BULGARIANS NEAR CAPITAL

Three Armies in Vicinity While Another Force Captures Adrianople Outposts

Fall of Defences in Front of Constantinople Believed Matter of Hours—Attacking Force at Adrianople Suffers Severely—News of Another Massacre

(Canadian Press)

Vienna, Austria, Nov. 9.—The Bulgarians are now attacking with all their strength, the remaining Turkish positions about Tchatalja and the fall of these vital Turkish defences in front of Constantinople is only a matter of hours, according to today's despatches from the Balkans, the correspondent.

The Bulgarian third army has penetrated far into the forest regions south of Derkios Lake, preparatory to the advance on Constantinople, while the first army is engaged against the main Turkish position east of Tchatalja. This position is not yet completely pierced, but the end of the Turkish resistance appears to be in sight.

The raw Turkish troops, large numbers of whom were rushed out from Constantinople to meet the enemy's advance, are fighting bravely but the exhausted veterans of the earlier battles are offering little serious resistance.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 9.—The Bulgarian army besieging Adrianople today captured Kartaliope and Papatzepe, two of the outer lines of forts defending the city. They were taken after a desperate artillery duel between the besiegers and defenders. The Bulgarian troops suffered a number of casualties.

Malta, Nov. 9.—The British battleship Hibernia, Britannia, Commonwealth and Dominion, as well as the British cruiser Black Prince, left here today for the West Coast. They sailed within two hours of the receipt of orders from the British admiralty.

London, Nov. 9.—An uncorroborated despatch received by the Daily Chronicle from Constantinople says: "Friday—Saloniki has been occupied by the Greek troops. Their approach was attended by a fearful scene. Before the Greeks entered the town, the elements of disorder broke loose and a terrible massacre of the non-Muslim population took place. Shooting and looting were general. When the Greeks took possession they imprisoned all Turkish officials and Turkish officers. The Turks in captivity in Saloniki number 2,000."

London, Nov. 9.—A dismal picture of the Turkish situation at Tchatalja is sent from the Turkish position by a correspondent of the Daily Chronicle under date of Thursday. He says the line is held largely by raw recruits hastily mustered from the capital.

"They are making frantic efforts to put the defenses in order against the Bulgarian advance," continues the correspondent. "Attempts are being made to weld together the disintegrated atoms of what once was an army. The few officers available are working like slaves."

"Hordes of Stambul, with prophets and the sacred green flag are attempting to revive the spirits of the troops and restore Turkish military prestige by preaching a holy war. They are exhorting the religious chiefs to rise and exterminate the infidel invaders. The soldiers make answer: 'First give us bread.'"

The last train from Tchatalja was so choked with troops and fugitives that many persons suffocated in the cars. People got on so thickly that nothing of the train could be seen but the smoke stack of the engine. The train had to go slowly in order to avoid decapitating soldiers who were sleeping on the track.

Army Demoralized London, Nov. 9.—A despatch credited to the correspondent of the Vienna Echo spot describes the Turkish army as utterly demoralized. The correspondent says that whole detachments along along unarmored, tired and hungry and glad to be taken prisoners so that they may hope for a meal. The whole country at the scene of the fighting is strewn with abandoned guns, war material and military debris.

The correspondent adds that the negotiations for the surrender of Adrianople have met with no result, but that the Bulgarians have seized a dominating position on the northwest, the capitulation of the city is close at hand.

Advances by Serbia London, Nov. 9.—The correspondent of the Times at Latak writes that several columns operating in the Monastir and Ohrid districts have Durazzo as their objective point. This advance by Serbia indicates a determination to disregard Austria's warning and will accentuate the difficulties between the Dresden and the Triple Entente.

A Times' despatch from Sofia says the Roumanian government has set aside for large sums for the purchase of war material.

McMANGAL FOUND HIS BABY GIRL PLAYING WITH DYNAMITE

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 9.—Ortie E. McMangal, for whose confession as a dynamiter are attributed many of the circumstances which led to the imprisonment of the McNamara brothers in California, and to the indictment of forty-five union labor leaders now being tried here, was today brought across the continent from Los Angeles, first to appear before the federal jury last winter, and now to testify before the very men he accused of having put him in the dynamiting business. McMangal has occupied a unique place in criminal annals.

He was indicted in Los Angeles county for blowing up the Llewellyn Iron Works on Dec. 29, 1910, and now, as a prisoner of California, he is loaned to the federal authorities here. He confessed to the Llewellyn explosion, for complicity in which John J. McNamara, secretary of the Iron Workers' Union, was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment. He also confessed personally to causing twenty dynamite explosions, for complicity in which John J. McNamara, secretary of the Iron Workers' Union, was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment. He also confessed personally to causing twenty dynamite explosions, for complicity in which John J. McNamara, secretary of the Iron Workers' Union, was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment.

He asserted that he was selected to dynamite because of his familiarity with explosives gained while working in a stone quarry. He says that his first explosion was done in Detroit in 1907, after he had been visited by Herbert B. Hoekin. He says he received $200 and expenses for each job he pulled off. He has been carefully guarded since his arrest in Detroit, April 12, 1911, when, in company with James E. McNamara, dynamiter of the Los Angeles Times building, he was captured in a hotel while wedging his way through a crowd of abstruse people with a suit case filled with explosives. He is about forty years old, the son of James McMangal, of Tiffin, Ohio.

Throughout McMangal's confession, which in condensed form, covers more than 700 pages, are related incidents of intense interest. One of these relates to his arrival at his home in Chicago in the winter to find that a stick of dynamite which he carried in a suit case, had frozen. He put the dynamite on a radiator to thaw and went out to look over a "job." On returning home he found his baby girl on the floor playing with the dynamite. According to McMangal's conversation ended.

McMangal—"Do you know what that is, it's dangerous." Baby—"Yes, its dynamite, but it won't hurt because I've played with it lots. I'm building a house with it." McMangal kicked the baby and replaced the dynamite, going out that night to blow up a "job." The government dynamited the baby and replaced the dynamite, going out that night to blow up a "job." REPORT FROM ROYAL GEORGE TODAY NOT CHEERY; LEAKING WORSE

NEW BISHOP WILL BE CONSECRATED THIS MONTH

BOURASSA NOT TO BE A CANDIDATE

(Canadian Press)

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 9.—Venerable Archbishop Robine, bishop designate of the diocese of Athabasca, who will have charge of the missions of the Anglican church in a vast territory of north country, has been elected to the episcopate. The consecration will take place in the cathedral in Winnipeg on November 26.

The bishop-elect, accompanied by Mrs. Robine, a factor of the Hudson Bay Company, and Dr. C. O. Ode, member of the provincial parliament, visited the diocese on his way to the episcopate, traveling by lake steamers and overland by wagon. He is optimistic about the future of the diocese, which is being settled by hom-seekers from various parts of this country and Europe.

General Mahmud Mukhtar Pasha was sent by Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, to notify the grand vizier that the Turkish army would not accept either military or political terms, and would continue to fight until the complete annihilation of the Ottoman empire.

The leader of the committee of union and progress also informed the grand vizier that there would be a terrible retribution unless the Turkish army continued to fight until the last ditch. As a result of this and of the attitude of the army, it is understood that Kiamil Pasha decided to abandon the idea of making the powers to intervene.

The officers who were sent into retirement from the Turkish army in 1909 for political reasons, are now being reinstated, according to a special despatch from Constantinople to the Echo de Paris. They will do their utmost to lock into shape the fresh troops being drafted into Nazim Pasha's army, which is being re-organized behind the lines of Tchatalja.

Sofia, Nov. 9.—Premier Guechoff of Bulgaria says there is no truth in the report that the Bulgarian government has proposed to Bulgaria to begin peace negotiations without the mediation of the powers.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 9.—After a strike lasting more than six weeks and affecting 35,000 men employed by the Canadian Collieries of Vancouver Island, the end is in sight. Nearly one-third of the men have returned to work and others are returning daily in spite of the fact that the officials of the company have made no concessions.

