year has had the effect of placing a tax of 11 1/2 per cent, ad valorem, on nearly 6,000 articles.

New Zealand's new tariff, which came into operation a few weeks ago, is a high three-decker, composed of an ordinary scale of duties, a British preferential scale, and an intermediate scale between the first two, which is at present inoperative, but is held in reserve for bargaining with other governments.

The recent general election in Canada fortunately defeated the proposal to institute a detrimentally high tariff, but elections do not count, new tariffs have been adopted.

In India increased duties were recently levied; goods which formerly were taxed at 7 1/2 per cent now pay 11 per cent, ad valorem, and on certain articles the rate is as high as 20 per cent.

In most of the European countries there have been enacted either entirely new tariffs or extensive alterations.

World News CUT SHORT

ROME, March 21.—A Stefani Agency dispatch from Durazzo today states that an extraordinary tribunal convened at Shkai, northeast of Durazzo, had sentenced to death by hanging Captain Rajramiani, captain of the Gendarmerie, for complicity in the recent rising in Albania, and that the sentence was carried out immediately.

The tribunal ruled that the city of Durazzo must pay 100,000 francs damages and Shkai 60,000 francs in connection with the revolt. A proclamation was issued threatening the death penalty for anyone taking up arms in Albania.

TOKIO, March 21.—A resolution introduced by the Opposition, expressing lack of confidence in the government, was defeated yesterday in parliament, the government receiving a majority of 100 votes. Six hours of debate preceded the balloting.

A man dressed as a coolie gained entrance to the imperial palace grounds at noon yesterday and threw a bomb to the ground, the explosion killing him. On his clothes was found a document criticizing the government and declaring the writer's intention to commit suicide. He was identified as a miner recently arrived from Manchuria.

The man gained entrance to the grounds by threatening the guards at the double bridge leading to the palace, shouting: "It is dangerous to approach me!" At the main gate other guards tried to stop him, whereupon he threw the missile at his feet.

PARIS, March 21.—Bringing that Nemesis of malefactors, the Bertillon system up to date, Edouard Belin, the inventor of telephotography, has perfected an instrument for transmitting finger-prints by telegraph.

The apparatus, which has been tested between Paris and Lyons, produced perfect results, and it is stated that the government will install instruments at all frontier stations. The transmission of the prints requires only fifteen minutes, which greatly reduces law-breakers' chances of escaping from the counsels.

The telestereograph, as the new apparatus is called, works on the same principle as M. Belin's other telephotographic inventions. A photograph is placed in a copper cylinder operated by clockwork. A needle which is part of a tiny interrupter placed in contact with the cylinder lifts on encountering a line on the film and breaks the current. The print is registered at the receiving end by the oscillation of a mirror on a film affixed to a cylinder like that at the sending station. This film is developed by the ordinary process.

ROME, March 21.—Although a semi-official Vatican note denies that Pope Pius XI intends to leave the sacred palaces, the way is left open for the pontiff's appearance not only on the balcony of St. Peter's, but also on the portico which runs the entire length of the facade.

"It is not improbable," says the note, "that at the conclusion of the international eucharistic congress the pope will give the benediction from the balcony of St. Peter's, of that in the eucharistic procession, as did Pius IX, he will carry the monstrance in the procession under the monumental portion of St. Peter's. In this case it must be noted that this portion is recognized as belonging to the sacred apostolic palaces."

ALLAHABAD, March 21.—A Teler dispatch says that the Persian government is not willing to accept £200,000 received from Washington against future oil royalties, because instead of the sum being an unconditional and separate loan, as was supposed, it learns that the loan is connected with the concession of northern oil fields recently granted to the Standard Oil Company, and indicate an understanding regarding their respective interests between the Standard Oil and the Anglo-Persian companies.

The Persian government is trying to economize in order to meet its obligations, but with little hope of success, and a ministerial crisis seems imminent.

PEKIN, China, March 21.—To wear "specks" or not to wear them was a problem which recently threw the imperial household of the Manchou dynasty into consternation when it was discovered that the sight of Hsuan Tung, young ex-emperor, was failing.

The American expert said it must be either "specks" or failing sight for Hsuan Tung, and "specks" it was.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 21.—Izzet Pasha, Turkish foreign minister, has telegraphed the results of his conversation with the Marquis of Curzon, the British foreign secretary, who made the following proposals for a settlement of the Turkish question:

That the Greeks withdraw from Anatolia.

That the allies protect the Christian minorities in Ionia since the Turks have proved incompetent administrators.

That the Thracian frontier be adjusted starting at Midia; and the creation of a special regime for Adrianople.

That the Turks accept unreservedly the British solution of the problem of the Dardanelles Straits.

That the British frontier in Mesopotamia include the town of Mosul, which has been disputed by the Turks.

That a special Turco-British convention be completed, to run twenty-five years.

That the Turks abandon anti-British propaganda in India, Persia and Afghanistan.

That Anatolia recognize the ports as the legitimate government in Turkey, and the re-establishment of the sultan's authority over Anatolia.

HOLD SUCCESSFUL TEA. ST. MARYS, March 21.—A very successful afternoon tea was held today at the home of Mrs. (Dr.) C. F. Smith, Wilmer street, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Baptist Church. The purpose of the affair was to raise money for the parsonage fund, and about $20 was realized in this way.

MANY CAR MEN FAVOR WALKOUT

Others Approve Getting Court Injunction Against Street Railway.

TAKE VOTE ON ACTION

Majority Decide To Ask For Appointment of Board of Conciliation.

Steadfast in their determination not to tamely accept the three-cent car fare reduction in their wages, effective since March, motormen and conductors employed by the London Street Railway Company have voted to make immediate application to the Federal Department of Labor for a board of conciliation.

In the same appeal Hon. James M. Murdock, minister of labor, will be asked to restrain the company from a continuance of the reduction pending the negotiations.

Officials of the union explained Tuesday evening that the members were by no means unanimous in their support of a certain proportion of both the strike and the walkout.

"They wanted to put the cars in the hands right away," said one of the officials, "but we wish to avoid such trouble, if humanly possible, as that is what we are trying to do."

Others were of the opinion that action should be entered at once through the courts to restrain the company from affecting the reduction. However, this suggestion did not meet with the approval of the majority. Considering the large expenditure involved in the strike, it being pointed out that even should an injunction be granted, the company could be restrained only from its present activities until such time as the management applied for a board of conciliation.

Basis of Appeal.
In its appeal to the Minister of Labor for intervention that will absolutely forbid the company from remunerating its employees at the reduced scale (45 cents an hour) the union basis its rights for such officials explain, upon the industrial disputes act. The latter contend that by the provisions of this enactment the company is lawfully bound to call for a board of arbitration before any move is made to quash the existing contract with the men.

The secretary of the union was directed Tuesday afternoon to apply to Ottawa for the necessary documents. While several days will elapse before these can be obtained and returned to the capital, the employees state that they have ample time at their disposal.

Following the company's reduction they moved to quash the same agreement, asking that a new contract be formulated April 1. They demand that the company should not pay for Sundays and holidays and one week's holiday each year.

"We are going to stay to the finish in spite of everything," a member of the union's executive committee declared after Tuesday's final meeting.

TO EXPLAIN HOW CITY MAY LOOK AFTER MORE PUPILS

Education Board Will Hear Provincial Attendance Officer at Special Meeting Today.

At a special meeting Wednesday afternoon, members of the board of education will hear Major Cowell, chief provincial attendance officer, explain just how the department of education expects the city to provide educational facilities for all children to the age of 18 years.

In its 1921 estimate the trustees have made provision for a chief attendance officer for London, with an assistant and stenographer. At present this work is being accomplished exclusively by Dr. George S. Weir.

In September last the adolescent attendance act was made effective with the result that approximately 400 more pupils were added to the school enrollment, most of whom, however, were cared for at the evening technical classes.

It is now proposed to elevate the age limit from 16 to 18 years, which will mean necessarily that several hundred more children will have to be provided for next fall.

Suggests Trustees Rowe or Silverwood To Oppose Mayor

City Clerk Baker offers a solution for the present controversy between the various civic spending bodies and Mayor Cameron Wilson.

It has been reported that the latter will resign and go to the people upon his proposal for a reduced tax rate at all costs.

"I do not know whether he said it or not," said the city clerk Wednesday morning, "but perhaps it would be worth while. It would be a splendid opportunity to test the feeling of the public. School Trustees Silverwood or Trustee Thomas Rowe were proposed by the city clerk to oppose the mayor in a special election."

"I understand that they have done more talking than any of the others," he said.

REV. McCORMICK REMAINS PASTOR

At a meeting of the official board of Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church Tuesday evening, an unanimous resolution was passed that the Rev. R. J. McCormick, to remain for another year. In accepting the invitation, Mr. McCormick spoke of his enjoyment of the first year of his ministry with Hyatt Avenue church, and of the encouragement which the splendid progress of the church during the year had given him.

During the past year improvement and progress have been noted in all departments of the church work, and the attendance at the Sunday services has greatly increased. A junior congregation has also been organized. Several members of the board gave expression to the hope with which they look forward to even greater progress during the coming year.

BUTCHERS FIGURE IN STORES DEAL

Three prominent butchers of London's market house figured in a cornered deal on Tuesday when Paul Doug bought out W. Marsh & Son's business, while the latter moved into E. & O. Boug's establishment, "Ernie" and "Ollie" Boug will take a year's vacation, and visit relatives in England during the coming summer.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And now abide faith, hope and charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.—I Corinthians 13:13.

In Christ's day men gave themselves, not a guinea, when an appeal was made. Love had not then found out that it could buy itself off with an annual subscription. It was mad enough to sell and suffer in the heat of the day. Only spiritual insolvents think of compounding with God for a guinea, when they owe him their whole life.—Joseph Parker.

THE INDOOR BASEBALL league games will be started at the local "Y" when the Reliance will play King street and the Pointers will take on the Champions. Six teams of the Trail Ranger group are represented in this league.

THROUGH AN ERROR it was stated that Cecil Wright was carrying the gun in connection with the story of the arrest of three men who passed off as a Londoner. It should have been William West. Flowers, his companion, carried the gun.

THE PROPERTY at 124 Albert street, formerly owned by Major A. Graham, has been purchased by Tailor Street Baptist Church for the use of the new pastor, Dr. Bowley Green. The amount paid is said to be between seven and eight thousand dollars.

G. W. SULMAN, ex-M.P., Chatham, who spoke in London a few weeks ago is returning to this city on April 25, under the auspices of the Askin street boys, to lecture on "Java and the South Seas." Mr. Sulman, who has travelled extensively and lectured in many parts of America, is fully competent to handle such a subject.

THE ASKIN STREET HAWKS of the Trail Rangers group and the Nikators of Dundas Center, representing the Tuxis boys, will journey to Windsor with their basketball teams on April 8, to battle with the Trail Rangers and the Tuxis boys of that city. The Windsorites intend coming to London on April 11 to play return games.

NEW PERIOD DESIGNS OF VICTOR-VICTROLAS

The Victor Company have introduced this week five new console models of Victor-Victrolas.

As usual, the home of the Victrola, Mason & Risch, Limited, 248 Dundas street, who have seven sound proof rooms for demonstrating Victor records and Victrolas, are first to show these exclusive period models.

Imagine being able to procure a genuine Victrola Console model as low as $165, also at $225, $285, $400 and $500.

You are invited to examine these works of art as well as musically perfect instruments, any of which may be purchased upon terms to suit customers' convenience.—Adv.

EXPLAINS HOW ART AIDS ADVERTISING

J. E. Samson Says Poster Must Tell Its Story To Public At Glance.

BEST STYLE IS ENGLISH

Announce Intelligence Test Results To London Advertising and Sales Club.

J. E. Samson of the firm of Colorcraft, Toronto, was the speaker of the evening at the monthly banquet of the London Advertising and Sales Club held in the Tecumseh House Tuesday.

Dealing with the subject of "Art in Advertising," the speaker said that every country had its own particular style of art for advertising purposes. The poster, the most popular kind of advertising, came originally from either France or Germany, most probably from the former country. The French poster carried with it all the grace, charm and gay appearance usually associated with the French nation, while on the other hand the German poster was built upon a more solid structure and presented a massive effect.

English Is Happy Medium.
The style adopted by the English was the happy medium between the two.

In order to insure the success of a poster it must tell its story at a glance, and to do this the poster must be complete with all the lines and colors leading to the one outstanding feature which the advertiser or the artist wishes to emphasize.

The usefulness of a poster must be viewed from the standpoint of the general public, whom it is intended to attract, and not from the point of view of the artist who is making it. Association of ideas was another strong point, according to the speaker, who said that the poster must make its appeal within the bounds of possibility.

If the art work of a poster was to tell the story, the wording and the color scheme must be arranged so that they did not detract from the effect, but, on the other hand, they must assist and lead up to the effect required.

Speaking on the matter of color, Mr. Samson said that the true effect of color on the senses was not realized to the full.

Advertiser's Object.
The advertiser using the poster with a definite end in view, either to place his goods or his name before the public, so that when occasion brought the matter before the mind of an individual he would instinctively think of the name most advertised.

The strength of a poster was often in its simplicity, and the process of elimination often had a more telling effect than elaboration. The color, design or pictorial element of a poster could have a dignified effect or otherwise, according as it was portrayed and arranged.

During his address, the speaker illustrated his remarks by showing various posters as well as advantageous features of each one.

T. Yull, who had introduced an intelligence test at the last meeting of the club, announced that the three members standing highest were A. E. McGee, Alan D. Gow and D. George Clarke.

E. E. Glen introduced the speaker, and the president of the club, D. George Clarke, occupied the chair.

BOTH FIND THEY ARGUED RIGHTLY

Ald. John Ashton is for checking up G. A. Wenige on his Pipe Line Road declaration in a letter to The Advertiser. The labor-advertiser thought that his memory served him well, and that the Pipe Line Road pavement proposal passed the council unanimously.

Ald. Wenige said that he voted against every two-third vote which was presented while he was on the council.

However, a perusal of the minutes served to show that Ald. Ashton's memory about the matter was behind, and that the Pipe Line Road pavement proposal passed the council unanimously.

The Pipe Line Road pavement was initiated by the council of 1920. Ald. Wenige was not a member of the council, being elected in 1921.

REMANDS POOL SELLING CASE

Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon faced the lightest docket Wednesday morning that he has experienced since his return to the bench. Nine cases were listed on the blotter, an adjournment of a week was made in the case of John O'Flaherty, who is charged with using his premises for pool selling.

Five citizens charged with violations of the motor vehicle act, and two charged with breaches of city bylaws, settled their cases out of court by contributing small fines. One assault case was withdrawn, when the defendant paid the costs.

CHARGES "MINORITY RULE" RAMPANT CITY GOVERNMENT

Minority rule is being steadily implanted at the city hall by several of the bodies.

This is due to the "wobbling" of the meetings, as the city clerk puts it. Meetings are called and never attended. The result is that on some bodies the important business of the year to date has been transacted by minority meetings.

Four meetings were called for Tuesday afternoon. Not one of them materialized.

The industrial area committee, town planning commission, board of health and civic committee were the bodies scheduled to gather.

The first two were called off and the members notified. The board of health chairman thought that he could not get a meeting, though a quorum was available. He called the meeting off late in the day. Some

Trustee Says Department's "Jim Jams" Cause of Excessive School Taxes

As one of the board of education's representatives to the inaugural gathering of the civic commission Wednesday, Trustee Bryden Campbell will place the burden of responsibility for London's excessive school tax rate upon the provincial department in Toronto.

"I go to the commission," explained the trustee Wednesday morning, "prepared with the figures to prove my contention. This has been going on for years, and now we have reached the culmination point. As a matter of fact the people have been paying, through the

IS READY TO FACE LABOR PARTY'S EXECUTIVE BOARD

Alderman John Ashton Characterizes Attack On Himself As Spite Work.

Emphatic in his contention that recent opposition to his attitude, emanating from the Labor Temple, is more or less "spite work," Ald. John Ashton declared Wednesday that had the members of the labor party any criticism to offer to his actions they should have adopted a different method of expressing it.

