Doan's Kidney Pills
 Tone and regulate the kidneys and help to throw off the poisons from the system.
 Sold by
 Geo. Stables, P. O. Box 500, Drayton, Ont. N. B. For years I have suffered from kidney trouble. I have tried many different remedies but have not been cured. I have seen an advertisement for Doan's Kidney Pills and have bought a box. Before commencing to take them I was unable to do my work. I have now taken a second box and I feel as if I had been cured. I would like to see a picture of the man who discovered this wonderful medicine.
 I am recommending Doan's Kidney Pills to all my friends who are suffering from kidney trouble. I have taken a box for $1.00, all Druggists and Dealers sell them.

Billiousness
 is caused by torpid liver, which prevents digestion and causes food to ferment and putrefy in the stomach. This causes dizziness, headache, indigestion, biliousness, etc.
 If not relieved, biliousness leads to blood poisoning. Hood's Pills stimulate the stomach, cleanse the liver, remove humors, and restore the system to its normal condition. It is a safe and reliable remedy for all cases of biliousness. It is sold by all Druggists and Dealers.
Hood's Pills

IMPURE BLOOD

is the cause of nearly all diseases.
 As the blood supplies every bone, muscle, nerve, tissue in the body, these parts will be in the same condition as the blood.
 Unless the blood is absolutely free from the poisons, it will be in an unhealthy condition and sickness will be sure to arise.
 To keep well the blood must be kept pure by using the great blood purifier.

Gates' Life Man Bitter
 and Syrup which have been tested for the last 60 years curing many cases of Dropsy, Liver Complaint, Humors and all blood diseases.
 If you want proof, write for testimonials of those who have been cured by them in the provinces. Sold everywhere at 25c. per bottle, $1.50 per dozen, and at wholesale by

A Surprise,
 To take place in the neighborhood of Thomas Russell's store.
LOOK OUT FOR IT!
 The country people will benefit by it. Newcastleites will see that I am alive to their interests and that the new industry is one to which St. John offers special advantages. Certainly there would be ample reason for the country people to keep a large plant in operation. Mr. Emerson has invented machinery that is practically automatic in its operation, which converts the sawdust and other wood waste into a superior grade of carbon that can be sold in competition with coke, being produced for about 50 cents a ton. For carbon there are many uses, the chief being in the manufacture of calcium carbide. The by-products of the waste can be utilized in making white lead, paints, acetate of copper, calcium acetate, varnishes, printers' ink and many other products. It is expected that the machinery will be put into operation at St. John. A very practical use of the carbon is for smelting purposes and it is an industry that should flourish in St. John. A practical test of the Emerson process was given a few days ago in Ottawa at the mill of W. C. Edwards, N. B., and it was shown that the machine would do all that was claimed for it. Now the capital is being looking for great results from the establishment of the works there and also from the building of a smelter. It is expected among other things to produce a large amount of heat and illuminating purposes superior to any now on the market and much cheaper than being carried and having no expiating properties.—St.
 John Globe.

General Intelligence
 TO LONDON IN THREE DAYS.
 THAT IS WHAT THE TOUR WILL BE BY THE TURBINE STEAMER.
 If the two turbine steamships that are now being built on the Tyne come up to the expectations of their designers, Canada will be called upon to make no contribution to the establishment of a fast Atlantic service. The service will come about its own accord, and it will be a fast service in very truth. A London newspaper says that the service will be a well-considered commercial venture with the aid of financial backing.
 We are told that plans have already been drawn up for the formation of a joint transportation company, which, if the new boat proves a success, will at once order a fleet of the same kind. Simultaneously there will be begun the construction of a sub-marine tunnel between Ireland and England, so that trains may run through from London to Galway Bay, which is intended to be the point of departure of the surprising line. On the western side of the Atlantic, the distance between New York and Liverpool is 3,100 miles, or about one-half that between New York and London. It is expected that the new boats will make forty miles an hour at least, so that the trip to Newfoundland will be made in forty hours. Express trains will convey passengers across the island, and a few hours' run by steamer from the western coast of Newfoundland will make connections with the American railway system. By means of this astonishing service New York and Montreal will be brought within a little over three days of each other.