No better evidence of the changed and changing conditions in St. John could be found than appears in the announcement of a scarcity of labor and a demand for more housing accommodation.

The Democrats appear to have gained control of the senate. If so they have a clear field and a popular mandate to reform the tariff and the administration of the country.

Canada still continues to reap the fruits of Liberal policy. The revenue of the country is enormous, but the Dominion government will find ways and means of preventing an undue accumulation in the treasury.

Inasmuch as the Turks in this war have not gained a single success they cannot hope to retrieve their fortunes. It now seems a question how much, if anything, will be left to the Sultan of the European dominions.

Another objection to the use of the school buildings as social centres is said to be based on sanitary grounds. What can it be? Children from all homes in the city now meet together in the school buildings, as well as in the churches, the moving picture houses and elsewhere.

All these fears are entirely groundless. The citizens who are promoting social centres are doing it because they desire to make conditions better, not worse; and they have merely adopted methods which experience elsewhere has proved to be very successful.

A GRAPHIC SUPPLEMENT. The London Graphic of October 26th has a very handsome Canadian supplement of thirty-six pages. Two pages are devoted to New Brunswick, and the matter and the illustrations are such as to make a most favorable impression upon the reader.

The Maritime Merchant, noting the increased interest in farm settlement in these provinces, says:—This means that the agricultural industry of the Maritime Provinces is coming into its own.

I could not sit still long enough to eat, and could sleep hardly any I was in so much misery with pains in my side and back."

Having thus introduced his readers to New Brunswick, this intelligent writer tells them that they will find the London representative of the province in Southampton street, Strand, O. C. as usual, much more space is given in this supplement to the western provinces than

Had Pains Around The Heart AND SMOTHERING FEELINGS. The terrible smothering and choking up sensations and sinking turns, that come to those whose heart and nerves are deranged or disordered call for prompt relief.

There is nothing that brings with it such a fear of death as to wake up in the night with that awful feeling of smothering.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the only remedy that give prompt relief and effect a complete cure in cases of such severity.

Mrs. Wm. Lee, Uthoff, Ont., writes:—"I have taken three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and am now well. I had such pains around my heart and such smothering feelings that I thought I would surely die. My head used to be propped up with pillows to keep me from smothering. One day I read in a paper about your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and three boxes cured me."

SAVING YOUTH AT STARTING OF LIFE OF CRIME

Active Work Is Being Done Quietly in Great Britain

NO REFORM IN PRISON

Doctrine is That Jail is Criminal Manufactory—Probation Method Being Carried Out and Reports Are Justifying This Course

(Times Special Correspondent.) London, Oct. 26—Practically unknown to the general public there are actively at work in Great Britain at the present time certain systematized methods which, it is hoped, will in the course of a few years reduce the number of habitual criminals to an almost negligible quantity.

The primary method which is so successful in saving the young man from prison, it has at last been seen that a prison is no moral hospital.

Even more courageously and even more successfully has been the result achieved by the Prevention of Crime Act, so far as it deals with what is called the juvenile delinquent.

This is the work then, which is drying up the sources of the habitual criminal class, and to this it is mainly due that year by year the number of prisoners is decreasing, and that already suggestions are being made for another use for some of the prison establishments.

REINFORCED CONCRETE. FOR FACTORY AND WAREHOUSE CONSTRUCTION

The last decade has witnessed some remarkable progress in all kinds of building construction, perhaps one of the most noticeable events being the introduction and rapid increasing use of concrete buildings. Like all other innovations its enthusiastic supporters have pushed its use without complete consideration at all times. This has probably been fortunate, for after having run the gamut of possibilities, from fences, both tubs, walls, streets to dwellings, theatres and churches it has surely come into its own in factory and warehouse construction. For this type of buildings it is becoming very generally used, and when the proper care is taken its use is unquestionably merited there cannot be any doubt as to the position it is going to occupy in the future.

There is an important consideration to take up when one is contemplating this form of construction, and that is the building permanently? For instance, if a company is making additions to an already completed plant it is not always best to construct permanent, which of course, you do when you build of concrete. There are cases on record where fires have destroyed plants and left standing the concrete buildings which, although occupying the best site, the time of construction, are poorly situated for such a layout as for the most economical and the new group. Concrete is above every other material in its ability to give a permanent construction and a great deal of careful consideration should be given the design of individual buildings and to work out a comprehensive scheme if it is to be a factor.

Concrete Floor Ideal for Many Uses—Here again we have a factor helping low cost and quick construction. A granolithic floor or topping placed monolithically with the floor itself gives one of the best working floors known. It is smooth without being slippery and if properly laid is dustless and easy to sweep and wash. Where trucking is necessary it is the ideal floor.

Alterations Not Too Expensive—The fact that concrete is so permanent and its construction does not interfere with its use as flexible as any other type of building material is one of its greatest advantages. The increasing strength of concrete with time gives it an advantage when it comes to increasing the number of floors. Most buildings are built with a flat roof having a pitch formed by cedar fill, and if stories are added this roof slab can be used for a floor without change except to strip roofing and sinders. Provisions can also be made for additional laterally.

Natural Exterior Finish the Best—Various devices and designs have been worked out to make concrete buildings look like stone or other building material. There is a change taking place however and we are getting back to the genuine and not trying to imitate. Concrete as it leaves the form, with a rubbing to remove stain, board marks, etc., has a beauty of its own and better results can be obtained by treating it as such, which is also the cheaper method. A concrete building thus finished looks what it is, solid, strong and built for business.

Flexibility to Design—It would be hard to find a material as good as concrete in this respect. By a single review of the various uses to which it has been extensively put and the many styles of buildings that have been built with it, one could not doubt this fact.

Attaching Machinery, Etc.—There exists a feeling against concrete on the part of those having charge of the setting of machinery, etc., but this difficulty is not as bad as one not familiar with the facts would suppose, for although it is some more expensive to cut a hole through concrete than bone it is through concrete that can be made during construction to take care of present as well as future needs in the respect. By the placing of inserts, ceiling and blind slots or holes in floors the trouble is mitigated to a very large extent. Machinery lugs and expansion bolts set in concrete is not much more expensive and far superior, as regards efficiency of machine, to one lagged to a wooden floor.

Efficiency of Heating, Plumbing and Wiring—The non-conductivity of concrete makes it very efficient as regards heating, or keeping at constant temperature, and the life of the plumbing and wiring is also much longer in a concrete building, the wires often being located in conduits placed in the concrete during construction.

No Decreasing Value of Building—It can truthfully be said that a concrete building becomes more valuable with time. Its floors get slowly worn down to an exposure of aggregate which is ideal for service and wear. Its factor of safety is always increasing, its appearance is better with a few years weathering and in every way an owner could move out leaving a good building as he moved in to.

With a building possessing these qualities, designs intelligently worked out and the building constructed by reliable and experienced builders there does not appear to be a construction that can compete with concrete for this type of building. But it is really essential for the best results, that the design be not only done by those acquainted with the material but also after every careful consideration of the present and future needs of the owner.

There are companies who are building exclusively in this concrete construction and who, having a large amount of experience, can obviously render the best advice, but to an owner, however, these are the Albert Law Construction Company, with head office at 8 Beaton street, Boston.

The company is the one that has recently completed the new plant for the T. S. Simms Co., Ltd., at Fairville, and who would be glad to send a representative to look over any proposition, furnish estimates of cost, or render any service that they may be able to in this connection.

GIVES UP POST AFTER MANY YEARS

Famous Librarian of British Museum Has Been 42 Years in Charge

(Times Special Correspondence) London, Oct. 23—Forty-six miles of books, which represent nearly 4,000,000 volumes and form the largest library in the world, will after the last of this month, be under entirely new management, as the trade phrase goes. This vast assemblage of books is housed at the British Museum, and Dr. G. K. Fortescue, who served for forty years in the museum library and, with the official title of keeper of printed books, has been its head since 1896, is going to retire. The doctor is sixty-four and says that hereafter he will devote himself to his favorite hobby, which consists of collecting European butterflies.