"The party has an executive board," said the councillor, "and any member whose actions they consider have not been justified, should be taken before it before they discuss their grievance in public."

Ald. Ashton stated further that he was ready at any time to appear before the party and give an account of his actions before the council. "I am at the Labor Temple frequently," he declared, "I have nothing to hide."

Touching upon the trip to Toronto Tuesday, when representatives of the various municipalities considered the hydro situation, the alderman denied the report in the Toronto journals that they were there to attack the Drury government.

"I did not go there for any such purpose," he asserted emphatically. "I was under the impression that both sides would be present before the matter before the council. I incidentally gained considerable information of a more or less nature. I was not implicated in my attack upon the Farmer-Labor party."

GIVE PLAY "THE MINISTER'S BRIDE"

The members of the First Congregational Church were entertained in a splendid fashion, Tuesday evening by the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society, of the First Church of Christ, who presented an amusing play, "The Minister's Bride."

The leading characters in the play were: The minister, played by Wilfred Dunn; his bride, by Miss Hilma Versey; and Mrs. Crabbe, the president of the Ladies Aid Society, played by Miss Grace Versey. Miss Grace Versey was also the director of the play and deserves much of the credit for its success.

The element of humor was supplied by Albert McVicar, E. P. Versey, and Douglas McVicar, who played the parts of a comedy nature. Members of the Ladies Aid and other female characters were taken by Mrs. Evelyn Banks, Jean Henderson, Jean Robertson, Irene Steller, Francis Robertson and A. W. McVicar.

Selections by the orchestra of the First Congregational Church were responsible for much enjoyment throughout the evening.

WILL END CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY YEAR EARLIER

Members Told Several Applications To Adopt Wards Have Been Received.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society, Tuesday afternoon, it was reported that sixteen children had been admitted to the society during the past month, and thirteen discharged. At present there are twenty-six children in the shelter. A number of applications for adoption are being considered from people who wish to adopt children.

Much satisfaction was caused by the report that an electric water heater had been installed and the kitchen re-decorated and new floor covering laid.

Some discussion took place at the meeting regarding the proposed revisions of the bylaws and constitution of the society, and it was decided to complete the year's work at the end of September instead of November, in order that the annual meeting may be held before the Christmas season. The customary grant of $10 was made to the Association of Children's Aid Societies at Toronto, at the next meeting of which amendments to the Ontario Act for the Protection of Children will be considered.

Running expenses during the past month amounted to $1,021, as compared to $970 for the preceding month. The president, C. E. Barbour, occupied the chair.

On Wednesday afternoon Commissioner Jared Vining, chairman of that body, explained that the question had not been formally discussed by the members and while he expected that representatives would attend the initial session of the new civic commission Wednesday afternoon, he did not know personally, he averred what attitude would be assumed by the commission as a body. He professed frank ignorance of the commissioners' possible action.

UTILITIES KEEP SILENT ON CUT

Complete silence still reigns at the public utility commission respecting Mayor Wilson's proposed 10 per cent reduction to affect all civic employees.

On Wednesday afternoon Commissioner Jared Vining, chairman of that body, explained that the question had not been formally discussed by the members and while he expected that representatives would attend the initial session of the new civic commission Wednesday afternoon, he did not know personally, he averred what attitude would be assumed by the commission as a body. He professed frank ignorance of the commissioners' possible action.

PASTOR EULOGIZES "IF WINTER COMES"

Rev. Quintin Warner Analyzes Literary Work of Author, A. M. S. Hutchinson.

RECOMMENDS IDEALS

Declares Story, Now Running in Columns of Advertiser, Points Great Moral.

A. M. S. Hutchinson's three great books, "If Winter Comes," "The Clean Heart," and "The Happy Warrior," represent not just an interest, but a consuming interest in religion and morality, according to Rev. Quintin Warner who, before a large audience in Cronyn Memorial Church on Tuesday afternoon, pointed out the real value of the books.

Rev. Mr. Warner points out that Mr. Hutchinson, like many other great writers is a mouthpiece of humanity; his words, because they deal with heart-reaching questions and because they are immensely popular, are abundant evidence that the heart of humanity is sound. In this time of re-adjustment, the insistent cry for a solution to the problem of the great unchurched sons of God, should be hopefully answered.

Running in Advertiser.
In closely examining "If Winter Comes," which is being published at present in serial form in The London Advertiser, the reader is enabled to perceive that the ideas contained in the book bring to the surface of his own thought.

"The book strongly appeals to the reader's serious imagination, makes him consider deeply and interpret the meaning of the book for himself. One may obtain through Puddlebox, a great character in 'The Clean Heart,' a profound grasp of the true meaning of life."

"Throughout the book there are very few beautiful, rhythmical passages, but there runs, in several occasions, the spice of delicious humor. Mark Sabre, a unique character, portrayed by Mr. Hutchinson, is a man who says much more clearly and infinitely more intensely with his mind than with his eye, and is therefore admirable."

Sabre, in declaring that marriage is a contract in which one is in all honor bound, thereby placed emphasis upon the ideal of marriage, and not upon the horrible failure evidenced by divorce.

Unselfish Ideals.
The great virtue, the willingness to sacrifice self, and a clear sense of honor and truth are depicted strongly in both "The Happy Warrior" and "The Clean Heart." But the noblest of all human virtues, namely, willingly and alone, to relinquish an advantage over another, an advantage that means everything to oneself, is presented in that great book, "If Winter Comes."

"In reading earnestly that story, the reader is forced to realize that in the heart of every man there is a sense of approval of a gloriously unselfish life, an approval of a life nobly lived."

"Jesus demonstrated in His willing surrender of a supreme advantage what impulse in life a man would really rise to and millions have responded to His call to find life in and through Him."

"In summing up the value of 'If Winter Comes,' the speaker said: 'Surely it is a great, though unconscious tribute to the standard set up by the founder of Christianity. The great hope of humanity lies in a sympathetic understanding of this life and an unbounded admiration of the things that are excellent.'"

CHORAL SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

A general business meeting of the London Choral Society was held recently in Cronyn Hall, Prof. Anderson occupying the chair. The accounts, which showed the society to be on a satisfactory financial basis, were approved.

H. T. Dickinson complimented the society upon the efficient production of "Elijah," recently given in St. Paul's Cathedral.

The following were elected to the executive committee for the ensuing year: Prof. Anderson, president; E. G. Wood, secretary; E. L. Gillingham, treasurer; G. Wadding, librarian, and H. T. Dickinson, Mrs. William Self and Miss M. Johnson as conductors.

It was decided to give a rendering of St. Paul's Cathedral on Good Friday evening.

Announcement is Made of Rules To Enable Members To Win Bird Life Badge.

W. E. Saunders, president of the London Horticultural Society, will address the Trail Ranger Boys Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. on "Bird Nests." About 80 boys are expected to be present. In order to win their bird life badge the boys must:

(a) Identify two of these larger birds—Great Blue Heron, Black Duck, Loon, Bittern, Canada Goose, Partridge (Ruffed Grouse), Herring Gull and Crow.

(b) Identify four of this list of small birds—Bluejay, Dove, Bronzed Grackle, Flicker, Sparrow, Hawk, Killdeer, Plover and Quail.

(c) Identify ten birds not named in the foregoing lists.

(d) Identify eight birds by their songs or notes.

(e) Name one species which builds its nest in a hole in a tree.

(f) Name one species which has its nest suspended from twigs.

(g) Name two species which place their nests in the upright crutch of trees.

(h) Name birds which use the following in nest construction—Mud, twine, twigs, feathers and hair. Name two birds using each material.

S. A. Officer Dies

COL. JOHN RAWLINGS.

TORONTO social worker, who was well-known in London, succumbed to death Wednesday morning after a brief illness.

He was field secretary for Eastern Canada at the time of his death, and had been in the London division for four years previous to his acceptance of that office.

He left to assume the position of field secretary, with headquarters at Toronto in September, 1920.

Col. Rawlings was born in England and came to Canada when a boy. He had been a member of the Salvation Army for 38 years, and was an officer for all but one of those years. He was one of the most active workers in the Salvation Army in Canada, and his death will be universally regretted.

He is survived by a widow, two daughters and one son.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 11 o'clock, and will be conducted in the Temple at 1000, by Special Services, will also be conducted at the London Citadel.

WOMEN LIBERALS SEE MINISTERS
A deputation from the executive of the Toronto Women's Liberal Association waited on Premier Drury and Minister of Labor and Health Rolfe this morning and presented two resolutions. The first, which asked for equal guardianship of children by the parents, was favored by the ministers. They, however, expressed doubt of the effect of the second, which called for medical certificates before marriage.

WILL DECIDE FATE OF FISH MARKET

The fate of the city fish market is to be decided on Wednesday afternoon by the chairman of the two council committees, Messrs. Childs and Ashton.

Ald. Watkinson and other sources have been attacking the fish stall of the city and the two aldermen have decided that they will look into the whole proposition and then present a report to the council.

The fish stall found on the city treasurer's books a net profit of about $2,000.

AVERT SUSPENSION OF RADIAL SERVICE

Proposition Considered by Waterloo Bodies To Be Favorably Acted Upon.

HOLD SUNDAY CONCERTS

Galt, Kitchener, Guelph and Preston Plan Reciprocal Musical Entertainments.

Special to London Advertiser.

KITCHENER, March 20.—Judging from the result of a conference between representatives of the Waterloo, Wellington Railway Company and the trustees of Bridgeport, the Waterloo Township council and the suburban roads commission, it will not be necessary for the company to suspend service to Bridgeport, as was at first contemplated. A proposition has been placed before the joint boards by the company which, it is understood, will be favorably acted upon. This will provide for widening of the street and allowing the rails of the company to remain under a new franchise.

At a special meeting of representatives of various bands in this district here today it was decided to hold reciprocal Sunday band concerts in Galt, Kitchener, Guelph and Preston during the coming summer. The bands will interchange places each Sunday during the season. The schedule adopted calls for twelve concerts.

Mr. John Snyder, aged 73, died at his home here today after a brief illness. He leaves his widow, three sons and three daughters.

4 DEPUTATIONS WAIT ON GALT CITY COUNCIL

All Seek Civic Grants To Aid Them in Year's Program of Work.

Special to London Advertiser.

GALT, March 20.—The city council held a busy session tonight, when no less than four deputations were on hand from the Waterloo County Health Association, the Agricultural Society, Y. M. C. A. and the Humane Society, all requesting grants to aid them in their work.

Algermen W. Burnet, W. S. McKay and J. E. Gardiner were appointed a special committee to investigate the matter of the city's overhead expenses with a view to economizing.
After the council adjourned Mayor Charlton was pleasantly surprised when he was surrounded by his colleagues and presented with a beautiful mantle clock in honor of his recent marriage. He has the unique distinction of being Galt's first mayor to be married while occupying the chief magistrate's chair.

PRESENT "DEACON DUBBS"

West Nissouri Club Members Please Purple Hill Audience.

Special to London Advertiser.

THORNDALE, March 21.—The "Young Dubbs" Club of S. S. No. 6, West Nissouri, delighted a capacity audience in Purple Hill Orange Hall on Friday evening, presenting that popular three-act drama, "Deacon Dubbs," as a benefit to the Clipperton Cemetery improvement fund.

The large audience was thoroughly delighted with this, the maiden effort of the young people of the section, to provide wholesome entertainment among themselves, and to remove the reproach that life in the country is lonely. The play is to be repeated in Harding's Hall, Thorndale, Tuesday evening next. Miss Orr of London contributed several vocal numbers between the acts, and Mr. William Loughlin of Evelyn, violin selections. The cast: Deacon Dubbs, Walter Quait; Amos Coleman, Robert Mullis; Rawdon Crawley, Harold Loughlin; Major McNutt, Edward Douglas; Rose Raleigh, Esther Weston; Deuteronomy Jones, Ellis Smith; Miss Philomena Popover, Sadie Eulgent; Emily Dale, Velma Henshaw; Trixie Coleman, Jessie Weston; Yennie Yensen, Eva Smith. At Thorndale a full hall is anticipated, as the people of that thriving place are appreciative.

DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME

TILLSONBURG, March 21.—James Williams, 59 years old, dropped dead at his home here this morning while preparing to go to his work at the Huntly Manufacturing Company's plant. He had suffered a very severe illness a few months ago, but had fully recovered, and had been working as usual for several weeks past and was in apparently good health on retiring Sunday evening.

Mr. Williams was a valued employee in the testing room of the Borden Milk Company for several years and a very popular citizen of the town. He was a member of Avondale Presbyterian Church; King Hiram Masonic Lodge, No. 73, A. F. and A. M.; Ligar's Encampment, No. 87, and past grand in Otter Lodge, No. 50, L.O.O.F.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon in charge of the Odd-fellows. He leaves his widow and a young son.

CHASE ENDS IN POLICE COURT

BRANTFORD, March 21.—Yesterday P. C. Brittenden was patrolling his beat when he noticed a number of young men hanging around the railway rest station at Market and Colborne streets. At his request all of them moved on but one, Walter Douglas.

"You better get along, too," observed the officer.

"I guess I'll move when I feel like it," Douglas retorted.

P. C. Brittenden made a move to enforce his order, when Douglas ducked across the market square with the constable in hot pursuit. The chase ended up in the police court today, where Douglas appeared charged with disorderly conduct. He received a remand for a week.

The constable says that Douglas was looking through the window of the station and making eyes at the women folk inside.

WINS SUIT FOR STRIP OF LAND

C. C. Gordon Entitled to Relief and Title, Chief Justice Decides.

DEFENDANT TO PAY COST

Court Declares Property Not Worth Third of Fees Involved.

The deciding of the ownership of a short strip of land, 2 1/2 feet wide took up most of Tuesday afternoon and all Wednesday morning at the spring assizes at the courthouse before Chief Justice R. M. Meredith.

The property, situated on Worthington road, was claimed by C. C. Gordon, plaintiff in the action, and H. R. Colbert, the court giving judgment in favor of the plaintiff, the costs to be paid by Mr. Colbert.

"A determined Englishman on one side and a determined Irishman on the other," observed the court. "It is a pity that the two parties could not get together on this action."

According to the evidence of Mr. Gordon, given Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Colbert had made some alterations to his premises and had graded his lawn over the edge of the plaintiff's property, some 30 inches being involved.

"The plaintiff is entitled to relief," declared the chief justice in giving judgment. "The land is of very little value, perhaps not worth one third of the cost of this action. However, the parties have the right to litigate if they so choose."

"The plaintiff's possession was invaded by the defendant, and if he can show a better title to the land, he succeeds. However, in my opinion he fails, being unable to show by any process that he has fixed the line."

The surveyor's evidence, however, was to the effect that the line runs from 1881 to 1891, and it is quite plain that after the fence was removed that the parties on both sides knew where the true line was. I accept Mrs. Rowat's evidence in the matter."

"The plaintiff is entitled to judgment, on a straight line being drawn to the post holes of that fence, and also the costs of the action."

It was stated that the land in question was worth about $160, according to information given by Mr. Gordon on examination for discovery.

Harry Greenless appeared for the plaintiff and J. M. McEvoy, K. C., for the defence.

CHINESE PLAYLET HAS MISSIONARY MORAL

King's Daughters of Ridout Street Methodist Church Offering Well Received.

A playlet, full of color and action, having a moral of serious portent, yet withal enlivened by touches of humor, was presented Tuesday evening at Ridout Street Methodist Church by the members of the King's Daughters Class under the direction of Mrs. Milton Thiel.

The play, called "Broken China," had its beginning in a novel manner. Four "coolies" entered from the rear and paraded down the aisle, carrying a Chinese bride in a sedan chair. An atmosphere of picturesque beauty was lent by the use of colorful Chinese costumes, which had been brought specially from Toronto. The idea which was uppermost throughout the presentation was that China has had just enough of missionary work to upset the homes and make the women of that country long for something better, and yet the work has not sufficiently progressed to give them what they ask for. The keynote lies in the words of the little Chinese bride, who is the heroine, "What your Jesus doctrine has broken, your Jesus doctrine must mend."

