DEATH OF PERRY M. GRAHAM

The announcement of the death of Perry M. Graham, son of Hon. Geo. P. and Mrs. Graham, Brockville, was received with sincere sorrow throughout Leeds County and at the scene of his reportorial labors in the press gallery of the Dominion Parliament.

The sad event occurred on Sunday night last. He had returned home from Ottawa ill with jaundice, but up to a few hours before his death his condition was not considered serious. The disease took on a malignant form and he passed quickly away.

Though he had previously done staff work on the Recorder, Perry M. Graham first came into public notice by his letters during Sir Wilfrid Laurier's trans-continental tour last summer, and later, as press correspondent at Ottawa during the session of the house, his contributions to the Recorder have always been interesting and frequently contained advance information of peculiar interest to the people in Leeds county.

His death is deeply deplored in his home town and here and everywhere expressions of sympathy are uttered for the family thus so sadly bereaved.

The funeral is taking place this (Wednesday) afternoon. A special train will leave Ottawa this morning at 10:55 conveying Cabinet Ministers, the Parliamentary Press Gallery and friends of the late Perry M. Graham, to the funeral.

WEBSTER-WASHBURN

On Thursday a pretty church wedding took place in the Methodist church, Soperton, when Rev Mr Elliott united in marriage Miss Julia E Washburn, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs Saxon Washburn to Leslie Bland Webster, son of Mrs John Webster, Warburton.

The ceremony, which was performed at four o'clock, was witnessed by a large congregation. The church was tastefully decorated with flowers and plants. The bride looked beautiful attired in a dress of light champagne duchess voile trimmed with Oriental lace and insertion with bridal veil and orange blossoms. She also carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations and maiden hair fern. She took her stand under a white bell while the wedding march was being played by Miss Hazel Washburn, Seeley's Bay. She was given away by her father.

Following the wedding ceremony, Mr and Mrs Webster, accompanied by near relatives drove to the bride's home, "Washburn's", and partook of a sumptuous wedding repast after which the bridal party went to Brockville and left for Toronto. The bride's travelling dress was a gown of navy blue ladies' cloth, black satin trimming with hat of Tuscany with trimmings of green and gold.

Mr and Mrs Webster are very popular in the vicinity of Soperton and this was amply testified to by the number of beautiful and useful gifts they received. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace and to the organist a pretty signet ring. As this was the first wedding in the church, the trustees presented her with a handsome Bible.

Mr and Mrs Webster will reside in Warburton where the groom is a prosperous farmer. They enter upon their new life with the best of prospects and their numerous friends will join in extending congratulations to them.

Nokomis, Saskatchewan

Nokomis, Sask., the commercial and railway centre of the Last Mountain Valley district, is one of the substantial new towns on the land of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Situated in the heart of a rich agricultural district, at the junction of the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Pacific's Winnipeg-Saskatoon main line, it has the greatest advantages over other points. And now comes the Canadian Northern, according to their latest folder, with a line from Quill Lake country crossing the Grand Trunk Pacific at Nokomis, the leading South West by the Last Mountain Lake in the direction of Calgary. With three railways at the age of five years, Nokomis certainly has a good start in life.

Under the latest amendment to the License Act a simple procedure is provided, by which license reduction by-laws can be submitted to the ratepayers of any municipality. The Pioneer intimates that under this provision there will probably be a number of interesting contests next January in the large towns and cities.

Mr Thomas Howarth's sugar grove is convenient to the village and he has this week had the pleasure of entertaining a number of little Athenian boys. Perhaps it wasn't any great pleasure, but he welcomed them just the same, and they are unanimously of opinion that he is the best sugar-maker that ever happened.

The Stratford Collegiate Institute Board are asking other school boards to endorse a uniform contract agreement with the teachers to prevent them leaving any old time during the term. They want the agreement to read so that no teacher shall quit when he or she feels like it, but that the agreement shall terminate at the end of the school term.

The closing exercises of the A.H.S. on Thursday afternoon last were enjoyed by a number of visitors as well as by the students. The school possesses good musical and literary talent and a bright programme was rendered. Owing to the illness of one of the speakers, the debate on Reciprocity was confined to the leaders, Miss Pearl Stevens and Miss Mina Donnelley, and at the close the judges declared honors to be even.

In reporting the annual meeting of the board of License Commissioners for Brockville, the Times says: "Last January the township of Kitley voted down local Option, knowing that the people did not desire the abolition of the license at Frankville." This is not a fair statement of the case. Last January the temperance people of Kitley carried local option by a majority of 47, but were defeated by Mr Whitney's three-fifths clause.

On Saturday a fatal accident occurred at Roebuck cheese factory, situated in the township of Augusta, a few miles north of Prescott. The victim was Robert Graham, aged 35 years, the maker in that well known factory. He was engaged in the discharge of usual duties and in adjusting a belt around the fly-wheel in such a way that he was killed instantly. The body of the unfortunate man, while shockingly injured was not mutilated. The deceased was a married man, and leaves a wife and four children.

We learn from Brockville papers and from numerous exchanges that, following the Hydro-Electric meeting on April 7, the different municipalities interested subscribed for a large amount of power—large enough to ensure the commission in contracting with the Waddington company for a supply. These reports would lead one to believe that the electric energy will soon be travelling this way, but we fear that these reports are not based on fact. It is not likely that any municipality has subscribed for power, as contracts with consumers would first have to be arranged, and this preliminary step has not yet been taken. What do the power consumers think of the offer?

Reduced Rates on Cream

For some time Canadian dairymen and shippers of cream have been complaining of what they termed exorbitant rates charged by express companies on shipments of cream. Recently argument on a complaint of this character was heard by the Railway Commission. A judgment is now being issued in which the complaint in effect is justified and a very material reduction in rates will be the result. For a minimum distance of 50 miles the rate on a minimum of five gallons of cream is 35 cents. The board is reducing this to 15 cents and other charges proportionately.

Right at Last

It was evident to Stuart Villars that Bertie and Miss Mazurka had some secret understanding between them, and that there might be some plot in connection with them in which he, Stuart Villars, had a share, but he was, to tell the truth, neither impatient nor curious.

Since he had lost his beautiful Joan he had become so dreary and vapid an affair that he did not think it possible for anything to arise which should have interest for him.

Perhaps Bertie and Miss Mazurka were plotting something for his amusement.

Well, if they were, he thought, with a regretful sigh, he was afraid they would be doomed to disappointment.

He had found nothing to amuse him since the death of the beautiful girl he had meant to make his wife, and not even the duel had aroused him out of the melancholy which beset him.

"I am a creature of the earth," he muttered, as he looked out of the window upon the passers-by. "Not a soul of them but has some object, some ambition in life. But I! I might as well be dead as living! Yes, it is a pity that Bertie did not put an end to so useless, so purposeless an existence. Bertie! Villars, with more money than I know what to do with, and I would willingly exchange lots with the bricklayer's laborer there, who spends his days carrying hods of mortar up a ladder and his evenings with a wife and children, who love him and whom he loves. Life! Life is worth living when love is thrown into the bargain, but otherwise—"

He lit another cigar, and was thinking that he might as well stroll down to the club, for the sake of getting back again, when the servant announced Miss Mazurka and Lord Densbury.

Stuart Villars smiled absently. Their little plot was evidently in progress, and they had come to burst in on him like a bomb.

"Well," he said, as he shook hands. "What are you two going about like conspirators for, and against what government are you plotting now? Which of you conceals the dynamite? Have you got it in that scaskin bag of yours, Miss Mazurka?"

"I haven't got any dynamite, but I've got bad news for you, Lord Villars," she said, gravely.

"Really?" he said, with a faint smile. "Well, what is it? I am used to bad news." Bertie, he added, with a brandy and soda. Miss Mazurka, strengthen yourself for your duty with a glass of wine. No? Well, the news must be bad indeed. What is it? Do you mind my smoking?"

"No," said Miss Mazurka, solemnly. "Tobacco is a great comfort, isn't it? And you want consolation directly."

He smiled sadly.

"Thank's shall I? But don't look so grave. And you, Bertie, haven't you anything to say?"

"She'll be spoked woman," said Bertie, cautiously. "I can corroborate what she is going to tell you; I say that beforehand."

