"My Heart Would Palpitate, I Had Weak Spells"

Mrs. L. Whiting, 202 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes:

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes. It has done wonders for me and I want to recommend it to everyone."

CHAPTER VI.

The tableaux were long and warmly applauded. Lord Lynne made a very handsome cavalier; but no painter ever drew a face so perfect as that of the young girl who stood by him. The rapt love, the coy, pretty, coquettish attitude—there was but one voice in its praise.

Then the curtain rose upon another and far different scene. Half hidden in a kind of grove or artificial flower there stood a pale, lovely, hair-haired girl. Her sweet face told its own tale of terror and hope. Her hair had fallen around her like a soft, shining veil, and her white hands were raised and clasped in supplication. It was Agatha Lynne, Amy Robart. Standing near her, looking with haughty eyes, and cold, disdainful face, was the royal lady, who would fain have crushed the gentle life of the fair girl who stood between her and her love. A terrible moment was that in which the royal lady looked upon the gentle girl, and knew who she was. It was faithfully rendered. There was something almost sublime in the concentrated passion of Inez Lynne. Little mercy would she feel or show to one who stood in the way of her love. There was something, too, in the pathetic entreaty of the young face that looked into hers.

There was a hush when the curtain fell upon that picture. Those who looked felt its force and passion.

Then came the pretty balcony scene—the lovely love-lit face of Inez Lynne shining like a star in the depth of night, and Lord Lynne as Romeo, looking as he supposed

The Critical Age of growth

From babyhood to adolescence is the time of growth—the time when the body is being built. The food must be such as will build muscle, nerve tissue and bone.

Viol is a food specially designed by Medical and Food Experts to meet the needs of growth. It is used regularly in 3,000 Infant Clinics, and prescribed by many thousands of Medical Men, because it builds the tissues and increases the defensive powers of the body against disease.

The remarkable power of Viol is seen at once in the improved condition of those who take it.

Remo to have looked after the words—
"Oh, that I were a glove upon that hand,
That I might touch that cheek!"

It was perfect as a picture; as a piece of acting it was wonderful. But there was neither semblance nor acting in the passionate heart of the beautiful Juliet; and when the curtain fell, and the sounds of applause reached her ear, Inez raised her eyes once more to the face of Lord Lynne. This time the love did not die out of it; but he stopped gallantly, and kissed the little white jeweled hand. He meant nothing by it; but it was not in human nature to be blind to the love that glowed in that beautiful face.

There were other tableaux, taken from some of the most exquisite of the world's poems. One of Enid and Geraint, where Agatha and Allan Leigh acquitted themselves with great credit; another of Guinevere and King Arthur; and the last of all taken from a French picture, where Inez, as Marie Antoinette, sat, the center of a group, the most brilliant and beautiful of all. Then the music sounded again, the curtain fell, and the tableaux were ended.

"The greatest surprise!" "So charming!" and such-like murmurs filled the room. They discussed Agatha and Evelyn, Lord Lynne, Bertie, and Allan, but few named Inez, and when they did so, it was with lowered voices. They recognized the genius, the passion, the grandeur of her nature. She was a new revelation to them, was that beautiful Southern girl.

The tableaux were ended, but the consequences of them never ended for Inez Lynne. Now that Philip had looked on her with such love in his face, even though it were but acting, never could she bear to see that same bent upon another. There was a wild dizzy joy that filled her whole soul, and she murmured to herself, "I love him so dearly and so deeply, he must love me in return."

CHAPTER VII.

The ball-room at Lynneswold was a magnificent apartment. Nothing could be in better taste than the decorations. The scene was picturesque and dazzling; the innumerable lights, the rich hangings, the costly and fragrant flowers, the exquisite dresses of the ladies, the gleaming of rich jewels. Paint, exquisite perfumes seemed to steal upon the air, the music was of the best, and the whole scene one of animation and enjoyment.

If Lord Lynne could have consulted his own inclination, he would have opened the ball with Agatha; but the Countess of Strathdale and her daughter, Lady Victoria, were present, and stern etiquette pointed to the tall, plain Scotchwoman, and Philip could not but obey.

"Keep the first waltz for me, Agatha," he whispered.

"I have just promised Allan," she replied. "I am so sorry. Ask Inez; she likes waltzing."

And again, as Lord Lynne drew near his cousin, he was struck with her astonishing beauty. Inez had strayed herself for conquest that evening. "He loves magnificence," she said to herself, "and my dress shall please him; and please him it did, for his eyes rested upon her as they would have done upon some rare picture. Her dress was of some glowing soft material, mingled white and gold. A coronet of superb opals, the last gift of her father, shone in the midst of her wealth of hair; opals were clasped round the firm white throat and the exquisite arms, and a deep-crimson rose, artistically placed in the bosom of her dress, gave sufficient color to relieve the white. The brilliant, passionate face was radiant in its beauty; the dark eyes flashed as they had never done before, for she had hoped at last—this haughty girl, who spurned alike love and lovers—that Lord Lynne loved her. She had no reason for it, save that his eyes had softened when he gazed upon her, and his lips had touched her hand; he was coming, too, to ask her for the waltz, the dreamy, delicious music at which had just begun. If she had known he sought her in compliance with Agatha's request, she would not have smiled assent. She would have trampled upon her own heart rather than have owed one act of kindness from him to another.

Ignorance is sometimes happiness, and Inez was really happy as she moved in union with that music. She was, as are all Spanish ladies, a graceful dancer. No haste or awkwardness—easy, and with graceful dignity she seemed to make the music and the motion one. Lord Lynne had never danced with her before; it was her unusual superiority that made him say, "That is the best waltz I ever had in my life. If I were a Spanish courtier, I should say that every day develops new gifts and graces in my charming cousin."

It was simply a pretty complimentary speech, such as Lord Lynne had often whispered to his partner. There was nothing in it to cause her heart to thrill and tremble, and her cheeks to glow.

It is pitiful to think how people can help to delude themselves. While she, with the whole force and strength of her wild, Southern nature, loved him, and walked down the room by his side as one in a dream, Lord Lynne was saying to himself, "Now I will seek my darling to-night—I will ask her to be my wife."

Then Bertie Bohun, half timidly, came to beg for one dance. He was dazzled by the brightness of the face that smiled upon him.

"You are very kind," he said, as he led her to her place in the quadrille, "to dance with me."
She looked at him in amazement as she repeated, "Kind—what do you mean?"

"If I were a king with a crown, or a general covered with orders and medals, or a duke with the garter and the ribbon of St. George, he said, awkwardly, "I should feel more at my ease, and more worthy of dancing with you."

It was a boyish speech, but it came from the depths of an honest, boyish heart. He might be young and awkward, but he loved this beautiful girl with the whole strength of his simple, candid nature.

Inez laughed merrily at his florid compliments—a delicious, silvery rippling laugh; but it tingled his cheeks with shame as he heard it.

"Ah, you are laughing at me," he said, trying to conceal his mortification. "I thought you would laugh if you ever knew I dared to presume to admire you."

"I ought to be very much obliged to you," she said, the smile lingering on her lips and in her eyes.