The role of the bride was taken by Miss Nettie Goodwin and that of the mother-in-law by Mrs. Marshall, whose interpretation of this somewhat difficult role was particularly fine. Others taking part were Miss Florence Munn as the confidante, Miss Adele Moore as the missionary, Mr. W. B. Spaulding as the husband, and the following as five "coolies," Jack Holmes, Stanley Turner, Harold Deacon, William Edworthy and Harry Moore.

As a prologue to the play some excellent selections were given by the Little Orchestra and a number of enjoyable readings by Miss Frances Carraire.

Another feature of particular interest was some double quartet work given by Mrs. M. Thiel, Miss N. Goodwin, Miss E. Brighton, Miss W. Barnes, Mrs. Durand, Miss B. Adams and Mrs. W. B. Spaulding. Mrs. S. J. Martin acted as chairman throughout the evening.

HOW "TIZ" HELPS SORE, TIRED FEET

Day's Legislative Doings at Ottawa

TODAY IN PARLIAMENT. In the Commons. Debate on the address will be continued by John Evans, Progressive member for Saskatoon, who moved the adjournment last night.

YESTERDAY IN PARLIAMENT. Debate on the address resumed by W. G. Raymond (Liberal, Brantford), who said that free trade was an excellent theory, but was not practical under present conditions in Canada. A tariff based on revenue needs, which would afford incidental protection, would be the best for the Dominion. He believed that the Canadian people should have their own railways, and that men of ability and experience could be found to manage them to its credit.

Hon. R. J. Manion (Conservative, Fort William), said that if the Progressives searched until Doomsday they would not find two real free traders among the government forces, with the exception of the members for Brome and Gloucester (Messrs. McMaster and Tupper). The late government had done nothing to be ashamed of, and had many accomplishments to its credit.

Dr. Manion said that if the St. Lawrence canal project was carried through the Great Lakes would become a Mediterranean Sea of North America. He asked for further aid to returned soldiers.

Turgeon (Liberal, Gloucester) asked for control of the Canadian National system, declaring that only by this method could such a great system be operated successfully. He wanted to see the government system succeed, he said.

A. L. Beaulieu (Progressive, Provencher), declared that middlemen were the farmers' worst enemies, profiting from the labor of the farmer. He advocated the adjustment of the tariff to suit the needs of all classes. He advocated immediate steps to deal with the unemployment problem.

E. B. Rockman (Conservative, Toronto East) declared that while the United States maintained a tariff wall against Canada, he and his constituents were in favor of Canada maintaining her tariff.

E. J. Sexsmith (Progressive, Lennox and Addington) characterized the tariff policy of the late government as one which had been a failure. He declared that employment was largely the result of this mistaken policy. The solution was to change the policy.

Dr. Charles Sheard (Conservative, Toronto West) declared that the Meighen government on the taxes and the restrictions made necessary by the war. The present government would probably share the same fate, he predicted.

John Evans (Progressive, Saskatoon) blamed the old National Policy for closing up thousands of farm homes in Ontario.

Mr. Evans moved the adjournment of the debate.

In the Senate. The Senate did not sit.

EXPERT PRAISES SPRINGBANK PARK

The flower-loving people of London were given a treat on Tuesday evening when Mr. John Dunbar, assistant superintendent of the Parks Board, Rochester, N. Y., gave an illustrated lecture in the Normal school on "Flowering Shrubs and Trees" under the auspices of the London Horticultural Society.

Mr. Dunbar is a well-known lecturer throughout Canada and the United States, having given practically all his life to the study of shrubs and flowers.

W. E. Saunders introduced the speaker. Mr. Dunbar, who visited Springbank Park Tuesday afternoon with Mr. Saunders, declared that the area of the park was surprising to him as well as its picturesque scenery and romantic beauty. It was a splendid example of ornamental horticulture, he said, and he was pleased to notice among its vegetation some of the rare shrubs. He paid tribute to the Horticultural Societies in this part of Canada, and the fact that they had thirty-two thousand members showed the interest of the people in this regard. There was nothing like it in the United States, he declared.

Rochester possessed the only municipal parks system of its kind even attempted in North America, having approximately forty-three thousand hardy trees and shrubs.

China also had its share of trees and shrubs. Highland Park was featured on the screen, and from the numerous plants and shrubs shown, it must rank as one of the most picturesque in America.

Dr. Sargent of Harvard University, who has traveled abroad extensively in search of new specimens, has named some after American statesmen and presidents; and a plum tree, which Mr. Dunbar discovered, is called after himself by Dr. Sargent, namely Prunus Dunbari.

Mr. W. B. Spaulding, announced that the next drive for new members was being made, as they wish to increase the membership to four thousand. He also stated that the society intended holding a Peony show this summer, which will be the largest of its kind ever held in the world, as there will be exhibitors from every part of the continent, with collections from all parts of the world.

The slides shown included flowering trees and shrubs, not only in black and white, but also in their natural colors. These latter slides are produced by a French process, which photographs objects in their real colors.

Various species of the American Hawthorn were thrown on the screen, as well as those which are common in Canada. One of the prettiest shrubs was the White Flowering Dogwood, the specimen shown being photographed near Harvard University. There was also a picture of the Chinese Fringe, which is a rare tree found near Shanghai.

Another picture of merit was one showing a Japanese cherry tree in full bloom. Other Japanese trees were the Thorax and the Crabapple.

FRANCE APPOINTS GENOA DELEGATE

New York, March 22.—The footman guarded, haughtily curtained five-story building around the corner from 5th avenue on 54th street, which houses salons and atelier of Lucile, Limited, appeared to brood today in more than the usual elegant isolation.

For it became known late yesterday that the establishment, one of the largest and most exclusive of its kind in the world, has been unable to withstand present business conditions. An involuntary petition in bankruptcy filed against the company gives liabilities as $175,000 and assets at approximately $75,000. It further was explained that these figures inadequately represent the failure.

Lady Duff-Gordon, who gave her name to the famous shop a dozen years ago, is said to be in Paris, where she makes her headquarters, dividing her time between her shop in the French city and another in London.

While creditors are checking up accounts, totaling all the way from a few hundred dollars to $25,000, the Lucile, Limited, clientele, composed of such members of the socially elite as can afford to run into three figures for the most simple little odds and ends of wardrobes, are wondering where their spring finery is to come from.

STATES SILVER TRAY TOO MUCH IN VOGUE

Rev. Quintin Warner Says Children Must Be Made to Master Difficulties.

WILL DEVELOP MANHOOD

Members of St. George's Mothers' Club Indorse Views Advocated By Minister.

Addressing the St. George's Mothers' Club Tuesday evening on the subject of character, and the part parents and teachers play in developing it in children, Rev. G. Quintin Warner expressed the opinion that children have too many things handed to them on a silver tray in this generation. "They would appreciate education, sports and amusements more if they had to dig harder for them," said he. Further, he impressed upon the mothers that difficulties are needed to develop strong fibre in character, and his advice was to those having children in their charge to give them tasks to master.

Simplicity he considered the dominant characteristic, the keynote of the finest characters.

In order to impress the lesson of how much may be achieved by one little life, properly trained, the speaker showed a quaint instrument, a Chinese fiddle with one string. On that one string, he stated, it is possible to play a great variety of tunes.

An interesting discussion followed the address, the consensus of opinion endorsing Mr. Warner's view with regard to the value of mastering difficulties in order to develop character.

The speaker of the evening was the first in the history of the club to appear as a musician as well as a lecturer. Mr. Warner rendered a couple of numbers on his cello, while Miss Helen Hooke at the piano, Miss Irene Strachan sang solos, accompanied by Mrs. Saunders, and Ruth Barbour recited. Mrs. Alfred Drew presided.

CLAIM SOCCER MEN IMPORTED

a square deal for our citizens? We have as good footballers in London as in any other city, and ones who are looking for work but cannot obtain any.

The city council has given employment to a large number this winter digging sewers three days a week for each man, but there are still many men out of work. Do you think Mr. Ratepayer, that this man is giving a square deal to our citizens by employing out of the men in order to have a football team? I say that it is a farce to allow such a thing to be carried on.

"We are glad to see a good football team in London, but the utilities does not have to import men from all over Ontario in order to have a good team. They have the pick of the city if they will give them work. Why not employ our own citizens instead of outside labor?"

NEVER APPLIED, BUT GOT BERTH

Though the dozen applicants for the post of overseer of letter carriers at the post office were notified over two months ago, that C. N. Perrin, a night sorter, had been selected for the job, Mr. Perrin was never notified of his appointment. Mr. Perrin at that time said he never applied for the post.

However, a few days ago, he received a letter from the civil service commission, stating that his application for a senior clerkship was being considered in conjunction with the overseas vacancy.

Dr. Sargent of Harvard University, who has traveled abroad extensively in search of new specimens, has named some after American statesmen and presidents; and a plum tree, which Mr. Dunbar discovered, is called after himself by Dr. Sargent, namely Prunus Dunbari.

Mr. W. B. Spaulding, announced that the next drive for new members was being made, as they wish to increase the membership to four thousand. He also stated that the society intended holding a Peony show this summer, which will be the largest of its kind ever held in the world, as there will be exhibitors from every part of the continent, with collections from all parts of the world.

The slides shown included flowering trees and shrubs, not only in black and white, but also in their natural colors. These latter slides are produced by a French process, which photographs objects in their real colors.

Various species of the American Hawthorn were thrown on the screen, as well as those which are common in Canada. One of the prettiest shrubs was the White Flowering Dogwood, the specimen shown being photographed near Harvard University. There was also a picture of the Chinese Fringe, which is a rare tree found near Shanghai.

Another picture of merit was one showing a Japanese cherry tree in full bloom. Other Japanese trees were the Thorax and the Crabapple.

IS FOUND DEAD WITH THROAT CUT

Brantford, March 22.—John Dixon, Cathcart, was found dead in his home Monday morning, with his throat cut. No reason is known for the act. Word was received here only this morning of the tragedy.

THE CONDITION OF A. S. MacGregor, a prominent insurance broker of this city, who is confined to his home through illness, remains unchanged according to the reports of his son, Dr. J. A. MacGregor.

THE ENGINEERING Institute of the city will hold a regular meeting in the Chamber of Commerce committee room on Wednesday night.

NOTED JOCKEY IS OPIUM VICTIM

Frank Dunbar Is Former Employee of Famous Whitney and Keene Stables.

MUST FACE CHARGE

Known All Over Continent and Rode Last Race in Montreal Last Summer.

New York, March 22.—Frank Dunbar, arrested here this morning, charged with having narcotics in his possession illegally, told detectives that he was at one time one of the best known jockeys on Canadian and United States race tracks.

The officers declared they found Dunbar smoking an opium pipe, and that in his apartment was found raw opium and smoking paraphernalia.

"Five years ago," the prisoner said, "I won the $10,000 Futurity race at New Orleans. I began as a stable boy for H. P. Whitney, and then went with the Keene stable."

"In 1907," he continued, "I rode in Oakland, Cal., and there I learned to 'hit the pipe.' My last race was run in Montreal last summer. Among the famous horses I rode were Song and Wine, Blue Bonnet, Mrs. Price and Katie K."

Dunbar declared he had ridden under the name of Frank Freeman on many tracks.

A force of Ulster specials has been moved from Newtown Butler, County Fermanagh, to within a few hundred yards of Clones, in the free state, where there is a strong garrison of the Irish Republican army. Five mobile platoons of specials from Omagh, Dungannon, Cookstown, Strabane and Killeter were concentrated last evening in the Tyrone Hills, from Pomeroy to the Sperrin Mountains, and searched the countryside. The Cookstown platoon found a number of rifles and made five arrests.

Two families in the danger zone moved their entire effects to a safer place further in the Tyrone County interior in consequence of their own farm houses being riddled with bullets. Similarly another farmer was forced to seek shelter with friends in the Caledon district. His house was immediately occupied by snipers.

WOULD MEAN WAR.

London, March 22.—The situation on the border between Ulster and Southern Ireland is going from bad to worse, and a serious danger of a trifling incident might draw the rival forces into a conflict, which would shatter all prospects of peace in Ireland, says the Dublin correspondent of the Times.

"The tragic irony of the situation," he adds, "consists in the fact that the vast majority of Irishmen of all parties deplore the danger, but seem unable to avert it. Each side daily takes some measure of defence which it regards as legitimate, but which produces prompt retaliation from the other side, with the result that political passions are intensified and the pleadings of common sense fall to the ground."

The chief cause of resentment on the northern side of the border is the existence there of organized forces of the Irish republican army, which the northern government insists must depart or be expelled before there can be any talk of peace.

On the other hand the southern nationalists claim the right to protect the Catholic minorities in the northeast by every means in their power. They believe the northern police cannot be trusted to act impartially. The southern newspapers in print daily reports of outrages, which these police are allegedly concerned.

"It is notorious that certain sections of the Irish Republican army do not necessarily take orders from Dublin, and that raids of armed republicans into the northern area occur at times."

O'Connor said he thought the maintenance of the republican army in Ulster was necessary for the protection of the people, but that logically the provisional government ought to withdraw it, as the government had assented in the Anglo-Irish treaty to the contracting out of Ulster.

There are now five distinct armed forces in Ireland, O'Connor declared, but he claimed the body he represented was the army of the people. O'Connor's statement embodied the official view of the party of Eamon de Valera, he declared.

Ex-Alderman Deplores Extravagant Policy of Civic Officials

EX-ALD. W. A. WILSON dropped into The Advertiser to express his views on what he termed "the extravagant policy" of sending seven aldermen to the hydro-electric meeting at Toronto on Tuesday.

"Just imagine sending seven men down there to listen to Beck talk; two at the most, would have been enough."

"You know Cameron Wilson was elected mayor on a policy of economy, yet he allowed that extravagant and outrageous act."

"I note that Drury is keeping close to his policy of economy and efficiency. Perhaps the members of this delegation who went to Toronto may come home with a few of Drury's ideas," said the ex-alderman.

U. S. IS IN FEAR FOR TRADE LOSS

United States May Challenge British Right To Wrangel Island.

IS STRATEGIC POINT

Americans Think Hudson Bay Trading Post Likely To Be Established.

Washington, March 22.—(Canadian Press).—Officials of the department of state this morning declined to discuss the possible attitude of their government respecting Canada's claim to Wrangel Island established through the planting of the British flag on the island by an expedition headed by Vilhjalmur Stefansson last year. It is understood, however, that the department is considering the claim put forward by a number of United States scientists and explorers that the island was taken over in the name of the United States back in 1881.

These men contend that Stefansson can lay claim to the island only by right of discovery, and that such claim is negated by prior discovery by United States expeditions. United States parties took possession of the island twice within the space of two weeks in August, 1881, they assert. Both of these expeditions were officially accredited by the United States government. Stefansson, however, holds that previous claims to the island are void as no government occupied the island after discovery, which, he holds is necessary to establish possession.

The question is a complicated one, and should the United States Government should the Canadian right to retain the island, it is likely to lead to a long technical argument on the international laws and customs regarding the discovery and acquisition of new lands. The island has been visited by a number of parties, both British and from the United States, but all of them lost claim to it after the lapse of five years, according to Stefansson's contention.

There is much interest here in the political aspect of the situation and the possibility of a controversy over possession of the island is widely discussed. A report has reached Washington that British and Canadian interests are preparing for the establishment on Wrangel Island of a Hudson Bay trading post, and it was pointed out by government scientists here that such a post would have strategic value with respect to northeastern Siberia and its wealth of fur. It is learned that there is a fear in some quarters that possession of such a strategic point might, if unchallenged by the United States Government, result in British fur interests elbowing Nome and other American fur interests out of the Siberian fur trade.

Protection Is Asked.

SOME VERY interesting points are being brought out in the debates that are now going on in the Ottawa house, and many of these points come to the surface only after the most keen sort of questioning by one of the members from the other side of the house than that of the person making the speech.

For instance, Mr. MacKinnon, Conservative member for Yale, B. C., undertook to tell the house why the farmers from his part of the country were not free traders as were the farmers of the prairies. As a matter of fact Mr. MacKinnon's farmers are fruit men, who are seeking to have the market of Western Canada protected so that the fruit growers of Washington and Oregon cannot get in there and control the situation.