"Miss Mazurka doesn't need any corroboration," said Stuart Villars, with a kindly smile. "If she said that the moon was made of green cheese I should believe her. And as for the drink, Bertie, and a glass of wine for you, Miss Mazurka. Go on, please. Here I sit prepared for anything, and the least back in his chair and smiled at them.

"It's more serious than you think," said Miss Mazurka, gravely. "Now, my lord, you are the owner of the Arrowfield property, ain't you?"

He nodded.

"Yes, unfortunately."

"Why unfortunately?" she demanded, sharply.

"Because I don't know what an earth to do with it—unless lose it at Monte Carlo." He answered, with a smile.

"But go on, you have begun in an interesting fashion."

"That property is very large, isn't it?"

"Very," he admitted.

"Weren't you very much surprised when you heard that it had been left to you?" asked Miss Mazurka.

"Not very. Rather, I had always understood that Lord Arrowfield—my uncle—would leave it to me, but he was eccentric, and there were passages in his life which might result in his leaving the estate to someone else, some nearer relation, if there was one."

"But there was none."

"I can't say. I only know that he left it to me. Stop," he said, with a shade of earnestness. "He left it to me, or at least the only will that we found bequeathed it to me, but there was a strange incident in connection with it."

"What was that?"

"A letter," he said. "He wrote me a letter just before he died stating that he had disinherited me."

"He stated this?" she asked.

"Yes, in this letter."

"You destroyed that letter?" asked Miss Mazurka.

Stuart Villars raised his brows. "Destroyed it? Certainly not!" he said, rather coldly. "On the contrary, I preserved it carefully and have it by me now. If a later will had been found the letter would have gone a long way in proving its genuineness."

"I see," said Miss Mazurka. "And if a later will had been found, my lord, you would lose the estate? You would be a poor man again?"

"Yes," he said, hesitatingly. "I should. I should be poorer," and he smiled. "For I should have to repay what I have spent. But what does all this questioning mean? Has a later will been found?"

"It has," said Miss Mazurka, gravely.

He was silent a moment as he tried to realize all that this meant to him.

"Well," he said, quietly, "I am glad of that. Where was it found?"

"In a portion of the old earl's property," said Bertie.

"And by whom?"

"By me, through an accident," Stuart Villars raised his brows. "Truth is stranger than fiction," he said, with a smile. "A later will found! Well, it is not strange that letter indicated the existence of such a will. And I am no longer master of Deercombe, am I?"

"Yes, you are master still, until the new claimant ousts you," said Bertie. "He will not have much trouble in doing that," said Stuart Villars, quietly.

"Let him but prove his case to me, and he shall step into my shoes without any fear from the lawyers. Why does he not make his claim at once?"

"The will was only discovered a short time since," said Miss Mazurka. "And you will give up the estates at once, as soon as you yourself are satisfied that this new claimant really has a title to them?"

"At once," he said. "Who is the claimant? I know of no nearer relation to Lord Arrowfield than myself."

"It is not a 'he,' but a 'she!'" said Miss Mazurka. "It is his granddaughter."

Stuart Villars thought a moment. "His granddaughter, the daughter of the late countess, who lived apart from him! Ah, yes, I see! Well, I wish her joy! May the money bring her more happiness than it has brought me! What—what is her name?"

"Ida Trevelyan," said Miss Mazurka, glibly.

Stuart Villars started.

"Ah, I see!" he said, looking at Bertie. "It was because you thought I was trying to keep this young lady—a friend of yours, no doubt—out of the estates that you wanted to shoot me, eh, Bertie?"

Bertie remained silent.

"Well, you did me wrong. I looked for this will day after day. I would have been the first to hand it to her, and place her in possession, if I had found it. You did me wrong!"

"Well, I did," stammered Bertie, exchanging a glance with Miss Mazurka. "Ida Trevelyan," murmured Stuart Villars. "A pretty name, and she is, or was, an actress. Well, with a kind glance at Miss Mazurka, "she is none the less worthy of Deercombe for that."

"Thank you," said Miss Mazurka.

"And how do you see the will—the young lady?"

"Yes," said Bertie. "I have seen it. It is a genuine will. Scovell & Humber, the lawyers, have seen it, and declare that it is impregnable."

"I know Scovell & Humber," said Stuart Villars. "You couldn't have better authorities. And they say it is genuine. Am I mentioned in it?"

"Yes, you are left a sum of money, but—"

"But what?"

"I am afraid it will be only sufficient to pay off the amount you have spent."

Stuart Villars nodded gravely.

"Well, well! And so I am poor again? And this young lady, what is she like?"

"She is extremely beautiful and as refined as the lady of Deercombe should be," said Bertie, gravely.

"I am glad of that," he said, quietly. "I should not have liked the old piece to pass into unworthy hands. And she is a friend of yours. Are you—forgive me, Bertie—going to marry her?"

Bertie flushed to the roots of his hair.

"No," he said, in a low voice. "I am not—I am only a friend. But though I am not going to marry her, I am acting on her behalf."

"I see, and you have come to propose terms?"

"Yes; you won't find them hard."

Stuart Villars raised his brows. "Hard? What are they?"

"These. That in consideration of your giving up all claims to the property, she is willing to forego her claim to the money you have spent, and, of course, to pay you the sum left you in this last will."

Stuart Villars was silent for a moment.

"They are liberal, lenient terms," he said. "I suppose if I chose to fight the will I could keep her out for—years, perhaps?"

"You could, so Scovell & Humber say."

"But I do not choose to do that," said Lord Villars. "Satisfy me—satisfy Craddock that the will is genuine, and I—well, I yield everything." He said, "Craddock is already satisfied. He saw the will this morning. We have just left him."

Stuart Villars smiled.

"You are doing the thing very completely," he said; "but it is just the course I should have wished you to pursue. Very well; I will see Craddock. And I am poor again! Heigho!" and he laughed grimly.

There was a moment's silence; then Miss Mazurka said:

"Are you so sorry, my lord?"

"No," he said, after a moment: "not sorry. I was thinking how hard it was for this poor girl to have been kept out of her property all this time, and how eager she must be to take possession. Please tell her that I will do everything in my power to assist her in her own. It is the least I can do."

Bertie looked at Miss Mazurka, and after a moment she said:

"And don't you feel any curiosity to see this young lady who has snatched your property from you, my lord?"

"Yes," he answered; "the greatest curiosity. But I was thinking it would be painful to her. I should like to see her very much. Will you tell her so, please?"

"I will tell her so," said Bertie. "And I will arrange a meeting. Will you meet her at Deercombe Wood the day after to-morrow?"

"Yes," said Stuart Villars, but he winced. What memories the sight of the old Wood, the cliffs upon which he and Joan had walked, would awaken!

"Yes," he said, with a sigh. "I would rather it were anywhere else—but yes, I will meet her at the Wood."

"Very well," said Bertie. "Then I'll have everything ready for you. Craddock shall go down, and someone from Scovell & Humber's, and we'll settle the thing there. I am awfully sorry for you, Villars!"

"Don't be!" said Stuart Villars, shaking his hand. "I am sick and tired of the money and of my own life. I was hungering for something to happen and I am more than content! Give my compliments to Miss Trevelyan and tell her that I hope she will live her more happiness than it could ever bring me now!" and he turned away with a sigh, as the vision of Joan rose before him.

CHAPTER XIII.

The news burst upon Deercombe like a bombshell.

It reached Colonel Oliver in the form of a letter from Craddock, who was held fast and tight in the hands of Bertie and Miss Mazurka, the latter of whom inspired him with a dread that amounted to awe.

He was to do exactly as she told him, or take his chance of going before a judge and jury and receiving his deserts.

Every day Miss Mazurka went down to Chain Court and gave him his orders.

He was not to open his lips respecting the will and Joan's identity to anyone, as he was to pay unhesitating and unquestioning obedience to her and Lord Bertie, or—it would be worse for him—Old Craddock had been very much shaken by the exposure of his villainy and Mordant Royce's, and he was literally troubled whenever Miss Mazurka entered the office and fixed her eyes on him.