A Complexion Chat.

It is not generally realized that a good or bad complexion depends almost entirely upon the condition of the blood.

When attempting to improve a bad complexion endeavour must be made to purify and enrich the blood by good diet, thorough cleanliness, deep-breathing and healthy outdoor exercise. Powders, creams and lotions help to improve the surface of a skin already well nourished, but they are naturally powerless to bring about any good results when the blood is impoverished.

Good food which suits the digestion will keep the blood well nourished and so improve the complexion. Meals of the tea and bun variety, alcohol, excessive use of condiments, too much rich or sweet food, are harmful, while food that overheats the blood should also be avoided by the seeker after a clear complexion.

A daily warm bath is necessary to keep the skin in good condition and the use of a superfatted soap is advisable. Cold sponging has an excellent tonic effect on the skin and helps wrinkles at bay. Steaming the face has great cleansing effects, but should only be employed occasionally when really necessary, as too frequent steaming removes the natural oil of the skin.

Deep breathing is of great assistance in bringing colour to the cheeks. Thirty deep breaths taken fully and slowly every morning in a pure atmosphere should be a daily exercise for those who are too pale.

Sleeping with wide-open windows uncurtained is also beneficial, while plenty of outdoor exercise in all weathers, except fog, is very improving to the complexion provided the surface of the skin is protected against cold winds and the sun-shine by the use of a good face cream.

Buttermilk is a good remedy for summer freckles, but should be applied without delay to give the best results.

A simple treatment for a too greasy skin is to wash the face in very hot water, employing vigorous friction. Then, rub in a little fresh lemon juice or a good astringent lotion.

Fresh oatmeal lotion made like a very thin gruel is beneficial to a face wash for dry skins. This type of complexion also demands the daily use of a good greasy face cream thoroughly well massaged into the skin.

THE JOY OF LIFE.

This much I've had. The beauty of a tree
Robed in its gown of springtime's petals fair
Fresh as a girl with daises in her hair;
I've seen the splendor of the green sea,
Beheld the snow-crowned mountain's majesty,
And cherished roses in my garden there;
Days I have known untouched by grief or care
When it was glorious alive to be.
I have not walked alone. Good friends and true
Have shared the way with me; and by their love
This life of mine took on a brighter hue;
I've gloriéd in the skies which smiled above,
I've taken much the world has had to give,
And 'spite of care, it has been good to live.

Russia's Reply to British Ultimatum Suggests Conference.

Messin en route to London in effort to avoid break.—Britain Thinks German Reparations Proposals Decidedly Unfavorable.—Ill-timed Explosion Saves French Troop Train.

RUSSIA SUGGESTS CONFERENCE.

MOSCOW, May 13.—The Russian reply to the British ultimatum was headed to the British representative here yesterday, and sent to London last night. Its contents were collected by Foreign Minister Tschitcherin before the Moscow cabinet yesterday, when he declared that England would propose that a conference be held to avoid a break.

DEBATE IN COMMONS EXPECTED.

LONDON, May 13.—The debate which the Labor and Conservative factions are conducting on Lord Curzon's note to Russia is expected to fill a large space in the House, all Opposition forces are marshalling their forces for next Monday's debate in the Commons at a lively fight is expected.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN RUSSIA.

MOSCOW, May 13.—Thousands of demonstrators marched through the streets on Saturday morning, shouting "Down with war," and "Down with Curzon," and "Down with Trotsky," speaking at a mass meeting of Moscow declared that Russia's reply to the ultimatum would be an effort to avoid a break in relations. "We offer England a conference," said M. Tschitcherin, urging that such a manner as to yield to provocations so that the break came the responsibility would be Russia's. "We shall not permit to hamper negotiations and will by all means try to keep the peace, but if war comes, the red army is ready," said War Minister Trotsky. All of the speakers made reference to what they termed the war threatened against Russia in the British note. The street organization was well organized and for the most part, good-natured. Crowds took part.

BRITISH LABOR PROTESTS ULTIMATUM.

LONDON, May 13.—Labor organizations to-day held a meeting in Hyde Park to protest against the British ultimatum to Russia. Numerous groups, headed by bands and escorted by police marched through the park. Red ribbons fluttered from their banners and the majority displayed red decorations on their coats. Meanwhile Leonide Krassin, Bolshevik Commissioner of Foreign Trade is reported flying from Moscow to London making stops at Cologne and Berlin. The Russian note in reply to the British ultimatum, which is to be telegraphed to London, will consist, it is reported, of 8,000 words. Official circles declare this wordage means argument, and argument was what Lord Curzon declared the British Government would not indulge in. He also stated, however, that the Russians could not send a better representative than Krassin. Notwithstanding he has recently been in disgrace for Soviet, he was considered to have been a good agent of Russia here, having stood well with officials and business men. The Russian trade delegation has a large staff in London with two handsome office buildings and the members of the Mission are anxious to remain.

CURZON'S REPLY TO GERMANY.

LONDON, May 13.—The text of the British Government's note to the German Reparations Commission offer made public to-day signed by Lord Curzon says in part "I cannot conceal from your Excellency that the proposals of your Government came as a great disappointment, and that the unfavourable impression they have made on His Majesty's Government as on their Allies is one which in my opinion the German Government might and ought to have foreseen, and therefore, guarded against. The proposals are far from corresponding, either in form, or substance, to what His Majesty's Government might reasonably have expected would be made in answer to the advice I, on more than one occasion, ventured to convey to the German Government through your Excellency; the disappointment is enhanced by the belief, which His Majesty's Government would like to entertain that indications are to be found in the German memo that the German Government recognise the responsibility resting on them to make an earnest effort to discharge their obligation under the Versailles treaty in a manner which the Allies could regard as both equitable and sincere. His Majesty's Government persuaded that in her own interests Germany will see the advantage of displaying greater readiness to grapple with the realities of the case, and discarding all irrelevant or controversial issues, will proceed to reconsider or expand their proposals in such a way as to convert them into a feasible basis for further discussion. In such discussion His Majesty's Government will at a suitable moment be ready to take part by the side of its Allies with whom they share a practical interest in this question which they have no intention to abandon, as well as a desire to terminate a situation of international peril."

BOXING IN AID OF MILK FUND.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Jess Willard and Luis Firpo emerged yesterday as victors in the two main bouts for the Milk Fund heavy-weight carnival in the Yankee Stadium before seventy thousand people. Willard scored a technical knockout over Floyd Johnson of Iowa after eleven rounds, the most spectacular battling of the afternoon. Firpo quickly disposed of Jack McAuliffe, 2nd Detroit, knocking him out in the third round. Jack Renault, Canadian champion, won on a foul from Fred Fulton in the fourth round. Timmy Jim Herman of Omaha knocked out Al Reich of New York in the sixth round. Harry Drake England won the decision over Joe McCann of Newark in a four round bout. Game to the core, but unable to withstand Willard's persistent attack, Johnson went down heavily as the bell rang for the eleventh. He was carried to the corner and was unable to come up the next round. Until that time both men fought at a terrific clip, and several times Johnson seemed on the verge of going down. He was twice saved by the bell. McAuliffe showed little outside a brief spurt in the first round and he was in distress in the second. Firpo showed more defensive skill than at any time he has boxed in this country, while his tremendous punching power was undiminished.