BRITISH SAILORS KILLED.
 20 BRITISH SAILORS ANNIHILATED BY MUSKET-BARRAGE.
 CANADA, ISLAND OF CRETE, Sept. 7.— The British battleship Cumberland having on board Sir A. Blythe, the British consul at Crete, has arrived here. Several of our warships have also reached this port. Reinforcements of bluejackets have been landed and an early restoration of quiet is expected. The fires have been extinguished but during the rioting the British and German consulates were burned.
 The custom house barracks and court house were spared. Quiet is being rapidly restored.
 LONDON, Sept. 7.—Sir A. Blythe, the British consul at Crete, who went to Crete on board the British battleship Cumberland, has returned to London. He has been on guard at the riotous town of Heraklion for several days. The rioting was suddenly stopped in the back and he dropped the rifle which he was carrying, killing a man, the firing then became general, and a party of twenty British bluejackets, from the British torpedo boat Hesperus, was almost annihilated before the sailors could reach their ship. In addition a detachment of 45 British soldiers were driven from their quarters near the telegraph station and many of them were wounded.
 The total casualties as far as are known, are 20 killed and 150 wounded. The fate of the Christians of other towns is uncertain but it is feared that only those who succeeded in obtaining refuge in the Court house have been saved.
 The British vice-consul, Mr. Colchester, was buried to death in his house.

SIR HERBERT KITCHENER.
 Sir Herbert Kitchener, who on Saturday smashed the Khalifa, has been a man of the day before this, and probably will be again for he makes a point of doing something notable about once a year.
 This year he has done it twice, for on Good Friday last he fell upon the Khalifa's advanced guard at the Akbara and fairly annihilated it. Now he has destroyed the Khalifa's power in his chosen stronghold. Sir Herbert will be raised to the Peerage for this victory. [Is an engineer officer and 48 years old.
 He is thus young to be a general of eight or nine years' standing, and his rise in the army for a while was, as he was thought to be a plodder rather than a brilliant man. His chance came when he joined the Egyptian army at the time of the Egyptian campaign by Sir Francis Grenfell. His high qualities were soon seen, and he commanded the Egyptian cavalry from 1882 to 1884, and then, after serving in Lord Wolsey's expedition, was governor of Suakin for a couple of years more, becoming Sir in 1880.
 He also found time for some exceedingly daring exploration work, and gained a profound knowledge of the natives. An article he has done wonderful work. He is a master organizer, can do more with narrow means than any other soldier in the empire, probably in the world, and has a record of audacity and unbroken success. His prestige among the fatalistic Arabs by this time is immense.]

RAILWAY DISASTER.
 TAUNTON, MASS., Sept. 7.—Two trains over the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, from Boston, one from Park square station and the other from the Kneeland street station came into collision at Whitton Junction about two miles above the station here just before 6 o'clock last night, and in the wreck which followed, in one of the cars of the Park square train 15 persons were more or less injured, one of whom, Harry W. McIntyre, has since died and another, Nicholas Young, of the city, is expected to live.

A HEALTHY WOMAN.
 Nine-tenths of all the suffering and disease in the world comes from the kidneys. Yet how few people there are who take any care of these delicate little organs.
 Backache, lame back, headache, list-lessness, and signs of kidney trouble, are almost universal.

THE ALSACE-LORRAINE QUESTION MUST BE CONSIDERED.
 St. PETERSBURG, Sept. 7.—The Novosti, in a long article declares that the principle subject to be considered by the disarmament congress must be the question of Alsace-Lorraine.
 It anticipates that the result of the consideration of this matter will be either the neutralization or independence of Alsace-Lorraine, which will now be possible without wounding the amour propre of either nation.
 Both Germany and France, says the Novosti, could make this self sacrifice to attain the Czar's worthy object, and thus restore friendship and relieve the world of the burden of armed peace.

What Does the Prohibition Mean?

The Royal commission on the liquor traffic did a very important work and gave some very interesting details and valuable statistics in relation to the liquor traffic.

