INFECTIONOUS AND CONTAGIOUS DISEASES IN LONDON.

It is really time that the Board of Health and its officers adopted some stringent means to compel the proper reporting and placarding of infectious and contagious diseases in the city.

Complaints are made that diseases are not reported promptly by some medical men or by householders, and it is alleged that children living in houses where so virulent a disease as scarlet fever exists are permitted to attend both Sunday and public schools.

In the absence of placards, or of reports to school teachers, it can easily be seen how infectious and contagious diseases can be spread to an alarming extent. Typhoid fever is not so dangerous an affection as scarlet fever, because it is not so communicable, and it is rarely communicated by mere personal contact.

But, for the protection of the community, it is just as necessary that typhoid should be called by its right name, and not dubbed "malaria," and the outbreak promptly reported to the health authorities, as it is to report infectious diseases like scarlet fever or diphtheria.

In every case, the object of the law makers is to have prompt means adopted to discover the source of the disease, to isolate those afflicted by it, to adopt all necessary remedies to prevent its spread.

Scarlet fever, which now prevails in London more extensively than is generally supposed, is more difficult to combat than typhoid, because of its highly contagious character. The infectious material remains for a long time in garments, etc., preserving its power of reproducing the disease.

As complete protection can be secured only by avoiding the infection through contact with or proximity to patients and disinfecting everything which may convey it, the necessity for the utmost precaution on the part of householders, doctors and teachers of schools must be evident to all.

Why, when there is so much danger from neglecting the precautions laid down by law on the advice of the best medical authority available, is there any trouble in carrying out the regulations? The trouble may be traced to a mistaken idea regarding the question of placarding residences.

Many people do not like to have it announced that there is an infectious or contagious disease in their house. They object to it for various causes, and if the disease is not placarded it follows that it is not reported to the school teachers, and disastrous results are apt to follow.

But no objection can be sufficiently strong to overcome the vital necessity for having the disease reported, neighbors warned, children kept isolated from other children, the disease combated and confined in its operations. We can easily see how a child going to school from a house in which there is scarlet fever can carry infection that will take the disease, and, it may be, death and desolation into many homes.

Can any needed precaution to avert so great a calamity be too stringently enforced? Assuredly not.

The Board of Health should make a thorough investigation into the manner in which the public health regulations are carried out, with the view of insisting that there shall be no laxity, no matter who the persons affected may be. No influence should be allowed to interfere with the strictest enforcement of every regulation.

EX-ALD. J. R. PEEL, who has just returned from Europe, by way of New York, says the quarantine regulations in that city are very strict.

Before a passenger can land, or can begin his journey on the railway, he has to possess a certificate in the following form, duly filled up: IMMIGRANT STATION, ELLIS ISLAND, Part of New York... 1892.

I hereby certify that... I have observed this day from the Cunard steamer... and have been under observation by the quarantine officials for a sufficient time in their opinion to determine that... is not the germ of cholera in its various forms, and all other... personal effects and belongings have been subjected to that such disinfection as they deemed sufficient. Cabin passenger.

SURGEON, U. S. M. H. S. How different is the treatment to that meted forth to new arrivals at many Atlantic ports less than 30 years ago. Then, as at Boston, for example, the doctors believed that quarantine had no effect in preventing the disease; the microbe had not been discovered, and it was believed that some mysterious influence in the wind or in the air carried the infection, whatever it was, from one place to another.

Now it is known that quarantine and fumigation and general cleanliness are the most effective preventives that can be adopted, and the consequence is that the plague loses half its terrors.

THE VOTERS' LISTS NOW READY FOR REVISION.

"A Taxpayer" asks us to explain the purport of the recently published advertisement by the city clerk of London regarding the Ontario Voters' Lists.

The notice is given by the clerk in accordance with the Ontario Voters' Lists Act of 1889, which made some interesting provisions regarding the rights of voters in elections for municipal officers and for members of the Legislature.

By this act the clerk of each municipality must, immediately after the final revision and correction of the assessment roll in every year, make a correct alphabetical list in three parts of all persons of the full age of 21 years, British subjects by birth or naturalization, and appearing by the assessment roll to be entitled to be voters in the municipality.