CABLE AND 'PHONE AS AID TO PHYSICIANS.

NORFOLK SYDNEY, May 13.—How a doctor on Cape Breton Island directed by cable and telephone, the birth of a child to Mrs. McIntyre, wife of one of the lightkeepers, St. Paul's Island, when the ice barrier defied two ice breakers to reach her with medical assistance, was told by a member of the life guard station on the island, who acted as a courier during the critical time when the baby was born, and the mother and child were brought safely through the crisis, in the absence of any personal skilled supervision. Dr. Munro, of Neil's Harbor, Cape Breton, by the use of telephone and telegraph directed the activities of the only three other women on the island, over fifty miles that separated the lonely light station from civilization, and its comforts.

SABOTAGE IN RUHR.

ESSEN, May 13.—A French troop train, with a brigade of artillery, was stopped fifty yards short of disaster to-day, near Osterfeld, where a big steel bridge, across the Rhine-Herne Canal was blown up by dynamite. The explosion apparently was timed too quickly and the noise warned the engineer to stop. The Burgomaster of Osterfeld was arrested, and the town fined one hundred million marks. The inhabitants have been forbidden to go upon the streets at night. A German suspected of a sabotage attempt was shot and killed to-day by a sentry along the railroad tracks at Gelsenkirchen. To-day's happening was the second main line of railroad to be interrupted by the destruction of a bridge.

COFFEES—With the advent of fine weather, this week there was some activity along the waterfront in fish handling. The schooners Hazel Trahey and Nancy Lee are being loaded for Portugal and Brazil respectively, by Baine Johnston & Co. and G. M. Barr. At Burin the Harry and Venus is being loaded by the Burin Export Co. for Pernambuco and the James N. Thomas by W. & T. Hollett for Martinique, French West Indies. The only schooner clearance this week was the schooner Ronald W. Douglas, which was loaded at Gaultois by Thomas Garland with 4,154 quintals for Oporto. There is very little improvement in the foreign markets in respect to price, but there is a better demand in Italy and Oporto for good fish, which articles is very scarce in the local market just now. A new duty, equal to two shillings and two pence, has been imposed as against seven pence heretofore.

COD OIL—The market for 1922 oil is not as attractive to sellers of the commodity as it was in March and April, and the price has declined fifteen to twenty dollars a ton with slackened demand at these figures. Dealers are waiting for the new Norwegian to come on the market in quantity when they expect to get more favorable prices as the 1923 output is expected to be large. On the other hand the fact that so few will take up the industry this season must fit itself result in a scarcity of an abnormal kind and therefore a better price in the coming fall.

COD LIVER OIL—It is regrettable that The Trade Review can hold no encouragement to prospective refiners this spring so far that would warrant them in going into the business to make money as in former years. The market prices in New York are still about on a level with common oil, and until these conditions improve very few will risk the expense of making refined oil.

FLOUR—The flour market continues easy. The United States Government is issuing a report this week giving an exact account of the acreage that has been abandoned this year and the condition of the growing winter wheat crop. Immediate future prices depend on this report. The local quotations are $9.00 for Windsor Patent per barrel wholesale and $8.40 to $8.75 for under grades.

PORK—The prices for pork are a little easier this week, and spare ribs have declined fifty cents a barrel in the local market. Other qualities are so far unchanged, but the tendency seems to be for an easier market all round. S. C. Clear with $5 to $6 pieces in the barrel is $37.00 and Ham Butt $36.00 per barrel wholesale. Spare Ribs are now $28.50.

REEF—There is no change in the market for reef this week, and the prices of last week are holding firm, and it looks as if the bottom of the decline has been reached till home and abroad and the situation is featureless. There are still large holdings in Western Canada after the winter and there is, therefore, a feeling of confidence amongst purchasers that if there is any change it will be on the easier side. The quotation is the same as quoted last week.

HAY—The market is active in Canada on the lakes and rivers and large shipments have been made from Montreal. The price of No. 2 Timothy in car lots is $12.50 this week, which is fifty cents lower than the quotation of the week previous. In the local market farmers are bringing in their winter holdings and selling at $1.80 to $2.00 per hundredweight, as against $2.00 to $2.20 per ton for imported.

MOLASSES—The price of molasses continues unchanged from the figures quoted last week, that is to say 95 cents per gallon for Fancy in the punch and 80 cents per gallon for Choice. Five cargoes have already arrived from Barbados, but there is very little trade yet doing in molasses in the way of issuing fishery supplies. Next week, no doubt, will see more activity when the fleet of fishery schooners arrive.

POTATOES—The Agricultural Department is now getting busy and will deliver at cost and charges selected seed potatoes to farmers who may wish to buy them. The potato market since April has become very active in Canada and prices of good seed potatoes have strengthened up a bit. The same applies to the local market. Prices run from $2.20 to $4.00 per barrel, according to quality.

OATS.—The market is quiet both at home and abroad and the situation is featureless. There are still large holdings in Western Canada after the winter and there is, therefore, a feeling of confidence amongst purchasers that if there is any change it will be on the easier side. The quotation is the same as quoted last week.

Eye Strain Called Cause of Ills.

LAD TO OTHER REASONS.

"Many people suffer from eyestrain without being actually aware of it," says "U.B." writing in The Westminster Gazette. "They begin to frown when regarding an object, lines form under the eyes and round the corners, headaches, neuralgia, liver attacks become frequent. The sufferers fly to fashionable remedies for headaches, neuralgia, liver, not realizing that the cause of all the trouble is eye-strain, and that it must be relieved before any cure can be effected."

"When the trouble has become deep-rooted, a visit to an optician is indispensable, but for slight eyestrain immediate relief may be obtained by the following practices: 'The moment there is a feeling of fatigue in the eyes close them, place the palms of the hands over the eyeballs, crossing the fingers above the eyebrows. With the hands held in that position, try and imagine a thick, velvety darkness. The strain will be instantly relieved.'

"Another method is to fix the eyes on a very distant object, suddenly look at a pen or pencil held close to the face. This quick change of focus is most effective."

"A remarkably good eye poultice can be made from infused tea leaves. Make two small muslin bags of a size that will just fit over the eyes; fill them with the wet leaves, and, lying down with the head flat, place the bags over the eyes and leave them there for a quarter of an hour. A famous optician in the north of England declares that he cures the eye trouble of a good third of his patients by that simple method."

"Many people are troubled by small, grit-like excrescences forming on the eyelids. These give rise to a great deal of pain and irritation. In a great many cases they arise from the simple reason that not sufficient water is drunk during the day. From eight to twelve glasses should be the daily measure of water for every adult. This flushing of the system has a direct effect on the eyesight. 'It is a good thing to wash out the eyes daily with a good eye tonic. This can be done with a small eye bath, obtainable at any chemist's. A teaspoonful of common salt in a pint of boiled water makes an excellent wash.'