It is literally true that there are forty-six miles of books in the British Museum, whose closely packed shelves would stretch from London to Brighton. The exact number of volumes is not known, even to the venerable keeper himself; he estimates that there must be nearly 4,000,000 but cannot be sure to within a few hundred thousand. Nor is this surprising when you consider that the actual number of new "pieces" received at the museum is 120,000—a "piece" being anything from a tiny printed pamphlet to the history of the world in 10 volumes. Since Doctor Fortescue entered the library in 1870, more than 2,000,000 volumes have been added.

Other Great Libraries—Oddly enough, although the largest and admittedly the most valuable library in existence, that of the British Museum is also the "youngest" of the great libraries of the world. The other most famous ones, such as the Vatican Library, the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris and the royal library in Munich had whole centuries of growth before them. The Paris library, which is next in size to the Vatican, is the only one of its kind which was created by the imperial library of St. Petersburg, which contains 1,881,628 books. It is a collector of "Dantes" was a custodian of the British Museum library in its early days, when the institution had a collection of 20,000 volumes, some of them Italian, some Spanish, and some of them in manuscript. He found a collector of 20,000 volumes, some of them in manuscript, but all of them ill-cared for, ill-arranged and ill-kept. When he resigned after thirty years' service that had been a true labor of love, he left behind him a magnificent and ordered library of 1,500,000 books, second in importance only to the Bibliotheque Nationale.

Dr. Fortescue entered the library five years later and his record does not suffer from the fact that he was in charge of the library, the other day, the doctor said that it was "somewhat alarming" to him when he found that 200,000 books had been added to the library since he took charge. "Of course," said he, "the vast majority of these are what Lord Rosebery called 'dead books.' But who can say that a book is dead? How many authors whose books are mentioned here may yet prove more alive than those whose books are now enjoying transient 'life'?"

question: When does a book really die? Certainly not when and because it comes from the press unnoticed by reviewers and public. The history of literature provides many instances of authors who passed almost unnoted in their own time and whose dead books came to be looked upon by posterity as living treasures. The history of literature is full of such examples. In our own time and hour we regard while they lived of Spycor or Francis Thompson?

It was a tourist who started Dr. Fortescue off on the work on which he prides himself most, namely, the "Dantes," which fills five volumes and contains the subjects of all books printed between 1880 and the present time.

"One day," said he, "a man asked me, 'What is the best guide to the Canary Islands?' I replied, 'Thank you, but I am not a tourist.' He then asked me to write a book on the Canary Islands, and I immediately started to compile the subject index. That was in 1880, and the task was completed only quite recently."

Most of the visitors to the British Museum library are students who are not likely to perpetrate involuntary "howlers" in naming the titles of the books they want, such howlers, for instance, as those recorded in an entertaining book just published by Joseph Taylor, who evidently knows the book business from A to Z. He tells how one librarian was asked for Marshall Field's report on a very heavy holiday business.

Dung and breadstuffs' both speak of the country's expansion of trade and industry with brisk demand for all commodities.

The war news is disquieting this morning, and talk of extension of the Balkan war is prevalent. This will prevent a further decline in sterling exchange, and we will have to depend on our own resources for money. With this situation, there will be no reason for reaching after stocks at high figures. The selling of stocks yesterday was by people who had this in mind. On Monday we have the supreme court possible decisions to look forward to.

The crop report of yesterday was good enough to suit everybody. The market is not likely to start well today. The professions will sell as well as the foreigners and support will be necessary to prevent a sharp break. The short interest in the market will help sustain prices.

Thomas A. Edison announces his New Cylinder Phonograph Record

The Blue Amberol

The Blue Amberol is a musical and mechanical triumph. Its volume is greater, and its tone is decidedly finer than any other phonograph record you can buy. And it is practically unbreakable and unwearying. Careless handling will not injure it, and no amount of playing will cause it to reproduce less perfectly than when new. Ask your Edison dealer to play a Blue Amberol Record for you on an Edison Phonograph to-day, or write us for particulars.

VITAL STATISTICS

The registrar of births reports the births of nine girls and 7 boys during the week. Nine marriages were recorded.

ST. JOHN DOCTORS THERE.

Dr. E. J. Ryan will leave tonight for New York, where he will attend the Congress of Surgeons of America, of which he is a member. The following St. John surgeons will also be present at the congress: Doctors Emery, White, Crawford, Addy, Melstosh, Crockett, McLaren, T. D. Walker and Skinner.

ST. DAVID'S BOYS.

The boys of St. David's Presbyterian church met last evening to discuss the proposed organization of a chapter of the order of the Knights of King Arthur.

PRESENTATION.

Mrs. W. H. Moore, of Providence, R. I., who is spending a few weeks in the city, was given a surprise on Saturday evening of this week, when the members of the Ladies' Bible class of the Waterloo street church, of which she was a former president, together with some friends, called on her and presented to her a very handsome silver nut bowl, with gold lining. Refreshments were served and an enjoyable evening was spent.

LOCAL NEWS OF BOXERS

John T. Power returned home this morning from Halifax where he acted as referee in a recent bout between Foley and O'Neil, in which the latter won. Mr. Power said this morning that the bout was a good one, and that O'Neil certainly made a good showing. Foley had the best of the go in the early stages, but O'Neil made a strong finish, knocking his opponent out in the tenth. The bout was witnessed by a large audience, and according to the Halifax papers Mr. Power handled the bout in a very capable manner.

THE POLICE COURT

Henry Murphy and Otis Kelly were arraigned in the police court this morning on the charge of being habitual loafers, common vagrants and in possession of means of support. The former pleaded guilty to the charge and the latter not guilty. Kelly is a hard looking fellow, and the court officials had considerable difficulty in making him understand what the charge against him was. Policemen O'Neil and Blain, Sergeant Scott and Detective Killen, were in evidence. The men were remanded to jail.

EXHIBITIONS AND BUSINESS

REAL ESTATE

Eighteen Recent Transfers—Activity in Other Parts of Province

Eighteen transfers of freehold property have been recorded in St. John during the last three or four days. The transfers are as follows:—

A. G. Blair to Mrs. Fanny B. McLellan, property at Duck Cove; Mrs. Sarah McLellan, property at Duck Cove; Mrs. Sarah McLellan, property at Duck Cove; Mrs. Sarah McLellan, property at Duck Cove.

W. A. Cole to R. A. Sinclair, property in Wright street.

A. E. Henderson to G. D. Ellis, property corner of Orange and Wentworth streets.

Hours of Mont McDonald to A. A. Wilson, $180 property on Manawagonish Island.

James McHugh to H. B. Peck and H. C. Smith, property in Simonds.

Extras of John McLaren to Miss Sarah McLaren, property in Lancaster.

J. McLaren to Mrs. Sarah McLaren, property in Lancaster.

Mrs. Fanny B. McLellan to J. M. Macgregor, property at Duck Cove.

F. L. Potts to W. P. McDonald, property at Loch Lomond.

L. L. Latta to F. E. Williams, property at Loch Lomond.

Barbara and Wm. Reid to W. U. Homfray, property Courtenay street.

Wm. Reid to W. U. Homfray, property in Union and Courtenay streets.

Mrs. Miriam A. Robinson to T. E. Bishop, property in Union street.

John Ross to Herbert Guernsey, property in Brunswick street.

John Russell, Jr. to Mrs. F. L. Potts, property at Simonds.

Susan B. Vaughan to W. U. Homfray, property in Union street.

Agreements of sale have been recorded for two properties in Lancaster from B. R. Armstrong to the Consolidated Land, Ltd., for $37,500 and $34,500 respectively, and the assignment of Consolidated Land, Ltd., of the same properties to the Fredericton Trust Co., Ltd. There is also record of an agreement of sale between J. W. Myers and Mrs. M. Gillespie for a property in Waterloo street for $21,000.

In Kings county there is record of the transfer of a property at Westfield from Alex Long to Eliz. M. Sharp for $3,000; I. Price to New Brunswick and British Colonization Co., Ltd., property at Green, $3,000; and J. W. Smith to T. N. Vincent, property at Robesay, $3,000.