"You are an awful old scoundrel," she said to him, with a cheerful candor that made him wince; "and I believe it's a shameful neglect of duty on our part not to prosecute you. And we'll do it even now if you dare to disobey orders in the very slightest."

"You can depend upon me, my dear Miss Mazurka," croaked the old man. "You can depend upon me, my dear Miss Mazurka, I am an honest, straightforward person, but I was weak enough to be led astray by that awful young scoundrel, a boy I picked up from the gutter."

"It's a pity you didn't leave him there," said Miss Mazurka. "Well, now we have got to be sure to hold your tongue about the will and Miss Ormsby's coming to life again, and, in fact, about everything—until I tell you."

"Rely upon my secrecy, my dear Miss Mazurka. I'm a lawyer—"

"Yes, I know," interrupted Miss Mazurka, curtly. "I can rely upon you, because I've got you hard and fast, and you know it. Now sit down and write to that Colonel Oliver you've told me about, and just say that it was all a mistake about Miss Ormsby's being drowned and that she has come to life again; and you can say that she is among friends, and prefers to remain in seclusion for the present, but that she will come to Deercombe next Monday, at half-past six. Do you understand that?"

Mr. Craddock assured her that he fully understood and would obey; her lightest wish should be law to him.

"Very well, and then give orders and see that the report of her death called, isn't it—get ready by Monday."

"By Monday!" and the old man groaned loudly.

"By Monday!" repeated Miss Mazurka, with a stamp of her foot which made Craddock jump. "Money, money, money, can't it! Very well, then let it do that. Send half a dozen old women into it, and light fires in all the rooms. Do what you like, but have it ready. Miss Ormsby will want it by then, and she must have it! Do you hear?"

"Mr. Craddock heard, and it should be done."

"I'll go down myself," he said, rubbing his hands.

"You'd better. But mind, not a word to anyone. If you're asked any questions, say you don't know. If you want a written order from Miss Ormsby, you shall have it."

"Oh, dear, no, Miss Mazurka's word is enough," he assured her.

"Yes, it is," she assented; "and when Miss Mazurka says a thing she means it. You've done a great deal of this mischief, and now I mean to make you undo some of it, and free, gratis, for nothing, too."

So Mr. Craddock sat down and wrote a cautious note to the colonel, which reached him as he was playing billiards at the club, and sent him flying home with the force of a whirlwind.

"Here, Em, Julia," he shouted, bursting into the parlor, where the two girls sat working and wrangling, just as of old; "here's the most astonishing thing you ever heard! 'Pon my word, I think that old fool Craddock must have gone out of his mind. I never heard—"

"I wish you'd let us hear, papa," said Julia, irritably; "whatever is it?"

"I'm trying to tell you, you'll let me," he retorted. "Why, Joan isn't drowned after all; at least this old food says so."

The girls opened their mouths and gaped at him, speechless with astonishment.

"Joan—not—drowned?" they exclaimed, at last.

"No!" he ejaculated, dropping his eyes and slapping the open letter. "Not drowned, after all! Listen to this! Did you ever hear? I don't believe it, and that's the fact!"

Emmeline shook her head.

"It's true enough!" she said, acidly. "Old Craddock isn't out of his mind. That girl's turned up again!"

"If she has, it is simply shameful!" said Julia, flushing and drawing her lips together. "Shameful! Where has she been all this time! 'Among friends'! She'd better keep there—we don't want her here. Every soul in the place knows she ran away with Lord Villars. She can't come back here, unless she's lost all sense of decency!"

And Miss Julia's eyes opened and shot out a spiteful flash of fire.

"Yes, that's all very well," said the colonel, walking up and down and rubbing at his eyeglass. "It's all very well to say that she can't come back here, but he says she is coming back, and on Monday, too, scarcely a week from now!"

"It's unendurable!" said Emmeline, between her teeth. "Papa, it's more than human nature can stand. And I

SUFFERED SINCE HER CHILDHOOD

But Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Mrs. Laprairie a new Woman.

Nipissing Lady Gives An Experience That Should Prove of Immense Value to the Suffering Women of Canada.

Laprairieville, Nipissing District, Ont., April 17. (Special.)—After suffering from various forms of kidney illness since she was a child, Mrs. O. Laprairie is a well woman and once more it has been proved that no case of Kidney Trouble is too severe or of too long standing for Dodd's Kidney Pills to cure.

Interviewed regarding her cure, Mrs. Laprairie said:

"Since I was twelve years of age I have suffered from Kidney Disease. I was always tired. My back would ache and I always had a sharp pain in the top part of my head. My heart also troubled me."

"Hearing of Dodd's Kidney Pills, I gave them a trial, and now I feel like a new woman."

Thousands of Canadian men and women are feeling just Mrs. Laprairie does—as if life had started all over for them—just because they have cured their kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills. For the kidneys are the main-spring of life. If they are clogged or out of order the whole body is wrong. Dodd's Kidney Pills always get the kidneys in good working order.

That all the letter says? Doesn't it explain how the mistake occurred?"

"Not the least."

"Why, this girl mayn't be Joan at all! She may be an impostor—"

The colonel shook his head.

"Catch old Craddock being taken in by an impostor!" he said. "Oh, it's Joan safe enough; but how they came to mistake that other girl for her is a mystery. Oh, it's Joan, there's no doubt of it. Confound it all, I did think I'd got rid of that trouble and now here it's back on my hands again! 'Pon my word, the unluckiest man on earth! Here the girl disappears, and sets a cock-and-bull story of her death in circulation, and now she's turned up again. There's no peace in this world, at least there isn't for me."

The two girls exchanged glances.

"Look here, papa," said Julia, "as to Joan's coming back here, it's out of the question. If you were disposed to be so weak as to permit it, we wouldn't stand it, and that's flat; isn't it, Em?"

"That's what I've been saying, every body on fin, till there is nothing left to toast except the wine itself. All this takes some hours, usually from three to seven, and the 'Stimmung' rises from study to degree, especially after the pointedly ignored departure of the bride and bridegroom. The evening is concluded with a dance, and if many guests are staying in the house, and the bride's mother has enough strength left, there is what is called a 'Nach Hochzeit' a second festivity, the day afterward."

It is indeed a mighty affair; one might even say that from the mere non-German point of view it is rather too much of a good thing.—From the Westminster Gazette.

It's a great mistake to have all alike. The sort must be determined by the space.

Trees aplenty may appear on the lawn, of good size.

One tree and a number of shrubs are for smaller space.

In a tiny plot one shrub, or perhaps two, and plants may be the limit.

Dogwoods, Judas trees, cityans and Forsythias all make an early appearance.

Very little later are the spiraea (bridal wreath is a beauty), honeysuckles, Weigela and others.

June is, of course, the month of roses, and sufficient unto the four weeks is the joy thereof.

July, it must be admitted, is not so easily provided for, though there are monthly roses, geraniums and the like.

August shows the althaea (rose of Sharon) beginning to produce quantities of its gay rosette-like blossoms in various reds, pinks, purples and white.

In the autumn garden chrysanthemums and the exquisite cosmos, along with many lesser lights, are ready to set us happily on toward the grim winter season.

These are only a drop in the bucket of floral possibilities.

A FISH OUT OF WATER.

(N. B.—This may be taken either as a joke or, if that fails, as an allegory, to be applied to any English system of education, according to the taste of the reader.)

I caught a herring long ago, And kept him in some H2O;

I strained his water every day, Till all the salt was strained away;

And so I taught the little chap To live in water from the tap.

Robbed of his customary brine He had to face a fresh design.

Each afternoon I took about A thimbleful of water out,

Till—though his needs were always small He got along with none at all.

Gentle of heart and soft of roe, He followed where I chose to go.

One day he took a walk with me, Upon the pier at Brightonsea;

Alack! he made a reckless bound, Slipped through a grating and was drowned.

MARRIAGES IN GERMANY.

The Betrothal and the Ceremony—Awe-Inspiring Wedding Feast.

There are many good things in Miss Wylie's volume, she is in her most optimistic mood in the chapter on "Marriage—Before and After," and since the cry goes up from so many countries that there are not enough men to "go round" it is gratifying to hear that in Germany at all events things are otherwise. On the authority of a German lady we are told that "an average girl can always get the man she wants as long as she does not want anything to grand or expensive." In her own social circle she has only to make her choice, and her mother does the rest.