Three weeks ago we felt it incumbent upon us to protest against the wanton waste of life which was taking place as a result of the criminal incompetency of the War Department.

One of the most heartless and inexorable blunders of the department has been that of permitting so-called conscripts to set out alone for the front.

Now it very naturally follows that if such a defective and partial prohibition law as the Scott Act lessens drunkenness and crime to such an appreciable extent.

The report of the royal commission also found that the records of the St. John police court show that of all the cases dealt with, drunkenness alone furnishes over 60 per cent of the percentage.

One thing is certain—there is a growing feeling throughout the country that the time is ripe for an official investigation.

A great wrong has been done, the responsibility of which rests directly upon the shoulders of Secretary Alger, or upon some or more of the departments to which he is attached.

It is very necessary that this evil should be exposed and that the public should be made acquainted with the real cause of our crime, disorder and misery.

It is not the offender alone who suffers—a small part of the suffering, imagination travels down the rugged road of intemperance and dissipation and sees on either hand the work of this desperate demon.

It is ours to say on the 26th of this month whether we wish this evil to continue in our midst or be banished from our land.

It is our duty to say whether we wish every loyal Canadian would do his duty on that day when he should vote a better state of things.

The question of total prohibition has been often considered by Parliament and Legislature, and practical efforts to secure legislation have been made and sometimes these efforts have been impeded by dispute as to whether the right to prohibit belongs to the Dominion or to the various provinces.

House of Commons has said that total prohibition would be the most effective remedy for the evils of intemperance and has decided that as soon as public opinion is prepared to sustain stringent measures they will provide the necessary legislation.

There were sixteen failures in Canada last week as compared to thirty-five for the corresponding week last year.

There is a movement on foot in Jamaica to annex that island to the Dominion of Canada.

The Prohibition Campaign

Are you in favor of passing a law prohibiting the importation, manufacture or sale of spirits, wine, ale, beer, stout and all other alcoholic liquors for use as beverages?

Mark your ballot as above. The proclamation for the approaching prohibition campaign has been posted up throughout the country.

The several committees in charge of the prohibition campaign are working hard to roll up a big majority in Northumberland County.

The polling booths are in some instances too far apart, voters from Chatham Head have to go about six miles to deposit their vote.

Rev. E. C. Baker will lecture on the Prohibition question at Lower Blackville on Saturday evening.

St. JOHN.—The scene on the harbor Friday night was a rare one. Hundreds of row boats containing happy parties glided over the smooth water and clustered around H. S. Indefatigable.

Mr. David Carson of Dunsmuir, York Co. is here visiting his sister, Mrs. James Copeland.

Mr. Fred Copeland and children have returned from their visit to Fitchburg and Boston, Mass.

Mr. C. P. Atkinson returned home Saturday night from his visit to Bangor.

Stafford Williamson left by Saturday's express for St. John where he will spend a couple of weeks visiting friends.

Mr. Buchanan's Lectures. A large and appreciative audience greeted Mr. Buchanan, the great temperance lecturer, at his first lecture last Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Mr. Buchanan's lectures were well received and his speaking was of a high order.

Correspondence. NORTH EAST, North Co., Sept. 9, 1898. To the Editor of the Union Advocate.

Are our representatives our servants or our masters? How much does Mr. Brewer the favorite contributor to the funds for early elections? These are questions I often hear asked by people in this country and there seems to be some reason for asking such questions.

Mr. Speaker Burhill has given it his opinion that it is a question for the Department and not for the members of the County to bother themselves with. Mr. J. Tweedie says it is his duty to stop the work. Did ever any one hear such paltry excuses from men who are supposed to look after the interests of all sections of the county? If this bridge was near Mr. Burhill's place at Nelson and was constructed with such disregard of the law, would Mr. Burhill act the old woman, as he is now doing? Or would Mr. Tweedie not feel called on to interfere and have the work done according to contract if it was work for Mr. Tweedie at his own residence? There can be but one answer to these questions. We don't want any bridge that is not supposed to go on and to be finished according to contract. Have the local members attempted to justify the work, or to publicly reply to my charges made some weeks ago? Mr. Tweedie does not seem to be going on and to be finished according to contract. Have the local members attempted to justify the work, or to publicly reply to my charges made some weeks ago? Mr. Tweedie does not seem to be going on and to be finished according to contract.