Throughout the province the number of transfers of farm and other properties has been steadily growing larger, indicating that St. John is not the only part of the province which is progressing. The railway construction which has just been completed or which is under way has opened up large tracts of land for settlement and added greatly to the value of land which has already been settled and cultivated.

From the activity in agricultural properties it is apparent that the population of the province in general will show a marked increase during the next year or two.

NEW CHIEF WILL TAKE POSITION IN CAPITAL MONDAY

Fredericton Newspapers' Comment on the Situation in Police Circles

Policeman John H. McCollom, who has received the appointment of chief of police in Fredericton, will sever connection with the local force tomorrow and will leave for Fredericton on Monday to take up his new duties. He has been a very popular officer since joining the local force, and is receiving the congratulations of a large number of friends on his new appointment.

Referring to the police scandal in Fredericton the Gleason says:—"There is a well-grounded belief that the policemen were in alliance with the liquor and certain other interests. The police affairs of this city cannot be under the control of liquor or other allied interests, nor will public sentiment in this town permit of the two working jointly. Our laws must be respected, and it is the duty of the police commission to see that their officers are men who respect the oath of office and are ever ready to do their duty. There are those who say also that the members of the police commission must have had some knowledge of what was going on. We would not like to think that this latter statement is accurate, and can understand that even under such conditions as have existed the members of the commission, trusting almost wholly to the reports of the police officers, did not themselves fully realize the gravity of the situation. But in any event it will be admitted that the responsibility must rest at least to some extent with the members of the commission, who should have known the conditions."

The Mail says:—"The attempt being made in certain quarters to make escape of the members of the police force is a little too transparent to go down with the public. If the police are found guilty of wrongdoing they will be punished, but there is no reason why the 'higher ups' should get off in a coach. If the sidewalk responsible for the demoralization of the police force want to do something to please the public, we would suggest that they tender their resignations. The chairman of the police commission has been so busy during the past year dispensing patronage for the dominion and local governments that he apparently forgot all about the police force."

THE HEAVY RIVER TRAFFIC

Not only were most of the river steamers delayed several hours in their arrival from the upper counties yesterday, but in leaving today some were also behind the appointed time, due to their lateness in reaching Indiantown yesterday and the steamer May Queen due to leave yesterday morning did not reach the city until last evening and her upriver trip was made until today when she left about 12:30 for Grand Lake.

The Oceanic made her last trip today. She will return to the city tomorrow and on Monday will be placed at Glenford for repairs, expected a few days ago.

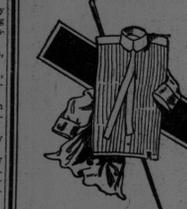

The steamer D. J. Purdy and Champlai got away about on time this morning, each with a heavy cargo. Some delays have left over shipments on hand because of not being on hand early to have them put on board.

Some of the most enterprising and up-to-date merchants of the North End are using this page today to make their announcements to their friends and patrons. This is not all of them, for the North End is full of business men of that type, but the make-up of this page is of interest as a fair indication of the spirit of progress and business ability which is found in that section of the city. Although closely united to the rest of the city by social and commercial as well as by political ties, the North End is going ahead. While termed the North End, this section is becoming one of the most central parts of the city. In addition to the area adjoining Main street, which are closely packed with residences, the North End merchants draw their trade from parts of the southern and eastern ends of the city as well. This does not begin to tell the whole story, however. Main street forms the thoroughfare for all the business in the western end of this section of the province and along the banks of the St. John and Kennebec rivers. The stores of Carleton Place, Millard and other neighboring communities. With the construction of the new bridge across the falls and a direct street car line the North End will further enlarge its sphere of influence and the growth of the city in this direction will add to its prosperity.

In addition to the advantages of its geographical position this portion of the city has advanced because it has been fortunate in the energy, optimism and progressiveness of its citizens, no better evidence of which could be found than on this page of today's paper.
The work of constructing the new sewer from Douglas street to Clarendon in North End is being pushed along with speed, but it will be some little time yet before it is completed. Those having the work in charge have had no easy task because of the obstructions they have met with in the large quantities of rock through which it was necessary to bore. This was true more particularly of the lower end of Clarendon street approaching Harvey where, in order to round the sewer in towards Main street, it was necessary to bore for a considerable distance.
When the new sewer is finished it is expected that its value will be shown in improving land values in the locality in question. Already even, through the fact being known that sewerage was about to be installed, several new dwellings are being erected on both sides of what is really a new street, and there is a probability that others will be started in the spring.
The death of Mrs. Margaret, wife of John J. Murphy, occurred this morning at her home, 234 Douglas avenue, after a lingering illness. She left a large number of friends who will grieve to learn of her death. Besides her husband, she is survived by three daughters—Miss Helen, Theresa, and Marion; two sisters—Mrs. Frank Spittel, and Mrs. Robert McCarthy of this city, and two brothers—John Murphy, of the L. C. R., and Thomas, of Boston.
The body of P. A. De Veber, who died yesterday in the General Public Hospital, was taken to Gagetown for burial this morning on the steamer Elaine. Interment will take place there in the family lot. He was 49 years of age and a son of the late James W. De Veber of Gagetown.
Taking advantage of every day that offers, and anticipating an early closing of navigation on the river, those engaged in the work of attending to the carrying of freights on the river steamers both to and from the city, are rushing matters to the limit, and Indiantown wharves and warehouses present an aspect of activity, bustle and animation. Each down-coming steamer bears its load of country produce, and every day sees hundreds of barrels, bags and boxes brought here from the river districts containing potatoes, for the most part, but a fine assortment of vegetables of all kinds, apples and other fruits.
And while it is true that for a time it has been necessary for some of the boats to pass by large shipments of farm produce which stood on the wharves awaiting.

The Head of the House and the Agents

BY WALT MASON

"I D like to see the head of the house for a moment, if he is at home," said the oily-tongued stranger at the door.

"I am the head of the house at this writing," said Mrs. Curfew, grimly. "The nominal head of the house is in no condition to converse with agents, being confined to his room last spring; that my husband was ment he bought from an agent day before yesterday. It does seem as though he ven's wing and she was, indeed, a handsome man. On the evening in question he was almost weeping, thinking and perience. Every trouble Mr. Curfew ever had was the direct result of dealing with agents.

Every time he gets cheated he says 'Never again' in a loud tone, and says that his highest ambition is to rend an agent limb from limb, but in a few days he has forgotten all about his trials and tribulations, and is ready to be flimflamed again, which keeps our noses to the grindstone, to say nothing of the mental cure."

"It is in this way that the agents have got most of Mr. Curfew's earnings in the past. He is well stricken in years and at times has various maladies peculiar to his age; and no matter what disease he happens to be entertaining an agent is sure to come along with a specific for that particular disease, said specific being compounded of barks and buds and healing herbs. The agents surely must be mind readers, if they don't get information from the ravens that fed Elijah."

"How was any agent to know one even- ing over the fact that his hair and whiskers were snow white? When he was young they were as black as the raven's wing and she was, indeed, a handsome man. On the evening in question he was almost weeping, thinking and perience. Every trouble Mr. Curfew ever had was the direct result of dealing with agents.

Every time he gets cheated he says 'Never again' in a loud tone, and says that his highest ambition is to rend an agent limb from limb, but in a few days he has forgotten all about his trials and tribulations, and is ready to be flimflamed again, which keeps our noses to the grindstone, to say nothing of the mental cure."

He looked more like a sunrise than the head of a civilized household.

His Elder Brother:—"Oh, he's crying 'cos I'm eatin' my cake and won't give 'im any!"
The Old Lady:—"Is his own cake finished, then?"
His Elder Brother:—"Yes, and 'a cried while I was eatin' that too."—From the Sketch.

THE WAY THEY FEEL ABOUT IT

Waiting up until after midnight for the servant who promised to be in at ten o'clock.—Puck.

