TUESDAY EVENING, JANUARY 2, 1894.

WHOLE NO. 9786

The Battle.

Mayor Essery Re-elected by a Majority of 172.A Happy New Year for the Temperance People.An Emphatic "Yes" on the Question of Prohibition.The G. T. R. Car Shops Bonus Overwhelmingly Carried.The Waterworks and Electric Light Bylaws Voted Down.Very Little Change in the City Council.Thirteen of the Aldermen of 1893 Re-elected—The School Trustees—A Light Characteristic Speech in the City Hall—Temperance Workers Rejoice—The Results in London West.Mayor—E. T. Essery.
Aldermen—Ward 1, John Pritchard, Stephen O'Meara, J. W. Taylor; Ward 2, Ward 3, Wm. Heam, W. C. Coe; Ward 4, Thomas Jones, R. Carrothers, Garratt, James Fitzgibbon, M. Scarrow, J. D.aney, J. Nutkins, Gerald; Ward 5, H.
Ward 6, J. C. Judd, G. F. J. Fitzgerald; Ward 7, George Shaw, E. Parnell.Such is London's City Council for 1894.
It is, with five exceptions, the same as that of 1893. The five new members are John Pritchard, Stephen O'Meara, Wm. Heam, J. Nutkins and J. C. Judd. The three who were on the council of 1893, three of whom were re-elected, are John Pritchard, Thomas Connor and James Fitzgibbon. Mayor Essery was given a second term by a majority of 172 over Mr. Gartterday as against a majority of 4 George Taylor, as shown in 1893. The total over Mr. Gart-terday was 1,788, as against 1,616 the year previous.The expectations of the temperance people were more than realized by the magistrate's majority of 927. It is notable that in South London, which is notable for its to one, and in East London was over two two bars, the verdict was in favor of the same proportion. The was in almost the bonus was expected. T. R. car shops

INCIDENT OF THE CRIMEAN WAR.

A Lost Russian Baby Received by Means of a Flag of Truce.
(Ashton Reporter.)

A mandate had gone forth to the effect that a certain suburb of Sebastopol should be raided by a select body of English. The attack was to take place at midday, when the enemy would be taken by surprise. The venture was so perfectly executed that it was completely successful. The occupants of the cottages had fled, leaving their dinners untouched on the tables and the canaries in their cages. In one cottage was found a baby six months old, clothed and asleep in its cradle. An officer carried away the little one as a prisoner of war, and sent the news of his capture to headquarters. Word came at once from Lord Raglan ordering that a flag of truce be sent out next morning and that all possible search and inquiry should be made for the mother of the child. Some of the officers were amused that so much trouble should be taken for a stray baby, but the chief's orders had to be obeyed. No movement was forthcoming, however, to acknowledge the lost waif. But there was a woman in the rifle brigade who had a few weeks' old boy who was willing to take double duty.

About a week elapsed, and then Raglan the good sent an message to his staff, who had forgotten all about the doped child, directing that inquiry be made after "the mother and her twins." Word came back that the two children were thriving admirably, but that the mother herself looked worn and tired. "How many cows are there?" asked Raglan. "One, sir," was the reply. "Then," said the self-denying chief, "send the woman down a bottle of milk every morning." After this the little army portage became very popular. A chaplain christened her Alma, and at the end of the war the Queen adopted her and gave her a liberal education.

LOST HER TATTOO MARKS.

Visastrous Result of a Fire to a Band of Museum Freaks.
(Philadelphia Item.)

Fire caused a panic yesterday in Loring & Horn's traveling museum at Passaic. The show settled down last week at No. 248 Main avenue for a few days. Yesterday morning while the freaks were preparing to open at noon, the three-legged man saw smoke escaping from a defective flue. He cried fire and ran to the door. In his haste, he forgot his third leg, a handsome mechanical affair of cork. The other freaks called him back to put it on, and even then he was the third to reach the sidewalk. An alarm was rung, and the firemen soon put out the smoking chimney.

A NEW FAD OF SOCIETY BELLES.

They Steal the Bow From a Man's Hat to Wear in Their Shoes.

The young society belles have a new fad. To hear about it will enlighten not a few of the young men who have been mystified since the fall began, over the despoiling of their new hats. The fad is to take the little bow that fastens the lining of the man's hat and wear it thereafter, hidden in their shoes. By some subtle influence the superstition is not, without fail, they will have an offer of marriage from the young man in question within a month. It must be taken without the young man's knowledge or the charm will not work, and young ladies are resorting to all sorts of subterfuges to obtain the bows. (Chicago News.)

SEVEN YEARS OF SUFFERING.

The Experience of a Hamilton Man—Neuralgia Made His Life Miserable—How He Found Relief.

A member of the staff of the Canadian Evangelist, in conversation recently with Mr. Robert Hetherington, Hamilton, found him very outspoken in his admissions as to the benefit he had derived from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and anxious that their good qualities should be made widely known.

Mr. Hetherington was a severe sufferer from neuralgia for about seven years. It bothered him very much in the head, arms and legs, and the pain was often so excessive and the soreness so great that he could scarcely walk. He tried many so-called remedies, but none of them were of any benefit to him. In August he determined to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. In about two weeks he found himself much relieved, and after using Pink Pills for a few weeks longer every vestige of the pain had disappeared and he was as well as ever. He further remarked that he now felt like a new man. "Formerly," said he, "when I got up in the morning I was so stiff and tired that I could hardly walk, while now I get up feeling fresh and ready to go to work. I have not felt any of the pains since last September, and I wouldn't again suffer for one day the pains I formerly endured for the price of twenty boxes of pills."