Ottawa Preparing for Busy Sports Season.

OTTAWA—Summer sport enthusiasts at the Capital are as busy as the proverbial bees. The summer sport season here is always a busy one, and the coming season promises to be no exception to the rule. One feature of this year will be the absence of professional baseball, although, at the time of writing, it has not been definitely decided whether or not the franchise offered Ottawa in the Eastern Canada League will have to be forfeited on account of inability to get suitable playing grounds. Last year the Exhibition Park was available but the City Council has decided that the amateurs shall have preference for this year. Another feature is the determined attempt to bring lacrosse back into its own, senior, intermediate, junior and mid-level series are being organized. Cycling will have a banner year, the big event in many seasons being the holding of the Dominion Championships here on Dominion Day. Track and field athletics are also due for increasing attention and already many devotees may be seen setting into shape for the season.

Soccer football has always been popular here. Last year was a most successful one, but this year it is confidently expected that all attendance records will be broken. Last year 3,000 persons saw cup and league games.

Rowing enthusiasts have become excited about the announcement that Jim Ten Frik, the famous Syracuse coxswain, may be brought here in the hope of gaining a long deferred championship for the capital. At any rate, Ottawa will be well represented in the Canadian Henley this year. Golf will hold its annual prominent place, but there is still much disappointment at the absence of municipal golf links. It is contended that followers of the royal and ancient game would double in number if municipal links were established. Tennis players will have the opening of the new Ottawa Club courts in South Ottawa to interest them. This club bought many acres of land last year near the Rideau River, and hopes to inaugurate its new quarters with a prosperous season.

Freak Legislation.

Freak legislation did not pay as prominent a row in the Kansas Legislative Session, just ended, as has been the custom heretofore. Several measures of this nature, however, furnished the legislators with occasional diversion.

One in particular, calling for automobile tags on front, rear and sides of cars, reached a stage where it was amended to include also tags on the top and bottom, before the enacting clause was stricken out. Some of the statesmen argued that the tag on top would aid the police in bandit chases, and every car should carry a tag on the under side so that a victim, when run down, may read the number of the license as the car passes over him.

A bill calling for a pension for farmers also elicited found treatment. The original bill, introduced by a farmer, provided for pensions up to $50 a month for both men and women, the minimum being $10 a month for those residing on farms ten years; $30 for twenty years, and $50 for thirty years or more. One Senator, also a farmer, amended this to make the pension payable only to farmers "with corns on both hands and bunions on both feet." The measure was killed in the Senate Agricultural Committee. A Democratic representative presented a resolution endorsing Henry Ford for President, but the Republican majority of the State Affairs Committee remodelled it to read "Warren G. Harding," instead of Ford, and recommended it for passage.—Acadian Recorder.

Premises Badly Gutted.

SEVERAL SAVED WHAT LOOKED LIKE SERIOUS CONFLAGRATION.

A fire occurred last night at 10:45 when the premises of the Trade Printers, Limited and Messrs. Dicks and Company's Binding and Printing Department, at the corner of Dicks and Duckworth Streets, was gutted, while the torrents of water used to subdue the flames, damaged the stock and machinery estimated at $100,000. The buildings were gutted as a result both of the fire and of the heavy rain which was first noticed at 10:45. The second flat of the Trade Printers' Building, an alarm was given in which brought the Central and East End Companies to the scene. Upon the arrival of the fire-fighters they found that a difficult job was before them, as the flames were breaking through the windows on the second floor, which sent up a column of smoke and flame high into the air, while the reflection of the fire was seen sent up, attracting the attention of thousands who gathered their way to the scene. The fire was not in time in connecting several lengths of hose. Two lengths of water were quickly sent to the scene on the real seat of the fire, and the "pumper" which was brought for the first time, and from the length of Court House, two lengths of hose by the connection were sending a stream of water at the rate of 700 feet a minute into the burning building. And it may be said that the "pumper" was the means of saving the whole block. The fire-fighters were working like trojans at the Trade Printers' Building, and the fire from setting into the adjacent building, and with the splendor of the fire from the front, flames soon died down, and all parts of the building being razed to the ground had passed. After the fire had the Trade Building well under control, the flames burnt the partition between the buildings, and spread with rapidity into the fourth storey of the Dicks' Bindery building. The fire had now to concentrate on the saw outbreak, and a stream of water was sent into the building from the roof of Bradshaw's premises, while two additional streams from the pumper were sent to the top storey, from the upper portion of the building was soon in flames, and the great difficulty in subduing the blaze. Luckily no stocks were on the top floor, but on the floor the greater bulk of the stock was carried. Had the blaze had its way into the lower floor a serious conflagration might have resulted, because a considerable quantity of glue had been stored in the basement. The flames were finally overcome however, but before the upper part was gutted, the lower floors filled with water. The water was passed shortly after midnight, while the final all-out fire raged about 1 a.m. The Lino-Blanchettes in the Trade Review suffered most, while the remainder of the machinery was damaged by fire and water. The loss is extensive. A considerable portion of work, which was on hand for the next publication of the Royal Gazette, Free Lance and Trade Review was totally destroyed, the damage at Dicks & Company is a heavy one, and only within the last few weeks a new machine valued at $4,000 was installed. The company had a big stock of paper on hand, which was totally destroyed by water, while the ruling machine, printing premises, paper binding machines, etc., are badly damaged by smoke and water. The actual loss is not known, but will run into many thousands of dollars. The plant, which is valued at $50,000 is partly covered by insurance. The Trade Printers and Publishers, Ltd., carried insurance amounting to $30,000. The police did good work under the supervision of Supt. O'Neill. There was no over-crowding as was noticeable on former occasions. The fire-fighters were given ample space for the carrying out of their duties, and that they did it well goes without saying. How the fire originated is very unknown. An investigation will very likely be held.

Britain Overseas.

DID THIS EMANATE FROM ST. JOHN'S?

Sir Richard Squires, leader of the Liberal Party in Newfoundland, has issued a manifesto appealing to the country for a mandate in the general elections of May 3, to bring about a projected water power development programme at Humbermouth, with resultant pulp and paper mills, having a daily capacity of 400 tons, together with various other industrial programmes. The water power development would be financed by the joint guarantee of the British Government and the Newfoundland Government. Sir Michael Cashin, the executive head of the Conservative party, has issued a statement to the electorate describing the proposed undertaking as visionary, and appealing to the electors not to be bluffed into supporting it. The strongest support of Sir Richard Squires, it is thought, will come from the north and west sections of Newfoundland, while the Conservative following is looked to draw its strength from the southeast section of the island, where the support of the large fish merchants is expected to greatly aid them. It is said by Government supporters that the fish merchants oppose the industrial project because it will take men from the fisheries and compel higher wages to fishermen.—Montreal Family Herald.

DARING DAYLIGHT ROBBERY. MONTREAL, May 14.