BRITISH PREMIER TO THE UNIONISTS

Speech by Honorable Mr. Asquith in Scotland

HE TALKS PLAINLY

Home Rule His Topic And Blunders in the Political Game That His Opponents Have Made—The Ulster Question

(Times Special Correspondence.)
 Dublin, Oct. 23.—Mr. Asquith, the British prime minister, in a speech in Scotland, has given his views on the Ulster protest against home rule. Mr. Asquith declared that the Unionist party had been guilty of an almost unbroken succession of "political blunders" during the last ten years. He said:
 "We have, since we acceded to power, stood the ordeal of no fewer than three general elections. That, I believe, constitutes a 'record' and I am bound to say that I think it would be ungenerous and even unfair, if we did not acknowledge the debt of obligation under which we lie to our political opponents. Since Lord Salisbury retired the history of the Tory party presents an almost unbroken succession of political blunders. The catalogue is a long one; but it will suffice to select from it one or two of its more salient items.
 First, there was Chamberlain's fiscal campaign in 1903—a campaign in favor of a return to the old and discredited system of protection. Its immediate result was, in 1906, the most signal and disastrous electoral defeat that has befallen any political party in this country for more than seventy years.
 Take another case still more remarkable—I mean the rejection by the House of Lords, at the instance of the Tory leaders, of the budget of 1909, perhaps the most colossal error in tactics committed in our time. What followed? Within two years—only two years separated 1909 from 1911—not only was the old constitutional doctrine that the House of Lords must not meddle with finance made a matter of statutory enactment, but the power of that house over general legislation, which has for two generations thwarted and mutilated Liberal policy, was reduced from absolute to a merely suspensive veto. In 1909 and 1904 I repeatedly pointed out to Balfour and to Chamberlain that they were heading straight for the disaster into which they plunged in 1906.
 Now that I see them again on the verge of a capital mistake I will warn them once more. I need not say that I am referring to what is called the Ulster campaign. That which is called the problem of Ulster, wrongly so called, because Ulster is even divided on the subject, but which is popularly called and which for the purpose of the argument I will call the problem of Ulster in relation to the general question of Irish home rule is serious, and indeed formidable. Neither I nor any of my colleagues have ever underrated its importance, nor have we ever spoken with anything but respect of the motives which inspired the opposition to home rule of the rank and file.
 We think their apprehensions are ill-founded, in fact we believe the safeguards provided by our bill will be found in practice adequate, and even ample, but we are now, as we always have been, as I said in the House of Commons, as I said when addressing a great meeting of Nationalists in the capital of Ireland, Dublin—we are now, as we always have been, ready to consider, and consider in the most sympathetic spirit, any proposed extension of those safeguards which are the bill—namely, the granting of Ireland of home rule in regard to purely Irish affairs.
 If ever there was a case which required and which would have repaid, serious and statesmanlike presentation and handling, it was this case of Ulster. How, in point of fact, has it been, and is it being, treated by the responsible leaders of the opposition? I do not dwell on the organized demonstrations that have been going on during the last few weeks in the north of Ireland. As an index of local opinion and feeling they have revealed nothing which was not perfectly well known before. If I engaged with the case they were intended to impress Great Britain; I speak modestly when I say that their promoters would have been advised to omit a number of items on the programme which have offended both the good taste and the good sense of Englishmen and Scotsmen.
 I want to make clear what is the central position now taken up, asserted to, and adopted in letter or in speech by all the responsible leaders of the Tory party. Let there be no mistake about it. It is not now, whatever it might have been, it is not now a question of a demand for the separate treatment of Ulster or any part of Ulster. That has been expressly repudiated. It is not now, if it ever has been, a question of increasing or strengthening the safeguards provided by our bill against even the remotest possibility of religious or political oppression. It is not even a question whether the people of Great Britain, through their elected representatives, have approved of the granting of home rule, which is desired and demanded by nearly four-fifths of the population of Ireland. All these things have gone by the board, and the claim now made is that the Ulster minority has a right to say that under no conditions will they consent to Irish home rule, and that is a right so sacred and so indefeasible that, whatever be those conditions, they are entitled to resist, and, if need be, to resist by force, the granting by the imperial parliament of self-government to Ireland as a whole.
 I need not tell the people of this country that the government and the parliament of the United Kingdom are not going to bow to such a threat. But what are we to say to this utterance and its deliberate endorsement by the responsible leader of what used to be called the constitutional party? In plain language, the claim put forward is a negation of the first of the root principles of democratic government. In a democratic country such as ours no law can pass on to the statute book without the consent of a majority of the elected representatives of the whole people. Democracy is supplanted in this way with what never existed before, a safeguard and a sanction for the sovereignty of a few. For if it is held, as it is, that experience to be injurious in its working or oppressive in its operations, if it will be passed by representatives who misuse the mandate they had received from people, it can always by the same majority which passed it be altered, amended, or repealed.
 The Parliament Act of last year we have provided that the veto of the second chamber can only be over-ridden if a law passed in three successive sessions, and by shortening the duration of parliament means which never existed before of frequent appeals to the electorate and of more effective opportunities for revision and, if necessary, of repeal. To say that in a country so governed a small minority is to have what used to be called in the old days of the Polish constitution (the worst constitution ever invented by the pro-royalist ingenuity of man) the "liberum veto," to be enforced in the last resort by civil war—that is the latest extravagance of what was once the Conservative party.
 I want to say to you, because I am still sounding a warning note, do not let them imagine that they can confine their new doctrine to the case which happens to be politically convenient to them at the moment. The recklessrodominate at Blenheim is the early summer as developed and amplified in this Ulster campaign. The possession of a conscience and a respectability is not the monopoly of the Protestants of the north-east of Ireland. This new doctrine, counter-signed as it is now by all the leading men of the Tory party, will be invoked, and rightly invoked, and rightly cited, and rightly cited, and it is, whenever the spirit of lawlessness, fed and fostered by a sense, whether of real or of imaginary injustice, takes body and shape, and claims to stop the well-ordered machinery of a self-governing society.
 And you will not let them forget this. If they were to succeed in preventing the passing of the home rule bill into law, what possible answer have they to make to the four-fifths of the Irish people whose long cherished aspirations would have been frustrated and defeated, despite the fact that they represent the overwhelming opinion of the majority of our fellow countrymen and a large majority of the representatives of Great Britain—what possible answer can they make to those men if they were to say, "We will take the law into our own hands, and it is no longer open to you to say, 'You must respect what parliament has done'?" A more deadly blow—say it with the utmost deliberation and with the fullest conviction—more deadly blow has never been dealt in our time by any body of responsible politicians at the very foundations on which democratic government rests.

SHUT OUT RECORDS OF PITCHERS

Joe Wood, of the Boston Red Sox, who was the American League's greatest pitcher of the season, was shut out by Walter Johnson, of the Nationals, in a game at Philadelphia. Wood was the lone American League pitcher to reach double figures in whiteshots. Walter Johnson, the Nationals' ace, was the runner-up to Wood in using the brush. Ed Walsh, of Chicago, reached third, and other Eddie—the left-handed Plank, of Philadelphia—being number 4.
 Boston was the hardest team to whitewash, and Chicago the easiest. All told there were 79 games in which one team was shut out and one contest in which both drew ciphers.
 Below will be found the pitchers' records in shut-outs for 1912:

