ST. JOHN, N. B., SATURDAY, AUGUST 23, 1919.

HARBOR COMMISSION.

Mr. Elkin's address at the Rotary Club has been given more attention than it deserves. On reading that address many people have been impressed with one sentence in particular as reported in The Telegraph.

As tax-exempt as were previous issues, but the income will be subject to the ordinary income tax as is the income from municipal or other bonds.

PROHIBITION.

Already there are signs of preliminary activity in connection with the approaching plebiscite on prohibition.

It is all very well to say that St. John is not in a position to afford to spend the money needed for repairs on present equipment.

THE VICTORY LOAN.

Canada's final victory loan will be announced during the course of the next few weeks.

value of the prohibitory law. Discussion will take place only on suggested minor amendments.

WHAT THEY SAY

The Only Way. Kingston Whig: It is a good thing that Parliament is to meet again on September 1st.

Domestic Peace Needed. New York Herald: From the present state of national affairs a domestic treaty of peace is needed more than a foreign treaty.

History Repeats. New York Tribune: Following the Civil War the peak of high prices was not reached for two years.

Why Hesitate? New York Post: Why should the President hesitate an instant, about "surrendering" to American opinion?

Carranza's Attitude. New York World: American intervention cannot be forced by oil and ranches.

One More Opportunity. New York Times: Once more an opportunity is offered to the Carranza government to redeem itself.

STOCKS SHOWED IMPROVEMENT YESTERDAY

After Their Recent Declines They Rallied, Carrying Strong Conviction Because It Was Accomplished on a Small Turnover.

New York, Aug. 22.—Stocks made further improvement, today, after their declines of the last week, by rallying carrying greater conviction because it was accomplished on a small turnover, dealings falling considerably under recent large totals. Traders seemed disposed to take a less pessimistic view of the labor situation as reported by conditions in the Steel industry and evidence of special manufacturing in the foreign trade market served as another reassuring factor.

Much of the "literature" and gossip emanating from brokerage and commission houses was of a less cautious manner, and no small part of the day's buying was credited to interests recently committed to the short side of the market.

Bull pools were moderately active in such recent favorites as motors, oils and tobaccos, where extreme rains of two to eight points were made, equipments, leathers, textiles and sugars also strengthening variably.

There was a fair demand for rails of the better class, and substantial improvement among shippings was accompanied by reports that early payment of a large part of the arrears on Mercantile Marine Pfd. is under consideration.

Marked revival of interest in metals was not only in copper, for which higher prices for September delivery were quoted, but also for other metals which enter extensively into the manufacture of various peace utilities.

The only stocks to reflect pronounced weakness were Industrial Alcohol, which fell seven points on the proposed new capital issues, and Wilson Company, which forfeited much of yesterday's large advance.

Final prices eased on the 3 per cent. rate.

Sales amounted to 785,000 shares.

Bonds were irregular on the lower prices made by various specialties.

Fails, Liberty and foreign insurances reacting fractionally.

Sales, par value, $9,350,000.

STOCKS EASILY HELD GAINS

(McDougall and Cowana.)
New York, August 22.—Prices shaded off somewhat in the last half hour but without developing any distinctly new trend in the market. The day's advance was slower than that of yesterday but stocks held their gains easily and gave a more distinct impression of underlying strength. The labor situation in the steel industry, so far as outsiders may judge is in a position from which it may develop either way but the street takes its cue from the hands of the steel companies who are quietly confident that their position is a strong one. This feeling led to further covering of short contracts today but there is obviously a considerable short interest still outstanding. The steel stocks took little part in the upward movement of Industrials in today's market except for CRI. The technical position of which is exceptional. Sales—1,078,000.

Come Take a Ride

A Five Passenger Closed Model of the Car Men Are Praising

In the Essex Sedan

Now comes the Essex Sedan to express our conception of closed car luxury.

The advantages of comfort and simplicity of the touring model are retained.

The identical chassis with all its performance qualities is used. The body has the same bewitching square lines as the touring model.

By its performance and appeal through its quality the Sedan is winning the same real praise from motorists as distinguishes the Essex you know.

As Well Done as Good a Performer

Close to a thousand Essex Sedans are already in service.

Their owners are advertising it, just as the touring model was made the most talked of car of the season.

The Essex has made its record on every highway. Its owners know the thrill that comes with the ability to dominate every acceleration and driving situation.

Moderate in first cost and upkeep, safety and comfort in driving, and a way all its own in retaining its performance qualities and rigidity, even after the hardest service, account for the opinions you most frequently hear for the Essex.

The Sedan offers the same advantages in moderate cost of purchase and operation. It is a small de luxe car that is easy to drive, comfortable to ride in and capable of meeting any operation requirement. And yet it neither appears, rides nor operates like a small car. It has the big, costly car feeling of power and solidarity that gives it the combined advantages of both types.

For All Seasons For City or Touring

You have heard what people say about the Essex. Now note their remarks about the Sedan.

There is nothing cheap or small in its appearance. It is as dainty as a jewel box.

Exclusive and compact in outward design though it is, owners are pleasantly surprised with the roomy space inside those wide opening doors. The luxury of it finds truth in their comparisons with car qualities in the high priced field.

Reputation of the Essex touring model brings confidence with first interest in this closed model. It gratifies every taste and wins affection by performance and endurance.

It is as well received as the 10,000 Essex touring models now in service.

We would like you to take a ride in the Essex Sedan. Then if you decide for it, you should allow some time for delivery. The demand greatly exceeds production.

AROUND THE CITY

CLEARING.

TALENT RECOGNIZED. A. C. D. Wilson left last evening for Newcastle to superintend the erection of arches in this town for the celebration in honor of returned soldiers, to be held on August 29.

PROGRESSING WELL.

The water main and sewer to Hawthorn avenue has been completed beyond the corner of Parks street and the people of that district will soon be supplied with city water.

REQUEST FOR NAMES.

A request for the names of New Brunswick apple growers and exporters was received from the office of the Board of Trade.

CONFIRMATION TOUR ENDED.