In other words, the fruit growers are protectionists because they have something they want protected.

Mr. MacKinnon, for instance, was explaining at some length to the house why it was that the British Columbia grower could not produce fruit as cheaply as the farmers in the United States, and stated that it was really on the basis of quantity production, and that enabled the U. S. growers to also dump their surplus in the markets of Western Canada.

Then followed the questions: Mr. Vaux: But their market (U.S.) was just as open to you.

Mr. MacKinnon: Providing there was a market there; but there was no market; they were overstocked; they themselves had over-produced.

Mr. Vaux: Will my hon. friend allow me a further question?

Mr. MacKinnon: Yes.

Mr. Vaux: I would ask him why British Columbia fruit dealers went into such an unprofitable business?

Question like that is apt to take the wind out of a man. It has a real point. It takes in many things, and it brings out a point that cannot be overlooked. The Prairie Provinces constitute the market that the British Columbia fruit growers are very anxious to cultivate and control. In order to do so they have a duty placed on American fruit. In other words, the fruit consumer in the Canadian West must pay more for his fruit in order that the British Columbia industry shall be built up, and that the cheaper fruit of United States shall not be dumped in there. Without stating the case in any other way, it gives a new slant to the question of protection that has not been brought up before. One set of agriculturalists—the fruit growers of British Columbia—want protection so that they can sell to another set of farmers—the grain growers of Western Canada. It is hard to see how one can keep clear of the charge of putting a tax on food and increasing its price to the people when the products of the soil are brought in as claimants for protection from the products of the soil that can be grown to better advantage in other places. Were this idea followed to its natural conclusion London newspapers could claim that Western Ontario was their field, and, therefore, there should be a duty to keep out the Detroit and Buffalo papers that come into this territory.

From figures given by Mr. MacKinnon it is evident that a trade of no mean size has been built up for the British Columbia fruit-growers, but hand in hand with that development is the plea that the farmers of Western Canada be not allowed to buy their fruit in the United States market, because it would injure the sale of British Columbia output.

FURTHER light on some of the problems of British Columbia was brought out in a speech by ALAN NEILL, of Comox-Alberni. He is a real, honest-to-goodness protectionist. In his own words, he states that he wants protection for fruit. "We want protection for our coal industry, we want protection for our lumber industry, we want protection for our farm products, and sir, the greatest protection we want is protection against Asiatic encroachments."

For a good many years the coal operators of British Columbia and of Alberta have been doing all in their power to get the Canadian West market as the place where they could develop a market that would make all-year coal mining possible. The farther east they go the harder becomes the competition from the American mines, and the Canadian coal miner has not yet been able to definitely establish the fact that he can dominate the western market. Much the same thing is true of lumber, and here again the interests of the settler in the West and the lumber merchant of British Columbia do not run hand in hand. The lumber interests of British Columbia want that market; they want the lumber from United States kept out under a tariff. On the other hand, the settler with limited means wants to buy his lumber in the market where he can get it the cheapest. So here again are two Western Canada interests that clash.

The question of protection from Asiatic encroachment is one that was bound to be brought up in the house sooner or later, and it is a matter that the Dominion house will probably have to handle gingerly, because it is tied up with the diplomatic relations of Britain and Japan, and of India as well. Giving the members of the house an idea of the extent to which the Asiatic problem has spread, Mr. NEILL said:

"I will be conservative in words, if not in party, and say that half our white population have their backs against the wall today industrially. The Asiatics of British Columbia have got a throttle hold upon our fishing industry, they are encroaching upon the lumber industry, and large sections of the country devoted to fruits and market garden produce are entirely in their grip. The situation is getting so tense that there will have to be something done, or there will be a development that will astonish the people in the east. These Asiatics are going into the store business, as well as going into the hotel business."

Of course, there is nothing new in the facts that Mr. NEILL has brought before the house, but all that he has said is true, and any one who knew British Columbia for the last fifteen years or so could have seen at that remote stage that there was bound to come just such a condition as has now developed. It is a problem largely peculiar to the province of British Columbia, and especially in the territory close to the coast.

So there we have it—a claim for protection from several varying interests. Protection for the fruit-growers against United States; protection for the lumber interests; protection for the coal operators of the West, and protection against the encroachment of the Asiatic races. Surely that is a very fair list as a starter, and the house has been in session only a little over a week.

A Great Combination.

NEWS FROM Russia tells that "Big Bill" Heywood, once an I. W. W. leader in Western Canada, has been given a job by the Soviet government of Russia. Heywood was arrested in the western states when the war was on, as he was not considered a safe man to have at large. He jumped $60,000 bail and got away to Russia, where he formed some sort of a speaking acquaintance with LENINE and TROTSKY.

Now, apparently, he has been given some sort of a roving commission to get the mines of Russia under way. He is to bring in some 4,000 coal miners from United States and put them to work in the Ural Mountains. They are to pay the government a share of what is produced. The miners are to bring their own working outfits, and the Soviet government is to provide houses, etc.

HEYWOOD had a notorious career in this country. He was not much known in this part of Canada, but twelve or fifteen years ago in Western Canada, especially in the coal and lumber camps in the western part of Alberta and through the Crow's Nest Pass country, he was a well-known speaker and agitator. Heywood had a big hold on many of the mining camps, where his socialist and anarchistic views were welcome gospel to many of the miners who held similar views.

The loss of an eye gave him an unusual look. He had a vigorous and rough method of address on the stump, and the fact that he might be run in for what he had to say about kings and governments never entered his fine mind at all. Off the platform his manner was quite changed, and in ordinary conversation his voice was rather pleasant. But Heywood was all the time an agitator, and if there was no trouble in sight it was his job to see what was the matter. He was of the type that would stop at nothing at all to get the object or victim of his quest, and the fact that he has fallen in with LENINE and TROTSKY gives one about all he wants to know of this pair of assassins.

So we shall have a chance to see this divine combination in operation. There are, no doubt, many in the country who have for years been advocating just such a system as they have in Russia. They will now have a grand opportunity to grab their little pick and shovel and start off for the mining camp of LENINE, TROTSKY and HEYWOOD in the Ural Mountains. They can now go ahead and prove their faith by their works.

You Can't Dodge.

DID YOU ever stop to think how you are surrounded by advertising all the time? You go to bed at night in an advertised bed with an advertised spring and mattress, get up in the morning, wash with an advertised soap, shave with an advertised razor, and just to round off the job, put a little advertised cream and some advertised talcum on your chin.

After which you finish dressing by putting on an advertised brand of underwear, an advertised pair of shoes, shined with an advertised blacking. Your trousers are held up with an advertised pair of suspenders, and your neck is decorated with an advertised collar.

You then proceed to make your breakfast dish from an advertised cereal, accompanied by toast on an advertised toaster, on which you spread butter with an advertised knife.

And you chase it all down with a cup of advertised coffee, which you sweeten with advertised sugar and stir with an advertised spoon.

From thence you go to the hall and put on a pair of advertised rubbers, an advertised hat and walk out across a veranda covered with an advertised paint.

Say, man, we can take you right through your whole day on this same trip. Advertising, whether you realize it or not, has come to be part and parcel of your life.

HEN HAWKS AND POULTRY

By ALIDA M. BICE, Clandeboye.

CLANDEBOYE, March 14.—It is difficult to understand why farmers, as a rule, still class all hawks among their enemies, to be killed wherever found. Investigators and bird students have written pages and even chapters, describing fully those hawks which are among the agriculturist's best friends, but it seems that the majority of people still regard them as vermin. The results of study or if they read, do not become interested enough to distinguish between friend and enemy. Everyone has noticed the large marsh hawk, flying low over the meadows and along fences, where low bushes and tangled grasses and weeds promise a meal of mice. He flies slowly with a graceful curve, lifting motion that gives a good chance to identify him as he swoops back and under parts alternately. When he spies a mouse nest he poises above the little grassy mound for a moment, rises in the air for a few feet, darts downward and rises again with the mouse in his claws, all in one breathless instant, and there is one mouseless nest. It has provided an extra good "cyclone" against just such an emergency. The scattered grass nests of the mouse one finds here and there in the fields show where a friendly hawk has been busy.

It is not confined to mice. He eats locusts, grasshoppers, beetles and occasionally a frog. As many as eight mice have been found in the stomach of one of these hawks. Charles W. Nash says the marsh hawk: "How many mice each bird may take in a day each day would be difficult to state exactly, but it is safe to assume that at least six would be required. Now taken by the vast army of hawks that protect the poultry, the total number of mice destroyed would be amazing; and then against this good work constantly going on, the damage to be set off. Not one instance, in forty years observation of this bird's habits has ever come to the writer's knowledge of their having attacked a single domestic fowl. It does sometimes make a meal off a dead quail or other bird it may find in the marshes, but it is doubtful if it ever kills for itself a bird of any kind, at any rate in this province. Every farmer and every sportsman in the land should do his utmost for the protection of this hawk. Unfortunately they are constantly destroyed by persons who are ignorant of the good they do, and thousands are killed every autumn by mischievous people who would shoot at any bird they see that has life in it. If people who want to shoot hawks would sometimes look at the stomach contents of the birds they would soon be convinced of the wrong they are doing and would perhaps exercise sufficient common sense to refrain from continuing the evil practice."

A. G. TAVERNER says of this same hawk: "The balance is evidently in favor of this species, which is incapable of taking any fowl but small ones, and then only when they wander away into its habitat. Keeping spring chickens close about the premises is an almost perfect protection against this bird. Haunting marshes, grassy meadows and tangled fence rows, as it does, it is the natural enemy of field mice, and probably does more to keep their numbers within bounds than any other single natural influence."

THREE hawks of fairly large size are the red-tailed hawk, the red-shouldered hawk, and the broad-winged hawk—the so-called "hen hawks"—usually seen circling high up in the air, with a slow, heavy flight, on their way from place to place. Authorities are all agreed in saying that the great mass of evidence is in favor of these birds. Examined equally strongly, as follows: "Though our largest hawk, it is the least harmful one. Of 45 stomachs examined, 40 contained mice; 5, other mammals; 1, lizard; 1, empty. A record like this is enough to condemn the indiscriminate killing of hawks. The feet of the rough-leg are weak and incapable of holding large prey; it is, therefore, a mouse hawk par excellence. It also feeds on grasshoppers, and has been known at times to do most excellent work controlling plagues of these destructive insects."

P. A. TAVERNER's book, "Birds of Eastern Canada," is very valuable, and contains a great deal of information in attractive colored plates give an added value. It could be obtained from Ottawa for the small sum of 50 cents. I do not know whether it can still be bought for that sum, but it is worth a very great deal more. Charles W. Nash's book, "Birds of Ontario in Relation to Agriculture," was once procurable from the Ontario department of agriculture for 25 cents, and is still available. Both these books should be in every school library, but especially in the country school bookcase. They should be studied in every school, and there would be an end of the ignorance which says: "Those bird students can talk as they please, but hawks are hawks, and should be shot." It is high time that the "vets with a gun" should be able to distinguish friend from enemy among the hawks, which will come with the other spring migrants within the next few weeks.

had a debate the other night, the result of which proves that "good nature is more to be desired in a wife than ability to sew and cook." So when it comes time to work from sun up to sun down, the good husbands of Oxford, with no patches on their pants, will come home to be informed by a good-natured wife that supper isn't ready yet and probably won't be. Oh, boy!

W. G. RAYMOND of Brantford, speaking in the house in Ottawa, made a point that is too often forgotten, viz.: That while members are down there to represent various constituencies, they must never lose sight of the larger constituency—the Dominion of Canada—which they all, in a very special sense, represent. The voters should also bear the same thing in mind. It is quite possible for a representative to get so tied up looking after the boys back home that he forgets entirely the wider interests, without the development and advancement of which his lesser activities would amount to nothing at all.

And now some wag rises to remark that "minister of deficits" would be the proper title for nearly all the finance ministers of the various governments in Canada.

Just as soon as optimists begin pointing to empty jails as a sign we're getting better, the pessimist is certain to start an agitation for a new police force.

At St. Catharines a load of maple syrup was mistaken for liquor by the police and an investigation ensued. It soon won't be safe to cart anything but hay and cordwood on a cart.

much of a record in straight tests of strength.

It is also a matter of practice. Naturally, you need practice before you learn just how to pick up a heavy awkward weight and balance it neatly on your shoulders, where it can be carried with the minimum of effort. But it is not even entirely a matter of practice. It is largely due to an innate sense of physical, material balance, an automatic estimation of pressure and resistance on the part of the muscles and the nerves which connect them with the brain, or more properly on the part of that section of the brain to which the nerves carry these messages.

This section of the brain is the underlying cause of what is known as the bump of balance. This bump is located along the eyebrows over the inner corner of the eye.

It affects not only the ability to handle heavy weights, but the skill with which lighter implements are handled. The heavy-hitting baseball player has to have it, also the skillful golfer, the acrobat and gymnast, the boxer. The upholsterer needs it to wield his hammer to the best effect, and the surgeon to do skillful work with his scalpel.

NO. 168—THE BALANCE BUMP.

Did you never wonder how in the world the expressman who carries out your trunk perched upon his shoulders manages to do it? Yes, it is largely a matter of strength, but not entirely. You realize this if you happen to have as big muscles as the expressman, and many of them would not achieve

He also acquires the other two hawks mentioned of the charge of being harmful, in view of the large numbers of mice and injurious insects found in the stomachs examined.

ONE hawk in particular, the rough-legged hawk, the largest of our species, is looked on in strong terms by Mr. Nash, who says of it: "I have especially omitted from this group, to which it really belongs, the rough-legged hawk. This is done purposely, because the great value of the species to the farmer should be particularly pointed out, the bird having been most unjustly persecuted. It is the largest of the Canaan hawks, and one that deserves the greatest consideration and protection from every man having an interest in agriculture. It can be safely said that this so-called 'hen hawk' has never killed a head of poultry at any time, nor do they ever kill birds of any sort. During the fall of 1895 these hawks were very abundant in Southern Ontario, and large numbers were killed. I obtained all the bodies I could for the purpose of investigating the contents of their stomachs, and I spent much time in watching their habits whilst feeding. All day long, every day from the first of October of that year to Nov. 28, the birds were constantly passing through Southern Ontario, feeding as they went, and not one fowl was taken or attacked by them anywhere, so far as I could learn, and I made inquiries from poultry keepers wherever I could. In all, 32 specimens were examined by me, and the result corroborated my previous experience. In one stomach I found a frog, in another the flesh of a muskrat—taken from a pile of bodies of these creatures which had been thrown together in Ashbridge's Marsh. Another stomach was filled with grasshoppers, and the rest contained mice and nothing but mice. Traces of them, ranging in quantity from a little fur and a few bones to seven whole ones. From this it can be judged whether or not the rough-legged hawk is the friend of the farmer."

"The attention of the department of agriculture at Washington was some time ago called to the fact that mice and other destructive rodents were largely breeding throughout the United States, and it was suggested that the constant destruction of the hawks and owls was the reason for it. In consequence of this the department placed the matter in the hands of Dr. Maynard and Dr. Fisher, two of the leading ornithologists of America, with instructions to prepare a report on the subject. This they have done, and the result of their investigations, which I shall give at the end of this chapter, shows conclusively that all the hawks which I have referred to as being beneficial to agriculture are, in fact, possible values in ridding us of enormous numbers of destructive animals, and they are practically innocent of the commonly urged charge against them of poultry-killing."

AFTER giving the report of the 49 stomachs of rough-legged hawks examined—as follows: "Forty-five contained mice and other mammals; 1, lizard; 1, insects, and 4 were empty. Mr. Nash continues: "Thus it can be seen that of the 49 stomachs of the rough-legged hawk examined by Dr. Fisher, and the 32 examined by me in 1895, not one contained a trace of any domestic fowl, and nearly every one contained mice. Yet many people persist in calling this bird the 'big hen hawk' and in treating it as an enemy, when both by law and by common opinion should be protected by every possible means."