- Ten Shut-Outs: Wood, Boston—New York, 3; Chicago, 2; St. Louis, 2; Washington, 2; Detroit, 1; Philadelphia, 1.
- Seven Shut-Outs: Johnson, Washington—New York, 2; Boston, 1; Chicago, 1; Cleveland, 1; Detroit, 1; Philadelphia, 1.
- Six Shut-Outs: Walsh, Chicago—Detroit, 2; Boston, 1; New York, 1; Philadelphia, 1; St. Louis, 1.
- Five Shut-Outs: Plank, Philadelphia—Cleveland, 2; Chicago, 1; New York, 1; Washington, 1.
- Four Shut-Outs: Collins, Boston—Chicago, 2; Cleveland, 1; Detroit, 1; Philadelphia, 1; St. Louis, 1; Washington, 1.
- Three Shut-Outs: Benz, Chicago—Cleveland, 1; Philadelphia, 1; St. Louis, 1; Philadelphia, 1; Cleveland—New York, 2; Detroit, 1.
- Brown, Philadelphia—Chicago, 1; Cleveland, 1; New York, 1.
- Two Shut-Outs: O'Brien, Boston—Detroit, 1; Philadelphia, 1; Hall, Boston—Cleveland, 1; St. Louis, 1; Lange, Chicago—Philadelphia, 1; Washington, 1; Dubuc, Detroit—Chicago, 1; New York, 1; Mullin, Detroit—St. Louis, 1; Washington, 1; Wellman, St. Louis—Chicago, 2; Groom, Washington—New York, 1; St. Louis, 1.
- One Shut-Out: White, Chicago—Detroit; Cicotte, Chicago—Washington; Scott, Chicago—St. Louis; Blanding, Cleveland—Chicago; Sten, Cleveland—St. Louis; Huskette, Cleveland—Boston; Gregg, Cleveland—Boston; Lovington, Detroit—Cleveland; Works, Detroit—St. Louis; Willett, Detroit—St. Louis; Covaleski, Philadelphia—Detroit; Coombs, Philadelphia—Chicago; Bender, Philadelphia—Chicago; E. Brown, St. Louis—Chicago; C. Brown, St. Louis—Detroit; Allison, St. Louis—New York; Hughes, Washington—St. Louis; Cashin, Washington—Cleveland.

Throat Was So Sore Could Hardly Speak

Mr. Gordon Murphy, Elliott's Mills, P.E.I., writes:—"Too much praise cannot be given your valuable remedy, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I suffered terribly from a severe cold during the early part of last winter and found it almost impossible to get anything to relieve me. Hoarseness seemed to be continually troubling me, and my throat was so sore I could hardly speak for quite a long time. At last I was advised to try your remedy, and in a short time I got relief, and have never been troubled with a sore throat or hoarseness since. I hope others will be fortunate enough to give your remedy a trial and be convinced that it is all I say it to be."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is without an equal for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Bronchitis and all Affections of the Throat and Lungs. Price, 25 and 50 cents a bottle, put up in a yellow wrapper, three lines across the trade mark. Be sure and get "Dr. Wood's." Manufactured only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ALLIED TROOPS THAT QUICKLY WHIPPED TURKEY

MONTENEGRIN ARTILLERY

in anticipation of trouble with Turkey the Balkan states have for years been preparing for the conflict. Each little nation has brought its fighting force up to a high state of efficiency. The soldiers were not only well drilled, but they were equipped with the most modern and effective weapons. The result was shown when the fighting began. The tremendous losses of the Turkish forces showed how deadly modern warfare is and what awful devastation can be done by the little Maxims and other constant stream of bullets, making a small company as effective as a regiment armed with rifles. Hiram Maxim declared that his gun was a powerful argument for peace, as it would make a battle so costly that humanity and civilization would demand some other method of settling differences.

Vienna, Nov. 8.—The Balkanpost correspondent says that the Turkish troops have been repulsed from the principal points of the Thessalonian line, the fall of which is expected immediately. The Turkish advance posts on the right wing opposite the fort of Deliyunna have been captured already by the Bulgarian troops belonging to the third column and these form excellent bases for pushing some attacks on the others.

Athens, Nov. 8.—The Greek army, commanded by Crown Prince Constantine, is pushing forward from the principal points of the Thessalonian line, the fall of which is expected immediately. The Turkish advance posts on the right wing opposite the fort of Deliyunna have been captured already by the Bulgarian troops belonging to the third column and these form excellent bases for pushing some attacks on the others.

According to information received from prisoners, he adds the typhus has broken out in Adrianople and is causing great devastation among the defending forces. There are already several thousand cases of sickness and horrible tales are heard of the trouble arising from the lack of doctors in the beleaguered city.

In spite of numerous losses there are still from 40,000 to 50,000 men engaged in the defence of the city, and although there are several Turkish leaders in the city there is not a single doctor who has received a European education. Although the Turks are very strong and habituated to privation, however, and illness, the disease is doing more damage than is the enemy.

The commander of the Bulgarian investing force is fixing his attention on the complete encircling of the city and he does not contemplate making a forced conquest of the fortress.

Among other interesting information comes news of the Bulgarian invasion of the compensation Romania will demand as an offset to the proclamation of a Russian protectorate over Chinese territory from all parts of the world. It was an exhilarating function with the "Divine Sarah" in her best form. Save that she is a firm on her feet as the once was the famous French actress betrayed few signs of her age. The Handiest Way To Shave

Some men, who have shaved for years with the old-style, long-bladed razor, find it hard to believe that the Gillette Safety Razor is really handier and quicker.

So the quill-using clerks of old must have looked askance at the first steel pens—until they learned by experience how much more effective they were.

A few days' experience with the Gillette and a man finds he can shave with it quicker and more easily than he could with the long-bladed razor after years of practice.

Holding the Gillette lightly, like a pencil, you can shave any part of the face, in any direction, using the true Angle Stroke. Those awkward spots around the chin and the angle of the jaw will give you no trouble whatever—and with the Gillette Safety Razor you will not cut your face.

Moreover, the Gillette can be adjusted, by a slight turn of the screw handle, for a light or close shave, or for a soft or heavy beard. This adjustability, which adds so much to the comfort of shaving, is found in no other razor.

Why worry along in the old way, when the Gillette way is so much easier, quicker and more comfortable?

Shorthand Dates Back Many Years. Shakespeare's Dramas Printed From Stenographic Notes—Some Amusing Mistakes.

Shortland is commonly regarded as a typically modern device. But its history extends back through some thousands of years. Nobody seems to know just how many thousands, but the first system of shorthand was invented by a man named Marcus Tullius Tiro, a slave of Cicero.

Whether Tiro was the inventor of the method he used, whether it was devised by Cicero or whether the system was much older than either are points upon which historians have squabbled for centuries, but the fact remains that Tiro became so proficient in the art (if it had not been for this gifted slave master of the famous Roman orator) that he was able to refer to his master that he was given his freedom by Cicero, becoming private secretary and his master friend.

There are both humor and tragedy in the fate of Cassius, who was a teacher of shorthand at Imole during the fourth century. Whether it was the fault of the teacher or the system we are not told, but the class one day became so exasperated that they attacked and killed the teacher, and the Emperor Severus ordered that the slaves of the fingers of his right hand should be cut on account of some inaccuracy. Nevertheless Tiro's system survived in a more or less imperfect state down to medieval times.

During Queen Elizabeth's reign there was a sudden revival of interest in shorthand in England. Dr. Timothy Bright published his system, the first English one, in 1588, and was followed in 1600 by Peter Wallis. In 1600 came John Willis, who was the first to devise a method on alphabetical lines, a method crude indeed when compared with modern standards, but nevertheless the forerunner of all our modern systems.

Scholars are in doubt whether it was the system of Bright or Willis which was used for taking down Shakespeare's plays. For, little as we pause to reflect upon it, Shakespeare's plays were nearly all first taken down in shorthand, and it is from the reporter's transcripts that the plays were for the most part printed in the poet's lifetime. It is a fact that accounts for the odd variants in the text.

As all the world knows the inimitable Samuel Pepys wrote his diary in shorthand and by the same means took down in 1680 Charles II's own account of the battle of Worcester. Previous to this the debate in the House of Commons at the time of the arrest of the five members by Charles I were said to have been taken down verbatim by one John Rushworth.

A volume could be filled with amusing stories of shorthand mistakes, the greater number of them due to mistaken vowels. For instance, "This day is big with fate," was transcribed "This day is big with fat," while "Do not indulge in spite," came out, "Do not indulge in spit," and "A couple of many girls," was transformed into "A house of many gables."

BARRIE'S THE ONLY ONE OF TRIO TO LIVE

Shaw and Pinero Playlets To Be Among Things Forgotten. THE STAGE AND THE PEOPLE.