One of the latest devices to pull the wool over the eyes of our poor country people is that of the westerly pier that was made instead of the easterly pier. If such a mistake was made it is very creditable to the Department's engineer, but it is looked upon by our people as a miserable excuse to put money into the pocket of a travelling public. In brief, the time was limited so that none of our local bridge builders could attempt to tender for it, so it fell to the favorite who has as many as six contracts and other contracts and who in which case one must supply their place from the old Moorfield cemetery, which is said to have domed at a recent election. Awaiting their answer or action.

Yours truly, JOHN MENZIES.

He reports that when going in this party investigated the reported gold find at Stewart River and tributary, but found no trace of gold. They say a member of the Doherty-Yon party, a party of Bathurst, was among 5,000 others prospecting in that vicinity. Foran came out on account of ill health. The party had been in a bad effect upon him and his party went in, in now down.

REMEMBER

This nation has christened no angel; it is marked contrast with the glory first-dignity of the past months, during which every eye has been turned to the "governor," and it was generally believed that the country's rivals were out-matching her at every point. The completeness of the victory has been most exhilarating influence and has undoubtedly impressed the continental nations, while the cordial praise called out the American press has been most appreciated here.

ly against continental Europe for the antics of the Holy Alliance. It will cherish none against it for this unfriendly disposition, if such indeed was meant. It will remember the latter as it does the former, as something of merely historic and academic interest. But it will remember the friendship of Great Britain in this emergency with gladness and gratitude that no lapse of time will dim.

GREAT-AUNT BELINDA'S LECTURE CAKE.

Little Sophia hurried up the school hill so fast that she was quite breathless when she reached the top, and her thin, delicate face was all a faint rose-color. She stood still a moment, panting softly; then she beckoned mysteriously to Beulah Wood. Beulah was playing 'water merino tansy' with a group of girls, but she left the circle promptly and slipped her arm around Sophia's waist.

'Aren't you coming to play?' she asked. Sophia shook her head scornfully. She was a gentle little soul, but even the gentlest may possess some small pinnacle of pride from which, occasionally, it looks down upon the world. Sophia that morning stood upon hers.

'My second cousin, Emmeline Green, is going to be married Monday,' she said. 'Is she?' responded Beulah, looking impressed. 'And we're going—all of us,' continued Sophia.

Beulah gave a cry of delight. 'You're going to a real wedding?' 'Yes.' 'Sophia Barney, I should think you'd be too proud to live!' Sophia turned her excited little face to her friend. 'And mother's going to make a loaf of Great-Aunt Belinda's election cake to-morrow. She's going to let me help her!' she finished triumphantly.

'O Sophia!' gasped Beulah. Sophia squeezed Beulah's arm joyously. 'Isn't it lovely?' she chattered. 'We're going Monday morning at seven o'clock, so we'll have to stay all night. I'll be away from school two days. I wish you were going too, Beulah.' 'I'm so glad that you are!' Beulah answered generously.

'But you don't know what mother's going to let me do!' 'What is she?' 'She's going to let me have a little twenty bit of the 'lection cake and bake it myself, and then she said I could have you over Saturday afternoon and we'll eat it together.'

Beulah gave an ecstatic skip. 'Oh, she cried, 'do think your mother's just lovely, Sophia Barney! I know I can't be able to get my lessons, thinking about it. Why didn't you wait till after school to tell me?' 'I couldn't,' laughed Sophia. 'Well, I don't wonder,' answered Beulah.

Before night everybody in the village knew that the Barneys were going to a wedding on the next Monday, and that Mrs. Barney was going to 'bake a loaf of her famous election-cake to carry. Everybody knew about Mrs. Barney's election-cake. The rule had been given her by a great-aunt, and she had kept its secret jealousy. However much other housewives might try, no one yet had succeeded in rivaling it, and for ten years Mrs. Barney's cake had taken first prize at the country fair.