With the slightest encouragement on the girl's part matters march rapidly forward. Twenty years ago a young couple were never left an instant to themselves until they were actually married. Nowadays the painful etiquette has been relaxed and the task of marrying thereby simplified.

As long as she holds a tennis racket the damsel may wander with her willing swain wherever she likes, and a ski tour up on the snow covered hills is said to be an even more successful match maker than a game of tennis. It sounds quite charming and so very simple.

On the other hand the ball room "has sunk out of sight as a matrimonial market." In the first place, it is bad form to dance more than twice with the same girl unless one is engaged; in the second place, sitting out corners are unknown, so that the young man naturally feels that his chances are better out of doors, where his preference is not observed by a dozen pairs of sharp watching eyes.

And when he has ascertained the lady's sentiments, or perhaps we ought to say when she has made it plain to him that he may marry her, he puts on his top hat and a frock coat and calls on her father, explaining his prospects, receiving an explanation of her attitude, and both give satisfaction the great event of the betrothal comes off.

There are delightful details concerning the prescribed behavior of the engaged couple, the German bridal trousseau, and the civil and religious marriage ceremony. When the latter is concluded the party returns to the bride's home, and then begins a festive meal which puts the Germany's power of stoic, cheerful endurance to the test. It is a mighty meal, an awe inspiring meal, a really wonderful meal. The bride and bridegroom, the bridesmaids, and the guests, the ladies, every body on fin, till there is nothing left to toast except the wine itself. All this takes some hours, usually from three to seven, and the "Stimmung" rises from study to degree, especially after the pointedly ignored departure of the bride and bridegroom. The evening is concluded with a dance, and if many guests are staying in the house, and the bride's mother has enough strength left, there is what is called a "Nach Hochzeit" a second festivity, the day afterward.

SPRING IMPURITIES IN THE BLOOD

Make the Use of a Tonic Medicine a Necessity.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all-year round tonic blood-builder, and nerve-restorer. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is loaded with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the long winter months. There is no other season when the blood is really so much in need of purifying and enriching, and every dose of these Pills helps to make new, rich, red blood. In the spring one feels tired and weak—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give strength. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills develop the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble—the blood. In the spring anemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, and many other troubles are most persistent because of poor, weak blood, and it is at this time, when all nature regains life, that the blood most seriously needs attention. To improve, and purify the blood is the special mission of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and that is why they are the best spring medicine in existence. If you feel the need of a medicine this spring give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and you will rejoice in new health, new strength and new energy, and will be especially fitted to stand the torrid heat which comes a little later.

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW WRINKLES FOR THE GAS STOVE.

(Globe Commercial Advertiser.)

"The visit I had the other day from the gas stove demonstrator upset all my respectable ideas about cooking," said an old-fashioned housekeeper, who had just invested in a gas range. "I was making a sack of apples when she came in and the first thing she said was: 'Baking apples in the oven, I suppose?'"

"Then she began to tell me how much gas I'd have used, and how much better looking the apples would have been if I'd just put them in a little steamer on top of the stove on a little water and sugar, and baked them every now and then with the syrup until they are tender. Apples in bloom, she called them, and when I tried them, they were mighty good. Each apple was as pretty as a picture, and while I can't say that they tasted any better, it certainly took a lot less time, and probably saved gas, too."

"She began on potatoes next. She stuck a metal plate over one of the burners on the range, clapped a couple of tin do-n-overs on it to see if it fitted, and then put a couple of potatoes to bake in it; and she said, 'You can't do that. By that time she finished showing me those potatoes were done to a turn, and just broke open as tender and soft as a freshly-baked biscuit, and she said: 'Next she told me when I was roasting a small piece of meat in the lower oven, or what I always called a broiler, I might as well save gas by cooking something on the top of the stove, and when the water was boiling nicely just to pop the whole thing in the oven, and she said: 'Then she showed me a tricky little tin oven that looked like a handbox. She set it down on top of the range, and stood off and looked at it as a child would look at a new doll.'

"This," she said, "this little oven saves your gas, and keeps your kitchen cool in summer."

"Then she went on to tell me how I could bake bread and pies there at ever so much less gas than the broiler, and she would almost take the place of the big oven. When it wasn't in use it could stand on the table or on a shelf, and I could keep pies or cakes or biscuits on it."

"She told me how to save myself the bother of using the big broiler that comes with the gas range, and how, when I wanted only a couple of chops or a small steak, I could use a small toaster with a little baking pan on top, and catch the drippings. The little toaster rests right on the baking pan."

How Rheumatism Can be Cured?

All the aches and pains of acute rheumatism are caused by the presence of Uric acid in the blood. An attack is usually brought on by exposure to wet or cold. The muscles stiffen, the joints swell, and an attempt at exertion brings on excruciating twinges. The pain often shifts from one part of the body to another and this is dangerous, as the heart is liable to an attack that might prove fatal. To get right to the seat of the trouble Ferronze should be used—it contains wonderful solvents for Uric Acid and eliminates it entirely from the system. Of course, it is absolutely necessary to apply Ferronze as a liniment to the affected parts. It takes out the pain, relieves stiffness, restores the muscles to their wonted vigor and elasticity. Uric acid from rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago should use Ferronze and Nerviline without delay. They mean certain, swift, lasting cure.

TROUBLE WITH THE TOWER.

Among the engravings that adorned the walls of a Toledo woman's home was one big one of the leaning tower of Pisa. One morning, shortly after the advent of a new maid, the mistress of the house noticed that the picture of the tower hung crooked. She straightened it and said nothing of the matter to the new servant, who had evidently shifted it while dusting.

The next day the picture was again again crooked; the same thing happened the next day, and the next. Finally, one morning, chancing to be in the room where the picture was, the mistress said to the maid, as she dusted:

"Mary, you've hung that picture of the tower crooked. Just look at it!"

"That's what I say, mumm," returned the domestic; "look at it! The only way I can get this blamed tower to hang straight is to hang the picture crooked."

BEAUTIFY CANADA BY FLOWER GARDEN IS AIM OF RAILWAY

Distribute Seeds and Offer Prizes for Best Display on C. P. R. System.

The floral department of the C.P.R. is following up the spring distribution of flower seeds by the announcement that the prize list is this year to be considerably extended. Last year $1,500 was distributed in prizes for the best display of prize list gardens, and there will be prizes also for the best photographs of gardens.

That the competition for these prizes will be keen is certain. Greater enthusiasm than ever is being shown in this scheme for the planting of the Dominion with a chain of flower gardens; in fact, the scheme has been taken up in such a wholesale way that the spring distribution inaugurated yesterday means the sending out of over 100,000 packages of seeds to agents, sectionmen, and employees living on the company's property, who wish to cultivate flowers around their buildings.

These seeds comprise over thirty varieties of the choicest kinds of garden flowers. In addition a large number of seed packages of novelties in the way of flowers are being despatched to central points, from which plants will be distributed later on. Considering that last fall the recipients of these seeds also participated in the distribution of hundreds of thousands of bulbs, the gardens all along the company's lines ought to be a blaze of glory from the beginning to the end of the coming season.

This gardening scheme is an entirely voluntary one. Not the slightest pressure is put on any of the company's employees to beautify the surrounding of stations and section houses by gardening. But if they desire to do so the seeds are freely given them, and they also get all the garden supplies necessary free of cost, there being no restrictions whatever.

The Irrigation Department will decorate its grounds with flowers this year, and the Forestry Department in the West is taking a keen interest in the subject in addition to growing flowers, many agents in the West grow vegetables, and many have little experimental farms at their stations.

RECIPROCITY—DAIRYING

"Farm and Dairy," the official organ of the British Columbia, Manitoba, Eastern and Western Ontario, and Bedford District, Quebec, Dairymen's Associations, and of the Canadian Holstein, Ayrshire, and Jersey Cattle Breeders' Associations, contains the following editorial, which will be of interest to many of our readers:—

The price of our dairy produce is determined not by what is consumed on the home market, but by what we export. The price we obtain for the 20 per cent. of cheese exported determines the price of the 100 per cent. we produce. In better a still smaller percentage determines the price we produce receive. Hitherto our dairy exporters have practically all gone to Great Britain. The opening of the United States markets will give us two markets instead of one. Hence it is we view with favor the effect reciprocity will have on the prices we receive for butter and cheese.