Of this same hawk P. A. Taverner speaks equally strongly, as follows: "Though our largest hawk, it is the least harmful one. Of 45 stomachs examined, 40 contained mice; 5, other mammals; 1, lizard; 1, empty. A record like this is enough to condemn the indiscriminate killing of hawks. The feet of the rough-leg are weak and incapable of holding large prey; it is, therefore, a mouse hawk par excellence. It also feeds on grasshoppers, and has been known at times to do most excellent work controlling plagues of these destructive insects."

P. A. TAVERNER's book, "Birds of Eastern Canada," is very valuable, and contains a great deal of information in attractive colored plates give an added value. It could be obtained from Ottawa for the small sum of 50 cents. I do not know whether it can still be bought for that sum, but it is worth a very great deal more. Charles W. Nash's book, "Birds of Ontario in Relation to Agriculture," was once procurable from the Ontario department of agriculture for 25 cents, and is still available. Both these books should be in every school library, but especially in the country school bookcase. They should be studied in every school, and there would be an end of the ignorance which says: "Those bird students can talk as they please, but hawks are hawks, and should be shot." It is high time that the "vets with a gun" should be able to distinguish friend from enemy among the hawks, which will come with the other spring migrants within the next few weeks.

had a debate the other night, the result of which proves that "good nature is more to be desired in a wife than ability to sew and cook." So when it comes time to work from sun up to sun down, the good husbands of Oxford, with no patches on their pants, will come home to be informed by a good-natured wife that supper isn't ready yet and probably won't be. Oh, boy!

W. G. RAYMOND of Brantford, speaking in the house in Ottawa, made a point that is too often forgotten, viz.: That while members are down there to represent various constituencies, they must never lose sight of the larger constituency—the Dominion of Canada—which they all, in a very special sense, represent. The voters should also bear the same thing in mind. It is quite possible for a representative to get so tied up looking after the boys back home that he forgets entirely the wider interests, without the development and advancement of which his lesser activities would amount to nothing at all.

COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL

Don't Handle Food!

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

EW women can do their marketing without handling the foods before they buy.

Go into almost any grocery store and you will notice one or two of the more economical housewives doing this.

They remove fruits, vegetables, bakery goods and even candies from the display boxes, look them over, possibly taste some of them and return them to the case.

The practice is highly insanitary must be obvious. A certain amount of dirt and perspiration from the hands is left on every article of food thus handled and after the article has been paved over by half a dozen people, it is hardly fit for human consumption.

Many of the better class of stores endeavor to prohibit this practice, but some of it is done nevertheless. The responsibility rests entirely with the purchaser. The storekeeper can hardly be blamed for refraining from protesting against the practice since his livelihood depends upon keeping the good will of the very people who thus contaminate the food products he sells.

Speaker Impresses on Girls Importance of Diagnosis in Social Service.

ELLS "WHY" OF POVERTY

Girls' Cabinet Study Class Asks "How Can Girls Help?"

"Prevention is better than cure" was the keynote of the practical and helpful address delivered by Miss Annie Craig, of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, at the second session of the evening in Cronyn Memorial High School, under the auspices of the London Girls' Cabinet.

Having as her theme, "Poverty: Causes and Remedies," she touched upon such contributory causes as ill-health, low wages, unemployment, physical, mental and moral defects, old age, widowhood, desertion, large families.

The reverse and brighter side of the picture was the various agencies working to root these conditions, public and private relief agencies, social diagnosis, and the exchange, instituted in the chamber of commerce to prevent overlapping or overlapping.

In all social service work Miss Craig stressed the supreme importance of diagnosis, just as important before the case can be treated intelligently and effectively as diagnosis of disease in sickness.

Get back to the first cause and move that," would be her method, rather than applying a temporary relief or relief. Instead of giving her, she would help people to help themselves, quoting eminent students of social science for backing in this view.

More Education Needed.

part from the obvious causes of poverty listed, Miss Craig drew attention to fundamental ones which were for unemployment. Reference was made to a statement of Dr. James M. Hincks, Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Committee for Social Hygiene, in his recent lecture in London, that forty per cent of children leave the public schools without getting beyond the third grade.

Miss Craig impressed upon the young audience the disastrous effects of permitting such a body of ill-equipped to go out into the world without the foundation of education, with practically no mental training to make a way in the world for themselves, and probably for others.

Party Frocks For Children Real Creations

THE open season for children's parties embraces twelve months a year, because these juvenile festivities are almost invariably attached to birthdays.

Yet many special days, such as Easter, and May Day, offer sufficient excuse for parties, if no birthday is conveniently near.

As the Canadian child grows more and more sophisticated the professional entertainer has become more in demand, to tell stories, lead in games, and keep things moving merrily.

The time-honored Punch and Judy show, the always fascinating sleight of hand performer, jugglers and clowns, may be counted on to please no matter how often they have been seen before.

Party frocks for children are today as truly "creations" as the lovely things their mothers wear. And like their mothers, they are bound by no one mode, but may be dressed with Puritan simplicity or oriental sumptuousness, to suit their tastes.

A sober little girl with straight, heavy bobbed hair naturally looks best without ruffles, but a gay little blonde with curls seems to have a peculiar affinity for frills.

Borrowed from one of her mother's favorite modes of the day is the straight, long-waisted, sleeveless frock, devoid of ornament save a narrow belt or sash. But if juvenile arms are too thin, sleeves of any desired length are more becoming.

Any material from velvet and taffeta to organdie and handkerchief linen may be chosen for the small maid's party frock, and indeed, all of those materials and several others may be seen on equally smart children at the self-same party.

ing if not practical. The question promptly followed the address, "What can girls do?" and a lively discussion ensued, which brought out these points:

1. Girls should take up vocational training, train themselves for some definite work, and, having done so, should improve their methods to fit themselves for better positions and higher wages.

2. Every girl should cultivate thrift and encourage it in others. She should avail herself of household science courses, study household economy, and framing a budget in order that when she has a home of her own she may be able to manage it thriftily and efficiently.

3. In connection with the third point, the statement was made that many of the girls who have been traced to slovenly housekeeping.

The study of mothercraft was also urged.

With regard to helping those who are in need, warning was sounded against indiscriminate giving, and close co-operation with the confidential exchange strongly urged.

Wednesday is to be "field day" in the course, with visits planned to the Technical School, Children's Shelter, Salvation Army Home, etc.

ADOPT SMART LITTLE PIN FOR GIRLS' FEDERATION

London Clubs Receive Permission To Use Design of American Y. W. C. A.

In the near future members of the Federation of Girls' Clubs of the Y. W. C. A. may be distinguishable by a smart little pin, a double triangle of blue, bearing the letters, "Y. W. C. A." and having in the center in the form of a crest "C. F." (a big "C" including the "F"), a replica of the pin worn by members of Y. W. C. A. club federations throughout the United States.

Recently Mrs. Mattie Rose Crawford wrote to the American national industrial secretary of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Florence Sims, with regard to adopting the pin for the London Federation in view of the fact that it appeared to be the most ideal design for the purpose.

Miss Sims has written back that the National Y. W. C. A. of the sister country will be delighted to know that it is used in Canada, thereby emphasizing the international character of the Girls' Federation of Clubs, as well as the Y. W. C. A.

Commenting upon this to the women's department of The Advertiser, Mrs. Crawford says: "Why not the same clubs' federation pin as the United States? Around the world the blue triangle is recognized as the badge of the world-wide Y. W. C. A., and it seems to me that the use of the double triangle as a federation badge only emphasizes further the international character and unity of the work."

Personals

Mrs. Daines of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. Harvey Skye, Piccadilly street.

The Misses Coles, "The Beeches," were the hostesses Tuesday afternoon of a delightful tea.

Miss Donna Waller spent the week-end in Toronto as the guest of Bishop and Mrs. Stringer.

Mrs. Hugh Shuttleworth is entertaining at a bridge Wednesday at her home in Princess avenue.

Capt. Jack Mitchell, who has been taking a course at the R. C. H. A. Kingston, is returning home this week.

Mrs. Eric Reid is entertaining at the tea hour Thursday in honor of Miss Gladys Croden, a bride-elect of next month.

Mrs. Lloyd Sprague of Toronto is in London, and will be her sister's bridesmaid at the McFall-Worral wedding on Wednesday.

Miss Alice Leonard, who is visiting Mrs. Torrance Beaudry, Toronto, is a much-feted guest. Mrs. Beaudry also entertained in her honor recently.

Miss Agnes Duffield is home from "The Castle, on the Hudson," and will remain with her mother, Mrs. J. C. Duffield, 125 Queen's avenue, until after the Easter vacation.

Miss Madeline Jeffries has left on an extended trip to the Canadian West, and will visit friends in Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Rouleau and Chicago before returning.

Miss Helen Chisholm of Goderich spent the week-end in the city, a guest in the home of Mrs. M. Buchanan, Dufferin avenue, paying a visit also while here to her brother, Rev. Father Chisholm.

Donald Campbell, the small son of Trustee Bryden Campbell, who so severely bitten by an Airedale dog a few days ago that it was necessary to have stitches. It is stated that the wound is healing satisfactorily.

Invitations have been sent out for a recital to be given Tuesday evening, March 28, in the London Institute of Musical Art, by piano pupils of Mrs. A. D. Jordan, assisted by students of Mrs. Charles Ivey, Miss Janette Wilson and Miss Mary Manley.

Accompanied by her small son, Mrs. Arthur Bayly arrived in town this week from Canis, Nova Scotia, called here owing to the critical illness of her father, J. B. McKillop. She is the guest of Mrs. Richard Bayly, 186 Albert street.

An interesting account appeared in the Montreal Gazette of a large reception given by Mrs. Eldred Archibald, formerly Irene Love of London, at Stretton Hall, St. Catharines street, Montreal. Among the assistants was Mrs. B. K. Sandwell, wife of Professor Sandwell, who recently addressed the Women's Canadian Club, in this city.

Mrs. F. P. Betts invited a few people specially interested in guide work to meet Miss Alice Lee of Toronto informally over a cup of tea on Tuesday afternoon. Miss Lee, who came up for the annual meeting of the Ontario Girl Guide Council on Saturday, and has been the guest of Mrs. C. C. Waller at Huron College, is returning home Thursday.

The officers and members of Palestine Shrine, No. 3, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, have completed arrangements for their annual "At Home" to be held in the Masonic Temple on Wednesday evening March 22. A splendid dance program has been arranged, and the patrol corps, under the supervision of Solourner Borland, will put on their drill. The committee in charge is Solourner J. Staples and D. Ross.

Somebody Going On Trip to Coast

London I. O. D. E. To Be Represented National-Immigration On Agenda.

Somebody is going to have an interesting trip to the coast the end of May. At the next meeting of the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., to be held the second Wednesday of April, a delegate will be appointed to represent the Municipal Chapter at the annual meeting of the National Chapter, I. O. D. E., to be held in Vancouver the end of May and beginning of June. With regard to representation, Mrs. E. B. Smith, Municipal regent, and other officers are strongly of the opinion that so large a municipal chapter as London must, without fail, have at least one delegate at the annual meeting.

According to the national regent, Miss Joan Arnold, one of the big questions of the annual meeting will be that of immigration, and it is hoped to have a plan to lay before the order as a whole.

The following interesting statement on the subject recently made in an address by Miss Arnold: "This (immigration) is the most vital question before our country at the present time, and it is not the responsibility of the government alone; it is the responsibility of us all. The object we should have before us is to see that the country is filled with citizens of a type to carry on British ideals and traditions, which are our birthright. It is in our hands to create public opinion which will sway our government into evolving and carrying out the policy which will mean such a continuance of our British traditions. We should all do what we can to awaken the woman in the street to the fact that she has an interest in the question of immigration."

HARD TO MAKE WAX BEADS

Dear Miss Grey,—I intended responding to T. W.'s request for Evangeline or "The Vicar of Wakefield," but as I didn't get it done at once I presume some one else has sent them by this time. However, if one has by the time this is in print, please let me know.

Shepherdess wants to know how to make wax beads. I think it would be a risky undertaking to attempt making them without personal instruction. The shaping requires patience and true head with color. Of course a eye, and then the colors are rather a critical performance. Though after having seen it done it is not a very hard job. Any I have seen were only a few, four or six, according to size, hung on a ribbon or cord with one large one for a drop. If any one wishes to order any, I will make them at $1 a string. The wax costs more here than in the U. S. They can be made any color required. If the color is not mentioned, I shall decide that myself. They are usually mottled, say, black heads with gold, or blue and gold streaks, or green and gold. Of course a part of the money will be sent to the hospital fund. My address will be with Miss Grey.

I had meant to write a long letter to the Page, but do not feel equal to it just now. There doesn't seem to be much space for long letters any more.

As I have poor health it is only occasionally I feel equal to writing. I sympathize with the other invalids of the Page.

JUNO.

Any one wishing to have June make wax beads for them may have her address from the Mail-Box. This will be another way of increasing our hospital fund.

PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, sends a note of alarm. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hydrochloric acid, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food, we have heartburn, flatulence, we are brash or nauseous.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescent and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Adv.

STEVENSON-ELLIOTT.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Jean Elliott, Adelaide Village, on March 15, when her youngest daughter, Bessie, was married to Clarence S. Stevenson, of Metcalfe, Rev. C. J. Moorehouse officiating. The bride looked charming in a dress of white satin with pearl trimming, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The young couple took their place under an arch of evergreens to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Lauretta Elliott, sister of the bride. After the signing of the register, a dainty wedding

Rheumatism

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It.

In the year of 1894 I was attacked by Rheumatism and Sub-Acute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who are true afflicted know for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, but such relief as I obtained was only temporary. Finally I found a treatment that cured me completely, and such a pitiful condition has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, even leaden, some of them 70 to 80 years old, and the results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of muscular sub-acute (swelling at the joints) Rheumatism, to try the great value of my improved "Home Treatment," for its simplicity, and the fact that it does not cost a cent, simply mail your name and address, and I will send it free to try. After you have used it, and it has proven itself to be that long-sought-for means of getting rid of such forms of rheumatism, you may send the price of it. One Dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free. Don't delay. Write today.

POLLY AND PAUL AND PARIS

CHAPTER LII.—The Telling of a Tale.

By Zoe Beckley.

VIOLET had never seen Paul angry before. Under his look, the words she was about to repeat died on her lips. He beckoned to her, and she went to him, and he took her by the shoulders and guided her to the street before she realized what was happening.

He said nothing until they came to a street lamp.

"Now I can see your face," he said in an ominously quiet tone. "You are either mad, or joking in a way I will not stand from anyone."

"I am not joking," said Violet. "For some incomprehensible reason, George Barry is interested in your wife. When she is by, he has no eyes for me."

She stopped abruptly. They walked slowly on.

"Violet—you've got to say less than that, or more. Either you are talking absolute rot, or you are withholding something."

"Oh, am I? Listen, then, you shall hear it all."

She told the story of the studio-party. Everything she said was true. She dealt in facts. But there were ways of making facts look pretty much as the teller wants them to. Emphasis here, reserve there, a withholding of certain details, the playing up unduly of others. Her narrative was skillfully told, leaving herself in the role of the deeply injured one. Her description by Polly was exaggerated. Yet Polly herself had seen there, would have been at a loss to put it in a better light.

"I had walked and hunted all night," finished Violet. "I hated to arouse my maid at dawn, and declined to stop in at your flat, wash up and have Polly give me a cup of coffee before going home. But at 6 o'clock she still had not come in! You needn't grieve at me, it is the truth. . . . I waited. Remember, I am relating facts, not fancies. You insisted on the whole truth; now you know it. I make no comments, pass no judgments."

"You had better not," said Paul. "You know perfectly well Polly is no more in your way than I am. I am Polly is."

"A paragon, of course," cut in Violet. "not to be mentioned in the same breath as a person like myself."

"Polly is—" he ignored her interruption, "perfectly certain to tell me the whole story as soon as I see her."

A hard smile crossed Violet's face, drawing her lips down at one corner. Without seeing her, Paul knew that she lifted her eyebrows and shrugged as she answered. "Perhaps. Perhaps not."

He refused to prolong the conversation. If Polly had only been at home! How he longed to hear from her lips the story of the party—the strange homecoming in the early morning.