An eminent medical writer has truly said that "neuralgia is a cry from the nerves for better blood." If the blood is enriched and assisted to absorb oxygen by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the most obstinate case of neuralgia will speedily disappear. They are unrivaled as a blood builder and nerve tonic. Sold by all dealers or sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y. Beware of imitations.

The Smallest Bible in the World.
Mr. Henry Frowde, of the Oxford University Press, has eclipsed the previous record for the smallest Bible in the world. He has produced the "Brilliant Text Bible," containing 1,216 pages, with maps, measuring 3 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches. The weight of this wonderful little edition, bound in limp morocco, is not quite three ounces. Another edition, titled "The Brilliant Reference Bible," likewise printed on the famous Oxford India paper, has the advantage of a column of references in the center of each page, as well as excellent maps and a plan of the Temple. This book weighs 3 1/2 ounces. It is, one would imagine, hardly possible to achieve any further advance in this direction of small Bibles, while at the same time preserving the fine clearness of the type which distinguishes these volumes.

QUEEN LIL AS A PRIMA DONNA.

John Dominis Applauded and Received a Start in the King Business.
(New York World.)

There's a romance connected with Queen Liliuokalani and her marriage to John Dominis. It happened 35 years ago, when "Queen Lil" was a radiant, ebony-hued young princess, and her husband a young man who had just come to Hawaii to seek his fortune in trade. The Queen, who has always been interested in music, at that time had just begun to learn something of the music of civilization. She was ambitious to be a singer.

Then, as now, there was a small number of whites in Honolulu who had an exclusive circle of their own, to which not even the royalty of the island was admitted. Dominis, who came from a "good family," was in a way the Ward McAllister of this set. To the reception which was to be given at the home of one of the prominent merchants, Dominis suggested that Princess Liliuokalani be invited. He was at first received with great disfavour. But he insisted that the princess would become any social gathering, that she was a charming young woman who disliked as much as they did.

So Liliuokalani came and was received cordially enough. One of the first breaks that the princess made was to propose in broken English: "I learn to sing English song. Me sing for you?"

Dominis, who is by nature a worshiper of royalty, was, of course, delighted to have an opportunity to accompany her on the piano. He arranged to sing, and the princess lifted her voice in song. She sang for half an hour, atrociously out of tune, in a falsetto voice which was distinctly savage. When she had finished she turned to her hearers and said:

"What you zink of my sing? Hum?" A silence followed. It was then that a minister calls for contributions in behalf of foreign missions during a financial panic.

But Dominis was equal to the occasion. He clasped his hands and called out again and again: "Grand! Grand! Grand!" That night Hawaii's Ward McAllister rode home in the royal carriage. Eventually he married the princess.

Didn't Sleep for 65 Days.
FRANKFORT, Ind., Jan. 1.—George Woodward, a wealthy farmer of this county, has been unable to sleep for the past 30 days. Mr. Woodward was afflicted with the same strange malady a year ago, when he was 65 days without sleep. He is to all appearances healthy, and works every day. His physicians have failed to produce even a stupor with drugs.

Wants Pay for a Spider Bite.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 1.—About a month ago Charles W. Weiss was bitten by a large spider. Mr. Weiss was confined to the house for three weeks. He holds a policy with the Guarantee and Accident Lloyd's, of New York city, and put in a claim for $25 a week for the three weeks. The company replied that the claim could not be paid, as it came under the provisions of the policy which exempts the company from liability for any accident caused by coming in contact with any poisonous substance.

A Fortune in Orchids.
Washington Star: The "cypripedium," or "lady's slipper," is the favorite and most fashionable type of orchid at present. One reason for its popularity is that the number of varieties is enormous. Most of them come from high elevations in the tropics, but some grow wild in Maryland and Virginia. One great cigarette manufacturer who lives in Rochester, N. Y., owns $30,000 worth of cypripediums. Another New York man named Mauda has $100,000 worth of these orchids under glass, she raised from seed. As is well known, the usual method of propagation is by dividing the roots. Plants of this description must be treated with the greatest care and skill. The cultivator last mentioned raises them for market. In his hot-houses they are never permitted to get dry or become water soaked. Moss and gravel supply the place of soil.

The Modern Pandora's Box.
The modern Pandora of fashion and folly has opened the box of the ills of her kind: Hence weakness and sickness with acute melancholy. Much suffering of body and worry of mind. This host of complaints, this legion of pain, has harassed the lives of all of the sex. For relief shall they seek forever in vain! And must they still suffer disorders complex?

SURGICAL OPERATION ON A LION.

Attendants Had Difficulty in Getting the Animal on the Table.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Nero, one of the younger members of a group of performing lions at an uptown museum, is probably the first of his species to grace the operating table of a veterinary surgeon. On Tuesday one of the other lions injured Nero's leg. He was removed to the New York College of Veterinary Surgeons. Nero was carried there in a cage, which was placed in an upright position on the operating table. A chain was fastened around the neck of the lion, and the end attached to a ring bolt in the cage. It was fastened to the fore paws and the cage was then removed. For a moment the crippled beast seemed dazed. The next instant, with one bound, he cleared the table, freeing his paws from the ropes. The chain about his neck did not give way. The two dozen spectators sought to escape. Nero's trainer managed to attach a rope about the forepaws of the animal. Another rope was fastened to his hind leg and he was again secured.

An examination showed that his right hind leg was fractured at the thigh joint and that the joint was displaced. A hypodermic injection of morphia was administered and the fractured limb set in place and closely bandaged. Nero was then returned to his cage and taken to temporary quarters. Dr. Busher said it was the first case he knew of where a lion had been placed on an operating table.