His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc returned Thursday night from a Confirmation tour in York and Charlotte counties. The sacrament was administered at Cork, Kingsclear, St. Stephen, Milltown, St. Andrews and Rolling Dam.

COURT-MARTIAL TODAY.

A court-martial on Augustine Waters, charged with wearing the uniform of a British officer unlawfully, will be held this morning at 9:45. The board will consist of Major Bertram Smith, president; Capt. E. S. Roxborough and Capt. M. M. Burke.

START ON WATER RENEWALS.

Commissioner Jones announced yesterday that a start on the water main renewals would be made on Monday and the work would be pushed ahead as rapidly as pipe reached the city.

A STILL ALARM.

Shortly before six o'clock yesterday afternoon the chemical at No. 1 H. and L. station was called to 117 King street east to quench a fire in a woodshed. Very little damage was done and the fire is supposed to have been set by children.

TWO CARS MILED.

Yesterday afternoon two automobiles had wheels sunk so far in German street holes that it was found necessary to employ horses to haul them out on solid ground again. Car owners are placed in this predicament on country roads but it is something brand new for a city.

AN ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

The secretary of the Board of Trade yesterday received from the acting commissioner of customs a letter acknowledging receipt of the resolution passed by the council of the board to "transmit" of season clearance papers for vessels in the Canadian coasting trade and promising to give this matter careful consideration.

AWARDED PRIZE.

Canadian Consolidated Rubber Company, Limited, of Montreal has awarded a prize to Miss Hilda M. Gallagher, Hamilton, N. B., who won a $50 Victory bond—the prize offered for the Province of New Brunswick, for the best short poem, containing the names of Seven Trade Marks, appearing on the best lines of Rubber Footwear made in the Dominion.

TRIAL TRIP NEXT WEEK.

Arrangements are being made for the trial trip of the War Moncton on Tuesday of next week. She is to be operated by Hansen Bros. of Carleton Place, who for a time operated her sister ship the War Fundy, and will load deals for the United Kingdom. She is expected to prove even better than the Fundy which turned out one of the best of the wooden steamers built for the Imperial Munitions Board.

THE WATERING CART.

The ways of the city with a watering cart are worthy of attention," remarked a citizen yesterday. "Yesterday afternoon while the city was drenched with fog I saw a watering cart doing its duty, and I knew it was bound to rain before long, and it did. No doubt the idea is that a watering cart makes a greater impression on a damp day; the water don't dry up as quick as it would on a sunny, windy day."

G. W. V. A MEETING.

At a meeting of the executive of the G. W. V. A. last evening it was decided not to hold the meeting of the association on September 1 but to have the next meeting on the third Monday in the month. The fair committees are at work settling up the accounts and it is believed that a substantial sum was realized. The committees express themselves as satisfied with the results of the fair.

RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY PASSED

St. John Law Society at Meeting Yesterday Afternoon Mourn Death of Wm. A. Ewing and Extend Sympathy to Widow and Family.

At a special meeting of the St. John Law Society held yesterday afternoon Dr. J. Roy Campbell, K. C., in the chair, the following resolution moved by Judge McNamee and seconded by L. P. D. Tilly, was carried unanimously: "Whereas the members of this Law Society mourn the passing from amongst us of William A. Ewing, K. C.—a former president and for many years a very active member of the Society—a lawyer of ability, industry, learning and integrity, a man of wide reading and of varied accomplishments; a citizen ever ready to serve, conspicuously during the European war, when his untiring efforts resulted in his presiding over the most efficient military service office in Canada.

Therefore resolved that the Saint John Law Society record the sense of loss, and its expressions of sympathy to the widow and her family."

TWO MORE STEAMSHIP SERVICES FOR THIS PORT NEXT WINTER

Advice from Montreal Yesterday States There will be a Service to St. Nazaire in France and Another to Buenos Aires and Montevideo—McLean, Kennedy, Limited Will Open Branch Offices in St. John.

St. John will have two more steamship services this winter, according to word received from Montreal yesterday. There will be a service to St. Nazaire in France and another to Buenos Aires and Montevideo. The Canadian French service operated by the Marine Navigation Company of Canada was opened by a boat sailing from St. John in April, and has been continued by regular sailings from Montreal to St. Nazaire during the summer. McLean, Kennedy, Limited, who handle the Montreal end of this service are opening an agency in St. John this fall, and the boats for St. Nazaire will make St. John their winter port.

McLean and Kennedy are also agents of the Houston Line which has inaugurated a service between Montreal and South American ports, and which will also make St. John its winter headquarters. Mr. Houston of Liverpool, the head of the Houston Line, is a member of the British parliament, and reputed to be one of the wealthiest shipowners in Great Britain. He owns a very considerable fleet of freighters.

PROPOSED ST. JOHN NURSES' HOME AND WHAT BUILDING WILL COST

If it is to be Erected at General Public Hospital Municipal Council Will Have to Vote Additional $32,000—Lowest Tender Received Was $131,000—Entire Cost of the Building Will be About $137,000.

If the proposed St. John nurses' home is to be built at the General Public Hospital the municipal council will have to vote an additional $32,000 and even that will not be as fine a building externally as was originally planned, and which the council was informed at its last meeting could be built at an outside cost of $108,000. Already two calls for tenders for the work have been made and on neither occasion when the tenders were opened did the commissioners of the General Public Hospital take the public into their confidence as to what sum was asked for the work. On the first occasion the only announcement made was that the time for receiving tenders had been extended until August 29.

On Wednesday, August 29, the board of commissioners met and considered the tenders sent in and the only information given out was that the tenders would have to be sent to the municipal council and no action could be taken until they had passed on them. Thursday afternoon the Ladies' Hospital Aid met and they wanted to know why the delay in getting started on the building and the architects' fees, about $127,000 or $32,000 more than the amount voted at the May meeting of the council.

It is said the commissioners were only given authority to call for tenders and refer them to the council for acceptance and they are now trying to arrange for a special meeting of the council to deal with the matter in order to avoid delay in getting the work started.