The effect the United States market will have on the price of our butter is not altogether a matter of supposition. Last year four-fifths of the milk produced in Huntingdon county, Que., was skimmed and the cream sent to the States. From May to October Huntingdon farmers netted 95 cents a hundred for milk at the skimming stations and got the skim milk back. In December the farmers were getting $1.30 a hundred, with the skim milk back. The price at cheese factories in the same district averaged 93 cents for the season. Under reciprocity butter can be shipped across the line instead of cream and many more dairymen will be enabled to take advantage of the higher prices ruling in the United States.

Last year the price of cheese in Canada averaged 10¢. In the United States the price for finest cheese varied from 14 to 15¢. In addition to the difference in price the cheese maker in the United States can make 10 lbs. of cheese from 100 lbs. of milk, while the Canadian cheese maker, catering to the British market, must make but nine lbs. This alone would mean an addition of 10 cents a hundred to the value of milk.

We can hardly expect a market in the United States for all of our cheese and butter at the prices quoted. A large part of our dairy produce must under any circumstances still be shipped to Great Britain should the proposed reciprocity agreement be ratified. Having two markets instead of one, however, we would tend to advance prices to a higher level all round; therefore, reciprocity cannot but be a most decided advantage to the Canadian dairyman.

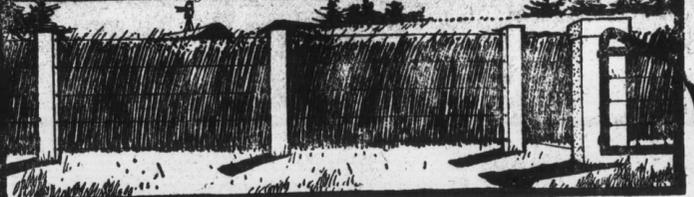

A SAD DEATH

Some time ago, relatives here and in Brockville were advised that Frederick A. King, who was employed as a brakeman in Michigan, was in poor health. He decided to come to the home of his brother here and left for that purpose. At Toronto he left the train and on Sunday, April 9, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. There was nothing on his person that would serve to identify him and it was not until his trunk was returned from Brockville to Toronto that the mystery was cleared. His brother Edward of Brockville, went to Toronto and accompanied the remains to Athens where they were placed in the vault on Saturday last.

Fred King was, of course, well known in this district and his uniformly sanguine disposition is in sad contrast with his life's termination. But he had been ill, was affected with creeping paralysis, and the utterly hopeless nature of his condition had evidently preyed upon his mind so that in a moment of deep despondency and desperation he decided to end it all.

April Rod and Gun.

All anglers will heartily welcome the April issue of Rod and Gun in Canada. As usual this number heralds the approach of the fishing season and gives all those who have waited patiently for a renewal of their pleasures with rod and line, added joys of anticipation of the good time now so near. A beautifully illustrated article of a camping and fishing trip on French River is followed by an equally good account of a similar outing in Prince Edward Island, the gem of the Gulf of the St. Lawrence. Many other good things are to be found in the same issue and sportsmen who may not be able to join in all the laments of fishing with the same enthusiasm as the devoted angler will find that they are not overlooked. There is something to suit all and if the angler is, for the time, the most favored, the hunter knows his turn will come and can in the meantime find much that is of particular interest to himself.

Concrete Fence Posts Like These are slightly, strong, permanent. Concrete is, in many localities, cheaper than wood, for fence posts, and more durable than stone, brick or iron. Our book, "What The Farmer Can Do With Concrete" is sent FREE.

It tells how to make, not only fence posts, but walks, curbs, horse blocks, barn foundations, feeding floors, well curbs, drinking troughs, silos, dairies, and many other farm utilities where cleanliness, strength and durability are required. Many of these things are simple and inexpensive to make, and may easily be put together in your spare time. The book carefully and simply tells all. The regular price of the book is 50c. We are distributing free, a limited number, however, and charging up the cost to advertising. That's why you get your copy free, if you sign the coupon and send it to-day. Do it now.

ELOPED FROM ELGIN

Recorder: Thursday afternoon Chief Burke received a telephone message from C. E. Johnston, Elgin, a justice of the peace, asking him to apprehend F. Marshall and Mrs Geo. Burt, who eloped during the afternoon from that village, taking with them Mrs Burt's youngest child.
When asked by the chief if a warrant was out for their arrest Mr Johnston replied there was not and Chief accordingly had no authority to make an arrest.
The couple with the child, arrived here shortly before six o'clock on the B.W. & N. train and at 7.20 crossed the river, remaining in Morrisville over night. Friday morning they purchased tickets for New York city and that has been the last heard of them.
Mrs Burt is the widow of the man who committed suicide by taking carbolic acid two weeks ago. Four or five children have been left behind.

Workers of the World

By Peter Power
'I' said Andrew Carnegie, in an address before the national civic federation, 'have made 43 millionaires in my lifetime.'

In the Carnegie Steel Co., says John A. Fitch, in the American Magazine, 'March and October are known as record months. Machinery and men are speeded to the limit in hopes of establishing a new record of outputs.'

Since a razing world is informed by the great philanthropist, that he has performed the work of making 43 millionaires, doubtless curious people would be pleased to learn how many thousands of workers in the world must have had something to do in making millionaires, have been transformed into homeless wage slaves.

A barracks costing $50,000 has just been completed at Butler, Pa., to house the Pennsylvania State Prison. The feudal lords who control the Standard Steel Car Co. at that place have heard that secret organizations have been formed for some time among the thousands of workers in that plant, many of whom receive less than $8 per week for the men work 12 hours a day and usually on Sunday.

The plant is enclosed by a high board fence on top of which barbed wire is stretched, which may be charged with electricity. This plan was first adopted at the Carnegie Homestead Mills, about 20 years ago. A strike is expected at Butler soon.

Too Many Japanese in Japan, Says Okuma. In a Tokyo magazine article Count Okuma, the Japanese statesman, sheds considerable light on the real reason why the ruling classes of Japan were so anxious to have Uncle Sam, or rather, Bill Taft, open wide the American ports for the admission of so many coolie laborers as desired to cross the Pacific.

Count Okuma says the population of Japan at present is 60,000,000, or two-thirds as great as that of the United States, and 50 years hence it will be 12,000,000, and in 150 years 40,000,000, or about as many people as China now has.

If you will run a lead pencil around the area embraced by the Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Ohio you will have marked off about as much land as the United States. The people who reside in the foregoing States, especially those living in the cities, feel greatly oppressed and especially during industrial depressions. If their territory were twice again as populous as is Japan's, the struggle for existence would be proportionately as severe.

Count Okuma doesn't say so in as many words, being too diplomatic for that, but he hints pretty strongly that there are too many Japanese in Japan. He says America should not let them go to Africa, and Korea will soon be overstocked.

But just how many hundred thousand or million Japanese will be required to leave that congested country in order to keep it tranquil? The hanging of Dr. Kotoku and about twenty other 'anarchists,' and the imprisonment of other thousands shows that the ruling class is alarmed and foresees a social upheaval.

Hence the new treaty will have the double effect of serving as a safety valve for the privileged class of Japan and to turn an army of cheap labor for the privileged class of America. One hand washes the other.

Why New York's East-Side Bank Clerks Struck. The novel strike of bank clerks in New York for shorter hours and more pay in bringing success to the movement has been confined to the east-side, but the manner in which the depositors have been withdrawing funds from the bank and plugging them in others that signed up has tended to spread the union spirit, and it is probable that a strong national organization will be the outcome of the New York strike.

Have You Catarrh? If so, your general health is suffering. Your system is being polluted by acid germ laden secretions. Your throat is in the right condition to catch other germ diseases. STOP LIVER TROUBLE AT ITS BEGINNING, And You'll Thereby Avoid Lots of Misery and Ill Health.