THE CITY ELECTIONS.

Elsewhere will be found the results of the civic elections in London yesterday, as well as those throughout the Province.
They contain some surprises, both locally and in other places. The election in the city was very quietly conducted, despite the fact that there were contests for the great majority of the offices in the gift of the people. Owing to the change in taking the assessment the voters' list was an old one, and that probably accounts for the decreased vote polled.It is satisfactory to be able to announce that the two by-laws which the ADVERTISER championed, as being in the public interest, were endorsed by the electorate by large majorities. The by-law to grant a bonus of $100,000 to the Grand Trunk railway on condition that the company concentrates its car shops for Western Ontario in this city was carried by a majority of 1,675 to 535. It was not necessary to carry this bylaw by more than a majority, owing to the fact that the special act which brought South London into the city kept this class of bonus out of the category of bonuses requiring a much larger majority. But the freeholders by their votes made the result doubly sure. Let us hope that the concentration may be brought about at as early a date as possible.The plebiscite on prohibition resulted in favor of the view that the liquor traffic should be absolutely prohibited. The majority of 927 places the position of the citizens in a most significant light, especially when it is recollected that there is a majority in favor of prohibition in every ward of the city. At the time of writing there are few particulars of the polling on this question in other parts of the Province, but the impression seems to prevail that the same verdict, if by a less decided majority, has been achieved elsewhere.Two money bylaws before the people of London were slaughtered. One calling for $75,000 to provide a second main between the waterworks and the city was voted down, because apparently deemed unnecessary for the present needs of the city. It may be that the taxpayers will look more kindly upon the proposed expenditure for increased pumping power. We should have an ample supply of water even in the driest of seasons.The bylaw to provide funds for the purchase of an electric light plant was voted down, because it had been placed before the electors at too late a date to have the subject fully understood. The ADVERTISER warned the aldermen that such would be the result of the delay, traceable in a degree, though it was, to the occupancy of the council with other weighty subjects during the year. We have faith that the citizens will yet endorse the view that all great monopolies, in which the taxpayers are equally interested, such as public lighting, shall be owned and operated for their benefit, just as the waterworks are—by a commission. The friends of municipal ownership should turn their attention to this view of the case before they again submit a bylaw on the subject. The present experience should teach that no money by-law can be passed without a hard-fought, well-arranged, preliminary campaign, in which the facts shall be fully and clearly stated.January of last year was unusually cold. Fortunately severe frosts do not often strike the same period in two successive years.

AS BUDDHIST VISITORS VIEW US.

Some remarkable statements regarding the people of North America are made by the Buddhist delegates from Japan to the World's Fair Parliament of Religions. The two principal delegates were Bourin Yatsubuchi, a priest of Kamakura, and Shaku Soyen, a great scholar and the most talented priest in Kiushiu. There were ten Japanese priests in all at Chicago, but the report of their work was made by the two priests named. The meeting at which they gave the account of their travels was held in Yokohama. Some of the speeches describing the World's Fair experiences of the delegation read like a chapter out of Goldsmith's "Chinese Settlers," except that they lack Goldsmith's delicious satirical humor. They are too serious. One of the priests, apparently the chief of the delegation, described the suspicions with which they received the invitations of the World's Fair authorities to attend the religious parliament. They believed that "it was a shrewd scheme of the Christians" to entice them to the western world either for the purpose of converting them or to turn them and their religion into ridicule.
Acting under this misapprehension they determined to visit Chicago, but merely as individuals, not in a priestly representative character. "It was a wonderful surprise which awaited us," he said, and added, "our ideas were all mistaken." He then gave the conclusions which they adopted in regard to the entire affair, as follows:"The parliament was called because the western nations have come to realize the weakness and folly of Christianity and they really wished to hear from us of our religion and to learn what the best religion is. There is no better place in the world to propagate the teachings of Buddhism than in America. During the meetings one very wealthy man from New York became a convert of Buddhism and was initiated into its rites. He is a man of great influence, and his conversion may be said to mean more than the conversion of 10,000 ordinary men, so we may say truthfully that we made 10,000 converts at that meeting. Christianity is merely an adornment of society in America. It is deeply believed in by very few. The great majority of Christians drink and commit various gross sins, and live very dissolute lives, although it is a very common belief and serves as a social adornment. It lacks of power proves its weakness. The meetings showed the great superiority of Buddhism over Christianity, and the mere fact of calling the meetings showed that the Americans and other western peoples had lost their faith in Christianity and were ready to accept the teachings of our superior religion."This confession of impressions is unique.
It will be difficult for many Westerners to conjecture by what process of reasoning these disciples of Buddha reached the conclusion that the people of America have become tired of Christianity, and wanted to learn Buddhism. The charming simplicity of the assertion that one New York crank converted to Buddhism equals the winning of 10,000 ordinary converts also goes to show how far Oriental enthusiasm can carry the votaries of this peculiar faith.It has to be admitted that there is some truth in the allegations that Christianity is regarded by many people in these parts as a mere "social adornment"; that shallow belief or unbelief is prevalent; and that the drinking habit and other dissolute practices are part of nominally Christian lives. The terms in which these charges are set forth are sweeping, but we believe are, in the main, as ill-founded as the conclusions reached by the Buddhist visitors on other points. We must, however, remember that Eastern people regard all Europeans and Americans as Christians. They make no distinction between those who are members of or adherents of churches and those who never darken a church door, and who, whatever their inner convictions, are practically heathens. By the life and works of these nominal Christians, it must be regretfully conceded, is the Christian religion judged by these Eastern peoples of other faiths. If we keep this fact in view, and reflect on what an observant visitor from abroad can see and hear in the course of a prolonged visitation in the centers of population on this continent, we will be the less surprised at the deductions of these Buddhist priests. The reports made by the Buddhists, though manifestly distorted, and though charging to Christianity the sins of mere professors of Christianity—men who, as a rule, are neither hearers nor doers of the Word—are useful as showing the extent of Mongolian culture, the egotism, and the boundless faith of the best of Oriental scholars.
We have in this word picture an instructive mirror in which we can view ourselves as others see us.—The fact that Gladstone has just celebrated his 84th birthday, and remains in harness, though he is three years the senior of Palmerston, who died in office a few days before he had reached his 85th year, has set the cable correspondents speculating regarding the busy grand old man of Great Britain. Almost the only surviving schoolfellow of Gladstone at Eton, Lord Arthur Hervey, who is also Bishop of Bath and Wells, and nearly two years his senior, has been recently giving lots of reminiscences.
When Wellington opened Waterloo bridge in 1817, and distributed commemorative medals to select invited spectators, this future bishop put his hand in the bag and was sternly admonished by the duke to take only one. The House of Commons contains one member six years older than Mr. Gladstone, the Hon. Chas. Villiers, who has sat now 58 years for a single constituency.
When on rare occasions he visits the club, he can only so far as the hall, owing tothe stairs, and friends cluster around his ears, close to his mouth, to catch his mumbings. Even older still is Admiral Jones, of Greenwich Hospital, who actually bore part in the Walcheren expedition of 1809. Surely there is no other country where men live like this. In the Daily News' list of deaths for Christmas Day there are 40 entries, and of these twenty give an aggregate age yielding an average of over 81 years. The climate of Britain may not be the best, but the comparatively leisurely way in which the people live is conducive to long life.
The people of this continent exhaust their nervous energy before they get past middle age. They would enjoy life better if they took more leisure by the way.