Impolitic to Run Counter to Public Opinion—Tree as an Author.—London's Recent Birthday Testimonial to Mme. Bernhardt.

(Times Special Correspondence.) London, Oct. 26.—Charles Frohman's triple bill at the Duke of York's is not to have a lasting place in the programme. The Shaw's and Pinero's playlets are to be relegated to the limbo of forgotten things. Barrie's charming little comedy "Rosalind," alone being retained. By what two former are to be replaced is not yet determined, but I have a shrewd opinion that in the selection of new attractions reliance will be placed rather upon the quality of the work than upon the eminence of the author. The result of Frohman's latest venture only goes to show how futile is the policy of buying pigs in a poke.

The useful lesson that it is impolitic to run counter to public opinion is practically all that Granville Barker will take away with him from the Strand. His production of "The Winter's Tale" there was heralded by a considerable blowing of trumpets and clashing of symbols. Alas, too, is to go the way of all things within a week from today. A week later Granville and his wife, Lillah McCarthy, are to present a revival of "Twelfth Night," a few special matinees of "The Winter's Tale" being promised for the benefit of the sick.

Personally, I should have been delighted had better luck fallen to Barker's lot, for he is a man of ideas, although, as it would appear, his ideas are hardly to be tested, or possibly too much in advance of the general public. At the Kingsway, too, his own play, "The Voyage Interoceanic," never and interwoven as it undoubtedly is, has scarcely fulfilled expectations and a provisional notice for the speedy termination of the run has been passed. The next production at that house will be John Galsworthy's new play, "The White Doe," thus, whether it is popularly a success or failure, can be said to be a success or failure, can be said to be a success or failure.

Tree is back from Paris and since his return has been exceedingly busy speaking. Two days ago he travelled to Worcester to deliver a lecture on the subject of "Our Dilemma," in which he discussed in very well-revised and very sonorous, pressing, serious, such topics as "The Tyranny of the West," "the conventional 'Reverence for Duttons,'" "Education," "Poverty," "Beauty," and "How to Be Happy." Just before starting for Worcester he imparted to me the news that somewhere about the end of the year we might look for the publication of two volumes from his pen, one containing essays, the other a number of short stories. Tree has said so many witty and illuminating things on the platform that the chance of studying them in print will be welcome.

GROWING GIRLS AND ALL WOMEN Should Keep Their Blood Supply Rich, Red and Pure

On every hand you see women and growing girls in the deadly clutches of anaemia. Slowly but surely a pallor of death settles on their cheeks; their eyes grow dull; their appetites fail; their steps languid. Daily they are being robbed of all vitality and brightness. The iron pills, if neglected, become more acute until the signs of early consumption become apparent. What women and growing girls in this condition need is new, rich, red blood and there is no other medicine on the earth that will do this. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in making this new, good blood. These pills have had a long and successful history. I had frequent headaches, which were completely tired out after the least exertion, and had little or no appetite. A doctor who was giving me medicine finally told me he feared I was going into consumption, which, of course made me very much down-hearted. As the medicine I was taking was not doing me any good, I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I shall ever feel grateful that I did so. My story may be summed up in the words "I was cured." Every anaemic sufferer can get equal good results through a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockton, Ont.

not fail to prove of an interesting character. Tree as an Author. Tree is back from Paris and since his return has been exceedingly busy speaking. As "The Darning Mistress" possesses many bright and attractive features there should be no difficulty in whipping it into shape. And, of course, Edwards can always depend on his own particular policy to keep the box office busy for some months at least.

As I have already hinted, Fanny Ward is to be the next occupant of the Aldwych stage, and on next Friday, she will start with Porter Emerson Browne's play, "The Ropewalkers," she also holds the rights in George Broadhurst's play, "The Prince," and in an adaptation, by Gladys Unger, of a French comedy "Montmartre." She certainly cannot be expected to be always up and doing, and if pluck be far as London is concerned, that, however, has not yet come his way, and until she can secure a part shortly called to her personally, I fear she will look for her success in vain. Perhaps "The Ropewalkers" provides her with that much-needed desideratum. Time will show.

Max Reinhardt will arrive in London on Monday evening and will at once start at the Palace rehearsal of the big show he is bringing over with him, entitled "A Venetian Night." Alfred Butt, manager of the Palace, ran over to Berlin a few days ago in order to see how things were going. He confessed on his return that he was not entirely satisfied, but that he had no doubt everything would be ready by Monday week, the date fixed for the first performance. Butt is gambling heavily on a success, seeing that he relies on "A Venetian Night," to carry him up to the end of the year. He will be badly landed should it fail to do so.

Months ago I mentioned in one of my letters the Kino-Plasticon—that, supposedly, wonderful Vienna invention. Arthur Housheer now informs me that he has been called on by the holders of the English rights, and that it is by no means improbable he will give the thing a trial at the Garrick as a Christmas entertainment. By means of the Kino-Plasticon shadows are thrown upon the stage, having all the appearance of real scenes and men; no screen is used, the figures being wholly detached.

Peoriasis All Over Body

Doctors Said Incurable, But Now There is No Sign of Disease, Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. N. Massey. Peoriasis is one of the most dreaded of itching skin diseases. It is a sort of chronic eczema. The itching it causes is almost beyond human endurance, and doctors are accustomed to give it up as incurable.

But here is a case that was given up and pronounced incurable. The result proves that Dr. Chase's Ointment works miracles in curing the worst form of itching skin disease imaginable.

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Concession, Ont., writes:—"For five years I suffered with what three doctors called peoriasis. They could not help me, and one of them told me if anyone offered to guarantee a cure for $50.00 to keep my money, as it could not be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen, and I can hardly praise this ointment enough."

The soothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment is truly wonderful. Eczema, salt rheum, barber's itch, ringworm and sores of such torturing ailments are relieved at once and a certainty cured if the Ointment is used persistently. Mothers find Dr. Chase's Ointment invaluable in preventing and curing the skin troubles of babies, such as chafing, irritations of the skin and baby eczema. Dr. Chase's Ointment, 50 cents a box. All dealers, or Edmondson, Boston & Co., Limited, Toronto.

The C. P. R. freight offices took all four men arrangements will be completed. It is the intention to have a five team league and players enough for the teams have agreed to play. It is likely that a trophy will be provided and a good line of basketball should be the result. Some of the best players who have promised to play are the following: Roy Willet, Murray Latham, William Latham, Frank Thorne, Knodell, Eweka, Boone, McQuarrie, Johnston, Ward, Kisham, Finley and Barton.
It is likely that a senior team will be picked from the players in the league and that games will be arranged with outside teams.

Basketball
Basketball at the Y. M. C. A.
Basketball is expected to boom this season at the Y. M. C. A. and with the idea of arranging for an inside league a meeting has been called for Monday night.

Football
St. John vs. Rothsay.
The St. John High School football team will play the Rothsay College fifteen on the latter's campus this afternoon. This will be the last game of the Inter-Scholastic series.

Join the Knights
New Haven, Nov. 8.—Six members of the Yale football squad, including Captain Spalding, were initiated into the Knights of Columbus, being taken into San Salvador Council 1, the oldest council of the order, this week.

Acadia Wins
Fredericton, Nov. 8.—Acadia, the strong favorite for the intercollegiate title, made good the claim this afternoon, defeating U. N. B. 13 to 2.

U. N. B. fought hard and gained the distinction of being the first team to score on Acadia this season. The territory play is not at all indicated by the score, U. N. B. having Acadia on the defensive frequently during the first half, and crossing their goal line more than once.
Just at the close of the first half U. N. B., after a series of hard scrimmages, went over Acadia's line for what looked to be a try. Referee Buckley decided otherwise, however, saying that time had expired before the red and black went over.
It is claimed that Acadia this year has the strongest team ever turned out by the Wolfville institution. Of the four games played so far this season, all have been won by large scores.
Today's victory makes Acadia intercollegiate champions for the fourth consecutive year. If the trophy is won by that college in 1913 it becomes its permanent property.