The first of the three parts of the list must contain the names, in alphabetical order, of all male persons of full age, etc., appearing by the roll entitled to vote in both municipal elections and elections for members of the Legislative Assembly. The second part must contain the names, in alphabetical order, of all other male persons of full age, etc., and all widows and unmarried women of full age, etc., entitled to vote in the municipality at municipal elections only.

The third part must contain the names, in alphabetical order, of all other male persons, of full age, etc., entitled to vote in the municipality at elections for members of the Legislature only. The name of the same person must not be entered more than once in any such part.

It is this list which City Clerk Kingston hung up for inspection in his office on Sept. 29, in order that any person whose name is omitted from the list, who is wrongly described, or who may object to any name being on the list, may take the necessary action to have the wrong righted. The list may also be seen in the postoffice. Under the act, this revision must be effected by written application to the city clerk (as provided in form 6 of the act) within 30 days of the first publication of the lists at the city clerk's office.

This year, the first publication was on Sept. 29, so that 30 days from that date the time for applying to be put on the lists expires.

What, it may be asked, are the qualifications necessary to get on the lists? Generally speaking, owners, tenants, and general voters are entitled to be on the lists as voters in municipal elections as well as in elections for the Ontario Legislature if they reside within the city limits. Every young man of 21 years of age and a British subject is entitled to be on the list under the manhood franchise provision of the Act, provided he has lived in the Province nine months prior to the making up of the assessment roll and has lived in the city since the roll was made up. It costs a manhood franchise voter nothing to be placed on the roll.

It is not generally known that in the next election of a member for the Ontario Legislature the whole six wards of the city will vote. Under the Ontario law there is no voting all over the country by citizens having interests in common. Nos. 5 and 6 wards are now just as much a part of the city in Ontario elections as Nos. 1 and 2.

SIR CHARLES RUSSELL, Gladstone's Attorney-General, has been compelled to give up a law practice of $35,000 in order to take office. Such a sacrifice is not of frequent occurrence in Great Britain, but in the majority of cases where M.P.s. are dependent on their brains for a living, whether in Canada or in Great Britain, there can be no doubt that they lose by serving the people. There is a fascination in public life, however, that seems in some way to afford them compensation for their financial losses.

A LONDON UNIVERSITY.

Ald. Yates has succeeded in getting the City Council to memorialize the Board of Education to report upon the advisability of having the Collegiate Institute placed upon a basis for giving a university course, so that it may have the right to confer degrees.

The motion, no matter what its outcome, has a laudable object in view. What the city needs, and the West would be equally benefited if London possessed it, is a complete educational equipment from the kindergarten to the university. It has very nearly that equipment now. It is possible for a student to climb two rungs of the university ladder at the Collegiate Institute. Why should it not be possible to ascend the other two rungs with an additional equipment?

We have the Western University now, perhaps it may be possible to so harmonize interests as to speedily effect the object which the motion has in view. It is certainly worth trying.

A POINT FOR STORY WRITERS.

A correspondent asks why so many stories, avowedly written for children, are studded with jaw-breaking words that even grown people have difficulty in understanding except by reference to the dictionary? We cannot tell, though we agree with our contemporary that the habit of introducing these big words into stories intended for children seems to be almost universal.

There is a call for juvenile books clothed in language that can be readily understood by children without constant interpretation.

That was a deserved compliment which Rev. Dr. John B. Dowry, of New York, paid to the Ontario Government in a speech at the close of the Pan-Protestant Conference. He said: "In his country they had many good public buildings, costing big sums of money, from $5,000,000 up, but when he saw their noble pile of Parliamentary buildings, and was told they would only cost a little over $1,000,000, it showed him that they must indeed have an honest Administration." Yes, Ontario has been well ruled these many years, and the people have shown their appreciation of the fact.

TOPICS OF TO-DAY.

THE many friends of Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, who was far from being in robust health when he left for a trip to the old world, will rejoice to hear that word has been received from him to the effect that he was much improved by the ocean voyage. It is to be hoped that a month or two of entire change of scene will result in his complete restoration.