THE MAN THEY ARE AFTER.

Additional interest has been developed with regard to King Lo Bengula of Ma-tabela since the report that he had turned upon his pursuers and massacred a large number of them. The best picture of the fugitive monarch is given by Mr. Archibald R. Colquhoun, the first administrator of the adjoining territory of Mashonaland.
Mr. Colquhoun gives an interesting description of King Lo Bengula. "Lo Bengula—literally 'The Defender,' and the bearer of many grandiloquent titles, such as 'The Great Elephant,' 'The Eater of Men,' and 'The Stabber of the Sun'—is 60 years of age, suffers from gout, and is enormously fat and unwieldy in person, which tends greatly to diminish his otherwise kingly appearance. He is close upon six feet, weighs nearly twenty stone, and rarely takes physical exercise, although he has in his early days been active and powerful.
He is a man of extraordinary character and ability, with great power of work. The descriptions of Lo Bengula's personal appearance range between that of a most truc-ulent and blood-thirsty savage, with a 'deadly cruel' look in his eyes, and a pleasant, mild-mannered old gentleman, with a winning, childlike smile. It is probably wise to adopt neither of these extreme portraits.
His natural disposition is said by those who know him well to be not cruel; but the exercise of unrestrained despotic power, surrounded by intrigues, has led to indifference to life whenever it seemed to him a matter of policy, or, as not unselfish, self-preservation. Relations and friends at the Matabele court alike have been removed when found to be 'inconvenient.' In his castle kraal, with his body wrapped in a colored blanket and feet swathed in dirty flannel bandages, in the midst of dirt and discomfort, and surrounded by skulls of slaughtered bullocks and many pariah dogs, the King was frequently to be seen.
The chief Queen, Losky, is typical of the 80 others. Her massive form on the occasion of a 'war dance' in 1890, was partially clothed in a colored cotton sheet, while from her waist hung a black goatskin kilt. The head was encircled with a coil of pink beads, the neck with tin, brass and iron chains, probably taken in some of the many raids on the Mashonas, who, unlike the Matabele, have some skill in working in these metals; on her ankles and arms are more beads. When in State dress during the 'war dance' the queens present a picture of bright and effective coloring."

NOT ENCOURAGED BY CARNEGIE.

(Philadelphia Record.)
Mr. Andrew Carnegie does not appear to be alarmed in the least by the Wilson Tariff Bill with its reduction of duty to 25 per cent. on steel rails and to 55 per cent.
on steel beams. He has gone to Europe, after having made a most liberal donation for the needy during the whole time of his absence. The tariff panic mongers will get no encouragement from him in their reckless misrepresentations of the Wilson Bill.

WOULD GIVE $10 TO SEE ARTZ

And the General Himself Afforded Him that Pleasure.
(Topeka State Journal.)
Adj. Gen. Artz a few days ago went to Clay Center. Entering the train at Topeka he found only one vacant seat. His companion on the seat after the train had started touched upon the political issues of the day, and after talking awhile the question of State politics came up. The Illinois man referred to Gov. Lewelling's appointment of Artz as Attorney-General.
"Why," he said, "I have heard that Artz skipped from Colorado, is a regular cowboy, and walks around with two loaded Winchesters.""You don't live in the west then," replied the Illinois man, "but really I would give $10 to see this man Artz; he must be a tweak."The conversation continued for some time upon state politics and then drifted into national issues.
On reaching Clay Center Gen. Artz addressed the Illinois man and said: "I have enjoyed your company exceedingly, and as I have to leave you here, if you will give me the $10 I will be obliged.""What $10?" cried the Illinois man.
"Why, you said you would give $10 to see Artz and you have been riding with him all the way from Topeka, so I claim it.""You, Gen. Artz? Well, I guess not.
If you are Artz, I owe you an apology."
"No you don't," replied Artz; "you owe me $10.""Well, here it is, and I will tell the Illinois people that Gen. Artz isn't the Texas steer that some people take him to be."