'May I seed the raisins now?' she asked. 'Yes, I guess you may,' her mother answered, absently. Sophia ran joyfully for a cup of water and an old knife. Seeding raisins is not generally an enviable occupation, but sometimes there are compensations. Besides the high privilege of assisting in the making of the cake, Sophia was allowed to have one raisin out of every twenty-five that she stoned.

She drew a chair to the table and worked with slow carefulness, putting the raisins as they were stoned in rows across a piece of paper; each row contained twenty-four raisins, and when the number was complete she put one aside. She was a very honest little girl, and picked out only medium-sized ones for herself. Once her mother looked up from her measuring and sifting.

'Why aren't you eating your raisins?' she asked. 'Oh, that's it, is it?' answered her mother. 'Well, I guess I can spare you some for Beulah, if you want. You may take out ten extra for her.'

Sophia clasped her sticky little hands and beamed across the raisins. 'It will be almost a party!' she said. 'I guess you wouldn't have such cake at any party you'd go to, said her mother.'

'No, I guess we wouldn't,' the loyal Sophia responded earnestly. She finished the raisins and then stood quietly beside her mother, watching her stir the dark, spicy mass and put it into two pans—the big square one for cousin Emmeline and the tiny round one for her. Finally the oven door was closed upon him, and she drew a long sigh, half of anticipation, and half of regret; the first stage of the ceremony was ended.

Mrs. Barney glanced at the clock. 'I guess we'd better go and do the up-stairs work and leave the dishes just now,' she said. 'There'll be more to wash later, anyhow, and we might as well make one job of it. Come on, Sophia.'

Sophia trotted obediently upstairs after her mother. There was extra work to do, since it was Saturday, and when they came down again it was time to look at the cake. Mrs. Barney opened the oven door carefully, and the rich, spicy smell floated out into the kitchen.

'Just six minutes more it needs,' she announced, critically. 'It's risen beautifully—never made a better one. Emmeline may think herself lucky to have such a cake, if I do say it. Why, Mrs. Wood, I don't bear you come?' Mrs. Wood stood apologetically at the door. 'I'm afraid I'm interrupting you,' she said, glancing at the table. 'I just ran over to borrow a mite of cream-tartar. I hadn't any idea I was so near out.'

'You aren't interrupting,' Mrs. Barney answered. 'I've just been making a loaf of Great-Aunt Belinda's cake for a cousin of mine that's to be married Monday.'

'Yes, I heard about that,' Mrs. Wood responded. 'Beulah's counting on coming over this afternoon. It was real good of you to ask her.'

'I thought Emmeline could spare a bit of her cake to the children. She'll never know the difference—she'll be thinking of other things than cake just then,' Mrs. Barney laughed.

She had gone into the closet and returned with some cream-tartar. Mrs. Wood took it, declining to stop. 'I've got to get back to my baking,' she said, and hurried nervously away.

An hour later the wedding cake heavily frosted, was set away in state on one of Mrs. Barney's blue plates, and beside it was the little cake, all iced, in an old saucer. Sophia, while helping about dinner, kept running into the pantry to ask for it. 'I thought Emmeline could spare a bit of her cake to the children. She'll never know the difference—she'll be thinking of other things than cake just then,' Mrs. Barney laughed.

One, as her mother went briskly about gathering together her materials, the paper fluttered to the floor. Sophia picked it up, and then stood solemnly beside the table, holding the paper in place with a little thin finger, lest it blow off again. When everything was ready, she looked up eagerly.

One loaf of bread may be light, sweet and digestible. You may use the same materials for another and have it heavy, sour and soggy. The knack is in putting the ingredients together just right. A substitute for Scott's Emulsion may have the same ingredients and yet not be a perfect substitute, for no one knows how to put the parts together as we do. The secret of "how" is our business—twenty-five years of experience has taught us the best way.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER CURED.

Mrs. Lydia A. Fowler, Electric Street, Amherst, N.S., testifies to the good effects of the new specific for all heart and nerve troubles.