"Whereby I put Violet into her cab and said goodnight."

"Good night," she answered, a look of sullen anger on her face. "You're very disgusted with me, no doubt, my friend."

Paul was too furious to reply. He turned abruptly and tramped in the direction of his house.

INVISIBLE BROOK

Pouring water from one kettle into another and back again.

"Now what's that for, do you suppose?" Nancy said, when Nick had read the red feather's message.

Nick shook his head. "I don't know," he said, "only it says for us to shut our eyes until we are safely away from the Electric Mountain. It will guide us."

"I suppose it thinks that I'll want to pick some of these electric flowers, and we'll get into more trouble," said Nancy, indignantly. "Well, I do want to, but I'm not going to. The kind horseshoe must have known what it was talking about when it told us the danger. I'm not going to close my eyes. I'll just not look at the ground where the flowers are and then I won't want to pick them."

He approached Penny Green and realized for the first time the hard pace at which he had been riding. And realized also the emotions which subconsciously had been driving him along. All the way he had been saying "War!" What he wanted, most terribly was to say it aloud to some one. He wanted to say it to Mabel. He had a sudden great desire to see Mabel and tell her about it and talk about it. He felt a curiously protesting feeling towards her. For the first time in his life he pedaled instead of free-wheeling the conclusion of the ride. He ran into the house and into the morning room. Mabel was not there. It was almost dinner time. She would be in her room. He ran upstairs, and she was standing before her dressing table and turned to him in surprise.

"What?"

"I say, it's war!"

She echoed the word, "War?"

"Yes, war. We've declared war!"

"Declared war?"

"Yes, declared war. We've sent Germany an ultimatum. It ends tonight. It's the same thing. It means war."

He was breathless, panting. She said, "Good gracious! Whatever will happen? Have you brought an evening paper?"

"Do you know the papers didn't come this morning till—"

He could not hear her out. "No, I didn't wait. I simply rushed away."

He was close to her. He took her hands. "I say, Mabel, it's war!" His emotions were tumultuous and extraordinary. He wanted to draw her to him and kiss her. He had not kissed her for longer than he could have remembered; but now he held her hands hard and desired to kiss her. "I say, it's war."

She gave her sudden burst of laughter. "You are excited. I've never seen you so excited. Your color's undone."

He dropped her hands. He said rather stupidly: "Well, it's war, you know," and stood there.

She turned to her dressing table. "Well, I do wish you'd stayed for a paper. Now we've got to wait till tomorrow and goodness only knows—"

She was fastening something about her throat and held her breath in the operation. She released it and said, "Just fancy, was I never thought it would be. What will happen first? Will they—"

She held her breath again. She said: "It's too annoying about those papers coming so late. If they haven't arrived when you go off tomorrow you can tell Jones he needn't send them any more. He's one of those independent sort of tradesmen who think they can do just what they like. Just fancy actually having war with Germany. I can't believe it!"

She turned towards him and gave her sudden laugh again. "I say, aren't you ever going to move?"

He went out of the room and along the passage. As he reached his own room he realized it again. "War—"

He went quickly back to Mabel. "I say—"

He stopped. His feelings most truthfully desired some vent. None here. "Look here. Don't wait dinner for me. You start. I'm going round to Fergus to tell him."

At the hall door he turned back and went hurriedly into the kitchen. "I say, it's war!"

"Well, there now!" cried High Jinks.

"Yes, war. We've sent an ultimatum to Germany. It ends tonight."

Low Jinks threw up her hands. "Well, if that isn't a short war!"

"Girl alive, the ultimatum ends, not the war. Don't you know what an ultimatum is?"

Outside he ran down the drive and ran to Fergus' door. It stood open.

In the hall the eldest Miss Fergus appeared to be maintaining the last moment before dinner by "doing" a silver card salver.

"Hullo, Miss Fergus. I say, is your father about? I say, it's war. We've declared war!"

The eldest Miss Fergus lifted her head to another Miss Fergus also "doing" something on the stairs above her, and in a very high voice called "Papa! War!"

MOTHER!

Open Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again. Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Adv.

Ruth Law, Aviatix, Tells Why She'll Settle On Earth!

CHICAGO, March 21.—"It's my husband's turn now. I've been in the limelight long enough. I'm going to let him run things hereafter and me, too."

The speaker was Ruth Law Oliver, daring woman aviatix, who for ten years has been courting death and defying it as a stunt flyer.

She has quit aviation. Retired forever.

"Why?"

"Because I'm a normal woman and want a home and everything that goes with married life," she says.

"Why, I've been married for almost ten years to Charlie Oliver, the man who has managed by exhibitions, and scarcely anyone knew who he was."

Husband Worried.

"And the poor dear boy was so worried about me all that time that every time I went up he lost a pound."

"It was a matter of choosing between love and profession. Of course, I'm just crazy about flying. But one's husband is more important."

At first Ruth thought of having just a little monoplane in the family garage.

But she has decided even against that.

"Mother earth is the best old place to be," she says. "Flying steals the nerves and all that sort of thing. But there is, oh, such a warm and comfortable feeling when on the ground."

"I am positive that aviation will never be a safe pastime. That's because I cannot see how sufficient or adequate safety devices can be perfected to insure the flyer's life at all times."

As to her plans for the future, Mrs. Oliver says:

into the mazy woods of sleep, and turned, and all night sought to return, and stumbled sometimes to its knees among the drowsy snares, and saw strange images of the round world horribly tilted with "War" upon its face, of Nona held away and not approachable, of intense light and of suffocating darkness; and rousing and struggling away from these, and stumbling yet, rarely succumbing.

III

When he went down into Tidborough in the morning it was to know at once that this tomorrow gave no lie to its precedent day. It intensified it. The previous day foreshadowed war. The new day presented it.

The papers, as it happened, did not arrive before he left, and Mabel had more to say of her annoyance with the insupportable Jones than of what his withheld wares might contain. Her attitude towards the interpenetration position was—up to this point of its development—precisely this: she had been following the crisis day by day with appreciation of its sensational headlines while these were in the paper before her, but without further interest when the paper was read. She folded up the theses, the chances, the councils, the armies and the peoples and put them away in the brass newspaper rack in the morning room and proceeded about her duties and her engagements. But she liked unfolding them and she was thoroughly annoyed with the insufferable Jones for preventing her from unfolding them. She said she would come down into Tidborough and speak to Jones herself.

"Yes, do," said Sabre. "There'll be things to see."

There were things to see. As he rode into the town people were standing about in little groups, excitedly talking; every one seemed to have a newspaper. In a row, as he approached the news agent's, were huge printed contents bills, all with the news, in one form or another, "War Declared."

It was war. Yesterday no dream. He could not stop to rest his bicycle against the curb. He leant it over and dropped it on the pavement with a crash and hurried into the shop and bought and read.

He looked out into the street through the open doorway. All those knots of people standing talking. War. . . . A mounted orderly passed down the street at a brisk trot, his dispatch bag swaying and bumping across his back. Every one turned and stared after him, stepped out into the roadway and stared after him. War. . . . He bought all the morning papers and went on to the office. Outside a bank, a small crowd of people waited about the doors. They were waiting to draw out their money. Lloyd George had announced the closing of the banks for three days; but they didn't believe it was real. Was it real? He passed Hanbury's, the big grocer's. It seemed to be crammed. People outside waiting to get in. They were buying up food. A woman struggled her way out with three times of flour, a pot of jam and a bag of flour. She seemed thoroughly well pleased with herself. He heard her say to some one, "Well, I've got mine, anyway. He actually had a sense of reassurance from her grotesque provisioning. He thought, "You see, every one knows it can't last long."

(To Be Continued Tomorrow.)

Spare Time Jobs for Father

The job of washing windows, when screens are up, is made much easier if you put the screens on hinges. Two heavy hinges per screen will be sufficient. This will allow the screen to swing out any time you want to wash the window it covers. A small latch on the inside, opposite side to the hinges, will hold the screen shut.

RUTH LAW OLIVER.

"I'm going to spend all my time clipping coupons from the bonds I have and live in peace and quiet."

When asked whether she was retreating in obedience to her husband's command and her vow to "obey" she said, "Mercy, no."

"Husbands these days don't command. They request."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

EARLY GREENS

OUR grandmother relied on the fields for her first spring greens. She used them religiously, regarding them as much a medicine as a food. And with their aid she kept her family fit.

If the modern housewife will take her basket and an old case knife and roam far afield she will find these same greens waiting her. And the same food value found in spinach and other cultivated greens may be had for nothing in dandelions, sorrel, scoke and narrow dock.

Plain Boiled Dandelion Greens.

Pick over the greens and remove all spears of grass. Wash through as many waters as necessary. The last water should be perfectly clear. Cut off the tiny root and shake out the leaves. Put in a kettle with water to cover.

Boil 15 minutes and add salt. Boil 10 minutes longer and drain. Press out all the water possible. For two cups of cooked greens melt two tablespoons butter. Pour melted butter over greens and mix well. Reheat and serve. Vinegar or lemon juice is often added with the butter. Serve these greens once a week during the early spring.

Dutch Greens.

Wash and pick over greens. Shake out leaves and put in the frying pan in which ham was cooked. To two cups of wilted greens add one cup of cold boiled diced potatoes. Cook five minutes, stirring to mix well.

Beat one egg slightly with one tablespoon vinegar, one teaspoon sugar and one-quarter teaspoon salt. Pour over greens in frying pan. Lift and mix with a silver fork, cooking five minutes.

ACHES AND PAINS—SLOAN'S GETS 'EM!

Avoid the misery of racking pain. Sloan's gets right down to the aching spot and relieves your pain and you wonder why you did not use Sloan's Liniment. Have a bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy and apply when you first feel pain.

Use freely and don't rub as it penetrates and you will be surprised to find how quickly it eases the pain and sends a feeling of warmth through the aching part.

Fine, too, for rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, sprains, aches, pains, overworked muscles, lame back.

For forty years Sloan's has been the stand-by as a liniment in thousands of families. Ask your neighbor.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get 16 ounces—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

BOOKS

EDITED BY CABR.

OH, SUSANNA! A Romance of the Merchant Marine. By Meade Minnigerode. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. $1.90.

A BRIMMING measure of romance and adventure Mr. Minnigerode has heaped for us in this new story of his, of romance and adventure at sea and on shore, of perils and pleasures in cities and on decks and below, of sailors' strange oaths and broken tongues and bits of far speech, brave deeds and fast clipper ships riding the Seven Seas.

The story is partly about Matthew Parsons and his quest for the golden haired girl who sang the song of the forty-niners. "Oh, Susanna, don't you cry for me!" "The song," says the author, "that really started the gold rush and roared its way from the Battery to Hongkong, via the two Capes, through England and Spain and Holland and Prussia and France, with its endless variations."

But the story had its beginning long before that when Matthew Parsons' father, Gamaliel, was the gay young Captain, only 21 years old, of the Felicity Belle and sailed to China, where he persuaded his friend, the Chinese merchant, Ah Fung, to go with him to Japan. And there he found pleasant adventures in the palace of the Shogun, and still more pleasant adventure in the gardens of a mighty daimyo, where the dainty lady, Masu No Hana San, was waiting. Danger presently encompassed them, but her quick wit sent Gamaliel smiling back to safety by means of a black and gold lacquer box which she gave him.

And it came about in the course of years that for Gamaliel's son Matthew the lacquer box meant romance and mystery and much puzzlement, as did also the blue china laughing elephant that Ah Fung greatly treasured, that was stolen from him when Malay pirates captured his junk, that Gamaliel recovered for him in a thrilling set-to with those brown marauders, that then the Chinese merchant gave to his great friend, the Captain.

Matthew had seen it all his life on the mantelpiece of the little red house where he grew up. Afterward he carried it to sea with him, and on a breathless night of mutiny and battle its mystery was finally solved.

Mr. Minnigerode writes with a charming whimsicality of style, and his story is a never-faltering delight from its first page to its last.

The thirty years that it spans, from the twenties to the fifties of the last century, were high years of romance and adventure and success in the merchant marine, and he has brought it all vividly forward, recreated its spirit and packed his narrative to bursting with incidents ashore and ashore.

It is a sweet-smelling story, notably withstanding the frascos into which he plunges us every now and then, with the clean sea air blowing through its pages and the fragrance of the cargoes of tea and spices and silk stealing up from below decks, and most of its people, both at sea and on shore, appealing to sane human understanding.

It is the kind of book one reads with a smile and remembers with pleasure.

RAYMOND ASKS EQUAL JUSTICE FOR INDUSTRIES

Demands Tariff Be Apportioned With "Special Privileges to None."

FREE TRADE IMPRACTICAL

Brantford Member Forcibly Refutes All Charges of Opposition.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, March 21.—Resuming today at 3 o'clock the address he was forced to leave incomplete when the house adjourned last night, W. G. Raymond, member for Brantford, forcibly presented a direct refutation of all charges preferred against him which reflected upon the divergence of his views from the Liberal plank on the tariff, and also revealed his stand on the great problem of the National Railways.

In continuing today Mr. Raymond said: "When the house rose last night I was endeavoring to make clear my position, and that of Liberal manufacturers with regard to the tariff."

"I tried to prove that the tariff being really a tax should be administered with equal justice to all and special privileges to none."

"I also pointed out that while it is justly claimed that the basic industries of Canada are agriculture, fishing, lumbering and mining, nevertheless, they are dependent for their very existence and operation upon certain other industries that provide the tools and implements that enable them to carry on business, and that we must in consequence regard the industries producing these tools and implements as key industries."

Key Industries Vital.

"Now, the importance of key industries to the country was manifested during the late war, in the case of Great Britain. It was speedily found, as I said last night, that such industries were defective in many respects in regard to articles that were absolutely necessary to the carrying on of the business of the country and the prosecution of the war, such as dyestuffs, chemicals, steel, etc."

"While we all hope that it is an eventuality that we shall never witness, yet it is within the bounds of possibility that this country might some day be at war, and, unthinkable though it seems, at war even with our neighbors to the south of us. I trust with all my heart that this will never be the case, but as I say it is possible, and in that event it seems to me that it would be right for those who believe in the development of Canadian nationality to see to it that it shall be a nationality absolutely self-contained and independent."

"To the argument that agriculture, fishing, lumbering and mining are basic industries, it is a natural corollary that those who provide the tools and machinery to carry on such industries are engaged in key industries, and such projects in the general interests of the country should be maintained and not slaughtered."

Seek Fair Field.

"I think that that is the attitude of the Liberal manufacturers at all events in this country. They only ask for a fair field and no favor."

"If we are to have all tariff restrictions stripped away they will have to stand upon the same basis as anyone else; but it seems a reasonable contention that until the day comes when this can justly be done, these industries should not be deprived of the benefits of tariff protection while other industries enjoy them."

"Briefly stated we have two extremely opposite policies before us, one of high protection, which is not the policy of the Liberal party, who believe in the middle course, of a revenue tariff, and another policy—only, I believe, a theoretical policy of free trade."

"I do not think that free trade is in the field of practical policies. So far as theory goes it may be absolutely demonstrable and I would not be prepared to enter into any argument as to whether entire free trade would, or would not be better for Canada. I do contend, though, that if we are

Goderich Boats Ready For Early Opening of Navigation.

Special to London Advertiser.

GODERICH, March 21.—The steamboats in the harbor are being fitted out for the spring trade, some of the boats having steam on now, the earliest for some years.

All the crews have arrived, and the boats will be ready for sailing in a couple of weeks, if the ice conditions are favorable.

The work on the new structure at the elevator is progressing. The iron work is well advanced, and when the addition is complete the elevator will be able to handle more boats than in previous years.

to have free trade it should be absolutely general and universal.

Need Great Revenue.

"It is not well in theories to get too far from the earth; we have to come down to the facts that a great revenue has to be raised at the present time, and we must realize that the minister of finance is faced with the greatest task that any minister of finance in the whole history of Canada has ever had to cope with."

"He will have to use every avenue of taxation, and I take it for granted that the tariff will be one upon which he will place some dependence. Free trade, therefore, is not in my opinion a practicable theory."