RADWAY'S PILLS,Always Reliable.
Purely Vegetable.

The Great Liver and Stomach Remedy

An Excellent and Mild Cathartic

PERFECTLY TASTELESS

Over Forty Years in Use and Never Known to Fail.

Possess properties the most extraordinary in restoring health. They stimulate to healthy action the various organs, the natural conditions of which are so necessary for health, grapple with and neutralize the impurities, driving them completely out of the system.

RADWAY'S IS A COMPOUND PILL.

One of their ingredients will attack the LAZY LIVER, another will rouse up the BOWELS, another will attack the SKIN, and still another hurry up the KIDNEYS.
This is the beauty of their effective operation; whilst they have a specific action on the Liver, they have a reflex or reflective action on the same organ by their other specific effects on the other organs of the system; whilst they force with the one hand, they persuade with the other, till all the organs are brought to harmonious action, and perform their required functions.

RADWAY'S PILLS

Drive out all diseases, from whatever cause they may be making inroads on your system; delay no longer, the remedy is at hand; a dose or two will convince you of the truth.To thousands now suffering, we say, you have the remedy in your own hands. Radway's is a well-known pill, containing the choicest of extracts taken from the VEGE-TABLE KINGDOM ONLY, compounded in the most scientific proportions, which were found by Dr. Radway to be the best adapted to stimulate and restore to healthy action the disordered organs. They contain no minerals or metals or their salts—nothing poisonous enters into their composition, and they are perfectly safe to take.

To those who are looking for a

Health Restorer

We cannot too strongly recommend a well-tried, safe and efficient remedy such as is

SELF-WILLED.

His eyes watched the white, slim hand as it slid under the coverlet again, and he nodded.

"I'm very glad to hear that—very. All the same you ought to be careful!"

And putting the action to the advice, he, with a murmured apology, drew the shawl up to his shoulders.

"Thanks," she said, "I am afraid you would only foster my disease. That is the worst of it; lazy people always get encouraged. Now, I am sure to be in the morning, I should be well in a week. Try it, aunt."

Then she sank back and gazed out to sea as if he and their conversation had completely faded out of her consciousness. But she still walked beside the chair, and though she talked to Philippa and Mrs. Harrington, her attention was covertly fixed on Carrie; if the donkey stopped, he stepped forward and compelled it to proceed; he put up her shawl, and, with a quiet sort of authority, insisted upon holding it for her; and though he accepted her silence, and did not attempt to break in upon it, he was watching for any change in her dreamy mood. It did not come, however; and when Philippa remarked that they must go in, and she stopped reluctantly, Carrie did not look up.

He shook hands with Mrs. Harrington and Philippa, but as Carrie did not produce the slim white paw, he raised his hat to her.

"If you care for tea and dry toast, with an occasional muffin, Mr. Moore, please pay us a visit," said the old lady—"we shall be very glad to see you. Rose Cottage, you know."

"Thank you," he said; "I shall be very glad. It is rather dull here. Yes, I shall be very glad to see you." And he glanced at Carrie—"if I shall not be in the way."

Carrie did not appear to hear him, but Mrs. Harrington reassured him, and, with a last glance at the pale, beautiful, face, he went off.

He walked along the parade slowly, his eyes fixed on the ground, his lips compressed, and a look in his eye that would have startled even Carrie, so sad and wild and troubled was it. It seemed suddenly and without warning, the perspiration from his forehead, and dropped into a hollow in the cliff, out of sight of the promenaders, as if exhausted.

"Great Heaven!" he murmured. "What am I doing? I must be mad! Yet who could help it? Poor girl! Poor girl! I can't get her face out of my mind. Beautiful! It is the face of an angel. No! better than that, it is the face of a lovely woman who has suffered a cruel wrong that has crushed her. I wonder—ah! What is it to me? How can it be anything to me? and yet, Great Heaven, what would I give to have the right to spend my life in caring for her, to look after her face, to prove to her that life was worth living. And I can see her again. The old woman asked me. Why should I not go? Why should I thrust every pleasure from my life? I know I have suffered enough! Why shouldn't I go, just once? It can do no harm—none whatever. I know how helplessly I am bound! That this lovely creature can be nothing to me, and—ah!—that thought will suffice to guard me. Surely I can go and see her, and hear, just once more. Only once?"

On either side of Gerald Moore stood his good and evil angel battling for his soul. No wonder he trembled and grew pale under the fierce struggle.

"Am I to deny myself the society of a woman I feel drawn toward because—because I know that I can never permit friendship to grow into love? Every man has a friend excepting my wretched self. Why shouldn't I? Besides, there is no danger here. The girl would never grow to care a feather's weight for me. Why, she would forget that we had ever met if I didn't happen to see her again! Yes, I'll go."

"No, no!" whispered the better angel with a sigh. "Be a man and fly temptation. Be wise and shun danger, though it allures you to one who is beautiful and pleasant. Remember, Gerald Moore! Remember! Pack up your portmanteau and leave Sandgate by the next train."