The Ring
Matty Baldwin.
Alec McLean, manager of Matty Baldwin, is after a match with Mandot and Wolgast for Baldwin. In the following letter McLean explains his position:
"Now that Joe Mandot, the southern lightweight, has boxed a draw with Champion Ad Wolgast, showing that they are about on even terms, I am more confident than ever that Matty Baldwin is the master of the pair.
"The sporting public is well aware of the fact that Matty Baldwin is the only boy who has ever gained as good a referee's decision of a draw with the champion since the latter met Battling Nelson in California some time ago. The fans also know that the 'Michigan wild cat' has never given Baldwin any reason for and for what reason? Ask Wolgast and his manager. See if they will answer. If they won't, I will. The real reason is, Baldwin is too tough a gamster for the champion. No one knows it better than the champion and his manager, Tom Jones.
"Matty went to Memphis, Mandot's home town, less than a year ago, and just when Mandot was in the zenith of his career, and gave the southern champion the worst licking he has ever taken. He had him practically out on two occasions, but the home referee called it a draw. Since then I have tried to match Baldwin with Mandot, and in fact had them tied up twice, only to have Mandot call off the hounds. What is the reason for that? Matty was too hard a nut to crack.
"Baldwin is also the only boy who has ever decisively defeated Willie Richie of California, who is touted strong for a chance at Wolgast's title, and the stingiest, clearest victory over K. O. Brown of New York, a short while ago, proves that the Charleston boy is going strong in the ring today. For the last few days the coaches have been strengthening the weak points on the eleven, and now they believe it is strong enough to take the Wolverine into camp. Roy Mercer, captain of the team and one of the best backs of the football world a year ago, and he has received many safe tips on the stock market. A year ago an intimate friend declared that Matty has accumulated more than $20,000, so it looks as if 'Big Six,' one of the greatest twirlers that ever wore topknots, will be able to retire and live in comfort. He is one of the few great pitchers who saved his money.
"Cy Young is not in want, but he is not much. Bill Dineen, hero of the St. Louis fans a couple of decades back, is now umpiring for a living. Babe Waddell, manager, to dispose of his salary as fast as it comes due, and he still has to work a pretty good trade to make ends meet, though his days of usefulness as a pitcher are fast reaching an end.
"And there are other twirlers of as great, or greater fame, who are unable to spend their old days in comfort.
"Peats the Effect.
Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—The recent threat of Horace Fogel that he will carry the Fogel-lynch row into the courts, has all but disrupted the National league, it was declared at the headquarters of the Philadelphia National league baseball club.
Charley Doon, manager of the Philadelphia, and Fogel's most ardent supporter in the fight, declared that unless the fight against Fogel is dropped the league will be wrecked.
"Baseball has always shied from the law," said he, "and will shy this time. Court scraps have always been unwelcome with the older league, and for this reason Fogel's threat to carry the matter into court is already as good as ended the fight. If the case goes to the courts much trouble will result."
"The conservative baseball men among the club owners have quit the fight against Fogel, and now refuse absolutely to assist President Lynch in pressing the charges against him when the league meeting is held. That is why Fogel is not worrying.
"The outcome of a legal fight in which baseball is involved might be anything," continued Doon. "It was only in the last session of Congress that a representative from Illinois introduced a resolution to investigate the national pastime.
"This innocent Solon wanted to know if baseball with its ruling trio, Messrs. Herrmann, Lynch and Johnson, was not a trust within the meaning of the Sherman law. He believed that baseball was a monopoly, and that Herrmann, Johnson and Lynch were just as autocratic and just as arbitrary in their dealings with the players and public as the Standard Oil with the rest of creation.
"Now," said Doon, "there has never been an opinion as to the relative standing of the question will at once be raised to determine whether or not the Sherman law applies to this tribunal."
The baseball magnates do not want this matter brought up for a ruling. That is considered here the reason why the owners of the various clubs are hesitating about kicking Fogel out of the league.
"Philadelphia baseball men think that Fogel's threat to appeal to the courts has scared Lynch. The president of the league hurried to Chicago to meet Ben Johnson immediately after his conference with Charles Webb Murphy in New York. He spent a day in Pittsburgh, where he was hosted with Barney Dryfuss of the Pittsburgh Club for more than two hours.
It was reported from Pittsburgh that Lynch had secured affidavits from Pittsburgh people as to other delinquencies made by Fogel previous to his attack on Lynch and the National league.

PENN WILL TRY HARD TO GET BACK ON THE FOOTBALL MAP

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—Pennsylvania will try to find its way back to the football map by defeating Michigan at Franklin Field today. For the last few days the coaches have been strengthening the weak points on the eleven, and now they believe it is strong enough to take the Wolverine into camp. Roy Mercer, captain of the team and one of the best backs of the football world a year ago, and he has received many safe tips on the stock market. James for Pilgrims
Included in the list of "stars" whom President Gaffney of the Pilgrims has secured from the Pacific Coast League is Pitcher James. James pitched in thirty-six games in the Coast League last season. He won twenty-six. James struck out 201 men gave 108 bases on balls, out threw nine wild pitches, and hit twenty batters. He batted for .228.
New Offer for a Franchise.
New York, Nov. 8.—A new deal is on for the purchase of the Philadelphia National League club. A New York syndicate, through an agent, was in communication with a man in Philadelphia who is said to have received authority from Charles P. Taft to selling the deal. According to the information, the deal includes the sale of the club's stock, together with the property upon which the ball park is located. The sum involved is not far from $200,000. The land was purchased two years ago by Mrs. C. P. Taft for $200,000.
Matty Is Wealthy.
New York, Nov. 8.—Christy Mathewson, hero of the 1912 world series, can well afford to retire from baseball. Matty has many friends in New York.

SAY A GOOD WORD
(Sixer Record).
How many people save you told in the last week that New Brunswick is the best place on earth?
"What have you said during the last few days to justify your belief that Kings is the garden of the maritime provinces?"
Have you reminded anybody that Sussex is the best of the maritime provinces? If you missed doing any of these things last week, don't forget them next week. Do you know New Brunswick? If you don't, open your ears or consult a specialist. The noise is increasing. It'll be a matter of time before you'll be a resident of New Brunswick.
People are coming back to New Brunswick and more particularly to Kings. Kings is a pretty good reason why you should not be thinking of leaving.
Five brief paragraphs in the Record last week from correspondents living in different parts of Kings county told an interesting and pleasant story from a New Brunswick standpoint. Each little item of three or four lines conveyed the welcome intelligence that five families were returning from points in the united States to settle in their old homes after absence of several years. One old resident brought his wife, his son and his son's wife and his grand-children. These people have discovered that they can do better in Canada and they have selected their native province as the place in which they may best improve their opportunities. The last few months have seen a good many come-back to Kings county. The tide is turning our way. Truly things are moving upward and onward.
Rest after dinner, even if it be for only half an hour, is very necessary to all, especially to those who lead busy lives. If possible put the feet up, and if sleep is not obtainable take recreation in a light book.

ASSISTING THE EMIGRANT TO GET TO CANADA

The Question of Adopting Australian System of Nomination—Earl Winterton a Boomer

(Times Special Correspondence.) London, Oct. 29.—Should Canada take a lead out of Australia's emigration book and inaugurate the nomination system? The statement by J. Bruce Walker that there is no emigration so valuable as that which is induced by successful emigrants encouraging their friends to follow their example, invited consideration of this question. It is estimated that seventy-five per cent of the emigrants to Australia who are assisted, are nominated by their friends, which means that they are selected in the first place, by those who, from a close knowledge, believe they will make suitable settlers.

OLIVER TWIST BRINGS THROUGHS TO NICKEL

Nat C. Goodwin as Fagin Holds All in His Playing of Part of Villainous Old Fence

The crowds who thronged to the Nickel last evening to see Dickens' Oliver Twist in motion pictures with Nat C. Goodwin as Fagin, were so great that the people were massed in the street at each presentation awaiting a chance to consult the ticket seller and pass in. It was a Nickel triumph both in the success attained in drawing the people and in thoroughly pleasing them after they were there.