"We have to come down to the ground; we must face the question of raising the revenues of the country, and that is not possible today by means of free trade, whatever may be done in the future."

"Representing as I do a manufacturing city I placed before the people my policy with regard to the tariff and I am proud to say that not only by the manufacturers, but by the rural population of the constituency as well, it was received with approval."

"That policy, briefly, was this, that to build up this country our greatest need is a tariff policy that will protect raw material and foster production, that when labor is applied to that raw material through such process, a certain amount of protection should be guaranteed that labor, and so on until we have the finished article, with a reasonable amount of protection incidentally afforded, thus giving at the same time a slight protection to the manufacturer and an assured revenue to the country."

Transportation Vital.

"Now, the tariff question is indissolubly connected with another question which is agitating the minds of the voters from one end of Canada to the other, that is the question of transportation. In my opinion the two are closely linked together."

"If we wish to find the right solution of the question of transportation and of lowered freight rates and a general success in our railway system we must not lose sight of the tariff in connection therewith. Transportation has had a great deal to do with the success of every country, and as we look back we find those countries that neglected transportation have made no progress, while those that gave attention to this important problem have made a name in history and have tended to a great state of development."

"I do not think I should let go unchallenged in this house the statement that the manufacturers of Brantford would have endorsed a man who supported an increased tariff on agricultural implements; if I did I should do an injustice to the people I represent, and that is the last thing I want to do."

"I want to do my duty by my constituents."

"I know them well and they know me. I know them to be honest, and they know me to be sincere."

"It is not right to say that the manufacturers of agricultural implements of various kinds in any constituency are seeking an increased duty or seeking to acquire a monopoly of the business that they have carried on for so many years."

"On the contrary, they were desirous that discussion should not be so much between them and their customers, who are, as I say, scattered from one end of Canada to the other."

Bonds of Friendship.

"We who are familiar with business conditions know the bond of business often becomes the bond of friendship, indeed, it is second only to the bond of friendship. Whatever enjoyment they have had by way of tariff protection in the past they naturally do not want to lose."

"I can tell you that no manufacturer of the city of Brantford ever approached me and asked me to seek an increased duty on anything that is made in that city. But that they should at least enjoy what they have can fairly be argued, that that system cannot be defended which strips protection from some industries and leaves others in the enjoyment of it."

"We have had the tractor industry stripped of protection, the binder twine industry, the cream separator industry, all goods made in our city. Then the honorable member for West Toronto and my right honorable friend from Grenville and others claim that we had a general reduction on agricultural implements from 20 per cent down to 14 and a fraction per cent."

"Brantford had therefore been made the goat. Its manufacturers had been made to suffer; they had been made to lose this advantage of protection while others had been allowed to enjoy it."

"There was a small duty on binder twine at one time, and before that duty was taken off there were several binder twine factories in this country, but when the duty was taken off they gradually went out of business, and I believe the only one left in this country today is the one at Brantford, and perhaps one in Welland."

Could Close Plant.

"The combine which controls twine manufacture on the other side of the line did not see fit to drive the Brantford factory out of business, and so it has remained. They could drive that factory out if they thought it advisable to do so, and in that case, with no factory in Brantford, our farmers from one end of Canada to the other would have to submit to the price dictated by the combine in the United States.

"I suppose we all have different ideas of politics and the science of government, and I am sure those ideas have been enunciated from all points of view in this house, but what made me take my first active interest in politics was this: I believed that at the very root and foundation of our liberty was the freedom of our parliamentary representation, that a man's vote should be free, and if you follow through the various successes of the Liberal party you will see that its aim was to obtain that liberty and preserve that right to enable every constituency to send whom it pleased to parliament, and that the foundation of our whole parliamentary system; it is the foundation of our freedom; it is the foundation upon which the British Empire has been carried through the world; it is a right that has been bought for us by our British ancestors, and therefore as a torch sacred, this liberty of the people with regard to the franchise and the selection of their representation in parliament."

Vote Cast to Wins.

"If that be so, can you think of any deed of blacker political infamy, anything more malignant than that the franchise should be taken from them and cast to the winds?"

"Can you think of anything blacker or more iniquitous on the statute book of any free country than the war time elections act of a few years ago? That was my idea of a deed of political infamy, and I believe that it is the opinion of the people of this country."

"They resented that act, and with regard to the attitude of the manufacturers of Brantford I would just like to say this: If the sentiment expressed by the honorable member for Marquette, that our laws should be means of free trade, whatever may be done in the future."

"Representing as I do a manufacturing city I placed before the people my policy with regard to the tariff and I am proud to say that not only by the manufacturers, but by the rural population of the constituency as well, it was received with approval."

"That policy, briefly, was this, that to build up this country our greatest need is a tariff policy that will protect raw material and foster production, that when labor is applied to that raw material through such process, a certain amount of protection should be guaranteed that labor, and so on until we have the finished article, with a reasonable amount of protection incidentally afforded, thus giving at the same time a slight protection to the manufacturer and an assured revenue to the country."

SEEKS VOTE TO AVERT CRISIS

Lloyd George Expected to Win in Expression of Confidence.

DISCUSS MOTION WORDING

Straight Resolution of Confidence Would Meet Only Die-Hards' Opposition.

LONDON, March 21.—Parliamentary lobbies had as their principal topic for discussion tonight the decision of Premier Lloyd George to seek a vote of confidence in the House of Commons for his Genoa policy. The balance of opinion was that by this move a definite political crisis would be shelved temporarily.

There was little doubt among the parliamentarians that the premier would secure a majority, as an addition to the large section of the Unionist vote, it was pointed out, that he would probably also be supported in this particular question by the Liberals and Laborites.

But some of the better-versed commentators declared what they depend upon the terms of the motion for the vote of confidence, which would be moved by some private member. If it is a simple motion, expressing Parliament's confidence in the premier as the representative of Great Britain at the conference, it probably will be opposed only by 50 or 60 "die-hards."

Should the motion seek to commit the Unionist party in an ambiguous way, its fate will be more doubtful. If the motion is carried only by a narrow majority the parliamentarians believed it would be considered equivalent to defeat, and would most likely bring about the resignation of the prime minister or a dissolution.

CONCERT MARKS OPENING OF DORCHESTER SCHOOL

Attractive Program Provided By the Pupils and Assisting Artists.

Special to London Advertiser.

DORCHESTER, March 1.—A very successful concert marked the opening of the new school on R. R. 5, Dorchester. The building was suitably decorated with flags and bunting and blackboard drawings.

The program consisted of recitations, choruses, dialogues, instrumental solos by the pupils, who were assisted by other talent, including a violin solo by Mr. Sinclair, a bagpipe selection by C. Sutherland, and a reading by Miss Ena Phisk of London.

Another feature of the evening was a play entitled, "The Making of Canada's Flag," which set forth reasons why the emblem of the Dominion should find a place alongside that of the motherland. Examples taken from Canadian history were illustrated in a clever and capable manner.

During the play solos were rendered by Miss Hazel Ross, Mrs. R. St. Kelly, Margaret Rickard and Marjorie Ross.

A box social was held after the entertainment, Stanley Shaw acting as auctioneer.

The proceeds, which amounted to $27, will be used to purchase pictures and library books for the school.

COLLAPSES ON STATION PLATFORM AT GUELPH

John Stenhouse of Seattle, Washington, Dies in Hospital Without Regaining Consciousness.

Special to London Advertiser.

GUELPH, March 21.—Found lying in a comatose state on the platform of the Grand Trunk Station Sunday morning, John Stenhouse of Seattle, Wash., died in the Guelph General Hospital late last night without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Stenhouse was on his way from Seattle to visit friends at Hespler, Ont., and it was shortly after alighting from the 10:55 train from the east at the local station that he suffered the stroke that resulted in his death.

It was learned today that Mr. Stenhouse, who had been employed in the office of the baggage department on one of the American railways at Seattle, was en route to Hespler to pay a visit to a number of friends there. He had arrived in Guelph on the morning train, and upon learning that there was no train connection for Hespler on Sunday, telephoned to his son-in-law, Charles Fetzels of Hespler, to motor to Guelph to meet him. It was evidently a few minutes after leaving the telephone that he collapsed on the station platform, where he was found by two little girls. Four brothers and one sister survive. The remains will be removed to Hespler for interment.

BRITAIN NOT TO ASK CONDITIONS

LONDON, March 21.—Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, discussing the British debt in the House of Commons today, said: "I do not propose to make any conditions to the United States government as to the payment of our due obligations."

In answer to a question, Sir Robert said no demand had been received from the United States for the payment of interest on the British debt during the coming financial year, nor had the other European debtor nations received a similar demand.

The declaration of the chancellor against making any conditions to the United States government was made in reply to a question whether in view of the fact that payment could only be made mainly by exporting goods from Great Britain to the United States, he would inform the Washington government that the most convenient way to make payment was to reduce import duties on British goods.

Conduct Tests On Milk Diets For Children in Chatham.

Special to London Advertiser.

CHATHAM, March 21.—Through the kindness of a local milk dealer the health department of the board of education is carrying out a test on extra milk diets for under-nourished children in the Central Public School. Miss Mary Northwood, the school nurse, carefully weighed the children before the test was started, and is watching each child during the test, which will last for four weeks.

At 10:15 o'clock each morning, twenty children go up to the domestic science classroom, where they are given a glass of milk, which they drink slowly. Although only in operation a week, a noted improvement has been noticed in each child. The milk has been supplied by the McGeachy City Dairy Company.

ROBERT STEVENSON DIES AT HOME AT BLENHEIM

Mrs. Elizabeth Hallett Succumbs To Illness of Many Years' Duration.

Special to London Advertiser.

BLENHEIM, March 21.—Blenheim suffered the loss, Monday, of two highly-respected citizens, Robert Stevenson and Mrs. Elizabeth Hallett.

Mr. Stevenson was 74 years of age, and had been a resident of the town for many years. He was a cabinet-maker by trade, and was considered by many to be one of the best in that line of business to be found in Western Ontario. He made many a piece of fancy furniture since he retired from active business some years ago. He was unmarried.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at two o'clock in the afternoon, the services to be held in the Presbyterian church by Rev. Dr. J. F. Smith. The deceased leaves two brothers, Alexander, of Detroit, and James, of Harwich.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hallett passed away Monday morning after an illness extending over many years. She leaves one son, William Snow, of this town, and four daughters, Miss Caroline and Mrs. Dorey, at home; Mrs. Henry Reynolds, of Wallaceburg, and Mrs. Haskell. The funeral service will be held Wednesday morning at the Roman Catholic Church. Rev. Father Doe will officiate, and interment will take place at Evergreen Cemetery.

DIES IN DOVER TOWNSHIP

Mrs. Alexander Peltier Succumbs After Five Years' Invalidism.

Special to London Advertiser.

TILBURY, March 21.—Mrs. Alexander Peltier, River road, Dover Township, passed away on Sunday, following a period of five years' invalidism from paralysis. She had lived on the homestead where her death occurred for 50 years. Her husband, Alexander Peltier, predeceased her five years ago, when her son, Charles, succeeded to the management of the farm.

The deceased was 76 years of age, and was born in the township of Raleigh.

She was a devoted member of the Roman Catholic Church, and the funeral will be held on Tuesday at St. Peter's, River road.

A large family survive. They are: William and George, of Tilbury East; Alexander, of Walkerville; Joseph, of Stony Point; Andrew and Charles, of Dover; Mrs. B. Durocher and Mrs. James Pickle, of Chatham; Mrs. Mack Turrill, of Windsor, and Mrs. Peter Fedrick, of Detroit.

HEAR INSPIRING ADDRESS

Mrs. McAlpine Gives Paper On "Thoughts On Thinking."

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. MARY'S, March 21.—A most successful, inspiring and largely-attended meeting was held in the Salvation Army Hall this afternoon, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. M. R. McAlpine gave a splendid paper on "Thoughts on Thinking," which was much appreciated. Two fine readings by Miss King and a solo by Mrs. W. C. Stone brought to a close a most enjoyable event.

WAS TROUBLED WITH HER LIVER FOR OVER 4 MONTHS

When the liver becomes slow, sluggish and torpid it is not working properly and does not supply sufficient bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste products of the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, constipation sets in and liver troubles follow, among which are sick or bilious headaches, heartburn, water on the eyes, pain under the right shoulder, coated tongue, bad breath, yellow eyes, etc.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

quickly remove the secretions, clear away the effete and waste matter by acting directly on the liver, and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood.

Mrs. Alice Mehli, Napanee, Ont., writes: "I was very badly run down for over four months. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. One day my husband brought me home a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and before I had used half of it I was much better. I only used two vials and I am a different person today."

"I can safely recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to anyone troubled with Liver T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.—Adv. trouble."

COSTS $100 NIGHTLY TO LIGHT BRANTFORD

Figures For Month's Illumination Do Not Include Private Homes.

RESUME WORK ON SEWER

Magistrate Finds No Cases To Try at Tuesday's Police Court.

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, March 21.—It costs nearly $100 a night to light the city of Brantford. This does not include the lighting of private dwellings, but applies only to street lighting and the illumination of public buildings. The figures are gleaned from last month's bill rendered to the city clerk from the hydro. The bill is itemized as follows: Illumination of 3,376 100-watt lamps, $1,688; 10 150-watt lamps, $5,912; 2 500-watt lamps, $6.67; 147 magnetite arcs, $367.50, and 11 200-watt magnetite arcs, $8.25.

It is expected that work on the trunk sewers will be resumed on Wednesday morning, according to reports received this morning. It has not been decided as yet if the men who were to work this week will be allowed to work Monday and Tuesday of next week to make up for the two days that they lost last week. It is anticipated that they will, however.

"The no cases listed" sign greeted Magistrate J. C. Massie of Dunnville when he came up from the Lake Town to preside over Brantford's police court this morning. Yesterday 22 complaints were cleaned up by Magistrate Blake of Galt.

"As far as the courts are concerned, March is one of the quietest months on the calendar," remarked Mr. W. A. Hollinrake, K.C., clerk of the county court today. Next month things will be livelier at the county building. Several courts are listed, including a session of the high county court and division court.

ENTERS WRIT FOR DAMAGES

Robert Berry, Jun., Alleges Malicious Prosecution and Slander.

ST. MARY'S, March 21.—A writ has been issued out of the supreme court at Stratford by Messrs. Parkinson and Riordon, local barristers, on behalf of Robert Berry, Jun., against Samuel G. Kirby, both of Blanshard, for damages for malicious prosecution and slander.

The action arises out of an incident which occurred at the home of Mr. Kirby on the night of March 3, when he alleges that some person called him to his door and knocked him unconscious with a club. Mr. Kirby charged Berry with the offence, and had him prosecuted in the police court. He is alleged to have spread the report against Mr. Berry in other ways. The court found that Mr. Berry was not the guilty party and dismissed the charge. He is now bringing this action for damages.

OUTLINES BEAUTIES OF CANADIAN NATIONAL PARKS

Frank Foster, B.A., Delivers Address at Luncheon of St. Marys Board of Trade.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. MARYS, March 21.—Frank G. Foster, B.A., official government lecturer on Canadian national parks, gave a splendid noon-hour address to the board of trade here today.

Mr. Foster spoke at some length on the beauty which surrounds our magnificent parks, and expressed the hope that Canada would soon become the vacation ground of the entire North American Continent.

This was the initial noon-hour meeting of the local board of trade, and was most encouraging.

SELLS DURHAM BUSINESS

Robert Lindsay Disposes of Grocery to William Vollett.

Special to London Advertiser.

DURHAM, March 21.—After about three years of successful business in Durham, Robert G. Lindsay has disposed of his grocery business to Wm. J. Vollett of the 2nd concession, Bentinck, who is giving up farming.

Edward B. Code, merchant, of Allan park, has also disposed of his business to James J. Park of Bentinck Township, who exchanged his farm in the deal.

Mayor Allan was appointed as lay delegate to Winnipeg in June to represent the Presbyterian session board here at general assembly at a meeting of the session yesterday.

CHATHAM C. OF C. TO SEEK MEMBERS

Organization Will Endeavor to Increase Numbers By Special Campaign.