With a groan he sprang to his feet—he had been fighting this battle between right and wrong for an hour—and strode off to the hotel, resolved to fly while he had strength. But even while he thrusts his clothes into the portmanteau, that strength failed him. With something like an oath, he flung the coat he held in his hand back into the wardrobe.

"No," he muttered between his teeth, "not to-day! I will go and see her once more—only once—and then I'll put the sea between us."

CHAPTER XXVII.

The next morning when Carrie came down to breakfast there was a magnificent bouquet of flowers standing on the table, filling the little room with color and fragrance.

"Why, aunt!" she exclaimed, her face lighting up for a moment, "where did you get these flowers? I thought that the only green things that grew in Sandgate were privet and hawthorn. Ah! how lovely!" and she buried her face in them.

"So did I, dear," said Mrs. Harrington, "but it seems that we were wrong! A man from the hotel brought them, with Mr. Gerald Moore's compliments. He said, Mr. Moore, not the man, my dear—must have found them out even in despised Sandgate."

"Nonsense!" said Philippa, who had been examining them. "These never grew in Sandgate. He must have sent a special messenger—special train, for all I know—to get them."

Carrie stared at them, and shrugged her shoulders with a trace of her old mischievousness.

"A clear case of conquest, Philippa! I congratulate you! And a handsome one, too?"

Philippa looked at her curiously and earnestly. Was it possible that she did not know, did not guess, for whom they were intended? No more was said, but in the afternoon, as they were sitting down to their tea and toast, the maid servant timidly announced Mr. Gerald Moore.

As he came in, Philippa noticed that, for all his bronzed and tan, he looked rather paler and less vigorous than yesterday, and that the grave, sad expression in his gray eyes was more pronounced.

Carrie was lying upon the couch, the bouquet standing on a little table beside her, and his glance, which went directly to Carrie, took in the position of the flowers with an expression of satisfaction.

"I have soon taken advantage of a general invitation," he said, as he shook hands with Philippa and Mrs. Harrington. "The fact is, I am devoted to tea and toast, and get so few opportunities of indulging my ruling passion, that I seized on this."

Then he went up to Carrie and bent over her.

"Are you better to-day?" he asked.

"No, I am as lazy as ever," she said, and appeared to think that she had said all that was necessary.

He left her at once, and devoted himself to the others, especially the old lady, and while he drank his tea and ate his toast, recounted some of his traveling adventures. Carrie for a time paid no attention, but presently she grew interested, and turned on her side to listen. Gradually he found himself addressing her, and as the story grew more exciting, he edged his chair nearer, and the two seemed apart from the others. Philippa and Mrs. Harrington got out their needlework, and placidly stitched and crocheted, but Carrie did nothing but listen and look at him. The evening grew apace, as the pinks set, and suddenly he got up and closed the window.

"There is a cool breeze," he said apologetically, "and I don't think it is safe for you." She smiled languidly.

"Will you put those flowers nearer, please?"

He obeyed.

"They are very beautiful. Did you get them in Sandgate?"

"No," he sent for them to Brighton. He answered, carelessly, as if Brighton was next door.

"Oh," said Carrie, and she stared at him, so that he could see the beautiful eyes at their widest. "It is very kind of you."

"Not at all," he said, hurriedly, as if he were excusing a fault. "I know how invalids love flowers, and I thought that—let me put this shawl over your feet."

Then he got his hat, and made a hasty adieu, and departed.

"Mrs. Harrington was charmed with him. 'So much improved, my dear,' she said. 'He used to be quite a spoiled child, and now he is so attentive. What a strange thing it is that he is not married! He is singularly handsome, don't you think?'"

Carrie assented languidly. Philippa remained silent.

Prevention is Better

Than cure and those who are subject to rheumatism can prevent the attacks by keeping the blood pure and free from the acid which causes the disease. You can rely on Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for rheumatism and catarrhs; also for every form of scrofula, salt rheum, and other diseases caused by impure blood. It tones and vitalizes the whole system.

Hood's Pills are easy and gentle in effect. Londoners are not so much bothered by nervous prostration as people living in smaller places.

Untold Misery—What a Well-Known Commercial Traveler Suffered, and How He Was Cured.—Gentlemen,—About five years ago I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery from this terrible complaint. I was at that time traveling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but all to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine, and when the third bottle was finished I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of dyspepsia. (Signed.) T. S. MCINTYRE.

Train robbers are not among the unemployed just now.

Worms cause feverishness, moaning and restlessness during sleep. Mother Graves' Worm Expeller is pleasant, sure and effective. If your druggist has none in stock, get him to procure it for you.

"I'm getting along splendidly learning to write on my new typewriter." "Getting any speed?" "Oh, yes. All that's necessary now is for me to get so's I can read what I've written."

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Young's Electric Oil is catarrh. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, to which the young are especially subject.

"Would you rather steal than starve?" asked the social philosopher. "Er—I can't say," replied the railroad magnate. "I haven't tried the starving part."

How to Cure All Skin Diseases.

Simply apply "SWAIN'S OINTMENT."

No internal medicine required. Cures tetter, eczema, itch, all eruptions on the face, hands, nose, etc., leaving the skin clear, white and healthy. Its great healing and curative powers are possessed by no other remedy. Ask your druggist for Swain's Ointment. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, wholesale agents.

One painful fact about Christmas is that it stirs up to renewed and cheerful activity the man who writes Christmas carols.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER.

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga, Tenn., says: "Shilo's Vitalizer EXCEEDED ALL OTHERS. I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used." For Dyspepsia, Liver or Kidney trouble it excels. Price 75 cents. Sold by C. McCallum.