Mrs. Fowler adds: 'My daughter, now fifteen years of age, was pale, weak and run down, and she also took Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for some time, and is now strong, healthy and vigorous.'

Mrs. Fowler writes: 'I had taken great many remedies without receiving any benefit, a friend induced me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I had only been taking them a short time when I felt that they were doing me great good; so I continued their use and now feel all right. I can hardly recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for nervous prostration.'

Mrs. Fowler writes: 'I was troubled with indigestion and pain in the small of my back, and after taking Lax-Liver Pills for about three weeks they completely cured me.' Price 50c, all druggists.

look at it. 'I guess Beulah'll be surprised to see it frosted,' she said happily, to herself. 'I do hope she won't be late!'

But Beulah wasn't late; she rustled up to the door in her fresh calico just as the clock struck three, and a few minutes later the two little figures, one carrying a paper of raisins and the other the precious cake, went down the path to the orchard. It was still and warm and sweet down there, with the sunlight dropping through the thinning leaves, and the golden rod standing a stoop to nod to them over the stone wall.

Beulah looked around delightedly. 'I don't believe the wedding will be any nicer than this,' she cried.

Sophia smiled across at her contentedly. She wanted to say the wedding wouldn't be as nice because Beulah wouldn't be there, but she was too shy. Perhaps Beulah guessed it, in the sweet silence of that late summer afternoon interpenetrations were easy.

The golden hours slipped away, and finally Beulah started up reluctantly. 'I don't want to go a bit,' she said, 'but I know it's time for me to. It's been such a lovely afternoon, Sophia.'

'I wish it wasn't gone,' Sophia answered, wistfully. 'Beulah turned her laughing face to her friend. 'You're such a funny girl!' she said. 'Now I enjoy things, but I just keep on enjoying. I don't feel sad when they're over, the way you do.'

'I can't help it, somehow,' Sophia answered, soberly. Suddenly she threw arms around her friend. 'I do love you so! I couldn't bear it if we weren't friends—I know I couldn't!' she cried, half sobbing.

Beulah looked at her in wonder. 'As if we shouldn't always be friends?' she exclaimed. 'Do you think I change, Sophia Barney?' (To be continued.)

Garn and Household. CANNING AND PRESERVING. In the 'Angest Ladies' Home Journal Mrs. S. T. Rorer writes on 'Canning and Preserving' At the outset of her lesson she emphasizes the value of securing perfectly sound and fresh fruits, and the necessity of getting the cans and canning appliances ready in advance. 'To prevent breakage when filling the jars,' Mrs. Rorer advises that they be 'slipped sideways into a kettle of hot water, rolling them so that every part may become quickly and uniformly heated. Fold a damp towel, place it in the bottom of a pudding pan, then near the preserving kettle, stand a jar on the towel, and if the fruit is small adjust the funnel; fill quickly to overflowing. Run a heated knife around the inside of the jar, to break any air bubbles that may have been caught with the fruit, and adjust the hot water and place it at once. If large fruit fill with a wooden spoon, arranging the fruit so that the weight of one piece will not destroy the shape of another. Fill to overflowing with the liquid, water of syrup, and fasten tightly. After sealing stand the jars out of a draught over night. The glass by that time will have contracted, and the lids will, in consequence, be loose. Wipe each jar carefully and give the top an extra turn. Put away in a cool, not cold, dark closet. At the end of a week examine each jar carefully, without shaking or disturbing more than necessary. If you find the lids slightly indented, the contents free from air bubbles or froth, and the liquid settled, you may rest assured 'they will keep.' If you do not find it so, open the jars to prevent bursting. Reheat the fruit, being careful to bring it to a boiling point, and re-can.'

Apples contain so much pectose that little labor or care is involved in jelly-making. Peaches and pears, and even currants, when over ripe, contain so little pectose that an experienced jelly-maker may easily fail. Jelly made from currants under-ripe and fresh from the bush will congeal before you can transfer it from the kettle to the tumbler.