Formal Closing Of Playgrounds

Despite Wet Weather and Absence of Visitors Closing Yesterday Afternoon Proved Very Successful—Exhibits of Work and Programme Enjoyed.

The formal closing of the West Side, King George, Alexandria, Centennial and Aberdeen supervised playgrounds took place, and despite the wet weather and absence of visitors proved very successful. The children at each ground had an exhibit of the season's work nicely arranged and impromptu programmes of songs and exercises were carried out.

West Side. It had been planned to have the closing of the West Side ground next Friday, but as Miss Julia Currie, the supervisor, had to leave this week it was decided to hold the formal closing yesterday. The ground will be open all next week under the charge of Miss Jean McDonald. The principal work done here this year was in basketry and some beautiful samples of work done were on exhibit. Capt. and Mrs. McIntyre provided Victrola music to which the children danced and played games. The average attendance at this ground has been 175 per day.

King George. The King George grounds have not been as well attended as usual this year, but a large number of young children have been cared for. The average attendance at this ground has been 150 per day. The principal work done here this year was in basketry and some beautiful samples of work done were on exhibit. Capt. and Mrs. McIntyre provided Victrola music to which the children danced and played games. The average attendance at this ground has been 175 per day.

Alexandra. The average attendance at the Alexandra ground has been 62 per day and a great variety of work has been taken up in raffia basketry, crochets. The children took a keen interest in the work, one girl of ten making a sweater for herself. Miss K. Mundy and Miss B. Fleet were the teachers at this school.

Centennial. The Centennial ground had a very successful season, the average attendance being 150 per day. Woodwork and basketry appealed chiefly to the children, some raffia work be-

City Is Up Against Great Difficulty

Can't Obtain Suitable Land at Prices Within the Provisions of the Dominion Housing Act—Meeting of Commission Yesterday.

"Probably no city in Canada presents greater difficulties to the application of the Dominion housing scheme than St. John," said Commissioner Bullock, after the meeting of the St. John Housing Commission yesterday. "To meet the demand for dwellings the city will probably have to develop a scheme of its own, and go to the legislature for power to carry it out, when unfortunately would mean that we would not be able to do much in the way of putting up buildings till next spring."

"The great difficulty the city is up against," he added, "is that of getting suitable land at prices within the provisions of the Dominion Housing Act. The commission is only permitted to allow for land purchase one-eighth of the gross value of the property on which a house is sought, and most of the land within the city and in easy reach of street car lines the owners figure on getting about $600 a lot, which is nearly double the amount allowable for land. We have an architect looking over the areas which are supposed to be available within the city, and we should have a full report from him next week. But in most cases that we have investigated so far the prices of lots have been prohibitive under the act, and few of the applicants for loans seem disposed to put up a percentage of the total cost which would enable them to take advantage of the loan to build on the high priced areas."

"We may be able to do better by going farther afield to areas not served by the street car lines, but I understand the county officials who are looking into the possibility of building houses under the Dominion scheme have met with the same difficulty as we have. Land in the county within a few miles of the city is not so expensive, but water and sewerage facilities appear to have acquired a great value, even though farming is supposed to be a poor paying proposition."

Com. Bullock said the commission would be glad to have suggestions from the editors of newspapers or anybody else who has practical plan to get over the difficulties which confronted them. It looked to him as if the city would have to develop a scheme on its own account, and build houses on such of its own lots within the city limits as were available, and also on the lands owned by the city in Lancaster. Under the present act the city could not build in Lancaster, and to carry out any comprehensive community scheme of housing would have to get authority from the local government or the legislature.

"Other cities are able to get building schemes satisfied by the applicants for building loans," said Mr. Bullock, "but there is no doubt that St. John, with its hills and hollows, and limited areas suitable for building purposes, is in a position to apply any housing proposition to."

FIREMEN ACCEPT THE INVITATION

Decided Last Night to Send Delegation Salvage Corps and Firemen With Apparatus and Band to Moncton Labor Day.

A meeting of the firemen and members of the Salvage Corps was held in No. 1 ladder station, King Street East, last night. District Engineer Charles Jackson was chairman and Capt. K. J. MacIntyre, secretary. An invitation from Moncton to take part in the Labor Day parade in the railway city was read and it was resolved to accept and to send a delegation Monday, September 1, also to take a band, the chief's wagon and another piece of decorated apparatus. A committee was appointed to look after the arrangements.

POLICE COURT CASES YESTERDAY

James Murphy, John McEneaney and J. L. Morrison were charged in the police court yesterday with being drunk, lying and hurking and creating a disturbance. Policeman Thomas told of the two being found in a field off Hazen street early yesterday morning. They were remanded. Thomas Ramsey forfeited a deposit of $200.00 on a charge of supplying liquor. Clifford Carr, charged with taking a car belonging to William Taylor, without his permission, was further remanded. Peter Richards was accused of being drunk and having liquor in his possession. Some evidence was taken and the case set over. James McEneaney who was charged with stealing an overcoat belonging to Walter Reed was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

SOMETHING NEW.

F. A. Dykeman & Co. have received a shipment of Corsets known as the Practical Front Corset, suitable for average and stout figures. A newly patented Corset which really gives a perfect straight front and a small hip effect. A corset which permits perfect and quick adjustment to the figure at each wearing. The latter front section of high grade elastic, holds it soft to the body and automatically forces the wearer to put the Corset on properly. This elastic section clasps together with a very pliable light weight corset clasp, the outer section lacing together just like a man's shoe, both the clasp and lacing being directly in the elastic of the body. The time required to put this Corset on is but the matter of a few seconds, and the effects produced, together with the wonderful comfort to the wearer is remarkable. These Corsets are on sale at F. A. Dykeman & Co.'s for $4.25 and $5.00 per pair.

RED ROSE TEA is good tea

ABOUT 170 years ago tea sold in England for $14.60 a pound. It was a luxury which only the wealthy could afford.

Thanks largely to the great increase in the area of tea plants under cultivation in India during the past fifty years, there is enough tea grown to-day to supply tea to the world at a price even the poorest can afford.