In broad daylight, and with several persons standing close by, a robber snatched a parcel containing $3,000.00 from the hands of the Jewish Treasurer of the Hebrew Loan Syndicate last night and ran a long distance, pursued by his victim and then commandeered an automobile and escaped. Early yesterday, in full view of passers by, five men broke into the store of a reliable Fur Company, pillored their car with $5,000.00 worth of furs and drove away.

SOVIET REPLY TO BRITISH PROTEST. LONDON, May 14.

A note from Soviet Russia in reply to the British protest against the seizure of the trawler James Johnson has been given out by the London office of the Post News Agency. The note is signed by Maxton Litvinoff, Assistant Soviet Commissare for Foreign Affairs, and maintains that Russia has a legal right to establish a twelve mile zone of territorial waters, which the trawler is alleged to have violated. The note also asserts that Great Britain herself in practice recognizes various zones exceeding three miles and declares that the principle of wider limits is gaining ground in International practice instancing the establishment of a four-mile zone by all Scandinavian countries. Litvinoff recalls that as far back as 1884, the Institute of International Law proposed the adoption of six miles as limit range of shore batteries for the protection of coasts, but now he points out that gun range is fully twelve miles. Further, he points out that fishing along the Murman Coast where the James Johnson was seized, is the principal means of livelihood of the people of these districts, and they would starve if other nations were allowed to take the fish from those waters. Summing up, the note insists Russia is in no wise infringing on International Law by adopting the 12 mile limit, but that she will not refuse to join in the conference of all interested States to draft International Regulations binding upon all parties. Russia is also willing to discuss the subject peacefully with Great Britain, in which case Russia is confident that a satisfactory settlement can be reached, but will not consider any demand that she renounce her rights under unjustified pressure as an infringement of her sovereignty and independence.

U.S. AND TARIFF RECIPROCIITY.

WASHINGTON, May 14. The announcement of Hon. W. S. Fielding, in which he outlined a proposal for tariff reciprocity between the United States and Canada has already drawn the opposition of influential leaders of the Republican Farmers' bloc in the United States Congress. The indications are that any attempt to reach an agreement along the lines proposed will be fought by the entire Farmers' Bloc.

LAUSANNE CONFERENCE AGAIN ENDANGERED.

LAUSANNE, May 14. Late on Saturday the Allies sent a communication to Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish Delegation here, asking him to make practical suggestions for the settlement of the main issues. It was an attempt to inject a motive power into the Conference and it was almost a veiled ultimatum; for the Allies are growing fearful of the prolongation of the Conference in view of the belligerent attitude of Greece which to-day brought a series of sensational instances which are calculated to envenom the already uncomfortable atmosphere created by the assassination of Vorovsky of the Russian delegation.

Charlie Chaplin at the Nickel To-Day.

IN HIS MILLION DOLLAR COMEDY RIOT.

The outstanding feature of the program at the Nickel for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is Charlie Chaplin's million dollar comedy, "A Day's Pleasure," and those who see it to night will have a night's pleasure for it's one continuous roar from beginning to end. It is a First National Attraction produced in three acts. The dramatic side of the bill consists of a big picture with a real human story, entitled, "The Man Worth While" featuring the screen's most capable character actor, Romaine Fielding. The favourite verse of one of the popular poems of Ella Wheeler Wilcox sent the man who can face trouble with a smile, was the inspiration for this production. It is produced, directed and the leading role acted by Romaine Fielding.

Thursday's bill will have Anita Stewart back again in "A Question of Honor," her latest picture for First National Attractions. It is a picture in which "Society" and thrilling western episodes are interwoven. The personality and charm of Anita Stewart are brought out in story better than in any of her previous pictures.

WAITING!

The whole country is now waiting in the deepest anxiety to see what the Government is going to do towards the fulfilment of the numerous promises in regard to labor made to the people before the Election. The usual Spring business of issuing supplies for the fishery is at a standstill and the merchants, who were called "skunks" and "robbers" by the Prime Minister, seem to be resolved to stand aside and no longer run the risk of having those epithets applied to them, because of the fact that they issued supplies for the fishery. Apart from this, as a matter of fact, while the shadow of Coaker domination hovers over the fish export trade of Newfoundland, no fish merchant will want to risk his money, if he has any left, and if he has not, was it not Coaker's Fish Regulations that ruined many of our leading merchants. Surely then, with Coaker still in charge and many new schemes afoot, the merchant cannot take the risk of issuing supplies. This is one of the weakest spots in the Squires Government and what makes it more threatening just now is that there is no surmise about the matter, as Mr. Coaker has already, on divers occasions, and in the Press, heralded to the world his new panacea, second only to the Humber Deal, namely: "The Nationalization of Codfish" to be exported from Newfoundland. There is no room for doubt about that. He comes back with his eleven men (assuming that St. Barbe has also swallowed the dope) and will still hold the whip-hand over the Squires Government. The knowledge of this is what is keeping the wheels of commerce stalled and causing the merchants to tell the skippers of their schooners to "moor them off the wharf as there is nothing doing in supplies." There are 45,000 fishermen in Newfoundland waiting for Coaker and Squires to show them how the fishery can be carried on the coming summer so that they can get the supplies they require, and these having been secured, how they can, even when they get a good voyage of fish, make the undertaking pay at $3.50 for Labrador and $5.00 for Shore fish.

Open the House.

In view of the critical situation in which the workers of the country, the fishermen, the laborers and the mechanics, find themselves at the present time and the downward trend of all trade business and industry, we feel that we are voicing the sentiments of the whole country in suggesting to Premier Squires that he should at once call the Legislature together and lose no time before discussing ways and means to lift this unfortunate land out of the slough of despond in which it is fast sinking. He and his colleagues during the election on platforms and in their papers never missed an occasion to induce the electors to believe that they would find employment for them all, and that the prosperity of the country could be assured only by the election of the Squires-Coaker Government. The majority of the voters took them at their word and returned them to power. It is now—as the Americans say—"Up to them to deliver the goods." There is no time to be lost for we can assure them, that the thousands of voters who were "helped" in various ways, during the weeks when canvassing for votes was going on, are still living men and require the necessities of life. Their want did not end when they deposited their ballots. Let the House be opened then at once, so that out of the deliberations that may be held there, the people may see some hope of getting employment for the summer. In addition to those who have already left the country, there are hundreds more waiting in suspense, as to whether they too, will emigrate. They should no longer be kept in waiting for the knowledge as to what the Government intends to do with regard to the Humber work and the Codfishery. If the former is such a good proposition as we have been told again and again, then, by all means, open the House; let the terms be known and the Deal ratified, so that the numbers of men seeking employment may be able to get to work. It is not now of any importance to the people of the country whether this defeated candidate or that elected one, in Squires' Party gets an office and a salary, or what is to be the personnel of his Executive; but it is important, and vitally so, whether the 50,000 workers of Newfoundland will get such employment this summer as will enable them to earn sufficient to live on during next winter. Then by all means open the House and lay the cards on the table.

The Unemployment Situation.

A large number of men who have not earned anything since Nomination Day congregated in front of the Board of Works Office to-day in anticipation that some work was to be given or tickets for the Humber distributed. So far as can be learned nothing is being done by the department to relieve the situation. In view of the fact that it was absolutely necessary to give out relief during nomination week, the condition of some of these men and their families must now be deplorable, and if relief was necessary then it must be equally so now.