Most people with liver trouble imagine they have dyspepsia or indigestion. They neglect the early warnings, and often take the wrong medicine. Once the liver becomes sluggish, it disturbs the harmonious working of the stomach and bowels. You get headaches, sallow skin, pimples, thinness and impurity of the blood. Food remains in the bowels, ferments, decays and forms poisonous gases that enter the blood and destroy its vitality and nourishing power.

A very quick and sensible way to stop and cure liver trouble is by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butterfat, which contains certain extracts of healing herbs and roots that have a wonderful tonic and cleansing effect upon all the liver cells.

You'll be surprised at the quick benefit derived from Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They strengthen the stomach, cure constipation, prevent headaches, restore kidney and liver activity, provide the system with vital building elements that make old people young, strong, ambitious. You'll never feel tired and worn out in the morning if you're refreshed the system the night before with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butterfat.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND. The late Green McCurtain, chief of the Choctaws, had a high opinion of the business astuteness of white men.

'No Indian can get the better of a paleface,' Chief McCurtain said to a Guthrie reporter during the recent Oklahoma investigation, 'and when two palefaces get bargaining together, then it is like cutting diamonds with diamonds. Two Oklahoma palefaces once hunted in my camp. They spent the evening with me, and over the fire and the fire-water they began to barter and traffic, and to make deals and dickers.'

'Finally Bill said: "Sam, let's trade hosses—my bay for your roan." "It's a go," Sam agreed. The trade's a go. Shake on it, partner." They shook hands. Then Bill said with a loud laugh: "Sam, I've bested you this time. My horse is dead. Die, yesterday." "So's mine dead," said Sam. "Die this mornin'." And what's more, I've took his shoes off."—New York Tribune.

BOUGHT ALL HIS FANCY VESTS. 'Southern dinkies in that part of the cotton belt where the crops were fine last year have more coin in their pockets nowadays than ever before,' said Captain H. B. Rainey, of Memphis. 'Not long ago I was in Holly Springs, Miss., on a Saturday when the streets were filled with blacks from the plantations. I happened to go in a store for some small purchase and found a force of clerks busy waiting on a party of husky Senegambians, who were getting the bravest and costliest finery in the shop.'

'One fellow, after buying a $5 hat and a pair of shoes at the same price, had his fancy taken with a vest costing $8, which he proceeded to acquire without any haggling over the cost. Bless me, if the entire gang with him didn't line up in front of that vest exhibit and inside of ten minutes they had purchased the whole collection. Colored cotton pickers getting themselves out in $8 fancy vests was a revelation to me.'—Baltimore American.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia. WILDCAT WHIP DOGS. Silas Bush, L. Hazard and Levi Schnopp, while fox hunting in Juniata township, Huntingdon county, saw the tracks of a wildcat, which they followed to a rocky section of the mountain, where a fierce battle took place between the pursued beast and five dogs, in which the cat came out victor and retired to a cave.

The hunters got five sticks of dynamite, blew the rocks away and killed the savage creature. The cat measured 3 feet 6 inches in length and weighed 35 pounds—the largest killed in this part of the state in years.—From the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff. COAL ON THE LAKES. The lake shipments of soft coal during the year totalled 18,406,469 short tons, indicating a gain of 35 per cent. over the corresponding figures of the preceding year.

WHAT WILL THE "AVERAGE COW" DO?

Department of Agriculture—Office of the Dairy and Coid Storage Commissioner.

Dairy farmers are rapidly awakening to the necessity of weighing and testing each individual cow in the herd. Twenty new cow testing associations have been organized in Quebec since the beginning of this year; twelve new ones have commenced operations in Ontario; two more in Nova Scotia, and one more each in Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick. This means at least four thousand more cows being checked up each month. In addition to the 11,800 in 1910. Probably many more members will be added this month.

The extension work provided for by the establishment of Dairy Record Centres is proceeding briskly. Centres are already in working order in Oxford and Peterboro counties, Ont.; St. Hyacinthe, Que., and at Kensington, P. E. I., with others contemplated. A supervisor has been appointed to extend cow testing in British Columbia.

Some cows have started with excellent records for January and February; yields of 1,600 and 1,400 pounds of milk and over 50 pounds of fat for the two months are good indications of dairy possibilities for this season. What is the "average" cow intending to do this year? Forms for recording weights of milk are supplied free on application to the Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa. When applying, the number of cows should be stated, and whether forms are required for weighing daily or on three days each month. C. F. W.

THE BEST MEDICINE SO MOTHERS SAY. Mothers say Baby's Own Tablets are the very best medicine they can give their little ones. It is the happy experience of one mother that helps others to keep their little ones well. Thousands of mothers have found the Tablets a never-failing cure for the ailments that afflict their little ones.

Mrs. E. Sandwell, Coldwater, Ont., says: 'I find Baby's Own Tablets, the best medicine any mother can give her little ones. I tried "soothing" mixtures, but they did not help my baby, but he made his bed giving him the Tablets they made his feeling easy and I would hardly know he was cutting a tooth. I would not be without the Tablets, and always recommend them to my friends.' Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

IN A VILLAGE SCHOOL. (Vancouver Saturday Sunset.) This story is told of a successful general who was far from being a brilliant scholar at school. After he became famous he one day dropped into the old school to pay a visit to the scene of his former woes. The teacher was anxious to make a good impression on the general, and put the pupils through their lessons so as to show them to the best advantage. After a while the general said: 'But which is the dunce? You have one, surely. Show him to me.' The teacher called up the poor fellow who looked the picture of woe, as he humbly came towards the distinguished victor.

'Are you the dunce?' asked the general. 'Yes, sir,' said the boy. 'Well, my good fellow,' said the general, 'here is five shillings for you for keeping my place warm.'

ADMITTED HIS ERROR. One of the neatest of Parliamentary apologies, says a writer in the London Chronicle, was that of an irate member of the House who described another as 'not having even the manners of a pig.' At the cry of 'Withdraw!' he did so. 'I withdraw and apologize, and beg to say that the honorable member has the manners of a pig.'

WHAT SPOILED THE COFFEE. (Success Magazine.) A family living in East Orange has a model servant who has proved herself the best cook they ever had, but who has insisted upon making up all her dishes strictly according to her own recipes. 'Margaret,' said the mistress one day, 'the coffee you are giving us is very good. What kind is it?' 'It is no kind at all, mum,' was the reply. 'It's a mixture.' 'Well, why don't you tell me how you mix it?' 'Sure, mum. I made it one-quarter Mocha, one-quarter Java and one-quarter Rio.' 'Yes, but that is only three-quarters. What do you put in for the other quarter?' 'Why, I put in no other quarter at all, mum. There's where so many people spill their coffee, mum, putting in a fourth quarter.'

SWIFT THREE LEGGED FOX. John Davis shot a three-legged fox on the East Mountain, Bennington, the animal in spite of the handicap of a missing front foot giving the bound of a chester over two hours before it crossed the hunter's path and was killed.

The fox had evidently been caught in a trap some time ago. Just how long it had been travelling the mountains on three feet could not be determined, as the stump of the leg was perfectly healed and was covered with fur.—From the Kennebec Journal.

FRENCH MOB BURN AND WRECK

The Champagne District the Scene of Burnings and Destruction.

Women Lie Down on Streets and Defy Cavalry to Ride Over Them.

Delimitation of Wine Districts the Cause of All the Trouble.

Paris, April 17.—The storm raised by the vote in the Senate on Tuesday reopening the delimitation question with reference to the champagne districts, gives no signs of abating at the present. On the contrary, there seems a probability of the disturbance spreading to the Bordeaux wine region.

Mobs continue to burn and ravage the property of unpopular merchants whom they accuse of importing grapes from Auvergne and other departments, from which they manufacture a wine designated as Marne champagne.

The champagne question formed the subject of the debate in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday and after listening to the statement of Premier Monis, the Chamber voted confidence in the Government, practically unanimously, so that the Senate's resolution is not legally effective.

GROWING WORSE. Epernay, Department of Marne, France, April 17.—Despite the fact that the Department of Marne is a vast armed camp with infantrymen and dragons bivouacked throughout the night at almost every village in the Champagne district, renewed rioting broke out today and the flame of anger and vengeance continues to sweep the grape-growing region.