A cup of "good" tea—Red Rose Tea—costs only a fraction of a cent. There is hardly anything sold in the grocery store that gives more value or more pleasure for the money.

Consisting chiefly of ASSAM teas—the richest and strongest of Indian teas—Red Rose is exceedingly fragrant, flavory and economical. It is a tea of real quality and real value.

Sold only in sealed packages.

Lily White CORN SYRUP

Make Perfect Preserves with Lily White Corn Syrup and Use it in Cooking and Candy-Making.

HOME-MADE PRESERVES—there's nothing to equal them when put up with half sugar and half Lily White Corn Syrup.

Experience helps, but even the beginner gets wonderful results. Preserves retain much more of their natural flavor than when sugar alone is used.

The Lily White Corn Syrup prevents crystallization and improves the keeping qualities of your preserves, jams and jelly.

When a woman starts the use of Corn Syrup for one thing, she soon extends it to others. Lily White helps the flavor of fillings for pies and tarts.

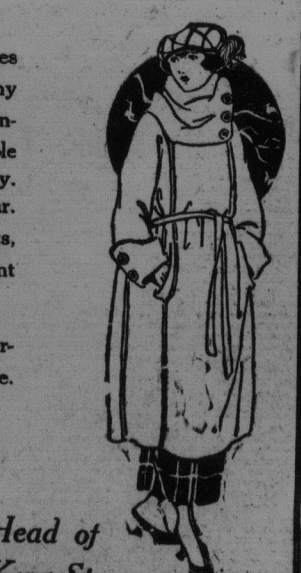

Added to bread and rolls, it gives that delicate sweetening that good cooks appreciate.

Let the young folks use it for candy—for taffy, fudge and divinity.

Full directions for the use of Lily White in preserving, cooking and candy making, are given in our new illustrated Cook Book. Sent free to you on request.

Sid Hahn put up a pudgy hand in protest. "Jest! Please! For the love of Heaven don't you go and get it!"

"I wasn't hysterical. I was just laughing. I've been about seventeen years learning that laugh!"

"Let's have the plot," said Hahn.

"There isn't any. You see, it's just—well, I've just discovered how it works out. After all these years! She's had everything she wanted all her life. And me, I've never had anything. Not a thing. She's traveled one way, and I've traveled in the opposite direction and where has it brought us!"

Here we are both fighting over an old black velvet rag. Don't you see? Both with the little twisted smile on her lips again. "Life's a strange thing."

"I hope, Josie, you don't claim any originality for that remark," replied Sid Hahn dryly.

"But," argued the editor, "you don't call this a cheerful story, I hope."

"Well, perhaps not exactly bolsterous. But it teaches a lesson, and all that. And it's sort of philosophical and everything, don't you think?"

The editor shuffled the sheets together decisively, so that they formed a neat sheaf. "I'm afraid I didn't make myself quite clear. It's entertaining, and all that, but—in view of our present needs, I'm sorry to say we—"

My Dear Kiddles of the C. farms in the country districts have been assisting all you could with hay-making. That would not like work, though for one can so much fun in the hay and hope all have had at least a tumble and better still a ride on it. (doubt you have known how necessary it is to have fair weather for the hay-time, because those good friends of ours—the horses—are not going to enjoy their winter meals—not their Christmas dinner—if the weather sends too much rain on the hay cut hay. Speaking of the weather, there's the greatest lot of used by people to determine the weather forecast. Some have faith in the new moon's position, some watch the sun set, the clouds, winds and various other heavenly well a earthy signs, but did know that flowers—some at the foretell weather conditions. Of course you have noticed how more responsive some plants are others to the conditions around them. Heat, cold, darkness or light have more noticeable effect on some plants than on some others, so probably is how and why future weather predictions have been observed through certain blooms. A long time ago pretty scarlet pimpernel was called poor man's weather-glass, and it is claimed to be a really astonishing good foreteller. When a storm is on the atmosphere unsettled, the blooms remain tightly closed, but quickly expand when the sun is by again. Without a doubt they are response to the light and prob the warmth as well. Another sensitive blossom is the poppy and never open wide the petals unless rays of the sun are warm. That the nature method of protecting pollen from the rain and dampness. Of course many flowers just close at night for that reason too, as dew might effect the pollen.

Then let us notice the flower is so largely mixed up with the and which adds so much flavor to horseradish winter dill—these are its appearance is quite altered in settled conditions. You take no of the way foliage and blossom appear huddled to the stalk and doubt that tends to keep them warm. We always think that plants and flowers can only be really affected when touched by actual frost, but if natural methods of closing petals and huddling together, were prevented, we see that the plants and blossoms suffer very quickly. These are just few of the many flowers I might you of, but since your own gardens all aglow with the beautiful blooms, want you to study them yourselves the different degrees of heat and dampness and drought and then the weather and you may discover many more ways of foretelling the prevailing atmospheric conditions. least, it will be intensely interesting to watch the attitude of the blossoms which are probably before you each summer, and yet you never have noticed that they were capable of changing while in a bloom stage. They cannot grum outwardly at the cold or rainy days as many of my little friends can, you should be like them and appreciate an occasional rainy day. It n spoil the picnic, but increases joy of harvest, it may make a skid path for the car, but brings skill care to the driver and best of all may discover the little leaks in character as well as in the roof. I hope to hear of many discoveries which you pals have made in watching the flowers about you.

With heaps of love,

There had been a wreck off shore. The vessel had gone down in the sight of many people. All the crew had been saved, but one poor fellow was brought ashore unconscious. A young curate, who had performed nobly, turned to the bystanders:

"How do you proceed in the case of one apparently drowned?"

"Search his pockets," was the prompt reply from an experienced rescuer.

Your Private Dance Orchestra

Your porch is a wonderful place—room there for a jazz band, a society orchestra and a troupe of comedians—everything the young folks could want for a grand, glorious time.

The minute you acquire a New Edison, you've solved the problem of the young folks for all the summer. It's their dance orchestra, their vaudeville, their song leader. It supplies them with inexhaustible rounds of good, clean fun—at home, where the influence is wholesomest.