THREE-YEAR PERIOD ENDS

Commissioner Dagger of Toronto Will Preside at Convention of Private Telephone Companies.

Special to London Advertiser.

CHATHAM, March 21.—Plans for a big membership drive for the chamber of commerce will be discussed by the directors of that body on Friday afternoon next. May 31 of this year is the last day of the three-year period of the chamber of commerce, and if plans are worked out right by that time the membership campaign will be well under way.

Commissioner Dagger of Toronto will preside over the special meeting of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board which will be held in this city tomorrow. The first session will commence at 10 o'clock, all sessions being held in the chamber of commerce.

Approximately 50 delegates representing 27 private and independent telephone companies will attend the sessions. Special talks will be given on construction, repairs, maintenance and general conditions.

E. H. Stonehouse of Weston, president of the Ontario Milk and Cream Producers' Association, will give a special address on "Dairying" in the chamber of commerce on Saturday, April 1, at 2 o'clock. Farmers from over Kent County have been invited to be present.

$10,000 Terms

There is a crackerjack buy for the thrifty one with money to invest. I have a four-story brick building on Dundas street, at numbers 61, 63, and 65, has 47-foot frontage, lot runs 50 feet deep on corner of Lansdowne, running Dundas to King street, fronting Dundas, has 10,000 square feet floor space, elevator and vault. Can be fitted over for light manufacturing or wholesale, would prove valuable location for stores, ground floor; owner has plans prepared for bachelor apartments. Nothing can touch it in London for the money. It's an opportunity to double and triple your money in a very short time; for further information see owner at 202 Dominion Savings Building, or call 220W days and 1845 after six in the evening.

JURORS THROW OUT LIBEL CASE

Dismiss Action of Parkhill Veterinarian Against Wife of Rival.

TEN-DAY STAY GRANTED

Dr. G. F. Spurr to Pay Costs of Litigation in Spring Assizes.

After one hour's deliberation Tuesday afternoon the jury brought in a verdict for the defendant in the libel action of Dr. S. F. Spurr, veterinary surgeon of Parkhill, against the wife of the rival veterinarian in the same town, Mrs. D. J. McColl.

Judgment was entered, dismissing the action with costs, a stay of ten days being granted for the opinion of Dr. S. F. Spurr, who is residing at the spring assizes being held at the courthouse.

It was the last jury action to be considered, the other six cases on the docket being either postponed or settled out of court.

At the opening of the afternoon session, Mrs. J. McKiechan of Parkhill told of receiving a postcard from Mrs. McColl.

Experts Testify.

O. B. Stanton and William H. Shaw, hand-writing experts of Toronto, stated that in their opinion the hand-writing that penned the message on the postcard also wrote the anonymous letters that were too disgusting to be read in court, and which defamed the character of Dr. Spurr. The experts gave various reasons for their opinions. Mr. Shaw thought that the letter received by Mrs. Dick Stooks compared most favorably with the writing on the postcard.

Mrs. McColl, the first witness for the defence, stated positively that she had not written any of the letters. She had never heard of a specimen of her handwriting. It was quite likely that she had written out recipes for friends, and those produced in court looked like her writing.

THOMAS

Witness said she had never written a letter at any time reflecting against Dr. Spurr, or about "cleaning up the town."

Questioned by the court, witness said she had no idea who wrote the letters, and was prepared to sign a statement that the writings were a disgrace.

Sold His Practice.
Dr. D. J. McColl could not say who wrote the letters. He had sold his practice to Dr. Spurr for $600, of which he had received $300. He moved to St. Marys, but there was not enough business there for three veterinary doctors, so he had moved back to Parkhill, and told Dr. Spurr that he was willing to buy back the practice. Dr. Spurr, witness said, had been agreeable, and had said that he was going West.

Questioned by the judge, Dr. McColl stated: "If a woman wrote those letters, she was no kind of a woman, and that if a man wrote them he would be the worst kind of a blackguard." Dr. McColl could not suggest the name of anyone who would be so low as to pen such letters.

Harrison McColl said that he could throw no light on the authorship of the communications.

Use Green Spectacles.
Mr. McColl also stated that the spectacles of handwriting experts were pretty green when they wanted to see green.

GRAND JURY SUGGESTS IMPROVEMENTS AT JAIL

Recommend New Floor and Sink For Kitchen Together With Other Changes.

The grand jury presentment for the spring assizes was handed to Chief Justice R. M. Meredith Tuesday afternoon, and was unique in the fact that the jury had not visited any of the hospitals or the house of refuge at Strathroy, as is the usual custom.

The jurors explained that it has been less than two months since the winter assizes, and apparently took the hint thrown out by his lordship in his address to the jury Monday that it would hardly be necessary to make another tour of inspection in so short a time, of these institutions. The county jail was visited and several improvements suggested. The jurors thought that a new cement floor was necessary for the kitchen as well as a new sink.

The heating system was not all that it should be in the opinion of the jury, and it was also suggested that the fanlights over the north and south doors be protected with iron bars.

Seventeen prisoners are at present in the jail.

Chief Justice Meredith informed the jury that the proper authorities would be informed of their recommendations, and before discharging the members thanked them for the way in which they had carried out their duties.

DECIDE SUMMER CLOSING

London Grocers Elect Association Officers For 1922.

It was unanimously decided on at the meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association in the Tecumseh House Tuesday, to close all stores on Wednesday afternoon during the months of May, June, July, August and September, as was the custom last year.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were: Ald. Drake, president; A. Throver, vice-president; P. Lathorne, second vice-president; Frank Pierce, secretary; and H. P. Bosser, treasurer. The executive committee is composed of J. A. McLeod, Thos. Shaw, J. A. McFarland, E. Patterson and John Diprose.

A hearty vote of thanks was voted for the retiring officers in consideration of their services during the past year.

GIVE NO AWARD IN AUTO CRASH SUIT

Grand Jury Dismisses Schultze-Woollett Action With Individual Costs.

SENT OUT SECOND TIME

Cars Collided on Preston-Hamilton Highway Near Galt Last September.

It was a hungry and weary jury that filed into the jury box at the court house Tuesday afternoon at 2:55 o'clock and informed Chief Justice R. M. Meredith that a decision had not been arrived at in the damage action of Harry Schultze of Tavistock, against H. N. Woollett, formerly of London.

After a few words of encouragement from the court the "twelve good men and true" filed out again for another half hour's deliberations, and the fact that a verdict had been agreed on was waited for the astonished ears of the judge in a prolonged and vociferous cheer from the jury room upstairs. It sounded like a home run in the last half of the tenth.

There was dead silence in the court room for a moment, and then J. M. McEvoy, K.C., who was appearing in the case in progress remarked that in all probability the jury had come to a decision after being out since 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. The judge agreed with a smile.

Mr. McEvoy was correct and it was indeed a cheerful crew that stepped jauntily into the court room. The foreman stated that they had come to the conclusion that neither party should receive damages, and that they should pay their own costs.

The judge informed the jury that they had nothing to say regarding costs, and discharged the jury from further duty till 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Motor cars owned by Schultze and Woollett collided on the Preston-Hamilton highway near Galt on the morning of September 6 last, both cars being badly damaged. Schultze was suing for $1,800 damages, and Woollett had entered counter-claim for $3,300.

PETER M'CALLUM DIES

Resident of Dorchester Succumbs in Victoria Hospital.

Special to London Advertiser.
DORCHESTER, March 21.—The death occurred in Victoria Hospital on Saturday evening of Peter McCallum, 60 years old. He had been ill with heart trouble for some time, but about ten days ago erysipelas set in.

Mr. McCallum had been a resident of Dorchester for some time, but formerly resided at Mossley. He was in the employment of the Harriestown Telephone Company for a number of years. His wife predeceased him about twenty months ago.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon from his residence. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. D. McKay.

Mr. McCallum is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Cairns, of Thamesford, and one son, Marvin, of London. The pallbearers were W. Coates, T. McFarlane, W. McMillan, N. Spence, S. Demaray and Mr. Venning.

The funeral of Elva Rena, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Rawlings, was held on Monday at Union Cemetery. The little girl, who was eight years of age, died following an operation for appendicitis.

FORM LISTOWEL BOARD OF TRADE

Special to London Advertiser.
LISTOWEL, March 21.—After being dormant for several years, the Listowel Board of Trade was reorganized at an enthusiastic meeting last night, presided over by Mayor Malcolm H. P. Wanzer, manager of the Bank of Hamilton, was elected president; W. B. Scranton, vice-president; and V. Blatchford, editor of the Banner, secretary-treasurer, with the following businessmen as counsel: M. F. Zubrig, Robert Oliver, B. Bamford, J. P. Walter, R. B. White, W. A. Britton, M. R. Hay, W. A. Johnstone, John McDonald, R. A. Clime, Gordon Burr and C. Simms.

Listowel being a progressive and very attractive town with splendid railway facilities, its enterprising businessmen have resolved to make special efforts to secure more live industries, and to that end will shortly advertise for advertisement for manufacturing in the daily press.

The members of the Anglican Young People's Society were present at a social gathering last night as guests of Knox Church Guild. The visitors furnished the program which consisted of solos by Misses Raines and Evelyn Stuart, recitations by Lloyd Hall, Minnie Theodorff and Marian Morris, instrumental by Winnie Anderson and Ora Hall and a paper by Miss Eric Hawkins on a "Trip Through Scotland."

PRINCETON

PRINCETON, March 20.—Robert Gardham of Gables, who has sold his farm and is retiring, has bought Thos. Starr's house and lot on Victoria street, and will take possession next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Buck are shortly leaving the village to reside in Woodstock. On Thursday evening they were tendered a reception by the four organized classes of the Methodist Sunday school, and were presented with a purse of money. Both Mr. and Mrs. Buck expressed their thanks in a very pleasing manner. A good musical program and an old-time sing-song of popular songs was conducted by Mr. Kerton. A delicious supper was served, and singing of "Auld Lang Syne" closed this very friendly evening.

CONSIDER SNOW GREAT BENEFIT

WOODSTOCK, March 21.—Farmers and gardeners of the district are grateful for the liberal fall of snow which came during the night and was melting today. This is exactly what is needed to mulch the wheat and clover, and draw the frost from the ground. It is as valuable to the coming crops as a coating of fertilizer, according to those who know.

CRUSHED AGAINST WALL OF GARAGE BY TRUCK

John B. Shillington Taken to Victoria Hospital Seriously Injured.

John B. Shillington, contractor, of 665 Colborne street, was so badly crushed when he was pinned between his own 7½-ton truck and the wall of Hodgins & Ferguson's garage, York street, at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, that he was removed to Victoria Hospital.

Late Tuesday night he was reported to be resting quietly. His chest was badly crushed, but it is not known yet whether he is suffering from internal injuries.

When he was first taken into the hospital his condition was regarded as serious. By 6 o'clock, however, he had shown considerable improvement.

Shillington was working around his truck, which he keeps in the garage every night, and had forgotten that it was in gear. Apparently he was cranking it when it moved forward, crushing him against the wall. Garage employees rushed to his aid and summoned Dr. Ernest Williams, who ordered his removal to the hospital.

The injured man had been doing construction work for the city Tuesday.

BYNG WILL VISIT CLASSIC CITY SOON

Governor-General Expected To Arrive in Stratford on April 19.

SEES BUILDING BOOM
W. G. Dixon Reports Prospects Are Bright For Great Deal of Home Construction.

Special to London Advertiser.
STRATFORD, March 21.—Their Excellencies Governor-General and Lady Byng, with two members of their staff, will be in Stratford on April 19, according to word received by Mayor Gregory. They will reach here at 10 a.m. and leave at 12:30 noon. The city council is planning a fitting reception.

Following the defeat by the city council of a motion to pay committee chairman $200, and aldermen $150 a year, Ald. Ireland, sponsor of the motion, announced today that he would later seek to have the citizens vote on the question.

"Prospects for a successful year in building are exceedingly bright," said W. G. Dixon of the city engineer's office. Already seven permits for dwellings have been issued at an average value of $3,000. Inquiries as to restrictions, etc., for eight other dwellings have been made, and it is anticipated that permits for these will be taken out in the very near future. Numerous permits for private garages have already been taken out this year.

Work will commence at once on the new laundries for the general hospital.

The death occurred at Millbank of Mrs. John Brunney, daughter of County Treasurer George Hamilton. Deceased was born at Fullerton 40 years ago. Prior to going to Millbank, she had lived at Tavistock. She was married 20 years ago, her husband, two children, her parents and four sisters and three brothers, survive.

Harold Elborn has been appointed valetudinarian of the Normal School for the 1921-22 class.

CONDUCTS 3 SERVICES

Calgary Missions Superintendent Preaches to Saugeen Indians.

Special to London Advertiser.
SOUTHAMPTON, March 21.—Rev. Arthur Barner of Calgary, superintendent of the Methodist Indian Missions throughout the Dominion of Canada, preached in the Methodist Church on the Saugeen Reserve Sunday. He preached in three churches, Chippawa at 11 a.m., French Bay at 3 p.m., and Scotch Settlement Church at 7 p.m. There were large attendances at all three services.

JAMES GROGAN DIES

Well-Known Cayuga Man Lived on Same Farm 75 Years.

Special to London Advertiser.
CAYUGA, March 21.—Deep regret is felt in Cayuga over the passing of James Grogan, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of North Cayuga. Mr. Grogan died on Sunday, on the farm upon which he was born 75 years ago. His widow, two sons and three daughters survive: Hector of Toronto, Joseph of North Cayuga, Mrs. Chas. O'Hara of Windsor, Mrs. C. St. John of Hamilton, and Mrs. St. Amant of Peterboro. The funeral will be held on Wednesday at St. Stephen's Church, Cayuga, for regular high mass, and from there to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

NEW TRIAL ORDERED

Justice Rose Dissents in Bond Case Finding.

TORONTO, March 20.—Justice Rose, dissenting in the appellate division, has directed a new trial of the action brought by Graham Hamilton & Company to recover from Thomas Ramsay of Hamilton $19,249.31, balance alleged due on a promissory note given for bonds of the Kaministiquia Pulp and Paper Company to the extent of $20,000.

Mr. Ramsay contended that there had been misrepresentation and dismissed the action. The second divisional court directs a retrial to determine whether it was represented to Ramsay that the company had a firm contract for all the pulp it could manufacture for one year at $106 per ton.

Justice Rose declares he can see no reason why the defendant should be deprived of his judgment, and the plaintiffs allowed a second trial of the issue which they had allowed to go to trial.

FISHERMEN TO ENTER PROTEST

Port Stanley Residents Will Send Deputation to Toronto Wednesday.

SEVEN SUMMONS ISSUED

Colonel Emmerton Will Press Charges in St. Thomas Court.

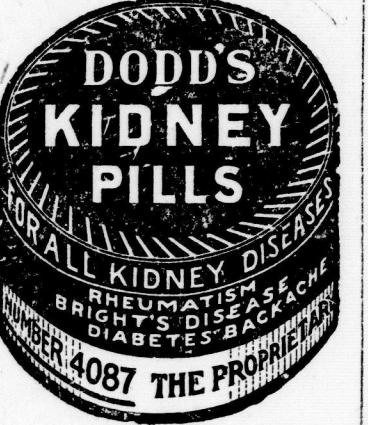

Special to London Advertiser.
ST. THOMAS, March 20.—Despite the general belief Saturday that all charges against fishermen of Port Stanley, who it is alleged, recently operated without licenses, would be withdrawn, seven men were summoned Monday afternoon to appear in county police court Friday next on charges of violating the Ontario game and fisheries act.

The summons were issued by Magistrate Frank Hunt, who acted on instructions from Colonel Richard Emmerton of London, district game warden. Colonel Emmerton has laid the charges under section 4 of the special fisheries regulations of Ontario, which stipulates that no person shall engage in commercial fishing without first obtaining a permit.

The men charged are indignant over what they believe to be a rank injustice, and are considering sending a deputation to Toronto Wednesday to take the matter up with the department.

The men are charged with fishing when they had no permit, although they had made application for licenses, and sent a marked check with their applications.