Open the House.

In view of the critical situation in which the workers of the country, the fishermen, the laborers and the mechanics, find themselves at the present time and the downward trend of all trade business and industry, we feel that we are voicing the sentiments of the whole country in suggesting to Premier Squires that he should at once call the Legislature together and lose no time before discussing ways and means to lift this unfortunate land out of the slough of despond in which it is fast sinking. He and his colleagues during the election on platforms and in their papers never missed an occasion to induce the electors to believe that they would find employment for them all, and

Libel Suit Settled.

ADVOCATE MAKES APOLOGY. In the Supreme Court this morning Mr. A. B. Morine, acting for Mr. John H. Collins of Catalina, in the matter of Collins vs. The Union Publishing Co. for libel, announced that the matter had been settled out of court on the payment of $100 expenses and the publication of an explanation as follows:— "In the Advocate, on the 13th of February last, appeared a letter from Catalina containing statements for which Mr. John H. Collins promptly took a libel action against the Union Publishing Co., Ltd., alleging that they were damaging to his reputation by implying that a store belonging to Mr. Collins was destroyed by fire through his act of contrivance, and that the author of the letter in the Advocate had information to that effect which he could produce. The action has been settled, upon the terms that an explanation to Mr. Collins shall appear in the Advocate, and that the expenses of the action shall be paid by the defendant. The letter in question was incautiously published in the heat of preparation for the general election, and upon enquiry it has been found that there was no ground for attributing any misconduct to Mr. Collins in relation to the fire referred to, and the Advocate regrets that the words complained of appeared in its columns." The above apology appeared in the Advocate of Saturday last.

The Charm of Flowers.

Every woman knows the charm and fascination of beautiful flowers giving out their natural scent on a June morning. You get the same appealing association with Richard Hudnut's Three Flowers Perfume, for this dainty odor is the extract of the natural flowers. Everywhere to-day, it is the popular odor. Ladies who know good perfumes, have given their approval to Hudnut's, so it has quickly come into popular favour. The Three Flowers odor is the fascinating scent in Hudnut's Face Powder, Talcum and Vanishing Creams too, and these are all most beautiful and distinctive Toilet requisites. You will simply rave about the glorious odor. Try Three Flowers Powder next time.—may14.11

THE WORLD'S PRESS.

PASSING OF THE CYCLES.
Springfield Republican: Bicycling pleasure is not merely difficult, it is impossible in the United States, as walking along main highways is neither pleasant nor safe. Probably English will not permit the automobile to secure the virtual monopoly that he enjoys in this country. In England there remains larger respect for the individual and greater tolerance of idiosyncrasies and aberrations of taste. Surely bicycling is the most important form of mechanical transportation for the rider is at once a human spirit and part of his own machine.

THE FRENCH TREATY.
Canada: One of the alleged obstacles to the treaty is the fact that it makes a list of articles which at the present we are not exporting to France; but, as was aptly observed, it is to develop our commerce in the future that the treaty has been decreed. The Chamber approved the treaty despite Conservative opposition by more than a hundred majority. It looks forward to its carriage in the Senate, and hope that our country will be in a position to benefit by the special advantages of this convention.

WITNESS OF STONE AGE.
Melbourne Chronicle: Considering Australia is the only part of the world where a race of the genuine Stone Age can be studied, it is impossible to help agreeing with Sir Baldwin Spencer, the first living authority on the aborigines, that it is a thoughtful pity the investigation was not made earlier. A great deal more has been learned of their customs and, as he told the members of the Australasian Association for the Advancement of Science at its recent meeting at Wellington, had Governments and savants, the general public interested themselves in the matter before the Stone Age was so far as they have done on the road to extinction.

A WINNING AMBASSADOR.
Boston Eagle: For some fortunate reason their personality is half the man when they champion a cause, but Robert Cecil is one of these. They believe that a man is more sincere and not self-seeking in proportion to him gladly, and that is the impression which Lord Cecil has made upon his audiences. He has done much to make the cause of Nations understood and unobscured in its chief need in this country. For the fruit of the seed he sows we must wait, but the trend of events since his visit began gives us cause to wait with confidence.

WOMEN IN PUBLIC LIFE.
The Australasian: The instinctive desire of both sexes is that the public life of the marketplace, of the social chamber, or of the forum is for women. To put it quite plainly their place is either the domestic of the home or the social circle of the community. The only two exceptions to this one instinctive feeling are education and nursing. In everything else women are treated as accessories, and are not allowed to take a place of leadership or command. Women themselves do not trust to assume a position of great public responsibility. We must admit that we had wonder whether there is any reason of the difficulty.

NOT TOO BUSY FOR AMUSEMENT.
New York World: Max Reinhardt, following Chappin's farewell performance at the Metropolitan, seemed to the world's musical critic "astonished to see so many people free to go to the opera on a Thursday evening." If he had seen the crowd that gathered at the opening of the Yankee stadium the day before he might have been yet more astonished. Here was a theatrical equivalent of twenty city opera-houses audiences of New Yorkers who found themselves free to take an afternoon off to watch the Berlin theatrical producer indeed has only begun his survey of the proportions of New York's amusement-leisure class. He may be matinee theatrical and his performances thronged, but his public ceremonies and parades are for thousands of people occupied for hours. The tired business man is never too busy to put in an afternoon on the links.

Newfoundlanders in Boston.

ORGANIZE A KILBRIDE PARISH FUND.

It is gratifying to learn that our people who have made their homes in Boston always take a deep interest in affairs at home, and are ever ready to render assistance when the opportunity offers. In this connection it is pleasing to learn that an energetic committee has been recently formed in Boston to raise a fund to help defray the expense on the new Parish Church at Kilbride. The idea originated with Mr. Patrick Treacy, who visited here last summer after an absence of 28 years. The committee is made up of former residents of Kilbride and their many good friends from Newfoundland who are now residing in the different cities in the suburbs of Boston. Mr. Treacy when "home" last summer, noticing the vast improvement throughout the country, especially amongst the farmers with their up-to-date machinery performing the manual labor. When years ago it took the greater part of the busy season in doing the work that can now be done in a few days, told of the advances made, to his friends; who were all anxious to know about their dear homeland, their friends and relations. To him it was but a pleasure to tell in detail of all he saw during his two months' stay. It was during these reminiscences that the happy thought came of asking those friends far from home to help out the splendid work now going on at Kilbride. With the assistance of Messrs. Jas. Murphy, Stephen Puddister, John Dermody and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Duggan the Kilbride Parish Fund was set in motion. With Mr. Treacy's knowledge of affairs in the homeland to him it was a delightful pleasure of speaking before the different Newfoundland Societies in Boston on the matter. After Mr. Treacy's address before the Newfoundland Charitable Society, of which he is a charter member, the Parish Committee was enlarged and President Jas. Wilcox was elected as Chairman. Recently the first of a series of what parties arranged by the Committee was held at the home of Mrs. Jas. Murphy, 25 Everett Street, Melrose. About 80 people took part and the affair was voted a great success. Splendid prizes were given the winners, who in order of merit were as follows: Miss Catherine Devereaux, Sylvester Keough, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. E. V. Cole, Michael O'Brien, John Kenney, Mrs. Bella Kelly, Richard Maher, Miss B. Pinn, Mrs. Mary Wynn and Miss Annie Chafe. A beautifully ornamented cake donated by Mr. Patrick Treacy for Chances was won by Miss Catherine Devereaux. Coffee, cakes and sandwiches were served through the generosity of Mr. James Murphy, assisted by Miss Annie Brennan, Mrs. Katie Puddister, Mrs. Michael Williams and Mrs. Margaret Riley. Real home dances with music furnished by Peter Denamore and John Dermody made up a very enjoyable evening. Amongst the guests of the evening were Messrs. Michael Aylward and John Crawford, who reside in Buffalo, New York.