When the New Edison Re-Creates an orchestra piece, you hear each instrument as distinctly as though the actual organization were before you. It's as good as a private dance orchestra.

Answers To Letters

HARRY M.—You seem like a new friend to me Harry, it is so long since I have heard from you. Glad to know you are having such pleasant times. Hope to hear from you again soon.

MARRION H.—Such a neat letter you write and also interesting. You are well repaid for the busy hours spent on your own little garden judging by the many blossoms you have.

ANNA S.—We will be pleased to enroll you as a new member and know you will enjoy being one of us.

NORMA G.—I know you must have enjoyed the celebration, as they were so good. Write me all you saw and what you thought of everything.

ELLEN R.—With all those dumb friends to play with and care for, must keep you very busy, but I know you will take extra good care of the little lambs. Thanks for the kind words, appreciation is always acceptable to everyone.

ROY B.—You are a lucky fellow to have the chance to go camping. It is the best kind of a trip and I am sure you will have a great time. Hope the weather man will favor you as that is a great help on those outings.

ALLAN G.—So you are regretting that holidays are three quarters over. Well, they could not last forever and after all you will enjoy setting down to work again when the autumn was there begins. Pleased to hear you have enjoyed your self so much.

MAMIE B.—Improve in writing if you can, for good penmanship is as important to your education as anything. What a beautiful spot that was for your picnic and I hope you left enough crumbs to the birds who entertained you all so pleasantly.

IRENE M. C.—Yes, it is a long while since I heard from you. So glad you are having such a good time in the holidays, indeed you deserve that after such a successful grading. I congratulate you and am always pleased to hear of the success made in school by members of our C. C.

My Night Ride on a Locomotive.
It is almost midnight, but the big terminus is just as busy as though it were midday. Men from the post-office are busy with the mails, porters are busy with the passengers, and passengers are busy with themselves. All is hurry and bustle and excitement. As the wind increased both my heart and the driver surges as lovingly as children survey them.

Just now the engine, spick and span and bright as a mirror, was shunted from its shed, then backed to the trap. It closed up gently, and not a passenger knew that it had touched the buffers. Then some men alkified the couplings while others adjusted the signal cord. At that moment an official introduced me to the driver, and I stepped on the foot-plate.

Off We Go.
It is strange the feeling that grips you when you first mount a monster of the iron road. You cannot help being afraid that you may fall off; it is the want of room does it. Just a few feet of space there is, and that is all. Nor can you help asking why on earth they are taking all that coal with them and how long it takes to initiate oneself into the mysteries of this glittering array of handles and levers and dials. I meant to ask, but just as the first query reaches the tip of my tongue a shrill whistle sounds, the driver pushes the regulator over, there is a creak, another whistle, puff, puff, and we are off.

At first the motion is pleasant; the engine jolts gently. Then the pace becomes more fast, and the big red and green lights on the out-skirts of the big station reflect themselves on the shining metals, until everything becomes red and green, and I grip the side of the locker where I sit. As I do so the lights vanish; we have left them behind. Then the driver touches something else, the stoker begins to fire up, and in a trice we are careering along at a pace which I can only describe as hair-raising.

Through Station and Tunnel.
Now we are just passing through a station; now we are passing through another. "Don't attempt to look yet," the driver shouts. "Listen to the whizz and the dull roaring—that's a station. Hardly have the words left him when the thunder of artillery breaks about my ears. "Tunnel!" the driver howls. "You're not frightened, are you?" And all the while the stoker is firing up as unconsciously as Mary Jane does, in the kitchen of your parents' home.

To cheer me up a little, the driver kindly informed me just now that there would be no halt until we had reached a station that was a hundred miles away. I peep round, and look into the night; it is pitch dark. Once I take to wondering what would happen should a signalman forget his duty, or fall over asleep, or suddenly die, and what would be the result if a train wrecker

Mr. X. has recently taken to pouring soap. The other morning his observant little son rushed in with the startling intelligence that the hens were "awful hungry!"
"But I've just fed them, my boy!" replied Mr. X.
"Then you can't have given 'em enough, father!" went on the young hoper.
"They're eating bits of stones, mortar, pebbles, and such like!"
Then Mr. X. gently explained that a certain amount of grit would do them no harm, in fact, it was a necessary part of the diet.
Johnny, though he seemed sorely convinced, said no more just then but resolved to watch developments.
It was on the following morning that the smart youngster approached his father and observed:
"Father, you don't know everything about feeding and keeping hens, do you?"
"No, my son!" returned Mr. X. "I'm merely a novice as yet."
"Do it now!" commented Johnny sagely.
"I thought so!" Mr. X. fed the hens on pebbles till they're laying stone eggs! It's right!"—as Mr. X. stared incredulously—"For I've smashed one to pieces!"
Johnny had been at the "nest eggs."

Proved a Success.
They were a merry little party of youths out for the day, and the driver of the conveyance had had a good deal to put up with.
Free his horses were rather old and rather slow. He was well aware of the fact, and he might have resented the repeated hints to that effect but for another little fact—he had not yet set the hat round.
"Look at 'em, poor beggars!" at length remarked the wit of the party. "Animated examples of ossification!" "Oss-wot?" gasped the driver, looking inquiringly at the youth who had spoken.
"I thought that would beat you!" laughed the other. "Ossification—turning to bone, 'f know."
"My wot a thing, ossification!" ejaculated the driver. "I reckon I know summat about osses, but there's osses words, 'f know. Now there's ossification—wot's that mean?"
"Moving backwards and forwards," explained the educated youth.
"Do it now!" murmured the other.
"Then I reckon it would be quite proper to ex you to take off yer 'at 'ossilate among the company for the driver, wouldn't it?"
The subsequent collection was a pronounced success from the driver's point of view.

It is now thanks to my efforts, worn out, and I think it should be replaced, and you are the man to do it. He added, however, an anxious post-script, saying: "Don't send the hymn-book; send the one dollar and fifty cents."