Those who may oppose the principle of a tax on incomes haven't the remotest idea of abolishing Christmas presents.

Files Filed: Itching Files.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAIN'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swain & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, wholesale agents.

Christmas is the time above all others when it doesn't seem right for anybody to get left.

A SPIDER KILLED HER.

It Was Hid in Christmas Evergreens Used for Decorating a Church.

NYACK, N.Y., Jan. 1.—Miss Josie Reichling, with a party of other young girls, helped to decorate the Sparkill Episcopal Church with Christmas evergreens Saturday evening and so lost her life. A spider had made its home in one of the branches, and when she took this in her arms, it bit her on the cheek. A little sore like a fever blister showed there that night, when she went home. The next day, Sunday, it had grown much worse and had swollen so badly that Dr. Masten was called. It kept getting more feverish, and on Monday it was found necessary to lance it. In the poisonous substance which issued were found two little specks supposed to be the seeds of germs that had been stung into her cheek by the insect that bit her.

The sore swelled again this time and spread from her cheek. Her arm and body on one side were swollen so that the sore was lanced a second time. The services of two doctors were secured, but despite their efforts she died. The doctors say they have never seen a similar case. Miss Reichling was just budding into womanhood, and was the daughter of Jacob Reichling, coal and lumber merchant, of Piermont.

Gulf of California Cannibals.

St. Louis Republic: Unlikely as it may seem to some who read these lines, it is a fact, nevertheless, that there is an island in the Gulf of California, not more than 60 miles from the Mexican mainland, which is inhabited by the remnants of a race of giant cannibals. This startling discovery was made by a west coast naturalist early in 1891, and has since been confirmed by both United States and Mexican explorers.

Mr. McNamara, the scientist referred to, has a photograph of one of the men found by him on the island, that individual, though not one of the largest, being over seven feet in height. The island upon which they were found is known as the island or Isle of Leri, and the original discoverer says that there is every evidence of cannibalism among them.

BASE COINAGE

A standard coin is one of which the value in exchange depends solely upon the value of the material contained in it. The stamp serves as a mere indication and guarantee of the quality of fine metal; and as no one but an assayer or analytical chemist can decide upon the fineness of a coin the importance of this stamp or impress is obvious.

VASELINE, which is the Pure Gold (for medicinal and other special purposes) of the hydrocarbons of Petroleum, is put up by the Manufacturers in convenient packages of different sizes, each one bearing the words

"VASELINE Prepared by the CHESEBROUGH MFG. CO., CONS'D."

This inscription stands to the general Public in the same relation as the device upon the standard gold coin.

It is a guarantee of the fineness and purity of the material contained in the package, and as such is a protection to the public against imposition by dishonest dealers who attempt to sell spurious articles under the name of VASELINE.

Most of these imitations being not only worthless, but in some cases positively dangerous, it is to the interest of the public to accept none but the original packages put up by us.

Hold On To A Good Thing

World's Fair Views.

Sheppard's World's Fair Views attracted
two good audiences at the Grand yesterday afternoon and evening. The entertainment is really on a very elaborate scale, the views of the different buildings,
and everything of importance that could have been seen on a visit to the fair being vividly brought to remembrance. The views are colored, and are the finest that ever have been shown on a canvas in this city. Many could not help but applaud the lecturer and his entertaining way of description. Mr. Ramsey sang several comic songs. He has a clear and distinct way of explaining the different scenes, and
the concise way in which it is done makes it easily understood. The entertainment is commended to all who wish to spend a pleasant evening. It will be repeated tonight. The prices are reasonable for such an instructive lecture.

Comedy at the Grand.

Rice & Barton's comedians will appear at the Grand Thursday. The Boston Globe
says: "The Palace Theater was crowded yesterday afternoon and evening with an audience that heartily enjoyed that laughable skit, 'Razzie Dazzle,' performed by Rice & Barton's clever comedians."

We notice in our city numerous houses nearing completion. Now, it occurs to us that these buildings will very shortly require finishing material such as doors, sash, base, casings, etc. We have a well assorted stock of the above named articles,
and will be pleased to quote prices and
show goods. W. D. WILKS & Co., corner

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—There's nothing new beneath the sun, they say (A statement that you've doubtless heard before): But then, is not the world on New Year's day With newest resolutions bubbling o'er?

—Large crowds enjoyed the good skating at the coves yesterday.

—Mr. J. A. Tripp, of Toronto, is visiting his parents in this city.

—The public schools and Collegiate Institute will open next Monday.

—Miss Dora Hardy left for Chicago today, in company with Mrs. McKenzie, formerly of this city.

—The advent of the new year was marked at the military School by Speeches and three hearty cheers for the Queen.

—Miss Lizzie Caldwell, public school teacher of Leamington, has been spending the holiday here with her sister, Mrs. Abe Slater.

—Charles Haystead, of this city, will take charge of the advance of Sells & Ren-frow's big circus on March 1. He gave up theatricals.

—Mr. C. J. Whitney, of Detroit, lessee of the Grand Opera House of this city, has added the Academy of Music, Buffalo, to his theatrical circuit.

—It's too bad that New Year's calls have gone out of fashion. A good many men would like to begin the year by paying something to somebody.

—To-morrow, Jan. 3, is re-opening day in the London West public schools. Promotional will be made, and classes reorganized for the new term.

—The ADVERTISER on Monday received the following message: "Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 1, 1894.—Best New Year's wishes from the wonder city of the Dominion to the brethren of the quill in Ontario's Forest City."