Concert and Lecture.

ENJOYABLE SMOKER AT MAJESTIC.

Owing to the very short notice given the smoking concert held at the Majestic theatre on Saturday it was not as largely attended as it might otherwise have been. Those present were given a treat and the appreciation of the different items was marked by frequent applause. The programme consisted of songs by Messrs. R. Sullivan, Jack Hickey, C. J. Fox and A. Lawrence; recitations by T. H. O'Neil, a horn solo by Mr. Arthur Bulley and dances by Mr. Day. A feature of the evening was an address by Lt. Col. (Rev.) Nangle, C.F., on Mussolini and the Fascist movement in Italy. Padre Nangle gave a very vivid description of the Italian leader which proved most interesting.

The Lighter Side.

Any man who itches for fame will have to do a lot of scratching before he gets there.

We heard a story the other day about a St. John's school teacher who sent home a little boy with a note to his mother suggesting that he be given a bath. The mother replied "Tommy ain't no rose. Learn him, not smell him."

Educators Will Discuss Building of Character.

WASHINGTON.—The recent action of the American Bar Association in promoting an active campaign for a law to compel the teaching of citizenship in the public schools of the land has received widespread comment. There might even seem to be an implication that educators have not been looking after this very important phase of school work, but such is not the case, declares the Character Education Association of this city.

Research on the problems of education for citizenship has been carried on by educators for several years, and at the forthcoming World Conference on Education, to be held in San Francisco next June, when delegates from all parts of the world will meet, this subject will be discussed, it was said.

"There is, however," declares the association's statement, "a larger movement going forward than merely the teaching of citizenship. This is 'character education,' which has as its fundamental purpose the cultivation of the disposition and purpose to act right as citizens, and not merely or chiefly a knowledge of the constitution and the principles of government. Statistics show that half of the notorious criminals and citizenship perverts of the nation are well informed regarding the United States constitution and the laws of the nation. These people take advantage of their legal knowledge to contrive ways and means of breaking the laws of the land without subjecting themselves to the danger of suffering the penalties of their crimes.

"The educators of America realize that character forming should be one of the principal aims of our schools. Inculcate in the child the will to do right and act right, and he will grow up to be a worthy citizen. Ignoring the moral side and there is always the possibility that the more knowledge a person receives, whether it be in citizenship or anything else, the greater criminal will he turn out to be eventually if the will to wrong doing is present. Many a defaulting bank president would be only a 'second-story worker' but for an education that has neglected the moral element."

The Character Education Association was organized to give impetus to the movement for character training. It is under the control of a board of trustees, all federal educators, and the state commissioners and superintendents of education, is non-commercial, and works under endowment. It recently completed a competition for a code of morals for children, and awarded the prize to William J. Hutchins, president of Berea College. This code is now used extensively in various school systems through the country.

Happy and Healthy at 97

TORONTO, May 10.—Happy and Healthy, and keeping closely in touch with the events of the day, Mrs. Annie Schoff, of this city, recently celebrated her 97th birthday. Mrs. Schoff has had a most varied career. Born in Windsor, N.S., in 1826, she has done almost everything from teaching school in the Maritimes to assist missionary preachers convert the Indians on the Western Plains, has bought and sold real estate, assisted in the management of her husband's shipbuilding business, and is at present indirectly interested in the breeding of Pekinese puppies. Mrs. Schoff would like the Canadian National Exhibition, to hold an "Old people's Day," among other "Days," on which people over 95 years of age would be admitted. Regular and plain living are the secrets of longevity, thinks Mrs. Schoff. "Regularity, plain food and cheerfulness are the greatest assets to produce long life," said she. The philopoeic old lady was modest in speaking of herself. "I have the use of all my faculties. Sometimes I can see to read without glasses, and I can hear well. I have no aches or pains but I have had the flu for the past three years. I do more reading than ever now, and my hobby is clippings. When I see something I like in a magazine or paper I cut it out. If I had saved all the clippings I have made they would almost fill this room."

Animals in Storms.

I have heard a story of a young artist who, after painting a picture of a horse facing a storm, was not satisfied with it, and feeling that something was wrong, asked the painter to look at it. Instantly the great artist said to him, "Turn the horse around."

The cow turns her head to the storm, the horse turns his tail. Why this difference? Because each adopts the plan best suited to its needs and its anatomy. How much better suited is the broad, square head of a cow, with its heavy coating of hair, and its ridge of bone that supports its horns, to face the storm than is the smooth, more nervous and sensitive head of the horse! What a contrast between their noses and their mode of grazing! The cow has no upper front teeth; she reaps the grass with the scythe of her tongue, while the horse bites it off and loves to bite the turf with it. The lip of the horse is mobile and sensitive. Then the bovine animals fight with their heads and the equine with their heels. The horse is a hard and high kicker. The cow is a feeble one in comparison. The horse will kick with both hind feet, the cow with only one. In fact, there is not much "kick" in her kind. The tail of the cow is less protection to her than that of the horse to him. Her great need of it is to fight flies, and, if attacked in the rear, it furnishes a good held or enemies. Then her bony stern, with its ridges and depressions and thin flanks, is less fit in any encounter with storm or with beast than is her head. On the other hand the round, smooth, solid buttocks of the horse, with their huge masses of muscles, his smooth flanks, and his tall—an apron of strong, straight, strong black hair—are well designed to resist storm and cold. What animal is it in Job whose neck is clothed with thunder? With the horse, it is the hips that are so clothed. His tremendous drive is in his hips. John Burroughs, in Harper's Magazine.

Millions of Horse-Power.

An artificial lake, 15 miles long by 3 miles wide, is being constructed in Sardinia to harness the water-power of the swift-flowing River Tirso. It is proposed to develop millions of horse power, and the project is said to be one of the largest ever attempted in Europe. Besides the development of power, the lake will serve a double purpose in irrigating a vast area which, up to the present, has been nothing but a barren waste.