TOMMY TUCKER'S NEW GAME

The wheels of the old stage coach rumbled along the road on the way from Boston Town to Mother Goose Village, and Tommy Tucker sat with the little old driver all the way. Tommy Tucker and his mother had spent all the long happy vacation time in Boston Town. Tommy Tucker had seen the great big ships sail up the bay, he had been in the elevators of the great buildings and he had seen very much excited over the bears in the park and the great sea lions, but nothing had pleased him quite so much as the big blue coat policeman who stood in the middle of the street and told the people which way to go. Beside the policeman stood a big black pole that had two cross arms that turned around like a merry-go-round. Tommy Tucker had seen the policeman and the other said STOP. The letters were so large and so plain that a little boy like Tommy Tucker could read them and his mother told him that they were to help the people of Boston Town learn to take turns and they would all know when their turn came if they watched the policeman.

The next morning as soon as Tommy Tucker was up, Boy Blue and Betty Tuffy and Tom.

When Doctor Foster drove up the Lane on his way to Greater he obeyed the sign, so did Mr. Jack Spratt and Peter Peter. Big Jack Spratt followed the sign, when he went down to the Village Green and Mother Hubbard and Dog Began waited until the GO was right when they went to market. They took turns playing policeman and it was very exciting. When George Purge had his turn he turned the sign very quickly and they had to scurry across.

"We never had such a good game," declared Jack and Jill and Little Mary. Boy Blue and Betty.

"And I guess that big policeman up in Boston Town would be surprised if he could see us playing his game here in Mother Goose Village," said Tommy Tucker.

For Older Boys of Children's Corner

Here is a chance to make pocket money for yourselves. Good five boys are wanted in every village in these provinces to act as agents for the Pictorial Review magazine. This is a magazine for women, the best of its kind printed in America, and is issued every month, usually reaching agents about the tenth. It is delivered to the agents at fifteen cents per copy, and is sold by them at twenty cents, so that the boys make five cents each copy. One had got thirty customers in one day in a little village and expects to double that number before the next issue comes out. Another secured eighteen in one day as a start and is getting more right along. These boys thus earn their own pocket

TOLD BY A RANCHMAN.

A howling blizzard was sweeping over the prairie at the rate of fifty miles an hour, piling the snow in drifts from eight to ten feet deep.

I was hauling wood from a copse of timber to my cabin—a mile distant (continued the ranchman from Minnesota, who tells this thrilling tale). My oxen moved slowly. In addition to the yoke, I had put on some heavy harness, including thick leather traces. As the wind increased both my heart and I became chilled to the marrow.

"Unless we get home soon we shall surely get there at all!" I muttered, urging on the howled, staggering beasts.

But oxen, however willing, are never rapid, and the one mile seemed ten to me as the heavy beasts pushed on. I was feeling that I should surely freeze to death in a short time. I jumped down from my load, thrusting my hand into the snow, and reached my cabin in half an hour.

I knew that my oxen could not last through the night. They would appear at the ranch by daylight. But darkness came on, and no oxen.

The storm abated, and I started out with my hired men to find my cattle and load of wood. We floundered through the snow towards the timber, but the oxen were nowhere to be seen. All night long we searched about on the frozen prairie, but in vain.

After breakfast we started out again, helped this time by some of our neighbors; but after a fruitless search we came back, vanquished. No one had seen the oxen, and their disappearance caused a sensation among the people in the district.

They had either been lost for good, frozen to death in the deep snow, or else had wandered off across the prairie to some distant farmer's barn.

We advertised in the country papers, offering a reward of two hundred dollars for the return of the oxen and the wood. Two weeks passed by, but still no solution.

Then came warmer weather. There had been a thaw for several days, and much of the snow on the prairie had disappeared, leaving only about one foot in depth, except in the deep hollows of my ranch. I was driving a team of heavy farm horses over to the timber to get another load of wood, when, on passing through a small ravine a little to one side of the ordinary road, I noticed a movement in the snow.

Drawing in my reins, I alighted, and at a distance of ten feet there were my oxen, alive, still yoked together, standing in four feet of snow, with just enough of their bodies above the snow to make a movement visible.

The poor beasts had been caught between the stumps of two trees and, unable to move. The deep snow which had buried them had acted as a blanket and saved them from freezing to death. They had eaten everything a depth of three feet.

They were living skeletons. Every bone was visible. Yet they were able to walk home, and after careful feeding for a month were as strong as ever, and worked on the ranch for ten years afterwards.

There's Plenty to Do.

Chums who suppose that the driver and the stoker have little or nothing to do, when the engine has been cleaned and the coal is taken to their journey, are very much mistaken. The water feeds must be examined carefully, and the steam gauge must be watched closely. This means that the stoker must walk round the locomotive front and while it is going at top speed too. Also, from time to time, water must be thrown on the footplate, else it will become hotter than is pleasant to the feet.

We have now covered sixty miles in sixty minutes. And for the first time the driver leaves his post. We are about to take up water, but no stopping mind; we take it while going full speed. The water is in a narrow tank nearly half a mile long, situated between the rails.

When the driver gives a signal agreed upon, the fireman draws a bar. At that moment a curved pipe drops from beneath the tender, and slips into the tank. In a flash we are surrounded with spray, and the driver explains that the water is being forced upwards by the impetus of our progress. At most before I realize it the tanks on the tender are overflowing. Then the stoker draws the bar back again. The pipe ascends to its place, and all is over.

Described as a Comet.
On and on. The night seems to be blacker now, and the pace seems faster, and the road louder; but the latter, I learn, is because we are racing between rocky outcrops. On and on the driver standing like a statue, the stoker lovingly feeding his fire, I leaning over the side, gazing into the blackness, and trying to picture what we must look like to the signalman as we flash quickly by.

"I am not good at word-painting," explains the driver; "but a journalistic friend of mine called my locomotive a 'fire comet on wheels, with the longest lit-up tail he had ever seen. The smoke emitted he called 'puffs of indignation,' and he wrote that the comet seemed to have scented the Last Day, and to be fleeing from it; and that its howl—the locomotive's whistle—was a howl of warning to onlookers to prepare for the judgment."