Says the Hamilton Herald: "The Dominion Government has been appointing more Senators instead of chopping the official heads off the amiable old gentlemen who compose that body. Beyond making an excellent dumping ground for politicians grown weary of the fray, the usefulness of the Chamber is not apparent. Canada has about as much use for its Senate as a bulldog has for a beer pump."

One of the first effects of introducing parliament into Japan has been to stimulate inventors to discover some means of doing away with lobby divisions. Prof. Zamaoka of the University of Tokio has devised an electrical machine by which each member can record his vote without leaving his seat. There will be a board placed back of the president's chair, like a hotel bell-board, the presidents being first called, each member desiring to vote presses his eye button and records his vote, and the same way with the noys.

It will be remembered that when Jumbo was originally taken from the London Zoological Garden, he displayed great unwillingness to leave his companions, Alice. Tears flowed in the episode, and great compassion was excited by the evidence of the elephant's affection. A Mr. Gaylord, who was with Harlow when Jumbo was bought, says that it was all arranged; that Scott, the keeper, who came over with Jumbo, maneuvered the elephant in a way to give him the desired effect of feeling. When it was time for him to leave and his car was ready he got the order to lie down, and down he went, and the populace wept at the thought of the elephant's unhappiness. When he was told to come away he came.

The October number of the Jessens Miller Illustrated Monthly is quite up to the usual high standard of this magazine. The frontispiece is a handsome full-length portrait of a charming American girl, who has become prominent in English social and political life—Lady Randolph Churchill. There is also a handsome picture and a kindly sketch of Baroness Burdett-Coutts, from the pen of Mrs. George Augustus Sala. Mrs. Jessens Miller has a timely and interesting article, and other well-known writers contribute sensible and interesting papers. A copy of "Comprehensive Physical Culture," by Mabel Jessens (an illustrated book of 227 pages) is given to each yearly subscriber sending $1. Jessens Miller Company, 114 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Approaching very near its semi-centennial, that venerable and only eclectic weekly, Littell's Living Age, is apparently as young, vigorous and valuable as in its earlier days. The issue for Oct. 1, No. 2,518, is the initial number of the 195th volume, and appears in an entirely new dress. Its old, familiar drab-colored covers remain unchanged, but its interior has been transformed. With new, clear and hand-noteable in its general "make-up," with its excellent paper and fine press-work, it compares favorably with any other magazine published. This magazine is surpassed by no other general reader in any other publication in existence. It presents every side of the writing world, scientific, philosophic, historic, didactic, critical, statistical, poetic, narrative, biography, fiction, as represented in the wide field of foreign periodical literature, with freshness, owing to its weekly issue, and with a satisfactory completeness attempted by no other publication. During its nearly 50 years of life it has ever stood peerless in the realm of periodical literature. For such a publication its subscription price, $5 per annum, is low, but by taking advantage of its clubbing rates, even better terms may be obtained. Send 15 cents for a specimen copy to Littell & Co., publishers, Boston, Mass.

POLYGYAMY IN CANADA.

The London Advertiser has been interviewing a Mormon from Utah who says polygamy still flourishes there on the quiet, and added that he was personally acquainted with one man who took two wives with him to the Canadian Northwest from Salt Lake. It is to be hoped the latter gentleman has made provision for the support of his subscription policy, for such a publication, which is extremely likely if the story is a true bill.

The Stratford Herald has this to say of Rev. W. J. McKay, late pastor of South London Baptist Church, who is now stationed in Stratford: "Rev. W. J. McKay, the new pastor of the Baptist Church, entered upon his ministerial duties Sunday morning. The congregation is to be congratulated on having secured such a worthy successor to their beloved retiring pastor, Rev. D. G. Macdonald. Whatever pastoral qualifications Mr. McKay may possess outside of the pulpit, there can be no doubt of his ability in that respect. Large congregations listened to the reverend gentleman's initial sermons Sunday, and were highly pleased with his ministrations."