At Vinay the rioters hastily threw up barricades with barrels, cases and debris of all sorts, and succeeded in holding back the advancing troops while another group of manufacturers armed with torches entered the vast champagne depot.

The mob smashed all the bottles of champagne they could find, wrecked the wine presses and set fire to the buildings.

Women were foremost in the work of destruction, denouncing articles of revolutionary airs and urging on the men to the work of destroying the wine monopoly. When the troops reached Vinay the women lay down on the roads and defied the cavalry to ride over them.

At dawn many fires in the wine-growing district showed the horizon darkened by the smoking ruins of the wine depots burned during the night.

Reinforcements of troops are arriving at Epernay on every train, and immediately on descending the soldiers are detached to the centres of activity where they are forced to continually charge and disperse the reassembling manufacturers.

The government officials claim that the work of seeking and burning of wine property is being led by criminal elements which are flocking into Marne from other districts.

The public prosecutor at daylight this morning announced that a military court had started a confederation for a time last night to destroy the entire village, and made twenty arrests among the ringleaders of the manufacturers.

MORE RIOTING. Epernay, Department of Marne, France, April 17.—Renewed rioting broke out today in almost every village in the Marne champagne district.

Paris, April 17.—The Cabinet met late last night and decided to place at the disposal of the President of Marne all the troops that he needs in the champagne riots. He has at present eight regiments of cavalry and three of infantry, and orders have been sent to four more regiments of cavalry and one of infantry to proceed at once to Epernay.

WILL RAISE PRICES. London, April 17.—London hotel managers and restaurateurs are viewing with anxiety the progress of the French champagne riots, and the majority are convinced that the disturbances, coupled with the limitation of area and shortages, will cause prices to rise to an altitude which will force the people to refrain from drinking champagne or to drink other than the classic brands.

TWO HOLIDAYS.

King's Birthday and Coronation Day—King George's Preference.

Ottawa, April 17.—June 3, the birthday of His Majesty King George, and June 22, Coronation Day, will be proclaimed as statutory or legal holidays in Canada. Some time ago His Majesty instructed through the Colonial Office that he would prefer to have his birthday celebrated on the actual anniversary of his birth, instead of adhering to the precedent set by the late Sovereign, King Edward, whose birthday was officially celebrated on Victoria Day, instead of November 4, Good Friday, Easter Monday, Victoria Day and Dominion Day are now statutory holidays, and with June 3 added as a fixed holiday from now on and on Coronation Day made an extra holiday this year, the Dominion will be well served with public holidays during the coming 11 weeks.

CASE OF INSANE

Ontario Government May Establish a Custodial Institution.

To Sell Toronto Asylum Property—Jail Overcrowded.

Toronto despatch: The Provincial Government is contemplating the establishment in the near future of a custodial institution for the care of the insane. Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, being asked yesterday what the Government was doing about the situation regarding overcrowding in Toronto jail, to which attention had been directed by Mrs. Withingby Cummings on Monday at the Associated Charities meeting in the City Hall, admitted freely that among the prisoners there are insane persons awaiting transfer to the asylums for the insane.

Hon. Mr. Hanna acknowledged that the public institutions today are crowded to their limit, and he said that the solution that occurred to him was the sale of the Toronto asylum property, consisting of a small building in the city, and the erection in the neighbourhood of the city of an institution that would accommodate at least fifteen hundred people.

The crowded condition at the jail has often been brought to the attention of the authorities, and the building of a custodial institution would be a welcome relief.

Rev. Dr. Chambers, Governor of the jail, stated last night that the most feasible and direct means of relief at the jail would be establishment of the proposed jail farm. This would take away many of the men prisoners and place them in healthful surroundings, performing a useful service.

The extent of the overcrowding caused by the necessity of providing room for the insane makes, but almost every week at least one person is committed as a lunatic.

ROBERTS TROPHY.

Changes in Rules of the Cadets' Competition.

Ottawa, April 17.—Militia orders today announce changes in the rules of the Roberts Trophy competition for the Cadets of the Empire. The Canadian team will do its firing during the D. R. A. meeting. The ranges will be 500 yards, snap-shooting at figure targets, 200 yards slow time, at figure targets, and an attack on figure targets between 500 and 200 yards.

The Empire Day Challenge Cup (Schumacher) match will be held throughout the British Empire, teams of 40 officers or men from any regiment competing. The prizes are a challenge cup, medals and £30, given by Lieut.-Col. Schumacher of Johannesburg.

A special course in signalling open to all corps will be held at Petawawa during August.

"Where are you going in such a hurry, old man?" "I'm going to consult a lawyer about having my wife indicted for making incendiary speeches." "You don't mean it?" "Yes, I do. She insists on my getting up and starting a fire every morning."—Boston Record.

SHOT BURGLAR.

Toronto Man Had Startling Experience in Hotel at Montreal.

Montreal, Que., despatch: A burglar gained entrance to a room of the Windsor Hotel early today by way of the fire escape. The occupant of the room, a Toronto man, was awakened by the noise, crawled out of bed and made his way to the electric switch. When the room was flooded with light he seized a young man, about 25 years of age, holding a revolver. The guest by a pretense of grasping up his hand, succeeded in grappling with the burglar and bringing him to the floor.

The occupant of the room managed to get hold of the revolver, and when the man made a rush for the window, fired at him, evidently with effect, as the man cried out and slid down the fire escape. In his exit he left his cap behind him. The police succeeded in tracing the man as far west as Montreuil street by a trail of blood.

A DESTRUCTIVE STORM.

Kansas City, Mo., April 17.—A heavy wind storm, attaining the velocity of a tornado in some sections, and accompanied by rain, hail and lightning, swept over western Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma today, killing fifteen persons, practically destroying two towns, injuring almost a hundred persons, while wrecking scores of buildings, and putting every telephone and telegraph wire in the territory out of commission.

Elmiston, Alta., April 17.—Health Officer Whitlaw declared today that there was danger of the negro immigrants from the Southern States bringing the hook worm into Canada. This disease was brought into the Southern States by negroes from Africa, and some time ago J. D. Rockefeller gave $1,000,000 to combat it. It grows to alarming proportions in humid climates, and while Dr. Whitlaw says the cold northern country will prevent its spreading to any great degree, the danger of a plague, nevertheless, exists with the coming of the negroes.

Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, will have his attention called to the matter.

A HERESY HUNT.

Pittsburg, April 17.—Alleging that the teachings of the Rev. Dr. Wm. Adams Brown, a professor at the Union Theological Seminary, New York, on the inspiration of the Bible and on miracles, are not in accord with the orthodox teaching of the Presbyterian Church, the Rev. W. L. McEwan, a prominent pastor of this city, took the initiative before the Pittsburg Presbytery yesterday, and demanded that Professor Brown be brought before the General Assembly.

FRIENDS IN MEXICO

Many Inquiries From Canada as to Their Safety.

Chitla Captured by Insurrectos After a Fierce Fight.

Washington, April 17.—The Mexican revolution has caused anxiety in many friends in the affected territory. The State Department has had many such inquiries, and has attempted through its Consuls to furnish prompt replies. Dr. Vasquez Gomez, head of the confidential agency of the Mexican revolutionists in Washington, has also been besieged with telegrams since the revolution started. Most of the messages, however, fail to state in what region the friends were last heard from. Dr. Gomez received a message of that kind today from Bellefontaine, Ont. It read:

"If you can reply that Walter MacKenzie and M. H. Lodge are not killed you will greatly relieve us." (Signed), Wm. Jackman.

Dr. Gomez has requested further information, and will endeavor to locate the men through the records of the revolutionary army.

CHITLA CAPTURED.

Pueblo, Mexico, April 17.—That Chitla in this State, was captured by rebels in a small force of state troops, who made a valiant resistance. Among those killed is the Jefe Político, Antonio Andonagui, who directed the defence.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 17.—A touch of politics in the death of James Whitcomb Riley is noted in the word which he has given Miss Clara Farr, of Montpelier, Ind., a friend, concerning his condition, upon inquiries during a call at his home today. Miss Farr declares Mr. Riley said he would probably never be able to speak in public again, and even now his work is restricted, for he has lost the use of his hands. Despite his condition, Mr. Riley will issue another edition of his poems this spring.