You may talk about Beanbrough.

"You may talk about Beanbrough," said the fat plumber, "but I surely should on the bright side of things."
"What has happened to Beanbrough?" the thin carpenter inquired.
"The other day I went with him to buy a pair of shoes."
"Oh, huh."
"He didn't try them on at the store, and when he got home he found that a nail was sticking right up through the heel of one."
"He made a fuss about it when he took the shoe back."
"No. That's what I'm getting at."
"What did he do?"
"He told the clerk he supposed the nail was put there intentionally to keep the foot from sliding forward in the shoe."—Youngstown Telegram.

Simple Letters of A Simple Fellow

(By the Author of "Dere Mable.") Dere Mable— If I havnt been givin the postman a back ache lately, blame it on Uncle Charlie. He got to write me lots of letters for me to hand. You cant burn you cant do an act it is as the poets say. Things get so busy down here some days a fello dont even have a chance to write a post card let alone a letter. Uncle Charlie sez he never was so rushed in his life. He dont get a minute to turn around. I dont see wot want to turn around for a minute expect one of these whirin durtshies. Uncle Charlie got no time for no no-ones. He doesnt want to see me either. He doesnt want to see me either. He doesnt want to see me either. He doesnt want to see me either.

As soon as we start walkin' on while. I told him I go around an look at one. There was one thing I liked about the fello I went to. He had nothin underdanded about him. He let you sit by his door for about half an hour before he come in. He didnt seem to be in a hurry. He didnt seem to be in a hurry. He didnt seem to be in a hurry. He didnt seem to be in a hurry.

There was no use talkin about what went on after that. There was no use talkin about what went on after that. There was no use talkin about what went on after that. There was no use talkin about what went on after that.

So I shook hands with him. and over Sunday. I certainly would like to see some green trees again. The only thing that's green around here is the office boy. Yours truly office boys know anyting. BILL.

While I been writin this a funny thing happened. I was writin away hard some I dont like to keep the office open after 5. Uncle Charlie sez compromize in bisnis is awful important. I saw somebody come in but I didnt pay no attention. If you dont keep on writin they think you no body an go somewhere else. Somebody sez "Is Mr. Smith in?" I sez "Which Mr. Smith?" "The boss." "There's no Uncle Charlie" who do you suppose it was? Nobody else but my old Captin. I was so surprised I didnt seem to get a letter. He didnt seem to know me. So I sez "My name's Smith you know. Me an you used to be in the same battery together." That didnt seem to get him very excited. So I shook hands with him just to let him know the war was over.

Are You Superstitious? By IMOGENE BURCH DO YOU SING BEFORE YOU EAT?

"Sing before breakfast; cry before supper." This is an old superstition which is impossible to trace back to its origin. Who knows, it may first have been taught by some indolent farmer who had to have his morning slumbers disturbed by daughter's singing and so he frightened her off by an admonition appealing to her fear.

The traveling man is one of Nature's handiworks who works most with his feet. A thoughtful and far-seeing Providence has supplied the traveling man with a pair of pointed, rubberized feet which never give out until Saturday night, and when they are taken apart and allowed to breathe in a free, natural tone of voice until they are replaced.

Every hotel man who ever made a success of the business greets the traveling man with a seductive and an outside room, and sees that he is followed to his room by a water, fresh towels and the evening paper. Whenever you read of a hotel being closed in order to allow the sheriff to presume the proprietor into an adjoining store, you will find that all of the traveling men who had to sleep over night in the town, on account of the train service, preferred to sleep in somebody's hay mow and tackle the frugal but hardy short order men.

FRIENDS THOUGHT WE WOULD DIE

MR. ROBERT NEWTON. Little Bras d'Or, C. B.

"I was a terrible sufferer from Dyppepsia and Constipation for years. I had pain after eating, bloating gas, constant headaches, and did not sleep well at night. I lost so much weight—going from 185 pounds to 148 pounds—that I became alarmed and saw several doctors who, however, did me no good. Finally, a friend told me to try Fruit-A-Tives."

In a week, there was improvement. The constipation was corrected, and soon I was free of pain, headaches and that miserable feeling that accompanies Dyppepsia. I continued to take this splendid fruit medicine and now I am well, strong and vigorous."

THE MISSION TO THE VATICAN. Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, yesterday, told the House of Commons Committee considering the Civil Service Bill, when there was a motion to reduce the Finance Bill of £1,600,000 by £4,000,000, the cost of the special mission in view of the feeling exhibited by the committee the matter had been under the careful consideration of the Government, and he regretted he could not give the final decision of the War Cabinet. It was originally intended as a wartime mission, the business of the Embassy being to let the Papal court fully informed as to the objects of the Allies in entering into this war and to remove any misapprehensions. The matter could not be decided abruptly (hear, hear). He hoped a decision would be reached in a few days, and if it was decided not to continue the mission the estimates would be accordingly reduced.

NUDITY AND HEALTH. Remarkable Story of An Educational Brotherhood's Belief. Plymouth, Aug. 19.—A remarkable story of an educational brotherhood's belief in nudity as the chief factor in the physical well-being of the children placed under their care was told at Crownhill, Devon, today, when the local bench investigated a summons brought under the Children's Act. It was stated that the brotherhood had purchased a large residence with seven acres of grounds in Devon as an educational institution for orphans and foundlings, and police officials on visiting the house, found a number of children of both sexes, between the ages of three and fifteen years, playing on an open lawn stark naked. The defendants admitted that it was part of their belief that children should be made so that the sun's rays should be upon them, and that they should bathe every day in sunshine. It was a religious work. Four Lancashire children, aged from seven to two years, belonging to a member of the Brotherhood living at

"GUILT IS PERSONAL," SAYS ATTORNEY GENERAL, "AND FOOD GOUGERS MUST BE PUNISHED"

Mr. Palmer Opens the Fair Price Campaign—War Organization Recalled to Life to Protect the Consumers and All Fair Dealers.