The production of grain in the low plains through which the river runs is expected to be augmented threefold. Hitherto these plains have been nothing but marshy lands where cultivation has been undertaken only under the most difficult circumstances. With the Tirso harnessed, the distribution of water will be maintained and controlled to suit the needs of the lowlands, and the whole area transformed into a productive plain. The marshy character of the low basin has made it unhealthy. Control of the river will convert the stagnant districts into healthy fields and permit their cultivation with the assurance that malaria will no longer be present.

The immense hydraulic force that will be developed by the drop from the lake to the plain is expected to give a great impetus to Sardinian industry and the mines throughout the island will be capable of greater output through the acquisition of cheaper power. (Sardinia is the largest island in the Mediterranean Sea, after Sicily.)

Hints for Smokers.

When choosing a pipe, see that the weight is comfortable for your teeth. See that the bore is clear, and that the pipe draws easily.

Look out for cracks and plugs of putty in the bowl. The latter will drop out when the pipe has been smoked a little.

It is bad for the digestion to smoke directly after a meal. Wait for half an hour; you will enjoy the smoke better.

When out of doors, don't smoke in a wind. It has a harmful effect on the tongue, and the pipe does not draw well.

Smoking out of doors in cold, frosty weather tends to crack the lips.

Don't smoke a pipe when running for the train in the morning, it is very bad for the lungs.

Don't damp the end of a cigarette. It is better to smoke it quite dry. It gives a better smoke, and will not stick to the lips. It is difficult at first, but after a little practice, will become perfectly easy.

Don't trail a cigarette from the upper lip. It may harm the lip.

And, don't smoke continuously. It becomes a habit, and the pleasure is soon lost.

Dardanelles Dead.

THE ARMY'S FAREWELL.

Gallipoli Peninsula.

On the day of the British Army's departure from the Gallipoli Peninsula, the British Army will find gathered there the graves of the British, Australian and New Zealand dead who fell in the Gallipoli campaign. Many sights and sounds are familiar to them in that land where they died eight years ago, for there a British army is camped on the Gallipoli Peninsula, and a British fleet is in the Dardanelles.

For the first time since 1915—probably for the last—it will be the anniversary of the departure of the British Army from the Gallipoli Peninsula.

The British Army will be present in the Dardanelles, and the other members of the Imperial War Commission in the Near East will be present at the Gallipoli Peninsula.

es by 12, set in the top of a small concrete post rising four inches above the grass.

All the 23 cemeteries have the same simple, practical, and dignified general design, harmonising well with the character of the battlefields upon which they stand. Each is surrounded by a low embankment of big, un-mortared stones—masonry that reminds one of Roman work.

This is turfed on the inside, and beyond it, on the farther edge of a channel for carrying off rain water, are being planted trees and shrubs that will form a dark-green background for the plain white stone memorials, with a cross in low relief upon its front, that stands, altar-like, at one end of the graveyard.

This stone comes from a quarry on the shore of the Dardanelles, and is brought round in sailing boats to the cutting-sheds that the British contractors have set up on the beaches of the three main areas.

At Anzac they have had to put up an aerial ropeway, over two miles long, which carries the stone up the steep face of the cliffs and along to the various cemeteries upon the ridge which was the old front line.

In erecting the memorial stones in each cemetery special precautions have been taken against earthquake shocks; reinforcing iron rods run through them, and their foundations contain a buffer of uncemented stones for as lately as 1911 the Gallipoli Peninsula was shaken by an earthquake severe enough to throw down every minaret it contained.

No flowers, except the pretty little red, white, and blue anemones, that grow wild and will look after themselves, are being planted in the cemeteries, but the Graves Commission has started nursery gardens where seeds and cuttings are being raised for planting the shrubberies that will surround the graveyards. Pines and cypresses will chiefly be used, and 75 varieties of eucalyptus tree from Australia are being tested to find one that will resist the hard winters of the Dardanelles.

The Imperial War Graves Commission, organising all this work, has its headquarters at Kella Bay, opposite Chanak, on the Dardanelles. It came there three years ago, being first appointed by the Australian and New Zealand Governments for the care of Anzac graves, and afterwards it was asked by the Imperial Government to take responsibility for all British graves in the Near East.

This brings under the supervision of Kella an area measuring no less than 1,700 by 1,400 miles, in which are 75 cemeteries. These are scattered about the whole of the Near East, from Taganrog and Novorossiisk, in Southern Russia, to the islands of Lemnos and Syra, in the Aegean Sea. There are British cemeteries at Constantinople; at Batoum, Tiflis, and Baku, in the Caucasus, where two British divisions were stationed in 1919-1920; and all through Asia Minor, right down to the Persian frontier, exist little burial places of which official record has been kept, where the men who died as prisoners of war in Turkish hands.

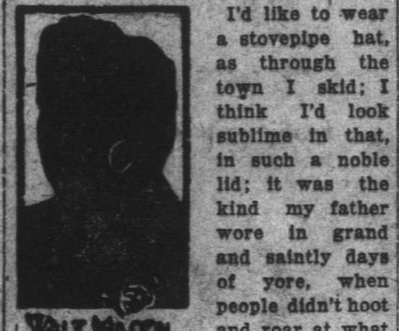

As soon as peace is made with Turkey parties with motor lorries will be sent to each of these to disinter the bodies and bring them all in to a large cemetery at Smyrna, which will be under the care of the British Consulate there.

The bodies of British Mohammedan soldiers will be left where they are, for the Turks take care of these graves, while those of the Hindus will be burnt, according to the ritual of their religion, and their ashes cast in to the sea; or, if their relatives in India prefer it, sent there to be scattered on the Ganges.

Great though the area to be covered is, a staff of sixteen suffices for it, and everything has been done to hew down the expense, which is borne in proportion by the Imperial and the Dominion Governments. Thanks to the low cost of local labour, it is expected that the British cemeteries in the Near East will not cost more than £7 a grave, as against £10 in France. The whole work will be completed, it is hoped, in the present year.

THE TALL HAT.

I'd like to wear a stovepipe hat, as through the town I said; I think I'd look sublime in that, in such a noble lid; it was the kind my father wore in grand and saintly days of yore, when people didn't hoot and roar at what a neighbor did. I have a stovepipe hat at home, a hat that has the class, and oft I place it on my dome, and pose before the glass; and then I have a princely mien; a smoother, toff is seldom seen; dare I but pace the village green, I ought to cut much grass. One day I shook my capful fears, and said, "I'll wear this till, though all the air be filled with jeers, and all the losers smile"; and so I placed it on my crown and started bravely through the town, and tried to face the rabble down, and squelch the jester's gibe. "Oh, cullies, pipe the stovepipe hat," a grinning hoodlum said; and someone hit it with a cat, and knocked it from my head; when to my brow it was restored some joker squashed it with a board, and all the yawping rill-raff roared, till I was seeing red. And thus, before I'd gone a block, my hat was crushed and torn, and even peepers passed to mock the headgear I had worn; and stately dowerers were quick to hit the blamed thing with a brick, and merchant princes ran to kick the lid for which I mourn. I have a noble stovepipe hat that cost me many a bone, but only wear it in my flat when I am there alone; I dare not show it in the street, for all the delegates I'd meet would try to dent it with their feet, or bust it with a stone.