The chimney of a lamp should never be touched with water. A few drops of alcohol, or even paraffine oil, will remove the dimmed, smoky effect, and make the chimney bright, when it is polished with a soft, flannel or chamois skin.

If ink is spilled on a carpet or woollen tablecloth, put on immediately a thick layer of common salt. When this has absorbed all the ink possible scrape off with a spoon and apply more. Keep doing this until all the ink has been taken up.

Apples and potatoes should never be kept in the same cellar, because apples need a well-ventilated, cool room, and potatoes a warmer place. The barrels of apples should be well headed up during the winter and not headed until the apples are wanted for use.

One of the simplest disinfectants of the sick room is ground coffee burned on a shovel so as to fill the atmosphere of the room with its pungent aromatic odor. If two red-hot coals are placed on a fire shovel and teaspoonful of ground coffee is sprinkled over them at a time using three teaspoonfuls in all, it will fill the room with its aroma and will have the hygienic effect of preventing the spread of various epidemic diseases. The odor is very agreeable and soothing to a sick person, where other disinfectants prove disagreeable.

Temperance A COLD WATER STORY. Somewhere lives a small farmer of such social habits that his coming home intoxicated was once no unusual thing. His wife urged him to reform. 'Why, he would say, 'I don't like to break off at once; it ain't wholesome. The best way is always to get used to a thing by degrees, you know.' 'Very well, old man, his helpmeet would reply, 'see now if you don't fall into a hole one of these days, while you can't take care of yourself, and nobody near to take you out.' Sure enough, as to verify the prophecy, a couple of days after, returning from a glorious frolic, the old fellow reeled into his own well, and after a deal of useless scrambling, 'for the light of his eyes,' to come and help him out. 'Didn't I tell you so,' said the good soul, 'slowing her earfull over the edge of the parapet 'you've got into a hole at last and its only lucky I'm in hearing or you might have drowned.' 'Well, she continued, after a pause, letting down the bucket, 'take hold.' And up he came higher at every turn of the windlass, until the old lady's grasp, slipping from the handle, down he went to the bottom again. This occurring more than once made the temporary occupant of the well suspicious, 'look here,' he screamed in fury, at the last splash. 'You're doing that on purpose; I know you are.'

'Well, now I am,' responded his old woman tranquilly, while winding him up once more; 'Didn't you tell me its best to get used to a thing by degrees? I'm afraid if I was to bring you right up on a sudden, you wouldn't find it wholesome.'

ANGLO-AMERICAN ALLIANCE

Mr. Chamberlain's attention was then directed to the subject of the talked-of alliance between the United States and Great Britain. "I think," he went on, "that a somewhat extensive view has been taken in some quarters of the desire to establish the best friendly relations between the two nations. So far as I understand the question, there is no proposition of a hard and fast formal alliance proposed. A regularly drawn up and signed treaty is not suggested so far as my knowledge goes.

THE CZAR'S CLOSE CALL

DARING ATTEMPT—FOR HIS LIFE AT MOSCOW. New York, Sept. 8.—A despatch to The World from London says:—A report published here of a daring plot to assassinate the Czar of Russia at Moscow last week. The plan of the conspirators was to allow gas to escape into a house on the route of the Czar's procession through the atmosphere in a room had become saturated. One of their number was to remain in the house and strike a light when the Czar passed, in expectation that the house would be blown to pieces and the Czar would be killed.

EMPERESS ELIZABETH OF AUSTRIA ASSASSINATED

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 10.—The Empress of Austria was assassinated at the Hotel Beauvau this afternoon by an anarchist, who was arrested. He stabbed her majesty with a stiletto. It appears that her majesty was walking from her hotel to the landing place of the steamer about noon, when she was suddenly approached and stabbed by the assassin. The Empress fell, and the assassin fled. The boat started, but the Empress had not returned and the Empress was carried to the Hotel Beauvau where she expired.

ANGLO-GERMAN TREATY

New York, Sept. 8.—The 'Tribune' says: Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, has been in London for the first time that such an alliance had been made. Despatches from London yesterday made it clear in that country it was still a matter of conjecture whether there was any true basis for the treaty of the Philippines by the United States and Germany.