—Patrick O'Dwyer, who worked for twelve years for Burns & Lewis, this city, has been arrested in Detroit charged with stealing a large quantity of goods from the supply store of the poor commission, of which he was an employee. His cousin, Harry Roberts, was also locked up charged with receiving them. O'Dwyer is 45 years old, and has a wife, whom he married here, and a 14-year-old boy.

—An informal reception was tendered to young men at the Y. M. C. A. parlors yesterday afternoon. The ladies who received the many strangers were Mrs. J. R.
Shuttleworth, Mrs. Gregson, Mrs. Holmes, Miss Ware, Miss Hannah and Miss Nelles.
After a pleasant time had been spent in games of various kinds, all were invited to partake of a bountiful repast which had been prepared by the ladies. A programme was also carried out consisting of a solo by Miss Carrie Wright, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and instrumental by Miss Flo Nelles, of this city. Altogether a very pleasant time was spent.

—The children of Christ Church Sunday school last night treated the patients at the City Hospital to a performance of their cantata, "The Crowning of Christmas."

The entertainment was held in the long ward, all the patients being brought from the other parts of the institution to witness the production, and all appeared to very much enjoy the singing of the little ones.
In addition to the cantata, recitations were given by Misses Lethbridge and Hinton and Mr. Hogg, while Mr. Tancock favored the company with a couple of solos, given in his usual good style.

—Another of the old settlers of this district passed away on the evening of New Year's Day at the family residence, 519 Maitland street, in the person of Mary, wife of Charles Jones, one of the pioneers of the late George Carter, one of the pioneers of London township, where she was born in the year 1823. Her ancestors on her mother's side, the Penningtons, of Pennsylvania, came out with and assisted William Penn in settling that State. She leaves behind her a husband and grown-up family of five children, consisting of Mrs. F. A.
Fitzgerald, Mrs. H. McDevall, Miss Lottie and Mr. C. A. Jones, C.E., of this city, and Mrs. S. F. Peters, of Toronto.
The late Dr. G. Pennington Jones was also one of the family.

Curious Facts From the Calendar.
New Year's Day of 1893 fell upon Sunday. Jan 1 happens on Sunday but once more during the century; that will be in 1899. In the next century it will occur fourteen times only, as follows: 1905, 1911, 1922, 1928, 1933, 1939, 1950, 1956, 1961, 1967, 1978, 1984, 1989 and 1995. The intervals are regular—6-5-6-1-1, 6-5-6-1-1—except the interval which includes the hundredth year that is not a century, when there is a break—as 1893, 1899, 1905, 1911 when three intervals of six years come together; after that plain sailing till 2001, when the old intervals will occur in regular order.

"The Spider and the Fly." Here are some of the special features of the spectacular production, the "Spider and the Fly," which is the attraction of the Grand Wednesday. The Columbian ballet of sixteen beautiful English dancers from the Alhambra, London, England, headed by Mlle. Verocelli, premiere danseuse, and Mlle. De Philippi, danseuse from the principal European theaters; the famous French dancers, Mlle. Marie Nordie, Mme. Minner, Frances Martine, Nadine Balfour, from the Folies Bergere, Paris, said to be the most daring, unique and bewildering of terpsichorean artists. A grand transformation scene, illustrating American historical events from 1492 to 1893, is said to be a masterpiece of stage mechanism and scenic art.
The sale of seats will begin this morning.

World's Fair Views.

Sheppard's World's Fair Views attracted
two good audiences at the Grand yesterday afternoon and evening. The enter-
scale, the views of the different buildings,
and everything of importance that could
have been seen on a visit to the fair being
vividly brought to remembrance. The
views are colored, and are the finest that
ever have been shown on a canvas in this city. Many could not help but applaud
the lecturer and his entertaining way of
description. Mr. Ramsey sang several
way of explaining the different scenes, and
the concise way in which it is done makes
it easily understood. The entertainment is
commended to all who wish to spend a pleasant evening. It will be repeated tonight. The prices are reasonable for such
an instructive lecture.

Comedy at the Grand.

Rice & Barton's comedians will appear at
the Grand Thursday. The Boston Globe
yesterday afternoon and evening with an
audience that heartily enjoyed that
laughable skit, 'Razzie Dazzle,' performed
by Rice & Barton's clever comedians."

We notice in our city numerous houses
nearing completion. Now, it occurs to us
that these buildings will very shortly require finishing material such as doors, sash,
base, casings, etc. We have a well as-
sorted stock of the above named articles,
and will be pleased to quote prices and
show goods. W. D. WILKS & Co., corner York and Adelaide streets.

That the piece has caught on is evidenced by the large audience present, which throughout its entire action was kept busy applauding its many ludicrous situations. "Razzie Dazzle" is all that its name implies. The comedians rattle while the pretty sobriquet and shapely girls, beautifully costumed, in their songs, dances, marches and posing are said to really dazzle. It is produced by a clever company. Geo. W. Rice, Mr. J. K.
Mullen and Miss Frankie Hains, who appear in the leading roles, made decided hits. The remainder of the company were also liberally applauded. Besides "Razzie Dazzle" a number of pleasing specialties were introduced between the acts.

Civil Service Examinations.

in mind in marking your ballots that the present debenture debt of the city is $2,032,888 48, and that if the by-laws carry they will, along with the $125,000 for waterworks and $135,000 for London and Port Stanley Railway, for which legislation is being now asked, add for 30 years two mills to the annual rate. Are you aware that the municipal council this year ob-the debenture debt of the city to purchase the stocks and bonds in the London and Port Stanley Railway owned by St. Thomas? This is how the city debt is piled up without the knowledge or consent of the real