HOOK WORM.

No Danger of Negroes Bringing It into the Northwest.

Elmiston, Alta., April 17.—Health Officer Whitlaw declared today that there was danger of the negro immigrants from the Southern States bringing the hook worm into Canada. This disease was brought into the Southern States by negroes from Africa, and some time ago J. D. Rockefeller gave $1,000,000 to combat it. It grows to alarming proportions in humid climates, and while Dr. Whitlaw says the cold northern country will prevent its spreading to any great degree, the danger of a plague, nevertheless, exists with the coming of the negroes.

Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, will have his attention called to the matter.

THE DYED VARIETY NOT INJURIOUS TO PUBLIC HEALTH.

New York, April 17.—The varicolored Easter egg has received a vote of confidence at the hands of the New York city health department. An investigation was recently ordered as a result of numerous complaints that the pigments used in covering the surface of the candy eggs were injurious. The report of the investigators vindicated the samples submitted and the sale of the candy eggs will therefore be permitted as heretofore.

The health commissioner says in his report that there is perhaps too much dye used in many cases, but that the coal tar colors, which are used for the purpose are not deleterious.

JURY DISAGREED.

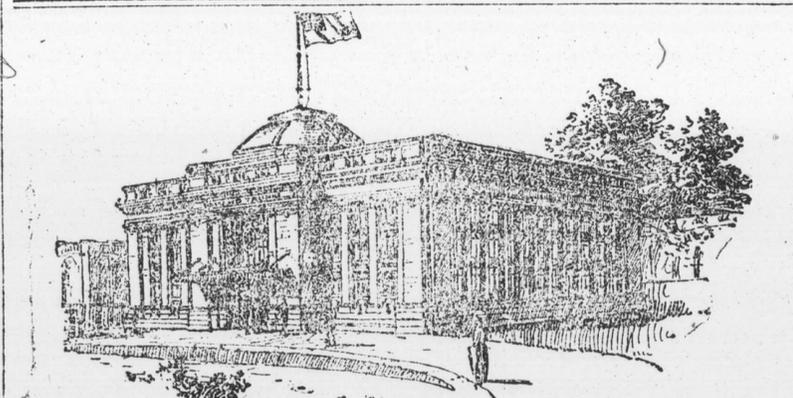

Chapman Acquitted of Assault—Breach of Promise Action at Barrie.

Barrie despatch.—The jury trying Edward Chapman indicted on three counts for assault of a girl under 14 years of age, after being out nearly five hours, failed to bring in a verdict. The jury agreed for acquittal on the first count, but disagreed on the last two counts. In these eight stood for acquittal and four for conviction. His Lordship asked if there was any possibility of reaching an agreement, to which the jury replied no. The jury were dismissed, and the case put over for trial at the next hearing.

The breach of promise case, brought by Elizabeth M. Doyle, of Tottenham, against Joseph McDermott, of the same place, is now being tried.

OLD STYLE SMUGGLER.

Windsor, Ont., despatch: Wearing two suits of clothes, the old one outside and a complete new one beneath, purchased in Detroit, Chitla Triffo, a Walkerville man, was caught at the ferry dock today doing an old-fashioned smuggling act. He was allowed to go after paying double duty on the goods, amounting to $11.60.

GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM BUILDING AT FESTIVAL OF EMPIRE, CRYSTAL PALACE, LONDON, ENG.

The progressiveness of the Grand Trunk in connection with their publicity propaganda is again demonstrated in the erection of a magnificent structure to house their exhibit at the Festival of Empire, which is to be held at the Crystal Palace grounds, London, England, this year. The building is ornate in its architectural style, and is a reproduction on a small scale of the new Grand Trunk passenger station now nearing completion at Ottawa. At this exhibition the company are putting up one of the finest exhibits that they have ever installed, and it will embrace all portions of the system, including the Grand Trunk Railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and the Grand Trunk Pacific Steamship Company.

The several tourist and fishing and hunting districts in Eastern Canada will be represented through large photographs, and a valuable collection of mounted fish and game. Western Canada will be put before visitors in an interesting and instructive way by large pictures, showing the agricultural possibilities and developments, as well as the exhibit of grains in the straw, grasses and the products of the land from Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. The mountain division of the Grand Trunk Pacific will be well portrayed through a series of oil paintings of some of the principal show places of the Canadian Rockies, painted by G. Horne Russell, the well-known Montreal artist, who spent last summer in these mountain fastnesses. The centre of the interior of the building will be occupied by a large model, about ten feet square, of the "Chateau Laurier" at Ottawa.

There will also be a large oil painting of a portion of the city of Ottawa, showing the new station and hotel, the Parliament buildings and surroundings. Models of the steamships "Prince Rupert" and "Prince George," of the Grand Trunk Pacific North Pacific Coast Service, will be on view. A separate room has been provided in the building for the projection of cinematograph pictures, and the subjects owned by the company will be shown several times each day. Among these cinematograph films are Lachlan Rapids, Mackinac Island, Lake Superior, Anne de Bellevue, apple culture near Whitby, Ont., several scenes in the "Highlands of Ontario," Niagara Falls, views showing the construction of the new National Transcontinental Railway, and agricultural scenes in Western Canada. Thousands of publications will be distributed. Mr. S. W. Cummings will be in charge of the exhibit.

GOT OFF EASILY.

William Chapman Sentenced to Three Years in Penitentiary.

St. Catharines, Ont., despatch.—William Chapman, Toronto, a young man arrested in company with his brother Harry for burglaries here, this morning was sentenced by Magistrate Campbell to three years in Kingston Penitentiary. Chapman is wanted for similar charges in Gravenhurst, Toronto, Windsor and Peterboro, and when his present sentence expires he will have to face the other charges. He denied this morning that he was the man wanted in Windsor, but photographs produced looked very much like him. The reason the Magistrate showed leniency to William Chapman, when he had just a week ago given his brother Harry an eight-year sentence, was because William is married, and he made some restitution of goods stolen.

GENERAL WILSON

Death of a Distinguished Soldier at Montreal.

He Was With General Gordon at Khartoum.

Montreal despatch.—The death occurred yesterday of one of Canada's most distinguished soldiers, in the person of Major-General Frederick Wilson. Although General Wilson had been in feeble health for a very long time, it was only during the past few weeks that he has been confined to his house. He gradually became weaker, until death ensued.

He was born at Kingston in 1852. After education at Trinity College School and Trinity College, Toronto, the deceased, when nineteen years of age, joined the 47th Battalion as an ensign. The following year, 1872, he was appointed second Lieutenant in the Kingston Artillery. In 1877 he was made captain of A Battery and won his majority in 1883. In 1884 he was transferred to the Imperial army and was sent to Egypt, where he served under Viscount Wolseley in the expedition sent out for the relief of General Gordon at Khartoum. He took part in several engagements during this expedition, and was recalled to Canada on the outbreak of the Northwest Rebellion. He returned to Canada via England, taking charge of a party of invalided and wounded soldiers. While in England he was presented to Queen Victoria, and received the Egyptian war medal and clasps and also the Khedive's star.

In 1897 he was appointed Commandant of the Royal School of Artillery at Quebec, which post he occupied for many years, as well as that of Inspector of Artillery for the Quebec district. In 1907 he retired from active service, when he was granted the rank of Major-General by the Dominion Government.

Shortly after his retirement from active service General Wilson removed with Mrs. Wilson to Montreal, and he has since resided here. He was prominent in sporting circles, despite persistent ill-health, and took a keen interest in the work of the Montreal Jockey Club.

The deceased in 1892 married Florence Adelaide, daughter of the late Sir Hugh Allen, who survives him. There were no children. He will be given a military funeral, both in Montreal and Quebec, where interment will take place.

Who pays the enormous expense of those show rooms in our towns and cities? Is it not the people who buy pianos there?

Why buy from them when you can get just as good, and in many cases better, from me, delivered Free from the factory to your door? This is one of the reasons I can sell you a piano for less money than you pay at any show-room.

All kinds of instruments taken in exchange. We defy competition for the money in all grades. Get my prices before purchasing, for they are certainly very low for strictly high grade pianos.

Also agent for Raymond, New Williams, and New Home Sewing Machines.