New York, Aug. 20.—Attorney General Palmer announced last evening in an address to the Fair Price Committee, at the Biltmore Hotel, that the entire food control administration which operated during the war, is to be recalled to life and reorganized in the nation wide battle against the high cost of living.

Outlining the programme of the administration, the Attorney General appealed to New York to rally to the support of its Fair Price Committee and drive out of business the "gougers and profiteers."

"We must stop going around in the vicious circle in which we now are travelling," Mr. Palmer said. "High prices are in a race with the demand for higher wages. I appeal to the metropolis to hold fast or we will bring about an industrial disaster. The rest of the country will follow New York, the eyes of the entire nation are on the metropolis."

Hold Steady Natural Forces.

Hold steady long enough to get the natural forces working and until the processes of peace can operate and then discount will disappear, as will the menace of things worse than war. I believe the result of our fight so far has been to stop the upward trend of prices. They cannot long remain stationary, soon they will begin to sink."

The Attorney General came to New York to inaugurate the Fair Price Committee campaign to be started to-day throughout the country. He told the committee what it is expected to do and what is done here will be done in other communities. Without public opinion, he stated, nothing can be done, but if New York combines to drive out the crooks among the dealers and give public backing to its new committee the result will soon be seen in reducing prices.

In Three-fourths of the States the entire food machinery of the war is now ready to operate, he said.

The State and county administrators have returned to their posts and are ready to assist with "the same fine spirit of co-operation and patriotism which they gave during the war," he stated. "Guilt is personal; some men are behind these combinations and all this profiteering," Mr. Palmer said. "You may be assured that the criminal actions to be taken will bring quick results. They are not to be those kind of procedures which drag for years in the courts to help lawyers."

Fair Price Committees are to be organized in every county, committees taking the place of the war food control boards. The personnel and organizations will be the same as the boards as far as possible. These committees are authorized to study local conditions and then fix prices, giving a fair profit to the dealer.

Reflected in Jury Box.

"While your committee will not have legal authority to proceed in the courts I can assure you that it will represent community judgments which will be reflected in the jury box," the Attorney General said. "You fix the prices and report to the Department of Justice each and every instance of a dealer in food refusing to follow your prices. I can assure you that dealer will be a profiteer in the eyes of the community. Your standards will be accepted as fair and charges

ANGLO-PERSIAN AGREEMENT HAS STIRRED FRANCE

Interest as to Whether President Wilson Has Consented to Protectorate.

PARIS HAD NOTICE OF AGREEMENT

French Think Roumanians May Well Be Amused at Attitude of Some of the Conference Delegates.

Paris, Aug. 20.—With Premier Clemenceau on a vacation, President Wilson in Washington and Premier David Lloyd George in England, it is difficult for persons in Paris to understand the protectorate Great Britain has negotiated with Persia as the party of the second part. Hints of an agreement imposed by Great Britain on Persia were heard here a week ago, when it became known that the Shah intended to make a trip to Switzerland.

Details of the Anglo-Persian agreement announced in London last Friday, came as a shock to France. The French, while appearing to accept the British statement that the protectorate arrangement is a sort of Persian aid measure, recall that the expressions in connection with the integrity and independence of Persia contained in the new pact are identical with those contained in the Anglo-Persian agreement of 1907.

The truth is Great Britain is establishing a protectorate over Persia, and what the French want to know is whether President Wilson is in agreement with the British in this as it was declared he was with the British policy in Egypt.

It was said here today that the Roumanians may well be amused at the attitude of the British peace delegates in joining with other peace conference representatives in telling the Roumanians they had accepted a British shadow of the League of Nations in their Hungarian campaign, while at the same time the British appropriate a nation that had been invited to join the League of Nations.

It was said here by opponents of the League of Nations that the latest British move should serve as an inspiration to United States Senators who are fighting for as many votes in the league for the United States as Great Britain and her dominions combined will have.

L'Action Francaise this morning wonders if President Wilson will not only sink his freedom of the seas declaration but will accept a British protectorate over Egypt and Persia. Certain members of the American peace delegation here also would like to be informed on these points.

Chairman of Polish Delegation in Conference With Germans Gives Reason for Rupture in Negotiations.

Berlin advices of August 20 announce the decision of the Polish delegation to break off negotiations, and asserted it was in the nature of a complete surprise to the German delegates as well as to the German government. It was added, however, that the question of the resumption of the conference would be taken up as soon as possible between the Polish delegates and Under Secretary Von Haniel.

While others were waiting for prices to drop—we bought. Now that prices are higher than ever, we have goods, while the hesitant ones can only offer you excuses. The tailors who tell you that imported fabric in novelty patterns are now unobtainable, are telling only part of the truth—as we are showing hundreds of rich designs at our standardized prices.

Suits and Overcoats Tailored-To-Your-Measure

No connection with any other concern in Canada.

THERE is a heap of real satisfaction in having your clothes Tailored-to-Your-Measure, as you want them—to meet your individual ideas—to fit perfectly and to be designed in keeping with the latest modes. Styles for men have undergone so many changes in the past few months that only a tailor can supply the authoritative fashions—this is the chief reason for our tailoring being in greater demand now than ever.

BOYS' AND YOUTHS' SCHOOL CLOTHES
Made-to-Measure from good dependable woollens like dad wears, not the usual cheap used in boys' clothes. Out-of-town customers, write for Boys' and Youths' Style Book.

TROUSERS—We are showing exceptional values in odd trousers from special trouser lengths. As many of these clothes are shown in very limited quantities, we will be obliged to make customers for a second choice.

NATURE'S LAXATIVE FOR MAN

is the whole wheat grain properly cooked, with the outer bran-coat prepared in such a way as not to irritate the intestines. In making Shredded Wheat Biscuit we retain the outer bran-coat, so useful in promoting bowel exercise, at the same time supplying all the rich, body-building material in the whole wheat grain in a digestible form. The most real food for the least money. Deliciously nourishing for any meal with sliced bananas, peaches or other fruits.