Prof. Williams at Stratford. The Stratford Herald of yesterday's date says: "Rev. Prof. Williams, late of Huron College, London, officiated for the first time on Sunday since his acceptance of the position as rector of St. James' Church. There was a full congregation present in the morning, there being no pewes unoccupied. The reverend gentleman announced, after ascending the pulpit, that it was the practice of every Anglican clergyman, when placed in charge of a new parish, to read and subscribe to the 39 articles in the presence of his congregation. This work occupied the time usually allotted for the sermon, and was attentively listened to by all present. In the evening Rev. Mr. Williams preached from the text: 'Go thy way for this time; when I have a more convenient season I will call for thee.' Acts, xxvi, 25. Rev. Mr. Williams is a man in the prime of life and is a very earnest speaker. His delivery is deliberate and his discourse gave evidence of study and deep research. The congregation of St. James' is to be congratulated on securing so able a successor to their late rector."

Messrs. Cook (chairman), Turner, Tan- ton, D. W. Blackwell, Dewar, Anderson, Jeffer, Craig and McElharn, Secretary Abbott, Principal Merchant and City Engineer Graydon attended a special meeting of No. 2 Committee of the Board of Education last evening to consider the tender and let the contracts for the erection of new schools and additions to old ones. Contracts were let as follows: Tenders for a four-room addition to Princess avenue school were opened, and it was decided to recommend Jones Bros' tender at $3,929 for acceptance. Worley street and Quebec street tenders were opened, but were found to far exceed the estimates, and on motion it was decided to request City Engineer Graydon to reduce the plans and call for new tenders within a certain time, passed by the board. John Watson's tender for kindling wood at $2 50 per cord was accepted. Inspector Carson reported that nine cupboards were required for several teachers and on motion it was decided to recommend the board to purchase the same. The plans for the addition to the Collegiate Institute were submitted to the committee and it was decided to recommend them to the board for approval. The plans for the Rectory street kindergarten were presented and it was decided to call for tenders for the erection of the school. Plans for the addition to the Talbot street school were also submitted, adopted by the committee and recommended to the board for acceptance. Tenders will be called for heating Talbot street school by lot.

Successful Two Years Pastorate. The announcement that Rev. Dr. John G. Paton was to lecture in St. James' Presbyterian Church last evening excited a large audience to assemble. The church was filled notwithstanding the disagreeable weather. The pulpit was beautifully decorated with flowers. Rev. Messrs. M. P. Talling, Robert Aylward, W. J. Clark and J. Allister Murray occupied seats beside Dr. Paton. The choir was also present and assisted in the singing. The occasion was the second anniversary of Rev. M. P. Talling's pastorate in that church, and he spoke briefly. The Christian Endeavor Society had tended to band the young people together. One hundred and fifty persons had become members of the church during the past year, while a number had been removed by death and other causes. The financial condition was also very satisfactory. Rev. J. A. Murray paid Mr. Talling a high tribute on the results of his efforts during his brief pastorate in the city. He was pleased to hear of the good work done by the Christian Endeavor Society, and also of the financial condition of the church. Rev. W. J. Clark also congratulated Mr. Talling and the congregation. To hear such a renowned man as Dr. Paton was as much a treat to him as to anyone in the audience, and therefore he would not take up much time. Dr. Paton, missionary to the New Hebrides Islands, related the progress of his work, while to far distant lands. There were now, he said, 14,000 converts although some of the islands were as yet wholly inhabited by savages. On some of the islands the missionaries had large congregations. Incidents were related of converts, natives who engaged voluntarily in spreading the gospel among their fellow-men. On some of the islands the entire population had become Christians. The trials and difficulties related were described and the sympathy of the audience was with the speaker. His pathetic delivery at times was very marked. The address was intensely interesting and instructive. A liberal collection was taken up, during which Mr. F. Evans rendered a solo acceptably.

We Believe

That a straight, honest business always turns out best in the end. A little money is sometimes made on catchy schemes and doubtful enterprises, but a permanent business can be built up and maintained only by square dealing. The process of getting rich is sometimes a little slow, but the result is usually gratifying. We have aimed for twelve years to give the best value, and we can point with pride to the class of customers we satisfy.
